BRITAIN IS RUSHING WAR EQUIPMENT TO TURKEY

DEFEATS MOVE TO ALTER BILL ON 63-28 VOTE

Effort Made To Forbid Conveying Of War Material

TWO N. C. SOLONS DIVIDED ON VOTE

Roosevelt Meanwhile Declares Delay On Lend-Lease Bill Will Affect Later Deliveries

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—The Senate rejected today an amendment to the British aid bill which would forbid the conveying by American armed forces of war materials shipped out of the Western Hemisphere.

The roll call vote was 63 to 28. North Carolina's two senators divided on the amendment. Bailey voting with the administration forces against the amendment and Reynolds supporting it.

The vote came on a proposal by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), offered as a substitute to an administration sponsored amendment by Senator Ellender (D-La.). The Ellender amendment states that nothing in the measure should be construed as changing existing laws governing the land and naval forces.

While O'Mahoney had contended that his proposal as originally drawn would rule out convoys, he re-wrote it slightly at the suggestion of Senator Bone (D-Wash.) so that Bone finally described it as "a blunt prohibition against convoys."

Opponents and supporters of the British aid bill continued their arguments, while at the White House President Roosevelt was saying that every day's delay would affect deliveries a little later on to what he termed the democracies.

Asked at a press conference whether the delay on the legislation was having serious effect, the President asserted at first that he had better not answer.

But he went on to add that reporters were aware that he had stated ever since the legislation was submitted to Congress that perhaps a delay at this time in February or early March does not affect immediate aid to the democracies, but will affect deliveries a little later on.

Confident of a "working majority," administration leaders called for night Senate sessions in a renewed drive to kill off the numerous opposition amendments and hasten passage of the bill.

Four Cases Tried At Friday's Police Court

Only four cases were disposed of in Municipal recorder's court at the regular Friday morning session. George Patrick, convicted of crashing a red light, was ordered to pay $5 to be applied on the costs of court. William David Manning, convicted of being drunk and down was taxed with the costs. Lyman Price, Negro, was acquitted of a breaking and entering charge, but probable cause was found on a charge of larceny and receiving and he was bound over to the April term of Pitt Superior court under bond of $500. Willie Hines, Negro, was given four months upon conviction of temporary larceny of an automobile.

FUND IS VOTED FOR N. C. WORK

Another $25,000,000 May Be Added To Project

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—The Senate Naval Committee today approved a $15,000,000 authorization to establish a "marine corps training base in North Carolina."

The committee acted after hearing the marine corps commandant, Major General Thomas Holcomb testify that present training in tropical areas caused his men to "deteriorate physically and morally."

The Senate committee quickly approved the $15,000,000 authorization for the new center and substituted this for a $15,000,000 item previously voted by the House.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.) predicted that the North Carolina center eventually would include another $25,000,000 for an air base for 300 marine fighting planes.

Admiral Ben Morell, chief of the navy yards and docks bureau, and General Holcomb conceded that the $25,000,000 air base project had been asked by the marines and probably would come along later.

Admiral Morell said the North Carolina center would be about 40 miles from Wilmington and 30 miles from Morehead. He said an area about 10 miles square would be used for rifle and artillery ranges, training of parachute and tank troops and coordination with air forces and land and sea troops.

The board also will meet on March 19 to receive bids on a new fire truck and other equipment. George Clapp of the Fire Department committee reported that additional equipment requested, would cost $847.50. Prices of fire trucks range upwards from about $8,500.

The committee instructed to investigate the possibility of establishing a sub fire station in West Greenville was authorized to continue its work and report back to the board at a later meeting. A sub station was requested at the previous meeting by R. V. Keel.

Ralph Garrett, Jr., And Dallas Peel Get High Rank

The annual Boy Scout Father-Son banquet was held in the Woman's club building here last night featured by an address by Maynard O. Fletcher of Washington, N. C., president of the Eastern Carolina Scout Council, and the representation of Scout awards.

The awards included Eagle Scout badges to two local youths, Ralph Garrett, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Garrett, and Dallas Peel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Peel. The Eagle badges were handed to the mothers of the two boys, who in turn pinned them on their respective sons in an impressive ceremony.

J. G. Clark served as toastmaster during the banquet meeting, which was opened with the invocation by Rev. W. A. Ryan. Those present joined in singing "God Bless America" at the beginning of the program.

A number of guests, including Mayor B. B. Sugg, who made a brief address of welcome; J. S. Gaskins, Eastern Carolina Scout Executive; E. L. Henderson, past chairman of the Greenville Scout District, and Roy Campbell, present chairman, were recognized by Master of Ceremonies Clark.

A toast to the fathers was given by David J. Whichard, III, and the response was made by his father, D. J. Whichard, Jr.

F. C. Harding made a brief talk after which he presented training certificates.

The meeting then was resolved into a Court of Honor presided over by Rev. T. M. Grant, who was assisted by A. L. Hodges, assistant scout executive, and Mr. Ryan. In addition to the awarding of the two Eagle Scout badges, the following advancements were recognized and corresponding badges presented:

Asks Improvement Of Two Waterways

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—Rep. Bonner (D-NC) has asked Congress to appropriate $195,000 to improve two waterways in his district which have been designated to be in the interests of national defense.

The first project is the channel from Manteo to Oregon Inlet, with the estimated cost of improvement being $45,000, while the second is Silver Lake on Ocracoke Island where the cost of improvement was estimated at $150,000.

Congress May Be Requested To Authorize Additional Training Period Unless International Situation Eases; Officers And Men Would Be Used To Train Selective Service Draftees

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—War Department officials said today the army may ask Congress for authority to keep the National Guard for an additional six months or a year.

Whether the guardsmen are kept in uniform beyond the current year's training will depend, it was explained, on the tenseness of the international situation.

Some 240,000 guard officers and men have been mobilized thus far under the authority Congress voted last summer.

Should they be demobilized at the conclusion of the current year's service, the army might be faced with a "serious situation" because of a shortage of trained manpower to train the selective service recruits called to the colors, it was explained.

Some of the difficulties would be offset, however, officials said, by the expansion of the regular army which has been increased steadily for the last two years to a present total of nearly 500,000 officers and men.

