LOCAL COUNTY FAIR GETS OFF TO BIG START

Exhibit Hall Filled With Work From All Sections

ENDY BROTHERS PLAYING MIDWAY

Great Wilno, or Human Cannon Ball, Is Feature Attraction Of Legion-Sponsored Exposition

The Pitt county fair grounds were humming with activity today as last-minute arrangements were being made for the 1940 exposition which got into full swing late this afternoon.

The fair's feature attraction, "The Great Wilno" or the human cannon ball, was scheduled to make its first appearance this afternoon at 5:45 o'clock, with performances to follow each afternoon and night.

The exhibit hall is filled with community booths and various individual exhibits in the several departments.

Upon visiting the hall a person turning to his left and walking around the building sees the following booths in the order named: Chocod, Farmville, Pactus, Belvoir, cut flower and potted plant department, Red Bank, Red Oak Meadowbrook, the tobacco display, Winterville, Falkland, Beaver Dam, U. S. Department of Agriculture booth, 4-H club booth, fancy work department, pies, cakes, etc., school art division exhibit.

In the center of the beautifully decorated building will be found various exhibit departments.

The art exhibit of the schools especially was attracting attention. Beautiful trophies will be awarded in addition to the cash prizes. The city schools will close at 12:30 Wednesday and children will be admitted to the grounds free during the afternoon. All school children from the county schools will likewise be admitted free. Endy Bros. Shows also are making special concessions to the children, reducing the prices of shows and rides.

The midway offered here this week is the largest ever to show at the local Legion-sponsored fair. Two complete units make up the tented city. One unit arrived yesterday and most of the rides and shows were put up. The other unit arrived this morning from Danbury, Conn., and was promptly made ready for the crowds.

One show never shown here before is one featuring the freezing of a girl in ice. A similar show was seen at the New York World's Fair. The slideshow includes oddities from all parts of the world. An educational feature of the midway, to which all adults are urged to visit is an expose on dope operating under the name of "Chit" ten years ago.

A large number of rides offer excitement for young and old. Two ferris wheels were put up yesterday and the unit arriving today included two more and these probably will be put into use.

Also here for the first time is the Dipsy-Doodle, a new thrilling ride. In all this year's fair promises to be the biggest since the two American Legion posts of the county took over the operation of the agricultural exposition.

A J. Gray is manager and is ably assisted by his wife and a corps of experienced fair men.

Funeral Tomorrow For a Grifton Man

Funeral services for Charles C. May of Grifton will be conducted Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock from the home by the Rev. Perry Case of Wilson, pastor of the Grifton Christian church, with burial in the Grifton cemetery.

Mr. May, who was 69, died suddenly Sunday night about 7:30 o'clock of a heart attack while in ill health for several months, he had been feeling his usual self during the day had been about town.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sarah Herriette May; two daughters, Mrs. M. N. Hall of Belmont and Miss Inez May of Thomasville; a sister, Mrs. A. T. Hill of Lynchburg; a brother W. G. May of San Francisco, Calif., and one grand son, Charles Hall of Belmont.

German Bombers Return For Daylight Assaults Following Night Raids

Draft Boss

President Clarence A. Dykstra (above) of the University of Wisconsin, is the federal draft administrator. He was granted an indefinite leave of absence by the Wisconsin board of regents which said it "leaning" Dykstra to the government as long as he was needed.

COURT TO RULE ON LABOR ACT

To Decide On Minimum Pay For Textile Workers

Washington, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Supreme court agreed to pass on constitutionality of the federal wage-hour law fixing a minimum wage of 32 1/2 cents an hour for textile workers.

The court also agreed to review litigation appealed by the Justice department in an effort to obtain a ruling on the federal government's power to regulate profits on national defense contracts.

Specifically involved were Justice department charges that the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation had made "unconscionable profits" on ships constructed for the government during the World War.

The government petition said approximately $13,365,000 was at stake in the litigation. The corporation won in lower courts.

Earl Browder, the Communist party's presidential candidate who was convicted of willfully using a passport obtained by false statements was granted a high court review. He was sentenced to four years imprisonment and fined $2,000 in the Southern New York Federal District court.

In another action the court denied a Justice Department appeal from decisions barring the use in federal criminal trials of evidence obtained by recording telephone conversations. Recordings made by the Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were outlawed by the Federal Circuit court at New York. The Justice department contended wiretapping was not involved.

Vanceboro Citizen Claimed By Death

Alex Brinkley, 57, died suddenly at his home near Vanceboro Saturday night at 11:30.

Funeral services were conducted from Lane's Chapel Free Will Baptist church today at 1 o'clock. R. B. P. Ringold had charge of the services. Burial followed in the church yard.

Mr. Brinkley is survived by his wife, three sons, Dugald, Roy and John, all of the home; five daughters, Mary, Lula, Essie, Gladys, and Sabra, all of the home; his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Brinkley of near Vanceboro; six brothers, Arline, who lives in Georgia, Claude, of Baltimore, George of Vanceboro, Cicero of Kingston, Lester of New York, and Rudolph of Williamston; three sisters, Mrs. Lottie Jenkins of Kingston, Mrs. Rosa Lewis of Raleigh, Mrs. Eula Whitford of Vanceboro.

Francis Scott Key was not the author of the Star Spangled Banner until several months after it appeared.

JAPAN CLOSES HONGKEW AREA IN SETTLEMENT

Action Follows Reported Shootings By Chinese

SOOCHOW CREEK BRIDGES CLOSED

Widespread Week-End Fighting Reported in Sino-Jap War; China Claims Port Recaptured

Shanghai, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Japanese army closed off the Hongkew region from the rest of the International Settlement tonight, following two shooting affairs in which Chinese were reported to have fired at Japanese.

All bridges across Soochow creek, southern limit of the Japanese-held Hongkew area were barricaded to all except police reserves which were rushed into Hongkew from the settlement proper.

The shootings tightened tension in this complex international community, already made anxious by reports of renewed Japanese pressure on France and American and British disputes with the Japanese over distribution of authority in the settlement.

In one of tonight's two incidents Chinese were reported to have fired on an automobile containing Japanese.

Meanwhile widespread fighting on land and in the air was reported on the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

The Central (Chinese) news agency said Chinese forces recaptured Haiyang, a Yangtze river port in Kiangsi province.

