GREECE CONFIDENT OF ABILITY TO HOLD ITALY

INITIAL CALLS ALREADY MADE FOR TRAINEES

Clearing Way For Local Boards To Make Selections

TO CALL 30,000 BY DECEMBER 1

Most, If Not All, Of First Contingent Expected To Be Provided By Volunteers

Washington, Oct. 31. (AP) — With army corps area commanders already calling for the initial contingents of men, National Selective Service officials concentrated today on clearing the way for local boards to begin actual selection of the 800,000 trainees who will be summoned by next June 15 for a year's military training.

Just a few hours after Tuesday's historic conscription lottery was completed, Major General George A. Woodruff, corps area commander at Boston, called on the six New England governors to provide 984 men by November 18 under the Selective Service system.

Simultaneously on the Pacific coast dispatched to the governors of seven far western states its opening requisition for a total of 16,630 men to report to induction stations between November 18 and November 22.

The eighth corps area headquarters at San Antonio issued notifications to the states in the southwest to furnish the number of men they were following suit or planning to swing into action before Saturday.

This first selective service call is designed to bring 30,000 young men into service between November 18 and December 1.

Most, if not all, of this pioneer contingent was expected to be filled by Selective Service volunteers — men who want to take their year's training immediately.

Willkie Is Heard In Delaware City

Aboard Willkie Train En Route to Camden, N. J., Oct. 31. (AP) — Wendell L. Willkie told a cheering crowd at Wilmington, Del., today that if he is elected President, a British request for 12,000 American planes would be "insignificant" because, he declared, production would be geared to a new high.

The Republican presidential nominee quoted President Roosevelt as saying he wanted sympathetic attention to such a proposal.

"Well, who wouldn't?" Willkie asked. "If you elected me President such a request will not even be news because it will be so insignificant. We will be turning out planes by the hundreds where we are now turning them out by ones."

"Have you any doubt that Wendell Willkie, with the confidence of American industry, can do more than Franklin Roosevelt can?"

"Have you any doubt that Wendell Willkie, with the confidence of American labor, can do more than Franklin Roosevelt can to bring about peace and keep us off this road of stagnation?"

Approve Projects For Housing Army

Washington, Oct. 31. (AP) — Charles F. Palmer, defense housing coordinator, announced today that President Roosevelt had approved immediate construction of housing projects in 63 vital defense areas with $45,762,500 of defense funds. Officials said that funds had been provided for construction of 550 family units at Fort Bragg, N. C., chiefly for housing facilities of enlisted men.

Party Tonight

Everything was all set today for the annual Halloween street party and dance to be held tonight under the auspices of the Monogram club of the Greenville high school.

The program will be started with a parade which will form at the high school at 7:15 o'clock, march down Eans street and to the court house. Evans street will be marked off for the party.

Volunteers Go For Sergeant York's Blessings

Residents of Sergeant Alvin York's county seat, Jamestown, Tenn., got together and gave volunteers a big send-off as young men of the mountain community heeded his advice to join up with the army rather than wait to be drafted. Here is Sgt. York (right) handing out cigarettes to a long line of volunteers awaiting their turn near an army recruiting truck. It was Sgt. York who was dubbed "America's greatest hero" by General Pershing after he single-handedly captured 132 Germans in the World war.

Reflector Editor Explains Status Of Local Draftees

CONVICTED IN MURDER CASE

Bennie Harrel Guilty Of Slaying Hubert Harrington

Bennie Harrell was convicted of second degree murder by a jury which rendered its verdict shortly after court convened this morning after having spent nearly two days in listening to evidence and arguments. The jury was given the case about 4 p. m., yesterday and was kept intact at a hotel last night.

Harrell was convicted of killing Hubert Harrington late last April in an affray a few miles from the city in a woods off the Washington highway. Six other men were tried on various charges growing out of the fatal affray. Dewey Brooks, charged with having shot Bennie Harrell in the leg after wresting from him the gun with which he shot Harrington, was acquitted, the jury finding that he shot in self defense as Harrell and others advanced on him. V. T. Harrell, brother of Bennie Harrell, was convicted of assault with a deadly weapon. Frank Harrington, Jesse Whitaker and Fountain Harrington were convicted of simple assault. Earle Speight was acquitted.

Sentence was not passed immediately on any of the defendants. Trial of Johnnie Whitehurst of Bethel charged with criminally assaulting a young Martin county girl was briefly interrupted to receive the verdict from the jury.

The Whitehurst trial was expected to require all of today and part of tomorrow. The court room was filled shortly after court was convened this morning.

Mrs. Browder Told To Leave Country

Washington, Oct. 31. (AP) — The Justice department today ordered deportation of Mrs. Ralusa Burkman Browder, wife of Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States on the ground that she had entered this country illegally.

The papers, signed by Attorney General Jackson, also denied application for suspension of the deportation order on the ground that Mrs. Browder's "evasive testimony regarding her relationship to the Communist party had created doubt as to her eligibility for leniency."

Immigration officials said that Mrs. Browder would be given a "reasonable time" in which to present herself for deportation to her native Russia.

Mrs. Browder and her husband, the Communist party candidate for president, were married in Moscow in 1926 and have three sons.

Bucharest, Oct. 31. (AP) — Past German troop trains were unofficially reported today to have passed through Rumania's western province of Onava, presumably east bound, and heavy movement of German war supplies was reported on the Timisora-Brasov railway.

Presents Explanatory Facts After Thorough Study

By D. J. WHICHARD, JR. Now that the national lottery whereby those young men registered under the selective service conscription act have been assigned definite order numbers, the questions are becoming more numerous by the hour and most everyone concerned is seeking information as to his status and what steps he should take about it. In order to try to clear these matters in the minds of the registrants and the general public of this community, as well, I have, through study of the act and conferences with local draft officials, learned the following facts which might prove informative and worthwhile for you.

1. It appears that the chief question being asked or in the minds of the registrants at this time is if and when they will be called to appear before the draft board and when they are likely to be inducted into service.

The best answer to this question is as follows: (a) If you are deemed physically unfit or come in a class deferred by the law, on the face of the questionnaire you will be called upon to make out for the board you will be placed in Class Four and will never be called into service.

(b) If you have persons dependent in whole or in part upon you for support, extent to be determined by the draft board you will be placed in Class Three and probably never be called into service.

(c) If you now occupy a civilian occupation that is considered of importance and essential in the national defense program you will be placed in Class Two and probably never be called into service.

Merchants' Prexy Names Committees

Various committees of the Greenville Merchants Association to serve during the current year have been appointed by President Thomas E. Wilson as follows, with the chairman being named first: Trade Promotion—L. A. Stroud, O. P. Matthews, C. W. Sale, Ted Vincent and Morris Brody; Membership—J. C. Waldrop, T. Y. Walker and R. M. Campbell; Transportation—C. W. Harvey, Jr., D. J. Whichard, Jr., and J. A. Collins; Legislative—J. H. Blount, Jack Spain, H. L. Ormond and David W. Mosier; Street Decoration—O. P. Matthews, B. D. Johnston, C. B. Bissette, Wm. H. White and C. R. McBrayer.

The committees will serve with the president and executive secretary throughout the year on various problems which come under their respective jurisdiction.

Local Agent Releases Pitt Ginning Report

The cotton ginning report of the Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce, was issued today by M. V. Horton, special Pitt county agent of Farmville, showing that 8,321 bales of cotton were ginned in the county from the 1940 crop prior to October 18. This year's figures compare with only 1,001 bales of cotton ginned from the 1939 crop prior to October 18, the report revealed.

