BERLIN SUBJECTED TO WORST RAID OF WAR

France Strikes Reprisal Blows At Britain

WAGE ATTACK ON GIBRALTAR

Vichy Government Reports Landing Attempts At Dakar Repulsed By African Forces With Losses On Aggressor Warships; Denial Is Made In London

By The Associated Press French Naval Minister Admiral Jean Darlan announced late today that France had lashed out with reprisals for the British attack on Dakar, Senegal, after repulsing British landing attempts and damaging "the aggressor warships."

"The land, sea and air forces of Africa already have repulsed the landing attempts, inflicted losses on the aggressor warships and launched reprisals," said Darlan in an order of the day from Vichy, France.

Although this proclamation did not state the nature of the reprisals, it was reported that French warplanes had bombed Gibraltar heavily. (Observers at La Linea, Spain, said at least 30 French planes had raided the rock for an hour and a half and that dense smoke columns indicated that gasoline depots on Gibraltar had been hit.)

The land attacks at Dakar, starting at 1 a. m. in a thick mist, followed a violent naval barrage during which shells from British warships rained for eight hours into the strategic African port.

A French submarine was reported hit by a British shell and a British cruiser by a French shore battery. French dead were listed at "more than 100." About 6,000 French colonial troops were defending the port.

One British landing party of 200 men was reported driven back by machinegun fire.

These reports, emanating from Vichy, were countered by the British Ministry of Information in London, which declared:

"There is no truth in reports that any British landing at or near Dakar has been attempted.

The headquarters of General De Gaulle, leader of the London recognized "free" French government, asserted that the only action took place when De Gaulle sent a group of emissaries ashore under a white flag of truce. Several members of the party were killed, it was said, when the defenders of Dakar opened fire. The rest then withdrew.

Simultaneously, an ominous note developed in United States-Japanese relations when the Japanese newspaper Kokumin, often a Japanese army mouthpiece, asserted that Japan will resist with all her means any United States attempt to make Singapore a base for naval forces in the Pacific.

Unofficial quarters in Washington had previously suggested that the United States to express disapproval of Japan's invasion of French Indo-China might send part of the U. S. fleet now based at Hawaii to the far east, possibly basing it at the French crown colony of Singapore.

La Linea, Spain, Sept. 24.—(AP)—At the Gibraltar Frontiers—French warplanes bombarded Gibraltar vigorously for nearly three hours today sending up clouds of black smoke and shaking the British fortress with a series of explosions.

The attack ceased abruptly shortly after 3:30 p. m. (9:30 a. m. EST). Thirty minutes later the British fleet sailed out of the harbor apparently heading for the Atlantic.

Watchers here saw at least 30 planes taking part in the attack, apparently a reprisal for British supported operations of "Free Frenchmen" against Dakar. Anti-aircraft guns replied heavily.

Unconfirmed reports received in Lisbon said several of the attacking planes were shot down.

Late this afternoon reports from Tangier, internationalized zone, Morocco, said heavy cannonading could be heard from an undetermined source.

The Tangier reports said British naval forces appeared to be preparing to strike back at France's Moroccan ports in answer to the Gibraltar bombardment.

THESE WERENT BORN TO BLUSH UNSEEN Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—Picture this gentleman's embarrassment. An absent-minded pedestrian walking across the city's busiest intersection sidled into an automobile.

Huge Orders Placed For Vital Army Equipment

Nearly $2,000,000, 000 In Needs Are Purchased

Washington, Sept. 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt announced today that the war department within eight days had placed $1,900,810,689 in orders for vital defense equipment from airplanes to gas masks.

The contracts were awarded under a $5,000,000,000 defense appropriations act signed by Mr. Roosevelt on September 9. He released a memorandum from Secretary Stimson detailing orders placed under the act as of September 17.

The bulk of the appropriation was earmarked for the navy, which contracted for some 200 warships the day the act was signed.

The biggest item for the army was $206,903,878 for ammunition followed closely by $206,615,000 for ordnance department "facilities" which were not further identified.

Six contracts for 3,022 airplanes aggregated $155,379,470 and four contracts for 6,786 engines came to another $74,398,142. In addition, the ordnance department ordered $14,242,300 worth of engines.

Other large items included $122,224,934 for small arms and miscellaneous items, $75,758,245 for tanks and $53,913,440 for clothing and equipment.

Mr. Roosevelt, in a rare procedure, allowed reporters to witness the conference, at which he told the group of progressives that it would "help democracy to survive if democracy remains progressive and liberal." He told them they were working for not just progressive ideals, but for the preservation of democracy.

Norris, presenting a group of approximately 30 members of the executive committee of the new committee, told the chief executive:

"We have the entire progressive organization of the nation here and want to line up solidly behind Roosevelt for President and Wallace for vice president."

"I am very, very happy—I need not tell you—the chief executive responded. "I have known most of you personally as we have been working together with most of you in the past and in working I think we have made progress for the country."

"I think we all have our feet on the ground sufficiently to know we have not accomplished all for the country we want to do.

"There's a great deal left to be done. We don't want to stand still and we don't want to go back."

PREPARES FOR REGISTRATION OF YOUNG MEN

Gov. Hoey Starts Drafting Machinery For State

N. C. ELECTIONS BOARD TO AID

Registration To Be Conducted By Local Registrars With Cooperation Of Volunteers

Raleigh, Sept. 24.—(AP) Governor Hoey said today he would get recommendations for members of local draft boards quickly now and that he had directed the State Elections Board to order registrars on duty October 16 to register young men subject to compulsory military service.

The Elections Board will direct each of the 1,916 registrars to be on duty at their regular polling places for the day. The governor said he hoped that competent and patriotic citizens would volunteer to fill the positions.

Compilations are now being made to determine how many draft boards will be needed in each county and as soon as the figures are complete letters will go to the county superior court clerks, county school superintendents and county elections board chairmen asking them to act as a committee to recommend the draft board members.

Governor Hoey said he would issue a proclamation as requested by President Roosevelt concerning the registration and also would issue a formal statement requesting citizens cooperate with registrars and draft boards.

The governor had before him a letter from the President saying "it is all important that the local boards be composed of men in whom the community has the greatest confidence. Membership on the board should be considered a position of trust and honor. I feel certain that many thousands of our most able and patriotic citizens will offer their services for this duty."

The President noted that elections officials and draft board members are expected to serve without pay as their "contribution to national defense," just as young men will be required to devote a year of their time to military training.

Women Democrats Meet Here Friday

Democratic women of the county will hold their first meeting of the campaign Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the new Municipal building and efforts are being made to have a large representation from all sections of the county present.

