SAYS BRITAIN STILL INTENDS TO HELP FINNS

Lord Halifax declines to pledge no more formality

FEELS SYMPATHY WITH THE FINNS

Asserts Hitler would have become Dictator of Europe if England had not re-armed.

Leeds, England, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Lord Halifax, British secretary for foreign affairs, assured an international radio audience today that England's promise to help Finland "will not remain an idle promise, a mere academic formality."

Speaking from the Leeds town hall, Lord Halifax said he had no doubt that the "prayers of the world" were going up for the Finns in their war with Russia.

Discussing the conflict between the allies and Germany, he indicated a belief that Adolf Hitler would have become the dictator of all Europe if England had not continued its rearmament program even after the Munich settlement.

As he sees it, Halifax said, Germany's only chance of winning the war is by doing it at once.

"Yet she has hesitated probably for the reason that makes the bully hesitate for fear some one will hit him back. I have heard it said that if the winter were to pass without an aggression by Germany it would be the equivalent of a victory for the allies."

Meanwhile, he said, England has been building up her strength at home and in the field and coordinating her efforts with France.

Plans Being Made For Art Festival

By EVA BERRY HARRIS

At a recent meeting of the executive board of the Woman's club the forthcoming annual community art festival was discussed. A committee, representative of all civic, business, educational, dramatic, musical, recreational, religious and art organizations in the community was appointed to meet at a certain time and place to discuss further and to formulate tentative plans for the spring festival.

This meeting took place at the club house on Monday afternoon, January 15, and it was decided at that time that the date of the festival should be set for April 2-7.

It was further determined that this year's exhibits would be enlarged and extended to include girl and boy scout exhibitions, various handicrafts never before exhibited here, and a large display, moreover, of individual hobbies. Anything that has real educational merit, or artistic value, will be accepted, and the aim and purpose of this festival, as usual, will be to interest more people of one community in art.

For five consecutive years, already, the community art festival has functioned in our midst, and is not only an important annual club project but it has aroused and

Caution Urged After Minor Morning Blaze

Reporting a fire at the home of W. S. Shine, Negro, on Railroad street this morning, Chief George Gardner of the fire department called on citizens to exert unusual care in building and maintaining hot fires during the current cold spell.

This morning's fire, which Chief Gardner said was possibly started when frozen pipes in the bathroom were being thawed, caused damage estimated at $25 or $30.

"We know that people are building as hot fires as possible in an effort to keep their homes warm, but we do want to caution them to be unusually careful," declared Chief Gardner.

Mr. Grey has just returned from the fair secretaries' conventions at Columbia, S. C., and Raleigh, N. C., where arrangements were made for many new attractions never having previously been shown in Greenville.

Italy Increases Budget For Military Purposes

Expenditure of About $542,000,000 Authorized

Rome, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's government today approved Italy's biggest military budget since the World war to meet possible dangers growing out of the current European war during the coming year.

The cabinet authorized the expenditure of about $452,000,000 for military purposes in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The enlarged military expenditures represented an actual increase of about $75,000,000 over the current military budget, which has been progressively increased by emergency appropriations to about $469,563,200.

A cabinet statement said the large arms appropriation for the army, navy and air force was designed "to meet the undeniable necessity of placing the armed forces in a condition which will assure the greatest efficiency for any event."

Those expected to attend include the chairman and every member of the various Boards of Stewards, other laymen and laywomen, every Golden Cross church director, superintendents and teachers of the Sunday schools and as many young people and their leaders as can.

The program lists 10-minute talks as follows: "Our Objectives" by the Rev. A. S. Parker of Kingston; "The Golden Cross" by Prof. R. S. Aldrich of Duke University; "The Value of Christian Literature" by R. A. Nelson of Grifton; "Youth's Crusade" by Rev. R. E. Walston of Pink Hill; "Our Finances" by Cecil N. Stroud, of Kingston; "Christian Stewardship" by Dr. W. K. Greene of Duke University; "What Is It All About?" by Rev. L. A. Tilley of Ayden.

A similar meeting was held at Morehead City last Sunday, with others scheduled at New Bern, January 28 and Goldsboro February 4.

Funeral Arranged For Idaho Senator

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Senate leaders arranged today to hold a state funeral Monday at 12:30 p. m. for Senator William Edgar Borah, his dean in point of service, who died last night of a cerebral hemorrhage.

President Roosevelt and members of the cabinet, Supreme court and diplomatic corps will attend. Borah's body will be taken back to his home state of Idaho for burial at Boise City. Senator D. W. Clark, Idaho's junior senator, said the people of that state have asked Mrs. Borah to consent to another state funeral at Boise City on Friday. She had the request under consideration.

Ten senators were chosen to escort the bier west, leaving here at 5 p. m., Monday.

NO IMMEDIATE PEACE SEEN BY POPE PIUS, XII

Writes Roosevelt Regarding "Stubborn Obstacles"

REPLY IS MADE TO FDR'S NOTE

Pontiff Calls Upon Friends of Peace To Visualize Seriousness of Obstacles to Peace

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Pope Pius, XII, advised President Roosevelt today that the immediate chances for peace were reduced to a "slight probability" by "stubborn obstacles" which "become daily more difficult to surmount."