General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, was reported to feel that a second year's service for the National Guard was advisable in the light of the present international outlook and that a minimum of six months was indispensable.

He has told congressional and other conferees that the decision would depend on the course of events.

If the War Department should decide to ask Congress for permission to keep the National Guard in service for an additional year, as was indicated in Washington today, more than a hundred men from this immediate community would be affected.

Group Asks Tightening Up In Federal Election Laws

FLYING SCHOOL TO START SOON

Twenty Students To Enter Initial Class Here

Greenville's first Civilian Pilot Training class to be carried on through the co-operation of East Carolina Teachers College and the local airport will get under way within the next few days with 20 student fliers instead of the 10 first allotted for the initial class.

Flight Contractor Horace Barnes, who has leased the airport facilities for the school, and who has been in Washington for several days conferring with government officials, wired President L. R. Meadows of the college, today of the authorized increase in the number of students for the first class.

The increase in the size of the class means that Barnes will bring additional planes for use at the airport and the activity will be much greater than at first anticipated. Already the college has obtained a plane and other equipment for use in class-room instruction of the students and Henry Clark, instructor of Tarboro, U. S. Naval Reserve flight instructor, has been employed by the college to carry on the class room instruction. The actual flying instruction at the airfield will be carried on by Pilot Cameron McLaren, who arrived in this city this afternoon to make final preparations at the airport for the students.

Dr. Meadows stated this afternoon that already there was much enthusiasm among the college students who are anticipating flight training and plans are now being made for the first applicants to be given their physical examinations by government designated physicians. The first 20 students to be chosen for the course will be selected on the basis of physical fitness, scholastic standing and apparent adaptability to flying. The age limits for students is 18 to 25 years inclusive.

L. B. Garriss was reelected for another five-year term on the Greenville Utilities Commission by the Board of Aldermen last night.

The two new members probably will be named at a meeting of the Board of Aldermen later this month.

In addition to Mr. Garriss, the present members of the board are D. S. Spain, Sr., and L. B. Tucker.

Proposes Rigid Limits On Campaign Expenditures

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—The Senate Campaign Investigation committee, reporting that the major parties had spent at least $22,000,000 at a minimum during the 1940 presidential contest, recommended today that Congress fix rigid limits on political funds and tighten up other federal election laws.

Republican groups were credited with expenditures of almost $15,000,000 and Democrats with more than $6,000,000.

The special committee submitted a 10-point political reform program in its final report, which included a separate sharply-worded minority statement from Sen. Tobey (R-NH).

Tobey in his report asked a congressional investigation of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., powerful Democratic leader; charged that Oliver A. Quayle, Democratic National Committee leader, had "lied brazenly and unhesitatingly" to the committee; questioned $300,000 loaned to Democrats by R. J. Reynolds and criticized primary expenditures by Sen. Radcliff (D-Md).

The majority found that existing federal laws seeking to limit expenditures to $5,000 in one year had been "largely ineffective" and had resulted in "mushroom" growth of "independent" committees, each claiming the right to raise and spend $3,000,000.

Other suggested reforms included: A curb on "false, libelous and scurrilous campaign literature."

A bar on "pernicious political activities" by the thousands of farmer committeemen who administer the federal farm program.

A prohibition against "coercion" of voters by private employers or corporations.

A prohibition against direct or indirect political contributions by public utilities for their officers.

MAY EXERCISE LEAF OPTIONS

Britain Considering Taking Up U. S. Holdings

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—A Commodity Credit Corporation official said today that a representative of the British tobacco syndicate in this country had made inquiries about the possibility of taking up options on flue-cured tobacco holdings of the corporation.

He said there had been no official proposal for a deal and there were many problems entering into the picture, among them transportation to England.

However, it was explained the British may decide to take up options on some of the tobacco and leave it in this country as a cushion against possible price increases for flue-cured leaf.

The CCC holdings total 160,000-000 pounds of 1939 tobacco and 204,000,000 pounds of the 1940 crop. The British were given options on the leaf when they withdrew from the market to conserve foreign exchange.

Options have been taken up for about 14,000,000 pounds of the 1939 crop. Most if not all of the 1940 crop is believed to have gone to empire trade.

The Agriculture Department estimates England still has a year's supply of flue-cured leaf unless large quantities have been destroyed by bombings.

SPENDING BILL BECOMES LAW

Measure Passed By Senate In Only Eight Minutes

Raleigh, March 7.—(AP)—The Senate passed the record $166,000 biennial appropriations bill with a burst of applause in eight minutes today and ordered it ratified into law.

All final action was by unanimous vote, which was a unique experience for a spending bill.

The joint Appropriations Committee reported the bill out to the house floor without dissent. The House approved it unanimously in 22 minutes yesterday afternoon. The Senate took it up at 11:56 and finished with it at 12:04 today.

The appropriations measure calls for expenditures of $1,000,000,000 more in 1941-42 than has ever been allocated before. It permits use of $1,190,000,000 of highway money if necessary to balance the general fund budget, but no diversion has been needed in recent years and the 1939 law contemplated possible diversion of $7,000,000.

In the House, the proposed constitutional amendment to create a 15-member education board to be (Continued on page six)

Believe War Will Spread To Balkans

Controlled Turkish Press Says Spread of War Appears Inevitable And Warns Against Accepting Nazi Assurances; London Reports Rehearsal Invasion Being Carried Out

(By The Associated Press) Turkey's controlled press declared today that the spread of the war in the Balkans seemed inevitable and Great Britain was reported rushing all the equipment she could spare to the Turks.

Greek diplomatic quarters expressed the belief that Turkey would send troops into the mountains of Greece Thrace to help combat a German invasion of Greece.

Turkish newspapers also warned the nation against accepting German assurances.

Simultaneously, the British disclosed that Britain has already coped with a week-long "mock invasion" probably on a scale greater than Germany could launch, featuring landings by air and sea.

Informed quarters in London also declared Tuesday's British Norwegian naval raid on the German-held Lofoten islands off the coast of Norway was a "rehearsal" for bigger things to come.

In the Balkans, diplomatic sources in Belgrade predicted that Yugoslavia—under pressure to choose between the Axis and Britain—would refrain from joining the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance for the time being at least.

