Aircraft Plant Renews Work; Labor Trouble Elsewhere

CIO Orders Walkout In New Fields

Second Strike In Aluminum Industry Ties Up Six Plants In Detroit; Stoppage Of Work Also Is Threatened At Consolidated Aircraft Corporation With $700,000,000 In Government Orders

By The Associated Press A second walkout by CIO union members in the Aluminum industry today tied up six plants of the Bohn Aluminum and Brass Corporation at Detroit as army officials hoped for near-normal production in the troop-guarded government-commandeered North American Aviation Corporation's warplane plant at Inglewood, Calif.

Another strike threat came at the huge Consolidated Aircraft Corporation plant at San Diego, Calif., where union members voted all day on a strike call on demands for increased wages. Consolidated holds $700,000,000 in military plane orders, as compared with North American's $200,000,000.

Yesterday CIO die casters called a strike which closed the Aluminum Company of America's plant at Cleveland.

About 4,000 members of the United Automobile Workers, CIO, walked out at the Bohn plants. The union asked a 10 cents an hour increase in undisclosed wage scales.

A company official said the firm had $25,000,000 worth of government contracts and that 85 per cent of production of the affected plants was in defense goods.

Secretary of War Stimson said at Washington that army officers at North American reported the strike by the United Auto Workers, CIO, had been "broken wide open" after 3,500 steel-helmeted soldiers with fixed bayonets took possession of the plant on command of President Roosevelt.

Lieut.-Colonel Charles W. Steinmetz reported 3,500 men had returned to work at North American by 7:30 a. m., as army officers promised to start warplanes rolling off production lines today.

"And more workers are coming in," Col. Steinmetz added. "Everything is happily quiet."

Meanwhile leaders of the United Automobile Workers' local, which called the strike last Thursday demanding a closed shop and wage increases, called a union meeting.

They called the back-to-work movement a "flop."

QUICK ACTION REQUESTED ON PENDING BILL

War Department Asks Powers For FDR To Halt Strikes

UND'R-SECRETARY MAKES REQUEST Declares War Department Willing To Have Property Seizure Act Deferred For Present Time

Washington, June 10. (AP)—The War Department asked Congress today to sidetrack its so-called property seizure bill temporarily to permit speedy passage of legislation to give the President specific authority to deal with defense strikes.

Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, told the House Military Committee that amendments to the Selective Service law such as proposed by Senator Connally (D-Tex.) or Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Naval Committee would "fill the needs as the War Department sees it."

Both amendments would enable the government to take over any plant where existing or threatened failure of production interfered with the national defense program.

"We had to take over a plant yesterday, the North American Aircraft Corporation," Patterson said. "We did so under the constitutional powers of the President as commander in chief of the army and navy which seem to include responsibility for equipping the army. But we would prefer expressed statutory authority."

In response to questions, Patterson told the committee the War Department still favored enactment of the property requisition bill which would authorize the seizure of any property deemed essential by the President for defense, but asserted he did not want that measure to delay the Connally or Vinson proposals.

Local Lions Club Host To Children

Members of the local Lions club last night had as their guests all the children for whom they had bought glasses during the past year. Those enjoying the hospitality of the local Lions included Donald Stokes, Mary Elizabeth Stokes, Jody Taylor, Margie Harris, David Whitehead, Peggy Rose Harrington, Horace Ray Gurganus, Roosevelt Crawford, Shirley Manning, Troy Wilson, Elwood Dail, and Katherine Briley. Prior to the meeting, the children assembled on the front steps of the Woman's Club building and had their picture taken.

The program consisted of the showing of motion pictures of Camp Edgerton, Y. M. C. A. camp near Raleigh. Representatives of the Raleigh Y. M. C. A. came down to show the pictures and point out some of the salient features of this camp which has done such a fine and constructive work among boys.

Elizabeth City Set For Simulated Raid

Elizabeth City, June 10.—(AP)—This city near the sea made ready today to defend itself from a simulated air attack.

A 1,700-man outfit from Fort Story, with arms including three-inch anti-aircraft guns was expected. Sound detectors were being erected, giant searchlights of 800,000-candle power were readied and all kinds of vehicles rumbled into town.

Pickets Fall Back Before Advancing Soldiers

Slowly advancing, United States army troops with fixed bayonets clear CIO strikers and pickets from a field close to the North American Aviation corporation's plant at Los Angeles, Calif., after President Roosevelt gave the army orders to take over the huge factory. The flag at left was taken from a striker by a soldier but an officer quickly stepped in and returned it to the striker. The strikers reported three men were bayoneted by the troopers.

TEN KILLED IN EASTERN N. C.

Highway Patrol Report For Month of May Issued

Ten persons were killed on highways in the approximately 30 counties included in this district during May, compared with eight fatalities in April, according to the report issued today by Lieut. Lester Jones, commanding officer of Troop A of the State Highway Patrol.

The officers investigated a total of 80 accidents, in which 89 persons received non-fatal injuries. In April 67 accidents were reported, with 60 persons receiving non-fatal injuries.

The combined force of Troop A traveled a total of 171,802 miles during the 31-day period.

Arrests last month totalled 618, of which 60 were on charges of driving drunk. Of the 618 persons arrested 616 were convicted and two acquitted. Sentences meted out to the defendants totalled seven years 11 months and 25 days. Fines amounted to $4,589.83 and court costs $4,519.84.

The patrolmen recovered stolen property valued at $5,350 and collected $4,018.05 in revenue from such sources as overloaded trucks and improper licenses.

