NAZI COMMAND CLAIMS HEAVY TOLL BY SUBS

Total of 110,300 Tons Claimed In Recent Action

ADMITS LOSS OF ACE COMMANDER

Nazi Credited With Daring Feat At Scapa Flow Is Given Up By Official Berlin As Lost

Berlin, May 23.—(AP)—German submarines have sent 10,300 tons of British shipping to the bottom of the Atlantic in recent operations, the Nazi high command asserted today, but it acknowledged that Germany's ace U-boat commander, Guenther Prien, had been given up for lost with his ship.

Nine of the British ships sunk were picked out of one convoy bound for England, the war bulletin said, and accounted for 70,900 tons.

Among them, it listed three tankers of 8,000, 10,000 and 13,000 tons and a "heavily-laden munitions steamer of 7,000 tons."

Another 18,000 tons of merchant shipping was said to have been sunk by submarine in lone attacks and in waters west of Africa, submarines sank 21,400 tons, the communiqué said.

"A submarine under Commander Guenther Prien has failed to return from his last cruise against the enemy," the communiqué disclosed. "Loss of this boat appears certain. Commander Prien, hero of Scapa Flow who has been decorated by the Fuehrer with oak leaves to the Knights of the Iron Cross in recognition of his outstanding merits, and his brave crew will live on in the hearts of all Germans."

Prien sank the British battleship Royal Oak at Scapa Flow October 14, 1939, when the war was less than two months old, and his feat in raiding a home base of the British fleet won praise even from the British for its daring.

Tactical Victory Is Gained By Hoey

Raleigh, May 23.—(AP)—E. B. Denny of Gastonia, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, today called for an open ballot when the committee meets here tonight to name a national committeeman, and added that he understood it would take a two-thirds majority to overrule his call.

This apparently meant that an open ballot was assured, and was a tactical victory for supporters of Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby, who are backing the former governor for the post.

The Hoey supporters say that they wish an open roll call vote. Backers of Richard J. Reynolds, Hoey's opponent, have been seeking a secret ballot.

Franklin Scott Gets "Wings" On May 29

Franklin H. Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Scott of Belvoir and brother of W. G. Scott, operator of the Proctor Hotel service station here, will be graduated by the Gulf Coast Air Corps Training Center on Thursday, May 29, at Brooks Field, Texas.

Scott is a member of Class 4-D and among the first from this section to complete the advanced flying course.

Treachery

Jerusalem, Palestine, May 23.—(AP)—A French colonel who crossed into Palestine from Syria to join Britain's forces in war over what he called "treachery and lying" by French mandate authorities, charged today that they had supplied French munitions to the Nazis for use in Iraq.

The officer, Colonel Collet, brought an undisclosed number of French officers and men to British soldiers and besought his fellow-soldiers still in Syria to follow him under the flag which, he said, "will save us and preserve our country from the slavery that is planned for it."

GIVES DETAILS FOR AIR BASE

Marine Project Likely To Be Located On Cherry Point

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—The Marine Corps disclosed details of a $15,000,000 marine air station it plans to establish on the Neuse river in North Carolina.

Testifying before the House Naval Affairs Committee on a bill which would authorize the project, Col. R. J. Mitchell, Marine Corps aviation head, said the station would be "the central home of the Marine Air Corps."

He added it would be a companion project to a $15,000,000 marine base now under construction in North Carolina on the New river, 30 miles away, for combat training of a full marine division of 14,500 men.

Col. Mitchell said the air station would have complement of 4,500 men, including officers.

Two locations were under consideration, he said, one at Wilkerson Point on the north side of the Neuse river in Pamlico county and the other at Cherry Point on the south side in Carteret county.

Col. Mitchell said no decision would be reached on a site for about a month. He explained that if the Pamlico site were chosen it would be necessary to construct 15 miles of railway line to the station, while only five miles would be needed on the Carteret side of the Neuse.

"I don't believe we are going on the north side," he replied to Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) when asked about the cost of constructing the rail connection.

About 4,000 acres of land would be needed at an estimated cost of $100,000.

Commander L. B. Combs, assistant chief of the navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks, which would have charge of the construction, gave the committee a breakdown of how the $15,000,000 would be spent.

SENATE GROUP DECLARES AIM TO UPHOLD ACT

To Oppose Any Move To Scrap Neutrality Measure

VIGOROUS FIGHT WOULD BE MADE

Sen. Nye Asserts Act Has Kept Us Out Of War Despite Impatience On Part Of Some Chieftains

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—Condemning Secretaries Stimson and Knox for their sharp criticism of the neutrality act, Senate opponents of administration foreign policy gave advance notice today that they would make a vigorous, last-ditch fight against any effort to repeal the present law.

"The fight against the administration's lease-lend bill will look like a pretty tame affair compared with what will ensue after any effort to repeal the neutrality act," said Sen. Nye (R-ND).

