BERLIN INDICATES FRANCE TO FIGHT WITH AXIS

PRAISE HEAPED ON DEMOCRATS AT RALLY HERE

Governor - Nominee Broughton Principal Speaker

OTHER LEADERS SPEAK AT MEET

Congressman - Nominee Bonner and Lieutenant Governor - Nominee Harris Appear On Program

National and state Democratic administrations were highly praised last night as Pitt county men and women of the party gathered at the court house for their party rally and heard talks by J. M. Broughton, governor-nominee; Herbert C. Bonner, congressman-nominee; R. L. Harris, lieutenant governor-nominee and local county leaders.

Mr. Broughton devoted the first part of his talk to wit, humor and a heart-to-heart talk to the crowd that filled the main floor of the court room and overflowed into the balconies.

He expressed appreciation at the vote he received in Pitt county, recalling that the last primary was the first time Pitt county had ever given a majority to the ultimate winner in a gubernatorial contest since the primary system was adopted. "I am happy to be the medium through which you good folks in Pitt county got together," he declared.

The next governor praised the high school band, which paraded in the court house and played in the auditorium while the crowd was waiting for the program to start. He said he hoped the band would be in Raleigh to play for the inaugural ceremonies in January.

He also praised retiring Congressman Warren and said he had a worthy successor in Mr. Bonner. Mr. Broughton noted that a large part of the audience was made up of women and said he was glad to see such a situation. He recalled that 46 per cent of the vote accorded Governor Hoey four years ago was cast by women. The speaker then hailed the administration of Governor Hoey as one of the most brilliant in history.

He predicted an overwhelming democratic majority at the polls two weeks from today, saying he expected the largest majority in the history of the state, "because the people believe in the party."

Mr. Broughton evoked a long round of applause when he declared "it is my purpose to lend every encouragement to the expansion of East Carolina Teachers' College," which institution he described as a major link in the state's educational system.

The "Democrats - for - Willkie" clubs brought only scant mention from the nominee, who declared of them "we are not disturbed."

Mr. Broughton hailed the Roosevelt administration.

Thos. H. Williams Claimed By Death

Thomas H. Williams, 71, prominent and influential farmer of the Parmele section of Pitt county, died at his home at 6 o'clock last night.

Mr. Williams was the son of the late Sam and Emmaline Ayres Williams of Beaufort county. He had lived in Pitt county for 49 years. He was married to Miss Lucy Wilson.

For many years Mr. Williams had been affiliated with the Flat Swamp Primitive Baptist church.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Elders A. B. Ayers, D. S. Cowan, W. E. Grimes and A. B. Benson. Interment will follow in the Robersonville cemetery.

Active pallbearers will be F. L. Andrews, Jr., W. C. Whitehurst, R. E. James, Allen Weeks, J. G. Gargiles and Arthur Keel.

Willkie And Roosevelt Facing Busy Schedule

Other Leaders Of Both Parties Speed Up Campaigns

By The Associated Press While Wendell L. Willkie returned to the Chicago area today for his second campaign appearance, President Roosevelt arranged to visit Wilmington, Del., and Camden, N. J., tomorrow, prior to his address in Philadelphia.

In a speech in Milwaukee last night Willkie accused the President of letting Chicago's democratic organization and two others try to steal the election from him without even a rebuke.

He referred to democratic organizations in Jersey City, N. J., and in the Bronx, N. Y., as well as to that in Chicago, and said:

"Here is a candidate for president who has proclaimed himself as a liberal, as a reform candidate, but who allows three of the most corrupt political machines to try to steal the election from him without even a rebuke to them."

With the election only two weeks away, speakers for both major parties were heard in many cities last night.

Henry A. Wallace, the democratic vice presidential nominee, told an audience at Mason City, Iowa, that "the eastern financial interests so control the majority of republican votes in congress and that they will consent to no effective farm program no matter what promises the candidates make."

Senator Vandenberg, (R-Mich) said at Logansport, Ind., that the government "has been run as a helter-skelter, pell-mell political grab bag to suit the shifting whims of one so-called 'indispensable man' and to feed the greatest political bureaucracy that ever fastened itself on an otherwise free people."

Native Of Greenville Injured In Collision

Billy Whitehurst of Durham, agent for the Carolina Coach Company, was critically injured late yesterday afternoon in a traffic collision in Miami, Fla., where he had gone to spend his vacation visiting a cousin.

Mr. Whitehurst is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Whitehurst, who live on Chestnut street here.

According to reports here, the former local man was injured when the car in which he was riding was struck by another vehicle. He suffered injuries about the head, including cuts about the ear. At latest reports he was still unconscious and no improvement had been noted in his critical condition.

Offerings Lighter On Local Market Today

Although today's sales on the Greenville tobacco market were below yesterday's in poundage and quality, prices continued to remain firm and unchanged, according to Sales Supervisor R. C. Rankin.

Cruiser Reported Damaged And Several Merchantmen Sunk In Midnight To Dawn Battle; Fog Over London And Mist Over German Bomber Bases Hamper Overnight Aerial Forays

By The Associated Press Italy claimed a naval victory over Great Britain today with the damaging of an 8,000-ton British cruiser and the sinking of six British merchantmen in a midnight to dawn battle in the Red Sea.

Mussolini's high command said Italian torpedo boats three times attacked a convoy of merchant ships "strongly escorted by cruisers and destroyers" in the southern portion of the Red sea near the Gulf of Aden.

"Despite violent fire from the enemy cruisers and destroyers," the Italian communique asserted, the smaller Fascist craft darted in to attack until dawn when the British cruiser "entering within range of action of naval coast defense batteries was quickly caught in effective fire."

Low-lying fog over London and mist over German bomber bases across the channel hampered overnight raiding forays, but Nazi warplanes resumed the attack on London shortly after noon today.

Despite the murky weather, the London Air Ministry reported Royal Air Force bombers violently bombed Germany's big naval dockyard at Hamburg, starting many new fires in the port which has been a major target of attack by British airmen.

Another Royal Air Force raider attacked a German convoy off the French coast, the Air Ministry said disabling at least one vessel. Other squadrons bombed wharves, warehouses and a ship at German-held Brest.

London had one of its quietest nights in six weeks, although the Germans reported their night raiders had bombed the empire capital again, attacked Birmingham and started "exceptionally large fires" at Liverpool.

Berlin's four million slept through a night without alarm, but Nazi officials speed preparations to remove children from the German capital. German railways planned to run 75 special trains between now and October 31 to take children from Berlin to safer areas.

Space Is Secured For Draft Boards

The two Pitt county draft boards have secured office space on the second floor of the new Municipal building and plan to get down in earnest to the task of assessing the cards and giving each registrant a serial number in preparation for the national lottery to be held one week from today.

Both boards also have secured the second floor space set aside for the policemen's recreation room.

WHAT IT MEANS: The Women's Vote

By MORGAN M. BEATTY AP Feature Service Writer

Wilmington. — Polls of public opinion or no polls, both major parties swing into the home-stretch of the 1940 campaign without knowing which way—if any—10 or 20 million women are going to jump on election day.

That means the women's vote is the big mystery in politics, just as it has been in all of the six presidential elections since 1920 when the women got the vote.

There are those in high places in both political parties who feel that women may be the nucleus of the great independent vote in American politics. Some even suggest that sweeping landslides like the swing from Hoover in 1928 to the avalanche for Roosevelt in 1936—only eight years later—are possible only because the women are less party-bound than men.