Other activities of the force included: Vehicles inspected, 8,735; equipment tickets issued, 193; lights corrected, 4,042; warning tickets issued, 45; court cases extended, 1,075; cars recovered, 11; vehicles stored 21; vehicles weighed, 165, with 116 found to be overloaded; complaints investigated, 642; fires extinguished one; citations issued, 961.

Still Is Located By ABC Officers

Pitt county ABC officers yesterday located and destroyed a 50-gallon capacity steam liquor distilling plant about six miles east of Greenville off the Washington highway. The plant was in the same section in which another still was destroyed about a month ago.

Aboard the S. S. Osorio, June 10.—On June 8 at 9 o'clock in the evening in latitude P 46 and longitude 37.37 west, I rescued 11 survivors in one lifeboat of the North American ship Robin Moor, which was torpedoed May 21 at the position latitude 6.15 north, longitude 25.30 west.

Their names are John J. Banigan, Karl Nilson, Virgil Sanderlin, William S. Kary, Peter Buss, Donald Schabiese, H. O. Rice, R. Carlisle, Antonia Santos, Hugh Murphy and P. C. Eccles. All but Eccles were crew members.

TOBACCO CROP ACT DEFENDED AIDED BY RAIN BY CHURCHILL

Monthly Outlook On Condition Issued By R. C. Rankin

General rains last night throughout many sections of Eastern Carolina were declared to greatly be aiding the growth of tobacco.

The monthly bulletin on the general condition of crops was issued today by R. C. Rankin, sales supervisor on the Greenville market and stated that Eastern Carolina has had very favorable seasons during the past two weeks.

The report continues: "On May 31 rain fell throughout the belt, ranging from a heavy rainfall in the western counties to the equivalent of light showers in other sections. In addition, practically all sections have had good local rains since, an especially good rain falling in Pitt, Martin, Edgecombe, Wayne and other counties, on the night of June 9. Crops were well worked and free from grass; the soil had retained the fertilizer and consequently tobacco received a maximum benefit from these seasons. It has shown a satisfactory growth (Continued on page six)

UNIT THANKED FOR 1,000 PAIRS OF SHOES

STORM'S TOLL NOW SET AT 29

Nine Drowned, Many Missing In Texas Flash Flood

By The Associated Press Nine persons drowned and a rescue worker reported "many others" missing early today in an Albany, Texas, flash flood, bringing to 29 the storm death toll in mid-western and southwestern states the last three days.

Thirty or forty houses were reported inundated at the northwest Texas town of 3,000 population when dams of two city water supply lakes gave way after a 10-inch, four-hour rain.

The Texas disaster came while rising rivers and creeks threatened further woe to Kansas and Missouri.

Hopeful notes were injected, however, by a forecast that rains would cease in Missouri and Kansas after today and by word from Nebraska that most flooding streams in that state either had reached or passed their crest.

Tornadoes yesterday and Sunday night accounted for 12 of the dead—eight near Wichita, Kans., and four in the Texas panhandle.

News Is Received On Zamzam Passengers

According to word received in Wilson today from the American Red Cross, Ned Laughinghouse, former Greenville tobacconist, who was aboard the ill-fated Egyptian vessel Zamzam, was alive on June 7—last Saturday.

No details as to the wounded man's condition or as to his whereabouts were contained in the terse message. Mr. Laughinghouse was injured when a German raider attacked the vessel.

Three Wilson tobacconists who were aboard the vessel when she was attacked are expected to reach New York tomorrow afternoon aboard the Dixie Clipper. The three are Harry Cawthorne, James Smith and Thomas D. Miller. Relatives were advised last week that the men would arrive on the clipper tomorrow.

IL DUCE DEFIES UNITED STATES TO ENTER WAR

Declares This Country Already At War 'de facto'

ASSERTS ACTION TOO LATE NOW Mussolini Addresses Chamber of Fasces And Guilds On Anniversary of Italy's Entrance In Strife

Rome, June 10, (AP)—Premier Mussolini declared today that the United States was at war "de facto"—in fact—and virtually defied her to declare war against the axis.

United States intervention in the war would result in a totalitarian dictatorship in the United States, the premier declared at a solemn session of the Chamber of Fasces and Guilds on the first anniversary of Italy's declaration of war.

He referred to possible United States intervention in these words: "If Spain and Turkey remain out of the war there is no trans-oceanic state which promises to enter it."

"It should be known that American intervention does not bother us excessively," Mussolini declared.

"An explicit declaration of war would not modify the actual situation, which is one of de facto war if not de jure (formally)."

"American intervention will not give Britain victory, but will prolong the war. It will not limit the space of the war, but will extend it beyond the oceans. It will transform the United States regime into an authoritarian, totalitarian regime compared with which the forerunner European regime—Fascist and Nazi—will find themselves far surpassed and perfected.

Japan's attitude, he said is in perfect line with the tri-partite pact and she would be loyal to the axis in the event of American aggression.

Local U. S. O. Unit To Be Organized

A local unit of the United Service Organization, whose purpose is to encourage social activities and keep up the morale among enlisted men, will be formed here at a dinner meeting at the Proctor hotel tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

Dr. W. I. Wooten has been appointed chairman of the local group by Gov. Broughton. J. H. Waldrop has been named treasurer by Chairman Wooten. Citizens from every section of the county will be asked to take part in the program.

The actual drive for raising funds will get under way next week. The United Service Organization is composed of the following groups: Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A. Salvation Army, National Travelers Aid, Catholic Community Service Club and the Jewish Welfare Board.

