BRITAIN PLEDGES UTMOST AID; GREEKS HOLD FAST

LARGEST VOTE PREDICTED IN STATE HISTORY

Wonderful Victory Seen By Democratic Chairman Denny

MORNING RUSH AT MANY PLACES

Record National And State Democratic Majority Seen By Broughton After Voting

Raleigh, Nov. 5.—(AP)—North Carolinians voted this morning in record numbers at many places and mid-day reports led State Democratic Chairman E. B. Denny to forecast a "wonderful victory with a record vote."

Veteran precinct officials in Raleigh said they had never seen anything before like the early turnout of voters. Some precincts had lines of 50 to 100 voters waiting at sunrise and the number of waiting voters grew instead of diminishing.

At Burlington election officials reported that polling places throughout Alamance county were jammed with voters in record numbers.

Governor Hoey said he had reports that an exceptionally large record vote was being cast in Ashe, Haywood, Buncombe, Rowan, Forsyth and Davidson counties. He said it would not be surprising to see the state roll up a Democratic majority in excess of the 392,000 given President Roosevelt four years ago.

Chairman Denny said word from Mecklenburg county was that "the early voters there far outnumbered those for any previous election."

A check of Charlotte precincts showed more than 7,000 votes cast at 10 o'clock and estimates for the county for the total vote ranged as high as 30,000 to 40,000. J. Melville Broughton, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate cast his ballot at 10:28 this morning at his home precinct here. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss Alice Broughton, who was a first voter.

Nazis Night Raids Penetrate Defense

London, Nov. 5.—(AP)—German bombs sent London's millions to shelters early tonight after Nazi raiders had tried vainly in daylight to fight past planes defending the capital.

Three of the raiders whose attempts to bomb London caused four brief daylight alarms were shot down by the Air Ministry said.

Expanding bombs were heard above the heavy rumble of gunfire at the beginning of the evening raid.

The German planes apparently were shot down when they tangled with the Royal Air Force high over the southeast coast as the Nazis resumed formation attacks after a night of wide-ranging "lone-wolf" assaults. The Air Ministry said three British planes were destroyed, but the pilots were saved.

Each side lost one plane, the communiqué said, but day and night attacks also were made throughout the British Isles, "despite continued unfavorable weather."

Nutbush Solid

Raleigh, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Twenty-four voters registered, 24 votes for President Roosevelt and 24 votes for J. M. Broughton, Democratic nominee for governor.

That was the count from Vance county's tiny Nutbush precinct, the first election district in North Carolina to report on today's general election.

All of Nutbush's registered voters had cast ballots by 8:54 a. m., and precinct officials announced the result at 8:59, retaining for Nutbush its year's reputation of being the first North Carolina precinct to report on an election.

Here's Some Straws In Election Wind To Watch

Loss of N. Y. or Penn. Would Be Dangerous To Willkie

By The Associated Press

New York is usually on the winner's side. Its loss by Willkie would be dangerous. Roosevelt could get by without it. Three times since the Civil war its electoral vote went to the loser, the last time in 1916, when it voted for Hughes and Wilson won.

Pennsylvania—Another state Willkie can not well afford to lose. A Roosevelt majority here would spell almost certain victory. The state has voted Democratic in a presidential race only once since the Civil war—four years ago when it swung to Roosevelt.

Maryland—its vote has been in the winner's column in every presidential race since 1888. California—A Willkie victory here would upset strong Democratic hopes and indicate a possible Republican victory.

Ohio and North Dakota—have hit the winner ever since 1892. Kansas and Wyoming—On the winner's side since 1896. Idaho and Missouri—Have not missed since 1900.

Nazis Claim Hits On Many Targets

Berlin, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The night-long hail of more than 1,500 bombs of "all calibers" on London and hits on important targets from southern England to Scotland were reported by the German high command today.

London again was the main objective last night, the communiqué said, but day and night attacks also were made throughout the British Isles, "despite continued unfavorable weather."

British Ships In Atlantic Attacked

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A British passenger liner and a freighter were reported being shelled by an enemy ship today midway in the North Atlantic in messages intercepted by Mackay radio.

One message said the 16,698-ton passenger liner Rangitiki, lately used as a transport to remove British children from war zones, was "being guided by enemy ships of the Graf Spee class" about half way between Ireland and Newfoundland.

An hour and a half later there came another message reporting an attack upon the Cornish City, a 4,952-ton freighter which has been plying between England and the United States.

First Returns on Presidential Balloting Come From New England States And South, With Former Favoring Willkie And Southern Precincts Strongly Favoring Roosevelt

(By The Associated Press)

A band of rainfall moved eastward across some of the central states this election day, stirring speculation that forecasts of a record vote of almost 50,000,000 might not be realized, but reports of lifting rain threats and heavy voting came from other areas.

First returns from the presidential balloting came from New England and the South.

The first two towns in New Hampshire to report gave Willkie 27 votes, President Roosevelt 12 and the first two in Massachusetts gave Willkie 172, President Roosevelt 21.

Among the early reporters, Nutbush precinct in North Carolina gave all its 24 votes to Mr. Roosevelt.

In the deep South, Alabama's first count of absentee ballots in Montgomery county gave the President 660 votes and the Republican nominee five.

Unofficial returns gathered from election judges at Houston, Texas, gave President Roosevelt 2,026 votes, incomplete balloting from 47 of 149 precincts. Willkie's total was 372.

The village of Point Aux Barques, traditionally the first Michigan community to report, gave Willkie 13 votes to two for President Roosevelt.

Incomplete unofficial returns from three precincts in Springfield, Mo., gave Willkie 116 votes to 77 for President Roosevelt. The unofficial incomplete votes of one normally Democratic precinct at Poplar Bluff, Mo., gave Willkie 31, Roosevelt 19.

Miss. showed a firm division of opinion. Roosevelt and Willkie each received 12 votes.

At 7 a. m. EST, the weather bureau reported it was raining moderately in Ohio and Illinois and at Detroit. Rain was forecast also later today in western Pennsylvania and tonight in western New York.

The band of rain extended also through South Dakota and into Wyoming.