The pontiff called upon the "friends of peace" to visualize the seriousness of these obstacles and the improbability of cessation of war "so long as the present state of the opposing forces remains essentially unchanged."

These expressions and a hope for the eventual attainment of peace were made in a letter to the president. The letter, made public simultaneously here and in Rome, was delivered at the White House by Archbishop Cioognani, the apostolic delegate in Washington.

It was a reply to a communication of December 23 in which Mr. Roosevelt disclosed he was sending to the Pope a personal representative, Myron C. Taylor, to assist in "our parallel endeavors for peace."

It bespoke a "provincial help," his holiness said, when the President at Christmas-time placed himself in the vanguard "of those who would promote peace" and succor the victims of war.

Dewey Says Peace Intention Of All

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, a candidate for the Republican nomination for president, said today that "only by relief of that pent-up force of American private industry can we make ourselves really secure both from dangers abroad and distress at home."

Dewey asserted in a speech prepared for a luncheon meeting of the women's national republican clubs that he believed the leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties were determined that the United States should not enter the European war.

"Sharply distinguishing between economic policies and diplomatic relations," he said, "I think it can be said that the American people are united in the broad objectives of the foreign policy."

Relieves That Boat Has Reached Island

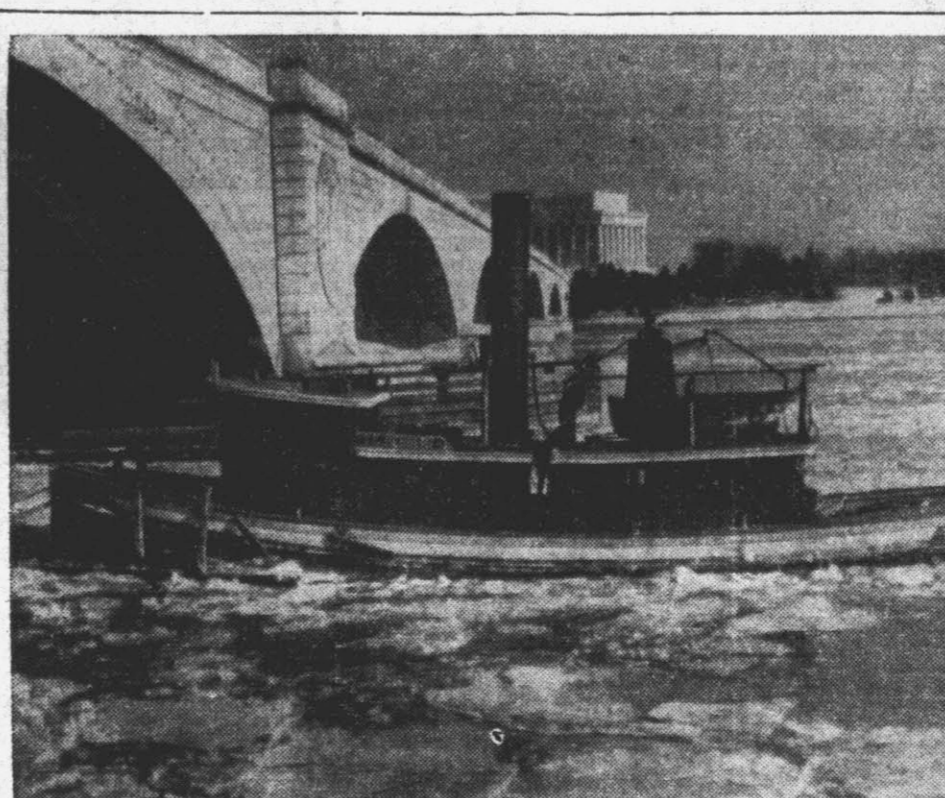

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 20.—(AP)—The coast guard reported here today that it believed a boat had been able to reach Smith Island in ice-caked Chesapeake bay with fresh milk for babies.

The motorboat Island Belle, carrying supplies to the islanders, had been reported ice-bound in the bay, but the coast guard cutter McLane notified headquarters here that the ice was not sufficiently heavy to block its progress.

A radio message received yesterday said there was a shortage of milk for the 10 babies on the island.

Senate Committee Slashes Emergency Defense Funds

GERMAN PRESS ASSAILS SWISS

Feared Propaganda Campaign May Be in Store

Berne, Jan. 20.—(AP)—A German newspaper attack charging a double standard in Swiss neutrality caused concern in some quarters today that Germany might be planning a propaganda campaign against Switzerland.

Some observers considered it a possible "preparation for the spring time," contending that the Nazi high command wants to keep the allies guessing where it plans to strike.

Swiss newspapers replied sharply to a dispatch carried by DNB, German official news agency, accusing Switzerland of having "two neutralities."

DNB quoted a German newspaper which charged that Switzerland had been the pro-Nazi Neue Basler Zeitung of Basel for having too much understanding of the German viewpoint, had tolerated other Swiss newspapers "completely in accord with the British and French desire to destroy German unity."

