JAPAN WIDENS ACTION AIMED AT ESPIONAGE

Army Reports Arrest Of Several More Foreigners

JAPAN CAMPAIGN FELT IN KOREA

Jailing Of Prominent Britons Leads To A Conference By Ambassadors of Britain And U. S.

Tokyo, July 30.—(AP)—The Japanese army announced today that several foreigners whose names and nationalities were not disclosed, have been arrested in Korea in an extension of Japan's campaign against alleged foreign espionage in which 13 Britons previously had been seized in Japan proper.

A brief communique issued in Korea, Japanese colony on the Asiatic mainland, said the prisoners charged with spying were undergoing examination.

The Japanese campaign, which has jailed some of the most prominent British residents of Japan and led to the death of one, was discussed today by the British and United States ambassadors, Sir Robert Leslie Craigie and Joseph C. Grew.

Arrest of the Britons in the espionage drive emphasizes that Japan is moving rapidly along two courses toward economic command of eastern Asia—elimination of foreign influence and of economic inroads in key territories, reliable sources declared.

These apparently are twin paths by which Japan hopes to reach eventual control of the raw materials and trade of the bulk of China, French Indo-China, Siam, the Dutch East Indies and possibly British Burma.

The British embassy meanwhile is pressing for a full investigation into the death of one of those arrested, Melville James Cox, veteran English newspaperman who, the Japanese reported, committed suicide by leaping from a window while being questioned.

Asbury Park Bank Victim of Robbery

Asbury Park, N. J., July 30.—(AP)—Three men armed with shotguns held up employees of the Asbury Park National Bank and Trust Company near the post office today and escaped with a bag which police said they believed contained $100,000.

Bank officials said they were unable to give an immediate estimate of the loot, all cash. The money was consigned to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Vice President James Forsythe said the armed messengers, Clarence Barton and Joseph Sturm, were accosted by the trio as they stepped from their car in front of the post office.

Former Pitt Woman Succumbs In Norfolk

Funeral services for Mrs. W. B. Covington, formerly of Ayden, but who has made her home in Norfolk, Va., for about 15 years, will be conducted at the Ayden Methodist church tomorrow afternoon by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Tilley. Burial will follow in the Ayden cemetery.

Mrs. Covington, who was 39 years of age, died in the Norfolk General hospital following an operation two weeks ago.

She was the daughter of Mrs. E. Hardee of Ayden and the late Mr. Hardee. She is survived by her husband; three children, W. B. Covington, Jr., Marjorie Taylor Covington and Lois Jean Covington; her mother, and two brothers, Ralph P. Hardee of Ayden and Guy T. Hardee of New York.

Says Negro Admitted Robbing Home In Pitt

Lee Boyd, Negro, was quoted by members of the sheriff's department today as having admitted entering the home of Mrs. Lizzie Wall in the Clay Root Neck section of Swift Creek township Sunday while everyone was away, removing a trunk to the woods about half a mile away, breaking the lock, and robbing it.

Officers said the Negro confessed that he stole a five dollar bill and 75 cents in change from the trunk. He was arrested shortly after officers had been summoned and had compered his fingerprints with those leading from the house.

The home was robbed while Mrs. Hall was spending the day at the beach.

Morgan Shelters War Refugees

J. P. Morgan, the financier, is shown at the pier in New York with three English children who came over on the S. S. Britannic to escape the perils of war and found refuge at the Morgan estate at Locust Valley, N. Y. The youngsters are Lord Primrose (beside Morgan), 11, son of the Earl of Rosebery; George Vivian Smith (right), 6, and George's one-year-old sister, who is carried by woman at left. They will live with Morgan for the duration of the war.

CITY TO BACK TOBACCO MART

Dinner Meeting Scheduled For Thursday, Aug. 22

A dinner meeting to be held in the interest of the Greenville tobacco market will be held in the college dining hall on the night of Thursday, August 22, with business and professional men, their employees and members of the various civic and commercial organizations in the city attending.

The decision to promote such an affair—similar to one successfully held last year—was reached at a meeting last night of the Community Tobacco Market committee.

The purpose of the dinner meeting will arouse the interest of the business and professional interests of the city in the local tobacco market.

Such a meeting held last year was declared to have been the most successful similar gathering ever held in the city.

The dinner was decided on after the Community Tobacco Market committee had organized for the year by naming R. C. Rankin, sales supervisor of the Greenville tobacco market, chairman, and W. T. Kyzer, executive secretary of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, secretary.

The committee was organized for the purposes of coordinating efforts of the business and professional interests with those of the Tobacco Board of Trade in furthering the local tobacco market and in improving the service the market offers its patrons. The personnel is composed of a representative of each of the various organized units in the city.

It follows: J. S. Ficklen of the Tobacco Board of Trade; W. Z. Morton of the Warehousemen's Association; C. H. Edwards of the Chamber of Commerce; Alton Barrett of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; O. P. Matthews of the Merchants Association; R. P. Taylor of the Kiwanis club; H. L. Ormond of the Rotary club, and Rufus Johnson of the Lions club.

B. D. Johnston, president of the Merchants Association, represented that organization last night in the absence of Mr. Matthews. Harvey Ward was also present, cooperating with Mr. Morton in behalf of the Warehousemen's association.

Ask Sentiment On Removal Of Train

The Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, through its executive secretary, N. G. Bartlett of Kinston has called a meeting to be held at the Municipal building here at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon to ascertain sentiment to the proposal of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad to remove its Kinston-Rocky Mount passenger train.

The railroad has posted notice that it will apply to the North Carolina Utilities Commission within the next few days for permission to discontinue the train, operating each way daily.

Representatives from the various towns along the line are invited to be present at Thursday's meeting.

