ITALIAN "BIG PUSH" REPORTED TO BE UNDER WAY

Big Battle Is Regarded As Imminent

Fascist Divisions Reported By Italian High Command To Have Advanced Beyond Kalamas River; Both Sides Declared To Be Rushing Reinforcements To Sector

Italy's long expected "big push" in the 11-day-old war with Greece was reported under way today as the Italian high command said Fascist divisions had advanced beyond the Kalamas river on the northwest battle front.

The Italian invaders had reached the river eight days ago in their thrust from Albania.

Dispatches from the northeast front said the seizure of Koritza, key Italian supply base 10 miles inside Albania where 30,000 Fascist troops have been reported 'trapped,' appeared to be reaching a critical phase.

Both sides were reported rushing reinforcements to the Koritza sector, with the Greeks still holding the heights east of Koritza despite strong Italian counter attacks.

A decisive battle, it was said, appeared imminent. Greek and British warplanes bombed Koritza and another Albanian town while Italian bombers smashed at the Greek town of Phlorina with reported heavy casualties ensuing.

Belgrade dispatches said the Italian troops had made "small advances" along the Greek west coast and that their columns were bombed by Greek fighters.

Greece's high command acknowledged that Greek forces "retreated slightly" yesterday at the extreme western end of the 100-mile battle front.

In the battle of Britain, Nazi warplanes gave London's millions their longest night attack of the war and in Southampton rescue squads still busy this morning for the dead and living entombed in the ruins of many buildings.

Other Nazi raiders scattered bombs over a wide area from the south coast of England to Scotland. Hitler's high command reported heavy aerial blows against the British merchant marine.

Long-range British bombers retaliated by attacking the Berlin suburb of Spandau, the London Air Staff reported, while other Royal Air Force bombs were dropped on a "concentration of shipping" at Cuxhaven, Germany, and on a convoy of ships off Holland.

GOP Party Loses State House Seat

Raleigh, Nov. 7.—(AP)—State Democratic Chairman E. B. Denny reported today that the Republicans had a net loss of one of the nine seats they held in the 1939 legislature, giving the Democrats 162 members and the Republicans eight.

Republicans were elected to the state Senate from the traditionally Republican 24th and 30th senatorial districts.

The party also captured the House seats in Avery, Madison, Sampson, Yadkin, Mitchell and Wilkes counties. Yadkin had its first Democratic representative in many years in the 1939 legislature.

Democrats won the House seat from Cherokee and Davie counties which were Republican in the 1939 legislature.

One vacancy has already developed in the Democratic ranks due to the death of Rep. W. E. Fenner of Nash county, a Democratic stronghold. A special election must be held to name his successor.

Priest Beats Rep. Byrns

J. Percy Priest, Democrat and Nashville newspaper man, seems to be having the time of his life receiving congratulations from fellow-workers after he defeated Rep. Joseph W. Byrns, Jr., in Tennessee's fifth congressional district. Priest ran as an independent, Byrns, a Democrat, is the son of the late speaker of the lower house in Congress.

BIG MAJORITY IN HOUSE HELD BY DEMOCRATS

Lineup Shows 263 Democrats To 162 Republicans

SEATS IN SENATE GAINED BY GOP Possible Net Republican Gain Of One Governorship Indicated By Tabulation Of Votes

Washington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Sharply reversing the Republican trend two years ago, late returns showed today that the Democrats would control the new House with an advantage of about 100 seats over the Republicans.

A tabulation of Tuesday's election which adds two more years to the Democratic party's 10 consecutive years of House rule, showed this line up: 263 Democrats, 162 Republicans, three Progressives, one Independent Democrat, one American Labor, five seats in doubt.

The present composition of the House is: 258 Democrats, 167 Republicans, two Progressives, one Farm Labor, one American Labor, six vacancies. Three of the vacancies formerly were held by Democrats and three by Republicans.

A tide of middle-western votes which ran counter to the national Democratic trend carried Republicans toward a six-year high point of 38 seats in the new Senate.

That meant four more places than they now hold, but was far below the Democratic total of 66.

Party voting which cut through the Roosevelt majorities in Ohio, Minnesota, and Illinois and paced and inspired the Republicans five seats previously held by Democrats. The only offset to this was the Republican loss of seat in Delaware.

Henry A. Wallace, who will, as the new vice president, become presiding officer of the Senate January 20, will find it composed of 66 Democrats, 28 Republicans, one Progressive and one Independent. The present Senate includes 60 Democrats, 24 Republicans, one Progressive, one Independent and one Farmer-Laborite.

Vote totals pointed to a possible net Republican gain of one governorship as late tabulations of Tuesday's balloting showed a shift in party control of 10 state administrative offices still in doubt.

Welcoming Throngs Greet President Upon Arrival At Washington Union Station

Estimated 50 To 60 Thousands Gathered On Station Plaza Alone; Chief Executive Says He Likes Farm Life But Of All The Cities He Prefers To Live In Washington

Washington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, first man in history to be selected for 12 years in the White House, told a welcoming throng of thousands today that he and the first lady liked farm life, but that of all the cities in the country they would rather live in Washington, D. C.

He made the statement in a lurch in a talk to a crowd which thronged the plaza outside Union station upon his arrival from Hyde Park, N. Y.

The President said he wanted to tell the crowd "how glad we are of the results two days ago" and reiterated that they were glad to return to Washington.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Henry A. Wallace, Vice President elect, and Mrs. Wallace rode with the President in his open car through throngs that lined the way to the White House.

It was estimated that from 50,000 to 60,000 persons were gathered on the Union station plaza alone.

Smiling and waving his hat, Mr. Roosevelt rode slowly down Pennsylvania avenue between massed crowds that cheered and yelled. Portions of the throng broke off as his car passed and many ran along the way, trying for a continuing view of the man whose three-time victories have assured his place in history.

The decisiveness of that triumph was reflected in the hourly more complete tabulation of the national popular vote. With 119,168 of the country's 127,245 voting units accounted for the ballot totals stood: Mr. Roosevelt 25,356,567.

Wendell L. Willkie 21,591,032. The President had 39 state, 100 congressional district, and 166 electoral votes, while Willkie mustered nine states and 63 electoral votes. The possibility of a change in this line-up appeared to rest with Michigan, where late Republican gains cut the Democratic margin to a slender 3,700, with more than 60 districts yet to report.

Mayor Spain Appointed Rep. Bonner's Secretary

Expected To Resign Mayorship At Meeting Tonight

Washington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today that he would ask Congress to increase the national debt limit to 60 or 65 billion dollars to care for possible deficits up to June 30, 1942.

Announcing this at a press conference, Morgenthau told reporters: "We've just begun to re-arm."

He repeated the phrase three times to emphasize it.

The Treasury chief said also that Congress might be asked at the present session to make available for general financing the $4,000,000,000 which it authorized for special defense borrowing. That sum would be included in the 15 to 20 billion which Morgenthau said might be needed during the next fiscal year.

The present debt limit with this $4,000,000,000 included is $49,000,000,000.

Asked whether it was conceivable that government expenditures could be put on a "pay as you go" basis shortly, Morgenthau replied: "I don't think it's possible."

The secretary said that with the old $45,000,000,000 debt limit "practically reached," the Treasury found itself "in a rather difficult position."

Morgenthau said that the next Congress would be asked to make all future issues of state and local securities subject to taxes. He said that in studying the problem he had learned that about $2,000,000,000 of tax exempt state and local securities would mature next year.

New Governor

Murray D. Van Wagener (above) appeared assured of election in Michigan's governorship race. He is a Democrat. Defeat was conceded by aides of the incumbent Republican, 81-year-old Governor Leland D. Dickinson.

Michigan's new governor will be Murray D. Van Wagener, a Democrat, who defeated Leland D. Dickinson, a Republican, in the election held Tuesday.

Van Wagener, 52, is a former member of the Michigan House of Representatives and served as secretary of the Michigan State Bar Association.

He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, a popular member of the Pitt County Bar and has served as solicitor of county court.

In addition to his legal and political activities, he has been connected with the White Chevrolet company and is widely known throughout the county.

When Mr. Spain assumes his new duties in Washington, he will be accompanied by his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Marie Hardee of this city, and two children.

Mr. Spain was elected mayor in May, 1939, securing a clear majority over two opposing candidates in the first primary election.

Expected To Resign Mayorship At Meeting Tonight

Mayor Jack Spain has been appointed secretary to Herbert C. Bonner, elected to succeed Congressman Lindsay C. Warren, and has accepted the post, it was revealed today by the capital city offices of Mr. Bonner.

