Various units, in the Pitt county school system, already in their last month of the 1939-40 term, have started presenting musical recitals, operettas, plays, etc., so as to avoid a rush at the close of the year. Commencement exercises at most of the schools will be concluded on Thursday, May 2. Secretary Hull And Aides Get Down To Work At Once On Far-Reaching Programs

Survivors Of Family Slaughter

Grief-stricken Barton Davis, grocery store manager, and his daughter, Chloe, 11, are shown in Los Angeles after police had questioned the child about the gruesome slaying of her mother, Mrs. Lolita Davis, two younger sisters and her small brother in their home. Police Captain Edgar Edwards said clues were gathered from the girl's disjointed stories which indicated she killed all four with a claw hammer.

Officers Now Inclined To Believe Girl's Story

Los Angeles, April 6.—(AP)—Eleven-year-old Chloe Davis, unruffled by a quadruple slaying before her eyes and by two days of questioning by police and physicians, has confounded criminologists who would have blamed her for the deaths.

Chloe told such a startling tale when her mother, Mrs. Lolita Davis, her two sisters and her little brother were found dead in their home Thursday that authorities could not at first accept it.

Chloe said her mother hammered the three children almost to death, attempted to kill Chloe and then "tried to set my hair on fire and then made me hit her with a hammer until she stopped breathing."

Chloe also added a day later that her mother had forced her to bring a razor with which the woman could slash her wrists.

Just before Chloe "remembered" about the razor slaying, officers learned for the first time—from an autopsy report—that Mrs. Davis died not of head wounds but of bleeding from cut arteries of the arms.

Police Captain Edgar Edwards at one point in the questioning said he was prepared to accuse Chloe of all the killings. Now he and other authorities have come to believe the girl's story in its essential points.

LOCAL MARKET LEADS IN GAIN

1939 Sales 61.2 Per Cent Above 1938 Figures

Sales in the Greenville tobacco market in 1939 increased 61.2 per cent over those of the previous year, the largest gain shown by any market with three or more sets of buyers during the season, figures released by R. C. Rankin, supervisor of sales, revealed today.

The 12 markets listed in the bulletin had a total average increase of 45.25 per cent, according to the figures, based on U. S. government statistics.

In announcing the record increase, Supervisor Rankin declared that the showing was the direct result of concerted effort by the people of Greenville—merchants, business and professional men, as well as those directly connected with the tobacco industry.

Mr. Rankin declared that "the ball has started rolling forward," and warned that unless there is added impetus it will stop. "Let's keep it rolling forward," he urged, making a plea that Greenville citizens.

Four Persons Killed In Troop "A" During March

Four persons were killed on highways in the 26 counties comprising Troop "A" during March, the monthly report of the State Highway patrol commanding officer, Lieut. Lester Jones, revealed today. The same number were killed in the troop in February.

The 42 officers in the troop investigated a total of 74 accidents during the period and in addition to the four fatalities, 32 persons were injured, compared with 28 non-fatal injuries in February.

One of the fatalities, that of a small negro child who was killed on the Greenville-Falkland highway, was in Pitt county.

The officers made a total of 455 arrests in March, compared with 417 in the previous month. Of the total March arrests 48 were on charges of driving drunk, and the same number was arrested in February on the charge.

Of the 455 persons arrested; 444 were convicted and 11 acquitted. Sentences meted out to persons arrested by the patrolmen totalled 81 years and three months. Fines amounted to $8,020.11 and court costs, $8,704.74.

The officers recovered stolen property valued at $5,375 and collected revenue for the state in the amount of $8,152.99.

Activities of the officers, who travelled 162,709 miles, also included: vehicles inspected, 3,622; lights corrected, 2,759; warnings issued, 55; courtesies extended, 702; cars recovered, nine; vehicles stored, 22; vehicles weighed, 700, of which 342 were found to be overloaded; complaints investigated, 407; citations issued, 707.

Administration Wins Favorable Vote On Policy

INCREASES TALK OF HULL'S ENTRY

Republican Leaders Meanwhile Serve Notice They Will Make Campaign Issue Of Question

Washington, April 6.—(AP)—Secretary Hull and his associates in the State Department planned a far-reaching program of trade developments today under the authority of a three-year extension of the trade agreements act.

As a result of final congressional action on the extension yesterday, they felt their hands free to deal with the extraordinary commercial situations created by the war.

They were hopeful, too, that the war would end before the expiration of the act, June 12, 1943, and that the agreements would furnish a basis on which to build the post-war commercial world.

Secretary Hull and his lieutenant planned the completion of one trade agreement—with Chile—the revision of another—with Belgium—and a sweeping revision of existing commercial treaties which are distinct from the reciprocal tariff adjusting agreements. They also gave thought to the possibility of reviving trade agreement negotiations that lapsed several years ago with Italy during the Ethiopian war and with Spain during the Spanish Civil war.

There was no indication, however, of a revival of negotiations with Argentina and Uruguay, which recently were broken off.

City Vote Exempt From New Ruling

Raleigh B. Lee, city attorney, has held that the ruling calling for a new registration does not apply to the city election to be held May 6 and that persons whose names already are on the books will be entitled to vote without any further registration.

The books will be open at the respective polling places, however, for 10 working days prior to the election for the purpose of registering persons who have moved to the city, from one ward to another or have failed to register.

Mrs. W. W. Phelps will be at the old fire station for registering persons who wish to vote in the Fourth Ward election and whose names are not already on the books and Mrs. J. C. Tyson will be at the court house for registering persons from the first and second wards.

The terms of only three members of the Board of Aldermen expire this year. The present members, none of which have definitely stated whether or not they would run, are J. M. Tarr of the third, Dr. M. B. Massey of the fourth and J. A. Watson of the second. Wards One and Five have only one member and the terms of each of these continue for another year.

Principals' Meet Set Monday Night

The final meeting of the Pitt County Principals' Association for the session will be held Monday night at Respass' place, at which time Dr. Carl Adams and Dr. E. L. Henderson of the East Carolina Teachers College faculty will be present to complete explanation of a project they started at the previous meeting.

Another feature of the meeting will be the election of officers for next year. J. H. Moore has served efficiently as president for the current year.

Local School Men Gone To Atlanta

V. M. Mulholland, principal of the Greenville High school and H. J. McGinnis, registrar of East Carolina Teachers College, left today for Atlanta, Ga., to attend the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges.

Dr. L. R. Meadows, president of the college, will leave the first of next week and probably will be accompanied by J. H. Rose, superintendent of the city schools. Mr. Rose is on the State Committee of five which is charged with the operation of the association in North Carolina.