Increase Noted In Farm Cash Income

Raleigh, July 30.—(AP)—North Carolina farmers got $35,833,000 as cash income from principal farm products during the first five months of 1940, a gain of 17 per cent over the $30,513,000 received in the same 1939 period, not including federal payments.

The State department of Agriculture reported on the cash income today and said that federal payments dropped 24 per cent below the $11,645,000 AAA payments made in the 1939 period.

DECLARES FOR BACKING BILL

Chief Executive Said To Favor Description

Washington, July 30.—(AP)—Senator Sheppard (D-Tex.) said today he had gained the "definite impression" in conversations with President Roosevelt that the President favored enactment of the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill in its present form.

Sheppard, just back from a three-day tour of Norfolk, Va., defense works, a trip which he made with Mr. Roosevelt, said he had discussed the bill at length with Mr. Roosevelt. The chairman of the Senate Military committee added that the President's comments were entirely favorable to it.

The measure, receiving final consideration from Sheppard's committee today, calls for registration of all men between 18 and 64 years old.

Sheppard's statement was the first indication of Mr. Roosevelt's view on the bill, although he previously had said that some form of "conscription" might be necessary in order to provide sufficient personnel for an enlarged national defense machine.

Order Convoy For Ship Bearing Duke

London, July 30.—(AP)—Regardless of United States law that U. S. ships shall avoid armed convoys, the American export liner Excalibur may travel under the protection of British guns on its next westward crossing because the Duke and Duchess of Windsor are due to be on board.

Three United States diplomats, as well as the Windsors, may have British naval units hovering about them as they return home—John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium; William Phillips, ambassador to Italy; and George Gordon, minister to the Netherlands.

The British are going to take no chances that the Duke, recently appointed governor general of the Bahamas, might be removed from the Excalibur by German or Italian patrols and the navy therefore, informed sources said, will keep a "sort of long distance watch" on the ship.

"Obviously we have to see that he doesn't get taken off," these sources said.

Temporary Relief Afforded By Rain

Local rains accompanied by a thunderstorm shortly before 10 o'clock last night brought temporary relief to Greenville citizens, but the respite from the torrid wave was short-lived as it was hot again today.

At 1 p. m. this afternoon, the mercury was standing at 91 degrees—two degrees higher than the high mark yesterday.

The showers were strictly local. Among the places in the county which reported no rain were Ayden and Bethel, while other sections were said to have been visited by heavy rains.

Although the rain helped considerably, it was explained that the ground was so dry that another would be needed by tomorrow if crops are to derive the most benefit from the showers.

SIXTH SECRET SESSION HELD BY COMMONS

Conducted For Discussion of Foreign Affairs

CHECK ORDERED ON SPANISH OIL

Minister Indicates the Possibility of British And American Co-operation On World Surpluses

(By The Associated Press) The British House of Commons held its sixth secret session of the war today as Nazi airmen carried on the prelude of bombing to the long-expected invasion.

The secret session for the discussion of foreign affairs was voted after Hugh Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare, indicated the possibility of British-American cooperation on the general question of world surpluses.

Dalton also disclosed that Britain was sending an agent to Spain this week-end to confer with Spanish officials on Spain's oil requirements—a move apparently designed to make certain no oil supplies reaching Spain are trans-shipped to Germany.

The minister denied reports of an extension of the British blockade to certain neutral countries, but explained that Britain now must control all shipping crossing the Atlantic.

A high neutral diplomatic source predicted meanwhile that Spain would declare war on Great Britain "within a week or so" if the British attempted to clamp a strict blockade on Spain.

Italy, this source noted, moved swiftly toward war after Britain tightened the blockade against her.

In the House of Lords, Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax declared Japan's allegation of British espionage in the Far East were baseless.

ROW DEVELOPS IN COMMITTEE

Action On Burke-Wadsworth Measure Postponed

Washington, July 30.—(AP)—Final action on the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill was delayed today by the Senate Military committee at the conclusion of a session described as one of the bitterest in years.

The controversy was said to have started when Senator Bridges (R-NH) demanded that President Roosevelt make clear his views on the measure. Senators Gurney of South Dakota and Thomas of Idaho, also Republicans, reportedly joined Bridges in the demand.

Formerly an ardent ally, a committee member reported later, Senator Minton (D-Ind.) and Sen. Lee (D-Okl.), both stout supporters of the President, accused the republicans of attempting to play politics with a defense issue. The argument was said to have raged at boiling point until Sen. Johnson (D-Col.) intervened.

Along with its delay of a vote on the Burke-Wadsworth bill, the committee ordered hearings immediately on a measure to authorize President Roosevelt to train the National Guard and the Officers Reserve Corps. Chairman Sheppard said he thought the Senate should take up that bill before acting on the conscription measure.

Grants TVA Fund To Supply Power

Washington, July 30.—(AP)—A $25,000,000 appropriation to enable the Tennessee Valley Authority to supply more electric power for the national defense program was approved by the Senate today without a record vote.

The Senate passed the legislation speedily after taking it up late yesterday. A similar measure was before the House.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) obtained the Senate vote on the appropriation, requested by the National Defense Commission, after a brief explanation and almost no discussion.

McKellar said that the vast expansion of airplane production in the United States was dependent upon increased production of aluminum and that the additional power must be supplied for aluminum plants built or under construction in the TVA area.

Germany Disputes Claims Of British Successes And Resumes Raids On England

"There Ain't Gonna Be No Run-Off"

In his bid for another term Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas wrote a song, "There Ain't Gonna Be No Run-Off," for his hillbilly band to play in the campaign. And it seems the governor made the right forecast. For it appears he piled up enough votes in the Democratic primary to give him the nomination. Surrounded by members of his family, he is shown seated at the phone at Austin as election returns came in. Around him, left to right, are Daughter Molly, Son Pat, Mrs. O'Daniel and Son Mike.

