RECORD VOTING PLAN IS INDICATED FOR NOV.

Registrations Point To Possible Vote Of 50,000,000

NEW YORK LEADS IN REGISTRATION

With 1,125,000 Eligible Voters In North Carolina Actual Vote Of 875,000 Seen For Next Month

Copyright By The Associated Press Heavy registrations throughout the country, particularly in the big cities, indicated today that a history-breaking popular vote of around 50,000,000 may be cast in the presidential election next month.

A compilation of official and estimated registrations in each state disclosed a possible total vote of 49,719,200, or about 37 for every 100 of population.

This figure compares with an actual vote of 45,647,117 in the Roosevelt-Landon contest in 1936 and 39,816,522 in the Roosevelt-Hoover election of 1932.

It is based on an analysis of voter filings and other data showing 60,576,979 may be eligible to vote in the November 5 elections, or about 45 per cent of the total population of 131,400,881.

Comparison of the eligible vote four years ago with the actual vote cast revealed that some 15 to 20 per cent of those qualified remained away from the polls. In some southern states the stay-at-home vote ran as high as 50 per cent. This was taken into account in arriving at this year's estimated vote.

New York has an estimated registration of 6,891,238 and an estimated vote of 6,202,000, a gain of 605,602 over the actual vote four years ago. California's official registration is 4,052,395, including 2,419,625 Democrats and 1,632,770 Republicans. The state's probable vote this year is calculated at 3,404,000, or 765,118 more than the actual 1936 vote.

The state by state analysis of estimated eligible voters showed Pennsylvania might cast 4,600,000 ballots this year as against an actual 4,238,105 in 1936.

Estimates for other states included North Carolina at 1,367,000 potential vote and 1,125,000 eligible voters for 1940, compared with the expected vote of 875,000, compared with 839,402 in 1936.

Continue Hearing In Kidnaping Case

Preliminary hearing of the kidnaping charges against Ed Parker, Goldsboro attorney and purported operator of a sports lottery, has day after day. The hearing on Parker, who is free under $500 cash bond, had been set for this afternoon. Magistrate John Ivey Smith will hear the case.

The Goldsboro man is alleged to have held Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Peacock in his car against their will and to have held a gun pointed at Peacock while he slapped him. Parker is alleged to have invited Mr. and Mrs. Peacock into his car on the presumption of carrying them home last Friday night. Peacock was said by officers to have stated that he was an agent for Parker last year, but had had no connections with him this year.

DRAFT BOARDS BUSY AT TASK

Have Not Reached Stage Of Assigning Serial Numbers

The two Pitt county draft boards are working at full speed assorting registrants' cards, receiving new ones mailed in here from other places where residents of this county registered and sending cards of out-of-county persons who registered here to their proper counties.

Each draft board in the nation is authorized to nominate an advisory board for registrants to assist them in preparing questionnaires and in filing claims of exemptions. The nominations will be submitted to Governor Hoey for final action. Pitt county board number one has selected its board as follows: Chairman George W. Davis of Farmville, J. C. Lanier and W. J. Bundy. This advisory board will select associate members in each of the precincts in the area coming under the jurisdiction of draft board number one. The board also has secured the services of O. L. Alexander as chief clerk and Miss Edie Taylor as assistant clerk.

Board number two has nominated Dink James as chairman of its advisory board and the chairman will name the other two members and the three will select the associate members in the various precincts under the draft board's jurisdiction. F. A. Jordan is chief clerk for board number two and Miss Jamie Merritt is assistant clerk.

Clerks of the two boards are still faced with the task of giving each registrant a serial number and this job must be completed and the list of persons registered and their serial numbers posted in public places before Tuesday of next week when the draft lottery will be held.

The drawing will be held in the nation's capital next week. Men in each of the some 7,500 draft board districts having serial numbers corresponding to those drawn will be subject to the first call to colors. Exemptions will be passed on by the local draft boards.

The two Greenville boards are located on the second floor of the Municipal building, in quarters set aside for a recreation room for the local police department.

Rev. Grant to Address Local Kiwanis Club

Rev. T. M. Grant, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church will be the principal speaker at tomorrow night's regular weekly meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis club. The meeting is scheduled for 6:30 o'clock at the Woman's club building.

Rev. Mr. Grant will discuss certain phases of the current European war.

Present Number Of Combat Groups To Be Doubled To Create Highly Mobile Fighting Force; Four Air Districts To Be Established

Washington, Oct. 24. — (AP) — Reorganization of the army air corps to double its present number of combat groups and create a "highly mobile fighting force" capable of operation anywhere in the Western Hemisphere was announced today by the War Department.

The reorganization took the form of establishment of four air districts. It will include expansion of the four air corps wings now in continental United States to 17 wings as rapidly as trained personnel and equipment now in production becomes available.

Instead of the present 23 combat groups, the expanded air force will have 54, the announcement said.

"The purpose of the creation of the air districts," the department explained, "is to effect decentralization of training and inspection duties of the commanding general, general headquarters and force, and to provide for the development of commanders and staffs for such special tasks forces as may be required for operation in war."

The general headquarters air force commander, at present Major General Delos C. Emmons, will remain in command of all these units.

The 1942 personnel objective for the air force was announced as 163,000 enlisted men, compared with the previous air corps objective of 45,000.

The department said the program contemplated an increase in the annual output of trained pilots from 7,000 to 12,000; an increase in air corps technical schools and instructors for mechanics and specialists and acquisition of many new stations for the new combat groups.

The new air districts will include the northeast air district with headquarters at Hartford, Conn., comprising Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Vermont, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, the northeast section of North Carolina, West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

To Honor Warren At Fete Tomorrow

A large number of Pitt county democrats are planning to go to Washington, N. C., tomorrow for the observance of Lindsay C. Warren Day honoring the retiring congressman from the First Congressional District.

Rep. Warren is retiring November 1 to assume the post of Comptroller General of the United States, a position to which he was recently appointed by President Roosevelt. Herbert C. Bonner, his secretary, has been declared the nominee to succeed Mr. Warren.

An old-fashioned basket community picnic spread will be enjoyed by those attending.

Mrs. Brown's Father Is Claimed By Death

Word was received here this morning of the death last night of W. D. Wike of Cullowhee, father of Mrs. Ernest Brown of this city. Funeral services will be conducted at the home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Brown was called to Six Mile, S. C., yesterday morning on account of the critical illness of her father, who was in a hospital in the South Carolina city.

Mr. Wike, who was in his late 70's had been a lifelong member of the Methodist church. He was a Mason and a few years ago retired from the faculty of Western Carolina Teachers College. He was a member of the State House of Representatives in 1909 and was instrumental in having the Jackson county seat moved from Webster to Sylva.

GOP'S CHARGES ARE ANSWERED BY ROOSEVELT

Willkie Promises To Reply To Address Of President

GOP CANDIDATE HEADING WEST

Roosevelt Brands As Fantastic Republican Claims He Is Seeking To Lead U. S. Into War

By The Associated Press President Roosevelt's "gloves off" campaign speech at Philadelphia accusing his political foes of an intentional series of falsehoods brought from Wendell L. Willkie the announcement that he would make a half-hour reply today to the charges.

