Horton Withdraws From Democratic Governor's Race

POST IS LEFT TO BROUGHTON

Statement Announcing Retirement from Run-Off Primary Reveals No Reason For Move; Broughton Expresses Gratitude and Believes Party Harmony Will Result

Raleigh, June 3.—(AP)—Lieut. Governor Wilkins P. Horton withdrew from the Democratic gubernatorial campaign today.

Horton's withdrawal gave the nomination to J. Melville Broughton, Raleigh lawyer.

The decision was announced shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon. Broughton said he was "deeply gratified" and sincerely believed the decision would mean party harmony.

The State Board of Elections an hour earlier had formally ruled that Horton was entitled to a second primary. He got 105,915 votes to take second place in the seven-man field. Broughton led with 147,386.

Horton and his aides had repeatedly reiterated since shortly after midnight primary night, May 25, that the second primary campaign was actively under way.

"During the past week the campaign had been very actively prosecuted by the Horton organization," said a release from his office. But this morning the "lieutenant governor" decided not to make the race.

Horton's withdrawal eliminated any possibility of a second state-wide democratic primary, but the State Board of Elections has already received formal demands for run-offs in the Eighth congressional and sixteenth state senatorial districts.

There will be a second state-wide Republican gubernatorial race if George M. Pritchard, of Asheville demands it. Robert H. McNeill of Statesville got 13,130 votes, but lacked a majority. Pritchard received 11,847.

W. Erskine Smith of Albemarle, entitled to a second primary in the Democratic lieutenant governorship fight, announced last week he would not run, giving that designation to R. L. Harris of Roxboro.

The State Elections Board received no formal contests at its meeting.

Hodges Is Appointed To Pitt County Board

M. Brown Hodges of Grifton, who was nominated to the County Board of Commissioners in the May 25 primary for the term beginning in December today was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of the late W. O. Jolly.

Mr. Hodges was appointed by Clerk of Court J. Frank Harrington, was sworn in and immediately took his seat as the board was in regular session today. He represents the fifth district.

Everything Is Ready For Cooking School

Only two days to wait for the opening session of the Carolina Sales Cooking School, with Miss Ada Williams, at the Woman's club building on Thursday at 2:30. Other classes will be held on Friday at the same time.

Admission is free to all women. No tickets are required.

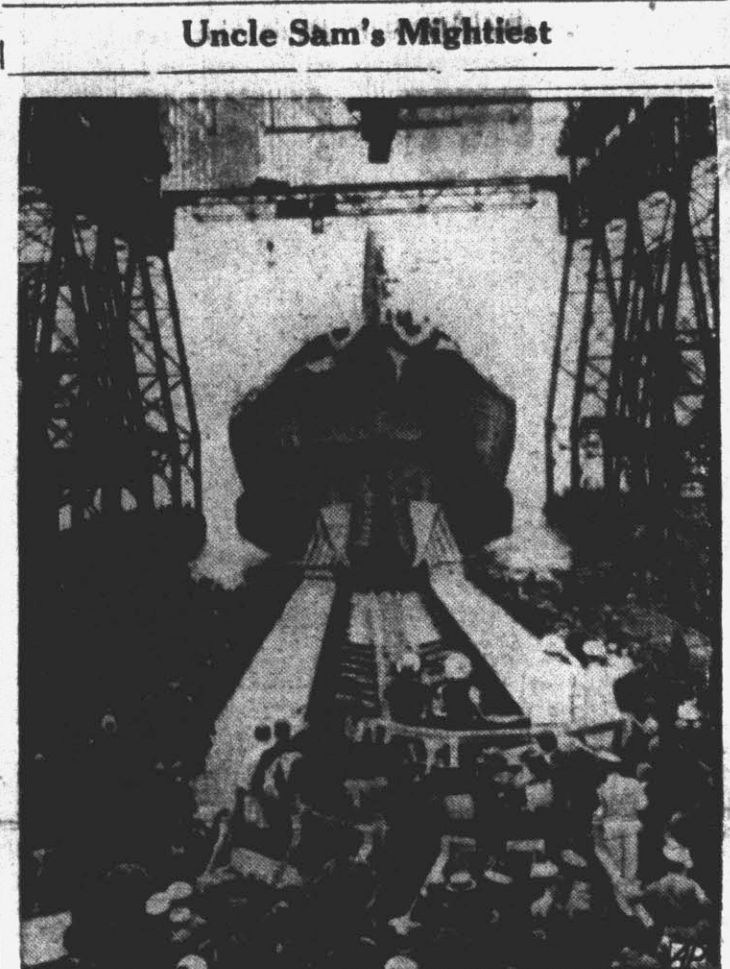

At each session of the school, a printed folder containing all the recipes to be prepared by Miss Williams will be presented to every person in the audience. A complete set of these miniature cookbooks can be had just by attending the cooking school.

Nelson Not Sunk

London, June 3.—(AP)—The Ministry of Information announced today there was not a vestige of truth in German reports that the battleship Nelson had been sunk.

An authoritative German spokesman at a press conference in Berlin last Saturday said in response to a question concerning rumors of the Nelson's sinking that the 33,950-ton flagship of the British home fleet had been sunk with the loss of 700 of her crew of 1,320.

Flag Salute Regulation Is Held Constitutional

The 33,000-ton battleship, Washington, 1,000 tons heavier than any other American fighting ship, is shown here being launched at the Philadelphia Naval Yard as a large crowd stood by. It was the first capital ship to be constructed by the United States in 19 years. Note the huge bulges in the ship's sides, part of her underwater protection.

SCHENCK HELD IN TAX FRAUD

Movie Official Indicted By Federal Grand Jury

New York, June 3.—(AP)—Joseph Schenck, president and board chairman of the Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on 24 counts of income tax fraud, conspiracy and making false statements to a government investigation.

The indictment resulted from a three months inquiry. Schenck's bookkeeper, Joseph Moscovitz, was named a co-defendant.

