British Fliers Also Report Success In Assaults Aimed At Axis Offensive Against Egypt

Cairo, May 8.—(AP)—British planes bombed the Baghdad airport yesterday and scored direct hits on a magazine at Washash, near the Iraq capital, a British Royal Air Force Middle East communique declared today.

Otherwise, Middle East general headquarters said the Iraq situation both at the British-held Habbaniyah airport and the port of Basra has remained quiet since the siege of Habbaniyah was broken two days ago. There was sporadic sniping at Habbaniyah, however.

The air communique said "violent explosions occurred" when bombs scored flush hits on the magazine. Other bombs, it said, hit military buildings and were dropped on grounded planes at Hamaidi.

"Heavy and successful raids" against Bengasi and the Axis-held airdromes at Berka, Benina and Derna, repeated targets for the RAF since German and Italian forces launched their counter-offensive eastward into Egypt, also were reported.

At Bengasi, bombs were said to have hit the central breakwater and to have struck near ships.

Direct hits on two merchantships were claimed in an attack on an Axis Mediterranean convoy.

10,000 Americans Engaged In Strife

London, May 8.—(AP)—Robert Hutchinson, chairman of the American Eagle club, estimated today that 10,000 Americans are fighting in the British and allied forces. Hutchinson said most of these United States citizens enlisted in Canadian forces, but others also were in the Free French and even Free Rumanian units.

As chairman of the American Eagle club, Hutchinson said he was in a position to give an accurate estimate of Americans in Britain. The club, which provides low-cost meals and entertainment, is a rendezvous for many of them.

Hutchinson and his wife are leaving shortly for the United States.

PREPARE OPEN NYA UNIT HERE

Training Center To Begin Operation About June 15

Plans are being made to open the N. Y. A. Training Center about June 15 with two hundred young men from eastern North Carolina and a group of instructors, according to an announcement made by J. H. Rose today.

Howard B. Gaylord of Nashville, N. C. was recently appointed educational coordinator of the Greenville center. Mr. Gaylord, with L. B. Singleton of the State Department of Public Instruction, held a conference with Mr. Rose yesterday making plans for the development of the educational program for the center.

The work at the NYA center will consist of both theory and practice. There will be five hours of work each day in one of the various shops and three hours of classroom instruction in subjects related to the work which the young man is doing in the shop. The purpose of the center is to train young men as quickly as possible to become skilled workers in the national defense program.

Courses will be offered in machine shop work, cabinet making, radio auto mechanics, electricity, plumbing and heating, sheet metal work and welding. The two hundred men will be picked from all the eastern North Carolina counties. They will be picked on the basis of their character, their ambition to secure technical education as quickly as possible.

Mr. Rose is sending letters to the county and city superintendents of eastern North Carolina, informing them of this opportunity for ambitious young men and asking them to pick a fine type of young man who is eager to learn skilled trades. The students will be paid $30 a month and $18 a month will be used to pay board and room rent, medical services for the student, leaving him $12 a month spending money. Complete medical services will be provided, dental care being included also. The camp will also have a hostess and a recreational person who will be a man. There will also be an infirmary and a nurse.

The buildings are rapidly nearing completion, and the program will be ready to operate about June 15.

SCOTT AGAINST ANY BOOST IN TOBACCO LEVY

Commissioner Of Agriculture At Committee Hearings

CITES EXISTING EMERGENCY TAX Issues Statement Against Proposed Further Levies Before Departing For National Capital

Washington, May 8.—(AP)—Three hundred tobacco growers jammed the House Ways and Means Committee room today to protest that proposed increases in tobacco taxes would single them out for "unjust" tax treatment.

A spokesman, J. C. Lanier of Greenville, N. C. asked that levies be made on coffee, tea and golf balls before further increases are made in the taxes on cigarettes, manufactured tobacco and cigars. Tobacco farmers, he said, would be hardest hit by any new tobacco imposts.

Lanier, saying that he was a World War veteran, declared that the tobacco growers were "100 per cent behind" the defense aid efforts, of which the proposed tobacco tax increases would be a part, but urged that all farmers of all commodities be treated alike.

With the backing of 20 House members from tobacco states, Lanier urged that Congress reject the Treasury's proposal to boost the cigarette tax to eight cents per package of 20 from the present six and one-half cents and the doubling of rates on cigars and manufactured tobacco. The cigar taxes range from 75 cents to $13.50 per thousand and the manufactured levy is 18 cents per pound.

The present war, Lanier declared, had sharply curtailed tobacco exports and made this product "the greatest casualty" of the conflict. Were it not for WPA, he added, his own region would be "hit as hard as in 1932."

Lanier said he came from "the largest tobacco producing county in the world."

Among the congressmen who appeared with the big delegation of tobacco growers were Representatives Clark, Durham, Barden, Cooley, Kerr and Bonner of North Carolina; Drewry, Burch, Satterfield and Flannagan of Virginia; McMillan of South Carolina; Priest of Tennessee; Gibbs of Georgia and Sasser of Maryland. Lanier, representing growers of cigarette type tobacco, said the additional tax would drive smokers to use of pipes and "roll-your-own cigarettes."

This, he contended, would reduce federal collections on tobacco since cigarettes are taxed at a rate equal to $117 a pound, while smoking tobacco tax is only 18 cents a pound.

Mrs. Perkins had spent most of her life in Stokes and was the widow of the late L. T. Perkins, who died in 1919. She was a member of Hickory Grove Free Will Baptist church.

Surviving are one son, Thomas L. Perkins; two daughters, Mrs. Sackey Gurganus and Mrs. Grace Parker all of Stokes, eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Masonic Meetings To Start Sunday

The regular program meeting of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons is set for Monday morning, to be followed by a banquet Monday night. The Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons is set for Tuesday morning.

W. Kerr Scott, Commissioner of Agriculture, in Washington to protest proposed tax increases on tobacco and tobacco products, in a statement issued today declared, "Further taxes on tobacco will have a depressing effect on consumption."