Mr. Bonner was elected in Tuesday's election to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Warren, who has accepted the post of Comptroller General of the United States, and also was elected for a full two-year term beginning in January.

Although it had been rumored that the new congressman from the First District had offered the secretaryship to Mayor Spain, no definite announcement had been made before that coming today from Mr. Bonner's offices.

Mayor Spain was expected to return from Washington in time to attend tonight's scheduled meeting of the Greenville Board of Aldermen at which he probably will tender his resignation as head of the city government.

The aldermen then will be faced with the task of naming a mayor to fill out the term of Mr. Spain, which expires next June 30.

Mr. Spain was elected mayor in May, 1939, securing a clear majority over two opposing candidates in the first primary election.

The new secretary is a native of Pitt county and has made his home in Greenville for a number of years. He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, a popular member of the Pitt County Bar and has served as solicitor of county court.

In addition to his legal and political activities, he has been connected with the White Chevrolet company and is widely known throughout the county.

CANVASS VOTE CAST TUESDAY

Totals Vary But Little From Reflector Tabulations

The Pitt County Board of Elections officially canvassed the votes cast in the county in Tuesday's election and the totals varied only very slightly from the unofficial returns compiled by The Reflector Tuesday night.

A total of 10,167 Democratic and 369 Republican tickets were cast in the presidential race, making a total of 10,536, the largest ever cast in a general election in the county.

The following vote was cast on the state ticket: For Governor—Broughton, 9,939; McNeill 185; Lieutenant Governor, Harris, 9,886; Leavelle 181; Secretary of State—Eure, 9,858; Ferree 176; Auditor—Pou 9,846; Van Hoy 174; Treasurer—Johnson 9,844; Gragg 176; Attorney General—McMullan 9,837; Downing 177; Superintendent of Public Instruction—Erwin 9,842; Allen 182; Commissioner of Agriculture—Scott 9,848; Phelps 177; Commissioner of Labor—Shuford 9,824; Fussell 179; Congressman, First District—Bonner 9,892; Wilkinson 185.

Bonner received 9,852 votes to fill the unexpired term of Congressman, a post for which no Republican offered.

Plot Is Thwarted To Steal Payroll

Boston, Nov. 7.—(AP)—What was described as a plot to rob an $862,000 payroll at Camp Edwards, was thwarted today, army officers disclosed.

Officers said they regretted that their discovery of the plot had become known before they had an opportunity to capture "three or four suspicious characters" on the reservation where they would have been subject to federal prosecution.

High officers, however, expressed satisfaction that the army intelligence had been able to pick up a "tip" Tuesday, early enough to take every necessary precaution.

Twin Boys Of Ayden Lost For Three Hours

The three and one-half year old twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Worthington, who live three miles east of Ayden, were lost in a woods back of their home for nearly three hours today, causing much anxiety on the part of their parents.

Merchants Cooperate With Armistice Day

President Thomas E. Wilson of the Greenville Merchants Association, questioned today regarding plans of the organization for participation in the Armistice Day parade and program here Monday, declared the stores would follow the same procedure as that adopted last year.

Michigan GOP

Detroit, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Revised unofficial presidential vote totals now virtually complete, tipped Michigan back into the Republican column this afternoon. With three of the state's 3,632 precincts missing, the total was: Willkie 1,028,087; Roosevelt 1,025,774.

Local School To Observe National Education Week

To emphasize the need and importance of "Education For the Common Defense" is the purpose of National Education Week to be observed November 10-16.

County's Offices To Close Nov. 11th

The various Pitt county offices will be closed for Armistice Day. The commissioners have adopted a resolution providing for this action.

The resolution, signed by Chairmen J. N. Williams and Commissioners D. T. House, Jr., G. S. Porter, G. H. Pittman and M. B. Hodges, points out that November 11 is a day that impresses all with a feeling of respect and honor for those who so patriotically served in the armed forces of this nation during the World War.

It also points out that the day has been declared a national holiday. The resolution takes note of the present-day situation, stating: "We recognize the gravity of the situation that now confronts our country, occasioned by the great conflict now raging in other parts of the world."

While he is here the parents are asked to visit the school and converse with Mr. Boye and hear Mr. Dawson's address. Articles concerning various phases on work in the city high school will be furnished the press by the journalism class.

Armistice Day Program Revealed By Committee

The complete program for the Armistice Day parade to be held at the college here Monday under the auspices of the American Legion has been completed and will be featured by an address by Robert Lee Humber, who recently returned to his native Greenville after having lived in Paris, France, for several years.

Robert Lee Humber To Make Principal Address

While Mr. Humber has made several addresses in this section since returning here, the Armistice Day address will be the first at an open meeting. The general public is invited to attend the program and hear Mr. Humber.

The program will get under way at 11 o'clock, following a parade which will begin at 10:30 o'clock. The parade will form at the Norfolk Southern depot, proceed down Dickington avenue to Evans, and thence to Third street. The colored Legionnaires will help form the parade, but when they reach Third street they will turn west and proceed to the Pythian Hall, where they will have their own barbecue luncheon.

The rest of the parade will turn east on Third street, march to Cottle, thence to Fifth, then proceed to the college.

The parade, in the order named will be composed of the High School band, ex-service men, Auxiliary members, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts floats, Negro band and members of the local Negro Legion post.

Local business firms are being urged to prepare to enter floats in the parade. The program will be presided over by A. K. Rowe, commander of the post. The order of program follows: Selection by the college orchestra, advancing of colors, a song, "God Bless America," by the Avden and Winterville choruses; invocation by Dr. J. D. Simons, one minute of silence and taps in memory of soldiers.

NAZIS DECLINE U. S. REQUEST

Assurance Of Safety For U. S. Ship Had Been Asked

Washington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The State Department announced today that Germany had refused to give any assurance of safe conduct for an American ship to enter an Irish port to bring home American citizens, although Italy had given such an assurance promptly.

Refusing to give such assurance the German government was said to have declared that the area around England were "areas of military operation" and that Berlin was "not in a position to furnish any sort of assurance of the nature requested."

The State Department said the Italian government's prompt and favorable response was furnished to Germany but despite this the Berlin foreign office declined to act likewise.

The United States had planned to send an American ship, probably the liner Manhattan, to a Western Ireland port to bring home about 1,200 American citizens from Great Britain.

In view of the German government's refusal it was believed the ship would not be sent.

Five Killed When Tunnel Collapses

Pittsburgh, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Five Negro workmen were crushed to death today by the collapse of a nearby Stowe township traffic tunnel which they were repairing.

Eight men were in the tunnel at the time a section of the concrete roof fell, but three warned of danger by a "sudden loud cracking" noise—escaped. One of the three was injured.

Bodies of the five were dug out of the debris five hours after the accident by rescuers working with steam shovels.

Methodist Church Conference Begun

Wilmington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The North Carolina Conference of the Methodist church held its organization meeting today and then plunged into a host of business problems.

The final session was set for Sunday night, the time designated for reading of ministerial appointments.

The appointments will be made by the Bishop's cabinet, composed of Bishop Clarence Purcell of Charlotte and the Rev. W. A. Cade of the Wilmington district. The Rev. L. C. Carlin of Rocky Mount district, the Rev. H. L. Glass of the Raleigh district, the Rev. J. A. Russell of the New Bern district, the Rev. W. V. McRae of the Fayetteville district, the Rev. B. B. Slaughter of the Elizabeth City district and the Rev. A. J. Hobbs of the Durham district.

Bridge Collapses At Tacoma, Wash.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The Tacoma Narrows bridge broke in half today.

Parts of the huge span went cascading 190 feet into Puget sound. No one was on the $8,400,000 suspension structure when it fell. Still on the bridge, however, were an automobile and logging truck.

To Present Opera At College. "The Barber of Seville," the Rossini opera which will be given at East Carolina Teachers College tomorrow night, is one of the most popular of light operas because of its many good roles, its famous individual numbers, and its gaiety.

Oscar Thompson, music critic of the New York Sun, says that few other scores possess such show pieces as Almagu's serenade, Rossini's "Una voce poco fa" in which she tells of her love for Lindoro, and Basilio's comic Calumny Monologue, which makes use of a great crescendo to show how a breath of scandal started against someone can grow into a tempest. He calls Figaro's "Largo al Factotum," a description of his importance as "the barber" who goes everywhere and knows everything, the best comic bass number ever written.

