REICH SEEKING EFFECT TRADE WITH RUMANIA

Offer Guarantee Borders In Exchange For Materials

WOULD CONTACT OTHER NATIONS

Rumanian Acceptance Of Proposal Giving Reich Virtual Monopoly On Exports Very Doubtful

Bucharest, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Authoritative quarters said today Germany has offered to guarantee Rumania's borders in return for huge increases in oil, wheat and other raw material shipments to the Reich.

These sources said the plan was submitted while the Rumanian cabinet considered issuing a royal decree for virtual civil mobilization to accompany military mobilization already under way in part.

Acceptance of the German plan, it was said, would oblige Rumania to abandon her plan for civil mobilization and send at least 500,000 men to accompany military mobilization already under way in part.

The German plan also was said to include a promise to prevail upon Hungary, Bulgaria and Soviet Russia to abandon their territorial claims in Rumania and sign non-aggression pacts with her.

Germany was reported ready to sponsor a railway agreement between Rumania and Hungary to make it easier to transport vital supplies to the Reich.

Authoritative quarters said it was extremely doubtful whether Rumania would accept the plan because the price—a virtual monopoly of her exports—was considered far too high.

The presence of allied and Turkish armies in the Near East within reach of the Rumanian border was said by diplomats to be making the Balkan country cautious about accepting German guarantees.

Advocates Better Defense Of Canal

Aboard the U. S. S. Lang at sea—Sept. 28.—(AP)—President Roosevelt headed for home today aboard the cruiser Tuscaloosa after telling newsmen the Panama canal defense must be doubled.

He said that doubling the present number of planes and guns defending the canal is necessary for longer-range defense of the vital link between the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Such a long-range program, he said, contemplates defense operations extending if necessary throughout Central America and as far south as Ecuador, Colombia and Venezuela.

The third transcript popped up again at the press conference when a reporter asked whether he had any statement about March 4, the seventh anniversary of his first inauguration. The president smiled and replied in the negative. He is scheduled to be back in Washington on that date.

Mr. Roosevelt said more guns and planes are needed at the Panama canal to permit better opportunity to discover any attacking force from the air or by sea at a much longer distance from the canal than had ever been provided heretofore.

Post Office Women Contribute To Fund

The Greenville Woman's Auxiliary of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks today contributed $3.50 to the hungry children's fund, bringing the total amount raised to date to $317.25, in addition to a quantity of supplies contributed by stores and individuals of the community.

The campaign to raise funds was started recently after Supt. J. H. Rose of the city school system had advised Rev. W. A. Ryan, head of the Community Chest of the situation existing in the local schools.

Rev. Mr. Ryan explained that there was no money in the chest treasury with which to feed the hungry children, but said he would undertake a drive to raise funds.

Persons wishing to aid in the drive can do so by advising Rev. Mr. Ryan, Mr. Rose or the Reflector of their desire to make a contribution.

House Agrees To Prohibit Export-Import Bank From Making Loans To Such Powers

Washington, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The House tentatively agreed today to prohibit future loans by the Export-Import bank to any country in default of its war debts to the United States.

There wasn't a ripple of opposition to the proposal and no record vote. Before acting on it, however, the House bickered for more than an hour on proposals to extend the prohibition to agencies of defaulting foreign governments as well as the government themselves and to countries in default on their obligations to private citizens of the United States.

An amendment by Rep. Keefe (R-Wis.) to the "Finnish loan bill" to forbid Export-Import loans to agencies of defaulting governments was rejected, 128 to 95.

Earlier the House turned down an amendment to so change the loan bill as to strike at Latin-American countries which have defaulted on bonds sold to United States citizens.

The amendment, offered by Rep. Kean (R-N. J.) would have prohibited the Export-Import bank from lending any of its proposed $100,000,000 capital increase to any country in default on its obligations to private citizens of this country.

As the House approached a show-down on whether the measure should be amended to direct the bank to make loans to Finland or China specifically, a veteran republican, Rep. Luce of Massachusetts, urged the legislators to guard against taking any step that might ultimately drag the nation into the European war.

Foreign affairs also engaged Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) in his testimony against extension of the administration's reciprocal trade program. The executive branch of the government, O'Mahoney told the Senate Finance Committee, has unconstitutionally taken over powers that properly belonged to Congress.

On the domestic front, Senator Tobey accused the census bureau of "prying into personal affairs" with questions about individual income.

To Attempt To Clear Civil Court Calendar

Judge J. Frank Harrington, clerk of Superior court, today revealed plans whereby he intends to remove a number of old cases which have been on the civil court calendar for some time.

Judge Harrington has called a meeting of the Pitt County Bar Association for 2 o'clock Friday afternoon for the purpose of preparing a calendar for the two weeks of civil court beginning March 18 and a list of approximately 150 such cases will be called to the attention of the attorneys.

The clerk of court said he wanted to get the old cases removed by settlement, non-suit or by trial.

Seeking To Insure Post War Economy

Wash., D.C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Hull said today that conversations were underway between American diplomats and foreign governments all over the world in the interest of preventing the forces of autarchy, regimentation and economic totalitarianism from gaining control after the end of the war.

Hull revealed that copies of his recent statement concerning contacts made with neutrals with a view to establishing a better world order after peace have been sent to all American representatives abroad so that these diplomats could call them to the attention of the government to which they are accredited.

Asked at his press conference whether this referred solely to capitalists of neutral nations, Hull said it meant all capitals.