Scott asserted that taxes on tobacco and its products "have been steadily increased since 1901." He said, "At periods when the nation needed additional revenues, additional taxes were placed on tobacco in the name of 'emergencies.'"

"Farmers and consumers," he continued, "have born the extra load of tobacco taxes with little complaint for the past 40 years, although most of the other 'emergency' taxes have been removed or reduced."

Scott, who will appear today before a House committee studying plans for raising an estimated $3,500,000,000 in national revenue, stated, "because of the loss of export markets for fine-cured tobacco, because of the economic uncertainties now facing this important crop, and because of the fact that tobacco and tobacco products are carrying more than their just share of taxes at the present time, I am of the firm conviction that the levying of additional proposed taxes would be unjust to the farmer and the consumer."

A copy of Scott's appeal was sent to Rep. Harold Cooley of the Fourth district.

Although there were a scattering of write-in votes, none of the candidates had any opposition.

British Claim Successes In Iraq

The British claimed to have wrested control of oil pipe lines in Iraq, probably at Rutba (1). To the north, it was said, an Iraqi encirclement of the airport at Habbaniyah had been broken. The situation at Basra (2), entry port for British soldiers, was reported "quiet."

DELAY SOUGHT IN SENTENCING

Suggestion Made By Attorney General Jackson

Wilson, May 8.—(AP)—A suggestion that sentencing of 10 Italians convicted in federal court here of espionage charges be deferred, said by Assistant District Attorney Charles Rouse to have been made by Attorney General Robert Jackson in a telephone conversation, drew a vigorous objection from the defense today.

Judge I. M. Meekins announced he would reserve his decision until this afternoon and indicated there was a possibility he might order a mistrial in the case of Captain Adriana M. Bersia and nine crew members of the 8,860-ton Italian freighter Villaperosa who were found guilty by a jury yesterday of wrecking the ship's engines.

Rouse told Judge Meekins that the attorney general had "suggested" that the passing of sentence be deferred for "a few days." Under questioning by defense attorneys, he said he thought this meant until Monday.

When court convened after the noon recess, Assistant U. S. Attorney Rouse asked the court to impose a prison sentence of seven years on Captain Bersia and five years on each of the nine crew members. Defense attorneys argued against imposition of such sentences.

To Sign Contract For Flying School

J. N. Williams, M. Brown Hodges and G. H. Pittman, representing the County Board of Commissioners, and Mayor B. B. Sugg of the City of Greenville, were in Washington today to sign papers with O. P. Herbert, president of Safair Corporation, calling for the establishment of an army cadet flying school at the city-county airport here.

While in Washington they also will appear before the House Ways and Means Committee to oppose any increase in taxes on manufactured tobacco products.

Establishment of the flying school here, which would bring a maximum of 200 students to the city, is contingent only on approval of army engineers of the local flying field, and on condition that the Safair Corporation secure a contract with the War Department to train pilots.

Should these two obstacles be removed, construction of hangars, an administration building and barracks would begin immediately and the school established probably in the late summer.

William J. Clark Claimed By Death

Funeral services were conducted from the graveside at the Brewer family cemetery this afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev. L. E. Ballard, Free Will Baptist minister of Greenville.

LOSS OF SHIPS NOT OFFICIAL

Maritime Head Declares Report Misinterpreted

Washington, May 8.—(AP)—Senator Bailey (D.-N.C.) said today that Chairman Emory S. Land had testified that his Maritime Commission's report on small losses of ships carrying American aid to England "had been misinterpreted."

The commission report, which included a statement that only eight of the 205 ships which left United States harbors in the first three months of the year with aid supplies had been reported sunk, had been gladly seized upon as a talking point by opponents of a convoy system.

Bailey, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, told of Land's testimony before a closed committee session in connection with legislation authorizing the acquisition and transfer of foreign ships.

Senators who sat in the executive session differed as to the import of Land's testimony.

"The admiral told us his letter had been misinterpreted," Bailey told reporters. "He said his emphasis was on 'reported'—that is ships actually reported sunk. He said he suspected that other ships had been sunk, but that his information was as complete as he could get from sources that were not official."

"At the same time the admiral made it plain that he stands by his report," Senator Bailey added.

Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) who created a stir yesterday by making the admiral's report public, said Land had "reiterated that there had been no substantial losses of British aid supplies through sinking of ships."

J. S. Roberts, 57 Dies From Attack

J. S. Roberts, 57, was found dead in his automobile parked on the side of the road about two miles from Greenville on the New Bern highway about eight o'clock last night. Apparently he had a heart attack about two hours earlier, had driven over to the side of the road and parked and died instantly.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home near Fleming's Cross Roads Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock by Rev. T. McM. Grant, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church. The funeral cortege will then leave for Mount Olive, and burial will follow in the Mount Olive cemetery.

Mr. Roberts was born and reared in Wayne county, moving to Pitt county in 1933. He spent his life engaged in farming. He was a member of the Mount Olive Methodist church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Roberts; four sons, Sam J. of Newport News, Va., H. L. of Portsmouth, Va., H. H. of Hopewell, Va., and Reginald of the home; five daughters, Mrs. W. H. Faulk of Clinton, Mrs. J. W. Thorson of Newport News, Misses Nancy Lois and Virginia, both of Greensboro, N. C., and Doris of the home; one step daughter, Mrs. E. L. Edmondson of Mount Olive; two brothers, G. H. Roberts of Goldsboro and Elder J. B. Roberts of Farmville; two sisters, Mrs. Stephen Howell and Mrs. Maggie Ginn of Goldsboro.

To Include Young Men Of 21 Years

Estimated One Million Men Who Have Reached 21 Years of Age To Be Registered For Possible Military Service; War Department Considering Shifting Emphasis On Younger Recruits

Washington, May 8.—(AP)—Army and Selective Service officials were reported today to have decided on July 1 as the date for registration of approximately 1,000,000 men who have become 21 years old since the first Selective Service enrollment last October.

The registration will take place at the headquarters of the 6,500 local draft boards now functioning, and authorities said it would be a "fairly simple job" compared with last fall when 16,500,000 men, 21 to 35, were signed up for possible military training.

