EXTRA OUTLAY PROPOSED FOR ARMY DEFENSE

Supplemental Fund of $600,000,000 Is Suggested

WOULD PROVIDE FOR EQUIPMENT

Plans Considered Meanwhile For Speeding Up Tax Program Laid Down By Leaders Tuesday

Washington, May 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and War Department officials were reported today to be considering a supplemental defense program for army equipment, planes and mechanization which would add more than $600,000,000 to the preparedness expenditures already projected.

Following a conference in which Secretaries Morgenthau and Woodring, Louis Johnson, assistant secretary, and General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, reviewed army needs with the president, there were indications that Mr. Roosevelt would ask Congress for the further expansion of the defense program within a few days.

The White House conference met as a congressional committee decided upon procedure for speeding up all possible the $3,000,000,000 tax program laid down yesterday by administration and congressional leaders.

Chairman Doughton (D.-N.C.) of the House Ways and Means committee, revising the earlier estimate of $683,000,000, said the administration hoped to raise $656,000,000 for defense taxes in a new tax bill which he will introduce tomorrow.

The Senate Finance committee agreed meanwhile to meet and discuss the tax program informally until the House had finished action on it so that all speed possible toward passage would be attained.

The day's defense developments included a request by Attorney General Jackson for immediate enactment of legislation requiring registration of all firearms in the United States.

After the White House conference on army needs, there was indication that the supplementary program would emphasize procurement of aircraft and tank. Anti-aircraft guns and mechanized equipment also would come in for a share of the money.

Many At Rites For Mrs. Lillian Austin

Out-of-town people here for the funeral of Mrs. Lillian Denny Austin, conducted yesterday morning at the home, included:

Mrs. Bill Batten, Roanoke Rapids; Miss Virginia Blount, Roanoke Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Garrett, Ahoskie; Rev. and Mrs. Walter Patterson, Louisville.

Mrs. H. G. Dozier, Mrs. Bertie Meggs, Mrs. Lillie B. West, Mrs. T. B. Williams, Miss Clara Williams, Miss Barbara Ann West and Robert West, Currituck.

A quartet composed of Mrs. B. D. Johnson, Mrs. O. A. Tucker, Dean Tabor and Spruill Spain sang.

Italy Ready

Rome, May 29.—(AP)—The surrender of the Belgian army on the Western Front appeared today to have ended any chance the Allies may have had to keep Italy out of the war by relaxing their blockade restrictions.

Italy's war fervor heightened with the Belgian collapse and active Italian intervention in the conflict seemed to many to be but a question of days.

Civilians began today to take over some of the posts left vacant by men called to arms and the government prepared to make many other such replacements in case a civil mobilization is put into effect.

Norwegian Port Of Narvik In Hands Of Allied Forces

This map presents the war situation in Belgium and northern France after King Leopold of Belgium surrendered to the Germans and ordered his army to stop fighting. Although definite results of Leopold's capitulation have not yet developed, the battle front now has three major points. (1) Germans claim an advance at Bruges. (2) Nazis also claim gains at Orchies, past the French forts at Douai and at Labasse on the other side of the triangle tip. (3) Berlin reports this side of the placers has moved to Bourbourg and down to Hazebrouck. The broken line represents the approximate battle line in the face of fast-changing conditions. The forts along the northern French frontier face attack in front and from the rear.

LEE IS HAILED FOR ABILITIES

Oklahoma Senator to Deliver Commencement Address

United States Senator Josh Lee, who will deliver the commencement address at East Carolina Teachers College next Monday morning, not only is both a practical man and a man of education, but is considered one of the best of public speakers.

A graduate of the University of Oklahoma, Senator Lee, went back to his alma mater as an instructor in public speaking. He organized the department of public speaking there and served as its first head.

Besides his B.A. from the University of Oklahoma, he has a Master's degree from Columbia University and a degree in law from Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tennessee.

His practical experience he gained from a boyhood on a farm, ten months as a private in France during the first World war, and his service in Congress since 1934.

Successful in his candidacy for election to the House of Representatives in 1934, he set out two years later to become a senator from Oklahoma. By "covering Oklahoma like a mustard plaster on an aching back," and making sometimes ten speeches a day, he won the election over three strong opponents.

Senator Lee is now a member of the Democratic steering committee and one of the administration leaders in the Senate.

One of the Senator's numerous activities is writing. He has published a textbook on public speaking and a book of doughty poems called "Soldier Rhymes".

Graduation exercises, at which Senator Lee will speak, will be held Monday morning, June 3 at 10:30.

St. Paul Bank Robbed Of Estimated $2,000

St. Pauls, May 29.—(AP)—The St. Pauls branch of the Bank of Rowland was robbed by an armed man and a woman accomplice early this afternoon. E. B. Ward, assistant cashier, who was held up at gun point, estimated the loss at more than $2,000.

The couple escaped in an automobile and town and Robeson county officers began a hunt. Sheriff Clyde Wade stating he would put "every man I can get on the case."

Joins Maxwell in Proposing No Second Primary

Raleigh, May 29.—(AP)—Lieut. Governor Wilkins P. Horton reiterated emphatically today that he would wage an active second primary campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, even with L. Lee Gravely of Rocky Mount, who got 60,000 votes in Saturday's primary, throwing his support to J. M. Broughton, who led Horton by 40,000.

"I have no statement to make except that I am running for governor, now, today, tomorrow and throughout the campaign," Horton said.

Raleigh, May 29.—(AP)—L. Lee Gravely of Rocky Mount, who got 60,000 votes in Saturday's democratic gubernatorial campaign, said today there should be no second primary, but that if one is held he and his supporters would back J. M. Broughton, Raleigh lawyer, holding a lead of about 40,000 votes over Lieutenant Governor W. P. Horton.

Gravely did not mention his support in the formal statement he released for publication, but in answer to a direct inquiry he said he would support Broughton and expected his friends to do likewise.

In the meantime there was no new statement from Revenue Commissioner A. J. Maxwell, who ran third in the race and got about 100,000 votes. Paul D. Grady of Kenly, who ran sixth in the seven-man field, yesterday joined Maxwell in the expressed hope there would be no second primary.

Judge Daniel L. Bell, Horton's campaign manager, said he had no immediate statement on the latest developments, but that Horton's second primary campaign was continuing uninterrupted.

