DONNELL KEPT FROM SEAT OF GOVERNORSHIP

Missouri Assembly Declines to Certify Election

INVESTIGATION IS CALLED FOR

Democratic Controlled House and Senate Adopt Resolution Calling For Joint Investigation

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 11. — (AP) — The Democratic-controlled General Assembly, in an uproarous all-night session, refused to certify Forrest Donnell, a Republican, as governor-elect and adopted a resolution calling for a joint House-Senate investigation of the November gubernatorial election.

The investigation would involve opening the ballot boxes in every county and the city of St. Louis.

The action will prevent Donnell's scheduled inauguration Monday and will keep Governor Lloyd Stark Democrat in office until investigation of the election and hearing of a contest is completed.

Official returns gave Donnell a plurality of 3,613 votes over his Democratic opponent, Lawrence McDaniel.

The assembly voted 101 to 78 to certify all of the apparent winners in the November election except Donnell and a few minutes later voted 118 to 61 to hear a contest petition filed by James T. Blair of Jefferson city, a Democratic county chairman.

The Democrats hold an 85 to 25 advantage in the House and a 28 to 6 advantage in the Senate, giving them 113 seats in the assembly to 71 Republicans.

Through the early morning hours the assembly wrangled over the makeup of the joint House-Senate committee that will investigate the gubernatorial election—the Republican minority arguing for a bipartisan committee, the Democrats for one with a Democratic majority.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. George Baker and Miss Thelma Wells, both of the Ormondsville community; three sons, Willie Wells of Farmville, and Henry and Ervin Wells of the Ormondsville community; two brothers, George and Willie Gardner of Vance county.

Methods Of Providing Aid To Britain Taking Shape Despite Opposition Moves

News Photo Helps Find Youth

It was a long shot chance when A. A. Villas, Minneapolis florist, bought a copy of the Miami (Fla.) Herald in hopes that it might give some clue to the whereabouts of his run-away son, Leonidas Villas, 14. Yes sir, right there was Leonidas as plain as the palm of your hand—in a picture of the crowd watching the Orange Bowl football game at Miami last New Year's day. Papa Villas hurried to Miami, did a bit of scouting around and found Leonidas next day. And here's the reunion. Yes, they're looking at the Herald's picture that gave father the tip-off.

Dry Forces To Demand State-Wide Referendum

PITT'S SOLONS HERE ON VISIT

Worthington Condemns Measure Raising Salaries

Rep. S. O. Worthington, home for the week-end from Raleigh, where he is a member of the State House of Representatives, said today everything got off to a good start, "except they started off trying to give away the world."

The solon had reference to a bill increasing the salaries of four constitutional officers from $6,000 to $6,600 annually, a measure on which he took a major part in the opposition.

Questioned about how long the Assembly would stay in session, Rep. Worthington said it was impossible to say. He said if the liquor question was raised, as he expected it would be, the session may get into a wrangle that would require considerable time.

"I don't think they will get very far with it," he added in reference to a state-wide liquor referendum.

In regard to the length of the session, Rep. Worthington said the Assembly got off on an administration line-up but added that if many more questions like the salary-raising measure were presented this line-up "would likely be torn up."

The Pitt representative said he did not know what committee assignments he would draw, but declared that he would continue to be a member of the "economy bloc," "in so far as measures like the salary-raising bill are concerned." Rep. Worthington was one of the leaders in the 1939 Assembly election.

Dr. W. I. Wooten, the county's other representative, expressed the opinion the Assembly got off to a good start and added that the House appeared to be organized to "do business" and finish up the work in from 60 to 90 days.

Sen. J. C. Lanier had not arrived home this afternoon, but was expected tonight.

All three solons will return to Raleigh Monday for the sessions that night.

To Petition General Assembly for Vote Of The People

By CHARLES DANIEL
Raleigh, Jan. 11 (AP) — Thousands of dry North Carolina voters will petition the 1941 General Assembly asking a state-wide referendum on the "manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors" will press the appeal with the contention "the people have a right to be heard," it was announced today by Kale C. Burgess, president of the United States Forces.

"The United Dry Forces stand ready to cooperate in any way possible with legislators who are going to introduce a bill calling for a state-wide referendum on the issue of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors," the dry leader said.

State courts have ruled in repeated decisions "intoxicating liquors" embrace liquor, wines and beer.

Burgess said his Raleigh office already has catalogued 30,000 individual petitions from voters in all of the 100 counties asking the assembly to approve the bill—expected to be introduced during the first 30 days of the legislative session—which would throw the question again into the laps of the public.

Additional individual petitions for a liquor referendum are reaching dry headquarters at the rate of 1,000 a day, Burgess said. The anti-liquor leader said "the stage is being set for an expected fight" in hundreds of temperance programs in churches throughout the state.

The question of how the '41 General Assembly stands on the issue is still unanswered after five days of the session. Close observers say, however, a third are wet, a third are dry and the other third are not decided.

Regarding the "pressure" his forces plan to exert in backing the liquor vote, Burgess said: "To refuse the people the right to vote in a state referendum is worse than being wet. It is a violation of the whole democratic principles."

Critics of Measure Call For Restriction On Presidential Powers as Administration Leaders Start Mapping Plans For Getting Program Into Operation At Earliest Possible Date

Washington, Jan. 11. — (AP) — Specific methods by which the administration would extend aid to Britain under the proposed lease-lend bill began to take shape today, even as congressional critics called for restriction of the vast power which the measure would confer upon President Roosevelt.

Senator Byrnes (D-SC), who participated in preliminary conferences on the legislation introduced in Congress yesterday, said it was likely that, if approved, the lease-lend program would be put into operation by the President chiefly through the new office of production management.

