NORWAY AND DENMARK INVADED BY NAZI TROOPS

Britain's Naval Forces Speeding To the Aid of Norway

SENDS PLEDGE OF 'FULL AID'

Chamberlain Tells House of Commons That German Stroke Had Been Premeditated Before Laying Of British Mines; Naval Engagement Already Reported Off Norway

London, April 9.—(AP)—Britain's powerful navy is moving into the northern conflict to aid Norway against German invasion.

Chamberlain charged that Germany had premeditated the invasion of Norway and Denmark and pledged the "full aid" of Britain and France to Norway.

"Powerful units of the navy are at sea," Chamberlain told the House, explaining that details must necessarily be kept secret.

Reports reached London via Paris that allied naval forces already were engaged with Germany at various points along the Norwegian coast in a heavy storm.

Chamberlain said that the German plans for invasion of Norway and Denmark were "made and put into operation" long before yesterday's "mine-laying."

"Otherwise, some of the troops which have landed in Norway already would not have been there," Chamberlain declared.

He said that the British government had "at once assured the Norwegian government that in view of the invasion his Majesty's government had decided forthwith to extend their full aid to Norway and will fight the war in full association with them."

"This fresh, rash and cruel act of aggression will rebound to Germany's disadvantage and contribute to her ultimate defeat," he said.

London, April 9.—(AP)—The Supreme War Council of the allies met today at Number 10 Downing street with Premier Paul Reynaud and Defense Minister Edoard Daladier representing France.

London, April 9.—(AP)—A British source said tonight that it "understands a naval action is in progress somewhere near the coast of Norway" between British and German forces.

The British press association said "there is reason to believe that good news may be forthcoming" within 12 to 24 hours, but later asked its subscribers to delete this sentence.

New York, April 9.—(AP)—A squadron of British bombing planes which invaded northwestern Germany this morning was repulsed by German pursuit ships, said an official Berlin broadcast picked up by NBC. The announcement said several British planes were shot down.

Plan Building For Memorial Baptist

Plans are being talked for a new educational building for the Memorial Baptist church and a conference was held Sunday for the purpose of considering the project.

J. J. White discussed the history of the church and its present need. E. R. Conway, superintendent of the Sunday school, told of the growth of the department during the past few months and of the need for more space for Sunday school purposes.

Mrs. D. M. Clark, president of the Woman's Missionary Union, told of the needs of the women for more adequate quarters. E. G. Flanagan presented the challenge that the congregation could face the situation and build. An open discussion was conducted with many participating. Dr. B. McK. Johnson, chairman of the board of deacons, made the motion that the church face the building program and enter into definite plans. A building committee was selected, with J. J. White as chairman and E. G. Flanagan as vice-chairman. Plans are now under way to secure the services of the architect of the Southern Baptist Sunday school board.

The recommended blue mold control methods of the State College Extension Service are explained in Extension Circular No. 229, which is available free upon request to the Agricultural editor at State College.

An organizational meeting will be held on Monday night, April 22, at which time committees will be appointed and the organization for the 1940-41 term completed.

He has taken an active part in outside activities of the schools as well as in civic affairs of Ayden.

At last night's meeting Dr. Carl Adams and Dr. E. L. Henderson of East Carolina Teachers' College completed a project they started at the previous meeting. The college faculty members are seeking information as to the most appropriate or needy ideas to incorporate in the proposed revised curriculum for elementary teachers at the college.

Seen As Move To Obtain Oil From Rumania

Belgrade, April 9.—(AP)—The German government, it was learned on high authority today, has demanded that Yugoslavia, Hungary, Bulgaria, and Rumania accept German river police along the entire length of the Danube river to secure this vital supply route for Germany.

Demand was made after the German press accused Britain of plotting to dynamite the narrow Danube channel through the "Iron Gate" to cripple Germany's transportation of oil, foodstuffs and raw materials from Southeastern Europe.

Rumanian police seized British barges loaded with dynamite. The British said that the explosives were to have been used to blow up British and French vessels in the event Germany invaded Rumania.

It was learned that Hungary, Yugoslavia and Rumania previously had "tentatively" rejected the German demands. Then they were made a second time.

Diplomatic quarters here freely expressed the belief that the German news agency here, as well as the Berlin foreign office, had seized upon the reports of seizure of the British explosives as the basis for the renewed demands for a German police patrol of the Danube.

These sources also believed the demand was a possible forerunner of a German move into Southeastern Europe to obtain Rumania's oil.

NATION URGED TO KEEP CALM DURING CRISIS

War Developments Prompt Advice From Senators

COMMENT VARIES AT CAPITOL HILL

Sen. Pepper Declares German Invasion Of Scandinavia Brings Shadow Of War Closer To U. S.

Washington, April 9.—(AP)—Germany's advance into Denmark and Norway prompted several Senators today to appeal for the United States to take this latest dramatic war development calmly.

While Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) declared that "it brings the shadow of the war and conquest by force nearer the shores of every peaceful country in the world, including our own," Senator Norris (Ind., Rep.), said that "this affair is none of our business and we should keep out of it."

Norris described the march into Scandinavia as "the same old process—take whatever you have the power to take."

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, declared: "The United States must keep calm. No matter how distressing the news is from Europe, we must keep our heads and not be swept into hysteria. If we maintain our poise and equilibrium they will help us to withstand these recurrent shocks from Europe."

"The invasion of Denmark and Norway," said Senator Brown (D-Mich.) "is condemned by all thinking people. It makes the situation more serious. I see no reason, however, why our government should act. This is a time for calm contemplation. I think the long view of the situation will show that Germany has more to lose than we have. It is difficult because she has added enemies and stifled any sympathy that existed for her anywhere in the world."

U. S. CITIZENS IN WAR ARENA

Some 3,000 Nationals Caught In Spread Of Conflict Area; Other Questions To Be Decided Are Presidential Proclamation Extending Neutrality Act And American Shipping

Washington, April 9.—(AP)—The explosion spread of Europe's war to Scandinavia confronted the administration with three urgent problems today:

1.—The safety of some 3,000 American nationals caught in the new theatre of hostilities.

2.—The question of a new presidential proclamation formally designating Norway and Denmark as belligerents under the neutrality act.

3.—The matter of protecting American shipping interests in the invaded countries and possible action on extending the combat zone to include the waters around the North Cape of Norway.

Decision on the steps the government would take waited the return of President Roosevelt from Hyde Park and Secretary of State Hull from Atlantic City.

The first official word of the Reich's swift hammerblows on the Scandinavian fronts reached the capital shortly after midnight from Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, United States Minister to Norway.

High State Department officials, headed by Assistant Secretary Berle were quickly summoned to the State Department building near the White House and lights burned on toward dawn.

