ICKES CHOSEN FOR NEW DUTY BY ROOSEVELT

Given Job of Keeping Gasoline And Oil Flowing

GIVEN TITLE OF ADMINISTRATOR

Appointment Gives Weight To Prediction That U.S. May Be Forced To Resort To Gasless Sundays

Hyde Park, N. Y., May 31.

(AP)—The appointment of Secretary Ickes to the job of keeping gasoline and oil flowing in adequate supply for civilian and defense needs was announced today by the temporary White House.

Ickes who has been federal oil administrator for years, received the new title of "Petroleum Coordinator For National Defense." President Roosevelt, in a letter instructed the Interior Secretary to make "specific recommendations" for "action which is necessary or desirable."

As problem for immediate action the President listed:

1. Development, production and utilization of reserves of crude oils and natural gas that are of "strategic importance both in quality and location."

2. Elimination or reduction of cross hauling of oil products, existing transportation and storage facilities.

3. Balancing of refining operations to obtain: Maximum yields of specific products, most economical use of raw materials and efficient production and distribution.

4. Elimination of the drilling of unnecessary wells and of "other unnecessary activities and equipment."

The appointment gave extra weight to Ickes' press conference Thursday that civilians might have to give up Sunday drives and return to "gasless Sundays" of World War days. He said transportation difficulties were impeding deliveries of oil to the east.

Camp Davis Water Found To Be Pure

Raleigh, May 31.—(AP)—Reports of water poisoning at Camp Davis have been investigated by the State Bureau of Investigation, it was learned here today, but the water was found to be pure and no hint of sabotage was uncovered.

Six bottles of water were sent from the camp, an anti-aircraft base in Onslow county to Raleigh. The water was analyzed by chemists at the request of the FBI and although traces of arsenic were found, they were in minute quantities.

A law officer who asked not to be quoted by name said there were traces of arsenic from natural sources in all water in North Carolina.

He said the Camp Davis water was compared with drinking water in one of the state's principal cities and that there was more arsenic in the city's water than in the camp's water.

"There is absolutely no basis to suspect water poisoning at Camp Davis," he added.

NO SABOTAGE ATTEMPTS SEEN

All Quiet Reported At Defense Plants In Nation

(By The Associated Press)

"All quiet" was the word today from defense factory and waterfront, power plant and oil fields, but watchful soldiers, police and civilians continued an alert patrol against any hint of the sabotage which an undercurrent of rumor had predicted for Memorial Day.

The guards were called to duty yesterday at strategic centers throughout the nation, apparently as a result of the warnings from the FBI in Washington. But the only reported arrest result was the arrest of a man caught crawling through a fence at an ordnance plant at Milan, Tenn.

Military officers did not comment on the source of orders for the alert, but civilian authorities in several communities said the FBI had recommended extraordinary vigilance during the holiday week-end.

Six Per Cent Compound Interest Babson Urges Us Not To Forget It

Babson Park, Mass., May 31.—While the newspapers are filled with war news and it looks as if the world might go to smash, it is well to remember a few fundamentals: God is still reigning in His heavens; the trees are budding as they have every spring; and compound interest is going on just the same every day, including Sundays and holidays!

Rockefeller And Edison
When I graduated from college I went to work for a Boston banking house at $6 per week. I was fairly contented until I read a story of how John D. Rockefeller, Sr., got his great wealth. Said he: "When I was working at $6 a week, I learned that if I could save $100, the interest on this amount at 6 per cent would give me as much as I was earning in one week; that when I could save $400, the interest would

No Explanation Other Than For Diplomatic Reasons Given For Declining to Release Ambulance Drivers Who Were On Their Way To Join General De Gaulle's Free French

San Sebastian, Spain, Near the French Frontier, May 31.—(AP)—A group of 113 American survivors from the German-sunk Egyptian liner Zamzam crossed the frontier into Spain today, but 21 others, American ambulance drivers, were held by the Germans at Biarritz in Nazi-occupied France with no explanation except "diplomatic reasons."

Two of the ambulance drivers, Charles McCarthy and Langford Harris, were among the freed survivors of the Zamzam who reached Spanish soil.

Their passports were marked "Student" and it was said the Germans did not realize they also were ambulance drivers. The corps was headed for service with General Charles de Gaulle's Free French forces still warring against Germany.

The men who crossed into Spain were compelled to leave all their baggage behind. The women were allowed to bring hand luggage.

The Americans who crossed into Spain said the German navy had been in charge of all survivors until yesterday, when a representative of the Berlin foreign office arrived and took over.

This representative, they said, was the man who ordered the ambulance drivers held, saying their case would be decided in Berlin.

Germans to whom they talked, the Americans said, referred repeatedly to "bad treatment" they said was given German sailors arrested in American ports.