By The Associated Press

The voters of the United States rendered their decision today in the free election of a democracy.

In thousands of polling places throughout the great breadth of the nation they cast the millions of ballots which determine whether Franklin D. Roosevelt or Wendell L. Willkie will be the country's next President.

All signs pointed to a record outpouring of almost 50,000,000 votes, but recent weather forecasts were not encouraging for all portions of the country.

PRINCIPALS IN 1940 ELECTION CAST BALLOTS

Roosevelt 292nd Voter In Village Of Hyde Park

WILLKIE LAUDED AT N. Y. PRECINCT

Farley Observes "It Looks Like A Democratic Victory" As He And Mrs. Farley Cast Vote

Hyde Park, Nov. 5.—(AP) President Roosevelt cast his vote at 12:20 p. m., EST, today in the white frame town hall of Hyde Park.

As the 292nd voter in his election district, he spent exactly 65 seconds behind the green curtains of the booth.

His 86-year-old mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, and his wife, who gave her name as Anna E. Roosevelt, voted a few minutes later.

Mr. Roosevelt stepped up to a railing and with a smile at the election board remarked: "Good morning, how is everybody?"

"Fine, name please?" answered Mrs. Emma Crapser, chairman of the board and a Hyde Park housewife.

"Franklin D. Roosevelt." "Franklin D. Roosevelt. Number 292. Please sign here."

Omitted was the usual question about the President's occupation and his usual reply that he is a farmer.

As he left the hall the President told the election board: "You've got a long day. Nine o'clock isn't it?" (when the polls close). "Give me a report as soon as you can."

His vote cast, the President waited "in full confidence of vindication of the principles and policies on which we have fought the campaign" for his fellow citizens to determine whether he should be returned to the White House for a precedent setting third term.

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie cast his ballot at public school six Madison avenue at 8:57 street, at 9:42 a. m. EST, today.

Asked by a radio announcer how he was going to vote, he replied "straight Republican." In answer to a question by an election clerk, he gave his occupation as "lawyer."

He went into the voting booth to the cheers of a crowd of several hundred persons. Mrs. Willkie had preceded him.

"I hope everybody, irrespective of how they vote, votes today," the candidate remarked into a microphone.

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—James A. Farley said "it looks like a Democratic victory" when he and Mrs. Farley voted today at the same polling place where Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Willkie later cast their votes.

The former Democratic national chairman, an unsuccessful candidate for the party's presidential nomination, added:

"But I don't see how we can tell very early about the results with the polls in this state remaining open until 9 p. m. We should know about midnight, however."

Filibustering And Eating!

Nineteen-year-old Edward Devlin, freshman of the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa, is engaged in a self-styled 66-hour filibuster for the re-election of President Roosevelt—but just the same, a feller's got to eat. And so the persistent young speaker, who hails from Atlantic City, N. J., does justice to a bit of food without missing a word.

PLANS SET FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Parade And Address By Mr. Humber To Be Features

The 22nd annual observance of Armistice Day will be staged here Monday with a program featured by a parade which will disband at the college, where the feature of the day, an address by Robert Lee Humber, prominent native of this city who only recently has returned here from France, will be delivered.

The program will be followed by a barbecue dinner to be served on the college grounds.

All ex-service men in the county are invited to join members of the American Legion in the program.

The parade will include members of the Greenville and Farmville Legion posts, probably Girl and Boy Scouts and members of the local Negro post. The parade will be led by the Greenville High School band. The local Negro post, led by its own band, will participate in the parade which will form at the Norfolk Southern depot, proceed down Dickinson avenue to Evans street and then to Third street. At this point the colored Legionnaires will turn west and proceed to their quarters on Albemarle avenue. The remaining participants in the parade will march down East Third street on Catawbe to Fifth and thence to the college. The colored legionnaires will have their own barbecue dinner at the Pythian hall on Albemarle avenue, but no formal program has been arranged.

A complete program is being worked out for the college but the feature of the day will be an address by Dr. Humber.

Officials and members of the post consider the committee fortunate in securing the services of the local man. The public is invited to hear his address, to be delivered in the college auditorium.

Brown-Wood Secures Departmental Heads

Officials of the Brown-Wood company, now located at 635 Dickenson avenue, today announced that the firm had secured the franchise as distributor for Dodge and Plymouth automobiles and also disclosed that they had made important additions to the personnel.

J. Reid Gaskins has been employed as manager, J. Lindsay Savage as service manager and J. T. Skinner as assistant service manager.

Old members of the company, as well as those whose services have just been secured, invite their friends to visit them and see the beautiful new cars.

J. H. Rose Has Three Nov. 11 Engagements

J. H. Rose, former commander of the North Carolina Department, American Legion, will not find time to attend the Armistice Day observance to be held in Greenville Monday.

Future Aims For Britain Are Stated

Churchill Serves Notice Of Impending Campaigns Of 1943 And 1944; Declares Mounting U-Boat Campaign Of Greater Concern Than German Aerial Siege

By The Associated Press

With Greece reported holding fast against Italy's invasion machine, Prime Minister Winston Churchill pledged Britain's "utmost" aid to the little kingdom today and served notice of impending British "campaigns of 1943 and 1944."

Addressing the House of Commons, Churchill disclosed that the British death toll from German air raids so far has reached 14,000 civilians and 300 soldiers.

Britain, he said, has more to fear from the mounting U-boat campaign than from the aerial siege. Churchill declared that vigilance had changed the invasion danger to the "invasion scare"—following the systematic Royal Air Force bombing of Nazi channel bases.

But, he said, amid a rising toll of ship sinkings, the inability to use neutral Irish ports to fight the German submarine blockade constitutes "a heavy and grievous burden" on the navy.

As to Greece, Churchill said a British naval and air base already has been established in Crete and he added, "I can only say now that we shall do our best."

Greek quarters said the Italian war machine was stalled all along the snow-banked mountain front in the nine-day-old Balkan conflict.

Defenders of Greece had cut off 4,000 Fascist troops behind the lines. Greek dispatches said, and trapped 30,000 other Italian soldiers in the siege of Koritza, key supply base in Italian conquered Albania.