Nazi U-Boat Is Believed Responsible

Berlin Dismisses Reports As Confusing; Mussolini Virtually Defies U.S. To Enter War; Allies Pressing Campaign In Middle East; Axis Warplanes Continue To Bombard Cyprus

By The Associated Press The captain of a Brazilian rescue ship declared flatly in a radiogram to the Associated Press today that the United States steamship Robin Moor, sunk in the South Atlantic on May 21, "was torpedoed" and government officials in Washington expressed grave concern over other reports that the vessel was sent to the bottom by a German U-boat.

If true, it would be the first American ship torpedoed since the World war.

Captain Waldemar Lucio Pereira, skipper of the rescue ship Osorio, said 25 persons were still missing from the Robin Moor. Eleven survivors have been picked up.

A Nazi spokesman in Berlin dismissed reports on the sinking as "confusing and contradictory."

Washington, June 10.—(AP)—The White House asked today that judgment be suspended on the sinking of the U. S. steamer Robin Moor until it is established how she was lost.

One intercepted radio message given the navy blamed a German submarine for the sinking and the captain's report in the capital. However, Stephen Early, White House secretary, said there was no official information.

Other developments crowded the international picture: 1. Premier Mussolini virtually defied the United States to declare war against the axis.

2. On the Middle East war front, British columns driving into French ruled Syria were reported less than 10 miles from ancient Damascus, the capital, last night.

3. Axis warplanes were reported to have violently and continuously assaulted the British fortified island of Cyprus for the past 48 hours, indicating that Germany may be preparing a "second Crete" invasion of the Mediterranean stronghold 69 miles off the coast of Syria.

4. Prime Minister Churchill, facing a critical parliament on the question of Britain's war reverses, neared sharp demands for a more vigorous war strategy, for a newer and stronger plan of aerial warfare and for a drastic shakeup in leadership.

Churchill, rejecting a proposal that he form a small compact "Empire War Cabinet" to include dominion leaders, told the House of Commons that its criticism was "calculated to challenge the security of the administration."

Our Raleigh Letter

One of the most important developments of the past week—a matter of vital interest to all our people—was the settlement of the school book question, a matter which has been under consideration since the day of introduction of the Aycock bill in the Senate last January. The fact that it has been settled, and settled right, as is generally believed, that the school children of North Carolina are to get the benefit of the use of the best of books at prices cheaper than ever before is a matter calling for the thanks and appreciation which the public will no doubt bestow upon those who had the matter in charge, for their painstaking labors and the good judgment exercised in the premises.

flag and Bible bearings, entered the main auditorium of the church to the strains of "Triumphal March," marched twice around the church and then to various departments and took up their places at attention and waited for the signal to be seated. Then the entire school was led in worship by Dr. J. D. Simons, who was assisted by Mrs. E. S. Hamric and Miss Mary Bell Robertson.

Delightful departmental programs followed. The members of the Intermediate department for example, during their Bible period read I Thessalonians, made an outline of it, and made a careful study of the first chapter and about it they wrote in their note books answers to the following questions: What is the principal subject of this chapter? What do you think is the most important lesson the chapter teaches? What is the best verse? What duties does this chapter teach that I should perform? Are there any good examples for me to follow? If I know nothing about the Lord Jesus Christ, but what this chapter teaches, what would I know about him?

The boys of the junior and intermediate departments have Mr. W. Z. Moran, Jr., as their teacher of woodwork. At the meeting the boys made a slide that will become a part of our playground equipment. These features serve to illustrate the kind of activities in which the boys and girls are engaging.

The enrollment this morning exceeded one hundred, with an attendance of ninety-one. We anticipate an enrollment of 150 by the end of the first week.

The school is open to all children of the community between the ages of two and sixteen.

Library News

Summer reading for the children made a real beginning at Sheppard Memorial Library this morning. Mrs. Kasey has placed the club table in the children's room and about 20 children have registered. Others may come in at any time during the whole month of June.

The plan is made for encouraging restful, pleasant summer reading. Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock there will be a short meeting of those who want to hear more about the club idea. If it isn't convenient to come then, come any other day. The Wednesday meeting will close with a party idea, and the new books, about 180, will be put in circulation at once. Others will be added at intervals all during the summer.

Come get a book to read during the daily rest period which is necessary for the hot summer days.
—Mrs. W. C. Vincent.

Grimesland News

Fleming's, the new and very modern store in Grimesland, was host to the town and nearby community on Saturday, June 7. It is located in the store formerly occupied by J. O. Proctor and W. E. Proctor.

Open house was observed throughout the day, with Mrs. W. F. Galloway, Mrs. Dan White, Mrs. Della May Galloway, Mrs. T. P. Fleming, Mr. Robert Sharp and Mr. T. P. Fleming presiding alternately at the punch bowl, where punch and cookies were served to the public. Mrs. Kay Gattis of Tarboro was also a guest of the town and Fleming's.

Mrs. A. F. Fleming and daughter visited friends in Tarboro Sunday.

Mr. R. A. Fleming, Virginia Fleming, Emily Fleming, Jack Galloway and Edith Jackson were shoppers in Washington yesterday.

David Proctor was in Greenville yesterday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Fleming were in Elm City for a short while Sunday.

ACTIVITIES OF THE BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMAN'S CLUB

Misses Helen Gaskins, Patsy Davenport, Elizabeth Kasey, Margaret Register, Imogene Ricks and Martha Guenther; Mesdames J. D. Simpson, Cora Powell and Chester Walsh of Greenville returned Sunday from Wrightsville Beach, where they attended the 22nd annual convention of the North Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The highlight of the convention was the banquet Saturday night, when the Greenville club was host to the group at a "Captain's Dinner." A regulation-size captain's wheel behind the speaker's table, when turned, revealed the fact that Greenville was the "Hub of Eastern Carolina" and on the spokes were written outstanding merits of the city. For example, trade center, tobacco, city utilities, E. C. T. C., civic clubs, hospitality, churches, sunshine, night life and friendliness.