The Senate committee adopted an amendment by Senator Russell (D-Ga.) to make available out of current agricultural department funds $11,000,000 in "parity payments" for farmers who complied with the department's program in the 1939 crop year, but received no money because of the miscalculation in the average of payments for that year.

Senator Adams (D-Col.) explained that the average on 1940 crop payments would have to be reduced to take care of this expenditure. He said it would involve no new appropriation.

Smash Hit Season for Recreation

Babson Predicts 1940 Will Be Biggest Vacation Year In History

Richmond, Va., Jan. 20.—Barrels of business recreation activity are expected in 1940. Aviation factories, air lines, gas stations, power companies, machine tool shops, should hit new all-time highs. In addition, the American tourist industry should also smash its way to new peaks. Call it the tourist trade, the resort business, the vacation trade, or what you will—1940 should be the biggest year in its history.

This recreation business is not of ten thought of as an industry. Yet, there's scarcely a town from Maine to Manila that does not have a stake in it. In hundreds of communities, prosperity is wholly dependent on the tourist trade. "Good times" for entire states are tied-up with the resort business. It is New England's fastest-growing industry. It's the big "cash crop" of vast regions such as Southern California, Western North Carolina and all of Florida. It gives jobs to hundreds of thousands of workers—directly and indirectly. It produces millions of dollars in taxes. It is a big and honorable business.

Six Billion Dollar Industry Two weeks ago I nominated the machinery and machine tool business as 1940's industry of the year. The recreation trade will not be far behind in performance, while its prosperity will benefit more people than any other activity except farming and retailing. My guess is that nearly $6,000,000,000 will be spent on travel, recreation, and health building. This will be a gain of half a billion dollars over 1939 and may even out-run 1929 in volume, although not in dollars and cents.

For years, railroads, chambers of commerce, and state commissions spent untold sums trying to sell Americans the idea of "seeing America first." I think the idea was started by the late Edward Bok in the Ladies' Home Journal. It was always conceded to be a good slogan, but it remained for submarine attacks, air raids, and "Blitzkriegs" to give the phrase real punch.

Annually, $500,000,000 was spent abroad by American globe-trotters except for the year 1939 when it was $600,000,000. This year half of this pre-war travel item will be rung up on cash registers from Halifax to Honolulu. "See America first" will this year be more than a patriotic slogan.

"Southward Ho" The winter resorts are the barometer of this business. While the current season has no more than weighed anchor, glowing reports are already scudding in from every

COLD WEATHER TAKES TOLL OF AT LEAST 95

More than Score dead Of Exposure In North

RELIEF MAY BE DUE FOR SUNDAY

Lower Temperature Is Prospect for Much Of East and South Tonight, However

By The Associated Press. More than a score of deaths from exposure in the northern states, ice skating in southern Louisiana, freezing temperatures in Florida, and a bitter chill from the Rockies to the Atlantic emphasized today the intensity and the scope of the nation's cold wave.

At least 95 deaths were attributed directly or indirectly to the frigid weather in 30 states this week.

The cold moderated somewhat in the middle west and Rocky Mountains region after several days of sub-zero temperatures. The mercury ranged far below the freezing point, however.

Lower temperatures were in prospect for much of the east and south tonight. Little relief was expected until Sunday at the earliest. The Pacific coast enjoyed normal temperatures.

There were 28 deaths from exposure in a dozen states. One was reported as far south as South Carolina. Overheated stoves caused hundreds of fires which took at least 28 lives. Traffic accidents blamed on snow, ice and the cold claimed 25 victims and 14 persons died from other causes attributed to the weather.

Civil Court Over; To Open Criminal

This week's session of civil court was completed yesterday and court attaches prepared to open a criminal term here Monday morning.

Judge Walter Bone of Nashville, who presided over the civil term, also will be here for the criminal session.

A verdict in favor of the plaintiff was rendered in the case of John Saleed vs. B. G. Abernethy et al. This was the third case to go to the jury during the week. In one of the others Mrs. Rena Warren was awarded double indemnity on insurance policy on the life of her son, who was killed by a Negro. In the other a verdict was rendered in the case of H. L. Tetterton and wife vs. Mrs. Margaret Everett, executrix et al.

Ten divorces were granted during the term.

Dr. H. W. Hurt, chairman of the Reading committee of the national council of New York city, will be the principal speaker of the occasion, for which every adult scout leader is invited. Professional leadership will be under the direction of John J. Sigwald, Scout executive, and his assistant George W. Thomson. Arrangements have been made for entertaining visiting women.

In addition to the principal address by Dr. Hurt, the program calls for a play by troop 13 of New Bern, reports of the nominating committee, award of two Silver Beavers, award of Sea Scout honors and presentation of other awards.

First Presbyterian Church.
The First Presbyterian Church is joining in the Evangelistic Crusade which was launched by its denomination last May at the regular meeting of the General Assembly. The purpose is to emphasize Evangelism in all activities of the local churches and call the entire membership of the denomination to a fuller consecration of life and its possessions for building the Kingdom of God in all the world. It is not a "New Organization" in the church, but only an effort to bring the church to its major work, the zealous witnessing of every follower of Christ for the salvation of men.