"While the administration thus far has found difficulty in inviting an incident challenging us into war it would have a much easier task without the neutrality law."

Nye said that President Roosevelt had "praised the act at the time it was passed as a measure of security against our involvement in war."

"The act, he added, has kept us out of this war so far despite the well-known impatience of the Knowses and the Stimsones to get into war."

Stimson declared yesterday that the act violated "our most sacred and important tradition of foreign policy—freedom of the seas."

Both said they were speaking as individuals.

Committee Files Exceptions To Commission Ruling

W. T. Kyzer, executive secretary of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and member of the Four-County Advisory Committee opposing efforts of the Atlantic Coast Line to remove passenger trains including one operating daily through Greenville from Kinston to Rocky Mount and return.

The Four-County Committee composed of representatives from Pitt, Lenoir, Edgecombe and Beaufort, waged a fight before the State Utilities Commission against the railroad's petition.

The commission, however, granted permission, with the provision that it reserved the right to order the service reinstated if it was deemed of necessity because of the present emergency brought about by the war.

The committee, in session in Kinston yesterday, authorized its attorney, I. M. Bailey, to file exceptions to the commission's findings. If the exceptions are overruled, the only appeal left open then would be to M. K. Blount, county attorney who has been taking an active part in the fight against the petition.

Dr. Pace Is Elected Medical Alumni Head

Pinehurst, May 23.—Dr. Karl B. Pace, of Greenville, was elected President of the University of North Carolina medical alumni at the annual banquet of former Chapel Hill students held here in connection with the State Medical Society convention. Dr. Pace succeeds Dr. Claude B. Squires of Charlotte, who presided over the meeting.

More than 100 physicians attended the dinner here and heard talks by Acting Dean W. Beece Berryhill of the University Medical School and Controller W. D. Carmichael. Other Chapel Hill guests included Colonel Joseph Hyde Pratt, Raymond B. Wolf and J. M. Saunders.

Dr. M. D. Bonner, superintendent of the Guilford County Sanatorium was named vice president of the medical alumni, succeeding Dr. Pace. Dr. J. F. Davis, of Hemp, and Dr. G. F. Parker, of Asheville, were named as executive council members.

Among faculty members of the Chapel Hill school present, each of whom received a round of applause from their former students, were Dr. I. H. Manning, Dr. W. deB. MacNider, and Dr. J. B. Bullitt.

Asserts France Will Never Hand Over Fleet To Nazis

Builder Of Home Defense

STATEMENT BY VICE ADMIRAL

Darlan Says No Such Request Made By Hitler, Nor Has Any Colonial Concessions Been Requested During Course Of Negotiations

Vichy, May 23.—(AP)—Vice Admiral Jean Darlan told the French people today that Adolf Hitler had not asked France for her fleet in current negotiations and declared firmly: "I will never hand it over."

Nor has Hitler asked for colonial concessions, said vice premier.

"The chancellor did not ask me to hand over my fleet to him," Darlan asserted in a broadcast. "Everyone knows—and the English better than anyone—that I will never hand it over."

"The chancellor did not ask me for any colonial territory. He did not ask me to declare war on England."

"Why has he acted so? "Germany began the war alone and judges herself able to end it alone against no matter what coalition."

"On the result of negotiations in course," Darlan asserted, "directly depends the future of France."

"It is necessary for her to choose between life and death. The Marshal and the government have chosen life."

Advices Local Group On Status Of Training Unit

O. P. Hebert, president of Safair Corporation, which proposes to establish an army cadet flying school here, was in Greenville this morning conferring with city officials and civic leaders on the status of the project.

Official requests have been filed with the Southeastern Training area at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala., under the direction of General Weaver to send an army examining committee here to inspect the local field. The field must be approved before the government grants a contract for the establishment of the school.

Mr. Hebert also has officially requested a contract for the operation of a school here. The application is on file now and will be acted on at the next meeting, the exact date of which has not been announced by the War Department.

While here Mr. Hebert also officially advised the local group that if he is successful in securing two contracts he will operate a school at Goldsboro similar to the one proposed for Greenville.

A maximum of 200 students is allowed at any one field and Safair Corporation is seeking two secure two contracts whereby he could operate schools here and at Goldsboro under the same direction. It was pointed out, however, that should the corporation operate at Goldsboro it would not curtail the local project in any way, if plans of the unit here are successful.

May Heat Records Fall As Mercury Hits 100's

2 Prostration Deaths Reported From Goldsboro

Greenville sweltered under an official 99-degree temperature yesterday, with indications that that mark would be reached or exceeded today. At 1:30 o'clock today the mercury was standing at 97 and still rising.

One year ago yesterday the top reading for the day was 85 degrees.