This year marks the 21st anniversary of women being admitted to serve on the Executive committees and the women will attempt to show their value to the party.

Mrs. F. Brooks Tucker is vice chairman of the county Executive committee and has charge of arrangements for the meeting.

She also called attention to the fact that reports on finances of the various precincts are now due and should be made so that the county's status as a whole can be determined.

"An administration that wants to do something for labor must go much further than minimum guarantees. Such an administration, while protecting labor's rights, must make jobs and jobs and jobs."

About 175 Cases On Civil Court Docket

J. Frank Harrington, veteran clerk of Pitt Superior court, declared today that the civil docket was in better shape than in years. The statement was made after observing that this week's session of civil court was finding little to do.

Mr. Harrington declared that at one time during his tenure of office as many as 1,500 cases had been on the docket at one time, compared with only about 175 at the present.

He added he hoped to reduce the present number.

A few years ago it would have taken two or three years to completely dispose of a civil action under normal procedure, while now a case can be completed in three or four months if both parties work for a prompt settlement.

Civil Actions Filed By Drainage District

Two civil actions to collect back assessments have been filed in Pitt Superior court hereby Pitt County Drainage District No. 2 through the attorney, S. B. Underwood.

One suit is against W. C. Taylor and others, in which the drainage district seeks to collect assessments for the year 1935, 1936 and 1937.

The other names J. L. Perkins and others defendants and seeks to collect assessments for the years 1925-37 inclusive.

CHURCH WOMEN CLOSE SESSION

Estimated 1,000 Methodists Attend Meet Here

One of the most momentous meetings ever held by Methodist women of the state was concluded with a luncheon here this afternoon, after which the estimated 1,000 in attendance left for their respective homes.

Approximately 288 official delegates, or heads of their respective church organizations attended the two-day meeting, but the attendance was increased by some 700 non-official representatives.

The principal feature of the meeting was the dissolution of the old Woman's Missionary Society and the creation of the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

This morning's devotional was led by Mrs. J. H. Rose. The theme of the session was cultivation of spiritual values within the church, with Mrs. Rose discussing the challenge of the church. Mrs. Helene Higgs Kirkpatrick rendered a solo, "Give of Your Best to the Master."

The business session was presided over by Mrs. E. L. Hillman of Rocky Mount, who on Monday was elected president of the newly created society, the aim of which was stated at the meeting as enlisting every woman within the bounds of the conference into the work. Mrs. Hillman urged that Officers' Day be observed in each local unit. She described this as a valuable affair, designed to help the officers better understand their duties.

The financial status of the society was discussed by Mrs. F. B. McKime of Goldsboro.

Christian social relations and local church activities were outlined by Mrs. J. H. Cutchin of Whitaker, who listed seven points in a program of Christian social relations as follows: local church community operation, instructional relations, economic relations, minority groups and interracial relations; Christian citizenship, alcoholic and other narcotics. U. S. MAY TAKE STERN ACTION AGAINST JAPS

Disapproves Of Nippon Drive In French Indo-China

NO INDICATION OF INTENTIONS

Washington Officials, However, Believed Determined Not To Let Challenge Go Unanswered

Washington, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Hints came from informed administration sources today that the United States may go beyond a diplomatic protest in showing disapproval of Japan's drive in the French Indo-China, which Secretary Hull said upset the status quo in the Pacific.

There was no indication what decisions were taken at policy-making conferences of State Department officials following the entry Sunday of Japanese troops into the Far Eastern colony.

One "usually well informed source predicted, however, that the United States would not "let this challenge go unanswered."

Although the possibility of a diplomatic protest was not ruled out, its effectiveness in checking Japan's southward drive was discounted in informed quarters.

A wide range of possibilities was canvassed in conferences to decide what measures could be taken to reinforce the government's long established policy of insisting on maintenance of the status quo in the Far East.

The growing confidence of administration officials in Britain's assistance in Europe prompted the belief in some quarters that the United States could assume a more active role in stabilizing Pacific conditions.

Washington, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Secretary Hull said today that more factual information on developments in French Indo-China was awaited before any particular steps or policies were formulated on Japan's southward empire movement.

He declined to discuss the question whether there was a possibility of American aid to French forces in Indo-China if they resisted the Japanese or to say whether an American protest had been or would be made to Tokyo.

The Secretary of State said, however, that he had heard no official intimation that a part of the United States fleet now at Hawaii might be transferred to the Atlantic.

Hanoi, French Indo-China, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Fighting between French and Japanese forces along the northern boundary of French Indo-China was reported to have stopped overnight and official French sources said today their troops had been ordered to withhold their fire unless attacked.

Thus, it was said, the French colonial authorities gave the Tokyo representative, General Issaku Nishihara, every opportunity to halt the Japanese-South China command's threatened land, sea and air onslaught against northern Indo-China without further bloodshed.

A Domei dispatch from Tokyo also reported all quiet along the Indo-China border today. The dispatch estimated the Japanese had suffered about 100 casualties in previous fighting.

The French authorities described the situation as one "of extreme gravity" despite the efforts to avert further fighting.

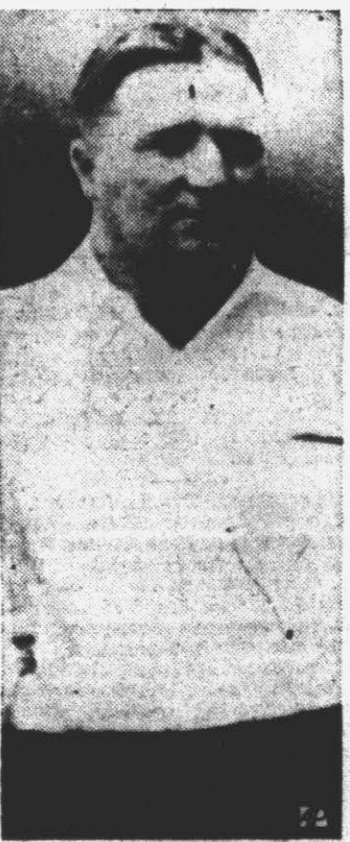

Garner Leave Texas For National Capital

Since the vice president left the nation's capital after his unsuccessful bid at Chicago for the presidential nomination there had been political speculation as to whether he was retiring to his Texas home land.

A maid in the Garner residence said the average price might run as high as 25 cents. Good grades were offered and growers were satisfied.