MAKES INITIAL CHEST REPORT

Total Of $1,366.20 Raised By Noon Hour Today

By WYATT BROWN A total of $1,366.20 on the 1941 budget of the community chest had been raised by noon time today with only part of the business district reported from and the colleges, schools, warehouses, and factories unreported. This amount has come primarily from the house to house canvass in the residential districts where the workers are doing a fine job, according to Campaign Director W. A. Ryan.

"The Thrift Shop enables underprivileged people to buy used wearing apparel and household goods, such people to provide themselves with their own limited funds, and not depend on charity," explained Mrs. S. M. Crisp last night over radio station WGTC in her appearance there in behalf of the community chest campaign now in progress. Mrs. Crisp was talking especially of the Thrift Shop which is supported by the community chest.

Some time ago the work involved in carrying on the Thrift Shop was taken over by volunteers from the Service League which had adopted the Thrift Shop as a project as well as the Laughinghouse bed at every worthwhile community project.

The Thrift Shop has clothing and shoes for adults and children, a few toys and household articles, all of which is given to the shop by the people of the community. There were 700 customers the past year. (Continued on page six)

State Student Meeting Convenes Here Tomorrow

By JEAN RUSH Tomorrow afternoon the State Student Council convention will be in full swing in the Greenville high school auditorium. Registration will begin at 10 o'clock Friday morning. The delegates will then be shown over Greenville and they will visit the local tobacco market at 11:15 a radio broadcast will be held in the high school auditorium. Officers and delegates will be interviewed on this program.

The GHS band and Senior high club under the direction of H. A. McDougle and Miss Ona Shindler, respectively, will furnish music for the first part of the program tomorrow.

After the entire group assemblies, Mr. Bryan Y. Turner, guest speaker from Meredith College, will introduce the theme, "Student Government as a Laboratory for Democracy." Topics for the four panel discussions are "Democracy in the Organization and Conduct of Student Government," "Student government Experience as a Basis for Citizenship in the School," "Democracy in the Relations of Student Government With School and Community,"

DEMOCRATS OF N. C. SEEKING BIG MAJORITY

Pressure Being Applied To Get Voters Out Tuesday

EASTERN COUNTY CLAIMED BY GOP

Democratic Prediction Of 250,000 Majority Countered By Republican Expressions

Raleigh, Oct. 31. (AP) North Carolina political leaders put on extra pressure today to arouse voters in an effort to get out a big vote for Tuesday's election.

Democratic chairman E. B. Denny estimated that the vote would exceed 800,000 and that the Democratic majority would be "more than 250,000."

Republican leaders countered with expressed confidence that the result in some counties would be "real surprises."

Leaders admitted that on the surface there appeared to be little interest in the campaign, but contended that more people would vote Tuesday than expected because the war had focussed attention on the necessity for voters to express themselves on government policies and leaders.

Republicans contend that they may elect some candidates on the county tickets in Guilford and that a division of the Guilford Democrat may result in Gilliam Grissom winning the Sixth district seat in Congress, now held by Rep. Carl T. Durham.

At least one Republican big-wig looks for an upset in one normally Democratic county in the east and he also expressed the opinion his party would hold the legislative seat from Sampson county, which was won two years ago.

Denny said that counties in the far west would not cast their normal Republican vote if reports he had are true.

LAVAL WANTS NAZI VICTORY

Premier Expresses Belief Democracy Is Dead

By ROY L. PORTER Paris, Oct. 28. (AP) — Delayed via Berlin, Vice-Premier Pierre Laval before his historic interview with Adolf Hitler told me he believed democracy in the modern world in all countries is dead and that he was staking France's future on collaboration with Nazi Germany.

Laval said he based his belief on the passing of democracy on the almost unopposed victories marked up by the totalitarian powers in the last year.

I received the definite impression from the French leader that he earnestly desired the defeat of England as a corollary to the French-German "collaboration" now agreed. (Continued on page six)

The End Of The Beginning

This little act at Washington marked the end of the national draft lottery, the first stage in determining who would be drafted. Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey (right) director of selective service, dipped his hand into the historic fish bowl and pulled out the last number—No. 2114—in the nation's first peacetime draft. Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra (at speaker's desk), national draft director, read it out as order No. 8994.

Letter Describes War As More Of A Nuisance

WARREN ENDS NOTED CAREER

To Assume Duties Of Comptroller General Friday

Washington, Oct. 31. (AP) — Rep. Lindsay C. Warren of the First North Carolina district closed an outstanding 16-year congressional career today to embark on a 15-year term as comptroller general of the United States—one of the top ranking posts in the federal government.

Re-elected without opposition for seven consecutive sessions since he was first named to Congress in 1924 to develop into one of its leaders, Warren resigned earlier this session, the resignation to become effective on the eve of the day he assumes his new duties.

Tomorrow in the general accounting office he will be sworn in as comptroller by Associate Justice Fred M. Vinson of the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals. Vinson is a former congressman and a close friend of Warren.

Warren, who has just returned to the capital from his Washington, N. C. home, where friends and constituents gave him a farewell party last week was chosen for the high post by President Roosevelt last summer.

Recognition of Warren as a leader in the House was emphasized by the fact that in the past decade during Democratic party control he was chosen to preside over general debarment on practically every major measure.

Both Republicans and Democrats repeatedly praised his fairness. In his new post Warren will pass on expenditures made by the federal government, the accounting office being required by law to keep track of every cent spent by Uncle Sam. The Comptroller's decision on the legality of expenditures is final.

Bombers For U. S.

Washington, Oct. 31. (AP) — The War Department was reported today to have planned production of 12,000 additional bombing planes largely with the aid of the automobile industry. This program, to cost possibly $2,000,000,000, was described as separate from the 12,000 warplane order which President Roosevelt said last night Great Britain had proposed to place in this country.

Recent conferees of William S. Knudsen, defense commissioner in charge of production, with automobile industry leaders were concerned with plans for the new bomber production.

The program was reported to call for erection of two large plants to assemble parts manufactured in automobile factories.

E. B. Higgs Gets Letter From Friend In Dover, England

E. B. Higgs of this city has received a letter from Richard Higgs of Coxhill farm, Shepherdswell, Dover, Kent county, England, whose daughter, Miss Dorethea Higgs, has visited the Greenville Higgs, in which the war was described as "more of a nuisance than anything although it is tragic and expensive."

The letter was dated October 12 and came from the coastal section of England bearing the brunt of the German assaults.

Mr. Higgs described the war as unutterably horrible and supremely stupid and silly, but added "we don't dwell on that side of things any more than we can help."

"We just laugh at it and many of us worship the Great God Humbug and find the funny sides of things."

"For instance," he wrote, "one day this week I was at a meeting at Maldstone, 17 men were sitting around a table, the air raid warning sounded, we kept on with our work, suddenly a swishing sound was heard (a bomb falling somewhere) at once all of those serious men flopped down under the table to get out of the way of falling class, nothing happened, the bombs fell some distance away."

I. U. Joyner Rites Conducted Today

I. U. Joyner, 73, died at his home near Ballard's Cross Roads at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday after a lingering illness. Funeral services were conducted from the home this afternoon at four o'clock by Rev. Gilbert O. Davis, Christian minister of Bell Arthur, assisted by Rev. H. M. Wilson, Presbyterian minister of Farmville. Burial followed in the family cemetery nearby.