Based on a French comedy which was published in 1775, the opera began its long life in Rome, well over a hundred years ago, and very soon after made its first appearance in the United States, an English version having been given in New York in 1819 and an Italian one in 1825.

"The Barber" is being brought to Greenville by an all-star cast. Four members of the cast who are actively engaged with the Metropolitan Opera Company and will return to New York for the opening of the Metropolitan season are Hilde Reggiani, the Rossini; Armand Tokayan, Count Almaviva, the lover; Pompilio Martista, Dr. Bartolo, the elderly guardian of Rossini; and John Gurney, Don Basilio, Rossini's singing master and the fool of her guardian.

This same company gave "The Barber of Seville" in Raleigh Wednesday night. The curtain will go up at the college tomorrow night at 8:30.

Reception. Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace Bourne, Jr. and their wedding party.

Bourne-Hooker.

A wedding of simplicity and dignity was solemnized in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church this afternoon at four o'clock, when Miss Louisa Borden Hooker and Charles Wallace Bourne, Jr. were united in marriage, the ceremony being performed by Reverend William A. Ryan of the Eighth Street Christian Church.

Seven-branched candelabra with burning tapers placed against a background of cibeotum fern, palms, and baskets of white chrysanthemums formed a lovely setting for the impressive ceremony.

Selections from Nevin, Chopin, and Liszt were rendered by Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley, organist, prior to the ceremony. A vested choir composed of Mrs. J. A. Karsnak, Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, Mrs. Ed Parkinson, Miss Agnes Fullilove and Messrs. Aubrey Tilley, Ed Parkinson, Marshall Stanley and Junius H. Rose, sang "Serenade," by Schubert. Just before the entrance of the bride party, "All For You," by Bertram Brown, was sung by Charles Flanagan, cousin of the bride.

The traditional Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was used as a professional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as a recessional, while the lovely "Benedictus" by Peter C. Lutkin, was sung by the choir as the benediction.

Acting as usher were L. M. Buchanan, Richard Walker, Vester Mulholland and Sam B. Underwood, all of Greenville.

The bride entered with her father, William E. Hooker, and was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his brother, Douglas M. Bourne, of Haddonfield, New Jersey, his best man.

The bride's wedding gown was of sapphire blue velvet with tightly fitting basque, the square scalloped neckline softened with folds of matching maline, and shirred floor-length skirt. She wore a small hat of matching velvet with shoulder length veil of white net. Her bouquet was of all white roses tied with white satin ribbon.

The bride's only sister, Miss Anne Lee Hooker of Washington, D. C., attended her as maid of honor. Her dress was made of coral velveteen, floor-length, made with square scalloped neck, and tightly fitting basque. Her head dress was a Juliet cap of matching velvet. She carried an arm bouquet of pale yellow and coral chrysanthemums tied with two-tone violet ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Miss Betty Bourne of Haddonfield, New Jersey, sister of the groom, and Miss Cotten Skinner of Greenville. Their dresses and caps were identical with that of the maid of honor. They carried arm bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums, tied with two-tone blue and coral ribbon.

Mrs. Hooker, mother of the bride, wore black velvet embroidered in gold with a corsage of talisman roses.

Mrs. Bourne, mother of the groom, was gowned in blue and her flowers were a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Bourne is the attractive and talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hooker of Greenville. She attended Salem College, where she was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority, and is a graduate of John Hopkins School of Nursing.

Mr. Bourne is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bourne of Haddonfield, New Jersey. He attended Temple University and was graduated from North Carolina State College. He now holds the position of Coordinator of Diversified Occupations in the Greenville city schools.

For traveling Mrs. Bourne chose a dress of soft gray wool with silver trimmings and matching fur coat with which she wore a small red hat.

After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Bourne will make their home in Greenville.

Mrs. Charles Wallace Bourne, Jr., who prior to her marriage in Jarvis Memorial Methodist church this afternoon at 4 o'clock, was Miss Louisa Borden Hooker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hooker. Mrs. Bourne has been extensively entertained since the announcement of her engagement several weeks ago. Mr. Bourne is a member of the Greenville High School faculty.

ding party. Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hooker entertained at their home on East Fifth street at an informal reception immediately following the ceremony. Guests were greeted by Dr. and Mrs. W. I. Wooten and received in the music room by Mr. and Mrs. William G. Mordecai of Raleigh, who introduced them to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Hooker, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bourne, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bourne, Sr., of Haddonfield, New Jersey, Mrs. Wallace Deckert and Mr. Benjamin Bourne of Philadelphia, and members of the wedding party.

Carrying out a bridal motif of green and white, lovely chrysanthemums and ferns were used in decoration throughout the house except in the sun room, where pink and rose chrysanthemums formed the color motif. Here each window was centered with three-branch candelabra with lighted candles.

Mr. and Mrs. Ty Wagner directed guests to the dining room where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bradsher and Mrs. D. H. Conley. Bridal gifts in green and white were served from silver platters at each end of the table by Miss Sallie Joyner Davis and Mrs. Travis Hooker. They were assisted in serving the decorated cakes and mints by Misses Lillian Wooten, Rosamond Nicholson, Ione Hooker Bradsher, and Virginia Davis, all young cousins of the bride. The decorations in the dining room were flanked at each end by antique girandoles, holding burning tapers for the decoration for the buffet.

The dining table was covered with the exquisite Alencon lace cloth, and centered with a silver bowl of white roses. Burning tapers in silver candle holders completed the table decoration.

Mr. and Mrs. John Flanagan welcomed guests in the library, where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Ben H. Neville of Whitakers and invited into the sun room by Mr. and Mrs. Graham Flanagan who directed them to the punch table, where Col. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan and Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Underwood, Jr., and L. M. Buchanan served delicious punch. They were assisted by Miss Elizabeth Mordecai of Raleigh, Charles Flanagan, Joy and Jody Flanagan.

Goodbyes were said by Reverend and Mrs. W. A. Ryan. Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bourne, Mr. Douglas M. Bourne, Miss Betty Bourne of Haddonfield, N. J.; Mr. Benjamin Bourne and Mrs. William Deckert of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. William G. Mordecai, Miss Virginia Davis of Raleigh; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gallup, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Burnette of Rocky Mount; Mr. and Mrs. Zeno Mann and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Neville of Whitakers; Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Bloomquist of Durham; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Borden, Mrs. George Bynum, Miss Annie Lee Bynum, Mrs. E. B. Borden, Miss Mary Langston of Goldsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Taylor of Smithfield; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Huggins, Mr. and Mrs. Whit Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Moore, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Lynch of Wilmington; Dr. Howard Wilson of Chapel Hill; Rev. and Mrs. Walter Patton of Louisburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradsher Entertain. Honoring the Bourne-Hooker wedding party, Mrs. T. E. Hooker and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bradsher entertained at dinner last evening at 6:30 o'clock, at their home on West Fifth street.

Quantities of fall flowers in distinctive and graceful arrangements, were used to decorate the entire lower floor of the home where dinner was served from beautifully appointed tables.

Covers were laid for the wedding party, members of the families of the bride and groom, and for the out-of-town guests.

Luncheon For Wedding Party. Entertaining at their beautiful home on Maple street, Dr. and Mrs. W. I. Wooten honored the Bourne-Hooker wedding party, the members of the families of the bride and groom, and out-of-town guests, at luncheon at noon today.

White snapdragons and white chrysanthemums were combined in attractive arrangements upon the flower and occasional tables in the hall, the dining room and in the drawing room. In the library and den, exquisite bronze and yellow chrysanthemums were used.

As the guests arrived they were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Waldrop and invited into the breakfast room, where, from a wooden bucket, tomato juice with hors-d'oeuvres, was served by Mrs. Key Brown, Mrs. S. M. Crisp and Mrs. K. B. Pace.

A delightful turkey luncheon was served in three courses from small tables of white appointment, which were placed throughout the rooms, and centered with vases of white chrysanthemums and snapdragons.

Dainty corsages were presented the bride, Mrs. W. E. Hooker, Mrs. C. W. Bourne, Sr., and Miss Betty Bourne.

Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan Entertain. Last evening, following rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan and Charles Flanagan entertained at a cake-cutting in honor of the Bourne-Hooker wedding party.

The hall, the drawing room and the living room were lovely with pink and lavender chrysanthemums. Vases of beautiful yellow chrysanthemums were used in the sun room, where punch was served.