There was no doubt that Gravely's announcement came as a surprise to the Horton forces, as had the Maxwell statement, with its implications that the revenue commissioner would support Broughton.

Banks, Post Office Closing Thursday

Greenville's three banks and the post office will be closed tomorrow—Memorial day—but business otherwise will proceed as usual.

The county ABC stores will not observe the holiday, the next closing being scheduled for June 22nd, day of the second primary. They also will be closed on July 4th.

All three local banks, Guaranty, State and Dickinson Avenue Guaranty branch, will observe the holiday.

The post office also will observe a complete holiday, all delivery service being suspended.

Important Ore Harbor, Long Goal of Land and Sea Forces, Had Been in German Hands Since Invasion of Norway on April 9; Two Other Norwegian Centers Captured

London, May 29.—(AP)—A joint Admiralty war office communique announced today that Narvik, far northern Norwegian ore port, had been captured from the Germans.

"Information has been received this morning that Narvik was captured last night by Allied forces and Fagernes and Forneset, also are in our hands," the communique said.

(The German high command announced the British, with the aid of numerous warships, had succeeded in entering Narvik from the north.

A communique said the German air force attacked and seriously damaged a British battleship at Narvik. The ships stopped firing, the communique said, after it was enveloped in smoke.

The high command also said that three cruisers, a destroyer and a freighter had been heavily hit by bombs.

Narvik, long the goal of allied pressure by land and sea, had been in German hands virtually since April 9, opening of the German invasion of Norway.

The garrison at one time was said to have numbered 3,000, but in recent days the German high command has told of reinforcing it with troops dropped by parachute.

The strength of the allied force—(Continued on page six)

PLEA IS MADE BY RED CROSS

Funds Sought to Relieve War-Torn Areas

J. Nat Harrison, chairman of the Pitt county chapter of the American Red Cross, today received the self-explanatory telegram from Norman H. Davis, national Red Cross chairman:

When American Red Cross asked minimum war relief fund ten million dollars no one could foresee that in two short weeks greatest tragedy in all history would be unfolded.

It is impossible to describe pitiful plight millions refugees in France. Sick, wounded, hungry and homeless. They cry out to us for help. Will need much more than ten million dollars, therefore quotas originally assigned should be regarded only as minimum immediate objectives.

Chapters should then go on and where possible double their quotas. In fact only limitation should be the maximum generosity of American people. Wire reports Wednesdays and Saturdays.

The first voluntary contribution to the Red Cross fund was received yesterday from F. L. Little of Ayden, who sent in two dollars. Contributors will be received at the Chamber of Commerce offices or at either of the two local daily newspapers.

Another Reports Issued On Condition Of Crops

The periodical report on crop conditions within 50 miles of Greenville issued by R. C. Rankin, sales supervisor of the Greenville tobacco market, issued today, declares that with few exceptions Eastern Carolina growers have planted their 1940 crops.

It adds that those who have not completed the planting will do so during the week. It also pointed out that the southern counties would finish planting this year about as early as the southern counties.

The report continued: "Weather conditions have improved during the past two weeks, especially during the last few days. It is warmer, both days and nights, and intermittent rains have fallen, bringing relief to the tobacco in the field, and furnishing a season for that to be planted. Cloudy weather has been beneficial too, however, a slow, general rain last-

River No Barrier To Germans' Push Westward

Nazi sources described this as a view of German soldiers bringing a gun ashore after ferrying it across a river somewhere in Belgium on a rubber boat. Boats like this have been used widely by the Nazis in their smashing drive to the English channel.

Belgian Parliament To Fix Fate Of King Leopold, III

POLITICS BILL REPORTED OUT

House Group Approves Hatch Measure 16 to 7

Washington, May 29.—(AP)—The House Judiciary committee today voted the Senate-approved Hatch bill to extend to federal-state employees restrictions on political activities now applied to federal employees alone.

The committee, which once shelved the legislation, reversed itself and agreed to give it further consideration, was reported to have approved it by the vote of 16 to seven.

The Hatch legislation would broaden the so-called Hatch "clean politics" act passed last year for federal workers. It would apply to state workers paid in whole or in part by federal funds the act's restrictions on "pernicious" political activity.

It also would limit the expenditures of a national campaign committee to $3,000,000 in any.

A unanimous vote in the House Rules committee gave legislative right-of-way to a big directing the Secretary of Labor to deport Harry Bridges, west coast CIO leader, to his native Australia.

Secretary Perkins recently dismissed deportation proceedings against Bridges on findings of Dean James M. Landis of Harvard Law school in special proceedings.

Bridges testified that he was not a Communist and did not advocate the overthrow of the government by force.

Czech Output Of Flax Will Wax Prague.—(AP)—The government of the Protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia is increasing flax production by force of law.

Farmers whose ground is suitable and who have more than twelve acres under cultivation may be obliged to devote a certain area to flax.

Whereabouts of Monarch Kept Secret By Germans

Paris, May 29.—(AP)—The legal fate of Leopold, III, as King of the Belgians, will be decided Friday by the Belgian parliament.

The refugee Parliament in emergency session in a Paris dance hall already has approved the action of Leopold's cabinet yesterday in "disowning" him as sovereign because of his surrender to Germany.

A dispatch from the Belgian frontier reported that Leopold had been returned to the Brussels palace by the German army.

London, May 29.—(AP)—Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger Keyes, who as a special British liaison officer was with King Leopold until late Monday night issued a statement today hinting that there were certain important facts not yet generally known attending the Belgian monarch's sudden capitulation to the Germans.

While the majority of the British press was bitterly denouncing Leopold, Sir Roger issued a statement requesting that judgment be "suspended on a very gallant soldier until all the facts are known."

Berlin, May 29.—(AP)—The whereabouts of King Leopold of the Belgians is kept a secret, authorized German sources said today, since in view of bitter attacks on him by allied leaders it was declared conceivable the allies might try to bomb his castle if it were known where he is staying.

The strictures of French Premier Paul Reynaud and Belgian Premier Hubert Pierlot were cited as justification for this secrecy.

