BRITISH TROOPS EXTEND DRIVE INTO ETHIOPIA

PARTY LEADER OF DEMOCRATS IS CALLED LIAR

Sen. Tobey Says That Quayle Lied Brazenly To Group

REYNOLDS' NAME ALSO BROUGHT IN

New Hampshire Republican's Reference Involved Loans Made To Party By N. C. Manufacturer

Washington, Feb. 20. (AP)—Senator Tobey (R.-N.H.), charged today that Oliver A. Quayle, Jr., manager of the Democratic National Committee, had "lied brazenly and unhesitatingly" to the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee about certain financial transactions of his party.

Tobey made the assertion in an individual report as a member of the committee.

"There can no longer be any doubt," Tobey's report said, "that he (Quayle) sought to lead the committee astray in its investigation. The committee should seriously consider the advisability of punishing him for contempt for not forwarding all the documents requested, and for perjury."

Tobey's reference was to the committee's investigation of loans aggregating $100,000 by R. J. Reynolds North Carolina cigarette manufacturer, to the New Jersey and New York Democratic State Committees last fall. Reynolds was named treasurer of the National Democratic Committee last month.

Tobey declared that testimony by Quayle and Reynolds had been diametrically opposed regarding circumstances surrounding loans to the New Jersey and New York committees and that when Quayle was recalled he "saw fit to change his views."

Tobey's report expressed belief that the Senate committee should determine "whether there is any relation between Mr. Reynolds' huge contributions to the Democratic party and his receiving substantial subsidies from the government as a stockholder of the American Mail Line which he controls."

Choir To Be Here Is Known Abroad

Westminster Choir, appearing here at the College Thursday night of next week, has earned fame and recognition far beyond its native American shores. Traveling under the guidance and direction of its indefatigable conductor, Dr. John Finley Williamson, this organization has appeared in most of the key cities of Europe, and is making its concert debut in Havana this season. Accounts of the varied fascinating experiences which this group has encountered in its travels sounds like something out of the Thousand and One Nights. Tales of some of the highlights of these adventures have been summarized for us by Dr. Williamson.

Westminster Choir's first European concert was given at Bristol, England, where the Lord Mayor gave a formal reception in their honor. Much was made of the fact that the first American choir ever to appear in concert in England was opening its tour in the town from which the Cabot brothers first Englishmen to touch the American continent sailed for the new world. This was an interesting but entirely unintentional coincidence.

Visits FDR

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Governor J. Melville Broughton of North Carolina, paying his first call on President Roosevelt, said today the chief executive "was much impressed" with plans for a marine base in North Carolina.

He said he discussed progress on defense undertakings in the state, particularly expansion at Fort Bragg and at Camp Davis, and expressed to the President the hope that he would be able to visit those posts. He said Mr. Roosevelt might do it some time.

With facilities for an air arm, Broughton asserted, the marine base would be the largest in the country and would have an ideal combination of land and water facilities for manuevers. Senator Bailey (D., N.C.) accompanied the governor to the White House.

Istanbul Declares Pact Not A Blow At Britain

Says It Is Assurance Bulgaria Will Not Join Axis

Istanbul, Turkey, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Officially controlled Turkish newspapers said today that the Bulgarian-Turkish non-aggression accord is insurance that Bulgaria will not join the Axis and that it actually constitutes an obstacle to any German advance through Bulgaria to Greece.

"Bulgaria promises not to enter the tri-partite pact," said one newspaper.

"It would not be easy for Germany to go to fight in Greece against the Greeks and Turkish armies unless the way had been thoroughly prepared as in Rumania and this declaration makes this preparation more difficult."

Another newspaper said it was an exaggeration to interpret the declaration, "as the British do, that it is a wall to further German penetration of the Balkans or, as the Germans do, that it is a political defeat for England."

"This declaration was made simply to reassure Bulgaria that our preparations in Thrace (the frontier region) are not offensive in nature. Bulgaria indicates her unwillingness to allow German soldiers to pass through her territory. "At the same time Bulgaria is too weak to help any German drive but a German march through Bulgaria might cause a revolution there and allow the British to bomb Rumanian oil fields."

TEACHER BILLS REPORTED OUT

One Would Provide 5 Days Sick Leave With Pay

Raleigh, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The House Education Committee today reported favorably a bill to give teachers five days of sick leave with pay each year and the Senate group reported "without prejudice" a teacher tenure bill.

The teacher tenure, or job security measure, was considered in joint session, but the committees then split over what to do with it, went into separate sessions and the House group ordered it referred to a subcommittee to be named later. Clyde A. Erwin, Superintendent of Public Instruction, led the arguments for the bill, with support from others, including June Rose of Greenville, chairman of the Parent-Teacher Association legislative committee.

In the joint committee meeting Senator Howell of Buncombe moved for a favorable report. Representative Underwood of Hertford proposed an unfavorable report. Senator Johnson of Sampson suggested a compromise on a bill to give teachers continuing contracts unless they (Continued on page six)

SEN. REYNOLDS OPPOSES BILL TO AID BRITISH

Tar Heel Says Measure Would Lead U.S. To War

STARTS OFF 4TH DAY OF DEBATE

North Carolinian's Opposition to Measure Comes As Surprise To Many Senate Colleagues

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Senator Reynolds (D.-N.C.) announced today he was opposed to the administration's British aid bill because he was convinced that its enactment might lead the United States directly toward a declaration of war.

Beginning the fourth day of debate on the measure in the Senate, the North Carolina senator described as a "bill for the defense of the British empire at the expense of the lives of American men and at the expense of the American taxpayer."

His opposition came as a surprise to many senators because Reynolds had voted with the administration majority to report the measure from the Foreign Relations Committee for Senate consideration. He had consistently refused, however, to say whether he would support the bill.

"I want to state," Reynolds told his colleagues, "that I am not opposed to giving aid to England as is provided under existing statutes."

"There is no man in this body that abhors war or hates war more than I do and I intend to do everything in my power to keep our country from becoming involved in this war. I am opposed to this bill, HR 1776, because I am convinced that its passage may lead us directly toward and to a declaration of war."

Reynolds termed "ridiculous" a statement by Wendell L. Willkie, a 1940 Republican presidential nominee, before the Foreign Relations Committee that if Britain fell "tomorrow" this country would be within the war between 30 and 60 days and that if Hitler captured the British navy he would "attack the United States in a relatively short time."

Reynolds said Willkie was an "alarmist."

Vanceboro Citizen Claimed By Death

Alfred Franklin Lewis, 57, died at his home in Vanceboro at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon from a heart attack which occurred just a few minutes before his death.

