HILTER DIRECTS 'ONE MORE' APPEAL TO BRITAIN

Roosevelt Accepts Draft; Sec. Wallace Running Mate

WILL NOT TURN BACK ON CALL

Acceptance Speech Made Early This Morning In Radio Broadcast From The White House Directed At Chicago Convention; Wallace Chosen on First Roll Call Ballot

Chicago, July 19.—(AP) (AP) — President Roosevelt deciding that in a time of "public danger" he could not turn his "back upon a call to service", accepted today a third term nomination from a Democratic convention which, amid boos and cheers, chose Secretary Henry A. Wallace for his running mate.

While fully 20,000 persons sat in a midnight hush in Chicago stadium, the president told them by radio from the White House that "only the people themselves can draft a president."

"If such a draft be made upon me I say in the utmost simplicity of mind with God's help continue to serve with the best of my ability and with the fullness of my strength," he said.

But, he explained, as had Mrs. Roosevelt an hour or so earlier, that the times were so swamped with danger that he would be able to do little campaigning.

"But I shall never be loathe," he said, "to call the attention of the nation to deliberate or unwitting falsifications of fact which are some times made by political candidates."

Then he continued in a grave tone. "If our government passes to other hands next January — untried hands, inexperienced hands — we can merely hope and pray that they will not substitute appeasement and compromise with those who seek to destroy all democracies everywhere."

Mrs. Roosevelt sat on the speaker's stand listening intently. Once she closed her eyes for a moment. Friends have said she did not want her husband to run, that her personal wish was to retire to the quiet of the Hudson valley.

She had sat through the long, emotion-torn session when men yelled bitterly "we want a democrat" for vice-president, referring to the fact that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace was a Republican until 1928.

Long-Range Farm Program Faces First Test Saturday

250,000 VOTES ARE EXPECTED

Bright Leaf Tobacco Growers From Six Southern States To Decide on One-Year Three-Year or No Program At All

Washington, July 19.—(AP)—The first test of a long-range program designed to prevent farm surpluses from glutting markets will come tomorrow when approximately 250,000 bright leaf tobacco growers in six states vote on whether they want marketing quotas for a three-year period from 1941 to 1943.

Growers of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida and Alabama will participate in the referendum.

Three questions will be submitted to the growers as follows:

1—Whether they favor marketing quotas for 1941, 1942 and 1943.

2—Whether they are against quotas for the three-year period but favor them for 1941.

3—Whether they are opposed to quotas.

If two-thirds favor a three-year program Secretary Wallace would be authorized to proclaim quotas in effect in 1941, 1942 and 1943.

However, if two-thirds do not favor the long-range program the votes cast for such a proposition will be added to those voting for the one-year program. If this totals two-thirds of all voting then quotas would be proclaimed for only 1941.

Otherwise quotas for both one and three years would be rejected.

Secretary Wallace has announced he would establish the 1941 quota at 556,000,000 pounds if farmers approve the marketing restrictions for one year only.

PITT FARMERS TO GO TO POLLS TOMORROW

Tobacco farmers of Pitt county today prepared to go to the polls tomorrow to register their vote in favor of one of three proposals: a three-year program a one-year program or no program at all.

While the three-year proposal is expected to be favored in this section, it is being pointed out by the leaders that some other tobacco-producing sections are opposed to the plan and that it is important that a large majority be cast in Eastern Carolina in order to offset opposition in other areas. Too, there is some opposition to control in some sections of this state.

An intensive campaign has been carried on in Pitt county, with the various civic and commercial organizations solidly behind the three-year proposal. While it was conceded that there was little opposition to the principal in this section, it was found that the farmers were taking the referendum for granted and were not evidencing the interest in the vote necessary to insure a large favorable majority. It was for this reason that the various organizations got behind the move in an united effort to get the farmers interested and out to the polls tomorrow.

Probably never before in the history of the industry has a movement received such wholehearted support of the business and professional men as the present campaign. Leaders are pointing out that the federal government has assured the growers of a price this fall as good or better than last year's average price of 14.9 cents per pound if the growers vote for the three-year plan. It is the consensus of the leaders in the various fields that this is a time when all eligible voters must march to the polls and vote for the three-year plan for their own salvation.

NAZI RAIDERS ENGAGED OVER DOVER STRAIT

Royal Air Force Meets Nazi Attack On Destroyer

GERMAN CRAFT DOWNED BY FIRE

British Aircraft Renew Daylight Attacks On Barge Concentrations On Continent In German Areas

London, July 19.—(AP)—British aircraft have renewed daylight attacks on barge concentrations near Rotterdam and Boulogne. The Air Ministry said tonight the barges apparently were being gathered for the attack on Britain.

The barge attack yesterday coincided with other Royal Air Force bombings of warehouses at Le Havre and the airfield at St. Omer near Boulogne, the Ministry said. Three British planes were lost in the attack.

By The Associated Press British Royal Air Force planes clashed with Nazi raiders in a fiery battle over the Straits of Dover this afternoon when German bombers swooped down on a British destroyer on patrol.

The warship reportedly emerged unscathed, despite repeated salvos of bombs which spouted 50-foot geysers on all sides. One German plane was shot down, and eye witnesses said four others pursued by British fighters plunged into the sea in flames.

Other Nazi air raids struck at three sections of England in the north and south and in southwest Scotland, inflicting "considerable damage."

Possibly anticipating the bursting of the storm tonight, the Berlin press warned Britain anew against the use of civilian "snipers" to combat Nazi troops.

British artillery officers disclosed meanwhile that Britain's airfields had been converted into "death traps" for any German transport planes trying to land troops on English soil.

While British defenders rushed preparations to greet any cross-channel invasion, Hitler's high command reported new aerial attacks on British shipping and military barracks.

Claiming "great success," the Nazi communiqué asserted the German air force had bombed and sunk a submarine and four merchantships totaling 12,000 to 14,000 tons with 12 other merchant ships badly damaged.