Mrs. Gowen Dies At Home In City

Mrs. L. B. Gowen died suddenly at her home, 404 Meade street, this morning at 5:30.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, at St. Pauls Episcopal church by Rev. Worth Wicker. Following the service the body will be taken to Rocky Mount, to be taken by train to Troy, Maine for interment Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Gowen is survived by her husband, L. B. Gowen, and one daughter, Janet, her father, and one sister, Mrs. E. I. Clapp of Newton Highlands, Mass., who will arrive in Greenville Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Gowen moved to Greenville in 1931 where Mr. Gowen is employed by Swift and Company. She was a member of the Episcopal church.

Ireland Calls Up Army Reservists

Dublin, Ireland, May 29.—(AP)—Ireland called up army reserves today and moved swiftly to put her forces on a war footing in the face of the grave situation confronting her neighbor, Britain.

At the same time, volunteers began applying for service at the recruiting stations; but outwardly Dublin went on about its business pretty much as usual.

FDR SPENDING IS DENOUNCED

Birmingham, Ala., May 29.—(AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, declared today that the Roosevelt administration "blatantly proposes" to turn over defense expenditures to "the same miscellaneous collection of incompetents that has managed to squander $60,000,000,000."

Dewey said in a speech prepared for republican party members that after "seven destructive years," under President Roosevelt "we must face the menace of a warring world with our business life restricted, our industry weakened and our whole system suffering from artificial economic anemia."

"In this situation," he asked, "what course does the administration choose?"

"It blatantly proposes to handle the present emergency with the same methods it has used to meet the many emergencies of its own creation during the last seven years. It says all that is needed is that Congress vote more billions of dollars."

"This administration has already expended six and a quarter billion dollars in the name of national defense and yet today we find ourselves with totally inadequate defenses."

"What confidence can any of us—democrats or republicans—have that the new defense program will be efficiently conceived and administered?"

Stock Fish Pools On Farm Of Jack Lewis

Jack Lewis, of Farmville, has placed 400 bass in pools located on his farm.

Mr. Lewis has a chain of pools on the farm caused by removal of marl for fertilizer material years ago.

These marl holes never go dry and make ideal fish pools.

The black bass were secured from the game conservation department to stock the pools.

To Make Radio Talk On National Defense

J. H. Rose, commander of the North Carolina Department, American Legion, will deliver an address on National Defense over radio station WPTF, Raleigh, tomorrow morning at 11:15 o'clock.

Transcriptions of the speech will be made and will be broadcast over nine other stations in the state during the day and evening.

It also is understood that the address will be used as part of a national hookup for a Memorial Day program.

The population shown in the first United States census was 3,929,214. There were 59,557 free negroes and 697,624 slaves.

Ostend And Ypres Fall To Invading Nazi Forces

Allies Apparently Retiring to English Channel in Hopes of Escape From German Surrender or Die Onslaught; Wave After Wave of Planes Roar Over Retreating Allies

By The Associated Press

In three pulverizing smashes, Hitler's Nazi legions today stormed Ypres—famed World war battlefield—and captured Lille and Ostend, the high command announced, to tighten the steel-jawed trap on 700,000 allied troops encircled in Flanders.

On the strength of these reports it was apparent that the Allies were now retreating to the English Channel—seeking that means of escape from the German "surrender or die" onslaught, rather than attempting to break through the German salient to the south.

Lille is a manufacturing city about 18 miles southeast of Ypres. Ostend is the strategic Belgian channel port, one of the main bases of supplies for the harassed French and British forces.

The Nazi high command said desperate French counter attacks had been beaten off with "the bloodiest losses."

Waves after waves of Nazi bombing planes roared over the French and British forces falling back to the sea, but the British expeditionary force was reported "still fighting as a unit" in the harried withdrawal.

London military circles said the British expeditionary force had retreated "some miles toward the coast."

This was the first indication that the encircled Allies were attempting to escape by channel ports—even at the risk of undergoing a "hellish fire" such as attended the British embarkation from Boulogne—rather than trying to break through the German corridor to reach the main French armies in France.

Fighting in the streets of Dunkerque was reported by Berlin sources who intimated that the swastika flag might be hoisted at any moment over the port.

Unofficial reports that the French were massing their armies of the center for a drive to relieve the pressure in Flanders were given color by a Paris communique announcing new successes along the Somme and Aisne rivers.

The last German forces on the south side of the Somme were reported driven back across the river and the French said the situation there was "highly favorable."

Survivors Of Storm To Celebrate Tonight

J. E. Edwards, cashier of the Guaranty bank branch at Belhaven, tonight will entertain at a dinner aboard the fishing boat Dixie in honor of the eight other men who miraculously escaped death when the boat was wrecked in Pamlico sound during a storm.

His guests, all of whom were on the ill-fated Dixie, will be J. H. Moye, Dr. W. I. Wooten, J. G. Woodward, J. A. Staton of Bethel, H. J. McGinnis, J. R. Gullege and J. H. Waldrop.

It was one year ago today that the men were rescued after hours of searching and a night of terror clinging to the Dixie.

Social and Personal

Miss Lucy Nobles has returned from Peace Junior College in Raleigh to spend the summer at her home in Greenville.

Miss Marjorie Sugg, a student at Greensboro College, has returned to Greenville for the summer.

Miss Marian Tyson left today for Washington, D. C. Annapolis and New York. While away she will attend the dances at Georgetown University, June week dances at the naval academy and the World Fair.

Mrs. J. S. Norman has returned from Baltimore, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Starling for several weeks.

Miss Martha Lee Cowell will leave tonight for a trip to Philadelphia and New York.

Miss Bettie Bloxton, who has been teaching in Hattiesburg, Miss., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Adelaide Bloxton at the college.

Little Miss Lucille Laughinghouse is recovering nicely from a tonsil operation.

Irving H. Young, of Chattanooga, Tenn., is spending several days here with his sister, Mrs. Charles Laughinghouse.

Sue-A-Allen
Mrs. Robert Harris, of Ayden, wishes to announce the engagement of her sister, Doris Virginia Allen to Mr. Lewis Sugg, of Snow Hill, and Goldsboro. The wedding to take place in June.

Nurses' Council Will Meet.
The Greenville Nurses' Council will hold its regular meeting on Thursday night at 8 o'clock with Miss Mary Lee Smith at the college infirmary. Miss Stella Grogan and Mrs. Bruce Hooker will be assisting hostesses.

