HAND IS TAKEN ON TRADE ACT BY ROOSEVELT

Declares That One-Year Limit Would Be Harmful

ASKS EXTENSION FOR THREE YEARS

Statement Made By Chief Executive After Garner Reported To Be For One-Year Clause

Washington, April 5. (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he believed it would be very harmful to the nation if the bill to extend the reciprocal trade treaty act were limited to one year.

The chief executive spoke at a press conference shortly after it was reported on excellent authority that Vice President Garner was supporting an amendment to limit extension of the administration's trade agreements program to one year.

The legislation, near final Senate action and already approved by the house, would extend the program for three years from June 12.

Mr. Roosevelt said it was not good for the country to have a scrap over tariffs coming up every year. Such a scrap, he said, is essentially what is involved in discussions in Congress of the trade treaty act.

When a tariff is up for consideration, he said, agriculture and industry are in a state of confusion because they do not know what is going to be done and economic activity of the country feels the effect.

Garner, it was said, held a series of conversations with senators to urge support of the one-year amendment, offered by opponents of the trade legislation in a last-ditch effort to impose at least one restriction on administration trade powers.

Democratic Leader Barkley predicted that the amendment would be defeated, however.

Joint British And French Parliament Is Considered In The Interest Of Unity

Cruellest-Blooded Individual

Eleven-year-old Chloe Davis (above) at first listed as the lone survivor of her mother's violence, admitted to authorities that she killed her mother by "conking" her with a claw hammer and then beat her brother to death. She accused her mother, however, of killing her two sisters and then trying to burn herself on a mattress.

Surviving Child Admits Killing Mother, Brother

Los Angeles, April 5.—(AP)—Eleven-year-old Chloe Davis, described by an amazed psychiatrist as "the cruellest-blooded, coolest individual I ever met," told police today with a mixture of slang that she beat to death her mother and baby brother, but insisted the fatal bludgeoning of two younger sisters was done previously by the mother.

Interruption only to demand bottled beer and lemon pie, the 30-pound, strong-armed girl led questioning officers through conflicting versions during which she referred to her grocer-manager father as "nuts" and her anemic mother as a believer in "demons."

Police Captain Edwin Edwards expressed belief that the girl, an avid book reader with the mind of a 16 year, alone, was responsible for the deaths of Mrs. Lolita Davis, 36; Daphne, 10; Deborah, seven; and Marquis, three, in the blood-spattered Davis home in southwest Los Angeles yesterday.

The girl's latest story was that her mother killed the little girl and then tried to burn herself on a mattress, but failed, and Chloe then "conked" the woman with a claw hammer at the mother's request. After that, the girl said, she beat her brother to death.

The girl was held on a suspicion of murder booking.

Once during the questioning her father, Barton Edwards Davis, 51, broke down and sobbed "Oh, my poor baby"—to which Chloe replied: "Buck up, Dad, don't let it get you down."

Such A Possibility Discussed In Front Page Story Of Britain's London Mail For Purpose Of Dealing With Common Questions Arising Out Of War With Germany

London, April 5.—(AP)—The possibility of a joint parliament to cap growing British-French unity was mentioned today as the allies drove forward with their plans to buy up German markets they can not bottle up by blockade.

A front page story in the Daily Mail said the idea of a British-French parliament to deal with broad questions of common concern already had been taken up, but that it still was in a visionary stage.

The newspaper, however, said discussions were understood to have taken place here and in Paris to attain the most intimate cooperation between the allies to fuse them into one military and economic force, not only during the war, but also when peace comes.

The objective, it said, is a permanent partnership, which "would make the two great empires so powerful a force for peace that no aggressor would dare challenge" it.

Georges Bonnet, France's new minister of blockade, was due here today to confer with Ronald H. Cross, British minister of economic warfare, as the two nations united themselves even more closely in economic and cultural.

The Board of Trade disclosed they had reciprocated on increased facilities for importing the products of each other's empires.

D.N.B. official German news agency described the fighting as "very bloody," but said the Nazi casualties were limited to one dead and several wounded. In addition to the 15 dead the French left on the field, it said, one wounded Frenchman who was taken captive and died later in the German lines.

French military sources reported a repulse of attacks by German patrols on French outposts. The dispatches made no mention of casualties in infantry skirmishes.

ATTEMPTS END ROW OVER OIL

Hull Proposes Arbitration With Mexican Govt.

Washington, April 5.—(AP)—Secretary Hull said today the United States had proposed arbitration to Mexico to settle the two-year-old dispute over Mexico's expropriation of American oil properties.

Hull said a note had been delivered by the State Department to the Mexican ambassador to this effect. The State Department head said he could not say whether any observations had been received from Mexico on the subject.

It is understood that the arbitration proposed was under the 1929 inter-American treaty of conciliation and arbitration.

The United States proposed the same method in 1938 to Mexico to settle the controversy over the expropriation of American agrarian properties. Mexico replied then by suggesting instead that a joint commission evaluate the claims and fix the compensation. The State Department agreed to this.

The oil controversy has been carried on since March, 1938, when the expropriation decree was put into effect.

History of the church reveals that in February, 1914, Rev. J. H. Ward of the former M. E. Church (North) secured the property upon which the new church is located. In June of 1914 a one-room church building was erected. On March 20, 1920, the church was purchased by and transferred to members of the former M. E. Church, South.

Defense Lawyer Argues at Hearing That Conspiracy is Aided At Railroad Client

Washington, April 5. (AP)—A Federal Judge refused today to permit counsel for William Dudley Pelley to question Rep. J. (D.-Tex.) on what the defense lawyer called a "notorious conspiracy to railroad" Pelley to jail.

The ruling was made by District Judge Jesse C. Adkins at his corpus proceedings involving the question whether Pelley, chief of the Silver Shirt Legion, shall be turned to Asheville, N. C., to possible revocation of his probation granted after his conviction six years ago on a charge of violating the state's blue sky laws.

T. Edward O'Connell, attorney for Pelley, contended that with testimony from D. W. Charlton, U. S. House un-American investigator, Robert B. Barker, a Dies committee investigator; Rep. Dickstein (N.Y.), chairman of a former un-American inquiry, and from other sources could show that a plot designed to "railroad" Pelley existed. Judge Adkins, however, ruled that such presentation was inadmissible.

