GREECE APPEALS TO "FREE COUNTRIES" FOR AID

STORM CURBS AERIAL BLOWS BY EACH SIDE

Britain Reports Few Casualties, Little Damage

RAF SQUADRON STRIKES TARGET

London Has Four Alarms, But Reports No Bombs Dropped; Liverpool And Midlands Area Hit

(By The Associated Press) A storm over Britain and the English channel cut down the customary trading of air blows last night between Britain and Germany.

The British reported few casualties and little damage from bombings at Liverpool, in one Midlands community and along the south coast. London, which had four alarms during the night, reported no bombs were dropped there.

One small squadron of Royal Air Force bombers was said to have struck through the storm in a raid on "an oil target" in central Germany.

Hitler's high command asserted that 10 British merchant ships totalling 52,200 tons, were torpedoed or dive-bombed to the bottom off England yesterday and last night.

German warplanes were reported to have set new fires raging at Coventry, the English Midlands town which was attacked by 500 raiders the night of November 14 and at Birmingham and Liverpool.

The London Admiralty acknowledged the loss of 13 merchant ships totalling 71,740 tons in the week ending November 10-11, but said that in the same period the Germans claimed to have sunk 140,414 tons—almost twice as much.

Final Rites Held For Mrs. Gladson

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Frances Buck Gladson, 65, who died at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Gray, of Paeolus, yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock, were conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home by Rev. L. E. Ballard, Free Will Baptist Minister of Greenville. Burial followed in the Harris family cemetery near Paeolus.

Mrs. Gladson is survived by two sons, Fred C. Gladson, of Vanceboro, and John Hymen Gladson of Paeolus; three daughters, Mrs. T. E. Gray of Paeolus; Mrs. Nan Gray of Greenville; 36 grandchildren; a brother, Major Buck of near Greenville; three sisters, Mrs. Lovie Hunt of near Greenville; Mrs. Bryant Adams, Black Jack and Mrs. Jessie Godley of Chocowinity.

Mrs. Gladson had lived the last twenty years in the Paeolus Community.

Warren Insurance Case Is Up Again

Today's session of civil court was taken up with the airing in Superior court for the fifth time the case of Mrs. Rena Warren vs. the Pilot Life Insurance company, with headquarters in Greensboro.

Mrs. Warren is seeking to recover double indemnity on a $2,500 life insurance policy carried on the life of her son, Alexander Warren, who was killed in February, 1936, by Alexander Tate, Negro, who has been executed for the crime.

The plaintiff contends that Warren's death was accidental and that she is entitled to double indemnity. The case has been to the State Supreme court three times and a mistrial was declared another time when the jurors failed to agree on a verdict.

Albion Dunn is representing the plaintiff and J. B. James is attorney for the insurance company.

The session started yesterday morning with Judge Luther Hamilton of Morehead City presiding. Two divorces were granted at the opening day session. They were issued in the cases of Helene Bryan vs. Sidney E. Bryant, white, and Lorena Short vs. Isalia Short, colored.

Also disposed of at yesterday's session was the case of C. C. Harris receiver vs. Channie May. The case involved ownership of a Negro house in Farmville and under an agreement reached the Negro woman is to be paid $75 if she vacates the property by December 1.

Assignments were a paper money issued in France in the latter part of the 18th century.

Navy Speeds Up Plans Set Up Bases On Sites Acquired From Britain

First Under Draft

"You are the first man in the United States to be inducted under this program (Selective Service Act)." Capt. Harold E. Linderson told John Edward Lawton (above), unemployed plumber's helper who led a group of 11 draftees who volunteered at Boston to be the first of 800,000 in the nation to be taken into the service by June 30. Lawton is 21 and single.

FDR SENDS NEW PLEA TO LABOR

Chief Executive Proposes Just And Honorable Peace

New Orleans, Nov. 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt in a message to the American Federation of Labor today urged a "just and honorable peace" within the now divided labor movement in the United States and suggested that labor leaders can find a way toward that end.

"Peace will not be easy to achieve," the President said in a letter to the American Federation of Labor President William Green, who had it read to the convention and the intricate problems involved may not be easy to solve.

"But when men of honor and good intentions," the President said "sit down together they can work out a solution which will restore the much needed harmony either by unit or by a sensible working arrangement."

In his message the chief executive stressed the need for "a great and united democracy" in "any emergency which might be forced upon us."

Green, in an answering telegram, assured the President that the American Federation of Labor executive council was in full agreement that unity or a "sensible working arrangement" can be worked out by men of "honor and good intentions."

Dr. Massey's Father Dies In Princeton

James I. Massey, lifelong resident of Princeton, N. C., and father of Dr. M. B. Massey of this city, died at his home at 11:30 o'clock last night following an extended illness.

Mr. Massey, who was a farmer, would have been 83-years-old today. He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Annie Tojar, two daughters, Mrs. W. P. Suggs of Princeton and Mrs. Wray Whitley of Durham, and one son, Dr. Massey of Greenville.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Coach At College Civic Club Guest

Coach John Christenbury and several members of his East Carolina Teachers College football squad were guests of the Greenville Rotary club at its regular meeting last night.

After President Jonathan Overton turned the meeting over to Wayland Sermons, who, as acting chairman of the Boys' Work committee, had charge of the program, Coach (Continued on page six)

PROPOSES PLAN TAKE UP SLACK

Predicts Armament Program To Double The Unemployment Problem Unless Action Is Taken Now

Washington, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The navy's plans to rush construction, informed persons said today, on a $60,000,000 chain of bases for the sites acquired from Britain in the Western Hemisphere.

There also were indications that United States naval tenders might move into some of the newly acquired anchorages immediately and provide temporary base facilities for American submarines and seaplanes guarding the Atlantic and Caribbean approaches to the Panama Canal area.

The way to a general start of construction and partial occupancy of some bases appeared cleared by the navy's formal announcement last night that "all the British authorities concerned" had agreed upon sites to be leased by the government in Bermuda, the Bahamas, Jamaica, Antigua, St. Lucia, British Guiana and Newfoundland.