Boy's Rescuer

Cecil Weisel (above), hard-fisted 230-pound lumberman and former Washington State College football player, rescued kidnapped Marc de Trissan, Jr., 3, and captured William Jakob Muehlenbroich, scoundrel of the abduction, on the mountains of St. Dorado county, California. Weisel, who rescued them in an automobile on a country road, questioned Muehlenbroich about the case and found himself facing a gun in Muehlenbroich's hands. The lumberman kicked the man in football fashion, overcame him after a furious fight and tied him up with a rope.

STATE TO GAIN HOUSE MEMBER

Southern And Far West States To Gain By Census

Washington, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The census figures indicated today that the South and Far West would gain eight seats in the House of Representatives at the expense of the Mid-West and Industrial East.

Unofficial computations made on the basis of preliminary figures showed that under the existing formula the reapportionment due next spring may give two extra seats to California and one each to Arizona, Florida, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon and Tennessee.

The same figures indicated losses of one seat each for Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma, and Pennsylvania. These states either lost population or failed to gain as much as the others.

If preliminary computations stand up they will form the basis upon which the House of Representatives will be elected in 1942 and they also will alter the electoral college voting in the presidential election of 1944.

Old Bright Marts Open 1940 Season

Winston-Salem, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Prices better than expected were reported on opening sales of some Old Bright belt tobacco markets today.

At Mount Airy the first 14 piles sold brought an average of 29 cents, ranging from 23 to 33 cents a pound.

Growers were described as "very satisfied." The quality of offerings was medium grade leaf.

Reidsville's opening sales on some grades brought more than 30 cents. The first several rows disposed of were of "excellent color and quality."

At Mebane one warehouseman was unofficially predicted for the day's sales.

Here in Winston-Salem the first hour's sales averaged 23.33 cents a pound.

British Air Force, Countering German Invasion Preparations, Strike Blow After Blow Leaving German-held French Coast In Flames

London, Sept. 24.—(AP) Countering German invasion preparations with all its power, the British air force rapped home blow after blow today, attacking German ships caught in the English channel, carrying out the greatest raid of the war on Berlin and leaving the German-held French coast in flames.

Eye-witnesses saw five British bombers dive in line upon four medium-sized German ships approaching Boulogne on the French coast and apparently sink them all.

British sources said the attack on Berlin last night was carried out by relays of planes which started and returned like scheduled trains from a railway station. The German capital's main power station and gas works were said to have become flaming beacons which guided the way to subsequent attacks on freight yards, stations and utilities.

The Reich air force again sent huge formations swarming over the southeast coast in thrusts at London which resulted in two brief air raids alarms during the morning.

The attack of machine guns above the clouds indicated the British air force was on tireless patrol. Anti-aircraft guns panned the sky with thrusts of steel and both raids on London were of brief duration. No bombs were heard in the central part of the city during the second raid and the formation of 19 planes which raced over the city in the first was scattered after a brief battle.

The Air Ministry said "extensive damage" was done in the raid on Berlin, which was described as a "much larger scale than any yet carried out."

Barley Viewed As Winter Corn Crop

Barley, known as the "winter crop" is increasing in importance in Eastern Carolina very rapidly, according to county agent R. R. Bennett.

Barley, pound for pound, is considered about equal to corn in food value and has certain important advantages over corn as a feed crop.

Yields of 30 to 45 bushels per acre are not uncommon. The average yield of corn per acre for this section will fall around 19 to 20 bushels per acre.

In addition to a crop of barley, a crop of lespedeza hay, followed by a seed crop can be harvested from the same land during the same year, or a crop of soybeans for hay or seed or soil improvement can be grown following barley.

The most popular variety of seedless barley in this section for either grain or hay is Tennessee No. 6. The growth also makes splendid winter and spring grazing for livestock and is one of the earliest mowing small grain crops.

A new variety of seedless barley which looks very good is known by the number 23.

A recent and popular variety of bearded barley is number 66. The bearded variety in the past have slightly outyielded the seedless varieties.

The many combines in Pitt county, and the possibility of harvesting barley and lespedeza or soybeans. (Continued on page five)

Forty Years Ago Today

September 24, 1900
It is now but a little more than three months before the General Assembly will be in session again, and Greenville should by all means have an application before that body to permit the town to vote on the question of issuing bonds for the establishment of waterworks, an electric light plant, and a graded school. All three of these as well as better streets, are imperative needs for the town. To have them means progress; not to have them means continued stagnation and dragging along several years behind the times, behind our opportunities, and behind our neighboring towns. Already Greenville has suffered for the lack of these much needed improvements. In many respects we have one of the best towns in the state, but our people have been entirely too slow in taking hold of matters that are for the greatest public good.

Waldrop cabin last week-end. The purpose of the camp-out was to pass the requirements of a midshipmate rating. Sarah Moore had already received her rating, but those who fulfilled the qualifications successfully were Pat Waldrop and Jane Smith.

The Eclipse:

Savages Run From It As Scientists Run To It

Black Path of Terror—The total eclipse of October 1 as visualized by Prof. William H. Barton of Hayden Planetarium.

By HERMAN R. ALLEN
AP Feature Service Writer

New York—Terror will reign in the steaming jungles of the Amazon basin in South America on October 1 as the moon comes between the earth and the sun. But to scientists it will be one more chance to learn about the universe we live in.

This will be no ordinary eclipse. The sun's disk will be entirely covered for more than four minutes.

"The circumstances that make an eclipse of this length possible are extremely rare," says Prof. William H. Barton, executive curator of the Hayden planetarium of the American Museum of Natural History.

"They involve the relative distances between the earth, the moon and the sun. It is a fortunate combination of these relative distances that will make the coming solar eclipse such a notable event, both for astronomers and the man in the street—or, rather, the Indian in the jungle.

"The blotting out of the sun by the moon in full day during an eclipse has always struck fear into the hearts of primitive men because an eclipse is something that the average person sees no more than once in his lifetime.

"That isn't because eclipses are so rare but because they almost never are visible twice in the same place.

and most people live in the same place their whole lives."

As the sun rises over the Andes of southern Colombia on October 1, it will be totally blotted out. Then a hundred-mile-wide pall of darkness will race eastward across Colombia, southern Venezuela, the jungles of Brazil and out over the Atlantic. Five hours later, after crossing South Africa, it will lose itself in the Indian Ocean.

The eclipse will not be visible in the United States, except for a few fleeting moments in Georgia and Florida, where it will be partial. Several expeditions will set up cameras in the hope it will be a clear day.

TO DETERMINE 1941 PROGRAM

Cotton Referendum Will Be Held On December 7th

Raleigh, Sept. 22.—E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive officer, has announced December 7 as the date on which cotton growers of North Carolina and the South will go to the polls to vote on the 1941 marketing quota program.

