BRITAIN SEEKS TRADE TREATY WITH ITALIANS

Conference Between Envoys Described As Friendly

TROOPS HOLDING STAND IN NORWAY

London Seeks To Strengthen Hand With Improved Diplomatic Relations With Axis Partner

London, April 29.—(AP)—Allied troops in Norway were reported holding fast today against growing German pressure, while Britain sought to strengthen her hand with better diplomatic and trade relations with Hitler's axis partner, Italy, and the British navy claimed that three German supply transports had been torpedoed and sunk.

Heavy German air attacks on the coastal towns of Molde and Andalsnes, used by the Allies for landings, were reported in a war office communiqué.

The war office also said there had been patrol activity in the Namsos area where the Allies also landed. An admiralty communiqué acknowledged that two British trawlers had been lost to German bombs, but said there were no casualties. It denied German claims that a British warship and 13 transports had been sunk or damaged in the preceding 48 hours.

German's "determined attempt to render the waters of the Norwegian coast untenable have been attended with slight results," the communiqué said.

In what the British described as a "very friendly" conference, Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax and Italian Ambassador Giuseppe Bastianini on Friday discussed the resumption of trade talks. Diplomats observed that the British delegation might shortly visit Rome.

Six marriage licenses were issued at the offices of Register of Deeds J. H. Manning during the past week all but one going to white couples. The six brought to 88 the total issued so far this year.

Britain Declares Nazi Ship Sunk

London, April 29.—(AP)—A British statement tonight reported that 28 German transport and supply ships had been sunk since April 8. In addition, the statement said, 10 German ships were "hit by torpedoes and probably sunk" and one was scuttled.

It added "the German expeditionary force also suffered losses due to mines since the Nazis embarked upon their Scandinavian adventure." The Air Ministry reported that a Sunderland flying boat had bombed and sunk a German submarine trapped close to the Norwegian coast. The date of the encounter was not given.

Defendants Bound Over For Poker Game Fight

COURT RULING FAVORS GOVT.

Right To Fix Conditions Of Purchase Upheld

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—The supreme court held today that the federal government enjoys the unrestricted power to produce its own supplies, to determine with whom it will deal and to fix the terms and conditions upon which it will make needed purchases.

Justice Black delivered the opinion that dismissed an attack by seven steel companies upon a labor department order fixing the minimum that must be paid their employees in order to obtain contracts with the federal government. Justice McReynolds dissented, but wrote no opinion.

The court postponed a decision at least until next Monday on litigation involving interpretation of the 1890 Sherman anti-trust act. It agreed, however, to review a controversy involving the liability of officers of a labor union to prosecution under the anti-trust laws. In this case the Eastern Missouri federal district court dismissed anti-trust indictments against William Hutchison and three other officers of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

Justice Murphy, former attorney general, did not participate in the action on the Hutchison case, in which the union officials were charged with conspiring to restrain the interstate trade of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., St. Louis beer manufacturer.

Three Held Under $300 Bond; Three Under $100

Six men allegedly involved in the fighting and shooting scrape off the Washington highway yesterday were bound over to the August term of Superior court following a preliminary hearing before Magistrate John R. Barker in the court room this morning.

The hearing was attended by a large crowd, that more than filled the side of the hall reserved for white persons. Many women were in the court room.

E. V. Harrell, Dewey W. Brooks and Frank Harrington were ordered held under bond of $300 each, while Earl Speight, Jesse Whitaker and Fountain Harrington were bound over on bond of $100 each. Bail was provided for each of the defendants.

The six were charged specifically with assault with a deadly weapon and inflicting serious injury.

Bennie Harrell, brother of V. T. Harrell, is in Pitt General hospital suffering with a bullet wound in the leg, allegedly inflicted by Dewey Brooks. Although in the hospital, he is being held under the surveillance of the sheriff's office on a charge of fatally shooting Albert L. Harrington. The crime, which was returned a true bill of indictment charging Harrell with the slaying of Harrington.

Five witnesses were called at the hearing this morning and all told substantially the same story.

It developed at the hearing that the free-for-all following an accusation that Frank Harrington stole a card during a poker game in a field about a quarter of a mile back of Robert Arnold's filling station, about two miles from the city limits on the Washington highway.

Eddie Lee Simpson, the first to testify, declared that eight men, who live near the scene of the fighting and shooting, were engaged in a poker game when five young men who live north of the river came up, some of them joining in the game.

He related that Frank Harrington was caught stealing a card and that Hubert Harrington told him "if you're going to play that way you will have to get out. He added that Bennie Harrell then cut out Harrington and that V. T. Harrell drew a knife and ran after Harrington.

He continued that V. T. Harrell began "taking after" Hubert, who continued to back away, and the Earl Speight hit V. T. Harrell with his fists and knocked him down. Bennie Harrell then pulled a gun and pointed at Hubert and fired, declared the witness, adding that Dewey Brooks then grabbed Bennie's arm and in a tussle got the pistol from Harrell.

He declared that Brooks backed away from Bennie Harrell and two or three others, but as they continued to advance on him, Brooks fired, the bullet striking Harrell in the leg.

Others to testify were Nathan Buck, Jasper Harrington, brother of the slain man, Earl Speight and Dewey Brooks.

Frank Harrington, Fountain Harrington, V. T. Harrell and Jesse Whitaker were represented at the hearing by J. M. Wooten and Dewey Brooks by J. W. H. Roberts. Frank Harrington and Fountain Harrington are brothers, but are not related to Jasper Harrington, who is a brother of the slain man, Hubert Harrington.

DODGE VOTE ON VATICAN ISSUE

Methodists Defeat Resolution to Pass Judgment

Atlantic City, N. J., April 29.—(AP)—A proposal that the Methodist church pass judgment on official relations between the United States and the Vatican was overwhelmingly rejected today by the general conference.

The resolution called for appointment of a 10-man committee to draft a formal statement on the church's attitude. It was sponsored by Dr. W. F. Bryan, Huntsville, Tex., delegate, who observed that the council of bishops in a report to the general conference had protested against relations with the Vatican.

"I think any statement should be made by the body as a whole," he said.

During a vote against the resolution, Dr. Harold Paul Sloan of New York said "at this time when the Christian church is being attacked on all sides it does not seem becoming for the greatest body in protestantism to become so nervous over a small matter."

The resolution was termed unnecessary by the Rev. James Moore of Newport News, Va., who said the committee on inter-denominational relations "has already prepared a report on the subject which will come up on this floor."

The conference also was expected to take an official stand on the D. C. committee investigating un-American activities.

LEADERS TALK WITH FDR AT WHITE HOUSE

Democratic Chieftains Discuss General Situation

STILL HOPING TO ADJOURN JUNE 1

Barden Amendments To Wage-Hour Act Slated For Veto If They Are Accepted By Congress

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and democratic leaders in Congress canvassed the legislative situation today in a discussion so general that Senate Majority Leader Barkley said it "covered everything and touched nothing."

