GREEKS HOLDING FAST AGAINST NAZI ASSAULTS

Bern Report Says Greeks Holding Foe

Advices Reaching Switzerland Capital Declare No Strategic Points Captured At End Of Second Day Of German Invasion; Dive-Bomber Raids Declared To Have Been Heaviest Blows

Bern, Switzerland, April 7.—(AP)—Advices reaching here tonight said that German forces had not captured any strategic points at the end of the second day of smashes on a 758-mile front in Greece and Yugoslavia.

The Nazi's heaviest blows apparently were their dive-bomber raids on cities, railway centers, airports and bridges, even while the Allies carried the expanded war to Italy on the Albanian front.

With tough Serb and Greek resistance reported all along the rugged mountain front, the German government told its people to expect no blitzkrieg as in Poland and France.

At unidentified places presumably, however, in mountainous districts along the Bulgarian frontier, Nazi troops were reported to have penetrated as much as 25 miles into Yugoslavia.

But the Yugoslav air force also was busy and was said to have raided long-established Nazi air and land bases in Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria. The only direct word from Yugoslavia, whose communications are disrupted, was that their artillery had opened a violent barrage on the Albanian frontier, apparently preparatory for a Yugoslav attack on the northern wing of Italy's army.

As far as could be learned the German drive was concentrated in five main centers along the front from the Aegean sea to Flume.

The Greeks declared they were holding all along the new Struma valley line except at one point where they lost a fort yesterday and the Yugoslav army appeared still to be falling back from the north to more defensible mountain positions.

Threatened Strike Averted At U. S. Steel Corporation

War In The Balkans Enters A New Phase

Adolf Hitler sent his army and air force against both Yugoslavia and Greece, and here were some of the new developments in the Balkan war: (1) Italians mined the international bridge at Fiume, closing the Italian-Yugoslav frontier. (2) German warplanes bombed Belgrade and Berlin announced that German troops had crossed the Yugoslav frontier in several places. The exact invasion points were not disclosed. (3) German and Italian planes bombed Salonika and Berlin admitted meeting stiff resistance in ground operations in the Struma River Valley, natural defense bastion for the main part of Greece. (4) Even as German troops marched against Yugoslavia, Soviet Russia announced conclusion of a friendship pact with Belgrade. (5) Turkish cabinet met to discuss situation after Yugoslav, Greek and British envoys conferred with Turkish Foreign Minister Surku Saracoglu.

COURT DIVIDED IN FOUR CASES

Lower Court Decision Upheld In Four-Four Votes

Washington, April 7.—(AP)—By rare, evenly-divided four to four votes, made possible by the existing vacancy on the tribunal, the Supreme court upheld today the decision of lower courts in four cases.

In one of the cases disposed of in this manner, the tribunal upheld the wife-murder conviction of Robert S. James, Los Angeles barber, of whose trial two live rattlesnakes were exhibited to the jury.

The court vacancy is due to the retirement last February 1 of Justice James McPherson. It has been predicted frequently on Capitol Hill that Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.) would be named to the high bench.

Along other actions today, the court upheld decisions dismissing litigation brought by the Justice Department in an effort to obtain additional light on its power to proceed against labor unions under the federal anti-trust laws.

The tribunal affirmed judgment against the Justice Department which had contended that it had the right to prosecute three suits charging labor organizations with violating the 1890 Sherman act prohibiting conspiracy in restraint of interstate commerce.

GOOD NEWS ON OTHER FRONTS

Allis-Chalmers Walkout Finally Settled; Peach Reached In Northern Coal Mines; Negotiators Turn to Ford Dispute

By The Associated Press

The threat of a work stoppage Tuesday night in the mills of the United States Steel Corporation passed today when an agreement was reached extending the current wage negotiations between the union and the management.

Meanwhile, Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corporation, announced that the company had granted employees a wage increase of 10 cents an hour effective April 1.

Weir said that detailed arrangements for the increase "are now being worked out" in all subsidiaries of the company. A spokesman for the company estimated that about 21,000 employees will be affected.

Federal labor agencies, heartened by these developments and a week-end which brought an agreement for settlement of the Allis-Chalmers strike in Milwaukee and a break in the soft coal mining tieup, turned with expressed optimism to the problem of calming labor strife in the Ford Motor Company.