ALUMNI STAGE ALL-DAY FETE

Program Gets Under Way With Address By Dr. Meadows

Come together from all over the eastern section of the state, alumni of East Carolina Teachers College met at the College this morning for Alumni Day, which began with a morning program featuring a short address by President Leon R. Meadows on the past growth of the institution and trends in its development for the future, and the presentation of the Alumni Award to the retiring president, Mrs. B. M. Bennett of Forest City; and will close with the Senior Allegiance Service on West Campus at 6:30 this evening. The music recital will follow at 8:30. A luncheon was held at 1 o'clock. In the afternoon President and Mrs. Meadows were to entertain at tea for alumni and faculty in their home on Fifth street.

At the morning program the Women's Chorus directed by Miss Guskie Kuykendall and accompanied by Yvonne Alderman sang "Little Lamb," by Dett, and "Song of the Pedlar," by Williams; and Mrs. W. E. Franklin of Portsmouth sang two solos, with Mrs. Guy Smith of Greenville accompanying.

In his address, President Meadows, after speaking briefly of the past growth of East Carolina Teachers College, turned to the expansion of its work to meet the needs of tomorrow, which, he said, "may be very different from those of today."

Dr. Meadows declared that we have never really democratized our education but instead have imposed an aristocratic education on the masses, that we must develop an education to meet the needs of the man in the street, that we must re-write our history in terms of the agriculture, the mechanics, and the industry of the common man instead of dynasties and wars.

Then he suggested certain means of accomplishing this: studying community life more, developing courses at the College to help students know more about community problems and putting greater study on the different needs of different children. This, he said, will necessitate a more careful selection of those who are going to teach, so as to choose only those who are truly interested in people and in the ideas that are worthy of being promoted.

In making the citation for the Alumni Award, an honor bestowed each year on some graduate who has made notable contribution in some field, J. B. Cummings, a member,

Plan Educational Drive To Reduce Forest Fires

Reflector Bureau

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, May 31.—The state administration will next week launch a campaign which not even its most carping critics can claim is political or inspired by selfish motive—a drive to put the critical forest fire situation squarely before the public and enlist popular support by education to the dangers and disastrous destruction wrought by woods fires.

Appropriately the agency conducting the campaign will be the forestry division of the Department of Conservation and Development, action under specific instructions from and with the wholehearted support of Governor J. Melville Broughton.

The division is armed with statistics which will be presented by speakers, through the press and over the radio in many places as

COTTON STAMP PLANS TALKED

Meeting Held Yesterday In Agricultural Building

At a meeting of interested representative business men and farmers from the western sections of the county held in the county agent's office on Friday afternoon, Elwood R. Willis of the Surplus Marketing Administration, explained the operation of the Cotton Stamp plan as it relates to merchants handling cotton goods.

A county committee composed of O. P. Matthews as chairman, S. T. White, H. L. Hodges, J. H. Waldrop, P. R. Taylor, H. T. Stokes, J. R. Harvey, A. W. Ange, G. L. Rouse, T. C. Turnage, J. H. Harris, R. A. Fountain, K. R. Wooten, Mack G. Smith was appointed to assist the Surplus Marketing Administration and county agent in an advisory capacity, on matters regarding the Cotton Stamp program as it relates to the retailers of cotton goods, the farmers and the general public.

A general meeting of merchants handling cotton goods in the county, as well as farmers and business men, has been called for Thursday night, June 5, at 8 o'clock in the court house, at which all of the above groups are urged to be present and hear the program discussed in detail. At this meeting every opportunity will be given for those attending to ask questions regarding all phases of the program. It was pointed out by Elwood R. Willis, area representative, that the Cotton Stamp plan has as its purpose the increase in consumption of cotton goods and the use of raw cotton, and a resultant improvement in the living conditions of the citizens living in the cotton producing sections of the nation.

He further stated that Cotton Stamps will be available after July 1 and urged that all merchants handling cotton goods as well as other business men and farmers attend this meeting that they may have full and complete information prior to that date.

Crete's Fall To Invaders Is Complete

Fate of Suez and Alexandria And Britain's Last Claim To Naval Dominance In Eastern Mediterranean May Depend On Iraq Defense; Lines Already Solidified In That Battle Area

(By The Associated Press)

With the envelopment of Crete seemingly complete, save for formal British acknowledgement of Axis victory, Britain won today her war within a war in Iraq and solidified that Middle East front for another defense against the Germans and Italians.

The future of the war, the fate of Suez and Alexandria and Britain's last claims to naval dominance of the eastern Mediterranean probably depend on how well and how fast she can re-shape her lines in Iraq.

British motorized forces pressed into the outskirts of ancient Baghdad—today a place of riot. The government of Iraq was reported to have been overthrown and a new government of Iraq was reported to have been formed.

Iraq's rich oil fields appeared surely as the answer to the war's demand for a great new battlefield.

The German high command said the pursuit of British and Greek forces eastward over the mountain and coastal plains of 100-mile-long Crete was tightening an Axis vise on the last die-hard defenders of the Greek island.

The Germans were reported about to make a junction with Italian forces landed on the eastern end of Crete in the last stages of the invasion.

The high command said some of the British and Greeks had fled to the island of Gavdos, 25 miles off the south coast of Crete, where the Nazi air force pursued them with bombs and machine guns while also blasting at Crete's southern ports to smash the new Dunkerque.