Greek heavy artillery, firing from heights seized in fierce bayonet charges, was reported shelling the encircled city. Yugoslavian dispatches said the civilian population was withdrawing.

The Greeks also were said to have captured the Albanian town of Biglistra, three miles northwest of the frontier on the road to Koritza.

In the face of these Greek claimed successes, Premier Mussolini's high command asserted that despite bad weather bogging roads, the two main thrusts toward Florina and Ioannina were still showing "progress."

"Lone wolf" attacks by Nazi raiders last night sent Londoners back to shelters after 24 hours of respite from bombing.

The renewed overnight attack extended over England, Scotland and Wales. A British communiqué said the raids were "widespread and on a fairly heavy scale," but caused few casualties and no great damage.

Meanwhile, the RAF also hampered by continued adverse weather, was reported to have struck against the German-held ports along the coast of France and German airbases in the occupied areas of France.

Grifton WPA Project Given Final Approval

Herbert Bonner who will become representative from the first district tomorrow night announced today that he had been informed by the WPA that the President had approved a project for the construction of a water and sewerage system at Grifton in Pitt county with a federal allotment of $38,211. It was sponsored by the town of Grifton.

Clark-Allgood.
Of interest throughout the state was the wedding of Miss Alice Allgood of Fayetteville, and George A. Clark, Jr., of Greenville, which took place in St. John's Episcopal Church in Fayetteville, at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, November 2nd. The Rev. Howard Allgood, father of the bride officiated, assisted by Rev. W. Tate Young.

The church stalls were banked with greenery and white chrysanthemums. The altar was decorated with two large altar-vases filled with white chrysanthemums and flanked by seven-branched candelabra of burning white cathedral tapers. White satin ribbon streamers were used on the seats reserved for the families.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Cordelia Spears, organist, presented a program of nuptial music. Mrs. Faison Butler, soloist, sang "O Perfect Love" by Bomby. The traditional wedding marches were used.

First to enter the church were the ushers who took their places at the foot of the chancel. Ushers were Preston Clark, brother of the groom, Charles Clark, W. C. Clark, Jr., cousins of the groom, Charles Gaskins and Carl Pierce, Jr., all of Greenville, and Paul Allgood of Fayetteville, brother of the bride.

Miss Harriet Marshburn of Wilmington, former college room-mate of the bride, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of candle-light blue taffeta, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, short puffed sleeves with full skirt. Tiny buttons extended from the back of the neck to the waist. She wore a matching headpiece of net with a small setting of flowers matching her bouquet. She carried an arm bouquet of white snow face chrysanthemums. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bride.

The bride entered the church with her brother, Howard Allgood, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a bridal satin wedding gown with sweetheart neckline. The long sleeves were puffed at the shoulder and fitted from the elbow to the waist. The full skirt extended into a train. Tiny satin covered buttons extended from the neckline to the waist. She wore a long veil of illusion. The headpiece was coronet shaped, trimmed with pearly orange blossoms, and she wore a face veil. The bride's bouquet was of valley lilies centered with white bridal roses. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls.

The groom was attended by his brother, Baxter Clark, of Washington, D. C. and Greenville, N. C.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Clark left on a wedding trip to an unannounced destination. For traveling, Mrs. Clark wore a sport suit of blue and gray, touched with rose. Her hat was of soldier boy blue with brown suede accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses taken from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Clark is the only daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Howard Allgood of Fayetteville. She is a graduate of Fayetteville high school and received her Bachelor of Arts degree at East Carolina Teachers College.

Mr. Clark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Clark of Greenville. He is connected with the Post Office department.

Following the Clark-Allgood wedding rehearsal Friday night, Rev. and Mrs. Howard Allgood entertained members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a delightful cake-cutting party. The home was beautifully decorated with occasional cut flowers. The appointed table was centered with a crystal candelabra; the white wedding cake was ornamented with the traditional miniature bride and groom with green and white ribbons extended from the cake denoting the placement of the cake favors. Ice cream in the bridal colors was served.

Guests included: George A. Clark, Jr., Baxter Clark, Charles Clark, Preston Clark, Miss Margaret Clark and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Clark, Jr., of Greenville; Misses Harriet Marshburn and Frances Sutherland of Wilmington; Miss Jeannet Early of Ahsokie; Mr. and Mrs. Faison Butler of Roseboro; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allgood, Howard Allgood, Miss Sarah Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Lucy Godwin of Fayetteville.

Ripe Apples Stay On Tree
Columbus, O.—(AP)—A hormone spray that tends to prevent ripe apples from dropping for several weeks has proved efficient in tests by Ohio growers, the state department of agriculture reports.

Used during the ripening period, the spray gives fruit a chance to acquire better color and flavor, the report said. Cost of the spray was estimated by F. G. Haskins, Lake county agricultural agent, at from 1 1/2 to 2 cents a gallon.

Footsteps To More Foot Comfort

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

This is a good time of year to start improving your skin, to protect not only your face and hands but also your body and feet.

More than likely you've abused your feet by wearing sandals that didn't fit well during the summer.

If you have foot trouble that amounts to inflammation or pain you should go straight to a foot specialist.

Don't Ignore It
But you will be inclined to let little things go. You'll ignore that throbbing at heel or toe and try to forget how often your instep hurts. If you do you'll be making a mistake.

Get rid of callouses by rubbing them with pumice stone. Regular scrubbing with your body brush will help them more than you probably realize. If the callouses get sore rub them with mentholated cream each night.

Old Idea Still Good
If you want to feel a lot younger after a hard day, the old, old idea of bathing feet in epsom salts water is still good. Then rub them with that night cream before you snatch a nap and wipe them with a towel when you get up to dress for the evening. Don't forget to use some talcum powder or foot powder on your feet and in your shoes, especially if you're planning to have a good time after a long day.

In winter it's just as important to put a lubricating cream on your feet and in your shoes, especially if you're planning to have a good time after a long day.