This, it was said, would make for complete correlation from start to finish between production for America and that for British use. The office, headed by William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman, with Secretaries Stimson and Knox as members, already has been charged by the President with full responsibility for American production.

In addition, other sources said that agencies, such as the reconstruction Finance Corporation might be called upon to handle some phases of the program.

The first necessity for making the program effective, Byrnes said, is a survey of production capacity to determine exactly how much and what kinds of equipment can be supplied to the British. He predicted that the chief items to be furnished would be airplanes, destroyers and cargo vessels. These, he said, are the things which Britain is most anxious to obtain.

In other quarters it was learned that the British might be asked to turn over upwards of $2,000,000 of investments in this country as collateral for the war material which the President proposes to lend.

At the capital, administration leaders laid plans for hastening action on the aid legislation, which also would permit the communication of "defense information" to warring democracies and allow the repair of British warships and planes in American shipyards and factories.

CAN CONGRESS TAKE IT?

Babson Sees A Tough Session

Babson Park, Fla., Jan. 11 — Just a week ago today the 77th Congress settled into harness. They have in this current session the toughest job to face in many years. Many unsolved problems have been held over from the old Congress. And our legislators in Washington face many new ones. Things are moving fast. Straightforward thinking and no monkey business is the order of the day. A great responsibility for the course of action our country will take rests upon the shoulders of the law makers we voted into office last November 6. If Congress measures up to our expectations, our affairs are in good hands. If its members succumb to pressure groups and lack the courage of independence, we will find ourselves in a bad way.

The Problems of Congress
Neutrality or war have set the stage for our current Congress. Whether we or they like it, this is the dominating scene. "Aid to Britain—short of war" is the topic which blankets the question of neutrality, repeal, or circumvention of the Johnson Act. Congress wants and deserves facts from the President and Secretary Hull before it makes binding commitments one way or another. Congress must know

LOAN DEBATED IN HOT WORDS

Party General Manager Admits He Made A Mistake

Washington, Jan. 11. — (AP) — Oliver Quayle, general manager of the Democratic National Committee, told the Senate Campaign Committee today that he had "made a mistake" in testifying two days ago that he personally arranged for loans of $300,000 for the 1940 Democratic campaign from R. J. Reynolds.

Reynolds, the Democratic Committee's new treasurer, testified yesterday that it was Wayne Johnson, finance director of the committee, who had arranged the loans in a telephone conversation with Reynolds at Winston-Salem, N. C.

Corroborating Reynolds' testimony, Quayle said today that "this was something that happened at a very hectic time some months ago," adding that there was "no reason not to tell the entire details."

Senator Tobey (R-NH), a member of the Senate committee, arose to say that Quayle was "guilty of perjury" and to accuse him of "trying to shield Johnson of collusion in this matter."

"I deny any such," Quayle shouted. "You can deny to dooms day," Tobey interrupted.

"There could be no purpose for concealing these facts," Quayle replied. "Evidently I made a mistake. I talked to Reynolds many times. I was making telephone calls all over the country trying to raise money 16 or 18 hours a day."

At one point Tobey told the witness that he did not believe "any judge or jury in the country would believe that you are telling the truth."

SNOW HERE

Scattering snowflakes were observed by early Greenville risers shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, and Ayden citizens reported the fall continued there long enough to leave a thin coat on the ground for a while.

Other Eastern Carolina towns also reported a few scattering flakes, but no place reported a fall sufficient to cover the ground.

AVERT STRIKE BY AGREEMENT

Compromise Reached At Fairchild Air Corporation

New York, Jan. 11. — (AP) — The settlement of a threatened strike of 200 workers in the Ranger aircraft engineering division of the Fairchild Airplane and Engine Corporation at Farmingdale, N. Y., was announced today by John R. Owens, labor relations assistant to the National Defense Commission.

The strike originally had been called for Thursday, but a postponement until Monday morning was won just before the deadline. The plant has $7,750,000 worth of government orders.

The settlement terms will be submitted to the workers for ratification today.

The strike was issued by the United Automobile Workers of America, CIO aviation division, which claimed 213 of the plant's 240 employees.

Owens said the new contract which he described as a compromise sets the starting rate for plant workers at 50 cents an hour for the first four months, 55 cents for the next four months and 60 cents thereafter.

General Assembly In Brief Session

Raleigh, Jan. 11. — (AP) — The first Saturday session of the General Assembly today was characterized by short, lacking in business and poorly attended.

Each house met for about two minutes and received no new bills.

In the Senate the six members attending referred a House bill to the Finance committee.

The 19 House members present merely heard the prayers by the chaplain and adjourned.

The legislators will meet again Monday night, when committee appointments are due to be announced.

Axis Powers Aim Attacks At Blockade

Germany Also Aiding Fascists In Conflict With Britain In Attempt To Offset Reverses In North Africa; British And German Bombers Exchange Blows In Aerial Warfare

By The Associated Press
Germany has actively entered the war against Britain in the Mediterranean basin, lending Italy a hand in an apparent attempt to offset reverses in North Africa and loosen the sea blockade.

A British naval formation, the Italian high command said today, was attacked in the Sicilian channel yesterday by cooperating formations of Fascist and Nazi dive-bombers and torpedo planes which shared honors in the reported damaging of two aircraft carriers, a cruiser and a destroyer.

"For the first time," the Italian communiqué said, "units of the German air force in fraternal close cooperation with the Italian air units, participated brilliantly in the attack, hitting one of the aircraft carriers and the destroyer."

Paced by low-flying Greek and British planes reported bombing and machine-gunning retreating Italians, the Greek captors of Kiliura pressed onward toward Berat, Albania, according to dispatches from the front.

Important heights dominating the road to Berat, north of fallen Glisura, were reported occupied and additional prisoners and war materials taken by the Greeks.