Mr. Roosevelt in his address last night, among other points, singled out for contradiction what he called Republican claims that he was seeking to lead the nation into war. Then he used the word "fantastic" in denying that any secret compact or agreement existed obligating the United States for war-like or other efforts on behalf of another power.

Willkie, heading westward again picked Erie, Penn., as the place in which to deliver his broadcast reply, a selection which might be taken as underlining the significance of the major parties attack on Pennsylvania's 36 votes in the electoral college.

Besides disclaiming any thought of embroiling this country in war Mr. Roosevelt used the occasion of his Philadelphia speech to declare that Republican campaigners had deliberately falsified about the progress of the people, labor and

REPLY IS MADE TO ROOSEVELT

Willkie Accuses President Of Forgetting Promises

Harbor Creek, Penn., Oct. 24. — (AP) — Wendell L. Willkie asserted today that if President Roosevelt did not remember his promises of today longer than he did his pledges in 1932 "then shortly our boys will be on the transports sailing for some foreign shore."

In a broadcast reply to Mr. Roosevelt's campaign address in Philadelphia last night, the Republican presidential candidate also charged that the "third term candidate" had evaded the issues of the 1940 campaign and that the President's speech was like the country's military defense system—either obsolete or on order.

He said: "Last night the third term candidate referring to the Democratic platform of 1940 quoted this language from that platform: 'We will not participate in foreign wars and we will not send our army, naval or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside of the Americas except in cases of attack.'"

"I hope sincerely that that pledge made last night by the third term candidate based upon the 1940 platform of the Democratic party is remembered by him longer than he remembered the same pledge that he made with reference to the provisions of the Democratic platform of 1932.

"If he does not remember it longer, then shortly our boys will be on the transports sailing for some foreign shore."

Willkie repeated that he approved of old age pensions, unemployment insurance, collective bargaining and other social gains, but declared that "if we continue along the road of deficit financing... the end will be financial chaos, bankruptcy and inflation which will result in the loss of every social gain as well as the loss of liberty."

German Aerial Stabs At London Are Turned Back

Thick Weather Aids Anti-Aircraft Defenses Halt Heavy Formations Of German Planes; British Bombers Meanwhile Report Attacks On Objectives In Berlin And Elsewhere

London, Oct. 24. — (AP) Heavy formations of German planes made short repeated stabs at a London shrouded in thick, chill weather today, but succeeded only in dropping bombs in rural areas.

Observers reported large groups of raiders crossed the southeast coast early in the afternoon, most of them obscured by clouds and heading in the direction of London. A few moments later a flight of nine fighter planes was glimpsed as it scooted through low clouds.

The approach of these planes caused a second air raid, second of the day in London, but it, like the first, was brief. No gunfire or bomb explosions were heard in London during the first alarm.

German planes were reported also to have flown over Liverpool and a west coast town.

The Air Ministry announced that a German bomber had been shot down by a British fighter in a morning duel over the channel. Britain credited a heavy channel rain and the anti-aircraft defenses on London's outskirts with holding the raiders at bay overnight, giving the city its quietest night in the last 17.

Five persons were killed by a bomb which wrecked a cottage in a small village near London last night an 18-month-old baby was found alive on top of the debris.

British bombers meanwhile attacked "objectives" in Berlin and elsewhere in Germany," the Air Ministry announced.

CALLS ON HALL TO QUIT POST

GOP Member Of Elections Board Is Paid Party Worker

Raleigh, Oct. 24. — (AP) — Thad Eure, secretary of state, expressed the opinion this afternoon that Warren V. Hall, a Republican member of the State Elections board should resign at once as he had filed a report showing he was a salaried worker in the Republican campaign ranks.

Hall, a veteran Republican leader at Charlotte, reported that he had received $245 as salary as secretary-treasurer of the Republican committee for the Tenth congressional district. He reported receiving $1,200 from the state committee for use in the campaign.

"Warren V. Hall should resign at once from the State Board of Elections," Eure said. "His own statement shows he has received a salary as an organization worker for his party. Any salaried party worker should not hold membership on the State Elections board. Members of the State Elections board have to investigate protests and contest, and should not be paid party workers trying to set up organizations to get the vote in various counties."

Governor Hoey had not heard of the matter until he was leaving his office for lunch and declined immediate comment.

This morning the Republican State Executive committee reported it had received $20,422.77 in contributions up to October 22 and had expended $16,545 in the campaign leading up to the November 5 election.

After Willkie Was Hit By An Egg

This unusual picture was taken a moment after Wendell L. Willkie, GOP presidential candidate, was hit by a frozen egg near his left temple as he was about to board a train in Chicago. ## Peace Feelers Afloat In Sino-Japanese War

Agreement Said To Lack Only Final Official Action

By The Associated Press Amid reported hints of Germany to shift the European war theater to the Mediterranean, apparently concerted "trial balloons" were floated today toward peace in the three-year-old struggle between Japan and China.

In San Francisco, retiring Japanese Ambassador Horiguchi was quoted as saying a peace agreement lacking only "final official action" has been reached between China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and Wang Ching Wei, Japanese-dominated ruler at Nanking, China.

"The terms, I would think, are along the lines stated by the Japanese government two years ago," he was quoted as saying.

This was an evident reference to Premier Prince Konoye's statement on December 12, 1938, suggesting a basis for peace on the following terms:

1. Japan would respect Chinese sovereignty.
2. Japan would "discuss" giving up her extra-territorial rights in China.
3. Japan would not demand either territory or indemnity from China.
4. In return Japan would "ask" Chinese economic and political cooperation.

Debt Reduced By State-Owned Line

Raleigh, Oct. 24. — (AP) — Governor Hoey announced today that stockholders of the state-owned Atlantic and North Carolina railroad would be told at their meeting at New Bern tomorrow that the railroad's debt had been reduced $110,352.48 in the last year.

The auditor's report will show that the railroad's debt was reduced $210,352.48 in 13 months and the debt now is about $621,556.

Governor Hoey said there were no new developments in efforts to lease the port terminal at Morehead City. The railroad has an investment of more than $183,000 in the terminal and recently the outlook was favorable for leasing it but plans have struck a snag, temporarily at least.

German Aim At Invasion Seems Lost

Hitler Now Reported To Be Planning To Attack Britain's Lifeline Trade Routes With Italy And Spain Seizing Gibraltar And Germany Smashing Route To South America

By The Associated Press Adolf Hitler was reported aiming today at a campaign to break the shackles of the British blockade by shifting the main theatre of the war to the Mediterranean and attacking Britain's "lifeline" trade routes in the south Atlantic.

With the Nazi invasion song "We Are Sailing Against England" now apparently, muted, by Royal Air Force assaults, the German Fuehrer was said to be planning a two-fold winter strategy:

1. Italy and Spain would attempt to seize Britain's historic rock fortress at Gibraltar and crush British sea power in the Mediterranean.
2. At the same time Germany and Spain would smash at British trade with South America and her sea link with India, via the Cape of Good Hope, using Spanish ports and airfields in the Atlantic and the Canary Islands as bases.