Two indictments specified that Schenck had defrauded the government of more than $400,000 in taxes in 1935-37.

Funeral Tuesday For J. A. Mewborn

J. Albert Mewborn, 64, former cashier of the Bank of Farmville and a successful farmer in that community, died at 11:15 o'clock last night in a Goldsboro hospital following three weeks of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home in Farmville at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Interment will follow in Forest Hill cemetery.

Mr. Mewborn was the son of the late Elder D. A. Mewborn and Mrs. Pennie Dixon Mewborn. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Etta Smith Mewborn; one daughter, Mrs. George Edwards of Snow Hill; one son, A. Bennett Mewborn of Goldsboro; three brothers, G. L. and J. R. Mewborn of Snow Hill and L. A. Mewborn of Farmville.

Many French-Canadian farmers of the Saguway section have for years raised their own tobacco.

COURT TO RULE ON STATE LAW

U.S. Tribunal Agrees To Review N.C. Act Imposing Tax On Firms Displaying Samples For Purpose of Obtaining Orders

Washington, June 3.—(AP)—The Supreme court held constitutional today a regulation requiring school children to salute the American flag.

Justice Frankfurter delivered the eight-to-one decision which sustained a flag salute requirement by the Minersville, Penn., school board.

Frankfurter said that the wisdom of training children in patriotic impulses by those compulsions which necessarily pervade so much of the education process is not for our independent judgment.

"The court room," he added, "is not an arena for debating issues of educational policies."

Justice Stone delivered a lone dissent.

The court agreed to review a decision sustaining the constitutionality of a 1937 North Carolina law imposing a $250 annual privilege tax on companies other than regular retail merchants in the state which display samples in hotel rooms or display houses for the purpose of obtaining orders for retail sale.

Best and company, Inc., of New York City, appealed from a decision by the North Carolina supreme court holding that the tax "in no way hampers the movement" of goods in interstate commerce. This was a test case.

The court also denied a petition by Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, World War draft dodger seeking relief from military prison on the ground that he never was "legally inducted into the army."

2nd Pitt Primary Expected Be Held

Although neither Roy T. Cox nor J. A. Statton could be reached for statements this afternoon, belief was expressed by local supporters that each would probably enter run-off contests as previously announced, despite the decision of W. P. Horton not to call a second primary in the gubernatorial race, thereby eliminating any state-wide race.

Mr. Cox has announced that he would enter a run-off with Amos O. Clark for the office of Register of Deeds, and Mr. Statton has formally filed to enter a second primary with S. O. Worthington for one of the county's two seats in the State House of Representatives. Dr. W. I. Wooten won one of the seats in the May 25th primary.

Heavy Docket Ahead For County Tribunal

County court will be resumed tomorrow morning after having been in recess during the past two weeks while a civil term of Pitt Superior court was being conducted.

E. F. Tucker, clerk, said 15 or 18 cases already were docketed for trial and more were still being added. He estimated 25 or 30 would be ready for trial at the session.

Local Man Graduates From Johns Hopkins

Louis Cotten Skinner, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Skinner of Greenville, will be among the 474 graduates receiving degrees at the Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Md., tomorrow morning.

The local man will receive his degree in medicine.

The graduating class is composed of students from 35 states, the District of Columbia, Philippine Islands, Puerto Rico and 43 foreign countries.

EXPOSITION IN ROME DELAYED BY MUSSOLINI

Military Mobilization Continues At Rapid Pace

MORE RESERVES ARE CALLED UP

1942 Rome Exposition Had Been Referred To As Proof Italy Not Planning To Enter War

Rome, June 3.—(AP)—The Italian government today announced the indefinite postponement of the 1942 Rome exposition which Premier Mussolini once referred to as proof that Italy was not planning to go to war.

The reason given for the postponement was that several nations had requested time to prepare exhibits.

Italy's "behind-the-scenes" military mobilization preceded with the haste which will call up reservists being delivered at additional homes in every mail.

Chairman of the provisional committees for the organization of blood donors discussed plans to meet emergency demands for transfusions.

The conference was officially described as having "unusual importance at the present moment." It was attended also by representatives of the army, navy and air force.

The delegate of the women's section of the Fascist party promised the cooperation of Italian women.

Twenty-Nine Pitt Seniors At ECTC

East Carolina Teachers College today granted diplomas to 29 Pitt county seniors in the thirty-first annual commencement exercises.

The 14 Greenville seniors receiving the A. B. degree were Robert G. Brewer, Mary Lou Butler, N. Harvey Deal, Lou Nichols Dupree, Helen Flanagan, Edith C. Forrest, Ethel Gaston, Frances Harris, R. Gertrude Harris, Dorothy Hollar, Alton R. Johnston, Booster Tex Lindsay, Mrs. Annie A. Sellers and Herbert Wilkerson.

Other Pitt county seniors receiving their diplomas were: Maxie Broadwell of Winterville; Margaret Ann Jackson and Stanley Scarborough of Grifton; Lindsay Wilchard of Stokes; Evelyn Clark of Grimesland, and Thomas J. Meeks, Margaret W. Moore, Pauline S. Johnson and Rosa Lee Tripp, all of Bethel.

Mexican Charges Aimed At Britain

Mexico City, June 3.—(AP)—The press bureau of the German legation charged today that many British secret service agents had arrived in Mexico and the Panama canal zone recently to organize sabotage operations and to create "incidents" which would be attributed to German agents.

The aim of these allied tactics, the bureau said, is to arouse fear and hatred of Germany in the Americas, particularly the United States.

12,691

Greenville's population, according to a preliminary announcement by D. W. Lupton, district census supervisor in Washington, N. C., this afternoon, is 12,691.

The 1940 census shows a gain over the 1930 figure of 3,498. The city had a population of 9,193 in 1930.

Mr. Lupton, who revealed the figures in a telephone call to The Reflector, declared that the figures represented only a preliminary announcement. He also expressed his appreciation for the cooperation exhibited by the citizens and officials of Greenville.