Figures Sliced By Senate Committee

Washington, April 9.—(AP)—The Senate Appropriations committee reversed the action of its subcommittee today and sliced $55,000,000 from proposed waterway projects of the War Department's civil functions bill.

Holding its approval of total expenditures to $223,362,517, the full committee struck out $30,000,000 for flood control projects and $25,000,000 for rivers and harbors work inserted in the appropriations measure by the subcommittee. It accepted a $15,000,000 item the subcommittee put in the bill to start a third set of Panama Canal locks.

Approved by the committee, the bill carried an increase of $19,889,950 in appropriations above the total previously voted by the House.

Government of Norway Moved North of Oslo

Army Guarding Capital Set Up In City Of Hamar

Stockholm, April 9.—(AP)—The City of Oslo, capital of Norway, surrendered to German forces at 4 p. m. (10 a. m. EST) today.

Dispaters reaching Stockholm said that the Norwegian police chief had resigned and that he was replaced by German officials.

North of Oslo, Norwegian aircraft was reported to have shot down two German planes.

The Norwegian government moved to the lake village of Hamar, North of Oslo.

The Norwegian army was reported to be guarding a defense line between Oslo and Hamar to protect the new capital and to cover the mobilization of inland towns.

Fully half of the population was reported to have left Oslo before the city surrendered to German troops.

The Germans were landed from warships along the city's harbor.

The Swedish parliament was called into session for 3 p. m. (2 p. m. EST) tonight.

Stockholm received reports from Norway and Denmark with a serious calm. It was recognized as a black day.

From northern Sweden, it was reported that the German invasion of Norway met opposition and that at least two German ships were sunk at Narvik, the northern port from which Germany has been shipping Swedish ore.

Three Victims Of Gas Plant Blast

Braintree, Mass., April 9.—(AP)—Three men were killed and at least 13 persons injured seriously today in a terrific explosion at the Old Colony Gas Company plant in Braintree. Company officials estimated the loss at $500,000.

The roar of the blast was so severe several office girls suffered bleeding ears. Carl H. Burnett, 53, a gas fitter, was crushed to death under the bricks of the compressor hose.

James W. Plunkett, 40, and Tony Orlando, 55, died shortly after admission to a hospital.

Despite persistent reports that three or four persons were missing, company officials said all employees had been accounted for. Firemen still searched the ruins, however, after extinguishing the flames in the tank.

VOTING TODAY IN FARM BELT

Illinois And Nebraska Provide Latest Tests

By The Associated Press

Illinois and Nebraska provided two more farm belt tests today of the popularity of the Roosevelt Third term movement and of Thomas E. Dewey, campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination.

The Democratic situation was the reverse. President Roosevelt, who had given no hints as to whether he would accept another nomination was unopposed in Nebraska. In Illinois, however, the third term forces seek a showdown with supporters of Vice President Garner.

Two fold interests centered on the Illinois voting for 50 national convention delegates.

The Kelly-Nash democratic organization was out to roll up a big vote for President Roosevelt on the theory that an overwhelming victory would lead to his early renomination. Garner men, on the other hand, pinned hopes on a showing formidable enough to curb third term talk.

In Nebraska 14 delegates were at stake in each party.

Capitals Of Two Nations Occupied By Hitler Army

German Forces Converge on Scandinavian Countries By Land, Sea and Air; Norwegian Troops Put Up Resistance At Oslo, But Copenhagen Occupied Without Battle

Berlin, April 9.—(AP)—Germany invaded Norway and Denmark by land, sea and air today.

Germany announced she had extended "armed protection" to the states "to counteract British aggression" against their neutrality.

By this afternoon German army forces had occupied Copenhagen, capital of Denmark, which did not resist, and Oslo, the capital of Norway, where Norwegian troops put up what the Germans called "slight local resistance."

This afternoon the German high command announced that "occupation of the most important objectives in all Norway by German troops is proceeding rapidly."

"At most points," said the afternoon communique, "a slight local resistance by Norwegian troops has ceased."

A dispatch from Copenhagen said that the Danish government had accepted the German "protection" with a "protest" in view of the circumstances and conditions of protection.

Germany gave the signal to march Northward less than 24 hours after British warships steamed into Norway's territorial waters to sow their mine fields to cut off German iron ore shipments from Sweden to the Norwegian coastal waters.

"In order to counteract British aggression under way against the neutrality of Denmark and Norway," said an official communique, "German armed forces have assumed the armed protection of the states."

"For this reason, strong German forces of all army units entered a landed this morning in these two countries."

"For months England and France have attempted to make a new battlefield out of Scandinavia."

In a blistering statement, delivered personally to assembled representatives of many nations Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop charged the Western powers with plotting to extend the war to North and declared that the Reich had "assumed responsibility" protecting Scandinavia neutrality.

As he spoke, the Nazi high command broadcast a proclamation surging Norway and Denmark to Germany has no designs on their independence and urging them to accept as friends the German troops already pouring over their front by land and sea.

London, April 9.—(AP)—Rome dispatch reports intercepted in London today, said communications between Germany and Hungary had been severed.

London, April 9.—The British foreign office was said authoritatively tonight to have re-established communication with Norway and had been informed that the (Continued on Page Six)

Christian Science Church.

"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches and Societies Sunday, April 7.

The Golden Text was from Jeremiah 3:23. "Truly in vain is salvation hoped for from the hills, and from the multitude of mountains: truly in the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon were the following from the Bible: "Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise. For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, He taketh the wise in their own craftiness. And again, the Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain." (1 Cor. 3:18-20).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, "How true it is that whatever is learned through material sense must be lost because such so-called knowledge is reversed by the spiritual facts of being in Science. That which material

On Monday night at 8:00 o'clock there will be a business meeting of the church. All officers, members of the church board and any member who is interested in the affairs of the church are urged to attend as matters of great importance will be discussed.

On Friday night, April 19th, the members of the church are sponsoring a "Church Supper". The menu will consist of barbecue and all the accessories and will be served between the hours of six and eight o'clock. Tickets will go on sale the latter part of this week, and we hope many of our friends will come and enjoy this supper with us.

Sunday morning at ten o'clock Sunday School will begin. If you are not already attending somewhere, won't you come and join us at Red Oak?

We have classes and class rooms for all age groups. Mrs. W. T. Pace teaches the beginners; Mrs. James Allen and daughter, Virginia, the intermediate; Miss Ella May, the juniors; Mrs. B. L. Tyson, the Sunshine class and Zack Whitford, the adult class.

After Sunday School we will have an ordination service. Several deacons and an elder will be ordained. The services will be conducted by our pastor, Rev. Gilbert Davis.

