FDR REQUESTS FULL SUMMER RELIEF NEEDS

Asks For $975,000,000 For WPA Operation in '41

ABANDONS HOPE FOR NEW TAXES

Points Out Three Possibilities Whereby Legal Debt Limit Might Not Be Exceeded Next Year

Washington, April 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked today for $975,000,000 to run WPA next year, and simultaneously abandoned hope of getting from Congress the $460,000,000 in new taxes requested last January.

In a letter to the Speaker of the House, Mr. Roosevelt held to his original budget figure for WPA, with one major exception—he asked permission to spend the entire $975,000,000 in eight months if "necessary to avoid suffering and hardships."

The President's remarks on taxes were made to a press conference. In connection with the possibility of larger relief appropriations to cover the full year beginning July 1, Mr. Roosevelt was asked what might happen to the public debt which is nearing the $45,000,000 legal limit.

The President replied that Congress might cut his budget estimates for 1941 by a couple of hundred million, that all appropriations voted this session would not necessarily be actually spent in the fiscal year and that it was possible that tax receipts would be up perhaps $200,000,000 over estimates.

From a reduction in the budget and higher revenues, he explained, an amount might be provided equal to the $460,000,000 asked in taxes.

YDC Club Formed At Local College

A Young Democratic club was organized at East Carolina Teachers College last night, with James Whitfield, Greenville, as president, and Ethel Gaston, of Greenville, as vice president.

Miss Ethel Gaston and Lindsay Whichard were appointed by the president to represent the group on the reception committee that will go to Rocky Mount Monday to meet U. S. Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma, who is scheduled to attend the rally in Greenville that night.

In the banquet meeting to be held in the city-county armory Monday night, the Young Democratic club of East Carolina Teachers College will be recognized as representatives.

Other officers are: Christine Tripp of Ransonville, secretary-treasurer; Nancy Darden of Hertford, chairman of the program committee; Robert Burton of Bethel, vice chairman of the program committee; Helen Flanagan of Greenville, publicity chairman; Camilla Bissette of Wilson, chairman, and Celia Blanche Dail of Durant's Neck, vice chairman, of the Inter-collegiate Relations committee; and Lindsay Whichard, Stokes, chairman of the membership committee.

The banquet meeting in Greensboro attended by Whichard is to be held at Jefferson Roof Restaurant. In addition to the E. C. T. C. delegate, there will be present representatives from the following schools: Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, hosts for the occasion, Duke University, the University of North Carolina, Wake Forest College, and Appalachian State Teachers College.

Whichard, membership chairman, announced after the organizational meeting that a campus-wide membership drive would be started at East Carolina Teachers College in the immediate future.

A prominent Southern Democrat will address the YDC of East Carolina Teachers College at its charter meeting, to be held after the membership drive. State President Forrest Pollard will be extended an invitation to attend.

President Hopeful That Status Quo of Pacific Will Not Be Molested

All Agreed

The Hague, April 18.—(AP)—The Netherlands government has informed Japan that it neither will ask any foreign government to protect The Netherlands East Indies in case the war should spread to Holland nor accept an offer of protection if it is made, it was announced today.

Meanwhile the Dutch received with guarded satisfaction the statement by United States Secretary of State Hull insisting that "the interest of many countries" would be affected by any attempt to intervene in the affairs of the Indies.

RALLY TICKETS ON SALE HERE

Goal of 150 Set For City of Greenville Alone

Jake Hadley, chairman of the ticket sales committee for the YDC district rally to be held here Monday night, has set a goal of 150 tickets for Greenville and today expressed confidence he would reach the quota with the aid of 15 young Greenville women he has enlisted in the campaign.

The rally promises to be one of the largest political rallies of Eastern Carolina. In addition to bringing some 500 Young Democrats, together for good fellowship, one of the most outstanding speakers in the United States Senate, Sen. Josh Lee of Oklahoma, will deliver the principal address. Thirteen counties will be represented at the meeting here.

The speaking will be preceded by a banquet, both to be held in the Army building. Although not invited to participate in the program, most of the state's candidates for governor are expected to be present.

Tickets went on sale today and Chairman Hadley immediately declared that the young women are meeting with a "fine response." The young women will call on prospective buyers, but if any one fails to be approached and wishes to get a ticket he, or she, as women are especially invited to attend, is urged to telephone Mr. Hadley.

Tickets are being sold by the following: Misses Elizabeth Gates, Jane Garrett, Jamie Merritt, Emmy Lou Skales, Alice Leigh Blow, Dorothy Brinkley, Clara Crumpler, Madeline Woodard, Myra Blount, Elizabeth Wilson, Dorothy Stokes, Marjorie Spivey, Kate Foley and Doris Duval.

In commenting on the ticket sale, Mr. Hadley declared: "As in the past, we are sure that the people of our city are delighted to be host to a meeting this kind and will attend in large numbers to prove to our visitors that Greenville is the most hospitable city in North Carolina."

Operators Of School Trucks Meet Friday

The year-end school truck drivers' meeting will be held in the Winterville gymnasium tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock, at which time a review of the year will be discussed with a view to improving the service next year. Special speakers will be heard.

T. B. Atmore, of Washington, N. C., district representative of the state school commission, will address the group.

Not a single child has been injured in an accident during the year nearing a close and only a few minor collisions have occurred, it was reported.

Two field men of the transportation division of the school commission, C. C. Brown and L. C. Thornton of Raleigh, are expected to attend the meeting.

Broughton To Visit City Tomorrow P. M.

J. M. Broughton will spend two hours in Greenville tomorrow in the interest of his campaign for the gubernatorial nomination. He will be at the Proctor hotel between 3 and 5 o'clock for the purpose of greeting old friends and making new acquaintances.

Mr. Broughton will pass through Greenville on the way to Kinston, where he will make an address tomorrow night.

State Income Taxes Set All-Time Record

Raleigh, April 18.—(AP)—State income tax collections set a new record today at $11,385,895.45 for this fiscal year. The best previous fiscal year's record was $11,364,598.28 in 1937-38.

Last fiscal year the income tax yield was only $9,763,000. Income tax payments are still coming in steadily.

Chief Executive Supports Statement that Was Made By Hull Warning Other Nations Keep Hands Off Dutch East Indies In Case The Netherlands Should Become Involved In European War

Washington, April 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt expressed a hope today that the status quo in the whole Pacific area could be maintained in the interest of peace.

He stated his view to a press conference when asked for comment on Secretary Hull's statement yesterday that disturbance of the status quo would prejudice the cause of "stability, peace and security, not only in the region of The Netherlands Indies, but in the entire Pacific area."