Other defense forces were reported seeking the comparative safety of Egypt in what boats they could muster on the Cretan shore.

The London war office, after a 14-hour silence, denied a Nazi report that Major General B. C. Freyburg, commander of British Imperial forces on Crete, had fled and died in a plane crash.

"We are glad to announce that he is alive and with his troops," said the war office statement.

In the western air war, Nazi bombers struck at Liverpool, South Wales and other targets in Britain while bad weather kept the Royal Air Force at home. Unidentified planes roared over neutral Dublin, dropping three bombs which killed 30 persons and injured perhaps 100.

Miss Hoell Honored

Entertaining Tuesday evening at eight o'clock at her home in Grimesland, Mrs. Dan White was hostess at a beautifully appointed bridge party and miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Juanita Hoell, attractive bride-elect of June.

Arriving at eight o'clock, guests were greeted by the hostess and sweethearts, who were a corsage of sweet peas and pink roses, a gift of Mrs. White. The hostess invited guests into the double living rooms, where heart progressions were enjoyed throughout the evening. The rooms were most attractive with bowls of spring flowers and lacy green. Pastel sweet peas, roses and poppies in delightful arrangement were placed upon the flower and occasional tables and were further reflected in the floral appointments. The mantel of the main living room was centered with an exquisite bouquet fashioned of softly tinted larkspur interwoven with lacy fern in a low bowl of silver. A miniature bride and bridegroom beneath a showered arbor was placed just before the colorful centerpiece and white cathedral tapers burned at either end of the mantel. The reception hall was lovely for the occasion, with a large crystal bowl holding spring flowers, flanked by tall white candles which was placed upon the console table and the smaller tables was marked with a bouquet of white roses. Tally cards passed prior to the games were inscribed with wedding cakes. The chair where the honoree and bride-elect was seated, was designated by a large box of white bridal satin.

Following progressions, high scorer, Mrs. Leslie Elks, was presented iced tea glasses, and Mrs. Mayhew Godley, second high scorer, was awarded a double deck of playing cards. The floating prize, a novelty basket containing candies, was won by Mrs. Casper Galloway. Miss Hoell was remembered with crystal, a gift of the hostess. At the refreshment hour a delicious chicken salad course was served with dainty open face sandwiches, pickles, celery, potato chips and nuts. A miniature umbrella showered with small bows of ribbon marked each refreshment plate. Prior to goody Miss Hoell was called to the door to receive a "package," a large basket decorated in red, white and blue, which contained the profusion of lovely gifts which she opened and displayed.

Guests were: Miss Hoell, Mrs. W. P. Galloway, Mrs. Earl Galloway, Mrs. G. P. Carr, Mrs. R. T. Rouse, Jr., Mrs. Hicks Galloway, Mrs. J. H. Brooks, Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. Lloyd Whitcomb, Mrs. Curtis Rose, Mrs. Clinton Elks, Mrs. Theodore Dixon, Mrs. Leslie Elks, Mrs. B. F. Practical Method for the Church School will be given by Miss Margaret Brett of Murfreesboro. This course is designed especially for church school teachers who have not been scientifically trained. Miss Gladys Gaines, who has had wide experience with educational work in the Dioceses of Texas, Alabama and Virginia, will lead courses on Program Planning for Youth Organizations and The Art of Christian Youth Leadership. The Rev. J. R. Rountree of Kingston will offer a course on The Spiritual Development of Children, while the Rev. W. Tate Young of Fayetteville will conduct one on Worship.

Additional information in regard to the conferences may be obtained from the Rev. Stephen Gardner, Washington, N. C. Much interest has been manifested in this addition to the training center and a good attendance of both men and women is expected. Camp Leach is on the Pamlico river, 14 miles below Washington.

which will precede the opening of the dance. Included in this musical aggregation are a number of Warner Brothers' picture stars and Viola Smith, regarded as America's fastest girl drummer. Pastor features Eugene Baird, as lovely as she is melodious, and Johnny McAffee as vocalists. The maestro is a "Connecticut Yankee," born in Middle-town less than 30 years ago.

The scene of the German will be the Mangum warehouse on North Church street and it is according to Hoyle that there shall be two bands for the German, for spectators for the dances arrive upon the scene soon after 8 o'clock. For their benefit a concert is presented from 8:30 until 10:30, when Miss Carroll will vouch the baton to Pastor.

Five thousand five hundred invitations have been engraved for the dance and attendance is by card only. There is no charge for the affair, but no dancer is admitted to the scene of the event without a card and formal dress. Invitations are distributed through club members, each being allotted a number of bids.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bruce Lea will lead the honorary club members' figure and in this Governor and Mrs. Broughton, the Honorable Harold D. Cooley and Mrs. Cooley, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Daniels, A. J. Maxwell and Mrs. Maxwell, with other distinguished guests have been invited to participate. Mr. and Mrs. Marvin D. Robbins will direct the figure and Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Battle will assist Mr. and Mrs. Lea.