UNCLE FINDS FAT PROFITS IN STAMP DISPENSARY

Houston, Tex. (AP) — The gray window at the Houston post office has averaged $50 a day net profit for Uncle Sam since it was opened on February 20.

The gray window has a more dignified title in post office circles — "Philatelic Window" — but Postmaster John Dunlop reports the dollars that stamp collectors pass through the wicket are "pure gravy."

The biggest sale thus far was to a man who paid $2,500 for five sheets of $5 stamps. Five-dollar stamps are generally used for air-mail by cotton firms sending samples abroad.

GO FOR A SMALL ONE. FIND A BIG ONE

Houston, Tex.—(AP)—Three policemen, bearing five traffic tickets that had accumulated against an automobile owner, rapped on his door.

A girl opened it. The unmistakable aroma of sour mash floated out, so the officers went in.

They found a still, 50 gallons of mash and two gallons of whisky.

Certainly Merits Consideration.
Louisville, Ky. (AP) — Harry J. Thornton, editor of the Board of Trade Journal, is accustomed to receiving unusual letters, but he was not quite prepared for this one from a Montana schoolboy:

"Would you please send me information on your country? We are making booklets on states and I chose yours. I like Kentucky more than Montana because of its horses and agriculture resources and another thing I like is its beautiful scenery. Yours truly,

"P. S.: My spelling may not be very good because I have broke my arm and the pain is trifling."

BAR LOANS ON LEGAL LIQUOR

Banks Can't Lend Money On Warehouse Receipts

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, April 9.—Neither state nor national banks can accept warehouse receipts for whiskey as collateral for loans made by such banks. Attorney General Harry McMullan has informed Gurney P. Hood, Commissioner of Banks, in a recent opinion.

The ruling is based on the grounds that the bank could not legally sell the collateral in the event there should be default on the loan, as only county A. B. C. stores in 27 counties of North Carolina have any legal right to sell intoxicating liquor.

Other recent opinions recently announced in a "digest" by the Attorney General include:

1. The county commissioners of Catawba county will be authorized to designate the Federal Savings and Loan Association of Conover as a county depository, and place the sinking funds of the county up to $5,000 in said association.

2. The governor is empowered to appoint one or more fit persons in every county to act as justices of the peace. If a vacancy occurs before qualification, the vacancy is filled by the governor. All other vacancies are filled by the clerk of the superior court.

3. The chief of police and sheriff are required to take fingerprints of persons convicted of a felony; and if they deem it advisable, the fingerprints of any person arrested for a crime may be taken and forwarded to the State Bureau of Identification.

4. Bureau of Vital Statistics has no authority to change the birth certificate of an illegitimate child to make it appear that the child is not illegitimate, upon the representation by the mother that she later married the father of the child. This is true, even though the statutes provide that when the mother of an illegitimate child and the reputed father marry at any time after birth of such child the child is in all respects held to be legitimate.

Japanese Traveling Library To Be ECTC

The Japanese Reference Library of New York, housed in a specially constructed truck, will be on the campus of East Carolina Teachers College on April 11 and 12.

Established in 1938 under the auspices of the Society for International Cultural Relations, of Tokyo, the travelling library is made up of books, illustrated folios, color prints, motion picture films, phonograph records, and lantern slides. Approximately 4,000 items are included in the library. The books are all in Western languages, 95 per cent being in English. Included in the book collection of the travelling library are works of reference, dictionaries, bibliographies and periodicals pertaining to Japan and her civilization. The lantern slide collection is made up of more than 600 slides on architecture, painting, the industrial arts, sculpture, and gardens.

The collection is in charge of a special field representative who will display the books and give all necessary guidance requested by spectators.

During the past few weeks, the Japanese Reference Library has made stops at Birmingham, Jackson, Mississippi, Asheville, Cullowhee, Clinton, S. C., Greenville, Tenn., and Durham. After its visit here it will be taken to Westminster, Md.

THE DAMAGING CRIME WAVE IN GREENVILLE

By J. B. Taft, Chairman of Organization and Extension of Negro Scouts, E. C. Council

The colored citizens of this community have sat almost idly by our own firesides and watched Greenville grow from a small town to a thriving city. We should feel proud of the success of this great community as a whole, but I am convinced that we have also seen such streets as Long, Allen's alley, First, Twelfth, Clark and several others become streets that have no ends. They are crime beds, breeding murderers, thieves and other undesirable citizens. During the past few years we have had an enormous number of fatalities out of which five murders and several cuttings and shooting escapades have been committed either on or near First street. I personally feel that the Christians and other leading citizens are partly responsible for these acts. The church, school, civic and youth organizations should be interested in character building and crime prevention. And in most cases we are guilty of the sin of omission; we are guilty of the sin of omission, to guide these unfortunate brothers and sisters of ours. We can teach character building in our institutions, but what are we doing about those people who can not be reached in these organizations or institutions. Our people are too afraid of being called a stool-pigeon and when they see some crime about to be committed we stand idly by and wait for the results. We should contact the home owners and ask for a more desirable neighborhood. We should report to the police anything that we know is being done that will cause future trouble, and help to save some of our people from trouble. If some person had called an officer last Saturday night we would have probably had two men on trial Monday morning for disorderly conduct, or an attack with deadly weapons instead of one man being murdered and another to be tried for murder. All of us are law-enforcing officers and the regularly employed officials need our assistance as we most times know that crimes are being committed before they do and can help to decrease it before it goes too far. On several visits to the local city court I was greatly embarrassed to see so many of our people frequenting the court room and I was convinced that we should assist our law enforcement officers more than we do.

The property owners should force the people to discontinue standing in large crowds on the various streets, gambling, cursing, drinking and using profane and vulgar language. What are our boys and girls going to do other than seek such association. Whenever a mean person comes to the city he looks for the bad streets and either lives on or frequents them for his hideout. These open places can do more in one day to hurt our children's future than we can do in many years of organizations in a year. Let's try to stop them and where we can not let's call the police. For a stool pigeon who saves ones property from being destroyed or apprehend one who has fatally attacked another is doing more for the betterment of society than a thousand Christians or members of betterment organizations, who "knoweth the will of the Master and doeth it not."

We have each year approximately fifteen school girls who are forced to leave school to become mothers and in most cases producers of children who will be ashamed of their own identity. We are also faced at the present, with a shortage of high school boys and girls in general and we are not certain that we will be able to have a football team next season. The city fathers, board of education, and other organizations headed by our good white friends have helped us to secure funds for the erection of a community center library, N. Y. A. work shop, football and baseball fields, tennis courts, and other sources of recreation but these places, when completed will not mean much if we do not see that the children who need them most are there and given the proper instruction and supervision. Now is our chance to help make Greenville a bigger and better city for God and man.

