HOUSE LEAVES TRADE POLICY UP TO SENATE

Lower Branch Votes To Continue Present Plan

EXPECT SENATE TO FALL IN LINE

Opponents of Secretary Hull's program, however, to fight for restrictive amendments

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Senate opponents conceded today that the triumph of Secretary Hull's trade agreements program in the House last night foreshadowed continuation of the policy in some form.

They served notice, however, that they would make a vigorous effort to attach restrictive amendments to the extension bill, which the House approved 216 to 168.

The House vote, which gave the administration a victory in the first big legislative test of the session and strengthened Secretary Hull's position at a time when he was being mentioned as a possible democratic presidential nominee, shifted the battle over the trade agreement to the Senate side of the Capitol.

Senate opponents said they would line up behind these proposals to restrict the trade agreements program.

1. An amendment requiring that the agreements be ratified by a two-thirds majority of the Senate before they could become effective.

2. Proposal to set up the congressional "watchdog" providing limits on tariff reduction.

3. An amendment to eliminate "the most favored nation" theory of the existing reciprocal trade program by which concessions granted one country are extended to all others which the government decides are not discriminating against United States goods.

Tension Grows In Near East Powers

Istanbul, Turkey, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Turkey's prolonged telephone isolation from the rest of the world, which gave rise to extensive war rumors throughout the Balkans, was disclosed tonight to have been caused by a storm's destruction of five miles of line in European Turkey.

Budapest, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Telephone communications with Turkey, "broken some where in Turkey" Thursday, still had not been restored by Friday today.

Telegrams were received yesterday from Istanbul, however, and advices from there last night said that snow and high winds had made both telephone and telegraph communications spasmodic.

At the period of rupture in the telephone system lengthened, a fever of speculation seized southeastern Europeans.

The peak of excitement was reached in Athens and Belgrade, where citizens gathered on street corners, discussed rumors of "Turkey's general mobilization," only one of the many rumors sweeping southeastern Europe. There was, however, no confirmation of such reports in official quarters.

Swedish Exchange Put Under Control

Stockholm, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A proposal to place all imports and exports of foreign exchange in Sweden under control of a central bank will be discussed at a special meeting of the Rikstag parliament tomorrow, an official communique announced today.

Under the proposed set-up imports of Swedish and foreign securities, except through a central bank or designated foreign exchange banks would be prohibited.

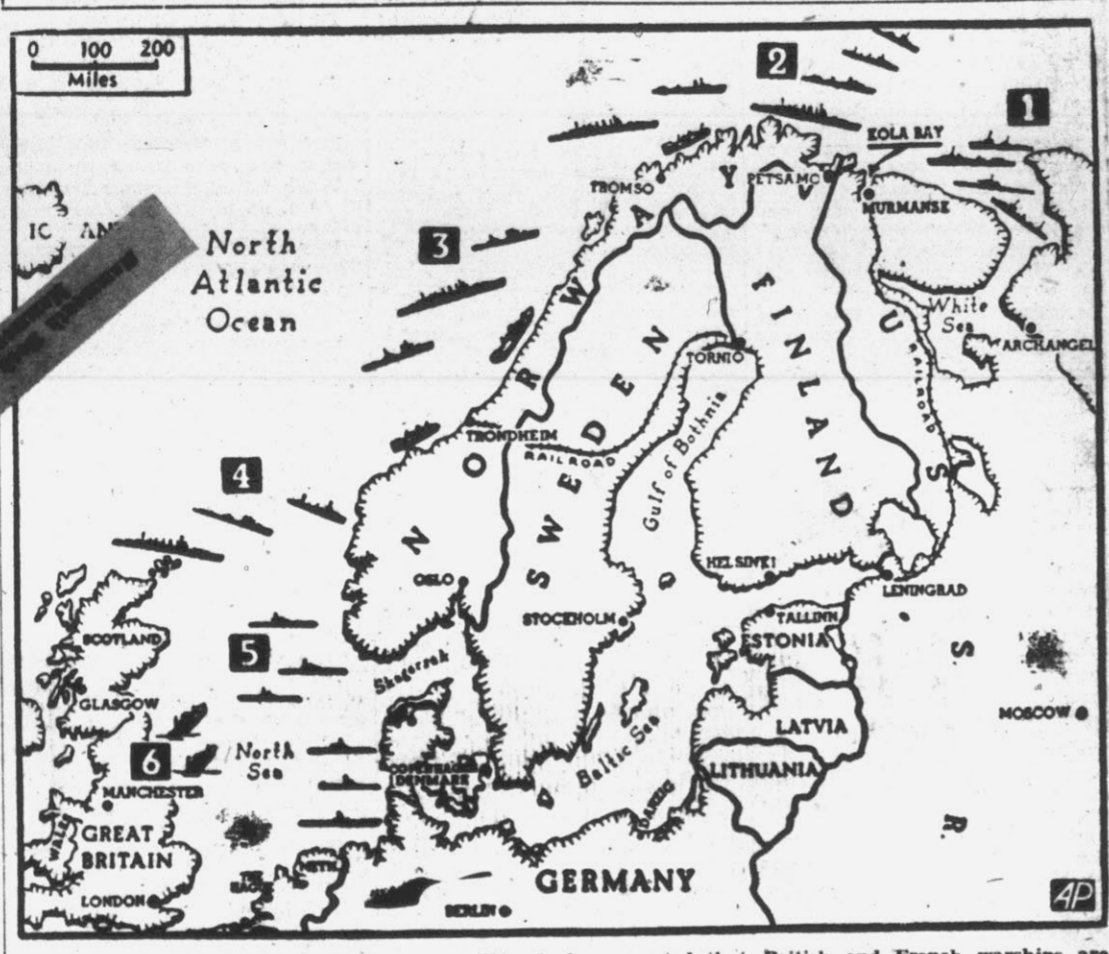

The program it was explained, would not affect clearing arrangements with Germany, Italy, Turkey and Estonia, non-payment arrangements with Spain.

It was presumed the Rikstag also would discuss Wednesday's bombing of stocks for chickens from the Dal stables last night. Final disposition of the case is expected to be made Monday. The four are Andrew and Herbert Hunter, Willies Junior Health and Claude Moore, Jr.

Juvenile Chicken Thieves

Four Negro juveniles, who have made previous trips to the police station, are being held on charges of stealing four chickens from the Dal stables last night. Final disposition of the case is expected to be made Monday. The four are Andrew and Herbert Hunter, Willies Junior Health and Claude Moore, Jr.

Allies Reported Blocking Arctic Waters

The Copenhagen newspaper Berlingske Tidende has reported that British and French warships are blockading the Arctic port of Murmansk, Russia, and are strung along the Arctic coast to close a possible Russo-German gateway through the allies' North Sea blockade.

The map indicates: (1) Russia's Arctic navy, reported ready for trouble; (2) The Murmansk blockade; (3) The allies' extended blockade; (4) The regular British North Sea blockade; (5) Reported "new wave" of German U-boats in the North Sea; (6) Where German air-raiders sank a British naval trawler February 22 and set fire to a Norwegian vessel.

School, Teacher Needs Discussed by McDonald

Addresses Dinner Meeting of North-eastern Teachers

A sick-leave for teachers, elevation in salaries, retirement system, protection for the teacher against discharge without cause and more school appropriations were highlights in the discussion of Dr. Ralph McDonald in a dinner meeting of the leadership conference of the North-eastern District of the North Carolina Education Association held in the Episcopal Parish House.

In the phase of his address hinged on needs of the school, Dr. McDonald explained that "a reorganization and revitalization of reconstruction emanating from the experience of the child and teacher" comprises a major need in curriculum changes. He added that the curriculum should be balanced not only to prepare students for college, but also to equip them for their vocational future.

Since Dr. McDonald's work gives impetus to school-community relations now being undertaken in a program of the North Carolina Education Association, the speaker declared: "There is something to be done in schools in public relations. One of the first essentials is that the job must be a good one. The second is, there must be unity and cooperation among the various units of the educational forces in North Carolina."

"We cannot afford to permit the impression that we cannot go further in our educational program," said the speaker. Dr. McDonald made it plain understood that he was not advocating any means for securing finances, but he told how Georgia takes 8 per cent of gasoline tax annually for the development of education; how South Carolina gets money for education for a luxury tax, described by the speaker as not being as vigorous as North Carolina's sales tax. He said also that one and a half billion dollars worth of intangible property in North Carolina is not being taxed and that federal aid probably would be available. He spoke of the $20,000,000 tax reduction in the state.