By The Associated Press
Carolians sweltered under practically cloudless skies today as the mercury broke all records with 97 to 101-degree readings.

Goldsboro and vicinity apparently had the highest temperature in both North and South Carolina. Goldsboro reporting 101 degrees, Louisburg also had a 101-degree reading.

The thermometer hit 100 at Winston-Salem, highest for May since 1887. Columbia, S. C., and Concord also reported 100-degree readings yesterday.

Other readings, virtually all setting highs for this time of year included Lumberton, Charlotte, Orangeburg, Gastonia, Statesville, Rocky Mount, Greenville, S. C., and Spartanburg, S. C., 98 degrees.

Two heat prostration deaths were reported from Goldsboro.

Many Conferences Are Set For ECTC

A number of institutes and conferences in various fields have been scheduled for the summer at East Carolina Teachers College in connection with the summer session of the College, according to an announcement today from the office of President Leon R. Meadows.

On June 18 there will be a Parent-Teacher Institute. The elementary principals of this section will hold a two-day institute for observation and conference June 24-26, one of a series of three being held in various parts of the state. Mr. Pruitt, principal of the Valdese school is in charge of the series.

On June 2 there will be seminar by the Association for Childhood Education, also one of a series in the state. This one will deal with some of the problems in child development in the first four grades. For it an interesting and helpful program is being planned, which will include speeches by leaders in the field, exhibits, and a dinner meeting.

In early July a Rural Education Meeting will be held. A conference of vocational home economics teachers, conducted by Miss Catherine Dennis, state supervisor of home economics education is scheduled for August 22 and 23. This will bring together such teachers to lay plans for the coming year's work.

Also tentative plans have been laid for two courses in home care of (Continued on page six)

URGES ACTION BREAK STRIKE

Maritime Head Would Employ United States Forces

By The Associated Press
Chairman Emory S. Land of the Maritime Commission today advocated use of United States forces to break up a strike of union machinists which has tied up work for two weeks at San Francisco shipbuilding yards.

He testified before a special Senate Defense Investigating Committee at Washington as the Defense Mediation Board renewed for a second time its efforts to settle a wage dispute between southern soft coal mine operators and the United Mine Workers union.

Land said "the most dire need in the world today" was ships as he explained he believed there was justification "for every possible step the government might take up to and including the use of United States forces—be they city, state or national—to take off this picket line."

Chairman Truman (D-Mo) said the committee proposed to "find out what is involved in the strike, why it has not been settled, and who is responsible for the country not getting ships."

Eleven shipyards in the San Francisco Bay area were closed when CIO and AFL machinists struck for double overtime and wages of $1.15 an hour, compared with time and a half overtime and $1.12 an hour offered by the companies.

The Mediation Board entered the soft coal wage dispute for the second time, finding the situation completely deadlocked. A board panel arranged to confer today with representatives of the CIO United Mine Workers and the Southern Appalachian operators, and tomorrow with the union and northern operators.

Coal experts said there is only 10 or 15 days' coal supply above ground.

K. T. Putrell, Pitt county welfare officer, today related how an old colored woman, who is receiving a monthly check from the Aid to Dependent Children fund, returned a $15 check received from another welfare fund.

After receiving the extra check, from the old age and surviving insurance fund, she took it to the welfare office and declared she did not feel that she was entitled to it since she already was receiving public assistance.

Native Of Greece Dies At Hospital

Gus Petros, a Greek, about 64 years of age, died in the local hospital at noon Friday after two weeks illness.

The greatest battle between air and sea power ever fought is probably now taking place off Crete, this source said. He acknowledged that some losses to warships were "inevitable," but called German claims exaggerated, "as usual."

(The Germans have claimed four cruisers, several destroyers, and a submarine were sent to the bottom, and his scored on a battleship, two destroyers and a number of other vessels.)

(The strength Britain mustered for her sea defense of Crete was indicated by the fascist editor, Virginio Gayda, who, without mentioning the island, reported at least five British battleships, two aircraft carriers and undetermined numbers of cruisers and destroyers in the battle.)

Mr. Petros is survived by one son, Chris Petros, two daughters Miss Helen Petros, and Mrs. Lemon Nicosos, all of Greece, two brothers John Petros of Richmond, Va., and Sam Petros of Greece.

Mr. Petros came to this country about 20 years ago and for the last 15 years has lived in Greenville and Kinston.

The body will remain at E. G. Wilkerson and Sons Funeral Home until after the service on Sunday.

The session of Masonic Hall school closed today. The regular work of the school was completed yesterday, but the pupils all met there this morning to receive their reports and to say goodbye to the teachers.

Now that the town has voted to establish a graded school, and the Masons have decided to sell their lot and building and put the proceeds in their temple room to be built, they will not carry on their school longer.