WOODS COVER MOST OF EAST

Two-Thirds Of 21 Counties In Forest Lands

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, April 8.—Forests cover two-thirds of the area of 21 eastern counties in the basins of the Neuse the Cape Fear and the Pee Dee rivers, and are assessed at 16 per cent of the total valuation of $287,000,000 in these counties, according to a detailed survey in the Southern Coastal Plain just completed and published by the U. S. Forest Service. It was announced today by R. Bruce Etheridge of the Department of Conservation and Development.

Singing the Blues

The song is "It's a Blue World Without You." The singer is Adelaide Moffett, society girl entertainer and bride of William P. Buckner who went to federal prison recently on a railroad bond fraud conviction. The show had to go on for Adelaide, however, and here she is shown opening a new engagement at a New York night spot. Cafe society flocked out to applaud her.

The development of full forest productivity is retarded by the method of taxing forest property. In brief, the general property tax as applied in this unit discriminates against forest owners at two racial points (1) when the newly cut over land has no immediate prospect of revenue and (2) when the young timber is approaching saw timber size.

The total saw-timber volume is 12.3 billion board feet, of which two thirds are pine and one-third hardwoods. There are 66.7 million cords of wood with bark or 4.5 billion cubic feet of wood.

CHICKEN THEIEVRY— WITH QUALIFICATIONS

Pueblo, Colo. (AP) — Stinging chickens is a case of grand larceny in Colorado, regardless of the value of the poultry, if the theft occurs at night. If the thievery takes place in daylight the general larceny law applies, and it stipulates the value of any stolen property must exceed $20; otherwise it's a case of petty larceny.

The quirk in the Colorado law was uncovered recently after officers solved a chicken stealing case by following a trail of feathers from coop to loot.

Strength For The Day By EARL L. DOUGLASS

IN SLAVERY TO CREDITORS

Modern homes are broken up more often by debt than by adultery. There is nothing which causes husband and wife more often to begin quarrelling with each other than the fact that they are trying to live beyond their means.

Debt causes more misery than almost any other single factor in life. It separates friends, discourages the enterprising, and brings many an ambitious life to an inconsequential or tragic end.

Debt is the worst possible form of poverty. We buy with borrowed money what we have no business possessing, and then when the realization comes upon us that we must pay for something in the ownership of which we no longer take satisfaction, we are indeed more poverty-stricken than if we had never made the purchase.

The Greeks used to say that debt turned free men into slaves. Fortunately in this country we can no longer imprison men for their debts. But every man who buys what he has no business owning and loads himself with an obligation beyond his power to bear, has incarcerated himself in a prison worse than the so-called debtor's prison of old.

It is better to go to bed without supper, said Franklin, "than to rise in debt." And the Spanish are in the habit of saying that you never know what you are worth until you pay what you owe.

THE WORKING MAN PAYS

Who bears the heaviest burden when an unjustified strike is called? That is easy to answer: the working man. The San Francisco Employers' Council recently published a survey of what happened in a number of recent strikes. In one case, 185 employees lost 81 days' wages—and the strike was finally called off. In another 153 employees lost 67 days' wages—and the strike was called off. In another, 250 employees lost 107 days' wages—and the strike was called off.

So it goes, down a long list. And in the case of really big strikes, such as that against Chrysler, the wage loss to workers runs far into the millions. Labor organization is desirable. A well organized and fairly operated union is a great asset to the laboring man. But the unjustified strike is usually the result of unprincipled, self-seeking labor leadership. Such labor leaders don't have to worry—their salaries go on as usual. It's the working man who pays and pays and pays.

A BAD START

That king of destroyers, fire, is on the rampage again. During the first two months of this year, according to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, direct fire loss was about $14,000,000 higher than in the same period in 1939. If that ratio should obtain for the balance of the year, the increase would be close to $90,000,000, bringing the total loss to around the $400,000,000 level. And remember—the indirect loss caused by fire is estimated at three or more times the direct loss. Lost jobs, orders, business of all kinds, are just as serious as burned buildings. Most serious by far is fire's toll of human life, running to 10,000 in an average year.

What causes fires? A few are caused by incendiaries, though their toll has been much reduced in late years due to unremitting efforts of prosecuting authorities and fire prevention groups. A few are unavoidable. And the balance, which includes the great majority of all fires, are caused by the average man—people like yourself. They are the tragic fruits of human carelessness, human ignorance, human indifference. They represent sheer and inexcusable waste of lives and resources. Fire prevention isn't the other fellow's job. It's your job—your neighbor's job—everybody's job. The seeds of fire undoubtedly exist in your home and your place of business, waiting for the spark that will spell disaster. We can stamp out fire—but we can do that only if all of us cooperate in fighting it.

Next time you read of a home burning, reflect that it might have been your home. Next time you hear of someone meeting a horrible death from fire, think that you or a member of your family may be on fire's future list of victims. Then ask yourself this question: Is fire prevention worth while? (Industrial News Review).

Washington Daybook

Washington.—Pity the poor Federal Communications commission. Julius' home-work in arithmetic isn't even A-B-C compared to the problems that James Lawrence Fly's commission has to solve.

Take Frequency Modulation—hereinafter referred to as FM. Even the name sounds tough. If you are not up on your radio news, that's the new method of high-frequency, static-less, high-fidelity radio broadcasting and reception, developed principally by Major Edwin Armstrong, the man who gave the world the superheterodyne.

About all you and I have to know is that "high-frequency" means broadcast and reception in the upper part of the radio spectrum, as opposed to standard amplitude modulation, which is broadcast and received on the lower-bracket wave-lengths or frequencies. Even the dub knows what "staticless" means. "High fidelity" means you can broadcast anything from a grunt basso to the overtones in a fiddler's upper register—and the right sound will come out in the business end of your receiver.

If That Were All Now there's no argument that all this would improve broadcasting and reception. The FCC would be only too glad to admit that, if there were nothing else involved. But there are "know-nothings" in the problem that produce "unknowns" in any answer you work out. For instance, there are two schools of FM thinkers—the wide band and the narrow band. Major Armstrong and his troops belong to the wide-band army—and they say that they need licenses in the very heart of the television broadcasting range. The narrow band boys (RCA, with its crack about "are" is the leader here) say you don't need the wide-band limits to make the public take notice. Of course, both sides hold patents. But that isn't all. FM broadcasting (and consequently reception) has a horizon limit—like television. So, if licenses are granted to broadcasting stations in cities, where do the farmers and villagers come in? Also, if FCC granted FM licenses to every station in the country, where would 45,000,000 radio receiving sets come in? Not at all! Also, if FCC gives away television's choice wave bands, where will television come in? If you don't think FCC has a headache, put that problem down on paper and try to find the answer—but don't lose your temper and throw your radio set out the window.