Informed French sources said Hitler would French Vice Premier Pierre Laval in secret conversations in the last 48 hours had virtually signed an agreement whereby the Vichy government of France would give the Home-Berlin Axis the use of naval and air bases in Africa, Syria and unoccupied France in return for certain concessions.

As a reward, these sources said, Germany would release all French war prisoners—estimated at 2,000,000 men—and would move the frontier of unoccupied France north to the Seine river.

Laval returned to Paris today with Premier Petain's answer to Hitler's proposals and Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco, who conferred with Hitler on the Spanish-French frontier last night, was on his way back to Madrid.

Note Improvement On Local Market

Prices showed improvement on the Greenville tobacco market today and offerings sold stronger than on the first days of the week.

Many growers, however, are bringing the last of their crop to market and a general decline in the quality of offerings is noted.

Grade by grade, however, today's sale was described as "very satisfactory" by Sales Supervisor E. C. Rankin.

Greenville Aldermen Meet At 7:30 Tonight

The Greenville Board of Aldermen will meet in a special session at 7:30 o'clock tonight to discuss the proposed City-County airport and other problems requiring immediate attention.

The city and county governing boards have agreed to put up half the cost of the site for the landing field and the meeting tonight is called to consider the next phase of the program.

Five white nationalities are found in Nova Scotia: English, Scotch, French-Canadian, Irish and Hanoverian.

The board of directors of the Service League entertained in honor of the newly elected members and the advisory council, at a lovely tea at the home of Mrs. Walter Harrington on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. R. C. Stokes, past president of the Service League, greeted the callers upon their arrival and introductions were made to the receiving line which was composed of Mrs. Harrington, president of the Service League, Mrs. D. E. Jones, Mrs. P. S. Neal, Mrs. D. W. Mosier, Miss Jean Hodges, Miss Jane Garrett and Miss Jamie Merritt, the new members, and Miss Louisa Hooker, bride-elect.

The home was beautifully decorated with lighted candles and fall flowers in shades of yellow, bronze, rust and gold.

Mrs. Leslie Babcock received at the dining room door. A color note of blue and pink was carried out in the tea table appointments. The table was covered with a cloth of lace and tall pink candles burned in blue candlesticks at either side of an exquisite centerpiece of pink chrysanthemums in a blue bowl.

Mrs. Wyatt Brown and Mrs. S. M. Crisp poured tea. They were assisted in serving dainty sandwiches, individual cakes, mints and nuts by Mrs. Ed Wilkerson, Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell and Miss Jean Harrington.

Mrs. J. C. Waldrop spoke to the guests in the hall. In the library, Mrs. R. M. Garrett introduced the callers to Mrs. John Hassell, Mrs. T. A. Person, Mrs. S. J. Everett, Mrs. J. H. Blount, Mrs. W. E. Hooker and Mrs. E. W. Harvey, who are members of the advisory council.

Mrs. J. T. Little presided over the register in the sun room and bade the guests goodbye.

Legion Auxiliary Meets.

The American Legion Auxiliary held its regular meeting with Mrs. Wiley Brown at ten o'clock Wednesday morning. A large number attended.

An excellent report was given by the Fair committee and the committee desires to thank all those who were not members of the Auxiliary who gave so generously of their time and help toward making the operation of the booth such a success. Funds derived from this project will enable the Auxiliary to carry on its program of child welfare this year.

Mrs. Rose announced that the First Area conference would be held in Washington on November 8, and asked all those who could attend to notify Mrs. Arthur Corey as soon as possible.

The Auxiliary voted to sponsor the Curtis Publishing Company's sale of magazines in the community again this year.

Mr. J. H. Rose was guest speaker. He used "Rehabilitation" for his subject. Mr. Rose said that the care of comrades was one of the cardinal points in the Legion constitution and that the new Veterans' hospital which was dedicated last week in Fayetteville would be another link in a great chain of those taking care of disabled veterans.

Legion and Auxiliary were working to obtain one wing of the new hospital for the women of the Legion.

He said that the government is now doing everything possible to care for those veterans who are sick by making the personnel and equipment in all veterans' facilities the best that can be purchased.

Mr. Rose thanked the Auxiliary for its part in taking care of the children of needy veterans in the community.

During the special hour, the hostesses served tempting coffee and doughnuts.

The November meeting will be held with Mrs. W. J. Bundy.

Paris.—(AP)—The newspaper "Aujourd'hui" estimates that 60,000 French soldiers are without work. Since many of them are from the north and from towns like Dunkerque, destroyed by the war, they are unable to obtain relief.

Wilson's Weekly MEMO by GEORGE RECTOR

If you are one of those who believe "good things go by threes," Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links will back up this theory. For the same delectable sausage meat comes in three distinct kinds of links. There are the tasty little two-link size, the larger he-man links and the still larger country style sausage. This latter style is the same good sausage meat stuffed into one large, long casing. As the circus barkers used to say, "You pays your money and you takes your choice." They are all Wilson's Certified Quality—'nuff said!

FEET AND KNEES IN RELIGION
 Some people believe that the way to serve the Lord is to keep busy all the time in an exciting round of activity.

Certainly God wants people to be active in the work of His kingdom.
 But those who insist in running themselves ragged in behalf of good causes, and who believe that thereby they are serving the Lord satisfactorily, should remember that Christians are enjoined to mix activity with prayer—an active ministry with a quiet seeking for light and spiritual security.

In other words, many a Christian needs to take more callous on his knees, to pray and less callous on his feet by running about. This applies to ministers who had get about over the face of the earth telling expectant audiences how to make the world better and attending conferences on how to transform the present social order. But it applies also to many a humble worshiper who believes that as long as he keeps moving he is doing the Lord's work. Given committee meetings, projects, enterprises, and these brethren feel that the coming of the kingdom has been advanced considerably.

They need to remember our Lord's declaration that the kingdom cometh not by observation, and to remember that important as it is to use one's feet in the Lord's service, it is even more important to use one's knees.

UNNECESSARY DEATHS
 While North Carolina started its year out good by showing a reduction in highway accidents the increase in September does not look so good, and if the increase continues the earlier gains will be cancelled. In practically every highway fatality the human element is the prevalent cause, and had it not been for someone's carelessness the accident would not have occurred. In view of this fact the 100 traffic fatalities in September was just 100 too many and such slaughter on our highways is a blot on the good name of our state.

GIVE TO THE COMMUNITY CHEST
 The annual Community Chest will get under way here on next Monday and it is to be hoped that every citizen called upon will try to do his or her part in contributing to this worthwhile fund. The total of the fund is much less than is being raised by other cities the size of our own and there should be little difficulty in reaching the goal if everyone will help.

We have long felt, and experience in other places has shown, that the best way to take care of our charities and Boy Scout and Girl Scout programs and other programs that call for public support and contributions is to combine all the requests into a Community Chest budget and make one drive for the funds for all. When you make a contribution to the Community Chest you will be helping each of the activities and can rest assured that you will not be worried from day to day throughout the year by so-licitors for funds for various programs.

We repeat, it is hoped that every citizen of Greenville will respond liberally to this call for the Community Chest.

Washington
 Daybook
 By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Among my reports on the state of the nation, this one shall be titled the American Indian and National Defense.