Mr. Joyner was born, reared and spent his entire life in the community in which he died. He was the son of the late Calvin and Mary Ann Joyner and was one of the outstanding farmers in his section.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Verna Anderson Joyner; one sister, Mrs. Josie McArthur of Ballard's Cross Roads; five sons, Isaac, Raymond, Ulysses, James and Harold all of the home; three daughters Mrs. B. L. Bateman of near Farmville and Misses Mary Emma and Verna Joyner of the homeplace, six grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

Order Freighters For Great Britain

Washington, Oct. 31. (AP) — Secretary Morgenthau disclosed today that the British government has ordered a "large number" of freight ships in this country.

The Treasury head said that he did not know whether the orders involved construction of a new shipyard in the United States for exclusive British use, but he added: "They have ordered a large number of one standardized type of freight ship."

Turkish Aid Not Needed For Present

Athens Said To Have Informed Ankara Greek Troops Can Stem Italian Assault Alone; Turkey Is Therefore Not Planning Enter Conflict; British Bombers Score Many Hits

By The Associated Press Greek troops, fighting in heavy rains and mud along a 100-mile front, well out ahead of the $6,000,000 Metaxas line, were reported resisting Italian invasion so successfully today that Greece has decided she does not need Turkish help.

Semi-official quarters in Ankara, capital of Turkey, said Greece had informed the Turkish government that she can stem the Italian assault alone.

As a result, these quarters said, Turkey will enter the four-day-old struggle only "in case of a Bulgaria

(By The Associated Press) A Greek counter-attack north of the besieged town of Ioannina was reported to have thrown back invading Italian troops on the northwest front today, with Greek soldiers storming and recapturing the hill.

This was the first intimation that the city of Ioannina, 30 miles inside the Greek frontier, was under siege. It is the Italian high command reported only a five-mile thrust into that sector.

rian attack on Greece or if Turkey's national interests are endangered."

While Premier Mussolini's high command reported Fascist legions had made a five-mile advance in a drive apparently aimed at the Greek industrial city of Ioannina, the Greek general staff said the Italian invaders had been held in check throughout yesterday after a "slight withdrawal" on the northwest front "according to a pre-arranged plan."

Greek strategy, it was said, was to lure the Fascist columns into narrow mountainous bottlenecks where Greek sharpshooters on the cliffs above could pour down a murderous fire.

Greek troops were reported to have counter attacked north of the besieged town of Ioannina and sources regarded as reliable said they had stormed and recaptured a hill and seized large quantities of abandoned arms and materials from the Italians.

In the absence of any decisive successes, the Italian press complained that incessant heavy rains were hindering the Fascist advance.

Authorized quarters in London said they had no information on reported British troop landings in Greece.

Reports from Salonika, Greece, said, however, that British troops landing under the big guns of British warships have already occupied several strategic Greek islands.

London, on the 54th consecutive night of German bombing, had one of the quietest nights of the air siege.

The British Air Ministry said that the Royal Air Force bombers had scored many hits overnight on the docks and shipyards in the "invasion" harbor of Ostend, which the Germans had repaired following earlier bombings.

British bombers also attacked the naval base at Emden, Germany, and heavily bombed docks at Antwerp and Flushing, the Air Ministry said.

Week of Prayer and Mission Study.
Plans are finished for the observance of the Week of Prayer and Mission Study of the Woman's Society for Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. The women will meet at ten o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, November 5-8. A devotional for each day has been arranged by Miss Tinsworth, Mrs. Jack Edwards and Mrs. Edward Batchelor will assist her.

The devotional will be a study of Scarritt College and the offering will be toward an endowment for the Clara Tucker Perry Chair of Christian Life and Thought at Scarritt. There will be special music each day.

The program for the study of the suggested text, "Uprooted Americans," is as follows:

Tuesday—"Migrants and Migrations" Sam Underwood, Jr.
Wednesday—"The Migrant Family" A. F. Barwick will open this study. Members of the society will continue with reports and discussion.

Thursday—"The Youth Migrant," Wvatt Brown.
Friday—"What is Being Done for the Migrant," Mrs. F. P. Brooks will direct this hour, using others for reports of special lines of work.

There will be a large attendance of members. Visitors will be welcomed at any or all of the sessions. With this class, members of the group will find the yearly requirements for study, as outlined by the church.

The Clo Book Club.
On Tuesday afternoon in the reception rooms of Jarvis Hall Miss Elizabeth Smith was hostess to the Clo Book Club.

Following a brief business session, over which the president, Mrs. James Johnston, presided, Mrs. James Haves presented a very interesting "History of Greenville."

In 1760 John Hardee, John Simpson, William Spear, George Mayo and Isaac Buck were named commissioners, authorized to build a court house, prison, stocks, and pillary, thereby founding a county seat for the newly formed Pitt county. Pitt county had been named in honor of William Pitt, Earl of

Forty Years Ago Today

October 31, 1900

End of Century Club

The End of the Century Club held its regular semi-monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Fleck-John. The afternoon was given up to a discussion of the revised constitution and by-laws, as presented by the committee appointed for that purpose at the last meeting. After the business of the club, delightful refreshments were served by the hostess.

Chatham, known for his interest in the colony of British America. The first site of the county seat was the plantation of Commissioner Hardee, located about three miles below the present site, almost the same place as our new river terminal.

In 1774, just before the Revolution, a permanent county court house was built on the land of Richard Evans, the present site of Greenville. The town was named Martinsborough, in order to gain political favor for the English governor. In the early days there was much discontent due to England's seizing colonial vessels and because of the unfair taxation by England. Among the many hardships of the early settlers, was their having to suppress by force an insurrection of the Negro slaves.

At the outbreak of the Revolution certain ones containing iron were discovered in Chocod township, and Greenville became, for a while, a mining center.

In 1789, after the close of the Revolution, the name of the county seat was changed from Martinsborough to Greenville, naming it for the hero of Guilford Court House, General Nathaniel Greene. It was he who led to the defeat of the English at Yorktown, thereby paving the way to American independence.

In 1790 in the first national census, Pitt county's population was 8,275. The people began an era of peace and progress.

Mrs. Haves told of the Greenville warehouses, not for tobacco storage, but for tobacco inspection; of the Greenville Academy, founded in 1814, and of the Greenville Female Academy chartered in 1830; of the use of the river for trade transportation; of the Greenville and Raleigh plank road, a toll road built in 1850 for stage coaches; of the burning of the court house in 1858, destroying nearly all records; and of the heroism of Pitt men in the army of the Confederacy.

Facts of interest concerning Greenville's part in the Civil War are: one of the squad who accidentally shot Stonewall Jackson was from Pitt county, and that the war actually came into Greenville once when Potter's raiding party came from New Bern by way of Vanceboro, reaching Greenville, and after three hours of plundering and stealing, went on its way.

After the war Greenville steadily began rebuilding and continued to progress and grow in spite of the fire in 1896 which destroyed practically all of the business district.

In 1909 Eastern Carolina Teachers College was founded in the progressive and friendly little town. From then until 1918 was a period of rapid growth. During this time a new court house was built; the Weldon railroad, later becoming the Atlantic Coast Line, provided the town with its second rail facility, the Albemarle and Raleigh Railroad having come here about 1880; and Greenville's city school system in 1917 was recognized as a fully accredited one.

After the World War, in which the men of this section fought with valor, the town continued in its development. The population from 1920 to 1930 increased from 5,772 to 9,194, and at present its population is approximately 13,000.

Greenville is a town which has gradually and steadily advanced in spite of hardships and handicaps, a town which is loved by its people and where life is both useful and enjoyable.

Mrs. Haves' paper was thoroughly enjoyed by all who heard it.

