Southern Railway Shopmen Extend Work Week; Special Commission Named In Auto Tieup

By The Associated Press
The National Defense Mediation Board took command of efforts to settle the soft coal tieup.

Secretary Perkins certified the 24-day-old wage dispute to the board after southern operators withdrew from conferences with CIO-United Mine Workers in New York last night. The southern producers declared the negotiations were "hopelessly deadlocked."

Other important labor developments included:

Ten thousand Southern Railway shopmen were reported by the Knoxville Journal to have voted to extend their work week from 40 to 48 hours, at the present wage scale to "fill the gap in ranks of skilled labor caused by the national defense program."

Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner of Michigan named a special commission to mediate a contract dispute between the CIO-United Automobile Workers and General Motors Corporation.

Cudahy, Swift and Wilson packing companies announced eight per cent wage increases for more than 31,000 production and maintenance workers in Chicago.

Bethel Exercises Open Friday Night

The commencement exercises of the Bethel high school will begin on Friday night, April 25, at 8 o'clock when the seniors will present "Aunt Susie Shoots The Works," a comedy in three acts.

Sunday, April 27, at 11 a. m. Rev. Oscar Creech, pastor of the Aho-kie Baptist church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon.

On Friday, May 2, at 8 p. m., Dr. Walter Patton, president of Louisville college, will deliver the commencement address and diplomas will be awarded to the following seniors: Athleen Anderson, Mary Ayers, Frances Bailey, Mary Frances Barnhill, Iris James, Jeanie James, Ruby Martin, Frances McLawhorn, Myrtle Morris, Jessie Mae Manning, Edna Roberson, Verne Staton, Susy Whitley, Margaret Whitchard, Lillian Warren, Hassel Allen, Don Carson, Jr., Royal Carson, Jr., Hubert Dixon, Merrimond Mizelle, Van Taylor, Jr., and Rudolph Whitehurst.

Royal Carson, Jr., is the valedictorian of the class and Van Taylor, Jr. is salutatorian.

Illness Fatal To Mrs. Ida M. Boyd

Mrs. Ida Moore Boyd died Wednesday afternoon at the home of D. J. Spain at Hudson's Crossroads, following a year's illness.

Mrs. Boyd was born in Kingston, the daughter of W. J. and the late Annie Moore. She was a member of the Free Will Baptist Church of New Bern.

Mrs. Boyd was first married to T. B. Cerney and of this marriage two sons, Albert Cerney of Moncks Corner, S. C., and James A. Cerney of San Antonio, Texas, survive. She was later married to Wess Boyd, and one son, Percy Boyd of Pink Hill, survives. Also surviving are two sisters: Mrs. T. L. Huggins of Wilmington, and Mrs. Emma M. Carrington of Kingston; one brother, Lonnie Moore of Kingston; and her father, W. J. Moore of Dudley's Crossroads.

The body will remain at Andrews-Stewart mortuary pending the arrival of her son from Texas.

Officers Elected By Future Farmers Club

Ray Brooks Sumnerel has been elected president of the Ayden chapter of the Future Farmers of America and will serve during the 1941-42 school year.

Other officers named were Richard Cannon, vice president; Charles McLawhorn, secretary; Mr. Peterson, advisor; Linwood Smith, treasurer; and Howard McLawhorn, reporter.

About 30 members of the chapter are planning to attend the White Lake camp in August.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Pearl Edmondson of Bethel; one son, J. I. Taylor of Tarboro, RFD; one brother, R. I. Taylor, also of Tarboro, RFD; one sister, Mrs. R. J. Nelson of Robertsonville; and one grandson, Jimmy Taylor.

Liquor Still Found In Belvoir Township

Pitt county ABC officers early this morning located and destroyed a 100-gallon capacity steam liquor still in Belvoir township.

The plant appeared to have been operated as late as yesterday afternoon, according to the officers.

In addition to 1,500 gallons of mash, equipment destroyed included two 50-gallon wooden cookers, a 50-gallon doubler, a 50-gallon cooling barrel, a 50-gallon boiler drum and a spent mash trough.

Virginia Corporation Commission Advised By System That Local Passenger Trains, Including Several Operating in North Carolina, May Have To Be Discontinued Immediately

Richmond, April 24.—(AP)—The Virginia State Corporation Commission said today that the Southern Railway had notified it that 40 local passenger trains in the South might have to be suspended to conserve its diminishing coal supply.

The Commission immediately dispatched telegrams to Virginia's congressmen, calling attention to the "serious situation" resulting from the work stoppage in the soft coal mines.

The Southern Railway has advised us," the telegram said, "of the necessity of eliminating passenger service on two of its lines in this state and on various other lines throughout the south because of inability to get coal. Unless this situation can be speedily remedied not only will passenger trains have to stop, but freight service will have to be curtailed with serious loss to the traveling and shipping public, as well as disruption of mail service."

The local passenger train service which the Southern has proposed be suspended to conserve present supply of coal on hand includes the following:

North Carolina—Trains 17 and 18 between Asheville and Murphy; 21 and 22 between Greensboro and Goldsboro; 15 and 16 between Greensboro and Raleigh; 13 and 14 between Raleigh and Greensboro; one and four between Charlotte and Winston-Salem; three and six between Greensboro and Winston-Salem; 35 and 36 between Rock Hill and Marion; and 11 and 12 between Salisbury and Knoxville.

NAZI VESSELS HIT BY BOMBS

Two Battleships Believed Put Out of Commission

London, April 24.—(AP)—The 26,000-ton German battleship Scharnhorst is "believed" to have been put out of commission "for some months" and her sister, the Gneisenau, also has been damaged in recent British raids on Brest, the Press Association, a British news agency, said today.

"There is reason to believe that during the intensive RAF raids at Brest both the Scharnhorst, which was in drydock, and the Gneisenau were hit by bombs," the Press Association said.

"The most recent of these raids was last night.

"Damage to the bow of the Scharnhorst is believed to have been such as to put her out of commission for some months.

"The Gneisenau is understood to have been hit amidship in an earlier raid.

"Such damage would account for the continued presence of both vessels at Brest, and no doubt those directing the bombing attacks against them have been kept informed of their condition as a result of daring aerial reconnaissance and photography."

The Air Ministry said direct hits also were scored on an important power station at Ibbenburen in northwest Germany in a daylight attack yesterday.

Pitt Farmers Begin Setting Out Tobacco

Reports of scattered instances of farmers setting out tobacco have reached here. Herman Tucker of Simpson being one of those having reached that stage. The Simpson farmer set out two acres yesterday.

Although no names were given, reports in the Black Jack section were referred to have started setting out their 1941 crop.

Clinic Attended By 41 Women in County

The regular monthly maternal and infant clinic held on the fourth Tuesday in the month was held Tuesday of this week in the Health department offices, with the attendance of 41 mothers.

This was an unusually large attendance for the Tuesday clinic.

Many of these patients were transported to and from the clinic by members of the Greenville Service League motor corps and without this service, these patients would not have been able to come to the clinic for medical advice.

The motor corps members for Tuesday were Mesdames W. S. Bost and Wallace Bourne.

REQUEST MADE BY SECRETARY FOR HUGE SUM

Morgenthau Asks $3,500,000,000 In New Taxes

CITES CHALLENGE FAC'D BY NATION

Treasury Head Asserts American People Willing To Pay Price For Living In Free Land

Washington, April 24.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau asked Congress today for $3,500,000,000 in new taxes, greater defense production, reduced non-defense spending, and safeguards against profiteering.

"We are faced with a greater challenge than any in the history of the republic," the treasury head told the House Ways and Means Committee. "It calls for a much greater response than has yet been made."

"The American people are prepared to make such a response and to make it willingly.

"How much is it worth to be a free man, living in a free land? The American people are willing to pay that price."

Morgenthau made no specific recommendation about how the new taxes should be raised in his formal statement. He said others would present the treasury's viewpoint.

These treasury proposals have been reported at the capitol to provide steep increases in income surtaxes which may force many persons to pay six times as much income tax as before and also to put either new or additional taxes on soft drinks, liquor, cigarettes, gasoline and many other commodities.

Terminating the proposed tax increase "unprecedented," Morgenthau said, "the new taxes will seem a small price to pay for the security of the nation to be insured by the defense program.

STATEMENT ON WAR EXPECTED

Churchill Hints At A Broadcast on Greek Campaign

London, April 24.—(AP)—For the second time in three days, Prime Minister Winston Churchill asked Parliament today to postpone a debate on the war, but hinted that he might make a broadcast on the Greek campaign in the meantime.

The prime minister volunteered the remark that he was aware the House expected a debate on the war, and said it would be held "at the earliest moment which enables the government to give a full and reasonable account of what has taken place."

He warned that "serious responsibility rests on the government in taking any course for making any statement which might prejudice the success of the British, Australian, New Zealand and Greek soldiers who at this time are in close contact with the enemy."

He gave the hint of a possible broadcast in replying to a member who cited the broadcast of Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia two days ago.

Churchill said, "I have been thinking whether I might not make some statement of a general character, but I have been very anxious to make sure whether, if I did so, I should be treating the House with any disrespect when I suggest that the debate on the matter should be postponed until a later occasion."

