BERLIN AND LONDON SUBJECTED TO AIR ATTACKS

ARMY IS READY FOR BUILDING LARGER FORCE

Mobilization of Guard To Inaugurate First Phase

CONSCRIPTION LAW AWAITED

Tentative Plans Call For Young Men To Be Called To Be Determined By National Drawing

Washington, Aug. 29. (AP)—The army was ready with tentative timetables and plans today to start building the largest peacetime force in the nation's history.

An order from President Roosevelt for the progressive mobilization of the National Guard would start the program through its first phase.

House passage of the conscription bill, approved last night by the Senate, would clear the way for the second part of the program.

The Guard mobilization, army officers told Congress, was an essential preliminary to the training of conscripts.

Assuming a presidential order is forthcoming, tentative plans provide for calling up the first contingent of 55,000 guardsmen for a year's training on September 15 and 165,000 more by December 1, giving a total of 220,000.

If conscription is enacted the plan tentatively is to have 400,000 conscripts start their year's service by the end of December, another 400,000 on April 1, 1941, and similar half-yearly increments until October 1, 1944.

The date of the first conscription would depend on how soon the bill is approved.

Senator Minton (D-Ind.) gave the Senate the schedule recommended by a joint army and navy committee.

This schedule provides that 15 days after conscription becomes law some 12,000,000 young men from 21 through 30, must go to their local voting places and register.

Registration over local boards provided for in the law would take up the classification and selection, assigning to each registrant a serial number chosen by lot.

A national drawing of several numbers would then be held and the sequence in which the numbers drawn would determine the order in which each man was subject to call for possible service.

Nicotine Content Of Weed Reduced

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 29.—(AP)—A type of tobacco that looks, smells and tastes like burley, but is almost completely free from nicotine has been developed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment station here.

The new type, according to the chemistry department of the University of Kentucky, with which the experiment station is connected, contains an average of about two-tenths of one per cent nicotine.

Ordinary burley, the department reported, contains about two per cent, while dark tobacco, such as that grown in western Kentucky, averages from three to four per cent and runs as high as seven per cent.

The development of this low nicotine leaf is accomplished by plant breeding and the crossing of types of tobacco in experiments begun in 1935 under direction of Dr. W. D. Valleau, the station's plant pathologist.

Station experts said that if a demand were shown for the new plant hundreds of thousands of pounds could be produced annually just as cheaply as any other type of tobacco.

Still Time To Visit Local W-L Plant

It is not too late for local residents to take advantage of the opportunity to visit their water and light plant, although most of the formal dedication exercises were completed during the day.

Martin Swartz, superintendent, called attention to the fact that an open house would be observed until 10 o'clock tonight and urged all local citizens to visit their water and light plant, to which extensive additions and improvements have recently been completed.

Ice cream and lemonade will be served to visitors and commission officials are anxious for as many as possible to visit the plant.

J. M. Broughton Speaks On Program Dedicated New Municipal Projects

Conscription Heat

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley (D-Ky.), who has been driving the Senate toward a final decision on the peacetime conscription bill, wipes his face as he rests for a few minutes in the Senate cloakroom, Washington, during a wearying 11 1/2 hour session. Even as Barkley took time out here the Senate neared a showdown vote on the bitterly contested measure.

Permanent Improvements, Including City Hall, Fire Station And Water And Light Plant Improvements, Costing Three Quarters Of A Million Dollars Dedicated

Greenville's three-quarters of a million dollars worth of permanent improvements recently completed were officially dedicated this morning at exercises at the new Municipal building with Hon. J. M. Broughton, Democratic nominee for Governor, as the principal speaker. The exercises were followed by a barbecue luncheon at the Armory, followed by an inspection of the Water and Light plant during the early afternoon.

Declaring that America was the last citadel of democracy where there was free speech, freedom of the press and religious liberty, Mr. Broughton expressed delight that Americans enjoyed a government that was interested in the welfare of all its people. He pointed out that the laws of America were not the edicts of one person or a small group of persons, but represented the wishes of the majority of all the people. Since the American form of government is a government by the people, he urged that every citizen exercise that greatest of all rights and privileges of citizenship by having a voice in the government.

COX TAKES UP OFFICIAL DUTY

Named By Board To Fill Register Of Deeds Term

Roy T. Cox, who has spent his early life in the Winterville community, one of the most widely known men in the county and who has been in public office most of the past 10 or 12 years, today was sworn in as Register of Deeds of Pitt county.

Mr. Cox was appointed to the post by the County Board of Commissioners in a special session this morning called for the purpose of filling the vacancy caused by the death Tuesday morning of J. H. Manning.

Mr. Cox will fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Manning, who in turn was filling the unexpired term of the late J. C. Gaskins. Mr. Manning had served as chief deputy under Mr. Gaskins. Following the death of Mr. Gaskins on January 28 of this year, Mr. Manning was named to fill the unexpired term.

Mr. Cox is the democratic nominee for the regular four-year term beginning in December of this year.

The new Register of Deeds declared that he planned no immediate changes in the personnel of the office since he is filling out an unexpired term.

Miss Rose Gurganus and Mrs. Virginia Braxton at present are employed in the office.

Mr. Cox was educated in the Winterville schools and Wake Forest College.

After serving for four or five years he resigned from the County Board of Education in December, 1932, to take a seat on the County Board of Commissioners, a post to which he was named in the preceding election. He served on the Board of Commissioners from December, 1932, until December, 1938, and was chairman from 1934 to 1937.

Mr. Cox will serve by appointment until December, when he will be sworn in for the regular four-year term.

$500,000 Required To Repair Damage

Raleigh, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Costs of modernizing and repairing a flood-damaged fill and bridge on route 17 near Williamston was placed by Chief Highway W. Vance today at between $450,000 and $500,000.

Baise made the estimate after completing an inspection tour of the fill. He said it took him four hours to travel four miles "on foot" and in boats.

The engineer said that approximately two-third of the pavement was washed out of place and that the remaining one-third was so badly undermined that it could not be salvaged.

A crew of highway workers was immediately put to work breaking up all the pavement.

Baise said that approximately a third of the fill was washed away. Under present plans the height of the fill will be raised three feet and widened from 26 to 34 feet before the new pavement is laid, he added.

Work on the link may not be completed for five or six months, Baise continued.