There are many fine passenger trains in the U. S. but only three are named for women. They are Nellie, Bly, Ann Rutledge, and Pocahontas. Nellie was a newspaper woman who established a record by going around the world (in 1889) in 72 1/4 days. Ann Rutledge was an inn-keeper's daughter whose name is linked romantically with Lincoln. Pocahontas was the Indian girl who saved Capt. John Smith's life. But only the "Nellie Bly" touches New York. It plies between Manhattan and Atlantic City.

The general release of "Gone With the Wind" is supposed to take place sometime in January, and MGM says not one foot of the original will be cut. It'll be booked into theaters at about half the road show fare.

HAMMER AWAY AT MARKETING

Agriculture Department Stresses Importance

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Nov. 4.—The State Department of Agriculture continues to hammer away at the marketing situation in North Carolina.

This time it's advice to the peach growers to whom this season "brought fairly satisfactory results," given by Buxton White, a marketing specialist of the Department who also is treasurer of the North Carolina division of the Georgia-Carolina Peach Marketing board.

Mr. White, after making a "deliberate mature final analysis of the situation" feels that growers "should take recognition of the value of the cooperative merchandising campaign" as provided by the board.

In accordance with the views of the Agriculture Department and which have been stressed on every possible occasion he emphasized the necessity for "strict adherence to grade standards for quality and pack and adequate provisions for promotion and merchandising."

Referring to the past peach season Mr. White said:

"Experienced peach men never saw a similar season."

He detailed at length some of the factors which made the season thus unique.

"The condition of peaches in North Carolina, according to the Crop Reporting Service, declined from 76 per cent of a full crop on April 1 to 31 per cent of a full crop on May 1, principally as the result of a freeze from April 10 to 14. A crop of 952,000 bushels was indicated—a reduction of more than a fourth from last year's small crop—and was expected to be the shortest crop for the state since 1923," relates Mr. White.

But that was only the beginning of the weather's vagaries, according to the story told by the marketing expert.

"By June 1, peach prospects for the state had improved considerably," he continued. "The drop had been unusually light and freeze damage proved to be less severe than reported earlier. North Carolina production had been raised by the estimates, to 1,250,000 bushels, only three per cent under the previous year."

"North Carolina was estimated at 1,176,000 bushels on August 1, the lowest production since 1923, as compared with 1,305,000 the previous year."

"The season was abnormally late. The first car was shipped from the state on July 12 while in 1939 the season was well advanced at that time. Daily carlot movement did not reach ten cars until July 30, nearly three weeks after the first car moved."

"The weather was unusually hot during the latter part of July and extremely dry. Fruit would not ripen normally. Experienced peach men had never seen a similar season. Picking was prolonged and difficult with increased harvest expense. Size was retarded by the drought and quality as a whole disappointed earlier expectations."

According to Mr. White the Tar Heel growers did get a break of sorts in this delay in crop marketing.

"Since both Georgia and Arkansas were practically cleaned up before the Carolinas reached their peak movement the lateness of the heavy shipping period proved a favorable factor," he said.

Summing up he said:

"As a whole the season brought fairly satisfactory results to those favored growers who escaped loss of their crop by freeze injury, but not without disappointment to many early anticipations of yield, quality and price. The abnormally dry period before harvest served as a curse to size and quality, but the resulting lateness was a blessing in the avoidance of competitive bunching of peak movements. While fondest hopes were seldom, if ever, realized, the season of 1940 should go down in history as a fairly successful one for those orchards which make a crop."

North Carolina's Tourist Dollar is shared by Everybody

Stimulated by the Advertising Program of the Department of Conservation and Development, a $100,000,000 Tourist Industry in which everybody shares is flourishing in North Carolina.

On the basis of conservative estimates by the Department checked against findings of the U. S. Department of Commerce and the U. S. Travel Bureau, the $100,000,000 which visitors spend in North Carolina annually is distributed in accordance with the above chart.

Since all of these groups must spend this money for their own needs, the huge bonus which visitors pay annually to enjoy the attractions of North Carolina is quickly distributed among all lines of business and agriculture. Everybody shares in the benefits. The Advertising Campaign was launched in 1937. At the end of the first year, it was estimated that automobile tourists spent $64,000,000 in North Carolina.

At the end of the second year, $100,000,000 was pouring into North Carolina from this source. If you would like additional facts on what the North Carolina Advertising Program is doing for the State, write

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

GROWTH AND LIFE ARE SYNONYMOUS

We sometimes wonder as we read the gospels why Jesus made such a point of disregarding the religious leaders of His time and associating with publicans, sinners, and the lower element in general.

The reason, as we quickly learn from a discriminating reading of the New Testament, was that our Lord had more respect for a thoroughly bad man who had in him any disposition whatever to do better, than He did for the best man in the world who had stopped growing. The scribes and Pharisees considered their theology so sound and their characters so perfect that there was nothing left for them to do but to contemplate the result of their handiwork with deep satisfaction. But the publican who beat his breast and cried, "God be merciful to me a sinner," knew how imperfect he was, according to the standards of God, and through that very knowledge had turned his face in the direction of better things.

To this very hour the question which Christ asks every believer is not how good he is but what is the drift of his life. Our Lord is not interested in our moral standing but in our aspiration. He loved everything that grew. He frequently employed the figure of the seed to set forth the nature of His kingdom.

YOUR PRESIDENT AND MINE

The voting at the polls throughout the nation today brings to an end a bitter political campaign, but no matter what the outcome, the winner will be the choice of the people and he will thereafter be your President and mine. It is Democracy that enables us to freely state our likes and dislikes during a political campaign, but when the people have spoken and made their choice all of us should then be Americans first, instead of partisans, and as Americans should unite our efforts for the common good.

No matter whether your candidate won or lost, the campaign is now over and the President is YOUR President just the same as those who supported his candidacy. Right now the problems that America faces call for unity and strength of our nation and only as true Americans can we look to the future and hope to succeed. We repeat, the campaign is over, so let's forget our political differences and get down to business as Americans should.