Mr. Woolard said any person wishing to make a contribution to the fund could do so by leaving the cash or check with any official or employee of the bank.

Fighting Fund for Finland, Inc., is a non-profit corporation organized to receive voluntary contributions for the purchase of guns, airplanes and other munitions for the defense of Finnish independence.

Auto-Train Collision Fatal to Mebane Man

Mebane, N. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Floyd McAdam, 19, of Mebane, was killed and Charles W. Eulias, 20, of Liberty was seriously injured early this morning when their automobile was struck by an east-bound passenger train here.

R. F. Borman, passenger agent, said the man apparently saw the train, slowed down and then tried to make the crossing.

Eulias was taken to the Alamance General hospital in Burlington, where his condition was reported as critical.

PLAN TO OPEN ETC BUILDING

Gov. Hoey To Speak At Dedication Exercises

Governor Clyde R. Hoey will be the speaker of the day at East Carolina Teachers College on March 9 in a celebration combining Home-coming day for alumni and the dedication of the new $340,000 classroom building. The date chosen is of special significance for the college because it marks the rounding out of a third of a century for East Carolina Teachers College, the bill founding it having been passed by the legislature on March 8, 1907.

The program of the day is planned also as a contribution to the nationwide celebration of the centennial of state-supported teacher training institutions. Many alumni are expected to be back on the campus for the celebration.

Governor Hoey will deliver his address at the dedicatory exercises in the morning.

Following registration of alumni at 10 o'clock in the lobby of the Robert H. Wright building, the morning program will get underway with an academic procession led by the college band and composed of distinguished guests, the faculty and student body, which will proceed from the new building to the Robert H. Wright auditorium for the address of the governor. Among those on the platform with the speaker will be Dr. J. Y. Joyner, State Superintendent of Public Instruction from 1902 to 1919 and the first chairman of the board of trustees of the college; Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, present state superintendent of public instruction, who will introduce the speaker; and Dr. Leon R. Meadows, president of East Carolina Teachers College, who will preside.

Going Back To Work Babson Believes in Back-to-Farm Movement

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 24.—Naturally I get many letters from readers of this column. Just recently I received a most interesting letter from G. C. Konkler of Mena, Arkansas, telling of his personal experiences. He had lost his job during the depression and had to decide between going back to the land or going onto relief. He chose the former and drifted to the enterprising town of Mena in the Ouachita Mountains, just a stone's throw from the Oklahoma line. There he and his family started again with absolutely nothing just as did the Pilgrims when they landed on the shores of Massachusetts Bay in 1620.

Of course, his family had no money for movies, radio, or gasoline. They built their own hut out of cast off boxes and other waste material on the outskirts of the town. He got a job for a dollar a day and the family lived upon it and saved money from the first week. They lived on oatmeal, milk, tough meat and greens. They slept on straw and made their own furniture—but they were healthy and happy. The children made their own clothes and went to school. When Spring came they planted a garden in which they all worked.

I then asked Mr. Konkler to expand his ideas. Both he and I believe that the small farm offers a real opportunity to thousands now working on relief jobs. Developing and working the land would bring them more happiness, health, good living, and sound security than most of them will ever achieve in any other way. Today, too many families are just one pay check better off than they were several years ago. Surely any thinking person must know that something more durable must be tried to remedy conditions. All so far, have been merely shots in the arm to ease the pain.

FINNS LAUDED FOR STRUGGLE AGAINST ODDS

Heroism Praised By Prime Minister Of Britain

SAYS NEUTRALS FEAR GERMANY

Declares Nazis, Not Content With Conquest, Seek to Exterminate All Who Oppose Them

Birmingham, Eng., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today lauded Finland's "heroic struggle" against what he called "a gigantic and unwieldy adversary—the Russian apprentice who has nothing to learn from the master in brutality."

Speaking in his home city in the last of a series of "pep talks" by British cabinet members, Chamberlain declared of Germany:

"The German tyrants, not content with conquest, seek the extermination of people who resist their aggression."

Neutrals, he said, are fearful to maintain their neutrality before the "German bully."

He made a bristling reference to the Altmark case, in which a British warship on February 16 freed captive merchant seamen from a German ship in Norwegian waters.

However, he said, "a neutral must not complain" if Britain "commits a mere technical breach of neutrality, taking no neutral's life and touching no neutral property and releasing 300 men illegally made prisoners."

Independence of the Poles and Czechs and proof that Germany "has once and for all abandoned the thesis that might is right" were summed up as basic war aims of the British-French allies.

County Legionnaires Enjoy Oyster Feast

Approximately 100 members of the American Legion posts in Farmville and Greenville and a number of invited guests attended an oyster feast given at the Greenville machine shop on Clark street last night by the Pitt County Fair Association, local Legion-sponsored exhibition.

D. J. Whitehead, Jr., president, and J. H. Whyler, vice president, of the fair, urged closer cooperation of all members of the Legion in conducting the fair.

Mr. Taylor, who is district commander, reported that the Farmville post now has 70 members, only nine short of its 1940 quota. Commander T. J. Swain reported that the Greenville post is only 14 short of its promised 200 members. Both posts are attempting to secure their full quota by the time of the Post Officers conference to be held in Rocky Mount March 10-11.

Paul Mathison of Rocky Mount, member of the committee on arrangements for the conference, invited members of the two Pitt county posts to attend the conference sessions.

Finland Admits That Fortified Coastal Area Is In Hands Of Soviets

Koivisto Being Used As Starting Point for New Drives Against Viipuri and Strategic Finnish Island; Gains, However, Prove Highly Costly To Russia With Casualties Heavy

Helsinki, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Finnish high command admitted today that the Russians held the fortified coastal area of Koivisto and had made it the starting point for new drives toward Viipuri and against strategic islands in Viipuri bay.

"The daily communique declared 'the enemy's losses were heavy' in these attacks, but did not say whether they were successful."

Until today the Finns had not admitted loss of the Koivisto region, which had been the western anchor of the Mannerheim line across the strategic Karelian isthmus.

The communique listed Russian dead of more than 2,350 in yesterday's fighting in addition to annihilation of two detachments of untrained size.

To the east, almost in the center of the isthmus front, the high command said two Russian detachments "which had penetrated our positions were wholly annihilated" and that at Salmenkaita "the attacking enemy was hurled back and completed to leave on the field over a thousand killed."

The Finns said "about a thousand" Russians were killed on the Eastern front in one sector north-east of Lake Ladoga and 350 others in the Kuhmo sector farther north.

Meanwhile, Finland's commander-in-chief, Field Marshal Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, today welcomed Swedish and Norwegian volunteers into the Finnish army in an order of the day interpreted to mean a large number of these volunteers now are on the firing line.

"To you who have left your homes and loved ones to share with us the dangers and trials of war I offer the thanks of the Finnish nation," said the field marshal.

Citizens Thanked For Potato Train

The potato train committee, composed of P. L. Blount, J. C. Smith, J. B. Bunting, E. B. Josey, and R. Bennett, today expressed their appreciation for the fine cooperation from the citizens of Pitt and adjoining counties in helping to make the potato train tour in Bethel so successful and helpful to a large number of farmers in this territory.

Visitors expressed themselves as well repaid for their time in visiting the exhibits set up in the five-car train which stopped over in Bethel from 2 to 8 p. m. Thursday, February 22nd.

These exhibits portrayed the latest data relative to Irish potato diseases, marketing, production, harvesting, grading, packing, storage, transportation, containers, insect, seed and varieties.

This exhibit train and exhibits were made possible through the cooperation of the Norfolk Southern and Atlantic Coast Line railroads, the State College Extension Service, the State Department of Agriculture, and the North Carolina Produce Growers Cooperative Association.

Dr. Finis S. Idleman To Conduct Services

Rev. Wm. A. Ryan announced today that his friend, Dr. Finis S. Idleman of New York city, would be the guest of the Eighth Street Christian congregation from April 22 to 29 inclusive, at which time he would conduct a preaching mission in the church.

Dr. Idleman is remembered by the people of Greenville because of the outstanding messages which he delivered here several years ago when he was commencement preacher at the college and guest speaker in the Christian church. With his unusual personality and a rare gift for preaching, Dr. Idleman will be a welcome guest.

Falkland White Man Accused Of Larceny

Cassie Dunn, white man of Falkland, is being held in the Pitt county jail on a charge of breaking, entering and larceny of the Sunnyside filling station of Falkland.

He is expected to be tried at Tuesday's session of county court. Nine cartons of cigarettes, cash and other merchandise was reported stolen.

