HEAVY DAMAGE OVER WIDE AREA

North Wilkesboro Cut Off From Outside World; Water Shortage is Feared in Asheville

Asheville, Aug. 14.—(AP) Mountain streams swollen by torrential rains of the last three days, surged out of their banks today, bringing damage to roads, crops and lowlands' industrial plants expected to run into millions of dollars and claiming at least six lives.

Highways throughout the stricken area were blocked by washouts, landslides or inundation.

North Wilkesboro, a town of 4,000 persons, was cut off from the outside world by the flooded Yadkin river.

Mayor R. T. McNeill of North Wilkesboro estimated that damage in the town would be $2,000,000 and he said it probably would reach $5,000,000 for Wilkes county as a whole. He said that 500 persons were homeless and at least 2,500 were out of work. At an emergency meeting of the city commissioner of North Wilkesboro this afternoon arrangements were made to take care of the homeless. Shelter and food were provided.

A woman excitedly grabbed an electric wire near North Wilkesboro and was killed when flood waters surged about her automobile. A man drowned when his boat was swept over a dam near here.

Two persons were drowned in southwest Virginia and two others in east Tennessee.

Asheville, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Asheville drew on an emergency water reservoir with a 24-hour capacity today after floods washed out all main lines leading into this city of 51,000 inhabitants.

City Manager P. M. Burdette called on all residents to conserve water as the level fell in the reservoir just above the city. There was no estimate of the length of time the supply would last.

Two 16-inch mains leading from the watershed northeast of the city failed about noon yesterday and the third 24-inch line went out around 4 p. m.

Meanwhile the State Highway department reported that all roads leading into Asheville, except the one from Erwin, Tenn., had been reopened.

Flash floods sweeping out of the mountains and foothills of western North Carolina and eastern Tennessee killed at least two persons and aroused fears for the safety of many others.

The torrential rains followed a hurricane that raked the coast of South Carolina and Georgia last week-end.

Property damage was expected to run into millions.

North Wilkesboro was almost completely cut off from the outside world by flood waters which Police Chief John Walker said he feared took several lives.

In the Elizabethton, Tenn., area a flash flood swept out of the hills last night, killed one or more persons and drove scores in panic to trees and rooftops.

Air Raids Pave The Way For 'Zero Hour'

Shaded area shows zone of heaviest air fighting as waves of German planes continued their attempt to soften England in preparation for the 'zero hour' which will bring the Nazi invasion attempt. Bomb bursts indicate heavy air attacks at Portsmouth, naval base, as well as air raids on shipping at Swansea and Cardiff.

Knox Proposes Huge Army In Backing Conscription

BETHEL PLANT ONE OF OLDEST

School Unit There Fully Established By 1918

The Bethel school is one of the oldest consolidated school units in Pitt county. Both high and elementary units were fully established by 1918 and in the years following the war splendid school advantages were made available to the children of Bethel township.

The territory originally planned for Bethel was not as large as was given to some of the other county units; therefore, the Bethel school does not have, at present, as large a pupil enrollment as its buildings can accommodate, but the average pupil achievement is good and the percentage of pupils graduating from elementary to high school is unusually high. This means that a good part of Bethel's elementary pupils continue in school until they have completed the four-year high school course. Likewise a good percentage of high school graduates go to college. School enrollment for 1939-40, Elementary 354, High School, 134.

The Bethel curriculum has, in addition to the Academic State Course, special departments of Home Economics, Commercial subjects and Music.

Under the Federal Civil Works Program, Bethel citizens erected for use of the Town of Bethel and the school a standard size gymnasium. The entire part of the sponsor's cost was paid by Bethel people. This building has been extensively used for community programs and is the center of the physical education program of elementary and high school students.

Four years ago a new ten-room high school building with an auditorium, capacity of 500 people, was built by PWA and the Bethel school district. A feature of the equipment in the new high school is the library, where spacious attractive quarters are provided for book storage and for pupils' study tables. The total number of usable books in this high school library is 1,600 volumes.

The Bethel high school is on the state list of standard schools. The faculty employed to date for the term of 1940-1941 is as follows: G. N. Noble, Trenton; E. Faust Johnson, Bethel; Lindsay Whitchard, Stokes; Miss Veva Howard, Aoshoke; Miss Ann Johnson, Mayodan; Miss Mary Hamer, Philadelphia, Pa.; Miss Mary E. Berry, Hickory; Miss Grace Claire Taylor, Morehead City; Miss Dorothy Jones, Greensboro; Miss Mary Katherine Gilmore, Wadesboro; Miss Mary Olive May, Alliance; Miss Margaret Elliott, Edenton; Miss Margaret Galloway, Hamlet; Miss Matt Ecum, Snow Hill; Miss Ethel Lee Byrd, Parkton.

Defeat Of England In 60 Days Seen As Possibility

Washington, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Secretary Knox declared today that the United States, lacking a two-ocean navy, needs a "huge army" and he urged that one be created by conscription.

Should England be defeated by Germany, he said, "we will be left without a friend in the world." He expressed the opinion that such a defeat in 60 days was possible.