The Allis-Chalmers walkout, which has blocked work on $45,000,000 worth of defense orders since January 22, was virtually settled by the Defense Mediation Board yesterday when management and CIO union officials signed an agreement which needs only union membership ratification to become effective.

The company announced it would reopen the plants to its 7,800 employees tomorrow. Union leaders said they would ask the members to ratify the agreement and go back to work the same day.

In New York, northern soft coal mine operators and the CIO United Mine workers made ready a new contract to replace one which expired last week. Southern operators who claim to produce 35 per cent of the nation's soft coal, said they would not sign. Principal union demands included wage increases and elimination of a north-south pay differential.

Hopital also were federal and state conciliators working to end a production tieup at Ford's vast River Rouge plant, whose operations are vital to $155,000,000 of defense orders.

PLEA IS MADE FOR UNITY BY ALL FACTIONS

Secretary Perkins Calls On Labor And Employer

Washington, April 7.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins expressed the view before the House Military Affairs Committee today that labor and employer had a responsibility to cooperate in avoiding delays and interruptions in defense production.

Appearing as the first witness in the committee's investigation of labor secretary said in a statement that there was a danger of "over-emphasizing as well as under-emphasizing" the labor situation in defense industries.

"We all realize," Miss Perkins said, "that there must be continuity of production in the defense program.

"Responsibility for stoppages of work does not fall solely upon labor or solely upon management. Where difficulty arises is when either or both parties fail to bargain in good faith.

"Lack of mutual confidence as between the particular employers and particular labor groups is usually at the back of failure to negotiate."

Miss Perkins expressed the view that cooperation between employer and employees would make possible an increase in production and efficiency in the arms industry and, at the same time, preserve and promote human welfare and good labor standards. The Labor Department conciliators and the new Defense Mediation Board, she said, could be effective in bringing about good labor relations by encouraging collective bargaining and the use of mediation where parties are unable to agree.

Nehemiah Garris Claimed By Death

EXPECT 3,100 TO VISIT ETC

Annual High School Day to be Observed Tomorrow

Sixteen committees are at work at the College preparing for the 3,100 visitors who have sent in acceptances to tomorrow's high school day, according to Dr. Carl Adams, chairman of the central committee. They cover everything from invitations to traffic and work exhibits to dancing.

"One of the big jobs of the day is feeding the crowd of guests, the student body, and the faculty at the barbecue luncheon on back campus which will be handled by Mrs. L. R. Livers, stewardess, Mrs. Rose Harrell and Mrs. Nell C. Speare, dietitians, and Dr. R. C. Haynes and his serving committee. Chief Williams, the barbecue chef, began at noon yesterday and will continue until noon tomorrow preparing the 30 pigs to furnish some 2,400 pounds of barbecue. The cooks have been at work in every spare moment since Saturday cutting 2,000 pounds of cabbage for 24 bushels of slaw. It will take 2,500 cakes of cornbread those in charge estimate, 90 boxes of cakes, a barrel of pickles, and over 200 gallons of punch.

The work exhibits committee under E. R. Browning has planned a wide variety of exhibits. Among those which will have special features are the commerce department with exhibits of office machines and work materials of various kinds; the English department with special displays in the English laboratory, the dramatics "Green Room" and a number of classrooms. The home economics department will display examples of work in clothing, food, and costume design and will have open all day the apartment and the regular practice house of the home management house. The science department is featuring the museum, animal room, photography rooms, and various laboratories. However, practically every department will have work on display; the administration building, the alumni room, the dining halls, the girls' dormitories, the infirmary, and the library will be open to visitors. RUSSIAN PACT PLEASES HULL

Secretary Says Treaty With Yugoslavs Encouraging

Washington, April 7.—(AP)—The friendship and non-aggression pact which Russia and Yugoslavia signed just before Germany's invasion of the Balkan nations was termed encouraging today by Secretary Hull.

Hull told his press conference at the same time that American envoys in the Balkans still were cut off from communication with the State Department.

The Secretary of State said that the Russian-Yugoslav agreement made clear that an increasing number of nations were becoming re-awake of the world nature of what he called a movement of conquest of people by force.

He declined to interpret the pact except to say that it apparently spoke for itself and that he considered it encouraging.