The crying need for such a survey became apparent the other day when Chief Wilfred Crouse of the Senecas and three chiefs of the Mohawks caused something of a tempest in a teepee by announcing to the young braves of their tribes that the Senecas and Mohawks being independent nations and none of the tribe members being a citizen of the United States, they did not have to register for the draft.

This wasn't the first time that the Senecas had announced their independence of the laws of the United States, took that position for his tribe in 1912 and held to it until 1926.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs
 John Collier calls this a "pleasing myth of unlimited sovereignty whose eschete value is real to themselves." But he goes on to point out that it is merely a myth and that the young Seneca and Mohawk braves had better behave themselves and get in line.

Short Shots
 Raleigh, Oct. 24.—Gilliam Gris-son, Republican candidate for Congress from the Sixth District jokingly declares he is going to have a "South Carolina Democrat" for his private secretary when he gets to Washington.

Tricked The Germans
 There is an Indian story which provided one of the laughs of the World War. A commanding officer, suspecting that his communication lines were tapped, ordered two Indians of the same tribe to take over the two ends of the line. He then had the Indians translate his orders into their native tongue. Long after the war, it was found out that the German intelligence service had spent days in vain effort to solve this "code."

Too Many Westerns
 Demonstrating just how little foreign countries know of American Indians, there was in 1917 a seriously-considered plot by German agents to bring about an Indian uprising against the United States.
 Rumors of unorganized fifth column activity among the Indians have reached officials here lately, by no means taken seriously.

What Do You Know About
 THE NAVY?

1. The man above? Sure you know him. But can you say how his name is associated with a national observance in October? Give the date.

2. The name of John Paul Jones is familiar to anyone who has read American history. Was he the founder of the U. S. Navy?

3. Who is the present Secretary of the Navy?

4. A student at the United States Naval Academy is known as a lieutenant, a cadet, a midshipman or an ensign?

5. Fill in the missing words. U. S. battleships are named for _____, Cruisers are named for _____.

Each full question counts 20. A score of 80 is good.

Navy Quiz Answers

1. Yes, it's Theodore Roosevelt. His birthday, October 27, is Navy Day, as a tribute to his great interest in the Navy when he was President.

2. John Paul Jones was the first American to win fame as a warship commander. The man who actually built the first ship of our Navy, the Commodore John Barry. And he is generally referred to as the "father of the Navy."

3. Colonel Frank Knox.

4. A midshipman.

5. Battleships bear the names of states, cruisers the names of cities.

STATE GRANGE MASTER HEARD

Acting President

Caldwell Urges Improved System Of Distribution

Salisbury, N. C., Oct. 23.—(AP)—Harry B. Caldwell, master of the State Grange, told delegates to the organization's 12th annual convention today that "a system of distribution for agriculture that will give the farmer price control machinery and a fair share of the national income" should be developed.

Caldwell also advocated a national defense program that "must not permit individuals or corporations to profit from war."

He proposed a 12-point program looking to a more prosperous state and nation and a three-point defense program.

"Government price fixing and a sound cooperative marketing program" were termed by Caldwell as the two principal suggestions receiving consideration to obtain a fair share of national income for the farmers.

"I believe that price controls are essential under modern conditions for agriculture and wanting to see the farmer control his own price rather than submit himself to the changing whims of every national administration. I favor the cooperative marketing approach," Caldwell said.

Praising President Roosevelt and Congress for their efforts for national defense, Caldwell flayed the "attitude of some business leaders" who were "perfectly willing for men to be drafted for service but were unwilling to manufacture the necessary materials without the guarantee of profit to themselves."

If the emergency was so great that we needed a compulsory military training program, Caldwell added, "then it must be given enough for the government to exercise such control over those concerns that process the necessary materials as will guarantee prompt production of supplies and the elimination of war profits."

He emphasized "we believe that

Dr. Robert Lee Flowers, vice president and secretary-treasurer of Duke University, who becomes acting president of the university following the death of Dr. W. F. Few.

money and industry as well as men should be drafted for national defense."

The Grange master proposed formulation of "a medical service plan" to make medical services available at a reasonable cost; expressed opposition to highway fund diversion; urged adequate legislation to regulate and control tourist camps; called for a 50 per cent reduction in the tax rate on the first $1,000 of valuation of each owner-occupied home; urged continuation of the rural electrification program; reiterated that the Grange stands for temperance and against liquor; and suggested that the Farm Credit Administration be again made an independent agency.

He also stressed the need for industrial expansion, removal of trade barriers, conservation of natural resources, an expanded and "more practical" educational system, economy in governmental operation, and a comprehensive agricultural and industrial research program.

"Give the farmers of America and the people of the South equality and justice and America will enter a new era of prosperity undreamed of in the world," Caldwell said.

Coming To College

Hilde Reggiani, young coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, will take the leading role in Rossini's opera, "The Barber of Seville," when it is given at East Carolina Teachers College Friday night, Nov. 8.

Though Miss Reggiani made her debut with the Metropolitan opera last year, she is experienced in operatic roles, having sung in "The Barber of Seville" alone over forty times.

This young singer was born in Italy and received most of her training there. By the beauty of her voice she won a two-year scholarship in the famous conservatory in Bologna where Rossini, composer of "The Barber" once studied. After singing in Italy and other European countries and then for three seasons in South America, she made her first appearance in the United States, at Chicago, and was so well-liked that the Metropolitan secured her for the 1939-40 season.

This past summer she spent in Buenos Aires making a series of broadcasts. In December when the Metropolitan season opens, she will resume her work with that organization. Meanwhile she is on a tour of the states along the Atlantic coast with a group of other artists all of whom will take part in the production of "The Barber of Seville" at East Carolina Teachers College on November 8.

In the advance group of U. S. citizens who returned home from the Orient on the advice of the State Department were these persons at Seattle, Wash.: At left, Mrs. K. L. Emerson, San Rafael, Calif., with her son Harry, and Mrs. L. N. Coo of Chattanooga, Tenn. They left husbands in Yokohama, Japan. Many Americans still in the Orient protested against what they said were high rates for return to the United States.

The Balkans Are At The Crossroads, But Then They Ought To Be Used To It

Six Big Men Of Balkania

The Balkans have been standing at the crossroads for 2,000 years. That has been their trouble. For when a conqueror wants to go places in Europe his path leads there sooner or later.

The first World war started in the Balkans. This war didn't start there but inevitably it got around to one of the main Balkan roads.

Along those roads in centuries past have trod many peoples. In the Balkans have been successive Greek, Roman, Gothic, Byzantine, Slav and Turkish empires. Today the Italians, Germans and Russians struggle to extend "spheres of influence" in the Balkans.

The bar to any extension of influence is chiefly one of transportation. A hodge podge of mountains bulges up in these tier of the Balkan peninsula. It isolates many groups of people who retain old habits, old loyalties and old language. Generally the Balkans are agricultural regions. They are peopled by sturdy peasants who fight hard when necessary, work hard but produce comparatively little because of crude agricultural methods.

In some respects it is a frontier but it maintains 75 million people in a region somewhat more than twice the size of Texas, if Turkey be included.

Arrows show possible Axis thrusts through the Balkans to oil fields in Asia Minor. Soldiers indicate troop concentrations.