The messages in all the churches are to be evangelistic and an earnest appeal is given to all members to more faithful observances of the means of grace and church attendance in local places of worship. These will in themselves bring a revival.

Sunday morning, Dr. Boyd pastor, will speak on the subject "The Leadership of the Church and the Evangelistic Crusade". All Presbyterians in the city and their friends are invited to the service at 11.

Young peoples' meetings are held each Sunday evening at 6:30 both at the First Church, and Meadowbrook Chapel. Miss Sarah Dudley Whitmore is director of Religious and in charge of these organizations.

On Wednesday night, the Mid-week service is held at 7:30 p. m. The study of the Gospel of John will be continued with Dr. Boyd as leader. Persons interested in the study of this great portion of the Scriptures are invited to attend the service.

Fraternity Program
Phi Sigma Pi, national honorary professional fraternity at East Carolina Teachers College, presented "Peck vs. Peck" to a receptive audience in Austin auditorium last night.

Most of the men in the fraternity took the part of the plaintiff in the trial and their disquieting along with their vocal imitations, produced an abundance of wholesome laughs.

Alton Payne, who portrayed the role of Mrs. Peck, plaintiff in the rollicking comedy farce, was disguised so perfectly that the majority of spectators were unable to recognize him until he began speaking. Some of them were unable to determine who he was even after Bill Davidson, attorney for the defendant, began firing questions at the plaintiff.

Vance Chadwick, who played the part of a judge, found trouble in keeping silence in the court because of two bags of peanuts. Walter Rogers, a juror, brought to the trial and which the other jurors, either boys or girls, but all dressed as women, insisted upon eating.

Norman Wilkerson, playing the role of Miss Kalsomine, a Negro called for jury duty, was subjected to ridicule because of the hypothetical odor he was supposed to possess.

Big and effective words hurled at the jurors by John David Bridgers, attorney for the plaintiff, won the sentiment of the audience, since lines of the play said the jury must weep.

Dr. Beecher Flanagan, sponsor of the fraternity, introduced the actors and their respective roles, but the matter of identifying the cast was left to the audience.

The fraternity will hold its annual banquet in April and plans to sponsor a dance in May.

Richard Crooks Coming
Richard Crooks, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company and star of the Firestone Radio hour—who will give a concert at East Carolina Teachers College Friday night, February 23, 1940, at 8:30 o'clock, is the only member of the Metropolitan Opera to continue on a radio program of his own for eight consecutive years.

Rated by "Variety" as the greatest tenor box-office attraction here, he also made the most successful concert tour ever recorded in Australia, outranking even Melba in the numbers he drew, and last year won wide acclaim on a world tour.

Crooks is an ardent champion of singing in the English language and usually tries to sing most of his numbers in his native tongue. He believes that more people would be willing to listen to performances if they could understand the words.

The singer's debut in opera took place in Germany, where he was acclaimed by Berlin's very exacting audiences.

He made his debut in New York Opera with the Metropolitan in '33 after writing five years to accept the invitation to join this famous organization.

Musicians in this section will need no urging to await themselves of the opportunity of hearing Richard Crooks, February 23, at East Carolina Teachers College.

Commemorate Anniversary
Members of the End of the Century Book Club, commemorating the fortieth anniversary of their organization, have placed in Sheppard Memorial Library, "A Treasury of Art Masterpieces"—pieces from the Renaissance to the President Day, edited by Thomas Craven.

The volume contains 144 paintings reproduced in full color from the original masterpieces themselves. In the introduction, Mr. Craven sketches the history of great art through the ages. An interpretation and an appreciation of each masterpiece set each artist is included. The arrangement is such that the text and the paintings each stays in its own place. The volume may be viewed and treasured as an art gallery in itself.

As shown by the book plate, the volume belongs to the Bowen Book-shelf but for the present it may be found with other recent gifts on the center table in the adult reading room. End of the Century friends are specially invited to come to the library and see this beautiful book.

"We aimed to do some type of charity work during the year so last Christmas we filled baskets and distributed to the needy in the community.

"In the September meeting it was voted that we give a $5 medal to the girl selected by judges, who proved to be the best homemaker during the school year 1939-1940. She is to be judged by the qualifications set up by a committee.

"A good number of our members exhibited at flower shows both community and county, and won many ribbons.

"We had several outstanding social activities such as: a tea for Chicod teachers and patrons; several parties; a picnic at White Lake. With these many accomplishments we feel as if our year's work has not been in vain."

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grepper

Washington—Congress has met and is much dismayed by one of the biggest questions it will have to decide in connection with the European war—until the hour when it may have to decide whether the U. S. goes into the war itself.

The question: Shall this government open its purse to help the Allies? True enough that question, in just so many words, has not been put either before the Congress or the country at large.

Instead it has arisen in the form of the issue over the loan to Finland. Yet every word and act of congressional leaders discloses how they recognize it.

Senator George of Georgia made the most daring declaration of the issue. He told the senate bluntly that if this country is going to lend money to nations at war it ought to take the responsibility itself and not pass it on to Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator.

