HITLER AND MUSSOLINI EXPECTED CONFER SUNDAY

ROW DEVELOPS ON PROPOSED WILKIE TRIP

Rep. Tinkham Would Force Party Head To Testify

SEEKS TO LEARN MOTIVE OF TRIP Massachusetts Republican Sees Possibility That Wilkie To Represent FDR In Europe

Washington, Jan. 18. (AP)—Rep. Tinkham (R-Mass.) announced today he would ask the House Foreign Affairs committee to subpoena Wendell L. Wilkie to testify on the British aid bill after the former Republican presidential candidate had notified the committee his impending trip to Europe made it impossible for him to appear.

Tinkham was promptly informed by Chairman Bloom (D-NY) that the committee did not have the power to issue a subpoena.

After the hearing, Tinkham angrily told newsmen that he wanted to know "what competency Mr. Wilkie has to advise the American people on foreign policy nearly every morning."

Tinkham said he had no information on the purpose of Wilkie's proposed visit to England, but admitted "I certainly think there is a possibility that Mr. Wilkie is going there as an emissary for Mr. Roosevelt."

Earlier President Roosevelt's defense production chief told Congress that it would be late 1941 before this country could supply "any great amount" of aid to Britain under the lend-lease bill "unless we take products out of existing facilities."

The official, William S. Knudsen, director general of production management, recommended passage of the legislation to lend or lease munitions of war to Britain in his fight with the Axis powers on the ground that "this is part of our own defense."

Appearing before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Knudsen was asked by Sen. Rogers (R-Mass.) whether he was satisfied with the defense program.

"Well, I think we are doing as well as could be expected," Knudsen replied. "I think we are doing fairly well. The real showing won't start until the tools are ready."

New York, Jan. 18 (AP)—Wendell L. Wilkie said today he would be "delighted" to appear before the House Foreign Affairs Committee conducting hearings on the British aid bill, but that it would be impossible for him to do so before leaving for Europe Wednesday.

The 1940 Republican presidential candidate first laughed heartily when advised that Rep. Tinkham (R-Mass.) had sought to subpoena him to testify, had questioned his "competency to advise the American people on foreign policy" and expressed belief Wilkie was going to England as an emissary of President Roosevelt.

Wilkie said he was "going to England on my own account, paying my own expenses and representing no one but myself."

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—Wendell L. Wilkie will confer with Sec. Hull Sunday afternoon. It was learned authoritatively today prior to his departure by clipper for London on Wednesday.

The State Department made no announcement of the Wilkie-Hull conference, but it was learned that the Republican candidate for president desired to discuss international affairs and particularly relations between the United States and Great Britain with Secretary Hull before making his personal firsthand study of conditions in England.

Safety Council Meet Set For January 31st

Larry E. Brown, chairman of the Eastern Carolina Safety Council, disclosed today that the organization's regular quarterly meeting would be held in Rocky Mount Friday night, January 31 and urged a large delegation from here to attend the conference.

The meeting will be held in the old recorder's court room beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Senator Glass Of Virginia Says He Personally Favors Declaring War On Germany

Princess Taken To Hearing

Because of her illness, a deportation hearing against Hungarian Princess Stephanie Hohenlohe was transferred to her apartment in Palo Alto, Calif., after she had been brought to the immigration office in San Francisco in an ambulance. Attendees are carrying her back into the apartment for the hearing to go on at her bedside. The hearing was ordered after she failed to comply with a Department of Justice order that she leave the country by January 11 on grounds that her presence was considered inimical to the nation's best interests. Her attorney Joseph Bullock, denied she is pro-Nazi.

Carnival Spirit Noted On Eve Of Inauguration

SEE CONFLICT IN TWO BILLS

School Measure And Sales Tax Exemptions Clash

Raleigh, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Legislative observers today saw in the Umstead-Pritchett nine-months school bill introduced in the House yesterday the real challenge to the Vogel bill removing all foods from the sales tax.

Rep. Umstead of Orange, co-author of the school bill, said addition of the extra months to the present eight-months school term would cost about $1,500,000 a year.

Revenue Commissioner A. J. Maxwell previously had told the joint finance committee that the loss of revenue resulting from the removal of food items from the sales tax list would be "about a million and a half a year—but improved business is expected to make up that loss through increased collections on other items."

"We (backers of the nine-months school term) just want to see whether the people of North Carolina had rather have a longer uniform school term or cut down their present sources of revenue," Umstead said. "I don't understand how you can get everything you ask for and at the same time cut down revenue."

Each house of the General Assembly passed one local bill at brief sessions today and then recessed until 8 o'clock Monday night. Under suspended rules, the House gave three readings to a bill by Senator of Harnett to shorten from four to two years the terms of office of Harnett's register of deeds county surveyor, recorder's court judge and five county commissioners.

Kiwansians Behind World Federation

The Greenville Kiwanis club, in its regular weekly session at the Woman's club building last night unanimously endorsed the World Federation movement inaugurated by Robert Lee Humber.

The action came after the plan had been outlined briefly by James Fleming, who, like Mr. Humber, only recently returned to his home here after having lived in Paris, France, for some time. The movement provides for the establishing of a government made up of representatives of all nations.

Capital Crowded For Precedent-Breaking Program

Washington, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The bustle of carnival crowds overshadowed somber defense preparations today in the nation's capital, splashed with banners and bunting for the precedent-shattering third inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Cheered by a forecast for fair-though cold-weather for Monday's ceremonies, weary officials announced that everything was complete for welcoming a record throng of 250,000 or more visitors.

By auto, plane and train sight-seers were arriving hourly for the festivities, unique in American history because no president has held office more than two terms.

At the White House the President kept appointments to a minimum in order to finish his inaugural address. He gave no hint of its length or content.

It will be delivered after he takes the oath Monday noon on a simple platform built over the capitol steps—where in 1933 he told a solemn gathering that he would seek broad emergency powers if necessary to fight the depression. Now the emphasis is on grave foreign and military problems with Congress debating whether to give Mr. Roosevelt new emergency authority to rush help to embattled Britain.

Discloses Data On Orthopedic Clinic

At the request of Co-Chairman D. H. Conley and J. H. Rose of the President's Birthday Ball committee, Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, county health officer, today released information on the activities of the clinic conducted for crippled children with the aid of Birthday Ball funds.

Dr. Ennett said that while the clinic was set up to serve five counties, Beaufort, Carteret, Pamlico, Pitt, and Tyrrell, it has had infantile paralysis patients from five other counties, Bertie, Craven, Hyde, Greene and Lenoir.

The clinic has in its files 28 cases of infantile paralysis from Pitt county alone.

The Greenville clinic is held the first Friday of each month and is open to infantile paralysis cases in both the white and colored race and is conducted by Dr. Hugh A. Thompson, orthopedist specialist from Raleigh.

The Greenville clinic brings to the Pitt county infantile paralysis cases free expert medical and surgical service convenient to the patient.

Declares, However, Question Primarily One For Experts Of State, War And Navy Departments; Sen. Nye Reiterates Contention 30 Members of Senate Would Vote For War If Requested Now

Washington, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Senator Glass (D-Va.) said today it was his personal view that the United States should declare war on Germany now, but he added the question was one which should be determined primarily by policy experts in the State, War and Navy departments.

The 83-year-old Virginian, who has criticized many administration measures, but has supported President Roosevelt's foreign policy, was selected by the Democratic Steering Committee yesterday for membership on the Foreign Relations committee which will handle the administration's aid to Britain legislation in the Senate.

In an interview he declared that he would like to declare war on Germany at once "so far as I am personally concerned."

"But I don't know whether that would be strategically advisable," he continued. "It is a matter primarily for the experts of the State department and the army and navy."

The Virginia senator previously has expressed the view that this nation would be justified in sending its vessels into war zones to carry goods to the British. He also has argued that the United States justifiably could escort convoys of supply ships to Great Britain.

Meanwhile, Senator Nye (R-ND) reiterated his contention that 30 senators would vote now for a declaration of war if the President declared it.

But, he declared, the country's feeling is growing against war. This gradually will bring about a change in congressional sentiment, he declared.

Flu Is Prevalent In County Schools

Although numerous instances of mild influenza or severe colds have been reported in the various county schools and those of the city, there apparently were no indications that the schools would have to be closed down, as they have in a large number of other places in all sections of the state.

J. H. Rose, city superintendent, has disclosed that about 12 per cent of the enrollment of the city schools was out with colds and measles.