Graf Spee Officers Are Sent To Island

Buenos Aires, April 6.—(AP)—Following the flight of three interned officers of the scuttled German pocket battleship, Admiral Graf Spee, police announced today that comrades in Buenos Aires will be interned Monday at the naval base, Martin Garcia island, 80 miles off Buenos Aires in the river Plata.

Any Panacea For Unemployment? Babson Says Democracy Facing Purge Of Some Kind

Washington, D. C., April 6.—Democracy facing a purging of some kind. For Democracy to succeed, it must, in some way, be revised. Otherwise, with those on relief propagating proportionately more rapidly than the employed, with dependent wage workers increasing in percentage more rapidly than those willing to employ others, Democracy as now set up—is headed for the rocks! Some character and intelligence tests must be discovered and applied to separate the "fit" from the "unfit" when it comes to voting.

My mail is crammed with letters suggesting that people on relief should not be allowed to vote while on relief. Some good citizens believe that government employees should not vote. Others even go so far as to say that only those who work either as wage workers or employers should vote. They point out that the constitution prohibits the residents of the District of Columbia from voting. As I travel about the country, I find a strong and growing feeling on this franchise question. More and more people believe that unemployment will be solved only as it becomes a disgrace not to work in some capacity.

One Vote Per City

I can't go so far as to believe we should disfranchise any one. But I do believe that we must adopt the Unit Voting System on state and national matters. Each citizen should directly vote for the officials of his own town or city as he does now. In state and national elections, however, a city or town should have only one vote. As a man has only one vote irrespective of his wealth, as a Congressional district has only one vote, irrespective of its acreage, so a political unit should have only one vote, irrespective of its population. By giving city voters

Neutral Norway Declares She Would Take Up Arms To Insure Free Shipping

BLUNT THREAT GIVEN ALLIES

William Dudley Pelley (right), chief of the Silver Shirts, and his attorney, T. Edward O'Connell, are shown outside the court building in Washington, D. C., after Justice Jesse C. Adkins had ruled Pelley must return to Asheville, N. C., to face possible revocation of his probation, granted after he was convicted about six years ago of violating North Carolina's blue sky laws. O'Connell said the decision would be appealed to the Washington Court of Appeals.

Statement Aimed Directly At France and Britain, Who Have Protested Against Germany Receiving Supplies Through Scandinavian Waters; Slap Taken At Nazis For Sinking Vessels

(By The Associated Press)
Neutral Norway threatened today to go to war, if necessary, to prevent any one-sided interference with free shipping in her waters.

The warning, given before the Norwegian Parliament by Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht, was directed pointedly at the British-French Allies, who have protested that Germany was receiving supplies through Scandinavian territorial waters, but it also took a slap at Germany for sinking Norwegian merchantmen.

Authorized German sources, viewing the situation, said another "decisive week-end for Europe" had arrived.

"If the allied powers should ask us to stop free shipping which goes on according to generally acknowledged international law and which they themselves have acknowledged," Foreign Minister Koht said, "this would either be of great damage to themselves or, if such hindrance of shipping should be one-sided against one party and therefore in open conflict with the neutrality which we have pledged ourselves to maintain, Norway will then at once be at war."

First "Blind" Flight In History Completed

Trip By Army Flier Made Entirely By Instruments

Langley Field, Va., April 6.—(AP)—The first totally "blind" flight in the history of aviation was completed today by a United States army air corps bomber as it landed at Langley Field from Mitchell Field, N. Y.

Major Carl B. McDaniel, a native of Texas, took off, flew and landed entirely by instruments.

The giant four-motored plane touched its wheels to the ground at the big army base here two hours and two minutes after leaving Mitchell Field.

The instrument landing was no bumper than a landing under normal conditions when the pilot can see the ground in front of him.

Major McDaniel, in charge of a crew of six men, was shut off from all outside contact by a canvas screen around his side of the cockpit.

Communists Protest Against Committee Raids

Philadelphia, April 6.—(AP)—A federal court order for the arrest of two Dies committee investigators and a policeman on charges of conspiring to deprive a Communist of his civil rights opened the way today for a possible Supreme court test of the legality of the committee's raids.

Federal Judge George A. Welsh made it clear he wanted to create a test case when he directed issuance of warrants yesterday for Philadelphia Police Lieutenant Albert Granitz and George F. Hurley and Chester Howe, agents of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities.

Carl Reeve, Communist candidate for the United States Senate, and other Communist party leaders charged their constitutional rights were infringed by a raid on their headquarters here Tuesday when a truck load of material was seized. Reeve contended he was denied the right to summon a lawyer.

Declaring he would be "very happy" if the Supreme court received the case as quickly as possible, Judge Welsh said: "I hope we will not sacrifice freedom and liberty on the altar of patriotism."

SBI Help Summoned In New Hope Robbery

Raleigh, April 6.—(AP)—Robbery of from $10,000 to $15,000 in cash and valuable papers from a combination store and post office station here Tuesday when a truck load of material was seized, Sheriff J. E. Winslow of Perquimans county.

Frederick C. Handy, SBI director, said he had answered Sheriff Winslow's appeal for aid in solution of the robbery by the dispatch of two SBI agents to Perquimans.

Road Improvement Funds To Be Spread Over N. C.

Raleigh, April 6.—(AP)—The $4,500,000 allocation of road improvement funds will have to be "spread thinly" over the State's 59,000-mile highway system, W. Vance Baise, chief highway engineer of the Highway and Public Works Commission, said today in announcing division of the money among the 10 highway divisions.

Half the sum, which will come from the highway fund surplus, will be used for county road improvements and half for "standardization" of the highway system—elimination of curves, widening and improvement of surfacing.

An additional $500,000—making a total of $5,000,000—will be used in improvement of bridges to the state and county systems.

"This is a large sum," Baise commented, "but when it is spread out over 59,000 miles of road it's not going to make a very big show. But we are going to spend it just as rapidly as we can economically. We're going to increase our organization so as to hasten the work and still be economical."

The allocation of the $4,500,000 among divisions follows: (in each case half will be used on county roads; half on state highway system) one—$409,500; two, $413,640; three, $418,770; four, $480,170; five, $506,880; six, $455,980; seven, $496,350; eight, $442,520; nine, $464,400; ten, $431,800.

Great Concerts Coming.

Raleigh, April 6.—The Charles L. Wagner Management of New York, with the sponsorship of the Raleigh Woman's Club, will bring to the music lovers of North Carolina during the 1940-'41 season one of the greatest series of concerts ever presented in this state.

"The Barber of Seville", starring Elide Reggiani, leading colorators of Metropolitan Opera, other Metropolitan artists and opera singers, will open the season in November. Giuseppe Bamboschek, outstanding director, accompanist, and for years Secretary to Metropolitan Opera Company, will direct this famous Opera.