Single Contribution To Red Cross Today

A two dollar contribution to the Pitt County Red Cross War Relief campaign today brought the total raised by the local chapter to date to $1,738.08.

Today's $2 donation by a "friend" was the only one since the report from Grifton yesterday.

The county has not raised half of the goal of $4,000 but several places in the county have oversubscribed their share of the goal.

Britain To Need Arms If Offensive Assumed

Has Enough Supplies To Defend Island However

London, July 19.—(AP)—The British army insists it has enough guns and munitions to defend its island fortress, but military men emphasized today the necessity for vast stores of war materials if Britain is to be the sally port for an offensive which "will win the war."

Looking beyond the Battle for Britain, imminence of which is brought home each day by persistent Nazi raids, the army foresees "the day" when its troops will launch a counter stroke against Germany.

For this blow British and neutral military men declare the army must be supported not only by the output of Britain's own factories and arsenals, but by every gun, bullet, shell, tank and plane that can be bought from the United States.

"At present," one officer said, "we are confident we have enough to hold Britain if need be."

It is clear the army's feeling that the war may be settled in battle on the European continent follows the lead of Prime Minister Churchill who declared last Sunday "Britain must prepare" for battle "not only for 1941, but for 1942 when the war (Continued on Page Six)

MERCHANTS OF STATE FAVOR 3-YEAR PLAN

Merchants of the entire state are supporting the three-year tobacco production control proposal to be voted on by blue-cured tobacco farmers tomorrow. Both the local farmers' associations have gone on record urging support of the program.

Following is a resolution passed by the state association at its annual meeting in Elizabeth City last week:

Whereas: The present situation confronting blue-cured tobacco growers is more serious than at any time in previous years due to the war overseas, eliminating exports of blue-cured tobacco to those countries formerly purchasing nearly 60 per cent of the entire blue-cured tobacco crop grown in this country, and

Whereas: The huge 1939 surplus of approximately 400 million pounds has depressed and will continue to depress prices until the surplus is eliminated, and

Whereas: It would disrupt the entire tobacco growing industry as well as the economic life of the tobacco growing areas, if growers were compelled to absorb the necessary acreage reduction in one year rather than three years, and

Whereas: The average prices to growers had already fallen 8 cents for pound below the average of the previous 5 years even before the European war started last September.

Now Therefore, Be It Resolved: That the North Carolina Merchants Association in convention assembled, this 9th day of July 1940, go on record as being in favor of the regulation of tobacco acreage for the three year period rather than one year, in the belief that:

Asks Terms On Basis Of Reasonable Settlement

Emphasizes reasonable Peace Rather Than Capitulation Sought; Asserts Britons Have No Conception of Destruction To Be Faced If Nation Insists On Fight to End

Berlin, July 19.—(AP)—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, speaking before the Reichstag, tonight addressed "one more appeal to reason in England," warning that "a world empire would be destroyed" if England insists on continuing the fight.

Hitler emphasized he was not asking peace in the voice of a victor demanding capitulation of the vanquished, but rather as a voter proposing a reasonable peace.

He said that "British statesmen apparently have no conception of the destruction which would be visited on England if Churchill continues to demand a fight to the finish."

"But one thing is sure," he exclaimed, "no Churchill will be left in that case to attempt the rehabilitation of Britain. The people left behind in London" after the great assault, he explained, would have ideas entirely different from those of Churchill and his colleagues.

Touching on Russo-German relations, the Fuehrer emphasized that these have been "fixed once and for all by a clear delineation of interests."

Recalling his previous effort to conciliate England, Hitler said his policy of European reorganization had been based on a two-fold aim: Real friendship with Italy and a similar relationship with England.

It "would have been a boon" to the world if England had accepted, he said.

Hitler said he never intended to annihilate or even harm the existing world.

He solemnly warned in this hour I feel myself obligated to make one more appeal to reason in England."

There is no ground for prolongation of the war," he said. "The British statesmen probably have no real conception of what it will mean once the German offensive begins in earnest against the British Isles."

"Once more I will attempt to be a prophet," said Hitler, but prophesying that "a world empire will be destroyed."

Churchill, he said, may think that it is Germany which faces destruction.

"I know it will be England," he asserted.

TEACHERS PAY BELOW NAVY'S

Unflattering Comparison Started in Recruiting Item

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, July 19.—A publicity item from Raleigh's naval recruiting office suggests a comparison which turns out none too flattering for North Carolina's payment of its school teachers.

Not that the item contained any such comparison - the Navy men are much too smart for anything like that - but it almost automatically set in motion a train of thought leading to the unfavorable angle.

The item itself related only that William David Edward Morgan of 1223 Third street, Hickory, enlisted in the navy as an apprentice seaman for six years. It added: "Morgan was a school teacher, having majored in history at Lenoir Rhyne College."

To our Raleigh reporter there immediately occurred the question "Why?" in connection with the Morgan enlistment.

It didn't take very deep digging into the pay statistics of the United States Navy and the North Carolina School Commission to uncover the fact, hard cash young Morgan arrived at the correct decision.

This does not mean to imply that the State of North Carolina isn't paying its teachers all it can pay them. Any newspaper correspondent who has covered even one legislature knows that finding the $25,000,000 (approximately) they get each year is a tremendous task; and your reporter certainly doesn't intend the slightest reflection on the school setup.

The facts are, that even from the very first year in service the "go" is better fixed financially than the pedagogue. And when the upper brackets are reached, in pay and years, there simply isn't any comparison, the navy has all the best of it.

Consider the case of the naval notice. For four months he is rated an "Apprentice Seaman" and draws the none-too-lucrative pay of $21 per month, but at the expiration of that period he is automatically raised to $30 a month. In addition, he receives an initial and complete clothing outfit, the value of which is at least $150. He also gets free board, room and medical attention.

So for his first year the sailor draws in cash $258, in board and room (very conservatively) and in medical attention perhaps $50 (a fair average), making in all a total of $358 or the equivalent.

