Heavy Casualties Claimed By New Jersey Explosions

Hercules Powder Plant Scene Of Deadly Blasts

Hospital Attendants At Nearby Dover Declare Casualties So Numerous "We Can't Count Them"; Firemen Unable To Cope With Blaze Following Explosion At Plant

Dover, N. J., Sept. 12. — (AP)—Observers said at least 50 casualties were brought to Dover general hospital this afternoon after two explosions in quick succession at the Hercules powder plant at Kenil, five miles away.

Hospital attendants said the casualties were so numerous "we can't keep track of them."

Reports from Kenil said fire had broken out at the plant and was raging so severely that firemen could not combat it.

Col. Mark O. Kimberling, New Jersey state police superintendent, said over 100 persons were reported injured.

Long distance operators at New York reported that telephone communications with Kenil, a town of slightly more than 900 population, was cut off.

Police said two heavy blasts were felt at 12:30 p. m.

Dover hospital attendants said all available doctors, nurses and ambulance men were sent to the scene.

The Hercules powder plant employs 220 persons in the manufacture of dynamite and smokeless powder.

The explosion was heard all through Westchester county, just above New York city and some 50 miles from where the blast occurred.

Even in Poughkeepsie there were persons who felt earth tremors between 12:35 p. m. and 12:39 p. m. EST.

Windows were knocked out of a train at Harmon, N. Y., and plaster fell from walls at Tarrytown.

The shocks were so great they were registered on the seismograph at Fordham university in New York.

Officers Training Unit Goes To UNC

Chapel Hill, Sept. 12.—(AP)—A naval reserve officers training corps will be established at once at the University of North Carolina.

Controller W. D. Carmichael, Jr., speaking in the absence of President Frank P. Graham, said today formal notice had been received of the selection of the university for one of the new units of the national defense program.

One hundred freshmen will be admitted to the corps this fall and the same number or more in each succeeding year, Carmichael said.

Capt. Robert S. Hagcart of the U. S. navy and four naval non-commissioned officers are expected to arrive at any moment to begin organizations.

Members of the corps will receive full university credit for the work done in this department. They will participate in summer training cruises and at the end of their four-year courses they will be commissioned in either the naval or marine corps reserve.

Determined

Washington, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Re-affirming a "supreme determination" to keep war away from American shores, President Roosevelt inaugurated his third term campaign last night by advocating compulsory draft for industry as well as manpower if necessary and pledging that his labor and social programs would expand rather than retreat in building national defense.

He couched these definite statements with an attack on unnamed critics who "love the laboring man in November, but forget him in January" and called for an end "to the sort of appeasement which seeks to keep us helpless by playing on fear and by indirect sabotage of all the progress we are making."

Third Term

Philadelphia, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The American Bar Association tabled today by a vote of 217 to 126 all resolutions dealing with a presidential third term.

An atmosphere of tense excitement prevailed as Harry Knight of Sunbury, Penn., secretary of the association, read to the organization's 63rd annual convention a resolution denouncing "unqualifiedly" a third term for President Roosevelt.

"I move this motion be laid on the table as scandalous and impertinent," shouted Clarence N. Goodwin of Washington.

Charles A. Beardsley, Bar Association president, ruled after tabling of the motion that the action applied to all resolutions dealing with a third term.

CITY AWARDED NYA PROJECT

Training Center To Be Located On Hardee Property

W. B. Aycock, assistant state administrator of the National Youth Administration, today approved Greenville as a site for one of four NYA training centers, to be located in North Carolina and forwarded his recommendation to national headquarters in Washington for expected prompt acceptance.

It was declared that acceptance of national headquarters was only a formality and that the project was assured for this city.

Mr. Aycock announced his decision after having made a close inspection of the proposed site and holding conferences throughout the day with J. H. Rose, superintendent of the local city schools, who instigated the movement to secure the project; W. T. Kizer, executive secretary of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce; Mayor Jack Spair and Walter and Light Superintendent Martin Swain.

The project will be located on the Hardee property off Tenth street extension. The city, which owns the property, at its regular September meeting, agreed to make 10 acres of the property available for the training center.

The federal government will spend approximately $120,000 in building and equipment. The expenditure will be $40,000 greater than the figure originally announced.

The city stands to reap many benefits from the project. Two hundred young men between the ages of 18 and 25 will receive training in various manual labor trades, such as welding, machine work, wood work, sheet metal work, etc. The men will receive $30 a month, $18 of which will go for room, board and medical care, while they are receiving their training. The remaining $12 will be given to the men as "spending money."

In addition several instructors will be employed on full-time basis. The project will be open to Greenville young men and also to students in the United States.

Work on the buildings is expected to start on Monday and half a million feet of lumber will be purchased immediately for the project.

Bethel Carrier Boy Wins Telephone Call

Tom Andrews, Jr., of Bethel, who incidentally, is the Daily Reflector carrier boy in Bethel, while visiting the telephone exhibit at the World's Fair at New York today drew a winning ticket entitling him to place a long distance telephone call anywhere in the United States.

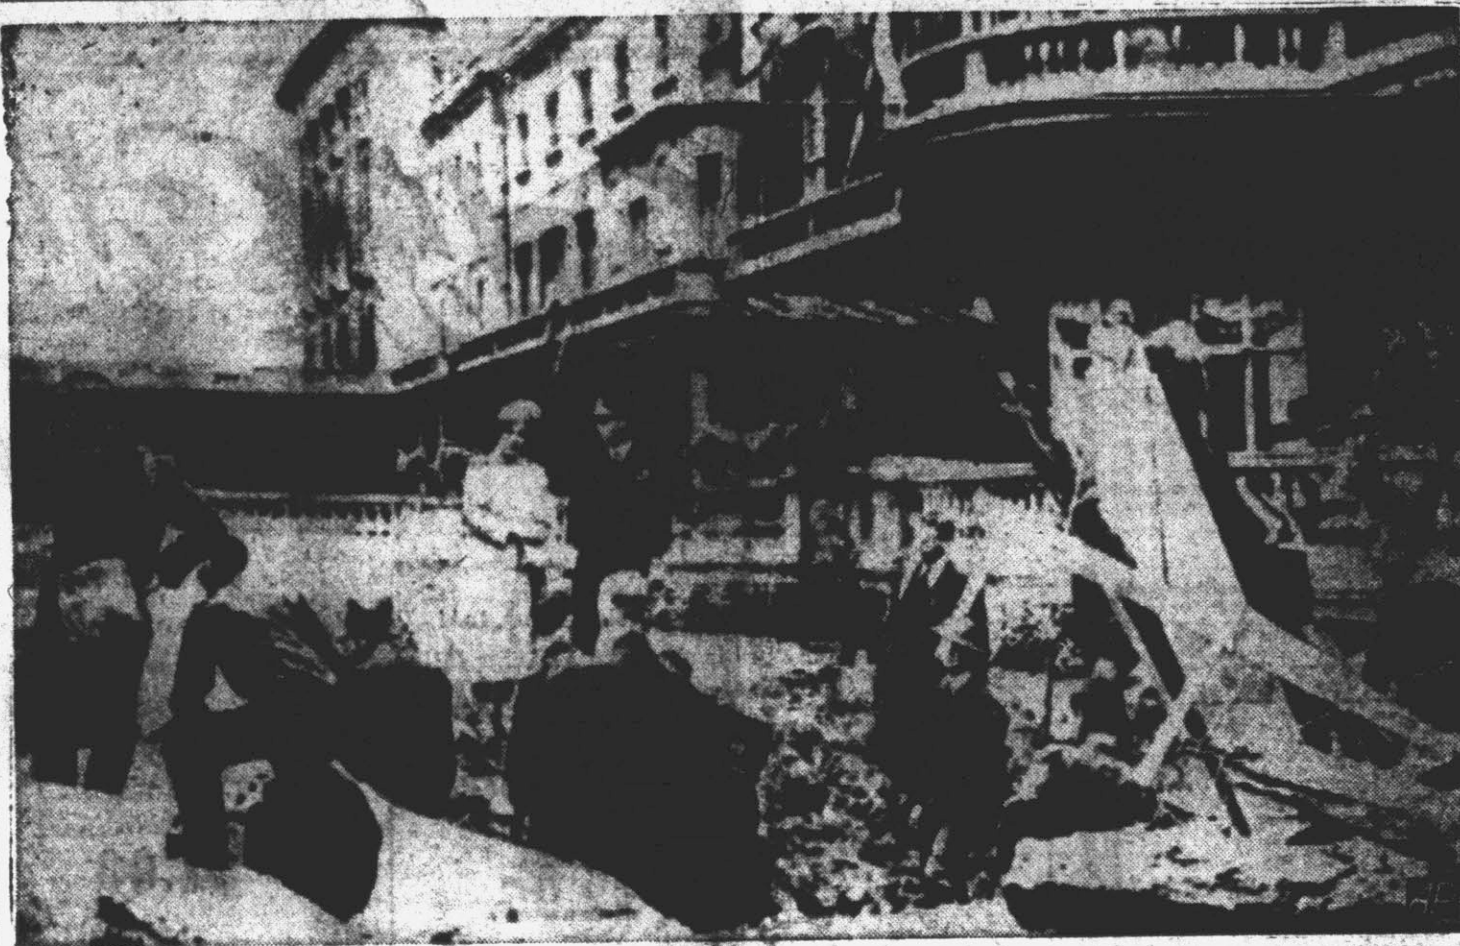

Young Andrews called his mother and reported that he was having the time of his life. He is at the New York fair with a group of Boy Scouts from Eastern Carolina.