Favors donated for individual plates included cream, "headache powders" and pipes. The pipes were used in singing a song to the tune of "Poppey." A tinker-toy Poppey and a boat were used for decorations on the piano.

Mrs. Simpson, president of the local club, presided at the banquet. Mrs. Oriana B. James of High Point, state recording secretary, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Nettie Sims of Hastings, Neb., who is national-international chairman of the International Relations committee.

Mrs. Sims' talk, "South of the Equator," stressed the need for closer bonds of friendship and trade between the countries of South America and our own nation. She told of several trips to the countries south of us, and urged that if we want to "save our skins" from Hitler we must keep him out of Africa and South America. Mrs. Sims was presented several gifts of North Carolina products from the High Point club.

Mrs. Ruby Day Barfield, retiring president of the State Federation, was presented silver candlesticks and a bowl to match. Mrs. Millie

THE SACRED DAGGER

by Fritz Zoller Martin

YESTERDAY: Anne Willard has arrived at the camp of her father and mother in the Asiatic desert after a series of wild adventures. But they are not here, and she learns that they are being held at the mysterious city of Shy-a Nago, until she shall appear there, according to ancient prophecy.

Chapter 20 Missing Dagger

"That sounds rather grand," murmured Anne. "I'm young, but am I bold?"
The others laughed. "I think," said Beth, "that the Nagaras mean you and your husband."
Everyone suddenly looked self-conscious. Anne and Philip had not spoken a word of their personal affairs to each other. She decided at once to take them all into her confidence.

"Then I'm in a difficult situation," she said.
"We'll marry at once, if you wish," offered Philip hastily.

She gave him her friendly smile. "I don't suppose I'm legally free," she told the story of the marriage plot in Arishar and of the Emir's subsequent scheme. "But I didn't die in the desert as he had hoped, and I still possess the dagger."

Diana was laughing softly to herself. "Imagine Blaze Sherwood coming to the rescue of a damsel in distress! Did you think of the idea or did he?"

"I did," said Anne steadily.
"Where's he gone—to Russia for a quick annulment?"
"For all I know."

Philip looked at her sharply. "How did he happen to be on the plane with you?"

"His plane had crashed on the desert. He's an old friend of the pilot and wanted a lift to Chuka."
"Sounds like a conspiracy to me," observed the doctor.

"Absolutely," agreed Philip in irritation, turning to Anne. "You played right into his hands and gave him a place in the prophecy."
"He'd have no rights," Anne protested. "He'd merely be helping father win. What he wishes is to prevent this expedition's securing Shy-a Nago. He told me so."

Philip began pacing the floor. "I agree with Sherwood this far, that we should never have mixed up with the Nagaras. I sometimes doubt if Shy-a Nago exists, except as a myth. And if it does, it's outside our original purpose. It's not the thing we were sent to do. We are making finds here that are good, and that's enough. I begged Doctor Willard to leave this thing alone, but he wouldn't listen to me. Now we see Sherwood at the bottom of your parents' being held prisoners. We don't know all the details of the prophecy," he paused. "It is not the policy of the Nagaras to free their prisoners unless they happen to fulfill this fool prophecy."

Anne stared at him in terror. "You mean father's and mother's lives are really in danger then? When do we meet these natives?"
"We don't know yet," answered Larry Huff. "We're supposed to wait for a delegation to come and conduct us into the mountains. But I don't believe you need to worry about Dr. and Mrs. Willard, with a black look at Philip. "It's my opinion they'll make the grade. The Chinese authorities in Chuka warned us that we'd never live to establish the camp. When we did survive the Commissioner gave us a few soldiers to act as guards."

Doddap Speaks
As he talked, trying to bring things back to a lighter vein, Anne observed that the lama had edged inside and squatted down by the door counting his beads.

"Blaze Sherwood's spy," she thought. And then her feeling for the little man softened. That was not true, for in his fashion Doddap served the spirit and not the person. He looked up and their eyes met. They smiled at each other. It was a rather surprising experience.

"Doddap," she demanded, "are my parents well and safe?"
"They are well and safe."
She smiled at the others. "Silly of me," she said, "but I do feel comforted."

Diana was the one who asked about the dagger. "Where is it?"
"In my suitcase," answered Anne reluctantly. "The priest warned me that no one else should touch it."
"That's just silly superstition," asserted Larry. "Won't you let us see the weapon?"

Anne heard herself repeating Blaze Sherwood's words: "Since we're mixed up with these people perhaps we should respect their taboos."
"Yes, indeed, in their presence," agreed Philip. "But not when we're apart from them. I'm extremely anxious to see that knife."
"I think Miss Willard is right," interrupted the doctor.

Larry looked at him in surprise. "Do you believe that stuff—that there are psychic forces in objects?"
"For certain people, yes. I say do as these natives ask us to do. Respect their taboo."
"In their presence we shall," repeated Philip impatiently. "But now—"

"Let me open your suitcase and look for it," said Beth.
Anne consented reluctantly, and Beth opened the bag and made the search. The weapon was not there. "It has been stolen," declared Larry instantly.

"The natives are afraid of it," Anne reminded him. "Even Pete wouldn't touch it. He asked me to put it into the bag myself."
"Did you do so?"
"I can't remember," she answered slowly. "I know I took it in my hand and placed it in the leather sheath attached to the belt. It had been lying exposed on a bale of silk. Pete shooed the bags. He said he would bring me the rest of the things from the tent in a larger plane. I rather expected him yesterday. Maybe in some way the belt and weapon got rolled up in the rugs."