STAGE IS SET FOR STARTING DRAFT SYSTEM

Stimson To Inaugurate Lottery One Week From Today

WILL REQUIRE TWELVE HOURS

Chief Executive To Deliver Address At Opening Ceremonies Set For October 29th

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—One week from today at noon Uncle Sam will start drawing the Selective Service numbers which will put the first 800,000 young Americans in uniform by next June and millions more during the ensuing four years.

The historic drawing in the nation's first peace-time conscription program is expected to take a dozen hours or more. When it is finished each of the 16,654,000 men who registered last Wednesday will know the order in which he is subject to call for a year's service in the army.

The big glass jar from which World War draft members were drawn will be used once again and following the precedent of 1917, Secretary of War Stimson, blindfolded will pull out the first number.

Plans for the draft drawing were completed yesterday at a conference between President Roosevelt and Selective Service Director Dykstra. At first Dykstra announced that the chief executive would pick the first number, but later he said Mr. Roosevelt wished the Secretary of War to have this honor.

The President, however, will be present at the opening ceremony and will deliver an address before the actual lottery drawing begins.

Between now and next Tuesday each of the men who registered will be assigned a number by his local board. The numbers so assigned are serial numbers and are not expected to run higher than 7,500 for any one local board area. The sequence in which these numbers are drawn in the October 29 lottery will determine the order numbers—that is the numbers designating the numerical order in which registrants are subject to call.

Gets Letter From Niece In England

Henry G. Baker, barber at the Proctor Hotel barber shop, has just received a letter from his niece living in Bristol, England, in which the girl states that the people are still sure that England "will come out on top."

The local man's niece wrote him that "the war is terrible and adds that "we get air raids every night, some times from 9 p. m. until 5 o'clock in the morning."

She wrote that she had five brothers, two already in service, two on the waiting list and the fifth, 34 years old, with only one leg who will not be subject to call.

The letter was in reply to one sent the family by Mr. Baker and the English girl reported that "we are all very well at present." She added that one could not tell from day to day what the war would bring, but was definite in her assurance that England would come out on top.

Plane-Chute Collision Kills 6

An alert photographer snapped this picture a few moments after the collision of an airplane and the parachute of a stunt man at Marianna, Ark. The plane is plunging to earth. In the upper left corner can be seen the body of the parachutist. He and all in the plane—the pilot and four passengers—perished. The plane and the parachute became entangled as the ship circled around to give the passengers a close view of the 'act.

RAF Warplanes Strike Blows At Nazi Shipping

Explosives And Fire Bombs Also Dropped on Hamburg

By The Associated Press British Royal Air Force warplanes struck two crippling blows at German shipping, the London Air Ministry reported today, dumping tons of high explosives and at least 1,000 fire bombs on Hamburg docks—where German warships were under construction—and blasting an air raid alarm across the city.

The Air Ministry said bombs exploding around the convoy almost lifted some of the ships out of the water.

In an hour-long assault on Hamburg numerous fires were started in the shipyards and surrounding docks, the Ministry said, adding:

"A chain of fires became engulfed in one great flaming mass."

Two more British spokesmen meanwhile, amplified Prime Minister Churchill's assertion that Britain would launch an offensive and gain control of the air in 1941.

Lord Croft, war under-secretary declared "the war can never be won without a military decision east or west or on both fronts."

"That is why we are building up a great army."

Another authorized spokesman in London forecast an increasing use of air power in British land operations, disclosing that squadrons of bombers "and possibly fighters" will be placed under army command when needed "for any particular operation."

This was an evident reference to heretofore big-scale warfare in the Mediterranean-Egyptian theater.

An air raid alarm shortly after darkness fell signalled the opening of London's 46th consecutive night of aerial siege after a day of comparative quiet.

Two alarms were sounded in the daylight hours, but no planes were seen over London, although they were active along the southeastern coast.

Ciano May Seek Aid Of French For Axis

Rome, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Persistent, but unconfirmed reports circulated in Rome tonight that Foreign Minister Count Ciano would leave soon on a diplomatic mission, perhaps tomorrow.

These reports were connected in foreign circles with discussions of the possibility of peace negotiations between the Rome-Berlin Axis and France which would enlist French aid against Britain.

Ribbentrop Is Believed Heading For Vichy Visit

Dispatches From A Switzerland Town Just Across French Border Indicate Axis Powers Trying To Persuade France To Take Up Arms Against Former Ally In Return For Easy Nazi Terms

Berlin, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Possibility that France may re-enter the war on the side of the Axis powers was foreseen here today amid indications that Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop either is on his way or is about to embark upon a journey to the southwest, presumably to Vichy.

Secrecy surrounded Von Ribbentrop's movements.

Dispatches from Les Verrieres, Switzerland, on the French border, quoted informed travelers as saying the Axis powers were attempting to persuade France to declare war on Britain by offering her comparatively easy terms. Vice Premier Laval was reported to be in Paris discussing the situation with Nazi officials.

There have been rumors here for weeks of pending amicable arrangements with France. For a fortnight the German press has refrained from saying anything derogatory about the vanquished nation.

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's appeal last night to France to refrain from doing anything that might hurt the British cause finally gives substance to recurring intimations that German negotiations with France have advanced to the stage where a visit by Von Ribbentrop may clinch them now.

Whether Von Ribbentrop, if really bound for Vichy, will continue to Madrid also was a question for speculation in the German capital.

In a chain of circumstantial evidence, however, the following points may be mentioned:

1. Rumors concerning negotiations with France have been recurring here with frequency in the past week.

2. Hints by authorized sources that the Balkans are a matter of secondary importance to other events in the offing.

3. Unusual secrecy with which Von Ribbentrop's present movements are shrouded.

4. Churchill's unusual appeal to France at this particular time.

Seeks To End Strike On Tar Heel Project

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Bryce P. Holcombe, Labor Department conciliation commissioner, today sought to end a strike of 500 workers employed by the Utah Construction Company on the Andrews, N. C., dam of the Nantahala Light and Power Company.

A Labor Department spokesman said it was hoped an agreement could be reached between the building trades division of the American Federation of Labor, representing the striking workers, and the construction company.

He added that announcement today would depend on the trend of the negotiations.

Edgecombe Bonds Approved. Raleigh, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Local Government Commission today approved sale by Edgecombe county of $40,000 worth of school bonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan Entertain.
Honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Broughton of Raleigh, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bonner and Mrs. Lindsay Warren of Washington, and other out-of-town visitors, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan entertained informally last evening, following the Democratic rally.

The attractive home on Evans street was especially lovely on this occasion with decorations of dahlias and gladioli. The guests were greeted by Dr. and Mrs. W. I. Wooten and introduced to the receiving line by Mr. and Mrs. Graham Flanagan. Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Broughton, Mr. and Mrs. Broughton, Mr. and Mrs. Bonner, Mrs. Warren Mayor and Mrs. George Davis and Dr. and Mrs. Paul Jones of Farmville, and Mr. R. L. Harris of Roxboro.

From a beautifully appointed table in the sun room, punch was served by Mr. and Mrs. John Flanagan and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Llanite. A particularly lovely floral arrangement centered the table in the dining room. Mrs. N. O. Warren and Mrs. Walter Harrington presided at either end of the table to pour coffee. Assisting in serving sandwiches, cakes and many other delicacies were Mr. and Mrs. Ty Wagner and Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Lloyd.

A large number of guests called during the evening.

