SUPPORT MOVE TO DRAFT FOR 3RD TERM

Sen. Pepper Predicts Florida Will be In Line

SUPPORT COMES FROM OHIO ALSO

Frank Gannett, Rochester, N. Y., Publisher, Added to List Of Republican Contenders

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A prediction that the Florida delegation to the Democratic national convention would back President Roosevelt for a third term came today from Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.)

His statement, made soon after an announcement that Ohio delegates would be in the Roosevelt camp if their "favorite son," Senator Donahay, failed to develop strength, kept the capital talking about the draft Roosevelt movement.

Pepper said he believed that Florida Democrats would elect 14 delegates who were friendly to the President and would support him or any of his especially active members, though they would go to the convention without official instructions.

The Republican list of presidential contenders was enlarged by the announcement of Frank Gannett, Rochester, N. Y. publisher, that he would be a candidate.

Gannett, outspoken critic of Roosevelt and the new deal, resigned yesterday as chairman of the committee to uphold constitutional government. He was particularly active against Mr. Roosevelt's Supreme court reorganization plan and his proposal for government administrative reorganization.

Applications For Lines Withdrawn

Raleigh, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A three-way agreement between the Atlantic Greyhound Lines, the Carolina Coach company and the Seashore Transportation company indicated today a truce would forestall what had promised to be a third battle over bus routes in Eastern North Carolina.

During a hearing yesterday on applications of Greyhound and the Carolina Coach company for franchises from Raleigh to the Virginia line near Lenoir and Warren, counsel for the lines announced they had composed their differences.

Under the agreement several applications would be withdrawn and others would be presented to the Commission without opposition. Carolina Coach would not be opposed on the Lenoir-Virginia line route and would cede its routes to the line near Creedmore and Oxford to Greyhound which also would get a route from Norlina to Warren.

Carolina Coach would apply for a route from Kinston to Dunn and Seashore would not oppose it. Seashore would apply for a New Bern-Kinston route without opposition and would be allowed to operate two schedules daily between Kinston and Seven Springs on a Carolina Coach franchise. Seashore would ask for a route from Seven Springs to Goldsboro instead of from Kinston to Goldsboro via Seven Springs.

The following applications would be withdrawn: Seashore: Vanceboro to Goldsboro via Greenville, Rocky Mount to Norlina, Greenville to Rocky Mount and Fremont to Rocky Mount via Wilson. Carolina Coach: Wilson to Snow Hill, New Bern to Norlina via Rocky Mount, Wilson to Norlina and Wilson to Snow Hill.

The 1939 exports of value of $72,429,249 for 327,551,760 pounds of all types compared with $139,417,688 for 434,876,847 pounds during the first 11 months of 1938, and $113,748,552 for 374,442,349 pounds during the same months of 1937.

The sharpest decline last year was in exports of bright flue-cured which were valued at $58,995,401 up to last December 1, compared with $123,941,121 for the first 11 months of 1938. There were approximately $115,000,000 fewer pounds of flue-cured exported in 1939 than in 1938.

Asserts That Campaign Against Nazis During Past Four Months has Put Nazi Regime in Same Position Kaiser's Empire Was in After 2 Years of Last World War

London, Jan. 17.—(AP)—R. H. Cross, minister of economic warfare, declared today that Britain's financial and trade war against Germany in the last four and one-half months had placed the Nazi regime in the same economic position as the Kaiser's empire after two years of the world war.

"Our economic attacks came into operation with a rapidity and soundness which was not anticipated and it has given German economy a sharp shock," Cross told the House of Commons.

"We look forward to the day when we shall have strangled Germany's economic life so that she can no longer sustain her war effort," he said.

Great Britain's 600,000 railway workers were reported ordered on the alert today for acts of sabotage against the nation's lines.

The vast "detective" system was understood to have been set up as the Daily Mail and Daily Herald reported that a plot by the German intelligence service to cripple the nation's railway network had been discovered.

The Daily Mail said the plot was aimed at public works and bridges. No arrests have been announced. The newspaper declared the conspiracy had been discovered only a few days ago and that "counter" measures were expected to be put into effect shortly.

CHERRY CHILD TO GET GIFTS

Officially Declared First 1940 Greenville Baby

Josephine Cherry, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Cherry of 1102 Washington street, was declared the winner of many useful and valuable gifts donated by a group of Greenville merchants to the first baby born in the city of local white parents in 1940.

Josephine was born at 3:45 o'clock last Friday, but under the rules one of the parents or the physician had five days in which to report the birth. Although the birth of the baby was reported immediately it was necessary to wait until 3:45 this afternoon before making the final decision.

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, county health officer officially declared the first 1940 baby.

The parents of the child will be given a letter signed by Dr. Ennett and the Reflector declaring Josephine to be entitled to the gifts and the participating stores will present them upon being shown the letter.

The following firms participated in the event: Federal Savings and Loan Association, $12.50 Christmas savings account; Best Jewelry company, Kirk-Rose sterling silver spoon and fork; Eftard's department store, group of baby clothes; Belk-store, company baby clothes valued at $3; Blount-Harvey company, baby clothes valued at $3; J. C. Penney company, baby auto seat; Taft Furniture company, baby chair; White's Stores, Inc., baby clothes; V. A. Merritt, electric grill for preparing baby foods; Home Furniture company, set of thermometers; Lautner Bros. jewelry store, Gorham silver baby cup; Tripp's market, one dozen cans of Clapp's baby food.

The Standard Oil company, through Sutton's service stations, had arranged gifts to all babies born on January 1, but no babies were born on that day.

108 Are Missing In Loss of Subs

London, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The Admiralty announced today that a total of 108 officers and men were missing aboard three British submarines, loss of which was announced yesterday, but indicated that the death list may be less since Germany had reported some of them had been rescued.

The submarines and their complements were listed as follows: Seahorse, five officers and 34 men; the Undine, four officers and 26 men; Starfish, five officers and 34 men. The admiralty communique said "the German wireless has announced that parts of the crew of the Undine and starfish have been rescued but their names are not yet available. The losses were the first submarine casualties Britain has acknowledged due to German action since the war started.

CALL ON HULL TO TESTIFY ON AID FOR FINNS

To Discuss Effect Of Help on Neutrality Policies

DEFER ACTION ON ALL PROPOSALS

Former President Hoover declares suggestion of Roosevelt For Credit Should be Supported

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The Senate banking committee decided today to ask Secretary Hull how American neutrality policies would be affected by extending financial assistance to Finland.