(By The Associated Press) Balkan military observers heard late today that 150,000 German troops massed with hundreds of tanks and armored cars on the Greek-Bulgarian frontier may strike into Greek Macedonia and Thrace "within 48 hours."

With the Nazi attack expected at any moment, Turkey adopted a stiff attitude toward Germany.

Turkey's controlled press declared that the spread of the war in the Balkans seemed inevitable and warned Adolf Hitler that against his "handful of birdshot reassurances, stands two million Turkish bayonets."

One Turkish newspaper said boldly: "If Germany comes this way she will get such an answer to these assurances as she never got before."

Reports that Britain was rushing equipment to Turkey seemed to indicate that Turkey was resolved to fight if Germany moves toward the Dardanelles.

Balkan observers spotted 50 German tanks poised almost within sight of the Turkish frontier.

The initial German onslaught, however—if it comes—was expected to strike into Greece's Struma river valley in Macedonia, a 60-mile corridor leading to the sea at Salonika. Dispatches from Sofia said General Papagos, commander-in-chief of the Greek army, apparently intended to abandon Thrace as indefensible and make a stand along the natural bastion of the Struma, leaving on a 25-mile wide front to defend.

Yugoslavia's role in the crisis remained a mystery, but authoritative quarters in Belgrade said Regent Prince Paul had conferred last Monday with Adolf Hitler.

The world's first commercial telephone exchange was opened in 1878 at New Haven, Conn.

Bill Contains Funds For Project In Area

Washington, March 7.—During the consideration of the 1941-42 Agricultural appropriation bill which passed the House yesterday, Congressman Herbert C. Bonner appeared before the committee with respect to the continuation of the appropriation for the investigation and promotion of beef cattle in the cutover lands in the coastal section of southeastern states.

As the bill passed the House, it carried an appropriation of $50,000, $30,000 of which will be used at the Blackland farm near Wenona in Washington county. The congressman stated that it is most essential for the farm in Eastern North Carolina to promote the beef and dairy cattle industry.

Mr. Bonner also urged the committee to continue the appropriations for the investigation of the tobacco moth and tobacco weevil. There was carried in the bill as it passed the House yesterday, $27,000 for this purpose. During the past year valuable information has been gathered in reference to checking this serious pest which is so destructive to tobacco in barns and in packhouses.

SAYS PLEDGES ARE IDLE TALK

Value of Pre-Primary Commitments Questioned

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL.
Raleigh, March 6.—The value of pre-election commitments is seriously questioned by R. P. Rawley, secretary of the North Carolina division, Travelers Protective Association of America, in a letter addressed to all North Carolina newspapers as the opening gun of a belated battle against diversion of highway funds.

Mr. Rawley's letter, in mimeographed form, charges flatly that both Governor J. M. Broughton and Lieutenant Governor Reg. Harris advocated repeal of the contingent diversion section of North Carolina's revenue law; and goes on to point out the fact that nothing whatever has been done in the matter of redeeming these campaign pledges.

"There, naturally, arises in the minds of many people the question of the value of such commitments if no effort is made to fulfill them," says Mr. Rawley.

His letter follows:
"During the democratic primary last spring all candidates for governor declared themselves against any diversion of highway funds and in favor of the repeal of the present revenue act section which permits diversion under certain circumstances."

"The legislature has now been in session almost two months and no effort has been made to repeal this section. The revenue bill has been re-enacted containing the contingent diversion section. As this is written, the general appropriations bill is in the hands of a subcommittee and is estimated to be approximately $2,000,000 in excess of the revenues for the biennium. This deficit remains in spite of an increase in the estimate of revenue yield of almost $2,000,000 and means that the appropriations bill is now approximately $4,000,000 in excess of revenues."

"Attached are statements made by Governor Broughton and Lieutenant Governor Harris concerning the diversion of highway funds, made during their primary campaign last year. There, naturally, arises in the minds of many people the question of the value of such commitments if no effort is to be made to fulfill them."

Attached are these statements:
"Governor J. M. Broughton made the following statement in a radio address on Thursday night May 23, 1940:
"Our modern program of highway construction had its beginning 20 years ago. It has paid for itself many times. Business has improved, communities have developed, new industries have come, tourist traffic has now reached an annual total of more than 100 million dollars; gasoline consumption has increased from 50 million gallons a year to nearly 450 million gallons all of which has reflected itself in the progress and prosperity of our state. The primary roads must be maintained, improved and safeguarded; the major emphasis must be given to our program of farm and secondary roads. The importance of this program is such that no part of the highway fund should be diverted for any purpose. Experience during the last biennium has shown that the revenues from other sources are sufficient for general purposes without even the contingent provisions of the Revenue act known as subsection b. Section 406, which permits diversion under certain circumstances. Accordingly, this section of the law should be repealed to the end that the people of the state may be assured there will be no diversion of our highway funds under any circumstances."

"Lieutenant Governor R. L. Harris made the following statement in a letter dated April 15, 1940: 'It has always been my belief that funds derived from gasoline and license taxes should be used exclusively for highway purposes, and I favor repeal of Subsection b. Section 406 of the 1939 revenue act. Fortunately, it has not been necessary to transfer any funds under the provisions of this section and with this in mind there is no need for its continuance. If I am chosen Lieutenant Governor I will still feel the same way about it.'"

Nazi War Machine Heads Southward

Steadily pushing southward to ward the Greek and Turkish frontiers, these motorized units of the German war machine roll across a bridge over the Danube leading from Rumania into Bulgaria. The Germans were reported to be massing in ever-increasing numbers along the Grecian border with steady streams of tanks, armored cars and heavy artillery rolling in to Bulgaria from Rumania.

Judge Demonstrates Art Of Peaceful Picketing

By LYNN NISBET.
Raleigh, March 6.—Peaceful picketing as a device of dissatisfied laborers on strike has been judicially determined as proper and appropriate. Most of the labor picketers could learn something by observing activities of North Carolina's Superior court judges around Raleigh during the past few days. Their honors have given a practical demonstration of just how picketing should be conducted.

The judges are interested—admittedly and vitally—in action of the joint appropriations committee, on their request for a boost of a thousand dollars a year in judges' expense accounts. The expense item is now $1,550, and the judges say they just can't get along on that. A bill was offered raising the amount to $2,550. That was later amended to make the total $1,800, but even the lower figure didn't get by the economy bloc. The judges now want the whole thing reopened and they are making a concerted drive on members of the committee to get reconsideration and a favorable report on the thousand dollar raise.