Now look at the fledgling teacher who has just graduated from college. He holds an A-1 certificate and is paid $96 a month for his services - but only for eight months unless he is fortunate enough to be employed by a unit which has voted a ninth month supplement. That's $768 for his first twelve months or $104 less than the naval recruit. The differential gets even wider the longer the period of service. Teachers' salaries increased this for each year of experience: A-1 (the figure in each case representing the number of years service) $99.50; A-2, $103; A-3, $106.50; A-4, $110; A-5, $115; A-6, $118.50; A-7, $122; and A-8, $126.

After eight years teaching the maximum is reached and thereafter it's always that same $126. And so it goes on up the line. The first four months it's entirely up to the individual. As a usual case, an enlisted man is promoted to second class petty officer within four years. This rating pays $72 per month, and in addition there is an automatic increase of ten per cent at the end of four years. Thus the normal enlisted man with 4 years is drawing $79.20 a month, and of course still receiving all the perquisites—board, room, medical treatment, etc.

The sailor, at the end of four years, has therefore increased his initial pay by $513 a year and is drawing the equivalent of $1,450 annually; while the teacher, likewise with four years experience, has increased his pay $112 a year to $886. And so it goes on up the line. The navy man gets another ten per cent increase at the end of eight years and thereafter an increase of five per cent at the end of every four year period. At the expiration of his six year enlistment he gets a bonus for "shipping over"—$300 if he has become a second class petty officer or higher; $150 if he is still below the second class rating.

The highest enlisted rating, often attained in ten or twelve years, sometimes in less, is chief petty officer with a top pay of $157.50 per month.

In That Town Around Joe's Bar Room, A Goodly Crowd Is There—

AP Feature Service
Central City, Colo.—A restless Georgia mule-skinner named John Gregory wandered to Colorado in 1859 and struck gold. The horde that swept in after him grubbed $85,000,000 out of the mountains and founded Central City.
After 19 years, the miners felt the need of culture. They slapped down $80,000 in gold dust, built an Opera House.
Booth, Modjeska, Jefferson—all the big names of that time blazed from its billboards.
But in 1900 the price of gold plopped.
The miners scattered. Central City faded into a near-ghost town. The Opera House stared at empty streets through dusty windows.
Then the Denver university drama department found that the old hall's stone walls had stood strong. It started an annual revival. For three or four weeks each summer Central City lives in its past. Opera lovers from the whole country cram the Opera House.

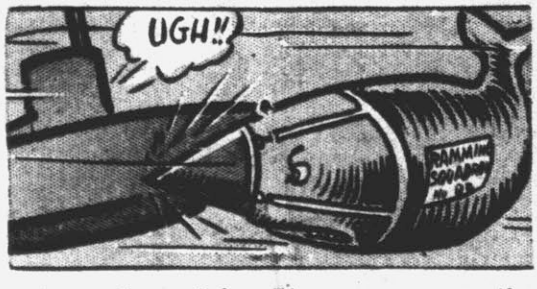

Central City has another famous exhibit besides its Opera House. The "Face On The Barroom floor" is in the old Teller House bar.

War Brings Out Some Wacky Ideas

There's no famine of ideas on how wars should be fought and won, the War Department is discovering. Trouble is, a harvest of such ideas produces a lot of chaff. These screw-ball inventions, offered to the department, give you the idea:

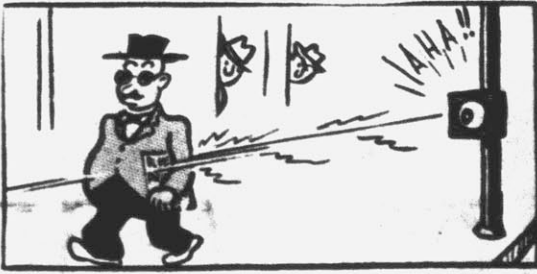

The humane touch is offered by the inventor who would have an airplane fly low over ground troops, the way cotton-dusting planes fly, only his plane would drop quick drying cement. The goo would turn the enemy into harmless statues to be remobilized by mop-up squads equipped with hammers.

A modern Jules Verne proposes that whales be used to sink enemy submarines. The whale would be armored with a steel ram and sent out a-hunting. (Once caught, a trifling detail of course, the whale would have to be trained to recognize enemy submarines and not molest the local favorites.)

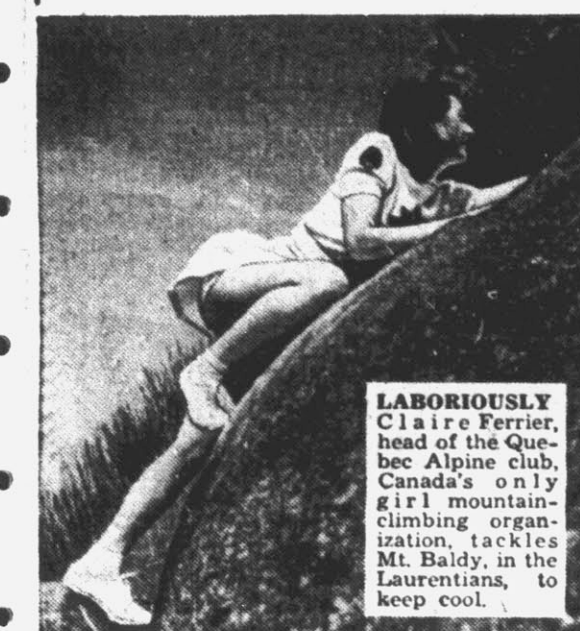

One inventor sought a patent on a giant trap which would catch tanks in the same manner our pioneer forefathers used to catch bears. The unsuspecting tank would trip the trap, the massive jaws would snap shut, and there would be Mr. Tank, hors de combat for duration.

A combination electric eye and x-ray which would react only to blueprints offered to help the FBI in its pursuit of spies. The contraption would be adjusted to peek into pockets of passersby and sound an alert to FBI agents who would be lurking around the corner.