John C. Coniff, assistant U. S. States attorney, argued that only issues involved were whether Pelley was "substantially charged with crime and whether he was a fugitive from justice."

Paintings Depict Familiar Scenes

Tenant farmers, plowing to country home, two pictures of gro life, and one lonely railroad station, make the local subjects of an exhibition of North Carolina artists at the Greenville Art Center, corner Fifth and Catawache streets, to continue through Art Week on until April 18. In this one sees subjects familiar to self treated by artists the way they see them.

For sheer beauty, design, color, and solidity a still life, "Chrysanthemums," by Pearsall Hearne is the outstanding canvass in the sixteen on exhibit at the Art Center. It does more than show the beauty of the flower with the artist's skill at seeing skill at representation added color are contributed to a vase of flowers and color usually seen.

They do not portray the individual of the object, life, intended found in the South.

"Mimmosa in Bloom" is a nomenclature for the Plymouth contribution for the yellow yard flowers, the color of the myrtle tree, and the red dwelling behind the trees primate the scene. It does however, across the silliness, breath of a hot summer day—though could flowers be blooming in a profusion—though one that was the artist's intention might wish the fine old brick in the background might have allowed to evince its patterned canvass.

SAYS HE TOOK THE HARD WAY

Maxwell Promising No Reduction In State Taxes

By HENRY AVERILL
 Raleigh, April 5.—Commissioner of Revenue Allen J. Maxwell is the first candidate for governor to admit frankly that he is not promising any reduction in taxes, nor the immediate repeal of any part of the state's tax schedules.

Rather, he boasts, he has chosen the "hard position as a candidate," and explains he has been led to his view by his deep interest in the public schools.

"I am the only candidate who is unequivocally pledged to maintain our tax structure until its increasing yields have provided adequate support for this great cause, and other causes that reach every home in the state," says Mr. Maxwell in an article entitled "We Must Go Forward" which will soon be printed in the April issue of "North Carolina Education."

"In my judgment these are of vastly more importance to the people than any nibbling reduction in taxes that can but weaken our capacity to support them. The cause of public education requires maintaining a tax structure to support it, and the man who appeals to the populace by promises of tax reductions is not pursuing the course of a friend of public education."

"You cannot maintain a progressive school program on reduced taxes. We must remember the fact that Aycock's zeal for public education was not limited to glorified generalities, but that he constantly appealed to the people to pay taxes to sustain it."

Copies of the Maxwell article were yesterday distributed to more than a thousand present at the Chapel Hill meeting of school board members and executives from all over the state. Permission to use advance copies of the story, which has not yet appeared in print, was given by publishers of the magazine.

In the article Mr. Maxwell also pointed out that his emphasis on a program of spending $5,000,000 on roads in the next four years is not at all antagonistic to improvement of the school system. He emphasized the point that roads and schools progress together, each more or less dependent for progress upon progress in the other.

"My road program is based upon a realization of trend in highway revenue. I mean to use all available resources, combining them into a comprehensive four-year program he wrote.

"Every candidate for governor I pledged against diversion of any of the fund. In the same way I want to maintain our general fund intact and use all available resources in public schools and other humanitarian causes. Schools and transportation are the state's major financial responsibilities. They are not antagonistic, but mutually contribute to each other."

"Without roads our schools are consolidated schools and the loss of pupils and teachers is deplorable, and should not be permitted to continue. The highway program which I am advocating stresses an all-weather road for every school bus route in North Carolina."

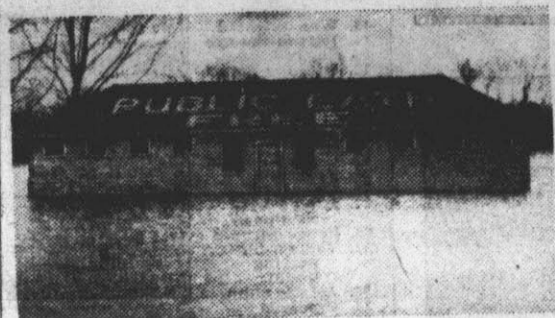

Highway improvement therefore is in no sense a rival of the public schools, but rather is an essential part of the public school program."

Hobbies On View At Art Festival

By ALMA SPARGER
 Many people find it interesting to have a hobby to ride as an escape from "nerves," worry, work, or even from boredom. Some of the Greenville people who enjoy hobbies are displaying their collections at the Woman's club as their contribution toward the Community Art Festival. This exhibit has been arranged by Mrs. Charles Laughlin-house and Mrs. C. O. Hilton of the Greenville Woman's club.

"What is a hobby?" a small boy asked his teacher when she told him a hobby is an activity that a person pursues for the real joy and pleasure that he gets out of it—but that every hobby should be the means of teaching the person something. It may be connected indirectly with a person's occupation or it may not be related to it at all. It may consist of collecting objects made by other people such as dolls, china, and glass; it may be natural science specimens from the great outdoors, such as seashells and wild flowers; may be used as a means of creative expression by the person who has the hobby, such as woodcarving, painting and weaving. It may be a "fireside" hobby such as knitting or it may call for manual labor like gardening. Some hobbies are expensive. Examples of these are the two exhibits of old glass by Mrs. C. S. Forbes and Mrs. F. W. Brown. Other hobbies cost nothing at all except the time put into them to see it well done. Mrs. J. H.

B. Moore, president of the Greenville Woman's club, collects sea shells on the coast of Florida and has made a most interesting and varied collection without any expenditures of money.

Many other interests of local people have come to light in this hobby show. Airplane models by Phil Goodson, Richard Duncan, and John Roy Barker have furnished the opportunity for creative expression and have also taught the boys about the evolution of aviation. Billy Simpson who began his own "one-man" newspaper at the age of seven and the editor of "Green Lights," the Greenville High school publication that has won many honors—bid fair to producing some of the journalists of the future. Vernon Tyson and Billy Gulley have shown some very fine examples of modern photography in which the photographer has learned to arrange his materials and to set his camera at interesting angles in order to get a new perspective in photography which places it within the realm of art. Mrs. Charles White shows a keen interest in catching the natural moods of children with her kodak. A color collection by Clarence H. Patrick, a stamp collection by Estace Conway, III and a doll collection by Rachel Fleming represent hobbies that have real value in teaching geography and history.