Upwards of half the judges were here for the first hearing, and within the past day or two perhaps half of them have been here again, although not all at one time.

One legislator, who isn't a lawyer and who hopes he won't have to stand before a judge any time, re-

SIGNS EVIDENT OF LAST DAYS

Many Indications Assembly Is Nearing Its Close

Raleigh, March 7.—Signs of "last days" are multiplying each day in the House — and the Senate, too, for that matter.

Appointment of a calendar committee, to which all bills hereafter introduced will be referred; a warning marks that the judges are making a bad showing for their other plea that they are overworked and need some more judges named. If they can leave their respective courts to come to Raleigh to lobby for a pay increase, the dockets out in the counties must not be in such congested condition after all, reasons this gentleman.

ing that Saturday's session ought to be a regular one — and not the perfunctory "for local bills only" type that have been held so far this session; and a flood of local bills — all these are sure signs of approaching adjournment.

Speaker Mull very forcibly pointed out to the House that there ought to be no more skipping of labor over the weekends. Many members come from the far reaches of the State, he said. They have been having to stay in Raleigh over every week-end to the present time without having anything to do. Now it is only fair to these members from far places that those living nearer should give up some of their long week-end holidays and stick around to attend to business.

The most significant indication of early quitting comes in the local bill situation, however.

No less than 170 bills — practically all of them "purely local" — were introduced at the first four sessions this week. Last week and this together brought no less than 318.

In all previous sessions until then there were put in 442 measures. Suspension of the rules is being asked on little or no provocation and the "Introduction of Bills" items is taking up so much time daily that, together with the Public-Local "calendar" there isn't much left for public matters.

ALONG CAME CINDERELLA

By VIVIEN GREY

YESTERDAY: Lovely Daye came from the tenement district it was true. But her startling beauty and her complete honesty made her fit into the luxurious background Roger Cosgrave had given her when he married her. Roger loves her, but he cannot help wishing that she was less friendly with his dog handler, Win Ramsey, and more friendly with gentle Emily Perry, the girl he jilted to marry Lovely.

Chapter 27

It was the next Friday night that Emily said to Roger: "Let's do something giddy, darling. I'm in a mood!" Emily's coming up tonight caught Roger by surprise. He was something quiet with her. She's so unhappy. "Emily! Emily! You and your Emily!" Lightly, without rancor, "The old bent pretzel talk again!" "You don't sound like the mother of my daughter," jokingly. Lovely looked at him intently for a moment. "You know I could have liked Emily if things had been different," she said thoughtfully. "Now I think I'm beginning to hate her." "Don't, Emily's a grand girl." Something about Roger's comment fired Lovely. "I don't see why she has to mourn around all the time! Goodness, don't we all lose our parents? Look when I lost mine!" "Let's not start that again, darling." His attitude angered her more. "You're awfully careful what any one says about Emily." And though the quarrel went no further there was a vague cloud over her happiness. After Emily arrived Winthrop Ramsey came in with another "dog man" and a girl. Ramsey had been drinking or he never would have asked Roger and Lovely to go out with him and his friends. "Thanks, but I'd rather not go tonight, Ramsey," Roger said pleasantly but with an air of dismissal. And at the same time Lovely's voice said: "Well! Oh, I'd love it. Let's get going." Ramsey looked from one to the other. "Never mind the double talk. Let's sit some meaning out of this," he said. "Coming?" "No, thanks, Ramsey," from Roger. "Who said that?" Lovely laughed. "Speak for yourself, sweetie pie! A house was made to go out of. Come on kids! My feet itch." "Lovely, not tonight. Let's—" Roger started to say. "You're still in that bent pretzel mood, old carpet slippers. Let's have fun! I can think of things that need doing, and places too!" "But we're—I'm not going, Lovely," Roger said.

Lovely looked at him intently for an instant. Then, "Oh, you're not? Well, I am." She ignored Emily, who stood looking from one to the other. And Emily was tearing a cigarette to bits in her hands.

"You should have gone," she said with a disturbed note in her voice when they were alone. "Why? I've never gone with Ramsey on his jaunts and I don't see why I should begin now. That's the one thing I've never liked about him. He's a crackjack with dogs, but he drinks too much."

"But Lovely out with him and you here—you should be with her," Emily said. "That's something I can't help. I couldn't have forced Lovely to stay here."

The older Cosgraves went out. Roger and Emily played Chinese checkers for a while, and when they tired of that they listened to the radio. Finally they sat talking in little disconnected bits. Around one Marcia and Kar looked in on the two for a moment.

Dangerous Kiss "Lovely gone to bed?" Marcia asked, for they often stayed the night. "No," Roger said and then after a slight pause: "She's out. With friends." The last reluctantly. At half past one Emily said, "I'd better go up now."

"Please don't," Roger begged suddenly. Wait up with me if you can—I have such a strange premonition. Emily shivered, though the house was warm and there was still a blaze on the hearth. "That's just it. So have I," she said quietly. It was exactly two when they finally said goodnight.

"We might as well turn in," Roger said. "No use keeping you up any longer." Ghosts seemed to walk in the words. Emily knew he would not sleep and that neither would she. "Oh, Roger, I'm so sorry!" Her voice was unsteady.

He took her hand and held it against his cheek. "Don't be. It's nothing you could help." "That's just it. Perhaps I could. If I just knew what to do. Somewhere we've blundered." The wave of his loneliness swept him toward Emily. His arms were around her and she was clinging to him and crying in those little broken bits so typical of her. He kissed her.

Roger released Emily suddenly with a sense of having been observed. He looked around. "Lovely!" he spoke sharply. He waited, but no answer came and his heart tightened again. He knew in that moment how tense he had been with fear for her. "I could have sworn she was here," he said to Emily. "I know. I thought I felt her too."

To Appear

Pictured above is Walter Vassar of the Voice Department of Greensboro College, and director of the Greensboro College Glee Club which will appear in concert at Jarvis Memorial Methodist church Tuesday March 11th at 8 p. m.