Dr. Coyte Minges will lead the active members' figure with Miss Sue Barrett of Greenville, and will be assisted by Harvey Roberts and Miss Marion Simpson. J. D. Winstead, Jr., and Miss Kathryn van Tassel, Guilford Worsley, immediate past-president of the club, will direct the figure and will have Miss Sue Taylor Myers of LaGrange, as his guest.

The annual June German will bring together thousands of college boys and girls, as well as older guests from all over the nation and will serve this year as a reunion for many "soldier boys" in training or already in service in various branches of defense. The club has a number of its active members in service and Dr. Minges was recently appointed captain by member of staff of Duke University Base.

On the night of the dance recognition and sympathy for war sufferers will be evidenced through a British War Relief booth, where donations will be received and where contributing will be given souvenir pins.

SEEING THROUGH MY WINDSHIELD

By V. rona Lee Joyner H. D. A.

Many of the Home Demonstration Club members that had planned to can garden peas, squash and beans this week were disappointed. The dry weather had damaged some of the vegetables in the garden considerably. A good rain in the near future would mean many more quart jars of vegetables on the pantry shelf next winter.

Washington Letter

Washington, D. C.—The constitution has stood some hard knocks in the past from partisan discussions of the U. S. Supreme Court, and it will stand the extraordinary and contradictory decisions handed down this week in the insular cases.

There is not the slightest doubt that a majority, a vast majority of people of this country regard the constitution as the best protection of their liberties, and to doubt that they will resent its being juggled with in order to make it meet the exigencies of the McKinley administration is to doubt their intelligence.

ing and educational talk on "Health" before he crowned Isabelle Barnhill, Stokes senior queen of health for the second time and J. H. Gukin, Belvoir, senior king of health.

From our Junior 4-H Club members Jean Forbes, Stokes was crowned Junior Queen of Health and Walter Langley, Pactolus, Junior King of Health. No greater honor could have been bestowed upon any youth in the county than the crown put upon each of those four by Dr. Ennett as being the most nearly perfect physically among the 4-H Club members in Pitt county. All of us present were proud that we had such a beautiful queen and such a handsome king in our own Pitt county.

An hour of get acquainted musical games were enjoyed at the conclusion of the program.

stry division believes at least 99 per cent of all blazes are man-made and capable of being prevented by proper measures.

To prove its thesis that fires are preventable the division cites comparative figures on privately owned and federally owned woodland in North Carolina, admitting of course that the federal forests are in general less thickly populated, more remote and therefore easier to protect under normal circumstances.

Nevertheless the division believes there is much room for improvement in the protection afforded non-federally owned forests, in view of the vastly better record shown where there is systematic protection and prevention work.

For the five year period 1936-40, there were, on the average 4,339 fires per year on non-federally owned woodland, burning over an average of 423,242 acres annually and doing an annual average damage of $752,395. These figures are for approximately 17,000,000 acres of forest land.

On federally owned lands which are given adequate fire protection the average comparative figures for the same five-year period show 78 fires, burning over 1,700 acres and doing $3,400 damage each year. This on some 1,400,000 acres.

In 1936 90 per cent of all the acreage burned by forest fires through out the United States was on lands without organized fire protection. In 1937 this figure was 94 per cent, and in more recent years it has remained about the same.

During the eight years from 1933 through 1940 the average fire in counties with state-federal protection burned 60 acres and did estimated damage of $106. During the same period the average fire in counties with this protection burned 888 acres and did damage of $1,447. Thus protection cut the average fire area to less than one-tenth of that where there was no protection and reduced the loss to less than one-tenth.

ACTIVITIES OF THE BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMAN'S CLUB

CONVENTION GUEST

Mrs. David Simms, of Hastings, Nebraska, chairman of international relations for the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the North Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs to be held on Saturday, June 7, at the Ocean Terrace, Wrightsville Beach.

Mrs. Simms' subject will be, "South of the Equator," on which she is well qualified to speak, having made a number of visits to Latin American countries in recent years.

Mrs. Ruby Day Barfield, of Durham, president of the North Carolina Federation, will preside at the banquet, and Mrs. Orlean B. James of High Point, recording secretary, will introduce the speaker. The Greenville club will be hostess on this occasion.

Mrs. Simms probably holds the record for making speeches on international relations. She has given more than 200 talks in one year on this subject, and crossed the continent twice in one year to keep speaking engagements. During the summer of 1939, she attended Oxford University, England, mingling with students from 31 countries. She has attended the conferences on the Cause and Cure of War, conducted round tables, and attended the Geneva, Switzerland, Institute on World Affairs, and the Women's Disarmament Groups. She also took the night lecture course of the Geneva International Summer School.

Mrs. Simms represents several steamship companies and has conducted tours to Europe, South America, and Central America. In November, 1940, she traveled in Cuba, Panama, Nicaragua, and Honduras returning to the states in December. "I am just an ordinary woman," Mrs. Simms says, "interested in world peace. I think our club should work closely with the government and bring public opinion to the point where it demands peace. There is power in the voice of the people if that voice is big enough. It is our job to make it big."