Showing no change from that in effect this year and in 1938 and 1939, the 1941 program would make possible the marketing of approximately 12,000,000 bales of cotton. The acreage allotted would be near that of this year, which was 27,900,000. However, farmers planted only 25,100,000 acres of the national allotment.

Before the 1941 program can go into effect, two-thirds or more of the eligible growers voting must favor the allotment plan. Last year, quotas were approved by 91.2 percent of the producers who voted in the December referendum. Similarly, the quota programs for the 1938 and 1939 crops were approved by large majorities.

Farmers who plant within their acreage allotment under the program will be able to market all of the cotton grown on their allotted acreage without penalty. If quotas are voted, those producers who market in excess of their quotas will be required to pay a penalty of three cents a pound on all cotton sold in excess of the individual marketing quotas set up for their farms.

Floyd explained that the 1941 marketing quota for the nation was announced following official determination that on August 1 the total supply of cotton was 24,900,000 bales or 137 per cent of the "normal" supply of 18,200,000 bales.

"Cotton farmers have need of marketing quotas for the 1941 season more than ever before," Floyd said. "War conditions have decreased rather than increased our for-

A Series Describing the Arms and Services of the Regular Army

THE ORDNANCE
The Ordnance Department of the regular army plays a major role in the drama of national defense—during both peace and war.

This highly skilled service is responsible for the design, creation, supply and maintenance of both weapons and ammunition for the fighting forces.

It is their job to solve the tremendous problem of providing modern arms for the rapidly expanding U. S. army.

Trained men are in great demand and thousands of young men are sign outlets for the staple. However, the domestic condition is encouraging."

learning skilled trades in your work. It is one of the most interesting of all the arms and services. The ordnance soldier, after sufficient training, may choose his specialty from rifles, mortars and cannons—to the highly technical range finders, ammunition, fuses or mechanical repair and maintenance.

During time of war, the ordnance is charged with ammunition supply and field repairs from mobile machine shops. There is no more thrilling or heroic work than the steady lines to the front, often braving the heaviest kind of aerial and artillery bombardment. During the last World War, there was never a time when the front lines of the A. E. F. lacked adequate arms and ammunition supplied by the field forces of the ordnance department. The ordnance covers every arm from the small .22 rifle to the monster coast defense guns that hurl a projectile weighing more than 25 tons up to distances more than 25 miles. Its service ranges from government arsenals to field posts wherever the army goes—at home or to overseas possessions. Wherever possible, an ordnance soldier is permitted to choose the work or station that interests him most.

Because of the highly skilled nature of the ordnance, opportunity for promotion and higher pay is unusually attractive. About fifty per cent of all ordnance personnel are graded higher than privates—and, in addition, department specialists receive extra compensation (over regular pay grade) of from $2 to $30 per month. The ordnance maintains a field service school at Raritan Arsenal, New Jersey, where enlisted personnel who qualify may receive nine months of intensive training in the specialty chosen. Today, with military arms reaching a greater degree of mechanization than ever before, the ordnance offers young men a remarkable chance for advancement and training, both for army careers and future civilian life.

Seventy per cent of the estimated 2,600,000 crippled persons in the United States above the age of 15 are males.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

Gross Income A Dime

The barber to whose tonsorial attentions I resign myself each summer was telling me about the hard time he had getting started thirty-five years ago. "I used to work fourteen hours every day," he declared. "People always knew, as they know today, that I kept right on the ball from early in the morning until well into the evening." "When I first started," he continued, "we got ten cents for a shave. One day I had just one customer in the fourteen hours I was in my shop—a ten-cent shave. I felt like closing up and going out of business. But I kept at it, and in thirty-five years I have been making a good living and something more. I presume I've got about as much out of life as the next fellow. Happiness comes from keeping busy and trying to forget the unpleasant things. The millionaires get their bumps as well as the barbers, and judging from the one I've shaved I wouldn't trade places with any of them." "I could not help thinking that what makes a nation great is the spirit which keeps a man going after he has had just one customer the living day—a ten-cent shave. It took considerable courage for a young man to surmount a circumstance like that, not because of the little income the day brought forth, but because the circumstance seemed to presage approaching disaster. But this man would not have it so. It would take more than a ten-cent shave to drive him into retreat." All Rights Reserved — Babson Newspaper Syndicate

'THE RAMPARTS WE WATCH'

"The Ramparts We Watch," the moving picture produced by Time and the March of Time, showing today and tomorrow in Greenville should be seen by every citizen. Some of the pacifists might term the picture "propaganda," but as we saw it at this morning's preview, it is a clear historic picture of events leading up to America's entry into the first World War, clearly setting forth American aims and ideals that are as strong today as at any time in our less than two hundred years of existence as a free nation. Indeed there are "Ramparts" of civilization that must be watched and protected by America if freedom in this or any part of the world is to prevail. History is indeed repeating itself, and for the good of America we urge you not to miss the opportunity of seeing this great picture.

The man of good judgment neither takes everything for granted, nor does he stubbornly continue in the silliness of the past.

Washington.—Notes from the CCC (the reference herein to C-men is not my invention; the boys of the Civilian Conservation Corp refer to themselves that way):

Powers, Ore.—From an unpretentious member of the local CCC company to an army air corps lieutenant in less than two years is the record of former Enrollee Robert W. Fish. Fish progressed from "average enrollee" to powder man (in charge of blasting on the Rogue river project), to camp photographer, to camp newspaper editor, to Ohio State University freshman (working his way through), to graduate of the army air corps base training school at Glenview, Ill., and the advanced schools at Randolph and Kelly Fields in Texas. He's now with the 90th Bombardment Squadron at March Field, Calif.

Minersville, Calif.—An epidemic of Indian hair-dos followed the camp showing here of the movie, "Geronimo." The favorite was the "scalp-lock," consisting of a shaved head except for a waving patch of hair at the top of the noggin. Instead of scalping the fastidiously Company Commander Stambaugh did a reverse Indian on the old Redskin torture method. Those whose hair has grown out can now emerge from barracks.

Bluffton, Ind.—Junior Leader Stanley Thompson was awarded a shiny new double-bitted axe for winning the chopping contest at the camp here. Teamed with Keith Bostwick, he also won the sawing contest.

Westfield, Mass.—After city firemen had "put out" the same forest fire three times in two days, C-men, armed with camp fire-fighting equipment, gave the blaze the once-over. P. S. It's still out.