A south coast English town which the Germans identified as Portsmouth, was "smothered" early today with Nazi fire bombs and explosives, apparently taking a heavy toll of lives. The British hit back at the German-held coast of France.

The Germans described the raid on Portsmouth as a "large-scale" assault and the British acknowledged that the Nazi raiders did "considerable damage and caused a number of casualties."

British pilots followed up yesterday's daylight drubbing of northern France with a hard overnight raid on the German-held coast of France, at Brest, informed sources reported in London.

British batteries were reported pounding outlying fortifications around the Italian base at Tobruk in Libya, with the British still marshalling more artillery brought up from battered Bardia.

British middle-eastern headquarters announced that 2,041 Italian officers and 42,827 men were captured or killed at Bardia, which fell six days ago.

New significance was attached to the oft-questioned harmony of German-Russian relations by news of the new Soviet-German trade treaty signed yesterday in Moscow whereby the Russians undertake to ship great stocks of grain, other food stuffs and war materials to Germany in exchange for manufactured articles.

Presbyterian Announcements.
"I've quit making New Year's resolutions," I hear some people say. All right, "actions speak louder than words," so just go to Sunday school somewhere in Greenville Sunday, and don't forget to stay to the preaching service, too. The Presbyterian Church invites you to Sunday school at 9:45 a. m., where you can bring the whole family and find a place for each one.

At 11 o'clock is the preaching service, Rev. Robert S. Boyd, the pastor, will speak on the subject, "Recruiting the Gospel Ministry." Along with the call for men in the ranks of the army and navy there is a great call today for young men for the ministry. No vocation in life offers a wider field or a more fruitful field than the gospel ministry in the Christian churches of the world.

Supper at 7:30 p. m. Dr. Boyd will preach at Hollywood schoolhouse, following Sunday school at 2:30. There will be preaching at Meadowbrook Chapel Sunday evening at 7:30, following the young people's meeting. All young people of Meadowbrook, 12 years of age and above, are invited to bring their lunch at 5:45 p. m., to what is called "A Bag Supper" and social hour, concluding at 6:45 when the vespers services will be held. This is something new and a large group is expected. Mrs. Percy Allen is director.

Wednesday night the mid-week service will be held at the First Church at 7:30 o'clock. We are to study John 5:1-9, the third miracle recorded by John's gospel. Please bring your Bibles.

Wright-Buck.
A marriage of interest was solemnized in Suffolk, Virginia, on Sunday evening, January 5, at six o'clock, at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. I. W. Johnson, D.D., on South Saratoga street, when Miss Leona Buck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Buck of Gates, N. C., became the bride of Robert Lee Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Wright of Holland, Va. The ring service was used.

The bride wore a costume of soldier blue with black accessories, and her matron of honor, Mrs. Staley Gardner, was attired in aqua blue with black accessories. The bridegroom was attended by his best man, Mr. Staley Gardner.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Wright went to Holland, Va., where they will make their home.

Mr. S. D. Tucker is rapidly recovering from a recent operation in Pitt General Hospital.

Mr. Billy Little of State College, Raleigh, was home over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Edwards were business visitors in Washington Friday.

Mr. Jethro Mills is quite ill at his home near Chicod, we are sorry to report.

an honest, efficient, and considerate governing body.

The average Congressman has today a terrible inferiority complex. Individually, and collectively, they say, "What's the use?" It will be a miracle—and I still believe in miracles—if this 77th Congress does not go down into history as a defeatist group of the worst kind. With few exceptions, Congressmen have little money of their own. While they talk optimistically in public about "Saving Democracy," they believe confidentially, that capitalism is all done for this generation.

Reckless Spending
After all Congress reflects, to a very large extent, the concern of its constituents, the fears of the voters who put them into office. The same question regarding the size of our national debt, national income and inflation scare them as much as they do the average man in the street. For years I have been advocating proper pensions for congressmen. As the representatives of the wealthiest people in the world they ought, after certain years of service, to be paid a sufficient sum of money to enable them to live comfortably in event of defeat at their next election and to enable them to speak and to vote with the courage that financial independence gives.

But would our people vote such an arrangement? I am afraid not. Hence, if Congress itself becomes frightened, we shall have only ourselves to blame. I believe that most Congressmen secretly feel that we might as well distribute our money over here now as to have it become valueless later. Thus, as you read of huge new appropriations, consider carefully if they are to be used with the idea in mind of saving England. It is conceivable that Congress may interpret their acts during the current session as a final means of getting more houses, automobiles, and refrigerators for their own constituents.

What Can We Do?
If the 1941 Congress turns out a defeatist group, we shall be in a tough spot. I am therefore, in my recent optimistic forecast for the current year, Congress is very apt to neither repeal present bad legislation (and there is plenty of it) nor to enact needed good regulations. Congress is more likely now to think of the immediate needs of the voters' back home than of the needs of their children and grandchildren. I hear no more New Deal legislation in 1941, but I do fear wasteful appropriations made for selfish purposes under the false guise of defense.

Do not let Congress "sell out" democracy and all the good in it for a mere mess of pottage. Individually I have faith in our congressmen, but collectively, I am fearful of their lack of courage and faith. We however, have elected this 77th congress and we must back it up. But it would do no harm and might do some good if each of us wrote our representatives in Washington, expressed our faith, and asked for a show of courage and faithfulness in these perplexing and serious times.

The Republican office holders in North Carolina, after next Tuesday, will be something similar to the Winterville items in today's issue of The Reflector—darn scarce.

We haven't said anything about our town in a long time because we have been so busy we couldn't get an opportunity for anything. Be that as it may, our town is still here and just as live, prosperous and successful as any in North Carolina, and just so long as we are able to kick, the public shall hear the blast of our trumpet.

PATTERN AT RIO—Scenes like this, made up of sun, a Brazilian senorita, and the mosaic sidewalk lining the beach front, may have much to do with the tourist boom in Rio de Janeiro, where visitors diverted from Europe now call.