Shake Hands, Boys

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinson

Washington—Taking for granted that you know your selectee of today, this is second of two articles designed to demonstrate how different (or how much the same) he is from his drafted brother of 23 years ago. Here's what the copy-scriber of 1917 was thinking about and doing:

James Ten Eyck had just staggered the thought of human endurance by rowing 150 miles up the Hudson from New York to Albany without rest. Hazel Cunningham put an exclamation point after that by swimming the Golden Gate. There were bombings in a Chicago theater; in a Milwaukee church (the bomb didn't explode, however, until it had been transferred to the police station where 10 persons were killed); in the governor's mansion in Sacramento, Calif.; in a church in St. Paul; in an express company package in Sea Bright, N. J.; in a railroad car in Windsor, N. D.; and in a petticoat factory in Queens on Long Island.

A fellow named Harold R. Peat caused a sort of "Gone With the Wind" sensation by coming out with a book called "Private Peat."

The big railroad strike was in the making, with 19 Chicago railroads' workers threatening to do something about it unless the [NY envelope] were fattened.

Pershing Promoted

Gen. John J. (Black Jack) Pershing was made General by an act of Congress. He forbade the soldiers in France to drink anything stronger than light wines and beer. And caught it from both sides. The prohibitionists claiming he had violated the holy dictum of the Fifteenth Amendment in the Constitution (which was still in process of ratification) by permitting the boys to drink anything stronger than sarsaparilla. And the boys grumbled that they couldn't fight on beer and sherry. More than 2,000 saloons closed in New York because of taxes, and the "father" of prohibition, Sen. Morris Sheppard of Texas, predicted the all-time death of Demon Rum by the spring of 1918.

Rabb. Stephen S. Wise urged women's suffrage because it would make the world safe for peace. But in Washington scores of suffragettes were sent to the workhouse at Oceanquan for picketing the White House. And trouble broke out then because the ladies went on hunger strikes, claimed they were brutally mistreated. And sent for the consideration and privilege of "political prisoners."

Songs Of The Fra

If you couldn't sing "K-K-Kat-tin," "There's A Long Long Trail," "Pack Up Your Troubles," and "Tippin' My Yams Home," you couldn't sing Jesse L. Williams' couldn't sing the shocking drama called "Why Marry?" and the bedroom farce era was well under way with "Parlor Bedroom and Bath." Sir Arthur Guy Empey's "Over the Top" was selling more copies than the Bible. Ethel Barrymore was giving Broadway a successful revival of "The Lady of the Camelias" and a couple of rents named Victor Herbert and Jerome Kern had turned out a tuneless bit called "Miss 1917."

Short Shots

Raleigh, Nov. 5.—On occasion, this corner has said some hard things about Chairman Frank Dunlap of the Highway and Public Works Commission—especially with reference to his failure, or refusal, or inability to give newspapermen legitimate information concerning the doings of his department.

In the future this corner will not hesitate to say the same things if the facts seem to warrant their being said; but as of this writing there has been a marked change in the Dunlap attitude. "Cap" (as he is known to some of his intimates) used to be the toughest nut in Raleigh to crack; and he's not altogether a bubbling spring of information and detail yet.

At least, however, he has executed enough of an about face to get out of the "clam" category. At times he's really affable, and at no time recently has your reporter found him hard to talk to in a friendly manner.

So, an orchid to Chairman Dunlap—and by the same token, about half a dozen orchids to Bill Jones, unobtrusive publicity man for the Highway Commission. Bill is without question the reason for the altered Mr. Dunlap.

Jones was named on direct orders of the Governor—at least it was an action alleging damages to the upon direct advice of Clyde R. Hoey, Holston Orchards from construction that the Commission put a press of the Blue Ridge Parkway. Supreme man on its pay rolls; though Jones was not handpicked by the state's chief executive.

Bill doesn't sent out a lot of trashy releases filled with laudation of heavy damages to a Little Switzer-

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

By Pitt Moffat Hanson

Chapter 35 The Orchid Door

TEMU opened his eyes in the morning to find Lynn sitting beside him and a Mongol guard at the door. Healthy color had returned to his face. His hands and feet were bound.

"I thought it best," she said. He made no remonstrance. A man came in bearing a basin of water and a shaving kit.

"I'll fetch your breakfast," Lynn said and left. His quietness had surprised her. But then, he was always surprising her, and she remembered that acceptance is part of the philosophy of the East.

When she returned, he was standing up, looking ruefully at the bonds on his ankles and wrists.

"Now," he said, "I know how a hobbled horse feels."

"Does that mean you will never hobble a horse again?" she asked.

"It means that I will never get into this kind of a predicament again if I can help it. What are you planning to do with me?"

"Hold you prisoner for a while." She had the guard bring in a camp box for Temu to sit on. She stood at his side and fed him cheese and tea and candied persimmons.

He bit her fingers and they were soon laughing together. "I'm helpless, tell me your plans," he coaxed.

"For one thing, I'm going to Delun."

"So I have always maintained," he jested.

"But I am going of my own free will," she reminded him.

He looked at her with his clear, tea-colored eyes. "So you are, Tara Lynn."

"Chin Pak and I are riding on ahead to find out what luck Dick and the Duke of Sachto have had."

"I hope it's rotten," he grinned. "Your hopes don't seem to be coming true lately." She sobered.

"I'll tell you this—if I have my way your Prince shall not be harmed. Neither shall he be imprisoned. I wonder if he would prefer to live in Paris or America."

Temu spoke sadly. "I surmise he would prefer not to live at all."

With his cheek, he caught her hand against his shoulder in the only caress he was free to give her. "I love to hear you talk, Tara Lynn. I wish I could put my arms around you."

She met his eyes and some imp of perversity prompted her. "I notice," she said, "that you wait till your hands are bound before you make that statement."

Lynn felt the next instant as if she had ignited a powder keg. With one motion Temu rose, burst the bonds on his wrists, took her in his embrace and kissed her face with kisses. At first his violence frightened her. Then, when she had ceased resisting him they clung together for a moment, that opened into paradise. She broke away and ran to the door.

"Bind the prisoner's hands," she directed the guard. "He has broken the cords."

She did not go near his tent again. In half an hour she and Chin Pak were on their way. They arrived in Dorchi that night at dusk.