Barkley said the White House conference did include some mention of such topics as amendment to the Wagner labor act and the pending Logan-Walter bill to put a check on some administrative agencies.

On Capitol Hill the issue of the day was whether to revise the wage-hour act.

Barkley said he saw "no chance in the general desire to get away the first of June" and that President Roosevelt proposed a swing around the country after adjournment should not alter the situation.

A presidential veto of legislation revising the wage-hour law was forecast in congressional circles if the Barden amendments to exempt certain farm processing plants are included.

Legislators based their prediction on President Roosevelt's recent letter saying that it would be a "great mistake" to adopt the Barden proposals.

The President returned yesterday from Warm Springs, Ga.

ALLIES REPEL GERMAN DRIVE

Nazis Said To Have Occupied Kvam, However

Stockholm, April 29.—(AP)—German forces were reported tonight to have occupied Kvam, 35 miles southeast of Dombas in their drive toward Trondheim, but to have been repelled in a violent attack on the Steinkjer front, north of the Nazi-held port.

The Germans earlier had been reported stalled at Kvam in their surge north toward the vital Dombas railroad junction, one of the British-held barriers to the Nazis' attempted approach to Trondheim from the south.

Fragmentary dispatches reaching Stockholm gave no details of developments either there or at Steinkjer, where they said German bombers supported the attack.

Reports from Narvik on the distant northern front said fighting there had developed primarily into guerrilla warfare with the British bombarding the fort periodically, apparently to prevent the Germans from sending reinforcements over the railroad terminating at Narvik.

Farmers Are Advised On How to Feed Hogs

Raleigh, April 29.—A method by which pigs may be fed considerable amounts of soybeans and still produce firm pork was announced here today by Prof. Earl H. Hostetler, Dr. J. O. Holmerson of the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station. The announcement was contained in Technical Bulletin No. 63, entitled "Feeding Soybeans to Pigs—The Effect on Gains and a Method of Producing Firm Carcasses," which the research workers wrote after conclusive feeding tests.

The method used in producing firm pork was to put pigs on feed of 30 to 50 per cent soybeans until they attained a weight of 100 pounds, when a corn-lankage ration containing 13 per cent cottonseed meal was fed to an average weight of 230 pounds.

The bulletin notes that the chilled carcasses of the pigs used in the tests were sent to the Beltsville Laboratory of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Maryland, where all except five out of the 163 pigs (96.7 per cent) were judged firm.

Nazis Admit Resistance To Progress In Norway

Heavy Fighting Reported In Several Sections

Berlin, April 29.—(AP)—DNB today reported that heavy fighting was taking place between Nazi and allied forces at several points in the Norwegian mountains.

The official German news agency, admitting that German progress in Norway was meeting increasingly stiff opposition, said that the British in Norway after their "failures" in past weeks obviously had received orders "to strengthen their resistance," but the agency said that the former British stand "had not halted" Nazi drives.

DNB reported that the Nazis in capturing six additional Norwegian batteries had seized 20,000 artillery shells, a large number of portable wireless sets and quantities of miscellaneous war materials. Berlin yesterday claimed official that in the Stavanger district, which has been the target of repeated British air attacks, the Nazis have taken 241 officers, including "numerous English fliers" and 2,921 men. The communiqué did not say how many of these prisoners were Norwegians.

Orthopedic Clinic Is Set For Friday

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt county health officer, today said the regular State Orthopedic clinic would be held in Greenville next Friday, May 3, from 12:30 until 4 o'clock at the office of the Pitt county health department on the corner of Third and Greene streets.

This clinic takes all types of cripples, both white and colored, free of charge who are unable to afford private treatment. It is desired though not required that patients be referred by a physician or the welfare officer, and that the patient bring such note to the clinic.

The clinic is set up to serve especially the counties of Beaufort, Carteret, Pamlico, Pitt and Tyrrell, though patients from other counties who desire to come may do so. The clinic is conducted by Dr. H. A. Thompson, orthopedist, Raleigh. This clinic has been running for something over three years and is now serving a large number of cripples, adults as well as children, in this area.

Slot Machines Taken In Raids Destroyed

A dozen slot machines taken in custody during raids several months ago were destroyed under the direction of county officials in accordance with an order signed by Superior Court Judge Walter J. Bone of Nashville during the April term of court.

The machines were being torn down in the lot adjacent to the county jail. Approximately $40 was found in the machines. In accordance with the order of the judge, the money was divided among the raiding officers and the county welfare fund.

CROP OUTLOOK REPORT ISSUED

Tobacco Transplanting Shown To Be Under Way

The regular report on crop conditions was issued by R. C. Rankin, supervisor of the Greenville tobacco market today, showing that transplanting in East Carolina began in a small way last week.

"Reports of early plantings come from Pitt, Beaufort, Wayne, Edgecombe, Wilson, Martin, Greene, Lenoir, Craven, Pamlico, Jones, Duplin, Onslow and Carteret," and planting in general will begin in these counties between this date and May 7th. Northern counties in the East Belt will begin general planting between the dates of May 5-12, possibly a little later in some sections of these counties.

"The East Carolina tobacco grower has not had favorable weather during the past two weeks. Most days have been cool and cloudy with very little sunshine and warmth. Nights have been cool and there has been right much wind and night, but tobacco plants have grown surprisingly fast considering these conditions. Most growers say plants look good in the bed and that they are green, healthy and thriving. Blue mold, first appearing more than two weeks ago is now widespread, but it is not doing any great amount of damage except in a few communities. It will hardly threaten the plant supply, but it will delay planting time for those whose beds are badly infected."

"There is less acreage this year, and the planting season will be shorter once it is underway. With warmer, more seasonable weather during the next ten days much progress will be made by tobacco growers, and a large portion of the 1940 crop will be in the field earlier than was first expected." Many growers who are not delayed by blue mold will finish planting on a date that can be compared to normal planting time.

Awaits Report On Use Of U.S. Flag

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—Secretary Hull is awaiting a full report on a charge by Norwegian Prime Minister C. J. Hambro, that a German supply ship putting into Narvik, Norway, carried an American flag.

The Secretary of State told reporters today that he expected to get the facts from American representatives abroad.

The neutrality act forbids belligerents to fly the American flag under penalty of being barred from American ports for three months.

FORCES GUARD ROADS TO CITY

First Organized Resistance Of Allies To Nazi Reinforcement Movement Resulted In Engagement Expected To Be First Phase Of Battle To Decide Control Of Southern Norway

Stockholm, April 29.—(AP)—The Allies today put up what they proved to be the first really organized resistance to Germany's efforts to rush troops across Norway to bolster Nazi Trondheim.