Jane Austen Book Club.
Mrs. W. C. Latham graciously entertained the Jane Austen Book Club on Wednesday afternoon, at her home in Stokes. The home was decorated with pink and white roses. After a business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. Latham, she introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Harry Biggs. He gave a splendid talk on "Colonial North Carolina." Beginning with the birth of Virginia Dare, he traced the political and cultural growth of North Carolina through the colonial period to 1776, when we won our independence from England. The hostess served a delicious dessert course in club colors of green and white. Special guests for the afternoon were Mesdames Cora Page, W. E. Hardison, Miss Beatrice Cherry and Mr. Harry Biggs of Williamston, and Mr. W. C. Latham.

Miss Forbes Entertains.
Miss Mary Forbes entertained at luncheon yesterday at one o'clock at the home of Mrs. E. B. Ferguson, honoring Mrs. James M. Moye and Mrs. Alex Dall, recent brides, and Miss Helen McGinnis, bride-elect of June.

Spring flowers decorated the rooms throughout. The brides' table held a centerpiece of white roses and on the other tables sweetpeas in pastel shades were used. The hostess presented corsages to her honor guests.

Club Meeting.
A most enjoyable meeting of the Past Matrons and Patrons' Club was held with Mrs. J. W. Parker in Farmville on Tuesday evening.

The club is composed of the Past Matrons and Patrons of Greenville chapter 149 Order of the Eastern Star. The president, Mrs. K. E. Rawl, presided, and it being the last meeting of the year, new officers were elected as follows: Mrs. F. L. Whitehurst, president; Mrs. C. T. Mumford, secretary; Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale, reporter. Twelve members responded to the roll call, and one visitor was present.

The home was lovely in a setting of spring flowers. The initiation of a new member, Mrs. N. R. Joyner, took place, and plans were made for a picnic for an early date, at which time the members will entertain their husbands and wives. It was voted to send a gift to one of our members, Mrs. J. H. Randolph, who has been ill in the hospital for some time.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. P. E. Wells and Mrs. E. B. Ray, served delicious refreshments, and departed.

Club Elects Officers.
When the Home Economics Club of East Carolina Teachers College elected officers for 1941-42 at the last meeting of the year, held this past week, the following were elected: President, Louise Taylor of Maples; vice-president, Marion Smith of Elizabeth City; secretary, Sue Parker of Pollockville; treasurer, Ovelia Price of Selma; reporter, Jewel Langley of Rocky Mount; program chairman, Mrs. C. S. Palmer of Timberlake; and social chairman, Ruth Bizzell of Newton Grove.

The club decided to give a fire screen as its gift to the Home Economics department. Edna Turnage of Greenville has been president of the club this year. Faculty advisers are Miss Katherine Holtzclaw and Mrs. Adelaide Blount.

Outdoor Vesper Service.
The traditional outdoor vesper service given each spring by the Young Woman's Christian Association of East Carolina Teachers College, "The House of Comradeship," will be held Sunday evening at 6:30 on the campus west of Wilson Hall.

Eleven girls chosen to typify the qualities that contribute to enduring comradeship have already been elected and will take part in the pageant of the building of the House, representing such traits as service, helpfulness, sincerity, understanding; but their names will not be known until Sunday night.

According to custom, the outgoing president, who is Miss Rebecca Ross of Aurora, and the incoming president, Miss Virginia Whitley of Nashville, will represent the spirit of the Y. W. C. A. and Love.

A prologue given by Bessie Fay Hunt of Wilmington, a member of both the old and new cabinet, will introduce the pageant, and there will be special music by A. L. Dittmer, head of the music department.

Chapter Five
Life In A Hovel
"They are friendly, helpful people," Anne remarked presently. "I thought they might be hostile and turn us away."

"That's the charm of Asia," said Sherwood, "you never know what you'll meet."
They were each given a cup of hot, rich broth. Mackey, his tooth still aching, fell into a restless sleep. Sherwood held a long palaver with the men of the hut and as many of the neighbors as could crowd into the room. Then he turned all the visitors over, looked Mackey over and came and sat down beside Anne.

and their wives. A litter of pups and three healthy grubby children, roses shining in their cheeks, frolicked in the center of the earthen floor.

Fight
One of the younger men cuffed one of the women, presumably his own wife, and she began squalling. He knocked her down. Anne glanced at Sherwood. He seemed undisturbed. The woman rose and grabbing a basin of cooked rice from the back of the stove threw it on the floor.
"His supper, I bet," whispered Sherwood.
The pups fell on the rice in a snarling, fighting mass. The man tangled his fingers in the woman's hair and began jerking her around. It was too much for Anne. Sherwood caught her arm and held her back. "Here! Here!" he admonished.

"I didn't mean to starve you," Blaze said.