King And Queen Inspect Bomb-Damaged Palace

In this historic scene, King George and Queen Elizabeth (center) of Great Britain inspect damage done to a corner of Buckingham Palace, the royal residence in London by what the British described as a delayed-action bomb dropped by German air raiders. The picture was cabled from London. Some of the men with the royal pair apparently are standing in a crater dug by the bomb.

FARMER SLAIN ON PITT ROAD

Doremus L. Lewis Of Sheldermine Hit-Run Victim

Doremus L. Lewis, 60, farmer of the Sheldermine community, was instantly killed last night about midnight when he was struck by an automobile or truck while walking along the Black Jack-Sheldermine road.

According to Corporal C. R. Williams of the State Highway Patrol investigating officer, the aged man was struck about 11:30 o'clock. The body was found about an hour later by Leonard Hoots and Wesley Bailey, young white men also of the Sheldermine community, who happened to be passing by the scene in an automobile.

Corporal Williams said the man was knocked about 20 feet when he was struck by the vehicle.

Coroner A. A. Ellwanger and Corporal Williams are continuing an investigation in an effort to determine the driver of the vehicle which struck the man.

Funeral services for the victim will be held from the grave site in the Smith Grave yard at Sheldermine Friday afternoon by Rev. Walter Nobles, Free Will Baptist minister of Winterville.

He is survived by two sons, John A. Lewis of Greenville and Odie Lewis of Raleigh, and several brothers and sisters.

Inferior Quality Offered To Buyers

An increasing amount of inferior quality tobacco was offered on the Greenville warehouse floors today, according to the Agricultural Marketing service, but despite this, prices continued firm.

The report shows prices were firm with little change in the figures brought for the respective types.

Choice lugs and primings are averaging approximately $30 per hundred pounds, with good cutters showing an average of $32. A full day's sale was on the warehouse floors this morning, but all were cleared by closing time.

National Defense

The Democratic View

By CLAUDE PEPPER
U. S. Senator From Florida
The national defense program long in preparation, rolled into high gear on May 26, when President Roosevelt made his speech outlining our defense needs in the present emergency.

Two days later, the President appointed a National Defense Advisory Commission to insure that the defense program should proceed with the utmost efficiency. Since that time, the President, as Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, and the Congress have been working on legislation to increase our Army to 1,200,000 to provide material for equipping an additional 800,000 men and to provide the

The Republican View

By ROBERT A. TAFT
U. S. Senator From Ohio
President Roosevelt is appealing for a third term, in violation of the principles of the American republic, largely on the ground that he has been the only true exponent of preparedness and is the only man competent to carry on a preparedness program. While substantial progress has been made in the last seven months, the history of the last seven years shows that no one could possibly have been more incompetent in preparedness for defense than the New Deal administration.

In accordance with the platform of 1932, President Roosevelt reduced the expenditure for the army and navy during his first year. Adolf

ATTACK MADE ON ROOSEVELT

Willkie Assails Handling Of Foreign Policy

Rushville, Ind., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Describing President Roosevelt's handling of foreign affairs as "clumsy," Wendell L. Willkie said today that "the United States cannot not but fail in the present world struggle under such leadership."

In a statement issued just before going to Indianapolis for a conference with other Republican leaders, the presidential candidate made this comment on Mr. Roosevelt's address last night.

"I have never felt so encouraged about the outcome of the election as I did after listening to Mr. Roosevelt's speech last night.

"If the American people have any sense of realism of the conditions of the world in which they are living they will reject overwhelmingly a President who preaches such class conscious and economic sabotage doctrines as was preached last night.

"The kind words which can be applied to the President's speech are that he does not understand the laws of economics, government finance or the forces to work in the world today.

"The United States cannot but fail in the present world struggle under such leadership—it is the same doctrine which Blum of France taught.

Camacho Declared Mexico President

Mexico City, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The Chamber of Deputies today proclaimed Manuel Avila Camacho president-elect of Mexico, ruling that he had been successful in the disputed election of July 7.

Thus the chamber formally recorded the defeat of General Juan Andreu Almazan, opposition candidate for the presidency whose "election" for the 1940-46 term had been proclaimed by a "congress" of his own followers.

Avila Camacho had the support of the Cardenas administration. (The chamber which proclaimed him president-elect is held by the Almazan followers not to have been legally elected.)

Almazan left the country shortly after the riotous July 7 voting and now is at Baltimore.

(His departure was followed by rumors of impending uprisings to throw out the present regime of Lazaro Cardenas and seat Almazan.)

Case No. 36,784

Arkansas City, Kans.—(AP)—An Arkansas City woman frantically called the fire department for help. When the breathless firemen arrived they discovered that all she wanted to know was why her car wouldn't run. They released the emergency brake.

Two Main German Ports Also Suffer Assaults

Renew Attacks

London, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Within a few hours of Prime Minister Churchill's warning that a Nazi invasion was imminent, British fighters renewed their attacks last night on German shipping in the English channel, smashing at barges and sinking at least one supply ship, the Air Ministry said today.

London itself enjoyed a lull in the fighting today, save for a 62-minute air raid warning occasioned by what observers concluded was a German reconnaissance flight.

Besides the attack on the shipping in German-occupied channel ports, British pilots were reported to have struck blows at railway stations and yards in Berlin.

IN AGREEMENT ON DRAFT ACT

First Conscripts May Be Called About October 15

Washington, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Quick enactment of peace-time conscription for men from 21 through 35 was believed near today as a joint Senate-House committee met to draft its report on a compromise compulsory military training bill.

The report will go to both houses for final action and the congressional consensus was that it would promptly be accepted—perhaps before the week-end.

Scuttling a house provision for a 60-day delay in the draft and compromising differences on the vital question of the age limit, the six senators and five House members reached an agreement last night on a common version of the legislation which both branches of Congress previously approved in different forms.

The Senate had fixed the age limit at from 21 through 30, the House from 21 through 44. At the suggestion of Senator Thomas (D-Utah) the conferees made the maximum age 35.

Thus when and if the bill finally becomes law approximately 16,500,000 men will be called upon to register for service. When the physically unfit, those with dependents and those who hold essential jobs in industry or agriculture are weeded out army officials estimated 5,000,000 men would be eligible for a year's intensive training.

President Roosevelt may call these, it was explained, in any class the army desires. Registration of the 16,500,000 is expected to take place within 15 days after Congress makes funds available and the first contingent of 75,000 probably would be inducted into service shortly after October 15.

The measure approved by the conferees provided also for commandeering industry if that should become necessary in a national crisis.

Fire Is Averted At Local Charles Store

The automatic feeding system of a furnace in the rear end of the local Charles store went out of order during the early morning hours but city policemen discovered it before any serious damage was caused. Fire Chief George Garner said if the fire had not been discovered it possibly would have caused considerable loss.

Final Rites Friday For Tarboro Lawyer

Raleigh, Sept. 12.—(AP)—George Marion Fountain, 54, a prominent Tarboro attorney, died at a hospital here this morning at 4 o'clock. He had been critically ill several days.

The widow, the former Miss Mary Royall Mox of Yanceyville, and one son, George M. Fountain, Jr., of Tarboro, survive.

Funeral services will be held at Tarboro Friday.