They were holding strategic points, strongly defended mountain passes and light artillery units guarding narrow mountain roads northeast of Dombas in the Gudbrandsdalen valley and between Roros and Stora in the Glomsdal valley.

German troops driving over mountain roads were reported to have reached the vital railway line British bases at Dombas and Storlien.

They were said to have engaged an allied force in the first phase of a battle expected to decide control of southern Norway.

The fighting was reported to have proved their ability to advance quickly over difficult terrain trails to outflank forces ring their way.

But this has been largely dependent on protection from German airplanes scouring a path clear of the motorized units and from Allied viewpoints much dependent on their air defenses.

Reports that the British concentrated troops at Herby above the Dombas-Storlien road and that fighting already is in progress there were interpreted here as evidence that allied resistance is developing.

Officers Find House Burned Accidentally

Members of the sheriff's office after making an investigation, expressed the belief that a house occupied by Will Little, J. Fleming, their wives and children was accidentally burned last week. The house, located on S. G. thington's farm near White was at first thought by some to have been purposely burned by "somebody" but after a thorough investigation, the house evidently burned accidentally.

County officers also were investigating the week-end to investigate the theft of six hens from the of Miss Maggie Tucker of Ball.

Christian Science Church.

"Probation After Death" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches and Societies, Sunday, April 28th.

The Golden Text was from Psalms 137:8. "The Lord will perfect that which concerneth me; thy mercy, O Lord, endureth for ever; forsake not the works of thine own hands."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon were the following from the Bible: "Now that the dead are raised, even Moses showed at the bush, when he calleth the Lord the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. For he is not a God of the dead, but of the living; for all live unto him." (Luke 20:37-38).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "They who earliest saw Jesus after the resurrection and beheld the final proof of all that he had taught, misconstrued that event. Even his disciples at first called him a spirit, ghost, or spectre, for they believed his body to be dead. His reply was: 'Spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have.' The reappearance of Jesus was not the return of a spirit. He presented the same body that he had before his crucifixion and so glorified the supremacy of Mind over matter. Jesus' unchanged physical condition after what seemed to be death was followed by his exaltation above all material conditions; and this exaltation explained his ascension, and revealed unmistakably a probationary and progressive state beyond the grave. Jesus was 'the way' that is, he marked the way for all men." (Pages 45 and 46.)

Sans Souci Club Enjoys Trip.

All of this year members of the Sans Souci Book Club have been enthusiastically discussing "the trip" wondering where we should go and whether or not this trip would be as good as last year's.

When the hostesses finally decided to take us to the place that we were most interested in seeing—Williamsburg—we knew that we had a grand day in store for us.

Mrs. Sam White, Mrs. George Woodward, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. W. L. Best and Mrs. Hugh Ragdale, hostesses for the day, provided cars. These, in spite to the fact that they left Greenville at the early hour of five-thirty, were filled with women intent on learning more about our early history as it is depicted thru the Restoration. The first stop of the day was made at Yorktown, which we reached about 9:30. Here we visited the site of Cornwallis' surrender, the old church and the museum. From Yorktown the whole party had the pleasure of visiting Carter's Grove, one of the loveliest of the James River estates. The house, a beautiful example of "King" Carter before the Revolution and again an excellent state of preservation. It is the home of the McLean family, the owners, and it has a lived-in look that is most inspiring even to the casual tourist. The landscaped terraces leading down to the river made each of us want to linger and enjoy the quiet and the beauty of the view.

It was Garden Week in Virginia, which means that there was an even larger crowd than usual in Williamsburg. Many of the homes and gardens of the residents are open only during this week. We took advantage of this and in spite of rain and a rather limited time visited most of the places that were open.

Our hostesses had arranged for luncheon at the beautiful Williamsburg Inn, which, though modern in all its appointments, is built in the typical Williamsburg style. The club members were seated at one long, beautifully decorated table where we enjoyed discussing together the happenings of the morning and the plans for the afternoon. After luncheon we visited the Christopher Wren building at William & Mary college, the Raleigh Tavern, the Capitol, Bruton Parish church, the Palace and many other interesting places. At each building women guides dressed in costumes of the eighteenth century interestingly explained the history connected with that particular place. The palace with its elaborate antique furnishings and beautifully laid out formal gardens seemed to us the climax of the whole trip.

One of the things that impressed us most was the fact that so much has been accomplished in such a short length of time. Hundreds of modern buildings were torn down to make place for those now standing which look as if they had been there always. Truly the future may learn from the past at Williamsburg.

The members of the Sans Souci Club will long remember this delightful day. We are greatly indebted to our hostesses for giving us this privilege.

LIQUOR ISSUE NOT DEAD YET

New Developments Bring Problem to The Fore

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL.

Raleigh, April 29.—Two concrete developments of the last week indicate clearly that old John Barleycorn isn't dead as a political issue in North Carolina.

First was circulation of petitions in Johnston for an election designed to abolish the present ABC store setup in the county.

Other was the questionnaire fired

HAPPY CHILDREN

Little Misses Vernessa and Mary Smith had their little pony hitched to a new buggy made for him, and were out Friday evening enjoying their first ride. It made a pretty turnout.

This fall for the fifth time in history, the occupant of the White House will be opposed for re-election by the candidate whom he defeated four years before. It is significant that on each of the four former occasions, the man in the White House has been defeated.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

The following real estate transfers were recorded in the offices of Register of Deeds J. H. Manning during the past week:

J. B. Kittrell and wife to Minnie M. Broggs, lot, $10.

Willis D. Johnston and wife to R. A. Calhoun and wife, lot, $10.

Willis D. Johnston and wife to R. G. Smith and wife, lot, $10.

C. H. Henderson and wife to Lester A. Clark, 87 acres, $3,551.

Guy Dixon to W. L. Buck and wife, 1/2 acre, $10.

at every legislative candidate by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, designed to put on record every possible Senator and Representative in the 1941 General Assembly.

The Johnston petitions quickly were signed by more than enough voters to insure an ABC-recall vote, and there are many indications that the Drys have more than an even chance to score their very first success in kicking out legal liquor stores established after a popular vote had favored them.

This would be a tremendous psychological victory for the prohibitionists and its effect would unquestionably be evident in the coming legislature, where the matter of a statewide referendum is sure to become a lively issue if the Drys see so much as a fighting chance for success. It would probably put brakes on a movement which optimistic ABC folks have thought of starting to extend the principle of local option to the point where individual cities might vote on liquor stores independent of the counties in which they are located.

The latter proposal would be, of course, designed to give such normally wet voting centers as Charlotte and Asheville (kept legally arid by the vote of the surrounding countryside) an opportunity to set up stores.

The "white ribbon" ladies are not going to let anybody pussyfoot into the legislature without expressing his views on two questions, to-wit: (1) Legislation of liquor sales in North Carolina and (2) Statewide referendum.