His assertion was the second favorable comment toward Russia by a high State Department official in recent weeks.

Turkey remained neutral, but the official Turkish radio declared Germany's reasons for the attack "do not satisfy anyone."

Soviet Russia, linked to Yugoslavia by a newly-signed treaty of friendship and non-aggression, likewise remained calm, but a Moscow newspaper commented that Yugoslavia's efforts to secure peace "could not help but arouse the sympathy of the Soviet Union."

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Monday, April 7, 1901

Bond election tomorrow. Snakes have come out of their winter quarters.

The Sunday fishers had shad to sell this morning. The registration books of the town which closed Saturday evening, show the following number of registered voters:

First Ward, 114; Second Ward, 38; Third Ward, 82; Fourth Ward, 123; Fifth Ward, 61. Total 418.

This shows a total of 418 registered voters in town. For a voter to stay away from the polls and not vote at all counts as a vote "against bonds," the same as if he had voted against the measure.

Card of Thanks. We wish to thank our many friends for their sympathy and kindness during our daughter, Margaret's illness.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. James.

Card of Thanks. We desire to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our many friends who were so nice and kind during the illness and death of our husband and father.

Mrs. J. E. Sutton and Family.

Board of Review Meets Tonight. A Board of Review for Boy Scouts will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Eighth Street Christian Church.

All Scouts desiring to advance in the second and first class ranks are requested to be present.

College Vesper Services. The Rev. Graham Eubanks, pastor of the Methodist Church of Aurora, brought the youth of East Carolina Teachers College a "message of hope and light" in the Sunday vespers last evening.

"In spite of world conditions, we should be able to discover a hope and light that will lead us to a brighter life," said Mr. Eubanks at the beginning of his talk.

He pointed out that the changes taking place in the world now are evidences of hope. One great change is the rediscovery of our dedication to our mission—the teachings of Jesus Christ. "We are again turning to Jesus."

He told the young people that it was their duty to dedicate their lives to the purposes of Jesus in order to make tomorrow greater and finer.

The speaker closed with the statement: "We must choose the hard way because we know it is the only way that we may know happiness, peace, joy and contentment."

Christian Science Service. "Unreality" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, April 6.

The golden text was from I Tim. 6:17, "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and they shall be my people. Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separated, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty." (II Cor. 6:16-18).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man's individuality is not material. This Science of being obtains not alone hereafter in what men call Paradise, but here and now; it is the great fact of being for time and eternity. What, then, is the material personality which suffers, sins, and dies? It is not man, the image and likeness of God, but man's counterfeit, the inverted likeness, the unlikeness, called sin, sickness, and death. The unreality of the claim that a mortal is the true image of God is illustrated by the opposite natures of spirit and matter. Mind and body, for one is intelligence while the other is non-intelligence."

Brownies Initiated. Brownies of Pack 5 were initiated Saturday afternoon in a specially planned ceremony at the Girl Scout little house. The initiation ceremony was held around the Brownies' own wishing well and toadstool. Several parents and council members were guests. The Brownies of Pack 7 were also present.

Each newly initiated Brownie was given a Brownie pin and Mrs. E. B. Allsbrook, pack leader, was given a rose.

Refreshments were served to the guests as they were seated in the yard. Brownies helped with the serving. Arrangements for the party were made by the Brownie Pack committee. Mrs. Marvin Sugg is chairman of this committee. She was assisted by all the mothers of the pack. Miss Florence Lanning, Girl Scout local director, was in charge of the initiation ceremony.

The following children were initiated and received their Brownie pins: Sara Patricia Simpson, Sue Mendelhall, Ann Sutton, Barbara White, Suggie Sugg, Carol Synder, Virginia Perkins, Lytle Batchelor, Betty Sue Harris, Ann Duke, Nancy Joe Smith, Kitty Cosby, Mary Ann Waldrop, Janice Waters, Ann Ray Waters, Eleanor Haynes and Barbara Jean Bullard.

Athenium Club.

The Athenium Book Club spent last Friday in Edenton on a tour of its historical places.

The club on arriving in Edenton were met at the hotel Joseph Hewes by Mayor Jack McMullen and a delegation of women appointed by him. The women were Mrs. Dorsey Pruden, Mrs. George Davis and Mrs. Penny McMullen.