Hull's statement, in effect, was a notice to other nations to keep hands off the Dutch East Indies.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters that Hull's declaration had covered the situation thoroughly.

Taking cognizance of Japanese expressed concern for the future of the island since the European war engulfed The Netherlands, Secretary of State Hull said in a statement last night:

"Intervention in the domestic affairs of The Netherlands Indies or any alteration of their status quo by others than peaceful processes would be prejudicial to the cause of stability, peace and security, not only in the region of The Netherlands Indies, but in the entire Pacific area."

As he issued his pronouncement, British, French and American authorities said in Shanghai that a Japanese attempt to seize the Dutch East Indies in the event of a German invasion of The Netherlands was a "serious possibility."

Official comment at Tokyo was that the statement coincided with the foreign minister's views on the subject. An Admiralty spokesman declared that Japan had "no territorial designs" on the Dutch possessions.

Plans Open House For WPA Projects

Open House for the various WPA production and service projects is being arranged for the week of May 20-25, at which time the general public will be invited to inspect the various undertakings in the county.

Production and service projects include such activities as sewing rooms, lunch rooms, library work, matron service in the schools, historical research and the art gallery.

In connection with the Open House, a banquet is being planned for all Pitt project workers in the division of the WPA and other interested persons.

Mrs. W. F. Jackson, assistant district supervisor, is making arrangements for the Open House, the purpose of which will be to show the work being carried on by the women on the various projects.

Navy Is Considering Larger U. S. Vessels

Washington, April 18.—(AP)—Convinced that Japan is building at least 43,000-ton battleships, Admiral Harold R. Stark said today that the navy contemplated future construction of super dreadnaughts of 50,000 to 52,000 tons.

The chief of naval operations told the Senate Naval Affairs committee that he believed Japan was building eight of the large type vessels, but doubted reports that 12 were now under construction by Japan.

Earlier in a statement the navy reviewed its advocacy of a major air and submarine base at Guam, tiny American island outpost 1,500 miles from Tokyo.

Lawyers For Cotten Disagree On Theory

Raleigh, April 18.—(AP)—Counsel for Woodrow Cotten expressed different opinions today in arguments to the jury as to how Mrs. Mary Lee Herndon was killed.

Last night and this morning Joe Douglass and Ben Templeton, two of Cotten's lawyers, argued that the wife of the young Wake county farmer, Margaret Herndon Cotten, shot her mother, but the third lawyer, Sam Morris, told the jury "it was physically impossible for either to have committed this crime."

AYDEN AFFAIR HUGE SUCCESS

Young Farmers Entertain Dads At Annual Banquet

Fathers and sons, and a few invited guests mingled in Ayden last night at the Future Farmers club and the Terratan club of that thriving Pitt county town held their annual Father-Son banquet with approximately 80 in attendance.

The meeting was presided over by Courtney Pierce, president of the Future Farmers club, who displayed his ability as a presiding officer as well as his training in how to be a better farmer.

Courtney is one of three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pierce. The grandfathers of the three young men were present at the meeting. They were Dr. M. N. Sauls and Levi Pierce, each of whom made interesting talks in which they reminisced and discussed the changing times.

Shell McLawhorn's address of welcome was replied to by G. W. Prescott, who expressed the appreciation of the fathers at having been invited to the affair, and assured the boys of their parents' interest in the work they are doing. The invocation was by Rodenck Sumerell.

In his response to the welcome, Mr. Prescott declared that the work being carried on by the boys was a noble adventure and their achievements would play an important part in civilization in the future. "I am glad to know that the fate of this country is going to fall into the hands of such boys as you gathered here tonight," he declared.

The delightful chicken dinner was served by the Home Economics department of the school under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Wilson Dail, teacher. Special piano music was provided during the dinner by Miss Sarah Kathryn McLawhorn. Following the dinner the Home Economics class was presented and received a round of applause. The agricultural boys were not the only ones who made a good showing of their training, the Home Economics girls having displayed results of thorough training in the preparing and serving of a meal.

Bruce Hart made a report on projects undertaken by Young Tar Hill farmers during the past year. Explaining that each agricultural student was required to carry on at least two projects, he summarized the projects as follows: tobacco, 34 boys with projects entailing 34 acres, with a total labor income of $4,384.20; corn, 27 boys with projects on 66 acres, with a total labor income of $1,250.95; swine, 11 boys with projects of one pig each, resulting in a labor income of $431.15; poultry, six boys with projects involving 950 chickens, netting a total labor income of $299.39; peanuts, one boy with one acre, who earned a labor income of $48.40.

Charlie McLawhorn, president of the Terratan club, explained some of the benefits derived from the organization's activities during the past year under the able guidance of Agricultural Teacher S. F. Peterson. He declared that the boys, high school graduates, had learned much during the year and said Mr. Peterson had done much to aid agriculture in the section and help young farmers get a start on the right track. He recalled that the club had sponsored programs on tobacco diseases and other worthy projects. He invited graduating members of the High School to join the Terratan club.

James Humbles discussed outside activities of the agriculture class of the high school. He related that the grounds had been kept in good condition, that minor repairs had been made on the buildings, a fence had

Germans Capture Norwegian City Near Border

SWEDEN ADOPTS DEFENSE MOVES

Nazi Forces In Southern Norway Are Strengthened While Allies Battle For Control of Narvik

Stockholm, April 18.—(AP)—The German invaders of Norway today rolled closer to Sweden who clamped new restrictions on foreigners within her territory in hope of maintaining her precarious neutrality.

Halden, close to the Southern Norwegian-Swedish frontier, was captured by the Germans. Other invading forces were threatening the Fossum fortifications in the Mysen neighborhood, about 50 miles southeast of Oslo.

Norwegian military circles said the fortification line, a row of concrete forts, was equipped with guns, ammunition and provisions to withstand a long siege.

Reports from Halden said a force of 200 Germans first occupied the city and later were reinforced by 1,000 more.

The Germans strengthened their positions in Southern Norway, while in the North allied and Norwegian forces battled with Germany for control of the Narvik area.

By J. NORMAN LODGE

Vannas, Sweden, April 18.—(AP)—British marines and soldiers are consolidating their foothold in Northern Norway as Germans driving Norwegian defense troops before them retreat to the South.

I have just returned after a journey afoot through Norwegian frontier areas which took me to the outskirts of Narvik before I was arrested by British troops.