Alexandria Wars On Fifth Column

Seven Hundred Suspects Arrested In Egypt

Alexandria, June 3.—(AP)—Seven hundred "fifth column" suspects seized in a week-end roundup were sent today to internment camps in upper and lower Egypt.

Approximately 600 of the suspects were seized in Cairo and the remainder in Alexandria. All were held under strong guard to await trial before military tribunals.

Premier Aly Maher Pasha meanwhile said the government is studying new measures to assure the nation's internal security in view of the tense situation in the Mediterranean.

Fully equipped soldiers with fixed bayonets stood guard over telegraph and telephone systems. Heavy guard posts were posted at railway stations, bridges and strategic points along highways and canals. Police armed with rifles patrolled the streets.

216 GRADUATE THIS MORNING

U. S. Sen. Lee Delivers Commencement Address

To the strains of "The Triumphal March From Aida" 216 candidates for graduation from East Carolina Teachers College this morning filed into the Robert H. Wright auditorium of the college to hear U. S. Senator Josh Lee, Norman, Okla., deliver the commencement address and point out with humor and force the importance of industry, high ideals, and ambition in making a success of life.

Parents and friends lined the route of march for the academic procession, filled every seat in the large auditorium, and stood several deep in the rear of the hall.

After the main address, President L. R. Meadows in a brief speech to his graduating class before presenting their diplomas, asked them as representatives of East Carolina Teachers College to continue to grow, to keep up their courage in the face of all discouragements, here to render to the world all the service they are capable of. "And if you can do so," said he, "spend your lives in this state. North Carolina has done much for you, give back something in return."

Dr. R. S. Boyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Greenville, led the prayer of the morning.

"Here you are at the end of your education," said Senator Lee to the seniors before him, "but it is the beginning of the end. And if you now had one wish, what would you ask for? 'I would wish for success which means happiness, or it is not real success.'"

Then repeating the poem about the boy who followed the ever retreating rainbow to find the pot of gold at its foot, he declared, "There is a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow and all should search for the treasure, but do not follow after the rainbow you see, for that is not yours. You are standing in your own. That may be why you cannot see it. What you see is the other person's; and when you follow it" (Continued on Page Six)

Contribution Of $2 Boosts Amount to $71

A contribution of $2 to the local Red Cross war fund received today from W. S. Dall brought the total to $71.

Contributions will be received at the Chamber of Commerce offices and also at the two local newspapers offices.

An appeal was received here last week from national headquarters urging the local organization to raise as much as possible in view of the seriousness of the situation.

GHS Speaker

C. K. Proctor, superintendent of Oxford Orphanage, will deliver the High School commencement address, at graduation exercises to be held in the Robert H. Wright building tonight at 8 o'clock. Diplomas will be awarded to 82 members of the first regular 12-year class. A list of the graduates appear on page six.

JAPS DECLINE EASE POLICIES

Premier Says Tokyo Has Way To Better Relations

Tokyo, June 3.—(AP)—Premier Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai said today that "there is a way of approving the aggravated relations between Japan and the United States," but added that of course such a method is neither being considered or being taken.

"I am not in a position now to disclose the nature of this way to better relations," he added.

Many of the newsmen at the conference interpreted his statement to mean that Japan did not intend to conclude the United States by abandoning any of her policies toward China or other Far Eastern issues.

The premier, a former minister of the navy, replying to a question concerning the concentration of the United States fleet in the Pacific said that "Japan feels no menace in this connection."

Final Rites Held For Guy E. Elks

Funeral services for Guy Edward Elks, 37, who was electrocuted near Grimesland Sunday morning about 9:30 o'clock while working on a power line, were conducted from the home of his father, W. S. Elks, in Grimesland Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. W. A. Crow, Methodist minister of Grimesland. Burial followed in Greenwood cemetery in Greenville, with the Red Men in charge.

Mr. Elks was born, reared, and spent his entire life in Grimesland. He had been employed by the town of Grimesland for about seven years. He was a member of the Red Men Tribe of Grimesland.

Mr. Elks is survived by his wife, the former Louise Arnold of Vanceboro, five sons: Vergil, W. S., Horace, Guy E. Jr., and Early, all of the home; three daughters: Emily, Hollie, and Bronnie, all of the home; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Elks of Grimesland; six brothers: Thomas Elks of Goldsboro, Hugh Elks of Norfolk, Russell Clinton and Ernest Elks, all of Grimesland, and Elbert Elks of Terrace, N. C. Four sisters also survive: Mrs. T. R. Dixon and Mrs. Clifton Smith of Grimesland, and Mrs. Clifton Toler and Mrs. James Rouse of Washington, N. C.

PLANES SWARM OVER CAPITAL

Paris Raided in Hour-Long Attack, Setting Fires, Smashing Buildings and Injuring Undisclosed Number; Smoke Pours From Outlying Districts, Apparent Objective of Craft

By The Associated Press A roaring swarm of between 250 and 300 German warplanes bombed the Paris area today, killing 45, wounding 149, setting great fires and smashing buildings in an hour-long raid.

The high-flying Nazi raiders left approximately 1,000 bombs and "dud" struck within six feet of U. S. Ambassador William C. Bullitt.

Four schools in Paris and four others in the suburbs were hit with casualties. It was officially announced.

An American was reported among those killed.

Great columns of black smoke rose from outlying districts, where the main force of the German attack apparently was felt. The crash of bombs was heard all over the capital, suddenly roused to alarm from the lethargy of a bright June day.

Anti-aircraft batteries and machine guns on rooftops blazed away at the sky-raid and French fighting planes rose into the air in droves to meet the invaders.

Red Cross and police cars dashed through the streets as civilians scurried to air raid shelters. Explosions rattled windows in the heart of the city, but there was no immediate estimate of the damage.

The all-clear signal was not given until an hour later.

In one place four persons were wounded, none seriously.

Ambassador Bullitt was to have had lunch as the guest of Air Minister Laurent Eynac. He and his host were just having sherry in the reception room of the building in which they were to eat. The German bombers came. The two remained at their places. Less than 10 minutes later a bomb pierced the roof and fell within six feet of the ambassador. It did not explode.