His words sounded strangely like those of William Jennings Bryan when, as secretary of state during the early months of the World War and prior to U. S. entry, Bryan cautioned against lending money to the belligerents. In a private message, not published until years later, he told President Wilson that money was "the greatest contraband of all" because it controlled all other contraband.

Allied reassures?
Speaking of the proposed loan to Finland, Senator George said: "It is no different, on a sound basis of international law, than if we sent a battleship to Finland." "If we lift the restrictions in the neutrality act," he said, "it is easy to see we have destroyed the very heart of the neutrality act."

"The hour approaches when the war between Germany and France and England becomes more acute and the pressure becomes more intense to break down the restrictions on extended credit."

It is a safe bet that England and France already are putting the bee on administration officials to shake down the restrictions on credit. That is, assuming that their course in this war is running parallel to their course in the last one. These things are not done boldly or blantly but both sides understand what is afoot.

It was more than a year before the walk broke down last time, although there were minor crumbings within a few months. But after much backing and filling the treasury permitted Britain and France to float a half-billion dollar public loan in this country in October, 1915. That was a year and a quarter after the war started. They were short of ready cash and such bank credit as they could reach was about used up.

This War Is Costly
Resources of England and France are not greatly different this time. Now, as before, they are having to pay cash for what they buy over here. Already Sir John Simon, British chancellor of the exchequer, has said this is going to be the most expensive war England has known. He didn't exclude the last war.

Currently the senate is agitated over whether it can make a loan to Finland without seeming to already the Export-Import bank has made a $10,000,000 loan to a Finnish corporation. By a narrow margin it perhaps escapes being a loan directly to the Finnish government. Also it has strings tied to it which prohibit its use for buying arms and implements of war. President Roosevelt, in a letter to the congress, disclosed he was going little farther in that direction without congressional sanction, which he asked.

BLOOD RUNS COLD

By Ann Demarest

Chapter Five
Sergeant Long

THE house was noisy now. I could hear the men tramping up and down the stairs, calling to one another. I suppose murder was a casual thing to them, but it seemed heartless to me, the way they went on. Joan Kent with her lovely brown hair almost covering her face, her coral dressing gown wrapped around her slim body, had been alive last night. Now she was dead. I shivered.

While I was taking a shower I tried to figure out how the lighter could have got into my room. Had the man dropped it when he ran into my room during the night? I was sure it hadn't been there during the evening.

I turned on the cold water and stood under it, and the shock of it seemed to clear my head. Had the man murdered the girl and then run to hide in the nearest apartment? I laughed hysterically into a bath-towel. It seemed too good to be true that the murderer would leave a clue with a monogram.

I'd just slipped into my warmest frock, a dark blue knitted suit, into the apartment, three more men tramped upstairs with cameras and other paraphernalia. The Sergeant showed them the room and Mrs. Evans' dog, an offensive little beast, tore after them, barking excitedly and snapping at their heels. One of the men chased the dog into the hall and the Sergeant put his head out of the door and said, "Who in hell owns that dog?"

Mrs. Evans, obviously offended, picked up the dog and stalked up the stairs. Sarah trailed after her, reluctant to retreat, her eyes popping with excitement. I went downstairs to look for mail and when I came back one of the Sergeant's men passed me on the stairway.

"Hya, Blondie," he said. I raised both eyebrows as far as they'd go and passed him in silence. There is nothing that annoys me more than to be called Blondie.

'The Girl's Uncle'
BACK in my room I dropped into a chair and lighted a cigarette. It seemed impossible that even a murder could cause such a going-on. And why did the Sergeant say he was interested in me? A few minutes later he leaned in the doorway. "I've called the other two," he said, "and I'll talk to all of you in here. Yours is the largest room."

Mrs. Evans and Sarah followed when the maid put her head in the door without even bothering to knock. She was a gaunt, fussy-haired girl, and very pert, now that she had recovered from the shock. Her eyes were bloodshot and her face was red and splotchy from crying. Except for that she seemed more excited than concerned.

"The police want you, Mrs. Howarth," she said, walking into my room to stare curiously. "Miss Howarth, I corrected her, but she paid no attention to me. If I hadn't felt so awful it would have been amusing, for Sarah escorted me to the hall with the triumphant air of having brought the criminal to justice."

Mr. Kimball was standing outside of Joan Kent's apartment with three men. After two of them went into the girl's room he introduced me to the third. "Miss Howarth, this is Sergeant Long of the Homicide Squad," he said.

I bowed politely to justice. The Sergeant snorted a less friendly greeting. He was quite a man, well over six feet, with a massive frame. The very size of him was intimidating. He looked me over with careful consideration and I thought with approval.

"You're the one I'm interested in," he thundered. "What do you know about this?"

'Blondie'
I DIDN'T feel in the mood to be shouted at and he took me so completely by surprise that I started at him, startled into open-mouthed silence. Later his roaring got to be second nature, but now—and it was disconcerting—he made me feel as though I'd been up to no good.

"Very little," I said, and I looked the lion straight in the eye trying to hypnotize him. "But I'll tell you all I do know."

"I'll see you as soon as I get through in here." He motioned to Joan Kent's apartment. "And you go to your rooms until I call you." Mrs. Evans, who were standing at the foot of the third floor stairs Mrs. Evans was holding a small white dog in her arms. It must have been the one I'd heard barking.