D. H. Conley, superintendent of the county schools, declared today he had not received reports from all units, but from those from which he had heard reported about five per cent out with influenza or colds. Winterville, however, was harder hit, with the principal three teachers and 150 students from an enrollment of about 600 being out. Paeonius, with an enrollment of about 400, had 60 absent yesterday, and Bethel, with an enrollment of about 500, also had 60 out Friday.

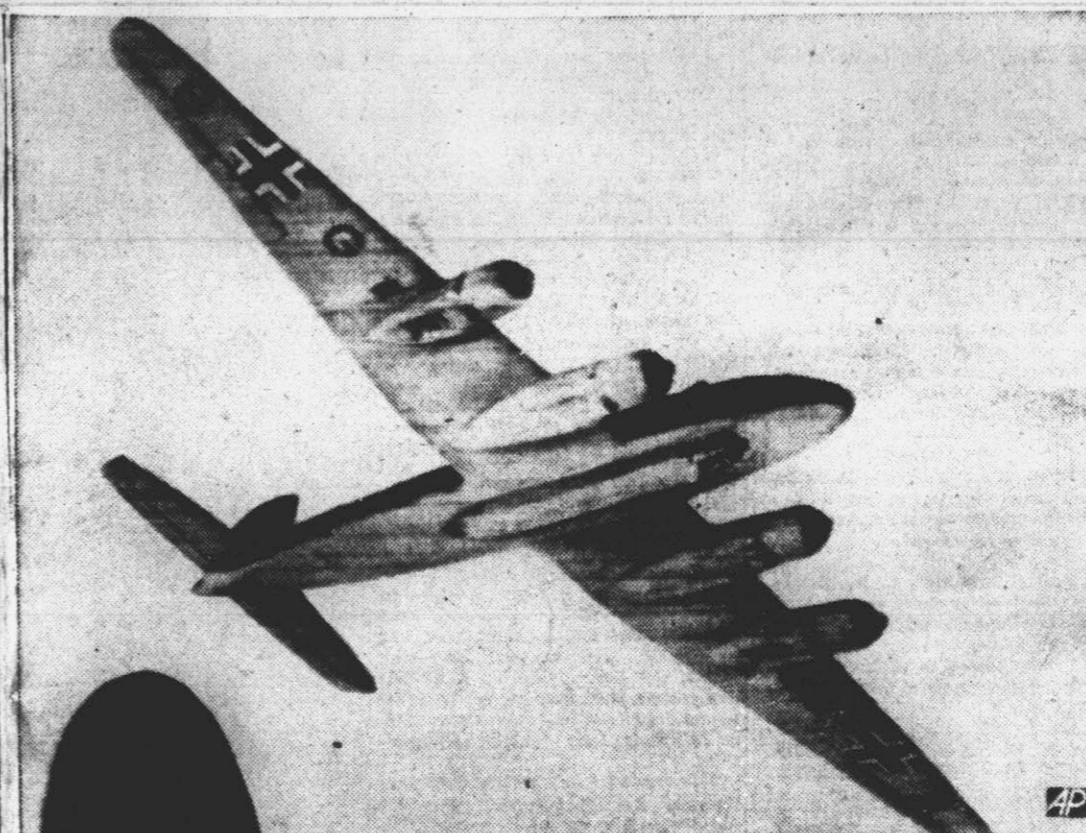

'SHALL I GIVE UP--OR FIGHT?'

Babson Talks To Small Farmers And Others

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 18.—So many letters came to me from struggling farmers, fruit growers, and even manufacturers asking, "Shall I give up or continue the struggle?" that I will devote this week's column to discussing this painful subject. Most of my letters are from farmers on marginal lands, but many others groups are up against the same problem. They know they are in an honest and necessary business. They work hard and live economically. They attend church and have brought up their children to obey God. From all standards, they deserve success. But they are getting further into debt all the time.

Germany's New Long-Range Bomber

This is the first picture to be released on Germany's latest four-motored long distance bomber, a Focke-Wulf "Kurier." Nazi sources say it has been used in hunting enemy merchantment far out on the Atlantic. This picture was radioed from Berlin.

MORE SCHOOLS CLOSED BY FLU

Peak, However, Apparently Reached In Some Sections

Charlotte, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Scores of cities and communities in North Carolina fought the raging flu epidemic today by closing schools and taking other precautions as the outbreak seemed to be reaching a peak in some sections.

In Charlotte, Dr. G. E. Rea, city health officer, estimated that 10 per cent of Charlotte's 100,000 population was down with the infection and added that the number of cases might be even higher.

Schools both in Charlotte and Mecklenburg county were closed until January 27 and many churches decided not to hold services tomorrow.

Although schools were still closed in Greensboro and Guilford county health authorities there expressed the opinion that the epidemic in that area was definitely past the peak.

With the epidemic apparently growing worse at Gastonia, Dr. L. N. Patrick, city physician, announced that theaters would close beginning today and that uptown churches had agreed to cancel all services tomorrow. The schools there will remain closed.

Schools in Lumberton were closed until January 27 after 30 per cent of the pupils were reported absent.

Mooreville and Kannapolis schools were among the latest to be closed, along with several county schools in Rowan county.

To Attend Meeting, J. H. Rose, immediate past department commander, left today for Winston-Salem, where he will attend the annual meeting of the Post Officers' Conference of the North Carolina Department, American Legion, Sunday and Monday.

To Leave For Cruise, Bryan Brown, local Pure Oil company distributor, will leave tomorrow for Miami to begin a two week's cruise of Caribbean waters as a guest of the Pure Oil company.

No Information

Wash., Jan. 18 (AP) — Sec. Hull said today that he had no information from any source that Great Britain was attempting to have the United States declare war on the Axis powers.

He made the assertion after reporters had asked him at his press conference to comment on a statement by Sen. Wheeler (D-Mont.) Wheeler said last night that he had learned from several "reliable sources" that Prime Minister Churchill had been "insisting on a declaration of war by this country."

OBSERVE NEW NAZI ACTIVITY

Air Force Making Preparation at Rumanian Fields

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Intensive German air force preparations at more than a dozen large landing fields in southern Rumania led to predictions today that the Nazis may be arranging hopping off places for new action in the Mediterranean area.

Although fewer than 100 Nazi planes were believed to be stationed in Rumania now, thousands of ground crew men are quartered on or near all important landing fields and more are arriving daily.

Vast gasoline stores are being concentrated at all southern Rumanian airports and crews and carpenters are working long hours on buildings, hangars, and store houses for munitions and bombs.

W & L Resolution Adopted By Board

Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Greenville Water and Light Commission, today disclosed that the local board had adopted a resolution whereby a monthly fixed charge of 30 cents per 100 watts would be made in addition to the regular rate for inferior gaseous discharge lamps such as fluorescent and neon fixtures.

The additional charge is to be made of such lamps or group of lamps with a power factor of less than 90 per cent lagging.

The resolution states that the commission is interested in promoting the sale of fluorescent lighting in its territory and had made a study of such lamps, the survey showing that inferior lighting of this type may be sold to the disadvantage of the customer; unless certain precautions are taken in the selection of lighting units.

F. C. Ives Of Bayboro Is Claimed By Death

S. C. Ives of Bethel has returned to his home from Bayboro, where he was called by the sudden illness and death of his brother, F. C. Ives whose funeral was conducted Thursday afternoon in the family plot near the home place.

Mr. Ives is survived by his wife formerly Miss Clio Holloman, five sisters, one brother, two nieces and three nephews.

FARMERS PAID MORE IN 1940

Cash Income Greater Last Year Than In 1939

Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, Jan. 18.—Cash income from the sale of principal farm products in North Carolina for the first ten months of 1940 was nine per cent greater than for the corresponding period in 1939, according to F. P. Handy, junior agricultural statistician in the department of agriculture. Income from government payments was 28 per cent less, leaving a net total increase for the January-October period of 5.4 per cent.

Actual income figures were estimated at $158,731,000 and $145,028,000, exclusive of government payments. The increase was caused mainly by the much larger cotton crop and by better prices for many commodities. Tobacco, however, shows a loss of some 37 million dollars.

Cash income from the sales of livestock and livestock products for the first ten months of 1940 was 13 per cent above the level of the same months in 1939.

Of the total farm income for these months 74 per cent was from the sale of crops, 19 per cent was from livestock and livestock products. The other 7 per cent was made up of the various benefit payments received from the Federal government.

Cash income from the sale of all farm products in the United States from January through October is estimated at $7,315,124,000. This is about 7 per cent above the previous year for the nation, as compared with 5.4 per cent in this state, which would seem to indicate that states with more general diversification fared better than North Carolina, depending largely upon cotton and tobacco for cash farm income.