ARMED MERCHANT VESSEL REPORTED SUNK OFF CADIZ

Berlin, Oct. 14.—(AP)—A long-range German bomber has carried the Nazi air raid assaults into the area of Britain's Gibraltar stronghold, destroying an armed merchant ship west of Cadiz, Spain, the German high command reported today.

The "armed enemy merchant ship destroyed, 3,000 and 4,000 tons" was blasted by two bomb hits in an attack in the sea region west of Cadiz," said the high command's communique.

Yesterday 13 British planes were destroyed, the daily war statement said, while only one German chaser failed to return to its base.

Meantime German bombs set huge fires near London's Victoria and India docks last night that could be seen from the mouth of the Thames river 40 miles to the east, the high command said.

Former Pitt Man Dies In Gates Co.

Edward Calvin Buck, 66, died at his home near Drum Hill in Gates county at 7 a. m. today after several weeks illness.

Funeral services will be conducted from his home at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by the Rev. Walter B. Nobles, Free Will Baptist minister of Winterville, and burial will follow in Greenwood cemetery near this city.

Mr. Buck lived in the Winterville community until 1920 at which time he moved to Gates county, and he had made his home there since then.

Mr. Buck is survived by his wife Mrs. Mary Lillian Buck, eight sons, W. W. and Jordan of the home, Charlie Cruso and Louis Albert of Portsmouth, Va., J. E. D. L., C. H., and J. A. Buck of all Winterville, three daughters, Mrs. Jack Jones and Mrs. J. G. Jones of Winterville and Mrs. Hallett Harrell of Whaleyville, Va.; two brothers, Frank and G. C. Buck of the Black Jack community; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Mills, Mrs. Louis Gus Mills, and Mrs. Harry Smith, also of the Black Jack community, 28 grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.

Mr. Buck was a brother of the late W. A. Buck of Black Jack, who died September 12.

Investigate Theft Of 1,700 Pounds Cotton

Members of the sheriff's office are conducting an investigation into the theft of 1,700 pounds of seed cotton from the farm of Jack Quinley near St. Johns in Swift Creek township.

The cotton was stolen either Friday night or Saturday morning from under a tobacco barn shelter. The cotton was tied up in sheets and was ready to be taken to the gin.

The sheriff's office is still conducting an investigation into the robbery of 600 pounds of tobacco from Thad Hart of near Ayden on Monday night of last week.

Gibraltar Attacked By Single German Bomber

Reports Second Naval Victory Off Island Of Malta

Rome, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Italy hailed as her second naval triumph of the war a high command claim that light Fascist warships and planes sank one British cruiser, damaged another and hit an aircraft carrier in a violent day and night battle off the island of Malta.

The high command admitted the loss of a destroyer and two torpedo boats in the encounter, but claimed victory because they said, the British loss amounted to 7,000 tons to 2,000 tons for the Fascist force.

(Authoritative sources in London acknowledged the possibility of a Mediterranean clash, but said they had no information to bear out the Italian claim.)

In another communique the high command said British planes had attacked the port of Portolago on Lereros, one of the Kodacanese islands in the Aegean, "scoring a direct hit on a Catholic church and other civilian buildings and killing altogether 34 persons and injuring 20, without considerable damage to military objectives. Two enemy planes were shot down."

Confirmation For Dykstra Deferred

Washington, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Immediate confirmation of Clarence A. Dykstra to be director of selective service was blocked today in the Senate by Senator Holt (D-W. Va.) who objected "as a matter of principle."

Holt made his objection despite pleas of Democratic Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) and Senators Burke (D-Neb.) and Clark (D-Mo.) that he permit immediate confirmation by unanimous consent.

The chamber then agreed to meet tomorrow to consider the nomination. Unanimous consent will not be required at that time.

Holt said he had no "personal objection" to the appointment of Dykstra, that in fact he considered it to be "one of the good appointments of the President," but that he did not "like the idea of the Senate confirming a man without the people having an opportunity to protest if they so desired."

ARM OF COINCIDENCE MEETS ARM OF THE LAW

Asheville, N. C.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff B. B. Brockman of Spartanburg, S. C., scanned a photograph of a man wanted in connection with a slaying while standing in an Asheville bus station.

A man brushed Brockman's shoulder, almost knocking the picture out of his hand. Brockman looked at the photo again, then at the man. It was the suspect.

NAZI AIR BASE TO BE SET UP

Military Positions Being Established Near Mouth Of River As Tension Increases; British Nationals Leaving Rumania With Diplomatic Relations On Verge Of Being Broken

Bucharest, Oct. 14.—(AP) Both Germany and Soviet Russia were reported speedily strengthening their military positions in the strategic area near the mouth of the Danube today.

Russia was said to be mobilizing picked troops along the lower Danube between its junction with the river Prut and the Black sea on the southern border of Bessarabia and to be hurriedly building large gun emplacements along that line.

German plans to build a naval air base near Constanta, Rumania's main Black sea port, were authoritatively reported.

Preparations were made for the arrival of a German naval mission to join the Nazi army, air force and general staff officers already in Rumania. It was said the naval officers would supervise construction of the reported Constanta base.

High ranking Nazi officials continued collaboration with the Rumanian general staff for defense of this kingdom's oil fields. German anti-aircraft guns were reported already set up around the border of the fields and German fighter planes, air and land forces on hand.

The Germans also were reported supervising construction of anti-aircraft emplacements between the Danube and railroad tracks at Gurgiu, big Rumanian oil river port.

Thirty members of the British legation staff, including naval and military attaches, and 40 other members of the British colony in Rumania left Bucharest today by train en route to Istanbul.

The British, on the verge of a diplomatic break with Rumania, said hundreds of their nationals would have left on Black sea ships by Thursday.

The reported sinking of two Rumanian patrol boats by Soviet monitors aggravated the tension in Rumania, already made anxious by reports of large-scale Soviet military preparations.

London, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The usually well informed British Press Association asserted today that there "are unmistakable indications that a diplomatic break between Britain and Rumania can not long be delayed."

Communications today between Bucharest and London were described as "slow and interrupted." The British previously had complained that reports of the minister in Bucharest had not come through.