The navy secretary appeared before the House Military committee in support of the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory service bill, on which the Senate undertook its fourth day of debate.

At the White House President Roosevelt and congressional leaders went over the legislative slate, consisting chiefly of defense bills. After the conference Democratic Leader Barkley predicted the Senate would act on the Burke-Wadsworth measure some time next week. Others at the meeting were Speaker Bankhead and Democratic Leader Rayburn of the House.

At the capitol, Senator Byrnes (D-S.C.) said that Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, has asked a Senate appropriations sub-committee to increase by $47,000,000 the funds which would go to the navy in a pending $4,963,000,000 appropriation bill. The increase would be used for armaments, for fighting planes and for aviation maintenance.

Before the House committee Knox asserted that the nation faces a "very grave crisis."

"None in this country can tell the trend of the battle for Britain, he said, because information from belligerents comes through officially-controlled communiques.

Similarity Of Names In City Court Cases

Members of the family of Hermon Cannon explained this morning that he was not the Cannon convicted in City court Monday on charges of being drunk and disorderly, but was the defendant acquitted of charges growing out of a traffic collision.

The Cannon convicted of the drunkenness charge was said to have been Henry Cannon. Both are white men and the similarity of the names caused the misunderstanding.

DINNER PLANS TAKING SHAPE

Community Tobacco Market Affair Next Week

With the announcement that the program was rapidly taking shape and that tickets for the event would go on sale tomorrow, details for the annual Community Tobacco Market dinner to be held in the college dining hall Thursday night of next week were being worked out today.

The dinner is being sponsored by the various civic and commercial organizations in the city in an effort to coordinate efforts in behalf of the Greenville market and to advertise more effectively the advantages offered by the mart here.

W. T. Kyles, secretary of the committee in charge of the dinner, declared today that while the program was not complete, it would be composed strictly of local speakers who are interested in the promotion of the market as an aid not only to the tobacco industry, but to the city in general.

The Board of Directors of the Greenville Merchants Association, in regular monthly session last night, unanimously endorsed the project and called on all its members to cooperate and attend.

The Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and Junior Chamber of Commerce have voted to dispense with their regular meetings next week, all members being urged to attend the tobacco meeting.

Officials are stressing the fact, however, that the meeting is not for club members only. Every person in the city is invited. While club members will be provided tickets through their organizations, individual tickets may be had from solicitors, or from the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants Association or from the offices of either of the daily newspapers, The News Leader and The Daily Reflector.

Dozier said he directed Col. C. G. Smith, commanding officer of the 263rd Coast Artillery, National Guard, to send an officer and men to Port Royal to report to Sheriff J. E. McTeer, who had wired Gov. Burnet Maybank asking for "martial law."

Troops Stationed In Hurricane Area

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Adjutant General James C. Dozier said that National Guard troops were sent into Port Royal sound today to assist local authorities in the administration of hurricane relief and distribution of food.

CLOUDS AIDING NAZI BOMBERS

Berlin Military Sources Declare British Planes Have Been Swept from the Air Over Channel; 132 British Planes Reported Destroyed Yesterday

Berlin, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Pressing the pace set for the ultimate attempt to invade England, waves of Nazi planes from German, Dutch and Belgian bases renewed their attacks on her strategic centers today under cover of heavy clouds.

Military sources, declaring British planes have been "swept from the air" over the channel, said they expected the British air force again would be unable to prevent the German airmen from carrying out their duties.

The high command reported 132 British planes were destroyed in yesterday's general combat, but admitted the British navy was still to be encountered in the North sea.

A submarine chaser flotilla ran into a flotilla of British destroyers there yesterday, the German command reported, and forced it to retreat into the fog after a short skirmish.

"German submarines continued their task unhampered," this morning's communique said, reporting the return of one U-boat which had sunk 41,611 tons of shipping, including an 11,400-ton auxiliary cruiser.

With fog over the North sea and heavy clouds over the channel, assertedly favoring German air operations, Germans were reticent concerning the objectives assigned for the "new action" today.

But the high command's communique in general supported previous reports that the Germans yesterday hammered at airdromes and armaments plants far behind the coastal defenses and did "tremendous" damage in "the most successful" raids yet carried out against Britain.

Merchants' Board In Monthly Meet

The Board of Directors of the Greenville Merchants Association, in regular monthly meeting last night, heard a report by H. L. Ormond on the meeting of the tobacco council on the tobacco dinner to be held at the college dining room Thursday night, August 22.

Mr. Ormond assured the director that a good program was being arranged and urged all to attend the meeting.

A report was made by the Advertising committee on work done in connection with Dollar Day to be observed tomorrow.

The question of employers and employees parking on the main streets and thereby depriving some would-be shopper of space was brought up again and it was decided to make another appeal that side streets and parking lots be used by employees and employers to leave more space for shoppers.

The association voted to cooperate with the baseball club in distributing "Caliguiri Night" baseball tickets. The program will be held at Guy Smith park tomorrow night when the Greensies meet Tarboro in a double-header.