Supper at Country Club.
There will be a picnic supper at the Greenville Country Club on Saturday night at 7 o'clock for the club members. For reservations call Mrs. W. I. Wooten or Mrs. John G. Clark before Friday noon.

Honored By Employees
The employees of the Best Jewelry company entertained Dr. and Mrs. W. I. Best at a delightful barbecue luncheon on Sunday at the Best cottage at Atlantic Beach.

A profusion of pink gladioli afforded additional charm to the attractive summer home.

Luncheon was served from a beautifully appointed table by Mrs. Robert Greene and Mrs. Hinton Best, assisted by Mrs. Eugene Hamric and Mrs. Herman Norris.

Mrs. J. A. Patterson, of Mitchell, S. D., Mrs. Ralph Freeman, Los Angeles, Cal., Mrs. Ruth Whitchard and Misses Hennie Ruth and Mary Andrews Whitchard were also luncheon guests.

Sans Souci Club
The Sans Souci Club held the final meeting of the club year on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. E. B. Ferguson. Mrs. J. B. James, retiring president, was hostess at a luncheon meeting which in conviviality and excellence in every club activity, highlighted the closing meeting.

In generous mood and one alive to these ominous days, the club voted ten dollars for Red Cross relief, five dollars for Cancer Control, and ten dollars for specially selected books for Sheppard Memorial Library. A special vote of thanks was given the hostesses on the club trip, a happy excursion to Williamsburg, a day of history unfolded, with an interval for an excellent dinner at Williamsburg Inn.

For "Seeing Through My Windshield," Miss Ethel Nice substituted "Seeing Through A Port Hole" and entertained the club with an account of her trip to Europe with four hundred "American Country Club Women" on their annual foreign tour.

The tenseness of the times and her own personal slant as a member of a group unusual in Europe, made the talk of the speaker an unusually attractive one. The Club appreciated the opportunity of seeing with her the glories of Europe which seem destined to be marred by war so soon.

Following the program, small tables were set up, each with its vase of sweetpeas, and a delicious three-course luncheon was served by the hostess.

CONVENTIONALITIES

A big picnic was given today by the tobacco men a few miles below Greenville. A good crowd attended.

The commencement of the Carolina College at Ayden begins tonight and closes Wednesday night.

To those who have lived and observed the town of Greenville for twenty years, there is much cause to congratulate the town about its progress. Steady and sure it has grown.

There is no county in the State more susceptible of a high development than Pitt county. A ride in the country for a day or two demonstrates the fact to a pleasing degree. What will twenty-five years of the new century reveal?

Recital
Mrs. W. H. Tolson will present the following pupils in recital at 8:00 o'clock Thursday night, May 30th in the auditorium of Sheppard Memorial Library. Eloise Warren, Annie Lee Powell, Janet Gowen, Herbert Waldrop, Jr., H. R. Goodall, Jr., J. Brooks Tucker, Jr., Knott Proctor, Jr., Charles Pace, Joyce Corbett, Rachel Fleming, Mary Alice Davis, Dorothy Davenport, Mary Frances Smith, Dorothy Mixon, Margaret Savage, Pauline Bell, Jennie C. Joyner, Mrs. N. O. VanNortwick, Jr., and Lallah B. Watts. The public is invited.

Methodist W. M. S. Meet.
The annual meeting of the Methodist Women's Missionary Society of the New Bern district will be held Friday at Beaufort. It has been announced by Mrs. Gertrude Matthews, of New Bern, district secretary, who is urging all auxiliary officials and superintendents throughout this district to attend as important matters will be presented.

A chief feature of the program will be a study of the new set-up of women's work. Among the speakers of the day will be Mrs. W. O. Chadwick, of New Bern, conference secretary; Miss Elizabeth Lamb, of Fayetteville; and Deaconess Zoe Anna Davis, of East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville.

Luncheon will be served by the Beaufort hostesses.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Here is a suggestion that will come in handy when you entertain the graduating class: Lay a light colored linen runner on the serving table, outline it with a chain of daisies, ivy or any other simple small flowers or greenery. Place a large square of black cardboard, to represent a mortar board, in the center and lay a diploma, tied with school colors, on the top.

Do not overload the dining room with ornaments, small tables or wall decorations. A table all set for a meal is very decorative in itself and needs only a simple background. Flowering plants or greenery are alley. All I can suggest is that you write to any of the leading music publishing houses—Robbins Music Corporation, for instance—and ask their advice.

It is a waste of time to submit songs to ranking orchestra leaders. They are swamped with hundreds of songs every week. Kay Kyser gets thousands, and so does Orrin Tucker. These of necessity are returned promptly with polite form letters of rejection.

But if you must write to some orchestra leader, I would recommend that you choose one who is not in the limelight, one who is on the way up but who has not as yet reached the big time. Once an orchestra reaches the top his life and his time are no longer his own. He is plagued by the locusts of the trade. Song pluggers descend on him in droves. As a result, he barricades himself behind a wall of "front men"—buffers, so to speak. Keep away from the top men in the business. Reach for the little fellows, and hope that, if they listen to you, they some day reach the top.

Listening to the radio is fun for you. But do you ever think about how it sounds to the neighbors, especially when you turn it on loud so you can hear it while you're getting breakfast?

There may be someone next door whose job keeps him working part of the night. An extra half-hour of sleep in the morning is impossible for him if your radio is screaming. Some of us get used to a loud radio and don't realize the din it creates next door.

There's a comparatively new thump—like a magnified echo—that comes from the powerful radio or phonograph. It's a matter of thoughtless adjustment of the tone. That thumping penetrates walls and is often enough to spoil conversation and concentration as well as sleep.

Maybe there are others guilty of another careless habit, but it's father who is getting a lot of blame for annoying his own family. He sits by the radio to read his paper or book and lets the radio go on, never trying to regulate the tone or decrease the volume.

Since the radio is no longer a baby invention, the noise it makes isn't a mechanical responsibility. If it makes a din, the blame rests on the person who controls the dial; that's the person who should adopt a good neighbor policy.

Indianapolis.—The $100,000 Black Hawk in which Frank Lockhart crashed to his death twelve years ago will run again in the Indianapolis speedway classic.