Norwegian Royalty Finds Haven Here

Princess Harald, 3-year-old heir to the Norwegian throne, tugs at his mother, Crown Princess Martha, as they enter the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York after their arrival with some 800 American refugees aboard the U. Contract Placed For U. S. Planes

Washington, Aug. 29.—(AP)—An agreement was reached between the navy and United Aircraft Corporation today for the manufacture of 17,000 airplane engines for both the army and navy at a cost of $160,000,000.

Announcing the agreement at a press conference, Secretary Knox said that it had the full approval of the War Department and would cover the entire requirements of both army and navy from United Aircraft for the 1941 and 1942 fiscal years.

A formal contract covering the agreement, Knox said, will be negotiated as soon as funds are provided in the $5,088,000,000 defense appropriation bill pending in Congress.

Meanwhile, Knox said, United Aircraft will proceed immediately with a $2,500,000 expansion of its plant at Hartford, Conn.

Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics, added that the navy would purchase and retain title to $7,000,000 worth of machine tools to equip the expanded plant.

The agreement for the production of Pratt and Whitney engines by United Aircraft—constituting the largest engine order ever made under the defense program—was announced yesterday that it had signed contracts for 850 training planes and 20 transport ships to cost $14,410,000.

TOBACCO SEED LAW IN FORCE

Farmers Warned Not To Let Seed Get To Exporters

Congressman John H. Kerr of the Second Congressional district, in a letter to B. S. Sugg, president of the Eastern Carolina Warehousemen Association, today outlined provisions of a new law prohibiting the exportation of tobacco seed from the flue-cured area to any foreign country.

Rep. Kerr attached a section of the law which makes the prohibition and commented "I am satisfied that you agree with me that this racket which enables the exporters to get seed from the farmers and send them throughout the world is rapidly destroying our export market and everyone interested in the tobacco industry of the country should see that these farmers do not give these seed to exporters or their agents."

The measure, sponsored by Congressman Kerr and Senator Byrd of Virginia, provides a penalty of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment for one year, or both, for the sale or gift of American tobacco seed for export to foreign countries.

Tobacco growers are warned not to dispose of seed to those who obtain them for export purposes. This was declared to be important not only because it is a violation of federal law, but because every pound of seed sent to foreign countries means the loss of that much business for the American farmer.

Mr. Sugg said that he was requesting association members to post notices of the law in every warehouse in the section.

WORK STARTED ON DRAFT BILL BY COMMITTEE

Supporters Optimistic as Battle Shifts To House

HOUSE TO OPEN DEBATE TUESDAY

Bill Passed By Senate Substantially Same Version As Recommended By Committee

Washington, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The House Military committee approved today a Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill calling for drafting of men from 21 to 44 years of age, inclusive—a much wider age range than that provided in the bill which the Senate passed last night.

The House committee acted quickly after Senate passage on a 58 to 31 vote so that its version of the legislation might be brought to the floor Tuesday for possible final House passage late next week.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) said the House committee vote approving the bill was 20 to four.

At one point, May said, there was some discussion of a proposal to make the registration and conscription age brackets conform to those of the Senate's 21 through 30 years, but the matter never came to a vote.

After three weeks of stormy and often bitter debate, the Senate gave its approval to conscription last night at the close of a tense nine-hour session.

The bill passed was substantially unchanged in its essentials from the version originally recommended by the Senate Military committee. One major addition would give the government the power to "conscript industry for defense if necessary."

The victory of peace-time conscription in the Senate was expected to hasten the action of the House Military committee on a somewhat different version of the Burke-Wadsworth bill which it is considering.

House debate is tentatively scheduled to start Tuesday and forecasts were that it would consume at least four days. Proponents of conscription were optimistic that the bill would be passed and opponents of the measure privately conceded that chances of defeating it were slim.

The bill as passed by the Senate contains the following major provisions:

1. All male citizens or prospective citizens from 21 through 30 would be required to register, with few exceptions.

2. Registered men would be subject to call for a year's compulsory military service.

3. The men called for service would be selected in an "impartial manner" and in such numbers as the President specifies. The maximum number of trainees at any one time is limited to 900,000.

Wallace was designated several weeks ago to carry the brunt of the speech-making in the democratic campaign after President Roosevelt said the international situation would keep him close to Washington this fall.

Democratic party officials said they were preparing for a crowd of 10,000 for the notification ceremonies. The 30-minute acceptance address is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p. m.

RADIO STATION IS DEDICATED

Formal Opening Featured By Series Of Short Talks

Radio station WGTC held its formal opening this afternoon at exercises presided over by Carl Goerch, radio commentator and magazine publisher of Raleigh.

The program included talks by a number of prominent local men. Among those speaking were J. H. Rose, past state commander of the American Legion; J. S. Picklen, past president of the Tobacco Association of the United States; Senator-Elect J. C. Lanier and Representative-Elect S. O. Worthington and Dr. W. I. Wooten.

The program was opened with a solo by Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, accompanied by Mrs. G. V. Smith.

Congressman Lindsay Warren was scheduled to have delivered the principal address at the dedication exercises, but wired that he would be unable to be here since the Senate had passed the compulsory military training act and sent it to the House.

The local radio station has the tallest tower, 309 feet, of any in Eastern Carolina. Seven and one-half miles of wire are underground about the tower and two and one-half miles of conduit are in the station itself. The studio is completely sound-proof, with walls having been erected in walls. The studio is one of the most modern in the state and has been compared with the best in the south.

Although not the formal opening exercises, the station this afternoon presented the Brown family of Snow Hill, members of which attended the World's fair as the typical North Carolina family.

Five Workers Die In Oklahoma Blast

Buffalo, Okla., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Five men were injured fatally and 10 others burned in a thunderous explosion at a nearby Phillips Petroleum Company pipeline project last night just 10 minutes after the men had accepted temporary jobs.

Company officials worked on a theory that a blow-torch being used in repairing a leak touched off the blast.

Ten horses also perished. The animals, as they died in the flames, made "the most terrifying sound I ever heard," said Clyde Storer, 45, one of the four men who suffered critical burns in fleeing the scene.

Storer, who had gone to the scene in search of work, was only 100 yards away when the pipeline blew up. A wall of flame swept across the sagebrush in the field.