The date for the new registration will be formally fixed in a proclamation by President Roosevelt. Authorities indicated that the day now tentatively agreed upon was chosen to give the new group of prospective military trainees time to learn whether they are apt to be called for service this fall so they can arrange their school or employment plans accordingly.

In official quarters here it was expected that a large proportion of them would be called for training within a few months after they are registered and classified as to availability for immediate service.

A decision apparently has yet to be reached on how the order numbers of the July registrants will be incorporated in the existing list of numbers assigned after the Selective Service lottery last October. Whatever the method, the belief was that it would not hinder plans for drawing on the newly-registered pool of additional manpower almost immediately.

Now that the initial groups of trainees have been inducted to provide cadres of more mature men around which to build up the new army, it was learned that War Department officials are considering shifting the emphasis to younger men.

One plan reported under consideration would be for the War Department to advise Selective Service headquarters officially that hereafter it would take no men above a certain age. Some authorities were understood to favor 30 as the top age limit, while others prefer it as low as 26 years.

At Selective Service headquarters it was said that it would not be necessary to amend the law because it already permits this kind of trainee selection by age groups, provided it is officially requested by the War Department or the President.

Opposing Increase In Tobacco Taxes

A number of Pitt county citizens joined delegations from other tobacco-producing communities in appearing before the House Ways and Means Committee in Washington today to oppose a proposal that taxes on manufactured products be increased to help pay the costs of defense spending.

The delegations will contend that tobacco already is burdened with an "emergency" tax and that any further boost in the levies probably would bring about a decrease in consumption.

Round Table Meeting.
Mrs. H. L. Carr was a delightful hostess to the Round Table at her home on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. W. Higgs, with the aid of maps and pictures, gave a splendid paper on "Alaska," the largest single possession of the United States and with a population less than any except possibly one small island. She told of the early history and settlers, the discovery of the many islands of the Aleutian chain as well as of the agricultural, the minerals, the fishing and fur trading. She also told of the new settlement consisting of five hundred families the government transplanted to Alaska. Much of the interior remains unexplored with the Yukon basin probably the best known region. Great glaciers, unsurpassed in size, cover its slopes and towering snow covered mountains, some of the highest on the continent; the rapid streams and untouched forests make beautiful scenery for the ever increasing number of tourists.

News for the day was given by Mrs. Winslow, who told of the proposed Pan American highway from Alaska to the southern tip of South America. This was proposed and the most difficult sections in Panama explored by Richard Tewkesbury. Note was made of the increased importance of Iraq, as was discussion in the last meeting by Mrs. Rawl. Mention was also made of the interesting article on the "Lost Colony" stones "Writ on Rocks," by Boyden Sparkes, in the Saturday evening Post, April 26 issue.

Mrs. Munford, pronunciation referee gave very interesting reports on the size of the English vocabulary of different groups of people.

Mrs. W. B. Tighman, corresponding secretary, reported Mrs. Walter F. Taylor, Mrs. Robert Taylor and Mrs. H. H. Duncan had accepted membership in the Round Table.

Mrs. W. A. Darden, Jr., Miss Maria Graham and Miss Mamie Jenkins were guests for the afternoon.

Mrs. T. A. Person, reporting for the program committee, told of work being done in arranging the study for next year. Among the suggested topics were: The Pan American Union, Latin America with its archaeological studies, its political, religious and literary leaders, along with the study of waterways, highways, byways and airways. Mrs. Person has given to the city library an attractive set of Latin American flags—one for each of the twenty republics with one representing the United States, making twenty-one flags. Subscriptions for the magazine Pan American Union were ordered for reference work.

Mrs. Henderson, reporting for the civics committee, displayed a certificate—framed and ready to hang—given to the club in recognition of Mrs. Ficklen Hostess To Club.

The members of the End of the Century Club enjoyed a most delightful meeting with Mrs. E. B. Ficklen on Tuesday, May 6.

After a short business meeting, a splendid talk on "Current Problems" was given by Dr. A. D. Frank of the college history department. He opened by saying that the European war looms so large at present that we are apt to forget to discuss some of our own vital home problems—of these he mentioned some recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court, tax bill and the labor situation. He then gave a most understandable discussion on the European situation as he sees it today, and ended by expressing the hope that our leaders know by their various routes more of the real problems than does the average citizen and hoping that they will eventually bring a brighter outlook than is now apparent.

The club most sincerely thanks Dr. Frank for the talks he has given the club throughout the year and assured him that they feel very grateful for his help. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Ficklen, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. L. S. Ficklen.

WILSON'S Weekly RECIPES

I've had letters from a number of you recently asking me to explain once more the difference between Wilson's two kinds of hams.

One comes ready to eat. Or if you wish to serve it hot, heat it in a 350° F. oven for five minutes per pound. It is Wilson's Tender Made Ham, the ham you cut with a fork. It comes in a yellow wrapper. The other bakes in 16 minutes per pound (average size ham) in a 325° F. to 350° F. oven (a slightly longer time is required for smaller hams or half hams). This ham is called Wilson's Certified Smoked Ham, the original Tender, Extra Mild. It comes in an orange wrapper. Both hams are richly flavored, wonderfully tender.

George Rector Food Consultant, Wilson & Co.

2 HAMS OFFER 3 CHOICES

WILSON'S Tender Made Ham

(1) Comes ready to serve, or (2) can be heated in 5 minutes per pound.

WILSON'S Certified TENDER EXTRA MILD SMOKED HAM

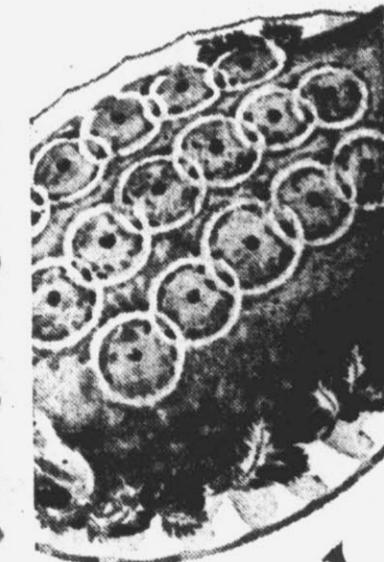

(3) Bake 16 minutes per pound.