The action was taken, he said, with a view to making preparations for post-war adjustments, economic and military. He emphasized that the conversations had nothing to do with conditions during the war.

If the forces of peace and stability—especially economic forces—Hull said, are not organized preparatory to the transition and reconstruction period after the war the forces of autarchy and regimentation and economic totalitarianism probably would have the same tendency they had after the World war.

Appointment Of Ramsey No Boom To New Dealers

Reflector Bureau By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, Feb. 28.—Naming Hiram Ramsey as keynote speaker for the State Democratic convention in May is obvious insurance against the proceedings taking any slant favorable to the New Deal at the opening of the convention.

It is regarded as another step in the Hoey program to make gatherings of the party clans as near a good old-fashioned regular "machine" convention as possible.

It is also taken to indicate that the governor is doing a bit of paying off for the tremendously powerful support that the two Asheville papers, of which Ramsey is an executive, gave him in the slambang primary of 1936. There can be found plenty of people who will tell you that without the support of the two papers in Buncombe capital, Hoey would never have been nominated over Ralph W. McDonald.

LLOYD GEORGE WARNS BRITAIN

Declares Germany Learned Lesson From Last War

London, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Germany has learned the lesson of the last war and kept her doors open to Russia, Italy and Rumania for supplies, David Lloyd George, World War prime minister, declared today, while "frankly in respect of food we are not so well off as we were last time for a long war."

Addressing the National Defense and Public Interest Committee, he urged the government "to make it clear" that air attacks on civilians would bring retaliation.

"Don't run any more risks," the veteran said in discussing the possibility of war with Russia.

"I would not allow any reckless or inconsiderate steering on icy roads to skid us into war with Russia. It is a big job we have undertaken. It will need all our strength to get through."

"Of peace, he said: 'When the peace comes it must no longer be a sham pact that will not stand the first shower that falls upon it.'"

Wreck Case Is Aired At Afternoon Session

Most of the afternoon session of Pitt county court yesterday was taken up with the trial of a wreck case charging Wilbur W. Stokes and LeRoy Hudson, both white, with careless and reckless driving.

Hudson was acquitted, but Stokes was found guilty of the charge and judgment was suspended upon payment of costs. The court provided that Hudson's license be revoked for four months unless property damages were paid to Hudson in the meantime in which case the revocation to terminate.

Charlie Lilly, ordered to pay part of the cost, in a case tried at a previous session, was given a 30-day sentence when he reported he was unable to pay.

Only Slight Damages Caused By Local Fire

Firemen were called to the home of George Gorham, Negro, on Greene street near the river bridge when a fire broke out in a small store house behind the residence.

Origin of the fire was unknown and Chief George Gardner said the loss was slight, only some old bed clothing having been stored in the small "shack" destroyed by fire. The fire chief said spontaneous combustion might have been responsible for the blaze.

Two New Filers With State Election Board

BEGIN MOVING CITY OFFICES

The clerk's offices and the police department today were moving into their new quarters in the recently completed municipal building. The Water and Light commission will move Thursday night and the fire department is expected to occupy its new building within a day or so.

The State Highway Patrol, which will occupy quarters in the new city hall building is moving today and will be open for business in its new quarters tomorrow.

The two buildings, city hall and fire station were recently completed and turned over to the city officials. Moving has been delayed for several days while telephones were being installed and this has about been completed.

All departments, with the possible exception of the firemen, will be in their new quarters in the new quarters on Friday, March 1. J. O. Duval, city clerk, was transferring some of his records today and will continue with the moving task tonight. The same thing was true of the police department. Business of the two departments probably will be conducted at the old places tomorrow.

Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Water and Light Commission, said that his department would be open at the old city hall on Thursday as usual, but that he intended to open for business in the new quarters on Friday, the first.

Chief George Gardner, although declaring that his department would move only upon instructions from the mayor and board of aldermen, said it might be a day or so before he moved since telephones would have to be installed and tested against any possible disruption before the department was transferred.

No formal dedication will be held at the present, although appropriate ceremonies may be arranged for a later date.

MANY BRITONS ON THEIR WAY TO HELP FINNS

About 500 Have Left For Northern War Front

TO SUPPLEMENT WAR MATERIALS

Kermit Roosevelt Said To Be Under Consideration For Post of Commander Of Brigade

London, Feb. 28.—(AP)—About 500 British volunteers, members of an international brigade organized to help Finland against Russia, were disclosed today to be already on their way to the northern war front.

The first contingent comprises about a quarter of the international force enlisted in Britain to give unofficial military aid to the Finns, supplementing undisclosed quantities of war materials which the British government has sent Finland.

It was reported that Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, was considered for the post of commander of the brigade by Field Marshal Mannerheim, Finland's defense chief.

An expeditionary force, supported by men of war and planes and designed to strike at Soviet Russian forces in Finland, has been the subject of serious discussion in military and naval circles for the past month. It was learned authoritatively today.

Talk of such an expedition has been inspired by protests against half measures of aid for Finland expressed by such divergent personalities as former War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha and Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, member of Parliament.

Nazi Army Repels Infantry Assaults

Berlin, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The German high command reported today a strong infantry assault supported by artillery was repulsed by German forces east of the Moselle river last night.

"The German air force in the night of February 26 and 27 undertook extensive flights over France in the course of which numerous machines for a considerable time hovered over Paris."