Philip glanced at the lama. "This lama may have taken it." They searched promptly, bringing to light from the voluminous blouse effect of his gown a wide assortment ranging from the little skull drum to the chunk of cheese wrapped in an old goatskin. But the Nagara dagger was not there.

"Doddap," said Anne. "You're a diviner. Tell us. Where is the knife?"
He stiffened and a blank look spread over his face.

Slowly his chin sank to his breast and his whole body began to shake. "He's going into a trance," whispered Beth excitedly.

Doddap opened his eyes and looked at her, his quivering stilled. "I cannot see," he said, "you spoiled it. I cannot see."

Anne remembered his sly little game with Mackey and the eagle's claw and surmised that he and his magic of fetish and trance sometimes had as much fun with the white man as the white man with his magic of electric torch and phonograph got out of the native. She felt now that Doddap knew something he would not reveal.

"What does he do around here?" she asked.
"The principal thing he does," growled Philip, "is to come back when we chase him off. I've forbidden the servants to feed him or give him a place to sleep."
"He's got that hunk of cheese to eat," interrupted Beth, "and he spends his nights before the door of this tent. I stumble over him every time I come in to look at Anne."

"Why didn't you tell me that before?" Philip asked sharply.
"I'm sure the little fellow is harmless."
"I'm not sure," he turned. "Anne—could he have any connection with Gregory Sherwood?"
"I understand Dr. Sherwood once lived in his monastery," she admitted.

Philip spoke. "We'll put him in the prison hut tonight." He called a soldier.

Hiding Place
The lama caught Anne's eye and made a sly motion with his hand towards the native rack along the circular wall where her bag had rested. She understood as plainly as if he had spoken.

"The little busybody," she thought. "Still, he has more foresight than I." She felt relieved that these white men had been denied the opportunity to break the Nagara taboo.

The gathering broke up. It was bed time for people who rise to work in the early morning hours.

After the camp became quiet Anne rose, lit a candle, examined the native rack and then, among the felts in the tent wall behind found the outline of the belt and sheathed knife. A good place to leave it, she decided. She had donned slippers and great coat when her door opened and Beth came in. Anne began to explain.

"That harmless little priest—"
"He's all right," laughed Beth in a low voice. "I just stepped over him as usual to get in here."
"Why—I thought—"
"So did Philip, I guess. The guard house is locked securely but empty. I went and looked. Now you hustle back into bed. You want to gain all the strength you can for that trip into the mountains. Cheer up. I'm betting Mr. Mackey will appear tomorrow with the dagger if he's not in jail." She tucked Anne in.

"But the difficulties ahead of us," sighed Anne. "What ever I do I must not fail father and mother, yet I have made a mess of things so far. They're getting old, though they don't seem to know it. This strenuous, dangerous life they lead."

"They're wonderful," cried Beth, sitting down on the side of the cot. "We've got youth, but they've got something better. I guess it is the spirit. It makes them ageless. Just as the Nagara prophecy demands they two together are one scholar. I don't think you need to do any worrying about the outcome." Beth leaned forward. "I'm so excited about you and Blaze Sherwood," she confessed. "Did he—"
"Now, Beth," warned Anne, and gave her a little shake.

"Well, I think he's way ahead of—I mean it tickles me to death your beating Diana's time with him—even if nothing ever comes of it. The reason she's with this expedition is because Blaze Sherwood's in Asia."

There may be exceptions, but a real "comeback" should be preceded by a "going-away"—especially if it can be arranged to spend the interim in a play, preferably a hit play, on Broadway.

Hollywood—Just to prove how important it is to bring your glitter along in Hollywood, even if you're not a star, I give you Limey Plews' story of the navy men and the chairs.
Lieut. Ray C. Needham, flying officer on the U. S. S. Saratoga, and Commander John Poppen, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., medical division, are technical-advising on "Dive Bomber," the service picture.
Lieutenant Needham had been wearing his uniform that day. Commander Poppen was in mufti.
"You ought to wear your uniform around here," Commander. "Limey suggested, conversationally. The commander smiled, shook his head. Not long afterward, when the two officers were standing around during a wait between scenes, the service boy approached the uniformed lieutenant with a smile and a chair. "Here y'are, Lieutenant!" he said. Then, to the superior officer:
"I'll get you one in a minute, Doc!"
Commander Poppen, chuckling reflected that perhaps he had better wear his uniform around there.

BUILT EXTRA TOUGH WHERE TOUGHNESS COUNTS!

LOOK CLOSELY at the new Ford Trucks and you'll find that wherever extra strength means longer life or lower upkeep, there Ford engineers wrote PLUS.

Ford Trucks have big, tough frames. Springs are extra heavy. Ford hydraulic brakes have extra large drums; clutches are oversize. The Ford cooling system has extra capacity and a big, six-blade fan that is mounted direct on the crankshaft. Ford batteries have 17 plates, 120 ampere-hour capacity.

Ford engines have extra big, tough cast alloy crankshafts that wear almost three times as long as other types. Bearings, too, are oversize. There are long-lived, heat-resistant valve seat inserts on both intake and exhaust valves.

At critical points where stresses are great or where wear normally occurs, Ford Trucks are built extra tough. Let your local Ford dealer tell you how this extra toughness can cut your trucking costs. face the possibility of national death." This attitude should be a guide for those who still hang back, for those who persistently insist that this war is none of our business. The majority of the people of the United States backed the President in the last election. In doing so they expressed their confidence in his ability to guide this nation through one of its most trying periods.