When the 500-mile race is run May 30, Lockhart's 16-cylinder motor—it develops 450 horsepower at 7,000 revolutions per minute—will be churning up speed under a new streamlined chassis. The revised car bears much resemblance to the racer in which Lockhart died on April 25, 1928, in an attempt to set a new world's speed record at Daytona Beach, Fla.

At that time Lockhart was half way to the record. He had covered the one measured mile over the Florida sand faster than the 207.55 miles an hour established by Ray Keesh only a few days before.

But he insisted on making the trip back down the sands immediately, without any time for a checkup of the car. As he hit the timing wire at the start of the measured mile something went wrong and the car hurtled end over end for more than a hundred yards. Lockhart was dead when they got him to a hospital.

He had given his life and most of his money toward the speed record attempt—less than two years after he first gained fame by winning the Indianapolis 500-mile race in his first attempt.

Now Riley Brett, Lockhart's old mechanic, has encoined the Black Hawk motor in a new streamlined chassis which resembles the "beach car" but which has all the latest improvements. These include a torsion bar suspension on the rear axle and a new grouping of the universal joints from the differential to the rear drive wheels.

The car was driven here last year and turned one lap at better than 130 miles an hour, just about tops on the Indianapolis track.

Young Bob Swanson of Los Angeles, a midget car champion who figured in the three car wreck last year in which Floyd Roberts of Van Nuys, Calif., was killed, has been nominated by Alden Sampson, the owner of the car, to drive it in the big race.

In many respects Bob resembles Lockhart. He came here in 1937 and did a great bit of relief driving for Ralph Hepburn. Hepburn finished only two seconds behind Wilbur Shaw, the winner, in that race.

Last year Swanson's car lasted only a few miles and he was driving relief for Hepburn again when he crashed.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York. — Almost every day this corner is asked for names of reliable literary and musical agents. These letters come from all sections of the country. Last week there were 19 such requests. Today there are four, and yesterday there were six. Today's queries are from New London, Conn.; Baton Rouge, La., and Elkhart, Ind. These people have written songs, or magazine pieces, or both.

To save time and trouble I am going to list several reliable agents, with their addresses. But I must tell you that most reliable agents are difficult to approach. It sometimes is necessary to have letters of introduction. There is sound common sense behind these precautions. One of the irritations of agency work is that authors whose material is returned sue agents frequently for plagiarism. Dozens of suits come to light every day. If a man in Wyoming writes a story about a train wreck involving cross-eyed engineer, and has it turned down, he may be on the look-out for other stories of a similar nature. Should he later on read a story about another cross-eyed engineer, he might institute suit on grounds of plagiarism. Does this seem unreasonable? Maybe so, but it happens every day.

In any case, if you want to write for the movies, a man to get in touch with is Jacob Wilk of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., West 44th street, New York City. You'd better write him a letter before you send any manuscripts.

If you write fiction for magazines, you might try Dorothy Lewis of the Wm. Morris Agency, RKO Bldg., Rockefeller Center, New York City. For magazine stories and plays, Leah Salisbury is an excellent agent. Her office is in the Sardi Bldg., west 44th street, New York City. Jean Dalrymple is another who prefers to work for the films and magazines. Her office is in the Channing Bldg., east 42nd street, New York.

As for music agents, I never heard of any. It is practically impossible for any outsider or person unknown to get a popular song published. If there is a single closed market in the United States, it is Tin Pan Al-

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

ARE YOU PROUD OF YOUR FAITH?
It is hard for the world to see
the vigor and strength which religion puts into people's souls. The devout are often quietly laughed at
as queer, naive people, who, being impaired in some way in the struggle of life, have turned to the unseen
for that consolation they are unable to secure by their own efforts.

There may be some seemingly religious people of this variety but certainly this is not typical of the multitude of men and women who have simple, childlike trust in God, and who guide their lives by the teachings of the Bible as the mariner guides his ship by the stars. Genuinely religious people are almost without exception people of outstanding personality and force of character. Even those who do not share the faith of such individuals nevertheless entertain for them a very deep and wholesome respect.

Thy truly religious have something which even the most worldly and disolute envy. Said Horace Bushnell, the great theologian and preacher of several generations ago:
"I have never known a case of deep habitual piety, when the friendship of God has through a long course of years been the outstanding element of life, where the person did not come to be regarded as a remarkable person."

A sense of God's guidance imparts to any life an air of sublimity and quiet power.

COSTLY FUN?

It's fun to follow the fire engines. It's always a thrill to see the great red trucks
hurtling past, with their sirens screaming. And it's fun to watch a fire. There is a primitive excitement in
the sight of flame and smoke,
and the sound of crackling
wood.

But, if we go beyond the superficial sensory pleasures,
and start to think about what
fire means, the fun is spoiled immediately. For fire is the grimpest of disasters.

Fire kills some 10,000 Americans each year. These people meet the most horrible of deaths — and every one of them die in vain.

Directly and indirectly, America's fire bill runs close
to $2,000,000,000 each year.
That money would build 400,000 excellent homes. It would buy three million good new automobiles. It would supply 2,000,000 people with jobs at over $80 per month
each. It would provide 4-000,000 families with subsistence relief.

To the individual, fire may be the most ghastly of experiences. It may mean death and injury. It may mean the loss of a job. It may mean the burning of irreplaceable possessions. It may mean ruin and despair and privation. For fire has no mitigating circumstances

— it has no silver lining. It represents destruction, pure and complete.

Consider this next time
the fire engines scream by.
Consider this next time you see smoke and flame and feel the angry heat of a burning building. And then it will seem more fun to help prevent a fire than watch
one!

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington. — Capitol barber
shop:

Barber: Good afternoon, Senator Hear you gentlemen may be around all summer.

Senator: Poppycock. Cut it short.
I may be wearing a helmet before I get time for another haircut.

Representative (from adjoining chair): Hello, Senator. Sounds like you don't think much of our preparedness program. Or do you?

Senator: Humph. You know what I think of it, young man. I'm the original one-man armament. I congress has listened to Bernard Baruch for the last two years —
or to me, for that matter — we wouldn't be in this mess.

Representative: But things will be all right, now. With an air force of 50,000 planes, a full peacetime army
and reserves of men and munitions,
we won't have anything to worry about, will we?