Man About Manhattan

New York—Manhattan Melodrama:

Red Hook is an example of what happens when slum clearance becomes really effective. Red Hook is in Queens. It is a huge new housing project that provides thousands of bright, new, well-lit apartments modern in every manner, for underprivileged families. You aren't eligible to live in Red Hook unless your income is less than $1,399 a year.
Among the hundreds of families who live in Red Hook is that of Papa Goldman. Papa Goldman is the head of the family and he has a wife and two sons. Papa Goldman's name is Davi.
One of Papa Goldman's neighbors and friends is a man named Joseph Guarino. One day recently Papa Goldman asked friend Joseph Guarino if he would do a little favor for him. He had an old radio, a baby carriage and a crib, which he wanted delivered to the house of a friend of his. Would Joe drive them over?
Joe could and would.

After the deliveries had been made Joe picked up a couple of extra fares and took them to where they wanted to go. Joe is a taxi-cab driver.

Then, for some reason, Joe happened to glance back into his cab, and what he saw almost caused him to have ahead-on collision with a telephone pole. It was money... a package of money... great gobs of money in greenbacks. There were 1,500 one-dollar bills... there were four $500 bills... there were five, ten, and twenties... In all, there was a fortune of $3,590.

Wherefore Joe drove straight to the police station and turned in his find. Then he drove home and told Papa Goldman what had happened.

When Papa Goldman heard this he almost had a fit. That was his money! The savings of a lifetime, he said... It belonged to him, and his wife, and his sons... They had hidden it in the radio, and forgot all about it...

At the police station Papa Goldman told his story.
But the police weren't willing to turn the money over to him. After all, Joseph had driven two women passengers between the time he had delivered the radio and found the money in the back of his cab.

They sent out a call for the woman. They couldn't be found, Papa

Goldman was an unhappy man. So was his son, Oscar.

Joe was there, too. When reporters questioned Joe about his part in the story, he told them he had suggested to Papa Goldman that maybe he should have a reward for calling the lost money to Papa's attention.

"If I get it back," said Papa Goldman, "I will give you ten dollars."

That made Joe laugh. "Imagine offering ten dollars reward for three thousand," he told the reporters.

What made it look blue for the Goldmans was the arrival of a woman. Not one of the women passengers.

"I'm from the New York City Housing Authority," she said. "If all this cash belongs to you, what were you doing living in a settlement restricted to people who lack money?"

What Papa's answer to this will be I don't know.

But I do know this. When they left court that night, Joe didn't drive them. And the money was still in the hands of the police.

Strength For The Day
By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHERE SHALL WE BEGIN?

During the Crimean War of 1856, Dean Stanley asked Thomas Carlyle what message a preacher should bring to his people in those troubled days. Carlyle thought for a moment or two and then replied, "If I were a preacher, I would find into the ears of my people constantly these words of Christ, 'Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.'" Everyone is asking today, "What can I do in the face of the overwhelming situation in world affairs?" Thomas Carlyle would say that the best thing for us all to do is to tighten our belts a notch, roll up our sleeves, and begin doing whatever job we call ours better and more energetically than we have ever done it before.

If from the youngest school boy to the biggest man of affairs in the country, everyone works harder at his job and gives more attention to its smallest details and more whole-hearted consecrated attention to its great issues, America will be well protected no matter what ordeal she may have to face. We may not hold any position of consequence in the modern scheme of things, but we should remember that great issues are met and surmounted not by the wisdom of a few, but by the sacrificial cooperation of the many.

Your daily work lies right under your hand, said Carlyle; do that well, and you will have done your nation and your age the great possible service.

DON'T FAIL TO VOTE FOR CONTROL

We make this last appeal to Pitt County tobacco farmers to vote 100 per cent for the three-year tobacco crop control program. As you are well aware the plight of the tobacco-growing sections is critical at this time and unless there is a long range program that will assure the elimination of a large part of the present surplus, we cannot hope for help from the government. Without government help in the present crisis you tobacco growers and the sections in which you live will face financial disaster.

There are some of the tobacco growing counties that, for one reason or another, might not cast large votes in favor of the three-year plan and it is up to the farmers of Pitt and the surrounding counties to cast enough votes to assure the carrying of the program throughout the entire tobacco growing area.

Your vote tomorrow is for starvation tobacco prices or living prices. It is a matter that is entirely up to you. No one except a tobacco-grower is entitled to vote and you as a grower can help carry or defeat the program. We urge you to VOTE FOR the THREE-YEAR PROGRAM and use every effort to GET YOUR NEIGHBOR TO DO LIKEWISE.

Washington — The nation's capital is having charity troubles. . . . and the odds are a hundred to one a good many other cities are too.

It's because the racketeers are in again . . . those leeches who turn out in droves every time the United States digs in on a wholesale program of relief.

The extent of the present program, although it doesn't compare with Belgium relief in the World War, is sufficient to make a good many of these racketeers in again . . . those leeches who turn out in droves every time the United States digs in on a wholesale program of relief.

Up to about a month ago, these agencies had collected $8,596,628. Of this $5,845,855 already has gone for aid to people in 12 war stricken countries. Forty-two of these relief groups have disbanded, mainly because their plan was for a single charity affair or because it no longer is possible to get help to the people they set out to aid. Three have been ordered dissolved because they refused to abide by State Department rules, which brook no racketeering and no violation of neutrality laws.

In this last, the racketeers or a hiring makes telephone pleas, generally under the guise of: "This is Rev. So-and-So, or 'the secretary of Senator Blank.' The appeal is made and a promise that the collector, bearing 'absolutely authentic credentials,' will pick up the contribution.

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, July 19.—There is a growing impression in wide awake political circles that Durham's many-times Representative Victor S. Bryant must be given serious consideration in any analysis of the race for Speaker of the 1941 North Carolina House.

Despite the fact that the Bull City legislator cannot turn a hand in his own behalf, there is much sentiment for his selection; according to reports coming over the Raleigh grapevine radio—reports which unquestionably contain much more than a mere modicum of accuracy.