The Press Association said the British took the view that "Rumania has fallen completely under domination of the axis and with German troops marching into the country in increasing numbers, normal diplomatic relations with this country can not long continue."

Sir Reginald Hoare, British minister to Rumania, was said to be reducing his staff to "skeleton proportions."

ALBEMARLE PRESBYTERY
Will Convene Tuesday Night

The Presbytery of Albemarle will convene at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in the Presbyterian Church of this place. The territory embraced within this Presbytery is nearly one-third of the state but not more than one-tenth of the Presbyterians. There are twelve ministers in the Presbytery and twenty-seven churches.

The fall meetings of Presbytery are never so largely attended by the Elders as are the spring meetings, and as a number of the churches at this time are vacant, there will be a small attendance upon the approaching meeting.

There will be some interesting discussions upon certain explanations which have been put as a footnote in the "Confession of Faith," and which by some are thought to be unnecessary.

Irene Mitcham, a member of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet. He began by speaking of the college in relationship to the community—the value to the community of such an institution and the contributions made by its faculty.

"In talking of students," he said, "one thinks of teachers and of his own teachers." Mr. Ryan pointed out the fact that a teacher must contribute something more than subject matter in order to stay in an institution like East Carolina Teachers College. "A teacher is a person who knows boys and girls and men and women and understands them and the things that move them."

Mr. Ryan then spoke of the greatest of all teachers, Jesus Christ, and His Sermon on the Mount which he called "not a sermon but a collection of His teachings." He showed how Jesus used the simple things of everyday life to lead His people to God. "Jesus was a teacher who knew men and knew how to teach them."

The speaker ended his talk by saying that whatever progress has been made in this world has been through teaching, and asked that the prospective teachers in his audience keep always in mind the greatness of their profession and learn from the greatest teacher of all.

Little Theatre To Present Play.
Under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Rose, the Greenville Little Theatre will present its first radio play Tuesday evening from 7:15 to 7:30 over station WGTC.

The play is "The Forbidden Formula" by Joseph Kearns and is a mystery play.

Those taking part in the play have had leading roles in several Little Theatre productions.

Professor Goodwin, the scientist, is played by Bancroft Moseley; his daughter, Tamara, by Harriet L. d., Mrs. Janie Hall has the role of the old family servant, Cora. The suave German laboratory assistant is played by Richard Naker, while Ed Conway plays the part of the young Dr. Nolan.

Charles Whedbee is the announcer and Grady Bell has charge of the sound effects.

Christian Science Church.
"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" was the subject of the lesson-lesson in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, October 13.

The golden text was from Psalms 68:20, "He that is our God is the God of salvation; and unto God the Lord belongs the issues from death."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Is any among you afflicted—let him pray. Is any merry? let him sing psalms. And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him. Confess your faults one to another, and pray for one another, that ye may be healed. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." (James 5:13, 16). The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. "The prayer of faith shall save the sick," says the Scripture. What is this healing prayer? A mere request that God will heal the sick has no power to gain more of the divine presence than is always at hand. The beneficial effect of such prayer for the sick is on the human mind, making it act more powerfully on the body through a blind faith in God. This, however, is one belief casting out another—a belief in the unknown casting out a belief in sickness. It is neither Science nor Truth which acts through blind belief, nor is it the human understanding of the divine healing Principle as manifested in Jesus, whose humble prayers were deep and conscientious protests of Truth—of man's likeness to God and of man's unity with Truth and Love."

Library News

Parents' Shelf
At the request of the Parent-Teacher Associations of Greenville, the staff of the Sheppard Memorial Library is inaugurating this week a permanent Parents' Shelf. For the time being the shelf is placed in the front of the reading room to the left of the lending desk, so that those interested can easily and quickly look over the books.

The books were personally selected by a specialist in child training and will be of great help to parents who are striving to give to their children the finest training that our educational system has been able to evolve. A mimeographed list of the books on this shelf was handed to the members of the Parent-Teacher Associations when they met last Wednesday. This list is also available to every parent in Greenville or Pitt county.

Because of their interest in parents' problems, the West Greenville, Third street and Training school Parent-Teacher Associations agreed last week to give one new book each to this permanent Parents' Shelf.

A new book, "An Introduction to Child Study," by Ruth Strong, just added to this shelf, was given to the library by the Inter Se Book Club. It is a non-technical, accurate and readable book easily applicable to the task of child study and guidance. It is intended for parents and teachers who deal with children of a certain age, the mental, social and moral characteristics being built into unified pictures of children at the various stages of growth. The book contains practical applications of the results of investigations rather than their implication for research.

A list of the books found on this shelf is as follows: Gruenberg—Your Child Today and Tomorrow. Strang—An Introduction to Child Study. Brill—Your Child and His Parents. Taylor—Do Adolescents Need Parents. Carroll—Is There a Baby in the House? Nash—Education for Christian Marriage. O'Shea—The Child: His Nature and His Needs. Cunningham—Family Behavior. Reilly—Common Sense for Parents.

Malmberg—Ake and His World. Patri—The Questioning Child. Groves—The American Family. Groves—Wholesome Parenthood. Boettinger—Children's Play Indoors and Out.

Thom—Everyday Problems of the Everyday Child. Richards—What Shall the Children Read? Bolton—Adolescent Education. Patri—Problems of Childhood. Benz—Big Problems on Little Shoulders.

Sacks—Keeping the Child Normal. Cosgrave—Psychology of Youth. Arlitt—Child From One To Twelve. Child Study Asso.—Parents' Questions. Wickenden—Youth Looks At Religion. Buckhart—Youth and the Way of Jesus. Fox—Child's Approach to Religion.

Happy Relief When Laxative Is Needed

Don't experiment with harsh ways to relieve constipation. There's a gentle way that is thorough, too: spicy, aromatic BLACK-DRAUGHT, taken by the directions, usually permits a good night's rest, followed by a thorough evacuation next morning. You generally feel fine again. Whenever constipation has you headachy, bilious, take the purely vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT. (Adv.)

Still Worrying!

There are still many rooms needed for housing the delegates of the State Student Council convention which will be held here November 1 and 2.

Around 300 delegates are expected and at present accommodations for around 300 delegates are needed.