"On February 27 the air force making reconnaissance flights over the North sea, the British Isles and a limited region of France encountered vigorous enemy resistance."

"Two German machines failed to return from the flight to England. One English machine was shot down."

May Renew Effort To Release Beal

Raleigh, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Louis Waldman, New York attorney who sought a pardon or parole last year for Fred Erwin Beal, former Communist now in prison for conspiracy to murder a Gastonia police chief in a 1929 strike disorder, inquired today of the status of the Beal case.

Parole Commissioner Edwin Gill said he had a short letter from Waldman and would reply that under regular procedure Beal's case would be reviewed in May for possible clemency.

Beal this week became an "A" grade prisoner. Normally clemency is not extended to a prisoner until he is in "A" grade.

The second lecture in the series on Household Buying by Miss Katherine Holtzclaw will be held in the Auditorium of the Sheppard Memorial Library Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. The subject for discussion is "Difficulties of the Household Buyer."

This lecture will afford the homemaker an opportunity to learn practical ways of getting the most for the food and clothing dollar. Miss Holtzclaw will give the persons attending an opportunity to present personal difficulties in household buying and will be able to either give the information or directions for receiving the most up-to-the-minute information on standards of food and clothing as designed by the Bureau of Standards.

These talks and discussion groups are open to the public. The study is sponsored by the Social Studies Department of the American Association of University Women and the Council of Family Relations.

Ladies of Round Table Meet.
Greeting in her usual charm of manner and spirit of genuine hospitality, Mrs. H. E. Austin, welcomed to her home on Tuesday afternoon. The white hyacinths, the Japanese quince and the baby spirea used in the decorations gave a cheery and beautiful message of spring.

Special guests of the afternoon were Mrs. W. A. Ryan, Mrs. Lucille Turner and Mrs. L. L. Rives.

The president being absent, Mrs.

Austin presided, hearing reports of officers and committees.

Mrs. E. L. Henderson gave an interesting report of the opening of the colored workshop. This is a new venture in Greenville and promises much for future efficiency in industry and household work.

Mrs. S. J. Everett, chairman of the program committee for the new year, gave outlines of four subjects recommended by the committee and a straw vote was taken to get the preference of the club before final action is taken at the next meeting.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

CLOTHES vs. CHARACTER

"Moths thrive on soiled spots."—
On the container of a well-known insecticide this information appears in large letters. There is an illustration showing moths gathered about a spot in a garment and eating away the fabric. This is as true in the case of character as in the case of cloth. The things that consume character thrive on soiled spots. We let some little mistake or weakness make a little soiled spot on our character; immediately, other weaknesses even more ruinous begin eating into our lives and destroying the fabric thereof.

Our good reputation becomes slightly soiled by one unfortunate circumstance; it is not long before the wrong kind of people begin making advances, and we are pressed on all sides to do what only a short time before we would have abhorred doing.

Moths thrive on soiled spots—not just on suits, but on souls; not only in the case of cloth, but in the case of character. The insecticide advertisement urges people to see that their garments are kept clean and spotless. Every wise counsel, and especially the counsel of the Word of God, urges us to take the same precaution with reference to souls.

(All rights reserved—Babson Newspaper Syndicate)

Every time we surrender a right to government, we move another step toward dictatorship. Give socialism an inch and it wants a mile. And the "little people", the ordinary men and women who are the backbone of any nation, are the greatest losers—they lose their dearest possession, individual freedom—individual freedom—the right to make a profit from their private enterprise.

No matter what color it is painted, a public debt is a debt, and in the end the people have to pay. No drunkard has ever been able to drink himself sober and no individual has ever been able to spend himself out of debt on borrowed money. The same is true with our government and the sooner this fact is realized by our lawmakers the sooner we can hope to get back to normalcy in this country.

Despite the fact that there is no sheriff's race in the coming primary, the term having been changed from two to four years, the announcement of several candidates for county positions and six for the governorship together with rumors of contests for other posts indicates that there will be plenty of political conversation during the next few weeks. While all this is going on we hope that one thought will be uppermost in the minds of our people and that is that the best qualified person on the ticket for each of the offices be nominated and elected.

We believe the proper course was followed in last night's meeting when it was decided that the baseball club should truly be a community enterprise and that stock in the club would be offered to the general public of this city. The Junior Chamber of Commerce has accepted the responsibility of putting over the sale of stock and we are sure that the move will be a success. Only three hundred shares of stock at $10 per share will be offered and we believe that there are enough of our public-spirited citizens who like baseball and realize its value to our city to subscribe this stock quickly when it is offered.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—The Smith-Virginia committee investigating fumblings of the National Labor Relations Board is hot on the trail of so-called "blackjacking" by the government.

The "blackjacking" of employers have been directed at business organizations to compel them to abide by the labor-bargaining law. But if the committee would cast a roving eye about it, would it not find that Congress itself has been employing the same squeeze-plays for several years in business unless it get government business unless it agrees in advance to guarantee prevailing wages and hours?

Congress Wish
The major discovery of the committee was that the RFC had agreed to hold up loans to employers whose labor relations were under examination by the labor board.

Yet, by specific action, Congress at various times has ruled that no business, house or contractor can get government business unless he agrees in advance to guarantee prevailing wages and hours.

The Bacon-Davis Act requires prevailing wages and hours in all government building contracts above $2,000, while the Walsh-Healy Act does the same for government supply contracts valued above $10,000.