A show of my passport gave me my freedom—but that was short-lived. As I started out in an effort to tour the region to determine the situation I was arrested again and turned over to the Norwegian military authorities back of Narvik.

Stockholm, April 18.—(AP)—Reports reaching here from the Norwegian frontier said today it was only a question of hours before a Norwegian attack would be started against German positions in the Trondheim district.

Swedish newspaper correspondents said the Norwegians were concentrating on the inner part of Trondheim fjord and at a railroad junction connecting with Namsos, about 100 miles further north on the coast.

These reports said it was believed the British had landed at Namsos.

Rose Speaks Tonight At State PTA Meet

J. H. Rose, superintendent of the Greenville school system, will deliver the principal address at tonight's meeting of the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers being conducted at High Point.

Mr. Rose, accompanied by Mrs. Rose, left for the convention city this morning.

The local school man will speak at the annual banquet at the Sheraton hotel tonight on the subject of "The Functions of Our Schools in Maintaining Our Democratic Institutions." Among others appearing on the program will be Governor Hoey.

Probing Meat Theft North Of Tar River

Members of the sheriff's department today were investigating the theft of seven hams and shoulders from the smokehouse at the home of Doc Smith on the Fleming farm north of the river.

The meat was stolen after the lock on the smokehouse had been cut off the door.

Bloodhounds were used in an effort to track down the guilty party or parties and several persons have been questioned although no warrant has been served.

Fishing Law Changed On Shad And Herring

The Board of Conservation and Development has voted to extend the season for taking shad and herring until May 1.

Under this regulation shad and herring may be taken in inland waters on April 19 and 20, and 26 and 27.

There will be no change in the method of taking shad and herring. The season will merely continue until the new date mentioned under the same restrictions which have been in effect since January 1.

NEGRO ROBBER GETS 10 YEARS

Harold Carr Sentenced In Five Burglary Cases

Harold Carr, Greenville Negro charged with second degree burglary in five cases in which he is alleged to have invaded local residences, was convicted in two, pleaded not guilty in the other three and was given prison terms of seven to 10 years in each, the case to run concurrent, in Pitt Superior court this morning.

The Negro was arrested by Greenville officers and charged with having entered and robbed the home of Clifton A. Stokes, James A. Brewer, Alton Clapp, J. F. Dunbar and J. T. Jordan.

A case charging three other Negroes with breaking, entering and larceny was disposed of by the tribunal. Wilbur Brown was freed on a directed verdict of acquittal, but Claude Moore and Thomas Hard were convicted. Judgment was reserved, however.

S. W. Wadsworth pleaded guilty to driving drunk and was given three months road sentence, fine $50 and taxed with the costs. The road sentence was suspended for three months upon payment of the cost and fine and also upon good behavior.

Three defendants charged with criminal assault or attempted criminal assault, pleaded guilty to lesser charges and were given sentences. Robert King, Negro, charged with having carnal knowledge of a five-year-old girl, was given two years; Joe Sutton, charged with criminal assault, pleaded guilty to assault on a female and forcible trespass, was given three years. Judgment to be suspended and defendant placed on probation for five years upon payment of costs; Jarvis Harris, also charged with criminal assault, was given three years, the sentence suspended and the defendant placed on probation for five years upon payment of costs.

James Grimes pleaded guilty to forgery and was given 12 months suspended upon payment of costs and good behavior.

Frank Scott was acquitted of assault, but five co-defendants were convicted. Judgment was withheld, however.

Kiwanians from Her Attend Wilson Me

Members of the Greenville Kiwanis club, 18 strong, attended a 7th division meeting held in Wilson last night. As a result of the division meeting, the club will not hold regular Friday evening session.

Last night's meeting was addressed by Dr. Charles Armstrong, Carolina Kiwanis governor, and by several other prominent Kiwanians.

Mrs. Leon R. Meadows this morning slipped and fell in her home on Fifth Street and broke an arm. She was taken to the hospital where the injury was cared for.

Entertain at Tea

Mrs. B. F. Bullard and Mrs. Royce H. Hunsucker entertained at tea Tuesday afternoon from 4:30 until six o'clock, honoring Miss Frances Colwell of Charlotte and Washington, D. C.

The home was beautifully decorated with a profusion of spring flowers. Tulips, iris, phlox, apple blossoms, butter cups and carnations were used throughout the entire lower floor. In the dining room a color scheme of lavender, yellow and white predominated. The table was covered with a beautiful madras cloth, and centered with an arrangement of white carnations and yellow tapers.

Mrs. D. H. Conley greeted the guests upon arrival and presented them to Mrs. Walter Harrington, who introduced them to the receiving line which was composed of Mrs. Bullard, Miss Frances Colwell of Charlotte, Mrs. Hunsucker, Mrs. W. L. Hampton of Norfolk, Va., Miss O'Neil of Norfolk, Va., and Miss Hennie Long.

Miss Alice Groves Hunsucker presided at the register and Mrs. Ed Hester and Mrs. Wayland Hunsucker showed the guests into the hall where they were received by Mrs. T. K. Fountain, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore and Mrs. H. C. Sugg poured tea in the dining room and Miss Alice Blow, Miss Elizabeth Sugg and little Miss Barbara Jean Bullard passed sandwiches, nuts, cakes and mints.

Goodbyes were said to Mrs. Ed Wilkerson. About 100 guests called during the afternoon.

Airle Azalea Gardens to Open
Wilmington, April 18.—The famous Airle Gardens, private estate of Mrs. Harvey Walters on the Wrightville Beach highway, will be opened to the public on Friday and Saturday, April 19 and 20.

This year the gardens will be open from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. The Ministering Circle will be in charge of the gardens and members will serve as guides for the visitors. All proceeds will go to charity. The two days during which the gardens will be open will be the only chance for the public to see the famous azaleas, now in bloom. During the past several days the chamber of commerce has received over 300 inquiries as to the opening dates from persons throughout North Carolina and adjoining states. Airle has few rivals for the beauty of its azaleas and other spring flowers.

George B. Singletary Chapter UDC
An outstanding meeting of the Chapter was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. A. Person. The meeting was opened with the U. D. C. ritual after which the minutes were read and approved, and the treasurer's report was given.

Committees were appointed for Confederate Memorial Day, May 10. The exercises will be held at the high school. The committees are as follows: Mrs. Fleming and Mrs. Harding to consult with Mr. Rose on arrangements; Mrs. Hollingsworth, flowers; Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Moseley, transportation.