PIANIST AT HEART—The position of this African crowned crane suggests that the national zoological park at Washington, D. C., might well install a piano in the cage. The fine feathery attire adds to "concert" theme.

BILL WITH A WILL—Luckily the toucan from Brazil now an inmate of national zoo in Washington, can't hear the remarks about his beak which is large—six inches long—orange colored, and "buys" because of its many "at will."

LOOK OUT ABOVE—Ability to climb a mile a minute is credited to above Curtiss Model 21B, shown at St. Louis, Mo. Four machine guns can fire through propeller discs, and the low-winged plane carries provision for oxygen equipment.

REVIEW IN FAR EAST—Japan's gains after three and a half years of war in China are indicated above. Some observers believe that Japan would like to end this struggle to free herself for more promising enterprises in southeastern Asia. Note the nearness of French Indo-China.

ENVOY—Harry L. Hopkins (above), long an intimate of F.D.R., will be the President's personal representative in London until a new U.S. ambassador to Britain is named.

GRIEVES NO MORE—Soon after the death by bombing of his friend, Lydia King, a dancer, the Sultan of Johore, 25, a Rumanian, in London. The sultan is a fabulously wealthy ruler of a Malayan state.

PART OF PLANE'S POWER—Close-up shows build of crankshaft that takes the pounding of 12 cylinders in Allison plane engines being turned out at rate of 350 a month in Indianapolis.

HEADLINERS IN HOUSE—As the 77th congress got under way for what appears to be a critical session, Rep. Joseph Martin (R-Mass.), minority leader, passed along his good wishes to Rep. Sam Rayburn (right), House speaker and Texas Democrat.

OIL MAN—William Rhodes Davis (above), international oil operator recently mentioned as a one-time bearer to U.S. of a Nazi offer to negotiate peace with the Allies, has invited congress to review circumstances surrounding case.

SEW WHAT! SOLDIERS CRY—Even in the army that rule about a "stitch in time" holds. At Fort Dix, N. J., Senior Hostess Ethel Logan directs sewing repairs. The soldiers are Sam Bonderinko of Schenectady, N. Y., Homer Miller of Hilton, N. Y.

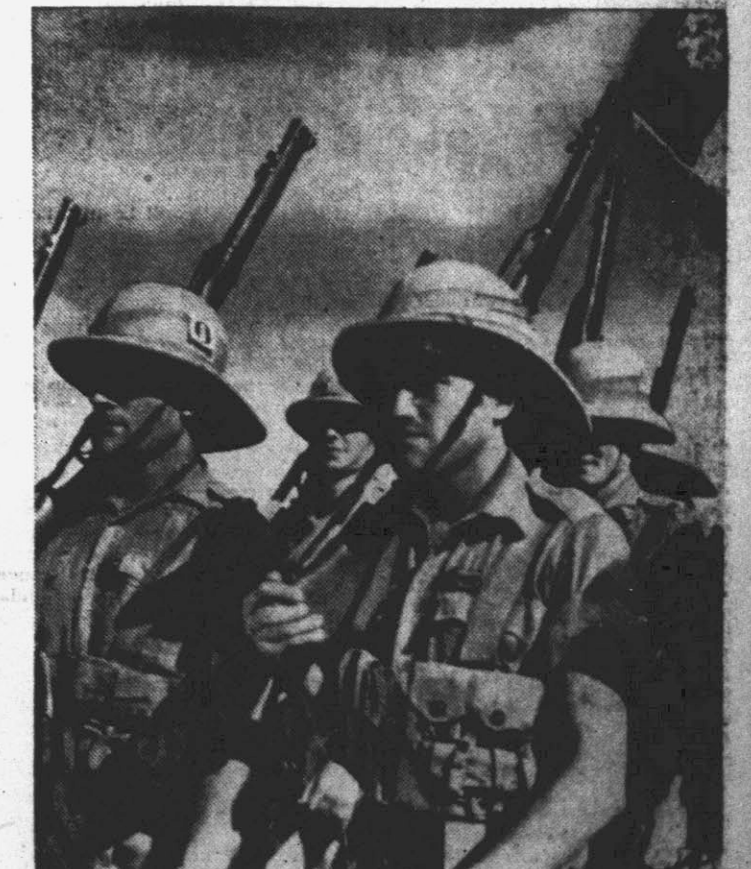

'AUSSIES' AID—In the floppy-brimmed hats that identify them, two Australian soldiers signal with a heliograph in African desert. "Aussies" like these travelled 7,000 miles to share Britain's fight in Egypt and capture of Bardia, Libya.

BILL AND WOO—Not even freedom appeals as much to this robin as does life in the household of Mrs. Gilbert Black (above) of St. Louis. The bird takes a grape from her lips; she nursed its crippled leg last spring.

SILENCE, PLEASE—Signs warn soldiers of "Free French" forces in an African desert camp to guard tongues against giving information. "Free French" soldiers aided British drive into Libya, a London source said after capture of Bardia.

FRENCH SOLDIERS—Allied with Britain in the war against Italy on Libyan soil are soldiers of the de Gaulle-directed "Free French" forces, to which these men marching at an African desert camp belong. Flag bears Britain's coat of arms.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

BENEATH THE SURFACE

There is nothing more terrible than the tossing of the sea in a storm. Yet, everyone who looks upon this terrifying scene is conscious of the fact that the agitation is wholly on the surface. Twenty fathoms down there is a great calm.

The lower depths of the ocean are never disturbed by even the fiercest storm.