"I turned and ran out of danger, then looked back," he related. "There was a great cloud of smoke and men were running madly out of it."

British Naval Base Of Portsmouth Reported Left Sea Of Flames; Untold Numbers Killed and Fires Set In Both Capitals; Italy Reports Bombing Of Suez Canal

German dive bombers smashed at Britain's great naval base of Portsmouth and reportedly left it "a sea of flames" today after a night of double-barreled terror for 12,000,000 civilians in the fiercest air raids of the war over London and Berlin.

Untold numbers were killed and great fires set by incendiary bombs blazed in both capitals.

In a single London district more than 65 fire bombs fell amid tightly jammed rows of houses as a succession of Nazi raiders pounded the metropolis for seven hours and 10 minutes the fifth straight night of attack on London and the longest sustained attack of the war.

British Royal Air Force bombers struck back with a three-hour attack on Berlin before dawn, raining high explosives and incendiary bombs within two miles of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's chancellery and taking a toll of 10 known dead and 30 injured.

Roof fires were reported in many sections of the German capital. Craters 10 feet wide and five feet deep, yawning in street pavement blasted out by 100-pound bombs.

In one London section four members of a family who had taken refuge in an underground shelter were killed when a bomb scored a direct hit and blew it out of the ground.

The semi-official British press association, taking note of the wholesale use of fire bombs, called the raid "the most venomous attack of the war against Britain" and accused Hitler of sending his "fire raiders to scatter their incendiaries indiscriminately" against "towns, villages and open heaths."

Censorship kept secret the number of British casualties and the official statement was only that there were "some deaths."

The Italian high command meanwhile reported that Fascist planes bombed the Suez canal—Britain's vital lifeline to her Far East colonies—for the first time in the war.

DNB, official German news agency, said a surprise attack on an airport near Portsmouth on the English southwest coast turned the Royal Air Force base into a "desert full of craters."

During the game punch was served, and at the conclusion of the game, the hostess, assisted by Miss Helen Foley, served an ice course with mints and nuts.

High score was won by Mrs. Jack Powell and the floating prize went to Miss Isabelle Whitehurst. Library News

Pitt county has had excellent library service for the past year. Sheppard Memorial Library has served as a center, with Ayden, Bethel and Winterville public libraries, and the Carver Memorial Library (colored) at Greenville, as units.

This system, the central library and four units, now shows a total registration of 6,232 active readers. The total book stock for the system is 11,898 volumes; 8,466 volumes are in the adult section and 3,342 are for children. Each book in the library was read nine times last year. Since some reference material is not read as a whole this means that many popular books were read as many as 40 times during the year, more than once each week. Such an intensive use means heavy wear; 895 books were too much worn for further use and were discarded. A larger number will be discarded next year. One book for five people is not enough.

A total of 109,017 books and magazines, with a corsage of white bride's ties for outside reading last year. By count each registered member read 16 books, each resident of the county read two books.

Thirteen per cent of the circulation was non-fiction; 54 per cent fiction, and 33 per cent children's books. In this item Pitt county is far ahead of the national average which shows that about 25 per cent of the total circulation is from the junior department. This lead in junior reading is very encouraging to those who are interested in a continuing library service for the county. A junior book stock of 3,342 books and a circulation record of 32,274! Some popular books were read at least 100 times during the year. The number of books for juniors in Sheppard Memorial Library was 101 less at the close of the year than at the beginning. They just "wear 'em out" faster than we can "buy 'em." The library staff realizes that much of this children's reading is due to the excellent work of the city and county schools in which these children are enrolled.

Much of the routine work for this service was done by government workers. WPA and NYA officials are very helpful in an advisory capacity and in placing in the libraries, particularly the units, the best of their workers. In the libraries these workers serve their home county, acquire skill and training, fitting them for private employment, and profit by the small financial return.

For the coming year the board of Sheppard Memorial Library hopes that citizens of Pitt county, by ever-growing numbers, will think of their library as an integral part of their lives; realizing in their reading not only the pleasure and relaxation from leisurely books but also the opportunity given here for self-education through guided reading.

DO YOU WANT JOB AS GHOST CHASER?

If So, It Appears Many Greenvillians Will Hire You

A good job is waiting for somebody who can drive ghosts from haunted houses. T. Y. Walker, manager of the Pitt Theatre, who has been advertising a "ghost" show in the newspapers, was astonished to find that numerous people are taking him seriously and are asking whether he would rid their places of ghosts. One elderly woman even asked him how much he charged for exterminating. "We had many telephone calls during the past two days," Lucille

FALSE TEETH THAT LOOSEN NEED NOT EMBARRASS

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little PASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hoks false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get PASTEETH at any drug store.—(Adv.)

HOPE TO LIGHT MOST OF STATE

Plan To Run Power Lines In Darkest N. C. Counties

By HENRY AVERILL
 Raleigh, Aug. 29.—There are under way active plans for lighting up the third of North Carolina's counties now the darkest.

Statistics in the state Rural Electrification Authority office show that the 33 counties ranking lowest have only 1,804.26 miles of line, or less than one-sixth as many as the top 33 counties, in which there are 13,862.50 miles of line carrying current from central service stations. In all, there are 21,195.39 miles in the state.

This low third—the dark and forgotten counties has an even smaller percentage of the state's 115,137 customers; but in practically all of them some plan for increasing mileage and customers is being studied.

In a few, there is little that can be done because of the geography of the case. For example, New Hanover county is listed in the lower third; but only because of its very limited area. Its 30-45 miles of rural line couldn't be extended very much if wire were strung along every highway.

Others are in somewhat the same case. Camden and Currituck are small, with no chance for extensive rural lines; Pasquotank is similar and is reasonably well electrified on percentage of possible customers. Jones, Dare and Hyde are fairly large counties, but with much of their area in undeveloped land and with few roads.

Cherokee, Jackson, Swain, Clay and Macon are in the area which is expected to be "lighted up" through the two big private power projects now in process of development.

Bertie, Gates, Perquimans, Chowan, and Hertford will profit from the new Halifax cooperative. Other coops will take care of Carteret, Fancye, McDowell, Richmond, Scotland, Person, Brunswick, Montgomery, Mitchell, Clay, Madison, Hoke, Avery. The FSA has a project for Tyrrell.

Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

By VIRGINIA VAN UPP
 Paramount Contract Writer
 (Narrated for vacationing Robbin Coons)

Hollywood.—There's no more annoying and dangerous a pest in the world than a match-maker. They always bring the wrong people together, and generally the reason they're match-makers is because they're frustrated themselves and live and love vicariously through their insistence on bringing other men and women together, and hang the result.

So since an interviewer has called me a literary match-maker I feel justified in defending myself.

In the first place, look at the people I've brought together. In "Pursuit of Happiness," Francis Lederer and Joan Bennett. Remember them in the "bundling" scene? They didn't look exactly unhappy about it, either one of them. In "Swing High Swing Low," Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray. What man would object to being brought together with Carole Lombard? And what girl wouldn't give her eyes—well, a back one anyway, to be married off to Fred MacMurray? In "Cafe Society" and "Honeymoon in Bali," Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray.

Lives there a man with soul so dead that to himself he hasn't said I'd rather be shipwrecked on a desert island with Madeleine Carroll than with any other woman in the world? And again, there's that MacMurray guy. They're being teamed again in "Virginia," which Edward H. Griffith has been producing and directing right in Virginia, so in this case certainly, the matchmaking was a successful one. An enviable one, from almost any viewpoint.

(Editor's Note: Virginia Van Upp authored both "Honeymoon in Bali" and "Virginia.")

Forgetting that the characters are

Star Warehouse No. 1

Greenville points with pride to the long terms of residency of its warehousemen. Many of them are sons of Pitt county, the others have made this city their homes for periods of time ranging from twenty years upward. Notable among these are Guy V. Smith and B. B. Sugg, operating the Smith and Sugg, or Star warehouses No. 1 and No. 2. Both were born in the county; Mr. Smith at Falkland and Mr. Sugg in Greenville, and both chose tobacco as their life occupation. They first embarked on their careers in Greenville where they have remained since they became associated with the auction sale of tobacco.

Very little can be said about either of these men that isn't already known. They have been prominent in tobacco circles and in the civic life of Greenville. Their names and reputations are known throughout Eastern Carolina. The firm name Smith and Sugg carries prestige and reflects credit on the market these two men have helped build. The played by such attractive people as Madeleine and Fred, if you can, the characters themselves are and must be attracted to each other, and so right for each other that the audience must be rooting from the beginning for them to get together at the finish. So in the creation of these characters, they must be shaped with an eye to complementing each other.

Physically, chemically, mentally, they must have such a strong pull toward each other that conflict must be devised to keep them apart for the needed number of reels. Generally it's more interesting if the conflict is in the nature of the characters themselves, if at least one of them needs to be taught a lesson and slapped down before they finally coincide in viewpoint to the place where you are satisfied that prominent part they have taken in its development dates back nearly three decades; theirs is the oldest warehouse firm in Greenville, and all during the years when they have been devoting their time and interest to the market of their choice they have been laying the foundation of one of the strongest and best established businesses in the Eastern belt. Their ideas and principles of business are embodied in the words, service and courtesy and in a determination to always get the prevailing market price for every load of tobacco they sell.

The two big Smith and Sugg warehouses portray the type tobacco-conists Guy Smith and B. B. Sugg are. They are well lighted, spacious, and every convenience was included when they were built. Presenting a handsome appearance from the outside, they are also complete on the inside. The construction of the buildings, their equipment and the arrangement of the interiors were all carefully thought out and they will live happily ever after.

I like to write love stories. Certainly of the millions and millions of words that have been written since the beginning of time, more nouns, adjectives, adverbs and prepositions—that's PREPOSITIONS—have been devoted to men, women and love than anything else. It must be the most popular and interesting subject in the world. If I have been criticized by some of my fellow craftsmen for not writing "problem plays," is there any more desperate problem in the world than the right man and woman finding each other? Isn't there more unhappiness, more tragedy, insanity even, through the wrong man and woman getting together, or the right man and woman being kept apart than from any other reason?

Good things can be said about the sales forces at the Smith and Sugg warehouses. A complete roster of the personnel at these two houses is not available, but in every position, at the doors, the weighmen, the auctioneers and bookmen who follow the sale on the floor and in the office capable, alert men are employed. Each sales force is highly efficient and as a result, the sale of tobacco is a smooth operation handled by men who were each selected for the job assigned them. A tobacco grower who sells his crop with Guy Smith and B. B. Sugg may rest assured that every phase of his sale will be handled by experienced men, a factor that contributes a great deal of the market price paid.

As an added source of valuable information to the growers the firm will broadcast market reports direct from its warehouse floor each sales day from 11:45 a. m. to noon.

Plans Conference For Home Owners

Raleigh, Aug. 29.—The University of North Carolina's Extension Division will sponsor a statewide Home Owners Conference at Chapel Hill, September 17 and 18, with a view to making people conscious of the value of owning their own homes.

Subsequently Governor Clyde R. Hoey will be asked to set aside an "Own Your Own Home Week," with the same general purpose in mind. The conference is not the project of any particular group or class of home building or selling agency. It is proposed to embrace all classes of people interested.—Federal Housing Authority, building and loan groups, private contractors, real estate dealers, etc.

Outstanding experts on home planning, financing, building and operating will lecture at sessions of the conference. Seward Mott, land planning expert of the FHA will speak at the morning sessions both days; while Secretary Northrop of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association is on the program. In addition, there will be prominent speakers who are authorities on all the various phases of home ownership and planning.

Former Congressman Frank Hancock, who is now head of the FHA is expected to attend and will likely be among the most prominent of the speakers.

LABOR DAY PROGRAM AT ATLANTIC BEACH

works and dances will feature gala programs planned for the Labor Day week-end at Atlantic Beach. It has been announced by John H. Singleton, manager, who is expecting large throngs to enjoy the surf, beach, midway and casino attractions Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Of outstanding interest is the fact that the "Coquettes All-Girl orchestra, featuring Viola Smith, America's fastest girl drummer, will play for a dance in the casino Saturday night. This band is the most famous one to visit here since Paul Whiteman. It has been featured in Warner Brothers moving pictures and at many of the leading theatres and resorts of the country.

"A swing band that gets hotter than a stump fire in a hushache thicket," wrote the Houston Press. "I salute the young ladies and commend them to anybody in search of a spoonful of sassafras tea for his spirit. The band has a very professional polish." Newspaper over many states praise the orchestra.