Pending his appearance at a closed session next Wednesday, action on all proposals—among them a plan suggested by President Roosevelt—was deferred.

In New York today former President Hoover declared that Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion for credit extension "should be supported."

Credit angles of possible financial assistance were canvassed for the committee today by Jesse H. Jones, the federal loan administrator. Jones was quoted later as saying that a $10,000,000 loan already granted Finland was "a sound credit risk."

It was reported, however, that Jones did not specify how much additional money might properly be advanced.

Meanwhile Senator Brown (D-Mich.) author of a proposal to make an unrestricted $60,000,000 loan to Finland said he would redraft the measure to bring it more into line with the views of the administration.

Two Men Killed In New Jersey Blast

Gibbstown, N. J., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Two men were killed today and a third was injured in a nitro-glycerine explosion that wrecked a unit of the duPont company powder works and shook an area of twenty miles.

Company officials began an investigation to determine the cause. New Jersey state police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation started inquiries—but withheld comment on any possibility of sabotage.

Residents of a half dozen southwestern New Jersey towns and of parts of Philadelphia, 12 miles north, crowded sidewalks for half an hour after the mid-morning shock, fearing an earthquake.

RECORD HELD BY J. H. PAYLOR

At Sunday School Every Sunday for 31 Years

John Hill Paylor, Farmville attorney and former Pitt county member of the State House of Representatives, is one of three brothers who hold a record for attending Sunday school that may be without parallel.

On December 17 the Farmville man was presented with a gold bar signifying he had not missed attending Sunday school a single Sunday in the past 31 years. The bar was added to a pin, awarded for one-year perfect attendance, which was encircled with a wreath, signifying a two-year perfect attendance. A bar was added each year thereafter.

Back in 1908 the three sons of Mrs. J. M. Paylor and the late Captain Paylor of Laurinburg started attending Sunday school and to date the record has not been broken by any of the three. The two brothers are J. Lester and Willie C. Paylor. Although each has been sick, traveled extensively and has been pressed by engagements, he has always found it possible to be at Sunday school.

John Hill Paylor is 43 years old, having started the record when he was only 12. He says he has no intention of breaking the record any time soon. He is a Presbyterian.

A few years ago the record of the Paylor brothers attracted the attention of the public.

FINAL REPORT ON SEAL SALE

Total of $1,328.04 Raised in Christmas Campaign

A total of $1,328.04 was raised in the 1939 seal sale, it was announced today by Mrs. James S. Ficklen, Greenville city tuberculosis seal sale chairman.

The total amount raised in 1938 in Greenville was $900.

This increase of 55 per cent over the preceding year was highly gratifying to Mrs. Ficklen who was serving her first year as chairman of the campaign. In response to congratulations on the success of the campaign, the general chairman declared that the large part of the credit belonged to the chairman of the various committees, "the army of workers in the front line trenches" and to the generous spirit of the Greenville citizens themselves.

The chairmen assisting Mrs. Ficklen were Mrs. Lee A. Polger, assistant general chairman; Mrs. Edward Batchelor, advanced sale chairman; Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, bond chairman; Mrs. Curtis Perkins, school chairman; Rev. W. A. Ryan, speakers bureau chairman; Mrs. Charles Woodward, personal solicitation chairman; Mrs. R. J. Slay, club chairman; Miss Jean Hodges, booth chairman; Mrs. James Wooten, supply chairman; Miss Elizabeth Skinner, assistant publicity chairman; Mrs. James S. Jenkins, publicity chairman; and Dr. J. A. Battle, for solicitation of the colored citizens.

Notice of appeal again was given following the verdict yesterday afternoon. Should it be perfected, it will go to the Supreme court again.

Under the verdict Mrs. Warren will be awarded an additional $2,500 as double indemnity on the $2,500 policy.

The case of H. L. Tetterton and wife vs. Mrs. Margaret Everett, executor, et als, was expected to be completed this afternoon. Defense arguments were completed before the luncheon recess, leaving only argument by the plaintiff and the judge's charge before the case would be given to the jury.

The plaintiffs are seeking to prevent the defendants from foreclosing on a mortgage, contending that the money had been paid to the late S. J. Everett, husband of the late S. J. Everett, under the conviction of a crime against nature.

MRS. WARREN WINS VERDICT

Granted Double Indemnity on Insurance Policy

A verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Mrs. Rena Warren vs. the Pilot Life Insurance company was reached by a Pitt county jury late yesterday afternoon after having deliberated since 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. Warren was suing for double indemnity on an insurance policy on the life of her son, Alexander Warren, who was killed by Willie Tate, a Negro.

It was the fourth time the case had been to a jury. The plaintiff won a decision on two occasions, in each of which an appeal was taken to the state Supreme court. The case was remanded the first time because of an error in the judge's charge to the jury and on the second time because of admission of incompetent evidence. A mistrial was declared on one occasion when a jury was unable to reach a verdict.

Notice of appeal again was given following the verdict yesterday afternoon. Should it be perfected, it will go to the Supreme court again.

Under the verdict Mrs. Warren will be awarded an additional $2,500 as double indemnity on the $2,500 policy.

LAUNCH DRIVE ON PARALYSIS

Pitt county Campaign Headed by Hoover Taft

The Pitt County Drive to raise funds for the victims of infantile paralysis is being launched this week, and the Chairman of the Pitt County Campaign, Hoover Taft, will release the complete plans for the campaign within the next few days.

Preliminary plans include a button campaign, solicitations from local merchants for prizes to be given the teams doing the best work, and a county-wide canvas for contributions. The drive will culminate with the President's Birthday Ball on January 31.

Last year Pitt county ranked eleventh among the counties of North Carolina in volume of contributions and the local committee hopes to do even better this year. Pitt's total for 1939 was $407.14. Half of this money went to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which organization in turn makes grants for research and relief of the disease in various parts of the country, and the other half stayed in Pitt county. Our neighbor state of South Carolina benefited last year by having over eight thousand dollars appropriated to it during the epidemic that spread through the upper part of that state early in the summer.

Chairman Taft declared: "The forward surge in the fight against infantile paralysis has been tremendous during the past three years, and there is every reason to believe that the American people, despite the demands made upon them by countless organizations, will continue to make this fight possible by contributing generously. Funds for research and treatment are raised by this once yearly campaign, and it is vitally important that it succeed. Any mother who has seen her young child permanently crippled can tell you graphically of the necessity for its success."