Town and Country Get Together

Ada, Okla.—(AP)—Mrs. Jessie Morgan, Pontotoc county home demonstration agent, reports that farm women near here have a unique "swap" scheme. In the canning season many farm women have more food than they have jars in which to preserve it. City women have more jars than food. So Mrs. Morgan arranged for the city women to swap empty jars for full ones. More than 600 jars were exchanged.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

COURAGE
One thing which must have impressed all the people who heard our Lord preach was His supreme courage.

The common people of that day hated the Scribes and Pharisees and in their hearts despised them.
But they were afraid of them. If they dared to disagree with these religious leaders, they might have their livelihood cut off or find themselves in some way denoted in life. Accordingly there was scarcely a man among the associates of Jesus who did not fear the Pharisees of that day as heartily as he despised them.

But what made His hearers so greatly admire Jesus was that He appeared to be afraid of no one. He held up to scorn the hypocrisy of church officials. With vibrant anger in His voice, He denounced the avarice and dishonesty of these money-loving Tories. He was perfectly at home in the presence of either rich or poor, although He did not hesitate to speak frankly to both about their vices. There was a dignity about this Man as he walked among His fellows. There was such courage displayed in every word and act that even the most cowardly looked upon Him with the hope that perhaps some day they might catch something of this bravery and be men indeed. He was as gentle as a child, yet everyone trembled before His quiet power and marveled at His courage.

His simple declaration, "Be not afraid."

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT IT?

During the past two weeks since M. K. Blount announced for Congress and in this column we urged Pitt County to get together behind the one candidate to increase our chances of electing a Congressman next year, we have received many favorable comments on our suggestion.

One of the chief reasons Pitt County has received so little recognition in years past is that it seems that we have preferred to split up and fight each other rather than fight for something for Pitt County. In the more recent months our county has received some recognition in the way of state appointments simply because when we have presented a candidate for an office we have given him our united support. The same united support behind a Pitt County candidate for Congress in next year's primary would no doubt result in victory for our candidate.

Despite the fact that there seems to be a growing realization in our county that the way to get something is to stand together, there have been numerous reports within the past few days that at an early date there might be other Pitt County entries into the Congressional race.
While we realize that Pitt County has many men qualified for the office and that among them there are some who might aspire to the po-

Brother Against Brother sition, frankly we believe that the best way to make sure that Pitt County will not get a Congressman is for the county to have a multiplicity of candidates. According to information coming to us, there are at this time at least three or four potential candidates in this county waiting only for someone else to break the ice before they jump into the race.

We are sincere in our plea to these aspirants for the office that they do not enter the race against the one candidate we already have. It is not a matter of personalities, for we wish it were possible for all of you to run and get elected, but we repeat that we believe the entry of even one more Pitt county candidate into the race will bring in several more, with the result that ultimate defeat of all our candidates will be assured.

We couple this plea to the potential candidates to stay out of the race with our plea to the citizens of Pitt County to get together behind the one announced candidate we now have for the office and do everything possible to nominate him in next year's primary.

We have taken this stand in this matter because we believe it is in the best interest of Pitt County to do so, but we will welcome the comments of our readers on the subject regardless of whether or not you agree with us. Our public forum is open to you for a full and free discussion of this question.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Notes from the Capital scene:
Imagine the surprise of the gents in the Maritime Commission the other day after spending hours on press releases telling how the last of their ghost fleet of World War merchant ships had been put back into commission, then discovering one skeleton still in the closet.
The original story said that the motor ship West Grama, last of that old fleet, which slid down the ways for convoys to the Allies more than 20 years ago, was being towed from its berth in the James River, near Norfolk, Va., for reconditioning at Mobile, Ala.
The West Grama's log was combed for romantic items. Then Maritime discovered the S. S. West Hem-attite was still tied up at New Orleans.
It isn't hard to understand how the Maritime press relations division almost jumped the gun. When the commission set up shop five years ago, it took over from the old shipping board a ghost fleet of 196 vessels—row after row of old tubs that had been gathering barnacles and rust in ports all around the country. The commission junked or chartered 83. Then, to avoid gutting the shipping market, it quit selling them and came into the present world crisis with 112.

In recent months, the commission has been getting rid of these ghosts.
It really doesn't matter much whether the West Hemattite (5,621 gross tons, with a speed of 12 knots) or the West Grama is the last ghost to ride the waves again. It matters a lot that all of that old World War merchant fleet which wasn't junked now is back in or is being reconditioned for service.

Pickets Picketed
The American Peace Mobilization pickets who have been walking 24 hours a day in a hundred-yard long oval in front of the White House have been having troubles.
On two occasions soldiers, and on another occasion, a marine have charged into their midst with fists flying, momentarily disrupting the "perpetual peace vigil." One soldier and the marine got arrested. After those incidents, all was quiet along the Potomac until Abe Tikotsky started picketing the pickets.

Tikotsky came from Springfield, Ill. He is an electrician, a member of the A. P. of L. electricians union and was in the American Merchant Marine during the World War.
He said his one-man campaign against the White House picket line just came to him all of a sudden when he read a story about it in the newspapers and got mad. He says his picketing will be as nearly "perpetual" as his job will permit.
"I'll keep at it all my spare time until my legs give out," he explains.

