SEC. WALLACE CITES NEED OF PARITY FUNDS

Says Would Hamper Control Programs Otherwise

OUTLINES VIEWS TO SENATE BODY

Declares That War Hinders Farm Exports Rather Than Eliminates Need For Parity

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace told the Senate Appropriations committee today that failure to vote farm parity funds "or their equivalent" might seriously hamper crop control programs and create new price-depressing surpluses.

In giving his advice, he joined a group of senators who want to vote $200,000,000 for parity payments. Economy forces are battling the farm bloc, which may win Republican backing.

"The high participation in the program and the effective farmer control over supplies in 1939 have resulted in a large part," Wallace said, "from the adequate incentive offered by the soil conservation and parity payments."

If parity payments are not provided, he said, farmers will be encouraged to return to "the production for markets that do not exist."

The secretary testified on the House-approved agriculture department bill which makes no provision for parity funds. They are designed to raise farmers' purchasing power to the 1910-1914 level.

Recalling that President Roosevelt's budget message had made no specific recommendation for parity payments, Wallace said the chief executive had expressed the hope that higher farm prices would make them unnecessary.

"But the speculative boom has flattened out," Wallace said. "The war has hindered farm exports. Instead of doing away with the necessities for parity payments, the war promises to increase the need for them."

As an "equivalent" for parity payments, the secretary has recommended a marketing certificate plan under which farmers would receive funds collected from processing taxes on domestically produced portions of the wheat, cotton, tobacco, rice and peanut crops.

Reports Vacancies For Regular Army

Sergeant Stonewall Jackson, in charge of the local recruiting station, today declared that effective March 1 there will be an estimated quota of 100 vacancies in the infantry branches of service in Panama Canal Department. It is requested that all young men desiring to enlist in the regular army report to the local recruiting station as soon as possible and get their choice of assignment.

Recent assignments in the regular army are: William C. Henson, 18, Route One Stokes, enlisted for Field Artillery, Sixth Division, Camp Jackson, S. C.; Richard Jolley, 20, Route One Dover, enlisted for Quartermaster, Fort Bragg; William E. Sugg, Jr., 18, Route One, Weldonburg, enlisted for Infantry, Panama Canal Department; Floyd Lee, 18, 1CP South, Tryon, enlisted for Cavalry and Anderson L. Baker, 18, 108 South Tiffany avenue, Kinston, enlisted for Infantry, Sixth Detachment, Camp Jackson, S. C.

Engage In Row On Oklahoma Project

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Oklahoma's governor, Leon Phillips, pledged himself today to use martial law "if necessary" to halt flooding of the Grand river dam reservoir until the state is reimbursed by federal agencies for highways and bridges which would be inundated.

He said he had notified the Grand river dam authority board that he "positively will not permit them to finish the dam until we get the money."

"I will use the national guard if necessary. It might require only one guardman to do the job, but I'll call him out if necessary."

The state has asked for $869,000 and the PWA has contended it should pay only $300,000.

Construction work on the $20,000,000 dam in northeastern Oklahoma is nearing completion.

One Grand board member said the question of the state's claim probably would be taken up tomorrow.

Construction of the giant hydroelectric project was begun in 1925. Two years ago the PWA loaned the state $11,536,000 which it supplemented with an outright grant of $8,457,000.

Finns Admit Strategic Islands Taken Over By Invading Soviet Army

In Tough Spot

Christian Gunther (above), Sweden's foreign minister, faces a new problem in the extension of the Allies' naval blockade against Germany into the Arctic. Gunther was named by his post last December when a coalition cabinet was formed to strengthen Swedish defenses and maintain a workable policy of neutrality.

Helsinki, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Finnish high command acknowledged today that Finland has surrendered to invading Russians the strategic islands of Koivisto, armed with great coastal batteries anchoring the western end of the Mannerheim line.

These islands, situated off the town of Koivisto are 20 miles south of Viipuri, lying in the Gulf of Finland near the entrance to Viipuri bay.

(Possession of the islands presumably would give the Russians advantage in their drive on Viipuri, normally Finland's third largest city, by aiding an attack from the sea as well as from land.)

Russian land forces already have driven to the isthmus itself, up a railway toward Viipuri as far as Kauslahti, only seven and one-half miles due south of Viipuri, according to the Finns' own admission. The Russians apparently are cleaning up the area between the railway and the coast.

Today's daily army communique said "on February 23 the enemy continued attacks on the western part of the isthmus. The attacks were checked by fire from our artillery and infantry and the enemy suffered heavy loss in men."

Chief Highway Engineer W. Vance Baise said that three 17-foot spans had been damaged by the barge, which had moored nearby during work for the Virginia Electric and Power company.

Baise expressed hope the bridge could be reopened by tomorrow night if the wind subsides quickly, but said that this would be possible only if the commission could use a pile driver now at the scene for the power company. Lumber also must be obtained somewhere in the vicinity to replace the super structure.

Baise said, and this might cause delay.

C. B. Taylor, bridge engineer, was telephoned at 4 a. m. that the barge had broken loose and smashed the bridge.

As late as 8:30 this morning the wind was still blowing so hard that no work could be done on the bridge.

Recently the structure was closed for about eight days when ice sheered out part of the piling.

Girl Student Injured When Struck By Auto

Louise Johnson, nine-year-old daughter of Mrs. David Johnson of 201 Jarvis street, received a sprained arm this morning when she was struck by an automobile driven by Graham Flanagan at the Training school.

The little girl ran from behind another car directly into the path of the Flanagan automobile, which had practically stopped when it hit her. Mr. Flanagan took the girl to the hospital, where it was discovered she was not seriously injured and she was later taken to her home. She is expected to return to school tomorrow.

House Committee Approves Farm Benefit Payments

TODAY'S SESSION UNUSUALLY BUSY

Capitol Hill Sees Important Developments As Both Houses And Committees Keep Busy

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Farm bloc advocates of parity payments took new heart today at the action of the House Appropriations committee in approving $60,000,000 for farm benefit payments.

Actually the $60,000,000 represented an advance provided for in a deficiency appropriation measure to be offset by a reduction of like amount in next year's regular farm bill. Secretary Wallace said the two-year overall total would be unchanged.

Those working for a $200,000,000 farm parity fund, however, regarded the committee action as indicative of a congressional trend which has developed potential Republican support.