Funeral services were conducted from the home this afternoon at three o'clock by Rev. H. B. Lewis, Methodist Minister of Vanceboro, and burial followed in the McLawhorn family cemetery at Hanrahan. Mr. Lewis spent most of his life in the Vanceboro community. He was a member of the Elm Grove Free Will Baptist church at Hanrahan.

City Thronged By Dollar Day Crowd

The success of Greenville's semi-annual Dollar Day, observed by the Merchants Association today, could be attested to by anyone who visited any of the participating stores this morning and throughout the day.

Stores were jammed with customers and although special clerks had been employed, patrons in many cases had to wait some time before a clerk could get an opportunity to wait on them. Beginning as soon as the stores opened or shortly thereafter, the rush began and continued throughout much of the day. The weather was perfect for the occasion and thrifty shoppers from a wide trading territory flocked to the city to take advantage of the semi-annual sales event. Greenville has the reputation of staging the most successful Dollar Day of any city in Eastern Carolina.

Women Pray That Lease-Lend Bill Won't Pass

This group of women who said they represented various mothers' organizations knelt on the capitol plaza in Washington and prayed aloud that the British aid bill would not pass. They marched back and forth in front of the capitol, before praying, until advised that picketing of the capitol was forbidden. Woman in front row with hand to hat is Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of Chicago who was ejected from the capitol several days ago.

ASSERTS THAT STRIKES RARE

Hillman Sees No Need For Additional Legislation

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Sidney J. Hillman, associate chief of defense production, told the House Judiciary Committee today "strikes are the rare exception in defense industry" and no additional legislation was necessary to deal with them.

He praised labor and management for the job they were doing together "to avoid interruption of production" and said they should be encouraged "in their use of the democratic conference table technique."

The committee, which is divided over the need for remedial legislation to cope with defense production stoppages, called Hillman for testimony after hearing from his colleague, William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management.

Knudsen informed the committee yesterday that labor disputes had not caused any important delays.

Hillman said labor relations in defense industries had a "remarkable record" for the past seven months.

He listed 11 vital defense industries—aircraft, aluminum, automobiles, steel, electrical machinery, engines, explosives, foundries and machine tools, lumber and shipbuilding—and said that statistics showed that "idleness due to strikes constituted one-sixteenth of one per cent of the time actually worked."

"There were less than half as many persons involved in strikes during 1940, he said than in the corresponding period of emergency in 1916, or the war years of 1917 and 1918.

Mayor Confers On Bus Station Here

Mayor B. B. Sugg, who went to Raleigh yesterday to advise with members of the Pitt county delegation in the General Assembly regarding bills to make changes in the city charter, also conferred with Utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne regarding a bus station in Greenville.

The mayor declared that Commissioner Winborne pledged his support in having a bus terminal established in Greenville in the near future. W. G. Humphrey, traffic manager of the Carolina Coach Company, was contacted and advised the mayor and commissioner that he was coming to Greenville next Tuesday morning and would bring drawings of the proposed building with him.

No location has been decided on for the building, but Mayor Sugg expressed confidence a bus station would be erected here within a comparatively short while.

The legislative proposals to be offered changing the city charter would provide for extension of the city limits; change the name of the Water and Light Commission to the Greenville Utilities Commission and increase the membership from three to five; change the places of voting in city elections so persons living in Wards One and Two would vote at the court house, and these in Wards Three, Four and Five at the new city hall.

Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Water and Light Commission, accompanied the mayor to Raleigh and conferred on the legislative proposals.

Naval Contract

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The award of a $9,980 contract for dinghies to the Manteo Shipbuilding company of Manteo, N. C., was announced today by the Navy Department.

Army Strength

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The War Department estimated the strength of the American army today at approximately 867,000 officers and enlisted men.

The 62,000 officers on duty, including 14,000 of the regular army, 14,000 National Guard officers and 34,000 reserve officers on extended active duty. The army breakdown of the enlisted strength of 805,000 included 454,000 in the regular army, 223,000 from the National Guard and 128,000 selective service trainees.

MAKES CHARGE OF ESPIONAGE

Nazi Consul Also Said To Be Undercover Agent

San Francisco, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A divorcee who asserted Captain Fritz Wiedemann owed her money for investigating his status with Adolf Hitler described the Nazi consul general in a lawsuit today as head of the German espionage system in America.

The complaint, filed in Superior court by Mrs. Alice Crockett, an attractive brunette, sought $8,000 from Wiedemann, Hitler's former personal adjutant, in payment for an alleged visit to Germany.

Mrs. Crockett, a Swiss native who said she once played bridge pictures, asserted she went to Germany at the request of Wiedemann who wanted her to find out if he still was a Hitler favorite.

"It's all bunk," said Otto A. Hoecker, the attorney who Wiedemann said would do his talking for him.

The complaint said that Hitler, Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels and Field Marshal Herman Goering all assured Mrs. Crockett that Wiedemann's consul general here since 1939, was properly doing his consular work and also his duties as "chief of the espionage service" of the German government in this country.

Mrs. Crockett told interviewers she met first with Goebbels and then later she met Hitler and Goering during a private party at a Berlin hotel.

Banks, Post Office Closing Saturday

The three banks in Greenville and the post office will be closed on Saturday, Washington's birthday anniversary, but business otherwise will go on as usual here.

Dr. Charles O'H. Horne, chairman of the Pitt county ABC board, declared that liquor stores throughout the county would be open as usual. Washington's birthday having been removed from the list of holidays. The next holiday for liquor store employees will be on July 4th.

Although the post office will be closed and there will be no rural or city deliveries, first class mail will be put up and special delivery letters will be delivered. Exports Up and Down. American exports to China, Canada, the Netherlands, East Indies, Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, Argentina, England, France and Russia all increased in 1940. Shipments to Japan, the Philippines, Germany and Italy decreased.

END ACTION ON REVENUE BILL

House Unanimously Accepts Minor Senate Changes

Raleigh, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The legislature completed floor action today on the biennial revenue bill, the House accepting minor Senate amendments without a negative vote.

It is estimated the state will get more than $163,000,000 in tax revenues during the 1941-42 biennium.

After exempting Mitchell, Yancey and Alleghany counties, the House passed, 95-0, and sent to the Senate the bill to prohibit sales of fortified wines except in ABC stores in the 26 liquor store counties. Mitchell and Yancey have local laws prohibiting sale of beer and wines and Rep. Edwards of Alleghany asked exemption of his county as "my privilege."

The House, with no debate, ordered into law the Broughton-backed bill to reorganize the Board of Conservation and Development and passed and sent to the senate the measure to revise the highway and public works commission.