Only at Trinidad, the southern "anchor" of the chain, were arrangements still incomplete. The navy said consultations were continuing on the exact facilities to be granted at Trinidad.

American surveying parties already are at work in Newfoundland; northern "anchor" of the chain, where a major defense post is planned including an air base and army training ground, a naval base and Newfoundland.

These facilities at Newfoundland and the coast of Canada, would put warships and planes on the flank of any enemy fleet which attempted to attack this country from the north Atlantic.

State-Wide Meet To Be Held Here

"Home Economics and Defense" will be the general theme of the annual meeting of the North Carolina Student Home Economics Clubs Association which will meet at Carolina Teachers College, Greenville, on November 22 and 23. Invitations have been issued to all Home Economics Clubs of the colleges and high schools throughout the state. Around 250 delegates are expected.

Miss Agnes Watson, East Carolina Teachers College senior, who is state president of the association, will preside.

Miss Katherine Holtzclaw, head of the Home Economics Department of the College will bring greetings to the convention at the first general session Friday afternoon.

Speakers for the occasion will be Miss Virginia Ward, assistant supervisor of Home Economics in this state, who will talk on "Organization, Aims, and Activities of the American Home Economics Association" and Dr. John Barclay of Wilson, whose topic will be "The Home and National Defense."

Mrs. Mabel O. Cotten, Student Club Advisor, will direct the business meeting of the second session which will convene at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning and will call for reports from the North Carolina clubs. At the close of this meeting Miss Ellen Brewer, head of the Home Economics Department of Meredith College and Miss Frances McGregor, assistant 4-H Club supervisor, will lead two groups in discussing the topic, "My Part as a Future Home Economist in National Defense."

Delegates will register from 10 to 11 o'clock on Friday. The general sessions are scheduled for 2:30 Friday afternoon and 9 Saturday morning.

For entertainment of the delegates there will be teas on Friday afternoon—for college and high school students in the new classroom building of the College; for the faculty advisers, in the college Home Management House. An informal banquet will be served Friday night in the college dining hall. The meeting will close Saturday at noon.

Bonner's Committees. Washington, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The House today named Rep. Bonner (D-N.C.) to its standing committees on Accounts, Roads and Merchant Marine and Fisheries. These were the same assignments held by former Rep. Warren, Bonner's predecessor.

Hitler Rapidly Forming Axis Empire In Europe

New Diplomatic Activity Indicates Germany Attempting to Bring Bulgaria And Hungary Into Fold In Campaign To Array Entire European Continent In Political Ties Against Britain

(By The Associated Press) Adolf Hitler is rapidly forging an "Axis empire" in Europe, it became increasingly clear today, attempting step by step to array a whole continent in political ties against Great Britain.

Amid a new flurry of diplomatic activity, presumably bringing Bulgaria and Hungary within the Axis fold, the German fuhrer was evidently drawing his lines swiftly to present Britain with a fait accompli of European "unity."

DNB, the official German news agency, disclosed that Hungary is next on the list for Axis discussions—starting in Vienna tomorrow—and the King Boris of Bulgaria secretly conferred with Hitler at his Bavarian mountain retreat Sunday.

Previously either Hitler or his Axis partner, Mussolini, have conferred with leaders of Soviet Russia, France, Spain and Rumania. If successful, these talks would appear to leave Europe virtually a "closed corporation" under a Rome-Berlin Axis directorate, except for conquered nations and the four neutral states of Switzerland, Sweden, Portugal and Yugoslavia.

In the fact of official reticence, the Nazi foreign office mouthpiece described Hitler's activity as a "clear sign that the goal of building Europe on completely new principles is being brought nearer realization."

Hungary's premier and foreign minister, Count Teleky and Count Csaky, will go to Vienna tomorrow to confer with German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop and Italian Foreign Minister Count Ciano. It was officially announced today at Budapest.

Rome, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Italian sources asserted today that Bulgaria and Rumania would join in forthcoming war moves by Germany and Italy.

Spain's decision, these sources said, will become known after the Spanish Foreign Minister returns to Madrid following his conversations with Adolf Hitler yesterday.

Bern, Switzerland, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Diplomatic sources asserted today that a German-Bulgarian drive toward the Aegean sea and Salonika in Greece "may be effected at any hour."

A Greek spokesman declared that his country's high command had taken all necessary steps to meet such an attack.

Foreign military observers here expressed belief the Greeks could not hope to defend the narrow peninsula of Macedonia and Thrace along the Aegean sea unless Turkey comes to their aid, but might try to hold the city of Salonika.

Postpone Board Meet To Elect New Mayor

The meeting of the Greenville Board of Aldermen which had been set for tonight again was postponed today, but members expressed the belief it would be held during the latter part of the week.

The board will meet in an attempt to name a successor to Mayor Jack Spain, who resigned to become Rep. Bonner's secretary. The board was unable to agree on a new mayor at its regular November meeting, at which Mayor Spain resigned.

The meeting was postponed after having been set for tonight following the death of James I. Massey of Princeton, father of Dr. M. B. Massey, one of the members of the board.

REPORTS ROLL CALL OFF TO GOOD START

The roll call for membership in the Red Cross got off to a good start this morning, it was stated by chapter officials. With volunteers from the Service League, Senior Woman's Club and Junior Woman's Club participating in the drive for 2,500 members.

J. Nat Harrison, chairman of the Pitt county chapter, stated, "It is my hope that we bring this drive for members this year to a speedy and successful conclusion."

"The need for Red Cross help this year is greater than ever before and the Pitt county chapter should put its shoulder to the wheel and help the world out in our small way. Join the Red Cross today. Give as much as you possibly can and help the thousands who are in distress today."

Two Perish In Southern Train Wreckage

Engineer E. B. Mercer of Macon, Ga., and Fireman Paul M. Johnson also of Macon, were killed in the wrecking of the Southern Railway's fast train, the Kansas City-Florida Special, at Pine Grove, Ga. The engine and five cars turned over when the train struck a switch.