According to these "thought waves" the race is likely to wind up as strictly a case of Odus Mull, Cleveland county patriarch and political power, and Bryant, who lost two years ago to Libby Ward by a scant two-vote margin.

The general prediction has been that George Uzzell of Rowan would be the "man to beat" in next January's race; but the wise guys claim that there is an unyielding opposition of the most potent sort to the urbane Salisbury lawmaker. Uzzell is marked as an active advocate of Labor with a capital 'L'. Extremely powerful interests, therefore, will be lined up in opposition to him, it is said.

An alien cannot be issued a license to sell beer in North Carolina, the Attorney General's office has informed the Brewers and North Carolina Beer Dealers Committee in reply to a query from that unit.

The A. G. cited Section 511 (5) of the Public Laws of 1939, which sets out the requirements which a person must have before a license to sell beer shall be issued. It provides that among other things there must be "an accurate statement made by the applicant that he is a citizen and resident of the State of North Carolina."

So far, your Raleigh reporter hasn't heard even one good word for the nomination of Henry Wallace as FDR's running mate.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

Casual Slaughters

By VIRGINIA HANSON

YESTERDAY, Jeff and Sandra, now married, arrive at the Inn just as Julia and Kay are leaving Julia accuses Sandra of playing a dirty trick on Jeff because people are saying she married him to protect him.

Chapter 22 Ivan's Play

I GOT up and straightened my hair and wandered around the room until I found cigarettes. Adam held a light for me in silence. He had said all he meant to say for the present.

"I'm not sure I know what behavior you're referring to," I told him at last.

"Let's put it this way, then, if I did or said anything last night that offended you I hope you'll forgive me."

"You're forgiven," I said. "He grinned. 'I'll be discreet and not ask what for. May I sit down?'"

"If you like."

"He accepted the grudging invitation and changed the subject. 'What's your idea about this murder?'"

"I haven't any. What is there to go on?"

"Nothing, that I can see."

"Have you questioned Sandra and Jeff?"

"Not yet. They came back to the colonel's quarters a while ago to get her things—they've taken a suite of guest rooms down the corridor here. The Pennants tried to get them to stay there, but they wouldn't. And—well, there was so much talk and fuss that I cleared out."

"How is it going to be if one of them did it?" I asked bluntly. "You mean Sandra or Jeff?"

"Or the Pennants. The reigning family."

"I'm going to be tough," He got up and prowled unhappily about the room. "I've been appointed to head the board of inquiry on this and those stolen cars. I'd like to ask for a change of station."

"But you wouldn't get it. You've only been here a couple of months."

"No," He sighed. "It wouldn't be soon enough, anyway. And it couldn't be one of them. Ivan wouldn't have been worth it."

"Sandra murdering?"

"That isn't what I mean, of course. Worth—worth revenging, at least."

Adam blew a cloud of smoke and looked at me through it. "Are you sure you know what you do mean?"

"I suppose I shouldn't have brought the subject up in the first place. Adam has a disconcerting habit, one I know well, of not saying what he really means. He's a thinker, I'm sure, but he's trying to sort the things I could tell from the ones I had obligated myself to be silent about."

"It's an impression I got this morning," I said finally. "This hurried-up marriage, for one thing, don't care what Colonel Pennant says, she was the one who proposed it. I heard her. She practically hypnotized Jeff into going for the license. And I had a strong feeling that she was doing it for me."

"That's not what I think it was meant to be," I said. "Maybe it was meant to look as if she were protecting Jeff."

"For what purpose?"

COOLEY SEEKS BIG AIR BASE

Working For Great Federal Project Near Raleigh

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, July 19.—Congressman Harold Cooley of the Fourth North Carolina is working hard in an effort to secure establishment of a great Federal air base between Raleigh and Durham.

The project, which is getting hearty support and cooperation from Raleigh and Durham officials, goes far beyond the often-advanced proposal of a joint Raleigh-Durham airport.

The latter plan would be little more than a larger and better port for commercial planes than is now afforded at the Raleigh airport which is under private management.

The project in which Representative Cooley is interested envisions a huge military and naval base along the lines of Langley Field, near Norfolk. This Virginia air field is said by many defense experts to be located so close to the ocean as to be very vulnerable if this country should be attacked.

On the contrary, a between Raleigh and Durham would be strategically located, so that planes based there would be available for defense of Washington, Norfolk, the North Carolina coast and even of Charleston, South Carolina.

One of the factors which make proponents of the plan optimistic is Federal ownership of a large tract of land in the area suggested for the base.

The huge Crabtree Creek recreational area is already property of the United States Government, and to establish the proposed air base it would not be necessary to expend a vast sum in acquisition of land.

Nothing is being said or done publicly about these plans, but the fact that Congressman Cooley is actively at work on them is vouched for by the very best of authority; although nothing very definite can be learned as to progress which has actually been made.

Recent rains have materially improved the quality of North Carolina's fine-cured tobacco crop, reports L. T. Weeks, extension specialist of N. C. State College.

There shall be Capra—who perhaps ought to be listed under mysteries because he's been keeping "The Life of John Doe" a secret. (It's reported to be about a baseball player. Gary Cooper.)

There'll be sweetness and light, comedy and romance. "Little Men" and "Laddie" and "Honeymoon for Three" (Ann Sheridan-George Brent) and more of "Dr. Christian" (Jean Harlow) and "Three Girls and a Gob" (Harold Lloyd production) and "Mer Father's Daughter" (by Gene Stratton-Porter, also author of "Laddie").

There'll be stage plays ranging from "The Letter" and "Philadelphia Story" to "They Knew What They Wanted" and "The Constant Nymph."

There'll be serious stuff, but not so much. "Flotsam," the Fredric March picture. "Secret Army," the Fifth Column yarn. "Sister Carrie," the Dreiser story.

The great outdoors (apart from the westerns) calls DeMille once again. "Reap the Wild Wind," story of the Florida keys, is his next.

It looks, in plans, like a summer of "business as usual."