Belgium Censored For Buying Ships

Berlin, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Sources close to the government indicated today that Germany takes a serious view of the sale of eight United States Lines vessels to a Belgian firm.

The general attitude, here most forcibly impressed by Hitler's newspaper, is that the sale "seriously compromised" the neutrality of Belgium.

"Is this neutrality?" was the newspaper headlines over critical comment, which authorized sources indicated was inspired on the transaction.

"While the Belgian government explained it had nothing to do with the transaction," the paper said, "nevertheless gave the necessary approval to change flags."

"The Belgian government by tolerating the deal made itself guilty of a serious breach of its obligation as a neutral."

GIVE AND TAKE WAR IS WAGED IN AIR, ON SEA

Britain Loses Trawler, Sinks German Submarines

PLANES OF BOTH SIDES ARE BUSY

Nazi Scouters Penetrate France Almost To Paris; British Planes Go As Far As Prague

London, Feb. 24.—(AP)—In the grim give-and-take war on the seas, Britain today announced the sinking of the naval trawler Benvolio by a mine with loss of 10 men, while press reports said four German submarines had been sunk by British fliers and a merchantman.

In the air there was give-and-take also with the Air Ministry announcing a night's penetration of Germany as far as Prague, while German planes scouted France, even to the outskirts of Paris.

The 352-ton Benvolio was the British navy's 30th loss of the war.

The reports that four German submarines had been sunk, three by Royal Air Force bombs, and one through ramming by the British steamer Asiatic off the Shetland islands, were without official confirmation.

If true, German submarine losses reported by the British now total 50. Two submarines said in French advices to have been destroyed yesterday in the North Sea were believed both here and in Paris to be two of the four the British press said had been sunk.

The British aerial scouting over Germany as far as Prague cost the Royal Air Force one plane—a pilot lost his bearings and landed in Belgium, where the crew of six was arrested.

ARMY DUE FOR BUDGET SLICE

Service Expected To Be Cut Despite Testimony

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Members of a house appropriations sub-committee whetted the economy knife for use on the army's $921,137,245 budget today, although general George C. Marshall, chief of staff, told them that the seriousness of world conditions made the huge outlay essential.

Marshall testified yesterday at the beginning of secret hearings on the war department's appropriation for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Bi-partisan sentiment developed within the committee for trimming the bill wherever possible in conformity with the current economy drive.

The house recently slashed $112,000,000 from the navy's estimates, holding that service's appropriations for next year to about $965,000,000. Congress already has granted the army $108,450,000 this session, chiefly for expansion and training of its forces in accordance with the president's proclamation of a limited emergency.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) of the Senate Military committee disclosed today that Mr. Roosevelt, on the ground of economy, had advised that action be deferred on a war department plea that soldiers' pay be raised.

Total $280.00

The fund for feeding our needy school children continues to grow. This morning's mail brought two checks for ten dollars each; one from Saint Gabriel's Catholic colored church and one from a friend who requests that his name not be used. Accompanying the check from the Catholic Colored church was a letter from Father Maurice. We are taking great joy of quoting from Father Maurice's letter, believing that his words will carry both a blessing on our gifts already made and an incentive to those who have not yet contributed: "God's blessing on you, Mr. Ryan, and on your co-workers who are directing this grand charity! May God inspire more of our Greenville people to realize that Christ is hungry in His poor! With such faith prompting a contribution, no matter how small it may seem to be, great indeed will be the reward, in abundant blessings from the hands of a merciful God who will not be outdone in generosity." We are sure that every congregation in Greenville will want to follow in the path blazed by St. Gabriel's, St. Paul's, and organizations of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Christian churches.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR Saturday, February 24, 1900

SMALL CHAT Last Saturday in February, February will soon be marched out.

Tomorrow will indicate whether some church members in Greenville love the gospel as much as they do the theatre.

There are too many people standing around with no visible means of support for the general good of the community.

We heard a man remark "There are acres of land floating down the river." From the looks of the high and muddy water, he is correct.

Richard Crooks Thrills Audience. Richard Crooks, distinguished tenor, who sang at the College last night, delighted an audience drawn from all over Eastern Carolina, by the perfect finish of his work and the beauty and power of his voice.

Though equally at ease in the more brilliant numbers calling for much volume, like the selection from "Judas Maccabaeus," and the ones that depended on purity and sweetness of tone, Mr. Crooks perhaps came closest to his audience in "The Dream," from Maçon, with its perfect pianissimo that carried to the farthest corners of the hall, and in the haunting quality of "None But the Lonely Heart," which received the tribute of silence for a few moments after its close. One favorite of the college audience was his encore, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

Both groups of English songs given by Mr. Crooks were much applauded by his audience; however, the Italian and French numbers really gave music lovers in the audience opportunity to concentrate on tone alone.

The accompanist, Frederick Schauwecker, who has worked with Mr. Crooks for fifteen years, was remarkable in his feeling for timing and volume, the accompanist for "The Dream," for example, being hardly separable from the voice of the singer. Mr. Schauwecker's solo group was also very favorably received, particularly the encore, a composition of his own called "A Christmas Folk-Song."

The distinguished tenor made friends also by his pleasant stage presence and his generosity with encores.

Mr. Crooks had just come from a program in Daytona, Florida, and told interviewers that he had sung there Wednesday night to an audience with overcoats spread over their knees and that he was glad to be in the pleasant climate of eastern North Carolina. He left Raleigh this morning by plane for New York.

The program: O del mio dolce ardir, Gluck; Stornellatrice, Respighi; Sei mia gioia, from "Purthenope," Handel; Vittoria, mio core, Carissimi—Mr. Crooks.

If Thou Be Near, Bach; Passing By, Purcell; Where'er You Walk, from "Semele," Handel; Sound An Alarm from "Judas Maccabaeus," Handel—Mr. Crooks.

Aria-Pourquoi me reveiller from "Werther," Massenet—Mr. Crooks. The Nightingale and the Rose. Rimsky-Korsakoff; Clorinda, Morgan; None But the Lonely Heart, Tschalkowsky; Mother o' Mine, Tours—Mr. Crooks.

Nocturne, Chopin; Piece rococo, Taylor; Song of Spring, Jensen—Mr. Schauwecker.

Bobby Jones, the "grand slam" golfer, won his first tournament when he was eight years old.

Grimesland News We are glad to know that A. F. Fleming is out again.

Mrs. N. R. Edwards and daughter have gone to Richmond, Va., for the week-end.

Miss Ona Crede was in Washington today shopping.

Mrs. J. L. Lewis gave Mrs. Dan White a surprise birthday party last night, which was enjoyed by all.

Grimesland played Stokes here last night. The boys lost and the girls won.

Miss Juanita Hoell has returned to Jacksonville to resume teaching.

PLAN TO OPEN ETCB BUILDING

Luncheon, at one o'clock, will be followed by a special meeting for alumni and an "open house" in the new building for all guests. The day will close with a basketball game and a dance in honor of the alumni.

The completion of this large and up-to-date building is symbolic of the progress made by teachers colleges in the United States. A century ago the first state supported school for training teachers was opened in Lexington, Massachusetts; today, just a hundred years later, such colleges are preparing tens of thousands of young men and women throughout the country to serve the next generation as teachers.

The new building is also a milestone in the history of East Carolina Teachers College. Thirty years ago this institution was in the midst of its first session, with 174 students enrolled. Last fall the enrollment passed the twelve-hundred mark. Since 1922, when the first degrees were granted, to two and four-year graduates, 1071 students have been awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts by East Carolina Teachers College.

In 1929 the college was authorized to grant the Master's degree. Within the past few years, departments of instruction in music, education, commerce, manual arts, home economics, and physical education have either been added or greatly expanded.

The physical plant of the college has grown along with the student body and curriculum. When the college opened its doors for the session of 1909-1910 there were only six buildings on the campus. Today there are around twenty-five buildings, valued at approximately three million dollars.

Many North Carolinians who have had no first-hand knowledge of their largest teachers college, as well as long-time friends of the institution, are expected to join the representatives from other colleges and former students of East Carolina Teachers College for the celebration of March 9 on the campus.

CLUB FORMED IN PITT TOWN

Winterville Ruritan Club Organized This Week

Winterville, Feb. 24.—The Winterville Ruritan club has been organized with 33 charter members. The charter was presented by W. P. McGuire of Petersburg, Va., president of Ruritan National, who said it was the 106th club.