DO'S AND DON'T'S FOR HAM

Whether you choose the ham you heat 5 minutes to the pound, or the ham you bake 16 minutes to the pound, allow it to come to room temperature (68°-70° F.) before putting it in the oven.

Do not parboil either of these Wilson's hams (The secret Wilson process leaves them so tender that parboiling is absolutely unnecessary.)

Bake in an open roaster.

Little things that "Prettify" a Baked Ham

When your Wilson's Ham is baked, remove it from the oven and peel off the skin. Score the fat in circles with a cookie cutter and insert a clove in each circle. Pour honey over the ham. Press into the scored lines thin strips cut from maraschino cherries and return the ham to a 400° F. oven for 20 minutes.

Whether it's Wilson's Certified Tender Made Ham or Wilson's Certified Smoked Ham, it's a Taste Thrill

If you had never experienced the coming of Spring, or the first notes of the robin, or the first Spring blossoms, no mere words could convey to you the delights of this season.

Likewise, if you've never tasted gorgeous, juicy, fragrant, tender slices of a Wilson's Ham, no mere words can convey its goodness to you. I can only say to you, "Try either of these Wilson's Hams. Just try 'em."—G. R.

Hoey Facing Opposition For National Committee

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, May 8.—For several days prior to nomination of John Folger for Congress in the Fifth district it appeared probable that there would be no opposition to former Governor Clyde R. Hoey for North Carolina's Democratic national committeeman; but now that the district matter is settled it has become clear that the pro-Roosevelt elements of the party are quietly laying plans to offer stubborn opposition to the Shelby lawyer.

These New Dealers have canvassed the field of possibilities and have reached a decision that R. J. (Young Dick) Reynolds, Jr., already treasurer of the national committee, is the man they're looking for, and considerable pressure is being brought to bear in an effort to get him in the race.

What success they will have remains to be seen, but Reynolds is conceded to be politically ambitious and there are indications that he might be induced to enter if the preliminary survey being made by his friends indicates he would have a chance to win.

In short, it can be definitely said that Hoey is not the unanimous choice recent reports might indicate; and, further, that the Roosevelt group is right now making a strong effort to coordinate their forces in a drive to keep the ex-governor at home practicing law. This element hasn't forgotten the fact that Hoey was anti-Roosevelt throughout his whole administration; that he used every means in his power to head off the Roosevelt boom in North Carolina last year, and that he is still absolutely at odds with every tenet of the President's New Deal. The Roosevelt foreign policy alone has the blessing of Mr. Hoey.

Actually, the former governor has not yet said he is a candidate for the committee post; but has said he will accept if it is tendered by a virtually unanimous vote.

This unanimous support he will not get unless the New Dealers find after thorough investigation, that they haven't even an outside chance of winning.

Already, of course, Senator Robert R. Reynolds has plugged for Pierce Rucker of Greensboro, but this hasn't been taken as a serious threat. It certainly is a distinctly different anti-Hoey drive from that which the Rooseveltians are planning.

Reason that nothing has been done already is that many of the best-known and most active of the New Dealers were as deeply interested in the Fifth district situation as in the national committee place.

Senator Folger, the nominee, was chairman of the North Carolina for Roosevelt campaign last year. With congressional ambitions, he quit naturally did not break into print with any statement on the committee problem. He hasn't said so, but it's dollars to doughnuts he is not for Hoey.

Other prominent Roosevelt partisans who were so deeply in the Fifth district tangle that they have been dumb on the committee place are Dr. Ralph McDonald and Frank Hancock, former representative from the Fifth.

While the relations of Dr. McDonald and former Governor Hoey have been amicable, even cordial, it probably isn't doing Hoey's 1936 primary opponent any injustice to list him as one who is not in the least enthusiastic over further honors for his one-time rival with whom he differed just as vigorously in 1940 on Roosevelt as he did in 1936 on the sales tax. However, Governor Broughton, whom McDonald supported energetically, has come out for Hoey, which might seem to indicate that Mac will not go far in a direction opposite to the state boss.

Even here there may be ripples which do not appear on the surface of the political pool. There are those cynical souls who scent something closely resembling the odor of fish in the Broughton endorsement of Hoey. "Why," they ask themselves and such folks as they talk to in confidence, "would the governor rush so quickly and positively into print with a flat endorsement of Hoey?"

They then proceed to answer their own question with the suggestion that it's a bit of deep politics, like this: Broughton put Hoey up in front where he will make a good target for Rooseveltian snipers. The sharpshooters will not let the chance pass, and possibility is strong that Hoey will be defeated—what with lacking the power of office and patronage to win and hold state committee votes.

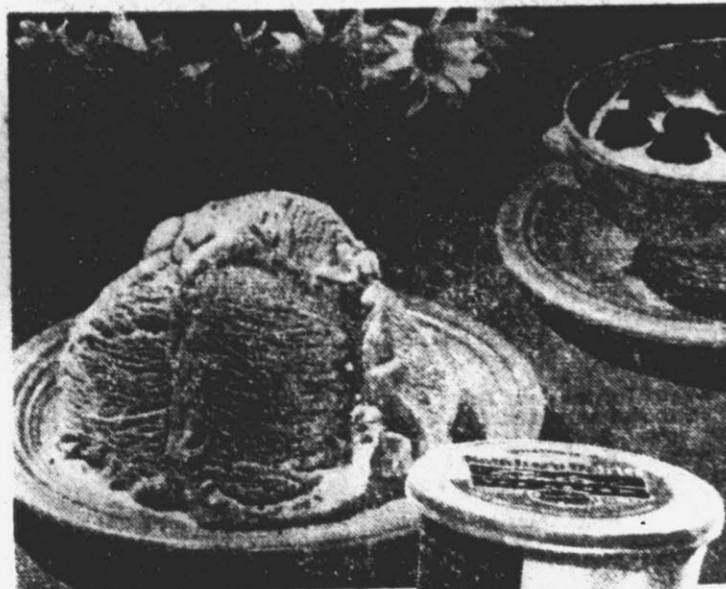

That would be a severe blow to the old Gardner-Hoey-Shelby group which has dominated state politics for many years. Few believe that Broughton would willingly increase the power of this faction. Everything he has done since taking office has indicated he is intent on building up his own machine to the point where he will not even have to ask cooperation from other groups, much less be subservient to any.