Forty Years Ago Today

October 22, 1900

Seen and Heard in Washington Washington, N. C., Oct. 22.—The powers that be, in their paternal oversight in the matter of sheds over the sidewalks, were inexorable and the sheds had to come down. In rainy weather we shall have no looking place and will be compelled to cease blocking the sidewalks and then persons on business can pass down the sidewalks. Now if they (the powers that be) will quit "straining at a gnat" and look at such porches, cellar doors, etc., as take up from one-half to three-fourths of the sidewalks, we will rise up and bless them. We specially regret the taking down of the shed in front of the court house, as it will break up the practice of a lot of boys (?) of congregating there on Sunday nights.

Tonight at 7:30 the Student Council will hold its regular weekly meeting in the high school library, preparing for the State Student Council convention to be held here November 1 and 2.

Big Business
Some of this younger generation are going to be mighty big business men, or we miss our guess. In the economics class the students have been studying stocks and bonds, and it seems that all the members of the class are making a success in the business world except one—and he, poor fellow, lost twenty-three million dollars.

Junior I. C. Club
Yesterday at home room period the Junior International Correspondence club held a very interesting and enjoyable meeting. Marcelle Humber, who recently moved to Greenville from Paris, France, was the guest speaker of the program. Marcelle is ten years old and is in the fifth grade.

Pactolus News

The people of the Pactolus community are proud of the community fair which was held in the school building last Friday night, October 11. It was a success educationally, recreationally, and financially. It showed some hard work and careful planning on the part of the fair committee, the school faculty, and a fine spirit of cooperation from the children and grown people of the community. The large number of exhibits were representative of the greater interest people are taking in making and raising, as well as conserving better things. Among the exhibits were field products, vegetables, canned goods, fruits, handwork and antiques. Especially noticeable were the fresh garden vegetables such as green cucumbers and ripe tomatoes so late in the season. The canned goods also attracted much attention with their variety and beauty. There were canned meat, vegetables, fruits, and pickles, preserves and jellies. The amateur show displayed the varied talent of the contestants and was enjoyed by the audience. The program included dancing, singing, string music, recitations, and readings. Billy Wagoner won the prize with his violin solo "Beautiful Blue Danube" by Strauss. The winners of the other contests were as follows: Little Paul Davenport III, in the baby contest; Mr. J. Paul Davenport, Sr., in the henpecked husband contest; and Mr. Roy Beacham, in the chicken feeding contest. In the popularity contest the most popular girl was Ellen Barnhill and the most popular boy was Allen Wray. Other attractions enjoyed by many were the Art Gallery with its baby pictures of some of the older residents as well as some of the younger ones, fortune telling booth, Negro minstrel, with its quartet and dancing, bingo stand, and crazy house, and also the weight guessing stand.

These Women!

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Feature Service Writer
These women of America! They do more things, go more places, wear more goodlooking clothes and do more unusual jobs than any other women in the world. They're continually trying something new and different—perhaps, of newer ancestors who moved west over sea and earth to make a new life in new lands. This column is devoted to their doings and stimulating and interesting things some of them are doing right now.

Take Mrs. Belle Benchley. She is the only woman in the world who is the director of a zoo. She lives in a metropolitan jungle (the San Diego, Calif., Zoological Gardens) and is boss of 53 men and 3,100 animals. Recently she wrote her first book telling all about her work. Mrs. Benchley, middle-aged, motherly, former school teacher, began her zoo career as a bookkeeper. But before she had been there three hours people began to telephone and ask such questions as "How long is a rhinoceros' tail?" and "What do you feed a lark?" Mrs. Benchley had to learn. She learned so well that she soon progressed to buying the animals' food and in 20 months took charge of the place.

"Animals are just like people," she says. "There's Mbongo—our big gorilla whose Swahili name means 'brains.' When Osa Johnson came to call one day wearing a beautiful fur coat, he fell in love with her and almost broke his neck showing off. He got up on his big rubber ball and went rolling along, pulling Osa instead of looking where he was going. I'll be credited with the cage and sprawled on the floor like a big black rug. Then he was terribly embarrassed, turned his face to the corner and stayed there. "Goola" (Sugar), our anthropoid ape from Borneo, is as vain as any woman I ever saw. She simply loves pink and she'll drape a pink scarf or handkerchief around her neck and fondle it for hours. We've one monkey named "Trader" who hoards everything he can and trades it for candy. And I've noticed that if there is a strong leader in the cage the animals will fawn on him and be mean to a weak one."

Gloria Vanderbilt, who is heralded as the likely star among next year's New York debutantes and who is the niece of the sculptress, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, has taken up painting. Mary Anderson, director of the Women's Bureau in the Labor Department, predicts that the draft will open new industrial fields to women.

Miss Betty Peaden of Kinston were visitors here during the week-end. Misses Juanita Adams and Bertha Sutton spent the week-end with Miss Cathleen Adams of Grimesland. Miss Doris Edwards of E. C. T. C., spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Edwards. Miss Margaret Guy Overman of Elizabeth City, Messrs. Edward and Earl Bright, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Hansbrough of Washington, D. C., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Baker and family. Mr. Ed Matthews of Washington was here Monday on business. Miss Hazel Cox of near Greenville spent Monday night with Miss Louise Adams.

Plan Homecoming At Wilson College

Wilson, Oct. 22.—A large representation of former students of Atlantic Christian College is expected to be on hand Friday and Saturday, November 1 and 2, for the annual homecoming activities. The program has been lengthened and made more attractive again this year, as it was last year when the new Howard chapel was dedicated to its triple purpose—music, drama and religion. The week's program will begin Friday night with a concert for the students and returning alumni by Herbert A. Bird, talented North Carolina violinist, and will continue through Saturday evening, when a program will be presented jointly by the music and dramatic departments. Saturday morning at 11 o'clock the general assembly will be held in Howard chapel. Following the assembly, the classes will hold their reunions. At 12:30, the alumni association will hold its semi-annual luncheon in the dining hall at which time the regular business session will be held. Early Saturday afternoon, the dormitories will be open for inspection, and from 4 to 5:30, the fraternities will be at home to their alumni. The activities will end Saturday evening at 8 o'clock with a short organ recital by Russell Roebuck and the production of two plays by the Dramatic Club, under the direction of Miss Eleanor Synder. It will present "Dust of the Road," by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, and Barrett Clark's adaptation of "The Doctor in Spite of Himself" by Moliere.

Your Screen Test

By ROBBIN COONS

1. The girl in the picture, Dorothy Comings, was discovered by one famous producer-director-actor, and now has her first leading role opposite another. Know the pair? And what's the picture?
2. Alphabet soup in the movie colony: What is meant by (a) S A G, (b) IATSE, (c) ASCAP, (d) S P G, (e) PDQ?
3. Who played these leading characters and in what pictures: (a) Matt Howard, (b) Julius Reuter, (c) Gerald O'Hara, (d) Ma Joad, (e) Judge Roy Bean?
4. The Scandinavians are getting a play in Hollywood. Can you name the writers with their communities and county during this school year?
5. Back where we started, name the up-and-coming writer-director whose latest picture is "Christmas in July" and the writer-producer-director-sometime actor who recently finished "Angels Over Broadway."

Count 20 points for each question correctly answered. A score of 60 is good, 80 is excellent, and 90 or above is colossal.

"Their land has always been a home for refugees, but they do not intend to offer a home to Hitler or his followers," said Dr. Keuzenkamp. Contributions made by the Dutch to the fields of culture were enumerated by Dr. Keuzenkamp as he named world famous artists, musicians and writers. "In the small countries of Europe where the people stand for democratic ideals they cannot be downed by Hitler," stated the speaker. Dr. Keuzenkamp feels that when the war is over Germany would be better off divided into smaller states and not given to many democratic principles to work with, because they cannot govern themselves. Election Year Session Is Longest Since 1888

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer
 Washington.—The 76th Congress started its 1940 grind as a "brief, budget minded" session but it has turned out to be the unchallenged No. 1 spender in U. S. peacetime history.