Wilson said Dillard was found by a guard shortly before 3 o'clock this morning suspended by his belt from a heavy iron grill. His pulse was beating faintly when he was cut down, but efforts to revive him failed.

The convict left the following laconic note: "Weatherly Dillard from Boardman, N. C." Prison records listed his parents as Steve Dillard and Mary Stone, addresses unknown.

ASSERTS DUTY MAY BE FACED

Italian People Advised Not To Be Too Greatly Impressed By Recent Demonstrations of International Sympathy — Apparent Reference To Recent Friendly Attitude of Allies

Rome, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Ettore Muti, secretary of the Fascist party, warned Italians today that they might be compelled "at any moment" to fight in the European war.

His warning was published after a conference of party leaders from 26 provinces.

The communique advised the Italian people not to be too greatly impressed by "the recent demonstrations of international sympathy." (Evidently a reference to the friendly attitude displayed toward Italy by France and Great Britain since their war with Germany began.)

"There is no need to lull one's self with the illusion that Italy's present situation with regard to war may last forever," Muti declared. "Fascist Italy may face the necessity and duty at any moment of picking up arms."

"It must therefore be prepared in its resources and, above all, in its spirit. It is well to add that it is absurd and dangerous to derive too much satisfaction from the recent demonstrations of international sympathy which are without justification or foundation and not in harmony with the true sentiments of the Italian people, which have learned not to forget the history which it has lived dramatically, especially in these recent times."

Robt. L. Doughton To Retire In Dec

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Representative Robert L. Doughton (D-N.C.), the tall, rangy 76-year-old chairman of the Ways and Means committee intends to retire at the end of this year "to take life easier."

President Roosevelt expressed regret when told at his press conference yesterday that Doughton had announced he did not plan to seek reelection.

Rep. Cullen (D-NY) is the ranking Democrat on the committee and will succeed Doughton if reelection this fall and his party retains majority in the House.

Doughton, as chairman of the committee, has steered through the House such bills as the reciprocal trade program, the social security law and half a dozen tax measures. He has served in Congress since 1911.

Small Negroes Held For Stealing Bottle

Six juvenile colored boys were "picked up" by local police officers on charges of stealing pop bottles, but no disposition has been made of the charges.

The six were found north of the river with a bag full of bottles. Police officials expressed the belief the six, along with others, were responsible for numerous complaints that small colored boys had been prowling about houses picking up bottles and selling them.

The six are Andrew and Herbert Hunter, Thomas Hines, Willie Junior Hall, Ben Frank Jones and James Watson.

A most interesting and instructive paper was given by Mrs. Roy Barrett, in which she traced the history of Russia from its beginning as a ruthless Slavic tribe organization, through the Czarist regime to the present dictatorship under Stalin. Mrs. Barrett pointed out that Russia's size, geographical location, boundaries and climatic conditions had all had a definite effect on its history. Then she followed it with the revolution, the fall of the government, the organization of the U. S. S. R., the failure of Communism, the Five-Year Plans and finally the present war with Finland. Mrs. Barrett gave the early life and present position of Stalin.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostess served a delicious salad course, coffee and candies. Mrs. Posey was a special guest.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. J. L. Kilgo was hostess to the Saba Souci Book Club. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. B. James, who is spending the winter in Florida, Mrs. W. I. Wooten presided.

After the roll call and minutes, an invitation was given from Mrs. Charles Laughinghouse to attend a meeting at the Federal Arts Club Wednesday to hear Mrs. C. W. Heams speak on Poetry. Mrs. J. B. Kirtrell had an invitation to the club from Miss Helen Dugan to attend an Open Forum at the High School on Wednesday evening. Mrs. S. T. White and Mrs. W. E. Hooker were appointed by the president to meet with the other clubs to arrange for a joint meeting to be held in April. Mesdames Wooten, Hooker and Brown will entertain the club members and their husbands the evening of February 6th.

A most instructive and entertaining program was given by Mr. Richard Walker. He had as his subject, "North Carolina Poets and Their Poetry." He first reminded us that there were volumes that were unknown to us. Dating back to the year 1736 he gave us the high lights of the lives of many such as Thomas Nelson Page, Thomas Godfrey, poet and dramatist, George Moses Horton, negro poet and Judge Gaston writing the words to the "Old North State," being inspired by a group of women while attending a meeting in Raleigh. Among other outstanding poets in North Carolina are Bonner, James Larkin Pearson, Mrs. Oliver Dargan and Ann Blackwell Payne.

He gave a very vivid description of his interview with Mrs. Dargan, having driven to the back door in the rain, chatting with her in the garage, she having spent the day house cleaning and was very untidy.

The most beloved poet this day has produced is no other than John Charles McNeill. North Carolina has loved no other poet more. His richness and deep feeling surpassed them all.

After giving many interesting characteristics of the ones mentioned and reading many of their poems, Mr. Walker closed with that lovely poem "Sun Down" by McNeill.

Mrs. Kilgo, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Blount served a delicious salad course with coffee after which we adjourned.

Inter Se Club Meets.
Among the most informative and instructive programs of the Inter Se Club was that of Mrs. J. M. Taft on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Jack Edwards. In her carefully written paper, "The Cherokee Indian Reservation," Mrs. Taft says of the Cherokee Indians in North Carolina: "From the beginning they have been there, dwelling in their old homeland, planting their little farms in the mountain coves and beside the clear streams, their presence unknown to the vast majority of the conquering race which long ago swept over the red man's country and drove him far beyond the Mississippi."

Continuing her discussion she outlined briefly the history of the Cherokee tribe and then told the story of the Indian, Isall, which story "in its valor, its pity, and its triumph is one of the great true narratives of America." Then followed a description of the 63,000 acre reservation as it is today with its government school, hospital, homes and offices of white employees, and Inns and Crafts Shops. In closing Mrs. Taft quoted Mooney, an imminent authority on the Cherokee Indian saying "mountains guard well the past, and in the secluded forests of the Nantahali and Oconee-Luftee mountains, the Indians still treasure their legends and expect the mystic return of their ancestors; and the changed indeed in dress and outward seeming, the heart of the Indians is still his own."