It is well to remember this and apply this truth in just such a time as now. The nations of the earth are being lashed furiously by one of the most terrifying storms that ever swept the earth. Yet, dreadful as this is, we can be sure that twenty fathoms down there is a great calm. The hatred which men of one country have for those of another is superficial compared with the extent to which these men, at the deeper levels of their lives, love
the same things—home, friends, peace. And we can be sure that beneath the agitation of men's motives today, there are deep, calm purposes of God which will not be changed by this or any other war.

Twenty-five years from now this whole sorry mess will be washed up and it will be remembered only as a bad dream. But men will still be singing "Halleluia; the Lord our God, the Almighty, reigneth."

It is well for us to remember when the storm blows the fiercest that there are certain depths in the life of God and man which no storm
can ever disturb.

CHEAPER OR BETTER

We agree with the News
and Observer that what North Carolina needs is not cheaper automobile licenses,
but more security for people
who travel our highways.
There has long been a need in this state for a requirement that every automobile owner should be required to carry some form of protection for any injury or property damage to others that might result from the operation of such an automobile, but there has always been
the plea that such a provision would almost prohibit a poor man from owning or driving an automobile. On the other hand, we feel that no person financially unable to take care of any damage that might result from his or her operation of an automobile should operate one.

We feel that the following comment on the subject by the News and Observer is most timely and should be given consideration by the present session of the legislature:

Senator Palmer of Cabarrus followed a course popular in some other States in his proposal to put licenses for private cars at a flat $5.
A great many people would like that. But the greatest need today is some system attached to licensing which would provide security for those injured by drivers and at the same time put limits upon the damage suit racket which attends traffic accidents.

Many insurance men do not wish compulsory insurance on the grounds that it would bring many bad risks to insurance companies and so, they say, run up the losses
and the rates on those now insured.
A good many lawyers would oppose any proposal to put limits on the damage suit business from which some large fees come.

Nevertheless, it becomes increasingly apparent that some such system is needed in connection with the operation of automobiles as the Workmen's Compensation Act provides in industry. Under the present system the injured, hospitals and other public agencies are carrying the costs of damages done by irresponsible drivers. Property protected drivers are paying high rates

TRADER

as a result of the damage suit racket. There is no reason why a system could not be worked out which would provide general protection for all, speedy protection for all and proper limits upon awards.

Such a system has not the immediate appeal of cheaper licenses but it would, in the long run, better serve all the people of the State.

Washington & Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—You may be happy to know that the District of Columbia, population of which slopes over into Virginia on one side and into Maryland on the other, still can be rated as a farming community.

The decennial agricultural survey of the District has been completed and it is found that Washington still has 65 farms, 39 less than 10 years ago. The area under cultivation amounts to 1,017 acres, and total farm acreage is 2,341.

District farms have 837 cows and 70 horses. The largest crop was sweet potatoes, of which the District raised 3,107 bushels last year.
Other good crops included 1,762 bushels of corn, 780 tons of hay and 421 bushels of Irish potatoes.

The amazing thing about District farms is their value. The average farm acre is worth something between $50 and $100, but Washington acres are valued at $2,538 each—which means that if you owned 39
of them, you would be worth $100-000. It also means that 10 years from now the story you will read about District farming probably will be just the reverse of this. It looks as if farm land in Washington is getting pretty close to the price that the farmers around here have been holding out for—for 140 years.

The Last Word
The final Senate session of the 76th Congress adjourned at 11:43 on a Friday morning and the Congressional Record for the session came off the press the following morning.
Its publication disclosed, in the index, 11 columns (mostly small type) of the by-that-time ex-Senator
Rush D. Holt of West Virginia.

Former Senator Holt was the arch-olationist and the bitterest critic of the administration foreign policy in the 76th Congress. His last contributions to the final pages of the Record included a long address which started: "I am going to tell you the truth about this drive to get us actively into war," others titled, "America's War Hawks,"
"Interlocking Business Connections Between American and British Interests," "Thumbnail Sketches of the War Crowd."

One of the former Senator's colleagues, thumbing through that last edition of the Record, said:
"Well, nobody will ever be able to say that Rush gave up before the whistle blew."

Wholesale Firing
There's been so much talk about re-employment and now jobs, I guess nobody will accuse me of being a gloom-spreader if I tell about the biggest wholesale firing taking place in Washington today.

It's over at the Census Bureau
where 9,500 workers will be given the gate during 1941, approximately 3,000 of them in the next two or three months.

The firing job is so big that Census Director William L. Austin has had to set up a special committee to handle it. The committee has had to work out a firing formula which is sort of a hiring formula in reverse. Persons with highest efficiency ratings, those with dependents and those who live farthest

from Washington will be retained longest.

The firing, of course, will be no
great news to most of the employees.
Although the census jobs last from one to two years, they are considered "temporary."

An odd twist to the census employment situation is that although the workers are going out by the dozens, the bureau is also hiring by the dozens. The new employees are expert machine operators who will be used in the vast task of tabulating, coding and classifying America's 130-odd millions.

Short Shots

Reflector Bureau.

By Henry Averill and Lynn Nisbet
Raleigh, Jan. 11.—Legislators regard themselves, and in fact they are, members of a branch of the state government coordinate at least with the executive and judicial.

Wherefore there has grown among them a feeling that they are entitled to some such recognition as is accorded the other branches in the matter of automobile tags.

So, according to reliable sources Charlotte's Jim Vogler will soon introduce in the House a bill to authorize issuance of special automobile tags to members of the House and Senate.

The tags will bear some such inscription as "N. C. Legislature" and will be numbered from 1 to 170, if the Vogler idea is followed.

It will be provided that legislators may turn in their current tags and receive in exchange the special plates, with no extra cost. Hereafter, members of the General Assembly would be authorized to ask for issue of the legislative plates

instead of the common, or garden variety.

The bill will provide no concession to the assembly members in the matter of cost. The special plates would cost just as much as the regular ones.