"Do you know the house where my brother and the Duke were to establish headquarters?" she asked Chin Pak.

"I show you," he said.

The town was a great trading station, with a motor road reaching to Delun and caravan trails branching out to Tibet, to India, to Sinkiang, to Russia, and across Gobi to the Pacific Ocean. About it were irrigated farms and orchards. The streets of the town hummed with an unusual activity, the hum of holiday or successful revolution.

Magnificence CHIN PAK conducted Lynn to a semi-foreign house inside a walled garden. As Chinese servants met them and bowed her in, he disappeared. She stepped in alone and felt rather lost. The servants could not talk to her or she to them. She longed for Little Bamboo and Gersing. Presently, walking through the rooms all elaborately furnished, she spied on a massive, rosewood table a pair of gloves that she had seen Dick wearing. She realized he must have been here recently. A servant brought her a note from Chin Pak.

"We are success as planned. You go palace by morning. Wear Chinese dress. Servants know. I come. Reverence.—Chin Pak."

Lynn interpreted the note as best she could. Tomorrow would tell the tale if she were to have any power against her brother or not. And if not, what a tragedy her coming had brought to Sherdock, to Temu, and the Prince!

Despite firm intentions she woke very late the next morning and was dressed by servants who had feared to disturb her. Donning the Chinese dress was a slow and maddening process. After the bath and the painting and the powdering that made her look like an Oriental doll, they wound her from armpit to hip in bias folds of strong white silk and covered this with a trouser suit of heliotrope satin. They drew

OFFER SERVICE FOR BUILDING

Farm Construction Plans Available From Agents

Raleigh, Nov. 4.—Facilities for an improved service of free building plans for North Carolina farm people through their county farm and home agents were announced today by Prof. David S. Weaver, Extension specialist and head of the Department of Agricultural Engineering at N. C. State College. He referred especially to a new illustrated book of 150 plans for farm buildings and equipment adapted to the Southern states which has been prepared in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Prof. Weaver was chairman of a committee of the American Society and Agricultural Engineers which met in Atlanta, Ga., in June, 1937, to select from the 1,500 or more plans being distributed by colleges of the 12 Southern states a set generally adapted to this section. When the final selections were made, the U. S. D. A. agreed to make master drawings of the plans and to distribute to county farm agents books illustrating the plans.

"With the new plans, and many others drawn during the past year especially for North Carolina conditions by our Extension architect James H. Walsh, we are better prepared than ever to serve Tar Heel farm people," Prof. Weaver declared. He emphasized, however, that all requests for blueprints must be made through county farm and home agents.

"This will eliminate extended correspondence," he said, "because we have, for instance, 75 farm dwellings in the new U. S. D. A. list and 52 farm dwellings in our North Carolina list. They range from two to eight room houses. When a farmer writes in for a set of plans for a dwelling, we seldom have any way of knowing which of the 67 blueprints to send him."

No Fun At All Tola, Kas.—(AP)—Winfield Jones blazed away at a flock of ducks. One fell. He ran to get another shot at those on the wing. When he came back a big hawk was just flying away with the one he had killed.

BERN IS CENTER FOR COURIERS OF U. S. EMISSARIES

Bern, Switzerland.—(AP)—The iron gate of the United States legation at Bern swings open several times each week to admit travel-weary young men bearing sealed gray sacks toward which their manner is something akin to that of a mother hen toward her chicks. They deposit their burdens and hasten off for a shave, a thick Swiss steak, a stroll through Bern's sedate but well-lighted streets and a night's sleep in an innoble bed.

Next day, surrounded by motley bulging sacks, they will be rolling off to distant frontiers, through countries where no lights glow at night, where air raids may halt trains and where food rationing makes thick steaks rare indeed.

The gray sacks are the diplomatic pouches of the United States Department of State. They are stuffed with the reports which influence

Farley's Phantoms Tangle with New Bern Bears Friday

CRAVEN BOYS SEEK REVENGE

Local Highs Expect One of Season's Toughest Tilts

By C. B. Rowlett
Nobody knows exactly what to expect when the Greenville High School Phantoms tangle with the New Bern Bears Friday night in the Guy Smith Stadium. Game time is set at eight o'clock.

One thing is certain it will be a hard battle for either team as the Greens are looking for a win after the 19-2 shellacking handed them by Elizabeth City last week and New Bern will be looking for revenge for the 34-0 licking handed them by the "39" Phantoms.

It seems from this year's scores and records that there is a great improvement over the New Bern team from last year to this year. The Bears held the powerful Goldsboro Earthquakes to a tie and the Earthquakes slapped a 6-0 smarlino on the Phantoms.

The Phantoms which carry the lightest line and backfield of any team in the conference have had a rather disastrous season thus far but of the remaining three games the odds are with the local high. Three victories over Tarboro, Windsor, and Plymouth, three losses to Goldsboro, Kinston, and Elizabeth and a 7-7 deadlock with Roanoke Rapids constitute this year's record books.

Farley's starting line-up will probably be with Larry James and John Collins at ends—Paul Scott and Spenser Carroll at tackle—Noah Lee Edwards and Sydney Johnson at guards—H. R. Goodall center and in the backfield will be J. B. Kittrell, Bill Britt, Dewey Page and John Spearman.

Of 40 letters she received one day she knew only two of her correspondents. Then she recalled a friend at The Citadel had threatened to instruct freshmen to write to her.