Originally figured to come to a close in June, the session has continued later into the fall than any in a general election year since 1888.

Five months ago, economy-minded members voiced apprehension at prospective total appropriations for the year of $7,780,000,000.

Came the conquest of France. Congress started voting speedy and almost unanimous approval of billions for defense.

Appropriations for the session will run around $17,000,000,000. Previous peacetime mark was $13,351,000,000 set by the same Congress at its session last year.

Highest In 1918
 Highest wartime mark was $27,065,000,000 voted by the 50th Congress in 1918.

Some $12,149,000,000 of this year's $17,000,000,000 will go for national defense. This does not include future expenditures for the two-ocean navy authorized by Congress which would bring the total arranged-for defense outlay to about $16,000,000,000.

Thirty-odd legislative measures provide for military and naval equipment ranging from buttons to battleships and from forks to flying fortresses.

From June 1 to October 1, Congress voted defense funds at the rate of $82,536 a minute for every minute, night and day.

The 76th Congress also made history by ordering the mobilization of military manpower on a scale heretofore unapproached in peacetime.

The conscription law called for the registration of more than 16,500,000 men—every eighth person in the country—for selective military service.

More Income Taxes
 The defense tax law, designed to raise $1,006,000,000 a year, puts the heaviest federal tax load on U. S.

Stresses Need

As millions of young men in the nation started registering for conscription, President Roosevelt broadcast a message from the White House in which he stressed: "We prepare to keep the peace in this new world which free men have built for free men to live in."

Dinah Sings Trouble Away

By MARGARET KERNODLE
AP Feature Service Writer
 New York.—Two years ago Dinah Shore had a hard luck story. It was New Year's Eve. She was broke. A $50 job had fallen through at the last minute. For weeks she had been singing over the radio for less than peanuts and living on rye bread and cheese. She didn't have a cent left.

Gosh, how she hated to wire home for money!

She'd come to New York against her father's wishes. She'd used up the little money her mother bequeathed her.

Reluctantly she borrowed a few cents from a kind-hearted elevator boy. The collect wire brought money and more pleas to go back to Tennessee.

Then her luck began to change. Where she'd been singing for nothing, she started singing for her supper. Her spirits perked up.

It's Different Now
 Now her story goes like this: Her salary may be as low as $250 a week or as high as $700. She is singing on the Edgie Cantor program currently; she has been singing in theaters and for recordings; she expects to go to Hollywood shortly.

She can buy those dresses she used to dream about. But she's modest and thrifty and she puts money into a dress only for special occasions.

A special occasion came this fall when Broadway lights spelled her name for the first time.

She got the dressmaker to design three frothy frocks on princess lines to show off her 21-inch waist. The green, the white and the black set her back $300. But she would swirl 45 yards of skirt every time she bowed to audiences clamoring for more of her bluesy singing.

When she sings she sounds happy. She looks happy. And she sort of sings all over.

Dinah has warm brown eyes and hair and lips to match. She's 5 feet 6 inches and thinks she weighs not quite enough at 114 pounds.

DINAH SHORE

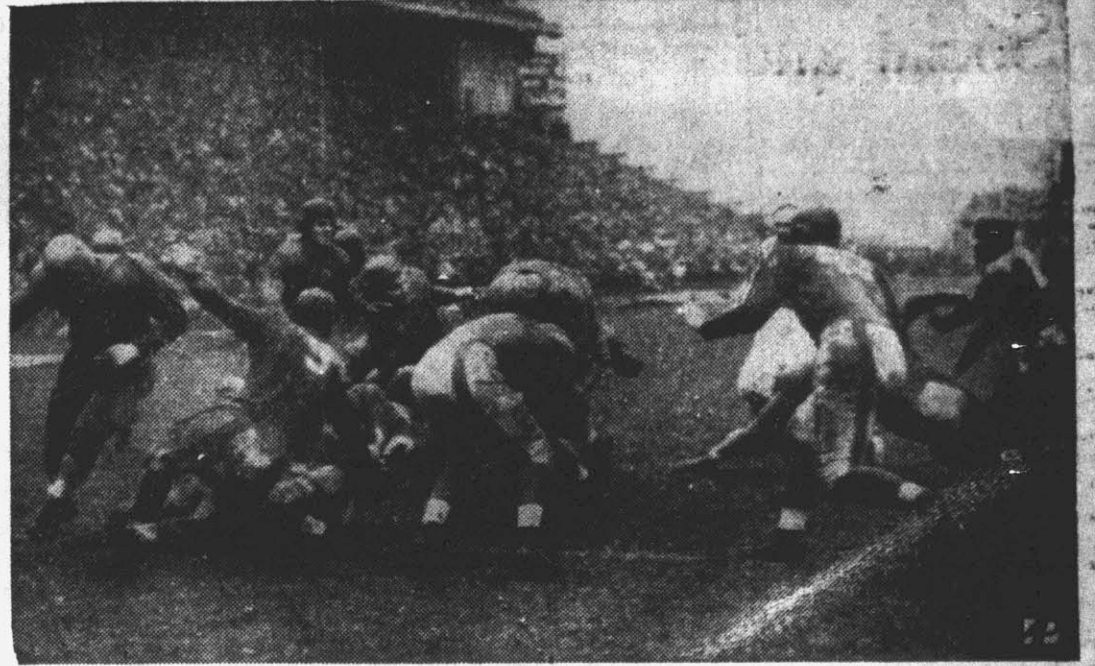

Enjoys Sports
 She loves to go to football and baseball games. She likes to dash from a radio program to hear a band. And she loves to read a romantic novel.

Dinah's troubles over a career of singing started at the age of 14 when she sneaked from home in her sister's best dress for a roadside cabaret engagement. She got snatched back home, but she collected $10 first.

DEFENSE BECOMES THE BUDGET'S MAJOR ITEM

citizens since the World War.

An additional 2,050,000 persons with small incomes will become federal taxpayers next March 15. Exemptions are reduced and a "super-tax" of 10 per cent is added.

Congress also boosted by 10 per cent most of the excise taxes—on tobacco, liquor, autos, tires, radios etc.

A "no-war-millionaires" law puts a graduated tax of 25-to-50 per cent on excess profits. A 3.1 per cent levy is added to the normal income tax rate for corporations earning more than $25,000, making the effective rate 24 per cent.

Congress voted $918,000,000 for farm aid; $1,157,000,000 to finance relief for at least eight months beginning last July 1.

It tightened the Hatch act, extending to federal-state employees restrictions on political activities and limiting single campaign contributions to $5,000.

The administration's reciprocal trade program was extended for three years. And Congress began hearings on proposed anti-third term legislation.

Preparedness "Behind the Lines"

American Red Cross, Already Busy With Domestic Duties, Undertakes Heavy Defense Program; Mercy Work Of Past Year Benefited Many Thousands

DOMESTIC responsibilities arising from the national defense program and the extension of war relief aid in Europe and Asia give the American Red Cross its busiest year since the World War.

War Relief Worker

While more than 500,000 American women are engaged in the production of garments and surgical dressings for the war stricken of other nations, thousands of volunteers throughout the nation play an important part in strengthening our own defenses.

Volunteer blood donors enable the Army and Navy to perfect methods of plasma transfusions that may some day save thousands of lives. Through the Red Cross, a force of medical technologists is being mobilized for call by the Army and Navy in the event of national emergency. The Red Cross nursing reserve of 43,000 registered nurses is being strengthened for equally important work should they be needed.