Wherefore the Broughton backing may be a lure to reel Hoey out where he can be given the gaff right quickly, with the Rooseveltians holding the big fishing pole to catch the suckers.

That's the plot suspected by the cynical; but they are not naive enough to believe it is sure to sucfact, provable if necessary that opposition to Hoey is being brewed with the North Carolina for Roosevelt groups as the brewers.

CAN NOT SPEND LIQUOR PROFIT

Local Boards Prohibited From Making Donations

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL.

Raleigh, May 8.—A county ABC board has no authority to make donations for civic projects from the profits arising from the operation of liquor stores; nor can an ABC board make expenditures from profits except the five to ten per cent of total profits directed by law to be spent for law enforcement.

So it has been ruled by Attorney General Harry McMullan in two advisory opinions among a number just released for publication.

The attorney general also ruled that any personal property of any sort belonging to a taxpayer is subject to levy for the collection of delinquent taxes.

Other digests of opinion included:

1. A person born before 1910 may petition the clerk of superior court in the county of his residence and in a proceeding before the clerk may establish the facts relating to his birth. The 1940 act provides for a hearing, entry of judgment and certification of the judgment to the state bureau of vital statistics.

2. Public Laws of 1941, chapter 358, requiring handlers of farm products to be licensed by the department of agriculture and to give satisfactory evidence of their ability to carry out contracts with growers or to give bond covering liability to growers, does not apply to contracts made before July 1, 1941, the effective date of the act.

3. A director of an electric membership corporation is not a public officer within the meaning of the constitutional prohibition against double office holding.

Strength For The Day. By EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOOD FRIENDS SOMETIMES HURT US. Plutarch says of Pericles that this matchless Greek leader as he spoke to his people always left a sting in their conscience. He could talk to them in such a way that they became acutely aware of the call of duty on the one hand and equally aware on the other hand of their responsibility to meet these high requirements. The nobility of Athens never listened to Pericles without feeling that their sacrifice in behalf of the city's welfare had been insignificant as compared with the privileges which citizenship accorded them.

This means that Germany cannot, for a long time, divert any of its war production to civilian needs. It means that the German people must continue to get along without enough to eat, and that food supplies will get lower and lower without an adequate means of replenishment. Even by starving the conquered peoples, a policy that Hitler has adopted to strengthen his own food reserves, it is improbable that the situation has been materially improved.

This does not indicate that the German people will revolt. Skilled observers say that as long as Hitler can feed them on victories, they will not mind the hardships. Undoubtedly there is a strong undercurrent of opposition, but the ruthless efficiency of the Gestapo is still able to ferret out and crush anti-Nazi movements before they get underway.

However, it is evident that the German people were sold a poor bill of goods. They were first convinced they were being persecuted, then that they were a super-race, and finally that the destruction of degenerate Britain would benefit them economically and make them the ruling people of the world.

The persecution was based on the injustices of the Versailles Treaty, a document that now seems merciful when compared with the terms imposed upon conquered nations by Hitler. The super-race idea led to hate and bloodshed, yet gained them nothing. And, even should Britain fall, they still could gain their ends of wealth and power only at the expense of another war.

Washington Daybook. By Jack Stinnett. Washington—I've been fighting forest fires. Of course it was from an armchair in the Forest Service and the only smoke I got in my eyes came from a cigaret. But what I heard was not enough to singe the hair on the back of my neck. In ten days, I was told, 5,310 fires were reported from 14 eastern and northeastern states with an early estimated loss of about $3,000,000 and the gutting of more than a quarter of a million acres of forest, woodland and brush. Not to mention homes, churches, stores barns and summer cottages. The thing has happened so quickly that Acting Forest Service Chief Earl H. Clapp's boys haven't had time yet to analyze all the reports, but from the Blue Grass of Kentucky to the woods of Maine enough is known about causes that a few things can be seen through the smoke. Take the weeks of drouth that dried the winter-killed underbrush and grass to tinder. Take the warm dry weather that drove hundreds of thousands of careless tourists and picnickers into woods and fields. Take the fact that one fire leads to another in the twisted mind of a pyromaniac. Add all these and you see why most of the eastern seaboard was ripe for conflagration and may continue to be unless heavy rains come.

Some Incendiaries. Smokers and illegal or careless brush burners seem to have been responsible for most of the fires," says Regional Forester R. M. Evans "but children and deliberate burners have played their part. "Pressed by an advanced spring season," he continued, "many farmers started cleaning up brush and trash without sufficient regard for weather conditions."

Someday the statistics may seem through as to just how many arrests, fines and jail sentences have resulted from this recent spread of conflagrations and when it does that figure will be amazing, too. There was a dearth of firefighters. Some of it resulted from the defense program. Most volunteer firefighting squads are composed of young men. The draft had made huge gaps in these squads. Secondly, there have not been many fire epidemics like this in recent years in the East and most of the amateurs weren't up to snuff on smuffing out fires.

Report after report in the foresters' records show that backfires were started without any knowledge of how the wind would blow or whether they could be controlled to meet the head-fires head-on. Careless back-firing can be as silly as pouring gasoline on the flames. Sometimes, it means starting two fires instead of one.

Fifty Thousand Fighters. More than 50,000 volunteers, foresters and CCC boys pitched in firefighting on the eastern coast during the battle with forest flames. Many of them were skilled at their business—but handicapped by lack of equipment, or direction. Oodly enough, one of the great deficiencies that showed up was in short-wave radio stations, where operators could direct activities and see that needed reserves were thrown into the fight where the smoke was thickest. The Forest Service hasn't figured this out yet, but it may be the result of curtailment of "ham" radio operators as result of the national defense program.