In the dining room the table, effectively appointed in bridal green and white, held a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked by lighted white tapers in silver candelabra. The cake was topped by a miniature bride and groom, and held traditional wedding symbols. Silver platters filled with decorated green and white cakes, green and white mints and salted nuts completed the appointment of the table. Moulded green and white ices in shape of wedding bells and slippers were served by Mrs. O. L. Joyner and Mrs. Travis Hooker, assisted by Misses Joy Flanagan, Rosamond Nicholson, Josephine Flanagan and Ione May Bradsher.

Coffee was poured in the sun room.

Piano Recital At College. Advanced piano students of Miss Lois Gorrell appeared yesterday in a late afternoon studio recital at the college in a program on the theme, "Romance as Shown in Music," with Miss Hazel Eison, violinist, and Denton Rossell, tenor, both members of the music faculty, contributing numbers as guest artists. Student pianists taking part were Lorraine Pritchard, Marjelle Robertson, Harriet Lawrence and J. N. Williams.

By a variety of selections the program showed how composers differed in their treatment of the same theme. Romance as presented in poetry was represented by Browning's "Love Among the Ruins," read by Ruth Bray.

The program follows: "Songs," "Der Nussbaum," "Die Rose, Die Lilie, Die Taube," Schumann; "Du bist wie eine Blume," Mr. Rossell.

Accompanists were Miss Gorrell and Miss Wilda Rayoll. Members of Miss Gorrell's piano class will broadcast on November 21, at 9:15.

Attending Conference. Among those who are attending the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church in Wilmington today are: Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Person, Mrs. C. F. Bland, Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Cobb, Mrs. Wiley Brown and Miss Elizabeth Titsworth.

Falkland P. T. A. Meets. The Falkland Parent-Teacher Association met Thursday evening, October 31, at 8 o'clock, in the school auditorium, with the study group meeting at 7:30. The third grade gave a short play, "Safety First Always." Mrs. Bill Flythe, a field representative of the State Highway Department, spoke on "Safety." A short business meeting was held, after which delicious refreshments were served.

Home Ec For Boys? Should boys take home economics? Maybe they should... or may-be they don't need it.

If you had been walking behind E. R. Goodall and Paul Scott, star center and tackle of the football team, yesterday after football practice, you would have heard something like this:

"Have you ever tasted my delicious fluffy chocolate fudge? It's quite tempting; I'll give you my recipe if you want it," comments H. R. in an excited voice.

"Oh, that will be lovely," answered Paul, "and I'll give you my recipe for my rich, appetizing hot chocolate fudge."

These big, rough, tough boys, the college of the gridiron, spoke of their own creations with the same lack in their eye as a brooding mother over her chicks.

"So I ask you, 'Should boys be left out of home ec?'"

ICKES OFFERS TO QUIT POST

Believes Chief Executive Should Have Free Hand

Washington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt today offering to step out of his Interior Department post when and if the White House chooses to accept it. Ickes told his press conference he rejected in Mr. Roosevelt's re-election and in offering to resign acted only to give the President a free hand, should he desire to make a cabinet change.

Ickes acted similarly after the President's re-election in 1936, as is customary, but not all his colleagues in the cabinet followed suit.

He said he believed that all presidential appointive officials should do as he had.

"I for one," Ickes said, believe the President should be left free at the beginning of a new administration to reshuffle, recreate or do anything he pleases with his official family, especially in view of the mighty task ahead of him."

Stationery before Christmas. Since stationery is always thought very highly of as a gift the campaign should be a success.

This year's club already has shown that it is among the most active clubs in school by their fine work in sponsoring the Halloween street dance.

I. C. Club Meeting. James Worsley gave a brief talk on South America and Marjorie Jackson gave a sketch of Chile in the International Correspondence Club meeting held yesterday at the same room.

The club decided to serve refreshments at all the regular club meetings and when they were to have a guest speaker the meeting be held at night.

An outline of the programs for the coming weeks was given each member.

COTTON QUOTA TO BE DECIDED

Raleigh, Nov. 7.—A series of meetings will be held next week in the cotton-growing counties of the State to make plans for the referendum on cotton marketing quotas for 1941 which will be held December 7, it was announced today by E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive officer of North Carolina State College. Newly-elected county and community Triple-A committees are urged to attend. Floyd said that important information on the methods of holding the election, and the issues involved will be presented by district farm agents, field officers, and other representatives from the State AAA office in Raleigh. The schedule for the meetings follows:

Tuesday, November 12—At 9 a. m. in Rutherford, Stanly, Wake, Orange, Sampson, Johnston, Wilson, Granville and Bertie; and at 2 p. m. in Polk, Union, Harnett, Alamance, Bladen, Wayne, Greene, Vance, and Hertford.
 Wednesday, November 13—At 9 a. m. in Burke (with McDowell also attending), Mecklenburg, Lee, Randolph, Brunswick, Lenoir, Pitt, Warren and Gates; and at 2 p. m. in Caldwell, Cabarrus, Chatham, Guilford, Columbus, Jones, Martin, Halifax and Chowan.
 Thursday, November 14—At 9 a. m. in Catawba, Rowan, Moore, Davidson, Robeson, Onslow, Beaufort, Northampton and Pasquotank (with Perquimans attending); and at 2 p. m. in Lincoln, Davie, Montgomery, Forsyth, Scotland, Pender, Pamlico, Edgecombe and Camden (with Currituck attending).
 Friday, November 15—At 9 a. m. in Gaston, Iredell, Richmond, Yadkin, Hoke, New Hanover, Carteret, Nash and Washington (with Tyrrell attending); and at 2 p. m. in Cleveland, Alexander, Anson, Wilkes, Cumberland, Duplin, Craven, Franklin and Hyde.
 Saturday, November 16—At 9 a. m. in Caswell and Durham.

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM REVEALED BY COMMITTEE

diers killed in action, a song, "Fair Land of Freedom" by the Aetna and Winterville chorus; address of welcome by Dr. L. R. Meadows, high school orchestra selection, introduction of the speaker, by D. J. Whichard, Jr., the address by Mr. Humber on the topic "Crises of History," a son, "Recessional," by the Greenville Symphonic chorus, recognition of officials of the Farmville post and the two posts and invited guests. Following the program a barbecue dinner will be served at the college for all ex-service men of the county and Auxiliary members of the two posts.

The President Stayed Up Late And Saw A Parade

President Roosevelt and members of his family stood on the porch of his Hyde Park home early in the morning after election day and watched their neighbors march past with torchlights and flags in what they called a "victory parade." The President, in high good humor, waved to the crowd. Left to right: President Roosevelt, Son Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., Mrs. John Roosevelt, Son John Roosevelt, Mrs. Sara Roosevelt, mother of the President, and the First Lady. A few hours later Wendell Willkie, the Republican nominee, conceded defeat.

WILSON'S Weekly RECIPES
 BY George Rector
 Food Consultant Wilson & Co.

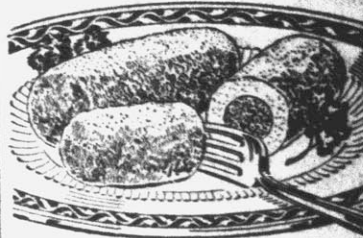

There's frost on the pumpkin, there's a sizzle in the skillet, there's a spicy aroma in the air! "It must be, it is Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage," says you. Folks who know their sausages claim that Wilson's are unforgettably delicious. It is because these sausages are made of just the juiciest, choicest pork, taken at the peak of fresh sweet flavor, plus the savory seasoning—a secret Wilson recipe. I do know this, too: morning, noon and night you can glamorize any meal with Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links.

Make Sunday Breakfast a Gala Feast with SAUSAGE OMELET

Pan fry until brown and slightly crisp, Wilson's Certified Sausage Links, or Wilson's Country Style Sausage, cut in small pieces.

Separate 4 Clear Brook Eggs, beat yolks with 1/4 cup milk. Beat whites with 1/2 teaspoon salt, until stiff. Fold in yolks; add drained sausages. Put 1 tablespoon of sausage drippings in a skillet and pour in omelet mixture. Cook gently until set. Increase heat to brown, then fold over and serve immediately.

Prepare Early... Serve Late SAUSAGE CROQUETTES

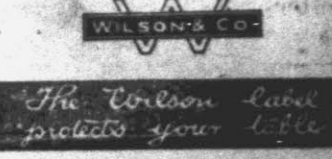

For a quickly prepared dinner in the evening, make these delicious croquettes in the morning. They will need only a couple of minutes' heating in deep fat.

Fry 8 small Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links in a cool skillet until brown and cooked through. To 2 cups of mashed potatoes add 1 teaspoon of chopped chives, 1 tablespoon minced parsley and the beaten yolk of a Clear Brook Egg. Cover each link with the potato mixture and shape into oblong croquette. Roll in bread crumbs, dip in beaten egg diluted with cold water, then again in crumbs.