Several art hobbies which give an opportunity for self-expression are represented in the show; design plates and coats of arms by Evelyn Tucker; ship paintings by Lucille Laughlin-house; puppetry, the Puppet club of the Greenville-WPA Art Gallery; pen and ink sketches by Edward H. Hearne; hand weaving by Alma M. Sparger of the Art Faculty of East Carolina Teachers' College; hand made tables and chairs, a fraternity insignia and an interesting model of Shakespeare's Globe Theater by Herber Hadley; hand made furniture from the Mahogany Shop, 107 Grant avenue; water colors and oil paintings by Anna Bell Byrd.

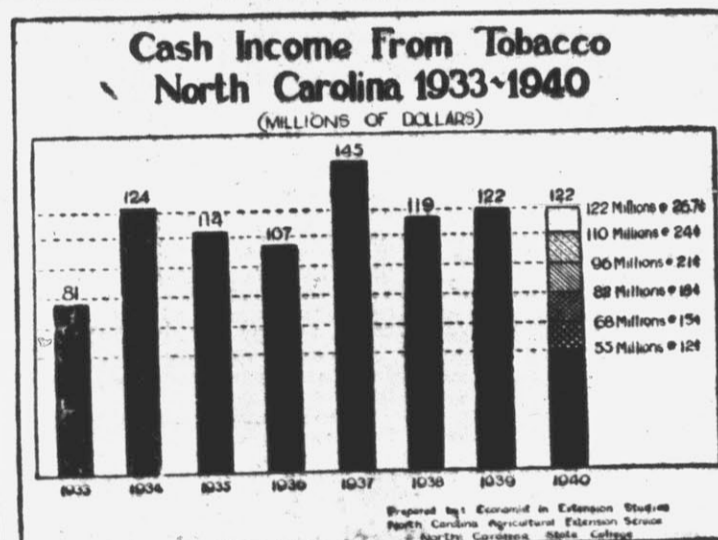

There are many people in Greenville whose hobbies take a literary turn. Greenville High school students are represented with poems as are also the following people: Mrs. Eva Berry Harris, who has won awards on her poetry and has won some published; Denver Harding Haughan and Meredith Neill Posey of the English faculty at East Carolina Teachers' College; Hazel Grey Evans, Phyllis Shuff; Elizabeth Coppedge; Madeline Adams; Richard C. Waiser; Iris Davis; Janie Tyson Hall; Iva Spencer Brown; and Mrs. Francis W. Harris.

There is also an exhibit of pitchers by Jean Gaskins; and an exhibit of elephants by Mrs. J. B. Cummings and an exhibit of small souvenirs by Mrs. Raymond Albert Tyson.

The Hobby Show will be open each day this week through Sunday April 7th. The public is invited. The admission is free. The Hobby Show will be open Friday from 9 until 6 o'clock, Saturday from 9 a. m. until 8 p. m. and Sunday from 2 until 3 o'clock.

Strength For The Day

WHY FOREIGN MISSIONS?
'I don't believe in foreign missions.'

How often we hear people make this declaration. They maintain that if the church will take care of its work at home it will have enough to do, and that sending men and money to foreign lands in missionary endeavor is one of the surest ways to impoverish and weaken the home church.

But experience proves otherwise. The strongest churches are missionary churches. The reason for this is because religion is healthier and more normal in a church enthusiastically missionary than it is in a church opposed to missions.

HEAR DR. STRECKER
In bringing Dr. Edward Strecker, nationally known psychiatrist, to Greenville for an address next Tuesday evening, we feel that the local Alcoholic Beverage Control Board and the County Health Department are rendering a service to our community.

Dr. Strecker is an eminent authority on the effects of alcohol on the human system and it is in an effort to enlighten our people on this subject that he is to make his appearance here.

It is generally agreed that the best way to curb the excessive use of intoxicating liquor is to educate a people against its evils.

YOUR HOME TOWN NEWSPAPER

Discussing the home town newspaper the Bunkie, (La.) Record asks "What do you expect from your newspaper?" and then goes on to recount the numerous public services that are expected and required and are gladly furnished by the paper.

The Record says:
What do you expect from your newspaper? Well, you expect more from any newspaper than you do from any other person or institution with whom you do business.

You all the news, local, state and national.
You expect your newspaper to take the lead in advocating changes for the betterment of the community.
You expect your newspaper to expose graft in public affairs, to forestall it by publishing itemized accounts of all public moneys spent.

You expect your newspaper to boost for every community enterprise, devoting column after column to propaganda supporting the band the baseball team, chamber of commerce, junior chamber of commerce, Boy Scouts, community celebration, school activities, home talent play and dozens of such causes and events.

We believe that the Louisiana paper has to say emphasizes that there is in a community no group or organization that renders more multitudinous and valuable services to the community than its home newspaper and without any attempt at boasting we feel a certain amount of pride that for nearly sixty years, the last 45 of which have been as a daily, The Reflector has rendered these services to Greenville and Pitt county.

The money you spend with your home-town newspaper, whether it be in Greenville or any other small city or town, is the best business investment you make.

Washington Daybook

Washington.—The census-takers are certain of one thing: They find more persons 9 years old in the United States than any other age.

Note to the Linton Chamber of Commerce, Greene county, Indiana. You may lose the distinction of being the center of population in the United States. Estimates here are the population center will move 5 to 40 miles south and west.

Bad News For Women
While the 1940 census returns are going to contain bad news for the ladies. For about 30 years the surplus of males in the country has been well over 2,000,000. It has been steadily declining and this year probably will drop to half a million.

Of course there's the matter of state representation in the House of Representatives, but that's another story—probably the biggest that will come out of the 1940 census. Reapportionment is a political bombshell and when the figures are laid, basing the number of saloons in localities on population. If those figures gain, there'll be pubs where there were no pubs before, and if they lose, the saloon-keepers will have to draw straws to see who goes out of business.

What the census-takers' tallies are going to do in some cities and states is going to make big local news. For instance, if the population goes over a certain point the mayor and aldermen get a raise in pay.