Other developments of a busier than usual day in capitol hill: The House Appropriations committee cut $4,020,704 from presidential requests for supplementary funds for various agency work the rest of this fiscal year.

Secretary Edison told a House naval sub-committee that it would be in the interest of efficiency and economy to consolidate the navy's bureaus of repair and engineering into a single unit.

The House Rules committee granted legislative right-of-way today to the Senate-Approved bill which addresses the establishment of the Export-Import bank by $100,000,000 and permits a $20,000,000 loan to Finland.

The measure will come up for action in the House tomorrow. It was blocked today because Rep. Fish (R-N.Y.) demanded six hours of debate.

Total $304.75

Bilbro Wholesale Co. lot groceries.

Rev. W. A. Ryan, who is conducting the Hungry Children's fund, today issued the following statement:

In the name of the undernourished school children of Greenville we wish to express our sincerest thanks to the people of Greenville for their splendid response to our appeal for funds to furnish lunches for these children.

While the estimated amount of $400 has not been fully reached with the food supplies that have already been given and the additional contributions which we are sure will come in, there is no doubt remaining in our minds as to the meeting of this emergency need. To those of us to whom three good meals a day are accepted as regular part of the day's living, to experience actual hunger is beyond our power to imagine, but to these children in whose name we have come to you it is a very real experience. Your response has assured them at least one good meal a day for the next several weeks."

Glee Club Coming To Local Church

The Greensboro College Glee club, under the direction of Walter Vassar, head of the voice department of Greensboro College School of Music, will appear in concert here Monday, March 4 at 8 o'clock at Jarvis Memorial church.

This organization, well known throughout the South for its excellence in singing, has presented approximately 135 concerts in the past four years. The glee club has sung several times for both the Eastern and Western North Carolina Methodist conferences. Each year the club joins the Meistersingers, a Greensboro male chorus in presenting an oratorio and opera.

Fred Erwin Beal Now In "A" Grade

Raleigh, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Fred Erwin Beal, former communist who has just completed two years of a 12 to 20 year prison term for conspiracy to murder, has been advanced to "A" grade at the Raleigh prison farm.

Beal entered prison February 16, 1938, to start the sentence imposed on him in 1929 at Charlotte. He was convicted in connection with the death of Police Chief O. F. Adolph of Gastonia in a textile strike riot.

The Massachusetts man had been in "B" grade. Normally executive clemency is "ever extended to a man until he has been in "A" grade for some time. This was a factor in the refusal of Governor Hoey last year to parole or pardon Beal.

In June, 1938, Beal was placed on solitary confinement for 10 days for fight, but otherwise has no misconduct against his record.

Republicans In Pitt Will Meet Saturday

All members of the Republican party are being urged to attend the county convention to be held in the court house here at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Although there are not so many Republicans in this county, party leaders are anxious for all members to attend the meeting, at which plans for the campaign will be discussed, along with other party questions.

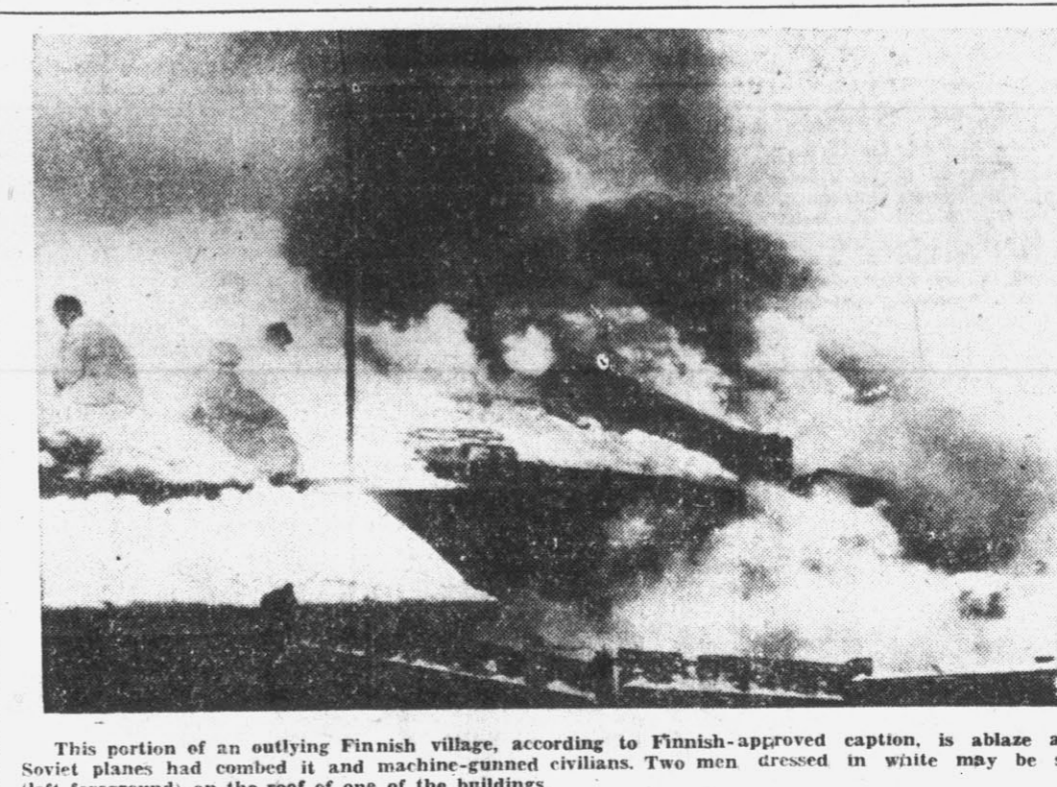

Election Board Provides Development of the Week

Raleigh, Feb. 26.—The biggest and most important development in North Carolina's gubernatorial campaign last week was not provided by any of the half dozen candidates.

Will A. Lucas, determined and aggressive chairman of the State Board of Elections, took the center of the stage away from the principal aid, like "bit" actor sometimes does, like the show away from the stars.

NEGRO STRIKES PITT OFFICER

Ed Elks of Grimesland Hit With Iron Rod

Walter Davis, Grimesland Negro, is being held in Pitt county jail in default of $500 bond on a charge of assaulting Policeman Ed Elks of Grimesland Saturday night while the officer was taking the negro to jail.