FIRE DEPARTMENT GETS A LOT OF BIRDS

Goldsboro, N. C.—(AP)—When residents tired of disturbance created by thousands of martins they appealed to the fire department. The firemen made two successive raids on the birds with high pressure hoses. The martins not only held their own, but counterattacked. Two squads of martins camped on the hook and ladder truck in the fire station. When a third squad appeared the firemen appealed for "heavier guns."

Berlin's Central Park Located Near Nazi Government Buildings And Hitler's Chancellery Struck By British Bombs; New British Defense Tactics Proving Effective

By The Associated Press

British warplanes showered fire bombs around Berlin's Tiergarten—the German capital's "central park," in a 92-minute raid before dawn today and pounded the great shipping ports of Hamburg and Bremen in an intensified assault on Hitler's Reich.

The Tiergarten lies near German government buildings and Hitler's Chancellery.

London reported the Royal Air Force raiders also bombed the Anhalter railway station in central Berlin and the big Tempelhof air-drome.

Hitler's high command admitted 14 persons were killed, 41 injured and many fires started in the three cities attacked.

London's weary millions underwent their fifth straight dusk-to-dawn attack, sleeping again in underground shelters, but the populace found a note of comfort in the steady stream of anti-aircraft guns setting up a screen of fire to blast the raiders.

The New London defense tactics of throwing up a rapid fire barrage instead of sniping singly at individual planes picked out by searchlights was officially credited with having greatly impeded the German assaults.

Only 20 bombs exploded in central London, in contrast to many hundreds in previous night raids, but "suicide squads" combed the capital in search of delayed action explosives such as blasted a corner of Buckingham palace on Tuesday 48 hours after it fell from the skies.

One of the delayed action missiles was discovered this morning near historic old St. Paul's cathedral.

Although the destructive effect of the raid was not immediately known, at least there was no sign of the Nazis' threatened "ten thousand planes loads of bombs daily" falling on the London area.

Casualty figures for the first three of the five all-night raids showed a heavily mounting toll with 1,616 known dead and 4,300 wounded.

The British reported 89 German planes shot down in yesterday's battles with 24 Royal Air Force planes missing; the Germans asserted 80 British planes were destroyed and 20 Nazi aircraft were missing. Nine German planes were shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

In the wake of Prime Minister Churchill's warning an invasion might come any hour, the British Admiralty announced its light naval forces had taken the offensive with strong and repeated action against Nazi shipping and ports "vital" to Hitler in any invasion attempt.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those growing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking strong acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints of urine daily.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or steady poisons with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys.

Don't let your kidneys for Deane's Pills, and immediately by millions for over 40 years. They're the only kidney pills that get the 15 million kidney tubes back out poisons waste from your blood. Get Deane's Pills.

Forty Years Ago Today

September 12, 1900

It is really appalling to read in the papers of the last few days accounts of the terrible disaster at Galveston, Texas. A storm visited the city Saturday afternoon and before its fury had been spent, the city was in ruins, and three thousand people had lost their lives. Appeals for help were sent out, and contributions of money and provisions are being sent from all parts of the country to relieve the distress of the sufferers.

H. A. Morris officiated.

The home was decorated in bridal roses.

The bride wore a dress of soldier blue trimmed with white, with a shoulder corsage and navy blue accessories. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Lewis. Mr. Jones had as his best man the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. W. J. Lewis.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points, the young couple will be at home at 209 Ridgeway street, Greenville.

Alexander and Denton came down the stairs with their arms filled to overflowing with beautiful, and useful, gifts for the Vainwrights.

Of course, several comedy gifts slipped in mysteriously. As Mr. and Mrs. Vainwright opened these, roars of laughter filled the spacious store; one of them being a rolling pin with the following inscription printed on it:

"Any time that you need dough Crown him with this—You'll win. I know."

Mrs. McArthur and Miss Doris Allen presented them with an ironing board, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Simmerson an electric iron with this notation:

"You're such an excellent shoe clerk

And last, but not least, was a pair of size O white kid baby shoes, and printed on the toes was:

A Rattlesnake Gets Skunked.

Staunton, Va.—(AP)—It was a battle to the death, and a skunk emerged as the victor over a rattlesnake.

Game Warden C. L. Miller tells the story. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wilkins of Washington, were camping on Mt. Elliott when they heard the ominous rattle of the snake above night noises. A flashlight disclosed a small spotted skunk battling the snake. The skunk fled when the light was flashed, but recovered his nerve and returned for the kill.

The spotted skunk, Miller explained, is of the weasel family and much smaller than the ordinary pole cat. It is about the size of a gray squirrel and seldom is seen out of the mountain areas.

American Designers Mix Basic Styles With Surprises

By AMY PORTER
AP Fashion Writer

What? Long hobble skirts split to the knee? Plunger necklines, cut in a deep V to the diaphragm? A trench coat of gold cloth? Shoes of leopard skin with soles three inches thick? A hat of white fox dyed pink? Divided skirts and harem hemlines?

It's shocking, the news from the American fashion openings.

But, like sensational news from Paris openings, these tidings are to be taken with a grain of salt.

Of the 830 original American designs presented with great fanfare by six leading Fifth Avenue style establishments last week, about 100 were sensational—for the sake of the headlines and a few daringly dressed women.

The rest were simple, wearable and nice—the sort of clothes you could take to your heart.

In Paris Tradition

American designers determined to prove that they could produce fine clothes without the help of Paris, did themselves proud.

The clothes were in the Paris tradition, with clean-cut lines and fine detail.

Hand-done embroidery, beading hand-made belts and buckles appeared in profusion, refuting the claim that fine handwork can come only from Paris.

Though the variety of design was great, the collections clung to basic trends launched in Paris last spring.

The silhouette is slim, skirts 16 or 17 inches from the floor.

Shoulders are moderately wide and waistlines are an inch or so below normal.

This doesn't mean American designers haven't the courage for change, but only that the time isn't ripe for radical style revision.

Meantime there's plenty of fashion interest.

How would you like a venetian blind dress so realistic you'd probably try to pull the cord? Sophie Gumbel designed it for the Saks Fifth Avenue collection.

What do you think of Hattie Carnegie's newest invention—parade fox? It is white fox—sometimes dyed pink—with long black monkey furs grafted in.

A rust-red velvet impressed with a sweeping plume design was used in one of the most applauded dresses at the Bergdorf Goodman show.

Bonwit Teller offered pek-boo dresses with cut-out power coat designs at the low neckline. Milgrim used great bands of fur to finish off the new longer-length suit jackets, and Jay Thorpe presented Juliana drapery on hobble skirts.

Soon To Be Duplicated

In most of the collections about half of the models shown—the more daring ones—are custom-made.

That is, they are made up only on order for individual customers, at prices beginning at about $175 and going up and up.

The rest of the models will soon be duplicated in factory work-rooms for sale throughout the country at ready-to-wear prices.

The ideas presented at these showings will trickle down through the clothing industry, until even the lowest priced clothes show the influence of Fifth Avenue couturiers.

And there seems little likelihood that on the basis of the same reasoning he will arrive at a different conclusion.

Conservative by inclination, Governor Hoey would be inclined always to stand by precedent as he did last year. There has been no evidence that any great pressure has been brought to bear upon him to shift to the earlier Presidential date for Thanksgiving; though the merchants in all sections report that the extra week between Thanksgiving and Christmas added to their holiday trade.

Significantly, North Carolina football teams playing Thanksgiving day games have them carded for November 28, though most of them avoided any possible mixup porter has been wrong on occasion, and this may be another of them; as the Governor has so far given no outward clue of his intentions.

He did say, however, that a decision will likely be made and published before the end of the current week.

From all available indications the same reasons which last year impelled the Governor to differ from the President exist again this year

Fur yokes give shoulder interest to many of the longer jacket suits. This leopard skin and green wool ensemble won applause at the Jay Thorpe showing.

The golden touch again—in a dress whose very full skirt contrasts with the prevalent slim silhouette. Hooded sable coat, Emmet Joyce design from the Saks showing.

Parade fur was introduced at Hattie Carnegie's fashion opening. It is fox fur, pink or white, with black monkey hairs grafted in. Used here in cape, tunic and hat.

'Golden Goddess' is the name Milgrim gives to this modeled evening gown. The long bodice is made of gold lame, and the draped turban matches. Note the fitted hip-line.