Two weeks ago a group of 23 men of the Winterville community met and, after obtaining detailed information about the Ruritan, voted unanimously to apply for a charter. The application was signed by 33 men who became charter members. Organization was perfected and R. E. Boyd was elected president. Officers were elected as follows: vice-president, J. H. Mobley; secretary, T. Ray Oglesby; treasurer, Lloyd Worthington; chaplain, Roy T. Cox; publicity director, C. D. Ward; sergeant-at-arms, George Rouse; and board of directors, A. D. McLaughlin, chairman, Nelson Hunsucker, and Dennis McLay.

President Boyd said that committee appointments would be made at the next meeting on March 26. The club voted to meet regularly on Tuesday following the fourth Sunday in each month.

It was explained at the meeting that Ruritan National was a men's civic service club having now over 3,000 members in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Maryland, with clubs soon to be formed in other states. It was also stated by the national president that among the primary objects of the organization are the fostering of better relations between the farmers and non-farmers and serving the community interests best designed for the up-building of rural sections.

Conformity with the rules of Ruritan National at least one-third of the members of the local club are farmers and at least one-third are business and professional men.

The national president announced at the Winterville meeting the appointment of John R. Jenkins, Jr., of Aulander, as district governor of Ruritan National. The announcement was greeted by a great cheer by the Ruritans of Winterville where Mr. Jenkins, a native of Pitt county, is well known. At the last annual convention of Ruritan held in Richmond Mr. Jenkins was elected a member of the board of directors of the national organization.

The Winterville club was organized by the Colerain Ruritan club which had three members present for the chartering: Harlan O. White, president of the Colerain club; Dr. Carroll Credle, past president; and J. J. Beale, director, who brought along a member of the Colerain high school faculty who gave a very interesting reading. The Colerain group also put on a "stunt" which provided great amusement.

Farmers See Need Of Improved Seed

Five Pitt county farmers are producing certified seed sweet potatoes.

A. D. Stewart, Crop Improvement Specialist of the State College Extension Service, spent Thursday morning with the county agents, inspecting sweet potatoes in the bins for certification for Marvin Taylor of Grifton, Shade Harrington of Grifton, Blaney Sumrell of Ayden, Brantley Speight of Winterville, and Mark Smith of Bell Airspur. Mr. Stewart found the potatoes produced by each of the five growers free from scurf, black rot, wilt, and mixture and to be of good quality.

These growers planted seed of known origin and quality in 1939 and had the fields inspected during the summer and the potatoes inspected by Mr. Stewart this week in storage to determine if the 1939 crop could be certified.

Mr. Harrington has 75 bushels of Louisiana Porto Rico seed potatoes that can be marketed as certified stock. Mr. Sumrell has 75 bushels of the Louisiana Porto Rico seed that may be marketed as certified seed. Mr. Mark Smith has 150 bushels of North Carolina strain of Uorto Rico that can be marketed as certified seed.

Mr. Speight is producing the certified North Carolina Porto Rico and Mr. Taylor is producing certified Louisiana Porto Rico.

Eleven hundred bushels of certified sweet potato seed were bedded in Pitt county in 1939.

L. N. James of Bethel, bedded 1,000 bushels of this amount and is producing certified plants. Miss James has the distinction of being the only grower in North Carolina who is producing certified plants for market. This year Mr. James plans to bed only certified seed potatoes.

Potatoes produced from these certified seed were mainly smoother, more uniform in size and shape and free from disease.

Mr. Smith placed a sample of his potatoes on exhibit at the State Seed show recently held in Greenville under the auspices of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

Hoey Not After Post Of National Committeeman

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Feb. 24.—Governor Clyde R. Hoey is not a candidate for Democratic national committeeman from North Carolina.

He told your reporter so today on the heels of publication of reports that he has designs upon the post held by Congressman Lon Folger. There have been repeated statements from supposedly informed politicians that the Governor is seeking to control the delegation to the Democratic national committee not only in order to throw it to his favored presidential candidate but so as to get himself elected national committeeman by these delegates.

The Governor, in his answers to queries by your reporter would not go so far as to say he would flatly refuse the committee place if he were "drafted," but he did state quite emphatically that he is not a candidate for and does not want to be national committeeman.

"I am not a candidate and do not want the place," were his words.

On the question of a possible "draft," he said there need be no fear of that as he would make his disinclination to serve known to the delegates before they get that far along.

As for the identity of his presidential preference, Governor Hoey was completely uncommunicative. He frankly said he would not be quoted on his views regarding a third term, or the possible candidacy of President Roosevelt.

His stand on that question, however, is not a matter of any great doubt.

He is against a third term and has been for many years. His is not an opposition based upon dislike of Franklin D. Roosevelt or the New Deal.

As far back as 1912 when Theodore Roosevelt tried for what would have been actually, if not technically, a third term, the Governor made it perfectly clear that he looks with fear upon the possibility of a third term for anyone.

This fear grows from his conviction that any president, no matter how great or able he may be, grows more and more autocratic the longer he is in office.

This viewpoint, in somewhat veiled form, was expressed a day or so ago by the Governor in an address to the school children of Nash and Edgecombe counties. There he put himself on record as favoring a single term of six years for the President of the United States.

It follows from this, that if Governor Hoey, as seems almost certain, is the key man of North Carolina's delegation to the national convention there is small likelihood that the Tar Heel group will take part in any wild stampede to President Roosevelt. Nevertheless it does not preclude the possibility that its members might vote for FDR's nomination if it became clear that he could not be stopped, or if it became clear that the President is the only Democrat with a fair chance to win the election.

In discussing the national convention situation, the Governor pointed out that 22 states will select their delegates before North Carolina's state convention on May 17.

He adverted to this fact more or less in answer to some criticism to the effect that the North Carolina convention is being called too far in advance of the national meeting.

Safety Chief "ON THE SPOT" In Bad Light Through No Fault Of His Own

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Feb. 24.—Ronald Hocutt, director of the Highway Safety Division, is squarely on the well-known spot—and the ironic part about it is that it's not his fault and there's nothing he can do about it.

So he's sitting tight, saying nothing at all, but he must be doing more than a little inward squirming if nothing more.

It all comes about through fuss and feathers kicked up about three or four recent incidents which have reflected no credit whatsoever on the State Highway Patrol and the Safety Division.

Two patrolmen have resigned under conditions which were far from savory. Two Safety Division employees (both Brewers by some trick of coincidence) have got themselves and the division into trouble through drunken driving charges. The patrol head has been pilloried for suggesting political contributions.

As a result the News and Observer has been yelling bloody murder on its front and editorial pages, with stories which leave a very definite impression that the work of Hocutt and his division is more or less worthless.

And here's the irony of it. Hocutt doesn't have anything to do with control over the patrol or its activities. It's a separate distinct entity which concerns itself with law enforcement.

That let's him out as far as the three patrol incidents are concerned.

As for the Brewers, Hocutt had not more to do with hiring them than did your Raleigh reporter. Unfortunately, Hocutt hasn't anything to do with either the hiring or firing in his division. That, manifestly, is no defense of the system but it is a perfect defense for Hocutt personally.

The safety director, manifestly, can't come out and say anything about this angle of the matter. He keeps his job only as the will of the very same "personnel committee" which does all the hiring and firing for the Revenue department.

This committee functions under the Commissioner of Revenue, who until a few days ago was A. J. Maxwell. Since the Maxwell leave of absence began the department is under the direction of L. O. Gregory, former assistant Attorney General.

Its other members are W. J. Spain, Assistant Commissioner; R. R. McLaughlin, director of the Motor Vehicle division; and Charles England.

This group has complete charge of employment in all divisions of the Revenue department.

So what often happens is that Mr. Spain, for instance, will send for Mr. Hocutt and tell him that

SWING IS DEAD! LONG LIVE SWING!

Jazz Goes Underground — But It's Coming Back

What's happened to swing? What's going to happen to it? In previous articles, Paul Ross traced the history of swing and reported that a survey shows it is dead as a popular craze. Today he discusses swing's future.

By PAUL ROSS
AP Feature Service Writer

New York—"You take the high road, and I'll take the low road, I'll be in Scotland afore ye. . . . That's about the way it is. Sweet is on the high road, and swing on the low, but swing is going somewhere, nonetheless.

Prophecy is always a risky business, and especially so where it concerns something as controversial as jazz. One can find six good music critics who will say there is virtually nothing to jazz, and six equally good critics who will seriously consider it as music. Often the same critic will say different things about it.

So, in the last analysis, hot jazz is something for which "you pays yer money and you takes yer chance." This writer is inclined to look favorable on swing.