Source of Opposition
Whether or not it is a good idea for the government to go into these things is another question. There have been mutterings in Congress that the thing has gone too far. One of the arguments against the long pending bill to grant executive Federal aid to schools was that it would permit the government to "blackjack" the states into adopting whatever trend in education the Federal government happened to favor at the time. Good old states' rights' looked upon it as almost the ultimate in breaking down state independence.

Hope To Raise Wages
"Blackjacking" is probably a strong word to use in such business, but the idea is the same in all instances. The government may have an idea that a certain slave-maker is paying too low wages, so when a contract for gloves is to be let, the low-wage slave-maker is automatically out of the bidding unless he agrees to pay prevailing wages in the making of the government gloves.

The result in some instances has been that workmen standing side by side draw two different checks of pay. The administrators of the law do not attempt to limit this hope that the result will be a force general adoption of the "prevailing wages" by all industries.

An Old Idea
As a matter of fact a somewhat modified system of governmental "blackjacking" of the states has been going on for a half century all in the name of better education. And the states love it.

The system has to do with the various grants in aid to the states for doing this and that. Annually the government puts up an expense of $30,000,000 for distribution among the states for education in home economics, vocational training and rehabilitation. For farm experimentation.

Most of the money must be matched dollar-for-dollar by the states. While the government claims not to hold too close a rein on how the states will spend the money, it exercises a veto power which is backed up by the prospect that the money may be withdrawn if the states do not follow directions.

That system dates clear back to 1867, when the Hatch Act authorized research in rural home economics and sociology with a flavoring of agricultural experimentation. The states had to match the money if they got it.

And it was only lately that Congress eased up on the most controversial squeeze of all—the ruling that land-grant colleges must require all male students of suitable physique to take military training.

LEAP BEFORE YOU LOOK

By Peggy O'More

YESTERDAY: Attractive Tomi Toland is the rebel of the respectable Toland family. Her Uncle Timothy, who was also a rebel, has died and Allen Bartell, a young lawyer, is about to read the will.

Chapter Two

A Million Frogs
ALLEN BARTELL gave one look at Tomi's flaming dress, then focused his attention on the long legal document in his hand. Tomi wondered if he usually breathed as heavily. It couldn't be the man who was laughing at her again. It seemed to her that he was having difficulty with his facial muscles. They seemed inclined to twitch. He started reading and Tomi found she was having a similar difficulty with her own facial muscles.

The will was a masterpiece of satire. Each bequest from the dozen pairs of silk stockings to Great-aunt Hannah to the turnip watch, which didn't run, to Major Toland, was pointed. These bequests were something more. Each had a stated value. They established Timothy's remembrance of each and acted as a curtain of a will contest.

Looking at the dismayed faces about her, Tomi reflected that this was the first time she had not been made the butt of whatever joke was in the air. She regretted she had not made friends with Timothy. She hadn't known a Toland was capable of under-surface discernment.

"And to my great-niece, Tomi Toland—"

Tomi jerked upright in protest. She had done nothing to deserve inclusion in this ghoulish joke.

"—I do hereby bequeath the bulk of my estate, liquidated and established in the following, to wit—"

Red lips parted, Tomi leaned forward and listened. "Farm, all buildings and implements, ten-room house and furnishings as listed, herds—last count one million head—"

Herd? Tomi nearly bounced on the prim sofa where she sat hedged in between the Major and Aunt Augusta.

Herd? For one heavenly moment she visualized herself in a ten-gallon hat, riding the plains. Oh, blessed Uncle Timothy. She'd better pinch herself. In a moment Molly, the cook, would be shaking her and telling her she'd be late at the office.

No, that shaking was the Major, getting up breath for a pro-nouncement. In a moment he'd burst forth. There it came.

"Farm?" he bellowed. "No farm was ever mentioned to me. What does it grow?"

Allen Bartell looked up, his eyes meeting Tomi's. "Frogs," he answered.

"Frogs?" questioned Tomi faintly.

"Frogs," confirmed Bartell, and Tomi had a ludicrous vision of little green frogs growing in long green rows, and herself standing over them with a watering can.

"But the herds," prompted Austin Toland, the legal light of the family. "You specifically mentioned herds."

"Frogs," elucidated Bartell. Tomi closed her eyes. This was a colossal joke. Imagine inheriting a million frogs! What would anyone want of even one frog?

"What is the value of this property?" demanded Great-aunt Hannah.

"The value of the physical property, land, house, buildings and implements, is, roughly, fifteen thousand dollars. The value of the commercial frog farm must naturally vary from month to month."

"And why must it vary?" challenged Hannah.

Bartell's eyes twinkled, although his voice expressed nothing but serious consideration of her question.

"Not interested in legs?"

THE value must depend upon the marketable legs, frogs' legs, Miss Toland. In the winter months these would drop to zero. In the spring your herds would present you with about five million eggs, but the mortality rate on eggs is heavy. Allowing one-fifth of these to reach the tadpole stage, you have again the mortality rate on tadpoles. How many of these will sprout legs before some natural enemy dines on them, sans legs, is questionable. After that, the market value of those left is a potential value. It takes three years for a frog to grow an edible leg."

Great-aunt Hannah's face was stiff with dignity. "Young man, I am not interested in legs, frogs or any other kind. Give me the approximate value of the entire estate."

Tomi's eyes were bright with interest. Was she such a child of the pavements that she had thought frogs' legs descended onto platters out of thin air? This inheritance was beginning to look like something, after all.