Five Or Ten Years

Mr. Fly and his sextet of experts are being paid to see that the march of progress doesn't trample right over your pocketbook. As near as I can find out, here's what is going to happen: Five to ten years from now (barring a hundred or so unforeseen possibilities) you and I will be listening to some kind of FM broadcasting, on FM receivers. Lily Pons can take her highest note and we'll hear every quaver in it. In the broadcasting studio, nails can be hit with a hammer and it'll sound like nails being hit with a hammer. A bell can be rung and it'll sound as if some one rang the bell. A pumpkin can be dropped on the floor and it'll sound "squash"—not like a man being hit over the head as it does today.

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, April 9.—The second week's voting in the Sandhill Citizens' gubernatorial straw vote saw a considerable pickup on the part of Lieutenant Governor W. P. Horton and Commissioner of Revenue Allen J. Maxwell, while J. M. Broughton and Tom Cooper, tied for the lead on the first week's returns, did not fare so well. In votes received during the second week Horton was first, with 23 per cent, Maxwell and Broughton trailing him closely with 19 per cent each. Lee Gravelly had 15 per cent. Cooper and Paul Grady 12 per cent each and Arthur Simmons continued to keep his record intact with no votes at all.

For all ballots received during the two weeks Broughton led with 26 per cent (against 28 per cent the previous week), with Cooper in second place, 23 per cent (compared with his first place tie at 28 per cent the previous week.) Following in order were Horton 17, Maxwell 15, Gravelly 12 and Grady 7.

This campaign has not yet begun to get Broughton down—at least not in weight. Your reporter saw him Monday morning, commented on how well he looked.

Yes, I've gained four or five pounds—I'll have to take some considerable pickup on the part of all sorts of North Carolina roads in an automobile in the last couple of months.

By the way, Broughton did not get to Ocracoke for the week-end. His son, Melville, Jr., was participating in the state debating championships (was on the winning team, incidentally) and the candidate would have gone too far inside the family doghouse had he not been present to see his progeny perform.

Legislators who seek to discard the State's lethal gas chamber and go back to electrocution as the method of executing criminals are likely to have opposition next year from the fellow who introduced the "death by gas" measure now in force.

Dr. Charles A. Peterson, Spruce Pines Republican, has announced his candidacy for the Thirtieth Senatorial district (Avery, Madison, Mitchell and Yancey).

The district is almost always overwhelmingly Republican, but Peterson must first overcome the formidable party opposition furnished by Jeter C. Burleson, Mitchell's Representative in the 1937 and 1939 Houses.

E. T. Bost, Jr., of Cabarrus can be added to the veteran House members standing for re-election this spring. He has formally tossed his hat into the ring. He served in 1937 and 1939.

Another county bobs up with managers of the same last name for rival candidates. In Washington John W. Darden is boss of the Maxwell set-up, while Representative Wilbur Darden is heading the Broughton brigade. Of all the gubernatorial candidates, A. J. Maxwell is the only one who has ever carried a Union card. The Commissioner of Revenue was a member of the Typographical Union while he worked on numerous newspapers in the east. He continued his membership as long as he worked at the printing trade. Broughton headquarters has expanded its clerical force and John Peele, publicist-in-chief, has been, he says, "pushed off the mezzanine." He now has a sanctum of his own on the very first floor.

LITTLE SPITEFIRE

By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY, because Brenda wants to meet the outcast, Hugh Saltus attends the reception. Everyone on The Street is cordial to Brenda, and she reciprocates this friendliness.

Chapter Five Mac's Champion

WHAT Mac had said to Brenda had been innocent enough in intent; merely that Hugh Saltus might consent to act as critic, collaborator, or illustrator or all three, if he were properly approached on the subject. Mac had regarded the idea as a positive inspiration. What writers' magazines dub "the genesis" of it had descended on him at the sight of the usually unapproachable cartoonist conversing so affably with Brenda. Mac himself knew what it was to break ground in new fields of literary endeavor. He had remembrance of the mocking way he had received the little newcomer's confidences about her work that first day. Adding these two facts together he arrived at a very satisfactory and ambitious four which he presented to Brenda without delay.

Mac realized unhappily that he had blundered again.

"Thank you," she said coldly. "You are too kind!" He realized unhappily that she meant just that.

"But for 'kind' read 'officious,'" he told himself, backing swiftly away and doing his best to lose himself among the guests. "She takes herself seriously, this gal; and her work—golly! I suppose she thinks Saltus would be honored by a private view of one of her manuscripts!"

In this, however, he did Brenda an injustice. Her sensitiveness toward her writing had become almost an obsession with her. Aunt Anne had discouraged it; older writers had smiled indulgently at her ambitious plans. Her interviews with editors have already been described. All this opposition had had the natural effect of making her more determined than ever to succeed.

She still seethed with wrath when she remembered Mac's blithe description of her imaginary labors. And now, just when she was congratulating herself that she had found a place where people, if somewhat queer and given to minding their neighbors' business as well as their own, were at least tolerant, Dion Mac-Kelvey must needs come skating across the floor to suggest ironically (or so she believed) an impossible partnership between herself and the famous artist. It was much too much!

'Mac's A Nuisance'

"THIS Mac person is going to be a real nuisance if I don't suppress him," she told herself, smiling her sweetest as she let Dr. Wilson tell her about an epidemic of pink eye that had swept The Street nineteen years before. "Why doesn't he marry his Isobel and be content with her? Any-one can see she's mad about him. Eric Mason now is another story; too absorbed in his own conceits to do more than cast flirtatious glances about now and then. I wonder..." The dimples dipped so deeply that the old doctor stopped in the middle of a sentence, staring at her appreciatively. "No, you're to behave yourself!" her thoughts ran on admonishingly. "You're here to work, and for no other reason." Again the doctor was bewildered by her change of expression. She drew down the corners of her mouth, wrinkled her smooth forehead warningly.

"Did you say she's studying to be an actress, my dear?" the old man asked his daughter as they made their way home. "I should think she might make a very excellent one!" "No, a writer." The brief and singularly strong optics on the activities of her young neighbors.

Man About Manhattan

Virginia City, Nev.—This is Our Town, and I wish Frank Craven were here to tell you about it. Here in Our Town, we have about 500 people, but sometimes the number goes up to 700 or 800, depending upon the visitors we get, and the weddings that are celebrated. We have a lot of nice people, and maybe there are some who aren't so nice, but they're all good people when you get to know them, and wouldn't have lock-jaw. But Axel himself two pints of whisky. One pint he drank, and the other he poured into his shoe. Now he's well as anybody.