If you are able to keep one or more delegates in your home for the night of Friday, November 1, please get in touch with Jane Harrison before it is too late.

Certainly the practice has been a break for Vitamins A, B and C, as well as deserving recognition for such lowly plants as the onion.

The Ladies (Bless 'Em) Go In For Politics

By SIGRID ARNE
AP Feature Service Writer

Washington—Even teacups and baby buggies seem destined to serve as political weapons this year.

The ladies—many more than ever before—are entering the campaign battle. Naturally, they propose to use weapons with which they are familiar.

The strategy varies with the community.

The teacup offer comes from a western city where a convinced lady Democrat who owns a restaurant has offered to serve hot tea to any woman who comes from the voting booth wearing a Roosevelt button.

The baby buggy brigade is proposed by some young Republicans in a city where there are many hard-driven housewives with big families. The girls have volunteered to take over the family cares while mother votes.

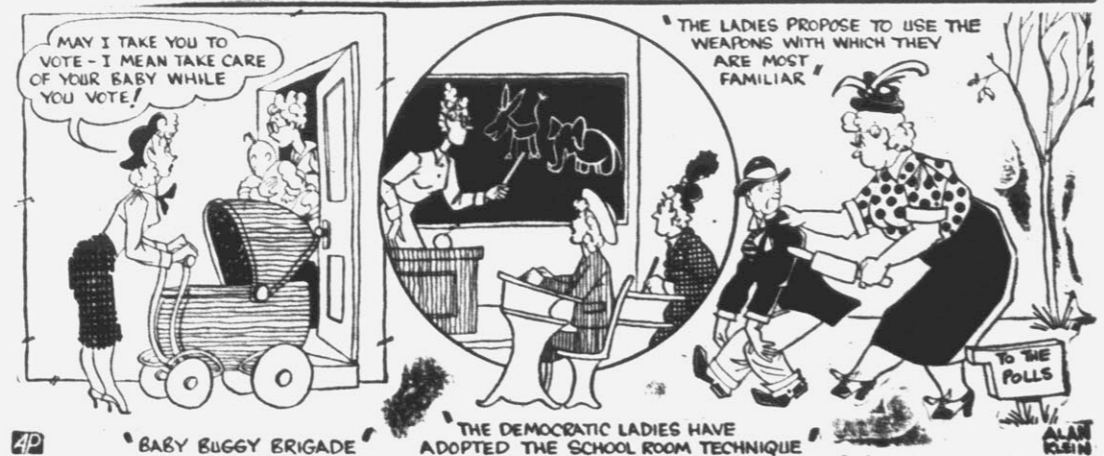

Back of such individual offers are probably the two biggest women's political machines the world has ever known.

The Republicans claim a million women workers.

Have 2,000 Clubs

The Democrats don't count their nationally, because each state runs its own affairs. They point out, however, there are 2,000 Democratic women's clubs.

Both groups are using press, radio, the platform and the good old doorbell technique.

But there is a difference.

The Democratic ladies have adopted school room methods. For several years they have held political clinics for key women, going in to such subjects as soil erosion, the cost of a battleship, the cost of electricity on the farm. There are 30,000 such trained women called Fact Dealing Reporters (notice the F. D. R.).

The Republican ladies, who have really shoved into high gear for the first time this election, are united through the National Federation of Republican Women's Clubs.

Study Criticisms

They meet locally for monthly study programs that elaborate on Republican criticisms of the New Deal and include digests of major Republican speeches.

Both groups have committees that phone friends the day before an important radio speech.

The Republican ladies print news on their doings in a section of the Republican magazine. The Democratic women have a monthly magazine of their own.

Then there's the unpleasant job of collecting money. The Republican women distribute elephant banks, the Democrats donkey banks. Tea and bridge parties bring in more contributions.

A New Technique

The Democrats have just sprung a new technique. It's called the "campaign precinct schools." One day sessions are held in doubtful states for women who will be doing actual campaigning.

Both groups are organizing armies to see that the vote gets out.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

ASKED THEIR INDULGENCE
When Senator Bankhead died a few weeks ago, a prominent radio commentator spoke of the great Statesman's religious faith. He told us certain of Mr. Bankhead's friends, including himself, had spent a week-end with him recently, and before their meal together Mr. Bankhead said, "Friends, it has long been a custom in the Bankhead family to begin all meals by returning thanks to God. I hope you will permit me to do so on this occasion."

This showed us as the commentator intended it should, Mr. Bankhead's fine faith and his determination to hold to a good custom in a world of declining religious standards. But one thing the commentator did not seem to appreciate was that it indicated also how far ahead we have gone, spiritually, and how careless we have become when a distinguished and faithful Christian had to explain to his guests why he asked grace and request their indulgence as he did so.

Hard as it is to believe, there are multitudes of people today to whom the spiritual concept of life is perfectly incomprehensible. They live in the midst of their comforts, enjoy the good fellowship of their friends, and get through life as best they can with a philosophy that urges them to keep their chins up. How much people lose who lack the capacity to appreciate spiritual things is known only to them in those hours when trouble overtakes them and they face the hostility of adverse circumstances alone.

ATTEND THE FAIR

We are not just ballyhooing for the Pitt County Fair but we are aware that the two posts of the American Legion in this county who operate the fair are doing so because of a desire to develop a real agricultural fair in this county, and from this standpoint this year's fair promises to be the best of the five years of operation under the Legion sponsorship. Practically every community in Pitt County, including many of the schools, are participating in the exhibits which will prove very worthwhile. We urge you to attend the Pitt County Fair here this week and see for yourself what your fellow Pitt Countians are doing in the way of agriculture. A fair is just as good as the people want to make it, and the Pitt County Fair is just what its name implies, an exhibition of Pitt County products.

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT AN AIRPORT?