The waning of the swing craze is the best thing that could have happened to it. For (1) the excesses which grew up around swing and which had nothing to do with it will disappear from the mind of the public; (2) swing will return to the smaller public which always appreciated and encouraged it; (3) with the demand for swing declining in volume, swingmen will have time to stop and create instead of repeating ad nauseam the effects developed during the lean years of the 20's; (4) jazz will probably begin to draw again on the musical language of the negroes, who started it in the first place.

The days of splash are over, at least for a long time to come. Swing is going back to the obscure little dives where it flourished and where it naturally belongs.

Smaller Bands?

The big band will remain on the commercial job but the small band seems to be the order of the day for musicians seriously interested in creating swing. Even in his heyday Benny Goodman had a small band-within-a-band; first a trio comprising drums, clarinet and piano, then a quartet with vibraphone added. After the big band had tossed off a bit of slick, the small band took its turn at the hot stuff. Now Benny has a sextet comprising drums, piano, electric guitar, vibraphone, string bass and clarinet. People who say that Benny is through simply have not heard the sextet. Other small bands are Bud Freeman's, John Kirby's and Bob Crosby's "Bobcats."

This appearance of the small band represents an interesting return to the tradition of the old jazz days. The small band is more flexible and allows greater freedom for improvisation. But it also shows that swing may develop along one of the lines taken by classical music—the chamber group.

Ellington's Harmonics

Two interesting lines of possible development are represented by Art Tatum, on the one hand, and Duke Ellington-Marc Blitzstein-Earl Robinson on the other. Using ordinary pop tunes as a basis, Tatum improvises jazz-quality variations whose complexity would do credit to Liszt. Tatum gives what he calls "concerts" in small cafes, and the people who come to hear him are as hushed as they would be in Carnegie Hall.

Music lovers chatter about the fact that Debussy, dissatisfied with prevailing systems of harmony, invented his own. Yet few Americans have paid any attention to Duke Ellington, who also perfected his own harmonics. Duke's stuff has "rock" and is hot in the best jazz manner but at the same time it is rich and highly original. It requires almost as close listening as classical music, or the music of the moderns.

BOOGIE-WOOGIE—Swing of the future? This kind of swing is so completely pianistic that other instruments can hardly reproduce it. Players are Albert Ammons and Meade Lux Lewis on the left, and Pete Johnson on the right.

Marc Blitzstein and Earl Robinson seem to be forerunners of a music typically American. Older composers have tried to write "American" music of the jazz vintage, but their stuff was pretentious, somewhat condescending and too clearly influenced by European music.

Blues Are Still Here

During the course which jazz has traveled the blues came to be ignored more and more. Yet the blues are one of the most vital jazz forms. By blues I do not mean the sad love songs of Tin Pan Alley but the low-down, feelin' bad but hopin' for somethin' better song by which the negro expresses himself when the river has flooded his home, his girl has left him or the booze has proved too much.

Despite the general neglect of the blues, however, Bessie Smith continued to sing them and Jack Teagarden to play and sing them. And recently, there appeared a song which may show how the blues will go. Not precisely in the blues musical form but full of the unpretentious pathos of a real blues is the song "Strange Fruit," sung by Billy Holiday.

In any discussion of the future of jazz the younger generation must not be left out. The generation of Bix Beiderbecke and Benny Goodman listened to what had been done before them by the New Orleans men, then pushed on, adding to the music and developing what was inherent in it. Today, the country is full of teen-age kids who have heard all that the present jazzmen have done, who know all the licks (jazz musical idioms), all the rhythms.

Soon they will start to build on what went before, once more developing and pushing the medium ahead.

world prestige of Russia and the soviet army.

WHAT IT MEANS Failure Of Russia

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

Washington.—The recent successes of the Russian army against the Mannerheim line convinces the better informed military experts here that the original failure of the Russians in Finland was political—not military.

In short, Mr. Stalin's famed secret service, or OGPU, may have pulled one of the classic boners of modern history. As one of the experts put it:

"The OGPU knows how to chop things off all right, but you can't do that to hard-bitten facts—and get by with it."

One of the outstanding American experts in military affairs of North-eastern Europe has held the opinion from the start that the Russians were not developing their maximum military power in Finland.

He does not argue that the Russians are a match for a major power. But considering the Soviet's overwhelming superiority in numbers, he has felt that the Russian machine could develop enough strength to reach and crack the Mannerheim line.

The Russians finally have done that—a clean break though is another question.

Why The Delay?

Why didn't they do it before? Here's how the expert figures it out:

Russian agents must have been informing Stalin and his military advisers for many months on internal conditions in Finland—military, economic and social.

If this information had been accurate these agents would have reported back to Moscow that Finnish capitalist society was undoubtedly strong and capable of a great deal of resistance to communism; that the economic condition of the people was fairly sound, at least much more solid than it was in Russia; and that the military preparedness of the Finns was such that only smashing, trip-hammer blows against the Mannerheim line with heavy losses would carry through a Russian assault.

But, says the expert, was this information conveyed to Stalin and his general staff? Nobody knows, but apparently it was not.

For on December 3 the Soviet press hailed the formation of a people's regime of Finland at Terioki on the Karelian Isthmus. These newspapers treated it as a foregone conclusion that a new government had been set up, and the people of Finland were rising against the "reactionary beasts" in Helsinki, who controlled the "old government."

The Russian government, argues the expert, must have had well-laid plans for setting up a new government in Finland, and must have expected the people of that nation to back up a new government under Soviet auspices, else it would not have allowed the Russian press to growling about it in advance.

That means the Russian government must have been erroneously informed that capitalist society in Finland was tottering and that the common people were ready to revolt against it. The Soviet inner council must have had some kind of advice that no more than a big show of military strength, and isolated pressure here and there would be sufficient also to crack the highly-touted Mannerheim line and Finnish morale.

And inner Moscow circles must have believed these things, else they would not have waited this long to start a real drive against the Finns, with the spring thaw just around the corner to endanger the

'Yes Men'

In other words, it's beginning to look to the experts, as if somebody in the OGPU has been telling Mr. Stalin what somebody in the OGPU thought Mr. Stalin wanted to hear, regardless of the true facts. The logical attitude of the Russian military would be one of watchful waiting, else the generals might lose their heads.

When "the people's government of Finland" was organized and nothing happened, the Russian army was sent to repair the damage created politically.

Ineffectively organized, the military machine met the kind of resistance you have been reading about. It had to fall back, reorganize itself to meet the situation. By that time, half of January had passed, and the coldest winter in 50 years was interfering with mechanized warfare.

Then, almost too late—and maybe it may prove to be too late yet—Russia's General Stern, the man who takes his military objectives, no matter what the cost in lives, took over the Russian army, and shoved it into the Karelian Isthmus, the only place where any invading army should try to pass. He

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Feb. 24.—Governor Clyde R. Hoey is not a candidate for Democratic national committeeman from North Carolina.

He told your reporter so today on the heels of publication of reports that he has designs upon the post held by Congressman Lon Folger. There have been repeated statements from supposedly informed politicians that the Governor is seeking to control the delegation to the Democratic national committee not only in order to throw it to his favored presidential candidate but so as to get himself elected national committeeman by these delegates.

The Governor, in his answers to queries by your reporter would not go so far as to say he would flatly refuse the committee place if he were "drafted," but he did state quite emphatically that he is not a candidate for and does not want to be national committeeman.

"I am not a candidate and do not want the place," were his words.

On the question of a possible "draft," he said there need be no fear of that as he would make his disinclination to serve known to the delegates before they get that far along.

As for the identity of his presidential preference, Governor Hoey was completely uncommunicative. He frankly said he would not be quoted on his views regarding a third term, or the possible candidacy of President Roosevelt.

His stand on that question, however, is not a matter of any great doubt.

He is against a third term and has been for many years. His is not an opposition based upon dislike of Franklin D. Roosevelt or the New Deal.

As far back as 1912 when Theodore Roosevelt tried for what would have been actually, if not technically, a third term, the Governor made it perfectly clear that he looks with fear upon the possibility of a third term for anyone.

This fear grows from his conviction that any president, no matter how great or able he may be, grows more and more autocratic the longer he is in office.

This viewpoint, in somewhat veiled form, was expressed a day or so ago by the Governor in an address to the school children of Nash and Edgecombe counties. There he put himself on record as favoring a single term of six years for the President of the United States.

It follows from this, that if Governor Hoey, as seems almost certain, is the key man of North Carolina's delegation to the national convention there is small likelihood that the Tar Heel group will take part in any wild stampede to President Roosevelt. Nevertheless it does not preclude the possibility that its members might vote for FDR's nomination if it became clear that he could not be stopped, or if it became clear that the President is the only Democrat with a fair chance to win the election.