That woman passing Axel now is Slot Machine Ida. She's about 60, and every nickel she gets she plays the slot machines. That's how she comes by her name. Everybody in Virginia City knows Ida. One night the miners took a $10 bill and had it all put into nickels and gave them to Ida so she could play the slot machine. Ida says it was the best time she ever had.

In Our Town, the main street is C street, and we have twelve bars on that one street. Good ones, too. C street is only two streets from A street. You see, in Our Town, the streets are alphabetical, and they run from A to G. In the old days the cream of the elite used to live on A street. On B street, we had the courthouse and the jail, and some of the nice people lived there. C street, as I said, is the business district in Our Town; E street is where the Chinamen live, and the Mexicans lived on F street, and then the Indians lived on G street. That isn't exactly the way it is now, but it used to be that way in the old days, and it stayed that way until after we had the first fire, back in the '70s.

Our Fire Department is right down there. We have a man who stays there all the time, and he's paid by the county. When a building catches fire in Our Town, the Fire Department never actually tries to save it—they concentrate on the nearby buildings to keep them from burning. In Our Town, any building that catches fire is pretty sure to be a goner.

Then there's Vince Nevin, one of the nicest fellows you ever met. Vince owns the only newspaper in Our Town, the Virginia City News, and it has eight pages. We're mighty proud of that paper because the first and back pages are set by hand, something you don't see very often any more. The other six pages come in every Thursday from Salt Lake City, all printed up. That's the news office there, where Vince is going in. If you turn around and look this way, down there in the valley, you can see the old cemetery. We have four cemeteries in Our Town, but that's the oldest and the most interesting. The first 29 men ever buried there died with their boots on. Well, I guess I'd better get on down the street. There's Father Harrigan, our priest, who comes up once a week from Reno. And there's Joe Hart, manager of the Virginia City Theater. That's when you hear means it's twelve o'clock. It's right across the street from the Wonder Lodge bar. Goes off every day just like that, and when it does everybody in Virginia City knows it's noon and time to eat.

Greenies Preparing For Exhibition Game Here Friday

PLAY SUNBURY AT SMITH PARK

Weather Holds Training Work Down to A Minimum

Manager Rube Wilson, although handicapped in his training work, is preparing his team of rookies to play Sunbury at Guy Smith park here Friday afternoon in the first exhibition game of the season for the locals.

The cool, damp weather has prevented the skipper from really putting his rookies through the paces for the past two days, following Sunday's rest, but he is running them through batting and fielding practices daily and the pitchers are getting in some work-outs.

Another local rookie, Harold Forbes, son of Gus Forbes, donned a Greenie uniform today and started working out with the locals. Indications at the present are that one or more Greenville boys will be on the team this season.

Manager Rube also announced that another pitcher had joined the club. Jim Brown, right-hander from Georgia, was in camp today, having been signed up by the locals.

Several hurriers are likely to see service in Friday's game. Morris Wilson, veteran of last year's team, probably will get the first call, with Teller, Forrest Minges, local boy, and John Carver also to be summoned for mound duty.

YOUNG BEN HOGAN, golf's latest scoring sensation, grins as he exhibits the irons he used to win three straight tournaments.

Meet Ben Hogan, Golf's Winter Heat Wave

THE TEXAN who plays from White Plains, N. Y., is one of the straightest and longest drivers among the pros, hitting with a low trajectory.

HERE HOGAN SHOWS HOW he blasts out of traps and stops the ball near the cup. Ben won his first tournament at Pinehurst in mid-March and then repeated with victories at Greensboro and Asheville, N. C.

PHENOMENAL PUTTING has been a major reason for his recent triumphs. "I just keep the putter face dead upright," he explains.

BEN'S STRONGEST BOOSTER is — you guessed it—the Missus. She never lost faith in Hogan's game during the many months he played without winning. Now she can help him spend the $6,500 he won this spring.

Two Players Released By Manager Lester Bell

Harrisburg Skipper Begins "Weeding Out" Squad

By BERT MOYE
Manager Les Bell yesterday began the "weeding" out process as he announced the release of Guy Miller, infielder, who has been playing the second sack; and Woodrow Miller, outfielder.

Eddie Koons, pitcher, who has been out of the lineup for the past several days due to an attack of the flu, was back in uniform yesterday and pitched a few during the batting practice period.

Quay Rhoades, pitcher, who has been suffering with a sore arm for the past several days also was on the mound hurling them during batting practice yesterday, but had to stop after a short workout, when his arm began to bother him.

Daniel Tomaso, hurler, who is suffering with a slight cold, also put a few fast ones across the plate during batting practice and showed much control during his stay on the mound.

Manager Les Bell has acquired the services of Cotton Strickland of Rocky Mount, as trainer of his team this season. Cotton was trainer for the Greenville and Tarboro clubs last season and prior to that was trainer for the Richmond Colts of the Piedmont league.

In speaking of their defeat here on Sunday at the hands of the Reading club, Coach Bell stated: "That he thought considering his boys had not had but six days practice prior to the game that they put up a mighty fine showing. His greatest weakness, he stated, was probably in the pitching department, but with a few more days workout everything would be in tip-top shape."

The cost of constructing a home-made lamp brooder for chicks varies from $5 to $7.50, and it will accommodate 50 to 60 chicks, advises C. F. Parrish, poultry specialist of the State College Extension Service.

Intelligence, on the side of retention of the section.

Maxwell had already permitted himself to be quoted as being against the provision but the declaration was made in a private letter and last night's address at Manassas was the first in which any one of the seven candidates has expressed any definite opinion as to the "contingent" section. All have more or less strongly opposed "diversion," but none of them has referred specifically to the existing law on the subject.

The Revenue Commissioner did not contend that the disputed section is wrong in principle, but he said he feels it "has served its purpose" and "its continuance is objectionable on the practical grounds that it ties up two and a half million dollars of highway revenue that cannot be used until revenue experience removes the contingency."

"We need to spend all the highway revenue available to get neglected communities out of the mud and neglected areas properly served," he said. "The discontinuance of this statute will not prevent interchangeable use of funds in the treasury in event of temporary deficit in either fund."

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

Hollywood. — Paulette Goddard was making colds in the bright sunshine of an outdoor set. She was getting ready to play a half-breed hell-cat in "North West Mounted Police," and about a hundred spectators, mostly male, and workers were in the audience.

After the first test, a change of costume was in order. It was a long way to the wardrobe and dressing rooms. A wardrobe woman borrowed Gary Cooper's leather jacket, tied it about Paulette's waist, slipped off her skirt under it and slipped on another. Then she repeated the routine with the coat tied about Paulette's shoulders while the blouse was changed.