NOMINATIONS END

Nominations of candidates for president, vice president, secretary and treasurer of the student body were brought to a close yesterday afternoon.

Nominations were made by petitions stating the qualifications of the nominees and signed by 25 members of the student body, in accordance with the provisions made in the Student Cooperative Association constitution.

According to the constitution nominations for the officers shall be in the hands of the election committee two days prior to public announcement of candidacy. Therefore the names of the candidates can not be given but it is known that there are only two nominations for the presidency.

NEW COURSES

Two new courses, Algebra I and vocational information, have been added to the school curriculum this year.

Ancient history is now available to the ninth grade as well as the tenth. Physical education is now compulsory to all junior-high students, and will be given to the girls three times a week instead of the usual two of previous seasons.

Both Chemistry and advanced Algebra show an increase over years before. There was only one class of each in previous years. Now there are two of each.

EARLY BIRDS

While the rest of the home rooms are still fixing rolls and getting settled, home room 34, whose faculty adviser is R. G. Walser, has held a campaign and elected officers for the coming year.

Rural Power Line Pressed For Hoke

Raeford, Sept. 12.—Christmas trees in Hoke county rural homes will be electrically lighted this year. Miss Josephine Hall, home agent of the State College Extension Service, said today work is going forward rapidly on the rural electrification project recently approved in Washington.

She explained that the Lumbee River Electric Membership Corporation had been allotted $428,000 by the REA for the construction of rural power lines in Hoke, Cumberland, Robeson and Scotland counties. The project covers more than 484 miles and is reported to be the largest initial project in the South.

Office for this project will be located in Raeford. Two staking crews are now working out locations from the sub-station at Red Springs preparatory to staking lines.

"People of Hoke county are tremendously pleased with the project," Miss Hall said. "For years now, they have been looking forward to the time when they would not have to read by a dim, flickering lamp, as well as enjoy the other conveniences and labor-saving that electricity would bring."

by switching their contests to a Saturday—either November 23 or November 30.

Tar Heels To Get Chance To Eat Two Turkey Meals

Reflector Bureau

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Sept. 11.—North Carolina will get a chance to eat two Thanksgiving turkeys this year — on national, or Roosevelt, Thanksgiving Day and again a week later on state or Hoey day of rejoicing.

There has been no official announcement to this effect, but all the odds favor one before the end of this week. Your Raleigh re-

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE MAKING OF A NEW WORLD

"And there went with him a band of men whose hearts God had touched." (1 Samuel 10-26)

Saul had just been chosen king of Israel. After the coronation, most of the people went back to their homes, but there was a little band whose feelings overleaped the bounds generally set up. They returned not to their homes; they accompanied their young sovereign back to his.
The life of the nation was about to be renewed by a "band of men whose hearts God had touched." Things were going to be made new in Israel
not by the coming of new institutions, but by the enthusiasm and vision of men whose hearts had been made new by a higher power.

Thus is the salvation of every people on the face of the earth accomplished. For a century we have been putting our trust in science, and lo! man is using science today
as the cruel instrument with which he commits racial suicide. He is using his knowledge to destroy his brother in war and incidentally to destroy himself.

Spiritual revival alone holds the secret for world renewal. We will be led out of this season of pain and treachery, of violence and killing,
not by the triumph of some new economic order, but by the emergence into world leadership of men in different countries whose hearts have been touched with a sense of higher things—a band of men whose heart
God has touched.

A JUST JUDGE

When a district elects a judge to office it is gratifying to know that the people of another district considers the choice a wise one.

At present Judge Paul Frizzelle, of this district, is holding court in the ninth district, and here is what the Lumberton Robesonian has to say about him.

"In any roster of judges in North Carolina who have consistently upheld the dignity of their courts and commanded respect of the law, Judge J. Paul Frizzelle, who is presiding over the courts of the ninth judicial district
this last fall of 1940, ranks
among the foremost.

"Fearlessly and candidly Judge Frizzelle deals with every situation that arises in his court, and if any one should be led by his unfling courtesy to venture upon unwarranted presumption he is due for a rude—no a courteous—awakening.

"If North Carolina had more judges like Judge Frizzelle we are persuaded there would be less of crime and lawlessness.

"Criminals are wise to such a judge. Lawyers who have guilty clients whom

they are anxious to have ac-

"But law-abiding citizens who want the law administered fairly and justly, without fear or favor, are gratified when such a judge presides."

Short Shots

Raleigh, Sept. 12.—It seemed more than passing strange when Director Harry Slattery of the Federal Rural Electric Administration issued a retraction of charges he had made against the Carolina Power & Light Company; but here's one to top that.

A Federally-financed electric cooperative in North Carolina has adopted a resolution lauding that same Carolina Power and Light Company for its "cooperation."

Here is the text of the resolution adopted by the directors of the South River Electric Membership
Cooperative:

"Whereas in the organization of the South River Electric Membership Cooperative the various officers and representatives of the Carolina Power and Light Company have displayed an ever-present willingness to cooperate and have rendered helpful advice and assistance which this cooperative has been constantly mindful of.

"Be it, therefore, resolved, that the Board of Directors of the South River Electric Membership Cooperative sincerely appreciate the willing and harmonious way in which the officers and representatives of the Carolina Power and Light Company have given their aid to the problems which have confronted the organization and development of this cooperative."

"We're organizing the last cooperative in North Carolina tomorrow," said Dudley Bagley head of the SREAC.

"Why is it the last one?" your Raleigh reporter asked.

"Because I don't see where else we could put one," replied the SREAC director.

New Carolina Has The Best To Offer

The New Carolina warehouse, one of the most modern and up-to-date
tobacco auction centers to be found
It is located on Dickinson avenue
and has a floor space of 90,000 square feet and every convenience
has been provided for the farmer.

Floyd McGowan is proprietor and operator of the warehouse, which was thrown open for the 1938 season and a successful year experienced.

Mr. McGowan has made two important additions to his personnel
this year, Coy Smith and Auctioneer Ray Oglesby.

A knowledge of tobacco, and a determination to sell it high are prime factors that are necessary in every warehouseman. Floyd McGowan possesses both qualifications, and also knows that to make a regular customer out of a farmer, the warehouseman must always give him a good sale. In this lies the secret of his success during his first year in operating the New Carolina.

The scales, trucks and all other equipment at the New Carolina are like the warehouse, new and modern. With all that Mr. McGowan has to offer the tobacco grower; a large well-equipped warehouse, a capable sales force with himself at the head,
and in charge of the actual sale,
the New Carolina can be recommended to any tobacco grower
looking for a good place to sell, and a place where he is always assured of the consistently high market.

Cattle-raising is Argentina's oldest industry.

MEMORY OF THE MOON

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: Torn by doubt
and conflicting loyalties, Constance hesitates to tell Pedro
about her agreement with John.
Unexpectedly the Cabrillos arrive, and John takes Constance in his arms in front of Pedro's contemptuous eyes.

Chapter 24

Avalanche

"ALL right, take her mount on," ordered John, and flipped a coin at Pedro, whom he had scarcely seen.

"Gracias, señor," said Pedro who pocketed the half dollar and rode off.

"John," groaned Constance,
"that was young Taylor."
"What?" John looked after the departing figure. "It was? Oh, well, I'll explain to him later,"
and he chuckled. "Good sport, he took it like a gentleman; or have the Taylors taking ways with more than money?"

"Must you jump at conclusions?" asked Constance. "But come in. Where are the others?
How did you happen to come west?"

She plied him with questions
while her heart sank lower and lower. For Pedro to have seen John's greeting after their own scene on the mountain. How could she explain? Fatherly friends do not embrace their charges as John had embraced her, nor call them darling?

John had never embraced her
in that fashion before.
She couldn't explain. Pedro would laugh at her. Pedro wouldn't believe her and she wouldn't blame him.

"Chee-ta!"

Constance gasped. Donna, who hadn't bothered to bid her farewell, was running to her with wide open arms. "Oh, you're exquisite. You look so... so dudu ranchy. Darling, who was that simply perfect specimen you rode in with? Don't tell me he was a mere cowhand, because my heart wouldn't stand it. He's real, isn't he? I mean... well you know?"

"I know," affirmed Constance dully. "The perfect specimen is Peter Taylor, junior, the ranch manager's son, and to save your aristocratic nose from touching mid-heaven, he is a college graduate and his father has more money than the Cabrillos. Now, is there anything else you'd like to know about him?"