SAUSAGE and MUSHROOM SUPREME

Saute 1 lb. Wilson's Certified Sausage Links until they are just brown, not cooked through. Arrange in bottom of shallow casserole. Cover with fresh mushrooms, placed cap side up. Sprinkle mushrooms lightly with salt and a dash of paprika. Dot with Clear Brook Butter and pour 1/2 cup cream or top milk over them. Cover and bake in a hot oven (425° F.) for 10 minutes. Serve on toast and garnish. Serves 4-5.

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

DEATH DROPS IN ON A HOUSEPARTY

By MEDORA FIELD

When Two Unmasked Guests Come To Sally's Party, Murder Steals In Behind Them

Chapter one
The Rain Threatens

THE quiet was a little disconcerting as I drove around to the garage back of Wisteria Hall. Of course, its secluded atmosphere and its inaccessibility are among the chief charms of the old place, but I had expected some signs of activity. Where was everybody? Where, indeed, was the station wagon in which the two servants and Aunt Maggie had driven out yesterday to open the house for week-end guests?

I had sounded the horn just as I made the turn in the long driveway where one gets that first glimpse of big white columns through the trees. Now I pressed down on it again, longer and with more force. It seemed almost sacrilegious to rend the peaceful stillness in such fashion. But nothing happened.

The great white bulk of Wisteria Hall stood calm and inscrutable in the December sunshine and, as far as outward appearances indicated, might not have been disturbed since my grandmother's death ten months before, when I first came into possession of the place.

No grinning black face appeared at kitchen window or door. No sign of Andrew, making a great show of bustling down the steps and calling back to his fat wife as he came. Law, Bessie, here's Miss Sally. Come on, let's help her get her things in the house.

A little impatient at this lack of response, for surely someone must be about, I decided to leave my bags and packages in the car to be brought in later. Perhaps Bessie and Andrew had gone over to Roswell for additional items which might have been overlooked when they brought out supplies the day before. That would account for the absence of the station wagon. Aunt Maggie was probably dozing in the library or taking a nap in her room.

I glanced at my wrist watch. It was ten minutes after three. I decided I would take the flowers into the house with me, as there would just be time to arrange them, check over the bedrooms and dress before my husband and our guests began to arrive.

As I reached for the large florist's box, I heard a sound near the side of the house, as though someone had stumbled on the gravel walk. I might not have noticed it at all, except for the fact that I had been so acutely aware of the surrounding silence. Thinking that perhaps it was Aunt Maggie, I turned and walked over to where I could see beyond the boxwood hedge and into the front driveway.

Beyond the house and hurrying as fast as he could toward the gate was a man. Although he was now nearly the length of a city block away, I was almost certain that he was Kirk Pierce, who was to be one of our guests that evening.

"Kirk!" I called. "Yoo-hoo-oo!" Did I imagine it, or did he really hesitate for a moment before breaking into a run?

Dropping my box, I also began to run; but he had disappeared around the turn and was out of the gate before I had covered half the distance. When I myself reached the turn, I heard the sound of a motor starting up. This was even more strange. I had seen no car outside the gate as I drove in, though one might easily have been concealed behind the shrubbery.

Car Tracks
BY THE time I reached the gate, there was no car anywhere in sight, but on the fresh country air there was the unmistakable odor of gasoline. And on the fresh red earth, where a section of our private roadway was being worked over, there were tracks showing that a car had turned in from the side.

This private road extends beyond our gate for nearly a mile before it runs into an unpaved country road leading to the concrete highway which is still a mile or so distant. It seemed unlikely that the intruder had made a mistake as to destination, because our private roadway is plainly marked as such and also by the name, Wisteria Hall, on the mailbox.

Our property covers more than five hundred acres and the nearest farmhouse is three miles distant. With Roswell five miles away and Atlanta only twenty, within easy driving distance of my husband's office, Wisteria Hall had seemed ideal when we decided to make certain improvements with the idea of using it as a summer home. But now as the silence once more enshrouded my city soul there seemed something sinister about the place.

Retracing my steps down the long driveway, I noticed that even the sun was hidden by clouds and that there was a hint of rain in the air. Rain would be just what that piece of road under construction, for cars would surely get stuck in the mud. The idea of a country house party in mid-winter did not now seem such a grand inspiration after all.

It is my husband's favorite joke that I can be talked into anything, and he once declared that I would gladly agree to attend my own hanging if it were to be held out of town. Looking back to my telephone conversation of the day before with Claire Harper, it seemed to me that there was more than a grain of truth in his joking.

I had mentioned to Claire quite casually that the new basement game room and other remodeling had just been completed and that I thought it might be fun to spend Christmas at Wisteria Hall. Claire, not usually given to sudden enthusiasms, had bowed me over.

"Oh, that's just perfect!" she cried. "Listen, darling, I've been trying for several days to get a chance to run over and tell you the big news. But I can't wait. I've finally got Bob to agree to marry me. Yes, that's what I said. We are going to be married. Sally, don't wait until Christmas. Let's go out this week end. You can give us an engagement party. Just us, you know. You and Bill and Bob and I, and, of course, we'll have to have Alice, since she is Bob's sister. And let's see—somebody for Alice. What about Kirk Pierce?"

Remembering how long Claire had been after Bob, it did not seem just the moment to say that it might all be too much trouble, what with the next day being Saturday. Claire has lots of money and charm and Bob has lots of charm but no money, so it had not been easy, I knew, although Bob had been in love with her for years.

Bob had studied architecture, but had never gone very far with it and had finally stopped trying. His friends helped him to get other jobs, but I have often thought friends can be a handicap, too, when someone is as agreeable as Bob. Friends made it so easy for him to drop things and go off on a hunting trip to South Georgia or to the field trials or on a cruise or somewhere. Hostesses automatically put his name at the head of their lists for cocktail parties, dinners and dances. They asked his advice about redecorating their houses or trading in their cars or their husbands.

Reassured
WHAT I mean is that when someone has so much charm, so many things come easy to him, so that he loses the ability to put forth a part along more serious lines. But, after all, it had not been necessary, for now Bob was marrying Claire. He could devote himself to architecture without having to bother about the financial returns. Claire said their wedding trip would take them around the world, in order that Bob might study various types of architecture before settling down.

In aiming my box of flowers from the ground, I went back to my car, removed my keys and my bag and struggled up the back steps. I found the kitchen door locked, but fortunately I had a key. Once inside, everything seemed to be in order. The place was comfortably warm, indicating that Andrew had the furnace going. The electric refrigerator was functioning. Meats and vegetables and other foodstuffs were in place. Andrew had even been able to find some mint at the market. As a hostess, I began to feel slightly better.

Passing through the big dining room with its twin Spencerian encased library, I went on to the well-lighted parlor. But Aunt Maggie was not doing by the fire. The fire itself had burned to ashes. Crossing the wide hall, I saw the lovely old Adam mantel and the iron door I glanced into the long drawing room, which had been a double parlor before we removed the partition, but this had even more deserted look.

At the foot of the stairs I called out to Aunt Maggie several times. Only the empty echo of my own voice came back to me. Leaving my bag on the landing, I hurried up the stairway, wondering if indeed Aunt Maggie had taken one of the third-story bedrooms as she had insisted and for this reason she did not hear me.

Aunt Maggie is really a dear, but I had not been too pleased when she decided to join the impromptu house party. Hearing our plans when she dropped in to see my two-year-old daughter, Aunt Maggie had insisted that this was just the time for her to check over family records at Wisteria Hall.

Although she is what some people would call rich, Aunt Maggie adds considerably to her income by working up family histories for ambitious ladies who wish to become members of the D. A. R., the U. D. C. and similar organizations. "It amuses me," she often said, "now that I am a widow." (She had been a widow ever since I can remember.) "I find out such strange things about the best people. Sometimes I think they are more pleased to pay me for what I leave out than for what I put in."

Anyway, Wisteria Hall had been built around 1836 by my great-great-grandfather, and its library contains many rare old documents which Aunt Maggie had itched to get her plump hands on long before my grandmother's death. But Grandmother had refused to be bothered. Each time Aunt Maggie suggested looking them over, she had put her off, saying there was nothing of any value on the place and that it was all foolishness, anyway. I could picture Aunt Maggie in the midst of a perfect orgy since her arrival yesterday.