The matter of the county paying half of the purchase price for land for the establishment of an airport near this city will be further discussed and decided upon at a special meeting of the commissioners to be held next Friday night. The city administration, realizing the need of this city and county for an airport, has already agreed to pay one-half of the cost if the county will bear the other half, but at a special meeting of the county board last Friday night it was decided to defer final action until next Friday night in order that citizens from various sections of the county might be heard on the question if they so desired. Frankly, we feel that we have long needed an airport if we are to continue as one of this section's leading and most progressive cities and counties, and the sooner we begin on same the better off we will be. With the rapid strides being made in aviation there is much to be gained from the establishment of the proposed airport and we do not believe that the county board will find any serious objection from citizens of any section of the county. The county board naturally wants to carry out the wishes of the people of the county in spending the county's money and would like to know the public sentiment outside of Greenville regarding the airport project. If you are interested in the matter, either for or against it, attend the meeting next Friday night and give the commissioners the benefit of your opinions in the matter.

What Are YOU Kicking About?

House of Representatives, there was in the thick of the fight one Congressman Guy L. Moser of Douglasville, Pa., the same who 36 years ago started this sending of photos along with civil service applications thereby establishing a custom which in 1940 has resulted in one of Congress' major squabbles.

Too Much Dynamite
The conferees agreed on one thing—that the bill is too full of political dynamite to go tossing around before election and so, as they are doing with a lot of political dynamite these days, they put it away until November. For the time being at least, a federal employer still can see what he's getting.

The case of those who want photos was summed up by Congressman Ed Gossett of Texas when he said: "If this amendment is adopted there is no way of telling whether the prospective employe is white or black and employes must be chosen with no idea of their appearance or physical characteristics." The anti-photo faction claims that the present system is a discrimination against Negroes and applicants who have retained that foreign-born look, although they might be Americans from way back.

Not In The Law
The civil service law has been in effect since 1883, but there's nothing in it about attaching a snapshot of your map with your application. In 1904, an 18-year-old country school teacher in Pennsylvania decided he wanted to get a job as a railway postal clerk. He wrote to Washington and got his application and when he filed it, he included a picture of himself.

Other salient points in the McMullan ruling held: Houses owned by a fraternal order and rented are liable for taxes whether rented to members or to outsiders. A building and the land on which it is situated are liable in their entirety, even though a part of the building is occupied by the order as a lodge room. THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

YESTERDAY: On their way to the court of the Prince of Shani Lun, lovely Lynn Britton and her escort, Temu Darin, have arrived at the Mongolian monastery of Pallichao, from which a party issues to meet them. Frightened though she is by what amounts to her captivity, she still cannot hide her interest in Temu, a Mongolian with great experience in the Western world.

Lynn sat a moment stunned, unseeing, the paper falling from her fingers. "To think that Dick would do this to me!" she whispered, and added presently, "I suppose that somehow I made it easy for him."

Chapter 15
Terrible Message
"THE TRILLIUMS at the foot of Pallichao," Temu said, "one branch going south on a mission on the Yellow River; the other continuing on west is our road to Shani Lun."

She looked at him with rising anger. "Our road! How sure you are of yourself!" His eyes held hers. "I want you to be sure of yourself, too."

"I am not harming you," he said reasonably. She threw up her hands in despair. "You're quarreling with me and spoiling the scenery!" They both laughed. That, she felt, was the most maddening thing about her nature; her special weakness, a sense of the ridiculous that adulterated any particular power of Temu's mount had been restless all the time. Now, he snarled and ground his teeth. Lynn eyed him doubtfully.

"He's a big, black, Bactrian brute!" She stumbled a bit over the words. "Speak it swiftly," Temu commanded. "He's a big, black, Bactrian brute!"

They both laughed again. "The poor fellow's showing symptoms of being in love," Temu explained. "Last month, he had a fight with a rival male and they almost killed each other; wound their necks together and twisted and gnawed and kicked and bit the flesh from their bodies."

"I think I prefer horses," said Lynn. Suddenly, as if resenting her remark, the big beast swung and spat his cud at her, a huge mouthful of a soupy substance that seemed to Lynn like green grape pie and smelled like a chemical experiment gone wrong. She could hardly breathe.

Temu dismounted swiftly and brought down Lynn's camel, then helped her off with her sash and Mongol coat, laughing helplessly and apologizing, both at the same time. "I'm sorry, so sorry."

Lynn was half laughing and half crying herself. Fortunately, but little of the mess had struck her face. "Is there any in my ear?" she asked. He looked. "Clean as a sea shell," he reported.

Lynn shuddered, fanning her face with her hands. "I'll never smell right again, I fear." He broke into another gale of laughter. "So sorry, I never dreamed he'd do such a thing."

"Men on foot know they have to be careful of camels, but a mounted person is seldom assailed. Now you have been really initiated into caravan life. You are cool as a cucumber, and you're around her shoulders while they awaited the horsemen's approach."

YESTERDAY: Lynn Britton, lovely American girl, just has discovered that her espionage half-brother Dick has, in effect, sold her in marriage to a Mongolian prince. Shercock and Temu, friends of the Prince who are escorting Lynn to his court, have explained the mystic origin of the Prince and Lynn is fascinated in spite of herself.

Lynn sat a moment stunned, unseeing, the paper falling from her fingers. "To think that Dick would do this to me!" she whispered, and added presently, "I suppose that somehow I made it easy for him."

Chapter 16
Girl In A Trap
LYNN regarded Shercock with a sense of helplessness. "Have you any recollection of your life with King Iron-biscan-sam-po?" Shercock asked.

Lynn glanced at Temu, unable to interpret the inscrutable smile on his face. Did he believe this stuff or was he secretly laughing? "I certainly have no such memories," she said.

"Your life, the Prince's mine, theirs," he nodded at Gering and Temu and Chin Pak, "all our lives have run parallel before. Contrary to a carefully educated skepticism, Lynn thrilled to the idea. Surely, the mystery of life is much deeper than any glib scientific attempt at explanation.

Shercock continued. "Perhaps we did unwittingly in dealing with your brother and now we have to pay for it in this difficult way."

She looked from him to Temu. "Why didn't this Prince of yours come for me himself?" She noticed a hesitation as if each man waited for the other to reply until Temu answered:

"Leaving his own domain is rather risky for a ruler these days, especially in this part of the world. The Prince has enemies; there are even certain powerful governments that would like to see him out of the way. He is safest in his own domain."

She held his eye for a moment. "You call that love?" "We are not trying to prove anything now, you will have your proof of love when you reach Delun."