Local Temporary Relief Reported In Heat Wave

Eight Deaths Attributed To Weather In This State

By The Associated Press The summer's most prolonged heat wave—10 days—seemed to have broken at least temporarily in most sections of North Carolina today.

Overcast skies plummeted the mercury to the low 90's and the United States Weather Bureau's forecast offered hope for at least a brief let-up in the torrid weather that has kept thermometers around the hundred mark in most places.

The Weather Bureau forecast partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday with scattered thundershowers in mountains Wednesday.

Eight deaths attributable to the heat wave have been reported in the state—three from heat prostration and five drownings.

In the nation meanwhile thundershowers brought a measure of relief to some parts of the parched country, but for most of the nation the day was just another lap in the heat marathon.

As the mercury again climbed into the 90's the number of deaths from the season's most prolonged heat wave increased to 765. Heat deaths numbered 382, drownings 383.

Fear Six Dead In Camden Explosion

Camden, N. J., July 30.—(AP)—Six persons were unaccounted for today two hours after a fire broke out in R. Hollingshead Company's block-long plant following an explosion. Seventeen employees were treated at a hospital.

The explosion occurred at the noon hour. Flames spread rapidly and leaped to buildings across the street from the 22 automobile paint and grease manufacturing plant, located in the heart of Camden.

George Gumbrell, 21, who escaped from the basement, said that he feared four girls and two men had been trapped there.

Most of the factory's employees had left the building a short time before the explosion for their lunch.

IT ALL DEPENDS ON HOW YOU LOOK AT IT

Tulsa, Okla.—(AP)—"You are charged with running away and escaping from the weed gang," said Municipal Judge Walter Kimmel to an Indian, a defendant in municipal court. "Did you, or did you not do that?"

"No, sir, judge," said the defendant, emphatically. "I just walked away, got drunk and failed to return."

SAYS ATTACKS PUNY SAMPLES

Nazi Bombers Again Sent Across Channel Bringing Death And Destruction; Reports Vary On Losses Of Planes And To Shipping; London Expected To Widen Blockade

(By The Associated Press)

Nazi Germany, disputing British claims of 17 to one Royal Air Force successes in yesterday's air battle of Dover, sent her bombers across the channel again today with the hope of crushing English morale before the long-awaited invasion begins.

An undisclosed number of civilians, among them an infant, were killed and buildings were damaged or demolished as the Nazi airmen sprinkled their loads up and down the east coast.

While the British Admiralty was announcing that Germany had sunk 35,577 tons of the empire's shipping in the week ending July 21, the German high command maintained that much damage was done in the Dover fight alone—four ships totaling 32,000 tons.

The German high command also said German airmen sank a 10,000-ton cruiser in the English channel, as well as a small merchant vessel.

England claimed that yesterday's air attacks cost the Germans 25 planes, 17 of them in the Dover battle, where 80 Nazi bombers and fighters were fought off by Royal Air Force men. Loss of one British plane was acknowledged. Germany on the other hand, claimed 13 British planes were shot down and only three German craft were lost.

The German press said the swelling storm of air attacks was only a "puny" sample of what Adolf Hitler has in store, but already has taken a tremendous toll of British shipping.

A Berlin newspaper said that although the raids so far had only "softened" the English defense system for the big blow—bombs and torpedoes cost the British 257,000 tons of shipping in the week ending July 27.

Britain was expected in London to widen her own blockade against supplies possibly reaching Germany with intensified contraband control over all ships bound for Europe and certain North African ports.

Authoritative sources reported last night at Bucharest that Rumania, willing to effect a quick compromise with her neighbors on their territorial demands, has been given just seven weeks to negotiate a settlement.

Negro Man Released In Fountain Charges

Jennie Harris, Negro, questioned in connection with the reported entry of the bedroom of Mrs. E. O. Phillips of Fountain township early Sunday morning, has been released by officers, who are continuing their investigation.

Officers quoted Mrs. Phillips as saying that a man, believed to have been a Negro, entered the room where she and a small child were sleeping about 3 o'clock Sunday morning while her husband was at a tobacco barn. The woman was quoted as saying that the man made immoral suggestions to her.

Christian Science Church. "Truth" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies, Sunday, July 28.

The golden text was from Psalms 103:1, 4. "O God, my heart is fixed; I will sing and give praise, even with my glory.... For thy mercy is great above the heavens; and thy truth reacheth unto the clouds."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "Doth a fountain send forth at the same place sweet water and bitter? Can the fig tree, my brethren, bear olive berries? either a vine, figs? So can no fountain both yield salt water and fresh. Who is a wise man and endued with knowledge among you? let him show out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom. But if you have bitter envy and strife in your hearts, glory not, and be not against the truth, but the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy." (James 3:11-14, 17).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. "We call the absence of 'truth,' error. Truth and error are unlike. In Science, Truth is divine, and the infinite God can have no unlikeness. Did God, Truth, create error? No! 'Doth a fountain send forth at the same place sweet water and bitter?' God being everywhere and all-inclusive, how can He be absent or suggest the absence of omnipresence and omnipotence? How can there be more than all? Neither understanding nor truth accompanies error, nor is error the offshoot of Mind. Truth cannot be contaminated by error. The statement that Truth is real necessarily includes the correlated statement, that error, Truth's unlikeness, is unreal."

Galloway-Proctor
Married in the M. E. Church at Grimesland, N. C., July 24, Mr. W. Scott Galloway to Miss Ella Proctor, Rev. R. A. Bruton officiating.