After the business, the program was given by Miss Alma Browning. She gave a most interesting history of Nashville, Tenn. her former home. She told of the early history of Nashville, and its later development with the many colleges and universities located there—Vanderbilt University, Peabody, Ward Belmont, Fiske and other colleges.

She told of the beautiful location of the Capitol building which is built entirely of Tennessee material. She showed pictures of many buildings among them the Capitol, the Parthenon, the only reproduction of Greek Parthenon, the tomb of James K. Polk, who lived in Nashville. The Hermitage, the beautiful home of Andrew Jackson.

After the meeting adjourned, the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Tilghman, served a delicious ice course.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do you live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FAS-TEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Child Study Group.
The second of a series of meetings for Child Study was held at the Third Street School on Wednesday afternoon, April 17, in the school auditorium.

Miss Lucy Nulton of the E. C. T. C. Training school was guest speaker, and she led in the open forum.

Miss Nulton spoke in an interesting way. Her talk was very helpful and instructive. The subject for the afternoon was "The Health of the Child." Miss Nulton first called attention to the fact that no two children were alike, therefore we must watch the development of the child as an individual. Also that his physical, emotional and mental life was so interwoven that we could not take any of these apart but must think of the child as a rounded individual.

Wholesome development of the child will depend upon what you provide for him, namely what he is learning, how he feels about things, if his attitude is right, and what he will do.

There are many universal problems in the wholesome development of a child. Some of the most important are:

1. Sleep: Make sleep a pleasure. Never punish by putting a child to bed. Test yourself and see what you do to promote regular sleep. Does your child have a regular sleep schedule? A regular nap hour? Do you put him to bed at your own convenience? Does he have a quiet play-time between supper and bedtime so that he may relax and be more ready for sleep? Do you give him a few minutes warning that bedtime is near. Hurry, or things snatched away cause rebellion. Do you undress him and help him prepare for bed, or if of school age, let him undress himself? Then after you tell him goodnight do you turn out the light and leave him in the quiet for a good night's rest.

Lack of sleep depletes red blood cells. We crowd our children's lives with too much routine. There is no time for relaxation. The child becomes high-strung, nervous, his days too full of outside activities, and the tragedy is that he has no time he can call his own, to dig, to sit and dream, or to play as children love to play. This overcrowding leaves the child physically tired and is a process of breaking down.

2. Time: Never say hurry to a child. Some are lowgeared and others highgeared. Let a child eat, digest and do the things he does do in his own rhythm. He will be his best self if he is in his own gear.

3. Food: The average child of today eats entirely too many sweets and too many starches. These he needs some of. They give energy but too much burns him out. He needs fruit juices and wholesome food; more than just food, he needs to know why he eats what. Develop an attitude for food. Why do children say they do not like that dish? Most children behave on a basis of imitation. This is true in eating? Look for the person near him who will not eat certain things. Teach the child food is not a matter of appetite but a matter of necessity, and duty to our bodies. Make the table attractive. Use flowers and pleasant conversation, making the group around the table an hour to look forward to, not to just rush thru. When a child expresses enthusiasm for any food serve it as often as permissible in a diet.

4. Security: A child must feel happy and secure. A sense of security is very important in the development of a child. Be temperate in all things. Temperance is moderation.

5. Being inquisitive about self and the origin of life. When a child asks questions answer them as honestly as you know how. If you do not tell him what he wants to know he will find out in a way you do not want him to. Answer only what he asks. Let the rest ride until he comes back for more. It is very important that he knows about his body—the names of the parts of his body, and how to care for himself.

6. Moderation. Restraint and Temperance: A child needs to learn to deny himself at the impressionable age. He must know that too much candy is not good for him. He must know that he cannot have all he wants if it is not best for him. If a child is taught this from the beginning, then when High School age comes he will know how to control his wishes.

7. Voice: Never speak harshly or yell at a child. It upsets him and irritates him. He will also imitate your voice and manner. Wholesome development requires careful planning day by day upon those living with the child.

8. Independence: Make the child independent. You will not have your child long. He is just yours for a little while, so while you may owe it to him to make him as independent as you can. Also teach him to value his body and take care of it. Show him the importance of seeing his doctor and his dentist at least twice a year for check-ups on his health.

The talk had stimulated a great many calls for help with problems with children. These Miss Nulton answered fully and a free discussion followed.

The public is cordially invited to these meetings. —Reported.

SEEK CONTROL DAIRY MALADY

Clinics Organized To Arrest Serious Disease

Raleigh, April 18.—Seeking to control a newly-recognized malady of dairy herds, "mastitis," and arrest serious breeding diseases, the state department of agriculture has completed veterinary clinics throughout North Carolina in an effort to enhance the value of dairy animals and protect farmers from further losses. Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott announced today.

Clinics have been conducted at the State Hospital, Morganton; Jackson Training School, Concord; N. C. W. Dairy, Guilford College; State Hospital, Raleigh, and the Caswell Training school, Kinston.

The control program was conducted under supervision of Dr. William Moore, chief of the department's veterinary division, with two of the best known authorities on mastitis and breeding diseases in charge. Three-fourths of the practicing veterinarians in the state attended the clinics.

"An examination of nearly 400 dairy animals throughout the state indicates the necessity of controlling mastitis and breeding problems if North Carolina is to increase its dairy industry," Commissioner Scott said. "The principal value of prevention and control work on these diseases will greatly increase the milk production of the dairy animals and greatly prolong the useful life of the cow."

Dr. Moore reported that mastitis is a disease that can be controlled through proper supervision and management of herds and added that the department has received full cooperation of the dairy extension office at State College and other state institutions.