Holds Conference For Electricians

A conference of electrical contractors and inspectors was held at the Municipal building last night with W. A. Darden, chief inspector for the Greenville Water and Light Commission, in charge.

The conference was attended by inspectors and contractors from Greenville, Washington, Farmville, New Bern, Bethel and Ayden. The purpose of the meeting was to explain changes in the 1941 electrical code as adopted by the underwriters.

Lanier To Be Host To Legion Post Members

State Senator J. C. Lanier will be host to the members of Pitt County Post No. 39 at the regular meeting Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. Members will be treated to steamed oysters.

The dinner meeting will be held at the new city garage at the new Street Department headquarters on West Third street.

Hitler Represented As Desiring to Bring About Peace In Italian-Greek Warfare; Nazis Intern British Subjects In Occupied France; Cross Channel Blows Exchanged By Germany And Britain

By The Associated Press Diplomatic quarters at Bern, Switzerland, heard reports today that a full dress conference of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini with their principal military, diplomatic and economic aides is set for Sunday.

A reliable informant in Sofia, Bulgaria, said Germany was trying to bring about peace in the Italian-Greek war and that the concentration of German troops in southern Rumania was part of the "argument" aimed at Greece.

A fresh round-up of British civilians in Nazi-occupied France, where military and naval bases are the targets of Royal Air Force bombers, was disclosed today as a factor in the wintry cross-channel warfare.

"Military necessity," Germans said, was the reason for the internment of 3,000 British subjects, men, women and children, living in the French area—which might become either the jumping off place for an attempted invasion of England or a foothold for a new British expeditionary force.

German action to restrict espionage has been reported from other occupied areas facing England—Norway, The Netherlands and Belgium. It was understood in Berlin that the roundup was in part a reprisal for internment of Germans in Britain.

Bombers exchanged aerial blows in the night despite bad weather. German fliers set fires in a raid on docks and storehouses at Swansea, south Wales port, which is a cooper and fuel center. The British government said casualties there were "not large."

British warplanes attacked the ports of Brest and Cherbourg and two airdromes in occupied France. Axis shipping was bombed and machine-gunned off the Dutch coast yesterday, the British Air Ministry said, and four ships were hit.

Greece announced the capture of 1,000 Italians of the crack "Wolves of Tuscany" division in Albania and the torpedoing of two Italian ships in the Adriatic sea.

Prime Minister Churchill declared in an unexpected speech last night in Glasgow that Britain did not require "large armies from overseas" in 1941, but did need "far more" ships, airplanes and supplies from American than she could pay for.

Hope To Avert Strike At San Diego Plant

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 18.—(AP) New hopes that a strike at the Rayn Aeronautical Company plant here may be averted rose with word today that the company and CIO United Automobile Workers union negotiators would meet again today.

Shortly after arriving from another deadlock session last night, negotiators announced through Harry Malcom, federal conciliator, their agreement to meet again to seek a solution of the wage dispute.

With the strike deadline set for next Tuesday by union vote, Malcom said he had a plan to prevent the walkout which would affect 1,600 workmen and the plant's $11,400,000 government plane order.

Removed From Hospital.

Mr. W. B. Cozart has been moved to his home on Dickinson avenue after spending the past ten days in Pitt General Hospital.

Large Audience At Concert.

One of the most enthusiastic audiences of the year last night heard the duo-pianists Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff in a brilliant two-piano recital at the College, calling them back again and again and receiving in return for their appreciation a generous number of encores.

Known on the concert stage for their very nearly perfect blending of effort as well as their individual technical accomplishments, these two pianists demonstrated both qualities last night. Watch and listen as one might, it was almost impossible to separate the playing of one from that of the other. The program provided wide variety, from the brilliance of the opening number, the "Overture to the Marriage of Figaro," Mozart-Conus; to the "Capriccio Espagnol," Rimsky-Korsakoff.

"Variations on a Theme of Beethoven," Saint-Saens, remarkable for its perfect preservation of the theme in the midst of elaborate variations.

All the numbers were marked by technical precision without loss of artistic quality. The fortissimo effects were notable for their strength without harshness.

As these artists use only Baldwin instruments on tour, two concert grand pianos were shipped by the Baldwin Company all the way from one of their central offices in Harrisburg, Pa., to East Carolina Teachers College for last night's recital. They were received here and returned to the central office by Messrs. P. Milton, the Baldwin representative in Rocky Mount.

From Greenville these artists will go to Atlanta for a program there early next week.

The next number of the entertainment series at the College will be a concert by Allan Jones on February 14.

The program of last night's concert follows:

1. Overture to "The Marriage of Figaro," Mozart-Conus; Choral prelude "Ach wie fluechtig," Bach (arranged by Boris Goldovsky); Rondo, Weber; Passacaglia, Handel.

2. Variations on a Theme of Beethoven, Saint-Saens.

3. Capriccio Espagnol, Rimsky-Korsakoff.

4. The Lark, Olinka; The Flight of the Bumble Bee, Rimsky-Korsakoff; Valse Trigane, Levitzki (Dedicated to Lucoshutz and Nemenoff) New Dance, Reigger.

Arthur P. T. A.

The Arthur P. T. A. met Wednesday night, January 15, in the high school auditorium. Mrs. Bruce Strickland, president, presided. The meeting opened with the song "America the Beautiful." Devotionals were held by Mr. Jefferson. Another song, "The Star Spangled Banner," was sung. A report was given by the playground committee. Mrs. Bernard Nichols was appointed to replace Mrs. Heber Strickland as publication chairman. A committee was appointed to plan a way to raise money to send a representative to the Chapel Hill conference next summer. The budget committee was appointed. Miss Cotner, Mr. Jack Smith and Mrs. Pollard. A garden committee was named to plan for a summer garden for the lunch room, with Jack Smith as chairman.

The program of the evening was "Federal Aid for Schools," with Mr. Mack Smith as chairman. Mrs. Josie McArthur expressed her opinion of federal aid and state schools. Mrs. Robert McArthur held a discussion of questions and answers concerning P. T. A. legislative program. A motion was made and carried to send a letter to a legislator desiring federal aid in North Carolina, after which the meeting was adjourned.

College Assembly

Quoting from Paul's letter to the Romans in which he tells of the three personalities with whom we make contact in the larger realm of life, Dr. R. S. Boyd, of the Presbyterian Church, spoke at the student assembly of the College Friday on youth facing his task today.

After a solo, "The Rosary," sung by Miss Gladys Edwards and accompanied by Miss Wilda Royall, the speaker was introduced by Miss Sallie J. Davis.

"I am debtor to the man out there," said Dr. Boyd in the words of Paul, pointing out that Paul felt his responsibility and obligations. It is not how much we can get out of life, he said, but how much we can give to life in service.

When Paul looked inside to meet that elusive individual, whom we would sometime rather keep from meeting, he said, "I am ready," with all he had in his power. Citing Peter's statement, "such as I have, give I thee"; the incident of the woman bathing the Master's feet and the gift of the widow, he declared, as much as we have is a great blessing to give. We are usually willing to give but not always ready to give.

To the third personality, the man up there, Paul asked, "What will you have me do?" Dr. Boyd said we must have respect for Jesus, His ability, His power, and what He has brought to men.

In closing, he challenged the group in preparing for life to look at the other and his needs, to see that we are fitted to meet those needs, and to meet the man up there in service.

A. A. U. W. To Meet.

Dr. James Watson, director of the Division of Mental Hygiene of the State Department of Charities and Public Welfare, will be the speaker at an open meeting arranged by the Social Studies Committee of the A. A. U. W. for Monday evening, January 20, at 8 o'clock, in the auditorium of the New Classroom building at the College; and in February this noted psychiatrist and religious leader will return to make two other talks in the series devoted to several phases of mental hygiene and the resources North Carolina has for mental hygiene needs.

A little more than a year ago Dr. Watson came to this State from the Massachusetts State Hospital in Worcester, Mass., where he had made for himself a national reputation by his clinical work with children. In this year he has greatly advanced the mental hygiene work of North Carolina. Constantly in demand as a speaker before such organizations as Rotary Club, Junior League, Business Club, Y. M. C. A., and parent-teacher associations, he has yet found time to write articles for newspapers and magazines, to teach a course in the Raleigh Institute of Religion, and to conduct mental hygiene clinics for children.

Dr. Watson's psychological services to children will be of special interest to parents and teachers who may be concerned about problems of moral or mental welfare of maladjusted children. At present Dr. Watson is conducting a demonstration Child Guidance Clinic in Raleigh, and under his leadership similar clinics are gradually being established in other communities.