The hostess, assisted by Misses Jane Hadley and Annie Shields VanDyke, served a delicious salad course with coffee, sandwiches, and cake.

The club had as guests for the afternoon Mrs. William Padgett of Greensboro, Mrs. Brick Starling of Kinston, who is a former club member, and Mrs. Henry Rivers, the club sponsor.

Freak Sweet Potato
A sweet potato tied in a knot and making a figure eight and also resembling a snake was found by T. L. Perkins in his patch at Stokes. The potato was brought to Greenville today and attracted much interest.

Girl Scout Activities In Greenville

First High Class Scout in Greenville
Mary Ann Duncan, above, is the first Girl Scout in Greenville to attain First Class ranking. Her main division of interest was the topic "Sports and Games," in which she passed the requirements for boating, campcraft, horsewoman, life saver, out of doors cook, and swimmer. Other Scouts who will receive First Class recognition this evening are Joyce Corbette, and Dorothy Nell Henderson, Marie Rouse and Ann Cox. The court of award ceremony will be held at the high school this evening at 8 p. m.

"TO HELP OTHERS AT ALL TIMES"

Pearl Sateed—Mariner Ship I
Thursday of Girl Scout Week is devoted to International Friendship abroad. Because of the war, the Girl Guides and Scouts in foreign countries are not adhering to their regular Guide program, but have entered full-heartedly into the important task of war relief. The heart of both the Girl Scout and Girl Guide organizations is a spirit of Service; to this end both organizations are most deserving of their praiseworthy names.

Let us look back over the history of Girl Guiding in England to recognize the development of its sister organization, Scouting, in America. It is impossible to say when the Girl Guides started in England, because so many started at the same time and there was no organization to register them. The Boy Scouts started in 1908 with the publication of "Scouting for Boys" and many girls who read the book started doing what the boys did. They formed themselves into patrols, calling themselves "Nighthawks," "Wild Cats," and other fierce names. They took themselves very seriously and lived in Guiding every moment, both sleeping and waking. The Guides held meetings on Saturdays, and went on adventures. Among the people who first put Scouting into practice was Agnes Maynard. Having heard of Boy Scouts, she decided on forming Girl Scouts, and the idea worked. Baden-Powell heard of this and knew that only half of his work for the youth of Great Britain would be done if the girls were left out. He wanted the boys to see qualities in their future wives. After a length of time Baden-Powell published several articles in the Boy Scout "Headquarters Gazette" on the importance of training girls. He made the rules which follow closer to those of the Boy Scouts today.

After a search for a suitable name, he decided Girl Guides would be appropriate. Later he substituted the name of Girl Scouts for that of Girl Guides. In India, the word "guide" means a "handyman."

Baden-Powell asked his sister Agnes Baden-Powell to undertake the work of organizing the Girl Guides. The first committee of ladies met in May, 1910. Sir Robert Baden-Powell gave them a little capital with which they engaged a small one-room office. There was no possibility in those days to have a magazine, but two pages were devoted to Guide news in the home paper called "Home Notes." The trefoil badge seems to have been issued in 1910. The first public appearances of the Guides was in May 1911, the same year the British Guides had their first contact with girls of other countries.

By 1918, other movements were being branched from the Girl Guides; first, came the Brownies. The next branch was for the older girls. They first called themselves the "Senior Scouts," but it was too dull and later called themselves the "Rangers." In 1920, the "Sea Rangers" made their first appearance which are called Mariners today. The "Mariners" a newly formed group in Greenville, has at present its members: Sarah Moore, Janet Evans, Margaret Jones, Jane Smith, Dorothy Dixon, Josephine Gibson, Pearl Waldrop and Pearl Sateed. Those who have passed their Midshipmate ratings are: Sarah Moore, Pat Waldrop, Jane Smith, Janet Evans and Josephine Gibson.

It seems that the "British Guides" are a very widespread organization and is scattered all over the world. Although they speak different languages, they all make the same promise.

There is not much news now about what the Girl Scouts and Girl Guides of European countries are doing to help the refugees pouring over their borders, because in such situations it is best to serve and not to talk. Some services that the English and Scottish Guides have undertaken include painting curbstones so that they can be seen during black-outs; filling sandbags; planting and tending gardens; scrubbing floors at first aid stations; running outdoor play centers; collecting, mending, and making clothes for evacuees and foreign refugees; acting as escorts for the smaller children during black-outs; entertaining the blind; mending and even washing clothes for the men of a searchlight unit; collecting books and magazines for men in the national services; collecting toys for evacuated children; entertaining aged evacuees with plays. During an air raid alarm in London in the early part of the war, the Guides helped to dispel nervousness in the air raid shelter by getting everybody—men and all—to singing campfire songs.

The Girl Guides of Europe are very busy with tasks that have been created, but how much greater is our opportunity here to serve our country—instead of the necessity of building back what others destroy. We may use our fortunate situation to add to the arts of peace; instead of having to exert all our strength to hold the advantage gained, we are free to press on as far as the way is open—joining with our friends abroad in saying, "Let there be peace on earth, and let it begin with me."

On Friday the Girl Scouts are to be the guests of Mr. Walker at the Pitt Theatre in the afternoon. The Scouts are to assemble at the high school at four o'clock, and accompanied by their leaders, march to the theatre.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help to keep the blood clean and healthy. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, which successfully relieve you for over 10 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. # State Labor Forces Open Legislature Drive Early

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL.
Raleigh, Oct. 31.—North Carolina's Federation of Labor has grabbed time by the forelock and has launched its legislative campaign more than two months ahead of the General Assembly's convening date.

President C. A. Fink of Salisbury is known to feel that setbacks of the 1939 legislative session were due very largely to the fact that many of the law makers were unacquainted with Labor's program. There wasn't time or opportunity to make them familiar with it, once the session was under way, with the result that most of the Federation's pet projects were rather brusquely rejected.

With this in mind the Federation president has prepared a pamphlet setting out the entire legislative program his organization will back this time; and has sent copies of it to every candidate for the Senate and House—Republicans as well as Democrats.

"Sometimes members of the Legislature have not been fully informed of conditions surrounding the lives of some of the citizens of their state, and therefore the Legislature has failed through this lack of information to provide proper and rightful protection to some of the citizens of the state," runs a sentence in an introductory page of the pamphlet.

Featured in the program, as in 1939, is enactment of a state minimum wage and maximum hour law modeled on the federal statute. Whether the Federation will ask for the same standards as are in the federal law is not stated.

Of such a statute the pamphlet says:

"With such splendid protection of workers in North Carolina who are so fortunate as to be employed by business engaged in interstate commerce, it is inconceivable that the great state of North Carolina will longer permit those thousands of men and women employed in intra-state commerce to continue in their defenseless and unprotected manner."

Further along, it is pointed out that "it was brought out in the hearings before the joint committee on manufacturing and labor in the 1939 General Assembly, through voluntary statements of men and women in North Carolina are being worked as much as ninety hours a week for as low as 10 cents, 12 1/2 cents and 15 cents an hour."

The Federation's program also seeks to amend the workmen's compensation act so as to extend its provisions to all workers except those classes specifically exempted in the act. At present the law is applicable only to employers who have five or more employees. The Federation would strike out these

Street Dance
The Halloween street dance which will be held tonight has been predicted to be the best street dance ever held here.

The dance is being sponsored by the Monogram Club this year.

"Everything is ship-shape for the dance tonight," commented Jack Edwards, a member of the club.

Prizes will be given for the best costumes present. The band will be present to lead a parade in which those dressed in costume will participate.