15 In Jail Awaiting Trial Week Of 26th

All persons held in jail pending disposition of their cases in County court were tried at yesterday's session of that tribunal, leaving the county jail population composed only of defendants awaiting trial in Superior court and those serving terms.

Savannah Feels Hurricane's Strength

An idea of the tremendous task the city of Savannah, Ga., pitched into after the hurricane can be gleaned from the scene above. After the storm it was a jungle of twisted, shattered trunks, limbs and debris, with workmen swarming to the job of clearing it all away.

Nazi Parachutes Found In Midlands Of England

London, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Seventeen parachutes bearing German markings were found today in Midland villages as the Ministry of Home Security appealed to the public to report urgently any information they may have about parachute troops landing in England.

Police and home guards stopped all traffic in the area where the parachutes were found.

A farmer who found several of them said he could locate no trace of any men near them.

"The Midlands is England's great industrial area and a few parachute troops might be able to conduct extensive sabotage there."

He died at the United States Veterans hospital in Columbia, S. C., late last night after a two weeks' illness.

He was with the North Carolina Department of Labor as chief inspector in 1933 and 1934, after which he became North Carolina Service Officer with headquarters in Charlotte. During his tenure of this office he had much to do with the securing of the veterans hospital for Fayetteville.

Mr. Lang went with the Wage-Hour division January 15, 1939, first going to Washington for an extensive training course, after which he was placed in charge of organization inspection work of the division for the southern states, with headquarters in Atlanta. After completing his duties there, he was transferred to Charlotte as acting regional director.

He served in this capacity until Major A. L. Fletcher left Washington to take charge of the offices June 1, and then was transferred to Columbia as supervising inspector in charge of the offices there.

Given Permission To Operate Tours

Notice has been received here by Dink James, attorney for the concern involved, that the Interstate Commerce Commission has awarded to Paul T. Ricks of this city a franchise to operate special educational and scenic tours originating within a radius of 60 air miles of Greenville.

The franchise permits the local man to operate tours throughout the Atlantic seaboard states, going as far west as Tennessee and West Virginia. All tours must originate within the 60-mile radius, however. Hearing on the application was first heard on December 5, 1938, and protests were made by the various bus and railroad lines operating in the territory affected, who claimed that the service was not needed. The commission held, however, that the service was of public convenience and necessity, however, as Mr. Ricks had developed a special type of business which did not interfere with other common carriers.

Axis Powers Attacked By RAF Planes

Swarms Of German Fighter Planes Continue Relentless Raids Over English Coast Despite Murky Skies; Britain Strikes Back In Engagements From North Sea To Africa

London, Aug. 14.—(AP) Armadas of diving and fighting German planes, 300 of them swarming over the southeast coast alone, renewed the relentless prelude of invasion of England in murky skies today, as Britain struck back at the axis powers in engagements from the North sea to Africa.

Fleet bombardments of Italian troops in far off Somaliland, bombing of industrial cities in Italy and a battle in the North sea were evidence of her efforts to take the initiative of war afield even while on defense at home.

Authorities sought to round up the users of German parachutes, apparently those of regular Nazi pilots whose planes were shot down. The parachutes were found in the heart of the industrial Midlands.

Masses of German planes dived on balloon barrages and were engaged by British fighters and terrific fire of anti-aircraft batteries.

One furious 90-minute battle ended about noon after a great wave of 80 bombers, protected by fast pursuit planes, lost themselves behind banks of clouds long enough to get inland where they dropped bombs.

Many of the explosives were declared to have fallen harmlessly on farm lands.

Another battle among 150 planes was fought on the south coast with British and German craft so closely mixed it was impossible for ground observers to tell friend from foe.

Here a lightship was attacked and sunk.

At least one barrage balloon was shot down on the southeast coast and several were ripped away and sent crashing on the south coast.

At least 10 German planes were unofficially reported down in the various battles, bringing to 275 the German losses since Germany launched her major attack last Thursday.

The din of battle came as the military correspondent of Reuters news agency declared, "all reports confirm that the present German tactics against Britain are similar to those preliminary which were so successful against Poland."

Churches' Council Sponsoring Study

Durham, Aug. 14.—The first in a series of regional rural study conferences under the sponsorship of the North Carolina Council of Churches opened in the Snow Hill Methodist church today, beginning at ten o'clock. Representatives of all denominations were invited to study together the problems of the rural churches in Johnston, Wayne, Lenoir, Jones, Carter, Pamlico, Craven, Greene, Wilson and Pitt counties. Both ministers and laymen are participating in the deliberations.

The World war draft law covered men between 16 and 45.

Local Man Injured In Serious Wreck

Harold Scott was injured, but not as seriously as at first believed, when the automobile he was driving on the Greenville-Belvoir highway and a laundry truck were involved in a collision about 6 o'clock last night.

According to State Highway Corporal C. R. Williams, Scott was driving along the highway when a laundry truck being operated by James Burley Smith of Winterville, route one, turned out of a side road and crashed with the Scott automobile almost head-on. Both vehicles were badly damaged, the automobile having been almost demolished.