Capture of 330,000 British and French prisoners in the bloody battle of Flanders was reported by the German high command, which said Nazi troops closing in on the Allies' escape port of Dunkerque had seized the strongly fortified city of Bergues, only five miles away.

The German communiqué said its count of allied prisoners in the 25-day-old campaign was "preliminary," indicating that an even higher figure may be expected.

With clearing weather the Nazi air fleet stung the Allies with renewed fury.

London reported two British hospital ships were bombed and machine gunned by German planes off the French coast. A 17-year-old boy was killed on one of the ships. (Continued on page six)

Christian Science Church. "ANCIENT AND MODERN NECROMANCY, ALIAS MESMERISM AND HYPNOTISM, DEMONSTRATED" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches and Societies Sunday, June 2. The Golden Text was from Jeremiah 20:13. "Sing unto the Lord, praise ye the Lord: for he hath delivered the soul of the poor from the hand of evildoers."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon were the following from the Bible. "Let no man deceive you with vain words: for because of these things cometh the wrath of God upon the children of disobedience. See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil. Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is." Eph. 5:6-17.

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "Animal magnetism has no scientific foundation, for God governs all that is real, harmonious, and eternal, and His power is neither animal nor human. Its basis being a belief and this belief animal, in Science animal magnetism, mesmerism, or hypnotism is a mere negation, possessing neither intelligence, power, nor reality, and in sense it is an unreal concept of the so-called mortal mind. It is a mere belief, and it is not power." (Page 102).

With Jimmy and Jean At The Art Gallery

"It is!" "I know it ain't!" "I tell you it's a pencil drawing!" "I know it ain't drawn with no pencil but I don't know how it's done!" The heated argument was taking place in the Greenville WPA Art Gallery. The gallery attendant over-hearing the disagreement, and recognizing Jimmy's voice, appeared upon the scene to see what she could do to clear up the matter. Jimmy's companion proved to be Joe, an other member of the gallery sketch club. Jimmy was just pointing to the lettering on the wall and Joe began spelling out "E T C H I N G S D R Y P O I N T S—What's that?" "Want me to tell you?" The Gallery attendant was a little surprised to find such young people interested in knowing the medium employed in making these pictures. "Yessum, we wish you would." "Joe, I see how you might think them pencil drawings but Jimmy you were right when you said they were not.

Every intelligent person is asking the why of all the war in Europe. Many and varied are the answers. Norman Angell, a political philosopher and an authority on international relations has several answers in his book, "For What Do We Fight?" He has rendered a unique service in the twentieth century by trying to explain conditions in Europe so that they may be better understood. He has sought to separate the truth from the true in our social thinking and make the truth visible to the multitude.

H. G. Wells in his newest book, "The New World Order", has set down compactly, clearly and as usefully as possible the gist of what he has learned about war and peace in the course of his life. The book is also a splendid gesture at trying to predict a new world order in the light of present and past circumstances. The great and powerful changes that are forcing drastic upheavals in politics, religion and philosophy are ably discussed as is also the discontent that education has brought about. Altogether it is a book that provokes much thought. "War in the Twentieth Century" edited by Willard Waller, is a book in which specialists have pooled their knowledge for the public benefit. Each of the contributors to this symposium has devoted special study to the aspect of war concerning which he writes. Each has tried to make his findings intelligible to the student and general reader. The effect of the last war, the historical interlude, society in war times, war and civilization are the general topics under which the articles are gathered.

The Round Table has given to the Sheppard Memorial Library the books which they read this year. They are as follows: Eller—Houses of Peace. De Saint Exupery—Wind, Sand and Stars. De la Mora—In Place of Splendor. Baldwin—White Magic. Norris—Lost Sunrise. Downes—So Stand The Rock. Butler—Across The Busy Years. Aldington—Rejected Guest. Havelock Ellis—My Life. Homer—My Wife and I. Fisher—Children of God. Stout—Maud. Miller—Song After Midnight. Vance—Escape. Cornell—I Wanted To Be An Actress. Harding—Imperial Twilight.

British Escape Trap And Come Home Grinning

With stout hearts and impish grins, these British Tommies came home to England from the fiery maelstrom of the German trap in Flanders. They were bloody and dirty and bearded from two weeks of incessant fighting. But they laughed as children showered cigarettes and candy upon them during a troop train stop in southeastern England, according to the British caption on this cablephoto. British and French retreated before superior numbers and so lost the battle of Flanders. But they say it cost the Germans about 500,000 casualties.

Strength For The Day

By KARL L. DOUGLASS

RULES FOR BURDEN BEARING

The greater a responsibility the one is capable of being passed on to someone else. There are thousands of little duties we can hire others to do for us. Many of the minor burdens of life can be put on the shoulders of others. But when we face the great things, we have to square our shoulders and feel the weight of the burden pressing down upon them.

"We can hire others to produce our food and make our clothes, and the British may perform the loved ones
a duty which they feel to be incumbent. But when one has to have an operation performed, he can hire
one to go to the hospital for him.
When he faces the necessity of making great decisions, he must face it on a measure alone. Others may advise, but he must make the decision.
Others may sympathize, but he must bear the burden of his own grief.
Others may understand, but he must endure his disappointments. And in the end everyone of course must face
the reality of death alone.

The Bible tells us three things about burden bearing. We must bear our own burdens; we must bear another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ; we must cast our burdens upon the Lord. It is when we forget ourselves and think of others that the intolerable burden becomes bearable. And it is when we cast our burdens on the Lord that we understand in a measure at least the significance of our burden and bear it with courage.

VITAL TO NATIONAL DEFENSE

This nation must embark upon the greatest defense
program in its history.

All the countries of the world face unpredictable futures, and of the major nations we seem to be the most poorly prepared to meet possible invasion. Both the political parties have made an expanded national defense part of their objectives, and the public is in overwhelming agreement.