Hollywood.—What to do, what to do? What kind of pictures to make. War or no war, heavy or light? Hollywood is answering the questions with generalities. Hollywood also answers the questions with production plans, and here are the films they're making or talking about making, this summer or later:

"Billy the Kid" will give Robert Taylor another Hi-Mister he-man role, miles removed from the Hey-Kid pre-teeny assignments of some of his past features. "Santa Fe Trail" will claim Errol Flynn for another in the "Dodge City"—"Virginia City" chain. "Silver Queen," yarn of Alaska's gold rush, is booked for Claire Trevor. "When the Daltons Rode" is nearing completion with Kay Francis and Randolph Scott. "Rangers of Fortune" and "Texas!" and "Brigham Young" and "Arizona" and "Return of Frank James" and "Cherokee Strip" and "Kit Carson" (with Jon Hall) are others making it appear that the West still is safe for the screen. SKIPPER RUBE TAKES A TURN

Four-Two Lead Held By Local Team at One Stage

The Kinston Eagles snatched a 4-2 lead from the hands of the Greenies at Guy Smith park last night and won over the locals 12-4.

Four Greenville hurlers, including the skipper himself, took the mound. Rube did a creditable job at pitching, but the damage had been done and his mates could not overcome the lead piled up against them in the fifth and sixth frames. Rube hurled three and one-third innings, checked the rally allowed only two safe hits and struck out four men.

Greenville scored three runs in the last half of the fourth to take a 4-2 lead, but the Eagles came to bat in the first half of the fifth and took the lead with three runs. In the sixth they scored seven runs to put the ball game on ice.

Kinston used two pitchers and Bill Zinser did a fine job of relief hurling, taking the mound with two out in the fourth and allowing only one hit from then on to the end.

Black Jack Girls Get 11-6 Victory

The Black Jack girls softball team yesterday afternoon defeated the Gardnersville team, 11-6, on the latter's diamond. Mary Rose Dixon was on the mound for the winners with Pauline Taylor behind the plate. Marjorie Jones hurled for Gardnersville and Sally Thompson did the catching. Rosalie Adams of the Black Jack team was by far the outstanding hitter of the contest. She went to bat seven times and made seven safe hits. Umpires for the game were Cary Warren and Goon Williams.

TONIGHT'S GAMES

Pepl Cola vs. Blount-Harvey.
Carolina Dairy vs. Water-Light.

The league-leading Double Cola team last night boosted its lead by taking a 14-9 victory over the R. C. Cola team, after Carolina Sales has racked up a 11-1 victory over Tadlock.

The victory put Double Cola two full games ahead of the recently fast-stepping Blount-Harvey team. Carolina Sales had little difficulty in defeating Tadlock. Both teams scored one in the first, but that was the end for the insurance men, while Carolina Sales had two good innings, making five in each of the second and fourth. Debnam was in rare form and allowed the losers only six hits, two of them by R. Bowling. The six hits were scattered over three innings. Gaston with three for four led the Sales boys at bat. It was an uphill climb for the Double Cola boys, the R. C. team having scored six in the first inning. Double Cola got one in the second and five in the third to knot the count and put the game on even footing. R. C. however, again took the lead with two runs in the last half of the third, but Double Cola made four in the fourth and the game got one in the fifth, but failed to knot the count and this ended the scoring for the losers, although Double Cola got four in the first of the seventh to insure victory.

Meet Batboy Timmy Sullivan Of The Yankees Who's Done A Swell Job As Good Luck Charm

By FRED BROWNING
AP Feature Service Sports Writer
New York.—America's kid baseball fans think Timmy Sullivan is the luckiest guy in the world. So does Timmy Sullivan.

Timmy is the peppery little bat boy for the New York Yankees. In the past four years he's earned about $2,000 in regular pay—with tips totaling an extra $2,750.

The regular pay amounts to $20 a week. The "tips," are Timmy's share of the Yankees' World Series money.

Timmy was mascot for Columbia University athletic teams from 1933 until 1936. Then Andy Coakley, Columbia baseball coach, learned one day that the mascot almost matched some of the athletes in age. He recommended to friend Joe McCarthy that Timmy be hired as Yankees batboy.

Timmy saw his first World Series from the Yanks' dugout a few months later. His employers won it. They haven't missed since.

Timmy's pretty proud of that record. He plans to quit his batboy job, though, and leave the Yankees to their own resources after they win this fall. ("Sure, we're a cinch to pull out of this hole," Timmy doesn't look it but he's crowding 21—and a guy has to think of his future.)

Popular With Squad
The youth is popular with the players. The way they've treated him in World Series cuts shows that. In 1936 he received $500. The champs voted him $750 in 1937, $1,000 the next year, and $1,500 in 1939. He's a happy mixture of humble helper and players' pal. A crook of the finger brings him running but he can match barbs with the sharp-tongued banterers on the squad. Red Ruffing, pitching ace, stuck his head out of the dugout as Timmy recounted his bat-boy experiences. The redhead chided: "Hey, fellows, look who's givin' pieces to the papers. Timmy Timmy's tellin' 'em what to put in the papers."

Timmy grinned and turned to the redhead: "Somebody's gotta talk fast around here until you guys get goin'." Ruffing chuckled and pulled his head back in.

Four Southern Trips
Timmy's been south to training camp with the Yankees the last four years. He makes one eastern

Groundwork For Good Golf 2 Don's Use A Locked Stance

Golf is primarily a game of motion, though the ball to be struck is stationary. By this very suggestion, the player should grasp that he must take his stance with the idea of readying himself to move. The stance must be wide enough to provide a secure foundation but not so wide as to produce the planted or locked position that would restrict a free hip and leg motion. For the longest shots, the foot spread should be about equal to the shoulder width. I suggest the No. 5 iron be considered the base club with the ball placed off a line midway between the feet. The feet should be slightly closer than shoulder width, stance about square with toes pointed outward. As the longer clubs are used the stance gradually widens. The ball is moved forward toward the left half with the stance line remaining square, or favoring the slightly closed position. With irons shorter than the No. 5 the stance narrows until the feet are almost together for the chip shots. This ball is played nearer the body and toward the right foot with the stance line favoring the open position. Proper stance and ball placement exert a strong influence on body response, ball trajectory and swing timing. The stance is the key to good body action and players should get their positions approved by a trained expert. It's almost too much to expect that a player can naturally fall into a stance, without some coaching, which will give him maximum power and accuracy.