Labor Trouble Arises At Nantahala Project

Claim Tar Heels Seek To Force Out Northerners

Andrews, N. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Sheriff A. B. Slagle kept deputies posted today at the Nantahala river dam project after a round of fist fights which a labor union spokesman asserted appeared aimed at "driving northern workmen out."

James C. Turner, business agent of the Operating Engineers Union (American Federation of Labor) said workers in this vicinity instigated the fighting in an effort to discourage skilled workmen from the north and thus give employment to more natives.

A 270-foot dam is being built by the Nantahala Power and Light company, a subsidiary of the Aluminum Company of America, which has plants at Badin, N. C., and Alcoa, Tenn.

Turner said 85 per cent of approximately 700 men employed on the dam project were natives of the region and the others were northern workers skilled in tunnel building. He said skilled tunnel workers were few in this region.

Sheriff Slagle said about 100 men left their jobs yesterday after receiving their pay, but he did not know how many of them were from outside the state.

No one was seriously injured in yesterday's fighting, the sheriff said, but there were some reports that some spokesman for the tunnel workers had been thrown into the river.

Turner declared Governor Hoy had told him in a telephone conversation that an immediate investigation would be started.

W. A. Ryan Asked Address Jewish Men

Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian church, again has been invited to address a group of professional Jewish men of New York City and is in that metropolis to fill the engagement.

Rev. Mr. Ryan spoke to the group this past summer a year ago on the topic of "Bases for Cooperation between Jews and Christians."

In the second address, he was scheduled to lead the group in a discussion on "Facing a Jewish Problem."

The repeat invitation is regarded as quite an honor for the local minister.

New President Named By Davidson College

Davidson, N. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Rev. John Rood Cunningham, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Winston-Salem, was elected president of Davidson college today by the board of trustees. He succeeds Dr. Walter L. Lingle.

Dr. Lingle, president since 1929, asked to be relieved of his duties in June, 1939, but at the request of the board has remained at his post until a successor could be named.

Plea Aimed At Britain And the U.S.

Press Minister Warns Public Not To Be Misled By Current Greek Victories And Adds That His Nation Will Not Make Same Mistake Finland Did In Being Content With First Successes

Athens, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Greece appealed to the "free countries" of the world today to help her in her war against Italy, with the declaration by Theo Nicoloudis, Press Minister, that they should not be misled by current Greek successes.

He appealed especially to Britain and the United States in a talk with foreign newspaper correspondents to send the greatest possible number of planes, and compared Greece's present situation with that of Finland in the struggle with Russia a year ago.

Washington, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Greek government has appealed directly to the United States government for permission to purchase aviation and other military supplies.

This was made known today by Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, who said the Greek government had been assured that the appeal would receive a most sympathetic response.

Welles said the matter had been referred to other government departments for consideration.

Nicoloudis spoke as Italian troops were reported moving slowly out of Koritza after two weeks of Greek battering against the fortified Albanian city.

"We won't make the same mistake as heroic Finland which, content with her first successes, failed to ask for help from abroad," Nicoloudis said.

"Despite our epic victories, despite our unshakable faith in our cause which is blessed by God, we appeal with all our force to public opinion of our allies and of foreigners while there is still time so that aerial support given Greece may be extended without delay."

The Greeks, he continued, are fighting an enemy six times greater in war materials. In the Koritza area, he declared, the Italians are using 400 planes.

Reuters, British news agency, in a dispatch from Belgrade, said the city of Koritza fell to Greek troops at 1 a. m. today.

Greek military sources, however, made no immediate claim of capturing the strategic crossroads city 10 miles inside Albania, but a government spokesman declared last night that Fascist defenders in the Koritza sector had given up counter attacks and called upon their dive bombers to cover their withdrawal to positions farther back.

The spokesman said "we continue to crush successfully the enemy lines" in a squeeze to cut off the Italians' road of retreat.

Heb, Heb Spartanburg, S. C.—(AP)—Patrolman Hugh Chivers jokingly told graduates of his school of safe driving that fitting gifts for teacher would be a cigar from each boy and a kiss from each girl. Came graduation and each girl dropped a candy kiss into teacher's hat. Children didn't get the cigars either.

Chicod P. T. A. Meets.
Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock, the Chicod P. T. A. held its regular monthly meeting.

The meeting was one of the most interesting of the year. The president stressed membership and asked the P. T. A. members to help the membership chairman to get more members. Miss Kennedy, the music teacher, assisted at the piano by Mrs. Tyree Duck and the junior glee club, furnished special music which was enjoyed very much.

Mr. Newman Lewis introduced the guest speakers, who were Mrs. D. M. Clark and Mr. S. O. Worthington. Mrs. Clark used as her subject "The Survey of Youth." She pointed out many things such as cost of children in school, why so many children never finish high school, and more than anything else, the need of vocational training in our schools. Mr. Worthington has given a subject, but gave a splendid talk on the need of vocational training and agriculture in our schools.

To the Chicod parents:—Support your local Red Cross this week. It needs you.

Christian Science Church.
"Mortals and Immortals" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, November 17.

The golden text was from John 12:25. "He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "I therefore pray for thee, O Lord, because thou art worthy of the vocation wherewith thou art called. That ye put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts; and that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness." (Ephesians 4:1, 22, 24).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. "Man understands spiritual existence in proportion as his treasures of Truth and Love are enlarged. Mortals must gravitate Godward, their affections and aims grow spiritual; they must near the broader interpretations of being, and gain some proper sense of the infinite—in order that sin and mortality may be put off. This scientific sense of being, forerunning matter for Spirit, by

A. A. U. W. Meets.
A very informative and artistic program on the music of the small democracies recently overcome by Germany was presented last evening in the Austin building of the college at the monthly meeting of the American Association of University Women, held under the leadership of Miss Gussie Kuykendall and Miss Hazel Elsom of the Music Department of the college. Mr. Denton Rossell, voice teacher at the college, his accompanist, Miss Wilda Royall, advanced student of piano; J. N. Williams, brilliant piano pupil of Miss Lois Gorrell; and Miss Cornelia Keuzenkamp, talented violinist whose training for the past five years was under a violin master in Belgium, were the others who contributed to an hour of music by Grieg, Dvorak and Chopin.