Alexander Kipnis, leading basso of Metropolitan Opera, will present the second concert. Kipnis gives a magnificent program of music with his beautiful and powerful voice, and, having lived in the homes of the greatest masters and imbibed the spirit of their creations, he lives his roles and portrays the characters in dramatic style.

Rosalyn Tureck, famous woman pianist, and the great Stradivarius Quartet, will give a joint recital, as the third of the series. Tureck—despite her youth—has already been placed on the plane of Myra Hess and similar immortals. The Stradivarius Quartet, using four of the most famous instruments in history, viz: "Titian" Stradivarius, 1715; "Spanish" violin, formerly owned by the Governor of Cadiz; and the magnificent "Servais" Guarnerius 'cello; give an unparalleled performance, their blending of shadings and colorings leaving the impression of one performer playing all four parts.

Allan Jones, renowned star of radio, concert and screen, will appear in the fourth concert. He has won brilliant success in the leading tenor roles of "Boccaccio", "Tosca", "Roméo and Juliet", "Faust" and "La Bohème." His motion picture success "The Desert Song" alone drew $32,000 to Los Angeles' box office in one week.

COURT TO HEAR TWELVE CASES

Government Agencies Prominent On Calendar

Raleigh, April 6.—Governmental agencies will be parties to most of the interesting and important cases set for oral argument in North Carolina Supreme court next week.

Seven of the twelve cases calendared involve these agencies, running the gamut from a purely federal unit (land bank) down through a state-federal body (the Unemployment Compensation Commission), a state department (revenue), a county (Wake) to a municipality (City of Raleigh).

The cases at issue are varied to a degree, and those who delight in such things can get a careful of law and learning on a wide field of legal points which will begin Tuesday.

The seven cases, in very brief summary concern:

1. A suit between an administrator and the Federal Land Bank (Baley, Adm. vs. Land Bank) to determine the rights under a will and a mortgage on the land to the bank.

2. An appeal by the Unemployment Compensation Commission from a decision of the Superior court upholding an award by the Industrial Commission to Neill McRae, U. C. C. employe who claims he contracted tuberculosis as the result of being compelled to work in close proximity to a fellow employe with the disease. The U. C. C. contends that the mere introduction into the human body of invisible bacilli or bacteria is not an "accident" awarded. The Industrial Commission ruled that there was evidence of specific exposure to the disease and further found as a fact that the space occupied by the U. C. C. was inadequate for the work to be done and for the several hundred employes required to occupy it.

3. Appeal of the Prudential Insurance Company of America from a Superior court decision that through the case out on the grounds that it is an action within the prohibition of suits against the State in its sovereign capacity and further that the Unemployment Compensation Act provides remedies which plaintiff should pursue.

The company had sought a court declaration that certain of its agents are not "employees" within the meaning of the U. C. act and

USE YOUR BRAKES

As I went up to a window in a parking garage to pay the required fee, I saw a sign which made me smile. It ran as follows: "Use your brakes, not your horn."

It was intended to warn motorists. But the effect it had upon me was to bring back the recollection of how often I had neglected to follow that advice not so much on the highway as on my pilgrimage through life. Too often I had used my horn; too seldom had I used my brakes.

I recalled the harsh words that should have remained unspoken, the hasty judgment for which I was sorry later, the times I had been angry without cause, the many times I had realized—when it was too late—that silence is golden. Pretty good advice I concluded, not only for motorists but for people with ready tongues; not only for those who exceed the speed limit on the highway, but for those who exceed the limits which kindness and good judgment would place on the spoken word.

There are two ways to avoid running down a pedestrian. One is to curse him off the road with a raucous blast of the horn; the other is to slow up and let him get by. And there are two ways to avoid running down our friends and loved ones. One is . . . but what's the use; you know the answer. (All rights reserved—Babson Newspaper Syndicate)

Local baseball fans will have an opportunity tomorrow to witness the first exhibition game of the season when the Harrisburg, Pa., which is training here meets the Reading, Pa., club. Both clubs are reported to have shown much progress since the training period opened and a real game is promised.

Next Saturday end the filling time for candidates for county offices in the coming primary, so if the political bug has bitten you and you think you would like to toss your hat into the ring don't overlook the fact that you must file notice of your intentions with the county election board. So far as we are personally concerned, "We do not choose."

Of course boys must have their fun, but a boy and an air rifle are a combination that can do much damage. Recently we have received complaints regarding the killing of birds about our city. It is natural for a boy to want to shoot every bird he sees, but we urge the parents to bring to the attention of the boys that by shooting the birds about our city they are destroying one of the greatest assets nature gave us. The birds are an asset because they destroy insects that are harmful to flowers and other plants, but above all they give forth their songs that give emphasis to the joy of living. Of course there are laws that are supposed to protect our song-birds, but this is not a matter of attempting to bring the force of the law down on the boys. We believe the situation can best be remedied by the parents taking the trouble to impress upon the boys that in the killing of our songbirds they are destroying a God-given asset.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison is seeing rare sights. A crack spy couldn't see half as much. A gob, working his eight bells on the same ships, won't see one-third as much.

Secretary Edison is, so to speak, in the crowd's nest during one of the greatest maneuvers the Pacific fleet has put on. And the Pacific fleet is heart and soul of the United States Navy.

Sailing from San Pedro the other day, after checking that new break-water which makes it possible for the big ships to come within halting distance of the offshore cutters, the secretary plunged into the middle of one of those U. S. Navy's maneuvers that must forever be a mystery to the people who foot the navy bill. He was aboard the navy flagship "Pennsylvania," called the "big flag" by the boys who chew our salt-water, because it's the floating castle of Admiral James O. Richardson, commander of the United States fleet.

He'll See All Ships
The Pacific fleet maneuvers are known as "Problem 21," which may or may not mean that the navy has come of age. But no matter what, Secretary Edison is going to have a chance to get his sea-legs. That's the way the navy planned it. In mid-Pacific, he'll transfer from flagship to light cruiser, to airplane carrier, to submarine, to what-have-you. He'll see the great "attack on Hawaii." In chart-room and on the bridge, he'll observe every move in one of those "holy of holies," a great fleet maneuver.

At Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, after the battles over, he'll inspect the largest army force that the United States has stationed anywhere off the continent—25,000 men.

He'll come back to the United States on the U. S. S. Nashville, one of the newest and latest and fastest of the navy's light-heavy cruisers—but not until he has sat through the "critique" and heard the admirals praised or blamed to yard-arm for the way they did their jobs.