But where was she now? Certainly she was in none of the six second-floor bedrooms, nor was she in the sitting room. Climbing the rather steep back stairs, the only ones ascending to the third floor, I still received no answer to my call. But papers and books scattered about in the study showed that she had been there.

Artist-Home Builders Trade In Tips And Tints

AP Feature Service Writer
Barter for the sake of beauty in the home is getting to be a habit among American artists.

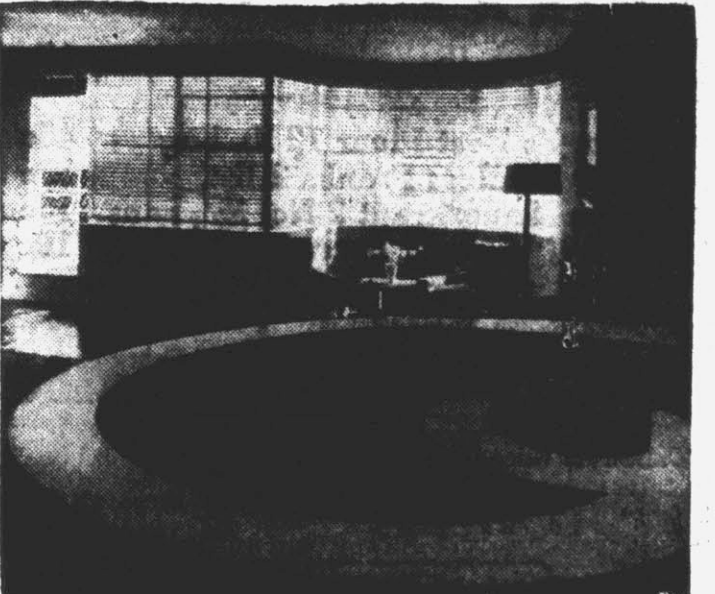

When they build their houses or furnish their apartments, they're exchanging their wares. The result is a lot of better looking rooms. In fact, the houses frequently turn out to be almost modes of the interior decorating moment.

That's the kind of thing that happens not long ago in San Francisco.

Jane Berlandina, often rated one of the foremost painters in this country, was building a new house. And Dorothy Wright Liebes, a leading textile designer, had a new house a-building, too. They made a deal. Jane Berlandina gave Mrs. Liebes a painting. Mrs. Liebes designed fabrics for Miss Berlandina's furniture.

The big Berlandina painting above is in a room of the Liebes home. The bright pinks, blues and greens of the picture inspire the color scheme of the rest of the room.

For the home of the painter, Jane Berlandina, her friend the designer, Dorothy Wright Liebes, chose fabrics in beige and natural shades for this room. The modern stairway was designed by Jane's husband, Henry Howard.

Dame Fashion Welcomes A Refugee

Eric Kolb looks over a sketch with his wife, who, incidentally looks after many details for him. It was she who worked out the detail of getting out of France.

New York—The are refugees, so ignorant of the language that they ordered bacon and got banana splits.

But the men, Eric Kolb (he is thoroughly French) thinks up wonderful ideas for women's clothes and makes sketches of them. At least Patou thought his ideas were wonderful enough to buy, and so did Balenciaga and Lelong.

He's Satisfied
Mr. Kolb grins all over himself at his good fortune to be in America, even if money is running low and all the women look so well dressed already that he can't imagine what use his designing art will be.

New York dress houses are bidding for Kolb's services and it's likely he'll soon influence what we wear.

The dress houses know that Kolb and a few other designer-artists by his big name is determining what way the silhouette would jump. These men supplied most of the French dressmakers with sketches.

For A Secretarree
Kolb is sketching now. He has an idea for a "dress for a secretarree," he being convinced that America is a land of secretarrees. It is a simple black wool to be worn in the office and at evening. It is transformed at 5 o'clock. Mr. Kolb says "does anybody know a secretarree who is through at 5 o'clock?" into an engagement—not date—dress.

Blackout Baby Has A Glamour Glow

By MARGARET KERNODLE

New York—She's a blackout baby with a glamour glow.

The blackout feature of this new doll is not a matter of necessity, for she was born in America, where there are no air-raid signals and where little children need not grope in darkness for dolls and toys.

By day she looks like any other doll.

But by night (after the lights go out) she glows like a star of three dimensions. She's been touched by a magic that is being sprayed on many dolls and novelties this season.

The magic is baked on a $50-a-pound product from Denmark.

It took Iris Halsey of New York two years of experimenting to figure out the formula that makes this American toy glow with a substance that is washable, harmless and permanent.

All you have to do is expose the doll or Christmas figurine to daylight or ordinary electric light for a few seconds before turning the lights out.

The glow then lasts several hours and re-exposure starts it again after it dims.

Last year she illuminated religious objects only. This season she is spending most of her time either in a Rockefeller Center toy quartet or at work in her laboratory in her Brooklyn home.

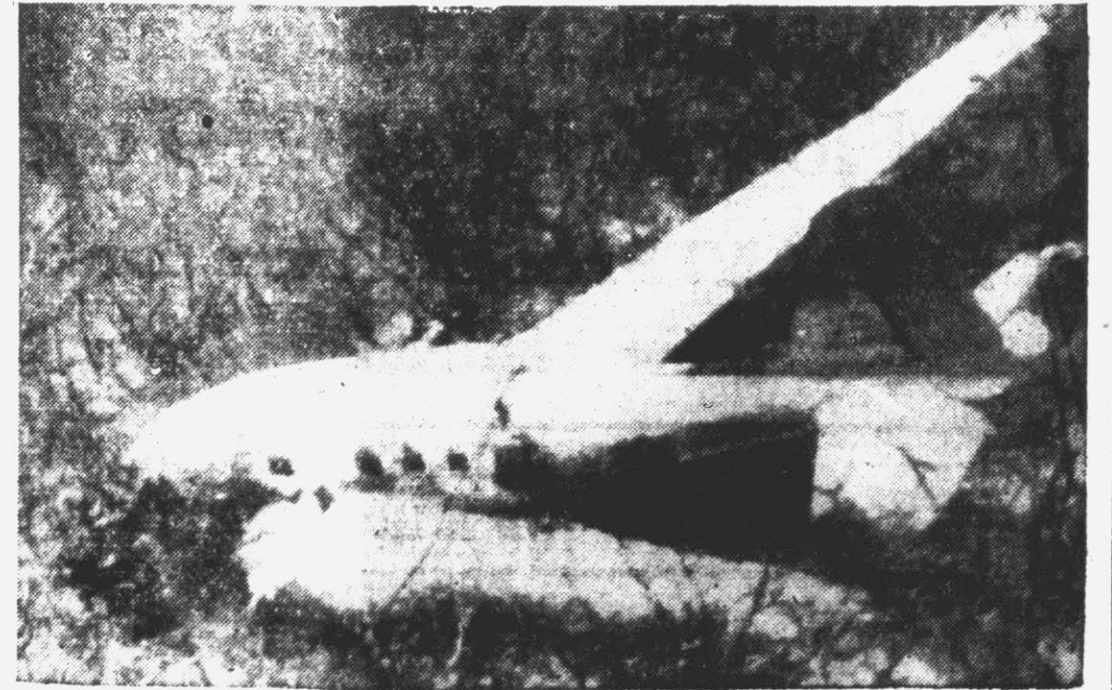

She's spending so much time in her business of making scientific magic for night that she's quit nursing.

Where 10 Perished In Crash Of Airliner

Seven passengers and three crew members were killed in the wreckage of this United Airlines transport plane which became lost in a snow storm and crashed into a mountain side 13 miles northeast of Salt Lake City, Utah. Note that the top of the plane was split in two by the force of the impact.

Lost Airliner Found Wrecked In Mountains

Hours after a United Airlines passenger plane became lost in a snow storm at Salt Lake City, wreckage of the ship was found in a snow-covered canyon in the Wasatch mountains of Utah. This picture of the ruins was made from a searching plane. No sign of life was visible. Later, ground parties reached the scene and sent word back that all ten persons aboard had perished. There were seven passengers and three crew members.

Two Big-Five Contests Feature This Week's Grid Card

DUKE'S DEVILS TO FACE CATS

State Vs. WFC At Raleigh; UNC Goes To Richmond

Wake Forest, Nov. 7.—With the stage all set for a great game between their respective football teams Saturday afternoon in Raleigh, students, alumni and other backers of N. C. State and Wake Forest will practically take over Raleigh Saturday as the largest crowd ever to attend a State-Wake battle is expected to be on hand for the kick-off in Riddick stadium at 2 o'clock.