One of the highlights of the day was the meeting of Mrs. Inglis Fletcher, author of "Raleigh's Eden," who is living in Edenton this spring. She joined the party and made the tour with the club, showing them the places in Edenton which were described in her book. In one of the rooms of the Cupola house, Mrs. Fletcher spoke to the club, explaining why she became interested in this section of Carolina. She discussed the criticisms which had been made of "Raleigh's Eden" and proved that most of them were not justified, though she said, "an author can prove anything and poetic license is allowed."

The famous Masonic room in the court house was visited and the chair from the Masonic lodge in Alexandria that George Washington had given the lodge in Edenton was seen in its glass enclosure.

At St. Paul's Church, Reverend Ashby, the rector, met the club and told them about the glorious history of that old church, and recounted many humorous episodes, told about some of its early members. The beautiful old communion silver, known as the Moseley silver from the name of its donor, and made by a company which employed Paul Revere as a silversmith, was exhibited.

The grounds of Hayes and Beverly Hall and the antique shop, dear to every woman's heart, were paid a visit.

A lovely luncheon was served and many nice courtesies were shown by the staff of Hotel Joseph Hewes. Mrs. L. P. Williams entertained the members at a cocktail hour late in the afternoon.

Club members who made the tour Friday were: Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mrs. Fry Wagner, Mrs. Knott Proctor, Mrs. Graham Flanagan, Mrs. John Winstead, Mrs. Lyman Ormond, Mrs. C. H. Edwards, Mrs. Walter Harrington, Mrs. W. A. Darden and Mrs. S. M. Crisp.

Varied Reading. Here are ten new books, completely dissimilar in subject and purport, similar in their appeal to discriminating readers, that have just been received at the Shepard Memorial Library. One of them is sure to suit your literary taste.

Among them are a fascinating mystery story that is a novel of great emotional intensity, a travel book for the arm-chair traveler, a light love story, a book about New York's most interesting hotel, a sophisticated novel, a book for the hobbyist, an authoritative guide to American furniture, a book of information concerning the Coast Guard, a commentary on the Constitution of the United States, and a book of selected prose by the Librarian of Congress. Short reviews of these books follow in order.

"Speak No Evil" by Mignon G. Eberhart—The events of this book take place in and about the villa on an estate at Montego Bay on the beautiful tropical island Jamaica. Suspicion immediately falls on her, but there are others in the tangled affairs of the Dakin household who figure in the solving of the mystery.

From aristocratic Westminster to the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street the author knows the city intimately, with all its association of the historic past. The fifty-five superb illustrations help to make this a most unusual book.

AMERICANA LEARN BY MAIL

By RAY PEACOCK
AP Feature Service Writer

HANK is a great one for learning things by mail. He must have tried everything by now, from learning how to play the piano in ten easy lessons to becoming a certified public accountant. He just can't resist dropping a penny postcard in the mail.

There's one thing about it, though. Hank certainly has turned out to be a well-rounded person. He can talk shop with anybody, no matter how many trade words they toss at him, and he knows from Lesson No. 3 in the Personality course when to keep still and listen. So you might call Hank a composite of all the people who ever put down a check-mark to indicate in which course they were interested.

Hank's trouble, if you want to call it such, was that to begin with he wanted to be a newspaperman, because one met so many interesting people. But his pa, who was a newspaperman, wanted to make something out of him. The upshot of it was that Hank, not caring any more what he did, went to work while still in his twenties as an advertising salesman.

He got the job in the first place by studying six simple lessons by mail, and was a credit to correspondence schools in general in spite of all the kidding he took about the campus and the school yells. Remember this one?

Pooh, pooh, Harvard! Pooh, pooh, Yale! We get our learning through the mail! Alma Mammy Correspondence School, Rah! Rah! Rah!

And they all laughed when Hank sat down at the piano, too, but he showed 'em, just like in the ads. He could play "Roses of Picardy" without his chart after only seven lessons and was in the midst of "Kitten On the Keys" when he got interested in a course on hotel management that took all his time.

Later, he was intrigued by courses which promised that he, too, could learn to write, and set out in spite of his pa to be a novelist. He took up typing by mail, to do the job up right, and still later sent away for a mechanical story plotter. Something may come of it yet.