At the conclusion of her paper, Mrs. Taft displayed colorful baskets, rings and necklaces made by Western North Carolina Indians, and she passed pictures showing them in their native dress.

In the absence of the President, Mrs. W. H. Taft held a short business session. Mrs. Marvin Blount reported that the joint meeting of all the book clubs, which is to be held April 23, will be a luncheon meeting. Preceding the exchange of books each member commented briefly on the book she had read during the past two weeks.

This was followed by a delightful social hour at which time the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Marvin Blount served a delicious salad course.

End of The Century Club.
On Tuesday afternoon, January 16, Mrs. E. H. Harvey was a gracious hostess to the End of the Century Club and guests.

OLD FOLKS QUADRILLE

A Brilliant Social Event

A number of the married people of the town, determined not to be out done by the younger set, and to show how they used to enjoy themselves in years long ago, gave a dance in the opera house Tuesday night. There were twelve couples to engage in the old time quadrille while the number of spectators present to witness "the old folks" enjoy themselves was legion. The way they balanced all, swing corners, right and left, first four cross over, and so on through the numerous pretty movements of the old square dance, was in marked contrast with the fashionable German in vogue among society circles at present.

Among the dancers who took part were: E. G. Flanagan, Mrs. S. M. Schultz, Mrs. F. M. Hodges, L. I. Moore, Mrs. G. B. King, Mrs. L. I. Moore, Will Hooker and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan.

those present, that the club had just passed its fortieth birthday and in recognition of that fact, several members were asked to respond to roll call with minutes and reports of the founding and earlier meetings of the club. Special attention was called to our present members who were charter members or early members of the club.

Following the roll call, a short business session was held, a motion was made and carried to present the book, "A Treasury of Art Masterpieces" to the library as an anniversary gift from the club.

The chairman of the program committee, Mrs. J. T. Little, presented Mrs. R. J. Slay who was responsible for the first part of the program. Mrs. Slay introduced Mr. Patrick, who ably discussed the "Blue Blood State—Massachusetts."

This state suggests history, romance and ideals. Mr. Patrick recalled the puritan fathers and the great men of letters that had lived in Massachusetts. He spoke of the numerous patriotic shrines and high educational institutions. The natives put much stress on "Ancestors" even though half of the present population is foreign born or children of foreign born parents.

So realistic were the descriptions of the magnificent landscapes, excellent roads, beautiful hills and forests, well-preserved houses and barns, glowing autumn colors along the Mohawk trail and the incomparable lakes, that the club felt it had, indeed, toured the state of Massachusetts.

Our work began with research about research. No biography of this medical genius exists. The material scattered all over the world in hundreds of articles and papers. Only a few reveal anything about his personality; most of them deal exclusively with his scientific achievements. You have to read German, French and English even to get to these sources; moreover, you have to understand medical jargon. I assure you that to study all this is hard on the writer who usually works with human relationships. But there is no other way out; you have to burrow through these mountains of essays, to consult experts, to talk with people who may be able to tell you something about your hero's personal traits—and the job soon becomes fascinating. Of course, you digest far more knowledge than you put into your final script. You become the friend of your character; you start to live in this strange world.

Following this comprehensive study of Massachusetts, Mrs. B. W. Moseley took the club to visit many historic homes and buildings in that state. Among the many visited, the Old North Church and the Paul Revere House are perhaps the best known. She also explained the history of witchcraft, its prevalence in Massachusetts and the great number of victims of this superstitious belief.

After this delightful program Mrs. Harvey introduced her guests, Mrs. Reddick and Mrs. Rankin. Assisted by Mrs. Rankin and Mrs. J. T. Little, the hostess served a delicious salad course with coffee.

Albion Book Club Meets
The Albion Book Club was most delightfully entertained by Mrs. C. H. Edwards at her home on Eighth Street on Tuesday the 16th. Her lovely home was beautiful with the arrangements of gladioli and snapdragons throughout the lower floor.

In the dining room, from the table with a centerpiece of red and white carnations and a cut work cloth, Mrs. H. L. Ormond and Mrs. W. H. Bradsher served a delicious two course luncheon.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. John Proctor, Mrs. F. W. A. Mills and Miss Iva Shelburn.

The president, Mrs. H. L. Ormond, presided over the meeting. After the roll call, new and old business was discussed, and books exchanged, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Edwards who gave a very interesting and instructive paper on the development of the movies. She concluded her program by taking her guests to the Pitt Theatre.

Cobbler Toppings.
Try this new topper for your next fruit cobbler: Mix in 1-2 cup of grated cheese, 1-4 cup broken nut meats and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind to each 1-2 cups of crust mixture. You may need about a tablespoon more liquid than usually called for, but add it sparingly.

Hollywood—There is an old notion that history in motion pictures must, somehow, be phoney. But go into the offices of biographical story writers and you will find the walls lined with books, magazines, newspapers—research material not only about the man and his times, but also about the tools of his trade, no matter how scientific it may have been.

When I worked on the "Life of Emilie Zola," I thought that the forty-seven books I had read about my subject was an all-time high for motion picture research. But a short time later I found out that it was a cinch to write about a man of letters compared with a man of science. This was sharply brought home to me when my friends, John Huston and Norman Burnside, and I started to do a picture about the man who founded the school of chemical therapy and conquered many dread diseases—Paul Ehrlich.

Gilding Sweet Potatoes.
Spread a little apple sauce or crushed pineapple over cooked sliced sweet potatoes placed in a shallow buttered casserole and bake them 15 minutes. This goes deliciously with hot or cold baked or boiled ham and ties up equally well with lamb or veal chops.

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL.
Raleigh, Jan. 17.—Looking at a picture layout showing Paul V. McNutt in the center, with four candidates for North Carolina's governorship groups round, a very cynical and unkind soul observed:
"McNutt in the middle and the other nuts all round him."

Maybe this is a real political tip-off, maybe it's just a happen so. Libby Ward, Speaker of the House and Ira Johnson of Ashe, standing together in the Sir Walker lobby. They are observed by a news man. "Another candidate for governor and his campaign manager," quoth he.

Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell says his headquarters will be opened about March 15, and simultaneously with that opening he will step out of the Department on leave of absence without pay.

"Running for Governor is a 24-hour-a-day job," he commented, "and beginning in the middle of March a fellow will have to hurry to cover the state by primary day."