Boulder City, Nev.—Our No. 1 nominee for the little man who had a busy day: Estel "Shorty" Fout. Sitting on a float, about 500 feet off-shore in the choppy blue waters of Lake Mead, a few miles above Boulder Dam, Shorty heard the help-help cry of camp-stricken Robert Bullman of Los Angeles. Shorty rescued Bullman, using break-holds and a chest-cross carry he had been taught at camp. A few minutes later, Shorty rescued Miss Vida White, 23 years old, Santa Monica, Calif., and an hour later Miss Helen McCoy of Oklahoma City, Okla. Lifeguard Paul Gustlin gave C-man Fout high praise for his day's work.

Mill Creek, Calif.—Among "the wild visitors" to the camp here are a flock of bears who walk through (never around) the camp to the garbage pits. Just before dark the C-men climb into trees to watch the evening parade. So far not a bear has been hugged.

Meade, Kans.—C-men here are gunning for the hit-and-run driver who killed "Minnie-the-Moocher," the camp's pet doe who was so tame she would enter the mess hall at meal times looking for her hand-out. The camp poets are working on an epic eulogy to Minnie, into which the further tragic note is being introduced that an autopsy disclosed Minnie was about to present the camp herd with a new addition.

Outing, Minn.—Jim Companion, pitching a double-header for the local camp's baseball team, defeated the sub-district championship. He fanned 33 men.

Today's Pastoral
Dagaz, Switzerland.—(AP)—The minister of the Protestant church of Ragaz has proved himself a real shepherd. When he heard that one of the farm houses of his community was abandoned, its occupants all mobilized, he took time off to tend the sheep and milk the cows. He stayed at it for over two months.

Raleigh, Sept. 24.—A last opportunity to resign is being given Reserve officers holding commissions as Second or First Lieutenants and who have families dependent upon them, your Raleigh reporter learns from officers who have received War Department notification to that effect.

One of the striking features of this notification is the "last chance" nature, and its flat statement that the "present emergency" is so great that no resignations from the Reserve except on account of dependents will be permitted. Ordinarily Reserve officers can resign upon almost no grounds if they choose to do so; but it seems that those days are over for duration of the existing crises.

Surprise was expressed in some reserve officer quarters that there aren't some strings attached to the resignations which will be permitted, such for example as a transfer of the resigned officer to the "inactive" list rather than a complete and unconditional separation from the military establishment.

Your reporter also learns that no less than 8,000 Reserve officers in the Fourth Corps area alone are quite likely to be called to active service at any moment. Reserve officers have been queried as to their willingness to accept an active duty status not only in the United States, but in Panama, Alaska, the Philippines and Hawaii.

(A transplanted midwesterner pinch-hitting for vacationing George Tucker)

New York.—This is about a fellow who found out it's no sin to admit you can't find your way around New York.

A transplanted midwesterner, he had been there exactly three weeks. As the subway clattered along, he looked neither to the right nor to the left. He fancied his pose was one he had observed most seasoned subway travelers assume.

The train rolled to a stop, and in the brief interval of quiet the man next to him held out a Sunday magazine section.

"Wonderful picture," he said, pointing to a colored cover portrait. The newcomer finally mumbled agreement. The train got under way and the noise was excuse enough to break off the conversation. And then the transplanted midwesterner mused:

"Who am I to be indifferent toward anyone with a desire to talk? It wasn't that way back home."

He realized how his response to this kindly gentleman had been the very thing which in New York people had bothered him no end. The train was slowing down again. The transplanted midwesterner looked at the magazine cover. Yes, it was a good picture. He expressed the opinion a couple of times, in an effort to show appreciation of a fellow passenger's efforts to be friendly.

The older man shifted the conversation. "Do you know if we have passed that junction out here?" he asked. The newcomer never had heard of the junction, but wouldn't admit it.

"Well, it doesn't make much difference. I can always ride back."

"You're new in New York?" queried the midwesterner.

"Oh, no. I've lived here 52 years. I just don't keep my bearings like I should. I meant to ask about where to get off. You've got to ask your way around New York. I ask questions almost every time I leave Hollywood.—Paul Muni was happy. He said he was and I know he was.

He was working on a movie with no strings tied to him, no wondering about what was net in line for him, no job to worry about except the one at hand.

The movie was "Hudson's Bay," and the setting was a high-valued inn in Montreal—rustic, spacious, with strong oak tables and beams and bright fire leaping in the great stone fireplace.

Around the table were Muni, with his hair shaggy and his beard sprouting; Laird Cregar (the coast star of "Oscar Wilde") with a magnificent shaggy beard and hair and paunch; and John Sutton, with no

Chapter 34

Confidential Conversation
CONSTANCE heard herself pleading, "The cow wasn't there last night, I know. Lamson, my very own man, watches this one."

Dr. Wing shook his head. "You know the law," he said. Constance sank down on the edge of a trough. She knew. Slaughter of all diseased cattle. Loss of the herd. A check on the outflow of milk from El Cabrillo Dairies until a test had been run on the entire place . . . and even then the stigma.

"Doctor Wing, there's a good chance they didn't contract it in this very short time, isn't there?" Michael Mahoney had never bargained more eagerly. "Give them a chance. Let me have the whole herd driven to the inner valley. We can isolate them for the period of quarantine. It isn't just the money and the reputation of the ranch, it's—"

"She looked at the nearest cow regarding her with patient eyes. "Oh, I like the fool things," she explained. "I just can't have them slaughtered for nothing."

Doctor Wing thought for a few moments. "You've been having a lot of subversive activity lately, haven't you, Miss Cabrillo? I came here on a tip telephoned the office. I'd like to find out who's doing this. Call your man and we'll see about it."

Lamson came forward. "See anything unusual about that herd?" Doctor Wing asked him. Lamson looked them over then turned to Constance. "If I say," he burst out, "low did she get in 'ere?' And he cut the stranger from her herd.

Wing was satisfied. "Remember, Miss Cabrillo, this quarantine means dry cows. Is it going to be worth the feed?"

"Yes!" "All right, I'll stay with the drive. But first let me telephone for some men. They might as well to the disinfecting you'll need at the old cattle barns."

Pedersen took Wing to the telephone, then came back to Constance. "I won't be able to learn anything from anyone," he said with the slow anger of his race. "There's something queer about this place. It seems to close against strangers. To keep on means eternal vigilance, and—"

Constance knew what he meant. Pedersen was beginning to wonder if it was worth it. So was he, with the best-producing herd in the place in quarantine.