A UNITED PEOPLE NECESSARY (Scottish Rite News) One of the most important editorial policy switches in recent years occurred recently when The Saturday Evening Post decided to abandon its isolationist position and accept the view that this war is of vital interest to the United States.

The importance of this change of policy lies in the fact that the representative magazine of conservative isolationism believes that national honor is worth fighting for. While it deplores the steps that have brought the United States close to the brink of war, it believes that, once this country had committed itself to aid for Britain and all other nations fighting aggression, it must go through with its pledge regardless of the cost.

The Post recognized that the United States must either go forward or turn back. "And if we turn back, we shall be remembered forever as the Falstaff nation of the world, boasting of a power it did not really possess, boasting of how it would go forth against the aggressor, and then changing its mind when the night came. In going on we face the possibility of defeat, whether we can imagine it or not. But to go back is to Rooms Hard To Find. What any visitor is likely to discover first is that even if it is an off-week, he may have trouble getting accommodations at any of the city's 28 first-class hotels unless he has made reservations a week or more in advance.

At times when he is likely to be in the mood for eating or drinking, he'll find the restaurants and bars filled to capacity—and probably lined with waiting customers in the former.

If he wants a taxi, he'll find there are periods of the day and night or anytime during a storm when it is practically impossible to get one. A taxi company official tells me that a year ago there were 5,000 cabs on the streets of Washington, but now there are only 3,700.

Space Finder Extraordinary. These are not exaggerations and I am sure that the first person who would bear me out would be Clay J. Guthridge who, although he is concerned with only one phase of what is happening to Washington, knows more about it than anyone else.

Raleigh, June 10—North Carolina's draft officials are going to have a very unpleasant time deciding what action to take in the case of young David Robeson Morgan, Wake Forest young man who has posed for his local board the toughest problem imaginable.

He just will not fill out his questionnaire, although under separate headings he furnished the board with practically all the information the official document asks for.

In view of the fact that young Mr. Morgan is to comply with the law of the land, it seems that the only possible result of the incident will be to land him behind bars for a prison term of some length. Yet this is just what the board and all officials would like to avoid, if possible.

Morgan is no rampant red, raging against the American system of government and pulling for Hitler or Stalin or either's political philosophy. If he follows the lead of any well known figure, it is that of Mahatma Gandhi.

Most of those with whom your reporter has talked seem to agree that Morgan is a psychopathic case. He lives in a dream world and refuses to recognize the cold realities of actuality.

A rather gifted writer, Morgan has been news editor of the Biblical Recorder. Several months ago he prepared a "symposium" of views on "The Case of the Conscientious Objector" in which all angles of the subject were considered.

Probably there's nothing that can be done about it, but it does appear to many that Morgan doesn't exactly rate going to jail—although there is equally strong belief that he should be put out of circulation—possibly for examination by qualified psychiatrists.

North Carolina will get almost world-wide publicity through the August issue of the National Geographic Magazine. The State Highway Commission, which furnished the periodical with much data on roads, etc., has received word from Leonard C. Ray of the magazine's editorial staff that it is now the plan to publish the article on North Carolina in the August number.

Prospective indictment of Paul Younts, Charlotte's postmaster, is reliably reported to have set the wheels of other prominent federal officials in North Carolina to knocking together.

During the late and dramatically bitter city commissioner's race here Postmaster Carl Williamson was openly accused by Commissioner of Safety Robert C. Powell with working for his opponent, Bruce Poole; and there were reports that affidavits linking Williamson with active political campaigning could be produced, if necessary. Inasmuch as Powell won, it is decidedly doubtful that there will be any aftermath.

Looking at the two-page picture spread in "Self-Regulation in North Carolina," pamphlet recently put out by the Brewers and North Carolina Beer Distributors Committee, your reporter was amazed to see the countenance of that well-known dry, Speaker O. M. Mull, looking up from the page. His was no endorsement of beer as a beverage, however, but a plug for the committee just the same: "... favorably impressed with the aggressive campaign you have conducted... you have done our state a helpful service," he was quoted as having said.

That's what is happening to Washington these days. The war and navy departments now are using old buildings that were called "temporary" in the World War. They are aged frame timber boxes where one of the strictest office rules is against smoking. The palatial new war department building is nearing completion; and the new five-acre navy office building bordering Arlington cemetery in Virginia will be finished in a few months. These may take care of ten or eleven thousand workers. Guthridge will tell you that that's hardly a drop out of the bucket. And it isn't. Last week, army and navy alone added 800 new civilian employes here.

RELIGION THE ONLY BASIS OF SOCIETY To The Editor: In your valuable paper of June 7, page 6, under the caption: "Religious Education is Being Considered," there appeared a short, but indeed a very timely article by which I am inspired to submit for the consideration of your readers the following:

Religion is a social concern; for it operates powerfully on society, contributing in various ways to its stability and prosperity. Religion is not merely a private affair; the community is deeply interested in its diffusion; for it is the best support of the virtues and principles on which the social order rests. Pure and undefiled religion is to do good; and it follows very plainly that if God be the author and friend of society, then the recognition of Him must enforce all social duty and enlightened piety must give its whole strength to public order.

Few men suspect, perhaps no man comprehends the extent of the support given by religion to every virtue. No man perhaps is aware how much our moral and social sentiments are fed from this fountain; how powerless conscience would become, without the belief of a God; how palsied would be human benevolence, were there not the sense of a higher benevolence to quicken and sustain it; how suddenly the whole social fabric would quake and sink into hopeless ruin, were the ideas of a Supreme Being of accountability, and of a future life to be utterly erased from every mind.