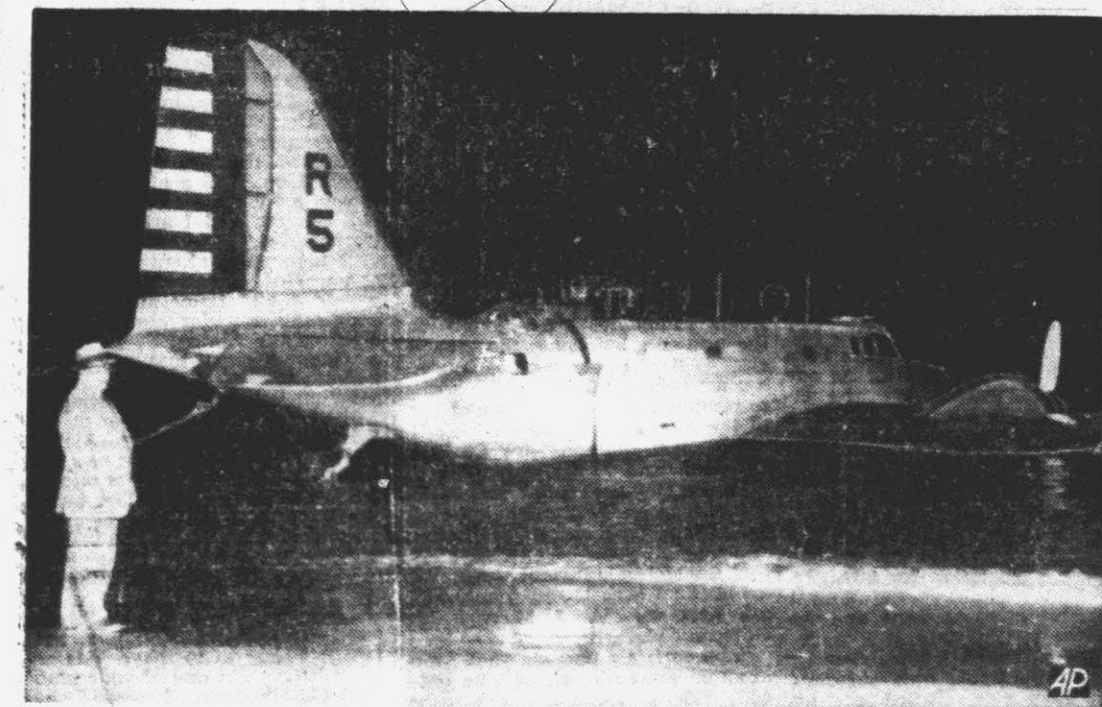

Twin Girls With Twin Jobs Have Twin Ideas About Dates

One Won't Go To A Show Unless The Other Can Go, Too

Des Moines, Ia.—Two twins make four, and it probably would take four ordinary girls to do what these twins, Lilla (left) and Lillie Anderson, 24, pack into one day. They're graduate nurses on night duty in a hospital 48 hours a week, and each morning they hustle from sick rooms to class rooms at Drake university, where both are seeking liberal arts degrees. They're aiming to become airline stewardesses. Two afternoons a week they play basketball, table tennis or swim and have fun at the piano. Finding time for homework is a problem, but a bigger one is men. "One of us won't go out on a date unless we both can go," Lillie explains. With 15 hours of classwork a week, the girls figure they should have their degrees in 1942. Then for the blue skies and the sleek, silver ships.

Army Plane Lands In Sea On Flight From Alabama

A twin-engine United States army bomber became lost in bad weather in returning from Maxwell Field, Alabama, on a training flight and made a forced landing in the Atlantic ocean off Coney Island, N. Y. Its crew of eight was rescued unhurt. Lieut. Edmund Gorman, the pilot, said he was forced down by lack of fuel. The half-submerged plane is shown on the beach after it was towed 200 feet into shallow water.

been erected about the Home Economics building, members had helped promote the school fair and otherwise had tried to be of service to the school and community.

Billy Pierce, brother of Courtney, outlined projects to be carried on by the boys next year, declaring that more diversified farming would be practiced.

J. R. Turnage, prominent Ayden citizen, was the first guest to be called on to speak to the boys. He declared that he had watched the advancement of education in the community for the past 30 years, "and I can appreciate what you are doing and what it will mean to the future of this community." He added, "I am proud of you boys and I speak the sentiment of the entire community when I say this. I, too, am proud of your parents."

Mr. Turnage, as did other guest speakers, paid high tribute to Principal W. M. Jenkins and to Mr. Peterson. He said that in the past few years he had seen more constructive work in the school than at any time in the past. "Every day I can see the results of Mr. Peterson's work with these boys of our community," he declared. He continued that North Carolina was an agricultural section, ranking fifth in the nation, and that Eastern Carolina in particular was adapted to agriculture. "You boys live in the finest section of the country and through your efforts, I am sure that Eastern North Carolina will be developed from a strictly tobacco-growing section into one of diversified farming."

County School Superintendent D. H. Conley commended the agricultural students on their work, declaring that the activities as outlined by James Humble had had their result in reducing the cost of maintenance and at the same time provided a clean, well-kept school plant.

J. H. Coward, county auditor who lives in Ayden, declared that he was a self-appointed number one booster of the group of future farmers and young farmers and added that he was gratified at the work being done by Mr. Peterson and his boys.

D. J. Whitchard, Jr., editor of the Greenville Reflector, declared that farming was the foundation of this country and that the entire population was directly dependent upon it. He advised the boys "but you not only are the future farmers, but you are the future citizens of your community."

County Agent R. E. Bennett observed that the reports rendered by the boys was gratifying to him and said the boys had had a large part in the change in agriculture now taking place, the movement from one crop to diversified farming, and urged the young men to continue their good work.

A. P. Rowe, chairman of the local school board, complimented the work being done by Mr. Jenkins and Mr. Peterson and declared that he and the entire community fully appreciated their efforts.

C. V. Cannon, a member of the board, declared that he had been on the board for the past 30 years and had kept up with the progress. He added that the work now being done was "very gratifying" to the officials and public in general. He told the boys "that courage and resourcefulness such as you are being taught will prove of value in these times of uncertainty in Europe."

Thad Cannon, another member of the board, was recognized and commended the work being carried on in the school.

Principal Jenkins praised the work and cooperation in general of Mr. Peterson, declaring that the agriculture teacher had done much to instill in the boys the willingness to work. N. H. Cannon, commercial teacher, and Lester Ridenhour, history teacher and coach, also made a few remarks.

THE SPITEFIRE

By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY: Isobel rebukes Brenda for "carrying on" with Saltus. Then Mac warns her to keep out of the Abernathy affair, and finally Abner, himself, angrily reproaches her.

Chapter 13 The Case Against Ned

"WHEN I heard Ned had skipped to California without so much as a goodbye to Alaine, I began to ask some questions," Abner went on. "It didn't take long to find out who had talked to him last. I can put two and two together and make four, even if I don't come from New York!"

He was out of the city limits by now and driving furiously. Brenda was interested to see with what skill he handled the small car despite his evident anger at her.

"Ab, I wish you'd tell me why you're so set against Alaine's marrying Ned Barrow. If she loves him, I mean. What do you have against him?"

"Plenty." "The fight you and he had several years ago?"

He took his eyes from the road long enough to send her a glance of scorn.

"So he told you about that, too, did he? I suppose you know when he cut his first tooth, and what his grade in chemistry was when he graduated! No, if you must know, it has nothing to do with that fight. I'd forgotten it myself.