Slowly she went back to the ranch house, stepped into the patio and stopped short. Juliana was draped on a Donkey's back, Nadine was crying softly and Donna was hysterical. "That damned horse of yours," shouted Don.

Constance wheeled and ran to the stable. A high, shrill whinny greeted her. And then the stable boy ducked out of the stall, tears streaming down his face. "He's had a heart," he sobbed. "Your brother was mad at him . . . see . . . this leg here."

Constance saw the leg and other marks. "Get Doctor Wing, he'll be at Barn Three. Tell him to hurry."

She soothed the horse, ran a reassuring hand down his neck and along the flanks where muscles twitched and when he quieted she leaned her head against him. Don had tried to break Pancho. . . . He had broken her. When her enemies struck at her through defenseless animals, she was whipped.

The Key Turns
"NASTY" gash on his leg here, and some other nasty things," Doctor Wing pronounced after his examination. "Whoever did this ought to be horse whipped."

Constance nodded. But who would do the whipping? Neither Don nor Donna had ever been corrected for any wrong they had done.

Doctor Wing looked at her quizzically, cleared his throat and "trumbled." "You won't be much help here now. I need men, so out Pancho in a trailer and take him to my place. Tell the wife to give him that box stall on the acre lot. He needs the quiet he'll have there. Stay with him until he feeds."

Constance sent the boy for her car keys while she blanketed Pancho, led him to the trailer and tacked on the canvas cover. Only his amber eyes were visible through the slits as he trumbled.

She drove out of El Cabrillo Real slowly. She didn't want to see the family until she could control her anger. Then they would talk. She would bargain with them. How? What had she left to offer?

Marriage to John Raskthorne if he would agree they all go east. She could leave the ranch with Pedersen.

There was one other solution. She could admit defeat, and turn the place over to John to sell. The Taylors would buy in. Pedro would come home to Peter.

She had a little money left over. She could offer it to the family if they would leave. She'd find work some place; some place where she could board Pancho nearby.

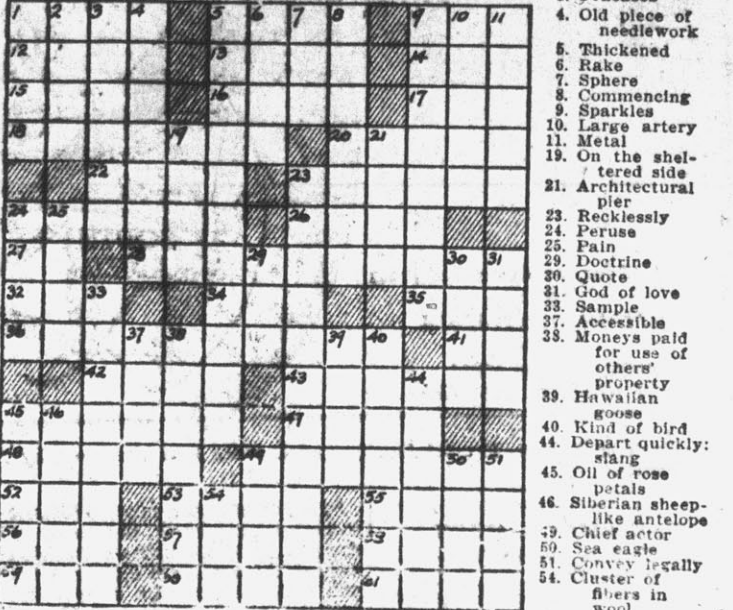

Pedro had said Michael Mahoney wouldn't give up until he'd been thrown in the Bastille and beard at all.

Muni and Cregar, in the scene, were trying to part Sutton from his money (for an expedition into the wilds) and yet to dissuade Sutton from joining them. (You and I know what luck they had with our handsome hunk don't we?) Muni and Cregar did their talking in hitting, French-inflected English.

was a different story and which set the Muni movie career.

The Warner-Muni separation over "High Sierra" was, as usual, "amicable." Muni, because of earlier agreements with the studio over casting, had sought release before. He was persuaded to sign an appeasement contract which gave him (in his own words) all the best of the bargain. He was given the right to choose his vehicles from those submitted, and to collect on the chosen picture even though for any reason the studio could not make it. The impasse came when Muni agreed to do "Beethoven," which presently was budgetarily inadvisable. He was offered "High Sierra" instead.

"A good picture—but not for me," he said. "Ideal for Humphrey Bogart, who is playing the role instead. So I asked for release, and they gave it. But that doesn't mean I won't go back to Warner's when they have a picture for me."

"I'm happier this way. There are some actors, including myself, who should never be under contract at any one studio. This way I can work when I please, on pictures that please me, and that is fairer to the studio too. Also—I can plan to do stage plays when I please. And I shall certainly do that. It is better in every way."

And he's dead right about that.

Phantoms To Seek Second 1940 Triumph Friday Night

PLAY TARBORO AT PARK HERE

Two Teams Played To 13-All Deadlock Last Year

By C. B. ROWLETT

With one victory in the bag and high hopes for another, the Greenville High Phantoms and Coaches Boley Farley and Hernan Pulkinson, are getting set to meet a strong Tarboro high eleven at the Guy Smith stadium Friday night.

Last year's contest was played on the enemy grounds where the Co. Men, after going scoreless for the first half, came back and, led by Sakas, who raced 85 yards for a touchdown, scored 13 points in the third and fourth periods to tie the boys of Tarboro. Although hard hit by graduation last spring, the Phantoms are showing up exceptionally well to have as many newcomers on the squad as they have this season. The Farleymen lost seven regulars from last year's squad.

Sakas who was the scoring ace of last season seems to have left his ability to John Spearman and Bill Britt who showed their worthiness last Friday night when they made consistent gains through the Wind-or line, and Spearman finally moved over from the 20 for a score.

Dewey Page, converter end, seems to be making up for the loss of Joe Stocks, hard driving fullback of the '39 Phantoms, when he ripped through the middle of the line last week for the second score against Windsor.

J. B. Kittrell, the only regular backfield man to return, is still at his blocking back post where he gained his fame as a hard hitter. Kittrell has been indirectly responsible for more than one touchdown racked up by the Phantoms in the past two years.

Four linemen, Warren Parrish, guard, Russell Rogerson and Earl Kittrell, tackles, and Polly Williams center, were lost to the '40 eleven but such boys as H. R. Goodall, Cecil Crawford, Spencer Carroll, Noah Lee Edwards, and Brice Dale are more than successfully doing the work designated for them.

Despite an old notion held by some, lime will not kill broadsword; it does add to the fertility of the soil and makes the seeds more palatable to animals.