The last time anybody saw Hank, he was thumbing eagerly through a magazine, half a dozen penny postcards at his elbow. And his wife was hollering at him, asking what the parley-voe she should do with his course on phonetic French. "Je nee say pah," Hank grinned. "Hangay-voe onto 'em for a while."

A TABLE CLOTH CAN SET A TEMPO OF A DINNER

The Calla lily cloth inspired the centerpiece

By MARGARET KERNODLE
AP Feature Service Writer

Your best cloth may be the very inspiration you have been seeking for that table setting when company comes.

It probably is a snowy white, a rich creamy tone or a pale pastel. Chances are it has a floral pattern. In most any cloth, there's plenty of color inspiration and suggestion for fresh flowers.

One of the smartest Easter table ideas this season uses the calla lily motif, suggested by the calla lilies in the Irish linen damask cloth. The arrangement is ideal for formal occasions which seem to call for stately flowers.

Centerpiece in this arrangement is a low bowl of short-stemmed calla lilies. The flowers usually come with long stems, but often the table is too small for long stems.

Besides, a short-stemmed centerpiece permits easy cross-table conversation.

Another low bowl of lilies goes well on the sideboard. That reputation of motif is not a new trick, but it is as effective in completing a home scene as in finishing an artist's painting.

Perhaps your linen closet has a cloth featuring the chrysanthemum, oldest of the linen patterns. That is often an easy flower to obtain. Other flower favorites in table cloths now are tulips, daffodils, roses and fern.

with the opportunity to wear picture hats and bustles, and though it was first produced in Manhattan some 14 years ago, and by the Lunts at that, it is one of the town's most pleasant entertainment pieces. It shows Saw's sardonic mischief apparently never changes.

Shaw has five fashionable London doctors come together, each a specialist in his own line. Though they are friends, each feels a poor, professional scorn for the profession of the other. It is a situation that provides many chuckles through the play's three hours, especially when one of the blood specialists loftily describes surgery as being "little more than manual labor."

But to this observer the best bit of acting is done by Bramwell Fletcher, who plays the tubercular painter. His portrayal of this role is well-nigh perfect.

Next week Artie Auerback will ask the New York News, where he is "employed," for a year's leave. Artie used to be a photographer on the News, but seven years ago he obtained a short leave to try his hand on the stage. He never went back. But every year, for the last seven years he gravely asks the News to extend his "leave" another year, and the News gravely complies.

Harry Bridges, west coast labor leader who is being given a hearing at San Francisco in the government's effort to deport him, found something funny to laugh about in the court room just before the hearing began. The attempt to deport the Australian-born defendant is based on charges that he is or has been a member of three subversive organizations, the Communist party, the Industrial Workers of the World, and the Marine Workers' Industrial Union.

What Do You Know About EASTER?

1. The word "Easter" had a Christian origin. True or false?
2. What is the rule for determining the date of Easter?

Man About Manhattan
By George Tinker

New York—Ken Delmar, the radio actor who is best known for his work on the Court of Missing Heirs programs, sold his Connecticut home home recently to a young married couple and received in down payment a check for $500.

The couple was to move in at once but when three weeks had passed and the new owners had not taken possession Delmar began to make inquiries. He tried first to ascertain their whereabouts, then the whereabouts of the girl's mother but with no success.

Next day he read in the papers that Jan Valtin, author of the autobiography now sweeping the country, "Out of the Night," was a man named Richard Krebs. Krebs was the man who had bought Delmar's house. But the publicity had driven him into hiding, and today he and his wife are still in a hide-away apartment in New York. His reluctance to move into his new home is alleged to be based on (1) fear of possible deportation proceedings, and (2) revenge motives by agents of foreign powers.

The newest trend in publishing circles is toward illustrated books such as were so popular 20 years ago. This is especially true in the case of historical novels and biographies. A man who has had a great deal to do with this is Lieutenant Colonel John W. Thomason, Jr., who is an artist as well as an author of ability. Thomason illustrates his own books, his latest being "Lone Star Preacher," an extraordinary fascinating collection of short stories dealing with the Civil War. His drawings are authentic colored by a knowledge of those times such as a few living men possess.