As the Sergeant turned to go

Shrewd Finns Practice "Scorched Earth" Policy

When the great army of Russians came thundering into the Salla sector of Finland, the Finns were forced to withdraw temporarily. But they left the invaders a barren land. Finnish patrols systematically set fire to all buildings which might serve as shelter for the Soviets. These pictures show scenes in the burned village of Salmijarvi, just north of the Arctic Circle. With houses destroyed, the Russians could find little protection from the cold when the mercury sank to 54 below, and so they froze to death in great numbers. The hard-fighting Finns came back and attacked with fury after the cold had demoralized the Reds. The invaders were driven out of Salmijarvi and latest reports describe them as in wild retreat 28 miles east of that town.

The Sixth district is already in that fix—it has four candidates, four counties and there is talk of a lot more.

Now that Bob Doughton has decided to quit at least there is likely to be one of the maddest, most wide open scrambles up that way, but even so it is doubtful if there will be a candidate to the county, on an average.

From the Eleventh where Zeb Weaver has reigned for many years, with a brief inter-regnum when he was unseated by George Prichard (when it was the old Tenth in 1928) comes word that threats of opposition to the incumbent veteran seem to have subsided to a point where there is little prospect of a fight.

There has been some talk that Senator Bailey, mentioned in the first item of this column, planned to run against Fayetteville's J. Bayard Clark, but if he still has any such intentions he said nothing of them in conversation with your reporter Thursday.

Commissioner of Game and Inland Fisheries John D. Clark talked for more than two and a half hours before the Board of Conservation and Development in defending his position in the controversy between his division and the Federal

The letter and the various bills concerned with Finnish loans were sent to the banking and currency committee. That is in compliance with the technical front. The charges of Coach Herman Daily held a 14-10 advantage at the half time period.

The Washington Juniors edged out a 17-15 victory over the local juniors by coming from behind in the closing minutes of the game.

The Phantoms were led by the stellar play of George Sakas, who scored a total of 15 of the locals' points. Larry James accounted for five of the Phantoms total. Burney Warren and Stocks four each. Polly Williams racked up the other two points. Collins, Corey and Whitehurst were pressed into service as substitutes and each made a fine showing, although failing to enter the scoring column.

Man About Manhattan

New York—I kept seeing his face through a veil of smoke, with white lights beating down on it, but I couldn't place him. There was plenty of smoke in this room, in this pent-sized room on 52nd street, but there were no white glaring lights. There was a dim aura of glow, no more, and Woody Herman's orchestra was threading its way through the nostalgic, rhythmic sways of a long since forgotten blues song. Try as I might—as persistently as I searched the corners of my memory, this man with the broad shoulders and the strange, intense, yet pleasant face eluded me.

So I said to Howard Richmond, "who is that fellow?" and he replied, "Why, that's Mike Vetran. He's Woody's manager. You ought to know him. He was a Golden Glove champion."

So that's where I had seen him—fighting in those best and most thrilling of all fights—the Golden Gloves. Mike fought at 175 pounds—the light-heavy division—and he was crowned champ of that division in as hectic a bout as you will remember. It ended with Mike standing under the glare of those white lights, and the other fellow still, beaten, sodden figure on the canvas.

After that Mike and the New York Golden Glovers fought the Chicago Glovers, and Mike won his bout there too, thereby becoming inter-city champion. Before that he had played football with Carideo at Mt. Vernon high school, and Carideo went on to become the most famous of all Knute Rockne's all-America quarterbacks. Mike had followed that up with a year of wrestling for Jack Curley ("I was a hero 18 nights in a row and a bum for twelve"). And then he graduated to the band business, Mike as road manager for Herman. He has been with other bands. A strange place for an ex-fighter to land, managing dance bands. What does he think about? "When I think of all those beatings I took, and all those nights I spent having my leg twisted off, and throwing punks out of the ring on their heads, and getting thrown out by those same punks, I think—why didn't somebody tell me about dance bands earlier. This is the life for me."

That's Mike. Now a word on Woody Herman. A quiet, almost serious boy from Milwaukee. He used to be with Isham Jones. They had a 14-piece band now, run on a cooperative basis—mostly medium tempo, occasionally sweet, but with a decided talent for deep, strange blues. Look for him on the air. Give him a hearing. Hear him a couple of times and see what you think. Listen to his "Wood-Choppers' Ball." . . . Listen to all those blues songs he plays, with emphasis on his introductory theme and his wild, high-stepping "Blues on Parade" as a sign-off. Get the name straight: Woody Herman. Plays a little clarinet—plays a little sax—a little of this and the other. About five-eight, I should say, maybe seven. Slight. Good strong voice. Baritone.