Any national defense program which is to be at all adequate is going to cost money—incalculable sums of money. And, in the present tangled state of our tax and fiscal structure, raising that money will demand intelligent thought and planning.
It cannot be raised by heavy increases in taxation without driving us into a new and severe economic depression.
It cannot be raised by lifting
the debt limit and passing the buck to the taxpayers of the future without bringing closer the specter of national financial demoralization. It must be raised, in part at least, by governmental economy and applying the sav-

REC-MANNING

ings to the national defense.
On this point the New York Times says editorially:

"We must drastically cut down the scandalously over-generous subsidies, and duplications, that we have been scattering in all directions...
If in addition, we revise or repeal some of the well-intentioned legislation and bureaucratic rules that stand in the way of industrial expansion and private employment, we can still further reduce unemployment and relief expenditures at the same time as we increase the yield from existing taxes.

We must recast our thinking, in fact, our whole economy... As a nation we will leave more for defense as we spend less in other directions." In other words, would you rather have $200-000,000 for someone's pet
"political" project or for a
"defense" project such as 2,000 bombers or 8,000 pursue planes?

It should be remembered that an orderly fiscal policy
is ip itself a vital defense factor. Putting our financial house in order is certainly an essential part of any workable national defense program.

Raleigh, June 3.—Any doubt that the second primary for governor will be a heated, knock-down, drag-out sort of affair has been removed by Lieut.-Governor W. P. Horton's
two-fisted attack on Dr. Ralph W.
McDonald and his intimation, in the same statement that Ill Commissioner of Revenue Allen J. Maxwell has been over-persuaded, to say the least, by Broughtonsites.

Everybody who remembers the '36 campaign (and most folks who take any interest in politics) do recall that Dr. McDonald is pretty good at rough and tumble brawling himself.

Speaking of McDonald and the efforts of Horton to link him with the Broughton campaign, it might be well to remember that the good Doctor isn't a complete, uncompensated debtor to the man he supports.

After all, it's not hard to look back and is capable of dishing it out with the best.

And so, despite the fact that he holds a post in the halls of Chapel Hill, Dr. Mac isn't going to be so cloistered as to refrain from firing back.

All of which will make it interesting for those on the sidelines, at least.

HIGH TIDE

By Frances Hanna

YESTERDAY: Lifeguard Frank finds Derek a job driving a beach-front trolley. Derek wears smogged glasses hoping no one he knows in the old days will recognize him.

Chapter 19 Memory Of Lenore

HOT and tired from an unsuccessful fishing expedition, Jan
was in no mood to find Derek aucting off her paintings.

Jan charged through, her elbows working to good advantage,
and confronted Derek, seeing behind him all twelve of her precious canvases.

Derek was staging an exhibition at the Greenville Village.
Jan dropped her fishing pole
and grabbed for as many canvases
as she could carry. Into the house
she marched with them, her cheeks flaming with fury.

"I guess the show's over, folks," Derek shouted and herded his passengers back to the tram car.
He would, he reflected dourly,
not only get the devil for being off the time schedule and maybe lose his job, but Jan from the look in those flashing blue eyes of hers, would not only heap, but throw, coals of fire on his head.

"I don't know where I got the idea," he tried to explain to her later. "I was rolling along and all at once I thought of the brilliant idea of staging an exhibition in the front yard. I figured I could bring all my passengers for customers and try to raise some money for you."

"You're a madman!" she raged
at him, scooting her hair behind her ears with shaking fingers.
"Can't you mind your own business? They are my paintings! The least you could have done was ask me. Nobody bought any, either. I knew no one would want them. All you did was humiliate me and make me a laughing stock!
Oh, I—I hate you!"

"Now listen, Jan," he pleaded.
"I won't listen," she stamped her foot. "And I won't forgive
you. It was mean and conceited of you!" And she fled to her room and locked the door.

This Eternal Anxiety

DEREK ambled restlessly
through the house, wondering how he could make amends to Jan. It had, he sighed, seemed a good plan at the time of execution. In fairness he tried to put himself in her place. What if she had invited a lot of strangers into the house and played his original compositions for them on the piano, then offered to sell them cheap. He would have felt like choking her!

All of this present life was so new and so strange to him. This eternal anxiety over bills and earning money; this hoarding and counting and distributing of pen-cies; he had never in all his life known need of money. At birth his father had established a large trust fund for him, the income from which more than satisfied
all of his needs at the age of twenty-one he had inherited more than five millions from the estate of his grandmother. He had taken the possession of money for granted just as the Merriners
took the lack of possession of it for granted. No, poverty had never haunted nor troubled him, but wealth had. He'd come to loathe the great riches because they effectively shut him off from the things he wanted most.

All during adolescence he had yearned for normality, for a home, for roots. Children, he thought, do not want to be different, to be set apart from their fellows. He wanted to say to his school friends: "Come along to my place for vacation. Mother and Dad like my friends around.
They'll see to it we have a jolly time."

He had learned, and the informing was a bitter, ruthless process, that he could not survive as a family or recognition as a composer. But he could have bought Lenore Page. Would have bought her, too, albeit unwittingly, if two things had not intervened.

The walls of this shabby,
weather-beaten old house seemed to close in about him. In growing dark from the window where he slumped, he saw only the great solid outline of Jan's piano. His own piano had been much like this—the one he kept in his Manhattan apartment.

His penthouse apartment atop
the latest of modern apartment houses on Sutton Place in New York City was crowded with a colorful group of names prominent in society, stage, sports and films. Lenore Page, exquisite in a Lanvin creation of black velvet, wearing the priceless diamonds he had given her, played hostess, her sleek platinum head turned graciously to this and that celebrity, her great, dark eyes wide with interest, her small,
boneless hands with sharp, blood-colored nails keeping things smooth. Lenore, beautiful as Helen of Troy, clever as Delilah!

He supposed, thinking back,
that he had drunk too much champagne with dinner. Suddenly he wanted to be more than just a fabulously rich young man to these people. He wanted to play for them, wanted them to know that he, too, had talent, that he,
too, could do something besides spend money.