"If I could say anything helpful on the matter in the interval, not of course, going into the controversial aspect, I feel the House would perhaps give me the opportunity."

R. C. Deal Scheduled For Two Addresses

Prof. R. C. Deal, member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College, who is kept busy throughout the year making after-dinner addresses, is now facing his really busy season and is in great demand as commencement speaker.

Tonight he will make the commencement address at the Maury school and tomorrow night he will address the Sunbury High School graduates.

War Takes Bad Turn For Greece

Encircled (1) by Italian forces which descended from Albania and by German troops who came from the east to capture Ioannina, the Epirus army of Greece surrendered. About the same time, historic Thermopylae Pass (2) was penetrated by the Germans, pushing toward Athens. Meanwhile the Greek government (3) was removed from Athens to the island of Crete where King George said defense of the country would be continued. The German air force claimed to have sunk 99,000 tons of allied shipping April 22, chiefly transports in Grecian waters.

Germans Claim Control Over Railroads, Roads

Newspaper Says the Links Toward Athens Taken Over

Berlin, April 24.—(AP)—The German army is in full control of the railway and highways and is approaching Athens via Thebes, a German newspaper said today.

Thebes is about 35 miles northwest of Athens, as the crow flies.

The German high command, however, indicated only that its blitz forces had succeeded in "breaking into" defense positions held by a die-hard British rear guard in historic Thermopylae pass, 100 miles north of Athens.

DNE, official German news agency, said that in the drive through Thessaly to southern Greece, the Nazis captured several thousand British soldiers at one camp, along with "hundreds of tanks and trucks, munitions, provisions and several three-inch guns."

Unreported was the claim to a break through there, such as was reported yesterday by authorized Berlin sources.

(Authorized quarters yesterday said British attempts to hold the pass had been annihilated and the German panzer units were moving toward Athens.)

Fountain Program Closes April 28th

Fountain high school began its commencement program Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock when the high school dramatics class presented the high school play, "Romance in a Boarding House."

An operetta, "The Golden Whistle," will be presented by the primary and grammar grades Friday evening, April 25th at 8 o'clock.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Rev. L. A. Tilley, pastor of the Methodist church of Ayden. Services will be held in the high school auditorium Sunday evening, April 27, at 8 o'clock.

The senior exercises will be held on Monday evening, April 28, at 8 o'clock. The public is invited to attend all these functions. School will be dismissed on Tuesday, April 29.

Eure Secured For Finals At Grifton

Highlights of the Grifton high school commencement are scheduled for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, to be climaxed with a basket picnic on the grounds Tuesday.

The picnic will follow graduation exercises at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, at which Secretary of State Thad Eure will deliver the address to the graduating class.

A student-participation program Sunday evening at 6:30 will be held instead of the usual baccalaureate sermon.

On Monday morning at 11:30 o'clock presentation of perfect attendance and reading circle certificates, basketball letters and other special awards will be featured.

Protecting Main Force In Retreat

German Dive-Bombers Reported To Be Raining Death And Destruction On Troop - Packed Transports Evacuating British Forces From Southern Greece; Vital Straits Next Objectives

By The Associated Press
British expeditionary troops were reported still fighting desperately today in the Thermopylae sector, 100 miles north of Athens, in what was apparently a rear guard action to check Germany's blitzkrieg armies until the main body of the B. E. F. has embarked from southern Greece.

German aviators described scenes of the wildest confusion as Nazi Stuka dive-bombers rained death and destruction on troop-jammed British transports.

Berlin sources asserted that at least 160,000 tons of ships had already been sunk, and an official Greek communique acknowledged that assaults by waves of screaming Stukas had inflicted "considerable damage to ships and other installations."

While the fall of Athens and the end of the 12-day-old Battle of the Balkans appeared imminent, authoritative quarters in London insisted that BEF troops were clinging stubbornly to defense positions in the Thermopylae zone.

It was in this historic sector, the scene of bloody strife 2400 years ago, that the Germans claimed yesterday their panzer columns had smashed the British rear guard and plunged on toward Athens.

A British spokesman declared that reports the British flank had been turned were without basis. He said it was "very doubtful" too, that the Germans had seized the island of Lemnos, near the Turkish-controlled Dardanelles.

Her high command gave few details of the climactic struggle and made no claim to "major drive through the allies' last ditch" defenses.

"In a fight with British rear guards, we succeeded in breaking into Thermopylae's positions, which were situated in especially favorable terrain, the German communique said.

"Between Larisa and Limia, 30 British tanks were captured."

A Nazi spokesman yesterday had asserted that the Germans "annihilated" the British rear guard.

British Middle East headquarters in Cairo reported tersely that BEF troops "yesterday were in contact with the enemy, but no important engagement took place."

Even though reports in London said the pact of the motorized Nazi drive had slackened, Britain waited impatiently and in an increasingly critical mood for word for the Grecian finale and was prepared to hear the worst.

Already lost were all of northern Greece and Greece's northwestern army of about 250,000 men which had accepted unconditional surrender to the combined might of Germany and Italy.

The Bosphorus and Dardanelles vital straits between the Black and Mediterranean seas—loomed possible as the next Axis objectives.

Call 2nd Meeting Of Insurance Men

Continuing their efforts to organize a local life underwriters association, insurance men of this city will hold a second meeting at Respass' place tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock.

An interesting program has been arranged with Elbert Chambers of Asheville, president of the North Carolina Life Underwriters Association, scheduled to address the group and give the local insurance men valuable information relative to the perfecting of an organization.

Jake Hadley, chairman of the Membership Committee of the Greenville Life Underwriters Association, is urging all life insurance men in the city to be present at the meeting.

Workers Are Advised Await Official Call

Jacksonville, N. C., April 24.—(AP)—Jack L. Blythe, of Blythe Brothers Company, today urged workmen hoping for jobs on the $14,875,000,000 marine base to be built near here not to come here looking for work until a call is made for their services.

"We are not set up yet," Blythe said, "and we will not be able to employ people until we are."

When labor is needed, he added a call will be sent out.

Athenum Meets.
Spring with all its gaiety and merriment invaded the home of Mrs. W. A. Darden on Jarvis street Tuesday at noon; she being hostess to the Athenum Club and few friends. The living rooms were aglow with arrangements of spring flowers emphasizing the yellow tulip. Upon arrival the guests were served a delectable and colorful three-course luncheon which further emphasized the color note expressed in the spring flowers.

Immediately after lunch, Mrs. Darden introduced her guest speaker, Miss Katherine Holtzclaw, who charmingly told the story of Social Form. A man in ancient times walked on the outside of the street to protect his Lady Love from wild animals, he went up the steps first to be sure an enemy did not lurk on the dark winding stairway, he removed his helmet to rest his weary head as he entered his home, these and many others date back for centuries.

Etiquette is a growth. It is still changing and as proof the speaker quoted from Miss Leslie's book written only seventy-five years ago. "No lady walks alone at night, calls a gentleman by his first name nor mentions stomach. It is correct to say limb instead of leg, and is more polite to scream than to laugh when a person slips. Fainting gracefully is desirable."

Miss Holtzclaw called attention to changing now going on, Dutch dancing and girl break dances, giving proof to the fact that our society is not static but dynamic. Following the program, the president, Mrs. Knott Proctor, presided over a brief business session. The program committee, composed of Mesdames W. A. Darden, J. B. Cummings and Walter Harrington, gave its report and the club enthusiastically adopted it and expressed appreciation for such an interesting and well-planned program.

Commencement dates are next in order. The farmers can find some good work days now.

A colored man working out a fine on the street took leg bail today.

If all the buildings in contemplation are erected this is going to be a good year for Greenville.

Miss Annie Coffield, of near Hamilton arrived Wednesday evening to visit her sister, Mrs. W. R. Smith.

The lower house of the Illinois Legislature has passed a bill prohibiting the sale, giving way or bringing into the State cigarettes, cigarette paper or any substitute therefor. It looks like the "coffin tacks" must go after awhile.

for the coming year. Important announcements concerned the Services League dance for the Charles O'Hagan Laughinghouse Set, the Fine Arts Festival, Bundles for Britain and the Federal recreation program being sponsored by the city.

Guests of the club were: Mesdames J. H. Rose, Robert Humber, Earl Forbes, Ed Wilkinson, Tom Turnage, W. F. Young and Misses Katherine Holtzclaw and Mary Green.

'Wuthering Heights' With the choice of Randolph Carter's adaptation of "Wuthering Heights" the Chi Pi Players of East Carolina Teachers College have selected one of the best novels in the English language as their spring production, Friday and Saturday nights, May 16 and 17.

Emily Bronte, author of "Wuthering Heights," is one of England's few writers whose only novel is of highest literary value.

Born July 30, 1818, at Thornton, Yorkshire, Emily Jane Bronte, the daughter of Rev. Patrick Bronte, moved in early childhood to Haworth, a wild English moorland parish. Here, Emily lived with her sisters, Maria, Elizabeth, Charlotte and Anne, and her brother, Branwell.

Having lost their mother when Emily was three years old, the Bronte children were reared by their stern Aunt Branwell.

Little is known of Emily's early life except that she was a quiet, reserved child, quick-tempered and easily hurt.