A Primer Of The Balkan Nations

A—Is For Albania

Albania is the size of Vermont but twice as hilly and twice as populous.

Most Albanians are farmers and herdsmen. Most are Moslems because Turkey ruled them for centuries.

They are one of Europe's oldest races. They live primitive lives, follow old customs including the blood feud.

Albania became independent in 1912. Its king was mountain chieftain Zog, who married a part-American girl.

Zog co-operated with the Italians, took their money, let them start to develop the country.

Last year Italy tired of this game moved in on Albania, sent Zog packing.

B—Is For Bulgaria

Bulgaria is at the crossroads just above the Dardanelles—the water lane from the Black sea to the Mediterranean sea. That might be a place of power—if one were strong.

A thousand years ago Bulgaria was strong. It even terrorized mighty Constantinople. Then it became a Turkish province. For centuries its people were very poor. They are still poor, still mostly peasants. Only 60 years ago they revolted and set up the modern nation. Russia helped them and the Bulgars have a kindred feeling for the Russians.

Despite this feeling Bulgaria sided with Germany in the World war and lost territory. Now she has regained some of it from Rumania. That makes her larger than Kentucky, gives her twice as many people.

Today Bulgaria is still at the crossroads. But she is not strong and she wonders if the crossroads will become a battleground.

H—Is For Hungary

The typical Hungarian is a farmer.

He tills fields and raises stock as a peasant on a large estate in the flat Hungarian plain. He leaves business to those in the cities who like it. He takes pride that his forefathers fought the terrible Turk to a standstill.

Under Austria, the Hungarians proved so turbulent that they were set up as a separate kingdom tied to Austria only through allegiance to the Hapsburgs. This tie was snapped in the World war. But the peace that made Hungary independent clipped off her borders, leaving her without natural defenses. Hungary became a nation without a king and with a single passion—to become great and strong once more. To have a chance at this she has had to go along with strong Germany.

Recently Hungary got back territory from Rumania, as well as from Czecho-Slovakia, making her about the size of Oklahoma. She wants more.

R—Is For Rumania

The Rumanians speak a language akin to Latin. Their land is rich in oil and in surplus grain.

Rumania got a lot out of the World war. She became the largest Balkan nation—as big as Arizona. She had more people than New York and Ohio together and great wealth in oil and wheat.

Her neighbors were all very jealous. Rumania kept a big army and made many treaties to guard her wealth.

But she relied too heavily on French and British support. When that collapsed, Russia took a piece of her land, then Hungary and Bulgaria.

Now Germany has moved troops into Rumania, because Germany doesn't want someone else to get Rumania's oil.

T—Is For Turkey

Turkey used to be the bad man of Europe. She ruled in the Balkans and threatened grand Vienna. Then she became the sick man of Europe. Province after province revolted.

By World war time she had become a part of the Kaiser's Berlin-Baghdad plans for Eastern expansion and she threw in her lot with Germany. Her stout peasantry fought bravely as usual, but Turkey lost.

Out of that war came Ataturk who made modern Turkey. He was the first of the modern dictators. He modernized the country, made its army and its works respected. He transferred the capital from ancient Istanbul on the Dardanelles to inland Ankara. Kemal is dead now, but the friendship he established with Britain, the army he developed and the capital he protected from the storms that rage around the Dardanelles are decisive factors in the present situation.

Y—Is For Yugoslavia

It was in Serbia that the World war started. Before it ended Serbia took a terrible beating, even though she made a magnificent fight. Peace transformed her into modern Yugoslavia with 14,000,000 people and lands as extensive as Oregon. But Yugoslavia wants no part in this war.

Her people are largely Slavic and so she has ties with Russia. Also she once had ties with Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia and France. Now she is pretty well surrounded by lands under German and Italian control.

Yugoslavia occupies some of the highest hills in the Balkans. Back in her hills lie rich mines and forests. Her hardy peasants are good fighters. But they would rather be left alone.

U—Is For Ukraine

Ukraine is the breadbasket of Europe. She ruled in the Balkans and threatened grand Vienna. Then she became the sick man of Europe. Province after province revolted.

By World war time she had become a part of the Kaiser's Berlin-Baghdad plans for Eastern expansion and she threw in her lot with Germany. Her stout peasantry fought bravely as usual, but Turkey lost.

THE ROAD TO SPANI LUN

YESTERDAY: Lynn Britton, beautiful American girl destined to marry the Prince of Spain, is at present dodging Chinese revolutionists and a nudging across the plain about Temu Daria, her escort, has lost his plane in a storm, and now must guard Lynn and arrange to send their unassuming companion, Peggy Telford, back to the coast.

Chapter 25 Strange Blessing

Lynn turned to Temu. "Do you expect to walk Peggy and me all the way to Delum? He had relieved Chan of some of his burden.

"I hope I won't walk you all the distance. Your friend is leaving the first chance I have to send her back."

Lynn's shoulders squared. "I'd like to see you send her and keep me without unpleasant consequences to your government. I notice you don't always secure your own way."

He agreed. "If I had my way now, we wouldn't be here. But since we are here—" He looked at her and smiled. She understood; he intended to make the best of it.

Peggy caught up with them in her absurd moonshins and hung to Temu's arm for a while. They passed a woman and her old mother, the latter mincing along on little goatlike feet which were bound in remembrance of the "good old days." They carried their possessions in bundles on their backs, and herded ahead of them a blind girl carrying a younger child pick-a-back.

After crossing the wide plateau they came to a ridge of green hills. Temu stopped a tiny donkey. The priest lowered his feet, permitting the little animal to walk from under him and begin cropping the short green grass at the edge of the trail.

The lama explained that his monastery was located up a side canyon a bit and insisted that Temu and his party take refuge within the religious enclosure. The monks were Mongols and Tibetans, good fighters when they needed to fight and respected for the fact by the Moslems, who were inclined to leave them alone.

They could send a fast messenger on to the Chinese military stronghold at Tsin with the telegram Temu wished to dispatch; the monastery would be blessed by their presence.

Lynn suspected that Temu did not translate everything that had passed between them. He looked at the two weary girls and accepted the invitation. The monk, turning to Lynn, bowed deeply and brought her his donkey to ride. It did not seem incredible to him, evidently, that a goddess should be met on the highway fleeing before the revolution.

The gesture touched and warmed her heart. Her thoughts flew to a woman in Palestine who had ridden a donkey, and suspecting a certain state of affairs, she gave the animal to Peggy.

Temu helped her mount, and giving the little donkey a slap, sent him jogging up the path he had just come.

"You need the lift as much as your friend," he said mildly. "But since you are a goddess, I suppose you can do as you please."

Lynn told him she was glad he had learned one thing about her. "As you please within limits," he smilingly amended.

The monastery houses, with their flat roofs and ladders for mounting to them, climbed the canyon side in a way that reminded Lynn vaguely of a Pueblo village, except for the surrounding wall.

They were taken to an apartment in the grand lama's house near the upper wall, overlooking the rest of the enclosure. The several rooms opening into each other were clean and bare except for the stove, with its usual short-legged table, and the altar niches with their images and offering vessels.

In the largest room was a table set with food. The grand lama served them with tea, Chinese cakes, pickled beans and dates. As he left, he knelt before Lynn and asked if she would bless him.