Lynn stiffened. "The whole thing is preposterous. I demand that you send me home at once!" They merely sat and looked at her. She realized there could be no hope of this from Shercock, who was wrapped up blindly in the desire to serve his beloved Prince and puppy. She held out pleading hand to Temu Darin.

"Temu, you say you came to know American girls when you were in my country. You must understand how impossible this is."

His eyes had narrowed. "Do you wish to go back and marry your banker?" "I do not wish to marry anybody," she cried wildly. "I doubt if I even like the idea of marriage. It is all so mixed up with settlements and laws and material advantages and necessities and a sort of possession—everything but love. I'm no chattel. I'm a human being with rights and reserves of my own."

"If you married the Prince you might learn to love him."

"Stop it!" she commanded. "I've heard silly arguments like that before. The Prince is not the only man who wishes to marry me because he saw that I was dressed as a man being with rights and reserves of my own."

Pirates Defeat Norfolk Team To Ups et Dope Bucket

McFEE STAR OF 18-0 VICTORY

College Team Now Looks To Tilt With Catamounts

By BURTON DANIELS
Coach John Christenbury's East Carolina Pirates came to life long enough Saturday to score three touchdowns and cop the ball game 18-0 against the heavily favored William and Mary division team at Norfolk. The play of both clubs was listless at times, and with the exception of the three home run plays it was anybody's ball game.

The Division outtraced the Pirates seven first downs to six, and held domination in department that the score doesn't indicate as their mammoth line opened holes in the lighter Pirate line all afternoon. Except for the vicious defensive work of McFee in the backer-up slot there might well have been another ending to the outcome of the game. Time and again the Norfolk backs would break into the secondary only to meet McFee, who was having a field day on defense. His tackles could be heard to the sidelines and high into the stands.

The Pirates took to the air and kept the ball there most of the afternoon, and compiled the excellent record of nine completions out of 12 attempts through the air lanes for 160 yards. They also turned the Division's aerial game to their advantage, as the Norfolk club passed for a minus yardage of 112.

The scoring started late in the first quarter when McFee faded back and threw a pass that traveled 35 yards to Craven in the end zone. The second period was scoreless. Craven reached in the air and pulled one of the Division's passes down and raced 50 yards behind perfect interference for the second marker. Lautares, another end, intercepted a pass in the final period and went 35 yards standing up for the final marker all tries for extra point were wide.

The play of the Pirates was at times bordering on the ragged side, and means much work during the first three days of this week (the Christenburysmen leave Thursday morning for their game against the Catamounts of Western Carolina at Cullowhee Saturday. The forewell is due for most of the attention during this week's work, for with the exception of Kinakos, who displayed 60 minutes of brilliant football the line did not live up to their ability.

This week-end left the Pirates one of the few undefeated and untied four-year clubs in the state, and they will realize that their most serious test of the year is to arrive when they tangle with the Catamounts, winners over Appalachian last Saturday, this week-end. Twenty-eight men will make the trip to the western part of the state, and for many of the boys it will be homecoming. Gianakos, Murray, Green, Craven, Bob Young, Jack Young, Dan Waddell, Daniels, Green, Sisk, and McFee all hail from the western part of the state, and it will be home to the hills for them.

WADE REVEALS 1941 SCHEDULE

Duke To Open With Wake Forest September 27th

Durham, Oct. 14—There will probably be plenty of football fireworks in this state before the current campaign is finished but those who want to look forward to next fall can be assured that the 1941 season will start off with a bang-bang double-bang.

Duke's 1941 schedule, just announced by Coach Wallace Wade, reveals that the Blue Devils will "merely" open next fall with Wake forest and will "merely" follow up that game by clashing with Tennessee. And both will be played in Durham.

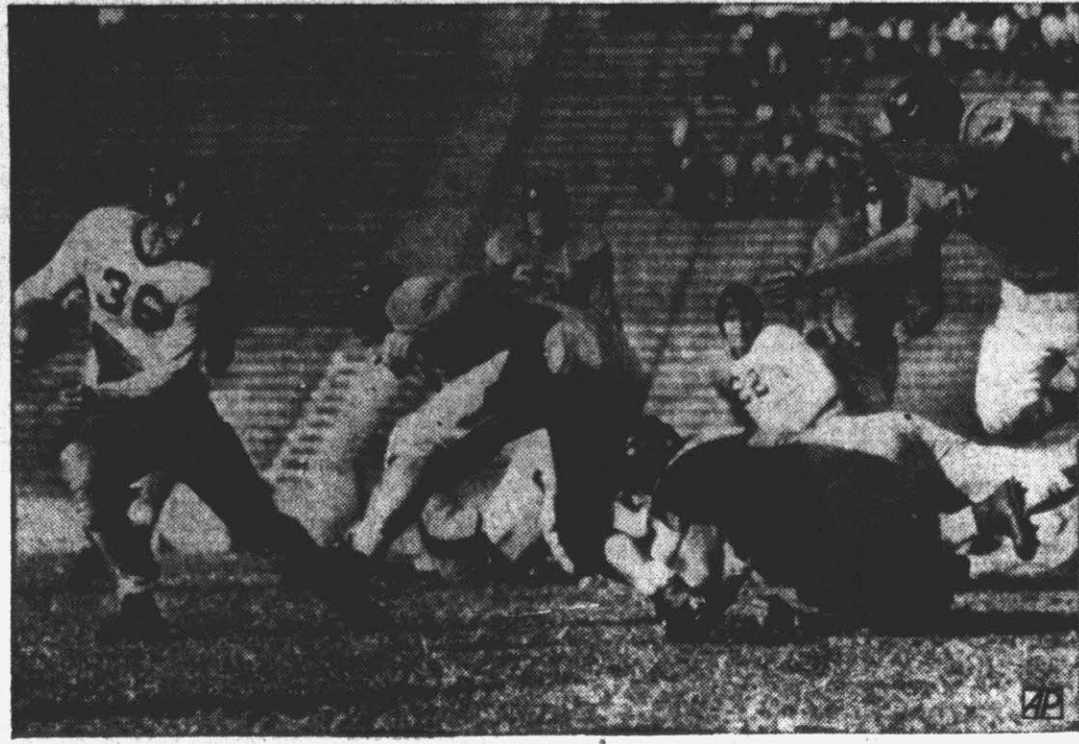

The Wake Forest-Duke contest for next fall will be played on September 27 and a week later, October 4, the Vols from Knoxville will go against the Wademen.