Senator: Hah! Maybe yes, and maybe no. But first let me ask you something, Mr. Representative. Aren't you on that House committee that lopped millions off the military appropriations bill last January?
Aren't you one of those who told the army they could have only 57 new planes in 1941, and that 37 of these would have to be strictly training planes? And after all that, didn't I see you applauding wildly the other day when the President called for that 50,000-plane airforce?

Representative (weakly): But conditions change, Senator.

Barber: When I was in the Senator: Of course, if any one could have foreseen a few years ago that that beer-hall corporal, and his stomach-empty nation were going to blitzkrieg half of Europe, we would have been ready to say enough's enough. But we didn't see that. We just saw the good old Allies standing there in the way and said, "Oh, well, if worst comes to worst, we'll tell old England and France we like them best," and that will fix everything.

Representative: But Senator, Senator: But nothing Worst has come to worst. And so we say, "Now we'll arm. Now we'll put three billion dollars into our war machine.
Now, everybody's happy again."

Representative: Well, you'll admit it's a step.

Senator: It's a step, young man,
but there's a lot of spade work to be done. I just don't want any of my constituents sitting back and saying: "It's all right now. We're going to have a great army, a great air force, a great navy." Maybe we are, but I was in the senate in 1917,
and any enemy of ours today is going to have to be a awful patient, if he wants to catch us prepared.

Representative: What do you mean?

Senator (snorting disgustedly):

Rip Van Winkle

Do you think industry is better prepared today to take up the burden of vast armament than it was 23 years ago? I was there. I know. The first question is, what are we preparing for? War? All right. Do you know that nine months after we had gone into the World War, with an industry already keyed to Allied orders, we had produced only 430, 000 rifles; 58,500 automatic pistols
and were capable of turning out only 300,000 rounds of small arms ammunition a month when we needed 10 times that many?

Representative: Well, I guess . . .

Senator: Do you know it was 10 months after we entered the war
that we got our first fully equipped division in the field? That out of 19 factories producing cannons, there were three at the end of the war that didn't even have their machine-tool equipment? Do you know that army ordnance has a war time catalogue of 10,000 items?

Representative (paying check hurriedly): So long, Senator, I've got to get back on the job.

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, May 28.—Department Commander June Rose of the American Legion is deeply concerned
over the state of mind of Americans, particularly young Americans, with regard to the current war and the dangers of eventual conflict with the Hitler-led Nazis should they be successful in conquering the Allies.

Something of this concern will be expressed in the Commander's Memorial Day address which will be delivered Thursday morning at 11:15 o'clock over Raleigh's radio station WPTF.

The Rose address has been transcribed and will be used at various hours Thursday by stations in Asheboro, Charlotte, Salisbury, Greensboro, Elizabeth City and Wilmington.

From some of the talk about oil

truck operations on the highways,
there has grown up a general opinion
that there are many and frequent disastrous accidents involving the big tankers; but along comes a report of the Southern Oil Transportation company to the State Highway Safety division which puts quite another angle on the matter.

The report lists 44 drivers of the company who have operated trucks for a grand total of 123 years without an accident of any kind.

One of the humorous angles on last Saturday's primary comes from Pitt county.

It seems that in one of the county precincts the boys were much afflicted with itching palms, and the vote early in the day was very light, as no "payoff man" appeared. Finally, toward closing time the bottom dropped completely out of the

HIGH TIDE

By Frances Hanna

YESTERDAY: Quiet, mousy
Norma is in love with Lance Mer-riner, and he falls in love with glamorous Rose Cornwell. Jan is distressed.

Chapter 18

'Crude And Rude'

UP ON the rooftop with Nap-tune Jan leaned against the parapet and gazed out over the enormous expanse of blue waters, sparkling under the sun as if diamond-faceted. She felt a little dizzy; more than a little shocked.
How blind she had been to the obvious; how ignorant of Jan's quicks and dark vortexes of the familiar.

Rose had lived here three weeks now; Derek four. She thought, "How little I really know of either of them. I've scarcely skimmed their surfaces.
What will she do to Lance? What will Derek do to me?"

Back of her, in a somewhat sheltered corner, stood the small brown tent Derek occupied. He flipped up to let in the fresh air and sun. He was working to-
day. He worked nearly every day now on the fishing barge. This week he'd bought himself a pair of white flannel trousers, a pair of white shoes, a blue flannel jacket and a white shirt. He paid her, with much ceremony, five dollars a week for his food. He treated her as a comrade, casually, friendly. That kiss on this roof might never have been. Perhaps it had been only imagination. She wished it were!

Lance was in love with Rose,
her brain worried. Would it harm him? She hoped not. Lance would expect nothing to come of it, surely, knowing his limitations.
She was being rather foolish, worrying about him. It might do him good, make him less introspective.

"Jan," she said aloud, "you are worse than the old woman who lived in the shoe!"

She gazed upon the locker
nearby which had not been opened for weeks. Unhappy weeks. "I'm miserable when I paint and I'm miserable when I don't," he thought. "I wonder if he feels that way about the piano, his music. He must. All eaten up and gnawing and re-sistent . . ."

Lance appeared abstracted, mon-osyllabic, at dinner. He seemed to be listening for the light click of high heels on the stairway and when he finally heard them he brightened a moment only to plunge into deeper abstraction as they went on outside.

"Would you care to go to a movie, Lance?" Norma asked,
a look of strain about the corners
of her small, unpainted mouth.

"No," he did not look at her.
He had not for a long time. "Say, Jan, could we afford to fix my room up a bit? I get so damned fed up of looking at the same drapes and cushions day in and day out. I thought—maybe something bright?"

"Of course, I'll go over to the salvage store first thing in the morning and see what they have.
I can buy yardage and make the drapes and pillow covers myself."

"Is there anything you can't do?" Derek asked. "Jan, you are much too competent! I can picture you scolding, managing and mothering a brood of tow-headed children."

She flushed, but said nothing.
So, she thought, he considers me the maternal type. I wonder if I don't like a chance to find out
by having a fling at something else!

"Sweet Girl Graduate"

JOHNNY swung into the kitchen,
his light eyes peering around the table, settling on Jan. "I've got a night off," he said. "Come on in town with me, Jan, and we'll take in a show and a couple of night spots. It'll do you good."