The senate approved and sent to the house a bill to appropriate $100,000 yearly in state aid for public libraries, another Broughton proposal.

The senate reconsidered the action by which it yesterday passed a bill to submit a constitutional amendment to create a new 14-member board of education to have entire control of the public school system. The measure was sent back to the committee on constitutional amendments.

Senator Stacy of Robeson, introducer of the original bill to create a seven-member education board told the senate the amended measure was "in no shape to become a part of the constitution."

Both divisions of the legislature met early so that a trip could be made to Fort Bragg and Fayetteville during the afternoon.

FARM FRIENDS DECLARE AIMS

Nothing Selfish In Pleas Made To Committee

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Feb. 20.—The joint committee on appropriations is accustomed to hearing persons plead for their own pet propositions, and mostly there is evident some selfish motive—if nothing more than boost in pay.

Farmers are accustomed to having candidates for office and all grades of politicians talk to them and about them as the backbone of civilization, the salt of the earth, the bulwark of democracy, et cetera. Yesterday afternoon something different happened and half a dozen members of the joint subcommittee studying appropriations for agriculture came before the spending group and presented an appeal for more money for agriculture. Not one of the speakers asked anything particularly for himself or for his county. In fact, one of the most telling arguments was that by Senators (Continued on page six)

Garrison At Mega Falls To Invaders

Royal Air Force And Nazi Bombers Exchange Severe Blows In Battle for Britain; Japan Meanwhile Renews Efforts To Soft-Pedal War Alarms In Orient; Italian-Greek War Stalemated

By The Associated Press British South African troops, slashing into Italian conquered Ethiopia, were reported today to have captured the Fascist garrison at Mega, along with 600 prisoners, while other British forces were locked in heavy fighting with the Italians on Somaliland front.

Mega is 40 miles north of the Kenya colony frontier, where the south Africans started their drive into Ethiopia.

Premier Mussolini's high command said the British had made "repeated violent attacks" in an attempt to cross the Juba river in Somaliland, but British headquarters at Cairo reported British troops had crossed the river after battling off Italian counter attacks.

In the battle of Britain, Royal Air Force bombers raked the "invasion ports" of Brest and Calais on the Nazi-held French coast as German night raiders strewed their cargoes of death and destruction on London, Plymouth, Portland and Swansea.

Nazi bombs wrecked a big London hospital, killing several patients and a nurse. Other patients were buried in the debris.

A British communique acknowledged severe damage at Swanscombe industrial port, including "a considerable number of houses and business premises."

Japan renewed efforts to soft-pedal war alarms in the Orient with the Japanese news agency reporting that Japan's vice foreign minister told the Australian minister that talk of a "Far Eastern crisis" was groundless.

Nevertheless, British residents of Thailand were officially advised to leave as thousands of newly arrived Australian troops manned defenses in Northern Malaya bordering Thailand and Japanese war ships were reported massing in the Gulf of Siam.

And in Washington, Japan's new ambassador Admiral Nomura, left no doubt that Japan is bent on further southward expansion in the Pacific—"peacefully and economically" if possible, but he added:

"I cannot say with absolute definiteness that Japan will not resort to force."

The specter of Nazi intervention continued to hover over Greece as her small but tough army fought to retain the initiative against Italy in an Albanian campaign that appeared to be stalemated.

Although the Greeks reported new local successes, there was no indication of material change in the battle lines and observers drew the conclusion that the Italians, aided by the weather, were recovering from early reverses.

Kiwianians Preparing For Musical Program

The regular weekly meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis club will be held at the Kiwanis building tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock, at which time a musical program will be presented.

The committee in charge of the program is composed of Chairman H. A. McDougle, Berry Bostic and G. V. Smith. Musical talent from the college will appear on the program.

GREENVILLE HI NEWS

By SIDNEY JOHNSON

Junior High Assembly
Today the junior high Dramateers presented two one-act plays in the junior high assembly. The plays were "The Unclaimed Ransom" with Harper Darden, Noah Lee Edwards and Violet Harding, "Through With Girls" with Jimmy Warren, Betsy Hellen, George Butler, and Ed Batchelor. The plays were very entertaining.

Dramatics

Goldboro has withdrawn from the state dramatic contest. In district one there will only be New Bern, Wilmington and Greenville. Due to its location New Bern will probably be the scene of the preliminaries. The victor of this district will meet the winner of five other winners in Chapel Hill during April for the championship.

French Play Tonight

At 8 o'clock this evening in the high school auditorium the French club will present its third annual French play. The play, a comedy by the famous French playwright, Moliere, is entitled "The Doctor in Spite of Himself" or in French "Le Medicin Malgre Lui". The play revolves around a man who is forced to admit that he is a doctor when he really is not. The programs printed in English will be complete enough to enable the audience to follow the play even though they don't understand the French dialogue.

The role of the alleged doctor is played by Herbert White Lee and that of his wife by Betsy Hogwood. The others in the cast include Marguerite Jackson, Charlie Pace, Willford Stokes, Louise Dupree, Bill Lee and Troy Riddle. Miss Imogene Riddick, director of the play, stated that the public is most cordially invited and there will be no admission charge.

PARENTS CAN SEE THEIR BABY'S CRIES

Omaha, (AP)—Mary Ann White's parents are deaf, but they can "see" their four and a half months old baby cry—even at night—thanks to a friend's ingenuity. A microphone over the baby's crib is hooked to an amplifier and an electric relay which flashes a light over Mr. and Mrs. White's bed until they awaken. Another automatic flash attachment enables them to "hear" the alarm clock.

Odyssey of A 1921 Rolls
Minneapolis.—(AP)—Have you ever wondered what happened to old automobiles? Here's what happened to a famous one: Jack Dempsey paid $21,000 for a Rolls Royce in 1924. Several years later he sold it for $11,000 to a Minneapolis man, who in turn traded it to a company here.

The company sold it to a mechanic, who got some of his money back charging spectators at county fairs a price to see Jack Dempsey's limousine. Then in 1938 it was sold to another motor company, which in turn traded it to another dealer, who sold it to a junker for $75. There its 17-year career ended. Now it may find its way into a battleship or gun.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

SCHOOL BOARD BILL APPROVED

Practical School Folk Oppose Measure, However

Reflector Bureau.
By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, Feb. 19.—In face of opposition asked by F. P. Spruill, former member of the state school commission, the joint committee constitutional amendments voted without dissenting voice a favorable report on the bill to submit an amendment setting up a new State Board of Education which would combine the functions of all the agencies now directing public school activities.