"Poems by Currer, Ellis and Acton Bell" was published in 1846. It was Charlotte's persuasion that Emily consented to have her poetry published. Emily's poetry was said to be average or better and of a bordering excellent.

Emily, who was the tallest person in the house except her father, was said to be more like a boy than a girl. It was she of the Brontes who loved the moors best. There she played as a child, laughing, running free and wild.

Emily Bronte had dark curling hair and "beautiful, liquid, greville eyes."

Although it is disputed which of the Brontes was most talented it is generally conceded that Emily was pure genius.

"Wuthering Heights" was published in 1847, a year before she died. In less than three months after her brother Branwell's death, Emily Bronte died. Her pride and obstinacy kept her from yielding to pain and she fell dead in an effort to stand.

"Wuthering Heights" is thought to be a revelation of Emily Bronte's inmost thoughts and soul. It was as though she had never spoken; her true thoughts until they were spoken through her pen on the pages of "Wuthering Heights." One biographer has said that after revealing her soul as she did in the story of "Wuthering Heights" and "Heathcliff," Emily Bronte could not continue to live.

Being Shown In Basement Of Sheppard Library

Mrs. Mabel R. Randolph and her fifty N. Y. A. girls at the Home Practice Center in Greenville have a very creditable exhibit in the basement of Sheppard Memorial Library. This project is giving the girls an unusual opportunity to get experience in sewing, cooking, canning, gardening, etc. The aesthetic side of the home is not overlooked as rugs, bed spreads, table linen, curtains and draperies are made. Beauty and arrangement of the home are studied by the girls. The boys make the furniture and the girls learn how to arrange it in the room for which it is designed.

This exhibit is being held in connection with the Community Art Festival in Greenville, April 24-25. The exhibit will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. on Thursday, Friday and Monday. The Saturday hours are 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. It will be closed on Sunday.

The public is urged to go to the basement of the library and learn something about the advantages the N. Y. A. movement is offering the boys and girls of today.

Federation Plans Meetings. Just two more Sundays before the meeting of the State Federation of Women's Club in Winston-Salem May 7 and 8, with the Juniors on May 6. The election of a new Federation president, Mrs. Robinson having served two years will add interest to the meeting this year.

Just two more Sundays before the meeting of the State Federation of Women's Club in Winston-Salem May 7 and 8, with the Juniors on May 6. The election of a new Federation president, Mrs. Robinson having served two years will add interest to the meeting this year.

The speaker for the first evening will be Mrs. Lucy R. Milligan on "The Challenge to American Broadcasting." There will be another speaker whose name will be announced this week, an important person in the United States today.

There will be other headlines for the opening and closing sessions. Many leading industrialists in the state who have been cooperating in the study program and survey have accepted invitations to the banquet and the main speaker will be one of the leading industrialists in the United States.

Prior to the convention there will be a visit to the Tomlinson Furniture Company in High Point, on next Tuesday, April 29. The women are asked to meet at 2:30 at the main office and as many as possible will be taken through the plant. A tea will be held afterwards. This lovely furniture has an special appeal to women, and T. H. Tomlinson says that they are looking forward to the visit.

NYA Youth Moves Forward. Education for NYA youth moves forward in North Carolina. Three general types of training are provided NYA youth by the State Department of Public Instruction in the out of school educational program. Extension Training supplementary to work experience; Preparatory Training for occupational adjustment; and Instruction for civic and vocational intelligence.

In co-operation with the public school system full time instructors and part time instructors are provided in the 17 NYA resident centers of the state. Equipment, space and material are loaned by the NYA to the instructors in this co-operative educational program.

Therefore the full resources of the NYA and the public schools are combined for the educational advantages of out of school NYA youth. A minimum of 15 hours of instruction per week is provided each youth in a resident center.

Part-time instructors or full-time instructors are provided for NYA youth on non-resident projects. Five hours per week of instruction is the usual amount offered each youth. This training ranges from courses for illiterates to specialized vocational courses. State and local educational advisory committees advise in setting up courses of instruction for NYA youth.

On April 1, 1941, 7,649 NYA youth were enrolled in classes provided by the State Department of Public Instruction. As classes are voluntary and must be provided outside of regular hours of work, the number of youth in attendance on classes is very encouraging. Every effort is being made to give NYA youth the type of training of the most interest and value in order to fit youth for their place in North Carolina today and tomorrow.

Interesting Forum Planned. In keeping with the theme of the American Home Department for the year — Homes, Civilization's First Line of Defense, — the department chairman and division chairman are planning an interesting forum with discussions, questions and answers for their part of the State Convention in Winston-Salem. This program will be held on Friday afternoon, May 9, Mrs. R. S. Ferguson, of Taylorsville, chairman of the department will welcome all questions now so that they may be used as a basis for discussion.

The vice-chairman, Mrs. Jack James, Marion, and the division chairmen — Mrs. LeRoy Campbell, Mooresville, Family Relations; Mrs. J. P. For tennis — shorts and shirt of pique. If you make it, the cost, including buttons and thread, will be about $2.25.

For the coming year, important announcements concerned the Services League dance for the Charles O'Hagan Laughinghouse Set, the Fine Arts Festival, Bundles for Britain and the Federal recreation program being sponsored by the city.

Guests of the club were: Mesdames J. H. Rose, Robert Humber, Earl Forbes, Ed Wilkinson, Tom Turnage, W. F. Young and Misses Katherine Holtzclaw and Mary Green.

Having lost their mother when Emily was three years old, the Bronte children were reared by their stern Aunt Branwell.

Little is known of Emily's early life except that she was a quiet, reserved child, quick-tempered and easily hurt.

"Poems by Currer, Ellis and Acton Bell" was published in 1846. It was Charlotte's persuasion that Emily consented to have her poetry published. Emily's poetry was said to be average or better and of a bordering excellent.

Emily, who was the tallest person in the house except her father, was said to be more like a boy than a girl. It was she of the Brontes who loved the moors best. There she played as a child, laughing, running free and wild.

Emily Bronte had dark curling hair and "beautiful, liquid, greville eyes."

Although it is disputed which of the Brontes was most talented it is generally conceded that Emily was pure genius.

"Wuthering Heights" was published in 1847, a year before she died. In less than three months after her brother Branwell's death, Emily Bronte died. Her pride and obstinacy kept her from yielding to pain and she fell dead in an effort to stand.

"Wuthering Heights" is thought to be a revelation of Emily Bronte's inmost thoughts and soul. It was as though she had never spoken; her true thoughts until they were spoken through her pen on the pages of "Wuthering Heights." One biographer has said that after revealing her soul as she did in the story of "Wuthering Heights" and "Heathcliff," Emily Bronte could not continue to live.

Buffalo Water Is Put On Sale Here

Honeycutt's Market Appointed Distributor for Widely Used Mineral Water

The internationally-known waters of Buffalo Mineral Springs are being placed on sale in Greenville and in other towns and cities within a wide radius of the famous springs, located at Buffalo Springs, Va., near Clarksville.

The owners of Buffalo Mineral Springs today announced the appointment of Honeycutt's Market as distributors for the product in Greenville. The water is being trucked to Greenville in thousand gallon lots and is being delivered to consumers by Honeycutt's Market.

"We are proud of the opportunity of cooperating with the owners of Buffalo Mineral Springs in making this fine water available at reasonable prices," Mr. Honeycutt, proprietor of the store, stated today. "The local delivered price has been established at $1.00 per five gallons. The prevailing local price has been $1.00 per gallon and this has prohibited many from using the water who needed its fine qualities as an aid to health."

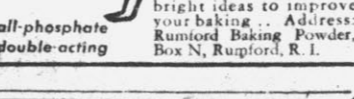

The history of Buffalo Mineral Springs dates back 200 years, but it was not until 1872 that Colonel Thomas F. Goode began bottling the water, at the insistence of those whose health had been benefited at the springs. Since that time it has been distributed over a wide area of the United States and even shipped to a number of foreign countries.

Buffalo water is classified by geologists as "virgin," and is light and delightful to the taste, purified in nature's laboratory as it seeps through rocks and stands of the earth from distances and depths unknown, emerging with a wealth of health-giving properties.

Some of the Happenings

YESTERDAY: Nothing seems to work out just as Eileen Lancaster planned it. Instead of marrying Jordan Estill, she took a job with a little radio station for the sake of the "contacts." And now Jordan has returned with an offer of concert bookings by a large organization—and marriage. It is what Eileen wanted, and still not what she wanted. And she has had to put Jordan off with a promise to give him an answer that night.

Chapter Nine Voice From Afar

She stared at him. "I always thought I was ambitious. I always thought I wanted to get places and have a career," she said slowly.

"Don't!"

"Naturally Jordan had no idea what she was talking about. 'I certainly always thought so,' he said, smiling. He was nearly sure he had won. And suddenly Eileen was nearly sure, too. She was on the edge of saying, 'Don't wait. I've been going around with an insane idea in my mind. I'm sane now, and will be married and I'll do concert work till the babies come.' She had opened her lips to say it when Jordan rose.

"All right," he said patiently—yet rather contentedly, also. "I'll see you at dinner, I suppose. Oh, I forgot to tell you, some of the crowd said they were driving over in time to dine and hear you sing tonight. They're all set up about you."