Will He Resign?
In the vicinity of San Francisco, he'll inspect the Great Alameda supply base, the R. O. T. C. at the University of California. He'll go from there to San Diego to inspect the navy's biggest land air station, the destroyer base, the big marine base, and the vast San Diego naval training station. He'll return to Washington with his head full of the knowledge of actual naval operations—probably more full than the heads of a dozen or so secretaries of the navy—for Mr. Edison is conceded by many to be one of the best we've had. But his first observation of the inner workings of his department may also be his last. Capital chaff has it that soon after he returns, he will resign his cabinet post and enter the race for governor of the state of New Jersey.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, April 6.—Recently there has been much talk about a North Carolinian for appointment on the Interstate Commerce Commission and the statement has been repeatedly made that North Carolina has never had such a post.

Technically that's true, no commissioner has been appointed as a North Carolinian, but there has been since 1930 a native Tar Heel on the commission.

He is William Erwin Lee, born in Madison county January 27, 1882, who was given a post as a Republican from Idaho. He is a son of long-time Sheriff Reuben Lee and still has many relatives in Buncombe and adjacent counties.

The Commissioner, like the vast majority of Madison county folks is a Republican, and was named to the I. C. C. as of that political faith. He had previously been chief justice of the Idaho Supreme court.

How can Dan Tompkins, of Jackson county, run for lieutenant governor when he is the assistant superintendent of the census for the 11th district?

Why doesn't the Hatch act catch him?

Jack Morpheu, from Graham, will attempt the tough job of being re-elected to the State Senate from the 33rd district. It's always been an unwritten rule that the Senator from the multi-county district gets only one term. Two years ago Jack beat Kelly Bennett of Swain, who was then trying to do a repeat performance.

LITTLE SUTURE

By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY: No one in New York takes pretty Brenda Burnham's writing ambitions seriously, so she arranges to live for awhile in the old Burnham residence, now boardinghouse, in a midwestern city. On her arrival—disappointed at the appearance of the shabby house on the shortest street in the city, tired from her journey, and annoyed at the absence of the housekeeper or Brenda quarters with the only person at home, Dion Dale MacKeivey, a young advertising man.

Chapter Two Isobel

ISOBEL BURKE was at the sink, washing lettuce. She was tall and thin, with gray-green eyes and red hair. When she gazed mournfully into her mirror, she saw the freckles on her nose, and not the white skin which set them off so plainly. She set her wide mouth so grimly that she never knew how charming were its curves when she smiled. She was a pianist of real ability, and divided her time between a daily radio quarter of an hour, and teaching at the amateur named Conservatory of Fine Arts.

Without turning, she said: "Adelaide got back yet?"
Mac unwrapped the steak. "No, Nor Grenadine. You know as well as I do that it will be midnight before they call it a day."

"But I heard you talking to somebody upstairs! It was a woman's voice, Mac!"

He grinned. "So it was, my dear Miss Burke. No concealing anything from you, is there? Miss Brenda Burnham, our distinguished new boarder, has arrived."

"M'm. Young?"

"And pretty?"

Isobel had put the lettuce into a test-tube, caught the edges together to form a bag, and now stood hurling the contrivance about her head to free it from water. Mac dodged the sudden shower.

"Pretty?" She let the bag fall to her side, regardless of its dismal leakage. "Oh, Mac!"

"In mid-Pacific, he'll transfer from flagship to light cruiser, to airplane carrier, to submarine, to what-have-you. He'll see the great 'attack on Hawaii.' In chart-room and on the bridge, he'll observe every move in one of those 'holy of holies,' a great fleet maneuver."

ers freedom from state interference in running their own affairs, they would quickly agree to such a constitutional amendment.

Another plan and one which is creating much interest in Southern California—is the Double Voting System. This gives one vote to every citizen over 21 and two votes to all citizens who pay taxes. This new plan is being pushed hard by conservative elements in those states suffering from "Ham and Eggs" and similar economic diseases.

Without doubt, this plan has merit if it can legally be put into effect.

Religious Test Proposed

There are other ideas today. Yesterday, a letter came to me from a group of ministers suggesting a sort of religious test for the voting privilege. Their plan is wholly undenominational. Protestants, Catholics and Hebrews—all would get the vote if they were members of the church. Yet, in the same mail I re-

"No, but I'm going to put this steak in right now!" He suited the action to the word. "I've been working like a fiend all day and I'm starved. What else besides the meat and lettuce?"

"These rolls. Pop 'em in the oven to warm while the steak is cooking, Mac."

He said dryly: "You don't really, Isobel, you just think you do!"

She sniffed. "I suppose you call that saving my pride? Well, let me tell you, Dion MacKeivey, I'd rather be—"

Erie

HE TOOK her by the elbows and seated her in the chair. "When you begin calling me Dion, it's time for desperate measures. Saving your pride—thunder! If you will have your little joke, I'm willing to support you in it; but some day a stranger will overhear you, and you'll find yourself engaged to me willy-nilly. Which," he added grimly, avoiding her eye, "would be a dickens of a note when neither one of us has anything more than an affectionate concern for the other."

There was a short silence in the kitchen. Then Isobel sighed and arose.

"I'd better be getting the table set, I suppose. Miss Whatshername coming down?"

"Yes, I promised to call her. There's Eric! Hi, old man!" he called.

Eric Mason appeared at the door of the kitchen. He was a tall young man with bright dark eyes and a smart little mustache. He had spent a long day showing empty homes some food and dinner's practically ready. Remember last Parade Day?"

"Do! Peanut butter sandwiches and lemon pop. This is something like I always said, Isobel, you have your good points. Anything I can do to help?"

"Put four glasses on and fill the pitcher. I've already put ice cubes in it."

"Four? How come four? You don't mean to say that Adelaide—?"

"The new boarder," Isobel briefly informed him. "Brenda Burnham. She came this afternoon. Mac says she's pretty."

"That so?" Eric put a hand to the knot of his cravat. "Blonde or brunette?"

"You'll see for yourself in about two minutes," Mac replied. "This steak is ready to be eaten right now! How 'bout your running up and asking her to come down, Isobel? A woman's gentle touch, you know—that sort of thing! I expect the poor girl has the impression she's got into a madhouse, or something. Adelaide forgot she was coming, the table unprepared. I took her for an agent. . . . How about it, Isobel?"

Isobel moved reluctantly toward the hall. "I call you both to witness that I hate her with a deadly hatred before I've even seen her! Remember that, Eric, when you begin to lecture on feminine proneness to personalities!"

Left to themselves the two young men exchanged expressionless glances. Then Eric Mason said, very low:

"She's more than half in earnest about being head over heels when you're concerned, Mac! Better watch your step!"

"Rot!" was the careless reply. "Isobel's a good scout and we're friends; that's all."

Eric shrugged his shoulders. "Glad she doesn't elect to show her friendship for me like that! But it's your lookout, old man!"