Bartell seemed reluctant to comply; then with a strange glance at Tomi, he said, "According to the inheritance tax, the estate is valued at thirty thousand dollars."

"Sell it immediately!" ordered the matriarch.

Tomi smiled. That was an excellent idea. Sell it. She could use thirty thousand dollars, and good-naturedly, she would not use thirty thousand frogs. French fried or on the hoof. She'd keep fifteen thousand for herself and divide the rest of it amongst the family.

"I'm sorry," Bartell was saying, and his head jerked up. "There is a stipulation that Miss Toland must take immediate possession of the farm and maintain it at its present financial status for five years before it becomes hers to dispose of as she desires."

There was a moment of tense silence, then May Toland-Carrington rose. "Never!" "Never," you mind, dear! We'll help you run the place. I'll take charge of the house and Carrington will run the farm."

Other voices evinced a similar intent, nearly drowning Bartell's protest. It seemed he was again sorry.

"But under the terms of the will, Miss Toland can accept neither personal nor financial aid from any relative. Nor can she, during this probationary period, entertain any relative on the property more than once a year and for more than twenty-four hours at that time."

Tomi, listening, flamed with indignation. Not that she hadn't been planning to get away from the family; not that she didn't long to have something of her own without their directing its use, but she most assuredly was not giving up bondage to the Tolands in the flesh to go into bondage to a Toland in the spirit.

The Old Fossil
"Of course," she remarked, "I don't have to accept."

"No," agreed Bartell, soothingly. "Mr. Toland didn't expect you to. He said you had neither the vision to see the possibilities in the farm nor the stamina to face the work."

"Oh, he did, did he?" flared Tomi. This sounded more like Timothy, the old fossil. And why, if he felt like this, had he troubled to will the property to her? There was a catch in it some place.

"And if I haven't these two priceless qualities, what becomes of the estate?" she asked.

Bartell's gray eyes met hers, their expression hidden quickly by short, thick lashes. "Failure on your part to live up to any stipulation, in any way, will cause the estate to revert to me, to be disposed of in any manner I choose."

Right there was a catch. It settled the whole matter as far as Tomi was concerned. Sooner than see this person in possession of her frogs, she'd go out and live with the things.

"When do I assume control?" she asked.

Bartell seemed to relax. "Immediately," he replied. "I'd like to leave for the coast tomorrow; however, if that isn't convenient—"

"Isn't it?" Hannah Toland answered for Tomi. "And the only place that young lady will go will be to her room, and immediately. As for you, young man, I'll handle you. I'll contest this will. Timothy was out of his mind. I'll prove he was a victim of senile dementia; that you preyed upon his good will until he allowed you to draw this document to fit your schemes. Tomi, will you go to your room?"

Tomi arose. "But Aunt Hannah," she protested, "isn't this my inheritance?"

"Definitely not!" came the reply. "And if you persist in interrupting and assuring I shall have to ask you to make an immediate choice between the family and the frogs..."

"Frogs?" suggested Bartell. Tomi debated only a moment. The Tolands didn't need the money. For her to give up this breathtaking challenge, perpetuated by Uncle Timothy's ghoulish joke, was unthinkable. She couldn't. She'd accept her loss graciously, if she failed. Meanwhile, she would have the fun of trying to win.

"Aunt Hannah—" her voice broke off for chafardun. "You don't mind, I think I'll have a go at the frogs."

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau

By HENRY AVERILL.
Raleigh, Feb. 28—Being the largest paper in North Carolina possibly gives the Charlotte Observer the right to pull the biggest boner of them all. Whether or not it has that right, it has done it anyway.

From an editorial in the Observer of Tuesday morning:

"The political significance of the appointment of a westerner by Mr. Broughton candidate for governor as manager of his campaign, and an easterner by Mr. Maxwell to run his is a matter of speculation."

That's how it started. Later comes this paragraph:

"Mr. Maxwell went east for his manager, perhaps although this is entirely conjectural, figuring that he needs more missionary work in that area."

Who is Mr. Maxwell's manager and where does he come from?

He is Burgin Pennell and his habitat is Asheville in Buncombe county which, if this Bureau's geography book is correct, is located 150 miles west of Gastonia whence comes the Broughton manager.

In another editorial on the very same page, however, the Observer makes the mistake when it says:

"Mr. Gill (Edwin Gill, parole commissioner) has earned national notice in other respects by reason of his initiative and diligence as head of the North Carolina parole system."

But speaking of mistakes, every one of us newspaper men is wrong almost every day when we speak of there being six candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Officially there are only three, though that many have paid their entrance fees. W. P. Horton, A. J. Maxwell and J. M. Broughton.

Oscar Barker of Durham, one of the candidates for Congress in the Sixth was in Raleigh Tuesday but was too busy with legal affairs to do much talking about politics.

He is a member of counsel for P. Clyde Tuttle who is suing Pat Healy, Jr. of the North Carolina League of Municipalities, for allegedly "freezing" him out of the Municipal News, a league publication.

Barker expressed optimism and said he will likely pay his $100 fee and file formally next week.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker.

New York. Writing a daily informal New York column can be a lot of fun at times, and it can also be a lot of grief.

After you do it for a while you find yourself leading an irregular life, because history on Broadway is usually made at night, and you can't talk to people unless you measure your phrasings by theirs, which means crazy hours and almost never going to bed before 3 or 4 a. m.