"Who's his current heart interest?"

Constance thought she had never seen her sister look as piquantly beautiful. She was so perfectly groomed, so vivacious,
black eyes sparkling, black hair
so sculptured to her pretty head.

"I wouldn't know," Constance evaded. "We discuss dairy herds."

"I'd like to believe that," offered John.

"You can," laughed Donna.
"For, I warn you, from now on Peter Taylor and I shall be exhausting the more important subjects."

El Cabrillo buzzed, it hummed, it bubbled. The Cabrillos were home. Constance, enroute to her mother's quarters, fell over servants at every foot of the way.
She gave thanks that the Pedersons had moved to their own house; there wouldn't be room for children here.

"Hi sis," shouted Don from the patio.

"Hello, Don." Timidly Constance made her way towards him. Eagerly, anxious to be friends. "It's good to have you here."

"Some dump," complimented
the young squire. "Say there, Juliano, how about a long high
one for a dusty throat?"

Juliano bent from the waist, acutely to the floor and when he straightened his old eyes were clouded. "Si, Señor Don Cabrillo,
for you, muy pronto."

Bewildered
"WELL, kid, how are things going?"

John sat on the edge of the stone table, once pounded by the flail of Constance and Pedro, and studied Constance and smiled pa-ternally at Don. Don was obviously "feeling his oats." He lollied in a basket chair, long legs thrown over the arm.

Constance started a report of the ranch, but Don interrupted.
"How many rooms here? I mean,
how many guests can we house?"
Guests? Why, Don, I don't know—

"Señor Cabrillo," Juliano, with the highball, was bowing before him—"in the days of your father's elder brother when I was so,"
and he indicated small stature.

"We have entertained of fifty people over the Longshore Lumber Company wants a Cabrillo to officiate. They want to restore, for an afternoon,
the early days."

"Then Donna should be the
one," stated Mrs. Cabrillo. "Constance is our little business woman, but she is not a true Cabrillo. I mean, she doesn't resemble the Cabrillos any more than I do."

Judge Franck sent Constance
one astonished look. She knew he had hoped to help her out of the
dilemma, but having asked for
Mrs. Cabrillo's decision, must abide by it.

John Raskthorne, had somehow, reached her side. His hand
lay warm on her shoulder.

"The judge," he said, addressing Nadine, "was asking you to suggest Constance. The lumber people, specifically asked for her.
You'll accept, of course, Conchita."

Celebration

"JUDGE FRANK to see Señorita Conchita Cabrillo," he announced.

"I'll be—" Constance spoke to Juliano's back. It appeared that Juliano had his own ideas of where the señorita was to talk to the judge.

"I'm going to take that honey
back with me when I go," purred Donna. "Imagine the girls' faces
when they hear 'Señor-eeta-Donnita Cab-reelo.'"

"So you've gone back to your right name," muttered Constance.
"Who told you Donna means Mrs.?"

"Wet blanket," spat Donna. "I suppose you'll want Don to be called Donald... nasty Scotch name."

"The only thing Scotch about our brother," countered Constance, "is his appetite for it."

And then she sighed. They were quarreling again. She didn't have time to say so. Juliano was approaching with Judge Franck.

Donna paid little attention to the visitor in his rumpled sack suit, very little attention until he turned to Constance to tell her
the reason for his visit.

"Longshore Lumber is planning a celebration at the opening of their camp. Beachport has entered into it with the enthusiasm they usually show for a fiesta of any kind, and it remains for the Cabrillos to give the affair the finishing touch.

"They would like you, Miss Cabrillo, to bring the first train of logs from the camp, across El Cabrillo, and into Beachport."

"Bring... a train of logs?"
asked Constance.

"Oh, there would be an engineer with you, but they'd like to have you in costume, purportedly at the throttle."

Somehow Donna covered the distance between her chosen chair
and the Judge in one quick, fluttering movement. "I'd love it,"
she cried. "And Judge, I have an adorable costume, black lace over scarlet, and an exquisite mantilla.
And could Don ride with me?"

Judge Franck looked beyond Donna to Constance. "The invitation is to Miss Constance Cabrillo. Will you come, Michael?"

"Michael?" shouted Don, and began to laugh. "Be on boy, is that something? Little Mickey Mahoney. And the lumber company wants a Cabrillo; you'd better let Sis do the honors."

"Don, what are you saying?"
Everyone turned and the Judge arose. Mrs. Cabrillo had quietly entered. "What is the disturbance?" she asked, after greeting
the judge and brushing the cheek
of Constance, lightly.

Explanations came from every side. Judge Franck cleared his throat. "Mrs. Cabrillo, I think you should be one to make the decision. Miss Constance has been very loyal to our community, and the Longshore Lumber Company wants a Cabrillo to officiate. They want to restore, for an afternoon,
the early days."

"Then Donna should be the
one," stated Mrs. Cabrillo. "Con-
stance is our little business woman, but she is not a true Cab-
rillo. I mean, she doesn't resemble the Cabrillos any more
than I do."

Judge Franck sent Constance
one astonished look. She knew he
had hoped to help her out of the
dilemma, but having asked for
Mrs. Cabrillo's decision, must
abide by it.

lay warm on her shoulder.

"The judge," he said, address-

Many Tar Heel Children Fail To Finish School

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Sept. 7.—Less than a quarter of all North Carolina's white children who enter the first grade of its public schools go through the full eleven year course and graduate from high school, it is shown by tables recently prepared by the Department of Public Instruction.

For Negroes the percentage is startlingly smaller, with less than five in every hundred making the grade all the way through.

The tables show a progressive increase in the rate of survivorship; but they indicate that there is still room for tremendous improvement.

Last graduating classes (eleven) grade taken as the graduation class because twelfth grades are still rare for which figures are available are those of the school year 1938-39. These figures for white children show 121,367 children enrolling in the first grade back in 1928-29 with only 28,388 enrolled in the eleventh grades of 1938-39. Thus, the percentage of "all the way" students has dropped to 23.4 per cent; and when the "promotions" or graduations are considered the percentage falls to 20.9.

Of course, the enrollment for successive years will not show absolutely correctly, the number of children who dropped out from grade to grade, or those who entered grades higher than the first, but it is probable that the entrance of students in grades above the first, plus the repeaters who slid back into the class that entered below them would approximately equal the number who entered in 1928-29 only to blunk out and go into a lower class. Here's how the class that entered in 1928-9 gradually dwindled grade by grade:

I—121,291; II—80,033; III—71,064; IV—69,264; V—64,411; VI—58,668; VII—52,274; VIII—47,940; IX—37,686; X—32,170; XI—28,388.

The biggest drop, it is easy to note, came from the first to the second grades—and that has been true of all the years on which figures are available.

Great strides have been taken in eliminating this tremendous drop from first to second grades in recent years, however. The biggest "gap" of all came between the school year 1929-30 and the following year. In the former year there were registered 119,625 first grade students, while in the latter the second grade enrollment totaled only 74,115, a decline of 45,510.

Since then improvement has been steady, until the 83,731 first grade enrollments of 1937-8 was only 15,710 higher than the 68,021 second grade enrollments of 1938-9.

It is also interesting to note the eleventh year enrollment over a period of years—how it has grown and how it compares with the enrollment of a preceding scholastic generation. For example, in the eleventh grade of 1935-36 there were 8,865 white children. In 1934-5 there were 13,667; while by 1938-9 the number had jumped to 28,388.

This at the same time that the first grade enrollment was dropping steadily. The figures tend to indicate a marked improvement in the scholarship of North Carolina's children.

Legion Membership Campaign Under Way

Pitt county Post No. 39 of the American Legion has started and is now attempting to drive to a successful conclusion, through the efforts of its membership chairman Arthur B. Corey, and has able corps of assistants, a membership campaign to place on the post's membership roster the names of all eligible ex-service men.

The following have been named as team captains, and lieutenants: Team No. 1, Captain, P. A. Scott, Greenville; Lieutenants, F. J. Deiner, Greenville; J. F. Arthur, Greenville; D. C. Taylor, RFD, Greenville; P. W. Majette, Grimesland, Dr. G. G. Dixon, Ayden.

Team No. 2—Captain, J. Hicks Corey, Greenville; Lieutenants, B. F. Little, RFD, Greenville; B. B. Basden, Ayden, P. L. Goodson, Greenville; Coy L. Forbes, Pactolus RFD, Lloyd E. Manning, Grifton.