The lookers looked. Paulette smiled. Modesty and efficiency had met, bowed and gone on serenely.

Gene Towne and Graham Baker, who as writers used to keep Joe Breen on the alert, have been making only standard, innocuous subjects ("Swiss Family Robinson," "Tom Brown's School Days," etc.) since they became producers. And when Frank Capra worked for Columbia, he never would consider more than one story at a time. Now that he is working for himself he is preparing two stories for future production besides "The Life of John Doe"—on his one-picture Warner deal. (Or maybe Capra merely didn't talk about the others he was thinking of.)

"I Married Adventure." Osa Johnson's fine new book, is already in film-release awaiting announcement of the tome's selection by one of the national book-a-month clubs.

Bob Hope, unable to borrow Jack Benny's Rochester for his own "The Ghost-Breakers," is using Willie Best—and dubbing him Syracuse. Accustomed as we are to exploitation's Colossals, Gigantias and Supers, we here know but little of what is stupendous. I quote an ad from an India periodical: "Fatigued with feverish fury of excitement when forsaken by her husband. . . She threw her bashful cloak of modesty and ran after him. . . See how they met in the cowboy's hand yet most comical moment in 'Laxmi Laxmi.' Circo's greatest festival of the year!"

Great moments in contemporary history, from a publicity bulletin: "Before a group including Mr. Paul of Charles of the Ritz, Pierre of Antoine and other hair stylists, Monsieur Andre of Paris demonstrated at his Salon, Sunset Plaza Square, a new and revolutionary method of permanent finger-waving without the use of a machine or machine-less pads." And to think I missed it!

Gower Gulch—which sprang into the limelight with a shooting—was practically deserted shortly after the affair. . . Most of the cowboys had answered a mass movie call to play roughneck convicts, and the others were dodging the news cameras. . . Jean Parker is after shedding that little-girl stuff and grabbing sophisticated assignments—and with only one divorce to her name!

Maxwell Declares Against Diversion

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, April 9.—Commissioner of Revenue Allen J. Maxwell has become the first gubernatorial candidate definitely and flatly to declare he is against the present "contingent diversion" provision of the Revenue Act.

This provision was continued in the law by the 1939 General Assembly after a desperate fight in which anti-diversionists were finally defeated only because Governor Clegg, R. Hoey threw the full weight of his

Warrenton Wanted to Get Even For Tax On Hotel

Raleigh Bureau
By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, April 9.—Littleton, a Warren municipality, has hit a snag in its efforts to get even with the county for levying taxes on municipally owned property, especially an hotel.

In retaliation, Littleton has been trying to collect ad valorem city taxes on the stock of the county A.B.C. store located there; but Attorney General Harry McMullan has just ruled that it can't be done by the usual and ordinary course of levying on the property itself.

There may be a loop-hole, however, for the muni and it may eventually force the A.B.C. folks to come across with the taxes; as the Attorney General suggests in a supplemental letter to John H. Taylor, muni tax official, that it might be advisable to bring an action of mandamus to compel the payment of the tax, since conceivable property belonging to a county agency might not lawfully be sold for taxes.

The attorney general based his opinion largely upon the grounds that the tax collecting officers would have no authority to sell the liquor after they took possession of the liquor stock under levy. "However, funds on hand could be levied on, and bank deposits could be attached," the opinion continued.

The affair is another incident in the increasingly bitter row between county and municipal taxing bodies scattered all over the state. The Supreme court, in a divided opinion, held that the county of Warren could tax hotel property belonging to municipality and not used for governmental purposes. There has been no direct ruling on the right of a municipality to tax the stock in trade of an A.B.C. store, but apparently that question is on its way to the highest court.

COLORADO EXPECTS CRACK TRACK TEAM

Boulder, Colo. (AP)—Colorado University expects its best balanced track team in years, says Coach Frank Potts. Colorado won the Big Seven conference championship last year and Potts says he has some fine sophomores to replace the veterans lost by graduation. Paul Cope, a hurdler who won two first places a year ago, stacks up as the star.

Since 1914, an average of 19 American cities each year have adopted the council-manager form of local government.

WHAT IT MEANS PRIMARY RESULTS

By MORGAN M. BEATTY AP Feature Service Writer

Washington. — The presidential primaries this year are generating political oomph because for the first time in years they are big news. That's because they are making clear-cut decisions between men and issues despite the fog of confusion that usually shrouds them.

To you and me and the men who put the news in the newspapers, these decisions are news and nothing more.

But to candidates they look like something else. To candidates they are precious advertising-free advertising that can't be bought with money.

And it is the kind of advertising that has been turned into votes in the home stretch, too.

It's this way: The presidential primary has been law in some states for a little over 30 years. In that time we have held eight presidential elections. In five of those elections the primaries had no more to do with picking the presidential candidates than the village half-wit.

Roosevelt I
The first was 1908, when everybody knew Teddy Roosevelt was going to pick the Republican candidate and his man would win. That's the way it turned out. The primaries had nothing at all to do with it. It was a convention job.

Came 1912. The primaries had a chance for the first time to register a clear-cut decision. And they

Hoover Used Primaries

But in 1928, Hoover made the primaries count for the first time after 1912. He ran in the primaries, and the headlines heralded him as a winner. And he was. Franklin D. Roosevelt worked it the same way in 1932. He entered the primaries after a carefully organized campaign in the primary states, and emerged a winner—a man advertised as a strong vote-getter a long way from his home state of New York.

In 1936 the primaries might well have been dispensed with in favor of a community taffy pull. It was Roosevelt, and all the primaries could do was confirm it.

But now, in 1940. On the Democratic side, it's possible to make an issue on the third-term question. Garner, did it in Wisconsin by coming out against a third term. Roosevelt backers accepted the challenge, and ran their man.

On the Republican side, it's possible to test the vote-getting powers of rival candidates.

The net result is advertising for the victors. The early primaries give top billing to Crusader Thomas E. Dewey, the New York vote-getter, and to Franklin Roosevelt.

State Conventions

The reason why Presidential primaries usually turn out to be nothing but sound and fury is because the system has not been universally adopted. Less than half the delegates in a convention go through the primary test. Most of them are chosen at state conventions.

Furthermore, the people who opposed the primary idea at the turn of the century—mostly political bosses—put a lot of jokers and "ifs," "ands" and "buts" primary laws.

That means presidential primaries are by nature mere preliminary exercises unless clear-cut issues or personalities or both emerge through the fog early enough in the spring of a presidential year.

So far, it looks as if the party voters are seeing—or think they see—issues and men. Anyway, both the President and Mr. Dewey early got the kind of advertising that twice before has been turned into nominations.