She had drowsed a little and now glanced at him with those lovely eyes that were not round like a European's nor slanted like a Mongolian's but had that full elongated shape of the eyes of a gazelle. In fact they were Persian eyes. Sherwood told her so.
Anne smiled. "Harem eyes. But I don't think I'd be a very pleasant inmate for a harem. I've got too much energy."
"These people fancy you are the one who possesses the harem. They think Mackey and I are both your husbands, that we come from Tibet where polyandry flourishes. They judge Mackey is husband number one because he is the elder, but I—"
"Interesting people," said Anne looking around the room at the family—an old man, his two sons

"I can't stand it!" she cried.
"They'd both turn on you. These people aren't as sensitive to pain as we are. I've seen them barely whimper when their heads were cut open or the flesh scraped from the bones."
Suddenly the woman snatched up a wooden stool and brought it against her husband's ribs with a hearty whack, breaking one of the legs. She had been screaming and he haranguing her all this time. Now he became really impatient. He snatched open the door and threw her out into the storm, tossing the damaged stool after her. Those inside heard her crunch off through the snow muttering to herself.
Peace reigned again in the hut. The children and the pups rolled in play in the spot where the rice had been thrown. The other women resumed their reed-weaving, the men their smoking. Sherwood and Anne turned and gazed at each other and slowly began to grin.

Anne asked, "Do you suppose she's going home to mother?"
"I'll find out." After a parley with the old man he turned back with a laugh. "It's astonishing, but maybe you're right. He says she may go home to her mother for a while or she may sleep in the food with the sheep and return in the morning. You see these desert women have more independence than the Mohammedan women of the cities."
Mackey groaned and sat up, holding his aching jaw. Sherwood held him more aspirin.
"I have pulled teeth with a button hook for a tool," he confessed, "but this tooth is ulcerated and I hate to monkey with it." He massaged the jaw a bit, and then Mackey lay down again, he went and joined the children.

A Plan
Anne sat on the kang idly watching him, marvelling at how quickly he won the confidence of these mixed Turki and Chinese children. Presently he was playing cat's cradle with the eldest boy and the others leaned trustingly against his shoulders. The two women approached curiously and were soon talking to him. The native men dozed where they squatted against the wall, manly dignity preventing them from exhibiting curiosity.

Having seen Sherwood give Mackey medicine, the old woman showed him a cut on her arm. He disinfectant and banded the wound and gave her a little tablet to swallow for its mental effect.
"Anne napped a bit and was aroused by a hand on her wrist. Sherwood was bending over her. She sat up quickly.
"Pardon, I didn't mean to startle you." He dropped down beside her.
"You seem to have a way with women and children," she said, brushing her shining hair back from her forehead.
"I hope so," he grinned, and lowered his voice unconsciously. "I don't like our position here. We're not prisoners exactly but our host is the village headman, and he intends marching us down to Arishar, the capital, tomorrow. White men are not apt to be well received in that robbers' roost though red-headed women are highly prized." It took a moment for that to sink in, then Anne protested.
"But my hair's not red."
"Close enough, I fear—nearer red than black."
"So what?" she demanded.
"I don't know," in troubled tones. "Perhaps if you'd seem to become dreadfully ill they'd leave you here with the women. It's a two days' journey."
"It wouldn't be hard to fall sick here," Anne observed.
He smiled at that. "Shall I repeat what these women think of you?"
"Go ahead," though she felt a bit apprehensive at the twinkle in his eyes.

"They think that anybody keeping as clean as you are, must be in very poor health. And they pity you, profoundly, because you have no baby."
"Well," gasped Anne, and then she laughed. "If my college dean of women could hear that!"
"I learned something else," he went on, "the village scandal. Though she's ashamed of the fact and keeps it secret, that woman who was thrown out went to a British mission school in Khotan when she was a child. Perhaps you can talk to her."
Anne rose. "I'll go to the sheepfold and see if I can find her." She gathered up her possessions and left.

Man About Manhattan

New York—Stephin Fetchit's valet is a prize-fighter. He was loudly cheered when introduced at the recent Golden Gloves matches, but the judges were roundly booed when they gave him the decision. The crowd thought the other fighter won. It was so angry it was still roaring when the next fight got underway. The announcers, despite their amplifiers, were completely drowned out.
In her earlier days on Broadway Miriam Hopkins would live nowhere but in Greenwich Village. Now she demands handsome suites in expensive hotels overlooking Central Park.
I wish Judith Anderson had been cast in the leading role of "The Corn Is Green" instead of Ethel Barrymore. Miss Barrymore has won great praise and has received continuous plaudits since the play opened, but I can't forget Miss Anderson in "Family Portrait," nor cease regretting that I will never probably have a chance to see her in the Barrymore role. Her portrayal of Mary in "Family Portrait" was one of the two or three most memorable nights I have ever spent in the theater.