Following is the card which starts with a bang-bang:

Sept. 27—Wake Forest at Durham.
Oct. 4—Tennessee at Durham.
Oct. 11—Maryland at College Park, Md.
Oct. 18—Colgate at Durham.
Oct. 25—Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

T. C. U. Stopped By North Carolina

Bagley (36), Texas Christian quarterback, tried hard on this play just as his teammates did throughout the game against Carolina at Chapel Hill, N. C., but their efforts got them nowhere. Bagley lost one yard on this play. The Carolinians fanned the TCU outfit a 21-14 lacing.

Brother Institutions to Renew Rivalry Saturday

By TOM BOST, JR.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 14—One of the state's most traditional and colorful rivalries will be renewed next Saturday when North Carolina and N. C. State, brother institutions, clash on Riddick field in Raleigh in the feature of the third annual Greater University Day.

The Tar Heels defeated TCU, the nation's No. 1 passing team, Saturday in an inter-sectional attraction and had waited until today to begin preparations for the scrap with their neighbors.

Although idle so far as collegiate competition was concerned, the Wolfpack put in a busy Saturday afternoon perfecting its offenses and defenses and pointing for Carolina which hasn't suffered a defeat to N. C. State since 1927.

With its best eleven in several years, the Wolfpack will be endeavoring to duplicate Wake Forest's feat of two weeks ago when the Deacons broke a similar 13-year-old Tar Heel jinx with a well-earned 12-0 conquest.

Already victorious over William and Mary 16 to 0 in an opening season upset and over Davidson 34-0 (more impressive than Carolina's 27-7 triumph over the Wildcats), the Wolfpack will have the advantage of two full weeks' preparation for this contest.

A colorful program featuring dances, parades, luncheons, dormitory and fraternity decoration contests will be among the pre and post-game highlights of Greater University Day which was inaugurated two years ago in Raleigh and held last fall in Chapel Hill.

On Greater University Day representative students from the three units of the consolidated University, N. C. State in Raleigh, the University at Chapel Hill, and Woman's College at Greensboro, join and celebrate together the various features of the entertainment program.

The game also has an interesting Homecoming Day angle and many State alumni will return to Raleigh to attend the game and renew old friendships.

If you are at your wit's end to amuse a convalescent child, call upon a small kitten to help you out. Attach several large spoons to stout threads or cords and give to the patient to play with the kitten. The child will be amused for hours and probably you will find the kitten curled up at the foot of the bed when nap time comes around. Puppies are also helpful in amusing youngsters, but they are more strenuous than kittens.

Nov. 1—Georgia Tech at Atlanta.
Nov. 8—Davidson at Davidson.
Nov. 15—North Carolina at Durham.
Nov. 22—N. C. State at Raleigh.

LOCAL MOUNTS SHARE HONORS

Several Trophies And Ribbons Retained Here

Greenville's initial horse show, held yesterday afternoon at the recently established riding academy adjacent to the ball park, was declared a decided success in every respect.

A large crowd gathered around the riding ring to view the 15 events.

Several trophies and ribbons were won by Greenville horses, including S. T. White's Captain Courageous winner of the walking horse event.

Lady Hope of Tarboro took first honors in the five-gaited event. Among the events were the beautiful fine harness class and the musical chair. Nearly 80 horses participated, coming here from as far away as Raleigh. Several Eastern North Carolina titles were represented.

The show was the first of its kind ever held in Greenville, but plans already are in the making for staging a much larger affair here next spring, when horses are expected to be here from Richmond, Greensboro and other points.

A show was held yesterday a week ago in Goldsboro and another will be held in Rocky Mount next Sunday and the fall season will be concluded with a show in Kinston the following Sunday.

Relates Activities Of Health Offices

Principal activities of the Pitt County Health Department, as outlined before the Medical Society at its regular monthly meeting by the health officer, Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, consisted of cafe and dairy inspections, school inspections, venereal disease clinics, maternal and infant welfare centers and the orthopedic clinic.

The health officer's report follows: "Cafe and dairy inspections have been pushed energetically, but in spite of these frequent inspections we regret to report that we had a number of cases of food poisoning originating in Greenville. The trouble appeared to come from a single cafe. It was thought to be due to stale barbecue, perhaps becoming stale by being kept too long rather than to any particular insanitation of the cafe. At least, when we ordered the cafe manager to carry no barbecue over from day to day, we had reported no further cases of food poison. The general contagious disease situation, so far, is better this year than for last year. In the matter of typhoid fever, last year from January 1st to October 1st, we had 21 cases reported while, for this year we have had but 2 cases reported.

In the matter of tuberculosis last September we have 8 cases reported against 4 cases for September of this year.

In the matter of school hygiene inspections for such contagious diseases as scabies, pediculosis, skin rashes, etc., the nurses made 4,752 inspections. The number of cases of scabies found was 2 and the number of cases of pediculosis was 104. These conditions have diminished markedly since we began to make semi-annual personal hygiene inspections some 2 or 3 years ago. For instance, the first year of inspections, we had 7 cases of scabies in one school.

"The Welfare Department cooperates in this work and furnishes free treatment for pediculosis and scabies to all indigent children. This free, prompt treatment, as you would imagine, cuts down materially the number of days of exclusion from school and necessarily adds to the child's school progress.

"The attendance at our venereal disease clinics continues to fall off and is probably due to work in the cotton field and in the tobacco factories.

"The attendance at the maternal and infant welfare centers for September of last year was 143 against 184 for this September.

"The attendance at the orthopedic clinic this September was up not considerably as compared with September of last year. For instance, the attendance in September of last year was 20 and for September of this year, 45; and I might add that 45 orthopedic patients, in a single afternoon, keeps the orthopedist busy."

To keep your metal sinks bright and shiny, scour them frequently with a fine powder applied with a sponge. (To determine whether or not the powder is "fine," rub it between the fingers. If no grit is felt it is all right.) Rinse the sink with cold water, then wipe it dry and polish it with a soft cloth or crushed paper toweling.

Phantom Foes Win In Yesterday's Games

Friday's high school football games included victories for Tarboro, Goldsboro and Wilson over Edenton, Washington and Scotland Neck, respectively.