Equally important is Dr. Watson's service to adults. He is an authority on problems of marriage and parenthood. His deep religious faith added to his medical and psychiatric skill make him eminently Presbyterian Announcements. The Men's Bible Class is doing a fine community service now by interesting a number of Greenville Spinners in the fellowship of the class and the practical lesson taught by E. A. Gibson each week. Some fifteen of these men are frequently in attendance on the regular class session Sunday mornings. Thanks to J. Brian Brown.

Next Sunday the church school opens at 9:45 as usual. The classes for college students are well attended and invites all students not now attending, to attend the class for young women taught by Miss Whitmore or the class for young men taught by Mr. A. B. Stallworth.

At the preaching service Sunday morning, Dr. Boyd, the pastor, will speak on the subject "The Prophet's Vision." This study will be based on Mich. 4:1. "But in the latter days it shall come to pass..." America, the world, all Christians need the inspiration of the vision of better things that God shall bring to pass "in the latter days." For a few minutes after the morning service, Dr. S. M. Crisp, chairman of the special committee to raise funds for the new pews and carpet, will meet all his appointed workers. The men of this church have done some fine service during the past year; and this is another call to help beautify and make more comfortable the "Home Church."

Terrorized shoppers and motorists witnessed these scenes on Fifth Avenue, New York, as a policeman and a payroll bandit shot it out at 34th street during a rush hour. Top: Pedestrians rush to aid Patrolman Edward C. Maher, 52, who was fatally wounded by Angelo de Stefano who had been wounded in the leg by Maher. Maher fell beside de Stefano who later turned on him at close range. In the foreground lies Leonard Weisberg, a taxi driver who was shot in the throat when he attempted to intercept de Stefano. Below: The same scene a few seconds later as passersby dragged de Stefano away from the policeman. Maher died in a hospital without regaining consciousness.

Steps Up

Paul E. Brown (above), 32-year-old "miracle man" high school coach, steps up to the post of head football coach at Ohio State, the nation's fifth largest college. Brown made a remarkable record with his wizardry Massillon, O., teams. His salary—$6,500.

U.S. Trio Recalled At German Request Arrive Home

Leigh W. Hunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Deegan and Cecil M. P. Cross (left to right) arrived on the Atlantic Clipper at New York from Lisbon. Germany last month requested Washington to recall the trio, members of the U. S. embassy staff in Paris, on grounds they helped a British officer escape.

Heading a parade of witnesses before the House Foreign Affairs committee which opened hearings in Washington on the administration's lease-lend bill. Secretary of State Cordell Hull (seated at table on left) urged enactment of the measure as "absolutely necessary" to the nation's defense. Facing Hull as he reads his 3,000-word statement are members of the committee. Left to right: Representatives Thad F. Waisleski (D-Wis); Noble J. Gregory (D-KY); Wirt Courtney (D-Tenn); next man is an unidentified clerk; Rep. W. O. Burgin (D-NC); Laurence F. Arnold (D-Ill); Pete Jarman (D-Ala); James A. Shanley (D-Conn); James P. Stimson Fears Invasion Threat Throwing his arms in the air in a dramatic gesture, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson told the House Foreign Affairs Committee in Washington that the United States is in "very great danger of an invasion by air in the contingency that the British navy should be destroyed or surrendered." Testifying for the lease-lend bill for aid to Great Britain, the secretary made his assertion in reply to questions by Rep. Hamilton Fish (R-NY).

Actress Brenda Joyce and Owen Ward, an accountant and her classmate in college before she entered the movies, were first in line when the marriage bureau in Los Angeles opened for the day. Because Ward had to report for work at 9 a. m., they appeared at 8 o'clock to file their application for the wedding license. They will be married January 18.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

The Celestial Ladder.

In the 28th chapter of Genesis, we have an account of how the delectable young Jacob was suddenly brought to his senses by a dream. Fleeing from the wrath of his brother Esau, he had lain down in the wilderness to sleep. He dreamed that a ladder was set up nearby extending from earth to heaven. At the top of the ladder was God Himself, and up and down the ladder went heavenly messengers taking the prayers of men to heaven and bringing back the manifold blessings of God.

The young man awoke with the startled exclamation, "Surely the Lord is in this place, and I knew it not." The last thing his eyes had looked upon as he dropped off to sleep was the face of a bare hill. Under the magic of slumber, the landscape had been transformed into a golden ladder resplendent with heavenly glory.

The ladder arose right from where the boy was sleeping. A barren hill was transformed into something of celestial glory. He discovered supernatural forces in a place where he least expected to find them. These are the lessons which the scene teaches to men of all ages. A ladder which reaches to heaven is set up at our feet. The ladder is the circumstances of our daily lives transformed by the touch of God. Powers cannot describe them are round about us all the time, eager to bless us on our earthly pilgrimage.

WHAT WILL OUR FUTURE BE?

Announcement by the Agriculture Department that the tobacco farmers have no doubt permanently lost a part of their export market even after the end of the present European war, which has temporarily stopped all exports of the crop, does not present a very hopeful picture for this immediate section of North Carolina and especially our own county which has come to rely almost entirely upon tobacco as a means of support. The announcement should emphasize to us, however, the fact that the day of depending entirely on this one money crop system of farming has passed, unless we want to reap real and complete financial disaster. The matter is one that vitally affects not only our farmers but every type of business and every individual in our county and section, and any movement toward solving our farming problem must of necessity have the support of all our people.

For many years some of those who have visioned the approach of financial difficulties as a result of our crop farming have been preaching the gospel of diversification, but during all this time it seems we have been content to continue right along with our worship at the feet of tobacco despite its ever dwindling returns. We have in this section of North Carolina and in this county a fertile soil and temperate climate suitable for the production of almost anything that grows, and still we are dumb enough to continue to hitch our wagon to a falling star. It seems now that this star is about to fade beyond the horizon and unless we want to be carried with it into oblivion we must break away from it and seek the safer haven of diversified efforts. We repeat the immediate future does not present a pretty picture for us, but the only way for us to change the picture is to begin now to build our future on the more solid foundation of diversified production for domestic consumption.

All of us realize that for a diversified production to be successful our farmers must have ready markets for their products and this angle is where our Chambers of Commerce, our Merchants Associations, our city, county, and state, and even federal administrations can come in to do their share in making the program a success. If these agencies would join together to see to providing sufficient, strategically located, receiving stations with ample distribution facilities to place the products of our farms on the proper markets of the north and east where they are sorely needed, there would be no more need of the government handing out further bounties to Eastern North Carolina farmers. Eastern North Carolina is now at the cross-roads when it must decide whether it is to become the agricultural empire of the south or whether it will sink deeper into a poverty that is being brought about by our system of one crop farming.

Washington Daybook

Washington - This is the story of what probably the greatest cleaning and pressing establishment in the world. It can handle 40,000 pieces a day - pieces of paper, not coats, pants nor dresses. The phenomenal thing about it is that Milady never donned a gown more valuable nor a frock more fragile than some of the scraps of paper which National Archives cleans, presses and puts into files every day. Here are the priceless documents of American history, from the Versailles treaty right on back to the Revolutionary war alliance with France, the hand-written minutes of the Continental Congress, and the Treaty with Eng-

Warmongers!

Raleigh, Jan. 18 - The current issue of the Federalist, official organ of the North Carolina Federation of Labor, has an unusual if not unique advertisement. Among the personal and professional cards is found this: "Compliments of Wibur M. Darden, Attorney at Law, Harney Building, Member of N. C. House of Representatives, Plymouth, N. C."

There is nothing unusual in candidates for office advertising in magazines, but it is rare to find a legislator publicizing his office in the organ of a federation whose president is a registered lobbyist before the body of which he is a member.

Expressions of surprise and grief were unanimous among members of the assembly when news reached the capitol Friday morning that Jack Joyner had killed himself at his Statesville home. Veteran legislator, Jack was extremely popular with his colleagues in the several past sessions.

"The lawyers are not going to legislate themselves out of work if they can help," remarked a non-legal member of the finance committee after one of the meetings. "Did you notice," he asked, "that every time Mr. Maxwell said anything about amendments simplifying administration of the law, some lawyer would start raising objections to it?"

As a further gesture of courtesy to members, the mayor of Raleigh has arranged for free parking in a large nearby back yard of a Raleigh resident. Raleigh is anxious for the law makers to feel kindly toward several local bills now on the way.