LITTLE SPITFIRE

By Jean Randall

Chapter One
The Shortest Street

BRENDA, dismissing her taxicab, gazed about her incredulously. This the shortest street, that enchanted scene of Aunt Anne's girlhood! It could not be!

And yet it was, of course. There it stretched, only one block long, closed on the south by a small park, on the north by a rusty iron fence behind which mouldered an old brick mansion, long deserted.

But Dr. Wilson's has a conservatory, and the VanNess's a fountain, and there's an ornate block of pure marble with Burnham carved on it in front of our place.

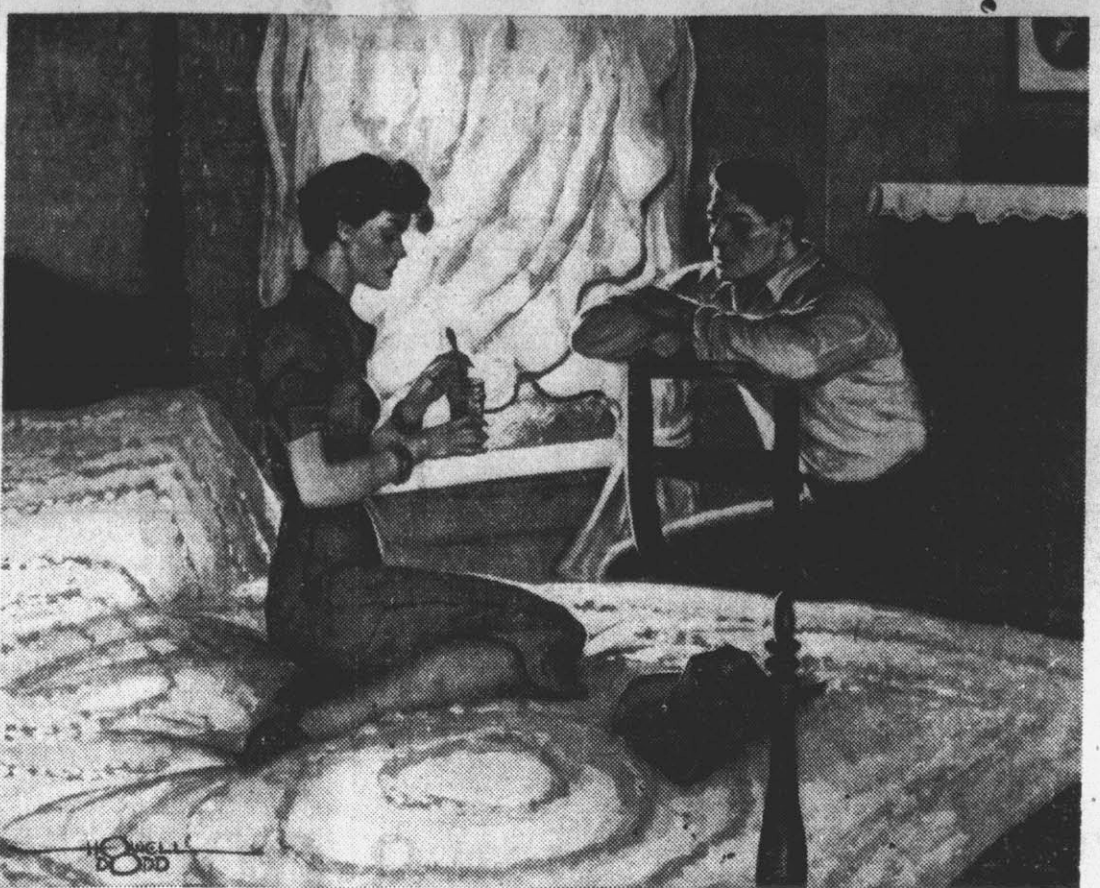

Her dismayed thoughts jolted to a sudden stop. Here was a block with Burnham on it indeed; but it was neither large nor of marble. It was a dingy thing of chipped cement, slewed rakishly sidewise perhaps by some skidding truck.

"I'll find a drugstore and telephone a taxi," Brenda planned fervently. "I'll go to a hotel until I discover the right sort of boardinghouse. Nothing will induce me to live in a neighborhood like this."

But practical difficulties at once presented themselves. For instance, there was no drugstore in the shortest street was a smart neighborhood and her trunk would be ready in ten minutes.

Her hesitant ring at the bell brought no answer. She pressed the button again and with emerson and through the screen she saw the square hall where Aunt Anne had "received" at her debut. Silence now seemed to emanate from it.

"That is fortunate," replied the new arrival coolly, "since I have none of those things to offer. Will you come down, please, and let me in? Or shall I admit myself? I am Miss Burnham."

If only this odd young man would go away, thought Brenda wearily.

rest of the steps and a coatless young man stood before her, his soft shirt open at the throat, his thick hair standing wildly on end.

"Come in, come in!" he urged, holding wide the door. "My most abject apologies! But why didn't you let us know you were coming today?"

"Brenda exploded. She was hot, tired, and hungry. This was, or had been before it was sold, her ancestral home. She had a right to expect a welcome of sorts.

"Where," she demanded with some asperity, "is Mrs. Rostetter?"

"Listen!" the young man adjured her anxiously. "You aren't going to faint, are you? You look mighty pale all of a sudden. I wouldn't know what to do if you did, you know," he babbled.

One thing more: People who refuse to have their noses counted are just cutting them off to spite some body. Federal highway funds relief and a number of other national benefactions are based on the census. Enough dodgers in any locality or state and it's going to be money out of the neighbors' pockets.

found to her horror that the laughter was turning into sobs, and felt herself caught up in a pair of strong arms and borne rapidly up the stairs to be deposited on a bed.

"Water next, I suppose," muttered a distracted voice. "But do I force it between the lips, or splash it in her face?"

"I expect so. It's the only vacant one in the house so it must be, don't you think? But ought you to sit up? I could"—inspiration visited him swiftly—"I could get you a cup of hot tea in practically no time at all!"

"Write," she frowned. She had had enough of fellow craftsmen in New York. They were always wanting to read her the new chapter, or a poem. "What do you write?"

"I'd be there just the same, even if I were not running for Governor," he said. "Whenever there's a parade, I've just got to be in it. I'm that way about a band."

"Oh—advertising!" She dismissed it airily. "I suppose I might as well know your name."