Scott was taken to the hospital where at first it was feared he may have been dangerously injured. Dr. J. L. Winstead reported this morning, however, that the man was not as badly hurt as at first believed, although his condition was still serious. He suffered injuries to the back and head, of which x-rays have been taken.

Smith suffered minor cuts and bruises. He is charged with reckless driving.

Scott was said to have been on his way to his home, where he was to have been joined by a brother before proceeding to Rocky Mount.

LAURELS FOR THE RUNNER-UP
A great track athlete at a preparatory school recently did something which pleased his companions very much—he slowed down on the home stretch and let a puny little fellow, who had no chance to win the race, come in first and by so doing get his letter.

Do you recall what the Good Samaritan did after he had poured oil into the wounds of the man he found lying along the roadside? He put him on his own beast and brought him to an inn. He might have stayed on the beast of his and ridden by, saying to himself that it was an outrage the way decent citizens were treated on the Jericho road and that the officers of the law ought to do something about it. But he didn't do that. He got down off his own beast and gave himself sacrificially to a man in desperate need.

Few people have the courage to dismount from a privilege and let others ride for a while. Once we have privileges we want to hold to them forever and we distrust as bolsheviks any who question our right to ride all the time. To relinquish a privilege is to lose face and to lose face is to lose all and to lose all is to lose.

It was because his spirit was so unusual that everyone was pleased with the track athlete who slowed down and let the puny little chap behind him win his letter.

Hi-Way Hints

If you drink, don't drive. If you drive, don't drink.

If we look down, then our shoulders stoop. If our thoughts look down, our character bends. It is only when we hold up our heads that our body becomes erect. It is only when our thoughts go up that our life becomes upright.—A. MacKenzie.

PEOPLE WANT DEFENSE, NOT WAR

A financial authority recently made this significant observation: "Let us be on guard against the building of a war hysteria. Let us keep it clearly in mind that what we are talking about is defense and not going to war. This is the time for clear thinking rather than emotional thinking."

The standard polls indicate that while the American people are almost unanimously in favor of adequate preparedness, they are also overwhelmingly opposed to belligerent participation in the European slaughter.

Industry does not want war because, if for no higher reason, it knows from its experience in the last World

Get Out Of Our Way

War that it results in ruinous taxation and depression. It will do all in its power to avoid war—even while it does all in its power to make our defenses so strong that all aggressors will hesitate at bringing war to us.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Things a young man learns about the capital—but not by looking at buildings:

The high government officials are not always trying to throw a smoke screen over "the other fellow's point of view . . . sometimes bend over backwards not to be. When Cordell Hull issued a statement recently on the Havana conference (outlining many dangers by which he believed this hemisphere beset) he had it ready two days before release and asked newspapers to hold it so it would not conflict with report of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's radio address expressing views just opposite to those held by the administration. (Note: Pessimists said phooey. . . Mr. Hull did not want to take any of the play away from Gen. John J. Pershing's speech which was much more in line.)

That those long-winded congressional committee hearings and equally long-winded debates on the senate floor (debate in the house is limited and representatives have to take to the radio if they want to spout at length) are not just for blowing off steam. They are the lodestones by which lawmakers test public reaction. Often bills that start out as if they are going through without a hitch turn up on the floor in an entirely altered form as committee hearings result in an overwhelming public reaction.

How Lobbies Work

That lobbyists are a recognized part of our form of law-making in spite of the stigma attached to the title because of the graft and abuses through the years. Often it is the man or group that hires the lobbyist who is balked. Many lobbyists carry no weight whatever are considered pests.

The most effective lobbies are the pressure-from-home lobby and the society lobby. Observers agree that the latter doesn't carry the weight it used to when society meant more in American life. But the top-notch and hard system still works well in some cases. The pressure-from-home method is probably tops. A representative or senator pays more attention to mail and telegrams from his constituents than to anything else. After all they are the ones who butter his bread. The flaw in the pressure-from-home lobby is that a lot of senators and representatives are taken to checking up on the senders of said telegrams and letters and woe be the legislation that is to be balked or put over if the senders are discovered to be phony.

Those Speeches You Hear

That the speeches delivered by government officials, members of congress, administration, bankers and administration agencies frequently are not written by the men who deliver them. Delivering a speech is one thing but writing it is another. Often good speakers lack the knack of setting them down. Sometimes pressure of business prevents a man devoting time to writing a speech. In nearly all instances the speaker confers with the authors, give them an outline of their ideas and let it go at that.

That President Roosevelt issues some of his most important stories for Monday morning newspapers when news is dull. Stories issued then almost invariably will get a good play. Other political leaders have discovered this, too, with the result that Monday morning news is not nearly as dull as it used to be.

Short Shots

Raleigh, Aug. 14.—Municipal employees in North Carolina who belong to the North Carolina National Guard should derive great comfort from a ruling the Attorney General has just handed down emphasizing the fact that towns and cities undoubtedly have the right to grant leaves with pay to all guardsmen when called to the field for active duty.