Adelaide

THERE WAS time for no more. Down the wide hall which bisected the house, the two girls came. Isobel walked a step ahead, defiantly, as though inviting comparison between her own angular height and Brenda's dainty roundness. The newcomer had run a wet comb through her silky curls and had changed her rumpled traveling dress for a thin pale pink wash silk. Eric suppressed a low murmur of astonishment as he saw her.

Dinner, in spite of Isobel's obvious depression and a certain stiffness on Mac's part, was highly successful. Perhaps to punish Mac perhaps because she was innately courteous and sweet, Brenda exerted every effort to make the occasion a gay one. She questioned the other girl about her music was genuinely interested in her radio work. She teased Eric and telling his funniest stories of impossible tenants and those who would like to be tenants. She even spoke gratefully of Mac's reception of her, and his kindness to a weary traveler. By the time dessert—which consisted of fruit and cheese Mac had found in the ice box—was served, the four young people were on the most amicable of terms.

It was not until breakfast time the next morning that Brenda met her landlady. Tired from her long journey, nevertheless she had awakened early and lay listening to the hum of preparation for a new day which resounded through the big house.

After the decorous silence of Aunt Anne's, there was something heartening about the gay voice which sounded from room to room.

"Through with the bathroom Mason!" she heard Mac call, and soon after there was a rush of water which indicated Eric was having a shower.

Isobel called down: "Adelaide, darling, did the laundry come home last Saturday? I can't find my blue linen anywhere!"

Delightful odors of coffee and bacon began to drift upstairs. The telephone rang repeatedly. Finally, half in despair and half in eager anticipation which was entirely new to her, Brenda arose and dressed.

Breakfast was going forward briskly when she reached the dining room. Mac and Eric both rose and Mrs. Rosittor, a plump, motherly looking woman, followed their example—though more slowly.

"Brenda, my dear child!" she said warmly.

She took the girl into her embrace quite simply; kissed her, in affection, as if ties of blood as well as of deed united them.

"I was so sorry about yesterday," she went on, a mist of emotion making her blink. "I got all mixed up about the day of your coming, and Anne's telegram came—Mac said it did!—after I'd left the house. I hope he took good care of you! I hope you found everything you needed in your room. Sit here, dear!"

She resumed her own seat and glanced challengingly about her.

"The last of the Burnhams come home!" she announced. "This child's father and aunt were brought up here—her grandfather built the house itself! I want you all," she went on impressively, "to be thinking of some way we can mark her return to us. The Street will want to celebrate it!"

ceived a letter from a candidate for governor of a near-by state which shows clearly that a church membership test for the vote would not necessarily solve our troubles.

This candidate promises $3 automobile license tags, $40 monthly to the aged, free medical aid, no toll roads, nor toll bridges, protection for small business men "now losing money," higher wages and lower prices! Among his "qualifications" for being governor, this man says he is "an active member of the Methodist church." With due respect to methodism, certainly this man's religion does not prevent him from making promises which he knows that he cannot fulfill!

No "Church Front"
In this connection, let me say that methodism, as a whole, presents a sorry picture at elections. On the first Sunday of November, 1940, over 8,000,000 Methodist church members will sing the same hymns, read the same Bible, and say the same prayers. On November 5, they will go to the polls and vote 4,000,000 for the Republican candidate and 4,000,000 for the Democratic candidate with a scattered few for the Prohibition candidate. Members of most other church denominations will do the same.

As a result the political leaders at Washington and elsewhere need give no heed or thought to what church members think or want! Notwithstanding this, I still say that the only hope for democracy is a sane spiritual revival. The churches should lead in this revival. They have the potential power, the people and the plants. They are tax exempt and possess great endowments. They, however, must again preach the Cross and the necessity of sacrifice. Our churches will never get to first base by imitating popular service luncheon clubs!

"Deals" Not True Answer
The Republicans claim that if the Administration would only "unshackle" business again, giving it freedom from unnecessary regulation and high taxes, then unemployment would vanish. Yet, business was thus free for over 30 years previous to the panic of 1929—the latter coming in a Republican administration. The Democrats argue that if the Administration would only further "increase, purchasing power" by forcing wages higher and prices lower, then unemployment would vanish. Yet, the administration has done this for nearly eight years and we have as much unemployment today as ever.

The truth is that no legislation—Old Deal or New Deal—will succeed in putting people back to work until the purposes, ambitions, and motives of people are changed. People of all groups—rich and poor—must be taught by churches, schools, movies, radios, and newspapers:

1. That only as more is produced is there more to divide.

2. That the failure to use the idle money, idle labor and idle machinery now existing is as wicked as to plow up cotton or kill little pigs.

3. That loafing is a sin for both the rich and poor.

4. That their future rests with raising the total national character and income.

5. That the only fair unemployment legislation would be to "quote" the unemployment on industry, giving some tax or other rebate to employers of said "quotas."

It's as true today as it was 2,000 years ago: "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

Urge Simple Lines For Modern Home

18—URGE—INSIDE—MUST M. M. The April House of the Month sponsored in Greenville by the First Federal Saving and Loan Association was designed for the Monthly Small House Club by Randolph Evans, outstanding small house architect. Forty feet over all, it does not need a large plot and will look well flanked by adjoining houses. Although somewhat larger than the usual House of the Month Club, its simplicity of line makes it an economical house to build. The symmetry of its imposing front facade is obtained by placing a projecting kitchen wing opposite the garage. The kitchen and garage wings enclose an attractive terrace that gives opportunity for unusual landscaping.

tures an unusually large living room, 13'x20', with an attractive open fireplace. The dining room opens on to a rear terrace. The use of open living space at the rear of the house rather than the front is becoming increasingly popular on account of the privacy that it affords the family and the fact that it can overlook a pleasant rear garden rather than a noisy dusty street. Opening off the living room is a nook that can be converted into a library or cocktail bar, depending on the family tastes. If the basement is finished into a recreation room complete with game closet and lavatory, the nook on the first floor would undoubtedly be used as a library.

Upstairs are two exceptionally large bedrooms. The bath arrangement is unusual, providing two lavatories and toilets with a tub and shower enclosed separately between them. There is a large sleeping porch facing the rear garden accessible to both bedrooms. The porch could be enclosed, if desired, to provide additional sleeping space the year round. The exterior treatment is a pleasing combination of whitewashed brick clapboard and flush-board. The entire house could be finished in smooth stucco with very pleasing effect.

Adaptability is also a feature of the plan for modern efficient electrical service. The outlet requirements indicated on the floor plan are designed to serve the several purposes to which the rooms may be converted. An adequate number of circuits of correct sizes of wire are included in the specifications to provide full power for normal uses at maximum economy. The wiring layout has been approved by National Adequate Wiring Bureau as an assurance against property depreciation through electrical obsolescence.