Conscription has meant heavy increases in the responsibilities of Red Cross field representatives in naval and military posts. Even last year, with a skeletonized peace-time Army and Navy, the American Red Cross handled the problems of more than 53,000 enlisted men needing help as a result of family and economic difficulties. Similarly, aid was given to more than 150,000 veterans of past wars by the Red Cross during the year.

Although world conditions have imposed added obligations on the Red Cross at home and abroad, disaster relief and the day-to-day services have resulted in one of the most active years. More than 100,000 victims of floods, tornadoes, fires and other forms of disaster were given emergency shelter, food, medical attention and aided in rebuilding their homes. Some 95,000 young Americans were trained in Life Saving methods and water safety.

The Junior Red Cross, America's largest youth organization with a membership of 8,500,000, was active in community, national and international projects. From First Aid courses there were graduated 379,000 persons, qualifying them to carry on the Red Cross' tireless campaign against accidental death. More than 9,000,000 "check lists" were distributed to urban and rural families as an educational project designed to eliminate everyday accident hazards in the home and on the farm.

Every patriotic man and woman in America is urged to aid in the Red Cross national defense preparedness "behind the lines" by joining as a member of the local Red Cross Chapter during the annual Roll Call, November 11-30.

NURSES STAND BY—A corps of 43,000 Red Cross reserve nurses are pledged for duty in time of emergency.

WILLING HELPERS—Members of the Junior Red Cross lend willing hands in sewing for war victims.

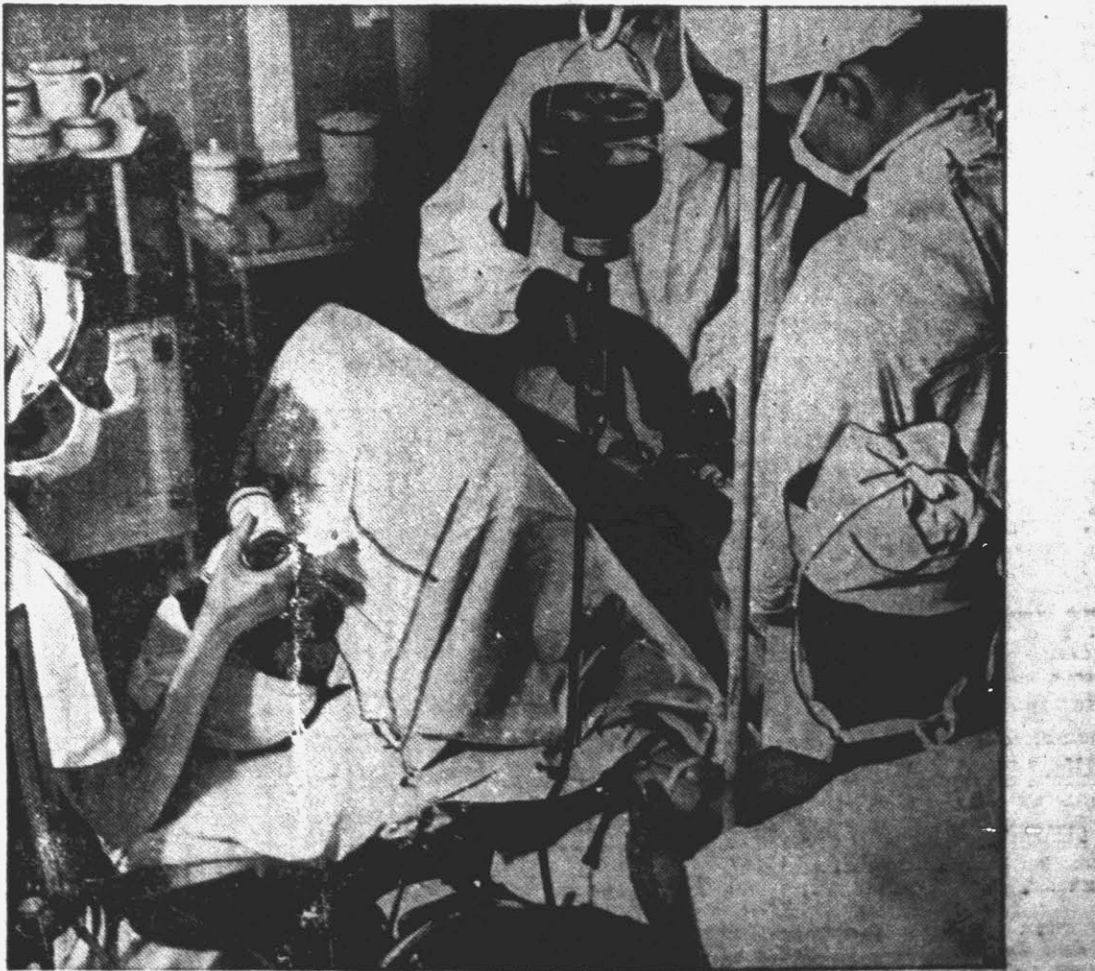

AIDING INDUSTRY—Red Cross First Aid training plays important part to safeguard industrial workers.

DISASTER VICTIMS—Food, shelter and clothing last year given victims of 102 disasters.

PRETTY PREPAREDNESS!—Smiles of service come from two members of the American Red Cross volunteer "army," a band of 500,000 American women working for national defense behind the lines.

EMERGENCY BLOOD—To enable the Army and Navy to perfect blood plasma transfusions, as above, for national defense, Red Cross volunteers donate their blood. A medical technologist reserve also is being enrolled for the military.

CONTACT!—A personal message is handed a Navy flier by a Red Cross field director. These workers, stationed in military posts, aid members of the armed forces with their economic and social problems. A growing military has added to their responsibilities.

ENGLAND'S SAFETY PARAMOUNT

Agitation for food shipments to the conquered nations of Europe continues despite statements from England that it cannot let food-stuffs through the blockade...

Mr. Hoover's continued efforts to find a method to get food to the oppressed peoples in lands conquered by Hitler are commendable from a humanitarian point of view...

The writer states that Hoover told members and guests at the camp of San Francisco's famed Bohemian Club that food shipments were impossible under present conditions.

How About The Danger He Faces Tonight?

ent conditions. He said that since both sides recognize hunger as a legitimate weapon, Great Britain would certainly not weaken its greatest single weapon, the blockade...

Mr. Hoover went on to tell of a recent case where 2,000,000 bushels of wheat, sent to relieve hunger in Poland, were seized partly by Germany and partly by Russia.

If this be true, it seems evident Mr. Hoover should use his influence to get this picture across to the American people. Many, whose hearts are torn by thoughts of the terrible plight of those oppressed by the Nazis, continue to support action that would break the British blockade.

With Hitler in control of the entire continent, it is self-evident that he can seize any food shipments regardless of where they are supposed to go.

It is believed that starvation is the most potent weapon England can use against its enemies. Anything that weakens its blockade seriously threatens the chance of an ultimate British victory.

The desire to help is natural. American hearts are big and the sympathies of the American people easily aroused. But the outcome of this fight is of such vital importance that nothing must be done that could possibly weaken British resistance.

If there ever before was a capitalist party like that given for Sister Pascaline de St. Simon to celebrate her 76th birthday and the fiftieth anniversary of the day she started begging alms. She has stood outside the government buildings in all kinds of weather since before the Spanish-American war. The party was a fine affair. There were flowers and food and singing and many guests. But Sister Pascaline was not there. The vows of the Little Sisters of the Poor forbade such pomp and frivolity. Throughout the party, she stayed—and helped—in the kitchen.