"I have"—he spoke with great dignity—"good and sufficient reasons of my own why I oppose—why I always shall oppose my sister's marriage to Barrow."

She was slightly impressed in spite of his youthful appearance. "Everybody else speaks well of him," she began. "Judge Harper—"

"That old goat! What does he know about Barrow—or Alaine and me, for that matter?"

"She said—neatly—I notice you go straight to him every time Alaine threatens to elope. You evidently value the old goat's help in an emergency."

He had the grace to reddent. "Well, I do. He's a nice old goat, if you get what I mean; but he's old, Barrow, and I am—are a contemporary."

"You mean you know something about Ned Barrow that other people don't? Something that in your opinion rules him out as a husband for Alaine?"

"You can put it that way if you want to."

"What is it?" she asked simply. "Never you mind what it is! You can take it from me—Alaine can take it from me—that he's not the right man for a sister of mine."

She smiled and shook her head. "I'm afraid you'll have to be more specific, Ab, my dear! In this day and age girls want to know the truth about matters touching so closely on their own lives."

He pressed his lips more firmly together. "I might tell you, but I'm not going to have Alaine know. She's not one of your kind of girls—modern, I mean," he added hastily.

His companion suppressed a smile. "Well, I've not been guarded and shielded, so you can safely confide in me. And it's much better for you all than your opponent, you know. What is this dreadful thing you know about Ned Barrow?"

"He's supporting a woman!" he blurted. "A woman and a child—his child. I haven't the least doubt. Now, does that satisfy you that he isn't fit for Alaine?"

"The Whole Story "It would—if I believed it to be true," she commented thoughtfully. "But I wonder if it is. Ab? I thought when I talked to him that I'd seldom seen a nicer or finer face than his. Isn't there any possibility you might be mistaken?"

She felt in his pocket for his handkerchief and drew his nose scornfully. "It was almost as though he had produced a trumpet to proclaim with a blast his contempt for her girlish weakness."

"Ask Mac if you don't believe me," he said finally.

That silenced her. She remembered the other man's words of the evening before. He had called the situation a "mess" and warned her to keep out of it. Exactly the sort of thing a man—a decent man who liked and felt a friendly regard for a girl, a stranger—would say if the facts were as Ab had presented them.

"I think you had better tell me a little more about it," she urged him at last. "The—the facts, I mean."

"Very well! You might as well know the whole thing now. Mac J. Smith to Johnson and wife by deed recorded in Book E-17, page 16."

This the 22nd day of March, 1940. J. J. WHITE, Trustee. J. B. James, Attorney. Itwk-twks

War And Campaign Not Only Things Of Interest

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh April 18.—(AP)—The European war and the North Carolina gubernatorial race just about monopolize the newspaper front pages and form the basis for most conversations hereabout, but it takes only a casual scanning of the State News Office's "Coming Events in North Carolina" to prove that there is plenty happening besides these two major news items.

Beginning with today, for instance, there is the big annual tulip festival at Washington, an event which will last through tomorrow.

And from then on to primary day, May 25, there is something of particular interest in some section practically every day.

Eliminating numerous athletic and other events of hardly more than local interest, the state's schedule of coming events goes something like this:

April 21-23—N. C. Conference for Social Service Workers, Winston-Salem.

22-24—Housing Authority Convention, Raleigh.

23-25—Scottish Rite Masons, Charlotte.

24-25—State meeting of King's Daughters, Durham.

25-13th Annual Textile school style show, State College, Raleigh.

25-27—N. C. Collegiate Press Association, Charlotte.

26—Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt's address, Asheville.

26-27—State convention, A. A. U. W., Raleigh.

29-30—N. C. Insurance agents convention, Winston-Salem.

30—May 1—N. C. Garden club convention, Winston-Salem.

May 1-3—Sixth annual gallopade, Rocky Mount.

2—Marian Anderson concert, Raleigh.

3-4—Second annual tournament for bridge championship of North Carolina, Raleigh.

4—"Paust." with Norman Gordon, Raleigh.

4-5—High School Press Institute, U. N. C., Chapel Hill.

5-12—National Music Week concerts over the state.

6-8 N. C. Dental Society, Charlotte.

8-9—District Rotary conference, Rocky Mount.

10-10—High School Musical festival, Raleigh.

11—Declaration of CAA seaplane landin, Beaufort harbor.

13-15—N. C. Safety Conference, Winston-Salem.

13-16—N. C. Fireman's school, Charlotte.

14-16—N. C. Funeral Directors association, Raleigh.

16-18—N. C. Coal Dealers Association, Charlotte.

16-21—Christian Missionary Alliance, Asheville.

17—Democratic State Convention, Raleigh.

18-20—N. C. department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Winston-Salem.

19-23—Mecklenburg Declaration celebration, Charlotte.

21-23—N. C. Drug association, Charlotte.

21-23—Traveling Men's Association, Charlotte.

22-24—Southeastern Jurisdictional conference of Methodist church, Asheville.

24-25—Virginia-Carolina Typographical conference, Winston-Salem.

25—State and county primary.

Now It's Bare Knees For Sports

Here you see fashion's latest trick—bare knees. Above the short kilt flannel skirt are (1) a navy blue little boy's jacket, (2) a hunt green cardigan, (3) a tanager red pullover and (4) a sun yellow blouse. Costumes assembled by Lord and Taylor.

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

Bare knee fashions are the newest thing under the style sun. They're the fashion mart's latest formula for comfort in climbing fences, bowling, golfing and the like. They combine a short skirt cut off three inches above the knee cap and long socks cut off two inches below it—and they leave your knees as bare as your face. "Made up" too with just as artistic a touch.

They're going to give men a new reason for interest in women's fashions. As a matter of fact they've been swiped from a page in the book of men's styles. Men in Scotch kilts and Tyrolean shorts have been leaving their knees exposed for a good many years.

So lift your kneecaps, ladies, and step into spring's new kilts. They're meant for any woman with a good trim figure. Not just the youngsters.

The skirts are of two kinds—a pleated version in men's wear gray flannel or a circular cut of two-toned beige checked tweed. They're all worn over ribbed wool tights of the same color as the skirt, so that if you tip head-first over that fence you have nothing to worry about except the spot where you land.

The skirts are worn with very smart tops—a long sleeved crepe blouse, a lumber jack cardigan, a pullover sweater or a much-pocketed square-cut little boy's jacket. (Notice that most of them are the kind of top that doesn't part company easily with skirts.) They come in a lot of gay colors—sun yellow, tanager red, hunt green and a soberer navy blue.