According to Mr. A. C. Tadlock, secretary-treasurer of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, this house can be built in the neighborhood of Greenville for somewhere around $5,500 or $6,000. Where a family already owns a plot, very little if any cash would be required; and $28 to $40 a month would pay off the mortgage in full in twenty years. Blue-prints of this house with recommended specifications for its construction are on display at the office of First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Chicod Wins First Place In County-Wide Track Meet

STOKES TAKES SECOND PLACE

Farmville Third In Field Day Held At Smith Park

Chicod school amassed a total of 74 points in yesterday's county-wide track meet and field day to take top honors from the event held at Guy Smith park.

Stokes, with 61, ranked second, followed by Farmville with 38. Other participating teams and their scores follow: Winterville, 35; Grimesland, 25; Bethel, 22; Grifton, 17; Falkland, eight; Bethel and Pactolus, seven each; Arthur, six; Ayden five, and Fountain 0.

In winning first place Chicod took nine first places, five second honors and three third places. The schools won two of the three first places in the relays, for which double points were given. There were 30 events in all. For the first 26 five points were awarded for first place, three for second and one for third. In the last three events, relay races, 10 points were given for first place, five for second and three for third place.

Although the meet found several versatile athletes, no one person was allowed to enter more than three events.

In winning second place Stokes scored four first, nine seconds and three third place honors.

Preliminaries to the meet were held last week at Farmville and Grimesland.

HARRISBURG TO PLAY READING TEAM HERE SUNDAY

GAME SET FOR 3 P. M. SHARP

Manager Les Bell Announces Tentative Lineups

Baseball fans in Greenville and community will have their first opportunity of the season of witnessing a contest between professionals on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Guy Smith stadium when the Harrisburg Senators engage the Reading (Pa.) team, both of the Class B Inter-State league.

Harrisburg is training in Greenville, while the Reading team is getting in shape for the season at Edenton.

The Reading team will bring Lyle Judy, former St. Louis Cardinal player who holds the world's record for stolen bases, and also Hertz, flashy shortstop who has played in Class A Eastern league with Trenton. The Reading team will arrive Sunday about 1 o'clock with six pitchers, two catchers, five infielders and five outfielders.

Manager Les Bell of the Harrisburg team announced two tentative lineups for Sunday's game. It was definitely announced, however, that Clark would start on the mound, but that several other hurlers probably would see service.

His lineups follow: Tibbets, cf; Sabena, 3b; Cox, ss; Godale, 1b; Rolek, rf; Embrick, lf; Jenkins, c; G. Miller, 2b; Clark, p; and Tibbets, cf; Sabena, 3b; Dedes, rf; Godale, 1b; Cox, ss; Rolek, cf; G. Miller, 2b; Jenkins, c; Clark, c.

In addition to tomorrow's contest, the Harrisburg team has a number of other exhibition games scheduled, including one with the Greenville club on Friday night, April 19th, and Sunday afternoon, April 21st. The Greenville's first exhibition tilt is scheduled for Friday of next week when they will engage the Sunbury, Penn. nine of the Interstate league, training at Kinston.

PIRATES LOSE TO LOUISBURG

Two Local Pitchers Yield Total Of 11 Safeties

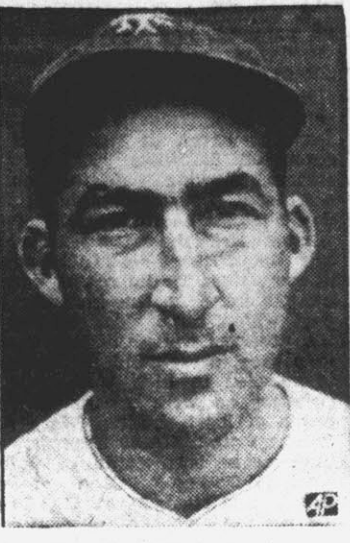

East Carolina Teachers College pitted two hurlers against Louisville College's Trojans at Louisville yesterday afternoon, but the local tossers yielded 11 safeties and their opponents emerged with a 3-2 triumph.

Coach H. C. Haynes' tennis team journey to Louisville, too, and won by a forfeit. When the netters got to Louisville one report had it that they didn't have a team, even though they scheduled the meet, and another was that the grounds were not in shape for the matches. Hence, no matches.

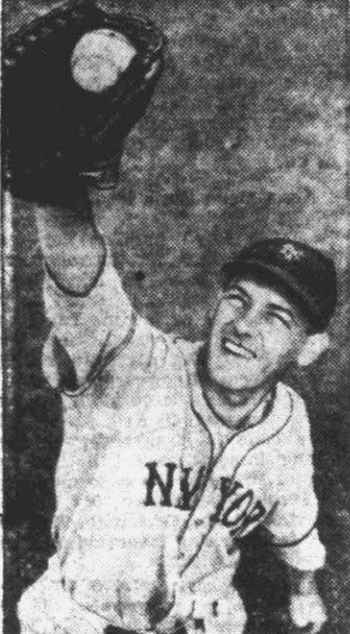

Kelly Martin was Coach Farley's starting hurler yesterday. He allowed eight hits over a five-inning stretch, which produced three runs for the winners. And that was all the scoring Louisville managed to do. Mac Flythe gave up three hits and blanked the Trojans the rest of the way.

The Pirates' tallies came on the heels of timely hitting by Floyd Hinton and Bill Shelton. Louisville's Durham got two hits in four trips to feature with the stick for the winners. Walter Moritz got two for four for the Pirates. Coach Farley's hopefuls journey to Campbell next Friday for a tilt and play Oak Ridge here next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Harrisburg Newsman Returns To His Desk

John Conlin, sports editor of the Harrisburg Penn. Telegraph, left last night for his home after having been here during the past week reporting activities of the Harrisburg Senators.

The sports writer indicated, however, that he probably would return with a bus load of fans expected next week-end to witness exhibition games between Harrisburg and Williamsport at Raeford Saturday and Harrisburg and Sunbury Sunday in Greenville.

JENKINS GETS TIMELY CLOUT

Ties Up Intra-Squad Game At 5-All With Double

Rube's rookies waged their first intra-squad game of the training season this morning at Guy Smith park and Harry Jenkins came through with a double in the last half of the final frame with two out to send two men across the plate and knot the count at five-all.

Jenkins captained one team and Morris Wilson the other.

Several of the boys look as if they have the stuff in them to make real ball players," declared Manager Rube Wilson after the game, but shook his head at the manner in which some of the others were showing up.

Teller, the Richmond recruit, looked especially good on the mound, holding the foes in check during the two innings he pitched. The skipper also said Forrest Minges showed signs of developing into a hurler. Another local boy Jim Respass, made a good showing. He is an outfielder.