Team No. 3—Captain, James N. Woolard, Greenville; Lieutenants, S. L. Bridges, Greenville; C. W. Williams, Greenville; A. F. Rowe, Ayden; Roscoe T. Cox, Greenville; John W. Rook, Bethel.

Team No. 4, Captain, Jack R. Edwards, Greenville; Lieutenants, Albert E. Gibson, Greenville; S. M. Woolfolk, Greenville; Asa V. Moore, Winterville; D. C. Moore, Jr., Greenville; Miss Stella Grogan, E. C. T. C.

Team No. 5, Captain, S. A. Whitehurst, Greenville; Lieutenants, Joe Lee, Greenville; W. R. Hardison, Stokes; W. J. Bundy, Greenville; Dr. K. B. Pace, Greenville; N. S. Tyson, Greenville, RFD.

For the fiscal year of 1940 the local post of the American Legion had a membership of 200, but with a potential membership of 375, the local post should have at least 300 members.

By looking at the service stripes on the left arm of the legionnaire pictured above, it can be readily seen that the organization stands not only for those things which would benefit the ex-service man, but stands for that which is of most good to the community, state and nation. It is an organization composed of a class of men and women with the death of whom the organization ceases its existence. Only the members of the armed forces of the United States and its Army Nurse Corps, who served between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918 are eligible to membership—a membership any one should be proud to claim and acknowledge.

It is the hope of the post that the membership committee will bring the membership to a high point hitherto unattained.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York.—When Andy Anderson got ready to write that murder novel of his, "Kill One, Kill Two," he went back to the Blue Ridge section of his boyhood North Carolina a mountain on which, various times, mysterious lights appear. There is a legend among the Indians who inhabit the region that these lights mean death. When they appear, someone is certain to die.

We asked Andy if there really is such a mountain in North Carolina. "Yes, sir," he replied, "in the Linville section, near Asheville. Only, we call it Brown mountain. I've heard about the Brown mountain lights all my life."

"Did you ever see them, Andy? Don't lie now."

"No," he admitted, "I never did. But I know plenty of people who have. The government even has investigated them. And a number of scientists in the south have made studies of them. They're some sort of phenomena, but they don't really mean that somebody is going to die. Sometimes there's just one light; and sometimes they come in clusters. It's a very funny thing."

Funny isn't the word for it. If you know any mystery writers, you'll know what I mean by that. Take Andy, for instance. Here is a tall (well over six feet), extraordinarily thin young man with prematurely grey hair. He speaks with a softly flowing North Carolina drawl. He has knocked about the south, middle west, and the metropolitan district as a newspaperman for twenty years. This is his first book.

"I wrote most of it in an apartment on 14th street between 5th avenue and Union Square, and if you don't think that is a peculiar environment for a murder mystery you don't know what it means to hear Communist brawls, shrill screaming insults at taxi-drivers and shoe-string salesmen squabbling with the cops. It's Coney Island and Hell's Kitchen wrapped around Sugar Hill, with a blob of the Bowery thrown in."

"Finally I went out to Jackson Heights and finished the thing in comparative peace. But nobody wanted it. One night we ran out of tally sheets during a hot bridge game and I kicked over the manuscript, looking for some extra paper. Sitting in the game was a literary agent. He said, 'What is that thing?' Which was a superlative question, as anybody who has ever seen a manuscript can tell one a mile. The upshot of this was he took the manuscript. Twenty-four hours later it had been submitted, and accepted."

We also asked Andy if he, himself, was a mystery novel fan. "I eat 'em up," he admitted. "I've read a thousand of the things. They get you. All great men read mystery stories—Winston Churchill, President Roosevelt, Henry Ford. . . . Don't you?"

We told him that, strange as it may seem, we never had read an out-and-out modern mystery novel, but that, come midnight, we were a cinch to get started on the right track, as a copy, neatly autographed, of "Kill One, Kill Two" was even then under our arm and we were all set to get going.

Cash Awards At N.C. State Fair Are Not "Chicken Feed"

Raleigh, Sept. 11.—Prizes for classes in the State Fair's Poultry Division will be anything but chicken feed, when considered in the aggregate. J. Wade Hendricks of Statesville, director of this division and assistant director in charge of the Piedmont Test Farm, has announced awards totaling $2,150 for the Fair at Raleigh, October 8 to 12.

"More than 2,000 of North Carolina's choicest birds will be on display and indications are that there will be an increase of about 25 per cent in number of exhibitors and at least 20 per cent in the number of birds."

There are classes for 75 breeds to be shown. Entries in these classes will close at 6 p. m., October 2.

Judges for the poultry classes are Professor N. W. Williams of State College and B. F. Ricketts of Zanesville, Ohio.

Premiums will as usual be limited to North Carolina exhibitors, Dr. J. S. Dorton, manager, has announced.

The State College Extension Service, State Department of Public Instruction, Vocational Agriculture and Education division; the North Carolina Experiment Station, State College, state and United States Departments of Agriculture and many other state, federal and private agencies will cooperate in presenting this year's agricultural, industrial and educational exhibits.

National Defense

The Democratic View

nation with a two-ocean Navy and an airforce second to none.

What has been done?

In the three and one half months that have passed since that time over a quarter of the $10,000,000,000 estimated 1941 defense appropriation has been placed under contract.

Already manufacturers are at work on contracts calling for 10,000 new airplanes.

As a result of recent programs the Navy now has 361 ships in actual commission and work is going forward on 133 ships.

Vital supplies of raw materials are being stored in stock piles. In the case of rubber arrangements have been made to increase the stock pile by 180,000 tons, bringing the reserves arranged for in this particular commodity up to 416,000 tons. In the case of manganese, over three-quarters of the stock pile has already been arranged for.

New contract forms have been worked out which will spread the defense program throughout the country, among manufacturers who have heretofore been unable to participate. Under the first of these policies, large orders may be split up so that the small manufacturer can take part. An adjunct to this policy calls for delivery of materials at the plant door. The government then pays transportation charges allowing manufacturers in all parts of the country to compete on an equal basis.

And this is not all. New methods by which the government shares the risk with industry of the costs of plant expansion have been worked out and put into effect on contracts. Notable among these is a single contract calling for 20,000 airplane engines.

Production of tanks for defense is rising rapidly. Under a single contract, five tanks a day are being produced on a total order calling for 1,156 tanks. At the same time, a $33,500,000 contract calls for construction of a plant to build tanks on a scale and at a price never before thought possible.

Production of a new type semi-automatic rifle for the army will soon reach over 1,000 a day. Ship construction time has been sharply cut. New ships will come into service many months ahead of original schedules.

This policy states that all employment on defense program should comply with the federal law; protecting labor standards, as well as state and local statutes affecting labor relations, hours of work, wages, workmen's compensation, safety and sanitation. It further states, in accordance with American traditions, that there should be no discrimination because of age, sex, race or color and that adequate housing facilities should be made available for employees engaged in the work of defending their country.

Lastly, in regard to labor, the administration of President Roosevelt which irresponsible persons have declared to be inefficient, has already enrolled a hundred thousand men in the industrial labor training program.

Thousands more are eager to participate in the great work of national defense. For their benefit, the defense commission has made public its new labor policy.

IT PAYS TO FEED YOUR HOGS WELL

Columbia, Mo.—(AP)—The reason a pig enjoys eating is that he likes to be happy and healthy, says J. W. Burch of the Missouri College of Agriculture, who has made a study of the eating habits of swine. Pigs that are well fed and housed in clean surroundings usually have the vitality necessary to throw off disease that might be contracted by animals on a "maintenance diet" only, says Burch.

The Republican View

Hitler came into power in Germany in January, 1933, and the seven years of the present administration saw the rise of the German army from 100,000 to 4,000,000 men, with the most modern mechanical equipment. If we waked up suddenly to find ourselves unprepared to meet a possible attack by Germany, it could only have been the fault of the present administration.

The causes of unpreparedness were inherent in the New Deal. When the first emergency blank check for $3,300,000,000 was voted by Congress in 1933, it was proposed that $2,000,000,000 be spent for mechanization of the army. The President rejected the proposal, and turned it over to PWA for all kinds of public works.

Untold billions have been spent, but for purposes having a much closer relation to making votes than to making ships. New Deal types of spending have been the first love of the administration, but comparatively little has gone for defense because the voting public were not interested at that time.