Fish's Ideas 'Take'
About a month ago, when the House of Representatives voted down legislation (H.R. 117) for a blackout rehearsal in Washington Rep. Hamilton Fish, the irrepresible anti-administration congressman from New York, kept the house roaring with laughter for minutes with his mock "substitute bill."

Spreading the satire thickly, Mr.
Fish suggested sandbags for the Capitol, White House, and Supreme Court, gas masks for congressmen, air raid watchers on the Washington monument, and air raid sirens on all public buildings "with exception of the Department of Labor."

Now, with Fiorello LaGuardia in the saddle at the Office of Civilian Defense, almost everything Mr.
Fish suggests in his mock legislation is being considered. The District of Columbia local Council of Defense already has before it a report recommending acquisition of air raid sirens and special equipment for combating incendiary bombs. Another report being prepared will outline plans for evacuation of civilians. Plans have been completed to remove 600,000 rare and priceless items from the Library of Congress. Thousands of Washingtonians will register shortly as volunteers in a civilian defense setup not at all unlike London's, and air raid shelter possibilities in the buildings on Capitol Hill have been surveyed.

Dairy Month
Traditionally June is the month of marriages and roses; but in North Carolina it will be, officially, "Dairy Month," by decree of Governor J.
Melville Broughton.
Cooperating with the governor in an effort to acquaint all hands with the nutritional value of milk and to point out how far Tar Heels lag behind in consumption, Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scot-tites the fact that in this state the per capita consumption of milk is less than half a pint per person per day, while the requirements recognized by health officials are one quart per day per child and one pint per day per adult.

In an official proclamation the governor said: "I urge upon our entire citizenship more consideration of the importance of the dairy industry and of the nutritional value of milk and its products as wholesome, healthful and strengthening foods for human consumption, and bring to the attention of the people of the state the immense economic benefits which would result from an increased consumption of milk and its products."

Navy Promotion
Naval authorities are planning to make it easier for enlisted men to rise to petty officer ratings, officers on duty at the Raleigh recruiting station have announced in connection with the campaign to recruit an additional 35,000 men by June 30.

The program will make it possible, they say, for a recruit with aptitude to become a petty officer within a year of enlistment. Four plans for increasing training facilities for ratings are: (1) Expanding existing schools and facilities, (2) Establishing of new schools and training centers, (3) Use of vocational training schools under jurisdiction of the U. S. Office of Education, and (4) Instructional courses in the plants and companies having navy contracts.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—These things come up sometimes without warning and for no apparent reason. . . . But this is a river town as well as an ocean town, and we were crossing the river, the Hudson, on a night that was deep-starred and dark, with dim lights casting shadows that danced on the waters like little smeared yellow reflections.
And somebody said, "The Hudson. . . . That's a pretty name. Did you ever stop to think of that?"
And somebody else said, "Thom Wolf did, and Charles Laughlin did. . . . They thought about this river, and the other rivers, and what is more important, they did something about it."

We all remembered then a broadcast of a couple of years ago on the "Pursuit of Happiness" program with Charles Laughlin and his wife Elka Langer. That was the broadcast where she played the part of a gabby American woman in Paris, who was ashamed of her friends, of her home, her country—but she couldn't get enough of talking about what wonderful cities and rivers Europe had.

Then Laughlin, who seemed to be a sort of "voice" representing the Hudson, said, "Wait a minute.
What about our rivers. . . . The American rivers. . . . Why, just their names are a sort of magic that nothing on the face of the earth can equal."

And then Laughlin rolled off the names. . . . those beautiful Indian names which most of our rivers have.
This discussion brought back the memory of the broadcast so strong that next morning I went over to see Mike Foster, of the Columbia Broadcasting company. . . . He sent down to the recording library and had a recording of that broadcast brought up. . . . We went to one of the audition rooms, and played it.
It was one of the nicest experiences I have had in a long while.
We were 18 floors above the level of Madison avenue. . . . And Charles Laughlin, or rather the ghost of his voice came back through the void of a couple of years, rolling off the names of American rivers which are Indian and lilting and musical such as rivers nowhere else on earth are musical and lilting.
If you remember the way Laughlin can read a line you can understand how it sounds to hear him say, "Monongahela. . . . Susquehanna. . . . Rappahannock. . . . Potomac Chickamauga. . . . Suwanee.

Wabash. . . .
And many, many others. . . . the Brandywine. . . . Calcasieu. . . . Niagara. . . . Mississippi. . . . Tennessee. . . .
It was Thomas Wolf, of course now prematurely dead and gone who was responsible for this. . . .
He wrote it. . . . He wrote the lines from which the broadcast was formed. . . . It's there where you can read it today, in "Look Homeward Angel," if you are interested. . . .
Steven Vincent Benet says, "And Thames and all the rivers of the King, ran into Mississippi and were drowned."