They passed through the open gate into a deserted street and found refuge in the first courtyard. An old Chinese in pigtail and ragged, quilted garment led them to a dark and dingy room with its tiny kang, which was both mud stove and chimney-bed. Straw and animal chips were at hand to kindle a fire.

Bula drew flint and steel from the blouse of his coat and skillfully made a blaze with little mokes to blow back into the room when the wind took a reverse motion. The girls dried themselves as best they could and then curled up on the kang for warmth.

Chan had secured a saucer of sheep's fat containing a string which he lighted and placed on the little table on the kang. The one small window in the room was sealed with smoke-rimed paper.

Peggy took a comb from her purse and began to draw it through her flaming hair. She glanced round the dark little hole with its blackened walls and saw peculiarly dry, smoky small of Chinese hovels in the cooler latitudes. She shuddered a little. Lynn understood what she felt though she did not share the emotion of distress.

The suave, neat Chinese boy was making tea over the fire. The Mongol, looking like a devil-doctor, squatted in one corner of the dirt floor smoking a pipe, knitting, and muttering prayers between puffs.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

YESTERDAY: Lynn Britton and an American friend, Peggy Telford, are being whisked out of Lanfou, a Chinese city on the Yellow river, in a plane piloted by one Temu Darin. Temu's mission in life is to deliver Lynn to the Prince of Shani Lun, who wants to marry her against Lynn's will, and to dispose somehow of Peggy, who is excess baggage at the moment.

Chapter 23 Facing Death

TEMU steadied his plane and gave it the gun as they headed north by west. They followed, roughly, a tributary of the great river, passing over peaceful mud-brick compounds and villages until a town of considerable size appeared, its western portion a mass of flame and smoke.

Temu lifted the speaking tube. "Howshak, a M o h a m m e d a n stronghold," he said. "They seem to be cleaning out the people of different faiths."

Beyond the town on a mighty plain rose another range of a score of smoldering hills. The storm was rolling up like an angry visitation of a horde of nature gods and demons in an atmosphere strangely hushed and breathless that changed color as they watched, from a clear, transparent sunlight to a menacing yellow-green.

The girls saw Temu Darin shake his head and look down for a landing place. This was not a storm that could be ridden out. "Heavens!" muttered Peggy. "Something tells me I should have gone to Nanking with Sam. This storm and the look that one-eyed Mongol gave me! Things are piling up."

"I thought that's what you wanted," said Lynn. "The Mongol's name is Bula."

"Fate needn't overdo things. One consolation is, that if we fall among Mohammedans, I'll be saved while he goes up in flames. He looks greasy enough to burn like a torch."

They had been in the air less than half an hour. As they lowered over the terrain it proved deceiving. What had appeared to be smooth, level ground broke up into ridges and flats between incredibly deep canyons in the fine, brown soil. On the flat-topped ridges were crazy-quilt fields of green in jagged little hollows that looked like miniature volcanic craters.

Temu dropped low, pancaked in an unexpected air current without mishap and landed near a dilapidated walled village perched precariously on the edge of the canyon. The town had not as yet been ravaged by fire.

Temu leaped from the plane. "Hurry!" he urged the girls, taking their hands as they came, one after the other to break the force of the jump.

Chan and Mongol had already seized the luggage. They all raced towards the village gate. Seeing they could not make it in time, Temu shouted an order. Obediently they threw themselves face downward in one of the tiny, green crater fields and dug their fingers into the soil and clung to the barley roots as the wind swooped down, tearing at their garments and the flat bulks of their bodies like hands in a fury of rage. The plane took a run, rose a bit, and then dived into the jaws of the canyon.

"This is the village of Temu. As the velocity of the wind lessened a trifle and rain began to slant down in stinging sheets that quickly cleared the air of dust, he rose and drew the girls to their feet. The five of them made their way to the village, leaning against the devil-doctor over and breathing when the storm allowed them to.

They passed through the open gate into a deserted street and found refuge in the first courtyard. "Well, I can't blame the cat," remarked a bystander who saw it. "I like squirrel meat, too."

Your reporter recently bought an automobile (or rather agreed to share title to it with a finance company). It is just a little auto in the low priced field selling for well under a thousand dollars.

Now the company is circulating him in an effort to sell $275.75 worth of accessories. It's almost as bad as the days when cars were sold on the "P.O.B. Detroit without engine" basis.

The accessories were listed in a long, pretty pamphlet, but your reporter was so intrigued he sat down and gathered them all together in one list: Here's what's offered: Radiator grille cover $2.75; fender lamps $10.99; vacuum cow antenna $10; license plate guard $2.75; fender grille guard $11.00; fog lamps fender guides $2.50; license plate frame $1.50; exhaust deflector $1.00; gas tank lock cap $1.50; deck guard $6.50; de luxe running boards $15; chrome wheel trim rings $8.75; outside rear view mirror $1.95; spot light $17; custom hub caps $10.25; radio $46.50; de luxe steering wheel $14.50; direction indicator $13.75; automatic cigarette lighter $2.00; electric clock $13.50; weather heater $33.50; automatic battery filter $4.95; oval rear view mirror $1.50; vanity mirror $1.00; oil filter $7.25; ventilator "bus" filter $1.25; and leather kit $17.25.

Until finding out how many things are not on the car, your correspondent was reasonably satisfied with it. Now that it seems everything listed ought to be put on it, the darn thing looks practically stripped.

Man About Manhattan New York—Ed Wynn, having breakfast on a train one morning looked up from his eggs and moodily declared: "My life is like a goldfish in a bowl. No privacy whatever."

Just at that moment a waiter appeared with a "fine piece of toast on a tray." "The lady two tables from the end wants you to autograph this for her," he said.

"You see what I mean," cried Wynn: "no privacy at all." Whereupon he gravely bit a piece out of the toast and sent it back to the lady.

"I think I may have related this episode in some previous column. But it is so typical of this janyered comedian that, caught in the spell of his latest venture in foolery, I wanted to bring it up and add it down beside an episode out of Wynn's "new show" which almost everyone agrees is very, very funny.

When Wynn is funny he is very very funny, and when he isn't he is very unfunny. This new show "Boys and Girls Together" is mostly all Wynn, and he doesn't pause from the moment he arrives in a cloud of "methball" vapors until around midnight.

He has some new inventions this time, too, and one of them is a gun that shoots in all directions at once to ensure men against missing. He also has a "plano" balanced finely on a bicycle, which he plays while riding around.

The little episode that I wanted to sit beside the autographed toast which came out of real life concerned the piano. He is talking to Jane Pickens at the time.

"I didn't know you could play the piano," said Jane.

"I couldn't," replied Wynn, "until I hurt my hand several months ago, and I asked the doctor if I could play the piano when it was well. He said I could, and when they took the bandages off, sure enough, I could play."

It is thinks like this, delivered in Wynn's droll 180° shift style, people forget about world revolutions. It is the spontaneous combustion of wit without malice. No one is ever hurt by his remarks. He never gives another's expense. His humor always grows out of situations that are normally brought about, and

Old Rivalry Renewed For The 1940 Season

By C. B. BOWLETT

Wake Forest hasn't beaten Duke since 1926. North Carolina State hasn't taken the University of North Carolina since 1927 and Coach Frank L. Mocks Kinston High Red Devils haven't taken a victory over the Flying Green Prankens of Greenville High School since 1925, so the outlook can be turned either way in the Friday's tilt on the Grainger High grounds.