Sunday night, beginning at 12:01, there will be a midnight dance, both boys and girls break, with music by Joe Leighton and his orchestra, already exceptionally popular here. Artie Blake will provide the vocals. This same band will play for a free concert Monday afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock on the boardwalk; and for a gala Labor Day dance Monday night in the casino.

Free fireworks will be displayed Monday night on the boardwalk, starting at 9:30, just prior to the dance, which will begin at 10:30.

1st Sale Every Day at Warehouses No. 1 or No. 2

For 28 years we have endeavored to secure for the tobacco growers a better price for their tobacco, both in normal times and in periods when there arose emergencies affecting the welfare of tobacco growers. We should face the future with strong confidence and determination. Our growers have experienced crises in the past and mastered them. They will overcome the present unusual situation forced upon us by the European War, if we hold on to our courage, and we will.

As we go into this, our 28th year on the Greenville market we trust our record has merited your good will. We will greatly appreciate the opportunity to be of service to you in the sale of your tobacco during the coming marketing season. Beginning opening day, we will broadcast direct from our warehouse floor from 11:45 A.M. to 12:00 noon daily, over WGTC (Greenville). We believe you will be interested in this additional service we are rendering to the growers.

With best wishes, we are . . . Yours very truly,

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE COURAGE OF CHRIST

You have met people, have you not, who gave you a sense of the presence of God in their hearts? Jesus was like this, only to a greater extent than anyone who has ever lived. He said that He and the Heavenly Father were one, and when people came in contact with Him they did not doubt it. He had about him a spirituality which was entirely contagious.

But most of all, the people of that day were impressed with the courage of Jesus. They hated the scribes and the Pharisees and in their hearts despised them, but they were also afraid of them. But there was a man who appeared to be afraid of no one. He held up to scorn the hypocrisy of the church officials. With vibrant anger in his voice He denounced the dishonesty and avarice of the money-loving old torties. He was perfectly at home in the presence of either rich or poor, and He did not hesitate to speak frankly to each about his vices.

There was a dignity about this man as He walked among His fellows. There was such a courage that even the most cowardly looked upon Him with the hope that maybe some day would catch something of this bravery and be a man. As the common people looked upon Him, it was with the realization that a man could not be that courageous without having some inner power to hold and strengthen him.