Katharine Cornell, who has been called "The theater's most accomplished sorceress," and George B. Shaw, who has been called everything imaginable, make a good couple when they get together on Broadway, as they are now with Miss Cornell's production of Shaw's

GAIN SHOWN IN N. C. BUILDING

Figures Boosted By Federally Backed Projects

Reflector Bureau By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, April 7 — Even though North Carolina's tremendous 170.3 per cent increase in residential building permits for February was due primarily to one huge federally backed housing project in High Point, the statistics for that month show that housing for 751 families will be provided by the structures authorized to be built.

Thus the Labor department's figures show that the building boom in the state — particularly with respect to residential construction — is still in progress. The February figures, in fact reached the highest total attained for any month in years — certainly the highest in either 1939, 1940 or 1941 to date.

Permits were issued for construction of 388 residential buildings, to cost a total of $2,076,393 — with High Point's big project accounting for $1,289,533 of the total.

But even counting out the High Point permits entirely, there still remained $706,770 in residential construction — a figure up some $20,000 over the grand total for February, 1940, when residential permits totalled 263 buildings and $767,444; and was even further up on January, 1941's totals of 220 buildings and $970,600.

A somewhat unusual feature of the report is to be found in the fact that neither Fayetteville nor Wilmington, cities nearest the big defense construction projects, showed any marked upward trend in residential building. It is evident that housing accommodations in these cities are already taxed to the utmost, but February building permits in the Cumberland capital for February, 1941, actually will provide for fewer families than building of the same month last year, by 27 to 33, while in Wilmington only 11 families in all will be provided for by residential construction authorized this February.

In permits for one and two-family dwellings, classified by the Labor department as "Private Construction," Charlotte had a wide lead over the other North Carolina cities, with permits for construction of 70 buildings (69 of them one-family affairs) to cost $223,965.

The 333 buildings, residential and non-residential for which permits were issued in February were divided as follows:
Residential: 1-family dwelling, 263 to cost $776,895; 2-family dwelling, 11 to cost $28,825; multi-family dwellings, 114 to cost $51,270,583.

Non-residential buildings: Amusement and recreation places, 4 to cost $82,055; churches, 4 to cost $185,772; factories, bakeries, ice plants, laundries and other workshops, 8 to cost $30,550; public garages, 1 to cost $35,000; private garages (when separate from dwelling) 27 to cost $4,250; gasoline and service stations, 5 to cost $16,700; office buildings, including banks, 3 to cost $2,400; public buildings, 1 to cost $40,000; sheds, poultry houses, contractors' temporary offices, etc., 7 to cost $910; stables and barns, 1 to cost $115; stores and other mercantile buildings, 15 to cost $115,250; all other non-residential, 2 to cost $18,440.

Additional alterations and repairs: Housekeeping dwellings, 129 to cost $41,739; non-housekeeping dwellings, 8 to cost $6,940; non-residential buildings, 58 to cost $157,027.

RAINS REDUCE FOREST FIRES

Hazards Materially Decreased by General Rains

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, April 7 — Forest fire hazards have been materially reduced during the past week as a result of general rains throughout the eastern part of the state, so that the fire-fighting forces are breathing somewhat easier than for the past two months, according to Assistant State Forester W. C. McCormick, in charge of forest fire control for the Department of Conservation and Development. Recent heavy rains in the mountains have also greatly reduced the forest fire danger in the western part of the state, McCormick said.

"We are hoping that the present breathing spell will last until the leaves come out on the trees and some green undergrowth gets started," McCormick said. "But if we continue to have the high winds we had during February and March, we will continue to have plenty of forest fires, since these winds dry out the forests very rapidly. During both February and March we often had serious fires within 24 hours after a rain, due to the high winds. This was one of the reasons we had 603 fires in February that burned 59,959 acres of forests, with an average of 99.4 acres per fire, while in February, 1940, a total of 506 fires burned only 24,925 acres, or less than half as much area as this year, with an average of only 49.3 acres per fire. We do not have our complete figures for March yet, but we know that there were lots of fires and that the acreage burned was high, due to the excessive dryness of the forests and to the high winds.

Most of the swampy areas in the east now have water in them again and most of the large forest areas have been pretty well soaked by recent rains, so that the outlook for a sharp reduction in the number and extent of forest fires in April has greatly improved, McCormick concluded.