"I've got a lot of work to do at home this week-end," said Senator Jeff Johnson of Sampson as he was preparing to leave for home yesterday afternoon. "You've been here before," replied Senator Roy Howe of Pender, who was also headed east, "and you ought to know that the idea of doing any work during the legislative week-end at home is just an optimistic dream that will never be realized."

However, both agreed that there was no important work they could do than to confer and mingle with the folks who sent them here.

Courtesies of the house were extended Friday to the Clemson College football team. That quint played State College the night before and in the last minute of play but still there was the problem of straightening out all the folded records. On that score, the bow must be to a young fellow named Arthur E. Kimberly, whose title at Archives is chief of repair and preservation. Kimberly, whose title at Archives flattens the creases in old paper (or news, for that matter) it is necessary to dampen it. He also knew that modern inks and paper would not take a wetting. It was pondering this problem when he was called out to an Ohio river valley town to save some bank records that had been in a flood. On the way to the bank he passed a laundry - and from there on it was no trick at all.

Pressed Four Times. Now, in the basement of Archives is a machine that carries old records down 30 feet of 95-humidity atmosphere and then presses them four times between mangles. It's far more delicate and finely adjusted than laundry machines, but the idea is the same. The machine can turn out about 40,000 pieces of letter-size paper a day.

If you are wondering why the necessity for all this quantity production, start your computations this way: Recently added to Archives records were pension claims, not including the Revolution or the World War, which numbered well over 115,000,000 sheets of paper.

Courtn' Couples Get Tall Discount. Havre De Grace, Md. - (AP) - The Roads Commission has decided to lower the rates for the new Susquehanna river bridge here, observing: "We want to fix it so that when a Havre de Grace boy brings his girl from Perryville to a Havre de Grace movie, it will cost him only a dime or so for four crossings, instead of the present 80 cents."

Nicaragua's national guard is trained by United States soldiers.

Use Big Figures. The Archivists measure filing in hundreds of thousands of cubic feet and bother with nothing in between. Thus, in 1930, when the most accurate survey was made, they figured that without records of the legislative (which would go to the Library of Congress) and judicial branches of government, 3,700,000 cubic feet of filing space was needed and that the records were increasing at the rate of 200,000 cubic feet a year. They reckoned without the New Deal. Since advent of the present administration, from the copyright on the Blue Eagle (remember?) to the wax recording of President Roosevelt's latest "fireside chat," there undoubtedly have been piled up more records than in the whole history of government before the World War. If you have any doubts about that, check it with Archivist R. D. W. Connor or that veteran of the legislative tables, his secretary, James D. Preston.

To get back to the cleaning and pressing: Some time ago, it was discovered that the old system of legal and public record filing - folding sheets, bound with a red ribbon and placed upright in oblong cardboard boxes) infringed on space space limitations more than Scarlett O'Hara's hoop skirts would crowd a modern kitchenette-apartment.

Inspired By A Flood. So Connor and his boys figured that all records must be filed flat in fireproof steel drawers. That reduced cubic feet to cubic inches.

As a further gesture of courtesy to members, the mayor of Raleigh has arranged for free parking in a large nearby back yard of a Raleigh resident. Raleigh is anxious for the law makers to feel kindly toward several local bills now on the way.

"I've got a lot of work to do at home this week-end," said Senator Jeff Johnson of Sampson as he was preparing to leave for home yesterday afternoon. "You've been here before," replied Senator Roy Howe of Pender, who was also headed east, "and you ought to know that the idea of doing any work during the legislative week-end at home is just an optimistic dream that will never be realized."

However, both agreed that there was no important work they could do than to confer and mingle with the folks who sent them here.

Courtesies of the house were extended Friday to the Clemson College football team. That quint played State College the night before and in the last minute of play but still there was the problem of straightening out all the folded records. On that score, the bow must be to a young fellow named Arthur E. Kimberly, whose title at Archives is chief of repair and preservation. Kimberly, whose title at Archives flattens the creases in old paper (or news, for that matter) it is necessary to dampen it. He also knew that modern inks and paper would not take a wetting. It was pondering this problem when he was called out to an Ohio river valley town to save some bank records that had been in a flood. On the way to the bank he passed a laundry - and from there on it was no trick at all.

Pressed Four Times. Now, in the basement of Archives is a machine that carries old records down 30 feet of 95-humidity atmosphere and then presses them four times between mangles. It's far more delicate and finely adjusted than laundry machines, but the idea is the same. The machine can turn out about 40,000 pieces of letter-size paper a day.

If you are wondering why the necessity for all this quantity production, start your computations this way: Recently added to Archives records were pension claims, not including the Revolution or the World War, which numbered well over 115,000,000 sheets of paper.

Courtn' Couples Get Tall Discount. Havre De Grace, Md. - (AP) - The Roads Commission has decided to lower the rates for the new Susquehanna river bridge here, observing: "We want to fix it so that when a Havre de Grace boy brings his girl from Perryville to a Havre de Grace movie, it will cost him only a dime or so for four crossings, instead of the present 80 cents."

Nicaragua's national guard is trained by United States soldiers.

Use Big Figures. The Archivists measure filing in hundreds of thousands of cubic feet and bother with nothing in between. Thus, in 1930, when the most accurate survey was made, they figured that without records of the legislative (which would go to the Library of Congress) and judicial branches of government, 3,700,000 cubic feet of filing space was needed and that the records were increasing at the rate of 200,000 cubic feet a year. They reckoned without the New Deal. Since advent of the present administration, from the copyright on the Blue Eagle (remember?) to the wax recording of President Roosevelt's latest "fireside chat," there undoubtedly have been piled up more records than in the whole history of government before the World War. If you have any doubts about that, check it with Archivist R. D. W. Connor or that veteran of the legislative tables, his secretary, James D. Preston.

To get back to the cleaning and pressing: Some time ago, it was discovered that the old system of legal and public record filing - folding sheets, bound with a red ribbon and placed upright in oblong cardboard boxes) infringed on space space limitations more than Scarlett O'Hara's hoop skirts would crowd a modern kitchenette-apartment.

Inspired By A Flood. So Connor and his boys figured that all records must be filed flat in fireproof steel drawers. That reduced cubic feet to cubic inches.

State won by one point. Query: Would the aforementioned courtesies have been so generously accorded if Clemson had beaten State.

Due to the press of committee meetings the press of representatives was in session only about five minutes. As George Uzzell was leaving the chamber he met No. 1 Moore (Moore of Davie, who is the first of the five Moores called on the roll) who was just arriving. With all solemnity Mr. Uzzell suggested to Mr. Moore that he ought to go over and tell Mr. Norwood, pay-off clerk for the house, that he was not present for the meeting since it wouldn't be right to draw pay for a day he didn't work. And Mr. Moore, being a new man and unfamiliar with process, began straightaway to make excuse saying he had been "sorta" sick and didn't get up early. It was all pleasantly, of course, and Mr. Moore will not be docked.

The compensation use tax, companion piece to the general sales tax, was originally conceived as a means of preventing avoidance of the sales tax, rather than as revenue producer in its own right. But last year it paid the state nearly a million dollars in revenue, thus, becoming one of the major sources of general fund receipts. Next year it is expected that the tax base will be broadened and more than a million dollars taken in.

Chairman Sanders of the senate committee on senatorial districts says that it will be at least thirty days before his committee can complete study of the question sufficiently to make a report. Since there is very determined purpose in the house of representatives to do nothing about reapportionment of that body until the senatorial districts are agreed upon, he reapportionment issue may well drag along for many more weeks.

North Carolina legislators were chuckling yesterday over a copy of an Atlanta paper being passed around the lobby. It carried under glaring headlines news of the inauguration of Governor Talmadge. But what amused them was the side story about the "Talmadge Special Train" chugging out of town loaded down with discharged officials and employees of the Rivers regime. After taking the oath of office Talmadge signed executive orders firing 20 division heads and naming his own men in their place. Then he went to the formal reception. "What a man!" said one western member who knows from experience the joys of knowing the other party and seeing them ousted right quick. "That's the way I like to see things handled."

YESTERDAY: There are a lot of problems in David and Polly's young lives, but the chief one is how and when they can get married. Polly is determined that shall not be until David is free from financial worries, and David feels these are not as important as Polly. Besides, there is Margo Powers, who is all glamour and in addition the daughter of David's boss. Polly is talking with her Aunt Susan.

CHAPTER 16 The Kiss. Mebbe I could take in boarders," said Aunt Susan, "and manage that way. So's you and David could get married, live in the Wiley cottage and look after that rambunctious boy."