From 8:30 to 8:45 o'clock a program will be broadcast over WGTC from the dance. Mr. J. H. Rose will act as master of ceremonies.

Tomorrow Is The Day!

Lydia O'Leary was born with a great scarlet birthmark, which almost covered the left side of her face. In high school years she hid in dark corners till everybody else had gone to class and no one could stare at her as she scuttled through the halls.

After she was graduated, weeks of trudging New York streets failed to yield the job she sought as department store stylist. Finally one personnel manager told her the truth: "We can't hire you because of your face."

The confidence she had built up crashed after that and Lydia O'Leary hid in her room, painting bridge prizes and table decorations for her living. Then one day she dropped her brush on an iris design blotched it with dark paint and had to cover it with light paint. The thought struck her: "I can cover my birthmark! A Long Island housewife, Mrs. Lola A. North, had to do something to take her mind from her grief after her son, a transport pilot, was killed in a plane accident eight years ago. So she invented a new kind of card party that developed into a small business and has raised thousands for charities and churches.

Mrs. North planned the game—a kind of progressive whist—to take care of party wallflowers who don't play bridge. She divides the players into quartets, gives each the name of one country and four of its flags and routes the players in pairs from table to table. Winners of a hand capture the flags of the vanquished and the captors of the most flags are the party's victors. Mrs. North runs the affair with a football whistle and a smile.

NEWTON'S BOYS EXPECTING WIN

Pack Improvement Is Credited Doc Newton

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL.
Raleigh, Oct. 31.—Almost every reason has been advanced and every theory spun to account for the visibly improved play of States College's football team and the obviously elevated morale of the State student body; but to many the explanation is extremely simple.

It's this: The last vestige of an old regime has disappeared, and a generation which knows not and cares not about the ancient feud has replaced it.

Hunk Anderson brought a lot of good football material to State, but he never could cash in on it because he was too busy with the Pack, which she spent years in decorating, that she couldn't even talk about it.

But Lady Mendl, who is past 70 did no moping. She whisked into a New York hotel, rented an apartment and transformed it into a striking setting for winter parties.

Beautiful as the villa she left behind in France, white rugs, white chintz curtains patterned with green ferns, white upholstered sofa and dark mahogany furniture. Knick-knacks are porcelain vegetables—tomatoes, cauliflowers, etc., which she collects. Now she is considering offers to decorate the homes of Hollywood movie queens.

To banish boredom and loneliness, Miss Estelle Hayden of New York, 30 years ago, began a collection of theater programs which now fills 10 portfolios.

cause of the jealousies and bickerings on his squads, North Carolina boys (such as were on the roster) couldn't get along with the -ski's and the -vich's.

Then they sent Hunk skidding on the seat of his pants and brought along Doc Newton in to take his place. The holdovers from the Anderson era didn't like it; they figured they knew more than their coaches and this result was complete collapse. It didn't show so much on defense—the every man for himself system working fairly well when all the boys were putting out at their best offense the Pack for three years was really pitiful even the veriest tyro being able to notice the lack of cohesion and coordination.

But this year opened with nobody on the squad who didn't come to Raleigh after Hunk's departure. These boys had no delusions of grandeur. They will do what the coaches tell them, and the result has been gratifying. The State team simply hasn't what it takes to beat big time teams like Clemson, Carolina and Mississippi State, but it is always an interesting team to watch. It's attack is tricky and pretty to see.

With a new spirit of cooperation on the field, the same spirit has spread to the stands; and it's a mighty good bet that the Pack is going to cash in on it—this Saturday with a win over Furman.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

SOUND HEALTH HELPS SOUND RELIGION

Most people do not think enough about their sins, but there is, on the other hand, a type of person who is continually plagued by an abnormal and entirely unjustified sense of sin.

Lyman Beecher, father of the famous Henry Ward Beecher, was a noted evangelist in his day, and he often astonished people by the advice he gave them. After some of his tremendous exhortations, people would come forward, confessing their sins, and frequently interrupted them brusquely to ask them what they had eaten that day, how many hours they had slept each night, and what were their general habits of life. Then he would proceed to assure them that the way to purge their souls of the devil was to change their diet, or to stop worrying, or to be regular in their habits. He insisted that all too often people thought their souls were lost when the trouble was nothing more than an upset stomach. His teaching was based on the conviction that sound minds and souls only operated in sound bodies.

There is a profound relationship between soul and body, and an unwholesome spiritual outlook frequently results from subnormal health. An old negro once summed up well when he said, "I always likes to hear a man set down and talk cheerful and comfortin'. It shows he's in good health."

Elsewhere in this issue appears an article dealing with the recent drawing of numbers in connection with the selective service conscription law, which we believe will be of interest not only to those men who are included in Pitt County's 7,700 registrants, but their families and the public in general. In the article we have tried to give a full explanation of what each of the registrants might expect and when, if ever, they might be called into service. Even if you are not one of the potential draftees we believe you will want to read this article for then you may be in better position to answer questions that might be put to you by someone affected by the draft.

Washington.—Answering a mail order.
T. D. S. Alhambra, Calif.—According to the 1940 census, and this figure is brand new, there are 157,895 Japanese in the Hawaiian Islands. How many of these are subject to registration for selective service, it is impossible to say now, although I asked estimates from the army, navy, state and justice departments, selective service headquarters and the census bureau.

Other departments referred me to this last, but census officials say they do not have the Hawaii figures broken down yet and point out that they probably would not have before the October 26 Hawaiian draft registration (in the territories and insular possessions it did not take place at the same time as in the United States) reports are made to selective service.

In Fourth Class

Due to the peculiar conditions of naturalization in the islands, it is impossible to make any estimate on the number of Japanese who might be called to military training for Uncle Sam.

In 1930, there were 139,631 Japanese in the islands; 37.9 per cent of the total population. The present number is 37.3 per cent of the total population. In 1930, the census figures showed 60,389 Japanese 21 years or older who were aliens. Under the selective service law, the men now between 21 and 36 in the alien group must register but are automatically put in Class 4 and would not be called for training.

Return To Japan

However, what has happened to this 60,000 or so to the children who have become 21 since 1930 is impossible to guess. Many may have gone back to Japan. Persons who have spent years in the islands tell me that there are a great number of well-educated Japanese youths both in Hawaii and along our western seaboard who are returning to Japan. These Japanese believe there is far greater opportunity for educated persons in their own dominant expanding civilization than as members of a minority in a civilization not their own.

On the other hand, it is possible that a great many young men not wishing to serve in the Japanese army, have, on becoming 21, exercised the option permitted when born under the American flag, and declared themselves citizens of the United States.

Up To Army

Regardless of these "ifs" however it is certain the army can have a great number of Japanese young men in selective service training if it wants them.

That last "if" must be inserted because in the last analysis it is up to the army whether it takes a man. A selective call have all the physical and mental requirements and he will report dependents, but officials felt the best interests of the country would not be served by training him, he would have no chance of getting in.

Many Japanese served in the United States army in the World War and undoubtedly there will be many in selective service both in the United States and in the Islands before the five-year program is completed. It is only the estimated number that now seems to be stumping the departments here that usually are so ready and willing to give out statistical information.

Success Story

Along the road in search for the answer to this query, I came upon an amusing story about a Japanese who came to this country many years ago, set up business and prospered. He married an American woman, had a son. When the boy was just 21, his parents were killed in an accident. He inherited a great fortune but in order to take full advantage of it, he had to return to Japan and declare his citizenship there. Immediately, he was drafted into the army but although a fine physical specimen, he hardly was mustered in before he was mustered out. The reason: he couldn't speak Japanese.