Senator Stacy, author of the bill told of duplication and friction in the present multiple control, and of wasted effort and money. State Superintendent Erwin also pleaded for centralized control under just one board.

When Senator Gold made a motion for a favorable report Mr. Spruill asked to be heard. He said he spoke for the taxpayer and for the school children, and he berated the committee not to submit an amendment that would put handling of money into the hands of professional school people. He pointed out that under the present school commission set-up, there is some semblance of local representation by having a member from each congressional district. The new proposed plan simply provides for six appointees without restriction as to professional or residence. Practical effect of that, he said, will be that the governor will appoint board members on recommendation of the elected state superintendent, thus virtually putting into the hands of one politically minded administrator absolute control of the public school system.

The committee members, however had made up their minds. Considerable opposition to the amendment has been voiced by superintendents and other administrative school officials visiting Raleigh. They express fear of turning over to teachers the full responsibility for business administration. That is the issue that will be presented to the people in next year's election campaign.

From New York to New Orleans, I find home-makers confused by the different claims made for different hams. I don't blame you. Perhaps it will simplify things if you'll remember that there is only one genuine Tender Made Ham. It is made by Wilson & Co. by a Secret Process. It is fork-tender and requires no cooking. If you prefer it hot, however, this accommodating ham heats in 5 minutes to the pound to rosy pink succulence.

George Rector
Food Consultant, Wilson & Co.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY Menu

- SHERIMP COCKTAIL
- WILSON'S TENDER MADE HAM
- AU GEORGE
- POTATOES IN CREAM
- BAKED SQUASH
- LIBERTY SALAD (PRUNES, CRANBERRIES, CREAM CHEESE)
- CHERRY ICE CREAM
- "HATCHET" COOKIES

ECONOMY TIP. You can serve practically as many people with a 12-pound Wilson's Tender Made Ham as with a 16-pound ordinary ham. Reason—ordinary ham requires up to 30 minutes baking per pound, entailing continuous oven shrinking. Tender Made Ham requires but 5 minutes heating per pound. No wasteful oven shrinkage.

Tender Made Ham AU GEORGE

Take ham from refrigerator and allow it to reach room temperature. Heat 5 minutes per pound in a 350° F. oven. With a star cutter cut stars from grapefruit peel. Cook in boiling water for 30 minutes. Drain. Melt 2 cups of cranberry jelly and cook the grapefruit stars in the jelly till they become semi-transparent. Remove ham from oven, take off skin. Fasten stars onto the ham with cloves. Pour remainder of jelly over the ham. Return to oven for several basting.

THE HAM OF A THOUSAND USES
If your family is too small to eat a whole ham at one meal, your butcher will cut up your Tender Made Ham into three parts: butt, Shank, and several thick, juicy center slices. Butt end. Bake at 375° F. for 10 to 12 minutes per pound and serve hot. Shank end. Shred the meat. Scramble it with eggs. Or serve creamed on toast. Or use it in a macaroni-ham casserole. Center slices. Broil 7 minutes per side at 400° F. (The juiciness of Tender Made Ham will remind you of broiled steak.)

DO'S AND DON'TS FOR BROILING

Oil broiler rack with meat fat. Preheat broiler ten minutes. Set broiler rack so that surface of meat is 3 1/2 inches from heat. Put vegetables to broil under the meat rack so that they get the benefit of the meat drippings. Don't fail to observe broiling instructions that come with your stove. Don't leave broiler door open, nor cook meats at too high a temperature.

PATRIOTIC SANDWICHES
Cut star-shaped sandwiches. Spread them with Wilson's Certified Tender Made Deviled Ham.

The Wilson label protects your table.

ALONG CAME CINDERELLA

By VIVIAN GREY

YESTERDAY: Roger Cosgrave is, apparently, on a dead-end street. Up to two days ago he was happily engaged to Emily Perry; then he met a girl from the New York tenements named Lovely Daye, and although he can't think how to get out of the engagement, he can't imagine forsaking Lovely and going through with it. And apparently Emily expects him to do just that. Hugh Chase is trying to advise him.

Chapter 14

"You tell me," Roger used a flip-sant phrase, but he was in deadly earnest.

"You don't love her surely?"

"Then what do you think I've got her up here for?" Roger flamed. The strain was telling on him. He'd always been accustomed to frank open dealing. Secrecy annoyed him.

"Well, you don't have to love a high ball to enjoy it," Hugh said slowly.

"It isn't that sort of thing," Roger replied wearily.

"Then it's worse than I thought. It's as bad as it could be."

Hugh considered him for a space. "I had some wild idea I might help. I wanted to after that dirty trick last night. It made me uncomfortable. I like the girl too. So I thought maybe if it was just one of those things, you know, a swell set of ankles and you just got in too deep, I could try to take her off your hands. She's sold on you but I just thought I might. And it wouldn't be all charity—it might become a labor of love. The kid's got something. Her face reminds me of botany—not geology. You know—like those big creamy hibiscuses you see in Mexico."

"If she just hadn't gotten out into the open like this," Hugh said. "Then you could have—well—Roger understood the gesture and the unfinished sentence.

"I couldn't do that," he said quickly. "Not to Lovely."

"But can't you see this is going to hurt Emily terribly? Even if you do go through with the wedding."

"Probably," Roger was speaking slowly. "But someone's got to be hurt. I don't see why the Emily's should always be protected at the expense of the Lovely's."

Hugh stared at him thoughtfully.

"You've got something there," he said finally. "And I wouldn't know the answer. I don't know much anyhow. Not with things as haywire as they are nowadays."

Haywire Haywire was right. When he looked up Hugh was gone. He'd moved quietly away, probably because there was nothing more he could say that would make sense.

Misunderstood

Up at Granny Hale's cottage Lovely had been sitting on the step that looked toward the Hudson, staring at the river. She continued to stare straight ahead though she no longer saw the river. The tears which had started so slowly at first had blinded her to the beauty before her.

Emily and Roger. But she couldn't cry. She wouldn't.

They belonged together. Roger so sleek and smooth. Emily so pretty and finely chiseled. If only she hadn't seen them together. She supposed the thing she should do was go back to New York. To what? To anything. It didn't matter so long as she got out of Emily's and Roger's way.

Suddenly Lovely was afraid of the future with Roger. Seeing Emily had done that. She was the sort he was used to. Probably his mother was like that. Lovely knew she never could be. She couldn't exactly give the difference a name but she felt it definitely. She could walk down the hill to the railroad station. She suddenly realized she had no money. She'd have to thumb her way to the city.

Well, she could do that. She could, she supposed, but she didn't want to. She'd thought she was through with all that sort of thing.