"Do pardon me for existing!" he said with bitterness, and closed the door smartly behind him.

"But please come out! I'm asking most politely now!—please tell me your name I can't—can't?—just go on calling you 'you.'"

"Mac? Mac darlin'! Come down and help me get supper. I brought home a steak and some lettuce and—" The words trailed away toward the rear of the house.

"Advertising. Darned good stuff it is, too," he admitted modestly. "Sometimes my conscience hurts when I think how alluring I make the goods I write about."

An aged gentleman, once a very prominent educator in North Carolina, read the very lengthy pamphlet put out by A. J. Maxwell, in which the Commissioner of Revenue's many virtues were set out.

Greenies To Play Intra-Squad Game Tomorrow A. M.

FIVE INNINGS TO BE PLAYED

Harry Jenkins And Morris Wilson To Head Teams

Manager Tribe Wilson announced this afternoon that his corps of rookies would be put through a five-inning intra-squad game tomorrow morning, starting about 10 o'clock.

A large number of fans were out again today to see the young hopefuls working out and tomorrow's contest is expected to attract an even larger number of fans.

Harry Jenkins will captain one team with Morris Wilson heading the other. Skipper Tribe will spend most of his time on the sidelines, giving the boys the "once over" in action.

The Brooklyn Kid, the boy with the blue cap, already is a favorite with the local fans. The second baseman Arthur Kracke, looks good and stands a good chance of holding down the position vacated by Red Christopher. Manager Wilson, however, declared that no players were being filled this early and that the best man would get the call.

William Teller, better known as "Bill," the right-handed pitcher from near Richmond, Va. is looking good and no doubt will be in there chinking for the Greenies when the season opens.

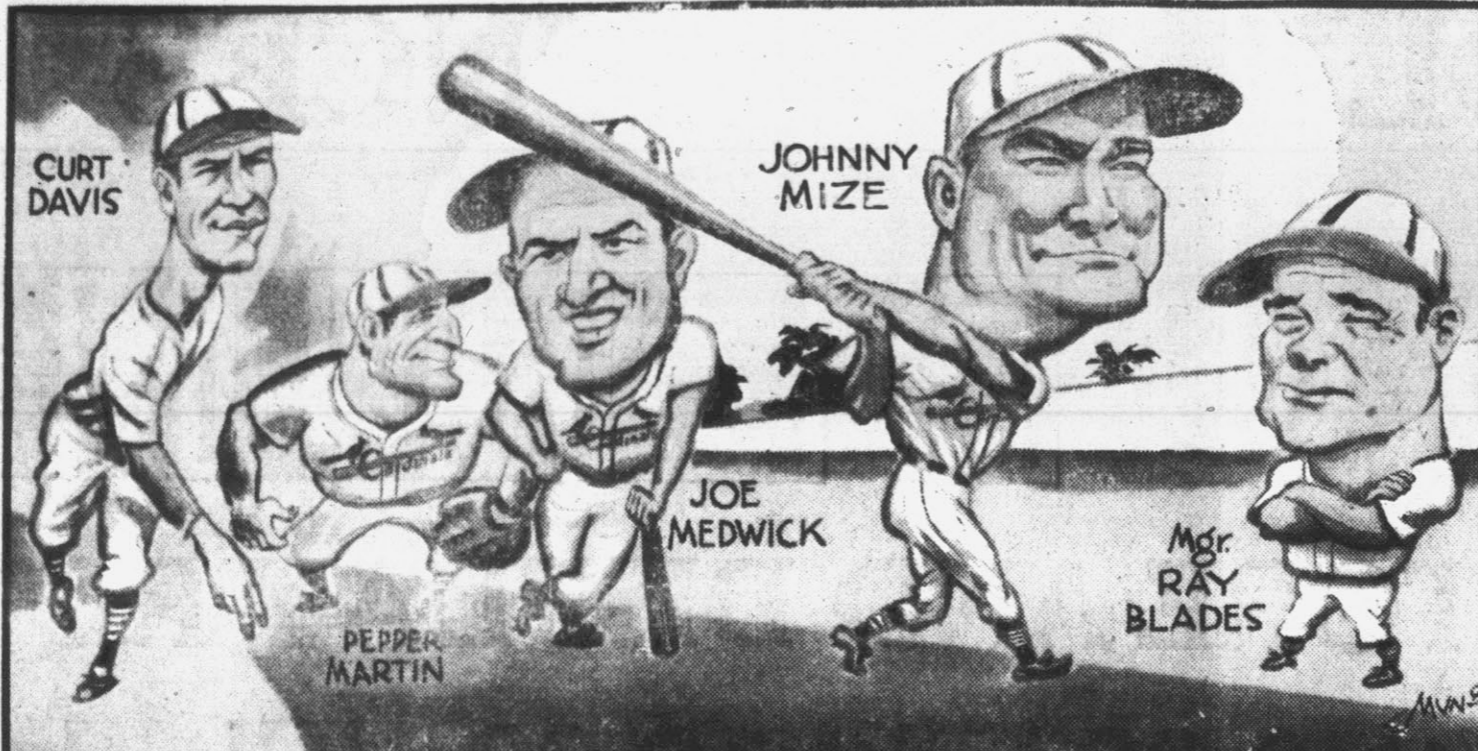

"Some of the boys are looking good, while some of the others are not coming up to expectations," declared Pilot Wilson when asked what he thought of his team of rookies.

Morris Wilson has arrived and took part in today's practice, composed of batting practice and infield work-outs. Freddy Calliguri, however, has not arrived in camp, but is expected by the week-end.

Another pitcher, Bud Lee, of Gasonia, has been signed and worked out this morning.

Although every man on the squad will be used during the game, Manager Wilson today announced the following line-up; Jenkins, cf; Throof, lf; Kracke, 2b; Munroe, rf; Watson, ss; DeLuka, c; Teller, cf; and Curtis, pitcher. Morris Wilson's team consists of: Beck, lf; Turanski, 3b; Reppess, 1b; Carter, 1b; Paul, 2b; Winbrow, rf; Hoffman, c; Lee, Meyer and Morris Wilson, pitchers.

Blades Searching For Infield Combination That Will Give Cards More Power At Plate

AP Feature Service
Havana, Cuba.—It was a number of years ago that Miguel (Mike) Gonzales looked over a prospective rookie and sent back this short and now classic scout report: "Good field, no hit."