That about explains it. . . . The Hudson, the Columbia, the Ohio the Missouri. . . . Nothing changes them. . . . A thousand men can

Greenville Divides Memorial Day Games With Wilson

VICTORIOUS IN P.M. CONTEST

Defeated In Wilson After Winning At Local Park

Greenville broke even in the Memorial Day program, winning from Wilson 5-2 at Guy Smith park yesterday afternoon and dropping last night's encounter at Wilson 6-4.

Lefty Joe Long scored his second victory of the week over the Tobs here yesterday afternoon, although Webb Wilson hurled a held the Greenies to six hits, while Wilson was garnering 10. The Greenies got one in the first inning without benefit of hits to match a single tally scored by Wilson in its half of the first frame. The locals went ahead in the third by scoring two on Charlie Scagg's homer, a walk and Manager Rube Wilson's single and were never overtaken. Wilson got one in the fourth and the Greenies added another in the sixth and pushed an extra run across the plate in the eighth. Wilson filled the bases in the ninth, but were unable to score.

In the night affair, Joe Talley struck out 15 Greenville men to give the Tobs an even break in the two-game series.

Shakespeare Said History Would Repeat

Ap Feature Service

"Et tu, Brutus?" Julius Caesar fell dying, abandoned by his friend, Brutus. Then Cassius spoke (according to Shakespeare):

"How many ages hence, shall this our lofty scene be acted o'er in states unborn and accents yet unknown?"

In 1649 Oliver Cromwell, at odds with his king in many matters, cried out:

"I tell you I will cut off his head with his crown upon it!"

Cromwell sat in the High Court which ordered the king's death. Charles I was executed.

The same century John Churchill, later the First Duke of Marlborough, became the trusted servant of King James II. Then William of Orange landed in England. Marlborough changed sides, soon war an end.

Napoleon became emperor of France in 1804, aided and abetted by Charles Talleyrand de Perigord a friend in whom he placed great trust. But Napoleon didn't always act as Talleyrand advised, one day found his friend entrenched in a solid anti-Napoleon bloc.

The third man of Germany, Rudolf Hess, flew away from his homeland in 1941, became a prisoner of war in England. Hysterical, uncertain, was the reason for his act.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By Robbie Coon

Hollywood. — "Love Crazy"

Screenplay by William Ludwig Charles Lederer and David Hertz from story by David Hertz and William Ludwig. Directed by Jack Cowell.

Principals: William Powell Myrna Loy, Gail Patrick, Florence Bates, Jack Carson, Sidney Blackmer.

Inasmuch as a great deal of the zany action involved here is set in an insane asylum, it's almost too much to expect that it should make sense. Surprisingly, it does—which sets it above the average goofy gambol of its type.

Of course it's farce. It would be almost as funny if it hadn't bothered to knit its plot pieces together as tightly as farce permits.

Powell and Loy hit their old happy stride together as the ever-loving couple whose anniversary celebration is spoiled by the arrival of mother-in-law Bates. Her advent leads, by easy stages, to Powell's innocent involvement with an old flame (Patrick) and to a divorce suit by Loy. To forestall the action Powell pretends insanity, a pretense embarrassingly upheld by examiners who confine him to an institution. His escape and subsequent masquerade as his own spinster sister while eluding the police pile on the laughs.

Miss Bates (remember the snobbish dowager of "Rebecca?") and Carson, the perennial girl-loser with the alert-Romeo complex, are big helps.

"She Knew All the Answers." Screenplay by Harry Segall, Kenneth Earl, Curtis Kewon from story by Jane Allen. Directed by Richard Wallace. Principals: Joan Bennett, Franchot Tone, John Hubbard, Eve Arden, William Tracy, Pierre Watkin, Almira Sessions, Thurston Hall, Grady Sutton.

If they had known the answer to one question—how to keep the movie from sagging toward the end—the makers would have had a consistently amusing light comedy-romance. It's pretty fair, even so.

Bennett, a chorine, is about to elope with Hubbard, a playboy.

Officials Find Problem In Seeing The Governor

Reflector Bureau

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, May 27 — The problem of "seeing the Governor" is becoming a really serious one with many state officials, including department heads who, like the chief executive, are elected.

Perhaps the problem should be stated as "how to see the governor" because that's the true crux of the matter.

The boss, of course, is a bespectacled, humorless young man whose intentions, strictly honorable and business-like, are undermined by (1) the new girl's dumbly fortunate manipulation of the stock market (2) her expert knowledge of eye exercises through which he may shed his specs, (3) his belated appreciation for her comeliness of face and figure.

The job of humanizing the boss and sheiving the playboy is not completed until all parties reach the altar steps, where nature takes its convenient course in rather clever style. Tons in her line: Eve Arden.

"Too Many Blondes" Screenplay by Maxwell Shane and Louis S. Kaye. Directed by Thornton Freeland. Principals: Rudy Vallee, Helen Parrish, Lon Chaney, Jr., Jerome Cowan, Shemp Howard, Iris Adrian, Eddie Quillan, Irving Bacon.

This mild musical about a couple of sinners (Vallee and Parrish) saving up money to get a divorce and their really wants, has its moments—not many, but enough to indicate that Freeland, the past several years in England, can still turn out a comedy scene.