"This applies to employees working by the hour, unless they are only occasional or casual employees," he wrote.

"A city would be justified in taking a liberal attitude toward leaves of absence of members of the National Guard who are called into service at this time for the regular training period and no justifiable criticism could be made for liberal treatment of city employees called into service in the National Guard."

Cavey-enthusiastic advertisers were warned not to misuse the national or state flag, in another ruling of the Attorney General: "Desecration of, or marking on for advertising purposes, or attaching advertising matter to either the American or North Carolina flag is made unlawful by statute in this state," wrote Harry McMullan in a communication to the Continental Display Advertising Company.

Piquant Miss Mary Graham Croom, information chief of the Capitol, is getting ready for the "draft."
"If all the good men have to go into the army, I'm going too," she declares.

Expansion of the vocational edu-national defense activities is likely to be so great that additional office space will have to be made available here in Raleigh for additional aides to T. E. Broxton, director of the Vocational Education division.

Governor Clyde Hoey conferred with Mr. Browne and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde Erwin Tuesday about this prospective expansion.
Mr. Browne, incidentally, says that he is "excited" about "more money than I ever heard of"—meaning the proposed congressional appropriation of $150,000,000 for the vocational education training program.

North Carolinians enlisted for the navy recently are doing well in service, your reporter learns from the recruiting office here.

William Carl Norris, seaman, second class, of Whiteville who enlisted here on June 12 has been selected as the honor man of his platoon of 70 at the Naval Training station, Norfolk, Va. He was chosen as the outstanding recruit of his company.

The navy, incidentally, is relaxing none of its rigid requirements, according to the recruiting officers here. The service does not propose to be made the dumping grounds for men with prison or juvenile delinquency records.

"In order that the efficiency of the navy may be unimpaired, it is vital that only young men of the highest type physically, mentally and morally, be accepted for service," said an officer here quoting a recent statement of Secretary Knox. "The navy is having no difficulty obtaining men of this high type."

The first U. S. census in 1790 showed a population of nearly 4,000,000—considerably less than the present population of New York City.

Eight presidents of the United States did not veto a single bill, but Grover Cleveland vetoed 301.

Peak Of Mount Mitchell Is Virtually Inaccessible

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, Aug. 14.—Every geography class in the United States learns early that Mount Mitchell is the highest peak east of the Mississippi river.

What every geography class doesn't learn, but what everybody trying to get there finds to his confusion and dismay is that Mount Mitchell's peak is still almost as inaccessible as Greenland's icy mountains or India's coral strands to the American without bus fare to get down town. It seems passing strange that the State of North Carolina, which is spending approximately $100,000 a year for the specific purpose of advertising its scenic wonders to prospective visitors hasn't done something about it.

Mount Mitchell is definitely a natural attraction. It is equally definite a thing to be shunned as the plague by any except mountain goats.

Your Raleigh reporter speaks with authority as a recent pilgrim who made a twisting, tortuous trip over the vilest of vile mountain trails—menaceously called a road by map makers and a few sadistic souls who splot over the sufferings of others.

On his recent vacation, this correspondent was beguiled into driving toward the top of Mitchell via the Blue Ridge Parkway and the state-maintained pig track of some six miles which turns off from the Parkway and meanders onward and upward. He got as far as Camp Alice where he was beamingly informed that he could go on still farther and descend on the Burnsville side, but the informant slyly added "It's about twenty miles down that way and worse than the road you came up."

The possibility of there being any "worse" was greatly doubted, but the warning was heeded and your reporter backtracked down the way he had gone up.

It's distinctively a one-way affair though used for two-way traffic. The bottom has dropped out almost completely and when it's wet, as it always is near the Mitchell summit, there's nothing like it except an alligator trail through the everglades or the great dismal swamp.

Your reporter saw scores of motorists who had made the mistake of trying the trip. He heard just that many swear heartily and gushily that they were through forever with any North Carolina roads not paved and duly certified to be so.

Mount Mitchell, as it now stands is a distinct liability to the state of North Carolina. It should be the state's greatest tourist attraction. It could be with a minimum of expense and effort, your reporter is told by competent engineers who point out that there would be no real difficulty at all, and no tremendous expense in building a paved road from the Parkway right up to a point within a hundred yards of the very top. It wouldn't follow the present trail, and would be only about two miles long in place of the present six.

The Department of Conservation and Development has been plugging

Murdered

The gagged and stabbed body of Rose Lodi (above), pretty 22-year-old employe of a Springfield, Mass., match company, was found partly disrobed in a roadside thicket. Her father, Angelo Lodi, found the body in an early morning search after she failed to return home the night before.

Many Cases Tried At County Court

Continuing the steady pace set at the morning session, County court officials yesterday worked on into the afternoon and practically cleared the heavy docket, leaving only a few scattering cases for disposition.

No more County court will be held this month as two weeks of Superior court will get under way here on Monday of next week.

Eight cases were disposed of yesterday afternoon, making a total of 29 removed from the docket during the day.