Armies Today Are Machind - Made

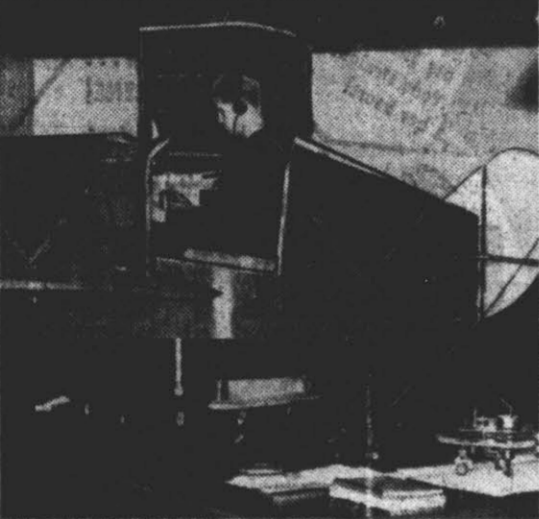

AP Feature Service

When you join an army these days, you let yourself in for a lot of things you'll bet you never thought of.

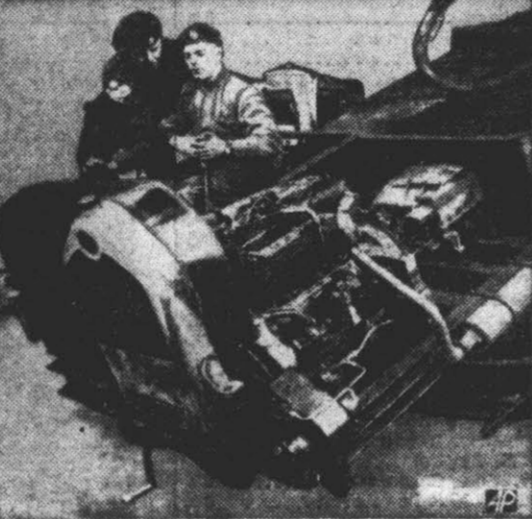

Army training, what with all the machinery the officers have figured out to fit a fellow for a machine-age war, has become a pretty complicated affair. Look at these British soldiers as they learn some of the rudiments of their jobs:

Machines are helpful even in teaching horseback riding . . .

Cooper Will Enter Race Despite Current Rumors

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Jan. 20.—Current reports and rumors to the contrary notwithstanding, Tom Cooper is going to run for governor of North Carolina.

Despite frequently expressed disbelief and cynicism, Libby Ward is seriously considering the race, and is not just taking advantage of an opportunity to do a bit of basking in the political sunshine.

There are two items offered by your Raleigh reporter as facts supported by sufficient evidence to prove them almost beyond the traditional "reasonable doubt" of the criminal law.

Taking up first the case of the Mr. Cooper: It has been learned by your reporter that Wilmington's mayor has already made all necessary arrangements for the sound truck in which he expects to live while touring the state to the accompaniment of blaring music of the religious, rather than the hill billy type. It hasn't yet been learned just what musicians will be engaged by Tom, but a male quartet seems quite a logical selection and would not be surprising.

The Cooper campaign will be based on the very fact that Tom is broke and hasn't any money to spend; and political wiseacres are generally agreed that the best chance Cooper has is to have just enough money to get himself around and no more. If he had, say, $25,000 it wouldn't be a drop in the bucket when spread over 100 counties, yet if he did have that much and spent any of it in any county all the rest would be yelling loudly for part of the pap.

It is axiomatic that a candidate can get volunteer workers only if he isn't paying any anywhere. The minute some are fed, the others want a bite. Yet Bob Reynolds proved in 1932 that it isn't necessary to hire poll workers and ward heelers to get enthusiastic supporters who will take off their shirts and go all the way down the line.

That being so, there's no other conclusion possible than that the Ward ears are still glued to the ground and the Ward eyes are scanning the political horizon with piercing gaze. You can even find competent and acute observers who think it's at least an even bet that the House Speaker will put up his $105 before the deadline is passed.

The year 1940 is the 600th anniversary of Chaucer's birth, the centenary of the first postage stamp and (approximately) the centenary of the first practical photography.

Everybody knows that if Libby does run John Larkins could either support him or stand branded as completely ungrateful and nobody thinks John is the sort of person to choose the second alternative.

Yet it is a fact (even if not established by sworn records which everyone can see) that Libby hasn't told John to hook up elsewhere.

In Virginia, state relief funds are granted to counties on a population basis but county officials must match every state dollar with 60 cents of county funds.

NEW INDUSTRY ENTERS STATE

Figures Indicate An Investment Of $30,000,000

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Jan. 20.—Figures released by the Department of Conservation and Development yesterday indicate that the total investment of new capital in North Carolina in new industrial plants and additions to existing establishments exceeded $30,000,000 and probably came nearer being $50,000,000.

This estimate is based on the ultra-conservative figure of $16,000,000 cited by Industrial Engineer J. T. Anderson, of the Division of Commerce and Industry, as the amount actually spent in construction costs of the 90 new industrial plants and 129 new additions which were built in the state during 1939.

The Anderson figures, it should be explained, did not include invested capital or cost of equipment and it is estimated that if these items are added the total of $16,000,000 should be doubled at least, and perhaps tripled.

This is so because common experience proves that for every dollar spent in constructing a hosiery mill, for example, two to three dollars will be spent in machinery to be installed in the mill.