Mr. Vassar is a graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, and has taught for two years in the School of Music, DePauw University. In the Curtis Institute of Music he studied under the late Horatio Connell, regarded as one of the outstanding teachers of German Leier and Oratorio in America.

He has directed choirs in Ft. Worth, Philadelphia and other places in Pennsylvania and Indiana. In addition his experience includes two years with the Philadelphia Grand Opera, a summer with the Chautauqua Association, and appearances with the Philadelphia Orchestra under the direction of Leopold Stokowski. He has also directed the choir at the Methodist Assembly at Lake Junaluska, North Carolina, for the past three summers.

During the six years that Mr. Vassar has been in Greensboro, he has won wide acclaim throughout this and neighboring states not only as a director but as a soloist. A baritone of excellent high range, he has done extensive work in opera and oratorio.

His like that. Roger went to his room but not to sleep. He had a vague awareness of Lovely, as if she were near, yet he was sure she had not come in.

It was about half past two when the telephone rang. "There's been an accident," a voice said over the wire. "Mrs. Roger Cosgrave—the voice seemed to fade."

"What is it? What are you saying?" Roger demanded excitedly. This, he knew suddenly, was the thing he had always feared. Lovely, his beautiful Lovely in an accident. "Where is it? Where? Roger kept demanding. The other voice was speaking again:

"At the junction of Highway Nine and Furnace Dock Road." The voice said. "They're there now. If you hurry—"

Roger waited to hear no more. He pulled trousers on over his pajamas and snatched up an overcoat as he can. Light snow was falling as he backed his car out of the garage. The road was slippery and the night had turned bitterly cold.

He drove as fast as he dared. So near, he kept thinking. They were so near. Probably bringing Lovely home. He knew in that moment all she meant to him.

Dread Scene At the corner of the Albany Post Road his lights picked out the little group ahead. Roger stopped jumped out of his car and joined the others standing in the queer strained silence. He could see how the station wagon, probably in an attempt to stop for traffic in the Post Road, had swung around and rolled over. The light wood body was crushed to kindling.

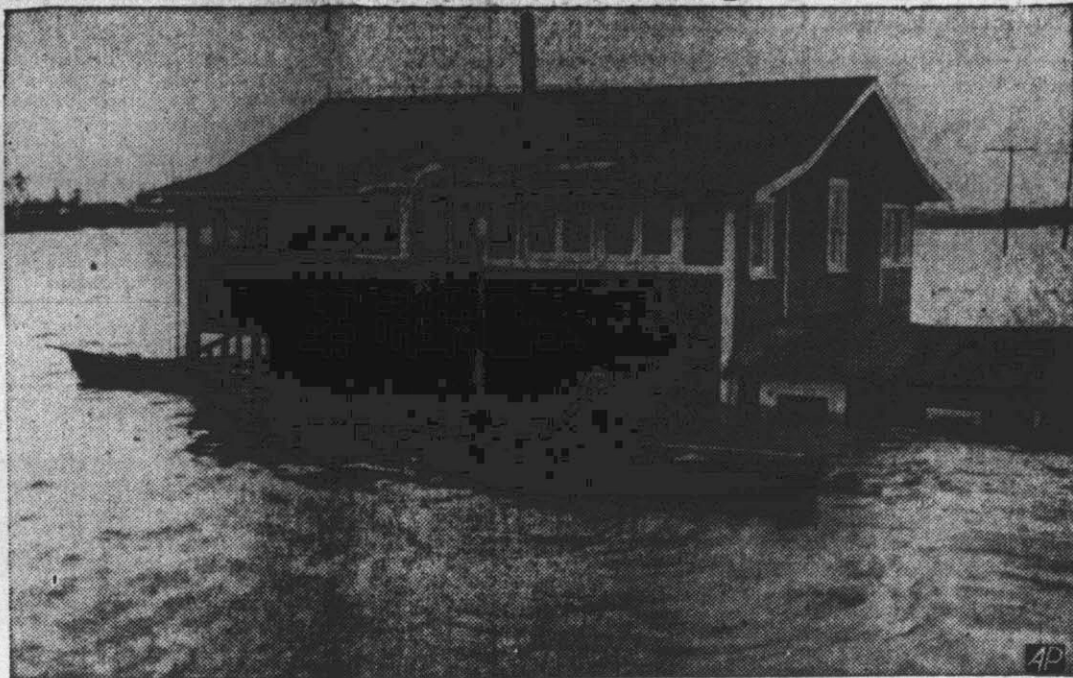

"Where is she?" Roger's words were ragged with strain. A man stepped back. Roger saw it then. A figure stretched motionless on the pavement. So strangely motionless. A man handed him something.

"Her purse. Your wife's," he said in a subdued voice. It was Lovely's frivolous little purse. The scent she used still clung to it. Roger stared at it. Lovely's silly little purse there in his hand. And Lovely gone. Lost to him forever. But there was something queer about it. He couldn't make himself believe that still thing there in the road was Lovely. He started slightly, and knew what he had missed. There was no gleam from her beautiful golden hair. Roger bent over the motionless figure the little group stared in fascination.

Roger straightened finally and spoke. "This isn't my wife," he said in a voice that was haunted. An officer looked at him pityingly. He thought—the man's cracked and no wonder, finding his wife like this.

"It isn't my wife!" Roger insisted. Only then he became aware of the other figure beside the woman's and as motionless.

Lucas To Speak At Jackson Day Fete

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, March 6.—Jackson Day dinners at the North Carolina celebration here March 29 will be addressed by an ardent advocate of the lend-lease bill as principal speaker of the occasion. State Senator Joe Blythe, chairman of the affair, has announced that United States Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois will make the main talk.

It is considered likely that he will have much to say about that very important measure in his talk. His views are substantially in accord with those of the senior North Carolina Senator Josiah W. Bailey and diametrically opposite to those of the junior member from North Carolina, Robert R. Reynolds.

Senator Lucas is 49 years old, a World War veteran, a graduate of Illinois Wesleyan University, and a past commander of the Illinois Department of the American Legion. At the 1927 American Legion convention in Paris, France, he was unanimously chosen as national judge advocate.

Chairman Blythe says he expects a capacity crowd for the dinner and points out that invitation will be extended as fast as multiples of $25 donations are received. "It will be a first come, first served dinner," he said.