"Peter's not rambunctious," said Polly. "He's a darling. And you know perfectly well you couldn't look after boarders. Suppose you had one of your stomach attacks in the middle of the night. Who'd fix breakfast for the boarders the next morning? Who'd look after their rooms?" Aunt Susan sighed.

"I reckon you're right, honey," she said. "It's just too bad I wasn't took along with David's Aunt Julia."

"Stop talking like an old silly!" said Polly. She gave her aunt a quick hug. "I'm going down to the plant now to see David, and tell him about the job."

"I would do that, if I were you," Aunt Susan said. "And I'd also find a way to let him know I still loved him, so he would start getting notions about other girls."

Polly said nothing to this. And a short time afterwards she was walking among the tall stacks of lumber with David, talking to him animatedly of the new work she was to begin the next day, telling him how handy the two weeks' salary was going to be.

"But it means you won't be able to play bridge up at Margo's," said David. "You know she's expecting us."

"Yes," said Polly. "But what's an evening of bridge, when I have a job? You can tell Margo I'll have to call it off-since she sent the invitation through you."

"I'm certainly going to miss you," David went on. "Not being able to see you evenings. And there'll be no one to drive Peter out to the pool afterwards."

"You can drive him out after work," said Polly. "You know how long the evenings are. You and Peter can get in a swim after supper, or swim first and have your supper afterwards."

house, and when you get to the Inn you can take off your pants and shirt down by the pool, and get in to the water. How's that?"

Peter was thoughtful for a moment or two.

"All right, Cousin David," he said. "I guess that'll work out okay."

"Of course it will," said David. "All you'll have to do after your swim, is lie in the sunshine a little while until your trunks get dry - and then get dressed again. Just hold on to that bar like I showed you, and keep on practicing kicking."

"Okay, Cousin David, I'll do that. I keep thinking maybe swimming in the pool will help me. Like swimming helps those bids down where Mr. Roosevelt goes."

"Good! Keep right on thinking that way, my boy."

"You think it, too, won't you, Cousin David?"

"You bet I will," David replied. "Uncle Fred, who built the Inn and the pool, always said he thought that the mineral water had medicinal qualities."

"What's that?" Peter asked. "It means that Uncle Fred thought the water had the power to make people well-people who had things wrong with them."

"Yes, Peter. Like your leg." David looked at his watch. "Now you get along to bed. It's late. I'm going to sit out here on the porch for a little while and smoke."

Peter stood for a moment with his arm about David, and then he went on inside.

Dreams. Left alone, David leaned back in his chair and gave himself up to a bit of wishful thinking. He recalled Polly's words. "Wouldn't it be exciting if drinking water from the spring did magic things to us?"

Yes, he thought, it would. Then he remembered his remark. "And to our pocketbooks," and wished that he was suddenly in possession of money enough to do all the things to the Inn that he would like to do.

He would like to get it in perfect shape, and open it up as a place where people like Peter could come to enjoy the sunshine, the outdoors, and swim in the mineral water, as well as take it internally. There were lots of people he was sure, who would pay well to come to such a place; people Uncle Fred didn't know how to reach. If he could make the old Inn pay for itself, then he and Polly could move out there and run it.

They could charge the people who had money, make them pay generous rates for what the Inn and pool had to offer, and reserve a certain number of rooms for people who couldn't pay; in other words make the wealthy help those who needed assistance and had no money.

He even went further in his wishful thinking, and visualized an addition to the Inn, a wing that he would call "The Peter Wiley Home." What a lot of good a thing like that could do! All he and Polly would ask of the undertaking was their own living, and that of Peter and Aunt Susan.

Just then the old grandfather clock that stood in the hall began to strike. It was later than he thought. He knocked the ashes from his pipe, and got up. A man who had to make a living working at a lumber plant, and who had to get up with the chickens, had no business sitting up until all hours thinking a lot of foolishness.

But just the same he found himself thinking along the same line the next evening. It was after the bridge playing had ended, and when he and Margo were walking about the well-kept grounds which surrounded the Powers residence.

Phantoms Lose to Goldsboro; Juniors Win; Girls Lose

VARSETY TEAM LOSES 29 TO 27

Three First Stringers Out Of Game With Sickness

By C. B. ROWLETT

In a game marked by numerous three-outs and fouls, the Goldsboro High School Earthquakes topped Farley's crippled varsity 29-27 in that city last night before a large crowd of enthusiastic supporters.

Although the Phantom cagers were outscored by two points, they were hardly out-played. With almost six inches advantage to the man, the Quakes held a decided advantage over the boys from GHS, but could not kill their undaunted spirit. Farley's team made up almost entirely of reserves led the powerful Quakes until the closing minutes of the game when their superiority came to the surface.

Larry James and Burney Warren high scoring Phantom forward and center were lost to the local cagers because of illness. John Horne flashy guard was also confined to his bed and was unable to play.

First Quarter

Farley's Phantoms began with the opening whistle to take control of the game and that is what they did that first quarter. Hicks Corey, hardly over five and a half feet tall dropped in three field goals and a free throw in that first period to put the local cagers ahead at the end of the quarter 7-5. Nickens with a field goal and 2 free throws led Goldsboro's attack.

Second Quarter

Going into the second quarter with a two-point lead the local quintet continued to mount the score and leave their opponents at the post. While Goldsboro could only manage to gather three points on a field goal by Smith and a free throw by rate, the GHS five were scoring nine markers. Johnson led the Phantom attack that period with two field goals. Riddle and Clark with a field goal a piece and Collins with a free throw goal constituted the other points. The half-time whistle showed the Phantoms ahead 16-8.

Third Quarter

Goldsboro High school edged up two-points on the Phantoms the next period by scoring seven points to the Phantoms five. Clyde King Goldsboro ace, began to find the basket the third period and dropped in two field goals while Pate with another and Nickens with a free throw counted up the points. Troy Riddle, seeing action for the first time as a starter continued to score for the locals by gathering up a field goal and a free throw that period to lead the G-men attack. Johnson and Clark with a free throw a piece made up the other two points. At the end of the period the Phantoms still led 21-15.

Fourth Quarter

With only one quarter left to go the size and weight of the Quake began to prove to their advantage. The Quakes led by Clyde King with three field goals scored fourteen points to top the Phantoms by two points. Smith with two field goals took runner-up honors during the last quarter. McClenny and Pate garnered a field goal a piece Riddle again led the Phantoms with a field goal and two free throws. Corey contributed the other two points on a field goal.

Clyde King with 10 points led both teams at the basket. Held scoreless the entire first half, the Goldsboro ace went into the lead during the last period by scoring all of his points.

Hicks Corey and Troy Riddle with nine points each led the Phantoms and followed King for high score. Corey, regular forward was on his usual game. Riddle, a reserve, made

Fish And Bloom Row At Lease-Lend Hearing

With newspaper men and spectators crowding and pushing their way up to the bench, Rep. Sol Bloom (D-NY), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and Rep. Hamilton Fish (R-NY), ranking minority member, angrily exchanged sharp words over future witnesses at hearings on President Roosevelt's bill to aid Great Britain. Bloom (in front of policeman) denied Fish's assertion that he had given instructions for inviting Wendell L. Wilkie as a witness next week. Bloom then asked if it were true that Fish had said the lend-lease bill was the "President's dicta for bill." Fish replied: "Of course, it's a dictator bill." This picture was made at the height of the dispute. Fish stands beside Bloom with his face turned down toward bench. Next to Fish at right stands Rep. Tinkham (R-Mass) enjoying it all.

LASSIES TAKE KINSTON 28-22

Tyson Leads Locals With Total Of Nine Points

By C. B. ROWLETT

Coach Mary Shaw Robeson's Lady Phantoms opened the season last night in Kinston by taking a defeat at the hands of the Lady Devils 28-22 before a large crowd of yelling and enthusiastic rooters.

As both other Greenville teams the Lady Phantoms entered the game short two of the star guards and an alternate starter at forward. Jane Harrison, Lib Wells, and Jane Scoville were the missing links.

Even with the three starters on the sick list Coach Robeson's girls were upset by Kinston. The local girls were favored to take the Devils.

The girls from Kinston started off with a bang and at half-time led the Phantomettes 14-7.

The lessies from GHS fell two points further behind during the third period when they went into the last quarter trailing 22-13.

Robeson's proteges put on a last quarter spurt during the last period that fell short by six points.

Betty Tyson with nine points led the Phantomettes in scoring. J. Taylor of Kinston led both teams with 11 points. Nunn with nine points took runner-up. Capt. Joy Flanagan of the Phantomettes took runner-up honors for the locals with eight points.

A good showing for his time as a starter.