The W. C. T. U. letter starts off with a bit of ironic and probably unintentional humor. It recites that "we are sure that each candidate for the General Assembly will be glad for the voters in his county to know how he stands on this question."

Therefore, the letter proceeds "we trust that you will answer the two following questions and return this paper to us as soon as possible: 1. Do you favor legalizing the sale of intoxicating liquor in North Carolina?"

"Answer: 2. If elected to the 1941 General Assembly will you vote and work for the enactment of a bill to provide for the people to vote in a statewide referendum on the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors?"

"Answer: "Please insert either yes or no as your answer to each of the foregoing questions."

Some candidates will really be glad to answer, even though the questionnaires rather pins them down to a categorical stand without opportunity to do any fence straddling at all. Others will ignore the whole thing.

It will be interesting to see how many fall into each of these classifications.

North Carolina has about 2,000,000 acres of potential longleaf pine lands, according to R. W. Graber, forester of the State College Extension Service.

YOU'LL END UP IN THE KITCHEN

—and like it, if you have one of the new electric ranges, say carefree cooks with the "eatingest" families

By Kathleen Robertson
(From McCall's Magazine)

ARE you the woman who likes to entertain friends—and, incidentally, to play bridge? Or are you the economical bride who works in an office—and manages to keep house? Or are you the outdoor woman who, when she isn't gardening, is walking or motoring? Whatever your favorite way of life, you needn't sacrifice it at all to have a good table—and be known as a good cook. The new electric ranges take care of that. Not only do they give your family hearty, delicious meals but they make sure you have all the free time you want.

If you thought that the electric ranges had already reached the limit of what science could do with electricity, you'll be pleasantly surprised when you see the new ones. They have such interesting new devices that you can put a meal on the range and go away; you needn't think about the range because it behaves almost as if it were thinking about you. With such equipment, the kitchen is about the gayest room in the house, so it's natural that people enjoy "ending up" there.

Easier to use

For instance, consider the additional speeds on surface units. There used to be 3 heats on most top-units—high, medium, and low. But the new ranges have two additional speeds, one for simmering such foods as soups and stews, and one for keeping dinner warm for late arrivals. Much easier to use!

That old reliable, the well cooker—now on many ranges the wattage has been increased on well cookers, so that they are much faster. Timing arrangements have been introduced to make them semi-automatic—set the timer, and the range will stop to cut the bonds that have tied women to kitchens.

One of the best ways to lower operating costs is to plan whole meals for the well cooker or oven. For instance, the woman who is a garden enthusiast—almost full-time work in spring—may plan hearty dinners for crisp spring evenings. She doesn't like to spend too much time—or money—on them, so she does a dinner of corned beef and cabbage with a steamed pudding made from one package of food mix. For contrast, she adds to her menu sliced cucumbers in sour cream dressing and raw carrot strips.

One whose hobby is gardening says: "I plan complete meals to cook (without watching!) in oven or well cooker. Then, to save time, I eat in one nearby kitchen. My inexpensive range has all the most modern essentials—5 speeds on all surface units, including well cooker; large oven; speedy broiler. Later I may get an automatic timer and a light, to complete cooking ease."

A motoring enthusiast says: "Before leaving, I put the dinner in the oven and set the automatic clock to turn the current on and off at the proper times—and a piping hot dinner greets us. Other endearing features of our range are 5-speed surface units (including well cooker); warming compartment; family-sized oven; drip tray with imprinted temperature chart. Here is one of my menus:

Meat Loaf
Corn Pudding
Steamed Onions
Green Salad
Ice Cream

The meat loaf, the corn pudding and the onions all take the same length of time. The automatic timer is set to turn the oven on at 4:30 and off at 6:00. So even if the family is late, nothing drastic will happen to the food. A pan of mixed dried fruit for next day's breakfast goes in the oven with this dinner.

CORN PUDDING: Beat 2 eggs; add 2 cups of milk, 1 No. 2 can (2 cups) cream style corn, 1 cup bread crumbs, seasoning. Bake in greased casserole in moderate oven (350° F.). 1 1/2 hours. Serves 4.

The bride-who-works-in-an-office also plans oven meals—because they're inexpensive—and she doesn't have to watch-them. She says: "We often bring friends home for a snack—French-fried spiced ham sandwiches and cocoa are tops. I haven't much time for cooking, so I love the ease of baking in the heat-controlled oven and the speed and control of the 5-heat units on my apartment-size range. My sister's regular-size range of the same make has a deep well cooker, signal lights to show which units are on, and automatic timer."

Here is a dinner planned around a casserole, served with a green salad. The whole dinner bakes 40 minutes in a moderate oven (350° F.).

MUSHROOM TUNA CASSE-ROLE: Arrange 2 cups crushed potato chips and 1 7-oz. can tuna in alternate layers in greased casserole, topping with crushed chips. Add 1 can mushroom soup. (Do condensed soup add equal amount water, using soup can to measure.) Serves 4.

MINTED CARROTS: Steam 1 bunch carrots, sliced, with 1/2 cup water in covered casserole. Add butter or margarine, salt, pepper and 1 tablespoon chopped mint before serving.

APRICOT-GINGERBREAD CAKE:

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; add 1/2 cup brown sugar; blend. Spread evenly in shallow pan (11"x7"x1 1/2"). Arrange drained stewed apricots, cut side up, on sugar. Prepare 1 package gingerbread mix according to directions on package. Pour over apricots. Bake. Serve with cream.

What woman does not take pride in a feathery cake, golden crusty bread or flaky pastry? Insulation in the modern range encourages baking, by keeping oven heat out of the kitchen. And accurate heat controls have done away with guessing. Hot breads, especially, are fun to do in the quick, accurate, and well insulated oven of the electric range. Says the bridge expert: "We do lots of entertaining, and our new two-oven range simplifies matters so much that most of our parties eventually wind up in the kitchen, for to admire and to see. Even five tables of afternoon bridge fail to upset our schedule, with one oven for the dinner roast, and another for a bridge special—Buttermilk Sally Lunn, for instance. We also like our 5-speed surface units; removable drip trays; portable well cooker; and, of course, our various time controls."

Sift 2 cups flour, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1/4 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Beat 2 eggs; add 1 cup buttermilk and 1/4 cup melted shortening. Add to dry ingredients, stirring just enough to blend. Bake in small greased muffin pans in hot (400° F.) oven, 25-30 minutes. Makes 18.

A woman whose passion is walking says: "After lunch on Sundays we gather up kindred spirits and roam the countryside. Then home to a hearty kitchen buffet supper. With the speedy broiler on our new range, steaks are sure-fire. So we're likely to have steak sandwiches, scalloped potatoes (cooked in our absence by timer-control), green salad, and coffee or tea. Other features of the range that appeal to me are 5-speed surface units; warming drawer; timer for well cooker; signal lights."