Most Broadway columnists simply invert their work-day and let it go at that. They make regular rounds of the gathering places with pad and pencil, and all their nights are spent in theaters, bars, and clubs.

Maybe I'm not geared for it or maybe I should have been an engineer, but a couple of nights a week chasing around is enough for me. Perhaps this is a subconscious way of making excuses for myself, but I have always felt that people who measure their phrasings by theirs in stuffy rooms night after night, week-end-month out, listening to the same old blare going through the same old motions.

I like to drop into a few places, say three or four in an evening, and talk to somebody who is a good listener and let him get the real news going. If you listen closely and if you have a broad enough background you can piece together a dozen columns from the things one man tells you.

Then I like to wander back to the office or to my home and sort of collapse in front of a typewriter and let nature take its course. Sometimes the words seem to flow across the page and at other times they are extremely jumpy and reluctant.

As to the value of this routine there is a difference of opinion among my editors. I am by nature a lousy speller and have been since birth. Because of this deficiency I have had to stand for some good-natured razzing through the years, but then I have never let it bother me because I feel that the ability to spell is innate, like hair or teeth. If you are fated to be bald, all the tonics in the world cannot save you from a bare skull. Personally I have more hair than I know what to do with.

There was once an editor of mine who looked upon a misspelled word as a sort of horrible crime, and yet he was a kindly fellow who spared the rod and spoiled his men. One day he looked up from some of my copy and, more in sorrow than in anger, said, "Tucker, you have curious limitations."

And yet it was this same editor who rose to my defense one day when his assistant came to him and complained of the way I misspelled simple words. "He isn't misspelled," he said, "and so long as his copy reads all right I will hold the editors responsible for his spelling."

Well, he is dead now, and some day when I go back to Ohio I will lay a wreath on his grave and murmur, "Peace to the soul of Heinie Rieker."

Stock In Greenville Baseball Club To Go On Market

TO BE OFFERED AT $10 SHARE

Decision Reached At Meeting Of Local Enthusiasts

Here, baseball fans, is how you can do all the razzing of the home team you like and nobody will have a darn thing to do with it—will not be able to tell you that the price of admission does not give you the privilege of telling the manager how to run his club.

The solution was solved at a meeting of baseball enthusiasts held in the high school auditorium last night at the call of the Junior Chamber of Commerce when it was decided to offer 300 shares of $10 stock to the public.

Let it be promptly explained, however, that the action was not taken for the above purpose, but to make baseball in Greenville a community project—give it more "daddies" who will have a personal interest in the club and therefore boost attendance.

The decision to offer the stock for sale was taken after numerous persons had discussed baseball from all angles. David W. Mosier, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, presided over the meeting and the organization which he heads will have charge of the sale of the shares. Mr. Mosier and Vice President Reynolds May said they were certain the Junior Chamber would put the project over the top and added they felt it an honor to have such confidence placed in their organization.

The exact date the stock will go on sale and other details will be worked out by the Javacs, but the sale is expected to get underway shortly.

After the stock has been sold, shareholders will name directors to have charge of the operation of the club.

G. V. Smith, president of the club frankly told the gathering that heretofore the baseball club had not made any money. But he hastened to explain, the cost of operation this year should be much lower than in the past as new rules governing Class D ball provide that teams shall have more rookies.

Mr. Smith also said that if he had anything to do with baseball here this year, and no one doubts that he will, that the club would stay within the salary limit. He explained that Class D clubs had been advised that the rule would be strictly enforced and that anyone violating it would be subject to a heavy fine and suspension from baseball activities.

"Things look brighter this year than ever before," declared Mr. Smith, pointing out that new faces would be seen and that night baseball was expected to continue to attract more fans.

In upholding the theory of baseball as a community project, Mr. Smith declared that it was not the duty of one man or any small group of men, regardless of wealth to put any one sport over in a community.

Mr. Mosier presented some facts regarding the baseball situation, explaining that the salary costs this year would be smaller, that the club had two sets of uniforms and also owned a bus, thereby reducing the cost of operation substantially from last year.

Among others taking part in the discussions were Mayor Jack Spain, R. C. Deal, J. Con Lanier, W. W. Lee, Chester Walsh, J. Nat Harrison, D. J. Whitchard and others.

FARLEY QUINT 67-51 WINNER

Pirates Defeat Flying Aces From Langley Field

Coach Bo Farley's East Carolina Teachers College Pirates played some head-up basketball against Langley Field's Aces last night and came out on the big end of a 67-51 score.

The Pirates fought hard and furiously in the opening minutes and in later ones against the Avengers, who played the same type of basketball. Determination in the outset enabled them to pile up an early advantage and they boasted a 23-15 advantage at intermission.

Last night's encounter ran in ahead of play in the annual Pitt County tourney for high schools, which started Monday in the gymnasium at East Carolina Teachers College. The game started 20 minutes behind schedule, but there was no staying behind on the part of the Pirates.

Langley Field did go ahead one time, though, when the ball went out of bounds and caused an upset in the scoring equipment. The Avengers' score took a jump but the keeper of the scoreboard quickly remedied that by running the score back to 21-12. This was two minutes before the half horn was sounded.

In the last half play was more exciting than in the opening half. Consistency in scoring on the part of Donald Brock, Bill Shelton and George Lautares added to the interest when both teams went on a scoring spree. Reed, who fouled out in the last five minutes, piled up 22 points in the concluding half for the visitors.