Short Shots

Raleigh, Oct. 31.—Gilliam Grissom, Republican candidate for Congress from the Sixth district, is using a letter from Colonel Andrew Joyner, one of North Carolina's oldest and most loyal Democrats who is styled by Mr. Grissom "former editor and reporter of an hundred newspapers."

The quotes upon which the G. O. P. candidate places emphasis refer to his service as collector of internal revenue some years ago, though the Joyner letter was written only a few days ago confirming things the Colonel said of Grissom.

An excerpt: "As much as I dislike to be quoted personally, eight years later, I would recommend that I be quoted as saying, with genuine sincerity: That with few exceptions, in the long period of years, you retired from a most responsible position in State and Federal administration a bigger and more popular official than in my recollection."

Colonel Joyner added a postscript: "Why don't you, in preface to the above, quote from the unanimous Democratic press of that date of your excellent record."

Lees-McRae College ought to award a new kind of P. H. D., meaning Doctor of Possum Hunting, for chasing the elusive and succulent marsupial has been given the dignity of a regular part of the physical education course.

Every student is required to take a certain amount of physical exercise and the school authorities have recognized possum hunting as meeting the requirements.

There is some speculation over how many draft registrants will attempt to vote next week in the belief that their registration qualified them to cast ballots.

Apparently authentic reports reaching Raleigh indicate that Randolph can definitely be listed as one of the counties in which the G. O. P. has much better than an outside chance to send its candidate to the State House of Representatives.

The Democratic organization concedes close races in only three western counties—Sampson, Tyrrell and Brunswick—and gives a possible edge to the Republicans only in Sampson.

There are those who say that the G. O. P. may elect one, two, or even three House members from Greenville, though the consensus is very strong against any such upset.

Your reporter learns that for the first time in the memory of veteran politicians a real drive for the House speakership is being made in which others than the candidates, or other House members.

These reports indicate that members of the present state administration, some persons very close to Governor J. M. Broughton and others close to the "Shelby Ring" are actively button-holing House

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

By Rita Miller Hanson

YESTERDAY: Lynn Britton is in the curious position of being formally betrothed to the Prince of the Mongolian land of Shani Lun, in love with the Prince's trusted messenger, Temu Darin, in the power of her own half-brother Dick (who conspires against the Prince), and an admirer of Sherdock, who is a Mongolian priest about, he prophesies, to die. If he does, it may bring danger to Dick.

Chapter 31
Strange Ceremony
"SHERDOCK," Lynn said abruptly, "I tell me you have determined to die tonight."

He smiled. "I have told you before that death is not important. Now I tell you that it is not even a necessity, but merely a habit of the body—mind which man has let master him. Perhaps your children or your children's children will experience the truth of this and thus gain their freedom from the cycle of birth and death. I have not been wise enough. I shall wander for a while through the Barde and then become a little child again."

Lynn was moved by the simplicity and conviction with which he spoke. There seemed no doubt in his mind as to what the future should be. It occurred to her that she had never seen him look so "shining" before, as if already his spirit was held but lightly by the bonds of earth.

"Seriously," she pleaded, "this talk of death frightens me. Dick says he will not compromise with you."

Sherdock looked at her sternly. "I ask no compromise. Then his face softened. "And no grief, my dear. Mourning is a sin; it is a lack of trust and a blindness of spirit."

He struck a little drum at his side and rose. Lynn followed him. The Chinese guard came in and they walked out together before Lynn's unbelieving eyes.

"It is not right that he should die," she thought.

Sherdock raised his hand in blessing for the men who had assembled. Then he and Dick, the guard, Chin Pak and two Mongol lamas from the Duke's retinue climbed the hill.

Lynn brought a mat from her tent and sat down where she could keep her eyes on the hilltop. She felt impatient and helpless before this strange, Oriental fatalism. Shadows had thickened on the ridges; only on the summit where Sherdock sat, his bright, old eyes to the sky, did a faint gleam of the dying day still glow.

Lynn shivered in the biting, night air and spoke softly to herself. "He must be cold."

A voice answered, "He is indifferent, Tara Lynn."

She started and turned quickly; no one was near, no one had spoken. Yet she had heard Temu's voice as clearly as if she were held in the circle of his arms.

She entered her tent and lay down, covering her face with her hands.

New Plan
WHEN the men came to strike her tent at daybreak, she had composed herself. She drank a cup of rice water, and mounting her camel, began the day's march.

The sky soon became overcast with heavy, flying clouds. The travelers climbed an elevated divide and saw before them a yet higher ridge that separated them from the vast plains of Shani Lun.

Dick rode up beside Lynn. "If things go well," he said, "we should reach the border tomorrow night. Remember that Sherdock has prepared the people for your appearance. I and the Duke will hasten on to the capital."

"I want you to say in the border town of Dorchi for the first night. Then we will send a state automobile to carry you to Delun where you will make a triumphant entry the following day. Since you're supposed to be the reincarnation of a Chinese princess, it might be well for you to dress in Chinese garb for your entrance to the palace. We'll arrange that clothing be supplied you at our headquarters in Dorchi."

"Then what?" asked Lynn soberly. "After I get to Delun, then what?"

"Then this country's ours and we can do with it as we please," he cried exultantly. "Doesn't it thrill you, Lynn? You shall civilize the people, if that is your wish, and I shall make us all rich beyond the dreams of avarice."

She made no reply. He scrutinized her face bent down in thought.

"Right now, you look the image of the brooding Tara," he remarked, a touch of awe in his tone. "By God, Lynn, I believe you do belong to these people! That old magician, Sherdock, must have known what he was talking about. You're coming home!"

Lynn raised her head, her cheeks suddenly flushed, her eyes bright and shining. "Somehow, I feel myself that I'm coming home!"

Shortly before noon the weather changed for the worse; the wind clouds thickened and darkened. A blizz storm was upon them. The whole caravan became demoralized. Lynn felt as if she were breasting a wall of water full of pebbles. The animals were blown sideways and disappeared from sight. She saw the camel-litter on which Sherdock's coffin was carried suddenly torn apart by the terrified beasts.

Lynn tried to stop her camel. Instead, the beast suddenly bolted and raced southward with the storm, through a narrow defile and into a wide upland valley. At first the girl was more excited than frightened. After its immediate fury, the storm had slackened somewhat.

But as time passed and the animal kept on at a terrific pace as if it were demented, Lynn began to wonder what was going to become of her. She could do nothing with her beast, and to jump from the animal's back, she felt, would be like jumping from a speeding express train.

At dusk the storm died down and the stars appeared. But the strange, mad drive within the camel kept on. They were climbing now into a higher desert mountain region. During the night they passed near a cluster of yurts with several camels tethered nearby. Lynn hoped her beast might join them, but it kept on blindly, its neck stretched out as if it were being led by an invisible cord.

SEEK REPORTS ON ACCIDENTS

Safety Division Re-news Drive To Get Information

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Oct. 30.—The Highway Safety Division has renewed and redoubled its drive to get accurate reports on all highway accidents in North Carolina.

Recently the Division reluctantly reached the conclusion that the reports it receives on accidents involving injuries or damage to property are so fragmentary and incomplete that the resultant data are so far from correct as to be little more than guesses.

Ronald Hocutt and his aides will, however, continue to compile and release figures on these accidents, giving them out for what they are worth—which isn't much.