MOVING FORWARD

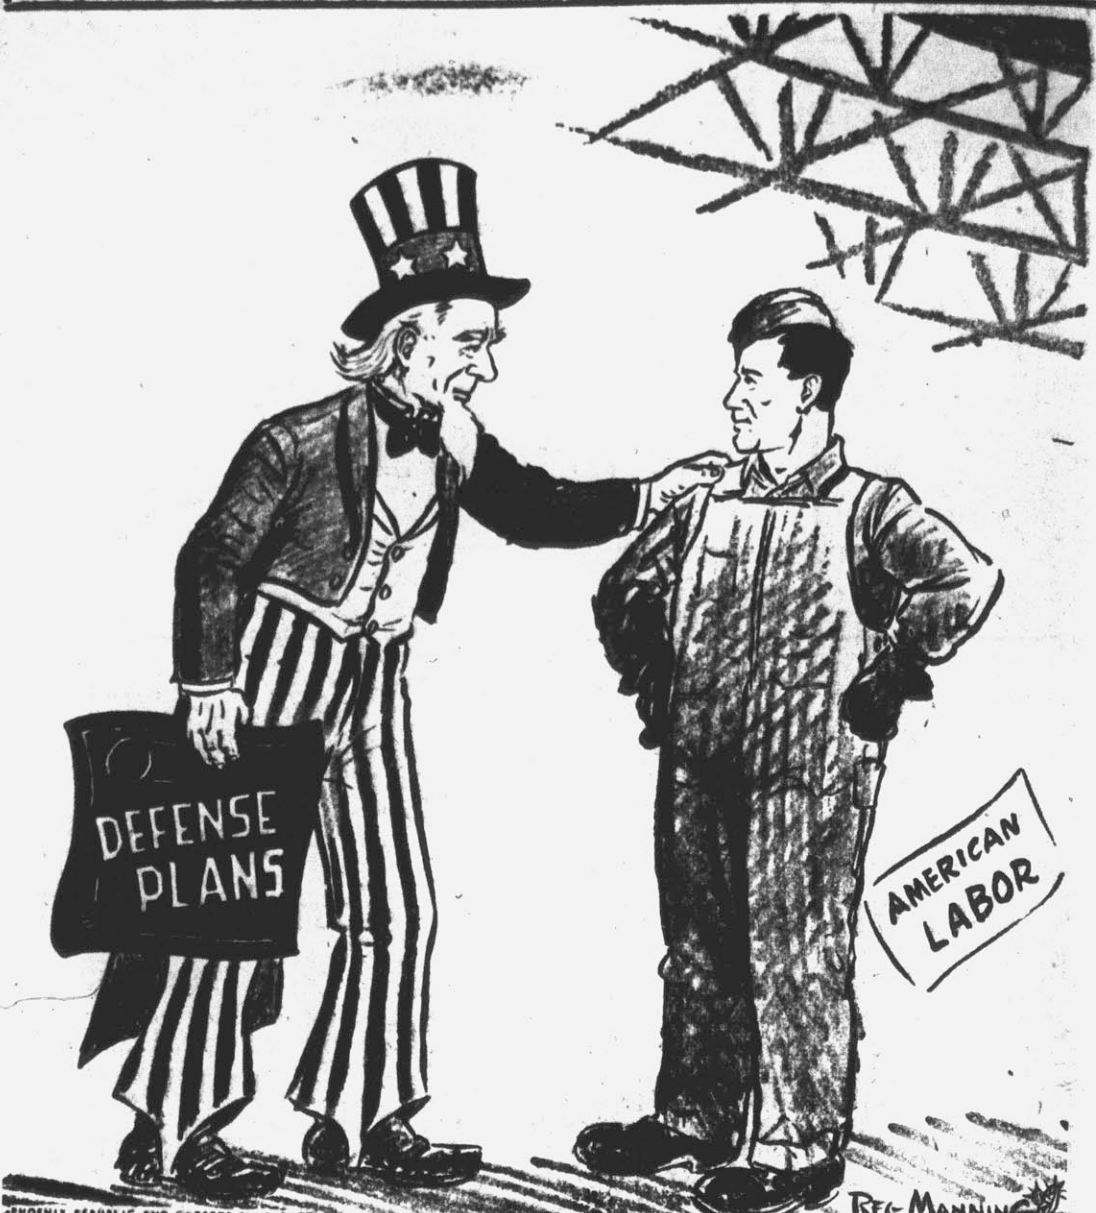

The dedication today of our new public buildings and addition to our public utilities marks another step in Greenville's march of progress. From a humble beginning of a small village referred to by George Washington in his diary as a "dirty little village on Tar river," Greenville has come a long way, and instead of just keeping step with progress, it endeavors to stay ahead of the procession and lead the way to bigger and better things. Greenville's newly acquired public improvements would do credit to a city much larger than our own, but if we continue the rapid rate of growth our city has experienced within the past few years, the time is not far distant when we will need even greater facilities for carrying on our public affairs.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinson

Washington.—At the Department of Commerce, they tell you that the No. 1 problem for the economic trouble shooters in the national defense program is rubber.

An Awful Lot Depends On You, Son!

crisis, an adequate rubber supply is almost as far away as star dust. Rubber was unknown until wandering adventurers before the 17th century watched South American Indians playing with a ball that bounced like nothing the white men had ever seen.

Back To Buggy Rides

Yet today, if rubber imports to the western hemisphere were shut off, about 30,000,000 motor vehicles would cease to chug, the defense program would be dead, and the horse-and-buggy days (without rubber tires) would come back.

The United States uses 50,000 tons of rubber a month. Seventy-five per cent for tires. Ninety-eight per cent of the world supply of rubber comes from the Dutch East Indies and British Malaya (each produces around 376,000 tons a year). A paltry 16,000 tons a year come from Brazil, on the continent where rubber first bounced into the economic picture. Africa, Central America, other South American countries and India account for the rest.

Looking over the record and considering "any eventuality," it does look pretty black for rubber worst comes to worst. But even though you might have a year-and-a-half of discomfort, in event of a rubber shortage, there's no more use worrying about rubber than about tin.

Synthetics On The Way

Synthetic rubbers (there are several) are well on their way. We produced 1,700 tons of usable synthetic rubber last year. If this seems only a drop in the bucket, note that we will produce 10,000 tons this year.

Under government - subsidized plant expansion to the tune of about half a billion dollars (one-twentieth of the present national defense outlay) we probably could be supplying the full demand in eighteen months to two years.

Synthetic rubber is three to five times as costly as the natural product under the present set-up. This will not be true even a year from now. It does not mean that finished synthetic rubber products will cost anything like that much more.

To conserve rubber, we could have driveless days for our 30,000,000 cars and trucks. We could use retreads when the old tires blew out. We could decrease the national speed limit - rubber experts estimate that if everybody held throttles to 30 or 40 miles per hour, it would add months to our rubber supply. We even could reclaim rubber from worn-out rubber bands, bursted balloons and tired blimps. Some-where along the line we would turn to our approximately eight months' supply of raw and finished rubber.

Might Grow Our Own

It might be tough, but it undoubtedly would work, and perhaps in a year or two, Department of Agriculture experts, working with the natural supply in South and Central America, and California would have a satisfactory crop of natural rubber in the offing.

The Department of Commerce says that if we have an enemy in the world, he had better not plan on linking us by snapping up all the world's rubber.

He might upset the rubber-tired apple cart for a while, but in the end, we'd be pop-popping along on all four wheels as if nothing had happened.

Short Shots

Raleigh, Aug. 29.—Don't fall for the latest football "gyp" that's going round these days. Here's how it goes: A fellow will come around and begin low-rating the Wake Forest team for this fall. He will cast all sorts of aspersions at the ancestry and ability of Polanski, Galovich and other Demon Deacons and will finally snort: "Why, they won't even win two Big Five games this year!" Then he'll likely offer to bet 2 to 1 that Wake Forest don't win two Big Five games of this season. Gas the Deacs do not beat both State and Davidson.

The catch is that Wake doesn't even play Davidson, so the second alternative bet is a mortal "lock," while the first would put you in the position of betting two to one that Wake wins two of its three games with State, University of North Carolina and Duke. The Deacs will be good, but they will not be good enough to make that anything like a good wager.

Miss Elizabeth Terry—Liz to her host of Raleigh friends—was in town Wednesday, having come down from Democratic national headquarters in New York. Chairman Flynn wants her to serve through the rest of the fall campaign and it's probable she will if she can get an extension of her leave of absence from the Unemployment Compensation Commission. She first went up to Yankeland to toil in the headquarters of handsome Paul McNutt, then a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The First District Democratic

executive committee will meet on Friday, September 6, to name Herbert Bonner as the congressional nominee to replace Lindsay Warren, who resigned to become Comptroller General.

Pitt county politicians are far from reconciled to the turn of events, which makes it certain that Beaufort will keep the strange hold on the seat it has held for 56 years; but there's nothing they can do about it except grumble and growl, as an overwhelming majority of the committee has already pledged to support Bonner, the present Warren secretary.

It is considered likely that the name of a Pitt county man will be placed before the committee, but that's about as far as the revolt can go until 1942 when, of course, an opponent to Bonner can be offered in the primary.

Suggestion that North Carolina

Justices of the Peace may endeavor to ape the Justices of the Supreme court by donning robes, recalls the opinion of one odd-time clerk of the court regarding the talents and ability of magistrates.

A newly appointed Justice appeared before this clerk with the statement: "I want you to qualify me as J. P."

"I can swear you in," snapped back the clerk. "But that's as far as I can go. All hell couldn't qualify you."

Result of the South Carolina liquor referendum looks ominous of future events in North Carolina—at least to an acquaintance who shall be nameless. He had done this reported a favor and suggested return was a "pint."

"Well, you'd better get it for me before next April," he replied. "Or else you'll likely have to buy it from a bootlegger."

MEMORY OF THE MOON

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: In town Constance meets Ellen MacKelvey who runs a dairy farm. Constance drives back to the ranch with Pedro Taylor, wondering how to cope with such a friendly enemy.

Chapter 12 Barbecue

FROM boxes the delighted Dolores brought riding breeches of twill; boots and sombreros; and a silk shirt of sapphire blue with a golden yellow kerchief for her throat.