In discussing the national convention situation, the Governor pointed out that 22 states will select their delegates before North Carolina's state convention on May 17.

He adverted to this fact more or less in answer to some criticism to the effect that the North Carolina convention is being called too far in advance of the national meeting.

Safety Chief "ON THE SPOT" In Bad Light Through No Fault Of His Own

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Feb. 24.—Ronald Hocutt, director of the Highway Safety Division, is squarely on the well-known spot—and the ironic part about it is that it's not his fault and there's nothing he can do about it.

So he's sitting tight, saying nothing at all, but he must be doing more than a little inward squirming if nothing more.

It all comes about through fuss and feathers kicked up about three or four recent incidents which have reflected no credit whatsoever on the State Highway Patrol and the Safety Division.

Two patrolmen have resigned under conditions which were far from savory. Two Safety Division employees (both Brewers by some trick of coincidence) have got themselves and the division into trouble through drunken driving charges. The patrol head has been pilloried for suggesting political contributions.

As a result the News and Observer has been yelling bloody murder on its front and editorial pages, with stories which leave a very definite impression that the work of Hocutt and his division is more or less worthless.

And here's the irony of it. Hocutt doesn't have anything to do with control over the patrol or its activities. It's a separate distinct entity which concerns itself with law enforcement.

That let's him out as far as the three patrol incidents are concerned.

As for the Brewers, Hocutt had not more to do with hiring them than did your Raleigh reporter. Unfortunately, Hocutt hasn't anything to do with either the hiring or firing in his division. That, manifestly, is no defense of the system but it is a perfect defense for Hocutt personally.

The safety director, manifestly, can't come out and say anything about this angle of the matter. He keeps his job only as the will of the very same "personnel committee" which does all the hiring and firing for the Revenue department.

This committee functions under the Commissioner of Revenue, who until a few days ago was A. J. Maxwell. Since the Maxwell leave of absence began the department is under the direction of L. O. Gregory, former assistant Attorney General.

Its other members are W. J. Spain, Assistant Commissioner; R. R. McLaughlin, director of the Motor Vehicle division; and Charles England.

This group has complete charge of employment in all divisions of the Revenue department.

So what often happens is that Mr. Spain, for instance, will send for Mr. Hocutt and tell him that

Farmers See Need Of Improved Seed

Five Pitt county farmers are producing certified seed sweet potatoes.

A. D. Stewart, Crop Improvement Specialist of the State College Extension Service, spent Thursday morning with the county agents, inspecting sweet potatoes in the bins for certification for Marvin Taylor of Grifton, Shade Harrington of Grifton, Blaney Sumrell of Ayden, Brantley Speight of Winterville, and Mark Smith of Bell Airspur. Mr. Stewart found the potatoes produced by each of the five growers free from scurf, black rot, wilt, and mixture and to be of good quality.

These growers planted seed of known origin and quality in 1939 and had the fields inspected during the summer and the potatoes inspected by Mr. Stewart this week in storage to determine if the 1939 crop could be certified.

Mr. Harrington has 75 bushels of Louisiana Porto Rico seed potatoes that can be marketed as certified stock. Mr. Sumrell has 75 bushels of the Louisiana Porto Rico seed that may be marketed as certified seed. Mr. Mark Smith has 150 bushels of North Carolina strain of Uorto Rico that can be marketed as certified seed.

Mr. Speight is producing the certified North Carolina Porto Rico and Mr. Taylor is producing certified Louisiana Porto Rico.

Eleven hundred bushels of certified sweet potato seed were bedded in Pitt county in 1939.

L. N. James of Bethel, bedded 1,000 bushels of this amount and is producing certified plants. Miss James has the distinction of being the only grower in North Carolina who is producing certified plants for market. This year Mr. James plans to bed only certified seed potatoes.

Potatoes produced from these certified seed were mainly smoother, more uniform in size and shape and free from disease.

Mr. Smith placed a sample of his potatoes on exhibit at the State Seed show recently held in Greenville under the auspices of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

The American military experts say these should have been the tactics last November 30, if Russia intended to capture Finland before spring.

If Russia doesn't make a clean break through the Mannerheim line may look like Napoleon's after the retreat from Moscow.

And even if Russia does make a clean-break by spring, Russian prestige has suffered irreparable damage—apparently because Stalin's eyes men "yessed" once too often.

GOVERNOR HOEY RIGHT

On a recent visit in Rocky Mount Governor Clyde R. Hoey declared that he favored a six year term for the President of the United States with a limit of one term. We have long felt that such a change in our constitution would prove of great value to our country because upon such a basis a president could devote his entire six years to the administration of the country's affairs without a thought to building political fences for a second term. It is gratifying to hear such men as Governor Hoey giving public expression in behalf of such a change.

BASEBALL MEETING

On several occasions recently we have advocated some definite action on the part of local baseball fans with regards to plans for the coming season. In the past the financial burden of furnishing baseball for Greenville has fallen upon just a few of our public-spirited citizens and we have expressed the feeling that it should be a community proposition with as many fans and citizens as possible interested financially in the club through the organization of a corporation, the stock of which would be sold in small amounts. The Junior Chamber of Commerce has called a mass meeting for all baseball fans in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock next Tuesday night, and we urge all fans and other citizens who want Greenville to have baseball, to be on hand for the meeting. The more of our citizens who are interested in the club the more support the club will receive and the result will be better baseball for Greenville.

Washington, — An important Washington military authority told us when the war first started that the moment Britain and France began organizing an expeditionary force in the Near East you could bank on one thing—Italy was on the Allied side. His reasoning was this: France and England never would risk sending an expeditionary force to the Near East as long as Italy remained a threat to the line of communications through the Mediterranean. An expeditionary force whose sup-

BLOOD RUNS COLD

By Ann Demarest

Chapter 35 Death Strikes Again WHEN Adrienne came upstairs again I could see that she'd been crying, but passing the door, she looked in and I thought she seemed relieved. She beckoned to Mary Ann and they went into the apartment together.

I tried to take a nap. The short rations and lack of sleep hadn't improved my looks. I don't stand up very well under excitement. There were dark shadows under my eyes and I looked pretty drawn around the mouth. With Mr. Whitefield and Louise Lathrop both in the hospital and Norton guarding the house, I felt as though there was nothing to fear—at least, for the present.

I was mistaken. For about half an hour I dozed and then sat up quickly, awakened by a noise. It seemed to come from Richard's apartment overhead. There were footsteps somewhere upstairs and then a heavy thud as though something or someone had fallen. My breath was coming in quick, short gasps.

I slipped into my frock and opened the door to the hall. The house was quiet except for the murmur of voices from the front apartment. Evidently they'd heard nothing. So perhaps I'd imagined the sounds. Nevertheless I decided to go upstairs and investigate.

All of the doors were closed on the third floor and the hall was dark and shadowy. I tried the door to Richard's apartment, but it was locked, and I pressed my ear to the keyhole, but couldn't hear anyone inside.

The artist's apartment was unlocked, but after a hasty search I could see nothing out of the way except that his water colors were the toy store variety for children, and his heavy blue overcoat was there, thrown over a chair.

That left only Mrs. Evans' apartment up in the attic. I went up the short flight of stairs and knocked at the door lightly, thinking she might be in, but there was no answer. Then I thought I heard James whine. I tried the door. It was unlocked. I pushed it open a couple of inches and peered cautiously in the room. The blinds were drawn and the light was so dim it was difficult to see.

Evidently Mrs. Evans was out working, so I thought it would be all right to investigate a little further. I tried to push the door open, but it stuck. I pushed a little harder, then forced myself into the room to see what kept it from opening.

James was lying in the middle of the room. He whined when I came in and tried to get to his feet, but sank back on the floor with a whimper.

And then I looked behind the door. On the floor I saw a figure, a body with arms thrown out, sprawled there lifelessly. It was Mrs. Evans.

Screams I MUST have screamed. Yet the sounds that I heard seemed to come from far off, from another person. I clutched at the door, I knew, and tried to get out of the room.

And then I must have screamed again, because I heard footsteps, then Dirck telling me that it was all right, and taking me by the arm, he led me into the hall.

Going down the stairway I was dimly conscious that Adrienne and Mary Ann were standing in the hall. Then Norton rushed up the stairway with Mr. Kimball and Ishi. But their faces made no definite impression. It seemed like a dream.

I stumbled into my room and Dirck made me lie down while he ran down to the shop for Mr. Kimball's brandy. And after I drank it, he called Mary Ann to sit with me while he went upstairs.