"Touch him with something," Temu suggested.

"I think not, it's coming along splendidly."

"How did it happen that these lamas took us in?" asked Peggy. "I thought women weren't allowed inside monastery walls."

"It depends on the individual monastery," Temu explained. "This one belongs to the Red sect, the unreformed. The monks may entertain their women relatives and friends. Some have wives."

He rose. The lama told me that the refugees are beginning to come here to the monastery. Many of them are sick or injured. Lynn, you can help me if you wish. Mrs. Telford, some of the sights are rather horrible. You had better stay away."

"I'll try to get some more sleep," said Peggy. "I wish I could sleep until I got back to America."

"We'll be back by noon," he promised, and accompanied Lynn down the worn stone steps that led to the levels below.

To be continued

Vienna.—(AP)—Kicking the hired help in Vienna costs exactly $160.

This expensive pastime was indulged in by a factory owner here during a disagreement with a woman employee. When he let loose a stream of invective and ungentlemanly talk at her, she cracked him across the cheek.

He countered with a swift one.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

Hollywood.—When you look at Rosalind Russell on the screen today, take a chuckle; once upon a time Hollywood had her catalogued as a "cold" personality.

"Cold"—this lively, brilliant, amusing and genuine young woman who undoubtedly is the town's No. 1 comedienne, with extra-high dramatic voltage in reserve and scarcely tapped as yet.

Ros says, "How would they be able to judge that I was cold? Why, until this picture I've never had a real love scene! There've been plenty of romantic sequences—yes, you could call them 'love scenes by indirection,' but there's been none of the real picture."

The new picture is "This Thing Called Love," and the girl for whom Ros will turn on her first movie heat is Melvyn Douglas. It's her fourth light comedy role since "The Women" lifted her from the rut of girl and colorless jobs that previously had befriended her.

"That's one of the things about Hollywood," she says. "You aren't the type until you've proved you are. I had to fight for that part in 'The Women.' But I wouldn't change Hollywood—it's more fun when you have to fight for what you want."

The Russell girl came to Hollywood with a stage background which included drama, farce, comedy, all phases of theater. She fell into second lead almost immediately—the sort of stilted society roles she tabs as the "Who's for tennis?" or "Jack looks peaked today" variety.

This was broken by her assignment to "Craig's Wife," a thankless role she screamed and kicked against—but played so impressively that critics huzzahed and fans deplored her.

Then came her "tweedy" era—promoted by her assignment to "The Citadel." ("It was a Helen Hayes role, and I'm no more a Helen Hayes than you are.") There was "Night Must Fall," very, very tweedy, and assorted other roles in which the Russell verve was repressed.

"Nobody could think of me for comedy," she says, "and I couldn't see why because I've always been able to tell a funny story—well, a couple anyway—and get a laugh. I've always had a lot of fun myself. When I heard about 'The Women' I asked Hunt Stromberg for the part. He sent me to Mr. (George) Cukor, who had already picked out a New York actress for the part. He said I couldn't play it. I was too pretty. And I said nobody had ever accused me of being pretty before and asked if he'd ever seen a clown without his make-up? ... Well, he agreed to make a test, and I played that woman five different ways, and afterward he said he was convinced, the part was mine."

Ros, by the way, has an interesting theory about the role of new fashions in obliterating the "pasted pretty" type of woman.

"A homely girl, done up in a strikingly crazy hat, can overshadow a pretty one who dresses in simple good taste," she says. "There are women who make a career of clothes—clothes to attract attention to themselves. They make a success of it, too. Why, you can see them at your own parties and wonder who invited them. Then suddenly you realize you invited them yourself. You hear about a nice boy getting married and you wonder what ever happened to that sweet, pretty little girl he used to go with. The girl he married is a hunchback-face in a crazy hat. And don't believe men don't like those hats, either!"

There are more farm jobs than farm workers in many states, reports the department of agriculture. A year ago 106 men and women were on hand for every 100 new jobs. Now it's the other way round. For each 100 jobs there are 97 workers.

The demand for farm labor, as shown on the map, exceeded supply along virtually the entire Atlantic coast. The corn belt states, busy with fall harvesting, also had more jobs than could be filled. Apple picking and planting of fall wheat in the Pacific northwest put a few white spots on the map there too.

Three First-Class Grid Tilts On Schedule Saturday

DUKE AND WFC PLAY AT WAKE

Carolina And Tulane At UNC; NCS Has Night Game

Wake Forest, N. C., Oct. 24.—Football teams of Duke university and Wake Forest will meet here Saturday afternoon in the homecoming feature for Wake Forest alumni and the dedication tilt of the new Groves stadium before an expected capacity crowd of 20,000 spectators. The kickoff is set for 2:30 o'clock.

Duke and Wake Forest have lost one game apiece and incidentally both these were to last season's Bowl contestants. Tennessee (Rose Bowl) beat the Blue Devils and Clemson (Cotton Bowl) tripped Wake Forest. Duke has won from V. M. I. and Colgate and the Deacons hold victories over William Jewell, North Carolina, Furman, and Marshall.

Coach Wallace Wade's Dukes captured the 1939 battle 6-0, and although they will be heavily favored tomorrow, it is generally felt that another outstanding game is in store for the fans. Wake is minus only two first stringers from last year's team and the Blue Devils are considered stronger than at any time since Wade took over the coaching reins.

Saturday's crowd will be the largest ever to attend a football game here. Gates and ticket booths are expected to open around noon.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 24.—Saturday's homecoming headliner will again match Tulane's ground power against North Carolina's air wizardry, but if the two should fight to a draw, like last year, a field goal extra point or coffin-corner kick might tip the scales, and Carolina is preparing accordingly.

Kick-off will be at 2 o'clock and a near-capacity crowd is expected for the game and attendant homecoming celebration.

Coach Ray Wolf has been stressing the kicking game all week along with the vital line protection which good booting requires. The kicking corps of Harry Dunkle, Paul Severin, Jim Lalanne, Bill Stier, and Mike Cooke has come out before and stayed after practice, aiming for the sidelines as well as for distance, trying placements from difficult points and angles.

And all of this emphasis on putting the foot into football has been without some very good reasons.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 24.—Thousands of football fans will attend the Carolina-Tulane homecoming game at Chapel Hill and the Duke-Wake Forest battle at the latter place both on Saturday afternoon, and are expected to pour into Raleigh Saturday night for the football engagement between undefeated Mississippi State and the crafty country boy Wolfpack of North Carolina State.

Business Manager John Von-Glahn of N. C. State said today that many fans already have included the game here in their plans and as a matter of fact, reservations for the Wolfpack-Maroon game began arriving here the latter part of August and while there has been no big rush for reserved seats, a steady sale of tickets for this game has been going on since late summer.

This will be the third meeting of the teams. The Wolfpack won in 1930 by a count of 19-0 and in 1931, 6-0. However, there is apt to be a different tale when the teams leave Riddick Stadium Saturday night, according to all reports from the southeast.

Future-Book For ALL-AMERICA

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports Editor, AP Feature Service

The gridiron season is still young but here are some stars who, by their consistently brilliant play in the earlier games, have already put in their bid for All-America team consideration:

JIM (SWEET) LALANNE, North Carolina passer, is one of the nation's top stars.