State college athletic officials have erected extra temporary bleachers in every possible space and the Wolfpack sports publicist, Wade Iron, reports an advancing sale of tickets even heavier than for the contest of 1938. That game witnessed by 18,000, established an attendance record for the annual classic, but this year's crowd is expected to exceed that mark.

Coch Peabody Walker of Wake Forest has pronounced his squad ready for Saturday's important tilt. Frank Kapriva and Louis Trunzo, two injured guards, will be back in condition and Kapriva will start at his left guard post.

Durham, Nov. 7.—Duke's Blue Devils start down the stretch drive of their campaign for a third straight Southern Conference crown when they go against Davidson in Duke stadium Saturday.

The Blue Devils, winners of the title outright in 1938 and co-champions with Clemson last season, face three conference foes in a row starting with the Wildcats Saturday. The following week they meet North Carolina in one of the nation's football classics and then face N. C. State. The Carolina game will be played at Chapel Hill, the State game in Duke stadium as will the final contest of the year with Pitt, November 30.

Duke has even more things at stake in these three games. The Blue Devils have not been beaten in loop competition since Carolina last pulled the stunt in 1937. That is their only loop loss since 1934 when again it was Carolina that beat them. Duke has won or shared in conference crowns for four of the past five years and will at least get a share of this year's spoils if they are able to come through these three battles.

Davidson has not beaten the Blue Devils since 1929 but the Wildcats did battle Wallace Wade's first Duke team to a scoreless tie in 1931. Since then Duke has been superior but the games have always been terrifically fought.

Chapel Hill, Nov. 7.—A brilliant array of speedy backs will match runs, punts, and passes at Richmond Saturday when the Universities of North Carolina and Richmond clash in City stadium at 2:30 o'clock.

Leaders in the Tar Heels' well balanced running and passing attack are Veterans Jim Lalanne, Harry Dunkle, Don Baker, Roy Connor, Frank O'Hare, and Sid Sadoff and Sophomores Johnny Pecko, Joe Austin, Dave Barksdale, Mike Coora and Bill Big.

Richmond has two fast, light infantry backfields with Arthur Jones, Lem Fitzgerald, Joe Mack and Warren Pace comprising one quartet and "Sonny" Whaley, Ned Butcher, Joe Fortunato, and Frank Baker making up the other foursome.

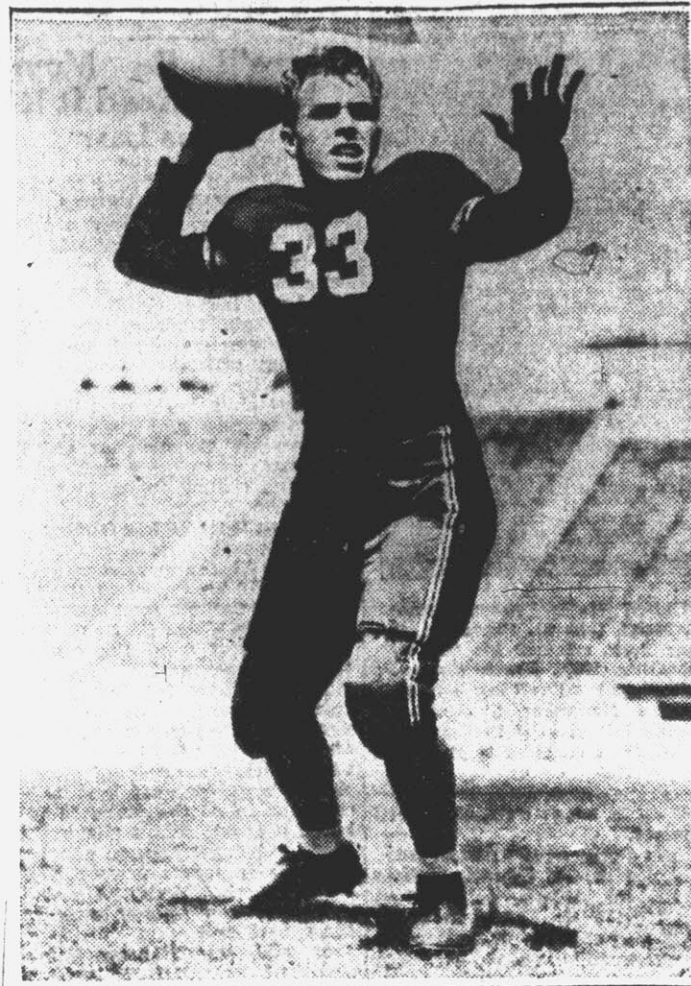

Just over a suicidal stretch with Fordham, Tulane and TCU, Carolina has had to rest its vets and groom its rookies this week. The Tar Heels, however, are striving to regain their Tulane peak for Richmond, which has lost only one Southern game and which Carolina's scouts rank as the best team in Virginia on the records up to date.

Duke's Newest

FRANK SWIGER—HALFBACK

Here's Frank Swiger, newest star in the Duke football camp and he rose to the heights in the Blue Devils' 41-7 victory over Georgia Tech Saturday. After the first team had scored three times, Swiger went into the lineup with the reserves, personally made one touchdown and set up Duke's other two. He ran with the ball 15 times from scrimmage for a net of 121 yards or a 8.1 yard average. He threw six passes, completed five for 108 yards, accounting for one touchdown and setting up the other. He kicked twice for 59 yards and made one punt return of 10 yards. He will be seen Saturday when the Blue Devils return to conference competition against Davidson.

of satisfaction it is difficult only to figure out how there could have been as many as there were G. O. P. votes in the ballot boxes. Evidently those who had opposed Mr. Roosevelt were not going around boasting of it.

Success of the state ticket, headed by Mr. Broughton, was so universally expected that the scope of this sweep has so far escaped any great amount of comment hereabout. No doubt when the first wave of Roosevelt enthusiasm has subsided the folks will begin to think of that, too, and do so more cheerfully.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—One of the sure ways of seeing a first class Broadway show free is to catch it in its rehearsal stages. This is easy, as rehearsals go on all the time. They take place in empty halls and untenanted theaters. Actors and directors move around in street clothes and if you can get into the theater without the doorman throwing you out, no one will say anything to you.

Watching the better known actors and actresses rehearse informally is novel entertainment. Some scores may come "instinctively." Others may require weeks of correction. It is a back-breaking and sometimes heart-breaking experience. Rehearsals may last only a few hours, and again they may take up most of the night. Once you're into a rehearsal it is impossible to tell just how much, or little a play has. The shrewdest observers on earth are unable to tell. The answer can come only after the finished product is unveiled before a full, live audience.

But drama is different. For a few days the cast sits around and reads its lines. Then they go through their parts on the stage. Some others may come "instinctively." Others may require weeks of correction. It is a back-breaking and sometimes heart-breaking experience. Rehearsals may last only a few hours, and again they may take up most of the night. Once you're into a rehearsal it is impossible to tell just how much, or little a play has. The shrewdest observers on earth are unable to tell. The answer can come only after the finished product is unveiled before a full, live audience.

I like to sit in on any rehearsal where Irving Berlin is. No rookie could be more enthusiastic. He is everywhere at once with undiminished pep. When he explains the accent he wants on one of his songs, he plays it and sings the lyrics. He has no voice—it is a half-cracked and a whisper. But he sings as heartily as a cock crowing for sunrise.

Noel Coward is a tireless worker. He has unlimited patience. He will re-enact one scene a dozen times in a dozen ways, for a director. "We have to get this thing right," he says. "I wrote it but you tell me how to act it."

Katharine Cornell has to be watched during rehearsal. She will work until she falls if they let her. She thinks her husband, Guthrie McClintic, is the best director on earth. He directs all her plays.

Musical shows and dramas have entirely different rehearsal formulas. Take the Ed Wynn show as an example. Wynn and his "name" performers rehearse in one place. The scenes worked at the same time but in another building a half mile away. The chorus also had different rehearsal halls and hours. After each "group" mastered its foolery the parts were assembled into a whole.

Congratulations to Ted Lewis, the old high hatted tragedian of jazz. The musician, who always claims he is "just a farmer from Circleville, O.," is celebrating his 25th year in show business.

Raleigh Is All Smiles Over Election Results

Reflector Bureau

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Nov. 7.—Raleigh has been all smiles ever since Tuesday night returns showed the re-election of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and revealed the tremendous tidal wave of votes which have swept local Lawyer J. Melville Broughton into the governor's mansion, which he will occupy for four years from next January.