This was a beautiful wedding and taken together with the popularity of the contracting parties made it a great day in the social circle of our village. The church was beautifully decorated with evergreens, ferns and cut flowers.

The following couples were in attendance and entered the church in reversed order: A. G. Dudley with Miss Sophia O'Brien; J. F. Pollard with Miss Lizzina Moore; M. H. Tucker with Miss Mamie Galloway; J. R. Proctor with Miss Helen Galloway; D. G. Moore with Miss Daisy Carman; M. M. Galloway with Miss May Galloway. Following these came the bride accompanied by Miss Mamie Tucker. The groom entered with John W. Mayo, best man, and met the bride at the altar, under a nuptial arch and a large marriage bell where a beautiful ceremony was held.

After many warm congratulations by many friends, a reception was made to the residence of Mr. W. E. Tucker where a private reception was held, complimentary to the bride and groom and their attendants and many friends. Mrs. Tucker had prepared a sumptuous feast and the wee hours of morning had already come ere the last guest said goodnight. The presents were many and handsome and space forbids an enumeration of them here.

This happy pair enters their new life with the sincerest and best wishes of their many friends and of this occasion an evening pleasantly spent let us lay away in the treasury of our remembrance.

Schiaparelli Inspires - And Worries - U.S. Designers

Visit Is Bound To Affect America's Winter Trends

By AMY PORTER
AP Fashion Writer
New York — Madame Elsa Schiaparelli, famous Paris couturier, arrives in this county at a critical time.

This fall, for the first time in history, there'll be "American Fashion Openings," instead of "Paris Fashion Openings." Designers and manufacturers were nervous and self-conscious in the face of that great event, they'd been feverishly trying to organize themselves to assume the style leadership Paris has lost, when Schiaparelli — one of Paris' greatest names — arrived by clipper plane — tired, hatless, war-weary, but self-assured and full of ideas.

Her arrival sent tremors through the industry. The warm personal welcome it gave her was tempered by the fear that her presence would delay their weaning -from-Paris process.

Where will Schiaparelli fit into the new picture? Will she establish a business and become a part of the new American couture? Or will she keep alive the remembrance of Paris, be a connecting link between that city and America until Paris designers can re-establish themselves as world dictators of style?

Schiaparelli, of course, scarcely is in a position to speak frankly. After all, her shop is still open in Paris, her fellow designers are working there. Anything she says may be used against her — or her friends.

She does say this much: "I see no reason why America cannot build up a couture of its own. I know there's designing talent here, and if it is given encouragement, it will develop more and more. Certainly American sports clothes have been the best in the world for years."

But she denies that she intends to stay here.

She will start a lecture tour early in September, and create 20 original designs to carry along to illustrate her talks on "Clothes and the Woman."

It will be interesting to see which has the greater effect on style developments — these 20 original Schiaparelli's, or the hundreds of models that will be turned out by talented, but comparatively anonymous, American designers.

Schiaparelli says that when her tour ends in December, she'll return to Paris. If she does, however, it will not be because she didn't have plenty of inducements to stay.

Manufacturers may declare their devotion to home-talent designers, but the moment this lady from Paris is stepped off the clipper you could almost hear them sigh: "Ah! Thank heaven, Schiaparelli will pull us out of this hole."

At least four manufacturers have offered her $5,000 a year for the use of her name on labels. No American designer can make that money without turning a hand. She also has been offered $500 apiece for original designs. If she cares to, she can establish a permanent — and probably prosperous — business here.

She says nothing about sending her daughter "Gogo," who has been in New York several months — back to Paris, so there may be personal as well as business ties to hold her here.

But fashion history will have to wait while Schiaparelli gathers up a few clothes for herself. She only brought a scant 20 pounds of luggage, most of that in jewelry, valued at $70,000.

"I packed in one hour and left Biarritz just before the frontier was closed," she said. "I've been traveling for a month. What I want is rest — and time to buy a hat."

She looked very tired, but still chic, when she received reporters. She wore a plain slim black dress with a small white crocheted collar. Her hair was in a pompadour.

"We waited till the last possible moment to leave Paris," she said. "My face was black from the smoke screen they used to cover the departure of refugees."

"In Biarritz, several members of the couture assembled to decide what to do. We met in Lanvin's glass-enclosed office at night. There was a thunder storm, and the sound of thunder was mixed up with the sound of bombs dropping nearby. While we talked, the lights went out. It was sinister."

"We decided to make up our collections there in Biarritz. But, you know," she smiled and shrugged — "we had guests we didn't expect."

The flower-trimmed skull cap, designed by Schiaparelli to accommodate a pompadour coiffure, is being copied by leading American milliners in velvet and fur for fall. The black wool suit-shows the pocket interest that is almost a Schiaparelli trade-mark.

Visit Is Bound To Affect America's Winter Trends

By AMY PORTER
AP Fashion Writer
New York — Madame Elsa Schiaparelli, famous Paris couturier, arrives in this county at a critical time.

This fall, for the first time in history, there'll be "American Fashion Openings," instead of "Paris Fashion Openings." Designers and manufacturers were nervous and self-conscious in the face of that great event, they'd been feverishly trying to organize themselves to assume the style leadership Paris has lost, when Schiaparelli — one of Paris' greatest names — arrived by clipper plane — tired, hatless, war-weary, but self-assured and full of ideas.

Her arrival sent tremors through the industry. The warm personal welcome it gave her was tempered by the fear that her presence would delay their weaning -from-Paris process.

Where will Schiaparelli fit into the new picture? Will she establish a business and become a part of the new American couture? Or will she keep alive the remembrance of Paris, be a connecting link between that city and America until Paris designers can re-establish themselves as world dictators of style?