According to Sheriff J. Knott Proctor, Elks was taking Davis to the jail when the Negro struck the officer on the head with an iron rod. The Negro fled but was taken in custody about two hours later by members of the county sheriff's office, who found him on the edge of Grimesland.

The officers had arrested Davis on a charge of having cut Luke Mills, white man of Black Jack, The cutting took place in Grimesland.

A group of citizens from the Grimesland community had gathered after the officer had been struck and immediately upon taking the Negro in custody officers brought him to the jail here to prevent any possible demonstration or action on the part of the crowd.

County officers, city police and members of the State Highway reported an otherwise quiet week-end.

Negroes Held For Burglary Charges

Two young Negroes were bound over to Superior court on charges of second degree burglary at a preliminary hearing in City court this morning in connection with the robbery of Dow Lassiter's home while everyone was out of the city. The two were Claude Moore and Thomas Hairy.

Leslie Avery, charged with driving drunk and hit and run driving was held under bond for trial in Superior court when he requested a jury trial.

Thomas Williams Negro was convicted of drunkenness and given a 30-day sentence, suspended upon payment of costs.

Otis Smith was convicted of drunkenness and given a 30-day sentence or cost but appealed to Superior Court.

N. M. Robinson was ordered to pay $5 on court costs for allowing his dog to run at large.

James Bassell colored, was acquitted of charges of assault on a female and of damaging personal property.

Leslie Crawford and G. W. Peed were fined for careless and reckless driving in connection with an automobile wreck but the case was not pressed.

Boy Drowns After Falling Into Well

Roy Dupree Dixon, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Dixon, of Black Jack, was drowned about 2 o'clock this afternoon when he fell in a well in the yard of his home while playing.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by Rev. J. C. Griffin, of New Bern, pastor of the Black Jack Free Will Baptist church.

Besides his parents, the little boy is survived by one brother, Lemur Dixon; two sisters, Ekie Dell and Bettie Jean Dixon; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Dixon and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Boyd, all of Black Jack.

Former Jurist Fails to Obtain Supreme Court Review

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Martin T. Manton, former senior federal circuit court judge at New York, failed today to obtain a supreme court review of his conviction on a charge of conspiracy to sell judicial favors.

At the same time the tribunal agreed to review a decision which held that a labor union which engages in a sit-down strike was not liable for damages under the 1890 Sherman anti-trust act.

In addition, the justices returned to a three-judge federal court in Florida litigation involving constitutionality of a 1935 Florida law authorizing the fixing of minimum prices based on the cost of production at which citrus fruit could be purchased from the growers.

Manton's conviction in federal district court at New York was unanimously affirmed by a special circuit court. He was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $10,000.

He was alleged to have accepted "bribes" from litigants to influence his decision. He resigned after serving on the bench for 22 years.

Final Rites Held For Mrs. Winstead

Brief services for Mrs. Arey J. Winstead, 83, who died at 9:30 o'clock Saturday at the home of a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gray of 1200 Chestnut street, were conducted at 10:30 o'clock this morning by Rev. Clarence Patrick, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church.

Following the services, the body was taken to the home of another daughter, Mrs. C. C. Rackley of Wilson, for final rites, which were conducted by Rev. Mr. Patrick, assisted by Dr. Hugh T. Ellis, pastor of First Baptist church of Wilson. Burial followed in Maplewood cemetery, Wilson by the side of her husband.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Rackley of Wilson, Mrs. J. T. Jordan and Mrs. W. M. Gray, both of Greenville; six grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; one brother, J. T. Adams of near Stantonburg and one sister, Mrs. Amanda Register of Florence, S. C.

Mrs. Winstead was born in Nash county, February 7, 1857, a daughter of Lot and Charity Moody Adams. She married L. H. Winstead of Nash county in 1878 and moved to Wilson with her family in 1889 where she made her home until the death of her husband in 1932. She had been a member of the First Baptist church in Wilson for the past 50 years.

HULL ASSERTS TRADE POLICY IS NECESSARY

Urges Continuance as Help to Post-War Conditions

JUBILANT OVER HOUSE VICTORY

Declares That Temporary Suspension Of System Would Be Regarded As Permanent Move

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Secretary Hull today described continuance of the reciprocal trade program as necessary to help establish sound world conditions after the European war.

Jubilant over House approval of the administration bill to extend the trade agreements act for three years, Hull told the Senate Finance committee:

"The need for keeping alive the principles which underlie the trades agreement program is crucial now during the war emergency and will be of even more decisive importance after the war."

"Even a temporary abandonment of the program now would be constructed elsewhere as its permanent abandonment."

The Secretary of State was the first witness before the committee, which will decide whether to recommend Senate passage of the measure. Opponents want to require Senate ratification of each trade agreement, but Hull declared:

"The only result of such a requirement under existing conditions would be to make the program entirely unworkable. That would inevitably hurt our foreign trade and through trade our nation's economic well being."

Welles, Mussolini Hold Conference

Rome, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles spent an hour with Premier Mussolini today, going over the European problems which Welles came to investigate for President Roosevelt.

The length of their conversation, as well as the hour and a quarter which the American envoy spent this morning with Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, heightened diplomatic interest in his European trip, which is to include visits to Berlin, Paris and London.

At 6 p. m. (12 noon, EST) just an hour and ten minutes after the under-secretary had entered Palazzo Venezia, Welles emerged and stepped into his waiting car for the return trip to his hotel.

In view of that fact that Ciano had given his father-in-law a preparatory report on his talk with Welles, it was generally felt that the hour gave Mussolini and the American envoy time to probe deeply into each other's interest and views concerning war and its repercussions.

N. C. CONTEST VERY POPULAR

Textile Safety Event Attracts Many Entries

Reflector Bureau
By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Feb. 26 — The fifth Statewide Textile Safety Contest, sponsored by the North Carolina Industrial Commission has attracted a record-breaking entry list, statistics made available by Chairman T. A. Wilson at the end of the contest's first period show.

The chairman said that reports have been received from 215 of the 294 textile plants entered. Previous high for competing plants was reached in last year's contest when there were 284 entered plants, of which 228 completed the contest and made full reports.