DOTS and DASHES about Stokes Baseball Team

Gordon "Spooky" Clark—First Base
Clark has been playing ball for three years. His playing has been with Stokes High School, where he formed a battery mate for "Red" Roebuck. Last summer he played with the Greenville American Legion team. This spring he was the second string catcher for A. C. C. He was put on first because he is very capable of handling the position. He is now batting .375.

Forrest Whitley—Shortstop
Whitley came here this year after having played with Oax Grove for two or more years. He has been very eccentric at shortstop this year and has been a great help at the plate by smashing out extra base hits, mostly in the clutch. Batting average .233.

Franklin "Lefty" Roebuck—Pitcher
"Lefty" Roebuck's work has been on the mound most of the season and we take our hats off to him for his stellar performances done thus far and hope that he has the same luck in the future. He has helped his mates by hitting at an average of .278.

Anburn Whitehurst—Catcher
Anburn better known to the players as "Old Faithful" has been in the game for 21 years and it is highlighted by many brilliant performances that will be remembered when he has to hang up his spikes and take it easy. He is the manager of the team and it is he who keeps the team calm in the emergencies. He is hitting .333.

"Red" started playing baseball as an outfielder and then turned to pitching. He has played with Stokes and Rich Square high schools, Greenville American Legion, and A and two western trips each season and all the World Series jaunts. No other bat boy gets those breaks, he says. He chums around with all of the players, but Lefty Gomez is probably his closest pal.

Timmy has a score of small duties in addition to mere bat-tending. He even fills in at first base on occasion for part of the pre-game infield drill. The infielders immediately try to knock him down with every throw. Timmy, all but bowled over, just grins and whips 'em back with all the power his 130-odd pounds can muster.

'You're Wrong, Umps'
He's one of the most photographed units of the Yankee squad. Timmy's always a ndeck at the plate to shake a home run clouter's hand and news photographers dote on that shot. Once the camera caught him in violent disagreement with an umpire's decision—Timmy standing hands outstretched in the "safe" gesture, the umpire beside him, thumb up, "I was right," Timmy contends. The runner was a Yankee.

Timmy hopes to land a secretarial job in the Yankee office at the completion of his bat boy career. He's a graduate of Sommerce High school, spent a year at Central Commercial College.

His current ambition, though, is to sit in on another Yankee World Series triumph. "Five championships in five tries, that's what I want. Five for five and I'll be satisfied."

C. C. He was put in the outfield here because of his ability to play it. He has done a little relief pitching. Batting average .350.

Carroll Whitehurst, Second Base
Whitehurst played a little baseball in high school but didn't start playing regular here until this year. He surprised everyone by his excellent fielding and hitting. He is now batting at a .450 clip.

H. L. Whitehurst—Third Base
"Whitey" has been doing a grand job of holding down the "hot corner" this year. His playing before this year had been confined to the outfield. He is good at driving in runs with outfield flies. He is now among the leaders with runs driven in although he is hitting only .120.

T. A. Whitehurst—Right Field
Whitehurst is a regular "ball hawk." His fielding has been good but his batting is sorry shy. His batting average is .200.

Carl Simmons—Right Field
Carl is good on fly balls and line drives. His batting average is low but his hits are of the extra base variety. Batting average is .154.

Alton Whitley—Center Field
Whitley has been roaming the pastures for six years or more. He came here this year after having played for Oak Grove for two or three years. His fielding and hitting has helped the team a great deal. He is now pounding the ball at a .333 clip.

MANY ARE NOW ON PROBATION

Officers Keeping Eye On 2,964 Tar Heels

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, July 19.—Officers of Harry Sample's Probation Commission were keeping an active watch on 2,964 Tar Heels at the end of June, when the North Carolina probation system had been actively functioning for two years and eight months.

These officers are acting rather as guardians and counselors to the probationers rather than as guards or Paul Prys Director Sample said. The practically three thousand persons under supervision were listed on the active lists from almost four thousand (3,949) placed on probation since the law first allowed judges of North Carolina courts to impose such sentences. There has been a steady increase in the number of cases under supervision every month since inauguration of the system; and it is still impossible for either Director Sample or anyone else to forecast when the "saturation point" will be reached with terminations approximately equaling terminations each month. That point appears still distant in view of the June record of 170 new cases against total terminations of 74 for the month.

In all 985 probationary sentences have been terminated since November 1, 1937. Of them, 395 were revoked, 17 probationers died, 92 were terminated for exceptional cause, 14 were cancelled and 467 expired.

The active probationers are a motley lot however classified by age, color, sex, occupation, education or offense for which convicted. Practically all are men, there being but 183 females in the whole number, 113 white and 70 Negro.

Of the men, 2,124 are whites, 641 Negroes, a dozen Indians and four whose race is not known to the commissioner here. Of all probationary sentences since 1937, judges of recorder and general county courts imposed 1,847, while superior court judges dealt out 2,102.

Of the practically 4,000 the record showed no previous convictions in 1,917 cases. One previous conviction marked the record of 588 probationers. There were three listed as having the "from 21 to 30 previous convictions."

Offenses for which probation was granted ranged, alphabetically from "Abandonment" to Weights and Measures Law Violation." The single probationer convicted for "Slander" was a woman, Larceny and kindred offenses accounted for practically all of all cases.

The 2,964 active probationers have more than 175 occupations. Farmers and farm laborers composed the most numerous group. There are listed three preachers and one lawyer. Only 26 probationers were employed on Federal relief projects of the WPA or NYA.