Schiaparelli, of course, scarcely is in a position to speak frankly. After all, her shop is still open in Paris, her fellow designers are working there. Anything she says may be used against her — or her friends.

She does say this much: "I see no reason why America cannot build up a couture of its own. I know there's designing talent here, and if it is given encouragement, it will develop more and more. Certainly American sports clothes have been the best in the world for years."

But she denies that she intends to stay here.

She will start a lecture tour early in September, and create 20 original designs to carry along to illustrate her talks on "Clothes and the Woman."

It will be interesting to see which has the greater effect on style developments — these 20 original Schiaparelli's, or the hundreds of models that will be turned out by talented, but comparatively anonymous, American designers.

Schiaparelli says that when her tour ends in December, she'll return to Paris. If she does, however, it will not be because she didn't have plenty of inducements to stay.

Manufacturers may declare their devotion to home-talent designers, but the moment this lady from Paris is stepped off the clipper you could almost hear them sigh: "Ah! Thank heaven, Schiaparelli will pull us out of this hole."

At least four manufacturers have offered her $5,000 a year for the use of her name on labels. No American designer can make that money without turning a hand. She also has been offered $500 apiece for original designs. If she cares to, she can establish a permanent — and probably prosperous — business here.

She says nothing about sending her daughter "Gogo," who has been in New York several months — back to Paris, so there may be personal as well as business ties to hold her here.

But fashion history will have to wait while Schiaparelli gathers up a few clothes for herself. She only brought a scant 20 pounds of luggage, most of that in jewelry, valued at $70,000.

What Does Insurance COST?

At any given age the price of life insurance can vary almost as much as the price of a new suit of clothes. The form of insurance that's best for your needs isn't always the most expensive either. I'm equipped—from both study and experience—to answer any question you may have about insurance. You may be surprised to find me recommending insurance that costs less than you thought it would. That's part of my service to people of this community.

Denver Men Can't Wait For Army Training

By VIRGIL LEWIS
AP Feature Service

Denver. — Two hundred Denver men were so anxious to obtain military training that they couldn't wait for the regular army to provide it. They "conscripted" themselves into the 411th infantry, bought their own makeshift uniforms, and carved their guns out of wood.

At their head are regular army reserve officers, some of them veterans of the first World war.

As the word gets around, more citizens are joining up—many from the factories and offices, business houses, the professions and schools. But they are not recognized by the army and get no official training credit.

Companies Streamlined
Col. Philip S. Van Cise, a Denver attorney and an officer overseas during the first World war, is commander. He says the training school gives reserve officers experience in handling men, aside from providing a basic military course for citizens interested in national defense.

The 411th's officers have organized the citizen-soldiers into a rifle company and a heavy weapons company, both streamlined. The citizens pay for cotton khaki trousers, shirts and overseas caps.

Some of the men drill during lunch hour in vacant lots near offices of factories. Others report two nights a week. Every other Sunday the entire regiment goes into the foothills for field exercises.

The Continental Divide in the mountains west of Denver has been designated a boundary line between two imaginary nations, the Reds and the Blues. Recently, without declaring war, the Reds started marching on Denver, capital of the Blues.

The Blue army of the 411th was given a sector to defend in the foothills near Morrison, 20 miles west of Denver. The amateur soldiers got a lot of sunshine, dust and military experience as they lugged their wooden machine guns and mortars about the hills. They worried about getting ammunition, food and water to the crews manning the front line guns.

From 16 To 50

The military students include World war veterans as old as 50 and high school lads of 16.

"They're getting the same kind of training they would be given if they quit their jobs and went to camp," says Colonel Van Cise.

"We've started at the bottom and are giving them a systematic education in fundamentals of the military game. If this country ever needs them they'll be a lot better material than men without training."

Pedals for Ambulances

Julie Hudson, eleven-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Stewart Hudson, of Grose Pointe, Mich., canvassed Grose Pointe on her bicycle and raised $103.46 for the British-American Ambulance Corps, of 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City, which is soliciting funds to buy ambulances to serve with the British army in its defense of England.

Julie heard her parents talking about the worthiness of the drive, and, without saying a word to them, went out and obtained gifts from forty-one individuals. The donations included three gifts of a dime each, one of 11 cents, several of 25 cents, fifty cents and a dollar and one of $50. Her parents later raised another $416.25 among their friends. Julie is now vacationing at the San Luis Ranch Camp, near Colorado Springs, Colo.

FINDS PAPERS BEST MEDIUMS

Newspapers Holding Own In National Advertising

Reflector Bureau.
By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, July 30.—This may sound like a plug for the business office; maybe it is. But it has some interest as a news story.

Despite the encroachment of radio and the increasing popularity of some national magazines, newspapers still provide the most acceptable advertising media for manufacturers and dealers who want to interest prospective customers in their wares.

A survey just completed by the Bureau of Advertising of expenditures in daily papers, magazines, farm journals and radio for advertising last year shows that 40 per cent of the total was spent in newspapers. Only daily papers in towns of above 10,000 were considered, or the percentage would have been higher. This is partially offset by the fact that only chain radio programs were counted.

Most interesting phase of the report is that which shows the valuation placed upon various advertising media by operators of competing media. Magazines, for instance, spent $2,766,193 advertising themselves. Of this amount 74 per cent was spent for advertising in newspapers and only 14 per cent in magazines. The radio industry paid $3,372,403 for advertising, and almost exactly half of that sum was for space in daily newspapers, while only 22 per cent of it was for radio time. On the other hand, of the million and a half dollars spent by newspapers for their own promotion, 88 per cent was for space in other newspapers.

An interesting sidelight is the fact that no alcoholic beverage advertising (liquor, beer, wine) was handled over chain radio. Of the $25,000,000 paid for such advertising newspapers received 67 per cent and magazines 33 per cent.