Commission records show that each year has seen a progressive increase in interest. There were 198 entries in the first, 230 in the second, 236 in the third and 282 in the fourth. Completing the contests were 173, 196, 207 and 228 plants in that order.

As for the safety record set by the competing plants, first period reports in the 27th contest show a slight increase in last-time accident frequency, but the increase is so slight as to indicate no serious impairment of the safety program. Chairman Wilson is hopeful that reports from the remaining entries will reduce accident-frequency figures.

The 215 plants reporting employ a total of 76,394 persons who worked (in the first period) a total of 11,343,346 hours with only 118 lost-time accidents reported. This gave the plants a frequency for lost-time accidents of 10.40, which means that in every million hours worked in all these plants there were less than eleven accidents which cause loss of time through injury. Even this low figure, however, is 17 above the Fourth contest mark of 10.23 for the 228 plants which in its first period worked 12,608,744 man-hours with 85,756 employees who had 129 lost-time accidents.

More than half of the reporting plants had no lost-time accidents, with 137 (64 per cent) in the perfect record class. The remaining 78 plants averaged 1.5 accidents per plant or an accident frequency of 24.01.

During the four previous contests 190 plants went through one or more without a single lost-time accident. Each of these plants received an appropriate silver trophy or certificate for its perfect showing.

One of the companies which has made outstanding records in accident prevention during the contests is Textiles, Incorporated, at Gastonia, which had seven plants in the first contest, six in the second, ten in the third and four in the fourth with perfect marks.

The Elrod Manufacturing company at Albemarle won twelve certificates in its five plants during our contests and in the third these did not have a lost-time accident.

Groves Thread Company, Gastonia, had one plant with no accidents in any of the first three contests.

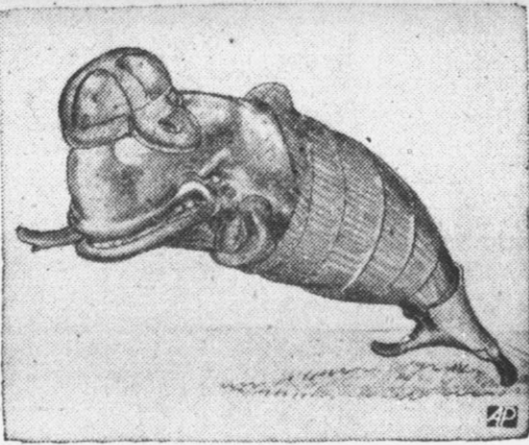

The Morehead Cotton Mills Co., Spray, had no accidents in any of the four contests so far completed.

Other companies with more than one contest without accidents include: Erwin Cotton Mills Co., No. 1, Durham (first and second); Henderson Cotton Mills, Plant 2, Henderson (first and third); King Cotton Mills Corp., Burlington (first and third); Proximity Mfg. Co., Granite Finishing Works, Haw River (first and fourth); Travora Mfg. Co., Plant 2, Graham (first and fourth); Sidney Lumenthal and Co., Rocky Mount (second and third).

Monstro The Whale's Wallflower. But A Gay One. When He's At Home

AP Feature Service

There's scarcely a thing the whole world doesn't know about its favorite movie actors and actresses. They're in the newspapers every day and they're in one magazine after another. Advertisers proclaim the kind of breakfast foods they eat and columnists publish the color of their pajamas. But there's one actor you'd never even think had a private life—Monstro, the Whale, in Walt Disney's "Pinnocchio." Not only does he have a private life, but it's a gay one. It is lived on the walls of the Disney studios. There the artists who worked on his film sequences have portrayed Monstro "out of character" in all kinds of seasons. Here are some of them, taken right off the wall:

Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood.—There's nothing to bring out the boys with the notebooks like the promise of Dignity taking a Tumble for the cameras.

So it was that a goodly throng of us assembled, the other bright sunny day, around the swimming pool of Pasadena's Visto del Arroyo Hotel for an event that we go down in the archives as the Dunking of Dunne.

Miss Dunne, as heroine of "My Favorite Wife," was to engage in poolside-table repartee with Cary Grant and Randolph Scott, her two admirers, before stepping back and tripping into the considerably warmed waters, Irene, for the occasion, looked lovely—in her smart grey dress trimmed in black, her jaunty fur hat with matching four muff, her shining red-gold coiffure on which every hair was sleekly in place.

There was a scene to do first, of course—the business of the repartee. The business dragged on and the sun got lower and lower, and with it our hopes. Miss Dunne, between takes, looked over at our "gallery" and smiled—gaily, I thought, with a bit of we-who-are-about-to-die-in-it. Well, the sun got lower, the light changed, and they postponed the dunking until the next day. We wuz robbed.

We wuz robbed, but we had our memories:

Jovious, soul-satisfying, slightly sadistic memories of past pleasures of the sort. We could recall that memorable Dietrich-Una Merkel tussle for "Destry Rides Again." There was something extra-special about that one, because Mar-lay-nah was ever the screen symbol of aloofness, remote glamour, unreal loveliness behind a veil or a fishnet. When Dietrich and Una socked and wrestled and tore at each other, they made history. When James Stewart settled the fight by dousing the pair with water, it was not so much fun, although pleasant enough, when Alice Faye was made the target of assorted pastries for "Hollywood Cavalcade." Perhaps the dimmer on satisfaction was the knowledge that Alice never had been photographed behind veils and fish-nets, and that Alice never had been a remote movie goddess.

Carole Lombard, temporarily gone serious in her work for "Vigil in the Night," for a while there was queen of slapstick. Glamour never looked more bedraggled than Lombard's bid after those dunking sequences in "N. Thing Sacred." That is, until Dietrich and "Destry."

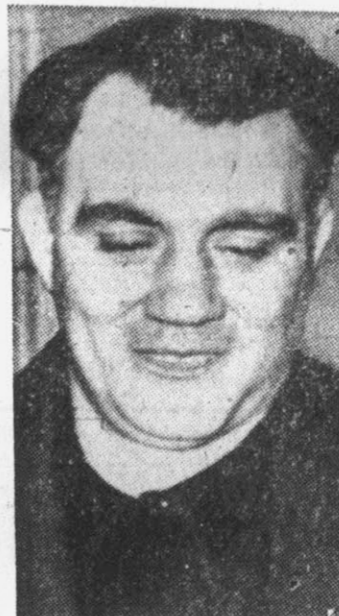

Glady's Swarthout was heroine of another Dethronement of Dignity. There was an opera star, pretty and charming, and the script called for her to be bombarded with over-ripe tomatoes.