George Wright, Leroy Anderson Allen Farmalee and Grant Morris, all colored, tendered pleas of guilty to having possession of and transporting illegal liquor. The court took into account the fact Hardison had been in jail for 10 days and released him upon good behavior for 12 months, while each of the other three was ordered to pay $10 to be applied on the costs of court.

Clara Little, colored, was given six months on a charge of selling liquor. She appealed and bond was set at $200.

Charlie O. Speight, white, was convicted of allowing an intoxicated person to drive his car, but judgment was continued. The defendant's driving license was suspended for 30 days.

Herbert Ross, white, was convicted of driving drunk and was fined $50, taxed with court costs and had his license revoked for 12 months.

A nol pros with leave was taken in each of the two following cases: Lendo Tyson, white, abandonment and non support, and James Sutton, white, abandonment and non support.

Two cases were continued indefinitely. They were W. A. Quinerly white, charged with giving a worthless check, and J. Preston Corey, white, driving carelessly and recklessly and failing to give proper hand signal.

away for a long time in an effort to get the State Highway Department to do something about this. Previously, your reporter has had only an academic interest in the squabble. Now he is all for immediate, decisive action to make the Mount Mitchell peak an attainable objective.

FSA Will Benefit Contractors Here

Local contractors will have the opportunity to submit bids for construction and repair of farm buildings in connection with the tenant-purchase program of the Farm Security Administration, according to a statement by Robert L. Edwards, county FSA supervisor.

"Following the approval of loans to tenant farmers in this county to buy and improve farms, invitations for bids for construction work will be issued from my office," Mr. Edwards said.

He pointed out that the individual buying a farm borrows the money to buy the farm and build his own house or make necessary repairs, but FSA helps the borrower to draw up his house plans, and assists him in letting the contract.

Invitations for bids will be issued this week for constructions and repairs on the farms of two tenant purchase borrowers of the FSA. One of these farms is located in the Belvoir section and the other near Stokes. Further information can be secured from Mr. Edwards whose office is located upstairs in the Dickinson avenue branch of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company.

Portland, Ore.—(AP)—A wrist watch owned by J. F. Cross, a baker, fell from a shirt pocket into a batch of dough and was discovered 25 minutes later sticking out of a loaf of bread. The watch, despite the 550-degree oven temperature, ticked on for seven hours and was simply repaired at a jewelry shop.

EAST PLAYGROUND NEWS
The East playground which is held at the Training school, will give their play on Thursday morning, August 15, at 10 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The children at "East" are very much interested in Indians and after a few story hours of Indian legends they decided to make this an Indian Summer. Indian folklore has been studied, bows, arrows, headgear, beads, moccasins, and Indian clothes have been designed; also wigmans of all sizes.

The children selected "Little Ugly Face," an Indian legend, for dramatization. Field trips have been taken hunting for seeds and materials useful for Indian things. This has included nature studies, as well as Indian customs.

In this play, which is rather like Cinderella, although really an old Indian legend, the children will include three Indian dances accom## panied by real Indian tom-toms loaned by Mrs. J. D. Simons.

The cast for "Little Ugly Face" is: Little Ugly Face—Sylvia Baker; First Sister—Norma Baker; Second Sister—Jenny Baker; Third Sister—Ann Duke; Fourth Sister—Barbara Willard; The Turtle—Donald Tucker; Chief of the Indians—Hubert Brown; Drummers—Rufus Starke, James Roberson, Howard Proctor; Medicine Man—Clark Davis; Indian Maidens—Nancy Proctor, Mary Ann Starke, Virginia Lee Sumrell.

The children on East playground have had their share of folk dances, games, ping pong, checkers and parchees have been very popular especially after hiking.

Miss Rachel Blanchard is director of East. She has coached softball, soccer and other games, three-legged races, potato races, folk games and dances. Miss Blanchard has a wood-carving group very keen in making book ends, door stops, attractive figures for house numbers.

Miss Lillian Cannon has been busy with Indians, also with the play.

Miss Lydia Briggs has had a most enthusiastic group of little tots, children from three and a half to six years of age. These children love stories, simple dances and games, which they have learned to play nicely, such as Teacher Ball, and Hide the Thimble. It is quite interesting to watch the social prog-

New York—"As usual," notes Abner Glib, the human stymie who unfortunately seems to have escaped his obscurity again, "you miss the point. I mean in that piece you wrote about tipping. You said you knew a waiter who bought a yacht, and another who opened his own restaurant, with the tips he had saved. I believe you. But that isn't the angle that is sapping the vitality of the caps. . . It's the dime and twenty-centers like myself who are paying through the nose, and I for one am beginning to resent it.

"There isn't a day goes by that the accumulated tips I am compelled to distribute wouldn't buy a first class—well, anyway, a very good dinner.

"Take today, for instance. The holocaust began before the sun was barely up. Being tardy for work, I decided to take a taxi from Grand Central to the office. The fare was 35c and the tip was a dime.