For all kinds of advertising, running from automobiles to cosmetics, the percentages are shown as follows: Newspapers 40 per cent; magazines 36 per cent; radio 21 per cent; and farm journals, 3 per cent.

Man About Manhattan

New York.—We were having the real pie in Sam's at lunch yesterday when Monte Proser dropped into an adjoining chair. Monte is a young man with horn-rimmed glasses, a sad smile, and a conviction that disappointment is the inevitable reward for those who expect too much from life.

This is by no means the melancholy philosophy of a young man who has been frustrated by life. No doubt at times he feels frustrated, but a careful analysis of his deeds and experiments reveals something of the salt of variety, of changing color, of sunny days as well as gloom ones. Monte used to be a hobo. He still is, at heart. He has been known to Broadway since the early days of repeal. He has been a press agent. He has shipped on cattle boats and slept in open fields. Once he worked for Herbert Hoover. Once he was a guide in Yellowstone Park. He is a restaurant owner now, or rather a night club owner. And in recent months he has been rather widely heralded as the father of the "zombie."

Almost everybody in New York knows what the zombie is. It is an after-dark beverage so powerful that not more than two may be sold to a customer. This, of course, is strictly the okra soup. A man's capacity is his own business, though personally I would be afraid to travel in the company of people who could, or would want to, carry more than two of those tall rum-inspired concoctions under their belts.

The zombie, so far as Manhattan is concerned, first made its appearance in Proser's Broadway restaurant about eight months ago. This was the Beachcomber which now, like Woolworth's and the A and P stores, has become a chain, with sister clubs throughout the country. After the lean days, some of which were shadow-thin, Monte is back in the sunshine, though his smile remains as melancholy as ever. A Puerto Rican company even has contracted to put out zombies in bottles. You would think that this would bring some sense of elation. But these are strange times. Monte's way of expressing satisfaction is a sort of half-hearted shrug. That is hard to explain, but then most things about Monte are hard to explain.

Once he sent me a canary without any explanation. It was in the winter. I took the bird out into the snow, where the sunlight was strong, to take its picture. A few days later it died of pneumonia. Monte's reaction was typical. "That's the trouble with this climate," he said. "You can't keep canary birds."

On another occasion I was to meet him at Dempsey's on Broadway because Jim Tully was going to be there, and when Tully is in town it is natural for anyone who has ever ridden the rods to gather around. Tully is a man who, like Jack London, used his hobo days as a springboard to literary fame.

But Monte wasn't there. Next day came a wire from Dempsey's hotel—in Miami. "What detains you?" the wire wanted to know.

That, in a way, is definitive of Monte Proser. Names mean a lot to him—time and distance nothing at all.

Norfolk's Expanding Naval Base Lures Roosevelt

Gay Welcome For Queen Of U.S. Merchant Ships

Whistles screamed on half a hundred ships and crowds cheered along the waterfront in a gay, noisy welcome to the huge new United States liner, America, upon her arrival in New York from Newport News, Va., where she was built. Willkie Prepares Acceptance

Writing his acceptance speech seems to be an easy and pleasant task for Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee, who is shown dictating it to a secretary, Miss Grace A. He will deliver the speech, formally accepting the nomination, at his home town, Elwood, Ind., August 17.

BIG DECREASE IN JOBS FOUND

Pitt Shows 1,034 Registrations, 179 Placements

Raleigh, July 30.—While there has been a small drop in new registrations for work in the 46 white and 10 colored employment offices in North Carolina during the first six months of 1940, as compared with the corresponding period in 1939, the greatest drop was in the number of placements on jobs, which showed 35,829 in the first six months of this year and 51,168 for the corresponding period of last year.

This drop was entirely in the placements in public works, largely PWA projects, while private placements remained about the same for the two periods, it is pointed out by R. Mayne Albright, director of the Employment Service division of the N. C. Unemployment Compensation Commission.

In new registrations for work, the figures for the first six months in each of the past five years have remained reasonably constant, except for a large drop in the first half of 1937, and a large increase in the January-June registrations in 1939, due to the beginning of jobless benefits under the Unemployment Compensation law. Placements on jobs have shown a gradual decline in the same five half-years, except for an unusually large drop in 1938, due in large part to the "recession." New registrations in the employment offices in the January-June

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood.—It was a gray day for Jones. All he had to do was sit on a movie set and watch his cab work. Jones doesn't care much for movies, but he does go for a gray day. Jones is a cab driver, and when a gray day comes along he's sure of collecting $4 by just sitting. An ordinary day, when he's in his cab and working on fares, he has to hustle to make that much for himself. In pictures the cab gets $10 a day—$6 for the company and $4 for Jones. It's sixty-four to Jones, too, so the only difference is that in pictures there's no hustling.

The boys at the cab station share the gray. After Jones gets through his stint on "Before I Die" his name goes to the bottom of the gray list. Tomorrow the top man on the list will get the job.

Jones is witness to some nice movie stuff today. It's a Ben Hecht movie, directed, written and produced by Ben Hecht.

Hecht, costless, and hatless, cigar in his mouth, is directing in leisurely fashion. He loves rain in the city, and rain is streaming down from overhead pipes. It streams down on the city streets outside the "Sunset Hotel," which flashes a neon light over the doorway, and it patters on the hood of the cab as it parks at the curb. The rain splashes Rita Hayworth and Doug Fairbanks, Jr., and Thomas Mitchell and John Qualen as they get out of the cab and go inside.

They rehearse it once, without rain, and then they shoot it, with rain, and it's in the can in one take. This goes to show how little Hecht knows about producing and directing, because if he doesn't watch out he'll get the picture finished ahead of time and then the bosses will think he's no good.