It remains to be seen whether that can—or will—be done again. If you ask my advice, it's don't bet your money yet, this year.

Wait until the state conventions start.

White Man Involved In Affray Released

The sheriff's office revealed today that Willie Gray Suttan had been released from jail because of lack of evidence against him in connection with an affray near Fleming's crossroads Saturday night. Jesse Cox was injured in the affray, but he nor any of the witnesses could, or would, say who struck him.

Cox was taken to the hospital, but released after first aid treatment to a wound on the head, apparently inflicted with a piece of wood. Two Bell Arthur Negroes involved in an affray over the week-end were fined by Magistrate J. R. Nichols at a hearing yesterday afternoon. The two Negroes were Aaron Hall and Louis Barrett.

Negro Man Freed In Fatal Affray

Clarence House, Greenville Negro, was freed yesterday afternoon of a charge of murder when a coroner's inquest ruled that the fatal stabbing of James Davis at a home on North Evans street was in self defense.

The fatal stabbing took place about 10 o'clock and the victim was left in the house for some time before being taken to a doctor's office. Death was said to have resulted from loss of blood.

According to evidence at the coroner's inquest, House stepped on another Negro's foot during a dance and Davis proceeded to attempt to involve House in an argument, while the man whose foot had been stepped on had nothing to say. Davis is alleged to have pushed House from the porch and to have followed him some distance threatening him with a knife before House stabbed Davis in the leg.

Rolling Stones Gather Into House, Houston, Tex. (AP)—The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Teague is a geologist's dream. It is built of petrified wood and trimmed with stones from every state in the union except North Carolina, as well as France, Germany, England, Belgium, Mexico and the South Seas.

Teague said he was determined to build a home different and original. "We decided on a stone house and began gathering odd rocks with which to trim it. Friends learned of my hobby and soon we had a garage full of rocks."

"One summer we ran across a petrified wood dealer in Stephenville, Tex., and decided that a house built of that material would be the answer to our problem."

The Teagues still receive stones from persons who have heard of the unique home. They hope some day to receive one from North Carolina.

COOPER HEARD IN THIS CITY

Speaks Briefly From Sound Truck At Five Points

Tom Cooper, mayor of Wilmington and colorful candidate for governor, arrived in Greenville this morning at 11 o'clock and delivered one of his fiery addresses at Five Points before leaving for Elizabeth City where tonight he is to address an open meeting of the Kiwanis club. At Five Points the foe of the sales tax, who advocates its elimination by reducing it one half of one per cent each biennium, told the Pitt county voters there was no need for the state to take $198,200 from their pockets in the last fiscal year through "this iniquitous tax on poverty" so long as "those politicians in Raleigh have $50,000,000 to play around with."

Pointing out that all "the other candidates in this race are lawyers," Cooper urged "it is time lawyers put their minds to interpreting the laws and let the farmers, merchants and small dealers make the laws."

He criticized "that lawyers' bill passed by the last session of the General Assembly giving supreme court justices $1,500 a year expense accounts and said it "seems funny, those lawyers could, by subterfuge, increase the pay of these men who get $8,000 a year by $1,500 when the teachers, who get less than $1,000 a year were given only 87 cents a month raise."

Cooper's speech here was his second of the day, having made an address before a large throng at Snow Hill. Cooper's sound truck has proved an innovation in North Carolina politics. Painted in startling red, white and blue, it carries two loud speakers, an amplifying phonograph and a radio, with desks for newsmen, the driver and for guests.

While here Cooper predicted he will be nominated in the first primary. "From the start I have been confident," the colorful candidate said, "the people of North Carolina would give me the lead the first day but since I have been on my tour I have met men who have been making surveys all over the state and they are unanimous in their opinion the voters will give me a majority the first day."

"Such a thing, even with seven candidates in the race, is easily understandable. The people of North Carolina are tired of their government being administered by a group of organized politicians and the people resent that if any of the men who have elaborate and expensive campaign headquarters in the Sir Walter hotel in Raleigh is elected, his campaign expenses will have been so heavy he will have to put 300 parasites on the state payroll to take care of his end of things. That would mean the people of North Carolina would have to dig down and pay out another $200,000 for those birds come at about $2,000 a head a year, and the people of the state aren't ready to pay out that just to get an organized politician in the governor's mansion."

40 And 8 To Stage Planked Shad Supper

The Greenville Vulture of 40 and 8 will hold its first meeting since its organization in the form of a planked shad supper to be held at the Third Street school tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

A number of Pitt county legionnaires were members of the Wilson Vulture before the Greenville unit of the 40 and 8 was formed. John Hill Paylor, correspondent, urged a full attendance at the supper meeting.

There's No Sales Tax On Him

There's no sales tax on the mule Mayor Tom Cooper, of Wilmington, is examining, because the candidate for governor had the sales tax removed from mules in the last session of the General Assembly at the same time the tax was removed from Bibles. "The mule," he said today, "has too much sense to believe all this baloney the organized politicians hand the people about the sales tax being necessary. That tax can be eliminated by reducing it one-half of one per cent each biennium and if I am elected governor I am going to see that gradual elimination is begun."

Four Held Guilty At Morning Term

Four defendants were convicted in County recorder's court this morning, one case was not pressed and one defendant asked for a trial by jury and the case was transferred to Superior court.

The case not pressed charged Will Streeter, colored, with giving a worthless check, and the one transferred to Superior court charged Jesse Whitehurst with violating the rental battery act.

Offie Hunter, Negro, was convicted of possession of illegal liquor for sale and was given a 60-day sentence, suspended upon payment of $25.

Jesse Whitehurst, convicted of driving without a license, was given a 10-day sentence, suspended upon payment of costs and upon further condition he not drive until he secures a license. The defendant appealed to Superior court.

Johnny Cox, convicted of driving drunk, was fined $50, taxed with costs and had his driving license revoked for 12 months, from which sentence he appealed.

Adam Langley, Negro, was convicted also of driving careless and reckless and was given four month sentences in each, the terms to run concurrent. The defendant appealed.

Benefit Concert Is Set For April 11th

In an effort to raise money for the annual Greensboro musical festival the Greenville high school music department, composed of the glee club and band, is giving a benefit concert tomorrow night, April 11, at eight o'clock.

The program will consist of contest numbers by both organizations which will be entered in the state music contest.

In an elimination contest held at E.C.T.C. March 29-30, the band and glee club both received high ratings which qualified them to enter the Greensboro contest.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is helping to sponsor this program as stated by President David Mosier.

Each year the music department has given similar programs to raise money to aid them in representing G.H.S. at the annual state contest meeting.