"El Cabrillo colors," Dolores explained. Constance tried to stifle her thoroughly feminine love of clothes. Was Pedro trying to put her so deeply in his favor that she would agree to sell?

But when she was dressed, she whirled before the mirror and was pleased with what she saw. Meg had gauged her measurements accurately; even the boots fit smoothly.

"I look like a colored poster in front of a dime theater," she laughed, and went out to find Peter Taylor waiting for her.

"Muchisimas gracias," she sang out, and bowed low before Pedro. "My word, the gal speaks Spanish," chuckled Pedro. "Now turn around and look at Pancho. He's waiting a word of approval."

Constance caught her lower lip between her teeth as Juliano, festively attired, appeared around the corner of the house leading a beautiful palomino, his coat pale golden tan, his main and tail a creamy white.

"Pancho the beautiful," cried Constance and ran toward the horse, unaware of the cries of warning from Juliano, Taylor and a few guests who were drawing near.

"Madre de Dios," murmured Juliano fervently, as Pancho, after one startled, head-tossing neigh and swing of his tail, dropped his head to nuzzle the sapphire blue shoulder.

And—"Holy mackerel," sighed Pedro, who had sprung across the path, white of face.

"That settles it," announced Mrs. MacKelvey. "The girl may be a throwback, but she's a Caballo as well."

Constance looked up from her caressing of Pancho, to find—"I'm polygot—no, Juliana, don't hold him. I can mount, now watch—"

Pancho made a full swing, but Constance had one foot in the stirrup and by the time he was around she was seated, flushed, laughing, then sobred by the look on Pedro's face.

"Cabrillo," he agreed, and Meg, who had been in the background, anxiously addressing her patron Saint, murmured "That needn't make you a piebald mule."

For a moment the two stared angrily at each other. "Trrry to remember," burst Meg, "that history teaches us the Irish are half Spanish; remember the Moors with their high, fine steppin' horses brought us a love of horse flesh. And above all, Peter me lad, don't be a jacksass."

Pedro grinned and finding his horse, mounted and rode up to Constance.

"Well, wait for introductions until we reach the grove," he told Constance. "I think the cavalcade's ready. You, as a Cabrillo, should lead the parade alone, but I'm not trusting you. You're quite apt to lead us to Maria's."

They rode up and behind them some seventy-five neighbors fell in.

Constance pulled up on a hill and looked about her. Never had she seen such sunshine, such a blue sky, such gold-and-purple hills.

"Pedro," she laughed, "I could love you for planning this—"

"Don't, Michael," he returned, sobredly. "If I say 'can't' spend the rest of my life eating barbecued beef."

"Would you, Pedro?" she teased. "I am afraid—" he stressed the word and she remembered the night of their first meeting, "that I would."

"For the sake of your digestion," she sparrd. "I withdraw the statement, oh, Pedro, is that the grove down there?"

WILSON'S Weekly MEMO

MAY I SUGGEST FOR YOUR 3-DAY HOLIDAY—

George Rector
FOOD CONSULTANT WILSON & CO.

★ Another of those three-day week-end holidays. To the family they mean golf, tennis, baseball, swimming—the last holidays of the summer. To you home managers they mean the joy and responsibility of planning, buying and preparing food for those nine or more hearty holiday meals. So here I am to save your life by showing you how to buy one piece of the finest meat produced anywhere in the world today—and with it take care of three important meals and maybe more.

I refer to America's finest ham—Wilson's Tender Made—"the Ham you cut with a fork." And my first suggestion is that you buy a whole Wilson's Tender Made, with the bone in. This is one time when a whole ham is a very practical "buy" and when only a Wilson's Tender Made Ham is good enough.

RECIPE: Here is a grand weekday night's dinner. A thick (1 to 1 1/2 inch) center cut Tender Made Ham steak. Your butcher will cut one or two for you when you buy your Tender Made Ham. To prepare, butter pan and both sides of steak. Place in hot oven (about 400° F.) for only five minutes. Sprinkle brown sugar on both sides of steak and broil another five minutes.

Wilson's Tender Made Ham fits in with Labor Day like two snuggling spoons, because it is a labor-saver as well as a palate-pleaser. Requires only 5 minutes per pound in the oven.

For Hearty Holiday Appetites! If Sunday is warm, I picture a taste-tempting platter of cold Tender Made Ham slices, with crisp carrot curls and celery for luncheon or supper. Complete the appetizing ensemble with hot biscuits and honey and later a frozen fruit salad and coffee. Your guests will be your best boosters for life.

U-M-M, THESE FRANKS ARE RICH AND JUICY, MADGE, WATCH THE BOYS GO FOR THEM!

THAT'S BECAUSE THEY'RE WILSON'S CERTIFIED. THERE IS A DIFFERENCE!

Yes, indeed, there's a big difference. Wilson's Certified Frankfurters and Red Hots are made of carefully selected cuts of freshly seasoned meat, packed in tender, natural casings. The fine flavor is smoked right into them. Look for the Wilson Certified quality tag.

And Now—THE BIG MOMENT Whang the triangle! Ring the bell! Whistle or yoo-hoo! But however you do it, call the gang to come and get it! The big Sunday noon or Monday noon feast is ready and Baked Tender Made Ham is the main dish.

RECIPE Place the ham (whole or half), fat side up, on a rack or in an open roasting pan. Heat in a moderate oven (350° F.) only 5 to 7 minutes to the pound. Remove ham from oven, score fat, dot with whole cloves and cover with one cup of pineapple juice and corn syrup blended together. Return to oven and bake approximately 15 minutes longer, basting until ham is delicately browned. Serve with sauced pineapple slices.

BEWARE OF SUBSTITUTES You get the true Tender Made flavor and tenderness only in the genuine Wilson's Tender Made Ham—"The Ham you cut with a fork." So, to avoid disappointment, ask for Wilson's Tender Made—just that way. And see that these words are on the yellow Wilson's wrapper.

Greenville Divides Double-Header With Wilson Team

WINS 1ST 3-0 LOSES SECOND

Crowe Homers In Fourth To Win For Caligiuri

The Greens last night won the first game of a double-header with the pennant-winning Wilson Tobs by a score of 3-0 as Benny Crowe's homer in the fourth provided victory for Freddy Caligiuri. It was the 20th win of the season for the Greenville hurler.