"And, let men thoroughly believe that they are the work and sport of chance; that no superior intelligence

Greenies Rained Out As Wilson Divides Twin Bill

HEADER IS SET FOR THURSDAY

Locals Continue To Trail Tobs by Two Full Games

The second game of the series was rained out last night with the Greenies holding a 2-1 lead over Kinston in the second inning. The locals are scheduled to entertain Kinston here next on Thursday, June 19, and a double-header will be played on that date.

The Greenies go to Kinston tonight and open a two-game series in New Bern Wednesday night, returning here to play New Bern in a double header Thursday night. Fans who went out last night will be admitted for the header upon presenting their rain checks.

While Greenville was kept idle, the pace-setting Wilson Tobs divided a twin bill with the New Bern Bears. As a result, Wilson remains two full games ahead of the Greenies.

The locals have lost 10 games this season, three of these being to Wilson. The leaders have played six games, each winning three. Tarboro also has played the Greenies on even terms. The two teams have played four games, each club winning its home games.

Local fans are hopeful the Greenies can take over the league lead by July 1. The all-star game to be played on Monday, July 14, will be played in the park of the club leading the loop after games of June 30.

Record Maker
New York—(AP)—Just about every time Mel Ott moves he sets a new record.
The New York Giant star sets a new National League all-time homer record every time he hits one, gets a new mark in the books every time he gets a base on balls, and will set a new lifetime record if he figures in 150 games this season. Last year he became the first player in the loop history to play 150 games in nine different seasons.

Your SPORTEST

1. Mrs. Lela Hall is one of the best shots in the country. In what sport is she the national women's champion?

2. Bob Paspor, Buddy Knox, Lee Savold, Gus Dorazio, and Henry Cooper are heavy-weight boxers. Can you name one fighter who has beaten all of them?

3. What is the name of the top-flight professional golfer is nicknamed "Little Poison"?

4. One of the athletes is correctly coupled with his sport. Select the right one: Joe Hunt, tennis; Gloria Callen, badminton; Lawson Little, football; Thompson Prothro, golf.

5. Did War Admiral win the Kentucky Derby as a two-, three-, or four-year-old racer?
Give yourself 20 points for each question correctly answered. You're good if you score 60, excellent if you get 80 and a real sports expert if you tally 90 or above.

SPORTS ANSWERS

1. Trapshooting.
2. Billy Conn.
3. Paul Runyan.
4. Joe Hunt, tennis.
5. The Kentucky Derby is a race for 3-year-old thoroughbreds.

Ladies' Tourney

The local tournament for ladies of the Greenville Country Club will be played Friday and Saturday, June 13 and 14. All participants are asked to post qualifying scores before Friday.