Miss Elsom introduced the program by a talk on the rise of nationalism in music during the latter half of the nineteenth century. This development came, she said, as a result of the desire on the part of countries to break away from the German influence that had long dominated all music expression. To preserve their national integrity, composers produced a music that used folk songs and folk dances as a source of inspiration. This national music is spontaneous and appealing, and from great composers is universally comprehensive. Famous composers cited by Miss Elsom were Grieg from Norway, Dvorak from Czechoslovakia, and Chopin and Paderewski from Poland.

Miss Keuzenkamp continued the program by interpretative comments preceding presentation of great compositions by the artists. "Norwegian Bridal Procession," one of Grieg's most colorful piano compositions, was presented by Victrola record. Two of Grieg's songs, "In a Boat," and "A Swan," the latter a very fanciful song, rendered in the Norwegian language, and Dvorak's "Song, My Mother Sang" were sung by Mr. Rossell, in his sympathetic tenor voice. "Mazurka in D Minor," played by Paderewski, was presented on the Victrola as an example of Chopin's idealization of the dance tunes of Poland; and J. N. Williams played with fluent expressiveness Chopin's "Fantaisie Impromptu." Miss Keuzenkamp spoke feelingly on Belgium as a music center, with Brussels as "the crossroads of music" and Liege as the home of great artists and the site of a great concert hall in which the finest musicians of every nation have performed. She paid grateful tribute to her own master and to other great masters, and expressed the wish that time may restore to the opportunity to music lovers to know Belgium and the other small democracies as lands of music.

This program is the second in the series which the A. A. U. W. is offering this winter on the general theme of the contributions of democratic ideals and culture by the small democracies recently overcome by Germany.

The meeting closed with a business session in which the group voted unanimously to sponsor in February the presentation of one of the plays available from the Claire Tree Major Children's Theatre. This is the best known theatrical company for children's plays in this country, and it will bring to Greenville children opportunity to see for a few cents a performance with the same cast, costumes, and stage settings as is presented in New York theatres at city prices. The appearance here is being sponsored by the A. A. U. W. through the cooperation of literary and civic clubs and parent-teacher associations.

To Present Play At College.
"The Skull" three-act "thriller" that brings together a group studying relations with the spirit world, and a cunning and inhuman criminal and his accomplices, and works out the resulting plot against the background of an old abandoned church in the dead of night, will give the audience full measure of thrills Thursday and Friday night at the college, when the Chi Pi Players present their fall production. The play is directed by Clifton Britton, graduate student of the college.

When Dorothy Merrill visits the church one night to observe the working of spiritualism as demonstrated by Professor Vorheese, and the lover she is forbidden to see comes along with a Scotland Yard detective to catch the criminal "The Skull" who is expected to be there, the excitement begins. And it continues right up to the final curtain.

Ruth Bray of Elizabeth City, plays the part of Dorothy Merrill; James Dempsey of Wilson, plays opposite her as Jerry Brownell, the lover; and George Lautares of Greenville, takes the role of the professor of spiritualism.

ACTIVITIES OF THE BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMAN'S CLUB

Miss Myrtle Ellen LaBarr of Greensboro has been appointed by Dr. Minnie L. Moffett, president, to be one of five representatives of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs at the Women's Centennial Congress to be held at Hotel Commodore in New York City on November 25, 26, 27.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is one of the cooperating organizations sponsoring this Congress which has been called by Mrs. Charles Chapman Catt to commemorate one hundred years of organized effort to remove discriminations against women. Miss Josephine Schain is chairman of the executive committee for the Congress.

The opening dinner on Monday, November 25, will have as its speakers distinguished women from the invaded countries and from Canada and South America. Madame Genevieve Tabouis, Paris journalist, will be among these. Participants in a round table discussion on Tuesday morning, November 26, will include Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Pearl Buck, Dr. Margaret Mead, Frances Perkins, and many others. Mrs. Catt will present a program on Tuesday evening which will highlight the Women's Century and which will honor the outstanding career women of the century.

The official delegate body of the Congress will be limited to about 300, each state and each cooperating organization being allotted five delegates. The North Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is gratified that one of its members has been appointed to represent the National Federation.

A Sneeze And A Cough An Ache And A Chill— It's That Old Flu Line Creeping Up The Hill

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer
Washington.—The Public Health Service is watching sharply a rising curve on the nation's influenza chart.

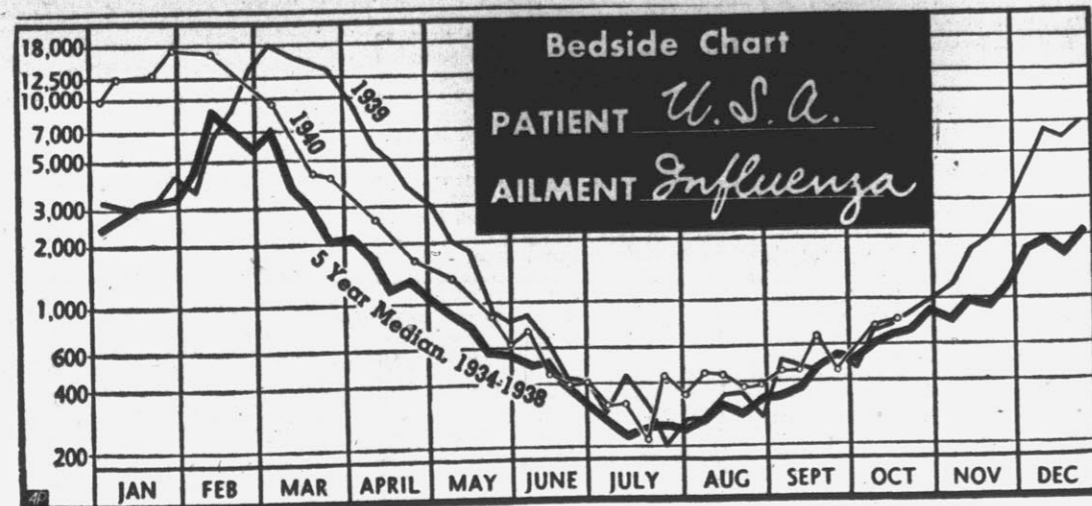

New cases of flu are being reported at a rate 13 per cent higher than average—856 new cases for the week ending October 26 compared with a 756 median for the corresponding week over the last five years.