It doesn't take any primer of firefighting to explain what must be done to prevent recurrences of this sort of thing or fresh outbreaks of it in the forests in other sections of the country. Man can't control the weather, but if he lives on burnable land, he can get ready for trouble in times of drouth. State forest rangers and government agents will form a defensive front—but Regional Forester Evans says they can make little headway against drouth and the natural dangers if cigaret flippers, campers, picnickers, brush-burners and the arson boys don't help.

Someday I'll Find You

YESTERDAY: It was only by chance that Eileen Gardner found Martin Dane when she came on to try to make a place for herself in New York. And now she has found him, and knows that he really believes a woman has the right to court a man just as much as the other way round. She is deliberately trying to arouse his interest. Eileen and Martin are skating at Martin's camp in the Adirondacks. Chapter 21. House Divided. Martin bent without losing the rhythm of their waiting, and kissed her lightly. "And then, of course, the rest were scrambling down the bank, clinking onto the ice. Bill Grant had seen the sort of skater she was. He took her over. And presently she found he was talking—which was odd, because so far he hadn't except to indicate needs. "Sweet skater," he said. "Thought Caroline said you were a cashier from the lower East Side. Good dancer, are you?" Eileen said, "I come from a mountain state. I've skated and skied all my life. Yes, I dance all right too. "I like athletic girls," Bill went on. "But mostly they look like horses. Or they aren't stayers. You're little and cute. But I've watched you stay." She'd made a friend of Bill Grant. She hadn't known how she wanted a friend. More warmth than she knew was in her manner as she looked up and laughed and said "Thanks a lot, Bill." "Stayer! You had to be a stayer to earn a living! girl alone in New York. You had to go on and take it; poverty and monotony, head up under rebuff. Smiles, no matter what people said and did to you—good work, no matter how your body ached and ached, and so on. And this big kind fellow called her a stayer because she wasn't too tired to skate the day after an all-day drive! "I'm a stayer, too," he was saying. "When I say things I mean 'em." She answered she didn't know what her eyes on Martin and Caroline, swinging past them to "When I Grow Too Old to Dream." Her heart turned unbearably inside her. She'd have him to remember—hunting work—living hungrily and shabbily and lovelessly, for years after that. Bill said, "We'll get a swing band and dance tonight. O. K.?" "O. K.?" "So they danced that night. She was a novelty. She was a good dancer. But there are signs already that F. M. Waters, superintendent of Hendersonville schools, has the inside track for the place. These signs, like so many others may fall in dry weather, so don't be too harsh on your reporter if Xenophon Mitchell or Zasu Zilch is selected instead of Waters. The Hendersonville man did a stout bit of lobbying for the NCEA during the late and unlamented legislature; and is generally thought to be persona grata with those who will pick the man to take up where Warren leaves off barring, of course, the publication of a North Carolina history. The fact that Waters is a Broughton backer is attested by the fact that he's still superintendent of education in Hendersonville. Ghoulish. Congressman Lon Folger, after being critically injured in an automobile accident, died at 11:30 p. m. At 1 a. m., one hour and a half thereafter, and before rigor mortis had a chance to set in, Congressman Frank Hancock of the Fifth was roused from his bed by a long distance phone call regarding selection of a successor to Folger as Congressman and as Democratic national committeeman. Mule Dealer. The mule dealer's profession gained another practitioner when Tom Cooper, who polled more than 30,000 votes for governor in 1940, ran last in a field of seven, for city councilman in Wilmington Tuesday.

Short Shots

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, May 8.—Successor to Jule Warren as executive secretary of the North Carolina Education Association will not be selected with undue haste, according to all indications.

They danced that night. She was a novelty. She was a good dancer. But there are signs already that F. M. Waters, superintendent of Hendersonville schools, has the inside track for the place. Supreme court justices, when questioning attorneys arguing before them or when commenting on the case at hand, are usually very careful to give no indication of their coming decision; but this week there were two cases on which very logical predictions can be made on remarks made from the bench. When an attorney for Berlin Blue, 16 year old Indian under death sentence for murder, read an hour long plea for mercy, Justice W. A. Devin commented sharply: "Why that won't do!" It looks like a new trial for the youngster, because the judge told the jury, in effect, that on the defendant's own testimony a verdict of first degree murder was mandatory. The second case: During argument for a High Point Negro arrested for rape, Justice Heriot Clarkerson said to the defense lawyer: "You've got a case for the governor, haven't you?"

What Goes On? According to reports reaching Robert Grady Johnson, former prison head now doing special "defense work" for the highway commission while awaiting the date he takes over as ABC chairman, about 50 members of the 30th Engineers, U. S. A., arrived in his home town of Burgaw a few days ago, pitched camp, and now give every indication of sticking around for an indefinite period. Much mystery is being made of their presence, Johnson said. To all queries replies have been very vague though members of the cadre have intimated they will be in the neighborhood three or four months at least. Now Pender sees the possibility of new cantonment developments in the immediate Burgaw area.