She might have refused if she hadn't seen the frown of disapproval on Derek's face. "Thanks, Johnny, I'd love to go." Turning to Derek, she said sweetly, "You won't mind helping Norma with the dishes just once, will you?
After all, the maid should have a night out occasionally, should she not?"

Without waiting for assent or dissent she left the table and ran up to her room. Searching hastily through her closet she located an ancient evening gown in a sealed paper sack. A freshman prom had seen it last, ages ago; still, it wasn't much out of date. In a bureau drawer were gold kid evening sandals. She almost wept when she pulled off the tissue paper and saw the tarnish on them.
Well, they wouldn't show much
under the long skirt of her dress and anyhow she had to wear them because they were all she possessed.

Really, she thought, prouet-
ting before the mirror, the dress did look grand! It was of white tulle, long and floppy, puffed of sleeve, with a blue silk sash at the waist. She looked about sixteen in it. Norma had a short fur jacket she could borrow. Oh, it would be fun to get out of Sea Tide for a night, to get away from turbulent surf and turbulent humans.

Holding up the skirt with one hand, she hurried downstairs to the group in the living room, stopping on the bottom step for proper effect.

Johnny, faultless in tuxedo,
stared at her, then scowled. "You look like a sweet girl graduate!"
he declared. "It just won't do, Jan. Not for the sort of places I go. Can't you borrow one of Mrs.
Cornwell's evening gowns? She wouldn't care." He paused at the stricken look on her face.

"I—I thought I looked rather spiffy," she stammered.

Derek reached her in three long strides and slipped an arm
about her waist. "You look beautiful," he asserted. "Prettier than any picture!"

"You look lovely," Lance chimed
in, regarding Johnny angrily.

"No, I don't," she contradicted,
her voice wavering on tears. "I look like he said." She buried her face in Derek's neck, big shoulder.

Johnny shifted position, a little sahawid yet stubborn and determined to justify his statement.

"I've told you and told you," he began. "But you won't listen to me."

"Shut up," Derek growled.

"You've been crude and rude enough for one time."

Johnny tossed his topcoat and got black hat to a chair and stalked up to him, hand jutting forward, a bull answering the taunt of the toreador. "Why don't you mind your own business, fellow? I've known Jan a lot longer than you have and she knows
good and well what I'm talking about! She could buy herself some decent clothes for what she spends on pelains and canvases and all that junk! And take your hands off her, you—beach-
comber!"

Six For A Quarter

JAN felt Derek's muscles tauten
as he let go of her. She grabbed hold of his clenched fist with both hands. "Oh, stop it, stop it!
We're all behaving like children.
Go along, Johnny, and get somebody else to go out with you.
Some girl who wears the proper clothes."

"Now, Jan, that's no way to act," he argued doggedly. "I wish I hadn't said anything. I'll come on, I'll go somewhere."
"I won't go anywhere! Never,
never, never! I'm just the maid around here, that's all, and since you know so much about my affairs, Johnny, I'll just tell you again that I couldn't buy anything even if I wanted to! Clothes don't grow on bushes and they don't sell evening gowns in salvage stores!"

To her dismay she felt tears tumbling down her face. She whirled like a wild thing and scattered up the stairway to her room. A minute later the door opened and Derek came in. He watched her a moment, lying small and hurt and huddled on the bed, the white tulle billowing around her like a cloud, all of her sturdy, valiant competence dissolved in young tears. Compassion moved in him, shoving aside
the dark bitterness that was always with him.

He sat down beside her and patted her up in the crook of his arm, considering her as if she were a child in need of comforting. With a big, clean handkerchief he wiped away the tear stains on her hot cheeks and smoothed the hair back from her forehead with a cool hand.
"Jan, if you want too proud to go there, I'd like to take you dancing at the ballroom on the pier. I've got about a dollar—think it's enough?"

"You—you can buy six dances
for a quarter," she quavered.

He laughed. "Six dances for a quarter! Why, honey, you can the whole lot of them for a dollar! Come on, fix up your face and comb your hair while I dress up like a city slicker for you."

She pushed her hair back of her ears and lifted her chin. "I don't want to go anywhere. I won't have any fun. I'll be thinking how silly I look in this awful dress. I'll be all right Derek. It's sweet of you to be sorry for me, to ask me to go, but you needn't have bothered."

"Listen," he told her, his eyes compelling, "despite what anyone tells you, Jan, clothes don't make the woman. You're sweet and
dear and too darned self-sacrificing. Now you get ready, because woman, I will be obeyed!"

While she worked at the obey-ing orders she heard Rose coming upstairs, heard her call down.
"I'll be with you in a moment Johnny. Let's take my car."

But Jan didn't care. Let him take Rose to swanky places! Her heart sang and her pulse danced.
Derek had said, "You're sweet and dear."

Reviewers of the first gubernatorial primary are coming to the conclusion that the folks in Maxwell's
Headquarters — particularly State Manager Burgin Pennell and Asst-
ant Manager Ronald Wilson — did a fine job of standing up under a terrible strain during the last week of the campaign.

Here was their situation: They had on their hands a candidate who was almost as likely to die any minute as he was to live. (It has at last become generally known that the Commissioner of Revenue suffered a 'stroke' on Monday, May 20.)
He could make no decision, see no supporters, conduct no campaign of any sort.

They knew Maxwell couldn't possibly make a second campaign under any conceivable circumstances and they had to decide what to do about

it. They decided to stand pat and their 'cover-up' of the true state of Maxwell's health was a masterpiece.

The headquarters still maintains that it was reports about the Maxwell illness which kept him out of second place; but they now admit that if the truth had been known Maxwell "wouldn't have received 40,000 votes."

The Buncombe county "ring", primary returns revealed, scored its first complete sweep over the "Anti-ring" in many years. As one Buncombe expressed it "there isn't

Greenies Lose To Goldsboro 8-2; Play Here Tonight

WILSON PACES LOCALS AT BAT

Five Errors Aid Goldbugs in Defeat of Greenville

Goldsboro last night scored an 8-2 win over the Greenies in a game which saw six errors, five of them made by members of the local team.

The two teams return here tonight for an engagement at Guy Smith park at 8 o'clock.

The Greenville skipper himself, Rube Wilson, took a try on the mound for his boys last night and allowed 11 hits. It was a game of Wilsons, as Walter Wilson did the hurling for Goldsboro and allowed the Greenville team only six hits. Rube got two of the six safeties, one of which was a double.