It looks as if the second base position vacated by Red Christopher will fall to Kracke, who continues to look good. Incidentally negotiations are still proceeding between the Harrisburg and Greenville teams for the sale of Christopher. Rube warned the boys to continue to take it easy and kept the pitchers from really bearing down on the curves, holding them chiefly to semi-hard balls.

At least a hundred fans watched the two teams engage in the intra-squad contest.

The team will resume practice Monday morning at 9:30 after a rest Sunday.

Softball League Opens On Thursday, April 25

Persons Wishing To Play Urged to Register Now

The Greenville softball league will open its 1940 season on Thursday night, April 25, with games scheduled for each Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights and close on Tuesday, July 30. Wednesday nights will be left open for playing rainouts, tie and exhibition games.

These decisions were reached by the Board of Directors of the league in a meeting held last night in the Chamber of Commerce offices. Eight teams will be entered in the league, as follows: Blount-Harvey, Carolina Dairy, Double Cola, Carolina Sales, Pepsi Cola, Water and Light, Tadlock Insurance agency and R. C. Cola, Pepsi Cola, the new entry in the loop, replaced the Gulf team. In announcing that he would not have a team this year, W. L. Allen expressed regret, but declared that lack of time prevented him from sponsoring a team this year.

All persons interested in playing are urged to register at the Tadlock Insurance agency on Evans street or at the Railway express offices immediately as the names of players will be turned over to the various sponsors on Friday, April 13.

President J. D. Simpson was instructed to secure a draft of a schedule and submit it to the board between now and Monday night. Due to the added expense of additional lights, each player will pay $2 for his ticket this year, instead of $1 as paid last year. The various teams will be limited to 15 players.

Three new members were added to the Board of Directors, giving each team one representative, besides President Simpson and two directors at large. The board is composed of the following: O. P. Matthews of Blount-Harvey, Roy Campbell of Carolina Sales, Howard Waldrop of R. C. Cola, Max Minges of Pepsi Cola, W. F. Evans of Water and Light, M. P. Fox of Tadlock, Roderick Harris of Double Cola, Jack Powell of Carolina Dairy, President Simpson and Directors at large, L. T. Jones and Withers Harvey.

Golf Torney

Captains Massey and Allen this afternoon were leading their respective teams in a local golf tournament at the Country club. A large number of Greenville golfers were participating in the match.

Following the match a dinner will be served at the club house, with the losers as hosts. Much interest has been evidenced in the tourney and the competition between the two teams has been keen throughout the week.

BASEBALL MEN CLUB'S GUESTS

Diamond Dust Flies High At Kiwanis Meeting

Baseball was the general topic of last night's informal meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis club, at which the managers and other officials of both the Greenville and Harrisburg, Penn., teams were present as invited guests.

Secretary D. C. Moore, Jr., presented Ty Wagner, vice president of the Greenville baseball club and a former resident of Harrisburg, who in turn introduced Manager Lester Bell and Coach "Ditty" Cochlin of the Harrisburg team, which is doing its spring training here, and also Jack Conlin, Harrisburg Telegraph sports writer. All three made brief speeches. Manager Bell, replying to Secretary Moore's remarks expressing the hope that the Harrisburg team would return next year, declared that the reception had been cordial and that he was sure the Harrisburg team would be glad to return again. The other two Harrisburg men reiterated the manager's remarks, the sports writer adding that he came to stay two days, already had stayed five and that it looked as if he would stay longer.

Miss Helen Phelps, local talented singer, rendered two solo selections, accompanied by Mrs. R. A. Tyson, club pianist.

Following these, Secretary Moore presented G. V. Smith, past president of the Kiwanis club and president of the Greenville baseball club who talked about baseball in general, after which Manager Rube Wilson related some facts concerning this year's prospects and members of the team. He declared that he was not familiar with the capabilities of all of the players, but that what he had seen of them he was certain Greenville would have a "hustling" team.

The Kiwanis club elected Director Thomas E. Wilson and Vice President S. M. Crisp delegates to the 24th annual convention of Kiwanis International, to be held in Minneapolis, Minn., June 16-20. Alternates named were Joseph M. Tait and B. B. Sugg.

President C. H. Patrick called attention to the Community Art festival and the exhibits on display throughout the building.

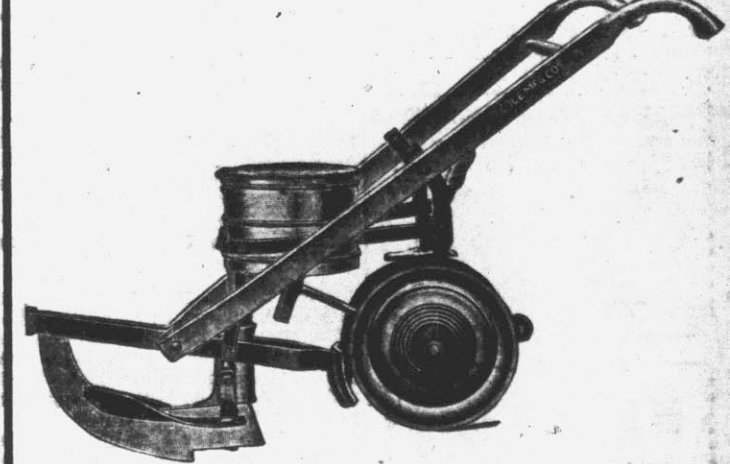

Dr. N. T. Ennett, county health officer, called attention to the appearance here next Tuesday of Dr. Edward A. Strecker, authority on the effects of alcohol on the human body.

Guests, others than those taking part in the program, were G. Roberts, principal of the Bell school Reynolds May and J. W. E. Roberts.

The program was arranged by the Committee on Athletics, Chairman W. W. Aycock, J. Hicks Corey and O. P. Matthews.

It was the first meeting under the new plan of weekly meetings instead of every other week.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robin Coons

Hollywood—Imaginary excursion into the thoughts of a very young man I never have met: I'm eight years old, and my name's Dion, but you can just call me Skipper or Skip. That's what the fellas at military school call me, and that's what Mom (she's Barbara Stanwyck, the acting lady) calls me since I asked her to. So does Pop—you know, Bob Taylor.

We live in Beverly Hills when they're working in pictures, but other times we get out to the ranches—Mom and Pop each have one, but Mom's going to sell hers. 'S all right with me, so long as they both keep the horses. This Bob is all right. I'm the fella that made him a spinach-eater, ha, ha! Mom says when she met Bob he was a meat-and-potatoes guy. Then they got married, and there I was, eating at the table with them, and what could Bob do? See how it works? Bob couldn't say spinach was rabbit food in front of me, because if he did I could quote it right back at Mom. So Bob took

My Little Chickadee Stars West & Fields

Mae West and W. C. Fields are co-starred in "My Little Chickadee" a rib tickling screen event. Both take roles that fans have never seen them play before. Mae takes the part of a belle of the badlands, who always gets her man and "Wild Bill" Fields is a routin, tootin' shootin' romeo.