But let's get back to Jones, who's sitting on a box 'way in the background and isn't interested. "I been out here 15 years and I see 'em make plenty of movies," says Jones. "In the old days, a driver used to drive his cab in the pictures, and he'd collect for being in the picture. The actors' guild put a stop to it. If we'd put up a squawk maybe we could still be getting it, but we didn't squawk. Now they get an actor to wrive and we just stand by."

Jones says the taxi business is not what it used to be in Los Angeles. Too many private cars and not enough "riders." Used to be, he says, that people from the movie studios would call a cab to ride a block. Now they walk, or drive themselves. But he still gets plenty of movie calls—and tips are even better than in the good old days. Used to be, he says, that 15 cents or a dime, a strict 10 per cent, was all a driver could hope for. Now it goes over—from two-bits to 40 cents to half a buck. One of the regular "riders" from studio to home is Alla Nazimova (in "Escape") and Nazimova spends two bucks a trip. One-sixty in fare, 40 cents in tip.

The glamorous Rita Hayworth passes by, and Jones doesn't lift his eyes. Glamour is just another item that's all in a gray day.

Caligiuri Doubles and Then Scores For Third Run

Greenville players played a big part in the 3-1 victory scored by the Rodgersmen over the Arnettes in last night's Coastal Plain all-star game played at Wilson before a crowd estimated at 2,500.

Freddy Caligiuri allowed three hits in two innings—all in the eighth—but he clamped down and the safeties accounted for only run.

Freddy personally had previously made up for this in the seventh. He knocked out a beautiful double. Stotter of Williamston walked and Phil Morris of Wilson lifted out a Texas leaguer to fill the bases. Wilson's Carnahan then hit to second base, but Caligiuri reached home with the third run for the "northern" half of the circuit.

Caligiuri batted .500, going to bat two times and getting one hit—the double.

Benay Crowe, who was given fielding honors by all members of the press and the fans alike, also had a part in the scoring for the winners.

The northern team scored two in the first inning and the local outfielder drove in one of them with a smashing double. In the first frame Morris singled, stole second and came home on Carnahan's single. Crowe, next up, found one to his liking and drove out a double to score Carnahan.

Two other Greenville players, Harry Jenkins, third baseman, and Mike Dides, outfielder, saw action in the game and all four Greenville players made a good showing, handling several tries without a single bobbie.

What if professional baseball players did exactly what sports writers say they do? Just for the fun of it San Francisco and Hollywood Pacific coast league players decided to act out literally the familiar phrases used in describing games. This is the result

Double Cola Gets 1st Win In Semi-Finals As Softball Series Opens

Scores 10-1 Victory Over Carolina Sales

Double Cola got off to a lead as the softball semi-finals opened at Third Street park last night by defeating Carolina Sales 10-1. The second contest of the evening, scheduled between Blount-Harvey and Pepsi Cola, was called with the bottles leading after the first inning.

Play will be resumed tonight with Pepsi Cola the home team in the battle with Blount-Harvey, the first game of the program. Carolina Sales will play host to Double Cola in the second affair.

Double Cola got off to a good start last night, scoring one run in the first frame. Carolina Sales came back in the second, however, to knot the count. The score was tied only for a few minutes as Double Cola got busy in its half of the second and sent eight runs across the plate to put the game on ice.

The contest developed into a good game after the second, with only one more run being scored, this by Double Cola in the fourth, but it was too late for Carolina Sales and Double Cola got one of the required three wins to enter the finals series.

West Tigers Drop Two Close Games

By LOUIS DUPREE
Monday morning a double-header was played at the Third street school by the Greenville N. Y. A. playground teams.

In the first game, the East Braves defeated the West Tigers 10-7 in their first win this season. The winners were led at bat by Connor Merritt, Jack Scott and Edmund Curry with two for three each. Curry was the winning pitcher also.

In the second game Manager John Horne's Terriers defeated the West Tigers 7-4. George Garrett held the Tigers scoreless until the 7th inning. In this frame they scored all of their runs, most of them on errors.

George Garrett led his teammates with two for three, one of which was a homer. Sherod White and Dick Flye were next best with one for three. J. T. Williams and James Hudson led the tigers; Williams getting two for two and Hudson two for five. Hudson also pitched a four-hit game but the Terriers won on errors.

Fielding honors go to Gene Hill, Mitchell White and Harold Williams.

Team standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Center	4	0	1.000
East	1	1	.500
West	0	4	.000

East will play Center at Third street school Thursday morning at 9:30.

In the meantime, tomorrow morning East and West will contest in two soccer games at West Greenville school. So far West Greenville has not been beaten in soccer games.

STOKES TAKES SINCLAIR NINE

Scores Smashing 19-1 Victory Over Local Team

Stokes tangled with the Sinclair team of Greenville and came off with a 19-1 victory.

"Red" Roebuck, who left for the United States Marine Corps this morning, avenged the defeat handed him by the Sinclair team last Sunday, by hurling three-hit ball. He gave up one single and two scratch hits, and led his team at bat with four hits for six trips.

Frank Roebuck, playing in left field for Stokes, hit a home run and garnered three other hits for six trips to help his brother's cause. "Spooky" Clark, Stokes first sacker, also helped with a single, double and triple for five tries.

"Big Red" Roebuck was complete master of the situation as he fanned 12 with one of the most brilliant performances of his baseball career. Stokes will lose a brilliant performer to Uncle Sam and they wish him much luck.

A mirage seen recently in the vicinity of the Thousand Islands was the first reported in the area in 17 years.

The league-leading Reds won that game 7 to 2 but dropped the second 4 to 1. The Philadelphia third baseman in the picture is Johnny Rizzo. Umpire Lou Jord is calling the play.