As the torch-carrying husband Vallee is timid, but he's better as the patry and fail guy Shemp Howard carries the comedy load, but the funniest scene is Iris Adrian's.

One elective official told your reporter recently that he tried for three days to get into the Governor's office to discuss an important matter of policy.

"After I'd wasted about a whole working day that way, I had to go ahead and make the decision without his views — I don't know whether he approves or not, but I can't help it."

Another elective official made some appointments in his setup. "I don't ask the governor to name my force for me," he said, "but on the other hand, I would not want to make an appointment which is positively distasteful to him — but if he doesn't like these I've just named, it's just too bad — I couldn't put off making them forever and I tried for a week to get into his office."

These illustrations are completely typical. No horde of seven-year locusts has ever descended upon fertile plains in greedier numbers than the host of voracious chomping politicians which has filled the Broughton anterooms daily since he was inaugurated last January.

That's the principal reason that officials have been unable to get into the gubernatorial presence; but in addition Mr. Broughton has been out of Raleigh at least half the time he has been in office and this has reduced the opportunity for a conference with him — even when they have important state business to transact.

Then, too, there is very apparent mediocrity in the gubernatorial secretariat.

Perhaps it is too much to expect such a smooth-working combination as Clyde Hoey and Bob Thompson, or the same Governor Hoey and Hataway Cross; and perhaps the Hathaway Cross; and perhaps the prove as time goes on. It will have to; or the gubernatorial popularity is going to suffer noticeably with those unable to see him — even when they have important state business to transact.

What Statistics Show
The saving of $1 per year, paid at the beginning of each year, will increase at compound interest to over $150 in forty years. With this simple rule one can quickly figure that saving $1 a week under these conditions will amount to almost $7,800 in forty years. If this dollar a week is increased to $6 a week, the sum jumps to nearly $50,000! Is there a single reader of this column who cannot save $6 a week?

With these figures staring us in the face, why should we clamor for pensions, bonuses, and government social security? Compound interest treats everyone alike, rich and poor black and white, young and old. It is one of the basic principles of democracy. Are we not making a great mistake in forgetting compound interest and jumping to false gods of which we never heard ten years ago?

lowship. It was the climax to the attendance and membership contest which has been in progress for the past five Sundays. Announcements will be made at class Sunday as to the winning team of the contest between the Admirals, captained by Jack Whitley and the Generals, captained by Bryan Brown. It will be a very close race, considering the fact that during these five Sundays a total of 708 men attended; an average of 142 for each Sunday. The losing team will be host to the winning team at a large dinner.

Hats off to the captains, their assistants, and to all the men for their fine spirit of cooperation.

of the teaching in our college, public spirit and elevation to high ideals."

"It pleases me beyond measure that you have chosen to place my name second on the plaque," said Mrs. Bennett in responding to the presentation, "but at the same time it places a grave responsibility on me; for now I must live up to the faith you have shown in me and really do something to justify that faith. To me this certificate will always be a challenge to do something constructive for the College through the Alumni Association."

"Then starting from the idea of a challenge to do," Mrs. Bennett mentioned the fact that in every line of endeavor people are being challenged to accomplish something as never before, illustrating her point from the fields of agriculture, industry, science, art, and education.

"I invite each of you to join me in accepting the challenge of the College and the Association to do," she said; "for then, united in our efforts we will bring to realization the ideals the founders of this college had in mind when they chose the motto to 'To Serve'."

At the morning program, Miss Estelle McGee, Alumni secretary, who presided, extended a welcome to those present and recognized the honor classes of 1916, 1931 two-year 1931 A. B., and 1940, as well as honor guests, Mrs. Robert Herring Wright wife of the former president Mrs. Kate Beckwith, and Miss Daisy Waitt.

During the business session the recently elected officers were introduced—Mrs. J. C. Holland of Raleigh, president; Miss Martha Whitehurst of Roanoke Rapids, vice president; and Miss Grace Smith of Greenville, treasurer.

At the luncheon J. Herbert Waldrop, one of the early men graduates, made a short speech of welcome, to which the presidents of the honor classes responded—Mrs. D. H. Osborne of Raleigh for the class of 1916; Mrs. Walter Huntley of Smithfield for 1931 two-year; Miss Martha Whitehurst of Roanoke Rapids and Bethel for 1931 A. B.; and Clifford Britton for 1940.

The Senior Allegiance program at 6:30 will be a formal pledging of loyalty to the college and the Association by the graduating class. E. R. Browning, one of the class advisers, will present the group to the Association. President Bennett will welcome them, and Miss Castlebury, senior president, will respond. The class will join in pledging loyalty to the college and its motto—"To Serve."

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 31.—(AP)—The Bakers' dozen that appeared in Wall Street today bought a few aircraft and specialty stocks in dribbles and left many leaders to shuffle indifferently behind minus signs.

Notwithstanding slackness of dealings, those customers who showed up in board rooms were not particularly bearish. The consensus was the market as a whole acted pretty well in the face of bad news from Crete and a scarcity of outstanding encouraging developments at home.