Announcement that the Theater Guild has received two new plays from that long-absent son of Manhattan, Eugene O'Neill, recalls that he was born exactly where the center of Broadway now is. But neither of the O'Neill dramas will be produced this season. They are so outspoken that the Guild fears censor trouble.
The recent snow storms may not be the heaviest in the history of this metropolis, but they caused more traffic snarls and, coupled with the bus strike, annoyed pedestrians more than any I remember. In nearly a decade of living in New York I remember only one or two instances of snow remaining in considerable quantity more than 24 hours on the streets. Last winter it was piled high for four days.

That new novel of the Civil War, "Hang My Wreath," reads like a comic strip. It doesn't go in for much character development, but not even Jack Armstrong, the All-American Boy, could get out of some of the situations you find in this short, fast novel. It was written by "Ward Weaver." The New York Times says it has a speaking suspicion that Mr. Ward Weaver bears a striking resemblance to an author known as F. Van Wyck Mason. A thumbnail description of Mr. "Weaver" on the book's jacket says he is a bachelor who lives in a cabin in the Sierra Nevada mountains. But when a reporter telephoned to inquire whether Mr. Weaver and Mr. Mason were one and the same, the publisher replied with elaborate subtlety, "Our lips are sealed."
What has become of Lucy Cotton, former showgirl who married millions and who, for a while, shaved her head so that she could wear wigs to match her gowns?

Loaf Shortage Seen In Georgia Milledville. Ga.—(AP)—Loafers of Baldwin county have been warned—in black and white—to go to work or go to jail.
Sheriff William L. Harrison is cracking down, serving advance notice in this newspaper advertisement:
"Beginning today we are going to check up on you who are loafing, and if you cannot prove you have a job, you will be given a chance to get one. If you do not go to work you are going to jail, charged with vagrancy. This applies to women as well as men. Sitting around waiting is no excuse."

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

LIFE AT ITS BEST

"I came that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly."

Modern statesmen and politicians have used the term "the abundant life" to describe what they want to give their constituents if elected.
"The abundant life" has been construed to mean a life lived in better houses, supported by a larger income, free from the debasing influences of poverty. Certain thinkers have used the term to describe no wide disparity between wealth and poverty and in which there would not be over-stimulated prosperity at one time and abject depression at another.

These are good things, but they are not "the abundant life." The things the politicians talk about today have to do with externals; the abundant life has to do with internals. We might achieve all these external things and still not have the abundant life.

The statement of Jesus quoted above defines the abundant life.
The abundant life is the coming of God into the human heart, made possible by faith in Jesus Christ.
This may result in the external benefits politicians speak about, and indeed should so result, but the abundant life is an inner condition of the heart. Men possess it when they learn the truth about God and yield their wills to His guidance.

ANOTHER ONE

Yesterday in this column
we referred to recent honors that had come to several local members of the medical profession and commented that we should be proud to have in our midst the high type of persons who receive recognition in their various statewide associations. Today comes the report of an honor to another local member of the profession in the announcement of the naming of Dr. K. B. Pace as president of the medical division of the University of North Carolina alumni. This newest addition only adds emphasis to what we said yesterday regarding our local members of the medical profession.

STILL PENDING

Following recent announcements that the Safair Corporation, of New York, had executed a contract with Goldsboro for the establishment of an army flying school there, subject to War Department approval, many local citizens have raised the question as to whether this action would supersede the previous contract made by the company for a similar school here.
The facts in the case are that the Goldsboro contract is for an additional school that the Safair Corporation wants to operate for the government and does not eliminate our chances for securing a school here if our facilities are approved by the War Department engineers when they visit Greenville soon to make their inspection.

WE HOPE THEY STICK

We hope that France will stick by its announcement today that under no circumstances would it ever turn over any part of its fleet to the Germans. Despite the fact that any statement from France at this time must be taken more or less with the proverbial grain of salt, the announcement to some extent will relieve American fears that France is going over entirely to the Nazis. Actions speak much louder than words, however, and the extent to which France goes in its present collaborations will have a lot to do with how much faith
we can put in its promises.

Short Shots

Raleigh, May 23 — Chancing thru the advertising section of the North Carolina Federationist, official publication of the State Federation of Labor, your correspondent looked into the strong, somewhat rough-hewn but not at all unhandsome features of Gaston's "Iron Major," State Senator Greg Cherry.
"Best wishes to the North Carolina State Federation of Labor," proclaimed the lines above and around the picture which being roughly translated means:
"Howdy, boys, I'm a candidate for Governor, you know, and I hope you'll vote for me."
Which reminds that it will be 1944 and another governor's race even before J. Melville Broughton gets around to all the school commencing in the state.