But she'd have to get away. She was the one who didn't belong in the picture. She'd been wrong to stay on after she knew of Emily. It was breaking Emily's heart.

Her thought was interrupted by the sound of a car arriving at the front gate with a great deal of commotion. The peaceful pattern of the afternoon was broken.

Lovely wiped her eyes carefully walked in through the house, paused a moment at a mirror to assure herself she had done the best she could with her eyes and then went to the door.

"I might have known!" she said then. "I might have known. There isn't another car in the world that's its own loud speaker!" And there was a glad note in her voice.

"Lovely!" Joe Hulse's big voice was tense. He towered grotesquely in the quaint little door a moment and then would have gathered her in his hungry arms.

"Wait a minute! Wait a minute! Restrain yourself!" Lovely was stepping back and laughing at him a little.

"Lovely, I've come to take you back." Still with that tense note.

"How do you know you have?"

But Joe was paying no attention.

said steadily. "Believe it or not, you big gaboon!" She was laughing at him.

"I'm not even asking you kid." His voice was softening. "I don't care. All I want is you, back safe again. Come on, get your gadgets together. Yesterday isn't soon enough to get you out of here."

"Suppose I told you I didn't want to go, Joe?"

Climax

He stared at her in unbelief. He had thought forgiveness was all she would ask. She'd had her escapade. He'd been more than generous. He loved her too much to even ask her what happened. All he wanted was Lovely back in his arms again. He'd supposed the bigness of that would bowl her over and she'd be clinging to him, crying.

But she wasn't. She was standing over there looking at him, smiling still as if she liked him and didn't want to hurt him, but with a strange, cool self-possession.

"But I'm offering you a wedding ring, honey. Marriage. Ma said she'd get by somehow. Go visit relatives up state for a long time so you and me could have the flat and all my money to ourselves."

Lovely could feel tears washing over her heart.

"That's sweet of your mother Joe," she said. Some of the tears had flowed into her voice.

"Ma's always sweet. Come on, Lovely, let's get going. I've got enough money on me to take us out for a bust for the evening. Dinner at one of those swell joints along the road." And as she didn't reply immediately: "Gee, Lovely, do you think I don't know how you want nice things? You'd have to because you're fitted for them, I don't blame you, kid. I just don't want you to be unhappy afterwards."

"That's the funny part about this Joe, the part you won't believe!" She was smiling at him. "He hasn't given me so much as a pin since I've been here. It isn't that sort of thing." While he stared at her as if he suddenly felt himself going crazy, she added with something of her old gaiety:

"Well, we might as well sit down. There's no profit in keeping the weight on the hoof."

And while they sat there looking at each other another car drew into the drive. But this one stopped noticeably and the driver stared at the queer old jalopy.

Roger got out of his roadster slowly. He was in no mood for an other forgetful of the girl. Finally Roger spoke in a calm low voice.

"And what did you think I intended doing?" he asked.

A start seemed to go visibly through Joe's body.

"You mean," he asked, "that you'd intended to marry Lovely?"

"Of course I do—if she'll have me?"

NO LET-UP in 1941!

MOVEMENTS for the public good are frequently launched with great enthusiasm, but sometimes die out because sustained effort is lacking.

This is not true of the North Carolina beer industry's program to improve conditions in retail outlets.

Prosecuted with diligent effort since its launching in May, 1939, our Committee's "clean up or close up" campaign in North Carolina has won the praise and support of law enforcement officers, the press and public. During the past 21 months the state's beer industry has proved its sincerity of purpose by a consistent record of direct action and results.

The record: 1,537 retail beer outlets investigated; 203 warned to improve conditions. We reported 176 to the authorities for action; as a result 121 licenses were revoked, 10 placed on probation, 2 surrendered their licenses, and 25 license renewals were refused.

We promise there will be no let-up in our efforts during 1941!

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE CONCH SHELL

Years ago at almost every farm house one could find a conch shell which at meal time the housewife put to her lips and upon which she would blow a blast calling the men from the field. A man now past middle age says that as a boy he used to regard that conch shell with great awe, not just because of the mighty blast which could be blown thereon, but chiefly because when he put it to his ear, he could hear a year which he was told was the year of the sea.

"There's a parable in all this," he said in a public address some time ago, "and it is this. The important thing about our life is not what we say. The important thing is that we are made after the image of God, that the divine is in us, that the Most High has endowed us with the qualities of His own heart and mind. The awesome thing about that old conch shell was not the blast one could blow upon it, but the roar of the sea which one could faintly detect if he put his ear against the shell."

The glory of a man is not his works and certainly not his words.
The glory of a man is his origin.
The conch shell comes from the sea and carries the roar of the sea in it ever, and man comes from the bosom of God and carries the divine qualities in his heart.
Men may break the conch shell and the roar ceases. Men may fill the voice of God within their hearts, and a divinely appointed destiny comes to a dismal end.

'GRATUITIES OR GUNS'

Writing in Collier's, Walter Davenport, the well-known political observer, points out that the strange and wonderful era of "reform" we have been experiencing for some years is over. "A choice had to be made between gratuities and guns," he says. "There won't be enough money for both.
The billions appropriated for rearmament are just a beginning. The huge sums that financed peaceful projects and happiness-promotions must now buy planes and battleships, cantonments and tanks. And Washington is agreed that the sooner we realize this is a part of the sacrifice we shall have to make and like, the better."

This change will not take place easily. As Mr. Davenport also points out, today Washington is jammed to the hilt with lobbyists and pressure groups, "demanding everything from war profiteering to unions of soldiers and sailors." Those who have been receiving gifts and hand-outs from government in lavish and apparently limitless amounts, will die hard. But, starting with a national peacetime debt of almost $50,000,000, 000 on the one hand, and the prospect of spending $30-000,000,000 or more for defense, it is apparent that the time has come when we must forego the luxuries of politics in favor of necessities.
Anyone looking back over the last ten years can easily list a depressing number of policies and governmental activities which have almost utterly wasted tremendous sums of the taxpayers' money. There is the tremendous waste that accompanied our various and unproductive farm aid schemes.

There is the equally tremendous waste that was connected with the administration of relief. So it goes, down a long list.

Germany's motto, when rearming was "guns, not butter." We don't have to go to that extreme, but we will have to spread the butter thinner. We will pay taxes unprecedented in our history. We will have to work longer and harder, whether the radical union leaders like that or not. And we will have to put government expenditures back where they belong—which means devoting all government tax revenue and deficit-financing to essential, basic purposes, such as defense, not to dubious boondoggling experiments which unnecessarily burden and destroy private enterprise, the very source of government income.