"Who?"

"Let's see, Lucille said. . . . She did not hear the rest. Lucille Anders, Lucille, in her quiet dogged way, was making hay with Jordan while the sun shone. And what a good marriage that would have been; Lucille with a little money to help carry the expenses, no ambitions beyond making Jordan happy and giving him a background that would advance him. What a pity that Jordan wanted something else and was going to get it.

She was glad to see the group of old friends at dinner. They treated her already, as if she was different; some of the girls were a little edgy; some were more affectionate than was normal. Lucille seemed just the same. The men were devoted. Her air toward Jordan was as unconsciously possessive as Jordan's had been to Eileen after the afternoon period.

They clustered to watch her when her songtime came. "Rooting for you, darling! Going to applaud to loud down the guest microphone that the Eastern network girls will hear it!" Lucille said gayly, thrusting her arm through Jordan's as Eileen went inside the studio.

"Swell!" Eileen said, as the door swung to behind her.

Mr. Weiland, making sure Eileen was in position and her accompanist ready, threw back his chest and spoke into his mike.

"And now, folks, we are going to have our accustomed pleasure. You are going to hear the fresh, girlish voice of Denver's pet songstress in a group of today's love songs. Our Eileen will sing a group of songs—songs that will make your heart lift and your feet want to move. A group of her college mates are right here, listening, tonight, so she's in top form. All right, Eileen, my dear."

He took her hand and led her a half inch further toward the microphone. She stood, head thrown back, her plain wide-skirted white graduation organdy billowing round her, her broad ribboned hat swung from her arm.

She knew she looked rather Gone-With-The-Wind, but the Weiland insisted on it, and it was becoming. She sang the songs he had given, one after another, and as he had said, there was more verve to it than usual tonight.

"Over the Rainbow"—"Love Is the Sweetest Thing"—a couple more.

Suddenly she gestured to her accompanist, pointed to a piece of music on the piano. She was going to go back in Denver in September. She was going to be a sane, hard-working concert singer who was a sane, hard-working married woman after hours. She was going to get places and help her husband get places and stop having crazy dreams. And so—and so she would sing goodbye to men.

She turned, flushed to the mike. She started straight ahead. Instead of the flat disk facing her she saw—after this she would shut it out—Martin's laughing face. The long gray eyes, gay and mocking, the fair hair tossed back, dusty from a hatless flight; the whole casual, living personality of the man who had caught her in arms and danced with her for a minute and gone a continent away.

She sang to it: "Someday I'll find you, Moonlight behind you, True to the dream I am dreaming."

Swan Song

She had never sung so well, and she knew it. As she finished, she heard, even through the glass, the applause of the audience grouped outside. Standing a little ahead of the others was Jordan, his face as intense and alight as hers had been. He came forward, hands out.

"Eileen, I knew—" he began. Fortunately the others were crowding around her also laughing, praising her, kissing her. There was an unusually large group of outsiders from other towns near by. It was late, or fifteen minutes before Jordan and Eileen could release themselves.

"Come over and get something to drink," he said to her abruptly. "Excuse me, Lucille—you get the others off Eileens neck, will you? I have a message for her I forgot to give till now."

He led her away. "I have to know—I have to see you alone before I go back—" he began. "Is your place empty?"

"Yes." She was suddenly very tired.

He slipped a possessive arm through hers. She lifted her skirts and went docilely with him. He gave a quick order to one of the Chinese waiters as they passed, for the soft drinks that were served on a veranda.

Unexpectedly, the veranda of Eileen's own place was empty. They sat down in the cool night wind. "Don't talk, you're tired," Jordan said gently. He opened the bottle for her—poured. She never knew what it was—and waited while she drank.

He bent forward. "All right, dear? All settled?"

Molly Flanagan ran up as she put her hand out to lay in Jordan's. "Hey, Eileen, I've been lookin' all over for you," she said. "Here's the biggest bunch of telegrams and phone calls so far ever. Shouldn't wonder if they liked you."

She dropped a handful of typed messages into Eileen's lap. She glanced keenly at the man and girl, and slid away with the Irish tact where lovers are concerned.

Eileen, till Molly should be out of sight, made a pretense of leaving the pile over. She knew what they would be like. Fan mail was usually pretty much the same.

"You're wonderful, Eileen. We are a club of girls who always listen in on you." "I like your songs. Won't you sing 'Rock Me to Sleep, Mother,' next time? I am an old lady of eighty. I once hoped to be a singer too."

"Hey, Eileen, stop going so heavy on the sweet stuff. You're tops with the hot, go to it. Al and Bill from Loma."

It still got her having those invisible people who liked her or even scolded her—she was their friend their pal. But tonight they were not very important compared to the man who sat impatient yet secure, his knee touching hers. She glanced at a final one before she lifted her eyes to say yes to Jordan.

"Good for you, Eileen, so you did make the mike! Someday I'll find you! All the luck! Martin!" She clutched it. She sprang up. She ran after Molly.

"Molly—Molly!"

Molly, sauntering back to the central building, stopped in surprise. "Molly! Where did this message signed 'Martin' come from?"

"From A Ship!"

Molly, in the eternal green slacks turned, hands in pockets. "Telegram?" she said. "Good grief, kid, there were twenty telegrams wired in."

"The one signed 'Martin'?" Eileen said impatiently, running over toward her Jordan stood, puzzled, on the porch, his hands full of the scattered papers.

"Oh, that one. I think that's a nut one. It's just off some ship. I suppose they picked us up by a freak wave."

Molly sauntered on. Fan messages were merely more things to write down, as far as she was concerned.

Eileen turned in the bright moonlight and came slowly back to where Jordan still stood, sorting the pile of filmy papers from scholastic habits. Eileen always remembered how tidy they were, how straight and thin and neat he was in his glasses. She knew what she was going to say, by the time she was close to him. There was nothing else that she could say.

"It's no use, Jordan," she said. "I'm sorry. I—maybe I haven't played fair with you. But I can't marry you. Not now. Not ever. I—have to go on with the radio."

He stared at her.

"But—I thought—"

"I know, I didn't mean to have you think. Oh, Jordan I know I'm crazy. I told you I was. . . . Jordan—you'll marry somebody else, somebody better for you than I am, somebody that won't want any of the crazy things I want."

"Are you engaged to somebody else?" he demanded. He gripped the papers tight, but he was taking it steadily.

"No. . . ."

"Then," Jordan said, "I shan't give up hope. As long as it's merely that you want to go on here, and are so wrapped up in all this nonsense of fan mail and microphone you'll come back to me. You love me, whether you know it or not. This publicity bug that gets so many people has you. But you have sense enough to get over it."

He kissed her, there in the moonlight. She let him, remorsefully. He was entirely wrong, or very nearly.

"Health preparedness depends on vitamins," say nutritionists who supervise the diets of our boys in camp. And your family need their vitamins, too.

One easy way to provide a day's quota of vitamin B₁ is to serve "MOR", the tasty new cured pork shoulder meat.

One can of MOR contains sufficient units of vitamin B₁ for the average daily requirements of 2 to 3 people. Serve MOR more often.

"MOR" LEISURE TO ENJOY SPRING
Suppose you don't want to come in early from the warm spring sunshine to get dinner. Then try this "play-hokey" menu—"fixing time" 30 minutes!

Wilson's Certified Chicken Broth
Roast MOR and Sweet Potatoes
Canned Lima Beans in Butter
Spring Rhubarb Sauce

Remove MOR from the can. Place in an uncovered baking pan. Place halves of boiled and peeled sweet potatoes around the MOR. Sprinkle MOR and the sweet potatoes generously with a syrup made by cooking together 1/2 cup strained honey, 1/2 cup pineapple or other fruit juice, and 3 level tablespoons of butter. Bake in a 350° F. oven for 20 minutes, basting several times.

BREAKFASTS MEN GO FOR
Monotony has driven nations to war. Vary your breakfasts with delightful and savory surprises. For this Sunday's breakfast try fried slices of MOR and scrambled Clear Brook Eggs.

SEND MOR TO THE BOYS IN CAMP!
When you're packing cookies and candy for appetites made sharp with camp exercise, tuck in several cans of MOR. MOR needs no refrigeration. It's delicious by itself or between crackers. A favorite in camp from Maine to California.

MOR LUNCHEON DISH
Trim crusts from 4 slices of bread, cut each slice in thirds, toast and butter. Lay a slice of MOR on each slice of toast and place in a casserole. Cover with a white sauce. Sprinkle with grated Wilson's Certified American Cheese. Bake in a 350° F. oven for 20 minutes. Serve with a salad of grapefruit sections, water-cress, and lettuce.

MOR is delicious sliced for cold cuts or sandwiches. It looks like spiced ham, tastes like it and is made by the makers of Wilson's Tender Made Ham.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO REPENT?

The Greek word for repent is a compound word meaning "to perceive after." To repent means to think differently after. Repentance is an after-thought—that is, a change of mind which issues in regret and in change of conduct. Repentance has also been defined as such an alteration of mind and purpose as begets a like change in life and practice.