Mike, who helped Manager Ray Blades get the St. Louis Cardinals in shape at their Florida training camp, inspected the flock of infield and outfield recruits and came up with the same observation: "Good field, no hit."

The situation at the Cardinals broke up camp at St. Petersburg and came down here for exhibition games about the same as last year. Blades is running around in circles again trying out his rookies at all spots to bolster his infield.

Blades, who in his freshman year as a big league pilot guided the Cards into second place and seriously threatened the Reds for the pennant, is satisfied with Johnny Mize, the batting champion at first base. And he wants Jimmy Brown somewhere in his infield. But the other two spots don't suit him.

Need Some Hitters
Last season Brown played shortstop with Stu Martin at second and Don Gutteridge at third. Brown was a whirlwind out Martin, frail and weak, didn't last. Gutteridge hit a puny .269. And even though a team has a hard-hitting outfield and a champion batsman at first base, it can't entertain bright flares hopes with other infielders hitting .269, .297 and .268.

Blades at camp and during exhibition games, shifted five rookies about between short, second and third, hoping for a pair that would fit in with Brown and Mize. He'd like for Brown to move to second. The tryouts featured Maurice Sturdy and Martin Marion from Rochester, Ed Lake from Houston, Robert Reppass from Decatur and Joe Orenego from Sacramento.

The baldish pilot sort of leans toward Marion at this juncture. He's a lanky kid, 6 feet 2, and can field like a wizard. He hit .272 for Rochester last season. That isn't so much but it was a 25 point increase over the previous year. And if Marion can show even a slight further improvement this season Blades may go along with him.

Lake is a pee-wee infielder who has a great arm. He's only 5 feet 7 and throws find it hard to pitch to him, as was shown by the 153 bases on balls he drew for a new Texas league record. He also led the league in runs scored but he only hit .261. Sturdy hit .314 for Rochester a year ago but he failed to strike his stride immediately in Florida.

Outfield Remains the Same
The outfield remains the same, with Joe Medwick finally in the fold. Don Padgett is expected to do a major share of the receiving. Padgett hit a mighty .399 last year while used occasionally and Blades wants to use home regularly for the other backstop, Arnold Owen, hit only .259.

Blades has a quartet of fancy looking pitchers up from the Texas league and thinks he may add one or two to his already capable mound corps. These are Murry Dickson, who won 22; Harry Brecheen, with 18; Ernest White, with 15, and Francis Barrett, with 13.

Green Phantoms Suffer Second Straight Defeat

Dallemens Lose to Local College Nine By 9-5 Score

The Dally men of Greenville high school were handed their second defeat yesterday afternoon at E. C. T. C. by a 9-5 score.

The Teachers got off to a good start the first inning with two runs. The runs were made by Brown and Noe. Greenville's Phantoms were held scoreless the first inning. When the Farley men came to bat the second time, three more runs were made by Chadwick, Brown and Tucker. Greenville was again held scoreless in the second. Four more runs were added to the E. C. T. C. score when Noe, Watson, Corey and Brown rounded the bases in the third inning. This ended the scoring for the Teachers, but not the Phantoms.

Softball Meet

How teams will be entered in the Greenville softball league and what teams they are to be will be decided at a meeting of the board of directors to be held in the Chamber of Commerce offices tonight at 8 o'clock.

President J. D. Simpson also declared that work on a schedule would be undertaken and a committee probably named to draft the schedule for the coming season, which is expected to open the week of April 22.

More Buying Power For Farmer's Dollar

Three developments of interest to the American farmer are reported in a review of the natural nitrate industry which has just been published by the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau. These developments, affecting the price of natural nitrate, its mechanical condition, and the bags in which it is sold, show, among other things, considerable increase in today's buying power of the farmers' dollar.

Turn back the calendar to 1927. That year new and more economical mining and refining methods went into operation. Price reductions followed. Today the price of natural nitrate of soda is about $20 per ton less than in 1927.

Mechanical condition has steadily improved. Today farmers everywhere are familiar with the famous natural nitrate pellets which are so easily applied and which resist the hardening and caking to which other nitrogen fertilizers are subject. The improved form of this hundred year old product retains, of course, the natural balance of many plant food elements besides nitrate.

Thirdly, in a large-scale effort to assist in developing new uses for American cotton, natural nitrate of soda was offered in even-weight cotton bags. Today farmers can have their natural nitrate delivered either in cotton or burlap bags, as preferred, at no difference in price.

more interested in the critical value of the picture than in the design or color possibilities. Either might have been a cartoon of abject Negro life if the color had been left off. The artists were more interested in crusading for the race than in what they achieved in the way of art. Negro life is a subject still only partially exploited by artists for the pure pictorial and color values but so many fall into crusading when they peer close enough to see the subject matter as artists see it.

"Working Tobacco" sounds like the subject of a picture any North Carolinian would be interested in. But this particular canvass gives rather an abstract picture of the nature in agriculture than a specific example of purely tobacco subject matter. It does indicate the beauty of plowing but not of plowing tobacco.

TARBORO GETS BIG LEAGUERS

Tarboro, N. C. April 4.—Managers Oscar Vitt, of the Cleveland Indians, and Bill Terry, of the New York Giants have raised the tentative line-ups for the exhibition game at Tarboro, Wednesday, April 6th, when the Indians play the Giants in Bryan Park in Tarboro.

The Giant line-up carried Burgess Whitehead, of Woodland, formerly a Tarboro boy, with number 4, at third base for New York. This is coming as a surprise to local fans who watched Whitehead recover from illness at home last year, but hope that Whitey Whitehead could make the grade.

During the Giant-Cleveland game here in Tarboro, gifts for Whitehead, Campbell and Humphries will be given to the boys by their friends and fans when they appear in the home plate. During the afternoon fans from Macclesfield and Tarboro will present a gift to Johnnie Humphries, former Macclesfield-Tarboro baseball player, now with Cleveland; later a group of fans from Williamston and Tarboro will present a gift to Clarence "Soup" Campbell, outfielder with Tarboro and Williamston, now with Cleveland, and a group of admirers, relatives and friends of Lewiston and vicinity will present a gift to Burgess Whitehead of Lewiston, playing third base for the Giants.