Thus the five new hosiery plants which cost more than $100,000 each to build, undoubtedly called for the expenditure of more than an additional million dollars for equipment for the group of five.

Mr. Anderson held that inasmuch as there are no exact figures available with respect to these items, they should not be included, but less conservative folks figure that the total investment in new North Carolina industries last year went much closer to $50,000,000 than to $16,000,000.

THIMBLE THEATRE (Starring Popeye)

Take A Hem In It, Blondie!

SILENT MOVIE OF A NORTH CAROLINA BAGGING QUAIL

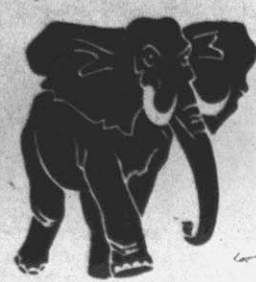

Shocking Tale Saratoga Springs, N. Y.—(AP)—Ladies, that fox around your neck may have been shocked to death. Uncle Sam, mindful of his many responsibilities, including those of the little foxes, winces at the thought of painful deaths suffered by animals in the name of feminine beautification, and is doing something about it.

Experts at a government fur animal experiment station here have invoked the aid of electricity to end the earthy careers of foxes, martins and other small fur-bearing animals.

Ira U. Gabrielson, chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey, praises the "shocking" technic, saying it operates "quickly and humanely."

One hundred and ten volts of electricity, the same as commonly carried on commercial circuits for household use, does the job. Two electrodes are applied to the bodies of the foxes, a switch is pulled, and the animals die in two to six seconds.

The last I saw of him he was shaking hands with Jack Robbins, the music publisher, and waving his hand to a couple of song pluggers who had just come in.

State President, Forrest Pollard, announces an increasing amount of activity taking place in Young Democratic clubs throughout the state. A number of rallies have already been held, and it is hoped a rally can be held in every district of the state during the spring.

The feasibility of the Young Democratic clubs sponsoring a statewide citizenship day in April will be discussed at the second state executive committee meeting to be held in Greensboro at the O. Henry Hotel on Saturday, January 27th. The citizenship committee that has been appointed by President Pollard is composed of Beverly Moore, chairman, Greensboro; A. A. Cobett, Smithfield; and Bettie Harward of Sanford.

It has also been announced that P. O. "Kid" Brewer of Chapel Hill will act as supervisor of the new college committee. Serving with him as assistant supervisors are David Henderson of Charlotte, Frank Castleberry of Wake Forest and Claiborne Gregory of Durham. The aim of this committee will be to establish Young Democratic clubs in the various colleges over the state. This committee will work under the organization committee headed by Hoover Taft, Jr., of Greenville.

The members of the rallies and finance committees will be announced within a very short while.

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Index again filled the stock market today and except for a few favorites the general run of leaders shuffled over a slightly irregular route.

Speculative contentions apparently had little in the way of stimulating news to go on, although there were several fairly cheerful items in the day's budget.

Brokers' quarters were coming to the conclusion that many potential buyers were holding off because of present foreign liquidation. While selling from Europe has been dribbling into the market here daily, offerings have been far from urgent.

Transfers for the two hours totaled 271,170 shares, the smallest since December 9. Bonds and commodities were hesitant the greater part of the day.

Gain In Loans By B - L Associations

The $1,822,000 in loans made by the building, savings and loan associations of North Carolina during December, exceeded those of November by $500,000, it was stated today by Wheeler Martin of Williamston, President of the North Carolina Building and Loan League.

He said most of this increase was in the loans for the construction of new homes of which 360 were made, to the amount of $819,000, representing an increase of 46 per cent over November figures. More people also purchased homes through these home financing institutions during December when 217 of this type of loan were made aggregating $324,000. In addition, 128 loans were refinanced, amounting to $296,000, on the monthly amortization plan of the building, savings and loan associations, and the balance of 325, to the amount of $393,000 were for repairs, reconditioning, and other miscellaneous purposes, according to Martin.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR ART FESTIVAL (Continued from page one) maintained a widespread and a lively community interest in art that should not, and will not, be permitted to die.

The establishment in Greenville of a Federal Art Gallery and the organization of what is known as the Greenville Art Society are the direct outgrowth of, and two tangible evidences of this extensive and active interest.

Though gifts of talent, time, and service have been and are expected still to be, exceedingly generous, the project represents considerable expenditure of money. It, nevertheless, has been and continues to remain, the policy of the club to present each year this fine community art festival entirely free to the public.

In addition to the different types of exhibits which promise to be greater, larger and more interesting than ever before, this sixth annual festival scheduled to take place in Greenville early in April, may be expected, without disappointment to present, also, more pleasing speakers and more delightful programs than heretofore. The public may in confidence look forward with happy anticipation to this forthcoming event.

GOTTA FEED 'EM TO MAKE 'EM WORK Lexington, Ky.—(AP)—The University of Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station has found that fooling hens by turning on electric lights at 4 a. m. shifts egg production from summer to winter but doesn't increase egg production for the year.

This finding was announced after three years of testing artificial lighting in laying houses. "However," the station reported, "since eggs are usually higher in price in winter, early morning lighting of the laying houses often pays."