The orchestra on the terrace stopped playing when he spoke to them. People paused, wondering, in the middle of a dance number. Lenore, seeing him cross
the great room toward the piano, hurried up to him. Her eyes questioned.

"I'm going to play my new concerto for them, Lenore."
"No Mood To Listen"
SHE slipped her arm through his, detaining him. "Not now, Ricky," she said sharply. "They are in no mood to listen to you.
They've been drinking for hours,
dear, and Gordon, the music critic, is here. Please, Ricky, don't do this."

He freed himself and went on.
Lenore held up her hands. "Be quiet, everyone! Mine host will play for you."
He settled at the piano, let his narrow, sensitive fingers bring his creation to life. The silence in the room held a few moments,
then some girl, gaily intoxicated,
called loudly. "Bring it, Ricky!
This is no funeral!"
Someone laughed. Talk began, swelled. He and his music were forgotten.

In the face of increasing fury the German drive toward the English Channel, King Leopold of Belgium ordered his army of 500,000 men to knit fighting and lay down their arms. The Germans proceeded him and his family refuge in a Belgian castle. The Belgian government in Paris said Leopold acted against the advice of his ministers. They set about reorganizing the army and assured the Allies the Belgians would fight on for victory. Leopold is shown with his three motherless children, Prince Albert, 6, Crown Prince Aureolain, 10, and Princess Charlotte. The children's mother, Queen Astrid, was killed in an automobile accident in 1935.

HAND-SOME WITNESS—Appearing before a senate labor sub-committee in Washington, Mrs. Melvyn Douglas, wife of the actor, handily argued that a job for everyone who wants to work is essential to America's national defense.

Rain Halts Sunday Game; Greenies Won Saturday 3-0

GAME BLOCKED END OF SECOND

Caligiuri Was Going Good For Locals Sunday

Rain yesterday afternoon halted the Greenville-Kinston game at Guy Smith park at the end of the second frame with neither team having scored.

Freddy Caligiuri was on the mound for the locals and was going good when the game was called.

A total of 521 paid admissions was reported for the contest and the checks will be good for tomorrow night's game with the Wilson Tobs.

Morris Willson held the Eagles in check at Kinston Saturday to walk off with a 3-0 victory. He allowed five scattered hits.

Greenville was able to get only six hits, but these came at opportune times and the locals made the best of them to win. The first tally came in the second when Samocki walked, stole second and scored on Shelton's single. Greenville made another in the second on Forbes' hit, stolen base and an error. The final tally in the seventh came on Crowe's single, a sacrifice and Thornton's single. Forbes made two of Greenville's six hits, one of its runs and stole a base to figure in the victory.

Busters Win, Lose In Header Yesterday

The Meadowbrook Busters of Fleming's Cross Road won over Penny Hill by an 8-1 score yesterday at Penny Hill. The game was interrupted by a thundershower in the fifth.

Gray Nichols and Ford McGowan pitched for the winners, Floyd Nichols worked behind the plate, Guy Peelen, Teal and Parker made up the Penny Hill battery.

Second Game
Belvoir and Penny Hill combined to defeat the Meadowbrook Busters by a score of 4-1 yesterday at Belvoir in a seven-inning game. Ford McGowan and Norman Warren led the Busters at bat. Paul Flye, scheduled to hurl for Fleming's was unable to play because of sickness.

Man About Manhattan

New York.—"You'd think we were a couple of interlopers from Hollywood trying to taunt the critics in to a fury."

It was a black Friday indeed for Laurence Olivier. About him were scattered the New York daily newspapers. They carried sour reviews of his play, "Romeo and Juliet," which he opened on Broadway the night before. The front pages were flaming with headlines—Britain threatened—France invaded.

Mr. Olivier is an Englishman. He is engaged to marry Miss Vivian Leigh, the erstwhile Atlanta Jezebel of "Gone With the Wind." Miss Leigh had opened in the play with him in the role of Juliet. The critics had hopped on this production, some of them savagely.

"They should have called it 'Laurence and Vivian' instead of 'Romeo and Juliet,'" one critic wrote.

All this left Mr. Olivier slightly stumped.

"Did any actor ever get worse reviews, I wonder?"

He was assured many actors had drawn worse reviews—Raymond Massey's attempt at Hamlet, for instance.

In a way, this was a disappointment to a great number of people who aren't even connected with the theater. Miss Leigh made such a hit in "Wind" and when her engagement to Olivier was announced, the "Romeo and Juliet" idea seemed a sort of lovers' dream come true.

But the reviewers, almost without exception, condemned the production. One critic suggested the only reason they decided to play Shakespeare's tragedy of the star-crossed lovers was because they were in love themselves and were trying to cash in on the public's well-known sympathy for people who are in love.

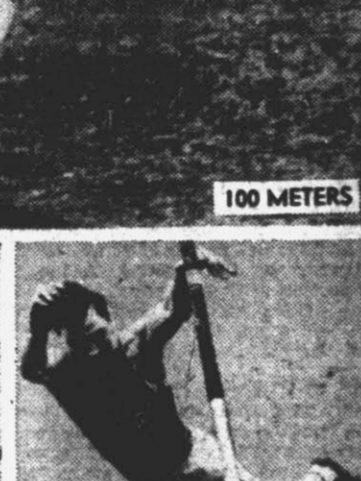

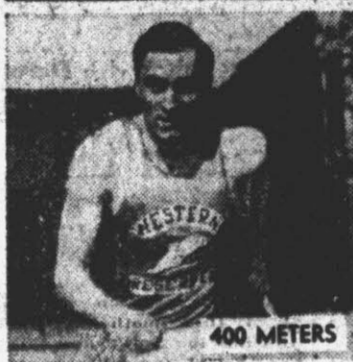

Since it was Mr. Olivier who produced the play and directed most of the brickbats were heaved into his dressing room. They accused him of mumbling his lines, of being indistinct, and of prancing around the stage in a sort of daze. They said Miss Leigh was lovely but that she was in no sense the smouldering maid of 14th century Italy that Juliet was supposed to be. Juliet was 14, and there is an old sacred word of critical opinion that says no actress can play the role until she is forty.