Business, Anyway.
Spied on Raleigh's main drag on Thursday, Durham's powerful Representative Victor Bryant denied the reporter's suggestion he was here way ahead of the state committee meeting of Friday in order to get the low down on the Hoey-Reynolds fight.
"No sir, I'm here on special legal business," he answered, then added quickly: "I know it's special and I hope it's legal."

Sandy Sideslips.
Sandy Graham, who hasn't been in the public eye much of late, was in Raleigh Thursday. He sideslipped any conversation about the Hoey-Reynolds scuffle by pleading that he doesn't get around enough to know anything of interest.

Survey.
Federal men are reported surveying thousands of acres near Orton plantation in Brunswick county, not so far from Wilmington; which may mean more defense projects for that section or may mean only that preparations are being made for the fall when some hundreds of thousand military maneuvers of this kind of soldiers will be set marching here and there on Carolina roads.

Aid To British Labor.
C. A. Fink, president of the North Carolina State Federation of Labor, has been named state chairman of the campaign to aid British labor.
He was appointed by Matthew Wolf, an A.F.L. official and chairman of the American Labor Committee to aid British Labor.

Mr. Fink has repeatedly set out the position of the state federation in hearty support of all aid to Britain.

Leafs Score Six In Eighth To Take Greenies 13 to 7

TELLER VICTIM OF LOCAL LOSS

Rocky Mount Plays Greenies Here At 8 Tonight

It was a good game in Rocky Mount last night for seven and one-half innings, but then the Leaflets scored six runs to hand the Greenies a 13-7 defeat and take over third place in the league standings.

The Greenies made three errors in the frame, which along with two triples, enabled the Rocky Mount team to take over a commanding lead. The Greenies made a total of six errors. Rocky Mount also played loose ball at times, making four bobbles.

Greenville pulled up to a 7-7 tie after having trailed during the early part of the game and it was anybody's victory until the fatal eighth.

Greenville staged a rally in the sixth which netted three runs and put them in a 7-7 tie. But then Preacher Weeks, regular Leaf outfielder, took over the mound duties and held the Greenies hitless for the rest of the game to get credit for the victory.

The two teams will resume play here at 8 o'clock tonight. Greenville and Wilson will engage in a week-end series, with the Saturday night game set for Wilson and the Sunday afternoon affair to be played at the local park. Greenville is trailing Wilson by a game and a half. A local victory tonight and a Wilson loss will make the series a crucial affair with first place going to the winner.

Crowe got three for four and Scagg three for five to lead the Greenies at bat last night. Finrock, Caraway, Wilson and Bullock each got one to account for the other Greenville outfielders. Crowe and Scagg each got a homer and Wilson and Caraway clouted doubles.

FARLEY TAKES A TRIP— SEES SHAKERAG MARVEL

By BO FARLEY

He's marvelous I tell you! Last week Harvey Clayton and I were on our way to spend the week-end in our old home towns. While riding along our conversation turned to baseball, particularly did we dwell on the "prospects" of the "Greenies."

Mr. Clayton told me about a pitcher that he had heard about that lived in Shakerag. One story in particular fascinated me about this cross-eyed lefthander. It seems that during a particularly close, hard fought game this southpaw had worked a marvelous game. He had allowed but two hits, struck out 20 batters and had knocked a home run that had enabled Shakerag to lead in the ninth inning by the score of 1-0. This last inning proved to be a hectic one for the Shakerag rooters. Up until this stage of the game, the defense of the Shakerag team had been flawless but at this point the southpaw's teammates got the jitters. The first batter went down swinging, the second hit a slow roller to the shortstop who threw wildly to first walking the runner to reach second. The next batter hit an easy fly ball to the centerfielder who dropped it. The runner on second advanced to third and the batter stopped at first. With this situation facing our lefthander, he saved his game by pulling a play that made baseball history.

Facing the most dangerous hitter that his opponents boasted he worked the count to two strikes and no balls. Getting the catcher's sign he took his stance on the rubber and made ready to deliver the ball. Apparently looking at the batter and with a motion that is peculiarly his own he delivered the ball. To the amazement of the batter as well as the spectators, instead of the ball coming to the plate where the batter took his third swing, its flight took it to the glove of the first baseman who put it on the astonished runner thus completing the only double play of its kind in baseball history.

After hearing of the exploits of this pitcher I asked Mr. Clayton to take me to Shakerag, in the hope of seeing this pitcher in action. Our luck was good, we found that Shakerag was meeting the boys from Chiling Switch in a double header that afternoon.

We saw this cross-eyed lefthander pitch both games. He was marvelous. How he has escaped the scouts this long is a mystery to me. If I am any judge of baseball talent I would say this player has everything.

Thinking that we might land this player for our Greenies, we had a talk with him after the last game. Like most "greats" he was very modest, "just thought of himself as a good country pitcher." We inquired of him, if he would be interested in coming to Greenville. His answer was that, "he didn't know nothing about town ball."