When buying a range
The new ranges have so many exciting new features that it is impossible to mention them all. But here are a few you'll want to ask about: adjustable oven racks... embossed rack guides... oven lights... 5-heat surface units... 5-heat deep well cookers... pilot lights of various types... warming ovens... removable individual drip trays on surface units... speedy broilers... spacious ovens... timers of various sorts... storage drawers... well marked, easy-to-read switches... easy-to-grasp handles.

McCall's Magazine

its application. Agricultural experts stress, however, that it must be used according to directions if successful results are to be obtained.

The new control uses the vapor of Para-dichlorobenzene, better-known as P.D.B. This chemical is also sold under the trade name of Para-Baco. The trick for successful treatment lies in making the tobacco seed bed as near gas-tight as possible. From then on application is simple, requiring the use of the standard light cover cloth on which the P.D.B. crystals have been evenly spread, and over which a heavy cloth of unbleached sheeting about 60 threads per inch each way has been placed and carefully staked down to hold the P. D. B. gas in the bed. Treatment can be made either as a preventative or as a control. Application should be made only at night and not while the sun is up. P.D.B. has been used successfully for Blue Mold control for the past three seasons, but only at the end of last season was it considered fairly well out of the experimental stage. It is therefore being more widely recommended this year by agricultural workers. P.D.B. also has other advantages in that it is non-poisonous, as it is normally used, and will not take fire.

Three-Way Split Of Vote Seen For Many Counties

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, April 29—An almost even three-way split of the "regular" vote between Allen J. Maxwell, J. M. Broughton and W. P. Horton is going to feature the returns from surprising number of counties when the first primary vote is counted May 25.

This isn't going to be confined to any one section—either—it's going to happen in the East, the Piedmont and the West, even into the high hills where the folks usually all gang up together and vote for one candidate.

Explaining this phenomenon is the absence of any "swarm" and the intense fear of the county machines that by picking the wrong man they will find themselves barred from the political feed trough in the very important matter of appointments by the next governor.

The locals figure it this way: "We've got Emergency Judge Elmer Zilch to look out for—he comes up for appointment again; and there are other good jobs we can land for our home folks if we are on the right side—but, darn it, we don't know which is the right side."

Thus they deliberate and in many cases the problem is solved by a brilliant flash of inspiration: "We'll just fix this thing so that we'll have somebody on the right side no matter who wins. So, here, Joe, you come out for Maxwell and you, Jim, you back Horton, and I'll take Broughton. Then we'll just split up the vote among them so that some of us will be in position to claim credit no matter what happens."

There's nothing new or unique

New Blue Mold Control Is Proved After Wide Use

Tobacco growers now have added security against the ravaging attacks of Blue Mold or Downy Mildew on their Tobacco seedlings. Agricultural workers and growers who have tested and used the control are, almost without exception, enthusiastic about its possibilities.

The chief advantage of the new control is the extreme simplicity in

FLOWSHARES AND PAINT

On a train recently I met a most interesting man who has spent his life in the study of chemistry. As I heard him tell of the different things a chemist is able to do, I was filled with a sense of the great power for good which God has put in the hands of scientists.

What particularly impressed me was his account of how, after the first World War, he set himself to turn many of the destructive powders and gases into commodities that would have peacetime utility. From a certain form of highly destructive powder he made a paint which has come to have a wide vogue in this country. From a destructive gas which killed hundreds of soldiers at the front, he evolved a dye and singularly enough, this dye is used in the making of stained glass windows for churches. Not in a lone while have I heard anything which interested me so much as his account of how he had been able to turn things formerly used to destroy human life and had turned them into agencies for the improvement of human happiness.

Almost anything in the world can be used for a good purpose or for a bad. The Bible speaks about beating swords into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks. Modern chemistry is ready to teach mankind, if it will only accept the tuition, how to turn powder into paint and poison gas into cathedral windows.

Some professional estimate run as high as 400,000 for Washington's rat population, but the scientific fellows pool-pool that figure, guess that there are not more than 100,000 to 200,000.

No matter what the number, the capital has declared a blitzkrieg on the rodents. Platoons of rat-hunters are being organized in several sections of the city and under guidance of men who know their rat poison, starting a lightning war of extermination that should by early summer make the city completely ratless.

Reason for rise of the rats is simply that Washington is an old city. Scattered between the islands of new housing development and new buildings are thousands of old houses that date back 40 to 70 years.

How To Be Neutral

should be strongly fortified. Why? (Be very specific: No generalities about "interests." What interests?) Though the money borrowed by Europe during the last year was never repaid, we ought, when cash runs out, to advance money this time so they can buy American farm products. It is different this time. Why?

The United States has to go on buying all the gold and silver offered by anybody at prices far above its market worth. Why? Germany has invaded one neutral country after another. The United States is neutral. Therefore, I'm sure it is only a question of time until it is our turn. Why? The United States is shirking a plain international duty if it refuses to throw its army and navy into the European war. Why?

You may not be popular if you become one of the question-askers. You may get a few apologetic answers like "Why, you poor dumb — it's obvious!" And so on, with the original statement repeated. But by that time you'll begin to get interested in the answers. And you'll be doing your country a service, for never before was it so important to have plenty of people demanding to know "Why?"

No-Depression Town

Washington recently was referred to as a "boom town" and it's more or less true — more or less, because word "boom" generally is associated with a town that mushrooms and then goes bust.

Persons who know their Bret Harte and Jack London and those who have followed oil discoveries from Spindletop to Borger will understand it that way, at least.

As a matter of fact, Washington has been booming since 1890 and about the only things that have gone bust here in all that time are some pieces of sculpture and those 19th century politicians who played real estate on the wrong side of the capital.

What is more correct is that Washington is a no-depression town. At least, it's the closest thing to it that this country ever has seen.

The reason is that Uncle Sam always meets his payroll and those of his 127,771 nephews and nieces who work here can always — and often do — pay their bills.

Folks here knew about the depression of course, but if it hadn't been for banking troubles and the drain from relatives living elsewhere, it probably would have been no more than hearsay. Even the major business recessions are not reflected in Washington.

The only real depression Washington had in the memory of the present generation was after the World War, when the government started whittling down the 117,760 civil employees working here. The number was almost halved before they were through. Washington business and real estate men still recall those days as a financial nightmare.

Oddly enough, though, in spite of a reasonably permanent condition of good business, Washington does have its unemployment and relief problems. Hundreds and thousands of job-seekers drift in here seeking and finding not. And the more unemployed out over the land, the more drift to the capital.

The nation's capital is having rat trouble — not the kind that spawned during prohibition and in the racketeer era — just old-fashioned gray rats that grow big and fat raiding the hen houses and the garbage cans.

Some professional estimate run as high as 400,000 for Washington's rat population, but the scientific fellows pool-pool that figure, guess that there are not more than 100,000 to 200,000.