It was a shame, too, after Glady's took the tomatoes, and noisily they cut the sequence out. Maybe if they'd left it in — and shown the public, too, that she was game—Glady's might still be here.

There is something extremely humanizing about such scenes. Irene Dunne knows it. The Dunking of Dunne wouldn't be in there if Irene didn't like it.

Harrington, Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, notice is hereby given to all persons indebted to said estate to make immediate settlement with the undersigned Executors, of Greenville.

Suspect

Shambling John Poggi, a financial district pug-nose newswriter, is a key figure in the "art gallery mystery" as detectives sought to connect him in the baffling case of suicide and attempted murder. Milton B. Logan identified Poggi, police said, as the one who slugged him, John T. Gerry, who with Logan directed noted art galleries, was a suicide.

North Carolina, and all persons holding claims against said estate are hereby notified to file their said claims, itemized and duly verified with the undersigned Executors within twelve months from the date of this notice, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of recovery. This the 26th day of January, 1940.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Bronchitis, acute or chronic, is an inflammatory condition of the mucous membranes lining the bronchial tubes. Even if other medicines have failed you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Chronic bronchitis can develop if your chest cold is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding that you are to like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. See that the name Creomulsion is on the bottle and you will get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

I turned and found myself gazing into the clearest pair of eyes I have ever beheld. Her name was Cathy, and for the next 15 minutes we argued whether it would be better to have a civil ceremony or get married at the Little Church Around the Corner. But New York, we learned on inquiry, was 23 hours away, so we wired ahead for a minister and were married on the baggage ramp in the station at Cleveland.

Cathy looked very lovely, and I shall always remember her as a sweet, innocent kid. After we decided that I shouldn't waste my time on Broadway, we returned to California by way of Mexico, and the divorce cost me only $300.

But two days later I learned by wireless that she was married by the captain on shipboard, and I saddened me, I suppose, in a sentimental sort of way, for I was then on my honeymoon with Andrea, and well, who knows what tomorrow may bring?

Man About Manhattan

New York.—Doris and I loved each other very dearly, but after I met Gloria we decided to get a divorce, and the judge fixed it up fine. Doris is a sweet kid and I wish her all the luck in the world.

Our divorce was practically painless, because I was away on location at the time, and anyway Doris had remarried by the time I got back to Los Angeles.

If you back me into a corner and force me to talk, I guess I'll have to admit that this was a disappointment to me, because, in a way, it sort of knocked the edge off the surprise I had for Doris.

You see, Gloria and I had stopped in Las Vegas and got married ourselves, and when we tried to telephone the good news to Doris, she was honeymooning in the desert.

It was just after this that I became a star, and the critics were already talking about awarding me an Oscar when Gloria and I decided on a quiet divorce in Mexico. So we motored down to Tiajuana for a week-end, and then she left for Las Palomas while I hurried back to the studio to star in "Wings Over Reno."

The day we began shooting, a Tuesday as I recall, was a happy day for me because that was the day I met Betty, a sweet kid, and we were quietly married at 3 a. m. in Las Vegas.

We flew back immediately, as I had to be on the set at seven o'clock that morning, and we made the key papers from Miami to Seattle.

But somehow—well, call it incompatibility, call it what you will—somehow, Betty and I were not for each other, and so after the divorce I fled East to forget and also to discuss a play they wanted me to do on Broadway.

I went by train, and as I sat brooding at the window, watching the flatboats on the Mississippi, a soft voice suddenly began to play on

Strength For The Day

WHAT FORGIVENESS MEANS

An old Scotchman on his deathbed was persuaded by his minister to forgive a man whom he had long hated.

Many people forgive their enemies with their fingers crossed. Lying on deathbeds they will say the word of forgiveness.

This country has spent all those billions and about all it has gained is the knowledge that you can't spend yourself into prosperity any more than you can drink yourself sober.

THE HELPLESS MATCH

Fire menaces the preservation of society's most cherished things: property, jobs and family. When you hold a match in your fingers and the clear flame points toward the ceiling in silent beauty, it is hard to believe that with a little help from its allies around the room—cigarettes, waste paper, curtains—it could consume the house in which you are sitting.

All these allies seem far from dangerous; but every day a match or cigarette is dropped into waste paper, or a bed, and loss, and perhaps death results. Every day a stove with a faulty flue is setting fire to a dwelling. Every day an un-screened fire in the fireplace shoots a spark out into some inflammable object in the room and sets fire to it—maybe in the daytime, maybe at night when everyone is retired. Every day brings new evidence of how that peaceful little flame on the match works with its allies to wreak havoc on the whole community.

So the next time you watch the tiny flame of a match and tip it down to give it another lease on life, remember that it is helpless only while you hold it in your fingers or when its charred remains are cold. Respect fire for the utility it has to offer, and respect fire also for the power it has to destroy.

BILLIONS FOR NOTHING

One of the stock alibis for our enormous Federal debt is that much of the money has gone to create valuable assets—that, in other words, it has been invested in things which will pay out in the future.

That makes a good story until you go beneath the surface. There is no denying the fact that the Federal debt has increased over $24,000,000,000 in the past few years.

This shouldn't surprise anyone who has given even passing attention to the financial conduct of the Federal government in recent years. Billions of dollars have been appropriated for relief, to be spent as soon as received by the beneficiaries.

Without any hesitation Adrienne said she had looked down once before and had seen me when I knocked on Joan's door. At last she could speak the truth without being afraid.

Chapter 36
The Murderer

THEN the doorbell rang and Dirck hurried downstairs, returning in a couple of minutes with Harry Kincaid, who glanced about as though we were complete strangers and didn't even look at Adrienne. He refused a chair in a surly voice and stood by the fireplace. No one talked.

But Dirck apparently had other plans. Leaning against the desk, he said, "You've been wondering why I've asked you to come here, of course, and I hope you'll be patient. This afternoon it occurred to me that all of you could be of great help to the Sergeant. He'll be along shortly, but we may as well begin. There has been a murder committed, two murders, in fact," he added quickly, "and you people have the misfortune to be involved. I think you can be of help."