There was not even a plan for preparedness. The possibility of German victory has always existed and should at least have been provided for. On May 16, 1940, the President requested a billion dollars to put us in good defense condition. Two weeks later he asked for another billion. Now he is demanding another billion for five billion dollars more. Even on May 31 when the Germans had broken through in Belgium, he was satisfied with an army of 280,000. Now he wants 1,200,000. Certainly the first program and the second program must have been hastily thrown together, without thinking anything through. Even today we don't know just how much territory we are going to defend.

Of course money is essential for an adequate defense plan. The public debt is already fifty billion dollars. When we began the World War it was less than a billion. The excess profits tax will raise less than two hundred million, and the deficit is going to be six billion. In the absence of an adequate tax plan, we face bankruptcy and inflation. Not a cent is being saved on domestic expenses. The New Deal has shown its complete incompetence and lack of interest in any sound fiscal program essential to defense.

The New Deal is still inspired by hostility to industry, and an unwillingness to abate any single feature of excessive government regulation. These regulations have slowed the construction of our navy and hampered all industrial mobilization.

The President is unwilling to create a War Resource Administration, and give its head full discretion to develop and carry out an industrial mobilization program. While Mr. Knudsen is doing an excellent job, his position is purely advisory, and the moment a New Deal influence affects the President, Mr. Knudsen's plans may be upset overnight. Thus was the first Stettinius commission abolished after the first two months of the present war in Europe.

If the country wants a carefully thought out program of national defense, soundly and adequately financed, decisively administered, it cannot hope to get it from the present administration.

Scotland Yard Moves
London.—(AP)—Scotland Yard has new headquarters—an $890,000 10-story extension to the overcrowded Embankment building. The new Yard occupies 50,000 square feet of floor space and has been under construction three years. First big department moving in is the criminal record office with its stacks of 80 and files and photographs of every living "worthwhile" criminal in the country.

FINEST
HAM

THE HAM
YOU CUT
WITH A FORK

There's an old saying to the effect, "The nearer the bone, the sweeter the meat." This definitely is not the case with Wilson's Certified Bone-In Tender Made Ham. Because of Wilson's famous Secret Process (which even I do not know about), every morsel of one of these hams is equally tender, equally sweet and equally succulent. Cut and carve as you will at this ready-to-eat ham, it's all fine eating!

Have a Marinated
Tender Made Ham Steak

Since it is preferable to have meat at room temperature before cooking, I am going to suggest that you marinate your next Wilson Tender Made Ham steak while it is losing its refrigerator chill.

To marinate is simply to soak in a seasoned or spiced liquid. For this steak, mix 1 cup of orange juice with 2 tablespoons of lemon juice, 2 tablespoons of brown sugar, 1 teaspoon of mustard powder and 1 tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce. Pour this marinade over the steak. Let it soak for 1 hour, turn and leave it for another hour.

Then heat steak in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 20 minutes, with the marinade poured over it. Serve piping hot on a garnished platter.

APPLES ARE IN!

The new cooking apples are in—crisp, juicy, plentiful and cheap. Combine them with Tender Made Ham and molasses to make a mouth-watering entree for lunch or dinner.

Cut enough Tender Made Ham to make about 3 cupsful of half-inch cubes. Place in a casserole. Cover with 4 or 5 tart cooking apples, peeled and cut in eighths. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Pour over the top 1 cup of light molasses combined with 1/4 cup of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) just until the apples are done.

Raisin-Ham Croquettes

Put through a food chopper sufficient of the shank end of a Wilson Tender Made Ham to make 2 cups of minced ham. Combine ham with 1 1/2 cups of soft bread crumbs, 1 cup of thick white sauce, and 1/2 cup of seedless raisins which have been soaked a few minutes in boiling water and then well drained. Add 2 tablespoons minced parsley and salt and pepper to taste, and mix well. Form into 10 small patties. Dip in 1 egg beaten with 1 tablespoon of water, roll in fine dry bread crumbs. Deep-fry in Wilson's Certified All-Purpose Shortening (385° F.) until a rich golden brown. Serves 5.

Greenville High Gridders Prepare For Tough Schedule

ONE NEWCOMER AMONG RIVALS

Last Year's Conference Winners To Battle G-Men

By C. B. ROWLETT

With nine games scheduled and two open dates, the Greenville High Flying Phantoms are looking forward to a tough but successful season on the gridirons of all opposing Eastern Carolina Conference eleven.

Nine lettermen of last year's squad are returning and are nine good reasons why the 1940 eleven should be just as fast and deceptive as the team of last year. John Collins and Larry James, veteran of two seasons will be back at their old positions on the flanks. Both boys are large and fast and will figure to an advantage on the current Green. Paul Scott, who boasts a two year record at guard, will also be back. Non Lee Edwards, awarded his letter last season will be at the other guard. Tackles on the starting team will be Spencer Carroll third year man and Brice Dale, a new comer from Gastonia. H. R. Goodall, strong and enduring center, will make up the rest of the line. This is Goodall's second year as a letter man. He was awarded his letter last year as a reserve center. All starting linemen are old lettermen with the exception of Brice Dale and that is probably due to the fact that he is a newcomer to Greenville. Behind the line will be such stalwart backs as J. B. Kittrell, John Spearman, and Dewey Page. Kittrell, the only regular back of last year, not lost by graduation, will be implacable advantage to the current eleven. J. B. is beginning his third year of varsity football. John Spearman, reserve wingback of last year will get his starting assignments this year. Spearman showed his ability last year when he actually outran the entire Edenton eleven for three touchdowns. Dewey Page former end of last year's eleven has been shifted to the backfield, where he will probably be a constant threat to opposing aggregations. The other starting back will be among Gene Johnson, James Briley, Leonard Briley, Bill Britt, Gene Britt and other candidates. Bill Lee, Jack Scott, John Seale, Cecil Crawford, and Milton Beland constitute the reserve power in the line.

The Farleymen will start the 1940 season off with a game with Tarboro on the local stamping grounds. Last year's contest ended at a 13-12 deadlock. Hatton, star back for the visitors will be back and will probably give the G-Men considerable trouble. The game is scheduled for September 27.

The Goldsboro Earthquakes will be the Phantoms' second foe. Last Year's Phantom team took a 7-0 decision from the Quakes and they will be looking for revenge but it is believed that the Phantoms are more than able to hold down their end of the affair. October 4th is the date for the contest. It will be played in Goldsboro.

The third game of the season will be non-conference with Plymouth. Plymouth gave the Phantoms a tough fight in their last meeting but the Farleymen walked off with a 13-6 victory. This year's game will be played in the Guy Smith Stadium under lights.

On October 18th, Roanoke Rapids will invade the Phantoms' stronghold. The Yellow Jackets were the only team to hand the Farleymen a defeat last year and that was only by a one-point margin. The score was 7-6.

The Green Phantoms will journey to Kinston for the fifth game on the schedule. Kinston has not won a football game from a Greenville High football team in 15 years. Last year's Phantoms handed the Red Devils a 13-6 defeat.

On November the 1st the Phantoms will meet Elizabeth City for the first time. Elizabeth City won the conference last year and will give the Phantoms a tough time of it.

On November 8th and 15th the Green Phantoms will probably meet their weakest opponents, New Bern and Edenton. Last year's Farleymen trounced the New Bern team 34-0 and the Edenton eleven 51-0. Both

Southern Cal To Get Stiffer Competition To Battle For 1940 Invitation To Rose Bowl

By ROBERT MYERS

Los Angeles.—The University of Southern California grid forces suffered heavy losses by graduation and keen competition is promised from several other members of the Pacific Coast Conference—but Troy once again stacks up as a powerful factor in the Rose Bowl running.

Mighty Washington looms darkly for the Trojan hopes. Oregon State may bob up with its best team in history, the University of California at Los Angeles once again will be tough for any foe, the Berkeley Bears of California might barge back into prominence and Stanford and its new coaching set-up could offer startling surprises.

That takes in every conference team but Washington State, the Cougars, on paper, appear ready to dominate the cellar division once more.

Victors in the Rose Bowl classic successively over Duke and Tennessee, Southern California lost the key men from her great teams of 1938 and 1939. Greenville Lansdell, Jockling Bob Hoffman, All-American Guard Harry Smith, a pair of regular ends, Amby Schindler, Pass-Master Doyle Nave, Bill Sangster—all are gone from the Trojan squad.