The two starting line-ups for the exhibition game as released today will be as follows:

REPORTS DRAW GRAVELY'S IRE

Candidate Scoffs At Reports That He Can't Win

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL.
Raleigh, April 5.—Rocky Mount's "business man" candidate for governor, Lee Gravelly, isn't at all discouraged or disheartened by the fact that in the current campaign practically all observers have selected J. M. Broughton, Lieutenant Governor, Wilkins P. Horton and Commissioner of Revenue Allen J. Maxwell as the "Big Three" in the race.

"Henry, I'm absolutely confident I'm going to be in the second primary," he, told your Raleigh reporter and added:

"And I don't care who else gets into it. I can beat him in the runoff."

Which, according to all the rules of logic ought to make Mr. Gravelly the next governor of North Carolina, provided, always, that he hasn't been led just a bit astray by a brand of optimism which so often afflicts candidates.

Going into details Gravelly estimated that it will take no more than 125,000 votes to get into the second primary.

"And I know positively I'll get at least that many," he maintained stoutly. "Later on in the campaign I'll go into more detail with you and show you just where and how I'm going to get them."

He was ready with an answer when your reporter called his attention to the fact that commentators have been virtually unanimous in assigning the first three places to Broughton, Horton and Maxwell.

"How can anybody say that?" he asked to win this race when at least eighty per cent of the voters haven't even made up their own minds who they are going to vote for?" he countered.

He admitted without hesitation that the "He's a fine fellow but he just can't win" propaganda is a very insidious and often successful type and agreed that a notable example was its use against Sandy Graham four years ago; but he refused to concede that it will be successfully used against himself this year.

"I have an abiding faith in the people of North Carolina and I propose to carry my campaign straight to them—not to a few loud-mouthed political workers who are now making most of the noise in this campaign."

The Gravelly campaign is really much further along, from the standpoint of working, going organizations in the counties than the lack of any fanfare about managers would indicate, he said.

"Crayon (Representative C. C. Efrid, his state manager) and I believe that our managers can do better work for me without so much publicity. Once they have been announced as 'Gravelly managers' they are discounted when they approach the voters," he said.

He indicated that in something less than ten days, however, announcement will be made of many details of the Gravelly setup.

There is absolutely no getting away from the obvious sincerity of the Gravelly predictions. He undoubtedly feels he is headed for the second primary, and ultimately, the governor's chair.

It is an equally obvious fact that none of the political talk heard here in Raleigh indicates anything like that. On the contrary, Gravelly is almost completely overlooked in the opinions heard hereabout.

But, as Lee said, eighty per cent are still undecided, and so it is still bound, to be anybody's race.

B - L Associations Attain Top Mark

The assets of North Carolina Building and Loan and Federal Savings and Loan Associations went over the one hundred million mark in March, according to A. C. Tiedlock, secretary of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Greenville.

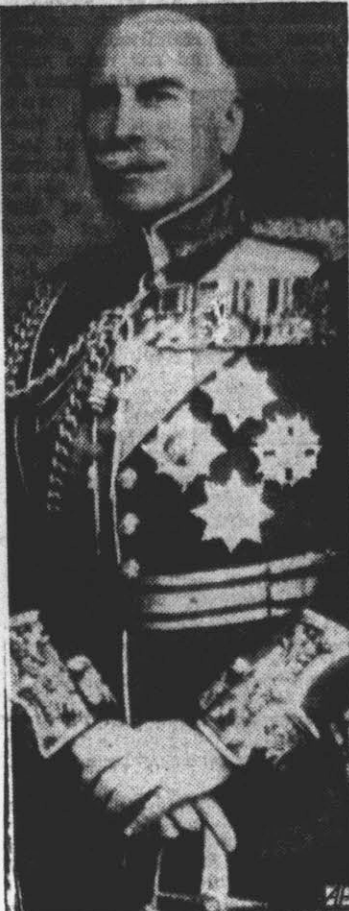

On December 31, 1939, the combined assets of building and loan associations and federal savings and loan associations reached the total of $98,471,925. This represents an increase of 14.1 per cent over December 31, 1938. This figure represents a new all time high in assets, the previous highest total having been in 1929 when the assets were $95,056.86. Another new high was made in the loan activities of these home financing institutions for 15,671 loans were made to the large amount of $25,930,784, which was the largest in the past decade.

The total reserves for contingencies hit a new high on December 31, of this past year, when they amounted to $2,783,589. The associations were also in a much more liquid position than ever before.

There are 177 building and loan and federal savings and loan associations in North Carolina, all of which belong to the North Carolina Building and Loan League.

An ever increasing percentage of the loans of these home financing institutions are being devoted to construction of homes, as shown by the fact that more than 40 per cent of all loans during 1939 were of this type. During the past year, 6,146 new homes were erected through loans of $11,146,806 made by these local institutions. This represents an increase of two and one half million dollars over the 1938 figure. In addition, they enabled 3,678 individuals to purchase homes valued at more than five and one half million dollars. The balance of over nine million dollars in loans of the associations were made for repairs, refinancing, and other miscellaneous purposes.

King's Uncle

The Earl of Athlone (above), brother of Queen Mother Mary and uncle of King George VI of Great Britain, has been appointed governor-general of Canada to succeed the late Lord Tweedsmuir. The Earl and his wife, Princess Alice, a grand daughter of Queen Victoria, will leave London for Canada shortly.

Poultrymen Urged "Cull Out" Stock

Raleigh, April 5.—The time of the year has arrived when C. F. Parrish and other poultry specialists of the State College Extension Service issue their annual plea to poultrymen: "Cull out, but don't sell out."

In reiterating this advice today, Parrish said: "A number of poultrymen make it a practice to sell out their entire flock of layers, or to quit feeding, about the first of April each year. They reason that the price of eggs is low and that poultry meat usually sells well at this season. So they think it is a good time to sell out."

"In a way this policy is all right, but they should not sell the best layers now. Instead, they should cull regularly and rigidly. Get rid of the 'loafers' or non-layers and keep the other birds."