Tarboro took a 15-0 win over the Edenton Aces for a Northeastern Conference triumph. Earlier in the season Tarboro took a drubbing at the hands of the local high team 20-6. Greenville will meet Edenton later on in the season in the local stadium.

The highly touted Goldsboro Earthquakes continued their path of destruction over Northeastern Conference teams by taking the Washington Pam-Pack 26-6. Goldsboro hand the Green Phantoms their only defeat this season by a 6-0 score. A contest between Washington and Greenville will come on November 27 on the Washington stamping grounds.

Wilson's class "A" football squad took a one-sided decision over Scotland Neck in that city. George Sakas, former Greenville high grid star, led the Wilson attack with four touchdowns. At present the local high team is not scheduled to play either of these teams.

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—While selected stocks were given a moderate lift in today's market, many leaders suffered from neglect. Dealings were negligible throughout and early gains running to a point or so for favorites were trimmed near the fourth hour. Small minus signs also were well distributed. Traders seemed more cheerful after their lengthy week-end holiday. Brokers said, but in view of continued tension in the Far East, confounding war shifts in the Balkans and question marks surrounding the domestic political scene, the majority inclined to step lightly in the speculative arena.

A Belgrade newspaper reported that the British telephoned police, who were quoted as saying the shots were fired by Iron Guardists from a neighboring village at suspicious characters.

Benefit Payments Total $16,370,462

Raleigh, Oct. 14.—In the distribution of $16,370,462.19 to unemployed and partially unemployed workers of North Carolina in the 33 months of benefit payments through September, the 46 white employment offices and 10 colored branches distributed 2,595,147 checks, Chairman Charles G. Powell, of the State Unemployment Compensation Commission, stated.

This distribution included 30,516 checks for $325,473.68 going to out-of-state workers who had previously established wage credits by work in North Carolina. During the month of September 1940, the distribution of jobless benefits amounted to $413,506.75, included in 79,795 checks, of which 2,211 checks for $19,551.36 went to out-of-state claimants with wage credits in North Carolina. The Pitt employment office distributed $253,589.56, embraced in 12,831 checks, in the 33 months of payments in the area served by the office, through September. In the month of September, this office distributed 1,363 checks for $4,505.50 to the unemployed in the area.

May Set Up Bases In South America

Washington, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Secretary Hull indicated today that naval and air base facilities were involved in discussions with various South American countries, but said there was no question of any change of sovereignty. He said that exchanges were taking place regarding all phases of hemisphere defense and that any talks relating to facilities, resources or methods were within the scope of the Havana and Panama inter-American conferences.

His comment was prompted by reports from South America that Brazil and Chile had agreed to lease naval and air bases to the United States. Asked about reported delays in concluding leases on air and naval base sites recently acquired from Great Britain, the Secretary of

STATE DRIVES FOR INDUSTRY

Industries Which Not Fold Up After War Sought

Raleigh, Oct. 14.—So far as the Division of Commerce and Industry is concerned, North Carolina's drive for industrial plants will be concentrated on attracting those which will not fold up simultaneously with the end of the war, J. T. Anderson, director of this important branch of the Department of Conservation and Development, said today.

Mr. Anderson does not scoff at ammunition making plants, high explosive factories and others which spring up like mushrooms whenever war breaks out or even threatens, but he does feel that it is better economic practice to land a $5,000,000 plant which will operate, or no war, than a $50,000,000 industrial setup which would fold up as soon as the last gun is fired.

He therefore is centering the activities of his division in an effort to induce plants for which the state is prepared (textiles for the most part) to handle in peace or in war. He points out that there is in the state as large a supply of labor, for instance, appropriate to the textile industry as there is in other states for the industries which may be appropriate there; and he cites figures on government contract awards to show that there is a tremendous opportunity in the textile field alone.

He produced just one day's release of contracts awarded, showing that the war department contracts for no less than $3,500,000.

He admits that nobody can make worth of cotton sheets, cotton mattresses and cotton mosquito nets alone. Sadly enough there was only one North Carolina firm on the long list of those to which contracts went—and that was to the Spray branch of Marshall Fields Co., for a mere $34,000 worth of cotton mattresses.

Despite this ignoring of the state (and the entire South, for that matter) in the award of these contracts, Mr. Anderson sees a fine opportunity. His view is that the increased business of the New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts firms who got these orders will cause them to look around for room in which to expand, as their current facilities are likely to be inadequate. Then will come North Carolina's chance.

With this thought in his mind, Mr. Anderson is making full use of the daily list of contracts awarded. He looks them over carefully, decides which types of industries are represented and which North Carolina is equipped to handle. Then he sits down and dictates a letter to each firm selected, setting out the facts—such, for example, as that there are available at moderate cost in North Carolina, buildings to house the industry represented, trained labor sufficient to man the plants if established, adequate sources of raw material close at hand, and the like.

Naturally the defense program has not yet proceeded far enough to give any real indication of what success will attend these efforts on the part of Mr. Anderson's division; but he feels that he is on the right track.

He admits that nobody can make even a tentative forecast of economic conditions which will exist after a war or even a preparedness boom, but he fears that there will be the same sort of deflation of industry that followed the world war. Only those plants which are capable of adaptation to both wartime and peacetime industry will have any chance of continued existence, he thinks.

"And so it will be better for us in North Carolina never to get any war-boom plants, than to get only those which will operate full blast only so long as the war lasts, then come to a full stop which will leave us worse off than we ever were," is the way he expresses it.

PEANUT POLITICIANS' REALLY IMPORTANT

West Point, Miss.—(AP)—An Alabama editor friend of his objects to the term "peanut politician," says Edgar G. Harris of the Daily Times Leader.

"The peanut is a valuable agricultural commodity, and should not be slandered," reasons the editor.

During the first half of 1940 in Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—Sam Plough, who operates a telephone time bureau, says that September is his busiest month because school-open and parents worry about the correct time.

Students Pay Own Way. Bloomington, Ind.—(AP)—One in every three students at Indiana university earns at least part of his expenses. Mary N. Crawford of the economics department questioned 981 undergraduates. She found women's expenses averaged $682.70, men's $621.07.