"Twent down to the drug store for breakfast. Almost anywhere else in the country the matter would have ended there. But in New York the tipping practice has gone to the point where even soda-jerkers' salaries are set with an allowance for prospective tips, and if you don't leave one you are likely to get a mouse in your coffee—or so is the tradition. So there was another dime gone.

"The shoe shine boy came around in the middle of the morning. A shine is a dime but you can't stop there. 'Everybody' kicks in another nickel. Total so far, 25c.

"Lunch meant another 15c. and for the day, but between the beer and the cigars I lost count. I do know that for the amount dribbled away I could have had a fine dinner in Kansas City, or Omaha, but then I was a long way from Kansas City or Omaha, and in any case I was so befuddled when I got on a home-bound bus I dropped a nickel in the slot and absently started to hand the driver a tip. It was only when he almost wrecked us that I came to my senses, and sat down."

late in the afternoon I purchased a haircut and shampoo in Manhattan that comes to $1.20. If a barber charges any less he is apt to be ostracized by his confreres or, at least, have a bomb tossed into his establishment. On a 10 per cent basis a $1.20 check calls for a 15 cent tip, but my barber announced expectantly that he was leaving for his vacation and I couldn't help giving him an extra nickel send-off.

"After that, I stopped for a glass of beer, and almost anyone can tell you, bartenders in Manhattan have developed a lovely technique. They spread the change out on the counter, and the dime they hope to get is always a little separated from the rest of your change, so that you are tempted to just ignore that dime. But at this point I staged a one-man rebellion. I picked up all the change. I imagine the bartender is still sore.

"I could go on like this for days—as for instance the extra tip for the cigart girl, who also is adept at returning change. The sad point about buying cigarets from girls with trays is that there never is any fixed price. They may be 18c; they may be 25c. They may even be 35c. Unfortunately, this girl is very pretty and appealing, and my cigarets cost me all told 27c.

"I started out to itemize all tips

Greenies Again Out-hit Foes Only To Lose Game 4-3

FALL VICTIMS TO SNOW HILL

Billies Get One In Eleventh Inning For Victory

The Wilson's Greenies last night out-hit their foes, the Snow Hill Billies, only to lose the contest in an 11-inning affair at Snow Hill.

The Greenies do not play here tonight, but will be at home in a double-header Thursday night when the local club and fans will pay honor to Freddy Caligiuri. The club management and various merchants are cooperating in the Thursday night Dollar Day program which will honor the local ace hurler.

Last night's game was a hurlers' duel between Severin for Greenville and Weeks for Snow Hill. Severin allowed nine hits, walked nine and struck out three. Weeks allowed 12 hits, walked one and struck out four, holding the edge in everything but hits allowed. Each team made a single error.

Greenville scored its three runs before the Billies got started, getting one in the third and two in the fifth. The Billies made two in the fourth and tied it up in the seventh. Neither team was able to score from then on until the last half of the eleventh inning, with one out. Weeks proved more effective in the latter part of the game and yielded only three hits after the fifth frame.

Ex-Salvation Army Lass Is Midget Auto Speed Ace

By HOLLIS GOODRICH, Jr. AP Feature Service

Portland, Ore.—Pretty Virta Warrens, 27-year-old former "Miss Portland of 1930," agrees that the woman's place is in the home, but home to her is behind the wheel of a racing automobile.

The brown-eyed darling of Pacific Northwest race tracks discarded her beauty contest bathing suit three years ago for a pair of overalls, a helmet and goggles.

She has walked home from a ride only once and that was two years ago when—lured by a driver's remark that she was taking it too slowly—she pressed the throttle to the floorboard, failed to negotiate a turn and crashed through a fence.

Miss Portland in '30
The diminutive driver—she stands only five feet, two inches and weighs slightly over 100 pounds—enjoys the dizzy whirrs around the speedway but tells adventurous young girls that driving "is inad-visible as a career."

She had been out of the Salvation Army's ranks only a short time when the judges selected her "Miss Portland of 1930." She is "still in love with the army," but only smiles when asked to tell more about falling in love with the picture of a Salvation Army captain when she was eight years old.

Nothing in her childhood pointed to a career as an automobile racing driver unless it would be the city of her birth, Garwood, Mo. But she says the town was not named after Gar Wood, the famed racing pilot.

She moved to the west coast as a child. Her teachers will tell you that she was excellent as a public speaker and was a finalist in a state oratorical tournament.

Automobiles began occupying her time in 1930. A friend, who later became her husband, operated a repair shop and she spent many hours watching him work. Occasionally she took a wrench and assisted. Now she can take a car apart and reassemble it.

Started Racing in '37
Her racing career started at the Portland speedway in 1937. Since that time she has driven "match races" in Vancouver, B. C., and Salem, Ore. She recently finished eighth in a grueling 135-mile stock car race, beating out several men drivers.

Her chief ambition now is to play the piano well, but between serving as distributor for a light car company, managing a home and keeping her automobiles in shape, she hasn't much time to further her musical ambition.

As for women drivers, she is quick to defend them, explaining that there are "some bad ones," but adding that "I've seen a lot of incompetent men drivers, too."