Your reporter's wife has a very simple way of settling the little matter of this year's Presidential campaign. She is an advocate of direct action, and completely unversed in the arts and wiles of politics.

"Why don't they just kill all the Republicans," she said. Then we wouldn't be bothered with them."

Governor Clyde R. Hoey's mail contains all kinds of letters. Secretary Bob Thompson showed one yesterday from a lady in Philadelphia asking his Tar Heel constituency to donate prizes for her card party to be given in aid of a really worthy cause.

"I heard that prizes for parties recently have been given by Governors of other states. I think the idea is unique—"

"Unique is right, but that isn't just the word I'd use for it," snorted Bob as he scrawled a "5" in blue pencil on the letter.

Asked what that meant, he explained it's a form letter in which the "Governor feels that while the cause is indeed a worthy one and while he heartily approves of the objectives, he is unable to participate at this time," or words to that effect.

Raleigh was so thronged with politicians Tuesday that there was general wonderment about the cause.

"Maybe it's the 'Week' the Governor just proclaimed," said one new gatherer.

Looking at the proclamation, however, it seemed the boys were just a couple of days ahead of time.

This "week" is "National Peanut Week."

Our award for the first and most meritorious example of plain and lofty long distance optimism (tho maybe a shorter and uglier word would serve) goes to Burgin Pennell, newly appointed Maxwell campaign manager, who in a statement taking the post predicted "there is every indication that Mr. Maxwell will receive the nomination in the first primary."

Those who laughed at Jim Farley in 1936 lived to regret it, but present indications are that Burgin is no Farley.

Did you know that Willis Smith, one of the candidates for Governor, and Gregg Cherry, state chairman of the Democratic party, played together on the old Trinity college basketball team?

Just as in party affairs, Gregg was captain, and they say he played the cage game just like he ran the House of Representatives when he was Speaker—which indicates how rough a sport it was in those days.

A Rutherford county constituent of Grady Withrow, state representative from that fair western balliwick, inquired of a Raleigh figure who shall be nameless.

"Did Grady really do anything in the last session of the legislature?"

"Did he!!!!," cried the Raleigh man. "Why, he raised more hell over a turnip seed than Hitler has stirred up in Europe."

Withrow, it might be explained

Campaign Still Short of New Legislative Issues

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL.
Raleigh, Jan. 16.—Devoid of issues as the current gubernatorial campaign has been up to this good day, the legislative campaign which is proceeding concurrently is even less marked by the appearance of anything even remotely resembling something new under the sun.

Naturally the races for state house of representatives and state senate haven't even reached the announcing stage yet—they always are later getting started than the statewide battling; but seldom in Tar Heel history has there been a time this late in an election year when no novel problem has bobbed up for consideration in selecting members of the next year's General Assembly.

That's decidedly the case this year and unless there are very startling developments between now and the last Saturday in May the 1941 law makers are going to be chosen on their personalities plus no issues except the same old ones which were talked of and fought out two and four years ago.

Perennials which are already making their appearance like flowers that bloom in the spring are diversion; a retirement system for school teachers and other state employees; increase in teachers pay; division of tax revenues between for those who have forgotten it, was most active in the fight over "Bombshell" Page's seed act.

Getting back to that "Political Tuesday"—it looked like a Democratic convention, or something. Just a few of those present included Libby Ward, Lieutenant Governor or Wilkins P. Horton (presiding officer of the two Houses of the General Assembly); John Skinner, big shot of the County Commissioner's Association; Nash's Representative Claude Abernathy; Tom Cooper, Wilmington's mayor; State Senator John Larkins of Jones, boss of the Jackson Day dinner; State Senator Frank Gibbs, and so many others it would take too long to list them.

the state on the one hand and cities and counties on the other; prohibition; and, to a very limited extent, the sales tax.

Peeping out as possible new blossoms in the garden of legislative discussion are regulation of trucks hauling gasoline or other inflammable and dangerous articles, and an old favorite which wore out in 1939, reapportionment.

The anti-diversionists are already making their regular election year drive, with district meetings of the North Carolina Petroleum Industries Committee in progress. Two years ago the Antis thought they had things pretty well under control, but when the Assembly met, Governor Clyde R. Hoey threw his great influence into the scales in favor of continuing "permissive" diversion and the Antis took a beating.

The trio of would-be governors who have announced something of their platforms have touched on one or more of the old issues already cited and such legislative campaigns as are in progress already are tinged with them.

There has been so much publicity given to disastrous and spectacular gasoline truck wrecks in the state that the problem of hauling this motor fuel over the highways in big tank trucks is sure to get a thorough airing in the 1941 legislature. There is ample evidence that the railroads are responsible for a great deal of the agitation, but there is much real and genuine popular feeling that the trucks are in fact a great menace, and the haulers are going to be in for a very, very tough time.

Reapportionment was to the front in every legislature from 1931 to 1937, but died out in 1939, but after the current Federal census has been taken, it is a cinch to bob up again and it is equally sure to be a true plague to the law makers. Nobody can dispute the fact that under the state's constitution it will be the clear duty of the legislature to reapportion, but in view of the fact that five consecutive General Assemblies flouted that duty, there's

LIST YOUR TAXES

Your attention is called to the necessity of listing your taxes during this month as this year the listing date was changed to January 1st instead of April 1st as had been the custom heretofore. While the time for listing has already more than half expired inquiry at the court house this morning revealed that not near half of our people had listed. If you fail to list your taxes during this month you are subject to additional penalties so if it is to your advantage to list before the time expires. Those who put this matter off until the very last are going to find long waiting lines and lose much time in their listing. We advise you not to delay this matter further.

FIRE COMES HOME TO YOU

By this time, most of your New Year's resolutions have probably been broken. It's time to make a new and perhaps more sensible set. And here's one that none of us should miss: "I resolve to do my part to help prevent fire during this and every other year."

If every American would make and keep that resolution, some half billion dollars worth of property would be saved from destruction. Indirect fire loss estimated at several times that figure would be prevented. Infinitely more important, about ten thousand people would be saved from the most ghastly of deaths. And the legion of jobs and opportunities which fire destroys when it strikes at businesses, would be preserved.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover
Washington—A winter day in Washington:
The sun thumps a ride upward on the crest of misty rising from the Chesapeake Bay. The Norfolk boat whistles low and cold as it rounds a bend in the Potomac to come in sight of the Capitol dome.