A Red Gets Away With A Double Steal

Harry Craft, centerfielder for the Cincinnati Reds, pulls up at third safely on a double steal in the sixth inning of the first game of a double header with the Phillies at Philadelphia. The league-leading Reds won that game 7 to 2 but dropped the second 4 to 1. The Philadelphia third baseman in the picture is Johnny Rizzo. Umpire Lou Jord is calling the play.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 30.—(AP)—The stock market today whipped up one of the best rallies in a month and revived hopes among speculative forces that the lengthy stalemate may have been broken.

At the best gains ranged from one to five points or so. Final prices were under the peaks in some cases, but the majority finished well ahead.

Transfers of around 600,000 were the largest for any single July session to date.

JAMES FLEMING CLUB SPEAKER

(Continued from page one) to pit soldiers against machines. Raynaud's fall resulted, Petaun took over and with his personal prestige effected the armistice. Mr. Fleming asserted most feelingly that the French people are not pleased with working in factories to help fight Britain. In spite of Mr. Bullitt's statement to the contrary, Mr. Fleming is convinced that Petaun is just a figurehead in France today.

In replying to the questions of what the French reaction to Leopold's surrender was, Mr. Fleming cited as indicative the draping in Under and by virtue of the provisions of Section Two Thousand Five Hundred Eighty Seven (No. 2587) of the North Carolina Code (Michie 1939) and pursuant to the terms of that certain title retained note executed by Laura Carr to John Flanagan Buggy Co., a copy of which note is duly of record in the Public Registry of this county in Book 1-23, at page 68, default having been made in the payment of the debt, the undersigned owner of the debt, thereby secured will sell at public auction for cash before the Court-House door in Greenville, N. Want To Provide A Home For A Refugee Child?

If you have thought of offering a home to one of the English child refugees you will want to read this story.

By ADELAIDE KERR

AP Feature Service Writer
Thousands of American women wanting to open their homes to British children have almost swamped the New York offices of the American committee organized for care of the young refugees.

An average of 500 persons a day—most of them women—have poured into the newly installed headquarters of the United States Committee for the Care of European Children, where several hundred employees seek to help them untangle the red tape involved in transferring a child from British to American shores.

Women in wash cotton dresses and women in copies of Paris gowns crowd around wooden tables filling out long blanks while a steady hum of voices rises in the heat. Many of them want to arrange the transfer of some special child—the son of a sister or the daughter of an old friend.

Eager For Sacrifice
But 5,000 more have sent a flood of letters to the committee's headquarters asking for just any child at all—one of the mass group of refugees that may arrive before summer's end. Their letters either express hunger for a child or strong desire to help one—even to the point of cutting the allowances of their own children to do it.

The task of selecting abroad the children to be sent to American Committee for the Evacuation of Children in London. Care and the placement of children after they arrive is the responsibility of the United States Committee for the Care of European Children, whose chairman is Marshall Field and whose honorary chairman is Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Both are active in the committee's campaign for a $5,000,000 fund.

From committee headquarters in New York a national network of local subsidiary committees is being established, a spokesman said. The local committees are scheduled to work with local welfare agencies in handling problems attending the transfer of refugees. The Children's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, the American Red Cross, the Child Welfare League of America and state and local welfare services are among those co-operating.

Lot Of Red Tape
If you want to take a golden-haired little English girl or a freckled-faced English boy you'd better be prepared to handle red tape. Here is the procedure outlined by the New York headquarters of the

Wet Counties Benefit To Tune Of $162,404,364

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, July 30.—There is a lot of difference in opinion as to the value of the property of liquor stores in North Carolina. The liquor question has many angles—ethical, moral, economic, etc. There is, however, little dissent from the opinion that the question is going to be brought home to North Carolina during the next few months.

Whatever moral issue may be involved is almost wholly a matter of opinion and honest adherence to any position admit that the other positions have some justification. The economic phase of the matter is almost wholly a matter of mathematical statement. And this discussion purports to deal only with the mathematical or economic side of the issue.

Figures on the total sales of liquor in the ABC stores in the 27 counties operating them are not available for the last fiscal year, but for the fiscal year ending on June 30, 1939, the legal liquor sales amounted to $6,932,566.09, and the profits according to the several counties amounted to $1,352,799.12. Besides, the state profited to the extent of about a half a million dollars. It is known that sales and profits both exceeded the above figures for the year just ended, sales going somewhat above seven and a quarter million and state receipts running about $600,000, due to increase in the state take from 7 per cent to 8 1-2 per cent beginning in April of last year.

Neither are accurate figures on property valuation and tax rates available for 1939, but for the year 1938 the valuations and tax rates were filed with the department of revenue. These reports show, for the 27 ABC counties, property valuation of $601,412,441, and tax rates ranging from 62 cents in New Hanover to $2 in Greene.

Breaking down these figures by counties, and translating them into terms of property valuation at existing tax rates, or tax rates at existing valuation offers interesting results. It is found that the returns from ABC stores are equivalent to the tax yield on $162,404,364 worth of property, and that the tax relief in terms of rate varies from 8 2-3 cents in Tyrrell county to 30 cents in Moore.

Counties in which the ABC yield exceeded for that year the equivalent of a 25 cent tax rate are: Moore, 30c; Edgecombe, 26 2-3c; Wake, 26c; Lenoir, 25 1-4c; Durham, which is the banner county in liquor sales, and which shows the highest property valuation of any ABC county, had next to the lowest tax rate (64c) and benefited to the extent of a 21 cent tax rate.

It is true that figures can be made to mean almost anything the figurer wants them to say, and it will be argued that whatever monetary gain has been derived from the sale of liquor has been