The socks of cable-knit wool are dyed in colors to match them and knit with elasticized tops to do away with the problem of garters. Headlines are small brimmed sports hats worn far back on the head; footnotes are oxfords with cork and crepe rubber soles.

That assembles the costume—except for beautiful knees. Knees have to be glorified if they're going to be so much in view. So to take care of that problem, there's a new special makeup for them stowed away in a bright little flannel purse dyed to match socks and shirt.

Here's the formula for its use: First a massage with cream to soften knees from and back where the style mart says, a woman is apt to show her age.) Next a film of make-up cream and a flick of cream rouge to take away that dead white look. And last—don't laugh—a beauty spot, star or crescent shaped, set to one side of one knee cap.

Now go and fall over the fence.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York, April 18.—Life with father in Clarence Day's time may have been a family album affair with horse-drawn carriages and plenty of red plush upholstery, but they dined with an elegance which hasn't survived the chain restaurant and drugstore lunch counter era that came when prohibition doomed the great cafes of Shanley, Rector, Bustanoby, Reisenweber, Churchill, and perhaps one or two others.

They were dominant institutions on Broadway in a generation in which people's conversational powers were less limited than they are now, and to enter any of those places was a certificate of admittance to the company of Caruso, Blanche Ring, Nora Bayes, Isadore Duncan, Irene Castle, Sigmund Romberg, Richard Harding Davis, Ganna Walska, Charles Dana Gibson, Victor Herbert, Ziegfeld, Diamond Jim Brady, Lillian Russell, and a majority of the others whose names were important in New York then.

Bustanoby's Cafe des Beaux Arts, on 40th street at 6th avenue, introduced dinner dancing in New York, and it was there that Jim Brady's celebrated dinner for Lillian Russell was given, at $100 a plate. At that dinner were Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, David Warfield, Mary Garden, Otto H. Kahn, and the gorgeous Anna Held, whom Ziegfeld had just brought over from Paris. Mile. Held was the first woman to enter Bustanoby's new women's bar, a sensational innovation then.

Bustanoby also was noted for his establishment at 39th street and 6th avenue (this was 1907), and it was there that Romberg, a piano player, collaborated with Bustanoby on the first song he ever wrote, "The Perfumed Waltz." Romberg went on from there to become the composer of The Student Prince, May Time, and scores of operettas that earned him riches and renown.

I think it is important to remember these flashbacks because after an absence of two generations Bustanoby, between chapters of his memoirs, is returning to the field in which he established himself as one of the great restaurateurs of an older, mellow, and perhaps more genteel time. Perhaps by the time this reaches you the Cafe des Gourmets, in 56th street, will have opened its doors, with Jacques Bustanoby at the door to greet you. There will be no Anna Helds, Richard Harding Davises, Jim Brady's, or Dana Gibsons to sit around the tables and spin airy brocades of fancy, but the Bustanoby manner will be in evidence, and that is all that ever mattered anyway.

WILSON'S Weekly MEMO by GEORGE RECTOR

I am all too painfully aware that this is the season with house cleaning and refurbishing. May a mere man suggest that you also take stock of your kitchen equipment? There are so many inexpensive utensils and gadgets that make cooking more interesting and give a really professional touch to your efforts.

George Rector
Food Consultant Wilson & Co.

VEAL AND HAM PIE

This "veal-and-hammer" is an old-time favorite with a strictly modern improvement—it's made with Wilson's Tender Made Ham, plus 2 lbs. veal shoulder, boned, 2 Clear Brook Eggs, 1 can consommé, savory, mace, pepper, salt to taste.

PIE RECIPE

Grease a good-sized casserole or baking dish. On the bottom place a layer of veal, cut in 1-inch pieces. Then place a generous layer of thin slices of Tender Made Ham and a layer of the hard-cooked eggs, sliced. Sprinkle seasonings between each layer. Repeat these three layers, then top with a final layer of the meat. Pour on about 1 cup of the consommé. Be sure to select the kind that "jells" when chilled. Put on a rich pie dough, decorate with pastry rose and leaves, and brush top with beaten egg yolk.

Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 1 1/2 hours. Carefully remove rose and put in additional consommé through a small funnel, until liquid comes to top of pie. Replace rose. When pie is cool, place in icebox until quite cold. Serve from the baking dish.

Wilson's Braunschweiger Liver Sausage Salad

It is time to start giving the family sausage. You could not open the season with anything tastier—and more nutritious—than Wilson's Braunschweiger Sausage.

1 tablespoon plain gelatine
1/4 cup water
1/2 can tomato juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup Wilson's Certified Braunschweiger Sausage, in 1/2-inch cubes
1/4 cup finely cut celery or cucumber
1/2 green pepper, cut fine
Seasonings to taste

Soak gelatine in cold water. Bring tomato juice to the boil, then combine with gelatine, stirring until dissolved. Add lemon juice, sausage and cut vegetables. Season to taste with salt, pepper, onion salt and the like. Pour into 1-qt. mold or individual molds, and chill. Serve on lettuce with lemon cream mayonnaise.

ONIONS STUFFED WITH WILSON'S CORN BEEF HASH

1 can Wilson's Certified Corn Beef Hash
3 large Bermuda onions
Buttered bread crumbs
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Peel onions and cook until almost tender. Cut slice off top of each and scoop out centers, leaving shell intact. Heat hash slightly and put into onion shells. Cover tops with bread crumbs and minced parsley. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) to finish onions. Serve with Creole Sauce, utilizing centers of onions.

Bill Teller Holds Batavia In Check As Greenies Win

LOCALS SCORE 10-2 VICTORY

Samocki And Jenkins Really Hit The Old Ball

With Jenkins and Samocki the big guns on the offensive and Bill Teller holding the foes in check with stellar hurling, the Greenville Coastal Plain team defeated the Batavia, N. Y. team of the PONY league, 10-2 at Guy Smith park last night.

Both teams are of Class D leagues. Samocki really smacked that ball last night, driving in four runs, as did Harry Jenkins, who drove in five. Both boys got two for four trips to the plate. Jenkins got a homer and Samocki a three-bagger. Teller, a Richmond youth who is really "going to town," was never in serious trouble during the six frames he pitched, having scattered the six hits garnered off him to such an extent that the New Yorkers scored only one run off him.

Harold Forbes, local boy, served warning that he was out after one of the outfield posts, garnering one hit in three trips and making two putouts.