To women drivers she offers the following advice:
"Have confidence in your driving; relax at the wheel. Forget that your husband owns the car and that you might have to account to him for any damages. Do as he does and blame the other fellow."

This service is being provided by the baseball club for the convenience of those persons who do not wish to have to bother with exchanging the tickets after arriving at the ball park. The tickets may be exchanged at the park ticket offices, however.

A booth will be kept open at the Proctor hotel tomorrow from 10 a. m. until 12:30 p. m., and from 1:30 p. m. until 5 p. m. These tickets and the payment of a nominal service charge, will permit the bearer to the double-header, scheduled to get under way at 7:30 o'clock.

Tickets may be purchased from the various business houses in Greenville and throughout the county. They may be had at the Reflector office.

The program will be in honor of Freddy Caligiuri, ace Greenville hurler, who has been sold to the Wilmington, Del. club of the Philadelphia Athletics system.

With the special inducement in the price of tickets, 20 cents for white adults and 10 cents for children and colored fans, along with the merchant tickets, a capacity crowd is expected.

GETS TWO WINS OVER BH TEAM

Double Cola and Pepsi Cola Begin Finals Tonight

The Pepsi Cola softball team last night took a double header from the Blount-Harvey team as play in the Greenville softball play-off was resumed following the Eastern Carolina tournament, and as a result won a berth in the finals.

Double Cola previously had defeated Carolina Sales to take a place in the play-off series and the two teams will begin the championship race at Third Street park tonight.

Bowling was the mainstay in the Pepsi Cola team's double victory over the department store team. He hurled a three-hitter shut-out in the first game as his mates won 7-0 and held Blount-Harvey to four safeties in the nightcap to win 8-4.

The championship will go to the winner of four games out of a seven-game series.

Rumbling Mountain Loses Its Secret

Lake Lure, N. C.—(AP)—No longer is there any mystery about where the noises come from inside Rumbling Bald Mountain. Members of the National Speleological Society came here from Washington and explored the fissures that honey-comb the huge rock 1,000 feet above Lake Lure. They discovered that boulders weighing thousands of tons break loose from the tops of subterranean crevices and thunder down to the bottom of a cave. The society is a group of amateur cave explorers and mapmakers.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The stock market recovered its balance today as steels and aircraft staged a mild upturn. A few shares got up as much as a point, but minor gains and losses were the rule as the list resumed a quiet drift after its sharp drop in the preceding session. Transactions slackened to about 250,000 shares.

Hollywood

Sights and Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood.—It's difficult to understand why Claire Trevor, on the verge of stardom so many times, never has made it. What I mean is real stardom, the kind that Irene Dunne, Claudette Colbert and a few others enjoy—the kind that Claire Trevor has earned.

She was there, for sure, after "Stagecoach," but nothing much happened. Before "Stagecoach," her Franchyse in "Dead End" raised her from "rating as Queen of the B's." Those pictures stand out in memory, looking back over a career that has been for the most part B-ish.

It may be that she's too good-natured for real stardom. Right now, she's busy being Mrs. Clark Andrews (he's a radio executive) and doing her weekly air show with Don Ameche. She looks over scripts for movies, and once in a while she lets herself be talked into doing one—but not since "Stagecoach" has she had the sort of role she really likes.

"I've done all the wisecracking secretaries in the book," she puts it. "The role is fairly standardized now, and what can you do with it? Then there are the walk-through-the-picture heroines. No more of those for Trevor, either. I'm going to play nothing except parts I can get really excited about."

But that was the way she felt last Christmas when they wanted her for "The Dark Command." If you saw it, you know it wasn't a Trevor part; it was a role any blonde (or a girl with green hair for that matter) could have done. Just the nice girl who quarreled with the hero and married the wrong man and finally saw the light. It didn't need the distinctive, husky Trevor voice; it didn't need even an actress, when you get down to it. So Claire read it, and said no.

They said, wouldn't she just come to a story conference and talk about it? So she went, determined to be firm, and left with her name on a contract.

There's little that's more discouraging (unless it's being outside pictures entirely when you want to be in) than status as Queen of the B's. Claire flew out from a stage play with a contract for her first roll with George O'Brien in "Life in the Raw." There was "The Mad Game" with Spencer Tracy, and then a ceaseless procession of B's—comedy, melodrama, sob-stuff and baths. The Trevor B's always had something, which was mainly Trevor. I suspect, for the girl's fan mail grew and it keeps coming. Its tone, frequently, is one of fanatic loyalty. Once, in days when Claire cared more about the career business, she thought she had an A-part. She was dressed for a dinner date when the studio called about this "big opportunity" in an A. She rushed over. The "big opportunity" was a minor role in "Second Honeymoon" with Ty Power and Loretta Young—a part that required only a girl who knew how to stand around. No other girl was available, and Trevor was goodnatured. She took it. The big chance came later when she was borrowed for "Dead End," and there have been nothing but A's (in budget at least) ever since. Still, she hasn't won what she's earned—grade-A stardom.