Sorrow is not the primary or prominent factor in repentance. We do not repent because we are sorry about something; we become sorry over our evil because we have repented or changed our minds with repentance. We do not repent because we are sorry about something; we become sorry over our evil because we have repented or changed our minds with repentance. We do not repent because we are sorry about something; we become sorry over our evil because we have repented or changed our minds with repentance.

We repent of an evil when we see the folly of it and stop doing it. We ought to maintain a quiet, wholesome distrust of sorrow which follows wrong-doing. More often than not, it is sorrow not for the evil done but for ourselves that we have been detected in it. We can be very sorry for a wrong we have done and not repent of it. Give us an opportunity an hour from now and we would repeat the evil. Repentance means changed mind, changed conduct, changed feeling—and always in that order.

OUTSTANDING PUBLIC SERVICE

How many people know that the doctors who serve the local draft boards give their services absolutely free? This takes much of the time of doctors in every part of the country. It has been granted generously, with no thought of reward. The young men who are being taken for the nation's defense have the satisfaction of knowing they are receiving the best medical examinations of any army recruits anywhere in the world.

NOW LET'S GET A CONGRESSMAN

Within a few days Col. E. G. Flanagan will be sworn in as a member of the State Highway Commission, the first commissioner Pitt County has had since the state body came into existence. Pitt County was able to get a commissioner appointed at this time because our county as a whole got together behind one man and supported him to the limit. Our success in this effort is evidence of what we can do when all of us pull together, and it is not too early for us to be getting in line to elect a Congressman from this county next year.

Despite the fact that Pitt County is the largest county in the district, as well as being one of the state's banner Democratic counties, it has been more than 40 years since a Pitt Countian has been elected to Congress. There are a lot of Pitt County citizens who have the qualifications to go to Congress, but if we divide our efforts and put out several candidates in next year's primary, we will be whipped to start with. On the other hand, if we will get together now and begin to lay our plans to put only one candidate in the field and support him to the limit, we believe we can elect the next Congressman from this county.

Our experience with the Highway Commission post has shown us that united action is what has been needed for a number of years in this county and it is not too soon to get busy on this matter of a Congressman.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington.—In spite of what you may conclude from reading the war isn't all there is to Washington. A few years ago, research scientists discovered a Chinese drug called ephedrin and opened a new door to medical treatment. A few weeks ago, a Department of Agriculture botanist identified and classified that practically discovered a new Chinese plant. It may not be worth a pill-roll to modern medicine, but the fact that it has been used for centuries as a cure for colds, sore throat and minor stomach and intestinal ailments by the Chinese, is an indication that it might equal or top ephedrin. And the fact that there is an exciting story behind its discovery over in the "ag department" makes it plenty worth repeating, no matter what it amounts to.

In Agriculture, there are scores of scientists who spend days and nights with unknown insects and plants and eventually give them names and classes, trace out their life histories and their usefulness or danger to mankind. There are hundreds of discoveries each year.

Traced To Its Source

One of the scientists is Dr. Walter T. Swingle, botanist, who, to put it simply, sure knows a heap about Chinese flora. Thus, it was to Dr. Swingle that all the reports and specimens of lo-han were referred and after months of study he came up with the answer. Back of that however, was the strange story of a National Geographic Society expedition which four years ago set out to find what had for decades been a mystery—the source of this queer, fruit-like drug which was so highly rated by the Chinese that it was as common in some communities as aspirin in the United States. In recent years, thousands of dollars worth of it has been imported to Chinese residents in this country, yet no one knew what it was or where it came from.

Starting in Canton, which seemed to be one of the principal distribution centers for the drug, the expedition found it wrapped in papers that showed fruit growing from a tree. Working tediously into the mountainous regions of Kwangsi province (so many "middle-men" handled the transportation of the plant, it was a needle-in-a-haystack job to trail it) the expedition finally discovered the Miaos, a primitive, aboriginal people who had been "lost" for 150 years after being driven out of central China. Their rocky, mountain-side land is apparently the only place in the world where lohan is cultivated. The expedition found no tea tree at all, but a vine-grown on crude arbors. To the amazement of the expedition, these primitive peoples were using an extremely modern method of plant propagation. They were cultivating only the female plants, fertilizing them by hand pollination from male vines growing only in the wild state.

Size Of Hen Egg

The fruit, from which the drug is taken, was found to be about the size of a big hen egg. Dried, it has a brittle shell. Inside are too-sweet, fibrous meat and watermelon seeds.

Samples, photographs and reports finally came to Dr. Swingle and out of his laboratory the other day went the announcement that lo-han is a formerly unknown species of mormonia.

You and I don't know what mormonia is—but the botanists do and it may be only a season or two until it becomes as well known to medicine as ephedrin, calomel or aspirin. It certainly will if there's anything to the claims its Chinese testimonials have been making these last 200 years.

If there's anything to it, we'll probably use it in vitamin capsules. The Chinese brew it into a sickeningly sweet soup.

That's how new medicines are born.

Short Shots

Raleigh, April 24 — There's one man in North Carolina who ought really to feel very proud of the political rumors that he will be ousted from his job.

That's Vance Baise, chief engineer for the State Highway and Public Works commission.

The reason he is entitled to stick out his chest is because each and every one of the reports that he will be fired is based on the reasoning that he will not "do business" like various contractors and material salesmen want him to. In short, he's just too honest to suit them.

Four years ago when Clyde R. Hoey took office there were constant reports that Baise was on the way out. He's still doing a bang-up fine job of engineering for the commission.

Now that Broughton is in as governor and a new chairman has been named for the commission, the same sort of reports are bobbing up on all sides. There's plenty of smoke, but indications are that there isn't nearly as much fire as might be supposed.

U. C. C. Rumors.

Schenck Convicted Of Tax Evasion

Joseph M. Schenck (right), multi-millionaire movie magnate, was convicted of income tax evasion in 1935 and 1936 by a federal court jury in New York and faces possible imprisonment for 10 years and fines of $20,000. Schenck and his attorney, Harold H. Corbin (left) are seen leaving the court building while the jury deliberated.

name of James B. Volger of Charlotte. There are variations of this story. Some say "Jim" whose pre-primary campaign for Broughton last year was vigorous and effective, will be head man. Others say he is to draw a post as a high up assistant to Major A. L. Fletcher, who will be the chief.

Any Connection?
Let's hope that there's no real significance in the name of the General who tell us that the army has already passed its M-day with great success. It's Twaddle.

Aviation Mechanics Wanted
North Carolina's naval recruiting stations are advertising the fact that there is need for men who have experience in aviation maintenance and upkeep, as well as for flight aviation.

Applicants can enroll either in the regular navy or in the naval reserve, it is pointed out.

Strange Reasoning.
Politics develops not only strange bedfellows, but at times strange and unusual processes of logic. Thus there are those who say that Governor J. M. Broughton wants to run against Senator Josiah W. Bailey next year, hence he will insist that appointment as head of the game and fish division go to a brother of the Senator's secretary Hard James. This, they claim, would aid in the "buildup" of a "Broughton machine."

The Mighty Fallen.
How are the mighty fallen! Four years ago Thomas E. Cooper was elected mayor of Wilmington by the biggest majority given any candidate within recent memory. Monday of this week the same Thomas E. Cooper ran sixth in a race for city councilman under Wilmington's new Plan "D" city manager and council setup — and that's worse than he did in the 1940 gubernatorial sweepstakes. He was fifth in that.

Selectee Gets Wise To Wise Guy Of The Army

Fort Jackson, S. C., April 23.—The story might well be called "The Confessions of a Pampered Family Pet in the Army." And if you had a first sergeant like mine you would understand why I have asked that no eye-line be used.

I was drafted into the army in January along with about a hundred of my fellow townsmen. We met one morning early at our draft board headquarters where I received my first impressions of the army thanks to a couple of wise guys.

This type of "wise guy" is known in the army as a "fairline lawyer"—as I now know. But that morning in January I didn't and lapped up their advice on how to get out of work and miss undesirable assignments. By that time I arrived at Fort Jackson, where today some 14,000 other selectees from North and South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Missouri are in training. I felt like an old soldier.

As soon as I was assigned to a company I followed the advice of my "tutors" and told the first sergeant that I was a selectee and that I rated special privileges for consenting to give a year of my valuable time to Uncle Sam.

The "top kick" agreed with me and said I would receive these at once. And I did. I was in my tent trying to master the mysteries of folding blankets and sheets according to army regulations, when a soldier came in and said the "top" would like to see me "at my earliest convenience."

My earliest convenience was about 30 minutes later when I gave up trying to make up a cot according to regulations. I barged into the "top's" tent, without knocking, and was informed a select job for special selectees was waiting.

For the next two hours I helped load pieces of wood on trucks. When the last piece was loaded the light began to dawn on me that somewhere along the line I had been misguided on this "special privilege" stuff. Needless to add, I never again reminded the "top" of my "rank."

I think my experience is a typical example of what many selectees went through during their first weeks in the army. Seldom are these experiences tough on a fellow, but they sure remind you you aren't "mother's darling" any more.

Among the duties which a selectee must learn to do well, many of which I had never done before, are making a bed according to regulations. Incidentally, I'm still having my troubles here.