Communities must regain their self-respect and stop beginning from Washington.
Workers and industries must forget the days when the public treasury was a grab bag. It will be tough. But it will remake the United States.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett
Washington—Open letter to a student in Journalism I:
Well, they got me, Mutch. I mean the Secret Service. I'm not complaining—but since you seem determined to embark on a sea of printer's ink, I thought you ought to know what Journalism with a capital J is coming to. Just in case you think that reporters blow into the Senate and yell at Vice President Wallace, "Hi Hank, what's news?"—or breeze into the White House and say, "Look, F. D., I gotta have the lowdown."
Butch, you'd better start thinking along different lines. The other day word went around that all accredited newsmen and women in Washington were to present themselves at the White House pronto. To get fingerprints and mugged and fill out questionnaires.
No, Butch, it wasn't any law. You didn't HAVE to do it. But in return for the fingerprints and photo and properly answered questionnaire, you got a White House correspondent's card with your pas-port picture on it.
Without one of those cards, you couldn't earn your pay here at the Perkins Puddle Gazette. I'll bet you couldn't get in to see Harold L.

of all the non-criminal fingerprint-tekes' fourth assistant janitor without one.
And if you are going to buy groceries for the little woman, Butch, you are going to have to do your reporting a lot closer to the Big Guns than that. See what I mean?

Careful, Boy!
Well, that's the reason I lined up with the rest of the boys the other day in the east wing of the White House. There were a lot of White House cops around who kept saying: "Straighten up that line there."
—you know, like ushers at a movie on Saturday night. Pretty soon, I got up to the desk where a Secret Service man gave me some cards and explained where to write and where not to write. It was a little confusing, I'll admit, because the cards were really applications for jobs in the FBI and a fellow had to be careful or he might find himself working for J. Edgar Hoover.

Then we went into the billiard room. In spite of all the people and the photographer and finger-printers, you could tell that there aren't any pool-room hanger-arounders in the President's official family. The modernistic pool table, of polished natural wood, was so fresh you could tell there hadn't been any dice rolled on it, and there wasn't any chalk dust on the cues in the rack.
At a long table, there were a lot of fellows filling out their questionnaires. Some were having a lot of trouble. You ought to tell the head of your Journalism department to put in a course on questionnaires. It would help a lot if some of the boys (and girls) could remember right off where and when they were born, what their complexion is, etc. After "complexion," one fellow wrote:
"Green. On account of a hangover."
After that we had taken what hereinafter will be laughingly referred to as photographs; then moved into one of the lines that ended with the finger-printers. In spite of all the non-criminal fingerprint-tekes' fourth assistant janitor without one.

Apparently he knew too well, because the printer gave him a mighty suspicious look and said: "You've been fingerprinted before."
To another friend who had a scar on his thumb, the same printer said cheerfully: "Well, pal, we'll never have any trouble picking you up."
And one of the other men told a co-worker of mine: "You're practically a perfect criminal; your prints don't register."

Personally, I thought that was no way to talk to a fellow who had worn his fingers almost to the bone on typewriter keys. But nobody got mad.
After all, it's all in a newsman's day's work in these times of war abroad and national defense at home. And all of us still aren't as much on the spot as the boys who cover War-Navy and have to wear their pictures and identifications on signs on their coat lapels—or those who cover Civil Service and can only enter and leave by one door, although the building has six.
I just thought I'd let you know, Butch. A newspaperman still can get around—that is, if he has his passport and didn't flunk the Secret Service and the FBI.

Local Baseball Club Officials To Be Named Tonight

MEET SET FOR 8:00 O'CLOCK

To Be Held In Aldermen's Room Of City Hall

The ninety or one hundred local citizens holding stock in the Greenville Baseball Club, Inc., are urged to be present for a meeting to be held in the Board of Aldermen's room tonight at 8 o'clock, at which time directors will be named, officers elected and the Booster Ticket campaign inaugurated.

President G. V. Smith is urging all stockholders to be present and participate in the election of directors. Immediately following the selection of the board of directors and a general discussion of prospects for this year, the directors will go into session and name a president, vice president, secretary and other officials to serve during the current season.

In order to make the club more of a community project, officials last year sold stock to as many individuals as possible and these stockholders are urged to participate in tonight's discussions.

It is probable that the board of directors will select a manager at tonight's meeting. Although no official action has been taken, it is likely that Rube Wilson again will head the local club. Rube continues popular with the fans.

Reports from other cities in the loop indicate several of the clubs already are lining up their roster for this season and local officials are anxious to sign a manager and start him to work contract with old players and looking for new talent.