The Tobs came back in the second game, however, to score a 13-2 victory over the Greens. The locals got only five hits and made three errors, while Wilson garnered 13 hits and played errorless ball.

The highlight of the victory for the Tobs was Manager Rodgers' homer, with the bases loaded.

Kracke and Crowe saw mound duty for the Greens in the second game.

New Dixie And Centre Brick Consolidated

Two well known Greenville warehouses, the Centre Brick and the Dixie, will operate this season under the management of Biggs T. Cannon, Harvey Ward, M. D. Lasitter and W. S. Moye. In announcing the consolidation, officials declared that the move would enable them to give their customers' better service than ever before and a first sale each sales day. Both of the warehouses are modern in every respect and are equipped to provide the best available service for the farmer to sell his tobacco. The two warehouses will be managed by experienced workers, men who know their business and have been in the warehouse business for years. The Dixie will have a first sale on the opening day, next Tuesday. The four operators are well known as warehousemen throughout eastern North Carolina and the consolidation is expected to prove to the advantage of all concerned, including the friends and customers of each.

Says Appeasement Supported In U. S.

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—Representative Patman (D-Tex.) told the Dies committee today he believed there was a "deliberate attempt" on the part of certain "big business" groups in this country to force adoption of an appeasement program toward Hitler.

The Texan, urging the committee to investigate what he said was "an unholy alliance" between certain parts of "big business" and the distribution of Nazi propaganda in this country was told by Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) that committee agents already were doing so but "had found nothing so far."

Boys State Honor Goes To Local Boy

Fenner Corbett, Jr., who is attending the American Legion Boys State at Chapel Hill as the representative of the Greenville vantage Forty and Eight, has been nominated State Supervisor of Public Instruction at the institution being conducted for boys of the state.

In a card to Arthur B. Corey today, young Corbett declared that he was having "the time of my life" and added that he had heard some interesting speakers.

The local boy wrote that the two parties nominated their officers on Tuesday night and that he was chosen for the position on the Federalist ticket.

Five-Pounder Landed By Mrs. Ernest Baker

Mrs. Ernest Baker, one of the city's most devoted fisherwomen, yesterday landed a five and one-half pound chub and the catch came as much a surprise to her as to anyone else.

After an afternoon of fishing in Chocowinity Bay by Mrs. Baker and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Duval were drifting along when the big fish caught her hook. She held on while Mr. Duval got the landing net and the chub was pulled in. Mr. Duval, quite a fisherman himself, said it was as pretty a chub as he had ever seen.

Broadway Gambler Dies From Attack

New York, Aug. 29—(AP)—George McManus, 48, big-time Broadway gambler who once was accused of the murder of Arnold Rothstein, died of heart disease last night at his home in Sea Girt, N. J.

After a long and sensational trial, McManus was acquitted by the General Sessions jury which heard the case—but the slaying of Rothstein in 1928 still remains a mystery.

McManus, who had avoided publicity with great care since the trial, had been ill about six months.

Man About Manhattan

New York—Sally Rand, the bubble and fan dancer who has been barred from the New York World's Fair but who is doing business every night at a hotel on Broadway, is a demure miss in all moments except those when camera fiends in the audience are spotted training their candid cameras on her dance. Then she becomes an indignant tigress and she will scratch your eyes out quicker than you can snap a lens.

Reason: She wants no free thrills being touted about the country by sneaks who take unauthorized pictures of her dance, which, as you know, is done without benefit of clothing.

Second, she fears that bad photography will hurt her. She doesn't mind disrobing at the proper moment before paid audiences. She very much minds those who would "sully" her reputation by emphasizing nudity when it is really grace after all that is her forte, in case you didn't know.

Lately she has refused attractive offers from picture magazines wishing exclusive pictures of her dance. "It's the principle of the thing," she explains. "Those sort of pictures aren't good for you. Usually they are made out to be something entirely different than what they really are." So that's the set-up. A special warning is also passed along to those who might try to defy this edict. Not only will Sally scratch your eyes out, she'll also have you arrested. It hasn't been a week since one enthusiastic hobbyist started out to sneak a picture and ended up explaining his behavior to a judge.

You like golf stories like the one Larry Clinton sent in last week? Here's another of the old Dipsy-Doodler's anecdotes of a wayside tee which concerns Joe Venuti, who at one time played an amazingly hot fiddle for Mr. Paul Whiteman. The action takes place at the 18th hole.

Approaching a water hazard Joe's drive fell short, leaving him a 200-yard shot to clear the water. Venuti blithely reached for his spoon at which the caddy conversationally said he didn't think Joe could make it.

"Don't you tell me how to play!" thundered Venuti and promptly slapped the ball right into the lake. Warning the boy not to say a word Joe took a new ball and dropped it in the same place. In a stentorian voice he called for a third ball. The caddy, unnerved by now, meekly handed it to him only to see it fall not five feet from where the others had landed. Joe called for a new ball.

"Mr. Venuti!" wailed the caddy. "We haven't got any more!"

Joe headed lugubriously for the water hazard. At its bank he took the spoon he had been carrying and broke it over his knee and threw it in the water. Without a word he turned to the caddy, took the golf bag, and with a muttered word threw the bag in the water. Then he picked up the protesting caddy and threw him into the water!

Then with a despairing look Venuti pulled off the sport shirt that Bing Crosby had given him, and he jumped in!

the projects possible.

The water and light plant improvements were accepted by Superintendent Martin Swartz, who called attention to the rapid increase in the use of electricity to lighten the burdens of our people and furnish more carefree living, and declared that these recently completed improvements to the plant made it not only more able to take care of the ever-increasing demand for electricity, but likewise enabled it to operate more economically which was responsible for the low electric rates enjoyed by patrons of this community. Mr. Broughton was slightly delayed in his arrival and during the brief delay in his appearance Mayor Spain recognized visiting officials from surrounding towns and counties, presented members of the Water and Light Commission, County Commissioners and former mayors of Greenville. During the interim there were extemporaneous talks by F. C. Harding, Dr. L. R. Meadows, president of East Carolina Teachers College, Judge Albion Dunn and Mayor John Hassell of Williamson. All the speakers congratulated the people of Greenville for their progressive spirit and urged them to continue to push forward to