I knew then that Dirck would be a successful lawyer. He had a very incisive way of speaking. He harked for a moment and glanced around at us. As far as I could discern from the noncommittal faces, the only reaction was a wary one, except for Harry Kincaid who darted a quick look around the room, but didn't speak.

Dirck proceeded. "It's my plan to outline for you the way I think Joan Kent was murdered. And please don't hesitate to interrupt me if you think I'm wrong on any point. We're trying to get to the bottom of this murder and of a second murder."

The tension in the room increased when he said that. Each person, who was moving, seemed to stiffen, and for the moment on Dirck held their absorbed attention.

"To make it simple," he said, resting on the edge of the desk, "we'll call the murderer Jones. He murdered Joan Kent deliberately. It was premeditated and circumstances made it favorable on Monday evening. We can figure out the motive later. Anyone could have entered the house on Monday evening, so we won't go into that. I'll start at the time between 11:30 and 11:45. When Miss Howarth knocked on the door to Joan Kent's apartment, Jones was inside. He had already murdered the girl and was, I believe, leaving by the window."

Dirck turned to Adrienne Wells. "Did you look down the stairs any time earlier that evening? I mean before you saw Harry Kincaid?"

Without any hesitation Adrienne said she had looked down once before and had seen me when I knocked on Joan's door. At last she could speak the truth without being afraid.

"Well," Dirck said, "before Miss Howarth knocked on the door and called out to Miss Kent she heard the window being raised. So Jones didn't leave by the window because he was frightened. By the time she knocked he was out of the window and sliding down the drainpipe at the side of the house."

He looked up. "How about you, Kincaid?" he said. "Did you see anyone coming out of the side yard as you came in the house that night?"

Kincaid shook his head and a surly expression crept over his face as Sergeant Long entered the room. The Sergeant nodded briefly and stood just inside the door, motioning Dirck to go on.

"Very Simple"
AND Dirck continued. "It was very simple," he said quietly. "There were people continually going in and out of the house and Jones took pains to imitate one street door so that anyone might have entered the house without a key. While Jones was in Miss Kent's room he locked the door and took the key so that the murderer would not be discovered immediately. Sometime later Jones returned by the stairway and unlocked the door to make his exit, confusing the police. I am certain that if Jones had heard Miss Howarth try the door, only to find it locked, he wouldn't have come back to unlock it. We could tell quite definitely by that that the window was used as the exit."

Dirck's audience remained breathlessly silent. I was a little afraid of what he was doing. Was he going to try to bluff someone into confessing?

"Jones," he went on slowly, "could have been anyone who knew Joan Kent at all well. She admitted that persons to her room at a fairly late hour that night. Her refusal to see Mr. Lathrop was explained by the letter she left behind. When Mr. Kincaid knocked at her door she was already dead. However, Jones was allowed to come in, he gave her the necklace and she accepted it or she wouldn't have been at the dressing table trying it on. Actually it was very simple, the circumstances could prove that any one of a number of persons might be guilty."

I followed Dirck's gaze around the room; his eyes lingered on each person much to his or her displeasure, then cut out the corporate surplus tax.

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Feb. 26.—Suggested sign to hang on door of Department of Revenue's personnel committee: "No Brewers Need Apply." And this doesn't mean Col. Edgar Bain or Claude Ramsey, either.

As Lynn Nisbet, quick-witted, sharp-tongued one-time associate of this Bureau puts it: "I'll bet Dr. Brewer, former president of Meredith College couldn't get a job with the Highway Safety Division. If he tries, he'd better change his name."

Bob Thompson, State News Bureau head, reports that Raleigh is believed to have the only church in the United States to own and operate a bus for the special purpose of bringing children to Sunday School.

Each Sunday morning a large 18-passenger conveyance of the colored First Baptist church here goes on its rounds to gather up the "young-uns."

Under the generalship of Health Officer Dr. Carl V. Reynolds have been collected representatives of ten important groups in North Carolina to push a program designed to improve the nutritional status of the people of North Carolina. Recitation of the list indicates there will be real action in the matter.

Cooperating are: Department of Public Instruction, Duke University School of Medicine, Rockefeller Foundation, Department of Public Welfare, Department of Agriculture, State College Extension Division, North Carolina Medical Society, North Carolina College for Women, University of North Carolina and the State Board of Health.

Paul Grady, Kenly candidate for Governor, has torn a leaf from the William Jennings Bryan notebook and gone in for the famed Commoner's style of oratory.

Here's a quote from Grady's Rocky Mount speech last week: "They shall not sell democracy on an auction block of gold. The Economic Royalist and Barons of Predatory Wealth shall not combine with Political Prostitutes to sell the capital's are those of Grady's press man. The people are awake to the insidious campaigns to gradually remove the government from their control and place it in the hands of a few self-perpetuating self-serving politicians who are in turn controlled by a few organized selfish predatory business interests."

Quite reminiscent of the "Cross of Gold" speech of 1896, except that Bryan probably would never have split an infinite as for instance "to gradually remove."

Last year's burned over acreage and total damage in some counties not protected by cooperative Federal-State-County forest fire agencies include: Alamance 10 fires, 41 acres burned, $104.00 loss; Cabarrus, 5 fires, 35 acres, $151 loss; Camden, 2 fires, 10 acres, $20 loss; Catawba, 17 fires, 937 acres, $6,396 loss; Chowan, 12

County High School Tournament Underway At College

HARD BATTLES SET FOR PLAY

Scene of Games Transferred to College Gymnasium

Basketball, the kind that is sparked with excitement when rival teams of a county school system mix in a tournament, prevailed in the gymnasium at East Carolina Teachers College here this afternoon as play was opened in the annual Pitt County basketball tournament.

The tourney has been held in the Greenville high school gymnasium heretofore, but was transferred to the mammoth college gymnasium this year because of the growth of the tourney.

This year's tournament, like those of previous years, has all the indications of retaining an interest peak. Even though being in school prevents some of the county students from turning out in the afternoon they'll be on hand in great numbers for the night doings, which will continue through Thursday of this week. Finals for the Pitt tourney will be held Monday night for both girls and boys.

C. D. Ward, chairman of the tournament committee, disclosed that the teams have been seeded so the boys' and girls' games can alternate. The first game this afternoon found the Grimesland and Grifton girls battling for dominance at 3 o'clock. Other afternoon games were the Grimesland and Belvoir boys at 4 o'clock and the Farmville and Pactivious girls at 5 o'clock.