Meanwhile Mr. Hocutt has sent a personal letter to every law enforcement officer in North Carolina calling attention to the statute making reports to the Division by officers mandatory. He believes that officers have been nothing worse than negligent in compliance, and absolves them of any intent willfully to flout the law.

The statute, incidentally, makes it the duty of every driver involved in an accident which causes death, injury or property damage of more than $10 to report to law enforcement officials who will provide proper forms for reporting the crash to the Highway Safety Division.

There has been a slight improvement in reporting within the last year, Hocutt said; but even so there were almost a score of fatal accidents in September which were not reported to the Division, but which were "picked up" through newspaper reports and vital bureau statistics.

WILSON'S Weekly MEMO by GEORGE RECTOR

There are two ways of protecting oneself against the first sharp days of fall. One is to wrap warm clothes around the outside. The other is to wrap oneself around warm foods on the inside. I will leave the fall fashions up to the ladies, but for the foods, I suggest Wilson's Certified Chili Con Carne and Hot Tamales. They are seasoned "just right," like all Wilson's products.

Wash well 1 cup of best quality rice. Soak for 5 minutes in pan of cold water. Boil or steam until tender. Drain and season with 1/2 teaspoon grated nutmeg and salt to taste. Pack into well greased ring mold. Pour over the top 1/2 cup melted Clear Brook Butter. Set mold in pan of hot water in a bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 20 minutes. Unmold. Fill center with heated Wilson's Certified Chili Con Carne with Beans. Serve at once. Serves 4.

CHILI CON CARNE in RICE RING

Heat the contents of 1 can of Wilson's Certified Hot Tamales in a pan over hot water. When hot, unwrap and insert in finger rolls which have been split, toasted and well buttered with Wilson's Clear Brook Butter. Add a smear of Chili Sauce or Piccalilli if you feel that way about it. A mighty good snack for chilly evenings. Makes 7 hamburgers.

TO PRETTIFY A SALAD

Practically every salad is improved with Wilson's Savory Mayonnaise. To make your salads look their best, buy a small cake decorator and keep it filled at all times with this delicious mayonnaise. It takes no longer to put Wilson's Savory Mayonnaise on in attractive ribbons and rosettes than in everyday gobs and spoonfuls.

CHIPPED BEEF AND SCRAMBLED EGGS

Break into small pieces the contents of one jar of Wilson's Dried Beef. Saute medium-sized onion, finely chopped, in 2 tablespoons of Clear Brook Butter. When tender, add Chipped Beef and saute, stirring, until slightly frizzled. Remove from pan. Melt 1 tablespoon Clear Brook Butter in pan, add 1/2 cup milk and 4 whole Clear Brook Eggs. Cook, stirring constantly, until eggs are set but still soft and fluffy. Add Chipped Beef and onions when eggs are partly set. Serve at once on toast points or rusks. Serves 4.

It Will Be Color And More Color At Duke On Saturday

UNC AND WFC LEAVING HOME

State To Engage Furman In Night Game

Durham, Oct. 31—It will be color, color and more color at Durham Saturday.

Duke and Durham are throwing their annual joint party and the events are all slated to be bigger better and more unique than ever.

It will tie right in with the football game because Georgia Tech which will furnish the opposition for Duke in the big feature of the day, is now being called the most colorful football team in the country. The Blue Devils aren't the least colorful by any means.

Because "everyone loves a parade," Durham has really arranged one for Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Fifty floats have been entered and music will be furnished by 13 bands composed of something like 900 musicians. These bands will also have part in the program at the game and the prize-winning floats also will be on display in the stadium at half-time.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 31—No powerhouse like Tulane or aerial circus like TCU. Fordham is reportedly more like North Carolina's own medium-weight but first smart well-balanced and dangerous unit by ground and air, and all the signs point to a brilliant wide-open contest in New York Saturday.

The only trouble is, Fordham has beaten Carolina at its own game so far, out-smarting and out-manuevering Tulane 20 to 7 where Carolina lost a hard-luck 14-13 decision to the Green Wave. However, Saturday is another day, and the Tar Heels will be out to try the tables in spite of the odds favoring the eastern leaders.

Carolina supporters will parade down Park Avenue Saturday morning, according to arrangements announced today and there is a 10-minute pep rally, directed by Ex-Chief Leader Ray Kiser of band and radio fame and broadcast over the coast-to-coast network. Indications today were that between 500 and 1,000 would follow the team and band by special train and bus caravan.

Triple-threat Lorraine of Tulane and TCU fan meets in Edmund one of the nation's great backs. Lansing, who duels All-American Severin, is rated by Scout Dick Jamerson as the best end he has seen in two years. Dunkle led the nation's punters last year, but Blumstock kicked up to 63 yards last week. Sadoff and Filipowicz are the rival plunkers, and the latter is another fine passer to match Lorraine, who had the second best percentage in the country last year.

The Tar Heels, who were to take their last heavy drill today, were in good shape except for Center Carl Sunthemer and Dunkle, and both were expected to be ready Saturday.

Each Wolf has been stressing equally offense and defense, running and passing. Although Durham, which ranks with Cornell and Boston as top in the East, was a general favorite, all signs are that the Tar Heels were out to meet the Rams at their own open running, passing and kicking game.

The first string line which is being readied for the big test lists Severin, Slick, Nowell, Sunthemer

Wake Forest, Oct. 31.—The Deacons of Wake Forest, renewing a rivalry with George Washington Friday night of this week, after a lapse of two years, will hear out for the scene of their battle tonight by train with probably the strongest of any Wake team that ever opposed the Colonials.

The Deacons beat George Washington in 1935, 7-6 and lost to the Colonials 2-6 in 1934 and 12-13 in 1936. The 37 battle went to the C's 34-6. There were three mighty close ball games, but from the indications now, a tougher engagement is coming up Friday night.

If Coach Benhead Walker of Wake Forest could possibly muster a reserve squad capable of holding its own with most others, it could be said that the Deacons would probably play any club in the country a tough ball game. Last Saturday Duke they held their own beneath a hot sun for two periods but wilted before a three-team attack in the last half, yielding three touchdowns and finally losing 0-23. The 0-29 game at Clemson was somewhat a similar affair, but the wins over Win Jewell 79-0, North Carolina 12-0, Furman 19-0 and

Odd, But Science

WATER QUILT IS SLEEPING AID

(By Howard W. Blakeslee)
AP Science Editor

New York—Now that winter is arriving, word of a "hot-weather" water quilt comes along.

You sleep on top instead of under it. Tap water, diffusing slowly between its walls, produces the cooling effect. When the body heats it above the comfort level, valves controlled by a thermostat let additional cold water in and the warm water out.

An official of the firm manufacturing the pad, reports it has proven satisfactory at 104 degrees with humidity at 80.

It is necessary only to maintain a skin temperature of about 90 to 92 degrees, to be comfortable, he has found. Persons lose sleep above that point, body temperatures warming bed clothing until it causes perspiring.

Another advantage: You don't have to roll over to find a cool place on the sheets.

LETTER DESCRIBES WAR AS MORE OF A NUISANCE

"We went on with our work, then the same thing happened again. I had to laugh it was so funny to see all of those men going on the floor like a lot of kids."
"We collect and pass on funny stories to amuse ourselves and preserve our sanity."
An illustration of the jovial spirit which Britons are maintaining during the struggle was contained in a "Shrapnel Tea." Mr. Higgs after "requesting the pleasure of the company of a few shrapnel tea, to be held at the Centre of Big Field, French Coast View, Dover, daily until further notice," listed a program including "bombing, machine-gunning, A. A. shooting, cross-channel shelling, flaming balloons, air battles, Heinkel dropping and other sports provided, closing by a grand performance of John Bull's Masterpiece Rule Britannia by the Hurricane Spitfire band. Ambulances at 6:30 First aid free. Steel helmets optional."