We didn't even talk while he was gone, and by the time he got back I was sitting up and feeling more like myself. But Dirck was very much upset. He closed the door and stood there, leaning against it.

"Mrs. Evans wasn't murdered," he said. "They think it was a heart attack."

I swallowed. "She's dead, though?" He nodded. "Chris," he said, his voice quiet, yet terribly convincing. "I know who caused it, but I can't pin it on the person without proof. She wasn't murdered, but someone hit James. He must have been knocked unconscious. If only..." He jerked his head up. Then without another word he rushed out of the room and down the stairs, leaving Mary Ann and me gasping at each other.

"Adrienne's clear of this," she said unexpectedly. "Why, what happened?" And then she told me about Whitefield. He was still in the hospital and he was under arrest, and so far they couldn't pin the murders on him. But he was a fence for stolen pictures.

"What did Adrienne have to do with it?" I asked. "He was paying her to stay in his apartment evenings to answer his telephone and pretend that he was there or had just stepped out or something like that. The night Joan was murdered he was out and Adrienne was up there alone. He gave her money to keep quiet ply lines could be cut off on short notice by Italy would be in an extremely vulnerable position, even if it were granted that the combined British-French fleets soon could liquidate the Italian fleet. Now France and England have organized a force in the Near East variously reported at 300,000 to 500,000 men. It doesn't wholly prove the case, however, for only about 30,000 Australians and New Zealanders are really "expeditionary." The others are mostly native troops. Nevertheless, it is considered here as a strong indicator of the drift.

combine forces to beat down opposition in the coming primary.

Holt is running for re-election and Neely plans to run for governor. It is not so much that they like each other better but that they dislike their common foes more.

It is almost a political phenomenon, for they have been the bitterest enemies in the Senate. Neely campaigned for Holt in 1934 to make him the "baby" senator. Holt had to wait five months to take the oath of office because he was in senatorial age, 30, when elected.

Barely had Holt entered the Senate when he protested Neely was hogging the patronage, especially in WPA. He opened a barrage in the Senate that lasted four months. He campaigned against Neely when the latter sought reelection in 1936. They probably haven't spoken a hundred words to each other since.

Such formidable opposition has arisen against Holt in the primary and against Neely's followers that they had to act. Neely's plans for running for the governorship are subject to change. He could let Holt fight it out for himself if he chose. For Neely's term still has two years to run.

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, Feb. 24.—A couple of Raleigh Negroes met on the street here today and fell to discussing the world situation. One was greatly perturbed about the war outlook: "Look here, we've gwine git in that war right now," he said with ominous fear. "Whut make you think so," said the other. "Well, President Roosevelt he's done gone fishin' and some of dese days dem fish ain't gwine to bite, and he's gwine get mad and plip us down right square in de middle of dat war."

Raleigh's American Legion post will sponsor two concerts by the United States Marine band on October 23 in the Memorial auditorium. The President has granted permission for a public concert tour this fall and Raleigh will be one of perhaps three North Carolina cities in which the noted organization will appear. Tours by the Marine band are annual, but it is sought by so many sections of the country that this fall's visit to North Carolina will probably be its last for at least another ten years. In connection with the band's visit the Legion post is proposing to stage a state-wide band concert with the Marine band leaders, and perhaps some of his chief assistants as judges.

Baseball Mass Meeting Scheduled For Tuesday Night

WILL BE HELD AT HI SCHOOL

Session is Arranged To "Talk Things Over"

Baseball lovers in general and particularly those interested in seeing a Greenville entry in the Coastal Plain league this year are urged to attend a general mass meeting called by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to be held in the high school auditorium Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

In announcing the meeting, David W. Mosler, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, declared it was called "to talk things over."

Although it is generally understood that Greenville would be in the league this year and Manager Rube Wilson has recently returned from Florida where he signed up a number of rookies, there is nothing absolutely sure about the question.

M. O. Minges, who has led the baseball movement in Greenville for a number of years, recently resigned his position with the club.

It is the aim of those affiliated with the club to make baseball a community project with more people interested in the operation of the club.

Expenses of the team this year are expected to be much below the figures for the past several years as new rules adopted provided that each team must play more rookies and less class men.

PIRATES PLAY HERE TONIGHT

Farley Men To Engage Quint From Norfolk, Va.

William and Mary (Norfolk division) will put up a real fight when they clash with Coach Bo Farley's East Carolina Teachers College Pirates in the Robert H. Wright gymnasium tonight at 8 o'clock.

When the Braves battled Atlantic Christian College last night in Wilson, they were fared by the Bulldogs 49-48 in a game that went five minutes beyond the regulation time.

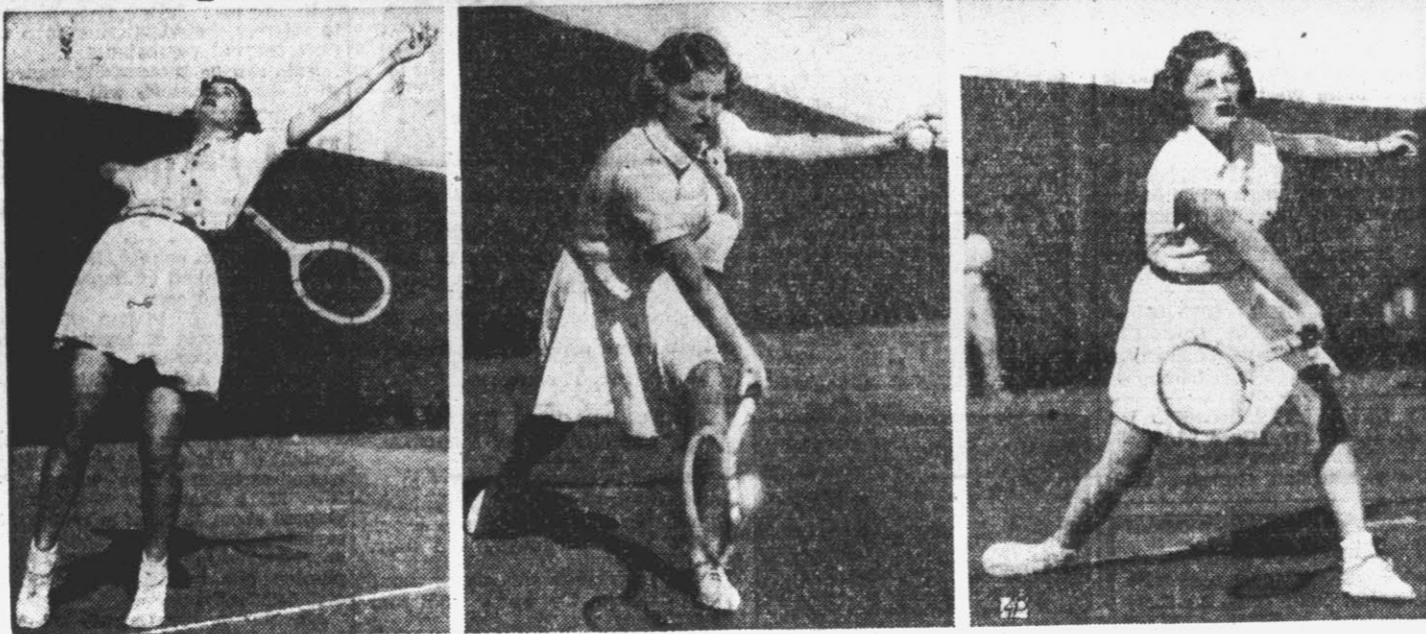

An indication of the Braves' power will be found in the fact that they showed up so well against a team the Pirates barely defeated on the previous night.

Even though the Pirates turned back the Braves earlier in the season, they're going to find the going tough when they meet tonight. The Braves appear to have developed much reserve since the Pirates' four-day invasion of Virginia some time ago.

All the Pirates appear to be in fair shape for tonight's battle, an indication that they should not have so much trouble with their apparent tough foe from Virginia.

This is the last scheduled game of the season for the Pirates. Coach Farley, however, has expressed the intention of arranging other games before the winter quarter is concluded at the college.

Champ Shows The Strokes That Won Title

Pauline Betz of Santa Monica, Calif., practicing at Miami Beach for the coming outdoor season, took time out long enough to show off the shot that won her the national women's indoor title. In the picture at the left she is demonstrating how she gets set to smash the ball on her American Twist serve. In the center she is completing a forehand drive. The ball has just been struck on the rise. In the third picture the ball has just left her racket after a high forehand volley in midcourt. The bevel of her racket makes backspin.