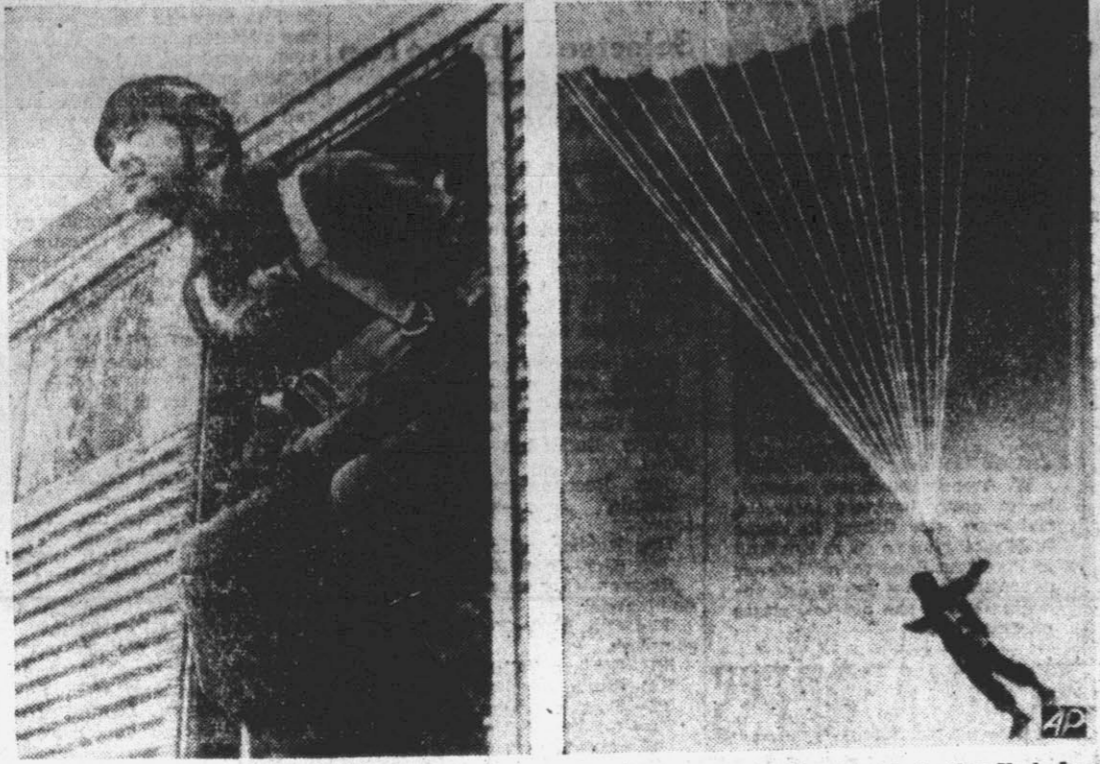

The Booster ticket idea proved to be the salvation for the local club, which has set a goal of 750 such tickets. The tickets, to cost $5, will be offered throughout the county. They entitle the holder to see any regular season game, in any city, for an additional fee of 20 cents. The money raised locally will be retained by the Greenville club and if the goal is reached the club will have $3,750 with which to start operating.

NITROGEN FOR GRAIN

The success of a farming system does not depend on the kind of crops you grow—but how you grow them! With the increase in small grain acreage, we expect greater profits on the farms. This can only be true if the grain is properly fed during the growing season. Grain, like every other crop, needs nitrogen to build the framework or foundation for a large profitable yield, as this element, nitrogen, influences growth of the entire plant from planting time to harvest.

Nitrogen means stalks—stalks mean grain. Let us realize the value of proper balance of nitrogen to the growing crop. First, nitrogen cannot do the job alone, as other foods are needed for normal growth and development of the plants. These major foods, namely phosphorus and potash, assisted by nitrogen, do their work, and nitrogen, in turn, helps the plants make more efficient use of phosphorus and potash. The vegetative growth or framework of the plant necessary to have the early root development that starts soon after the seeds germinate, and then leaves begin to appear, the

Max Schmeling Becomes A Parachutist

Max Schmeling, the German boxer who won the world's heavyweight championship in New York June 12, 1930, has become a member of the German army's parachute troops and the word from Germany is that he is a proficient parachutist. Left: He crouches in the doorway of a plane, balancing himself to leap out into space in a practice jump. Right: The parachute has opened safely and Schmeling is "on the ropes" hanging from his chute in mid-air.

George Glamack and the "most famous shot in basketball" will be seen in action on Duke's floor for the last time tonight. Carolina's All-American ace set a new conference record of 45 points last week and brought his season total to an even 500 for 23 games, or an average of almost 22 points a night. The senior "blind bomber" will also play against Davidson at Winston-Salem Saturday and in the conference tourney in Raleigh.

plants are carried through the hard winter months, and, at this time—in February or early March—they are hungry for additional nitrogen to increase stooing and stalk growth. Hence, we say nitrogen is the most profitable food you can give your small grain.

Results of a number of rat-per-acre demonstrations conducted in North Carolina with 100 pounds, 200 pounds, and 300 pounds of Nitrate of Soda per acre versus a check plot on small grain, shows that 100 to 125 pounds of Nitrate of Soda per acre applied early to wheat returned the greatest profit. Oats, a heavy nitrogen feeder, gave greater profits with 200 pounds of Nitrate of Soda per acre. These tests were conducted with leading farmers under the supervision of county agents and agricultural teachers.—H. L. Meacham, Agriculturist of the Arcadian Grower.

Although Richmond became the capital of Virginia in 1779, it did not receive official classification as a city until 1782.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York — People who are color-blind are supposed to be able to recognize camouflage better than others and consequently are being used by army experts to serve in this purpose.

Now I am told by Alec Templeton, the blind Welsh genius of the piano (he gives those devastating interpretations of "big shot" musicians), that a blind man's hearing is so acute he is invaluable in detecting aeroplanes. Not only one plane, but numbers of planes, and a smart fellow can easily pick out various types of plane.

"This would be a wonderful thing in defense work," he explains. "Not only would it release men with normal vision for other duties; it would bring into play such people as myself who have hearing that is extremely acute and who have been compelled by force of circumstance to make their ears take the place of their eyes." Templeton says he put it this way to army officials: "The first essential is a perfect sense of pitch. One plane approaching has only a single drone, or note; but two planes, even traveling in the same direction, have different vibrations which any trained listener, or spotter, can pick up. A spotter with a fine sense of pitch can distinguish how many different types of planes—fighters, bombers, etc.—are approaching without the least trouble. Blind spotters were used effectively in the last war. I think they will be used in this one."

This sense of pitch, as Templeton calls it, is easily borne out by the many blind in New York who regularly attend the Broadway theatre. They tell me a blind listener knows "every line of an actor's face" after he has "seen" him in a play.

Incidentally, there is an organization at 111 East 57th Street whose sole function is to secure tickets to entertainment features for New York's thousands of sightless people. It is known as The Lighthouse for the Blind and last year it obtained, and gave away, more than 13,000 tickets. Movie managers give regular allotments of tickets. Sometimes managers of Broadway theatres will turn over their houses for an entire evening, or will arrange a special performance for the blind. Recently the Lighthouse put out small advertisements asking people who had tickets for any sort of entertainment but who could not use them, to please forward them to the Lighthouse's offices.

"There must be hundreds of people," a Lighthouse spokesman said, "who would be glad to give their tickets to the blind but who have no idea the blind would want them or where they should be sent. If we could get the word around I am sure much good would come from it."

And that's true. When I think of the times I've let tickets die myself I feel like a vandal.

CHICKENS' PLAINTS COME HOME TO ROOST

Charleston, S. C.—(AP)—A farmer whose squawking chickens woke him in the wee hours crept to the hen house, gun in hand. The chickens had quieted, so the farmer squatted down in the shadow of a tree, aimed and cocked his gun.

Then a prowling dog decided to do some investigating, too. He crept up and thrust his cold nose against the farmer's exposed back. Bang! The gun went off as the farmer leaped into the air. And when the air had cleared, 19 chickens were dead.

"I BUY EVERYTHING FROM HOME FOLKS"

"I GET MY BEST GRAIN YIELDS where mixed fertilizer is used at fall seeding and Arcadian, The American Nitrate of Soda, is applied in the spring. Fertilizer brings grain through the winter better, especially after late planting. Grain really goes to town when you give it Arcadian up to 200 pounds per acre as an early spring top-dressing. Arcadian thickens the stand and helps plants to stool out better and send up more seed-bearing stalks. At harvest, I get a bigger yield of better quality grain.