Key Men Lost

Loss of these men should cause any coach to turn greyheaded—and there's no proof that Howard Harding Jones hasn't lost a few already grey hairs worrying over the situation. But there is an air of optimism at Southern California, the nucleus of another great team, and the possibility that some of the newcomers may capably replace the departed stalwarts.

Dependable veterans on hand include Bob Peoples, Jack Banta, and Bob Robertson in the backfield. Peoples, the javelin champion from Oklahoma, has been shifted from fullback, where he was highly important, to the quarterback spot, in which he will bear the brunt of the Trojan offense under Jones' system.

Pressing him for the starting call, however, will be a sturdy piece of greased lightning, Mickey Anderson. Anderson starred in 1938—he was a preliminary factor in the drive that led to the victory touchdown against Duke—but stayed out of the picture entirely last season. Jones, you'll remember, was loaded down with stellar quarterbacks.

Well, Mickey, a track star, is ready for real football now.

Watch Phillips

Replacing big Harry Smith will be Floyd Phillips, who weighs 179 pounds, 40 less than Smith. Some of the assistant coaches, though, say he will make Trojan backers forget the loss of All-American Harry.

Ed Dempsey, captain, is back at center, and Jones has two fine ends

AL KREUGER
Rose Bowl Hero Against Duke

John Stonebraker and Al Kreuger, the latter the last who won the winning pass in the Duke game. Big Ben Sohn, 226-pound right guard, and Bob De Laune, at right tackle, complete the line of seasoned men Jones can use, and he has replacements which may live up to the Jones tradition of strong line.

As it looks early in the fall, the forward wall may average 192 pounds and the backfield 185, which is under the 208 line and 187 backfield a year ago.

Southern California opens the year against Washington State on Oct. 5, at Pullman, Idaho. Oregon State, California, Washington, Stanford, U. C. L. A. and Notre Dame complete the schedule.

Rain Halts Series

Rains, yesterday and last night, halted the fourth game of the Coastal Plain play-off series in Tarboro. At present, Tarboro holds a one game edge over the crippled Eagles; the count standing at two games to one. The rain-out contest will be played in Tarboro tonight at 8 o'clock.

games will be played in the local stadium under the arcs.

The last game of the season will be with the Washington High Pam Pack. The two teams are deadly rivals and it will be a hard game for both teams. Last year's contest ended in a 6-6 deadlock.

Two dates, Sept. 20 and Nov. 22 are open for games but as yet no games are insight for the two dates. For unknown reasons, Windsor and Ayden, who were among the Phantoms' foes are not scheduled for this season. The G-Men took both games by large margins. Windsor by a 33-7 count and Ayden 20-0.

Arrest of Pierre Cot, former French air minister, has been ordered by the Vichy government of France which charged him with being one of those responsible for the country's unpreparedness for war when it began the conflict with Germany. Cot is shown in New York as he denied his guilt to reporters.

Hollywood.—Kay Kyser's a bad loser. Now that's a mean thing to say about a fellow, but that's what Kay says and he ought to know. That's why Kay's second movie ought to be better than his first and his third better than his second and so on.

If the connection isn't clear, let Kay wipe the mud off the windshield and take his own look at the road ahead.

"I'm a bad loser, boy, the worst ever. I want to keep on winning as long as I can. I want to put off the day, the inevitable day for every day in this game, when I'll be That's why there's nothing too hard for me and the going to take a That's why we're all tryin' to tryin' and tryin' over again."

we're sure it's the best we can do." Kay and gang are launched on their second picture, "You'll Find Out." The launching was slightly different from the start of their first, "That's Right, You're Wrong." The reason? Well, then, Kay and his gang first, hit town to make a movie. Hollywood looked down its nose and said oh-well-another band-leader-huh and let it go at that. Hollywood had seen plenty of band leaders come in swing time and go in a crawl.

So Kay made his movie, with David Butler directing and producing and that was that. They had the preview, and some people liked the picture. (I wasn't among 'em, although I like Kay and Dave) and some didn't. And the movie went on the road where the real critics talk with their coin and it cleaned up a gross such as RKO hasn't had in miles of reels—about $1,000,000 on a half-million dollar investment. So you see this time it's different. Kay walks on a red velvet carpet, so to speak.

I don't believe he's fooled, though.

He's still that North Carolina country boy at heart, and he knows this one has to be better than the last or it's his third strike and out.

EASTERN MEET AT GOLDSBORO

To Present Improved Methods In Checking Compliance

Raleigh, Sept. 12 — Improved methods for checking compliance on North Carolina farms in 1941 will be discussed at two special meetings of AAA men, the first to be held in Goldsboro, Saturday, September 14, and the second in Statesville one week later, September 21.

Chief purpose of these two meetings, which will be attended by AAA field officers, State supervisors, and county supervisors, is to formulate suggestions on compliance checking that can be submitted to a national conference in Washington early this fall.

E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive officer of State College, said the Goldsboro meeting for Eastern representatives will be held in the county agent's office and will begin at 9 a. m. The meeting in Statesville for Piedmont and western representatives will be held in the Coca-Cola Building and also will begin at 9 a. m.

Floyd has requested that each county be represented at these sessions. In cases where the county AAA supervisor is unable to attend, the executive officer is suggesting that the county agent or the chief clerk in the county AAA office attend.

One of the chief topics to be discussed will be reducing the cost of compliance work through cutting down on the number of excess cases, reducing the number of visits to a farm, and other methods which the group might suggest.

Other topics expected to come up for discussion are: measurement of cotton and tobacco land before planting; training county supervisors; training and approval of local supervisors; instruction changes; rating supervisors; making farm maps; and procedure for checking compliances.

Local Scout Executive

ALFRED L. HODGES ... Three Events Seem Inevitable

When Alfred L. Hodges of Little Washington left his post as Mathematics instructor in the Washington High School and became Assistant Scout Executive of the East Carolina Council there was one thing in particular folks asked: Will he do just like the others? They referred to the records of at least three predecessors who had assumed the assistant's post with headquarters at Greenville. Each had (1) married, (2) had an attack of appendicitis requiring an operation, (3) had soon been promoted to the executive's post in a council of his own. Since Al was neither married nor appendicitis he feared for him. He assured everyone he was "safe."

Life has been a busy whirl for the popular young assistant to Scout Executive John J. Sigwald in Wilson since the Washington man was appointed a few months ago. He was acquainted with Scout work from the volunteer leader's viewpoint. He had been a Scoutmaster in Washington for five years. That experience, in fact, had prompted him to become a Scout Executive. There followed, after his appointment, a long training period which included a training period of nearly two months at the Schiff Scout Recreators who had assumed the assistant's post with headquarters at Greenville. Mr. Hodges is enthusiastic over his new work. While he has headquarters in Greenville he may be found all over the far-flung East Carolina Council which covers 21 counties and is the largest council in the South, one of the largest in the country.

Al is a graduate of the University of North Carolina. hour were at their lowest, having reached that point in gradual declines. The trading day opened with prices up, but volume was too slight to maintain the rise.

There's Curricular Cure For That Pain In The Neck

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer
If you have trouble relaxing, maybe you should be going to school.

"Do-Nothing Classes" that teach students to relax are popular in many colleges.

The courses are the result of medical and physical education research.

The theory is that unused or little-used muscles play a big part in bringing about the pent-up feeling.

Dr. Josephine Rathbone, of Columbia university, pioneer in corrective gymnastics, not only teaches students how to relax but teaches them how to teach others.

Her textbook on corrective physical education reads like a medical journal, but she can also talk in layman's terms.

For instance, she says she has found that one of the most prevalent American complaints is a pain in the neck. The neck and shoulder muscles are used very little, she says, and she has a remedy, illustrated here.

She almost always varies exercises to suit the needs of the pupil. She insists that her classes be small and that each pupil gets personal attention.

She emphasizes the importance of medical examinations.

Arm flinging "can help that pain in your shoulder and neck. Swing arms loosely from side to side, brushing thighs with hands in each movement.

A Nazi Raider Digs Own Grave

A German Heinkel plane, raiding England, was shot down in the vicinity of London and struck the ground with such force that it dug this gaping hole. British soldiers are examining it. At 10 p. m. Monday night, the British Admiralty said 41 Nazi planes had been shot down that day. The Germans, however, continued to attack London and dropped huge bombs near historic St. Paul's Cathedral in the heart of the city.