"More people make more money on their flocks from January 1 to July 1 than from July 1 to January 1. The reason is that they get the largest number of eggs the first six months of the year. Feeding for maximum results has paid, and will always pay, an extra dividend. A poultry raiser should not feed sparingly. Use a quality feed always and feed for best results."

Continuing, the extension specialist said that farmers should select and mark or band right now an ample supply of breeding cockerels before selling any birds for broilers or fryers. Early maturing, rapid-feathering, vigorous cockerels should be saved for breeding stock.

LITTLE SPITFIRE

A ROMANTIC FICTION SERIAL Starts Today In This Paper.

U. S. Has Issued 2,200,000 Patents: One Is For Self-Lighting Cigarettes

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer
Washington—From 1790 to 1940, from tallow candle to 1,000-watt lamp, from 10 miles an hour to 250, from horse back messenger to round-the-world telephone, and wirephoto, from blood-letting to miracles in surgery and conquest of disease, from an average life expectancy of 34 years to 61.

On April 10, Inventors and Patent Day, the nation will commemorate the 150th anniversary of the first United States patent laws.

It took President Washington, who signed the first federal patent, seven days to travel by coach from Mount Vernon to New York for his inauguration. Today the trip can be made by plane in less than two hours.

Only three patents were issued in 1790—the first year of federal control—No. 1 going to Samuel Hopkins of Massachusetts for "making pot and peal ashes," or common lye. More than 40,000 patents are now being issued yearly on Uncle Sam's register. The grand total is crowding the 2,200,000 mark.

One Prophecy

Henry I. Ellsworth, retiring as patent commissioner in 1844, told Congress his resignation was of no great concern since mankind had achieved about all of which it was capable in the direction of material perfection.

That was before the telephone, the electric light, the automobile, airplane and radio. Patents of record then were less than 15,000. Today 50 miles of corridors in the huge Department of Commerce building are lined with shelves of patent records ranging from the toilet trap and potato to invisible glass and transoceanic airships.

A million and one other lesser conveniences and comforts include eyeglasses for roosters, self-lighting cigarettes, dipple-making machines and a shirt-tail guaranteed to stay put.

New tools and processes had a big hand in increasing the per capita wealth of the nation from $308 in 1859 to $2,677 in 1930, according to Bureau of Census figures.

Trends In Patents

What of the future in inventions? Scientific observers have noted these trends:

1. The typical invention formerly was a mechanical contraption put together by an ingenious individual to meet some definite need. Now it is a complicated electrical device or chemical process worked out in a well-equipped laboratory.

2. Older fields of invention have been pretty well worked out, and a new generation has less chance to develop inventive facilities in a push-button age which hides the working parts of many mechanisms.

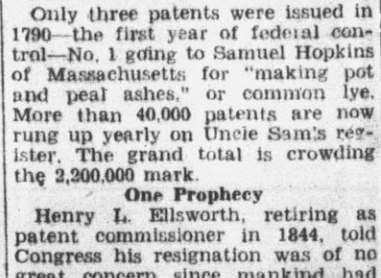

3. In newer fields, however, such as chemistry and plastics every new discovery is a stepping stone to dozens of others with no limit in sight in the expanding horizon of science.

4. The trend is from the amateur to the professional, from the individual to the organized inventive group. More and more inventions result from planned attack by large industrial laboratories.

Despite the shift from individual to group workers in laboratories, the free lance inventor still tops the list as a patent recipient. Of the patents issued in a year, 42.9 per cent go to individuals; 34.5 to small corporations; 17.2 per cent to large corporations and 5.4 per cent to foreign corporations.

Her Suit Blocks Bertrand Russell

In number of important inventions, Thomas A. Edison (above), with first phonograph, heads the list of famed U. S. inventors of the last 150 years. Among those who rate a place on the Inventors All-Time, All-America are: Robert Fulton, steamboat; Eli Whitney, cotton gin; Samuel F. B. Morse, telegraph; Charles Goodyear, vulcanized rubber; Cyrus H. McCormick, grain reaper; Elias Howe, sewing machine; George Westinghouse, air brake; Alexander Graham Bell, telephone; Ottomar Mergenthaler, linotype; Chas. Martin Hall, process for making cheap aluminum; Wilbur Wright, co-inventor with his brother, Orville, of the airplane.

CITY FATHERS IN BUSY MEET (Continued From Page One) gram this summer. J. H. Rose requested and was granted permission to rent a part of the Herd property for planting a garden with vegetables to be used in the school's soup kitchen, the vegetables to be canned and used next session.

City Street Superintendent Beatty appeared before the board and advised that it would take between $1,200 and $1,500 worth of materials to repair the streets. He also reported that a pump for the asphalt machine would be required to carry on the work and the board authorized the purchase of the pump at a cost of $85.

The purchase of police and firemen uniforms was authorized. The board voted to turn over $3,500 to the Port Commission when the money was needed and available. The $3,500 represents the final payment of a $7,500 appropriation made for the commission, $4,000 already having been paid out for this purpose.

It was decided to purchase liability insurance for the city schools. Mayor Spain and Engineer Rivers were authorized to confer with WPA officials regarding getting more men certified for work relief here, the men to be used on various municipal projects.

The board voted not to make any charge for a cemetery lot in which Sam Jones, city employee for many years, was buried last week. An appropriation of $600 to the Community Chest was authorized paid.

A petition protesting against refuse from a slaughter pen being dumped into an open ditch in the city limits was received and ordered referred to the sanitary and health departments.

U.N.C. Playmakers Observe Birthday Chapel Hill, April 5.—(AP)—The drama of the small things of life is being demonstrated before an audience from all the nation in Chapel Hill this week. The occasion is the 21st anniversary of the Carolina Playmakers. Frederick H. Koch's famous organization at the University of North Carolina.

"In those distant days of 21 years ago," said Dr. Koch today, "North Carolina was regarded by the play publishers as a 'dead' state—so lacking in dramatic interest that the entire state had been struck from their mailing list as not being worth the price of postage to carry their catalogues."

The immediate success of our first Carolina folk plays suggested to us that perhaps we might create here an oasis in the South, which then was called by H. L. Menchen 'the Sahara of the Bozart'."

Now the University of North Carolina has one of the best known dramatic departments in the country and 101 colleges, high schools and community theatres cover the state.

"We have come a long way in 21 years," said Dr. Koch.