FLORIAN STARS ROBERT YOUNG

Picture Depicts The Fall Of Hapsburg Dynasty

Pomp and spectacle, romance and a thundering cavalcade of the collapse of an empire, are blended in "Florian," dramatic filmization of Felix Salton's novel of the fall of the Hapsburg dynasty in Austria following the World war.

The picture is scheduled for an early showing at the Pitt. It stars Robert Young of "Northwest Passage" fame, and Helen Gilbert, new acting discovery. The title role is played by "Florian" an Imperial stallion presented to Maria Jeritza, opera star, by the Austrian government. This horse and four others bred in this country, figure in the story, as well as others filmed in Austria and at the Imperial school in Vienna.

up spinach gamely, even other vegetables. He still balks at salads, but not in front of me.

Mom has ideas about me. Guess she read a book. Was a time when she and Bob loaded me down with presents. Then Mom read a book called "My Son, My Son," and she didn't tell me why, but she said I had too many things, and so we sent most of 'em away. Now it's a rule I get just three presents on my birthday. They've even got me earning that present Bob is going to give me. It's a dilly of a wrist watch, and it's in a drawer upstairs, and I get to look at it now and then—but I don't get it till I earn it. Good behavior. Well, I'm game. Funny thing is, Mom is denying Mom when she's never had many when she was a kid named Ruby Stevens in Brooklyn, and she wants me to have everything, but she's smart enough to leave me things to work for.

Mom knows a lot of girls, movie fans, are nuts about her Bob, but she doesn't mind. Mom says when she goes places with Bob and the girls all squeal she knows the girls aren't squealing for her (because she's been around enough to know they don't), so she just stands aside, and everybody has a good time. Guess she knows where Bob's heart is...

Mom was going to do a picture called "Night of January 16," but Mr. Ameche wouldn't do it, and then Mitch Leisen couldn't wait and direct it. Mom says if an actress has confidence in a director, that's all that matters. Thinks Mitch Leisen (who did "Remember the Night") is headed for the top.

But this fella Coons is all wet, if he thinks looking into my mind would give up thoughts like these. All that stuff is over my head, and I'm concerned with important matters. There's a fella at school I'm going to fix good—I mean well—when I get a couple years older. And say, I was looking in the mirror this morning, and my hair's getting darker all the time. Tow hair is sissy, I always say. I've been begging Mom to dye it black, the way they do for pictures, but she says no. Guess there was something in the book about that, too.

Work Of Mrs. Hearne Is On Display Here

By HILDA LANIER OGBURN During the current week of the Community Art Festival much publicity has been given to the various exhibitions which are on view in Greenville.

A miscellaneous group of eleven oil paintings and five water colors on display in the Woman's club deserves special mention.

In this collection Georgia Pearsall Hearne, Greenville's own professional artist, is represented by seven oil paintings, "Examination Papers," showing, seated in front of a window, a figure painted in shadow against the strong light of the window. Here the artist set for herself the difficult task of painting in low values the important part of her picture, or in this instance that the observer while the less important area, or receding background, is handled in high values. This painting as well as two portrait heads of local children Mary Ann Waldrop and Knott Proctor, Jr., have never been exhibited before.

"Beach Cottage," "End of the Beach" and "Poor Man's Gold" create for the onlooker a sensation of wide stretches of sand dunes and perhaps a longing for the return of the happy summer hours spent at Morehead. Already Greenville citizens are familiar with this artist's "Zinnias," the most colorful piece in this entire miscellaneous group.

Mary Perkins Roebuck, a local resident, is represented by a water-color fruit picture and a landscape in oil.

Anna Belle Boyd, local painter, is showing two still life paintings in oil. Miss Boyd handles her color with a feeling for harmony and blending of tone. In her "Copper Kettle" she restricts herself to varying degrees of browns contrasted by a spot of green. In her large "Still Life" she skillfully handles the problem of composing a unit of interest from a large plain earthenware jar and figured drape. The pine cone is successfully subdued, giving importance to the jar and drape. Miss Boyd is a former pupil of Mable Fugate whose "My Sisters," on view at the Greenville Art Gallery is attracting favorable comment from many visitors.

Rex Goreleigh, Negro artist of Greensboro, is represented by two oils and four watercolors. His "Magnolias" are distinctly decorative in treatment. The "Finnish Market Place" painted during a visit to Finland's Helsinki, shows a mass of colorful figures, cleverly creating the illusion of many people milling about in a crowded market place.

One has the feeling that much activity is taking place in the confines of this picture. Perhaps this artist's watercolors are his best medium for expression. His watercolors include "Landscape," "Finnish Farmer," "Misery," and "Restin'." Heraldry as an art was first ascribed to Charlemagne about the year 800.

NEW FILMS AT MOVIE HOUSES

Pitt And State Book Spring Season Entertainment

A host of new Hollywood releases have been booked by the management of the Pitt and State theatres for the Spring entertainment season in Greenville.

In addition to the numerous feature attractions scheduled for an early showing, the line-up also includes all that is new in the short subject field, including many novelties and technicolor cartoons.

The line-up new pictures coming to the Pitt includes: "Virginia City" starring Errol Flynn, Randolph Scott, Miriam Hopkins; David Niven and Olivia DeHavilland in the gay romance "Raffles"; Robert Young in "Florian"; Cary Grant in "Too Many Husbands"; and "The Grapes of Wrath" from the Steinbeck novel.

State theatre fans are going to see many of their favorite outdoor stars during the next few months in stories that sizzle with thrills and adventure. They are also slated to see the new Jane Withers picture at an early date, entitled "Pack Up Your Troubles," in "Old Missouri," starring the fun favorites, the Weaver Brothers; James Cagney in "The Fighting 69th"; John King in "The Man From Arizona," and numerous other attractions of outstanding merit.

New Kildare Picture Is Latest Adventure

Starring Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore the latest picture in the Kildare series titled "K. Kildare's Strange Case" is coming soon to the Pitt. Cast also includes Laraine Day, Nat Pendleton and George H. Reed.

"Finnish Farmer" is a memory painting, showing a well constructed head and the artist's ability to depict character. "Misery," an imaginary painting of the head of a Negro woman, shows her grief and suffering. "Restin'" is perhaps the people's favorite of his entire collection. It is an amusing representation of a ragged Negro boy who became tired when a broom was placed in his hand. Goreleigh's work shows emotional feeling.