GEORGE FRANCK, swift half-back, has been the spearhead of Minnesota's powerful attack. This triple-threat ace was particularly effective in the Nebraska and Washington games.

FRANK REAGAN'S long, twist-back, has helped Penn's surprising Quakers pile up big scores against early foes. One of the nation's top scorers, he tallied five times against Princeton.

BOB FOXX, successor to George Cafego as the kingpin of the Tennessee backfield, sparked the Vols to their major win over Duke. He played well against Alabama until an injury removed him. This passer-punter-runner also is a great blocker.

AUTO BOYS WIN OVER C. SALES

White Chevrolet Loses First Game But Takes Last Two

White Chevrolet held its hold on first place last night by defeating Carolina Sales two out of three in a match held at the Greenville Recreation Center last night.

The auto boys had a little trouble getting started in the first game and dropped to the salesmen by a eleven point margin. Lupton with a mark of a 10 lead the auto boys followed closely by Cayton with a 100 score. Cox led the first-game winners with a 101 collection.

In the second contest the auto boys started fast and ended almost as fast by bowing a combined score of 538 to the sales 422. Norman with a 114 led the winners. Runner-up honors went to Garris with a 113 score, and Lupton with a 106.

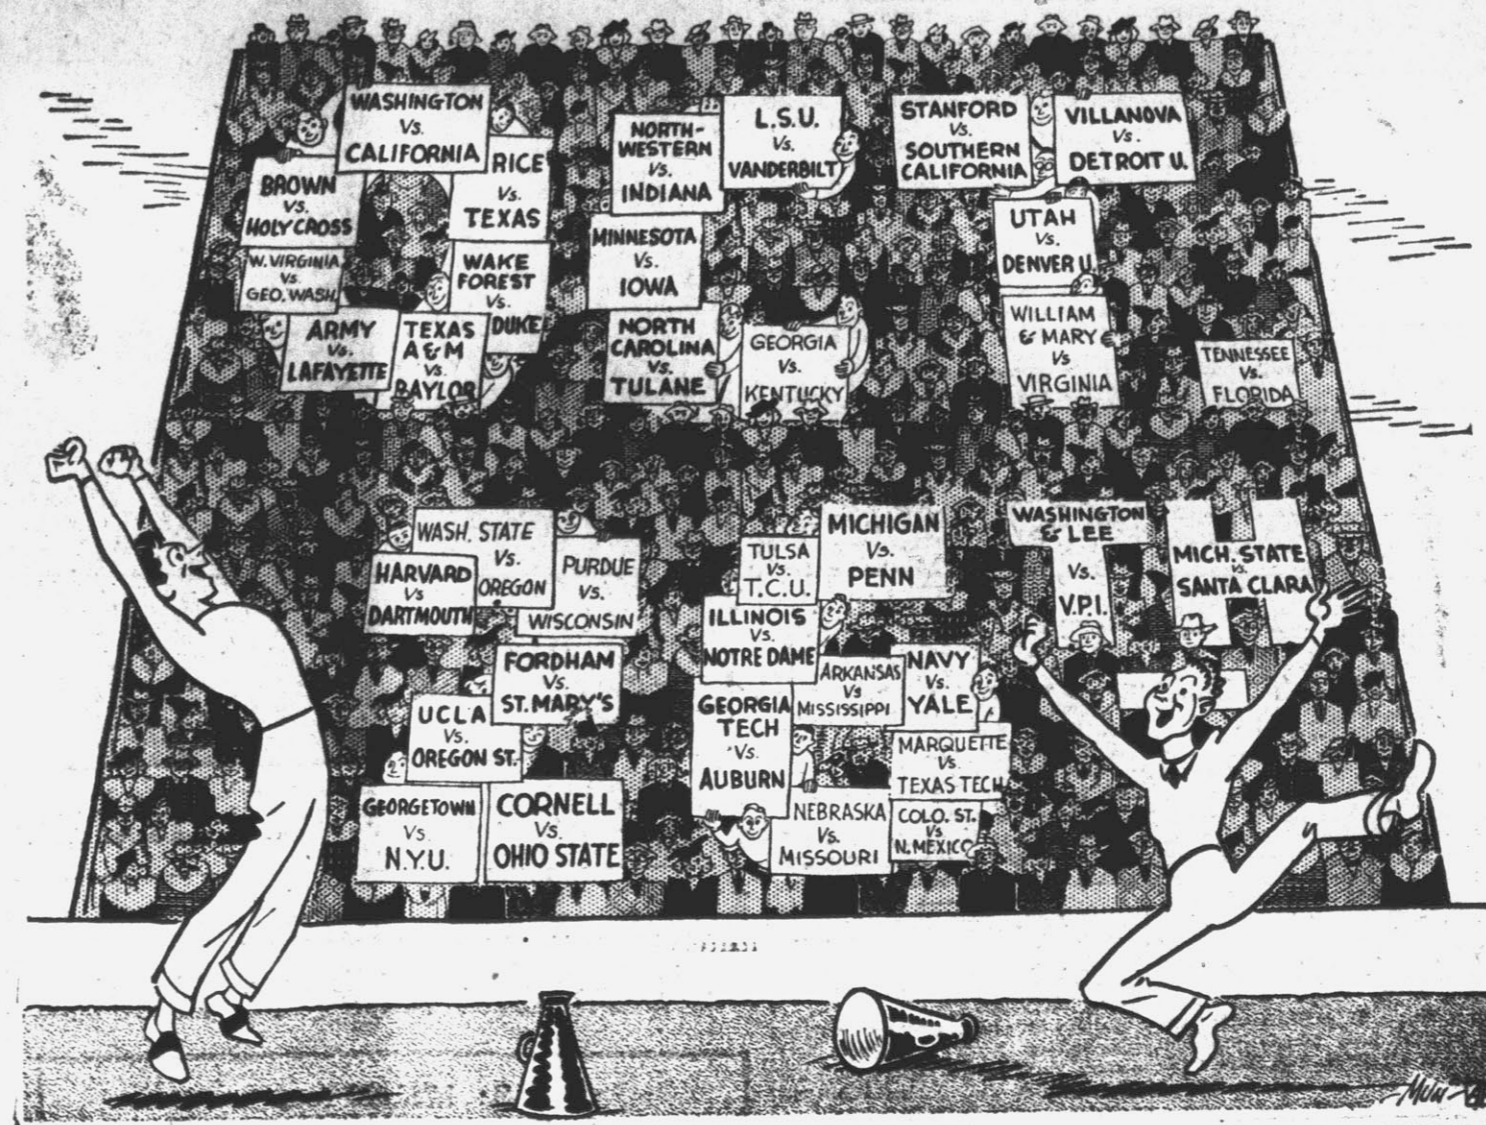

The third contest was more closely played than the second but the auto men triumphed again. Norman again led the winners with a high mark. Second high went to Lupton. Dennis led the losers in the last battle.

Berry-wise Eat By Ear

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

New York.—The way to tell whether you are eating blueberries or huckleberries is to listen. If they're huckleberries, the seeds will crackle under your teeth. No crackle means blueberry.