Tonight's card will find the Winterville and Fountain boys angling at 7:30 o'clock, the Arthur and Ayden girls at 8:30 o'clock and the Ayden and Choc boys at 9:30 o'clock.

Boys' and girls' teams hail from Stokes, Pactivious, Grimesland, Belvoir, Ayden, Choc, Farmville, Grifton, Bethel, Arthur, Winterville and Fountain.

In the finals next Monday night trophies will be awarded and plaques will go to the schools displaying the best sportsmanship during the basketball season.

STATE FACING A BUSY MONTH

North Carolina March "Date Book" Well Filled

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Feb. 26.—North Carolina's "date book" for March is well filled according to Bob Thompson, director of the State News Bureau, who acts as something of a social and business secretary to the State in keeping tab of future engagements in all sections.

In his books, much space is taken up with sports events to be staged in Pinehurst and Southern Pines next month. There will be almost daily golf or tennis tournaments, mixed with more than a mere smattering of gymkhanas, dog field trials and polo games.

Elsewhere in the state there will be many activities of widely varied nature.

Some of the outstanding events scheduled for March are:

- 1-2—Southern Conference Basketball Tourney, Raleigh.
- 8-9—National Beta Clubs of North Carolina, Raleigh.
- 8—Civic Music concert, Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, Raleigh.
- 9—Regional meeting Mizrahi Zionists, Raleigh.
- 10—All-day hike to Mt. LeConte in Smokies, from Asheville.
- 14-17—N. C. Education Association, Raleigh.
- 18—Sandhills Dog Show, Southern Pines.
- 19-21—38th annual North-South Golf Tourney, Pinehurst.
- 23—County board of elections meet in respective counties.
- 24—Sunrise Moravian Easter Services, Winston-Salem.
- 24—Union Easter Services, Asheville.
- 25-30—38th Annual North-South Women's Golf, Pinehurst.
- 27-April 25—3rd Annual Pilgrimage of the North Carolina Garden Club.
- 29—Annual Engineers' Fair, State College, Raleigh.

Ram Goes To School For Awhile

Hillsville, Va.—(AP)—A ram, less gentle but more determined than Mary's little lamb, created a stir at a two-room school near here.

The ram chased a boy all the way to school and then refused to be ejected. The teacher continued the lesson with the pupils perched on their desks until the ram got its fill of education and wandered away.

The storage locker's most important advantages over home butchering, as disclosed in a questionnaire to more than 3,000 patrons, was the availability of the equivalent of fresh meat throughout the year and elimination of work. Advantages over purchase of meat at retail markets, the survey showed, included cash savings and the fact that a higher quality of meat could be obtained.

PIRATES TAKE 76-44 VICTORY

College Team Runs Roughshod Over Norfolk Five

Coach Bo Farley's East Carolina Teachers College Pirates had a big night against Norfolk's William and Mary Braves here Saturday and came out on the healthy end of a 76-44 score.

The Pirates pumped to an early lead and when the half rolled around they boasted a 40-2 advantage. During the process of the first half the spectators saw the score tied twice.

Saturday night's encounter was supposed to have ended the scheduled season for the Pirates. However, Coach Farley said after the game that another contest had been arranged with the Langley field "Flying Aces." This game will be played Tuesday evening at 6:00 o'clock. The game is being played at this hour because of the annual Pitt county high school tournament that will be underway at the College.

George Lautares and Dopey Watson turned in a fine display of court work in Saturday night's game and were rather consistent in feeding the ball to the Pirates' scoring aces, Bill Shelton and Donald Brock. Shelton bagged 23 points and Brock 22 points over the route. Twenty-two of Shelton's scores came via the basket route, while a half-dozen of Brock's were on charity tosses. Floyd Hinton did a creditable brand of work during his turn.

Because of one-sidedness of the affair there was seldom a time when the game became very exciting, although roughness that prevailed occasionally drew the approval of the receptive turnout.

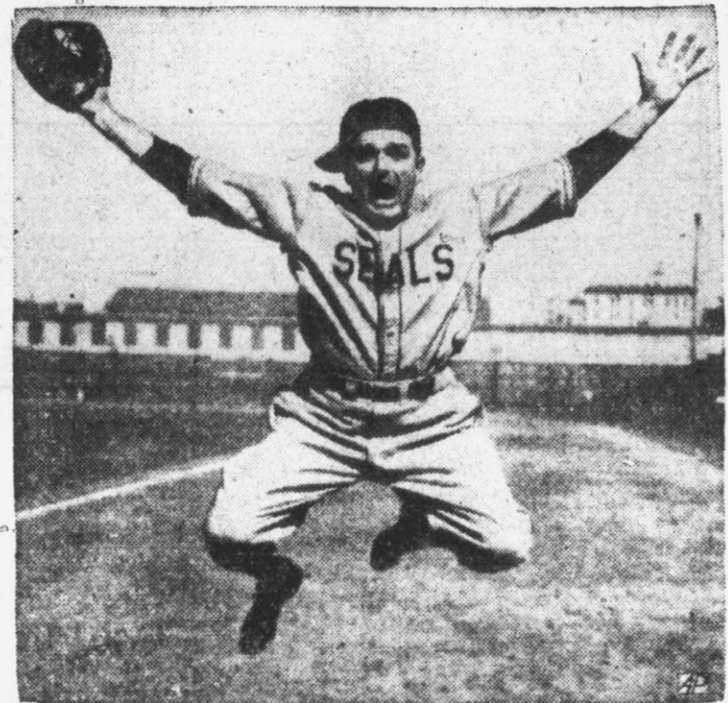

Norfolk's Braves became alarmed early in the first half when Paul (Hawkeye) Smith injured his knee. Paul's point average for the season is around 15 a game and his mates really welcomed his return in that second half of play. Joe Brichter

FIRE ESCAPES In Oil Fields, Natural Gas Must Be Disposed Of, And So—

AP Feature Service. Gas enough to supply the needs of a large city is wasted in the Illinois oil fields. State geologists estimate 160,000,000 cubic feet are burned every 24 hours, most of it in the Lake Central-Salem area. It isn't doing anybody any good, but it certainly makes a picture. The explanation, oil men will tell you, is that natural gas occurs wherever oil deposits are found. As the gas moves to the surface of the earth, it brings the oil with it. Wherever the gas cannot be used by a nearby city, it must be burnt in the manner shown in the photograph. It is impossible to store the gas, and the expense of laying a pipeline to a faraway city is prohibitive.