Snaag Clark and Gene Johnson flashy guards take honors for defense against the Quakes. Both bowlers in the middle of the game during the entire time.

The line-up—Greenville: Forwards, Corey 9, Riddle 9; center Collins, 1, Musselwhite; guards Johnson 5, Clark 5, McClenny 2, Potter, center, Pate 5; guards, Smith 7, King 10.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coom

Hollywood—There was an earthquake in town the other night and I hope we never see the like of it. Nobody was hurt, but it left a section of Tokyo a shambles. It was a holler and a humdingar; a shivering shattering shuddery thing that in two minutes wrecked a house, a garden, and background buildings—yet at the same time was one of the best behaved earthquakes one could wish.

It should have been. In the movies, the more terrible and unexpected a catastrophe, the more carefully must it be rehearsed and planned. George Stevens, the director, rehearsed this one for five hours before, around midnight, they "shot" it. The earthquake is a key sequence in "Penny Serenade." In this same Japanese scene, two-storied and quaint, Cary Grant and Irene Dunne had been doing peaceful, romantic scenes for days. Unlike most people, they knew all along their little love nest was going to fall apart.

There were cameras all around. A set that has taken three weeks to construct, with special tumbler contrivances concealed in its parts has to give a good shaky performance the first time, with no retakes allowed.

For this destruction there were a dozen different crews, each with a vital mission. Stevens himself sat at a lighted keyboard down front. On his keyboard were a dozen red lights and a dozen electric pushbuttons controlling similar red lights at the 12 stations.

Things do go wrong, sometimes. Some of the frightened people in the memorable "San Francisco" shake weren't acting—they were scared silly. When they were ready for the bricks to fall in "Frisco Jenny"—the nice, soft papier mache bricks—someone thought they ought to be tested first. The first one tested proved to be a real, solid hard specimen of Irish confetti.

But nothing went wrong here—

JUNIOR HIGHS TAKE ANOTHER

Defeat Goldsboro Five By Score of 19 to 15

By C. B. ROWLETT

Heman Fulkerson's high-flying Baby Phantoms again came into the limelight as winners by taking Goldsboro's junior high 19-15 in that city last night. This was the second win in two starts for the locals.

Even with Sydney Dunn and Billy Sugar, high scoring center and forward on the sick list the local juniors were tons throughout the game. Led by Connor Merritt with two field goals and Ben Harrison and Joe Register with a field goal each by the baby Phantoms started off with a bang and jumped into a 3-2 lead, that first quarter. Warren with a field goal scored Goldsboro's only points.

Fulkerson's proteges scored four more points the second quarter for four victories. Led by Ross and Ben Harrison while the best Goldsboro could do was muster one point on a free throw by York. Half time showed the Phantoms in the lead 12-3.

Goldsboro and Greenville both garnered four points during the third period. Merritt with a field goal and a free throw led the Phantoms. Register gathered the game point on a free throw. Goldsboro's points came by way of a field goal by York and two free throws by Warren and Iverizzi.

Going into the last quarter the local boys led by 16-7, and Goldsboro began to put on a last quarter spurt that netted them eight points but the GHS juniors scoring three points on a field goal by Harrison and a free throw by Register to stave off defeat. York, Iverizzi and Warren and Adams accounted for Goldsboro's points with a field goal each.

Connor Merritt with seven points led both teams at the basket. Harrison with six was runner-up for both teams. York with five for Goldsboro took runner-up second honors and led the Quakes.

Pactolus Five Split With Farmville Team

The Pactolus girls won over the Farmville girls in their game on last Monday night. The Pactolus girls have lost only one game this season.

The Pactolus boys lost to the Farmville boys by a score of 8 to 10. This was the second game that the Pactolus boys have lost this season having tied Grimesland early in the season.

The Following Is A Resolution Adopted By The Board Of Water & Light Commissioners At Their Regular Monthly Meeting On January 14, 1941

RESOLUTION:

WHEREAS, The Water & Light Commission is interested in promoting the sale of fluorescent lighting in its territory, and a study of gaseous discharge lamps reveal that lighting of this type may be sold to the disadvantage of the customer unless, certain precautions are taken in the selection of lighting units, and,

WHEREAS, From the customer's point of view improperly designed equipment may overload his circuits to the extent that low levels of lighting may occur regardless of the fact that fluorescent tubes have a higher efficiency rating than incandescent lamps. Under such conditions the customer is unable to enjoy the maximum benefits from this new development.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the following measure of protection be taken in the form of a Rider:

This Rider is applicable in conjunction with all schedules permitting the use of lighting when such lighting includes installations of Neon, Fluorescent, Mercury, Vapor, or other types of gaseous discharge lamps with a power factor less than 90% lagging, made, replaced, relocated or rearranged after February 1, 1941.

NET ADDITIONAL CHARGE:

In addition to the charge for service as provided in the applicable rate schedule there will be a monthly fixed charge of $0.30 for each 100 watts or fraction thereof connected of all separately controlled gaseous discharge lamps or group of lamps with a power factor less than 90% lagging. The respective wattage rating to be obtained from the manufacturers' nameplate or by test.

The above to be effective on bills rendered on and after Feb. 1, 1941.

In the days of California's famous gold rush there were no regular mail routes in the regions where gold was found. Burros were the only animals capable of negotiating the rough mountain trails. The riders paid the government for the privilege of carrying the mail, and made their profits by collecting additional fees from the addressee.

A Postal Oddities program is presented over radio station WGTC each Tuesday afternoon at 5:45 o'clock.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—A few steels, rails and aircrafts achieved mild popularity in today's brief stock market, but many issues continued to suffer from neglect.

Some buying came in on the idea that the list after six successive sessions in which no progress had been made, was entitled to a moderate comeback.

While selling was light throughout the two-hour proceedings, bidding was equally unimpressive. The turnover was about 250,000 shares.

Arranges Meeting For Stockholders

Arrangements are complete for the annual stockholders' meeting of the Greenville Production Credit Association, which will be held in Snow Hill at the court house on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, according to John R. Carroll, president of the association, who said today that a record-breaking attendance of members is expected.

This will be the sixth annual meeting of this farmers' cooperative short-term credit organization, which makes short-term loans for agricultural and livestock purposes to farmers of Pitt and Greene counties. The association now has 560 members and Mr. Carroll said it had hoped that every member would attend the annual meeting.

Complete and detailed reports on the operations of the association will be made to the stockholders, Mr. Carroll said. "This being a cooperative organization," said Mr. Carroll, "we feel that the members are entitled to know everything about its operations and we hope that every member will feel it a duty to be present at this meeting."

A representative of the Production Credit Corporation of Columbia will make an address at the close of the business session. A number of new features will be introduced into the program this year.

Officers of the association are: John R. Carroll, president; G. L. Newborn, vice-president; and Robert A. Darr, secretary-treasurer. Directors in addition to the president and vice-president, are D. F. Hardison, J. P. Davenport and Mack C. Smith.

Assembly Flooded With Local Bills

Raleigh, Jan. 18.—More than half of the bills so far considered by the General Assembly are purely local in character, and several of them reflect the current ascendancy of certain political cliques back home. Every session has a plethora of this petty local legislation. Long established custom dictates that every such bill must be passed as a courtesy to the member offering it. Frequently the bills become issues in the next election and the successful candidate often reverses the action of his predecessor.

Two years ago Representative Joyner of Northampton county, who had been sheriff there for a long time, had passed a bill closing filling stations during church hours on Sunday. Persons claiming to know what they are talking about say that it was a great more than any other one thing which defeated Mr. Joyner for reelection. (Incidentally, he is now sergeant at arms of the house.) This week Senator Gay, who was not in the legislature last time, introduced and had speedily passed by the senate a bill repealing that act.

This was the first of what is expected to be a great number of the same kind of bills, taking up the time of the assembly and sometimes calling for long drawn committee hearings on matters of no concern to anybody outside the county affected.

Already Evidence Of Buck Passing

Raleigh, Jan. 18.—It seems that Jack LeGrand of New Hanover knew something when he low rated chance for passage of his bill to hurry up the legislature by prohibiting all introductions after 45 days.

It is already getting the w. k. run-around to know what they are talking about say that it was a great more than any other one thing which defeated Mr. Joyner for reelection. (Incidentally, he is now sergeant at arms of the house.) This week Senator Gay, who was not in the legislature last time, introduced and had speedily passed by the senate a bill repealing that act.

This was the first of what is expected to be a great number of the same kind of bills, taking up the time of the assembly and sometimes calling for long drawn committee hearings on matters of no concern to anybody outside the county affected.