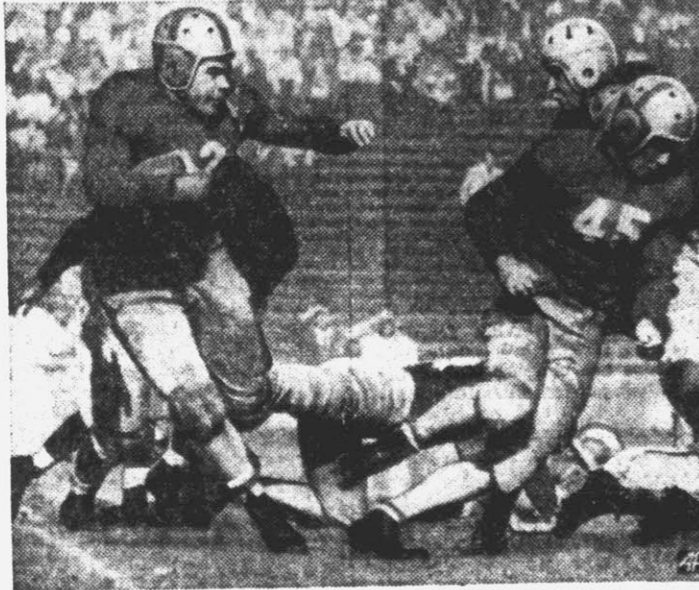

The contents of the letters, Polly explained, were largely requests for pictures. One young fellow described himself as "big in the middle and little at both ends."

Future-Book For ALL-AMERICA

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports Editor, AP Feature Service

As the gridiron season hits the November trail the field of contenders for All-America team positions narrows down to a few dozen stars. Many players started the year spectacularly but bumped into a bad afternoon or were laid low by injuries. Here are some who are still in the running for top honors:

NORMAN STANDLEE (lugging the ball) is one of the main reasons why Stanford is riding the victory trail again. He can blast the line from his fullback post, race the ends or kick booming punts.

Big, fast and rough RUDY MUCHA of the University of Washington has few superiors as a center.

GENE GOODREULT, Boston College's sturdy wingman, has been a star in all of the Eagles' 12 triple-threat back punted victories this season. He ranks among the best ends in the East.

Southwest experts say there is none better than Southern Methodist's PRESTON JOHNSON. This triple-threat back punted 92 yards against Pittsburgh, ran 92 yards against Auburn.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coom

Hollywood—Kurt Bernhardt is a young man, a young 40, with dark hair and laughing eyes, a sense of humor, and notions about how to make pictures.

The laughing dark eyes fit in well with the notions, which in his first two films here he has justified amply. He justified them, that is, in his first, "My Love Came Back," and nobody seems to be worrying about the second, "The Lady With Red Hair." Nobody except Kurt Bernhardt. "I do not know," he says of that. "To me, all my pictures are bad unless the preview proves them good. Nobody really can tell until then."

To a director who made his reputation abroad in films of terrible realism, it must have been a shock to be handed the script of "My Love Came Back" when he arrived in Hollywood. It was a shock, Bernhardt says, but he was grateful for the chance to do something different. He made of "My Love Came Back" a farce with classic and swing music, something very different.

His approach to movie-making is through characters rather than through plot. He would rather have a few good characters to develop than the most intricate plot imaginable. Characters developing in situations which oppose them to other characters, he feels, work out their own best plots. And despite his European reputation, he likes comedy. He believes the picture he wants to make is a drama—good solid stuff—in which natural comedy crops out of the characters. He loathes conventional "comedy relief" dragged in mechanically.

Bernhardt is an exile from Germany, but he is not, strictly speaking, a refugee. He had been making movies in Paris and London for seven years when he was brought here. "I left Germany twice in 1933 the second time running," he reports. "The Gestapo."

In the World war, as a boy of 17 he joined the German army. By the time he was at the Verdun front, the Armistice came. His native city Worms was not far from the birthplace of the poet Goethe. Kurt learned by heart a lot of Goethe, Schiller and Shakespeare. During a barrage, once he memorized "Julius Caesar." Maybe that made him an actor, for after the war he became one—in the provinces and finally in Berlin. When a movie man asked him if he could make a picture for 5,000 marks (around $3,200) he became a director and spent three times the budget.

Two of his later pictures were "The Last Company" and "The Rebel."

One day, after Hitler's rise, Goebbels called movie makers into "conference," decreeing all pictures were to follow the Nazi party line in the future. The Fuehrer, he said, approved of five classic films as models: a saga of the old Norse gods "Potemkin," "Anna Karenina," "The Last Company" and "The Rebel."

"It is obvious," Bernhardt quotes Goebbels, "that none of these magnificent films could have been conceived in the degenerate brains of Jewish directors."

Kurt Bernhardt, who has a sense of humor, just grinned.

Cupid And The Stage Out-Bid A Glamour Throne

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Feature Service Writer

Josephine Johnson, who was voted New York's most glamorous debutante for 1940-41 in a night club poll and who later renounced title and throne for the man she loves, writes to exchange a deb's butterfly life for a double career—marriage and the stage.

She rates a career miles ahead of the debutante whirl because she thinks "it's building something you want to continue for life."

The other day she sat beside my desk, wearing a soft blue tweed suit and powder pink blouse and talked the whole thing over. She wore no hat and her black hair curled softly down to the shoulder-line of her fluffy wolf jacket. Her hazel eyes, famous for their smile,

Josephine Johnson with the man for whom she renounced "deb-glamour" girl role.

were serious as she said:

"A deb's life is terribly superficial. I went about a bit as a sub-deb and after the poll last spring, life was a whirl. But you go on for a year and the tinsel gets off the Christmas tree. You get so tired of night clubs you think you want to go to the wild west or Borneo and just rest."

"Long For Some Steak"
"It's like having to eat ice cream and angel cake for too long. You long for some steak now and then. A stage career means building something you want to continue for life."

Josephine caused a lot of excitement in Gotham's social circles when she announced her engagement to Blaine Faber, New York salesman for manufacturers. "I had cast my lot a few months before her formal debut, which was scheduled for next December. By that gesture she automatically cancelled her standing as a debutante and glamour girl."

Now the first part of her scheduled career—marriage—has struck a snag with the passage of the conscription bill. She and her fiance are waiting to see whether he is drafted before they make any definite plans for marching down the aisle.

But she is hard at work on the stage side of it. She has studied for two years with the famous Russian Maria Ouspenska, and now she's looking for a job (she doesn't say "part") with a Broadway show in Hollywood?

Not For Her
Jost who is 17, says one big film company wanted to make screen tests but she turned thumbs down on that.

"I don't want to get stuck in Hollywood," she said. "I'm a very young girl and I need experience. I wouldn't have a chance out there. I'd have to stand above 5,000 other 'women'."