Glamock Record Ranks With Best In The Nation

Tar Heel Ace Averaged 17 Points Per Game

Chapel Hill, Feb. 24.—North Carolina's great center, George Glamock, finished the pre-tournament season with 396 points, a check-up today revealed, to rank him with the nation's top scorers and leading candidates for the All-Southern and All-American center berth won last year by Banks McPadden of Clemson.

The 6 foot 5-inch pivot and hook shot artist averaged 17.2 points for a total of 23 games—as much as two ordinary players. But what is more significant, he did his scoring in the hard games when the chips were down and the Tar Heels needed points to win.

In Carolina's two games with Duke, the No. 1 team in the Southern Conference, Glamock bared 21 and 20 in two meetings with Clemson, he out-scored the All-American McPadden 17 to 12 and 22 to 13. And for 13 Conference tilts he scored 221 points to maintain his brilliant 17-point average for the whole season. Glamock's sharpshooting and brilliant play in the hole and under the backboards proved a major factor in most of the Tar Heels' 20 victories out of 23 starts, but the Tar Heel skyscraper saved his greatest one-man exhibition for the final climatic game with Duke.

Taking an early lead and fighting off one Blue Devil rally after another, the White Phantoms triumphed 31-27, and Glamock's contribution was exactly 20 of the 31 points. Duke took the lead midway the second half 19-16, but Glamock got busy and caged four field goals in less than two minutes to put the game on ice.

Leading scorer is nothing new to Glamock. The junior ace from Johnston, Pa., also led the Tar Heels his freshman and sophomore years, and one season at Allentown Prep he was leading high prep scorer in the east.

Glamock will carry much of Carolina's hopes into the Southern Conference championship at Raleigh next week, and if the big fellow's tournament play matches that for the regular season he will be hard to keep off the All-Southern and maybe the All-American.

Green Phantoms Defeat Roanoke Rapids Quintet

Second Victory Of Season For Locals Over Jackets

To make sure that there was a place in the tournament for them, the Greenville high school basketball quint trounced the Yellow Jackets from Roanoke Rapids by a 21-15 margin. This was the second time this season that the Jackets had fallen at the feet of the Phantoms.

The first quarter started off with a bang by Burney Warren, local forward, scoring two field goals in the first two minutes. The Green men timed their scoring rally through the first quarter leaving the Halifax boys on the short end of a 10-5 score. At halftime the score stood 18-13 with the locals on the long end, but the Rapids boys were steadily gaining.

When the two teams returned to the court it was evident that they both had a long-meaning chat for only three points were scored by both teams in the third quarter. Until the final song there was little scoring by either quint and the Green and White came out on top of a 21-15 decision.

George Sakas captured all scoring honors when he sank four field goals and two charity tosses. Burney Warren and Marvin Stocks were followers up for the locals with six points each. Coach Herman Dalby's boys were on with their charity shots, rining seven out of nine. Charles Williams and John Collins also played good ball.

Pacing the opponents was Cooper with nine points, followed by Warwick with five, and Brown concluded their scoring with one lone foul goal.

This was the local cagers seventh win in ten starts of conference play.

COUNTY MEET OPENS MONDAY

Twenty-Four Teams In Pitt Entered In Tourney

Twenty-four Pitt county teams will open the rounds in the annual basketball tournament for boys and girls to be held in the Robert H. Wright Building at East Carolina Teachers College.

The tourney will get under way Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the Griffon and Grimesland girls battling for honors. The tournament will reach the semi-finals Thursday and the finals will be played on Monday of the following week.

C. D. Ward, chairman of the tournament committee, said that the college is assisting the sponsors, even though the tourney is not actually sponsored by the college.

This year's tourney, like those of previous years, will find rivals in both the boys' and girls' divisions. Teams entered in the boys' division are Stokes, Pactolus, Grimesland, Belvoir, Ayden, Chicod, Bethel, Farmville, Griffon, Arthur, Winterville and Fountain. The girls' teams hail from Winterville, Belvoir, Grimesland, Griffon, Bethel, Fountain, Farmville, Pactolus, Stokes, Chicod, Arthur and Ayden.

In addition to the Griffon-Grimesland girls' game, other Monday games are: Grimesland vs. Belvoir at 4 o'clock; Farmville vs. Pactolus at 5 o'clock; Winterville vs. Fountain at 6:30 o'clock; Arthur vs. Ayden at 8:30 o'clock and Ayden vs. Chicod at 9:30 o'clock.

LOCAL LASSIES IN 18 TO 5 WIN

Defeat Girls From Roanoke Rapids High School

By EARL KITTRELL

The lady Phantoms of Greenville high school defeated the lady Yellow Jackets of Roanoke Rapids by a score of 18-5 in the local gym last night.

At half time the score was 12-4. This year's team coached by Miss Mary Shaw Robeson, has proven to be the best team Greenville has had in many a year. It has proven to be one of the best girl teams in eastern North Carolina. The Greenville lady Phantoms have lost only one game this season. The only other dark spot of the season is one tie game with the lady Cyclones of Wilson.

Betty Tyson, leading goal maker of the season, shared scoring honors with Peggy West with seven points each. Joy Flanagan tallied three points and Nobles one. Lib Wells, Doris Roberts and Jane Harrison made school history in defensive last-night by keeping the strong Roanoke Rapids team to such a small score.

Next year's team will find the entire first string on the hardwood, as all six of the lassies are eleventh graders. Gay Dupree, hard playing second team guard, will be missed next year as she is a senior.

BABSON

(Continued from page one) Ford 500 miles into the mountains of Arkansas. He found thousands of people out of jobs. Families, however, with just a little money left were going back to the farms, making new lives for themselves, and liking it. They were blotting themselves from charity rolls and improving the general situation. Yes, Uncle Sam opened his relief purse. Today, hundreds of homes lie desolate and abandoned. Meanwhile their former tenants purchase with their relief pittance, quantities of products such as those acres could have produced.

It is Mr. Konkler's contention that farm development built this country in the first place. Therefore, he believes that only the development of our idle acres will today solve our relief problems. New pioneers on subsistence farms would not jump farm production much, would not add to farm surpluses. It would stimulate business and trade in scattered areas, as these 1940 pioneers would have to buy every kind of farm tool and necessity. Best of all, this development would not skyrocket the national debt.

Needed: Men With A Will

I am not referring to resettlement projects of the type the government has tried in spots—setting people down with high-falutin' homes, giving them all modern conveniences, launching them with a hopeless debt. Let them begin just as their forefathers did, if they can do no better. What our country needs right now is the man with a will. We need more men, more families, with the will to take hold wherever they can, with the will to do their best with what they have to do with! Personal initiative was what made this country great, and only personal initiative will solve its present problems. Let me quote Mr. Konkler:

"Our leaders, as a rule, are just plain afraid to suggest, even faintly, that individuals who are in need of help should help themselves. They fear to recommend the old-fashioned virtues and the personal advantages of going back to constructive work. I am not an idealist. I know all the loafers can never be converted to the advantages of hard work. But I do feel sure that a national drive along such lines, using plain talk instead of taffy, would greatly increase the percentage of those trying to help themselves.

Better Than War

"Farm relief measures have been political footballs; each candidate trying to increase the benefits to the voting farmers back home. Instead of these handouts, we should encourage individual families to move back to farms. The men of these families would go to war to save their country. Wouldn't it be much more pleasant to go back to the land and save themselves as well as their country—starting as farm hands or renters, then on up the will to own government help, to ownership and security, just as people used to do? Think of the happy days—as they gained self-respect and independence, inch by inch. I know because I have been through it. Nothing else will ever bring them more happiness, satisfaction, or security!"

I do not need to add to Mr. Konkler's comments. He has summed up the situation concisely and emphasized a very fundamental principle.

Diz A Holdout, Turn Farmer

Dizzy Dean listening to the sheep and milking the cows down on his farm near Dallas, Tex., these days in preference to accepting a $10,000 contract to pitch for the Chicago Cubs. That sum is far below the big money Diz once drew. And what's more, it's the only offer that's come to him for the 1940 season. But Diz says he's more interested in farming at present.

Proposed Removal Of Train Opposed

A group of business men, in a meeting yesterday afternoon in the city hall called by the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, went on record as opposing discontinuance of the Atlantic Coast Line passenger train operating between Rocky Mount and Kinston daily.

A similar proposal was opposed last year and resulted in the continuance of the line.

The railway had sought to get the pledge of cities and towns affected not to oppose an application to discontinue the line when application is made with the Utilities Commission.

A resolution passed at yesterday's meeting, however, put representatives of various towns in the county as opposed to the removal of the train.