As it turned out Goldsboro stored enough runs in the first—three—to win the game. The Bugs added two more in the fourth, while holding Greenville scoreless until the sixth when Wilson singled. Forbes walked and Kracke doubled to score the only two runs gained by the locals. Goldsboro added one more in their half of the sixth. Two more Bugs' runs in the seventh ended the scoring for the night.

With Rube on the mound, Dides held down first base and did a fine job of the task. He handled 13 chances without a bobble.

TONIGHT'S GAMES

(Rained out last Friday)
Blount-Harvey vs. Water-Light.
Tadlock vs. R. C. Cola.

Double Cola defeated Water and Light 19-4 last night to pull back into a tie with Carolina Sales for the softball league leadership, after Blount-Harvey had won over Tadlock 24-7.

Blount-Harvey scored three in their second to overcome the one run that Tadlock had pushed across in their half of the second. Then, while holding the insurance team to one each in the third and fourth and two each in the sixth and seventh, the department store team proceeded to make nine in the third, one in the fourth, nine in the fifth and one in the sixth to more than triple the score in a free-hitting game. Gibbs, Tilley and Potts each made three for the winners. Tilley and Blount getting homers. Duncan and Howell, with two each, led for Tadlock.

Although kept with their backs to the wall, the Water and Light team continued trying, but fell far short of matching the ability of the Double Cola boys.

Ed Wells held the utility boys to seven scattered hits, while his mates were garnering 18. George Clark cut off many would be hits in short field by snagging several hard tries. Dr. Aycock starred at bat for the winners, getting four for five, all singles. But Halem got a two base hit and a home run in addition to a single. Ernest Welles also got three.

Wilson homered for Water and Light in the sixth.

Girls Will Play At 6:45 Tonight

The Davis hostery girls will engage Jean Jones' team in a softball game at Third street park tonight immediately preceding the two regular scheduled men's contests. The girls' game is scheduled to start promptly at 6:45 o'clock and the boys' game to start at the regular time of 7:45 o'clock.

The Davis girls will meet a team from East Carolina Teachers College tomorrow night at 6:45 o'clock.

W. H. Laughinghouse With Dillon Supply

W. H. Laughinghouse, formerly with the Mackenzie Equipment Company of Washington, now is connected with the Dillon Supply Company, with principal Eastern Carolina offices in Rocky Mount.

Mr. Laughinghouse, however will be stationed in Greenville and will work out from this city.

The Dillon Supply company carries a complete line of Allis-Chalmers farm machinery, tractors and equipment and Mr. Laughinghouse said the firm's stock was kept to a point that prompt deliveries could be assured at all times.

The District of Columbia was established under the authority of an act of congress approved July 16, 1790.

ECTC Alumni Day Program Planned

When East Carolina Teachers College alumni meet at the College Saturday, June 1, for their annual Alumni Day, they will have a program with four main features—the award made for the first time to a graduate for outstanding work in some field; an address by President L. R. Meadows at 10:30; luncheon at 1 o'clock, which all alumni are guests; and tea in the afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of President and Mrs. L. R. Meadows. Mrs. B. M. Bennett, Forest City, president of the Alumni Association, will preside at the morning meeting and the luncheon.

Details of plans for the day are being worked out by Miss Estelle McClees, Alumni Secretary. Registration will be held at 9:30 o'clock; the program will begin at 10:30; and a business meeting at 11:30 will close the morning session.

At the luncheon the honor class of 1915, 1930, and 1939 will be recognized. Miss Christine Johnson, Greenville, will give the response to the toast for her class.

At the tea in the afternoon a number of faculty and staff members who were advisors for the honor classes or are members of the Alumni Committee will assist, as will also a number of the members of the Alumni Sons and Daughters club.

For the closing event of the day, the Class of 1940 has worked out an "allegiance program," to be given at 6:30 on west campus.

Boy Scouts Plan Vacation Program

Various projects have been planned for local scouts for the summer vacation months, including a week at the World's Fair in June, a Camporee at the local camp site, special Merit Badge Classes during the entire summer, and camping at Camp Charles from June 16th to July 28th.

All arrangements have been made for the 80 scouts and scouters of the East Carolina Council to go to New York next week and camp inside the World's Fair grounds as a Service Troop. This group will leave Wilson at 6 o'clock on Sunday, June 2nd.

A Camporee for Greenville Scouts is being planned by the Scoutmasters' Association. Assistant Scout Executive A. L. Hodges and scouts from various troops cleaned the grounds and the cabin last Saturday, and everything is in readiness for wholesome camping experiences.

Merit badge classes have been planned for the entire summer. Chief Gardner of the Fire Department will conduct a class in firemanship each Monday night at 7 o'clock at the Fire station. C. L. Teague, a local patrolman, will conduct a class in safety. Mr. Page of the police force will conduct a class from 8 to 9 in the morning in fingerprinting. The instructors and time of classes in first aid, public and personal health, horsemanship, and other subjects will be announced later.

Camp Charles will be open from June 16th to July 28th. A new T-dock, new quarters for first aid, nature study and crafts are some of the improvements in camp this year.

Several Vacancies In U. S. Army Reported

Effective immediately there is an unlimited quota for the 4th Field Artillery, Fort Bragg, and also vacancies for other Field Artillery organizations at Fort Bragg, Sergeant Stonewall Jackson, in charge of the local recruiting station, announced today.

Effective June 1, there will be an unlimited quota for infantry, Panama and vacancies for various other branches of service there. Also effective June 1, there will be vacancies for various branches of service in Hawaii.

It is suggested that young men contemplating enlistment in the army secure their qualifying papers as soon as possible and get their choice of assignment.

How to Avoid Damage by MOTHS

Before packing garments, woolens, etc., expose them to strong sunlight. Then have dry cleaned, steam pressed, or brush very thoroughly. Next, clean out the clothes chest or trunk and sprinkle Bee Brand Insect Powder liberally in the corners and over bottom. Lay a sheet of paper over the powder, place clothes on top, then cover clothes with more paper and cover it up with more Bee Brand Powder. Bee Brand Insect Powder kills moths quick, yet it's safe to use. Inset on genuine Bee Brand Insect Powder, in the red and yellow can. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.