Officials say there is no cause for national alarm but that the situation calls for close observation particularly during November, usually the epidemic-indicator month. In the 1928-1929 epidemic, the curve of new cases rose almost vertically in November.

Watch New Vaccine
Health authorities have been heartened by the development of a prospective new weapon in the fight on the sneeze-chill-ache malady. A vaccine, reported to have shown experimentally a high degree of protection against influenza, recently was produced in the laboratories of the Rockefeller foundation.

Army and Navy medical officers are keenly interested in the new vaccine consisting of flu viruses and strains of diphtheria. In the 1918 epidemic nearly half a million persons, including thousands of men in the military service, died of flu and flu-induced pneumonia.

This year's cases in the states, as well as 100,000 last summer in Puerto Rico, and 7,000 in Hawaii, have been of a comparatively mild type. Health authorities warn, however, that all cases should be regarded as potentially serious, because of the danger of complications.

This chart shows the number of new cases of flu reported weekly to the Public Health Service. There were 856 during the week ending October 26 this year compared with 756 last year and an average of 756 for the 1934-1938 period. If the flu curve climbs as high as it did last winter, as many as 17,000 new cases will be reported in one week.

Persons who try to keep on their feet and "stick it out" with the flu contribute the greatest number to the death rolls, because they are walking storehouses of infection and frequently succumb after unwarmed exertion.

Protective Measures

The Public Health Service recommends these general protective measures for the individual:

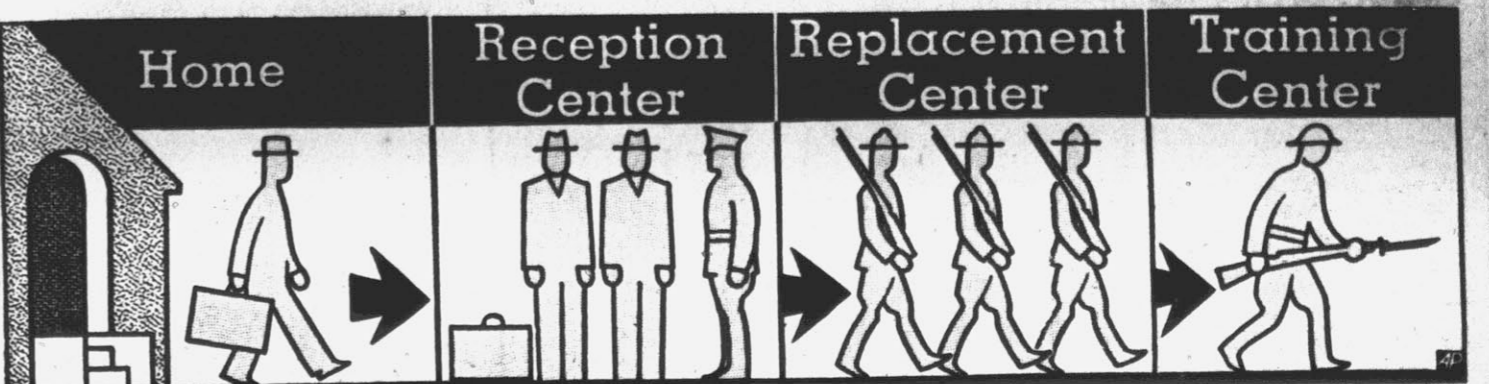

1. Avoid needless contact with others. Walking to and from work if practicable, is good exercise and keeps one from overcrowded street cars and buses.
2. Avoid chilling, but take advantage as you can.

3. Keep up your health by using plenty of clean water internally and externally; by eating clean wholesome food, and by sleeping at least seven hours out of each 24.
4. Avoid persons who are coughing, sneezing or sniffing. Do not cough or sneeze yourself without using a handkerchief.

Don't Take Chances With The Flu
The Public Health Service suggests the following precautions as a basis for home treatment of a flu patient when a doctor is not available:

1. Go to bed at the first sign of illness and stay there for several days after your fever is gone.
2. Drink water freely. Stay on a liquid diet during the first few days and go on soft food about the fourth day. Gradually return to normal diet.
3. Do not use cathartics; enemas are better than laxatives.
4. Place all nasal and bronchial secretions in disposable tissues.
5. You may take a warm bath at the onset of attack to relieve back, head and limb pains but a warm bed and warm drink afterward are essential. Excessive sweating is dangerous.
6. Do not use medicines unless prescribed by a physician.

Fourth Period Touchdowns Save Tulane Against Georgia

It was a mighty rush of two fourth period touchdowns that saved Tulane's skin against Georgia at New Orleans. The Tulane boys managed to squeeze out a 21-13 victory which was mighty close. In this play Hays (47), extreme right, started to pass then ran for Tulane. But he didn't get very far. Tommy Witt (29), Georgia center, rushed him along with Andy Dudish (25). Of course Hays stopped but so did Dudish, both very abruptly.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood.—They're stirring up a dish of memories again—old names old times, old styles that belonged to Tin Pan Alley in its hey-day. The set for the musical "Tin Pan Alley" is one to make the oldtimers gulp. The street sign says it's W. 46th at 8th Avenue, and there's the block to the life of 1917. A little different, maybe, here and there—especially for the fictional music firm of Harrigan (John Payne) and Calhoun (Jack Oakie) on the third floor of one brownstone front building. There's a sign in the Harrigan and Calhoun window, "Office to Let," which gets over the idea that H and C haven't had any hits lately.

But the other music concerns about offering sheet music, scores, vaudeville specialties, orchestrations, "music copied, written, published," or "professional copies available to artists only" are busy. The sheet music in their window displays in 1917 success of a tune was measured by its sheet sales) will send the intervening years scurrying just as the picture, employing a raft of that day's hits, is intended to do.