While Coach Farley depends on his line for keeping the Devils of Kinston out and the backfield made up of Spearman, Kittrell, Britt and Page to do the scoring, the Red Devils look the situation over from a different angle and with such backs as Eborn, Pittman, James McKee, Johnny Hewitt and Mickey Wetherington have good reason for doing so. Pittman, versatile sophomore, stands up in poundage and ability. He has played a bang-up game against all Red Devil opponents this season. Coach Mocks progresses took a one sided non-conference victory over Morehead City last week for a Phantom warmer-upper.

But Kinston isn't the only team with a number of good backs in the contest Friday. Coach Boley Farley sports an array of backs that most any high school coach would be glad to have. John Spearman, sophomore wingback, has a highly-esteemed record for carrying the leather against opponents. More than once he has come through when the Phantoms when the chips were down. Last week Spearman took the ball on a reverse and the result was a sixty-five yard touchdown for the Phantoms and a 7-7 tie over a more-powerful Roanoke Rapids eleven. Bill Britt, newcomer from Warsaw and a Greenville High freshman, has a pass-completion record that most college backs would be proud of. Although none of these aerials have gone for a score as yet this season, many of them have been in touchdown drives and counted for more than one first down. J. B. Kittrell, another valuable asset to the high school backfield, has shown his ability as both a ball-carrier and blocker. Kittrell is rated as one of the best blockers in the conference and proved his ability as a pigskin toter when he traveled 45 yards through the center of the line for a touchdown against a scrappy Plymouth eleven earlier in the season. Dewey Page, hard-driving fullback, has done well in all duties this season. Page is a hard hitter and a hard driver. Dewey was a former end, converted early in the season to the backfield but has seen some action on the flanks due to injuries to the regular ends and also to lack of capable reserves to fill the holes.

A light but scrappy line is the only way to express Coach Farley's seven pillars of punishment. On the ends John Collins and Larry James will be the starters. Both boys are hard hitters and they also make up the other half of the passing combine between Britt-Collins and James.

In at guard will be Noah Lee Edwards and Paul Scott. Although this is Edwards' first year as a starter, he has shown his ability and gained prestige among the fans and coaches. Scott is a third year regular and still plays a bang-up game in the other guard post. Paul has had a little trouble lately in this season due to injuries but will be in Friday's contest.

Spencer Carroll and Brice Dale will be probable starters at the tackle posts in Friday's game. Both boys are well able to take care of their particular duties in the line and will be a big factor in a Phantom victory.

Center H. R. Goodall is a stalwart blockade to all-would-be trespassers in the Phantom line. Goodall is beginning his first season as a starter and has shown up well in all games. Possible reserves who will see action are Snag Clark, Paul Britt, Sydney Johnson, Alton Stoneham, Hubert Musselwhite and others quite as capable.

SATURDAY BIG AAA PROGRAM DAY FOR GRID CHANGES MADE

Three Outstanding Contests Scheduled This Week

Reflector Bureau
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Oct. 22 — The Duke-Carolina game is traditional North Carolina's biggest football splurge, but it now seems that the coming Saturday, Oct. 26, is going to outrank it in point of interest within this immediate area, at any rate. That's because there will be with-in the confines of Wake and Durham counties no less than three games, any one of which appears on paper to be enough to get excited about.

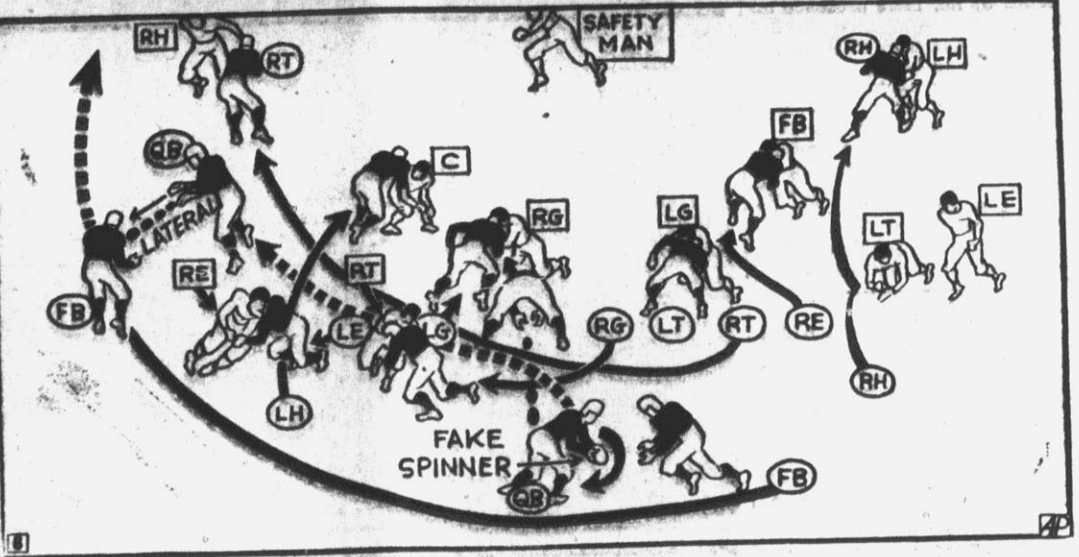

There's Tulane against U.N.C. at Chapel Hill and Duke against Wake Forest at Wake Forest in the afternoon, and the Mississippi Aggies against State College here at night. How to divide themselves into two parts, so that both afternoon games is a problem which fans are giving as much attention as Major Amos Hooper to the task of branding calves without catching them—and with just about as much success. Last Saturday's results did nothing to lessen the interest in any one of the trio of contests. Duke's victory over Colgate wasn't quite as decisive as some thought it would be, but the Devils lost little or no prestige; while Wake's ability to swap touchdowns punches with Marshall and come out on top caused a revision of the opinion, based on the Clemson debacle, that the Deacs are exclusively front runners. State's bag of tricks against Carolina caught the imagination of every fan who saw the Pack perform.

The two out-of-state teams which will come to North Carolina also did their part. Tulane, after being tripped three times in a row, won from Rice while the Maroons from the Magnolia State crushed Howard.

Altogether the state is perfectly set for the biggest grid orgy of the season.

It would take the equivalent of 8,000,000 old-time galley slaves to propel the liner Queen Mary.

'I LIKE THIS PLAY'

By RAY WOLF
University of North Carolina Coach
On this maneuver we suck the defensive right tackle in, trap him and send our quarterback through his vacated slot. The quarterback makes a half spin, fakes the ball to fullback and then runs off tackle. Finally laterally to the fullback after he has passed the scrimmage line. Operating from an unbalanced line, the right guard drops back to block out the onrushing defensive right tackle and our right tackle pulls out to lead interference for the quarterback.

POSTAL ODDITIES

ALTHOUGH CHINESE MAILED ARE CARRIED BY MANY MODERN MEANS OF TRANSPORTATION MANY INLAND LETTER COURIERS MUST HAVE THE AGILITY OF A CIRCUS ACROBAT ON ROUTES!

Modern methods of transportation go almost hand in hand with ancient modes of carrying the mails in China. No regular trails await the Chinese courier, who must travel about 40 miles daily and who thinks nothing of swimming across a raging river with a heavy sack of mail on his back. Odd, isn't it?

What It Means

(Continued from page one) but only slightly more. For instance, a greater percentage of the sampled women than men favored government ownership of railroads and were against the government staying out of business. More women than men favored the more court at that time. But even here the tendencies were with a grain of salt, for in spite of them he said his general conclusion was that women reacted to candidates and issues generally about as men do. He didn't put any stock in that old gag about women changing their minds. At least that played no part in his survey.