Last year approximately 400 persons attended and at least that many are expected this year. The Jackson Day dinner chairman praised the Young Democratic clubs of the state for the fine cooperation they are giving.

It came to him then. He remembered. They were the couple with Ramsey when Lovely started out with them. He recognized the woman's funny little high crowned, narrow brimmed hat that she had worn on the front of her head down over her eyes. It lay there beside her in the slush and Roger stared at it fascinated.

"Where is she?" he demanded suddenly, recovering slightly from the shock. "Where is Mrs. Cosgrave?"

"Was there another woman?" someone asked. "I only saw a man taken to the hospital," another volunteered.

"Where is she?" Roger demanded distractedly. They started looking around. An officer started flashing a light back and forth over the ground nearby.

"You say that isn't Mrs. Cosgrave?" the officer asked. "Are you sure?" "It isn't. I'm sure. I'd know my own wife!" Roger said.

"But that is her purse?" "Yes, she was with them. She started the evening with them." "But she's not here now. And she wasn't taken to a hospital. Maybe she left them and went with someone else."

Someone went to search the turned over, battered wreck. There was no further trace of the glamorous beautiful Lovely. Roger stared into the darkness. Her golden hair would glow from it if she were anywhere about. If she's been thrown free and lay unconscious anywhere.

That feeling he'd had of her presence at the house. Had that meant anything? He shivered as if a deadly hand had been laid on his heart. Could spirit, departed from a body—but shuddering he turned from the thought. "You'd better go home," the officer said, patting Roger on the shoulder. "She's not here, but someone else may have picked her up. We'll make a search and report later."

Roger drove home slowly, and when he entered his room he knew Lovely was in no hospital. There was a note in her huge flamboyant scrawl.

Phantoms Meet Earthquakes In Tourney Finals Tonight

CLOSE BATTLE ANTICIPATED

Warren Leads Local Scorers to Victory Over Kinston

By C. E. ROWLETT
Hanging on a diminishing lead throughout the entire last half—Goldboro's Earthquakes barely nosed out the Tarboro Tigers 26-23, to meet the Greenville High Phantoms tonight in the final game of the tournament. The GHS Phantoms took an easy 22-13 victory over Kinston in the other semi-final contest. The final game is set for tonight at 8 o'clock in the high school gym.

Scoring Honors
Goldboro's Clyde King took top honors for the two semi-final games with 10 points. Greenville's Burney Warren and Tarboro's Bill Hatton took second high honors with seven each. Andy Smith of Goldboro and Russell Carter of Tarboro were next high with six each.

Defensive Honors
Although you have to score to win, those boys who attempt to hang on to those high scorers deserve a great deal of credit. Goldboro's Charlie Weathers gets our vote for the best brand of defensive ball last night. Weathers was credited with holding Hatton to two points for three quarters, but in the fourth period the law of averages gave Hatton five points. In an attempt to get better shots, Hatton left the game via the foul route. Weathers was also expelled late in the contest. Second honors on defense go to Kinston's Bruce Stallings and Billy Oglesby. Stallings was forever a threat to the Phantom team with his ball-stealing tactics. Oglesby won honors by holding Larry James, Greenville's high scorer, to four points.

Goldboro-Tarboro.
Feeling each other out before attempting anything drastic, Goldboro and Tarboro played a slow first quarter. Ed Bond of Tarboro took credit for scoring the first point when he made good on a free throw after being fouled by Goldboro's Rusty Nickens. The Goldboro boys stepped up and King sank one to put Goldboro in front 2-1, but Webb came back for Tarboro and made it 3-2 for his team. King scored again and Goldboro was out in front 4-3 at the quarter.

Going into the second quarter one point ahead the Earthquakes made good on shots by Heyward, Smith and Weathers for seven points, while holding Tarboro to a mere free throw by Bond. Smith accounted for four Goldboro points on field goals. Heyward and two Weathers ones. Goldboro easily out-played the Tarboro boys that period. Half-time score stood at 11-4.

Although their progress was not quite as evident as their last period spurt, Tarboro outscored Goldboro 8-6 in the period. Hatton, Edmundson, Webb and Carter made good on field goals for Tarboro, while King, for Goldboro, came back in his role of pulling the lead out of the fire to score on two action shots and Weathers accounted for two more. At the end of the period Goldboro still led, but the lead was only five points.

Going into the last half Tarboro made a valiant attempt to catch up. Carter made good on a free throw and then followed it up with a field goal, to pull up within two points, 17-15, but King evidently didn't like such a small margin and after Weathers made good on a free throw, he tossed a field goal and pulled his mates ahead 20-15. Carter again made good on a free toss but Weathers pulled back with an action shot and they were ahead 22-16. After making good on a free throw Hatton stole the ball and sunk a field goal, making it 22-19, and his team was only three behind, but Smith came back with a field goal to put his team ahead 24-19. Hatton again sank one from mid-court and it was 24-21. In attempting to keep Goldboro from scoring again Hatton fouled Weathers for the fourth time. He left the game with two minutes to play. Weathers made good on his free throw, changing the score 25-21, but Tarboro wasn't quite through and Bond sunk one to make it 25-23. With only a few minutes left, one of Tarboro's players fouled Goldboro's Culbertson and he made good on the toss. Final score was 26-23, with Goldboro being on the long end.

Greenville-Kinston
The first game of the semi-final contests was by far the better game. A total of 28 fouls were called on the two teams and 16 of these were on Greenville.

Hank Danning, New York Giants catcher who has been shifted to the outfield, has a try at his new berth in the training camp at Miami, Fla. Shortly before he took to the field, it was announced that Danning had ended his hold-out.

Kinston did the unexpected that first period and jumped into an 8-6 lead at the end of the quarter. Bruce Stallings broke the ice with 2, but Clark duplicated, and the score was tied. Byrd was fouled by a Greenville player and he made good on his shot to break the tie, but Warren sunk a hook shot and the Phantoms were back in front. From that time on it was tit-for-tat but Kinston came out on the big end. Spearman accounted for Greenville's other two points. Byrd, with two, and Whaley with three made up Kinston's points.