In the active group, 1,633 were classed as "employed" at the time of sentence, 283 were "irregularly employed" and 1,048 were without work. Probation officers have aided 1,000 to secure employment since conviction.

In age the probationers ranged from youth of 15 to old folks of 75 and over; but 48 per cent of all are 21 or under, while 74 per cent are 25 or under.

Nine college graduates, and eight part-time college students have been placed on probation; but the average education of the active cases is about sixth grade. There were 106 absolute illiterates.

A large majority are single, but the active groups has 3,702 dependents (2,614 wholly dependent and 1,088 in part).

Probationers have paid into court clerks $17,739.70 in fines, $64,888.70 in court costs, $72,377.68 in restitution to aggrieved parties and $14,495.50 in for support of wives or children they were convicted of abandoning.

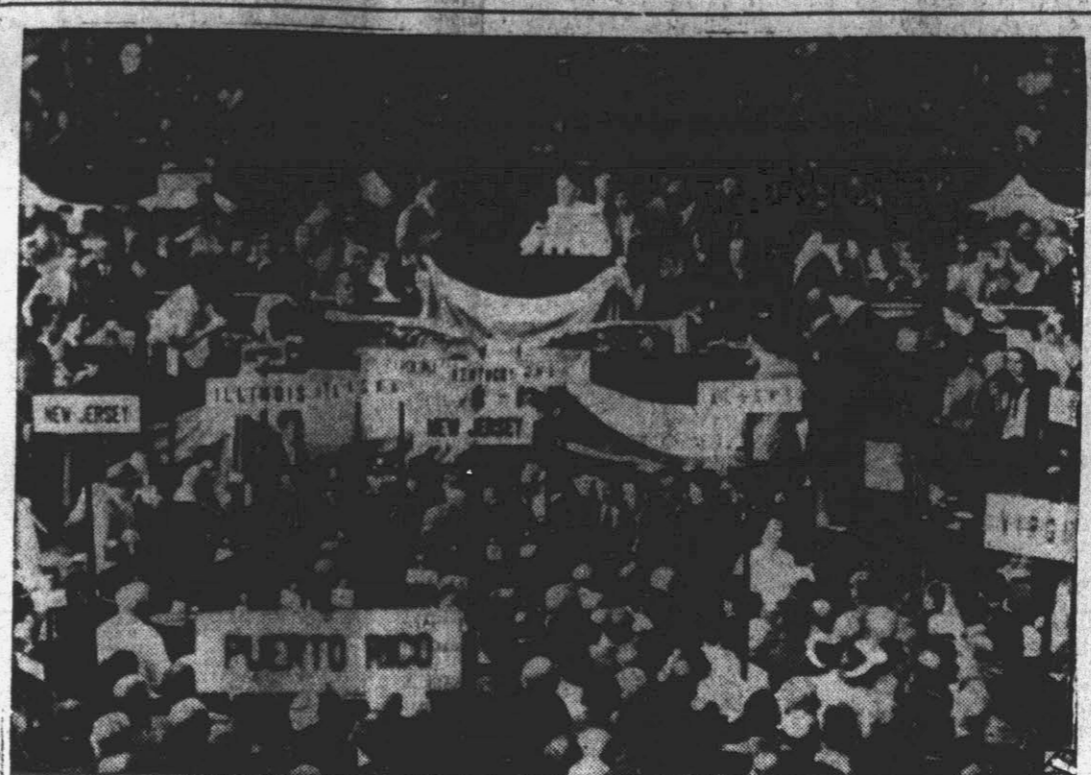

That the probation system has been of vast economic value to the state is shown by the record of earnings by the active group.

They have earned between November 1, 1937 and June 30th, a grand total of $1,235,500.35. Last month alone the earnings of probationers came to $71,598.03.

Living expenses of the group is reported at $727,585.84, leaving net earnings of about half a million dollars above absolute living expenses.

Probationary sentences have been imposed by every Superior court judge in North Carolina. Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn has the highest number, 184. Three other judges have more than a hundred each—Felix Alley 141, Everett Thompson 119, and Walter J. Bone 102.

Grimesland Youth Crusade A Success

A four-day Youth Crusade program at Grimesland came to a close Thursday evening with an impressive communion service. Rev. Forrest D. Hedden, who directed the crusade program, was not long winning the cooperation of the some fifty young people who attended the services and the classes each night. This week will long stand out in the memory of the people who had a part in the program.

Each night a devotional was conducted by one of the leaguers cooperating in the Crusade program. On Monday night the Wharton leaguers led the devotional program. On Wednesday the devotional was led by the Grimesland leaguers. In each instance the leaguers proved themselves qualified and capable.

Every one of the four worship services conducted by Mr. Hedden was effective and the young people showed a genuine interest. The recreation composed of folk games as directed by Mr. Hedden proved popular with those who participated. The program of worship, study, and play was all for Christ.

Expect 75,000 To Cast Vote (Continued from Page One) ing quotas for a three-year period? This means control of the 1941, 1942, and 1943 crops.

The Federal government has promised its full financial support of the 1940 market, and protection of prices at or slightly above last year's 14 1/2 cents per pound price level if three-year quotas are approved. It has also been announced that allotments will not be reduced in 1941 if three-year quotas are voted.

The second question will be: Do you favor quotas on only the 1941 crop. This will mean, Floyd said, that prices probably will be 2 to 3 cents per pound below what they will be if three-year quotas are approved. Such a price difference will mean from 4 1/2 to 9 million dollars in income to North Carolina farmers.

Also, 1941 allotments will be reduced 10 per cent from 1940 allotments if only one-year quotas are approved.

The third question on the ballot will be: Are You Opposed to Quotas in Any Form? This will mean loss of about $28,000,000 which the Government will loan on the 1940 crop if quotas are approved, and Governor Hoy and others say farmers face "suicide" if they turn down quotas.

From the looks of things here all's well with these two South Carolina delegates at the National Democratic convention in Chicago. Turning on those smiles as they talked on the convention floor are Melvin Purvis (left) and George Warren, chairman of the South Carolina delegation.