When Jack LeGrand, Wilming-
ton's "pocket battleship," had tress-ed into the House hopper three of the first five bills introduced there at this session, he leaned back and announced:

"That just about finishes my legislating for this session."

He told news men that he does not have any more local legislation in mind and will not be likely to introduce even one more bill unless there are rather unexpected requests from back home.

In both the regular and the special sessions of the 1937 general assembly there were many bills sent here from Washington, which the assembly adopted almost without reading. Later there was some criticism of this action, and in one or two instances the legislators themselves regretted such speedy action.

This assembly may not be quite so amiable to suggestions from the national capital, by took less than two minutes yesterday to adopt a resolution by Senator Gregory commending the President's defense program and his plan for aiding England "short of war."

Lieut. Gov. Harris is a modest man. In a few personal remarks incident to his opening of his first regular session of the senate he confessed to "somehow less wisdom
than Solomon."

Walter Lambeth, former congressman from the eighth district, visited the senate chamber yesterday arriving just a minute too late to see the body in session. He reminded friends that he was observing his 45th birthday and the 20th anniversary of his oath as a state senator. The state constitution fixes 25 years as the minimum age for a senator, so Mr. Lambeth could not

Two bills, inevitable some time during the session, hit the mill ear-

Senator Palmer of Cabarrus was re-speedy approval of both houses, and is the first—probably not the only—

out of town jaunt of the 1941 leg-

Fernando White that year a one day meeting was held in Elenston and in 1939 a session was held in a smile stated that the senator from Guilford desires leave of absence

until Monday. "Teacher" Harris

YESTERDAY: David and Polly have been in love with each other for years. Now they just have postponed their marriage once more, because David's young cousin, Peter Wiley, has descended on him, and David must care for the boy. To complicate matters, the glamorous Margo Powers, daughter of David's boss, has returned from living abroad and has cast a longing eye on David—which Polly has seen.

Margo At Work

Mr. Powers was getting ready to go out to the car when David and Margo reached the house.

"Here's that book you wanted," he said, handing the volume to David.
"It's an especially fine study of the reforestation problem. Take your time about reading it, David. I've thought through it pretty thoroughly."

While David was examining the book, Margo stepped closer to him.
"About it not being too late for you to have a little fun," she said when her father was going down the steps. "Why not drive out to that roadhouse with me some evening for dancing? You know, that place that recently opened up on the State Highway."

"But I thought it was a pretty rowdy sort of joint," David said.
"Do you think it's the sort of place
a girl like you should patronize?"

"Oh, bother that," said Margo. "I hear they've got a wonderful orchestra. I'm dying to see how you dance."

"I'm out of practice on the dance floor as well as on the tennis court," said David.

"Well, it's time you got back in practice," Margo retorted. "You'll go out to the roadhouse with me
some evening, won't you, David?"

"I'd like to, Margo," David said
"but you see, I—that is—"
"Forget your responsibilities for just one evening," said Margo, "and go with me. I can't go alone, and I'm getting awfully bored. Please, David."

David looked down into Margo's upturned face.

How lovely her eyes were, and that inviting mouth—And she wanted him to go dancing with her dancing in a roadhouse that was rowdily gay, and maybe not just what it should be in many ways.
And what was more, he wanted to go with her. Maybe he ought to start trying to gather a few exciting and colorful memories for his old age.

"All right," he said finally. "We'll start about it."

"I'll be waiting to hear from you," Margo said, her voice soft and thrilling. "Give me a buzz."

"Sure," said David. Again he had that all-gone feeling down inside of him, the same feeling he had experienced the day when he and Margo had nearly smashed their cars.
"I'll have to go now," he said. "Your father's waiting for me."

Margo held out her hand. "Bye
David," she said.

Green Phantoms Defeat Roanoke Rapids Quint 29-16

PIRATES DEFEATED BY HOUSE OF DAVID BEARDS

JAMES SCORES 14 FOR PHANTOMS

Greenies Victorious In Opening Conference Game

Coach Bo Farley's Greenville High Phantoms opened their '41 Eastern conference basketball campaign in grand style last night, as they turned back a stubborn five from Roanoke Rapids by a 29-16 score. Greenville held a 12-1 advantage after one quarter had passed and from then on the Yellow Jackets were easy pickings.

Larry James paced the Phantom scoring attack with 14 points and a good floor game. Burney Warren and Hicks Corey followed with four markers each. Snag Clark, John Horne, Percy Wells, Troy Riddle, Gene Johnson and others looked good for the Farley-men, but the game was slow and unexciting.

Clarence Byrd of the visitors came through with five points to lead the Jackets. Bowers, Warrick, Davis, Clements and Neal looked fairly good for the Halifax team but the Phantoms were "on" and may be on the road to their third consecutive conference trophy.

Man About Manhattan

New York.—Having gone over with a great deal of care all the obituaries carried by the New York papers on the late F. Scott Fitzgerald, who died of a heart attack a few days ago, and who was hailed as the Prophet of the "lost" generation, it occurs to us that one significant point about Fitzgerald as a writer was missed or at least overlooked by those who wrote of his demise.

At one time in his early career he very nearly dominated undergraduate thought in this country. The campuses thrived to his name, and "The Beautiful and Damned" was a sort of bible that first classmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors carried about with them or at least read religiously.

Those were in the very early twenties, when he had made his first—and greatest—success, and before he had lost the fine sense of community that he spoke of so passionately when he said, "Thomas Wolfe has it. Ernest Hemingway has it. I once had it. But, through a series of blows, many of them my own fault, something happened to that sense of immunity and I lost my grip."

He wrote of a generation that came out of the war and lived in coonskin coats and said "keen" and went to gin parties, and ended up by "becoming brokers and shooting themselves, or becoming bankers and throwing themselves out of windows."