Our opinion is that he could be lured to town if some of our baseball men would go to see him and let him glimpse a few greens.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS
Car. Sales 8, Blount-Harvey 3.
Pepsi Cola 9, Double Cola 5.

Carolina Sales defeated Blount-Harvey 8-3 last night to reduce the department store's softball team's lead, while Pepsi Cola handed Double Cola its fifth straight loss of the season, winning 9-5.

With a league of only four clubs, the loop is playing a fine brand of softball this year. They play only when the Greenies are out of the city, but despite this the attendance so far has not been up to expectations. Sport fans are urged to go out and watch the softball teams in action when the Coastal Plain team is out of the city.

Dudash, Carolina Sales hurler had little trouble in taming the Blount-Harvey team last night, holding his foes to only three hits while his mates were garnering 11 safeties.

In handing Double Cola its fifth loss, Singleton, Pepsi Cola hurler, yielded 11 hits, but proved effective in the pinches and had good support from his mates. Ed Wells gave up seven hits, but the winners made the most of them and capitalized on every opportunity.

About 80,000,000 people attend motion picture shows each week in the United States.

TWO ARE TIED FOR MEDALIST

Sixty-Five Entries Of Eight League Cities

The Eastern Carolina golf tournament got under way here today with 65 entries following yesterday's qualifying rounds in which Study Carr of Greenville and Jack Taylor of Wilson tied for low medalist with 74 each.

The two will play off the tie during the tourney, which comes to a close tomorrow. A trophy will be presented to the winner.

Four flights are scheduled for the two-day tournament, including the championship, first, second and third flights.

The qualifying rounds were run off yesterday and golfers flocked to the course today despite the hot weather. Players may play the 36-hole match any time during the two days.

Trophies will be presented the winners and runners-up in each of the four flights and also to the low medalist in the qualifying round.

PETE BUBBLING WITH LEARNING

Murphy Says Too Many Statesmen Been Neglected

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, May 23.—"Pete" Murphy sage of Salisbury, was full and running over with learning and history Thursday and as a result this corner learned as much about certain illustrious North Carolinians as its conductor's rather slow mind could grasp and retain.

The elder statesman started off by explaining that he isn't in Raleigh for the meeting of the state executive committee which will settle the Hoye-Reynolds battle—"If I were a member I'd have voted long ago," he quipped—but to attend to other business.

He went on to say that he will attend the meeting of the University of North Carolina trustees on June 7 ("I haven't missed one in 40 years why should I start now?" he exploded when it was suggested he might be there). Also, it appears, he is a member of a committee charged with selecting names for some half a dozen buildings in Raleigh and at Chapel Hill.

There's where the illustrious Tar Heels of the past came in. He cited a trio whom he says the powers that be have too long neglected to honor.

They were—as well as this correspondent can recall without having taken written notes: (1) Dr

Samuel McCorkle, an early preacher of some sort or other who, Pete avers, was responsible for foundation of the first normal school in the state; (2) Leonidas K. Polk, a fighting bishop who ministered to the spiritual needs of a Louisiana flock and was a battling general of the confederacy until slain at Stone Mountain near Atlanta; and (3) John H. Eaton, secretary of the navy under Andy Jackson and who nearly broke up the entire cabinet by marrying the famed Peggy O'Neill.

While indicting the University of North Carolina administrators for not recognizing the worth of the illustrious dead, Pete fell to deploring the general lack of knowledge of North Carolina's history.

Not so long ago, he related, the publishers of a Tar Heel history text book which has not yet made its formal appearance on the market sent him a copy of its proposed effort with the request that he look it over, find and point out such errors as he might discover.

"When I had found 211 mistakes in historical matters I mailed it back to them without looking any further," he said disgustedly. It seemed they had even moved on to Johnston from Edenton to Guilford which was a grievous offense in the Murphy eyes.

"Major, have you read the Newsome-Leffler text?" queried the reporter. "Yes, I have, but you needn't ask me about it—that's a matter-in-controversy," he replied. Thereafter, Mr. Murphy's historical learning—great as it is—ran over no longer.

'Petain Streets' Abound In France Vichy.—(AP)—The epidemic of renaming French streets has lost its first prominent would-be victim. At the Marshal's own request, Lyons scuttled a proposal to change the historic name of its Bellecour Square to Marshal Petain Square.

There are few spots left in unoccupied France and North Africa that have not been rechristened a street or square for the Chief of State. Heaviest casualties have been suffered by those bearing the name of the late Republic or of Jean Jaures, venerated Socialist leader, both of which were considered indispensable in municipal nomenclature.

Most larger towns have a thoroughfare named after the United States and another after President Wilson. Nice still has its famous Promenade des Anglais (Englishmen's Promenade).