DeCORREVONT'S GOOD AT BASEBALL TOO

Notre Dame (AP) — Bill deCorrevont, widely known as Northwestern's crack football halfback, is quite a baseballer, too. He spoiled a no-hit game for Notre Dame's Norv Huthausen this spring. Bill hit a grounder over second base that an infielder knocked down. The fielder wasn't able to get the ball to first ahead of deCorrevont.

Preakness Grows Up Fast

Baltimore (AP) — Little more than 20 years ago the Preakness at Pimlico track here was a sectional race for Maryland's best three-year-olds. Now it ranks with the Kentucky Derby as the best of American races. It is an older race than the Derby, a shorter one and a slightly less valuable one. In 1919 the Preakness purse was jumped to $25,000—and in 1922 to $50,000. It is worth around $60,000 now.

Common Courtesy

Riding a bus is more pleasant when you get on the bus quickly and have your fare ready. But you needn't move so quickly that you pass up a chance for a quick good morning to the driver or conductor. It's considerate to move back into the bus for the sake of the passengers getting on after you. And for the sake of all the passengers, don't grumble all the way to work or home about the service. When something goes wrong, you can tell the conductor or driver in a fairly private manner (and, he'll appreciate the courtesy even as you would in your own work). Since it's usually necessary to share a double seat, don't spread your newspaper over the seat beside you or poke your packages against the next passenger. If someone attempts to sit by you, either move over or make it easy for him to pass you. A signal to the bus driver before the bus arrives at your corner will help you get off at the right spot. The conductor will signal for you if you tell him your destination. During rush hour especially don't stop a bus to ask if it goes your way unless you cannot find out otherwise. A conductor helps prospective passengers by being near the entrance of the bus to answer questions quickly. But your question shouldn't be mumbled. After the driver tells you the bus is full, you only impair your own safety and the bus service by trying to push into the bus anyhow.

cotton construction, Mr. Cozart declared, and has greater strength to resist bruises and other road hazards. Its stronger bead construction provides additional protection against severe treatment.

"The Patrician's modern all-rib tread pattern, with flexible 'Y' shaped running ribs and pliable skid-resisting fins, provides positive wiping action when brakes are applied, thus assuring safe emergency stops. Too, the tread gives longer wear."

Another safety factor, minimizing the hazard of high-speed blowouts caused by heat, is provided by heat-resisting Golden Ply in the cotton built Patrician, and rayon cords in the Rayoflex Patrician, the store manager pointed out. In appearance the new tire features dust purpose sidewalls—one side of white rubber, the other of black—which adds smartness to any motor car. When the white sidewall becomes too curb-scuffed to clean properly, the tire may be reversed, revealing the conventional black face. "Both the Golden Ply Patrician and the Rayoflex Patrician are available in 15 and 16-inch rim sizes and are covered by the Manufacturer's lifetime warranty against defective workmanship or materials," Mr. Cozart said.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood—There's a fellow in town who does everything wrong. He's a producer, and his name is Joe Pasternak.

First off, and far off, he likes people to call him Joe. Everybody knows a producer is a person addressed as "Yes, Mr. Soandso." People call Mr. Pasternak "Joe," and they don't have to prefix it with "yes."

Mr. Pasternak—I mean Joe—is a smallish fellow with a broad grin, sandy hair and a hi-ya look. Everybody knows a producer should look important, but Joe is too busy to look important.

Equally important it is that no producer should follow an open door policy, but that is what Joe does. Joe knows, of course, an array of secretaries bulwarking doors marked "private" is very impressive, but he figures ideas have a hard time convincing secretaries, and Joe likes ideas to walk into his office and make themselves at home. Any producer can tell you how wrong this is.

Joe likes his players to be natural, so he has no truck with drama lessons or coaches. He wouldn't let Deanna Durbin have a single session on how to register coyness, alarm, or joy, and he hid Gloria Jean from public notice in case there might be a drama concealed among the public. Joe figures the directors can teach the actors all they need to know for the scenes at hand, and he doesn't like acting carried over into private life. He's dead wrong, of course, but what can anyone do?

The guy doesn't even believe in screen tests. He gives them, once in a while, when he has to convince another studio boss, but by and large he likes to save film. When he needed a leading man for "Three Smart Girls Grow Up" he had Bob Cummings call on him at his office and tell the story of his life, and that was all there was to it. There was nobody more surprised than Bob, because giving tests is one of the best things most producers do. Joe has another substitute: he gives a likely youngster a bit in a picture. That's how Peggy Moran got hers, and that's how Harry Stafford, the young singer briefly glimpsed in "It's a Date," got his. Gloria Jean's test was "The Under-Pup," her first starring picture.

The "sneak preview" is an established producer custom, but Joe wants none of it. He tried to fall in line once, but after this lone "sneak" he still found nothing to change in his picture, so he gave it up. He likes to plan and execute his productions without extra footage, so that when a picture's finished it's done and there's nothing to cut. This is iconoclastic.

Joe isn't impressed by big figures. He'll spend a pile on a big scene, if it's necessary, and a little on another, if a little will do. But he doesn't believe the public is impressed by big figures, either. He foolishly believes the public is impressed only by what's on the screen, not by what some producer says he spent on it.

The fellow's record includes seven Durbin hits—and no Durbin errors—one Gloria Jean hit, a hit with "Destry Rides Again," and only one loser. The one was "Rio."

I don't know what can be done with a wrong fellow like Joe.

GRADY'S PLAN IS A MYSTERY

Campaign Seems To Have Made Little Headway

Reflector Bureau By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, April 18.—The oft-heard question "What's Paul Grady going to do in the way of campaigning?" is beginning to assume proportions as the major mystery of the current campaign; and there doesn't yet appear any answer. The Kenly man's candidacy was launched with more than a modicum of fuss and feathers. He plunged in with a clarion call for the drys to rally to his standard under promise of a statewide referendum. He wooed the voters of Piedmont and western North Carolina with a siren song of reappointment in the 1941 General Assembly.

Maybe Those Shrubs Not Killed By Cold

Raleigh, April 18.—(AP)—John Harris, landscape specialist of the State College Extension Service, today warned against promiscuous destruction of trees and shrubs apparently killed by last week-end's cold snap. In some cases, he said, these plants were killed outright by the freeze, the State College landscape shrubs may be saved by cutting them back to a point just below the damaged area. Many gardeners have already destroyed plants that could have been saved, thinking them dead. Strange things happened in the freeze, the State College landscape man said. Incidents were reported where one of two plants of the same variety growing side by side, escaped injury, while the other was severely frozen. Probable cause was a better root system or protection from the wind.