I only saw him once. That was about the time he wrote one of the really remarkable short stories in American literature. It is called "The Rich Boy." I saw him in New York, in the old Inter-Fraternity building at 38th and Madison, one November night. I know it was November because I was on my way from Virginia to Dartmouth to see a football game. As we were registering I put down a bundle that was wrapped heavily in newspapers and that I was carrying with a secret sense of exhilaration and excitement, because it was then prohibition.

But it was so heavily padded that no one could have guessed its contents. Just then a young man whom I had never seen before came in and strolled amiably over to the desk and picked up my package. He held it to his nose, sniffed at it, said, "Humm, hum." With this he set it down and strolled off again. The clerk at the desk smiled and said, "Do you know who that was?" I said I didn't. "That was F. Scott Fitzgerald," he said.

Well, he is dead now, and so are Hal Kemp, and Dan Frohman, and Agnes Ayres, all within a few days. They were names that were truly significant, because Agnes Ayres was really a top number when she was playing with Valentino in the old silent films; and Kemp belonged in anybody's big time in the orchestra world. And old Dan Frohman was the dean of them all—almost 90 and wearing the tallest collars on Broadway.

4-H Clubs
The 4-H clubs of Belvoir, Grifton, Bellarthur, Fountaine, Falkland, Red Oak, Stokes and Pactolus met this week. "Painting Outbuildings" was the subject. Paint was mixed using mortar color and used cylinder oil. It can be made for five to ten cents per gallon and is a good preservative for wood. It looks well if color used as a substitute for commercial paint where economy is necessary.

Red Banks H. D. Club
The Red Banks club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. L. S. Hardee. The 1941 Outlook was studied.

Bethel H. D. Club
The Bethel club met Wednesday with Mrs. Lewis Ayers and Mrs. Brown. Following the business meeting the Outlook was studied.

Farmville H. D. Club
The first meeting for 1941 was held by the Farmville club Thursday afternoon. They will have a Brunswick stew in honor of club husbands on Friday night, January 24.

Littlefield H. D. Club
The Littlefield club met Friday afternoon with Mrs. E. F. Hart.

Mattress Centers
Mattress centers are being established at Pierce and at Pactolus. All who receive notices to come to the shop should come as promptly as possible. We hope to run full force and finish as early a possible in the summer.

FIRST DEFEAT FOR ECTC FIVE

Local College Team Defeated By Score 55 TO 43

When Dr. James Naismith proposed the thrilling game of basketball he probably never expected that it would become so popular, nor did he have the slightest idea that those funny men of sport, the House of David Pros, would turn his brainchild into a three ring circus as they did last night while upsetting ECTC 55-43.

A crowd of 1,500 fans saw the high-stepping Pirates start out in what seemed to be a hip-and-tuck affair, but they also saw the be-whiskered gentlemen turn on the works and make monkeys of the referees, the Pirates and even the fans. At the end of the opening half the visitors were on the upgrade with a 26-14 lead.

"Baldy" Bill Steineck with his speedy and colorful tactics kept the Beards rolling and the fans laughing. He tallied 16 points to share scoring honors with Ham Hamilton, another of the pros. Gene Brownell and his fellow fugitives from the barber shops were just too much for the Pirates, but the invaders stated that the local quint was one of the strongest to lock horns with them all season.

Jack Young connected with the net for 13 points, while Bob Young accounted for eleven points. George Roberts was a big gun on defensive and Wilson Schuerholz aided Lee Peterson in setting up the offensive drive.

Coach John Christenbury used all his college team in the frolic, but even the fans knew that the David boys were far too advanced for them.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The stock market's pattern was slightly ragged today with small fractional price changes either way, exemplifying the lack of a real trend for leaders.

A few rubbers, rails and specialties managed to edge forward, while steels, motors and many other groups were unable to make headway.

Fair sized blocks of low-price issues accounted for a large portion of the two-hour turnover of around 400,000 shares. All of these stocks held to an extremely narrow range.

Officers Probing Killing In Lenoir

Kinston, Jan. 11 (AP)—Sheriff Sam R. Churchill said today he was holding a 17-year-old white youth for questioning in connection with the slaying of Fred B. Sutton at his service station near here on Thursday night or yesterday morning.

He said that he also was detaining two Negroes.

Kinston, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Officers hunted today for fingerprints and clues in their attempt to solve the slaying of Fred B. Sutton, prominent farmer whose axe-hacked body was found yesterday in a service station he operated two miles south of here.

Two Negroes were being held for questioning, but officers declined to disclose their names or to discuss the case. A bloody axe was found on the premises of the service station and the place, officers said, had been robbed of a nominal sum.

Teachers Honored At Kiwanis Meet

The Greenville Kiwanis club last night held its annual teachers night with nearly 100 in attendance to enjoy the banquet and program.

The program was under the direction of W. J. Bundy, who served as toastmaster. Eli Bloom and W. K. Stewart, Jr., and produced much fun and merriment for the Kiwanians, teachers and guests.

B. W. Moseley was the victim of a joke which provided much merriment. While engaging Miss Mary Shaw Robeson in conversation, Mrs. Moseley came in and admonished her husband, saying that he had told her he did not intend to go to the meeting and that if he did he was not going to escort one of the teachers. As an aftermath of the joke, Mr. Bundy said he did not see why so many of the Kiwanians' wives had to serve every time the club observed teachers night.

A welcome was extended to the guests by B. B. Sugg and the response was made by Mrs. A. L. Dittmer.

Special music was provided by Miss Eugenia Abeyonnis, vocalist, with Vernon Keutemeyer at the piano. Group singing also was enjoyed throughout the program. Eli Bloom recited "Levinisky at the Wedding" to the enjoyment of all.