The titles might be modern, except for "Get Out and Get Under, and "When You Were a Tunny." There've been sillier elusions today than "Don't Throw Kisses," or "You've Got to Eat Your Spinach Baby" or "Lost in Your Eyes" or "You Say the Sweetest Things," but hold on, the last one is a modern title, written for the picture.

Your Screen Test

By ROBBIN COONS

1. What has the girl in the picture in common, career-wise, with Jane Withers?
2. (a) What famous comic now is producing a film in which he does not appear? (b) Do you recall the title of a famous silent picture produced and directed by another famous comic who likewise, for that occasion, refrained from acting?
3. Nomenclature: (a) What top-flight comedian has the same surname as what top-flight comedienne? (b) What English actress has the same surname as what lanky, "strong, silent man" star? (c) What leading man's first name is the surname of what new leading man? (Both appear in a new color "epic.")
4. Your movie news: (a) What "ideal" movie marriage recently hit the divorce court? (b) What gangling star's number was drawn in the first draft quota? (c) What blonde comedienne?
5. About the new pictures: (a) What lanky hero loses the girl but gets the criminal in what adventure melodrama of the north? (b) What movie combines elements of "It Happened One Night" and "A Farewell to Arms" in a modern European war setting? (c) What movie has a climax built on mistaken identity?

Count 20 points for each question correctly answered. A score of 60 is good, 80 is excellent and 90 or above is colossal.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

A DOCTRINE TO CHERISH
No one doubts as he listens to a minister on Sunday that the man is telling the truth, but very often the people who sit in the pews find it hard to take the religious truth which the pulpit proclaims and apply it to the things of daily life.

One of the great truths of the Bible is that God's Spirit is in the world at all times. This teaching is known as the doctrine of the Holy Spirit, and there are few church members who regard it as anything other than a theological abstraction. Yet if God is in the world, as the Bible repeatedly declares, then the divine presence is the greatest factor with which life deals, and a consciousness of it is the most important thing for any man to have.

The doctrine of the Holy Spirit really means these three important things: first, that all things come from God; second, that everything is in His hands; third, that all things serve His purpose. That is the practical, colloquial, common-language explanation of the abstract theological doctrine of the Holy Spirit. If every day we make ourselves conscious of these three facts, we will know the power of the presence to cast out fear, to confer peace, and to support our hearts with power immeasurable.

Mussolini declares that the Italians will not turn back. Maybe he is literally right. From all reports they have their faces turned toward home and away from the Greeks, and it is our guess that they do not want to turn back the other way now.

Automobile horns are, of course, a necessity for the purpose of warning pedestrians or other motorists on our streets and highways, but when they are used by some of the early risers as alarm clocks to wake others they become a nuisance. We have received complaints from various sections of the city about persons who stop in the neighborhood during the early morning hours and toot their horns until they can arouse other persons for whom they are waiting. Such a practice naturally disturbs the whole neighborhood and is a nuisance for everyone. If you must call for someone during the early morning hours, try ringing the door bell instead of tooting your horn. In that way you will

Washington—Will Greece fall to the Axis?

Will Lincoln MacVeagh, United States envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the land of Homer and Socrates, become another minister without a country? If those questions are answered in the affirmative, then Lincoln MacVeagh will grieve deeply indeed. No representative of the United States has more thoroughly and wholeheartedly adopted any country than MacVeagh has adopted Greece.

For seven years this quiet, scholarly New Englander has been our chief diplomat in the shadow of the Acropolis. His love and knowledge of Greece, however, date much farther back than that—at least 30 years back—when as a student at Harvard, he became engrossed in the Greek classics.

Knows Every Village
Long before he was appointed to his post, MacVeagh knew his Greece from Crete to Macedonia. Since then, he has traveled over almost every foot of it, going by donkey over the rough mountain trails and by walking tours through the less rugged sections. There is a story in Greece that there is not a town or village in the country where MacVeagh has not stayed a night. There is a saying that even the Greeks go to MacVeagh for out-of-the-way information about their country.

When MacVeagh looks up at the Acropolis, he sees not the ruins that are familiar to almost every schoolboy, but the majestic marble beauty of the temple which was the inspiration of Pericles and adorned by Phidias, one of the greatest of the immortals among the sculptors. He knows every catastrophe that befell the temple down through the ages to bring it to its present tragic state.

When MacVeagh stands on the hills above Marathon he hears the tiptoes haranguing the (Hellenic) generals and inspiring them to that battle fever that made it possible for a handful of Greek warriors to drive into the sea a Persian host which outnumbered them ten to one and to write into history the first great battle changed the course of the world.

When MacVeagh seven years ago presented his credentials to the government, he spoke up in informal but perfect modern Greek.

That, say friends here, is how our envoy and minister to the latest country to hear the roar of Axis guns knows his Greece.

World War Major
Lincoln MacVeagh was born 50 years ago in Narragansett Pier, R. I. He attended both Groton and Harvard and in those years became acquainted with the Roosevelt family. He attended the Sorbonne in Paris for a year and went into the Army rising to the rank of major during the World War and being cited for courage under fire.

When he came back to the United States, he entered the publishing business in New York and after a brief period with a publishing firm struck out for himself in the MacVeagh Publishing Co., a company known in the trade and out for good bindings and fine printing.

in his pocket to read during hours on the train.

After his appointment in 1933, MacVeagh became best known at the State Department for the humor and wit he would get into his dispatches. The files are full of them. But of late, his messages and reports have been entirely lacking in witticisms.

If Greece goes, Lincoln MacVeagh will be at least a man without an adopted country.

Raleigh, Nov. 19.—Fred E. Beal, the one-time Communist now serving time for the killing of Gaston Heels, kept their record of having been scored upon by every team they've played.

Now Doc Newton's Country Boys must figure out a way to count against Duke; while Wolf's Heels must be scored upon by Virginia in order that these two contrasting records remain intact.

No one would ever guess it from reading the accounts published in the Raleigh News and Observer, but it is a fact that the only persons who have as yet actually been sentenced for fraud in the city managership election were supporters of the city manager form, which the N and O backed with great vigor.