Miss Leigh is a long way from 40, but she was an old hand at Shakespeare long before she ever delivered a stinging slap across Rhett Butler's cheek. So was Olivier. With his fine clippings for his work as Heathcliff in "Wuthering Heights," and her Academy award for her portrayal of Scarlett O'Hara, these latest press comments must be difficult to reconcile.

But there they are. In cold print meanwhile, with their ears trained on the radio, and their eyes on the box office, life in New York can be very hectic for two subjects of the British empire, whether their love is star-crossed or not.

Sinclair Nine Beats Frog Level Team, 2-0

The Sinclair baseball team yesterday afternoon defeated the Frog Level nine to the score of 2-0 in a game cut short at the end of four and one-half innings by rain.

The contest was a thriller as long as it lasted and supporters of both sides cheered beautiful plays. Alton Harrington hurried for the winners, while Leonard Buck was on the mound for the losers.

OPENING DAYS HURT GREENIES

Losing Nine Straight Has Kept Locals Near Bottom

Although the Greenies are resting next to the bottom in the league standings, they have played 500 ball recently.

During the disastrous opening days of the season, Greenville lost nine straight after winning the opening day encounter with Wilson.

The Greenies have won 12 out of the last 25 games and had it not been for the bad start, the locals would be in the fight for a first division berth.

Special arrangements have been made for a big night Tuesday, when the Greenies entertain the Wilson Tobs at Guy Smith park in a double-header. A large crowd is expected since numerous fans who hold checks on Sunday's rained out game, will be present. The Greenies have another Sunday game, with Tarboro, this week-end.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coon
Hollywood.—Now that Gene Raymond is working in a movie again, it's a good time to point out the lad has won one of the toughest battles a movie personality can face.

Gene, so you've heard, is married to Jeanette MacDonald. Gene's movie career went into a slump a couple of years ago, while Jeanette—with movies, phonograph records and concert tours—kept on the fairly even course of her wide popularity.

It's a situation that has broken up many a movie home. But Gene never became "Mr. MacDonald," and he refrained from grouching when gossipers hinted such a status for him.

"You can't grouch around in this business," says Gene on the set where he's winding up "Cross-Country Romance."

What Gene did instead of grouching and carrying a chip on his

No Surrender

Headed by Premier Hubert Pierlot (above), the Belgian government in Paris renounced King Leopold's surrender to the Germans, "disowned" the monarch and assured the Allies the Belgian army would be reorganized and continue fighting.

Gene left pictures because the last two RKO gave him were far from what he wanted to do. "She's Got Everything" was critically described as "it's got nothin'," and "Life of the Party" was paraphrased "Lice of the Party."

"I had a $500 a week raise coming after those, and they offered me $250," says Gene. "I'd have taken it, if I'd had any hopes for better pictures. But I knew a few more like those two would mean my permanent finish, and that one year's salary would have had to last the rest of my life. I quit. Thought I'd had my chance in 'Stolen Heaven,' but the picture wasn't any good, and I was worse. So I waited, and wrote music some more. I took this one because I liked the script, and if it clicks I'll be all right. If not—well, I'll still have the music."

"Cross-Country Romance" has a good-luck cast. Leading lady is Wendy Barrie, the same who was his partner in "Love on a Bet," the light comedy which started Raymond off on a good series which concluded unhappily with "She's Got Everything." It also has Dorothy Kent, a plump, blonde comedienne who is starting again after half a year's serious illness threatened to nullify the progress she made in several Universal films.

Attention Mr. Dies: One of the local ladies academically interested in the Communist movement was entertaining a visiting Russian.

"And if Communism were practiced in America," she inquired, "what would happen to us—and to our homes?"

The good comrade looked around the living room of the actress's home and said, "Ah, it would be turned over to the workers. You and your husband would be granted the use of perhaps one room."

Whereupon the lady practically collapsed and, when revived, was reported considerably less pink.

Milwaukee, Wis. (AP) — James Roddy could pretty easily qualify as the most faithful track official Marquette University has ever had. Roddy, a traveling salesman, hurries back from wherever his job might have taken him to serve as an inspector at the Golden Avalanche's meet—and he hasn't missed one in seven years.

Germans Bomb Paris
The ship, it was said, had been wounded aboard.
A French military spokesman acknowledged that renewed serious attacks on Dunkerque by German land, sea and air forces was making evacuation of the remaining allied soldiers there "increasingly difficult."
The Germans reported 59 allied planes destroyed and 15 Nazi planes "missing."
"No rest for the enemy," was the watchword in Berlin, where German military circles said Hitler was preparing another lightning thrust against the Allies.

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, June 3.—(AP)—With the war news interpreted as slightly bearish, leading stocks generally backed water in today's market. It was one of the slowest sessions of the year to date, the ticker tape frequently coming to a halt for a minute or so at a time. The first hour's turnover of 70,000 shares was the smallest for that period of a full session since May 22, 1939. Transfers for the five hours were around 450,000 shares.

216 Graduate This Morning
You lose your own. Happiness lies within you.
"The pot of gold is at your feet," he said, "dig it up." Industry is the key to success. And make the most of what you have for the real test is what a man does with the tools he has. Then illustrating his point with a comparison between the farmer who takes the easy way of one cash crop and hard times, and the one who works continually at a variety of food and cash crops and always has something to eat and something to sell, he added, "There is a dignity in labor. Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work," quoted the speaker and that is just as much of a command as the one to rest on the seventh.
But it is not enough to work. Love of honor must go along with toil. It is not enough to fulfill the naked requirements; it is the margin of over-plus that makes success—doing something for somebody. The old doctrine that it is more blessed to give than to receive is still true. Fundamentals don't change.
Then, declared the speaker, in addition to industry and high ideals, you must have ambition, which is the spur to make you press on, keep up with the times and do your best. Make industry, keen ambition, and high ideals your standard—and the pot of gold is yours.
The college choir, directed by A. L. Dittmer, gave two selections — Tschalkowsky's "Conquest of the Air," and Lvosky's "Hospodi Pomiloi." The orchestra furnished the professional.