CANDY TEAM TAKE LEADERS

Philip Saied Leads Bowlers With 329 Score

The Carolina Candy Co. bowlers handed the league-leading White Chevrolet team a three game setback last night in the local recreation center and dropped them into a tie for the second rung of the ladder while taking over the top seat themselves.
The Chevrolet bowlers were well off their regular game and the Candy Co. bowlers continued their good bowling by taking the first game of the match 547 to 476. Eugene Ward led the winners with a mark of 124 while runner-up honed up to Philip Saied with an even 100 mark. Ward dropped down to a score of 94 for the second game of the match. Norman again led the losers with a 103 score. Score for the second game stood at 488 to 478 for the Candy Co.
"Cabbage" Register led the winning Candy Co. in the last game with a 114 mark and Rosa Hatem took the runner-up honors. High score went to Lupton for the last game on the Chevrolet team. Combined score for the last game were 524 to 465 with the Candy Co. again coming across.
High Score for the night went to Philip Saied of the Candy Co. with a mark of 329.

Laval Wants Nazi Victory

Laval said the future of France depended on the friends she made at this time.
What happened when Hitler and Laval met near Paris or perhaps in the capital itself remains a secret, but all authorized sources agree it had more to do with the continuation of the present war than in trying to stop the conflict.
(Later Chief of State Pétain met Hitler and it was stated they agreed on the principle of collaboration for reconstructing the peace of Europe.)

FRIDAY-SATURDAY SLAM BANG!

SENSATIONAL WESTERN THAT'S GOT EVERYTHING!
Shoppers at the Thrift Shop come on the recommendation of the county welfare department, others sent by doctors, ministers and other informed and interested citizens who know of a persons needs, Mrs. Crisp told in explaining where their customers came from. Encouragement for the volunteers comes from the way customers return again and again. The independence of this group of our citizens is preserved by the way the help is extended; thus, in no way is their self respect impaired and they continue to feel themselves citizens of the community and not paupers on a dole. declared Mrs. Crisp in conclusion.
Tonight at 6:45 S. B. Underwood Jr. appears over WGTC in behalf of the community chest. He will bring the latest available figures together with his message. There will be only two more broadcasts for the chest after tonight—Friday and Saturday. On Saturday night Campaign Director Ryan will appear with the final figures and close the 1940 campaign for the budget of the community chest.

Stimson Draws The First Draft Number—158

There was a hushed silence in the departmental auditorium at Washington as Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, blindfolded, dipped his hand into a glass container and drew out a capsule containing No. 158 as the first number drawn in the nation's first peacetime draft lottery. Behind Stimson is Lieut. Col. Charles R. Morris, who applied the blindfold. At left waiting to hear the number called is President Roosevelt. In background is blackboard on which numbers will be posted.

REFLECTOR EDITOR EXPLAINS STATUS OF LOCAL DRAFTS

will be permitted to continue in your present capacity.
(d) If you are able bodied, without physical or mental defects, without dependents and do not otherwise come in one of the above mentioned classes you will be subject to a year's military training. The likely time you will be called upon by your board to report depends upon your standing in the order in which the numbers were drawn. If your number was drawn after the first 1,000 or 1,500 in the national drawing it is not likely that you will be called to report to your board under another year at least.
2. There are a lot of young men who have no grounds for exemption but whose number was drawn far down the list and the question being asked by them is whether or not they will be permitted to go ahead and enlist now for their year of service rather than wait until the draft board in its regular routine comes to their number. The answer is that if you are physically qualified you may enlist now for your year's service and national draft officials believe that so many young men will do this that it will be unnecessary to call for other draftees before early next year. If you are one of these young men, report to your draft board inform them of wishes to waive your regular standing in the list of registrants in order that you might enter service as early as possible and they will give you full instructions. This matter will have to be taken up with your draft board however instead of through the regular army recruiting offices.
(e) There are many registrants who are wondering if they should go to their draft boards immediately for information as to their standings in the order numbers, or to make claims for exemptions or to ask other questions regarding the likelihood of being called into service at an early date. The answer is NO. Do none of these things. Your draft boards are busy endeavoring to carry out their part of the program and the fewer questions they have to answer at this time the better position they will be in to do their jobs well with a minimum of confusion. For the time being you go right ahead with your daily affairs and occupations and take no steps whatever until you receive notice from your draft board.

The next steps for the draft boards which will govern your future actions are as follows:

(a) The official draft order numbers will not be in the hands of our local boards until early next week and after receipt of these numbers each registrant will be placed in his proper place on the list.
(b) After assigning order numbers to each of the registrants the boards will mail out 50 questionnaires, one to each of the first 50 men on the lists. This procedure will be followed with 50 each day. These questionnaires will contain questions covering the life history of the registrant, including occupations, education, religious objections to war, physical or mental defects and all other matters pertaining to the life and habits of the registrants. All information contained in the filled out questionnaires will of course be confidential government records. Upon receipt of the questionnaire the registrant MUST truthfully answer each and every question, have the document sworn to by some officer authorized to administer an oath and return the questionnaire to the board within five days. Willful failure on the part of the registrant to do this subjects him to punishment by fine and imprisonment. The questionnaires will be mailed to the applicants at the addresses shown on their registration cards and the burden is then that of the registrant. Failure to receive the questionnaire will not be accepted as a justifiable reason for non-compliance with this provision of the law.
(c) When the questionnaires are received by the board from the registrants they will be carefully stud-led and classified as follows:

Class One—Includes men who are available for induction into the armed forces of the United States.
Class Two—Includes those whose induction is deferred because of the importance to the nation of the service they are rendering in their civilian activities.
Class Three — Includes those whose induction is deferred because they have persons dependent upon them for support.
Class Four—Includes those whose induction is deferred by law and those unfit for military service.
After the classifications have been made you will receive notice from your board of your classification and if you do not feel that you have been properly classified you will have the opportunity to appeal the matter to the appeal board.
(d) After classification, those men included in Class One will be placed in order according to their positions in the national drawing and it is in this order that they will be called before the board for physical examination when the call to furnish men from this county is received by the local boards.
As stated in the beginning I have tried to get these facts for you in order that you might save your own time and that of the draft board by not flooding them with questions at this time. If there are still other questions in your mind I will be glad to have them mailed direct in this paper and an effort will be made to obtain the correct answers and publish them in order that you and all others concerned might have all possible information of the subject.

Still In Serious Condition
Herann Norris, young Greenville man who is in a Wilson hospital suffering injuries he received in an automobile wreck Tuesday afternoon, continues in a serious condition. The local man has regained consciousness, but is still in a critical condition with a fractured skull, broken leg and arm and other injuries.

Increase Noted In State Collections
Raleigh, Oct. 31.—(AP)—State revenue collections for the fiscal year totaled $23,315,552.51 up to today, revenue commissioner A. J. Maxwell reported this afternoon.
The receipts were $6.52 greater than the $21,888,536.90 for the first four months of the last fiscal year.
October receipts dropped two-tenths of one per cent under Oct. 1939, totals being $5,221,482.29 this month and $5,232,181.89 a year ago. Sales tax receipts were almost $100,000 higher this month than year ago, $1,105,637.83, compared with $1,005,918.19.
Gasoline tax receipts for the month were $2,463,605.01, compared with $2,278,747.34 a year ago.