The New York state agricultural experiment station explains that the huckleberry has 10 large seeds each surrounded by a bony covering like a minute peach pit. This produces the crackle. Blueberries have many seeds but they are not always noticeable when the berry is eaten.

There is another indicator. Huckleberry leaves are sprinkled with resinous dots on the underside. You won't find them on blueberries.

Prof. G. L. Slate, small fruit specialist at the station, reports blueberries are by far the best eaters. But the whole thing is confusing since blueberries often are called huckleberries and the swamps in which they grow are referred to as huckleberry swamps.

N. C. HIGHWAYS NEW PROBLEM

Cost of Defense Highways In State Nets Headaches

Raleigh, Oct. 24.—About 1,200 miles of the War Department's 75,000 mile system of strategic "defense" highways will be in North Carolina, and there is almost a headache per mile in that set-up for the State Highway Commission.

Main cause for these headaches is the question of who will pay for necessary work to bring these roads up to standards demanded by the defense program. Then requirements for 8 and 10 foot shoulders at four mile intervals will necessitate a lot of worry over acquisition of rights of way. And too unusual demands upon the State Highway Commission for speedy construction of roads adds to the cause already existing for headaches in depleted engineering staffs.

North Carolina pays notoriously low salaries for engineering service, and within recent weeks the commission has seen many of its engineers move on to much better paid jobs in other phases of defense program work. Some of them have gone directly to government service, but the chief drain has been from auxiliary defense jobs at navy yards, cantonments and highway work in other states.

Some weeks ago the North Carolina State Highway Commission made a survey of seven main roads, at request of the Public Roads Administration, known to be acting for the War Department, and it was found that to bring these roads and bridges up to specifications would cost approximately $4,000,000.

The big question is who will pay the bill?

For years the Federal Government has aided in state highway construction. The State initiated the program and the Federal Government either accented or declined to co-operate. All the time the Washington government reserved the right to withhold any appropriation unless the state complied with its regulations. That brings the issue squarely to this point: In the present defense program the national government can say to the state that it will pay only its part of this defense program construction or the state will get no Federal money for any road work. That would mean that practically all available construction money for this year would have to be spent on the seven roads designated for the defense program. It is easy to see how this would disrupt all state plans for rebuilding other roads virtually destroyed by floods during the past summer. There just isn't enough money, even without any thought of "diversion" to rebuild these essential highways and at the same time to meet federal requirements for constructing the 1,200 miles of defense roads out of state funds.

Chairman Dunlap of the State Highway and Public Works Commission recently attended a conference of all state road officials at Seattle, Wash., and he reports that this was a matter of vital concern in discussion there. It was suggested that allocation from blanket defense appropriations might be made and that the national government might pay the whole bill. But nobody had an authoritative answer. And until that answer is found the headaches will continue. If the answer finally received is that the state must bear a large part of the cost there will be a lot of headaches added to the headaches.

Whoever finally has to pay the bill, North Carolina and the other states in the Union will have a fine highway system when it is completed. Some of the specifications call for:

All roads of 18 feet or less in the system will be widened to at least 20 feet and to 22 or 24 feet depending upon volume of traffic.

Eight to ten-foot stabilized shoulders are planned to facilitate movement of military trains and civil traffic. As a minimum requirement it is planned to construct such shoulders for a distance of 2,000 feet—at least every four miles, staggering these so that parking places will be found on one side of the road every two miles. These shoulders will permit transport trains to pull off the highways, or serve as a siding for regular commerce during army movements.

All road surfaces on the strategic system should be dustless and capable of supporting 9,000-pound wheel loads under any weather conditions. Sharp curve, steep grades, and other features that delay and endanger traffic movement will have to be modernized.

All bridges on this strategic system will have to meet weight and load requirements of fifteen tons. Of special interest to agencies most violently opposing any diversions is the fact that completion and maintenance of this program will stop all talk of diversion, because every dime of highway money—and then some—will be needed on the roads.

Fulfilling A Pledge

On May 18, 1939, when the Brewers and North Carolina Beer Distributors Committee was formed, a definite and sincere promise was made to the public.

We pledged the beer industry's aid to law-enforcement agencies to the end that retail beer dealers operate lawfully and in the public interest.

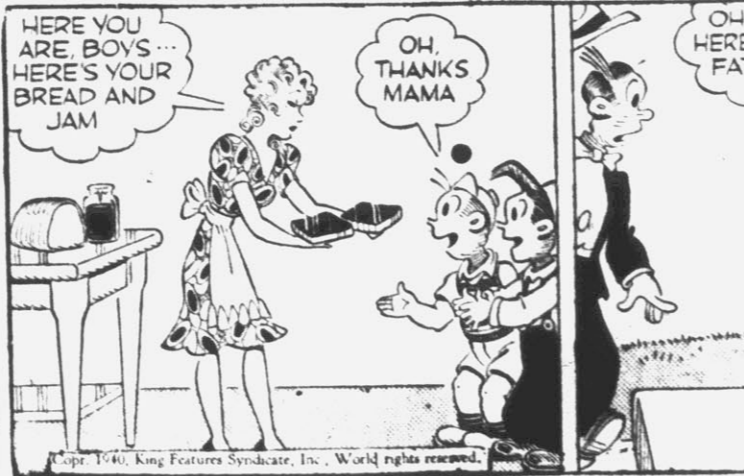

The committee believes its pledge has been fulfilled. During the past 17 months it has aided the authorities in ridding the state of 131 undesirable beer outlets—107 by revocation, one by surrender and 23 by refusal to renew licenses.

You can help by restricting your patronage to those places which obey the law.

GOP CANDIDATE FEARED IN 6TH

Gilliam Grissom Seen As Threat To Carl Durham

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL.
Raleigh, Oct. 23.—In the Sixth Congressional district there is at least one devoted Democrat who thinks that Republican Gilliam Grissom is a serious contender for the House seat now occupied by Orange county's Carl Durham, who is up for re-election.

This Democrat has held one of the highest appointive places in the state and is no part of a Willkieocrat or turncoat in the current campaign. He is plain scared, as a matter of fact. He will not let your reporter use his name for any quotes; but he is, a man who generally knows what he's talk about.

He cites three main reasons why the Durham hold is in danger of being broken: (1) Grissom is a good vote getter as is to be found in the G. O. P. ranks; (2) there is a considerable defection from Democratic ranks, particularly in the upper crust of business men, because of opposition to President Roosevelt and the New Deal, and (3) Durham isn't overly strong in his own right and must ride through on a strictly normal and natural Democratic majority, if he rides through at all.

In addition, and as something of a minor cause for alarm, is the Guilford county intra-party fight among the Democrats and the danger, at least, of suspicion which recent lottery trials have cast upon some of the Democratic political figures and candidates.

Recent figures would seem to prove it almost impossible for any Republican, even genial Gilliam, to overturn the tremendous Democratic majorities which have been piled up—but they are all due to the personality and popularity of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and if some of the FDR magic is gone, it might well come to pass that the Sixty will furnish a major upset of this campaign.

The Department of Agriculture has restored to grass about a third of a million acres in the southwest dust bowl since 1935.