"Arcadian is good Soda. There is no better Soda. And Arcadian is made by homefolks here in the South. I want Southern Industry to grow. And I want my grain to grow too. Give me Arcadian, with Uncle Sam on the bag!"

1941 General Assembly Liberal Toward Schools

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Feb. 20.—The sitting General Assembly has shown more liberality and generosity toward school people than any in recent years, having granted without much opposition the retirement bill for teachers and voted substantial increases for instructional services, particularly in vocational fields. But the Senate does not think so highly of professional school teachers as managers of the thirty million dollar annual school fund, and it voted an amendment to the proposed constitutional amendment setting up a new State Board of Education, requiring that the board represent all sections of the state and that more than half of its members be business men not connected with the school system.

There has been considerable criticism voiced by superintendents and other administrative officials since the original proposal for a board of education with complete control of the public school system was made so as to leave this control in the hands of teachers. It was something of the same feeling that 15 years ago brought into being the State School Commission.

The Senate went rather further commissioners to serve until May this year and provide for biennial election of municipal officials thereafter.

By Edwards of Beaufort, to regulate drag nets and small haul nets in Beaufort.

By Watkins of Vance, to permit court clerks to sign judgments on any day except Sunday.

FARM FRIENDS DECLARE AIMS

for Wallace of Iredell asking for larger support of farm demonstration services.

He said that his county already had about everything—a county agent, two assistant agents, and a home demonstration agent. It was because his people already had the service, had profited so substantially by it, and knew so well its great value, that he wanted it extended to the whole state.

The plight of agriculture in these changing times was presented with such earnestness that even the most conservative members of the "conservative bloc" agreed that something more was needed. Exact amounts were not determined, but there is not the slightest doubt that the general fund will be drawn up for very large additions to State College, the central experiment station and the Department of Agriculture.

FINAL ADDRESS BY DR. WATSON

Noted Expert on Mental Disorders Ends Series

Dr. James M. Watson, in the final lecture of the series which he has delivered in Greenville under the auspices of the Social Studies committee of the A. A. U. W., spoke Tuesday night on the subject, "Prevention, Treatment and Cure of Mental Disorders," and made an impressive conclusion to his discussions by emphasizing the appalling need for medical, educational, and religious forces to unite for prevention of further increase of mental disorders. He left the plea for Greenville to demand a mental hygiene clinic in which teachers, ministers and doctors will work together for prevention of the dreadful fact of 100,000 persons each year becoming mental patients.

The extent of the problem Dr. Watson restated in his review of his first lecture on the actualities of mental disorders in our country. Declaring that the greatest health problem of the United States today is mental health and that the greatest problem of schools and families is mental health, he cited as proof that in 1940 the cost of caring for the mentally deficient in public institutions was $230,000,000; that one out of every 22 young people now in our public schools will probably be declared mentally incompetent and ultimately placed in public institutions for care; and that under present methods we have no reason to expect a decrease in this cost and prevalence of mental illnesses.

Reviewing also his lecture on the causes of these conditions, Dr. Watson stressed the importance of adults knowing the facts of hereditary tendencies in family stocks where mental disorders have repeatedly appeared and of refraining from further propagation of such tendencies; and also stressed that wrong methods in home and school may often promote mental abnormality by frustration of dominant desires to achieve and to be recognized for achievement to love and to be loved.

He stated that the contribution of psychoanalysts has been their showing the facts of cause and effect, that the set-up of the home and school, the frustration of normal desires, and unconscious motivations are main sources of disorders.

In developing his topic of treatment the House would not approve the tenure plan in present form, but the "without prejudice" report was voted in anyway.

SOLDIERS USE STRANGE LINGO

Selectees Develop And Adopt Special Army Lingo

Port Jackson, S. C., Feb. 20.—Soldiers from North and South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, New Jersey and Missouri in training here have developed and adopted a lingo all their own. Some of this lingo dates back to 1917 and earlier, but much of it has been developed by the soldiers of 1941.

Natives of Jubaland, in Africa, sometimes brand themselves with the same design used for their cattle.

ment and prevention, the speaker showed the value of state hospitals and sanitariums is to provide an environment which relieves from the stresses and strains that have produced the illness and to provide skilled treatment of the various disorders. He pointed out the tragedy of our crowded hospitals and lack of sufficient doctors, nurses, psychiatrists, and vocational therapists to give the treatments which would bring returned health to thousands of patients.

That prevention rather than cure should become the united public aim was Dr. Watson's main theme. It is the hope of the State Department of Mental Hygiene, of which Dr. Watson is the director, to establish a Child Guidance Clinic in every community of 10,000 population; and it is also the hope that mental hygiene work will be recommended for an appropriation of more than this year's recommended $4,470 when the recommended appropriation for care of mental patients in our mental hospitals is $1,000,000.

Dr. Watson was presented to the audience by Dr. N. F. Ernet, who declared, "A new day has dawned in North Carolina when consideration is given to prevention of mental illness," and paid tribute to Dr. Watson's leadership in a crusade for mental health in this state.

Mrs. Hazel Brown Madry announced that Dr. Watson's valuable lectures were only the first part of the mental hygiene program which the Social Studies committee of the American Association of University Women has arranged for this community. Other authoritative speakers have been scheduled for lectures in the near future, and a psychiatrist has been secured for a children's mental hygiene clinic this spring.

Case Copromised In Superior Court

The Vance Trucking Company-J. A. Marshburn, Mrs. Marshburn and J. T. Bregan case was compromised in Pitt Superior court here yesterday afternoon after all evidence had been completed and one of the attorneys appearing in the case, Judge Albion Dunn, had made an hour and a half plea to the jury.

The Henderson truck company filed action seeking to recover $575 property damage as the result of a highway collision in July, 1939 Marshburn, Mrs. Marshburn and Bregan then filed a counter action.

Under the settlement Bregan and Mrs. Marshburn were paid $1,250 each by the trucking concern. The case of Marshburn against the counter party was non-suited when it was shown that his negligence contributed to the accident. The Marshburns and Bregan are residents of Washington, N. C.

According to the evidence, the truck was parked on the highway near Farmville when Marshburn drove his car into the rear of it about midnight.

IT'S GOOD BECAUSE IT'S NATCHEL—AND NATCHEL THINGS IS BEST

YES, CHILEAN SODA is good because it's "Natchel"—the only natural nitrate in the world. It's good for all crops, before planting or after. It's particularly profitable for side-dressing and top-dressing. It acts quickly, picks the crop up and pushes it to early maturity.

Use Natural Chilean Soda under your crops... for top-dressing and side-dressing, too. Give them the full benefit of all its natural fertilizing and soil-improving qualities.