The fun was extended to the awarding of attendance prizes, J. Frank Harrington being presented a bottle of "Madam Queen's hair tonic and fertilizer" as the men's

REVEALS COST OF CAMPAIGNS

Incomplete Figures Show Total of $21,746,475 Spent

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—Incomplete reports showing that $21,746,475 was spent in the recent national elections were described in Senate circles today as evidence that the Hatch politics act would have to be tightened considerably if future campaign costs are to be substantially reduced.

Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) of the Senate Campaign committee supplied the $21,746,475 figure and noted that it did not include outlays by "local political groups" of campaign costs of candidates for the Senate. The money, he made clear, was spent in the 1941 national elections, and not exclusively in the campaign for president.

He and other committee members said numerous new amendments, including one limiting loans to state and national groups would be needed to reduce the costs of future political campaigns.

In the 1936 campaign the national committees of the two major parties reported disbursements totaling $13,096,372. This, however, was before enactment of the Hatch legislation placing a $3,000,000 annual limit on expenditures of a "political committee" and specifying that individual donations could not exceed $5,000.

Flu Incidence Mild At Fort Bragg Post

Fort Bragg, Jan. 11.—Only 362 cases, out of a military population at this post of more than 20,000 troops, of respiratory diseases that fall in the influenza class are under treatment at the station hospital at Fort Bragg. It was announced today.

If approximately 300 cases of common colds are added to this number, the total of respiratory cases under treatment is only about 662 making a sick rate of three per cent against population, which is quite normal for the winter months as compared to the percentage of sickness for a much smaller population at this post in previous years.

Auto Firms Unite To Rush Aircraft

Los Angeles, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A national defense production partnership between some of the major automobile and airplane manufacturing plants took shape today.

Dr. George Mead, aircraft production head of the National Defense Commission, said in an interview it was the commission's intention to have the three large automotive corporations, Ford, General Motors and Chrysler, make assemblies for 1,200 planes each—a total of 3,600.

Ford, he said, would manufacture parts for heavy bombardment craft—four-engine bombers to be assembled at a new consolidated aircraft corporation plant at Fort Worth, Texas, and a new Douglas plant at Tulsa, Okla.

"Chrysler will build parts for Glenn L. Martin's B-26 medium bomber," he added, and General Motors will do the same for North American Aviation.

Dr. Mead said the commission recently perceived "that the demand for military planes would be so great in the future that we must find entirely new means of acquiring them—and we know we've found the solution in these great automotive corporations."

The United States contains about 319,000,000 acres of arable land.

HEALTH WORK IN '40 SHOWN

Annual Report Made By Pitt County Health Officer

Following is the annual report on the activities of the Pitt County Health Department as submitted to the Pitt County Medical Society by Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, health officer, Thursday night:

For the most part the year's work has gone quite well with the exception that certain venereal disease clinics have not held up and tuberculosis continues to be our paramount health problem. We need a local sanatorium for the advanced cases of tuberculosis in order to protect the family from the patient's germ laden sputum.

The health officer examined 2,434 school children and the health officer and nurses made 353 health talks to school children.

The nurses made 13,379 inspections of school children for contagious diseases. The nurses also vaccinated 1,134 children against diphtheria.

The prisoners in jail and the inmates of the county home claimed much of the health officer's time. The county home is essentially a hospital without hospital facilities though from time to time certain patients are hospitalized.

The inspection of dairies, hotels, restaurants and cafes, meat markets and the promotion of community sanitation, malaria drainage, etc., were carried on with a reasonable amount of success.

Comparative statistics between the years 1939 and 1940 show that cases of diphtheria decreased from 100 in 1939 to 26 in 1940; typhoid fever from 22 to 3; scarlet fever from 21 to 15; whooping cough from 132 to 4; and tuberculosis from 68 to 54—though the reported deaths from tuberculosis increased from 19 in 1939 to 25 in 1940.

We had two state tuberculosis clinics in 1940, while in previous years, we have had only one clinic per year.

The Christmas seal sale funds enabled us to give 225 free x-rays to poor patients, this being the highest number of x-rays in the history of the work.

The decrease in typhoid fever from 22 to 3 is gratifying and so far as we know, this is Pitt county's typhoid record but even this is not good enough. There is some satisfaction that diphtheria decreased from 100 to 26, but the number of diphtheria cases remains inexcusably high since the prevention treatment is free to all who apply for it.

The attendance at the State County Orthopedic clinic was 311 in 1939 and 378 in 1940; an increase of 20 per cent.

The total number of venereal disease treatments at the four Pitt county clinic centers in 1939 was 17,852; the total in 1940 was 19,320 or an eight per cent increase. The total blood tests in 1939 was 3,018 in 1940, 7,474 of which number 4,384 were tests given to the selective service registrants.

The four maternal and infant welfare clinics in the county had an attendance in 1939 of 1,775; in 1940, 2,394; or an increase of 35 per cent.

Dr. Ennett expressed the opinion that much of the growth of these mother and baby clinics was due to the good work of the clinicians and the untiring efforts of the health department nurses.

Defense Projects Produce Troubles

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, Jan. 11.—Establishment of army camps, training fields, etc., adjacent to cities and towns brings along problems and expenses of caring for the rapid increase in population. Fayetteville is having lots of headaches because of the thousands of new troops at Fort Bragg and the lack of adequate recreational facilities there.

Attempting to prepare for the expected thousands at Holly Ridge anti-aircraft field, New Hanover representatives introduced and the senator assisted in passing under rule suspension a bill permitting the county and city of Wilmington to cooperate in building recreational and playground facilities inside or outside the city. The whole idea is to give the workmen and the soldiers at the new camp some place where they can feel sort of at home when they go to town.

Whatever the significance may be this was House Bill No. 1 adopted immediately after it was Senate Bill No. 4, endorsing the President's defense program. Which may indicate a disposition on part of the legislature to "go along with" the national government as closely as possible.