No matter what the number, the capital has declared a blitzkrieg on the rodents. Platoons of rat-hunters are being organized in several sections of the city and under guidance of men who know their rat poison, starting a lightning war of extermination that should by early summer make the city completely ratless.

Reason for rise of the rats is simply that Washington is an old city. Scattered between the islands of new housing development and new buildings are thousands of old houses that date back 40 to 70 years.

LITTLE SPITFIRE
By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY: Brenda's scheme works. Adelaide, wondering why her housekeeping is even worse than usual, agrees to go away for a rest, and Isobel gladly agrees to run her house. Alice catches on to Brenda's conniving.

Chapter 22
Home Sweet Home

"AT FIRST I thought it was simply to get Adelaide this vacation; she does need a little rest from us poor old girls!" said Mac. "But now you've got her off, something's worrying you. I sat down in the library hearing you pace about as long as I could bear it. Want to tell me about it, Brenda?"

She shook her head. "N-not just yet, Mac, but thank you! It's terribly nice of you to realize I wouldn't indulge in such foolish behavior without—without a purpose. I won't pace any more. You've taken part of my worry away already!" She smiled at him and he returned the smile.

"That's good!"

Monday morning Brenda lingered nervously at the breakfast table, waiting for Isobel to summon Grenadine and give her the orders for the day. That was Adelaide's habit. Daily she indulged in a monologue which ran something like this:

"Well, Grenadine, I suppose we're going to have to eat again today. Dear, dear, I wish somebody would invent a new animal: seems as if all the old ones have been used so many times we're all tired of them. Let's see. Better start with dinner, that's the hardest. Steak—no, we had steak last night. A roast, then. But I said I wouldn't have roast before Sunday. meat is so terribly high. Chops? M'm; yes, I guess chops. Tell the butcher to cut them thicker than he did the last ones. And Grenadine, try not to cook them till they're like bits of wood, won't you?"

"Vegetables. Well, there are always potatoes, thank goodness. Creamed? No, better not creamed. Baked, then... What? Oh, dear, oh, dear! Yes, we did have them baked last night with the steak. Grenadine, couldn't you just for once suggest something?"

Amusedly Brenda wondered how long this sort of thing would go on if an interruption did not invariably put an end to it. Sometimes it was the telephone, sometimes it was Miss Ormond who rose very early and began to crave the society of others soon after breakfast, sometimes it was Grenadine herself who in a flash of unusual inspiration suggested a tentative menu.

Remembering all this, she sat tensely waiting for Isobel to summon the cook. But Isobel rose and started upstairs in the most leisurely fashion imaginable.

"Isobel!" Brenda's voice was panicky. "Aren't you going to plan dinner?"

Isobel gave her a quiet smile. "The meals for three days ahead are planned, and the day's orders are planned. Grenadine has a typed menu with full directions—not that I intend to trust to her judgment in the matter, however!—in the kitchen."

Brenda almost staggered with relief. This did sound like efficiency!

Pure Magic

SHE shut herself into her room and tried to apply herself to the day's square, but subdued sounds from below kept her from concentrating on her task. When she was called down to lunch, she looked about her in astonishment. Dining room and living room had undergone slight but important changes.

"W-what have you done, Isobel?" she faltered.

"Nothing that can't be undone in a short time if Adelaide objects," Isobel viewed the work of her hand (and of Grenadine's) proudly. The big wire plant stand filled with languishing geraniums and ivy which shut off most of the light in the two east windows of the dining room had been moved into a south window in the library across the hall. The listless lace curtains had been replaced by crisp dotted swiss. The dull surface of the big mahogany table shone with wax. The dining room looked airy and inviting, especially as Isobel's clever hand had set a bowl of golden calendulas where they drew the morning sun.

In the living room, the same hand had been at work. Chairs had forsaken their stiff parade about the room and gathered themselves cozily about a table, or grouped in twos and threes. For the first time since Brenda had been in the house the numerous magazines lay in trim piles, the newspapers were folded and lay ready to hand. The mantelpiece had lost its confusion of unrelated ornaments and was serenely beautiful with a pair of bayberry candles in shining brass holders, the matching bowl between holding rusty chrysanthemums.

North Carolina's chiropractors will hold their annual convention here Friday and Saturday, May 10 and 11. More than 150 "chiropractic physicians" are expected to attend, according to an advance publicity release of the Association.

As the annual rush of migratory labor into North Carolina for the potato harvest draws near, the State Employment Service is engaged in a thorough study of the migrant situation.

It appears that Tar Heels have something of an "Oakie" problem as well as California and other states invaded by fugitives from the "Dust Bowl."

The Service is trying to formulate plans to bring about a more equitable distribution of labor among farmers. It is primarily interested in salvaging for local labor as many potato-harvesting jobs as it possibly can.

Handling 90 new cases and 317 old ones, the Veterans' Service Division of the Department of Labor last month secured compensation payments to 32 veterans aggregating $1,455.95 in increased compensation and $4,230.94 in back compensation collected.

Frank M. Sasser is State Service Officer in charge of the Division, which is located in Charlotte.

In these days when everybody wants to be an executive or, at least, a white collar worker with a "position," this ad in the Agricultural Review is rather unusual: "Wanted: A job on farm."

Coming from dry territory officers might get a tip from another ad in the Review: "For Exchange: 'Fruit jars to exchange for anything usable in home.'"

Advice to mothers on how to raise babies is plentiful and free in every community. From friends and relatives well-meant counsel is constantly heaped upon a mother's shoulders.

Frequently the result is confusing and sometimes detrimental to the baby. The best advice to any mother can be given in three words:

SEE YOUR DOCTOR

Your doctor knows better than any one else what is best for your baby. He has spent years in the scientific study of child health. He is interested in your baby's health and in your health.

Before any change is made in your baby's diet, or when any problem arises concerning his welfare, your physician is the first to be consulted—he will help you avoid the confusion and uncertainty resulting from advice offered on all sides.

When your doctor offers you advice, try to follow his suggestion faithfully and conscientiously. His advice is sound, scientific, and practical. He is your most reliable source of aid.

And remember your baby's prescription is safe with us.

Greenville Drops Week-End Series To Kinston Eagles

ADMIT LADIES FREE TONIGHT

Greenies To Tackle Undeclared Tarboro Team

The Greenies will meet Tarboro in a "Ladies Night" program at Guy Smith park tonight after having suffered two reverses at the hands of the Kinston Eagles in the week-end series.

The locals dropped each game by one-run margins, losing here Saturday afternoon by a 4-3 score in a ten-inning contest, and losing yesterday in Kinston by 8-7. The Kinston nine came from behind in both games to defeat the Greenies.

In Saturday's game the locals held a two-run lead as the game went into the ninth inning, but the Eagles pushed two over in that frame and added one in the tenth, while holding the Greenies scoreless.