If Jost Johnson's stage career is anything like her sub-deb years, there will be plenty of excitement in it. Things just seem to happen wherever this black-haired, hazel-eyed beauty appears. As a sub-deb she was included in many of the 1939-40 parties. Then came the glamour girl poll and Jost went catapulting into the limelight, all the while protesting that she didn't "want to be a glamour girl at all."

More excitement came in August when she announced her engagement.

Her romance with Blaine Faber has been exciting from the day they met.

Jost was lunching with a group of sub-debs in a New York restaurant last spring when he came in, took one look at her and stood hovering near the table.

There Was A Quarrel
She looked up, thought he belonged to the party and said, "Oh for heaven's sake stop standing there. Sit down and make yourself comfortable."

He sat—right next to Jost. And the romance was on. It passed the doldrums of a lovers' quarrel last summer and a few nights after it was patched up, Blaine raced out to a beach club where she was attending a party, took her outside in the moonlight and proposed. She said, "Yes."

With that one word Jost Johnson cut short her debutante career before it had really begun and turned in the direction of two new careers—marriage and the stage.

Speeding Leading Traffic Violation

Raleigh, Nov. 4.—Speeding again last month topped all reported convictions of moving traffic violations in North Carolina, the Highway Safety Division reported today.

Out of 1,728 persons found guilty of moving violations on the streets and highways of the state during October, 526 were speeders, 418 were convicted of operating motor vehicles with faulty equipment, and 354 for failure to have a driving license.

Convictions for other violations included: failing to stop when entering a highway, 66; running through red lights, 48; passing a school bus when loading or unloading, 48; passing on curves, 28; and passing on hills, 26.

Speeding convictions for the first ten months of this year totaled 4,479, the safety division reported. Total convictions for all types of moving violations for the ten-month period numbered 15,245.

Revokes Licenses Of 129 Tar Heels
 Raleigh, Nov. 5—The licenses of 129 North Carolina drivers were suspended by the Highway Safety Division last month. Director Ronald Houtt reported today.
 The October suspensions brought to 1279 the total for this year and brought to 7,311 the total number of suspensions since 1935.
 Illegal transportation of whiskey accounted for 35 of the October suspensions, followed by 19 suspensions for reckless driving, 10 for hit-and-run driving, 10 for driving drunk in South Carolina, six for drunken driving in Virginia, three for lending operator's license, and three for using a borrowed license. In addition, 14 drivers' licenses were suspended pending the outcome of appeals from drunken driving charges.

RAINS IN SEVERAL SECTIONS BRING FEAR THAT VOTE MAY NOT REACH 50,000,000 MARK

 For eastern and central areas the early hours of an historic election day witnessed the usual competition of small communities for the distinction of recording their vote first in the whole nation.
 The 1940 honor went to Little Sharon, N. H., which tabulated its total of 31 votes at 12 minutes after midnight. EST. Willkie received 24 of them to seven for President Roosevelt.
 Thus, the start in the great contest in which an American electorate will also express—for the first time in history—its opinion on the question argued pro and con throughout 1940's hectic campaign: Should a chief executive be given a third term in the White House?
 The responsibility of registering presidential choices was the first of many confronting voters. In addition, there were the 35 seats in the United States Senate and the 432 seats in the House of Representatives to be filled. Thirty-three states had gubernatorial races and there were numerous state, county and local contests on many of the ballots.
 Neither President Roosevelt nor Willkie abandoned active campaigning on election eve.
 The Democratic candidate told neighbors in an impromptu talk that he was making his last appearance among them "as a candidate for office."
 In the evening he spoke to the nation from his Hyde Park home and urged citizens to vote.
 The right of the people to select their own officers of government, he said, gave them "the most powerful safeguard of our democracy."
 "After the ballots are counted," he declared, "the United States of America will still be united."
 In his concluding address delivered after midnight, Willkie called for a Republican victory at the polls saying, "We must win."

DEVELOP PLAN HARVEST YAMS

Market Improvement In Method Noted In Nash County

Nashville, Nov. 5—A marked improvement in the harvesting and marketing of sweet potatoes in Nash county has been noted this year, H. E. Alphin, county farm agent of the N. C. State College Extension Service, said today. He stated that most of the potatoes were dug before November 1 to reduce losses from soft rot.
 "A number of our farmers dug their sweet potatoes with a minimum of damage through the use of two-horse turning plows," Alphin reported. "They made vine cutters from pieces of angle iron and mowing machine sections. A diligent effort was made to prevent bruises which cause rots in storage and highly decorative."
 Of Chinese robes and garments alone there is a full exhibition. Gorgeous colored garments with the most elaborate and fantastic designs of dragons, etc. They range from Mandarin coats to luxurious pajamas, men's clothes and women's clothes.
 For those who are aware of the decorativeness of Chinese art, this will be another delightful treat. Those unacquainted will find a whole new world—strange but beautiful.

CHINESE ART WORKS SHOWN AT GALLERY

 memorial Library on Evans street just south of Five Points.
 Even the slightest articles are highly decorated in China. A distinct work of art if the special set of chop sticks, knife and holder which is in the collection.
 The finer nail decorations, which is four and a half or five inches long and of elaborate decoration, a curiosity. In this category of the unusual is the oil painting on the inside of the tiny bottles used for sniff. These pictures are put into the bottles by artists kneeling on their backs and working with the finest of brushes.
 Those interested in jade carvings will find many fine examples of Chinese effort in that medium. There are vases, complex abstraction, animals and many other.
 At every turn one is impressed with the fineness, and delicacy and intricacy of the craftsmanship and artistic labor. One very decorative framed picture is made up of a combination of textures or materials to give vivid expression to some Chinese figures—the feet for example are painted in water color on paper, the bodies are tiny tufted bits of cloth, etc.
 Attractive are the framed carvings from cork. It seems these Chinese work in any medium in hand. These pictures are done in relief representing a pavilion on the shore, the sea and boats on the sea. The result is so new to one that one hesitates to ascribe one's views too readily—but they are really characterized as ingenious and