Ten thousand starlings, strung like a solid black belt around an out-thrust coping on the new Post Office building, break away in swarms at the first appearance of the sun to huddle for a moment of frigid chatter in the trees around the Pulaski monument. A few early rising pedestrians give that corner a wide berth while the starlings are overhead.

Three men rise to their haunches on a steel grating where they have huddled through the night in the heat which has oozed upward from the Department of Justice heating system. Carved in cold stone over the entrance are the solemn words: "Equal Justice under Law."

Clerks Go To Work
The sun is an hour high. An automobile whisks out of the White House. It carries Mrs. Roosevelt across the Potomac to the Virginia side where she will take her early morning car. The chauffeur waits to take her back soon to begin a schedule that would bewilder a time clock.

BLOOD RUNS COLD

By Ann Demarest

YESTERDAY: Turning down rich Toby Maughan's final proposal of marriage, Christine Hourwich lets him go to Bermuda alone. She picks the coldest day in New York's coldest winter to move into a desolate studio apartment on George St.

Chapter Two Something Wrong

In a few minutes Mr. Kimball hurried up the stairs with a basket of wood. "I'm sorry that I've got only one log and a bit of kindling for you, but I'll have more later," he said and smiled as he saw me sitting glumly on the trunk.

"Oh, this will do very nicely," I told him. "I shan't be staying up late tonight."
"Moving is a depressing business," he remarked, "and you surely got a cold reception."

"I don't think that weak politeness as he laid a bed of crumpled papers in the fireplace, lighted it, then put on the kindling. Watching him as he bent over the hearth, I thought what a good-looking man he was; tall and very spare, with an intelligent face and finely drawn features. His eyes as he turned to talk to me were deep blue which, even with his white hair, made him seem considerably younger than he was. I guess that he was in his sixties.

"I think it will be warmer soon," he said, straightening up. "Drop into the shop this evening if it isn't and I'll see what can be done. I'd like to show you my books anyway. You said the other day that you were interested in them. I have a few good ones on art."

I thanked him. His cordiality soothed the rankling ache brought on by Toby's blithe cable.
After he left the fire seemed to lose heart. It burned with a few feeble flames, then the chimney started to smoke so violently that in spite of the cold I had to air the room to keep from choking to death. I went over to a window and as I bent to raise it a noise made me glance outside quickly.

A hand was pressed against the pane.
I stared hard. Then the hand disappeared and I thought: "The smoke must be going to my head."
But I heard a noise again and at first I thought it was only the wind in the branches of the tree, but a shadow on the fire escape, a moving shadow, outlined itself against the glass. Then came a louder noise, a sharp, grating sound.

I stood still, clutching the window casing, too startled to move. Who was outside of my window and why on earth on a stormy night would anyone be climbing around an icy fire escape?
I finally opened the window, but when I peered out cautiously I couldn't see a thing. I bent forward, straining my eyes and finally I spotted a figure down in the yard, close to the house. It was a man, I was certain, in dark clothes and a heavy coat. Then slowly the weighted ladder swung up from the ground and shivered back into place on a level with my window.

It dawned on me suddenly that of course the fire escape didn't drop to the ground until someone descending, pushed it down. So I had not imagined the shadow I had seen was a man outside of the window. I closed it with a bang and sat down suddenly on the trunk. My hands were very unsteady when I lighted a cigarette.

There was something, I decided, definitely wrong with this house. But before I could figure it out I realized I'd either have to go out to dinner or be overcome. The fireplace was still kicking up. With every gust of wind a smothering cloud of smoke poured out of the chimney and the room was blue with it.

"I'm Afraid"
In the last hour the light snow-fall had turned into a blizzard. I hurried down the street, an icy wind tearing at my coat, trying to find a restaurant. All of the stores were closed for the night, the dilapidated tenements were dark, and the sidewalk stands lay bare of fruit but deep in snow. The whole neighborhood looked as though it had been suddenly deserted. Then on the corner I saw the steamy windows of a Knife and Fork. I could have shouted with joy.

It was gratefully warm in the lunch room. I took off my coat, climbed up to the counter and ordered wheat cakes and sausage and felt more normal. It was a relief to get away from that house. Those wheat cakes tasted better than any luncheon on Park Avenue and after a second order of them and another cup of coffee I could even think of Toby, without bursting into tears. Then I lighted a cigarette and leaned back, thinking that pleasant as it was I still had to go back to the apartment. I don't know exactly what the matter, but 19 George State was becoming less and less inviting. It was bound to be cold, and with people crying in the hall, walking overhead when the apartment was presumably empty, and climbing around fire escapes in the dark, there was no telling what might happen next. I felt pretty lonely. It takes a strong character, I thought, to have a career. And then the street door opened with a clatter and a gust of wind and Mr. Kimball's niece came in with a man. They sat down at a small table by the window. He left no particular impression on me except that he seemed awfully young and was wearing a heavy coat and muffler that he didn't take off before I left. Later the Police Sergeant seemed to think this was important, but considering the weather it didn't seem odd to keep a coat on to thaw out. However, the police and I differed on more points than one.

The girl was awfully smart-looking. She was younger than I, in her early twenties, I thought, and she had a beaver coat that I gazed on with a covetous eye. It made my three-year-old sealskin look like an alley cat.
They were sitting so that I could see them in the mirror over the counter. Something certainly was the matter with the girl. Mr. Kimball had said that she wasn't well, but it looked to me as if it were worry and not illness. I was frankly curious so I lighted another cigarette while they ordered. For a few minutes they didn't speak. Then she bent across the table and her voice, though it was very low, carried, and I could hear her quite distinctly.
"What are you going to do?" she asked the man.

He shrugged his shoulders.
"I'm so worried," she said. "She has warned me twice. And if she comes again..." She broke off and both of them were silent.
When she continued her voice was shaken. "I tell you, I'm afraid."
I shivered. "This," I told myself, "is no better than a cold apartment."

Locked Door
THERE was something about the girl's voice aside from what she said that made me uneasy. I put out my cigarette, paid to-four-thirty. Those are the government working hours. Lads and lassies from Tucson, Seattle, Hartford, Wilmington, Birmingham snatch a last bite of toast and a gulp of hot coffee and dash off to nine-to-four-thirty in a government building.