In the Sunday tilt the local boys scored six in the first frame, but this was matched by the Eagles in their half of the second. The Greenies went ahead with one in the sixth, but Kinston made one in each of the seventh and eighth to sew up the game and make a clean sweep.

Rube's Rookies will engage the undefeated Tarboro nine here tonight in a game expected to be attended by many of the fairer sex, the directors having decreed "Ladies Night" and all women will be admitted to the grounds free.

Co-Captains George Stirnweiss and Matty Topkins

Much of the success of the University of North Carolina varsity baseball team in its important game with Wake Forest at Chapel Hill at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon will depend on how well its versatile co-captains, George Stirnweiss, second baseman, and Matty Topkins, short stop, perform at the plate and in the field.

Generally recognized as one of Dixie's fastest middle infield combinations, Stirnweiss and Topkins have been fielding and hitting sensationally all season.

Greenville golfers will play host to both Farmville and Tarboro in a double header here Wednesday afternoon and the locals will be out to boost their standing at the expense of the league-leading Tarboro and league-training Farmville teams.

A double victory would put the Greenies very much in the running in comparison with its tie for fourth place at the present.

The second-place Wilson team will journey to Rocky Mount for its weekly match, while Kinston will go to Goldboro for the other match of the week.

Only four more matches are scheduled for the season closing May 22, with the championship tournament set for Rocky Mount on June 5.

Here's something new for movie fans! A full hour's entertainment absolutely free. Two unusually interesting pictures which have broken all attendance records wherever they have been shown. All you have to do to enjoy this full hour's entertainment, to which all are invited, is to come to the Pitt theatre next Wednesday, May 1st.

In a little over 30 minutes, "Tobacco Land—U.S.A.", the first of the two pictures covers a full year in the life of the tobacco farmer. It's time to show you through the heart of the tobacco country and to take you on a visit to the campuses of two great Southern universities.

Few films ever made pack so much human interest, information and entertainment. You'll always remember those views of the students at the University. You'll remember the songs they sang in the choir. You'll remember the songs they sang around the bonfire the night of the football rally. And you'll always remember the Ellis. It's the Ellis family who show you how good tobacco is raised. You'll see how they burn over the seed beds in the spring... how they get up before dawn to plant the seedlings. You'll see them tending the fires night and day at the curing barns. You'll know tobacco growing like folks who have been in tobacco all their lives.

Then there's the Ellis' barbecue. Funny thing how those tobacco buyers happen along just at the right time to sit in on a feast of Brunswick stew and all the trimmings.

Hard-working tobacco farmers have healthy appetites. That's where the Ellis women come into the picture. Preserves... none better than the South. See how they make them on the Ellis farm. Churn their own butter, too. Go with the Ellis to the big tobacco auction. Hear the chant of the auctioneer. Follow the fine tobacco that's bought by the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company for Chesterfield Cigarettes.

Go through the Chesterfield factory. Watch the wonderful machines that condition, stem, cut and prepare the tobacco for smoking. See everything it takes to make a cigarette.

"Tobacco Land—U.S.A." is a great picture and an unusual one. You ought to see it. "Tobacco Land—U.S.A." and "Pleasure Time", a full hour's entertainment, courtesy of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco company, will be at the Pitt theatre Wednesday, May 1. Admission is free.

TESTED TREATMENT FOR BLUE MOLD

"CAN TRUTHFULLY SAY," writes D. R. Kirkman, well-known tobacco grower of Hamilton County, Florida: "I have been treating my tobacco beds with Para-Baco for some time. As soon as Blue Mold appears in a section of my bed I begin treatment. The Para-Baco crystals give off a gas which settles to the ground, remaining there until the cloth cover is removed the next morning. I can truthfully say that this treatment has killed Blue Mold whenever I have used it. Three applications of Para-Baco on 3 successive days usually does the job."

"SOLD—EVEN UNDER VERY SEVERE CIRCUMSTANCES," says Fuller G. Pedric of Brooks County, Ga.: "I am sold on Para-Baco even though I have used it for only a short time under very severe circumstances... In spite of these adverse weather conditions this product has proven its worth to me..."

GROWERS REPORT HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL RESULTS WITH QUICK, LOW-COST METHOD

- AND HERE IS WHAT YOU GET WHEN YOU USE Para-Baco
1. SAFE... Harmless to humans and animals, poisonous to Blue Mold.
 2. NON-INFLAMMABLE... Neither Para-Baco crystals nor Para-Baco gas will burn.
 3. EFFECTIVE... A tried and proven product.
 4. CAN BE USED ON WIDE OR NARROW BEDS

Colored News

Pitt County School News.
 County Commencement Day was held in the Fleming Street School Saturday. The morning was spent with contests in speaking. Those who won in the group contests were the contestants for the county-wide prizes. The teachers provided prizes for this contest.
 Miss Shelly T. Northcutt, special Jeanes teacher, whose office is with the Southern Education Foundation in Washington, D. C., spoke to the group of parents and teachers in the afternoon session. She stressed clean homes, clean living, and called on mothers to see that their children were taught to observe cleanliness in the homes in cooperation with the health program that is taught in the schools. After she inspected the exhibits she selected several small simple articles that had been made by the children in the primary grades and told the parents how they could be turned into cash to provide the things needed in the homes for the children. She stressed "refusing to accept unsatisfactory conditions by finding ways to make better conditions for ourselves." Less complaining and harder work was her suggestion to parents.

The choral clubs from the high schools sang for the afternoon program. Some stunts from the Pitt county training school were presented.

The choral clubs from the high schools sang at E. C. T. C. Friday evening. They found an appreciative audience which gives encouragement for better work another year. The teachers want to express appreciation to the Greenville high school faculty and principal, the Patrol boys, the judges for the contest and exhibits from the instructor of E. C. T. C., as well as the public for their appreciative attendance, and parents for their co-operation.

The seventh grade graduation program for the small schools will be held in York Memorial Methodist church Tuesday evening at 7:30.

Professor O. R. Pope, supervising principal of the Rocky Mount schools will be the speaker.

The following schools were the winners in the oratorical contests:

First grade: First place, Winterville; Second, Bruce.
 Second grade: First place, Holly Hill; second, Cherry Lane.
 Third grade: First place, Bethel; second, Holly Hill.
 Fourth grade: First place, Bethel; second, Pitt County Training School.
 Fifth grade: First place, Rock Spring; second, Grifton.
 Sixth grade: First place, Winterville; second, St. Peter's.
 Seventh grade: First place, Bethel; second, Holly Hill.

Prizes were awarded to the following school for the best exhibits:
 One-teacher schools, Mills school.
 Two-teacher schools, Jones.
 Three, four and five teacher schools, Falkland school.

The six best exhibits of posters showing the care of the teeth were selected and taken by Dr. Barnhill. They were as follows: Bethel, Clemmons, Shivers, Hightman, Pactolus, Holly Hill.