The annual 4-H Dress Review, featuring club girls from all sections of the State, will be held at State College October 4, says Miss Willie Hunter, extension clothing specialist of State College.

Recent favorable weather has aided greatly in maturing this year's peanut crop, according to B. Troy Ferguson, northeastern district farm agent of the State College Extension Service.

Jack Dempsey's Autobiography Gives Inside Dope On His Fights

AP Feature Service

New York.—Gene Tunney got in the first punch in the rain at Philadelphia's Sesqui-Centennial stadium almost 14 years ago and with it virtually stripped Jack Dempsey of his world heavyweight boxing championship.

In his autobiography, "Round-By-Round," published recently, Dempsey tells of his customary strategy of rushing his foe at the outset, landing the initial blow and taking immediate command of the situation.

That was his plan against Gene and he came in, weaving from side to side, and threw a left hook. But he writes, "before it could even land his own right counter-blow took me on the side of the head with a force that staggered me."

In his "Back Stage" "Instead of my having landed the first blow against a formidable opponent, softening him up for the entire fight, Tunney had handed it to me. I tried not to let him see how badly I had been shaken up. I was even able to fool a good many of the reporters. Only a few of them wrote that I was barely able to weather the round."

Tunney easily out-pointed Dempsey to win the title. Dempsey attributes his loss to a three-year lay-off, the effects of an attack of grippe, and nervousness brought on by lawsuits.

Jack retired but was persuaded by Tex Rickard, the promoter, to try and regain the crown. First, Rickard booked him against Jack Sharkey, with a left hook to the jaw while the Boston sailor had his hands down and his face turned to the referee in protest of an alleged low punch.

Dempsey answers criticism of this blow with the comment that "except when a fighter is down and taking the count, he is required to defend himself at all times."

When Jack nailed Gene in the seventh round of their return tilt at Chicago in 1927 he thought he had regained the title, that Gene would never recover in ten seconds from the falling he had received. But Dempsey went to the wrong corner after the knockdown and had to be directed by Referee Dave Barry to a corner farther away. Then Barry began counting over Gene, starting at "one" rather than picking up the count with the timekeeper.

That Long Count
This was the now famous "long count," from 14 to 17 seconds, and it gave Tunney time enough to recuperate. He back-pedaled until his head cleared and went on to out-box Dempsey. This was Dempsey's fifth million-dollar gate. The crowd of 102,000, smaller than the 140,000 at Philadelphia, paid around two and a half million dollars. In the early chapter Dempsey tells of his youth in Colorado, his work in the coal mines, his decision to follow two older brothers, medicine fighters, into the ring and a half dozen years of fruitless wandering around, trying to arrange bouts that would advance him into the top flight.

His success started when Doc Kearns became his manager. Doc quickly elected to send Jack against a top notch, more experienced fighter, Gunboat Smith. Although out on his feet and dazed, Dempsey won. Doc made him work up the hard way, tackling one opponent after another who was supposedly better than Jack.

At the start of 1918 Dempsey was still a long way back. There were ten championship fighters standing between him and Champion Jess Willard. But during that year Dempsey won from Carl Morris, Bill Brennan, Fred Fulton, Homer Smith, Jim Flynn, Gunboat Smith, Battling Levinsky and Porky Flynn. He fought a draw with Billy Miske and later outpointed him.

Beats Willard
His triumph brought him a title fight against Willard at Toledo July 4, 1919. He knocked Pess down a half dozen times or more in the first round and thought he had kayved him. But in the wild confusion as the referee counted over the fallen Jess, no one heard the bell that saved Willard. Dempsey had bet $10,000 at 10 to 1 that he would stop the champion in the first round. In the third Dempsey gave Jess such a beating that Willard's handlers threw in the towel.

As champion Dempsey had three poor fights, against Billy Miske and Bill Brennan, whom he finally knocked out, and Tommy Gibbons, whom he outpointed. He explains his bad performances by saying he was not in good shape.

The high spots of his career as champion were against Georges Carpentier at Boyles Thirty Acres in New Jersey and against Firpo, the Wild Bull of the Pampas. The Carpentier fight, with its ballroom as an international event, drew the biggest crowd up to that time. Dempsey won with a third round knockout.

He had trouble with Firpo. Dempsey belted the Argentinian down several times in the first round and to have Firpo get up and knock him through the ropes onto the row into the ring, survived that round and then kayved Firpo in the next round. The fight was perhaps the most spectacular in boxing history.

Dempsey closes the book with an illustrated chapter on how to box. The book, written in collaboration with Myron M. Stearns, is published by Whitlsey House.

DON BAKER—BACK

Don Baker, fleetest of all the Tar Heel runners, will be counted upon heavily at Chapel Hill Saturday when the University of North Carolina entertains Wake Forest in the outstanding Southern Conference game of the week.

Baker showed his heels twice Saturday to Appalachian and on both occasions outspurred the secondary of the Mountaineers. He snagged a pass and raced 27 yards for the first touchdown of the game and five minutes later dashed 36 yards around end for the second tally.

In addition to his fine performances of offense, Baker also blocked and tackled well.

BARLEY VIEWED AS WINTER CORN CROP

from the same land during the same year, will do much to promote the production of this grain as a feed crop in the future.

Barley should be sown between October 15 and November 10 at the rate of 2 bushels per acre.

In seeding any crop it is important to sow just before or right after a season. A shallow finely pulverized seed bed that is firm on top is desirable.

For small grain the soil should be pulverized to depth of 3 to 4 inches and rolled with some type of packer just before or after the seed are sown.

A grain drill is the most desirable method of seeding the crop, or the seed may be broadcasted and covered with a smoothing harrow.

Most fields can be put into excellent condition for small grain with a disc harrow, followed by a smoothing harrow. Where row crops have been planted on ridges, first level each ridge with a disc and harrow the field.

Most small grain crops in the coastal plain receive no fertilizer; except a top-dressing of nitrate of soda or similar material in the spring. This practice is usually satisfactory after heavily fertilized crops, like tobacco. But after other crops, especially exhaustive crops like corn, hay crops and peanuts it pays to fertilize with 300 to 400 pounds of a 4-8-4 or 2-8-6 per acre at planting time and 100 to 150 pounds per acre of nitrate of soda when growth starts in the spring (about March).

Celebrated Equestrian Is Featured With Wallace Circus

Miss Jean Allen, prominent equestrienne star of Wallace Bros. Circus, will head a bevy of talented riders in a vertible horse show, one of the novel features of the big show this year.