F. D. R. Breakfasts
Flags over the Capitol tug at their ropes. Winds always seem to whip around the Capitol dome. Flags are lofted over the White House. Inside the White House, the President eats his breakfast in bed. Toast, coffee, fruit, an egg if Doc McEntire hasn't found him overweight these days. Probably not. The President cuts his rations from time to time at Doc McEntire's suggestion. No protest.

Across his bed are spread several newspapers, brought in by Secretary Steve Early. Some stories are marked for special attention. They go over a list of things to be done in another half hour the President will dress, then go to the adjoining executive offices along a connecting runway fully exposed to the chill air. He may be busy until midnight or later, with a brief interruption for an afternoon swim.

Snow fell yesterday and city streets are a glare of white. Virginia and Maryland scrape the highways right up to the District line but so far as snow is concerned, Washington is on the conservative side. It hasn't enough snow-removal equipment to brush a cat.

Garner Limousines
The world's worst daily traffic jam is in full swing along Fourteenth Street, off Pennsylvania. This is the bottle-neck through which 40,000 government clerks pour in half an hour from Northwest Washington where the salaried brackets live. Thirty street cars are deadlocked end to end loaded to the platforms with nine-to-four-thirties.

Rosy-faced Senator Byrd of Virginia gets tossed from a break walk in Rook Creek Park. Senator McNary of Oregon strolls a natty path down Pennsylvania Avenue after breakfast at the Lee House. Vice President Garner, at 11 or a little before, will be driving to the Senate office building in a shiny sleek official car so long he never would have dared to campaign in Texas in it—in the days when he had to campaign.
Miles of frosty-toned chandeliers glow along miles of government corridors, row after row.
Noon time comes and Congress members dribble out of their offices for the roll call in chambers. Washington is at work.

Man About Manhattan
By George Tuder
New York—Almost every producer on Broadway must at one time or another have had his hands on a blue-bound manuscript that began in a Spanish hotel, was hidden under mattresses, and came, finally, in Ernest Hemingway's brief case, across the Atlantic, to Key West, Florida, and then to Manhattan.

It is a play called "The Fifth Column." It is a play about the Spanish war from the Loyalist point of view. This is Hemingway's view.
I first heard about the play from Hemingway himself who told a vivid tale of writing it, scene by scene, under the rain of France's guns. He would write at night in his ill-furnished, drafty little hotel room, and then hide it under the blankets during the day when he went out to carry out his chores as a front line correspondent.
One could wish that Hemingway had been just a little more detached in his sympathies. His voice rises just a little shrill at times. But it is easier, I suppose, to remain detached when you are 3,000 miles away than when you can hear the throb of the bombers and the boom of the cannon.

One day a year or more ago I was in the Shubert office, talking to one of the many of those amazing brothers and uncles and cousins—who can never keep them straight—who have written their family name so deeply in Broadway history. We were talking about play agents and the presentation of manuscripts. Mr. Shubert said, "Well, here's one by a pretty good author."

He picked up a blue-bound manuscript. It was Hemingway's new play.
"Are you going to produce it?" I asked him.
"Well," he answered slowly, "I don't know. I haven't decided. Something warns me against it—and yet I'm afraid to reject it."

Farley And His Pirates To Play In Virginia Tonight

ECTC TO FACE LANGLEY TEAM

Engage Flying Aces In First of Four-Day Tour

Langley Field, Va., Jan. 17.—Coach Bo Farley and his Pirates of East Carolina Teachers College arrived here this afternoon and made immediate preparations for tonight's basketball game with Langley Field's Flying Aces, whose record this season has been rather favorable.

The fast-stepping boys from Greenville will be confronted with rather tough material in tonight's clash, since the aviators have several left-overs who have been stand-outs in previous seasons. However, the boys from Greenville appeared to have fair height, which set up an obstacle for the Aces.

Tonight's game will open a four-day series for East Carolina Teachers College on Virginia soil. After the game, the Teachers will prepare for the Newport News Apprentices, who have been sailing rather high throughout the season. This contest is set for tomorrow night.

A game on the North Carolina players' schedule that promises to be a real thriller will be reeled off at Norfolk's Naval Base Friday night. The sailors reported they had a hard job defeating the Teachers, who lost in the last two seconds of the contest last week-end.

The four-day invasion will be concluded Saturday night with William and Mary (Norfolk division). William and Mary boasts a strong offensive and defensive team and should provide much competition from the seemingly superior North Carolina team.

Representatives of the East Carolina Teachers College team disclosed they probably would spend Saturday night in Norfolk and return to Greenville on Sunday.

HAS CHARGE OF BIG INDUSTRY

Big Task Left to Department of Conservation

By HENRY AYERLL
Raleigh, Jan. 15.—North Carolina's Department of Conservation and Development is a "bank" which holds in deposit assets of the state which produced more than $600,000,000 net income in 1938, according to figures worked up in the Department.

Directly, or substantially, under supervision of the Department are these activities which produced in all $612,000,000 net income in 1938: forests $50,000,000; minerals $20,000,000; water power $10,000,000; commercial fishing $3,000,000; manufacturing industries $367,000,000; retail commerce $60,000,000; game and fishing $2,000,000; and travel and tourists $100,000,000.

Director R. Bruce Etheridge and his assistants advance these figures as substantially accurate and in complete refutation of references sometimes made to the "Department of Conservation and Development."

"We are entrusted not only with preserving the assets which yield this tremendous income to our citizens; but we are charged with the duty of increasing them," said the director.

Most of the assets of this great North Carolina "bank" are renewable and can be increased from year to year by proper management, he pointed out, stressing particularly forests, game, fish and water power, and even such man-made industries as manufacturing, commerce and travel.

He added, too, that there is a value beyond that expressed in dollars—the recreational and social value in forests, state parks, lakes, rivers, mountains, sounds and ocean. These values are constantly being promoted by the Department, he said.

Getting down to figures the director pointed out that accurate statistics on invested capital are not available subsequent to the 1935 census of agriculture and industry conducted by the Federal government; but on the basis of these he called attention to:

1. North Carolina's forests produced $50,000,000 in net income last year upon an invested capital of something like $210,000,000 invested capital, based on the 1935 estimates of 43 billion board feet of standing timber valued at $128,000,000 and 18,308,000 acres of forests valued at $55,000,000 and some $28,500,000 invested in saw mills and pulp mills. Not less than 50,000 persons are employed and the annual pay roll is put at $25,000,000.