Then, too, there is chopping wood for the Sibley stove which heats your tent, washing tents for inspections, shining shoes at night so they will be ready in the morning and getting out of bed and dressed in time to "hit the line" at reveille. I still think the army gets up too early, but the "top" doesn't agree.

Because of this point of disagreement, I find also that the peeling of potatoes and other K. P. duties must be mastered—or will be if you don't watch out.

Still another problem is that of shaving. For some reason every man of the 200 in my company gets the idea of shaving at the same time I do. Since there are only so many mirrors, the bigger men shave first and I, being not so big, shave with the last group.

After one has been in the army for a month or so he catches on to small tricks which enable him to get along pretty well. Not bragging but I am catching on very well now, well enough not to ask for any "special privileges" any way.

I hate to admit it but the army is doing me—the "pampered pet"—more good than I will ever be able to repay. But just the same I still kind of look forward to the day when I can return to my civilian slouch.

New Homing Ducks.
Flemington, N. J.—(AP)—Mrs. Rose Z. Angell clipped the wings of six ducks and turned them over to a farm neighbor who put them in a burlap bag, dumped them in a truck and drove several winding miles to his home. The next day the six waddled back to the Angell farm in true duck formation, quacking very proudly over their successful navigation.

PTA President

Mrs. J. S. Blair of Elizabethtown is the newly elected president of the North Carolina Congress of the Parents and Teachers. Mrs. Blair, elected by delegates representing 78,000 North Carolina parent-teacher members at the twenty-second annual convention of the Congress now in session in Asheville, is well versed in all phases of Parent-Teacher work. The retiring state chairman of Parent-Education, she has served as director of district number eight, as state vice-president, a member of program planning committees for both conventions and institutes and has been a leading force in PTA work in her own local and county associations for nearly fifteen years. Before the State Congress had a fulltime field worker, Mrs. Blair did part-time field work in the Eastern part of the State.

The wife of the Bladen County's Superintendent of Schools, Mrs. Blair is the mother of three sons. The oldest has been enrolled at the State University in Chapel Hill this year, next year the second son plans to join his brother there. The youngest son, now thirteen, attends high school in Elizabethtown—one of his Daddy's schools.

of water from New Haven taps and puts them in a culture medium of beef broth and sugar kept in an incubator at body temperature. (The bacteria multiply quickly in that combination and cause fermentation in the broth.)

Gardening is Dr. Heath's hobby. She runs a flower plot at the laboratory and a vegetable garden at home.

Maggie Porter was "the law" in Parma, Mo., for several months. After her father died last December she pinned his chief of police star on her suit lapel, strapped a six-shooter around her waist and set out to keep law and order. She made 30 arrests in two and a half months so the town fathers told her to "carry on" till the spring election.

Pretty soft-voiced Helen Blake heads two man-sized companies in Newark, N. J., which buy and sell scrap iron. She stepped from college to the presidency of both when her father died and she inherited them. As head of the Federal Iron and Metal Co. she collects scrap iron from dismantled buildings and obsolete trolley lines. As president of the Federal Salvage Co., she buys scrap iron from dismantled ships. She sells to steel mills. Her friends say she "works till all hours."

The United States army's biggest plane, an 82-ton four-engine bomber built by Douglas Aircraft company at Santa Monica, Calif., and known as the B-19, was wheeled outdoors for the first time for preliminary checks and ground tests in preparation for its first test flight. Typical of its size, for example, is the tail assembly towering 42 feet high, equivalent to the height of a three-story building.

These Women!

THESE WOMEN... MM By ADELAIDE KERR AP Feature Service Writer

Lots of women are doing men's jobs with success nowadays.

Three girls are driving taxi-cabs in San Jose, Calif., because the draft and defense work have made men drivers so scarce. To get their jobs they had to draw a map of the city from memory and pass their examinations—the cab company's, the city's and the state's. Their boss says at least one of them drives as well as any man he's seen. The girls work eight hours a day.

Louise and Fanny Moore spend a lot of time hiking along the bottom of the river bed (30 feet below the surface) in Jacksonville, Fla. They're divers in their father's salvage business, which operates from the houseboat where the family lives. Two brothers make the rest of the crew.

The girls began their diving several years ago after a visiting youngster dropped his air rifle overboard and Louise dived to recover it. Now they both slip on their heavy suits and helmets frequently and go down on such assignments as recovering outboard motors and locating 4,000-pound pile driver hammers that have been lost overboard.

JAY HURD OF SAN JOSE "Taxi, Miss."

What they like best though is open-air athletics. Fanny holds the women's state track record for 400 meters and Louise the record for the javelin throw.

Dr. Eloise H. Heath, a Vassar graduate, is believed to be the only woman in the country who is chief chemist of a water supply system. (The American Water Works Association records disclose no other.) For the last seven years, as chief chemist of the New Haven, Conn. Water Co., she has sampled the 27,000,000 gallons of water consumed daily in the New Haven area.

Dr. Heath says there is a growing demand for research to prevent harmful growth in reservoirs and pipelines and that many women are qualified for the work. Her chief worry in her job is the prevention of coliform (intestinal bacteria). To check on that she collects samples

Golf Swing Tune-Up

By CRAIG WOOD

Augusta Masters' Golf Champion 3. BACK SWING: The first rule for a good backswing is not to hurt it. A good backswing is the start of a good swing. Take the club back gradually with left arm straight and clubhead parallel to the ground. Under this movement the weight moves to the right side of the body, the body pivots, the left heel raises slightly off the ground and the head stays in position throughout. Note the position of the right leg. This straightening of the right leg is really the most important part of the backswing as it lays the foundation of the stroke.

CHANGES MADE IN DEPARTMENT

Shake-Up In Prison Unit Already Being Made

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, April 23.—Indications that there will be a big shakeup in North Carolina's prison division are already very clear; the first coming on the same day it was announced that Robert Grady Johnson will be advanced to chairmanship of the ABC board while his assistant Oscar Pitts will move up to the top notch in prison administration.

Pitts will not formally take over at the earliest, until the Highway Commission meeting scheduled for May 2; but the resignation of Johnson had no sooner been confirmed than the resignation of central prison's industrial superintendent, Roal Rodli was forthcoming.

Not only that, but it was effective at once. As one minor prison official put it: "He didn't even tell anybody goodbye. He was there Friday and he wasn't there Saturday—that was the first we knew about it."

Mr. Pitts didn't say so, but there is no doubt that Rodli beat dismissal by quick action. The industries superintendent is a Pennsylvanian who came down to Raleigh to install some machinery in the prison's industrial shops. It was then that he was hired.

His departure is thought to be quite symptomatic of what's likely to happen when Pitts succeeds Johnson. Other prison personnel is to be reshuffled rather freely though it isn't believed that Pitts plans to go as far as Gene Talmadge in Georgia in providing a special train to haul his predecessor's appointees out of town where they were fired.

This personnel shakeup will start at the very top in central prison, according to apparently well-founded reports—meaning that Warden Hugh H. Wilson, who went into office upon appointment of Johnson as prison division chief, will get the axe. His most likely successor is thought to be his present assistant Ralph McLean.

From the top on down there will probably be a number of changes, although there isn't any real indication that Pitts intends to sweep quite as clean as a new broom is said to sweep.

Yet it is apparent that he plans to reshape the prison staff to suit himself. He will not go into office under

Cotton Plan Aids Many Groups

Farmers, merchants, manufacturers, laborers and others who help turn cotton into finished goods will be assisted by the three-fold supplementary cotton program of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive officer of N. C. State College, says farmers who make a further voluntary reduction in their cotton acreage for 1941 may earn cotton stamps which they can use in their local stores to buy cotton goods. A special $3 payment also will encourage home food production. Symbolic of what the program offers are the cotton coat and dress worn by the farm girl above; the row of cotton bales of which there is a surplus of more than 10 million; and shelves of home-canned food direct from the family garden.

The Highway Commission on the day he and Pitts sang their official swan song last week: "Four years ago this department was in a chaotic condition. There was friction everywhere. There was a nervous tension and feeling that something was liable to happen at any moment. This not only applied to the personnel but to the inmates." The record made in reducing escapes, if it stood alone, would go far to show that conditions have improved. That record shows that during the fiscal year 1933-4 there were 828 escapes, while the next year they rose to a peak of 887. Thereafter the reduction has been broken by only one increase—and that a negligible one. Beginning with 1935-6, the escapes for the next five years in order were 523, 349, 351, 341, and 298. Through March 31 there had been 189 in this fiscal year.

LOST AND FOUND

ON SEASONAL BASIS
 Los Angeles—(AP)—To P. V. Mann, lost-and-found man for the Los Angeles streetcar system, the year is divided into two seasons—umbrellas and bathing suits. Just now Mann is recovering from the deluge of 2,000 umbrellas turned in and is noticing the usual seasonal pickup in bathing suits.

In the heavy-spring rains this year, Mann also took care of 100 raincoats, 200 pairs of overshoes and 1,000 gloves.

1-Cent Boost In Gas Tax Would Cost N.C. Big Sum

By HENRY AVERILL
 Raleigh, April 23.—There will likely be little grumbling about it—everybody seems prepared to dig deeper to pay for defense—but more than half a million Tar Heel automobile owners will sigh rather dismally at the prospect of having $5,000,000 annually added to their tax bill by the proposed increase of the federal gasoline tax from one and a half to two and a half cents a gallon.