Chief Clark Attends Police School Series

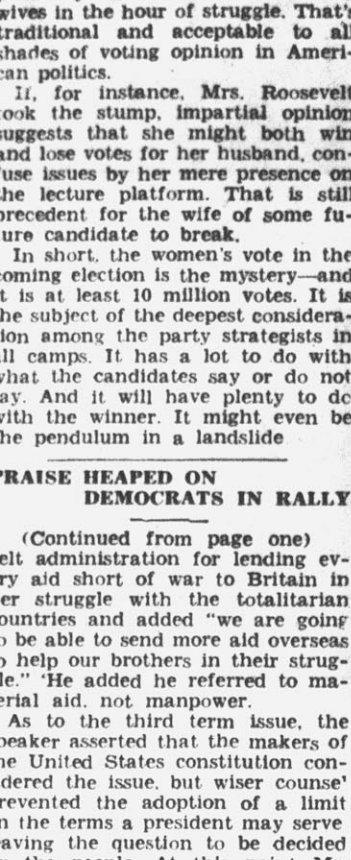

Chief of Police George Clark is in Chapel Hill attending the Institute of Government's police school sessions which is now under way. The first in the series of monthly schools opened yesterday with an attendance of approximately 50 police chiefs and heads of state and federal law enforcement agencies. A lecture on "Scientific Aids on Crime Detection," by E. P. Coffey, who heads the famed crime detection laboratory of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, highlighted the day's session.

Diamond Jim Speagle Goes To Winterville

"Diamond Jim" Speagle, veteran showman who claims his collection of diamonds and jewelry is valued at over a million dollars, will appear at the Winterville high school auditorium next Monday night at 8 o'clock. On his personal appearance tours, and he has made them all over the world, "Diamond Jim" tells his life story—how he started to work in a chair factory when he was six years old for 10 cents a day, was employed on public work until he was 18 and then started to school without even knowing his ABC's. He worked his way through school, a preparatory college and then National College at Chicago.

After completing his education he went into the entertainment field and it was in this that he made his money. Delicate in politics is the question of wives. It is not merely by chance

PRAISE HEAPED ON DEMOCRATS IN RALLY

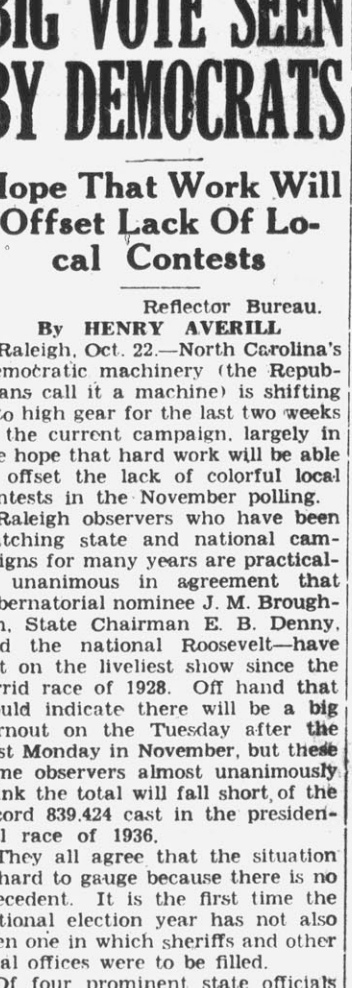

(Continued from page one) veit administration for lending every aid short of war to Britain in her struggle with the totalitarian countries and added "we are going to be able to send more aid overseas to help our brothers in their struggle." He added he referred to material aid, not manpower. As to the third term issue, the speaker asserted that the makers of the United States constitution considered the issue, but wiser counsel prevented the adoption of a limit on the terms a president may serve leaving the question to be decided by the people. At this point Mr. Broughton declared that it was better to have a first class man for a third term than a third class man for a first term.

BIG VOTE SEEN BY DEMOCRATS

Hope That Work Will Offset Lack Of Local Contests

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, Oct. 22.—North Carolina's Democratic machinery (the Republicans call it a machine) is shifting into high gear for the last two weeks of the current campaign, largely in the hope that hard work will be able to offset the lack of colorful local contests in the November polling. Raleigh observers who have been watching state and national campaigns for many years are practically unanimous in agreement that gubernatorial nominee J. M. Broughton, State Chairman E. B. Denny, and the national Roosevelt—have put on the liveliest show since the torrid race of 1928. Off hand that would indicate there will be a big turnout on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, but these same observers almost unanimously think the total will fall short of the record 839,424 cast in the presidential race of 1936. They all agree that the situation is hard to gauge because there is no precedent. It is the first time the national election year has not also been one in which sheriffs and other local officers were to be filled. Of four prominent state officials seen by your reporter today, only one thought the 1940 vote total will come anywhere close to the 1936 mark—and he is the only one of the four who is not up for election himself.

Size Of November Vote Subject Of Speculation

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, Oct. 21.—Now that all the political prognosticators have reached the conclusion that Wendell Willkie hasn't even a remote chance in North Carolina, speculation on the size of the vote which will be cast on the first Tuesday in November is beginning to bob up on all sides. Most of the would-be crystal gaz-

Music Dept. Head Rumania Is Visited Named for College By Violent Quake

The naming of A. Dittmer, member of the E. C. T. Music Department since 1938, as head of the department to succeed Dean C. Taylor, is the second such appointment to be made at East Carolina Teachers College for the school year which has just begun. Dr. Lucile Turner having been made head of the English Department at the August meeting of the board of trustees. Dr. Turner succeeds Dr. Leon R. Meadows, who became president of the College in 1934, but until this year in spite of heavy administrative duties, continued to teach one class in English each term. Dr. Turner has been a member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College for several years and for the past six years has been working with President Meadows in the handling of the work of the department. For a number of years she has supervised the work of the student teachers in English along with the critic teachers at the Greenville high school.

Before coming to the College, Dr. Turner had served as head of the English Department of Marlin Junior College and later of the State Normal School at Jacksonville, Ala. She was also instructor at George Peabody College for Teachers, while studying there for her advanced degree. She holds a B. S., an M. A. and a Ph.D. from Peabody. Active in many organizations, Dr. Turner is a member not only of the National Education Association and the North Carolina Education Association, but also of the Modern Language Association of America, Kappa Delta Pi, honorary educator fraternities, and Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary education society which brings together outstanding teachers of all grades and all subjects. She is, in fact, one of the state founders of the last group named, and has served as the secretary of the American Association of University women and past president of the Greenville branch.

In spite of her busy teaching career, she has contributed to a number of periodicals, including North Carolina Education, Elementary English Review, High School Journal, Peabody Journal of Education and Sewanee Review. Mr. Dittmer, new head of the Music Department, graduated in music from the University of Utah and Teachers College, Columbia University. He has done further study at the Eastman School of Music and studied violin in Germany under Johann Schaller. In his home state of Utah, Mr. Dittmer was a member of the Salt Lake City Tabernacle choir; and during his residence in New York he sang with a number of groups. Since he has been at the College, Mr. Dittmer has had charge of the men's Glee club, the college orchestra, and the college choir in addition to his teaching duties. He will continue to direct the orchestra and will also have charge of the band. He will be chairman of the committee in charge of college broadcasting.

Ten Children Injured In Wilson School Bus

Wilson, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Ten children of the New Hope section of the county were injured, none believed critically, this morning when a school bus overturned on a county road near here. All of the 36 students on the bus were shaken up and the bus was badly damaged. It was en route to the high school here.