The eighth anniversary of the Mt. Olive Baptist church and pastor, Rev. J. J. Lang, was observed Sunday, April 28. A large crowd turned out for the morning service to hear the message which was enjoyed by all. Dennis Dupree, farm agent of Pitt county, addressed the audience on "Religion." His wife gave some timely instructions also.
 At 2 o'clock Rev. J. A. Nimo, pastor of Sycamore Hill church, and his choir rendered service. Rev. Nimo spoke of the work done by the pastor and church. Rev. Lang, he said, had managed to stay in Aiden with this church longer than any preacher in the history of the church. The choir sang to the delight of the hearers. The church was filled in all of the services during the day. The church was rebuilt by Rev. Lang.

Citizenship Institute Held At Pitt County Training School
 By HOWARD BARNHILL
 Saturday, April 20, the dream of the Grimesland district Parent-Teacher Association came true. Last September this group was organized under the leadership of the Grimesland district group president, Prof. O. A. Dupree. When considering the objectives for the year, the committee decided to sponsor a citizenship institute on April 20, 1940. The purpose of this meeting would be to bring all of the citizens of the community together and discuss their problems in life. It was decided to have men in this state who have specialized in their particular fields to lead the discussions. After many weeks of struggle President Dupree was able to secure the following outstanding men: Dr. Walter Hughes, of State Department of Health; Prof. J. W. Mitchell of State Extension department and J. Percy Bonds, consultant of Negro affairs, NYA, as principal speakers.
 The first session opened at 10 o'clock with the regular devotional led by Prof. P. S. Jones of Washington high school. The visitors and friends were welcomed to the school by Prof. O. A. Dupree. The president's message was delivered by Mrs. Roxy Moore in behalf of the district Parent-Teacher Association. Dr. Hughes said "that the Negro health problem has many ramifications." Due to the economic status of the Negro he has poor living conditions, cannot secure efficient food and clothing. A person's health depends on his environment. Until the economic problem is improved, the health problem will continue to be great.

The health problem of the child should be studied during the prenatal period. It will be too late to wait until the child is born. Dr. Hughes stated that there are many free clinics in the state today, but the rural Negro has a great problem when it comes to transportation. He cannot get to the clinics, although the service is free. We who are in a position to help those people should not stand in the back and see them suffer without giving them aid.

The right diet is very essential in the health of children. Malnutrition is a health problem. Many of the children who are not receiving the correct food are costing the state millions of dollars a year on account of repeating in school. Milk is a wholesome food, but Dr. Hughes asked the parents not to serve hot milk to their children. If they do not have rice, the milk can be put into the well.

The tuberculosis germ has been and is still a great enemy to man. Environmental contact is responsible for the spreading of this germ. The body should be kept strong so that it can resist the bacteria when it enters the body. Parents should keep their children from contagious diseases. This disease especially is detrimental to children. Again Dr. Hughes stressed the importance of not waiting too long to go to the medical doctor when we have an ailment.

Finally Dr. Hughes lectured on the danger of syphilis. Mothers should keep close check on their daughters for this disease, and be sure that the one who marries your daughter is free from this germ.

The health problem of the Negro can only be controlled when—

1. All parents guide the child right when young.
2. Provide good living conditions.
3. Provide good food and clothing.
4. All parents see that the child gets the correct information concerning health.

Prof. J. W. Mitchell was the second speaker. His subject was "The Rural Future Challenges the Youth." He stated that the youth should have an objective and goal set in life. Without this they will not get far. If anyone failed who had a goal, it was because it was not high enough. The child must show that he is interested in his work; and the teacher can always tell which child is going to be successful in life from his interest. Mr. Mitchell asked the parents, "How many of you have food to send out to put on the market?" He also stated that the farmer today does not attempt to have a garden, meat, etc., at his home.

The people in the rural community must begin to turn their attention from the cities to their own communities. Recreation centers can be set up. This will give the boys and girls a chance to play and enjoy themselves in their own community. Then they will not be anxious to go to the city. Physicians are not practicing in rural sections, because the communities are unable to support them. This problem may be done away with if the rural sections are developed along with the urban.

Dennis Dupree, county agent of Pitt county, responded to Prof. Mitchell's address. He asked the citizens of Grimesland district to pattern after the work done by E. C. Selzer in gardening.

Mr. Carr, principal of Grimesland white high school complimented Prof. Dupree for the outstanding program.

Mr. D. H. Conley, superintendent of the schools, said that the public must cooperate with the health department on the syphilis problem. He also asked the citizens to follow the advice given by their leaders on this problem.

The choral society under the direction of Howard Barnhill and Miss Louise Hill, accompanist rendered music for the program. The group sang, "Is There Anybody Here?" "Gwine Up," "Joshua And De Battle of Jerico" and "Angelic Choir."

Dinner was served to the guests and visiting friends. After dinner the coronation was held on the campus, in which Miss Laura Adams was crowned "Miss Pitt County Training School." The physical education class also gave a demonstration. All of this was under the direction of Miss M. Kelley.

Mr. Percy Bonds was the principal speaker on the afternoon program. His subject was "Education For Citizenship." Mr. Bonds built his discussion around the health problem and cooperation. When in school we work together in making our programs a success, but when are out of school we work against each other. No one can stand alone, there must be a foundation. Self education—Let us look into our own souls and stop knocking our brother.

In conclusion he said we must have better health conditions, evaluate ourselves, must become articulate, must have cooperation, then consolidate all these things to preserve our lives.

Mr. Rouerson of Washington responded to Mr. Bonds' address. He told the students to take advantage of their opportunity. There is a place for them in life but they must prepare themselves for it.

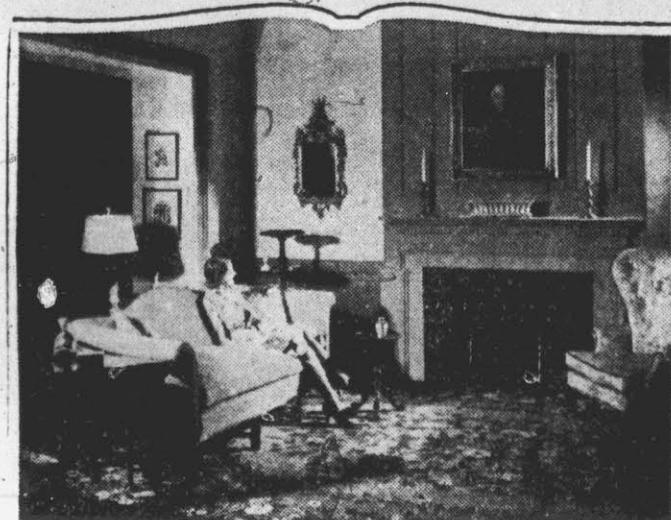

Miss I. M. Donnell, supervisor, asked the parents to know what their children are thinking, and what they can do toward advancing their own community.