There may be some dispute about when life starts, but posters from the Federal Wage and Hour Administration now assure all and sundry "Overtime Begins at 40."

Keith Saunders, Highway Safety Division information chief, said that November appears to be showing marked improvement over last year and over preceding months, in the matter of highway accidents.

"Monday's papers didn't contain account of a single fatal automobile accident, so far as I noticed," he said. "That's the first Monday of that kind for as many weeks as I can remember off hand."

The entire division, incidentally, is much disturbed and distressed over present skyrocketing of highway fatalities in North Carolina.

Heels' win over Duke; but they are chock full with wrath and indignation because, they say, Wallace Wade, coach of the Blue Devils, made no statement after the game at Chapel Hill last Saturday. Still, they probably would rather have their victory and no statement than a defeat and a whole volume by Wallace Wade telling how it was brought about.

State College on last Saturday maintained its record of being the only one of the "Big Five" teams to score in its every game. The Tar Heels kept their record of having been scored upon by every team they've played.

"Monday's papers didn't contain account of a single fatal automobile accident, so far as I noticed," he said. "That's the first Monday of that kind for as many weeks as I can remember off hand."

The entire division, incidentally, is much disturbed and distressed over present skyrocketing of highway fatalities in North Carolina.

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

By MEDORA FIELD

YESTERDAY: Sally and Bill intended to give a nice week end party in their lonely country home not far from Atlanta, to celebrate the engagement of Bob and Claire. Aunt Maggie has come unasked to the party, and has been murdered. Now, late at night, the men are talking turns standing guard, while Sally wrestles in her own mind with the terrible suspicion that either Eve or Alice, two of her guests, may be guilty.

Chapter 12 Dread Suspicion

BUT I must see about that clue. And as usual my first impulse was to confide in Bill, thus placing the responsibility for action on his more capable shoulders. Remembering the many times his rest had already been broken in one night, and that he must get up again in less than two hours, I managed to restrain myself.

Besides, it was all so wild. How could I expect him to take me seriously? He would probably tell me to go back to sleep and that everything would look a lot different in the morning.

And, after all, as Alice had reasoned before me, there would be someone in the library, I could call to Kirk by the time I reached the stairway. While I did not believe for one moment that Alice had seen a ghost, I do not mean to say that I was not frightened at the thought of venturing out into that dark upstairs hall.

But I was not afraid in the same way that I had been when alone in the house that afternoon, with the servants and Aunt Maggie mysteriously missing and with assorted sound effects to provide atmosphere.

It was still raining; but there was a sort of rhythm about it now, for the wind had subsided temporarily. And although actual violence had taken place since the afternoon, I now knew the house to be full of people who at one outcry would rush to my assistance. That Aunt Maggie had been able to make no outcry did not occur to me until I was actually at the head of the stairway, in the exact spot where Alice had fainted. I now knew that I was the sight of a ghost.

But, although my heart swelled even bigger in my throat it was easier by then to go on than to turn back. For if my candle went out, there was the lamp in the hall below. So long as I held onto the stair rail I would be all right.

But it might have been simpler if the just turned loose and let myself fly downstairs for, excited and hurried as I was, the heavy folds of my long velvet house gown tripped me at every step and more than once I came near losing one of my satin mules. I did lose the extra packet of matches I had brought along.

I groped for it uncertainly, then decided to give it a bad bargain. As I straightened up, I grasped the stair rail again. I stood petrified in my tracks. I had heard the front door open and close softly.

Dark Journey

MY FIRST impulse, when arrested by that unexpected opening and closing of the front door, was to fly back upstairs. But on halfway through the doorway appeared almost as uninviting as the other. Against the forbidding blackness of the upper hall, the lamplight below, sickly though it was, seemed to offer some slight margin of safety.

At least one might hope to see what dangers were to be met. And aside from my conviction with regard to the clue, a conviction strong enough to drive me from the comfort and safety of my bed, there was the undeniable pull of feminine curiosity as to what evil business might be afoot downstairs.

So, drawing a long breath and making a last agonizing caution, I made my way to the lower hall, finally reaching the library door. As I had expected, Kirk was nowhere to be seen. Whether he had gone outside, or had admitted someone to the house, I could not guess.

At any rate, the library was empty, with that dreadful emptiness a room that holds its secrets. It was as though every inanimate object was watching me, feeling a little because it knew more than I did about what was going on in this strange sequence of events and waiting to see what my next reaction would be.

I did not like to turn my back on that room, with the glow of the firelight reflected on the silver candlesticks so that they gleamed like eyes in the gloom. But I had come downstairs on a mission which must be carried out, so I backed away from the door toward the deeper darkness of the drawing room.

Aunt Maggie, I knew, lay on a sofa at the far end, or in what would have been the back parlor before the two rooms were converted into one.

I could walk along the nail to the back parlor door and have the light of the hall lamp to guide me, but that would also take me in the direction of the breakfast room, through which I had passed from the kitchen when I found

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

By virtue of a decree of the Superior Court of Pitt County made in that certain Special Proceeding, entitled Maggie Tucker, Lillian Tucker, Mrs. Mattie Chandler, Mrs. Jennie C. Nichols and others, Ex Parte, pending in the Superior Court of Pitt County, the undersigned Commissioners will expose to public sale before the Court House door in Pitt County, to the highest bidder for cash, at 12 o'clock noon, on Saturday, the 23rd day of November, 1940 the following described real property, to-wit:

More Than 40 Games Ending 7-6 Show Need For Kick Specialists

By SAM JACKSON
AP Feature Service Writer

San Francisco. The number of games this season won by a single point has stirred some discussion here as to whether the success of the conversion kick after a touchdown really decides which is the better team.

"It often gives a decidedly inferior team the victory," says one side. "Nonsense, the score tells the story," says the other.

The outstanding example of 1940 doubtless is the Minnesota-Michigan game. The Gophers beat their great rivals and at the same time by all the odds, insured their Big Nine championship—and all by one point on Joe Mernik's placement kick.