Starting the second period two points behind the GHS boys woke up and the result was a 15-10 lead at half time. Byrd and Stallings each made good on gratis shots for Kinston. James, with two field goals, led for Greenville. Biddle and Warren sunk a field goal apiece and Clark followed with a free throw. After the half-time rest period the game was at fever pitch, although the scoring tempo dropped to nothing. Paylor sank a field goal for Kinston and Whaley was good on a free throw, to end Kinston's scoring for the night. Greenville scored five points that period to lay the score at 20-13 going into the final quarter. Warren, J. Briley and Clark featured in this quarter.

The last half period was almost a joke as far as scoring was concerned. Greenville scored two points on free throws by Warren and Turner. Kinston went scoreless.

Snag Clark topped Greenville's ball-hawking by breaking up passes and stealing the ball several times. Often his bullet passes were good for scores.

Pitt Wins Praise For Better Yams

Raleigh March 6—Pitt county has made remarkable progress in improving the quality and marketing of sweet potatoes during the past five years. A. D. Stuart, State College seed specialist, said today. He recently returned from that county, where he inspected seed potatoes for certification by the N. C. Crop Improvement Association, of which he is secretary.

Stuart said that 1936 saw the first certified sweet potatoes grown in Pitt county by Marvin Taylor of Grifton. Now, certified sweet potatoes are being grown by Mr. Taylor; Blaney Sumrell of Ayden; S. E. Harrington, R. F. Hart, Levi Worthington, and Hubert Hart of Ayden; R. H. McLachlan of Winterville; J. J. Edwards of Stokes Town; Arthur Williams of Haddocks Cross

LOCAL OPTION BILL OFFERED

Proposal Would Allow Cities to Vote On Liquor

Reflector Bureau.
By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, March 7.—As a counter proposal to the bill now before the House committee on finance providing for a state referendum on the sale of alcoholic beverages, Senator Palmer of Cabarrus has offered a bill in the Senate permitting any town or city in the state of more than 15,000 population to vote on the question, independently of the rest of the county.

The bill was introduced by request, and Lieut. Gov. Harris referred it to the finance committee by request. Few members think the proposition has any chance of getting through, since the general opinion is that the liquor situation will not be tampered with; but there is a relatively powerful group who are prepared to press for its enactment if the proponents of a state referendum insist upon throwing the matter open to another election.

Now most of these difficulties have been removed, and the buyers in North Carolina, as well as on the Northern markets, find the Pitt county sweet potato attractive. The State College specialist gave R. R. Bennett, Pitt county farm agent, much of the credit for interesting the farmers of his county in improved methods of producing and marketing the horticultural crop. The county agent has helped the farmers to obtain good seed from breeding sources.

Under present laws any county in the state may vote on the question of establishing ABC stores under the general state law. The Palmer bill affords to towns the same right of a unit vote, and in the event of the electorate favoring stores they would come under the State ABC board just as the county systems now do.

It is almost unanimously conceded that a state referendum would result in ousting the ABC system, as well as sales of wine and beer. It is almost as universally believed that towns and cities will vote for the legal sale of liquor, the issue then boiling down simply to what size unit shall be adopted for the election. Passage of the Palmer bill would, in light of votes already held, assure legal liquor for Charlotte and Asheville. It is a virtual certainty that other large towns will also vote that way.

CITY BOARD IN BUSY SESSION

co-owner with J. C. Lanier of the residential development known as Rock Springs park, the board voted to have the development, with the exception of a small part, taken in to the city limits and a legislative bill providing for taking in other property will be withdrawn and a new measure embodying the Rock Springs park substituted.

A letter was read from Postmaster T. T. Hollingsworth stating that in order to increase the territory served by city carriers it would be necessary to secure an order from the Post Office Department. The letter stated that Congressman Bonner had been requested to investigate the matter and see if additional service can be secured for the city. The board requested the additional service following application of a number of citizens.

The board also authorized Mayor

B. B. Sugg to contact the two local telephone agencies to determine if all messages could not be delivered instead of part of them being telephoned at present.

The action in authorizing a bill to provide two aldermen for the fifth ward, taken by a poll of the members, was officially sanctioned at last night's meeting and it was announced a drafting of the bill already had been sent to Raleigh.

Mayor Sugg reported that the county commissioners had agreed to cooperate with the city in the development of the airport. The question of what to do with wood to be cut on the site was left with committees of the two boards, as was the question of what to do with the 13.3 tobacco acreage allotment on the tract.

The city building inspector was instructed to investigate a complaint that soot from the College View Cleaners had become a nuisance and the action may have started a campaign to be conducted throughout the city.

N. C. Brooks, local insurance agent, was given authority to sell insurance to city employees under the "salary reduction plan." It was explained that the plan would provide insurance at a cheaper rate to employees agreeing to permit payments to be deducted from their salary.

Joe B. Taft, colored citizen, was granted permission to sponsor a skating party on Pitt street between First and Second and it was agreed that the street would be roped off on the night of the party, date of which has not been set.

W. L. Allen was granted permission to erect a filling station on the northeast corner of Tenth and Evans street.

The question of erecting an appropriate monument to the late Mrs. Hattie C. Skinner for having provided a brick wall around a part of Cherry Hill cemetery was left with Cemetery Committee.

Plans were made for the city May primary election, with Mrs. J. C. Tyson having been named registrar for Precinct No. One, embracing Wards One and Two, citizens in which vote at the court house, and the naming of Mrs. W. W. Phelps registrar for Precinct No. Two, embracing Wards Four and Five, voting at the new Municipal building.

A mayor and one alderman from each ward, except the Fifth which will name two, will be chosen at the primary election.

The city officially placed its order for 1942 automobile license plates, to be delivered in November fearing the metal shortage may affect the price. The plates were purchased at nine and one-half cents each.

Fines for violation of city ordinances governing phrenologists and gypsies were increased to $25 for the former and $100 for the latter.

vested with all control of the public school system was set for special order Tuesday. It has passed the Senate.

The joint Committee on Manufacturing, Labor and Commerce apparently killed with an unfavorable report the Broughton-backed bill to eliminate exemptions in the present state maximum hours law.

Speaker Mull warned the House members that any roll call bills must be introduced by tomorrow if the legislature is to get them enacted this session under present plans, indicating he figured on adjournment March 14 or 15.