An integral part of the circus since the earliest days, has been its horses and with the Wallace Brothers Trained Animal Circus when it comes to Greenville for two exhibitions on Monday, September 30 it will be noted that these lovable creatures have become more in evidence than ever before.

Although like all of the big circuses, Wallace Bros. no longer gives any street parades, as this was discontinued since 1923, it has, however, become the custom of the management to give the circus visitor every opportunity to inspect the horses at the show grounds and this season has inaugurated a regular horse fair, which in addition to the regular menagerie department, will be open to the public one hour prior to the starting of the circus performance at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m.

This season the Wallace Circus has purchased blue-blooded horses from various parts of the country, including Arabians, Apaloozas, Kentuckians, Palominos, Morgans, Pertuckians, Pintos, Mustangs and, in fact, practically every sort of thoroughbred is represented and many of which have been trained and will be seen during the performances.

Miss Jean Allen, acclaimed the most reckless and fearless of riders,

Gibraltar And Suez Also Aims Of Britain's Foes

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

Washington.—By focusing world attention on the battle for Britain, the axis partners are screening off their broader strategy—a triple play against all the great strongholds of the British Empire within their reach.

These are: The British Isles themselves, a natural fortress for blockading all of Western Europe; (2) Gibraltar, the route of supplies from South America for Central Europe; and (3) Suez, tourniquet against the Balkans and Eastern Europe.

Naturally the British Isles must be the No. 1 objective, but undercover reports reaching Washington indicates that both Hitler and Mussolini consider the battle plans against Suez and Gibraltar of equal importance. The German high command must take into account the possibility that the British can perform a miracle and turn back one first attack against them. The Weather might prevent another main attack this year, thus leaving the British block intact for another season. That might mean starvation among population at Hitler's back.

Therefore, regardless of the battle for Britain, the axis partners must weave other strings for their bow. These are attacks against Gibraltar and Suez, where fighting is possible all year round.

and the British fleet repair bases destroyed at Gibraltar and Suez, axis strategy would be temporarily successful, even if the first battle for Britain were lost. The repair bases, with their oil from Palestine and naval stores from Gibraltar, are what makes the British fleet in the Mediterranean self-sufficient.

These advantages would follow successful onslaught: 1. North African wheat and other supplies could resume their normal flow to Europe.

2. Egyptian cotton and other African raw materials could again be shipped to continental factories.

3. Fuel could again be siphoned into Europe by normal tanker routes from Russia and Rumania.

4. The South Atlantic would be again open to axis trade.

It is an open military secret that the German army no longer considers Gibraltar impregnable against combined attack from the land and air. Italy has the airforce. The Spanish have the manpower. The Battling fires like this Thames waterfront blaze along with blazes in the heart of London, makes the war a busy and perilous thing for firemen in the British capital which the Germans continue to bomb relentlessly. This fire was started by a recent air raid. And now the Germans claim they are shelling London with their big guns on the French coast.

Great columns of flames and smoke billow skyward during a 15-alarm blaze that swept the storage plant of the Crown Cork and Seal Company at Baltimore. The company's $500,000 yearly supply of raw cork, baled in piles 30 feet high and covering nine acres, was destroyed. Four hundred firemen fought the flames all night.

New York, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Profit selling interrupted the rallying swing of the stock market today, although Wall Street still leaned toward the bullish side.

Prices up moderately at a fast opening, soon began to give ground and dealings slowed. While plus signs were plentiful, losers of fractions to a point or so were a shade in the majority near the end.

College Freshmen Hear Dr. Meadows

"The average freshman who enters our college today," said President Leon R. Meadows in welcoming the freshmen to East Carolina Teachers College at the beginning of their orientation period today, "looks better, dresses better, speaks better, and knows more than our first-year students of thirty years ago. But that is as it should be, because the average teacher in North Carolina thirty years ago had only completed the work of the eighth grade, and today the average teacher in the state is a college graduate." President Meadows went on to point out the things that in his opinion would make for success in their college course: learning to think, to assume responsibility, and to work for a fine personality and character.

President Meadows was speaking as part of a morning program at which faculty members were introduced and officials of the College discussed various aspects of the routine of college life—Registrar H. J. McGinnis speaking for his office, P. D. Duncan as the treasurer, and Miss Annie Morton and Dr. Herbert ReBarker as the deans of the college.

The senior president, Miss Maisie Castlebury of Apex, talked on the things a student might expect to get out of college experiences.

This afternoon the newcomers will discuss choice of curricula with the advisers in the various departments, and tonight at 8:55, will have dinner with the faculty in the south dining room. Day students entering as first-term freshmen are invited to attend the dinner.

Officers and men of the local National Guard unit, Battery A, 113th Field Artillery, were guests of the Pitt theatre this morning at a special preview of "The Ramparts We Watch," a patriotic picture produced by the magazine Life and Time and the March of Time.

Prior to the picture the National Guardsmen and a few invited guests were served soft drinks and cakes.

OLD-TIMER GUISE SHOWS MUCH STUFF

Cincinnati.—(AP)—Eyebrows raised and folks said, "Is that right?" when the Cincinnati Reds brought up 32-year-old Witt Guise from Columbia in the Sally league late in the season.

But Witt, known variously as "Big Ears" and "Half-Witt," has been around professional baseball for 10 years and despite his age has plenty of stuff.

His first effort as a relief pitcher had the St. Louis Cards breaking their backs for four innings.

Local Exhibit By American Artists

"America Through American Eyes" is the title of the new exhibition of paintings which has opened at the Greenville WPA Art Gallery and will be shown through October 8 at the Sheppard Memorial Library.

Scenes and people familiar to the artist and enthusiastically painted by native sons make up the collection. Quiet farms and quaint fishing wharves of New England and the sweeping hills and valleys of Colorado contrast with the colorful city market and the undisciplined village street.

Shown in this collection here in Greenville are paintings by artists in the spotlight for winning recent covered national and international awards. A Chicago artist, Aaron Bohrod, is represented by a large canvas called "Drug Store," a homely subject treated with sympathy and caustic wit. Bohrod won honorable mention in both the Carnegie International and the American section of the exhibition at the San Francisco Fair.

Joseph Hirsch of Pennsylvania and Elizabeth Terrell of New York are the other prize winning artists who are now executing murals. Miss Terrell's mural is for the post office at Conyers, Georgia.

Oils and watercolors have proven to be among the best liked of all the varieties of exhibitions shown at the Greenville Gallery during the 14 months of its operation. Here is opportunity for the public of Greenville and neighboring towns and county to see one of the most interesting collections the gallery has shown.

The United States has an estimated 3,500,000 allens.