The Pirates' leaders for the night were Brock 18, Shelton 18, and Lautares 17. Floyd Hinton and Dopey Watson, who played a big part in feeding the ball to the top scorers, turned in an exceptional floor

Bucky And Ernie Start Plotting

Bucky Walters, ace pitcher, (left), and Catcher Ernie Lombardi put on uniforms on the opening day of the Cincinnati Reds' training camp at Tampa, Fla., and immediately got their heads together. We'll bet they're plotting just what they'll do to the boys on the other teams this season.

PITT TOURNEY IS UNDER WAY

More Hot Contests on Tap This P. M. And Tonight

Pitt County's annual high school basketball tournament will enter its third day of activity when boys' and girls' teams take the court this afternoon and tonight at East Carolina Teachers College.

Bethel's girls shot goals all over the court in yesterday's opener and overpowered Fountain 45-7. The Bethel girls boasted a 26-4 lead at the half. Nellie Ruth Warren scored 14 points for the winners. The leader for the losers was Owens with 5.

Another one-sided affair prevailed in the first boys' game of the afternoon when Farmville turned in a 41-16 triumph over the Grifton boys. Farmville jumped to an early lead and was out in front 21-4 at intermission. Standing out in scoring ways for the victors was Rouse with 10. Grifton's Smith scored a half-dozen points to feature his mates' attack.

Bethel's boys came from behind a 7-4 half-time advantage held by Arthur to win 19-11 in the final game of the afternoon. The top scorer for Bethel was Graft with 6. Arthur's leader was Erwin with 5.

The first tourney game of the evening found the Stokes and Chicod girls putting up an old-time fight. Stokes was ahead 15-14 at the half and really turned on the heat in last-half play to win 40-24 over the Chicod girls. The scoring honors for Stokes went to Parker, who nestled 15 points during her turn. Smith with 11 and Jones with 10 were the scoring celebrities for Chicod.

Ruth Mazingo racked up 21 points as Winterville turned back Belvoir 30-15. The core was deadlocked 7-7 at the end of the first quarter, with Winterville leading 14-9 at the half. Thelma Morris chalked up 9 points for Belvoir.

Linwood Fleming, around whom the entire Stokes team is built, was injured during the first two minutes of the Stokes-Pactolus game last night and had to leave the contest. This is believed to have been a contributing factor in the 25-17 defeat handed Stokes at the hands of Pactolus. Pactolus was ahead 11-7 at the half. Simmons scored 7 points for Stokes. Warren was the big gun in the Pactolus attack.

performance. Roughness that prevailed in the last half accounted for most of the Pirates' 15 personal fouls in the game. The visitors' were charged with 19, with three of their players fouling out.

Lineups: Langley Field: Forwards—Predgo, Bland 6, Levy, Babington; Center—Pelka 11; Guards—O'Rourke 6, Reed 22, Rooney, Wheeler 1, Peterson. ECTC: Forwards—Shelton 18, Watson 9, Riddick; Center—Brock 21; Guards—Lautares 17, Hinton, Dempsey, Riddick, Parrish.

NOTICE Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between Joe Weatherington, deceased, H. H. Weatherington and Fountain Weatherington, and conducted under the firm name of "H. H. Weatherington & Company", will be continued by H. H. Weatherington, under the same firm name.

Phantoms Get Revenge For Earlier Set-Back

GIRLS WIN BY 26 TO 8 SCORE

Victorious Over Goldsboro for 2nd Time of Year

The Lady Phantoms of Greenville High School last night completely outplayed their Goldsboro rivals on their home floor, and racked up another win, scoring a 26-8 triumph.

Earlier in the season the Greenville lassies took a 20-16 win from the Lady Earthquakes. They also won over the Goldsboro girls last year by a 30-22 margin with Joy Flanagan making 15 points.

Last night Joy soe, she could still be depended upon by making 18 of the total 26 points made by the Greenies. Tyson took second scoring honors with six tallies. The other two points were made by Peggy West, Gay Dupree, Doris Roberts, Jane Harrison and Lib Wells were stars on the guarding end of the court.

King was high scorer for the Goldsboro sextet with three points. She was closely followed by Liles and Malpass with two each. Deans scored one point to bring the total up to eight points for the losers. Simmons, Ballard and Brown were the best of the many guards used by the Goldsboro coach but were unable to stop the sharp shooters of Greenville.

Coach Robeson is trying to get a game with the Lady Snakes of Tarboro for Friday. If this game is played it will not be an originally scheduled game. As Tarboro has one of the best girl teams in eastern North Carolina this promises to be a thriller if played.

Women with a gainful occupation are entitled to vote in Rumania.

Score 21-17 Victory Over Goldsboro Earthquakes

Revenge of a 21-17 defeat handed them by the strong Goldsboro team earlier in the season, the Flying Phantoms turned in a 26-21 decision over the Earthquakes last night in Goldsboro.

George (Swish) Sakas led the locals scoring rally with four field goals and four foul goals. Herman Dally used only one reserve to better his attack on the Earthquake's stronghold. Other scores for Greenville were: Burney Warren and Charles Williams with four points each; Slay Clark, John Collins and Marvin Stocks accounting for two markers each.

Out of 11 conference games the Dailymen have gained eight victories. The three losses were at the hands of Kingston twice and Goldsboro once. The teams going down under the raids of the Phantoms were: New Bern, Washington and Ransoke Rapids twice; Goldsboro and Tarboro once.