That will mean about $7 a year added to the taxes on every motor vehicle registered in North Carolina as this year's total car, truck and bus registration in the state.

It will run the total gasoline tax bill of Tar Heels beyond the $40,000,000 a year mark—a sum equal to more than half the state's total tax collections from all sources in the last fiscal year; and will make the average annual gasoline tax close to $60 a year for each motor vehicle.

That, figured down a bit further is $5 a month, or more than a dollar a week, which is no small sum when it is considered that the average automobile owner in this state, as well as in the country as a whole has an income of less than $30 a week. Even members of the automobile and allied trades were astounded to learn from a recent official study by the U. S. Department of Commerce that the average weekly income of car owners is that low.

So it would appear that the gasoline tax alone will take some three per cent of the average car owner's income, if the federal tax is raised as has been proposed in Congress. The gasoline tax (which is a true sales tax), even without the proposed increase, now amounts in North Carolina to more than 60 per cent on the actual retail price of the fuel; and if the cent is added as there seems no doubt it will be this will rise to more than 70 per cent. The present average selling price at North Carolina stations is close to 20 cents, of which seven and three-quarter cents is made up of tax levies (6 cents state, one-quarter cent for the so-called inspection fee and one and half cents federal). That's more than 60 per cent; and if the price goes to 21 cents on an average, with eight and three-quarter cents tax included the percentage will rise well above 70 per cent.

Gasoline tax collections for the last fiscal year at the state's 6 cent a gallon rate amounted to practically $26,000,000; and collections for the first quarter of 1941 ($28,589,345) indicate that the total for this calendar year will reach $30,000,000. Certainly the total tax will go that

War Spreads Over Far-Flung Sectors On Land, Sea

From Vichy, capital of France, comes report that Germany will seek to move through unoccupied France and Spain in an attack on Gibraltar in an effort to close the western end of the Mediterranean. Meanwhile the British shelled and bombed Tripoli (3). They reported six Axis supply ships and a destroyer were hit. The Germans said their forces resumed an advance eastward from Salum, Egypt (4), and that the British at Tobruk failed in a tank thrust. The dotted line (5) indicates the possible British route of retreat from the Greek front to Alexandria, Egypt. The German advance across Libya toward Egypt was reported aimed at closing the Suez Canal (6) to British trade. In the meantime the British landed troops in Iraq, (7), the oil-rich Near Eastern country that links Turkey and the Persian gulf. high, and probably even higher, if the quarter cent inspection fee be included.

On the basis of the proposed two and a half cent federal tax there will be collected in North Carolina not less than $10,000,000 from the gasoline tax.

All these taxes will add to well above $40,000,000, or about $60 per year, on an average, for each of the approximately 700,000 motor vehicles which will be registered.

As already stated, there isn't likely to be much complaint, because many things can be done in the name of defense which could not be done any other way; but there is some evidence to show that the continued "piling on" of taxes on the operation of motor vehicles definitely tends to discourage automobile ownership and use; and there is danger that constant encroachment on the state's field for taxing

STATE PRISON RECORD CITED

Johnson Reports On Conditions During His Regime

By HENRY AVERILL
 Raleigh, April 24.—North Carolina in recent years has developed gasoline might eventually jeopardize the proper maintenance of the road system which is dependent to the last degree on gasoline tax collections.

a modern and improved prison system to the point where it is now regarded by prison authorities of the nation as among the best. This in sharp contrast to their opinion a few years ago. Robert Grady Johnson, director of the penal division, said in making a roundup report to the Highway Commission of the four years he has been in charge of the division.

"Today we are receiving favorable publicity and are regarded by the prison authorities of this country as having made more progress than any other southern system and probably more than any other system in the country within the past few years," he said in summarizing the outside view.

The Johnson report, prepared at the request of D. E. McCarty, acting head of the highway commission until it was revamped by Governor J. M. Broughton last week, covers a wide variety of topics and gives much data on prison activities.

The director, who himself will soon be shifted to another field of state activity as chairman of the ABC board, more or less summed up that he views as his chief accomplishment in the reports opening paragraph:

"Four years ago this department was in a chaotic condition. There was a nervous tension and feeling that something was liable to happen at any moment. This not only applied to the personnel but to the inmates. All of this has disappeared and at the present time the system is running absolutely on a normal basis."

The report shows that the prison population of North Carolina is still increasing constantly, with every year of the last seven showing a higher average number of prisoners confined in all prison units than the year before it.

The Johnson statistics cover the fiscal years between 1933-34 and 1939-40 and reveal an increase in average number of prisoners from 7,650 to 9,750 a jump of 2,100, or about 27 1-2 per cent. In order figures for the intervening years were 8,111; 8,575; 8,922; 9,128; and 9,553.

Per capita daily cost of maintaining the prison population rose from 48.58 cents in 1933-34 to a peak of 73.42 cents in 1936-37 and has since fluctuated within rather narrow limits. The 1930-40 figure was 70.35 cents.

Previous to 1939-40 there was a deficit in maintenance (as figures against labor supplied for highway work) in every year except 1935-36 (surplus of $2,690.29) which ran as high as $278,645.56 in 1937-38. There was a $19,217.95 surplus for 1939-40 and Director Johnson, estimated there will be "small profit" at the end of 1940-41, "even though we had approximately $100,000 loss at the Caledonia Farm caused by flood, in addition to loss of the dyke."

The report shows that there has been a tremendous decrease in the number of escapes, until the 1939-40 year showed but 298 against the 887 recorded for 1934-35.

Through March 31, 1941 there were but 189 escapes indicating that this year will likely be better even than last year's low figures.

"Luxurious" Berths For 60 Cents. Vichy—(AP)—For 30 francs, or about 60 cents, one may pass the night in the luxurious sleeping cars that once made up the famous "Blue Train" from Paris to the Riviera.

The cars, which once carried the wealthiest people of the world in the greatest traveling comfort Europe could provide, no longer make the run, however. All French train service is greatly reduced because of the lack of coal and lubricants and the requisition of rolling stock by the Germans.

Sleepers from the Blue Train are now parked in railroad terminals at Lyon, Vichy, Marseille and Clermont-Ferrand, where they are rented out to travelers unable to find hotel rooms.

A cooperative pear-packing plant at Placerville, California, is represented as the largest such establishment in the world.

Blondie says:
"Name Our Baby And Win $100"

It's Easy... it's Fun... YOU can win

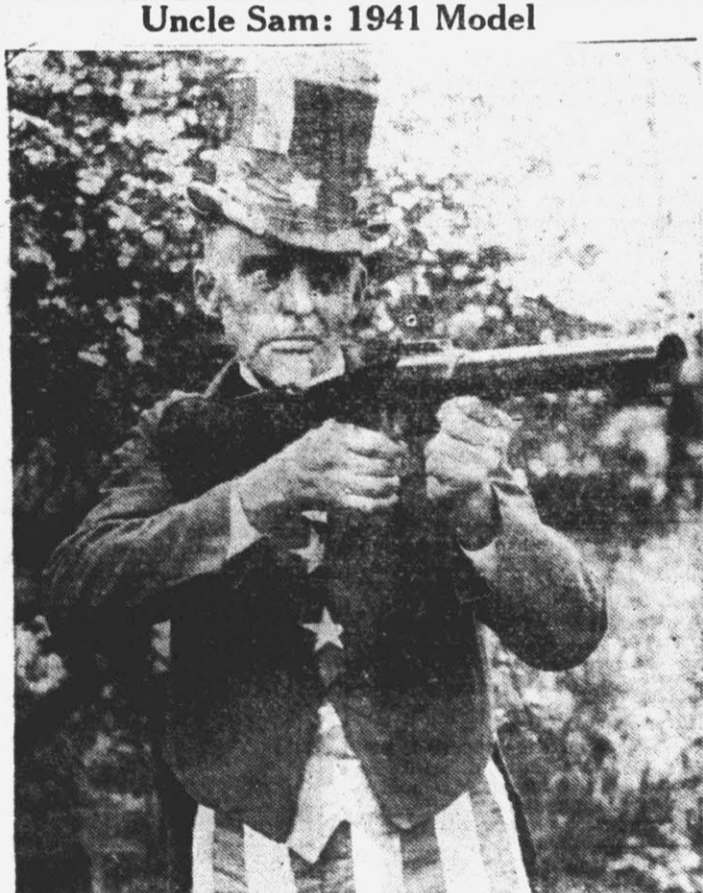

Since Blondie's new baby daughter belongs not only to the Bumsteads but to all the country, you are asked to help in naming her.

What shall it be? What name do you suggest? What name is suitable for the little darling and why?

It's all very simple. Just read the rules, then send in your suggestion.

Yours may be the winning name and $100 will be your reward if your selection is chosen by Chic Young, Beatrice Fairfax, Inez Robb and Dr. A. R. Dafoe, the four judges.