He did not look at her. He said shortly, "Suit yourself." He walked out, leaving her alone with Lewis who had been working obliviously at a paper-strewn card table. Lewis was her enemy, but a frank enemy. They could have it out. Upset. "What have I done to them all? What's happened to Martin?" she asked. He said, "Nobody knows the answer to Martin Dane's whims. As for the others, if you didn't know how insiders treat outsiders, now's your time to learn. I've been through it in my day." His voice was grim; yet in a way he was allying himself with her. He added more gently, "Quit it, Eileen. Stay home today. You'll just get hurt some more. You've got more chance than a kitten with the dogs against her. I—I sort of hate to see it." He began repacking his brief case not looking at her. "Alley cat, you mean," she said. "I can take it, I'm going." She let Caroline slip quickly into the seat by Martin. She got up by the driver. Ike liked her. "Thought you'd have more sense Fool trip. Wears out the hosses," he grunted. She said cheerfully, "Not enough of me to wear out a horse." She drew him out, trying not to hear the laughter and talk behind her trying to enjoy the present, the balmy weather and bright sun. No body could have enjoyed the ride itself. It was as bad as Martin had said it would be. It varied between icy spots, slush and bare ground. As they neared the top even Caroline abandoned the idea of skiing down the other, unwooded side. The snow was obviously rotten. They could see the pools where the lake sunk, when the first turn showed it to them from above. "Blas't you, Martin, right as usual," said Caroline. "Hey, Ike, turn round, this going's vile." "Tain't no safe place to turn yet, he drawled. "Nonsense! I'm fed up with being bumped." "Can't," and "Hey, you can't," Ike and Martin said together. "We can too!" she was laughing. She flung herself forward and snatched the reins over Ike's shoulder. "You darn little fool, stop it—Ike began. She had wrenched the sleigh and horses halfway round on a glare of ice. Eileen heard a horse's shrill scream as the sleigh went over and flung her off and into deep, wet snow. To Be Continued

How To Take A Vacation On Uncle Sam

HOW TO TAKE A VACATION... By SAM JACKSON AP Feature Service Writer

San Francisco.—There are only a few hundred thousand people who know this—but if you have time on your hands during the summer you might spend a millionaire's vacation in one of Uncle Sam's national parks, and still come out money ahead. About May 15 every year an army of temporary help moves into these playgrounds. The recruits wait table, wash dishes, carry baggage, drive automobiles, play dance music, operate switchboards, do janitor and maid duty and act as clerks, guides, guards and hostesses. And outside of working hours, which seldom run more than a week, they enjoy all the scenery, sports and social life which the paying guests do. In many of the parks they are encouraged to shed their servitor roles in the evening and mingle with the patrons, especially at the dances and sports events.

College students generally have the inside track. At Yosemite park, California, where "Mother" Curry began employing college help more than a generation ago, the summer personnel problem is big business. Herman Hoss, who manages it has 1,200 summer jobs at his disposal, of which about 350 are for women. Most of them last from mid-May to mid-September, and the holders earn from $100 to $150 a month.

Dick Lobree earns his summer vacation in Yosemite park by washing dishes at the soda fountain.

RISE NOTED IN STOCK PRICES

Farmers Have Opportunity To Cash In This Year

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL Raleigh, May 6.—Rising livestock prices are giving Tar Heel farmers a chance to cash in this year on an opportunity that was presented to a lesser extent in 1940—and opportunity which figures on livestock and meat animals show they passed up. Figures released by W. T. Wesson junior statistician for the state department of agriculture, show that Tar Heel farmers slaughtered six per cent less cattle and calves and 8.6 per cent fewer hogs in 1940 than in 1939, although the average price of cattle and calves was higher last year than the year before. Prices for hogs were off. Despite this higher average price, however, cash income of Tar Heels from meat animals of all sorts was far under the 1939 total. Farmers received an estimated cash income from cattle and calves amounting to $5,150,000 (eight per cent less than the 1939 cash income of $5,616,000). Total from hogs was estimated at $15,282,000 (off 19 per cent from the 1939 yield of $18,825,000). Thus it is evident that as a whole farmers did not follow the leadership which is driving hard for a diversification of Tar Heel agriculture, with special emphasis on livestock production as opposed to heavy dependence on the big cash crops, cotton and tobacco. Although the war has sent cotton prices upward, the same emergency has knocked the bottom completely out of the tobacco market which is being propped up only by continued government assistance. These cash crops, together with peanuts, another item in the same category, made the most phenomenal gains in yields per acre last year. Record yields were reported for all three. Meanwhile an index of the State-Federal crop reporting service showed that yields of the state's 10 most important crops averaged 38 per cent above the six-year (1929-34) level. Latest price figures, released recently by T. L. Stuart of the state department of agriculture's statistical division, showed rising figures for livestock and livestock products and for most of the grains, although wheat was off ten cents a bushel to 93 cents on April 15. The Wesson figures indicate that there are more cattle and calves on North Carolina farms than there were last year, which seems to offer a chance to increase the number and poundage of animals slaughtered. As of January 1, 1941 the reported 684,000 head against 664,000 at the beginning of 1939. Hogs on hand January 1, however, dropped to 1,097,000 from 1,167,000 on the same date in 1939. An average of 61 pigs per litter, and a total of 1,277,000 pigs were saved from the 209,000 hogs reported farrowed in 1940. During 1940 Tar Heels slaughtered a total of 101,000 head of cattle and calves, or six per cent less than the 108,000 in 1939. Net production in pounds reached 94,715,000 live weight of cattle and calves or 125,000 pounds under the previous year's. The 1940 production returned growers an average price of $5.80 per 100 pounds for cattle and $7.90 per 100 pounds for calves, compared with $5.69 and $7.60 for cattle and calves, respectively, in 1939. Prices as of April 15 this year were given as $8.90 for cattle and $8.60 per 100 pounds for calves. The value consumed in the farm households last year was estimated at $177,000, which added to the $5,150,000 in sales values made gross cash income from cattle and calves $5,327,000 in 1940. Hog prices on April 15 showed an even bigger improvement over 1940 average than did the yield for cattle and calves. Farmers were receiving $7.50 per 100 pounds or $2.20 per hundred up from the $5.30 reported in April of 1939 and $1.70 up on the 1940 average of $5.80 per hundred.

Quail Invade Southport.

Southport, May 8.—A covey of quail have been making themselves at home on various unoccupied plots of ground, almost in the center of town. They are seen here and there, almost every day and are apparently not disturbed by people, dogs, or cats. One of the birds flew against a window of a filling station, three doors from the drug store, one day this week.

A "back-to-the-country" movement noted in Pennsylvania seems not to be a "back-to-the-land" trend but rather a "back-to-the-small-towns" movement.