Money On Foot

The combination of money and glory depending on a single conversion kick is best illustrated by the Stanford-Santa Clara game. Stanford is a candidate for the Rose Bowl assignment, worth about $100,000 to each competing school. Santa Clara was prominently mentioned for the Cotton Bowl, which pays a smaller but very tidy sum.

It was the hardest struggle to date for either team, and when the final gun sounded the teams were all even—except that Stanford's Frankie Albert had kicked an extra point.

More than two-score colleges of enough importance to have their scores carried on the press wires have lost 7-to-6 decisions. Among them are Harvard, Maine, Rutgers, Wisconsin, Drake, Connecticut and Vanderbilt.

Philosophic about the matter is Norman "Red" Strader, St. Mary's new coach, who had an agreeable season rudely interrupted when Oquesne clipped the Gaels 7 to 6.

"It's still OK," he says, "but I think it's all right.

"Eliminate the kick after touchdown and it would be only a question of time until place kicking would be eliminated too. And I think the field goal is a colorful event that the game needs. I say let the score tell the story."

FRANK ALBERT

Strader admits that a boy who has lost a game by failing to put his place kick over the bar probably feels "pretty blue inside."

"But we forget him as an individual," he says. "Everybody fails on different plays. It's just the team that's lost—not the boy."

For coaches with trouble with conversions Strader points out a rule not often put in practice. When, after a touchdown, the ball is placed on the 2-yard line, the team has the option of trying for the extra point by rushing or passing it over the goal line.

New York—Stenographers who hesitate to ask a favor of their boss, because of shyness, should profit from the example of Ethel Mernik. This dark haired, fetching singer is triumphing on Broadway today in "Panama Hattie." The first time she has been starred alone, all because she asked her boss to go out and get her another job.

Ethel, back in the twenties, was a stenographer in a New York City suburb. She spent her evenings performing in amateur shows or wherever else she could get anyone to listen to her. From an artistic standpoint she hasn't an operatic voice, but it is clear, loud, melodious and good to hear. She heard her boss asked her to ask the producer to put her in his new show. To everybody's amazement he did.

He gave her a spot in the chorus

Spiral Puttees, Choker Collar Gone With Other 1917-18 Ordeals

Washington—There's a word for the new citizen army uniform. "Swank!"

The uniform will try to improve on the army tradition of making a soldier's garb easy on the eyes of fair maidens and doling mothers. And this time, they're trying to make Mr. Buck Private more comfortable, too.

The most welcome difference between 1918 and now will be the blouse collar. Coat to you, civilian. Reason? The standing choker type collar of World War days was the devil's own plague to army tailors. If the choker fit, the shoulder didn't. If the shoulder fit, the back wrinkled like a wash-hub rubadub.

So a regular turned-down collar like yours and mine is the style. Coat pleats make the arm swing free. The soft-collared wool shirt and conventional black tie are staying.

tear performances and finally a talent scout saw her. He whisked her off to Hollywood, whisked her back to Broadway and she has been whisking back and forth ever since until now she achieves solo stardom.

She worked for it, however, and is a ten times better performer than when she made her debut in a Broadway musical as a pretty girl who could sing and sell a song. That's all she did then—walk on

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Selling was light in today's stock market, but buyers generally exhibited about as much timidity as in the preceding session.

An early attempt at a rally met with scant response and leaders then dropped fractions to around a point. Dealings slowed on the decline and a mild comeback got underway before mid-day. Irregularly lower prices were the rule near the fourth hour.

Christenbury was presented. The coach in turn introduced the following members of the Pirate football team: Bob Young, Wilson Sherholt, Jack Young, Billy Greene, Chuck McFee and Dan Waddell. A trio composed of Jack Young, Greene and McFee, entertained the club with several popular ballads, including "A Kitchen Mechanic," "Chariot Is Coming," "Catfish Flattening Down the River," and "Truck-in on Down."

Discussing the sports program at the college, Coach Christenbury declared that it was planned to change football games from Saturday nights next year.

He declared that physical education departments of schools and colleges aided in the national defense program by promoting a program which stresses physical development in the student body as a whole.

He expressed his appreciation for the manner in which the city has cooperated with the college by providing good attendance at the home football games.

K. W. Cobb spoke briefly on the importance of promoting a more elaborate annual Homecoming Day for the college and a motion was carried pledging cooperation of the club with other civic clubs in promoting a bigger Homecoming Day next year. A committee was appointed to work on the project. Mr. Cobb was named chairman with Martin Swartz, J. E. Winslow, J. H. Waldrop, D. W. Mosier and Ty Wagner as associates.

Guests present were Lincoln Jones of Oakmont, Ill., Herbert Jenkins of Orlando, Fla., Rufus Keel of Greenville and D. B. Clayton of Williamston.

Goes To Polls In Ambulance

H. R. Brown, retired Greenville, Tenn., financier, who is well known in this city where he has frequently visited his daughter, Mrs. J. B. James, had to go to the polls in an ambulance on Tuesday, November 5, but he got there just the same. Mr. Brown will be 87 years old next April. He cast his first vote in 1876 and has never missed voting since. At the last election Mr. Brown was taken to the court house voting precinct and one of the box holders took a ballot to the ambulance where the sick man marked his choice. M'Intosh Heard At Principals' Meet
An explanation of the Out-of-School Youth Survey conducted in Greenville and Winterville was presented by C. E. M'Intosh, head of the project, at last night's meeting of the Pitt County Principals' club held at Respass place following a dinner.

Mr. M'Intosh discussed the project which was carried out in eight areas and which involved 45,000 youths between the ages of six and 25. The survey was for the purpose of learning how many youths were out of school, why they dropped out and other information.

The meeting also was addressed by J. H. Moore of the Farmville school on the subject of "How to Evaluate a Secondary School."

Thursday Is Holiday For Federal Workers
Employees of the Greenville Post Office federal workers, will observe their Thanksgiving holiday on Thursday of this week, but the rest of the city will observe the traditional last Thursday in November, falling this year on November 28.

While a majority of the states have adopted the earlier Thanksgiving giving day, North Carolina continues to observe the old date. The new date was proposed by President Roosevelt in order to allow more time between the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.