Denies Rally Held at U.N.C.
Refutes Report Of "We Won't Fight" Demonstration

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, June 3.—Stung by stories telling a recent meeting of students at the University of North Carolina "We Won't Fight" rally, F. D. Turnage, commander of the Orange county post of the American Legion has issued a statement denying that there is any justification for the title.
It appears that a recent story from this bureau (with reference to the fuge and furore stirred by the meeting) has "very much upset" some of our folks over here," according to Bob Madry, director of the University News Bureau, who therefore, the Raleigh correspondent is doubly glad to report the Orange commander's statement.
Certainly this reporter has no personal knowledge of what did go on at the rally over which there has been so much comment, as he is entirely willing to take the word of Commander Turnage and Mr. Madry as to the occurrences at the meeting.
On the other hand there is no mistaking the generally unfavorable reaction all over the state; and the facts regarding this reaction were and still are, exactly as set forth in your reporter's story.
Anyhow, let's see what Commander Turnage says he found out after a "thorough investigation."
"There was no 'we won't fight' rally held at the University of North Carolina."
"2. There was an open meeting in which a committee of about a dozen students hoped to crystallize sentiment for keeping America out of the European war. There were seven speakers invited by the 12 students to address the meeting."
"It is significant that out of a student faculty and town community of 8,000 people, not over 600 were attracted by the meeting. A large proportion of these opposed the purpose of the meeting, and at least 400 left when the skits were over and the main part of the program began."
"3. The program began with two skits. The first skit ridiculed the idea that America might be invaded. This provoked expressions of disapproval including the throwing of three eggs. Order was restored and the second skit, from the play 'Bury the Dead' was presented to an audience mainly quiet and respectful."
"4. Six speakers then addressed the meeting. All were given courteous hearing. Not one advocated pacifism, not one opposed America's staying out of the European war. Upon invitation of the chairman eight additional speakers volunteered. Most of these advocated speedy and direct aid to the Allies, and one favored entering the war. All these were applauded. Two spoke for fair hearing and two for continued neutrality. These were applauded. Bob Sloan, the student who led the organization against the meeting, nevertheless spoke for full freedom of expression of both sides in the meeting. Sentiment of the meeting was so strongly for the President's program and was so pro-Ally that no 'peace' resolutions were offered."
"5. Governor Hoyt at Peace College pointed out the fact that while student rallies in many colleges passed pacifist resolutions no such resolution was passed in Chapel Hill. In view of the strong support of President Roosevelt and the strong pro-Ally sentiment, no such resolution could pass here."

Membership Open In Local Puppet Guild
Dues vacancies which have recently occurred there is room for new memberships in the Puppet Guild and Sketch club at the WPA Art Gallery.
Any young person over nine years of age is eligible to these clubs, and if interested should register immediately at the gallery. The instruction is free. The members furnish their own supplies.
During the summer months the Puppet Guild and Sketch club will work in the mornings at the gallery. Tuesday and Wednesday's of the gallery will be given over to the Sketch club from 10 to 11:30 and Thursday and Friday's the Puppet Guild will meet at the same hour.
Out door sketching will be a feature of the Sketch club. The Puppet Guild will make puppets and produce puppet plays.

Raleigh, June 3.—Stung by stories telling a recent meeting of students at the University of North Carolina "We Won't Fight" rally, F. D. Turnage, commander of the Orange county post of the American Legion has issued a statement denying that there is any justification for the title.
It appears that a recent story from this bureau (with reference to the fuge and furore stirred by the meeting) has "very much upset" some of our folks over here," according to Bob Madry, director of the University News Bureau, who therefore, the Raleigh correspondent is doubly glad to report the Orange commander's statement.
Certainly this reporter has no personal knowledge of what did go on at the rally over which there has been so much comment, as he is entirely willing to take the word of Commander Turnage and Mr. Madry as to the occurrences at the meeting.
On the other hand there is no mistaking the generally unfavorable reaction all over the state; and the facts regarding this reaction were and still are, exactly as set forth in your reporter's story.
Anyhow, let's see what Commander Turnage says he found out after a "thorough investigation."
"There was no 'we won't fight' rally held at the University of North Carolina."
"2. There was an open meeting in which a committee of about a dozen students hoped to crystallize sentiment for keeping America out of the European war. There were seven speakers invited by the 12 students to address the meeting."
"It is significant that out of a student faculty and town community of 8,000 people, not over 600 were attracted by the meeting. A large proportion of these opposed the purpose of the meeting, and at least 400 left when the skits were over and the main part of the program began."
"3. The program began with two skits. The first skit ridiculed the idea that America might be invaded. This provoked expressions of disapproval including the throwing of three eggs. Order was restored and the second skit, from the play 'Bury the Dead' was presented to an audience mainly quiet and respectful."
"4. Six speakers then addressed the meeting. All were given courteous hearing. Not one advocated pacifism, not one opposed America's staying out of the European war. Upon invitation of the chairman eight additional speakers volunteered. Most of these advocated speedy and direct aid to the Allies, and one favored entering the war. All these were applauded. Two spoke for fair hearing and two for continued neutrality. These were applauded. Bob Sloan, the student who led the organization against the meeting, nevertheless spoke for full freedom of expression of both sides in the meeting. Sentiment of the meeting was so strongly for the President's program and was so pro-Ally that no 'peace' resolutions were offered."
"5. Governor Hoyt at Peace College pointed out the fact that while student rallies in many colleges passed pacifist resolutions no such resolution was passed in Chapel Hill. In view of the strong support of President Roosevelt and the strong pro-Ally sentiment, no such resolution could pass here."