Severin Gets Mound Call For Opening Game Tonight

TO USE TELLER FRIDAY NIGHT

Greenies Open 1941 Season With Tobs In Wilson

Manager Rube Wilson announced this morning that Bill Severin right-handed hurler holdover on the Greenville pitching staff, would get the call to the mound in tonight's opening game in Wilson and that Bill Teller, another right-hander, would get the call for the home game here tomorrow night.

The skipper was more optimistic on the opening day. Sonny Kracker, regular shortstop who has been looking good during training has been out with a strained back since the Rocky Mount game here last week. The skipper said that physicians had expressed belief he would be able to play tonight, but that he was not planning to take any chances. In case he is out of the line-up, the pilot plans to shift Harry Jenkins from third to short and use Hicks, relief catcher and utility man, to third.

The manager will be at his regular position at first base and Pin-trock will hold down second base. McGarity will be behind the plate. In the outfield will be Charlie Seay at right, Benny Goswe in center and Carraway at left.

New uniforms were issued yesterday and the boys will be all decked out when they take the field tonight. The team will leave here at 5 o'clock and the game is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock, the same hour the game will start here tomorrow night.

POWER VESTED IN COMMITTEE

Situation In Fifth Is Similar To One In The First

Reflector Bureau
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, May 7.—First important reaction to the death of Congressman Lon Folger of the Fifth District was, of course, the matter of selecting a successor and the unusual legal problem presented in that selection; but another significant, if secondary, point is the importance of the personnel making up the various Congressional district committees of the Democratic party.

The Fifth District Committee yesterday nominated John H. Folger, 60, Mt. Airy attorney, as the candidate to succeed his late brother. It has become abundantly clear—as it really ought to have been all along—that the committee is master of the situation. Hence the importance of the makeup of the Congressional groups. A candidate who can control the committee can become the party nominee with practically no difficulty.

There was an instance of this fact last year, but nobody seems to have paid much attention to it. It happened in the First, where Lindsay Warren, the then-sitting member, was permitted to name the district committee (he probably already had an idea he'd become Comptroller General of the United States). Thereafter it was like pushing little ducks in the water for him to force the nomination of his secretary, Herbert Bonner as his successor in Congress. This despite the fact that Benfort is far from the largest county in the district and has had the Congressman for so long most folks have forgotten when it didn't.

There was considerable grumbling, particularly in Pitt, but the law was plain—the Warren successor was to be named by the committee—and nothing could be done about it. That was an instance in which the nominee withdrew after his nomination and before his election. There was, and is, a specific law on that subject.

In view of the advanced age of several North Carolina congressmen, the chances are growing that the district committee of more than one Congressional unit will before long have the duty of picking a nominee. Nomination is the equivalent of election and it has been so long since a sitting Tar Heel was defeated within his own party, that election has become almost the equivalent of a guaranteed life tenure.

Nobody expects "Farmer Bob" Doughton to pass away in the immediate future, but the Ninth district representative was born way back in 1863; and so wise birds in the district who are interested in selecting, if not in being, his successor are likely to make strong efforts to control the district committee.

Other Congressmen who are getting well along in years include Zeb Weaver, of the Eleventh, who is 69; John H. Kerr of the Third, whose birth date isn't given in the N. C. Manual but who graduated from Wake Forest as early as 1895, which proves him no part of a spring chicken; W. O. Burgin of the Eighth, age likewise unstated but who was mayor of Thomasville in 1906; and J. Bayard Clark, Seventh, who is almost 60.

From there the ages run downward to Hal Cooley's 44, but the Folger tragedy showed that any one may be snuffed out like a cigarette stub anytime fate gets ready.

Sights And Sounds

Hollywood—"The Great American Broadcast." Screenplay by Don Ettlinger, Edwin Blum, Robert Ellis, Helen Logan. Directed by Archie Mayo. Principals: Alice Faye, Jack Oakie, John Payne, Cesar Romero. Four Ink Spots, James Newill, Nicholas Brothers, Wier Brothers, Mary Beth Hughes.

We'd never suspected it before, but now we know whom to blame or thank for the ceaseless flow of entertainment, alleged and otherwise that pours from the nation's loud-speakers. Handsome John Payne did it, with his big ideas, when he teamed up with that chap from the telephone line gang named Oakie, who had a sweetie named Faye who could sing.

The trio got together back in 1919 First thing anybody knew, they'd staged a flop broadcast in a tent in Jersey during a howling storm. Next thing, they'd clicked with an epochal broadcast of the Dempsey-Willard fight. Meanwhile Payne and Faye had discovered each other. Oakie had concealed his broken heart by socking Payne in the puss and that led to rivalry in the days that followed.

Payne and Faye's little station couldn't compete with rich playboy Romero's. Hankering after Alice Romero secretly backed Payne whose pride couldn't stand it. So Faye faded. The team became Romero, Faye and Oakie. But Alice carried the torch, and Oakie knew it. So what does he do? Aw, you know. It's that good old plot they used in "Tin Pan Alley" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and the others, and it's as good a plot as any.

The film runs 99 minutes, but it runs off with a fast pace—good comedy, clever gags, hit specialties abundant filling of ear and eye by the luscious Alice, extra-added asset: it never takes itself seriously.

Colored News

Because of the fine co-operation of the parents throughout the county through the P. T. A. and the rural churches in working with the teachers in the effort made to help the Colored Orphanage of North Carolina in the drive to raise funds for that institution this year, I am publishing this letter. I want the parents to know what their assistance to that cause has meant. Mr. K. T. Futrell has made a statement of the money raised recently through this paper.
Miss J. M. Donnell
300 Tyson Street
Greenville, North Carolina
Dear Miss Donnell:
We wish to take this opportunity to express to you, the teachers, pupils, and all concerned, our appreciation for the splendid work that you have done and are doing for the Colored Orphanage. When we come in contact with such fine people who are interested in the children and work here, we are given new hope with added determination

Please extend our sincere appreciation to all of those who took a part and those who worked so hard with you in order that the event might be a successful one. Because of this the boys and girls here will be made happier.
We wish you much success.
Yours very truly,
C. A. ALSTON, Acting Superintendent,
I. M. Donnell, Jeanes teacher.