Modelers Display To Be At Gallery

Airplane models by the Hub City Modelers will be on display, beginning Monday and continuing through February 1, at the Greenville WPA Art Gallery located in the Sheppard Memorial Library on Evans street.

This is the second annual local showing of models made by members of this club. At least thirty planes will be included in this display, from an indoor model with an 8-inch wing spread and weighing approximately 1-3/4 of an ounce, to a large gas model with a 7 foot 5 inch wing spread and weighing approximately 4 pounds.

The general types of models on exhibition include gas models, scale models, gliders, an indoor model and endurance fliers. Several of these planes have won awards in model contests at Rocky Mount and Raleigh.

Officers of the Hub City Modelers are Richard Duncan, President, G. A. Taylor, Jr., Secretary, Carl Corey, Treasurer. Other members are Ralph Fleming, Phil Goodson, Jr., William Harris, Dr. Stuart Ward, Mr. A. C. Henry, Harry Carter, Tommy Moore, Sidney Dunn, Joe Goodson and Dennis Fleming.

A special feature of the exhibition will be a free motion picture,

Approval Won For Bus Station Bill

Raleigh, Jan. 18.—The Voelker-Tonissen-McDougle bill to give bus companies the right of eminent domain in order to acquire bus station sites has been reported favorably by Judiciary 1 in the House; but altogether in the interests of their clients.

They point out that while it will curtail really racketeers who otherwise would hold up the companies for exorbitant prices, it could, quite possibly, cost the companies more money than ever.

With it in force, land owners would know the companies will have to build in obedience to Utility Commission orders and will lack up prices even higher than if they felt the companies were in position to "take it or leave it."

"History of Aviation" sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Greenville. This feature is to be shown Monday night January 20, at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Sheppard Memorial Library. The picture is cordially invited to see both the picture and the exhibition.

To Show Picture On History Of Aviation

A free sound motion picture, "The History of Aviation" will be shown Monday night at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Sheppard Memorial Library on Evans street. Everyone is cordially invited to see this picture. It is offered as a special feature of the exhibition of a plane models by the local Hub City Modelers.

In this motion picture one sees the historic events presented dating back to the flight of the Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk in 1903 through the first parachute jump in 1910 and "Teddy" Roosevelt's first flight, Lindbergh flying the Atlantic, rocket plane soaring in first test in 1929, the wingless auto-gyro, the Chino Clipper in 1935 and commercial flight in 1936.

This showing is made possible through the sponsorship of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Living At Home Pays
Mrs. Lydia Barnhill of Stokes H. D. club kept a Farm and Home record last year. She reports the following information which will be helpful for us all. For a family of seven she used between $50 and $60 dollars worth of milk, butter, chickens, eggs, vegetables and fruits on her table each month. She also sold a surplus of between $25 and $30 each month. Her total doctors' bill for the year was $4.50 for malarial treatment.

Canning By Colored Women
The home agent gave a canning demonstration in the Ayden colored school last July 16. As a result these women reported 3,281 quarts of vegetables and fruits canned. More than 5,000 quarts were caused by colored people who attended demonstrations throughout the county.

Headquarters for Indian royalty seems to be the Waldorf-Astoria, which makes a point of opening its kitchens to Hindu cooks so that they may prepare food in the manner prescribed by their religion.

The most distinguished Indian guest was his highness the Maharajah of India, Sir Yeshwant Rao Holkar, who traveled with his wife and daughter and a whole retinue of cooks and other servants. During his stay the Maharajah served a great feast for local notables. The menu included pheasant, duck, chicken, lamb, home-made whole wheat bread fried in butter, curried vegetables and two or three kinds of sauce.

Beef and pork are forbidden by the Hindu religion. Each dish was served separately, and no liquids were taken with the meal.

The Princess Leiliyathi of Mysore and her sister Princess Rajkumari Chennajamma took a large suite, and although rooms were provided for their ladies-in-waiting, or amahs, the servants referred to sleep on the floor near their mistresses' beds.

practices as lending money to dying industries, exempting from taxation factories, which are wrongly located, or enacting tariffs to keep alive certain industries where nature never intended them to operate. Tariffs to protect industries in their initial stages are justified; but the subsidizing of industries which—whatever their age—would perish without a subsidy is foolish.

Pull With The Tide
Inventions, scientific discoveries, and new methods of distribution should be encouraged. To penalize such progress by licensing requirements, unnecessary taxation, and other hindrances is bucking natural law. Price fixing to keep alive the anthracite coal business in its competition with oil, gas and electricity is illustrative of such attempts. Refusing to allow the railroads to scrap 20 per cent of their mileage, when motor coaches, trucks, and airplanes can better handle 20 per cent of the nation's transportation, is bucking natural progress.

Government would be justified in helping people now engaged in declining industries to move to other localities. It even might be wise to subsidize such employees and employers for a limited period while making a change of occupation. It should, however, be honest with people and not hold out false hopes.

Avoid Bucking Progress
Our country has encouraged agriculture in almost every manner. It is the one industry recognized with membership in the President's Cabinet. Farmers have received the most subsidies not enjoyed by any other group. As a result, the raising of certain crops, fruit, and livestock has been overdone. The most serious mistake has been the cultivation of marginal land. Too many, struggling people are trying to raise cattle on land meant only for timber; to raise crops or fruit on land suitable only for grazing. The sooner they give up the fight, the better for their character, health, and pocketbook. Government is justified in aiding the people in taking over and turning this marginal land back to purposes for which God made it. But is it fair to kid these poor people longer by loans?

Political opposition to large units in industry, agriculture, and distribution is bucking natural law. It seems too bad to see small nations wiped out, small farms consolidated, and out-of-date industries closed down; but this may be in accordance with natural law. Government should prevent the people from taking unfair advantage of consumers, workers, or competitors. The attitude, however, that a thing is wrong merely because it is "big" is a great mistake. Let me add that the Democrats can win against the Totalitarians only by encouraging, rather than discouraging, efficiency in industry, agriculture, and distribution.

Credit Union Organized
A large group was at the Pitt County Training School to witness the organization of the Credit Union on Thursday, January 9. Out of this number, 27 persons joined by paying their joining fee. The acting president, Mr. Charlie Jones, opened the meeting by stressing the great need for such an organization. He called on Professor K. M. Keyes, instructor of agriculture, to give a brief talk explaining the purpose of the Credit Union. He was followed by an inspired address by Mr. B. W. Johnston, superintendent of the Credit Union Division, Department of Agriculture, Raleigh. He was well impressed by the spirit shown. He was glad to see people from over the entire district (Chicod). He suggested that the scope of the Credit Union should cover the entire district. Everyone agreed that the "Chicod Credit Union" was the appropriate name for the organization.

The Chicod Township committee is sponsoring the final "School Bus Rally" Thursday, February 6. Parents are asked to report to their school corn, beans and other products that can be sold easily before February 6. A baby contest is being featured throughout the township for the same purpose. The closing of February at the Pitt County Training School Choral Society will give a concert at the Grimesland school for the bus rally. This group is under the direction of Mr. H. C. Barnhill.

The national defense program of training out-of-school youths some trade has been started at the Pitt County Training school under the direction of Mr. K. M. Keyes. Mr. Collier Dixon is the instructor. A course of woodworking is being offered. The class has gotten off to a fine start, but more boys are needed, therefore, more boys are asked to register by Monday of next week.

The Chicod District Parent-Teacher Association will have its first meeting Thursday night, January 23, at the Simpson school. Mrs. Roxy Moore, president, is calling the meeting for 8 o'clock.

The Pitt County Training School Choral Society will sing from station WGTG Sunday, Jan. 19, at 7:30 p. m. Two concert programs will be given by this group the same Sunday in Greenville. The first one at the Sycamore Hill Baptist Church at 4:30 p. m., and the second one at the Cornerstone Baptist Church at 8 p. m.

Conclusion

I know that the giving up of your lifework is very hard—it is almost like burying a favorite child. I really hate to write this message, and even hope I am wrong. All I am doing is asking some of you to think it over—honestly and fearlessly—just as you would if a doctor told you of a cancer which must be cut out if you expect to live.

facts to your attention. I'm merely suggesting a side to the question which you do not often hear.

Beware of Politicians
We need not only have fewer laws and to insist on their enforcement, but we should not obstruct the working of natural law. Much of the trouble, from which we suffer, is due to such obstruction. This only postpones the inevitable punishment for not heeding natural law. This situation has been due partly to the shortsightedness of welfare workers, but largely to the desire of politicians to get votes "by hook or crook."