From Governor Clyde R. Hoey down through the lowest janitor, the state's employees, have been unrestrainedly rejoicing at the election results. This rejoicing has been doubly unrestrained because the closing drive of the Republicans had without a doubt thrown many of them into something resembling a panic. Aside from the governor who stood serene in his confidence of victory all the way, there were few who had not been at least slightly scared by the G. O. P.'s flood of propaganda and claims of victory to come.

The governor commented that even in the dreariest days for the Democrats, some two to three decades ago, he was able to work up a feeling of enthusiasm and confidence and "I could do it then when we really didn't have a chance, it was no trouble at all to do it this time when the confidence was justified."

In serious vein he added that he has no fear that the campaign will leave any wounds which cannot be healed at once.

Blount Harvey Bowlers Stop Olde Towne Inn

By C. B. Rowlett

With the help of the thirty-two point spot given Blount-Harvey because of the different standing between them and the Olde Towne Inn, Blount Harvey took two-out-of-three from the Restaurant bowlers last evening in the local health center. Scores stood at 495 to 498, 510 to 494, and 521 to 458.

In the first game that the restaurant boys took there was only a three point difference. Ramsey Potts led the department store bowlers with a mark of 126 while all the rest failed to muster a score of 90. Aycock was runner-up with 88. J. C. Horton, Olde Towne Inn's best, rolled into the front for the cafe boys with a mark of 112. Broadhurst and Morris were runner-up with a mark of 106 and 105, respectively.

The department store boys came back in the second box and with the help of the thirty-two pin spot took the Olde Towne Inn by a margin of 16 pins, half of the number spotted. Aycock with second high score for the night led the winners, with a score of 123. Fetner with a 103 score was runner-up on the Blount-Harvey team. Winstead and Broadhurst came out in front for the restaurant boys that second game with marks of 118 and 115, respectively.

In the third and last game of the match in which Blount Harvey took even without the usual spot, Potts again came into the limelight with a mark of 118 for the winners. Runner-up went to "Mo" Blount with a 102 score. Horton bowled his usually good game and topped the losers with a 115 mark. With the exception of Potts, Blount and Horton, no other bowlers could break the 100 mark.

Ramsey Potts led both teams for high-score with marks of 126-97-118, or a combined score of 341.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

Hollywood.—John Loder is one of those actors whose own life stories are more interesting than even the best of the films in which they appear. If he ever writes his autobiography, put the book on your list. He's 42 now, and he's been living on borrowed time since he was 18—which gives you a slight idea.

Loder's tall (6 feet, 3 inches) British actor, now playing a second lead in "Tin Pan Alley," who persists in looking like a Joel McCrea at an age when most actors slip happily into well-pounded "characters."

He laughs about it. "I keep fit by doing everything I shouldn't—I like my food and my drink. Before a picture I have to starve a few days, but otherwise... Seriously, it may be because I had army life so young. Living outdoors, regular hours. Wonderful for you when you're young."

Loder was 18 in 1914 and he tried to get into the British army by saying he was 18. A year later when he'd finished Sandhurst, he did get in, more eager than ever since his brother meanwhile had died in action. With his Sandhurst second lieutenant's commission, he went to the front. The closing year of the war saw him in the thick of the last big German drive toward Paris. His little detachment was covering a retreat. The boys did some effective covering—when the Germans captured the survivors the commander ordered them shot im-

New York Cotton

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened three lower to one higher.

The list held 12 to 13 points higher around midday with December and March each trading at 9.10; July 9.53 and October 9.08.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Stocks moved upward sharply today in a fast recovery from their post-election lows, some leaders advancing around five points.

The trading rate after a slow start was brisk toward the fourth hour.

Wall Street analysis laid the burst of activity to Secretary Morgenthau's request for an increase in the national debt limit, saying buyers evidently held such action to have inflationary implications.

IS DETERMINED TO BUILD ROAD

There'll Be Mount Mitchel Road If It Takes Law

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Nov. 7.—There will be a road (state-owned, passable and toll-free) to within 500 feet of the summit of Mount Mitchell, even if it takes a law to get it.

The State Highway and Public Works Commission will not admit anything officially about it, but construction of such a road will almost certainly begin next Spring.

Between now and then the Department of Conservation and Development is to get a right-of-way and land enough for parking areas from the Wilson interests which have been more or less feuding with the state agency for several years—the climax being reached when they blocked off their part of the present Mt. Mitchell road and began charging tolls on C. C. C. trucks going to and from the camp on the State Park area.

There's where the law may become necessary. The Department plans to make every effort to reach an agreement with the Wilson interests over purchase of a sufficiently large piece of land to suit construction of the proposed road; but if it is felt that a "holdup" attitude is being taken, an effort will be made to secure passage by the 1941 General Assembly of a statute giving the agency power to condemn the needed area.

As said, the Highway Commission isn't yet ready to make any announcement on the subject and therefore, isn't saying over exactly what route the new road will be built; but it is learned on complete reliable authority that the new road will branch off the Blue Ridge Parkway and will go to within a very short step—perhaps 500 feet of the mountain's summit.

It will run about two and a half miles from Swannanoa Gap to Step's Gap over the Parkway; thence about the same distance to the summit. The last stretch will be well graded and will be an all-weather two-way highway—something that the present approaches to the summit are far from being.

The only "all-weather" about the present road is that it's always wet and it is two-way only in that there are occasional niches into which one car can drive and stop while another squeezes by in the opposite direction.

Plans are also being made for construction of a parking area, practically at the summit—one large enough to accommodate a hundred cars.

Aside from procuring a right-of-way and other needed land from the four-acre Wilson tract, the only remaining barriers to construction of the highway are (1) permission from the Parkway authorities to use that scenic road for hauling of construction materials to be used on the last stretches of the mountain road, and (2) actual authorization by the Highway Commission for expenditure of the funds necessary for the road's construction.

Neither seems to present any real difficulty. The Parkway people will undoubtedly give the needed permission and the state road group has already virtually approved the expenditure.

So next summer the highest peak in Eastern North America ought to be accessible by a modern road, and instead, therefore, become an asset instead of a liability in North Carolina's campaign to attract visiting tourists from other states.

Beer Committee Report Runs Into Big Figures

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Nov. 6.—The Brewers and North Carolina Beer Distributors have some rather impressive figures in the latest report of activities since the committee started functioning last May 18 under direction of Colonel Edgar H. Bain of Goldsboro.

For instance, it is reported that the State Director, this Colonel Bain, the public relations director and the field inspector have travelled a total of 62,244 miles on committee business—which if made on foot would probably grow enough corn to feed starving Europe this winter; and a lot of miles even if travelled by the most modern of conveyances.

Then there's in the report another item which shows in part why the paper business has been booming and why the Postoffice Department's deficit isn't so heavy. The committee, it seems, has mailed no less than 33,044 bulletins, letters, news releases and other communications to retailers, distributors, brewer members and newspapers of the state.

Result of these releases has been publication of 3,111 news articles published in 163 different newspapers and 96 editorials appearing in 42 different newspapers.

Practically all of the editorials have been favorable which is rather surprising in that such staunchly "dry" sheets as the Raleigh News and Observer are included in the list. The committee does considerable pointing with pride to the N and O's editorial statement: "Of course the beer people in trying to clean up the business surrounding the sale of beer act in selfishness—Politicians might learn from the enlightened brewers that a little cleaner politics like a little cleaner beer business may be the best basis for a longer life in office as well as in the sale of beer in bottles or cans."

On the actual enforcement side of the "Clean Up or Close Up" campaign the committee reports the following facts and figures:

One hundred eight licenses revoked on recommendation of the committee.

Two licenses surrendered after committee filed petition.

Twenty-three cases in which authorities refused to renew licenses on information furnished by the committee.

That brought to 133 the number of dealers who lost their licenses either by revocation, surrender or failure to secure renewals as the result of the committee's activities.

Besides that, five dealers, were placed on probation; 174 warnings were issued by the state director; 27 dealers corrected conditions after receipt of warnings; and a grand total of 1,233 retail establishments were investigated.

Colonel Bain has expressed considerable satisfaction with results of his campaign to date.

He considers especially helpful the sympathetic attitude of the papers which have expressed themselves editorially. He cites among the papers who have carried complimentary editorials, the Raleigh News and Observer, Shelby Star, Asheville Citizen, Rocky Mount Telegram, Fayetteville Observer, Durham Sun, Greensboro Record, Concord Tribune, Tarboro Southern Statesville Daily, Kannapolis Independent, Greensboro Daily News Asheville Times, Salisbury Post and Gastonia Gazette.