Pacing the opponents was Clyde King with 11 points. Johnson accounted for three points to take runner up position. Hollowell, Nickens and Watson turned in a field goal each and concluding the earthquake's scoring was Claude King with one charity toss.

This was one of the fastest contests that the G-men have participated in this season. The only conference game remaining on the Greenies schedule is with Tarboro Friday night. The locals slipped a 32-31 margin from the Snakes in their first encounter.

Finds Basketball Very Simple Game

Durham, Feb. 28—Members of most of the eight basketball teams that will compete in the annual Southern conference tournament in Raleigh this week-end were stars in high schools or prep schools throughout the country, spent many long hours learning the intricacies of the game.

"They'll tell you that it takes a long time to learn to play basketball well, that you have to work hard and diligently.

They can say all they please but they won't be able to convince Bill McCahan, sophomore guard on Duke's No. 1 seeded team.

McCahan had never played basketball before he came to Duke. He saw the freshman team playing last year, though he'd like the sport, reported and before the end of the season was playing some.

"This year he 'went out' for the varsity, played a bit in early and mid-season games, improved so rapidly that he is now rated a 'regular' by Coach Eddie Cameron. Simple, this basketball, eh, Bill?"

Musical historians estimate that half a million hymns are in existence.

Mrs. Floy Faulk, 26, is shown sobbing bitterly at Akron, Ohio, after her two children, Warren, 7, and Mary Jane, 2 1/2, were shot to death. ## ELECTION BODY BUSINESS DULL

Secretary Suggests Bargain Rates For Filers

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Feb. 28.—Business is so dull at the office of the State Board of Elections that its secretary Raymond C. Maxwell half seriously suggests that special "bargain rates" be put into effect in an effort to get more candidates.
Deadline for filing for state offices is reached March 16—just a little more than two weeks off, but as of late Tuesday there were paid-up candidates in good standing for less than half those to be filled.
Without any candidate of any sort were: Attorney General, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Insurance Commissioner, Commissioner of Labor, and Seven Congressional seats.
"Lack of interest in the primaries seems to have extended from the public to the prospective candidates," said the election board official. "I guess we'll have to advertise a sale—special bargains, no sales tax, and all that sort of thing."
Filed and paid-up were the following Democratic candidates:
Governor ($105 each): Wilkins P. Horton of Pittsboro, Allen J. Maxwell of Raleigh, J. Melville Broughton of Raleigh.
Lieutenant Governor: R. L. Harris, Roxboro; L. A. Martin, Lexington; W. Erskine Smith, Albemarle.
State Auditor ($60): Charles W. Miller, Asheville.
State Treasurer: Charles M. Johnson, Burgaw.
Commissioner of Agriculture: C. Wayland Spruill, Windsor.
Congress—1st District: Lindsay C. Warren, Washington; 3rd District: Graham A. Barden, New Bern; 5th District: A. D. Folger, Mt. Airy; 8th District: Gilos Yoeman Newton, Gibson; W. O. Burzin, Lexington; C. B. Deane, Rockingham.
That's all the Democrats who have filed. On the Republican side there is one lone paid-up candidate—Monroe Adams, for Congress in the Ninth District which "Farmer Bob" Doughton has represented for so many years. Adams probably has just about as little chance as any G. O. P. candidate who will run this year—but so far he's the only one who has signed on the dotted line and qualified financially for the coming races.
So far the Board of Elections has collected only $1,206; but of course this situation will have changed by

Heads Glee Club

Mr. Vassar is a graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia and taught in the School of Music, De Pauw University. He has spent two years with the Philadelphia Grand Opera association, and had several appearances with the Philadelphia Orchestra under the direction of Leopold Stokowski.
Since Mr. Vassar's arrival in Greensboro five years ago, he has organized the Greensboro College Glee club, and the Meistersingers, a male chorus composed of Greensboro business men, which has already gained recognition in music circles. These groups jointly present an oratorio and opera each year. Mr. Vassar has directed music at both North Carolina Methodist conferences several times, and has been director of music at the Methodist Assembly at Lake Junaluska for the past three seasons.
Mr. Vassar has won wide acclaim throughout this and neighboring states not only as a director but as a soloist. He has done extensive work throughout this section in opera and oratorio work.

instructions as to their many and varied duties.
He has received very definite instructions from the board chairman, Will A. Lucas of Wilson, to keep all local officials informed at all times of the law and to impress upon them the absolute necessity of obeying the rules and regulations to the letter.

School Folks For Retirement Funds

Raleigh, Feb. 28 (AP)—The school people of the state are almost unanimously in favor of some retirement plan for teachers and state employees, treasurer Charles M. Johnson said today, and they should interest themselves in getting appropriated for a plan funds which are not counted in the regular school funds.
Johnson is chairman of a commission studying th retirement matter. He added:
"If I am not mistaken, all of the candidates for governor have stated that they are in favor of a retirement plan and I do not think there is any question but that the next General Assembly will provide for it."

Pender County Negro Gets Brief Reprieve

Raleigh, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Governor Clyde R. Hoey said today he had granted a reprieve of 60 days to Jim Moore, Pender county Negro, who had been scheduled to die in the gas chamber Friday for murder.
The reprieve was granted, the Governor said, in order to allow "further investigation" of Moore's conviction in the killing of Robert Finnerl, another Negro, last July 4.