- HERE ARE THE SIMPLE RULES. READ THEM CAREFULLY, PLEASE
- (1)—Print or write plainly on a piece of paper your choice of a name for Blondie's baby daughter and complete this sentence, "I think this name is suitable for the baby because..." The sentence should contain not more than 25 words.
 - (2)—Do not enter more than one name and one sentence in this contest.
 - (3)—To be eligible entries must be mailed before midnight, Wednesday, April 30, 1941, to P. O. Box 6, Grand Central Annex, New York City.
 - (4)—Neatness, suitability and originality of thought and expression, as well as the name, will be the determining factors in awarding the prize of $100.
 - (5)—Any resident of the United States or Canada may compete, with the exception of employees of this paper or members of their families.
 - (6)—The prize will be awarded as soon after April 30th as the judging has been finished. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of ties. The decision of the judges is final. The judges are Chic Young, Beatrice Fairfax, Inez Robb and Dr. A. R. Dafoe.

To Decide On Peanut Quota

"Under recently approved legislation peanut growers can adjust marketing of peanuts in line with demand and continue to protect prices for their peanuts."

"Since 1933 farm prices for peanuts have been protected by a government program. This program provided for acreage allotments and payments and for diversion into oil of peanuts not needed by the edible trade. However, there was no regulation of marketings, and the acreage planted to peanuts increased steadily so that the 1940 crop was by far the largest in history. About one-third of this crop was diverted to oil in order to protect the price for edible peanuts. This made the cost of the diversion program ex-

Today five members of the debate team went to Wake Forest College to participate in the oratorical contest. James Worsley, James Register, Nick Marshall, Richard Duncan and Bruce Mayo made the trip. District Convention
Several members of the Student Council traveled to Goldsboro today to attend the district Student Council convention.

Ready To Vote
Tomorrow is the day for the election. Nervous candidates and managers are doing last minute campaigning before the zero hour.

Without the diversion program the farm price for the 1940 crop would have dropped sharply to about the level of the oil market price. It became evident that the diversion part of the program could not be continued without regulation of marketing. In recognition of this situation, the recently approved legislation was requested by peanut growers and their representatives.

The main provisions of the law are: "1. Marketing quotas are in effect only if two-thirds or more of the peanut growers voting in a referendum approved quotas.

"2. If quotas are approved a loan or diversion program, or both, will be used to stabilize prices.

"3. If quotas are not approved, the law provides that there shall be no loan nor diversion program.

"4. The marketing quota for each farm will be the actual production on the acreage allotment under the ACP program.

"5. Peanuts marketed in excess of the quota will be subject to a penalty of 3 cents per pound, but payment of this penalty will not be required if the excess is delivered to an agency designated by the Secretary of Agriculture and sold at the current market price for crushing for oil.

"Information about the referendum will be held Saturday, April 26, 1941 and other facts concerning the peanut program may be had from your county AAA office."

Local Artists To Show Work

(Continued From Page One) a fluent and an eloquent speaker and those who plan to hear him on Friday evening have a treat in store for them.

Georgia Pearsall Hearne, Greenville artist and an outstanding portrait painter in North Carolina studied art at Flora Macdonald college in Washington City and two or three different times at the Art Students League in New York. She has studied under both Chase and Henri and Leon Kroll. Mrs. Hearne won the Mrs. S. Clay Williams silver loving cup awarded by the art department of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs in 1937 and also in 1939 for portrait work. Recently while she was in Washington City, Mrs. Hearne painted in three hours a small portrait of her poet friend, Jane Croome Love. This amounted to a speed record for Mrs. Hearne's work. Mrs. Hearne will quickly sketch and begin to paint from life a small portrait on Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock, giving a demonstration of her method of work.

Miss Vida Wicks will give an interesting demonstration of how she works with water colors at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the WPA Art Gallery.

Miss Wick's training consists of study in life, still life and landscape painting at the University of Illinois; Art Institute, Chicago; at the Art Students' League in New York with Harry Sternberg; Homer Boss and Jan Corbin, who are outstanding contemporary painters. Miss Wicks is now teaching in the art department of East Carolina Teachers College. In her demonstrations at the Art Gallery on Friday and Monday afternoons, Miss Wicks will make a quick sketch of either a still life or a landscape.

Mrs. Hearne and Miss Wicks are each exhibiting fine specimens of their work during the five-day Art Festival in Greenville.

Morgenthau described the new tax program in these points: "First of all, it presents a meth-

REPORT FILED BY GRAND JURY

Handed To Judge Frizzelle By Foreman Frank Brooks

The Pitt county grand jury this afternoon submitted its report to Judge J. Paul Frizzelle, presiding over the current criminal term of Pitt Superior court.

The report, submitted by Frank Brooks, foreman, declared that the various county offices were examined and found to be in good shape. The report follows in full:

"We have passed on all bills presented to us and have rendered our decision thereon according to the evidence presented.

"We visited the county home and found it in good condition and excellently supervised. The inmates are well cared for both as to food and clothing. We found ample supply of meat for the present year and sufficient live stock and poultry. In our opinion those in charge of the county home are furnishing a fine example of ability and efficiency.

"We visited the county jail and found it in good condition in every respect. The prisoners are well provided for, both as to sanitation and clothing. From our inspection of the camp we feel that the superintendent, Mr. Crawford, is doing a creditable job.

"A committee from the grand jury examined the records of the administrators and guardians in the Clerk of Court's office, and reported that it found that the records appeared to be well kept and reports were being required by the clerk in accordance with statutory requirements.

"At the last session of the grand jury committees were appointed to inspect county school buildings and school buses. Their reports show the sanitary conditions of most of the buildings were good, and there were no noticeable fire hazards or other conditions affecting the life and health of children which needed to be brought to the attention of the school authorities. The several committees were very favorably impressed and their impressions in general were that the schools are very efficiently operated.

"Their reports on school buses indicate that all of them appear to be mechanically safe and records of operation show that rules of safety in operation are being observed.

"The grand jury gave some consideration to the matter of courts of the Justices of the Peace and recommend that the county commissioners require them to bring in their records for auditing with a od of paying as we go for a reasonable proportion of our expenditures.

"Secondly, it is designed so that all sections of the people shall bear their fair share of the burden.

"Third, it will help to mobilize our resources for defense by reducing the amount of money that the public can spend for comparatively less important things.

"And finally, it is designed to prevent a general rise in prices by keeping the volume of monetary purchasing power from outrunning production."

greater degree of regularity. "We received reports from the chairman of the ABC board. We are convinced the system is being very efficiently operated and the work of the law enforcement division is most active and is to be commended.

"In this, its last report to the court, the grand jury desires to make mention of its impressions that in general the affairs of Pitt county are being looked after in a very efficient manner, and the various offices and department heads as well as the board of county commissioners are to be commended for the interest they show in the county's affairs and their efforts to serve the public efficiently and fairly; however, the grand jury feels that the interests of farmers, since Saturday afternoon is their most convenient time for coming to the county seat, would be better served if the various offices were kept open at that time.

"The grand jury desires to express its appreciation to His Honor J. Paul Frizzelle, judge presiding, Hon. D. M. Clark, solicitor, and all other county officers, for the fine cooperative attitude shown.

Local Health Office Visited By Officials were here in the interest of the venereal disease control program carried on in the county and that very soon the venereal disease clinics would have available certain new diastomic equipment.

How To Enjoy Money
Lyndon, Kas.—(AP)—Take $3,000 in small currency, toss it into a high wind, and how much do you think you'll get back?

You would get all but $50 if you were as fortunate as small clerks here.

A sack tossed from a speeding train ripped open scattering two packages of currency, each containing $1,500. The clerk on duty picked up all the bills in sight, then called for help. By nightfall $2,949 had been found. Next day a fellow brought in $1 recovered more than a mile away. The other $50 just didn't turn up.

Army Souvenir Bouts Policemen
Centralla, Wash.—(AP)—When Sergeant Henry Southwick, rummaging through a box of loot and found "junk" at police headquarters, came up with an orange-colored iron ball, policemen tumbled over each other rushing into the street.

It was an army hand grenade, in good working order, with the firing pin in place. Veteran officers couldn't remember how it got into the box.

The pipeline running from the wells of Iraq to the Palestine shore of the Mediterranean, carries an estimated 4,000,000 tons of crude oil each year.

... Buys a Pontiac
—Built for EXTRA MILES and Greater Satisfaction!

A COMPARISON of prices will show that the Pontiac De Luxe "Torpedo" does cost a little more than the de luxe models of the lowest-priced three. However, this difference itself is not important. In fact, it is so slight that owners say it's hardly noticeable when spread over monthly payments.

But the extra dependability this slight difference buys is important—and in our files are hundreds of letters from owners indicating that, in phrase—"Built to Last 100,000 Miles"—only begins to describe Pontiac's long life and trouble-free performance. And when you add the scores of other advantages Pontiac provides, plus the fact that Pontiac's great reputation for dependability means it's worth more to you at trade-in time, then you'll understand why more people are buying Pontiac this year than ever before. Why don't you see your Pontiac dealer today.

 PONTIAC PRICES BEGIN AT $828 FOR THE DE LUXE "TORPEDO" SIX BUSINESS COUPE
Delivered at Pontiac, Michigan. State tax, optional equipment, accessories—extra. Prices and specifications subject to change without notice.