Rep. Hatch of Wake offered a measure to create a merit system council for four state agencies handling federal aid funds—the UCC health department, blind commission and public welfare board.

The Senate, with little opposition except from Senator O'Berry of Wayne, ordered ratified into law a bill to reapportion representation in the House of Representatives under the 1940 census. Five counties are affected and for the first time in the state's modern history four representatives are assigned a single county as Guilford and Mecklenburg each get four. Wayne county will lose a representative under the bill.

Rep. Bryant of Durham, House Finance chairman, announced that opponents of a liquor referendum would be heard Tuesday afternoon if they asked an audience. Drys favoring the measure will be heard Monday.

The Senate passed and ordered drafted into law House bill 540 to redesignate wards in Wilson and House bill 393 to name a mayor and commissioners for Bath.

France Has Can'ts In Its Dance Vichy, France—(AP)—Because France has many soldiers in prison camps and German troops in its richest areas, a state of national penance is generally observed. Consequently, when 150 young men and women were observed flocking to the state's modern history four representatives are assigned a single county as Guilford and Mecklenburg each get four. Wayne county will lose a representative under the bill.

The press disclosed the places were operated so that "young people might abandon themselves to the pleasure of the dance." Police descended, arrested all dancing "criminals," placed heavy fines against orchestra members, and confiscated all the music.

Death Rides The Cab In A Truck Collision

Wedge in the crushed cab is the body of Jack Morris Harley, 23, of Barnwell, S. C., one of three men who perished in a spectacular collision of two trucks on the Savannah river bridge near Savannah Ga. Harley's companion, L. C. Meanwhile traffic was impeded on the highway, one of the main tourist routes from the north to Florida.

HOEY WATCHES HOUSE RECORD

Spectator As Appropriations Bill Is Rushed Thru

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, March 7.—Former Governor Clyde R. Hoey, a bright red flower in his button-hole as usual, watched Thursday afternoon as the state's biggest appropriations bill went through the House like a greased streak of lightning in record-breaking time.

He must have marveled how it was done. Himself probably the most popular governor North Carolina has had in many decades, he was forced to use all his charm and diplomacy, coupled with even a show of forceful action, to beat off anti-diversion sentiment in 1939 and to wheedle the House into adopting, after long and tedious argument, a spending bill of smaller proportions and less potential controversy.

This correspondent, for one, cannot give the answer—but it is a fact that in less than half an hour late Thursday afternoon the appropriations bill was called up for action, explained by committee chairman John Kerr, Jr., and passed on two readings without even a murmured "No."

It calls for the spending in the next biennium of $95,479,506 and is frankly and openly turned into a balanced budget measure only by diversion of more than a million dollars of highway revenue.

Yet such arch foes of diversion as Clarence Stone of Rockingham and John Umstead of Orange, either voted "Aye" or sat mute—as there just wasn't a "No."

Mr. Kerr's explanation—which was clear, concise and complete, albeit brief—and a recitation by Julian Allsbrook of Halifax of his reasons for not introducing an amendment increasing funds for the Blind Commission constituted all the debate there was—there wasn't any more.

Truly, Mr. Hoey must have wondered.

Kerr told the House the original budget recommendations were $92,482,671 for the coming biennium, a sum $8,732,671 above authorized spending for the two years which will end this June 30.

The joint appropriations committee, he said, increased this amount by a total of $4,257,624, thereby raising total tentative spending to $96,740,294. Thereafter a subcommittee went to work on a whittling job when it became clear that something had to be cut out. This whittling shave $1,260,789; leaving $95,479,506 or some $1,150,000 more than the estimated revenue for the next two years of $94,329,387.

This deficit, he continued, will have to be made up by dipping into highway funds, if in fact there should develop a deficit. He hoped that a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court extending constitutional scope of the use tax

Clinic To Be Held By Mental Expert

On Monday and Tuesday there will be a mental hygiene clinical demonstration service directed by Dr. Richard F. Richie of the children's unit of the Division of Mental Hygiene. This clinic is given under the auspices of the Social Studies Department of the American Association of Women. Dr. Richie will be accompanied by Miss Mary Scoville, Psychologist.

The service will be offered to adults and children who have personality or behavior problems which are essentially an emotional reaction to various handicapping conditions. The clinic cases will include referrals from parents, schools and interested persons. Mental Hygiene consultation service is offered to any person who applies for this service.

Dr. R. F. Richie is a physician eligible to practice medicine in North Carolina and has had thorough training in child psychiatry. Miss Mary Scoville, a psychologist holding a graduate degree in clinical psychology, has had years of training and work in institutions for both abnormal and normal children and has been on the staff of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare since November 1938.

While in Greenville Dr. Richie will make a talk at the Sheppard Memorial library auditorium at 3:30 on Tuesday afternoon, March 11. This meeting is open to the public. There will be an informal discussion and an opportunity for questions. The Social Studies Department of Social Women's Club has sponsored a series of lectures on Mental Hygiene and this clinic is the practical demonstration of the values in this field.

Tribute Is Paid To Late J. R. Gullledge

At a meeting held yesterday the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College adopted the following resolution in recognition of the loss sustained by the college in the death of James P. Gullledge:

"We, the members of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College wish to express in some measure our appreciation of the life and personality of our late friend and colleague James R. Gullledge, for five years librarian of the college.

"Mr. Gullledge was quiet and unassuming, but diligent and competent in business. He sought no herald to proclaim his achievements. By nature sociable and friendly, he made enduring friendships with an enviable ease and grace. His sympathies and interests were as catholic and genuine as his moral integrity and loyalty to friends and duty were free from bigotry and taint of self-interest. In a word, he possessed the sovereign virtues of honesty, dependability and courage.

"More concretely, Mr. Gullledge was a trained librarian. He felt that the library is rightly termed the heart of the college. In his acquisitions he strove that the book of the hour might not eclipse too completely the book of all time. In his administrative policy he never forgot that a library is something more than a collection of books. That is to say, he tried to see beyond binding and printed page to the end-product in human character. He would not have wished—he could not have wished—more enduring monument than the thousands of books he helped to acquire during his able stewardship with us.

"By reason of these tokens it is the will of the committee that this testimony be made a permanent part of the record of our faculty."