Walt Mails Hasn't Changed He's Still A Cheerful Earful

Walter Mails: Intimates know he's smart and serious.

By SAM JACKSON AP Feature Service Writer

San Francisco.—Which of the old-time baseball stars is most in the public eye today may be a matter of debate, but there is no question which one is most in the public ear.

He is Walter "The Great" Mails, who pitched the Cleveland Indians to their one World Series championship back in 1920 and made things tough for big league batters for a decade.

In spite of his fine physique and handsome features, many people think of The Great Mails not as a creature of flesh and blood but as just a great, booming voice. His utterances are loud and they are frequent, and they are directed to just two ends:

Two Main Purposes

- 1.—To glorify the San Francisco Seals baseball club, for which he is public relations man.
- 2.—To stimulate the building of playgrounds as the best means of solving the juvenile crime problem.

Up and down the coast goes Mails, in and out of season, talking baseball and playgrounds to lunch clubs, women's clubs, or anyone who will listen. His voice fills an auditorium without effort, and he'll cheerfully speak three or four times a day.

Headlines read:

- MAILS HURLS LANGUAGE AT LIONS CLUB
- GIVE YOUTH A HAND, SAYS WALTER MAILS
- MAILS SOUNDS OFF
- BUILD PLAYGROUNDS
- CURB CRIME

When the Seals are on the home executed some beautiful shots almost from the middle of the court and won the applause of the fans. Cecil Griffin, rated one of the best court stars in Norfolk, nestled a dozen points for the Braves during his stay. He was trailed by that goal-shooting Brichter with 10.

Friday night's tangle with Atlantic Christian College, which went five minutes beyond the regulation distance, is believed to have been responsible for the Braves' inactive methods Saturday night. They were unable to cope with the Pirates. Earlier in the season Elon defeated the Braves by only a 20-point margin.

Lineups:

- Braves: Forwards — Callahan 5; Brichter 10; Vaccello 2; Hatfield; Center — Smith 9; Guards — Dezier 2; Peterson 2; Griffin 12; Pezzello 2; ECTC: Forwards — Shelton 23;

grounds, Mails calls the plays over the loudspeaker and clowns for the appreciative fans. He has been on the diamond in more costumes than you see at an artist's ball, and he can make even a baseball uniform look funny.

Intimates know that the ex-pitcher is a smart and serious man, but the clown reputation is hard to shake off. When he ran for sheriff in 1938 he was beaten.

Surroundings Influence Him Mails' interest in crime prevention is due largely to his residence just outside San Francisco, the country's largest prison. His mother is San Quentin village postmistress.

"If all the kids lived where I do, they'd know the greatest thing in life was freedom," says Mails. Though his clowning and volubility subject him to much kidding in the sports pages and irritable editors go crazy when his voice reverberates through the office. Walter is universally liked and respected.

He was an apparently hopeless cripple until he was 9. He developed his athletic prowess by his own pluck. Achieving little baseball success at St. Mary's college, he developed himself later in the semi-pros.

Already famous as "Dusty" Mails, he interrupted his playing career to serve two years as machine gunner in the World War, and with his playing days over he has turned adviser and friend to countless rookies. His press releases—usually delivered vocally and in no undertone—are cordially received. Sports writers know nobody can use the Mails to defraud.

The most popular rug design in America!

"Fern fronds" a Bigelow Beauvais Rug

Give old lady Nature an inch... and she'll come right indoors and take the floor! Delicate, graceful botanical motifs like palm leaves, ferns, wheat, flower leaves and clusters are the most important style note today in rugs and carpets. And apparently the country just can't get enough of this lovely "Fern Fronds" design in the famous Bigelow Beauvais grade. It has the decorative value of plain-color carpet but its two-toned tracery does away with any housewives' fears about foot-marks and soil. And it adapts itself just as happily to modern settings as to English 18th Century and other traditional styles. It has made such a big hit that over 40 Bigelow looms are humming away on this one pattern alone! Better get acquainted with "Fern Fronds" now... we can't make promises about when we'll get another quantity!

The Best In Undress

The annual Art Students League at New York selected Janice Logan, Chicago Junior Leaguer and screen newcomer, as the "best undressed woman of the year." Many screen prominents were coaxed in Miss Logan's selection. The shapely Miss has plenty of "Ah," said the judges who selected her.

Your Screen Test

1. What actress (shown in the picture) co-founded the gossip columnist and surprised Hollywood by clopping with a prominent band leader?

2. (a) What two best-selling novels by the same author, dealing with characters in the lower social strata, have been made into pictures and recently were remade as expanded versions of the movies? (b) What is the author's name? (c) What is the name of the family that comprises the principal characters of one? (d) What is the name of the half-wit who is central character of the other?

3. (a) Who is the prominent glamour girl whose second Hollywood picture is just now being released a year and a half after it was started? (b) What is the name of the picture? (c) In it she plays opposite Spencer Tracy. The film was shelved in January, 1939 (and since has been practically remade), after which the actress was suspended for a time by her studio because of salary differences.

4. What actor, although he never has appeared in written, directed or produced a picture has the only actor-author-producer-director contract in Hollywood?

5. In what recent pictures (a) does a cricket play a leading role; (b) is a love affair carried on through correspondence by a boy and girl who work side by side; (c) Does a free-for-all fight take place in a World War movie because of an argument about a battle in the Civil War; (d) Is an escaped murderer hidden in a roll-top desk?

Count 20 points for each question correctly answered. A score of 60 is good, 80 is excellent, and 90 or above is colossal.

Screen Test Answers

1. Lana Turner, who recently married Artie Shaw. 2. (a) "Grapes of Wrath" and "Of Mice and Men." (b) John Steinbeck. (c) The Joad family. (d) Lennie.

3. (a) Hedy Lamarr. (b) "I Take This Woman." 4. Orson Welles. 5. (a) "Knockout"; (b) "The Shop Around the Corner"; (c) "The Fighting 69th"; (d) "His Girl Friday."