2. Minerals produced income of $20,000,000 last year, a new all-time high for the state. Invested in plants and equipment (value of lands not included) is approximately $19,350,000, with something more than 7, 000 on the pay rolls which amount to about $5,000,000 annually.

3. Water power is estimated to produce net income of $10,000,000, figured on the basis of half the total net income of public utilities in 1937 as shown by the Utilities commission. This is regarded as conservative.

4. The $367,000,000 estimated net income from manufacturing industries is the value added to industry over the year. The 1935 census figures showed an invested capital of $850,000,000 employing 239,000 persons with pay rolls amounting to $152,000,000.

5. Travel and tourists are estimated to have brought the state not less than $100,000,000 in net income last year, when this industry reached a new peak in North Carolina. The Department's advertising program is believed to have had much to do with this showing.

The average age of men married in Wyoming in 1939 was 31 years; of women 27 years.

Safe Safe—But The Money's Gone

Denver.—(AP)—Flying high over a huge wheat field near Denver, Claude B. Thompson, aviator, saw a black object in the stubble and thought it resembled a safe.

He landed nearby and his suspicions were confirmed. The object was the remains of a safe that had been stolen the night before from a restaurant and taken to the field to be battered open.

About $400 had been taken from it but the burglars left a couple of bottles of Chinese herbs, which the safe also had contained, in the field.

Two Die Of Wreck In Wires

TO ENCOURAGE PORK LUNCHEONS

To Observe National Economy Pork Sale Period

Raleigh, Jan. 16.—A campaign every family to serve at least two "pork luncheons" during the National Economy Pork Sale period, February 1 to March 9, was endorsed here today by H. W. Taylor, Extension agent, and J. A. Watson, chairman of the executive committee of the North Carolina Livestock Marketing Association, promoted by the Extension Service, in charge of the campaign in this state.

Taylor explained that this is an undertaking designed to help primarily the hog growers of the state and nation. "Every family is being urged to consume one extra ham, shoulder, loin, or other cut during the period. As to where or from whom you get the pork makes no difference; buy it where you can get the best pork at the best price. The object is to consume more pork," the specialist declared.

The United States estimate for 1939 is an 84,000,000 pig crop, 13 million pigs over the previous year. The North Carolina hog crop is consuming over two billion pounds of feed annually. Cash sales from swine in North Carolina are exceeded only by cash sales from tobacco, cotton and cottonseed, and milk, Taylor stated.

"If this great industry is to continue to prosper in the state, and it is prospering through out system of cooperative markets in the principal swine-producing areas of the state, we must all promote the use of pork products this year when the pig crop is so large.

"Civic clubs, hotels, restaurants, and cafeterias are being urged to serve at least two pork luncheons during the period from February 1 to March 9, and housewives are asked to do the same," Taylor said.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Traders sought a few selected issues in today's stock market, but the list was pretty well mixed. There was little steam up from the quiet opening. Near the 4th hour a number of shares had added fractions to a point or more, but there were many small losers.

Brokers blamed the failure to move one way or another on "technical" reasons which means buyers don't want to extend themselves and sellers were holding on to their equities at least at this stage of the game.

Real Hostilities Await Selection Of "Generals"

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Jan. 17.—Active hostilities on North Carolina's gubernatorial front will begin with naming of the many "Generals" who will command the forces of the half dozen or more Tar Heels who aspire to the state's top post.

Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell has something of a jump on the field in the fact that he is already equipped with a state manager, though it is quite probable that would not be the case if this bureau had not ferreted out the appointment of Burgin Pennell and announced it a week before there came official confirmation.

It is possible that others in the field have made similar appointments; but so far there have been no leaks disclosing them, to the energetic and ubiquitous news men with whom Raleigh now abounds. So skillfully have the candidates concealed their intentions so far that nothing more than a few rather nebulous predictions can be attempted.

Before going into the manager-ship possibilities, a word on the negative side—State Senator John D. Larkins, Jr., of Jones county, is not now inclined to take over the reins of anyone's campaign, although it can be stated on authoritative information that he was offered the command of two gubernatorial campaigns.

He was a "natural," in view of the fact that within the last two years he has successfully put over three statewide campaigns—two Jackson Day dinners from which he extracted the very large possible dollar for the Democratic campaign fund, and the Sheriff's four-year constitutional amendment which he piloted to success despite the fact it had previously been rejected and in the face of North Carolina's known aversion to organic changes.

Larkins hasn't given up thought of running for Congress from the Third district in opposition to "Hap" Barden, and he is inclined to feel that it would be to his advantage to rest on his laurels as successful promoter of the three drives, one of which was non-partisan and the other pair non-factional within the party.

On the affirmative side, there's not a great deal which can be said with any degree of positiveness right now. There have been two conflicting lines of reports about Lieutenant Governor Horton's choice of a campaign manager. One indicates he may enlist State Senator Ben Prince of Henderson county in that role. The other has it that he is looking hopefully to the east, to-wit Robeson county.

There dwell Dickson McLean and his law partner, Horace E. Stacy who only recently declared he does not choose to run as a candidate on his own account. Horton is said to be seeking one or the other as top hand for his campaign. Either would be an outstanding aid to the Horton cause, McLean bears a name which in itself would add prestige

Farm Credit Body To Meet Thursday

The annual stockholders meeting of the Greenville Production Credit Association will be held in the court house here tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock and John R. Carroll, president of the association, declared today all arrangements had been completed for the session. The civil session of court in progress here this week will be in recess until 1 p. m. to give way for the meeting.

A record-breaking attendance of members is expected to be present for the meeting, the sixth annual gathering of the farmers' cooperative short-term credit organization, which makes short-term loans for agricultural and livestock purposes to farmers of Pitt and Greene counties. The organization has 568 members and officials expressed the hope as many as possible would be present at tomorrow's meeting.

Complete and detailed reports on the operations of the association will be made to the stockholders, Mr. Carroll said. "This being a cooperative organization," said Mr. Carroll, "we feel that the members are entitled to know everything about its operations and we hope that every member will feel it a duty to be present at this meeting."

A representative of the Production Credit Corporation of Columbia will make an address at the close of the business session. A number of new features will be introduced into the program this year. Officers of the association are: John R. Carroll, president; G. L.

Meborn, vice president, and Robert A. Darr, secretary-treasurer. Directors in addition to the president and vice president are D. F. Hardison, Mack G. Smith and J. P. Day-enport.