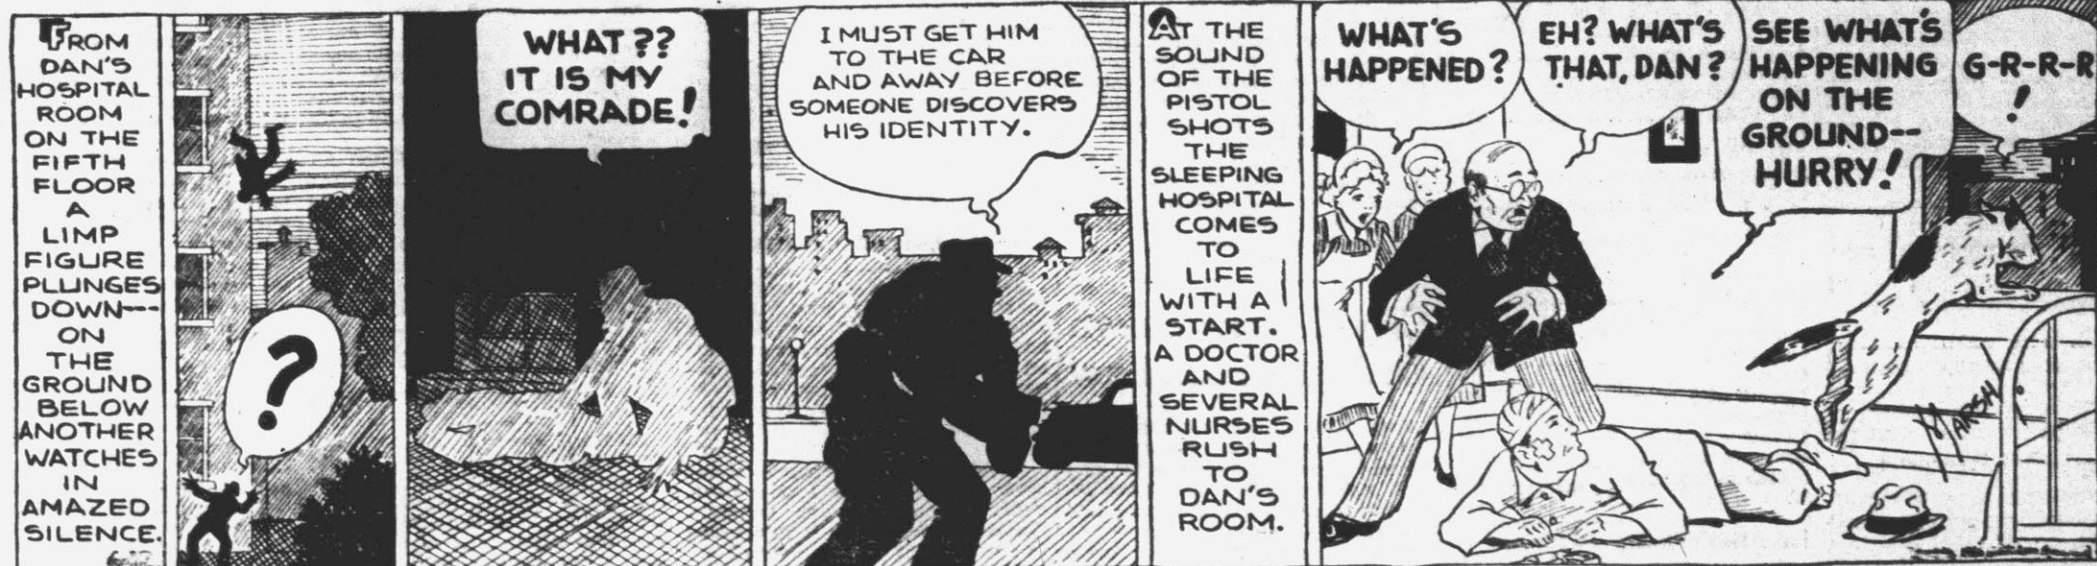

The club will present a valuable prize to the winner of the tournament.
Handicaps for the match play will be arranged by tournament committeemen, Simon Moye and Hunter Keck.

Orego The Night Owl

New York—(AP)—When the lights come on for night games at Polo Grounds Joe Orego's face lights up right with them.
The reason: Joe is usually a better slugger at night than in the daytime. The new Giant star was the Cards' best in night hitting last year and in his first game in the dark at the Polo Grounds belted a homer and a single.

Man About Manhattan

New York—I am a New York detective, assigned to the Broadway sector, and life on the whole seems very worthwhile. I get up around noon and have breakfast. After reading three newspapers I telephone headquarters and then go to a ball game or a movie, depending on the weather.

If it's a movie, I stay about a half hour and move on to a new one. If it's a ball game, I stick around four or five innings. I know by that time whether any of the "boys" are watching the game.

My "boys" are listed in a little notebook in my hip pocket. Sometimes they make a mistake and show themselves in ball parks, or in the movies. When they do, that is good for me and for my record, for I take them in.

Only last week I picked up Joe. Joe is not Joe's real name. Joe has been wanted for several months. He got into an argument with a Brooklyn barber last November and gave him a carving up. I ran into Joe buying a ticket to a ball game. He came along without any trouble.

I eat in restaurants, mostly in the midtown sector. You see lots of people in restaurants and, besides, it doesn't cost me anything to eat in restaurants, or hotels or night clubs. All that goes on my expense account. Restaurants are good hunting grounds for dicks. Once I visited the razzam restaurant for 27 consecutive nights because I knew that a fellow we were anxious to have a little chat with eventually would turn up there. He was in competition with the government, making dimes in a Bronx basement. Finally he came in, as I knew he would, and when he did, I walked over to him, put the cuffs on him and took him in. He's in Atlanta now.

The mistake he made was thinking a crowded night would create such a stir no one would notice or recognize him. They all think that big nights, like New Year's Eve and after the Army-Notre Dame game are good. As a matter of fact, most of our piches are made during the festive hours on festive occasions.

Some times you go weeks without doing "business." During my time on the Broadway beat I've picked up some real nice shiners and once a broken nose. But so far I've been lucky. The boys say I'm pretty handy with my hands. I weigh 189 and I'm 32. I look 40.

U.S. SHIPMENT FORWARDED IN ATLANTIC

Reports on the blitz bombing of Cyprus came from a German-controlled radio station in Norway. The radio said Nicosia, the Cyprus capital, and the naval port of Famagusta were the main objectives of the attack. Advancing from three directions, British and Free French troops threatened Beirut, capital of Lebanon, with swift capture. Vichy French defenders were pictured by the British as offering no "token resistance," and reluctant to open fire on their fellow countrymen and former comrades in arms.

Cairo, Egypt, June 10.—(AP)—Free French headquarters announced tonight that its forces in Syria were near Damascus, capital of the mandate and other French sources here said they were expected to enter the city tonight or early tomorrow.

Vichy, June 10.—(AP)—Semi-official French military circles announced tonight that British troops had advanced to within 18 miles of Damascus after driving through Sneikh-Meskine to the south. French reports from Syria declared that the main British column advancing on Beirut had been held up by stubborn French resistance at the river Litani north of Tyre, but the British succeeded in landing a small force in rear of the French lines which the French were trying to clean up.

Tobacco Crop Aided By Rain

and improvement, and with the crop in the field at what is generally considered a normal planting time, present prospects are very bright. "There was an unusual amount of replanting in the last tobacco set out, and as a result, this part of the crop is irregular in size, however growing weather and seasons are gradually bringing the crop to a uniform size. Taking the belt as a whole, stands and the uniformity of the plants will just about measure up to normal conditions. Trouble from insects and worms is also normal.

"There are a few exceptions to this report. In Onslow county dry weather and a scarcity of plants delayed planting, and the crop is a week to ten days late. Neither has Onslow benefited from the local rains which have fallen since May 31, and there is still moisture in the ground and tobacco is not suffering. In Hertford and Bertie, where planting dates are later than other sections, tobacco is not off to quite as good a start."

Act Defended By Churchill

"was whether we should try to defend Crete or yield it without a fight." In a voice throbbing with passion Churchill accepted "full responsibility" for the Crete campaign and said that the lessons of Crete would be applied to the defense of Britain against air-borne and sea-borne attack. Churchill declined to make a detailed statement on the war in the Eastern Mediterranean and he asserted that prolonged criticism of his government was "calculated to challenge the security of the administration." The prime minister attributed Britain's defeat in Crete to her weakness in the air.

1941 ECTC Graduate To Represent College

Miss Hazel Starnes, of Hickory, who was a member of the recent graduating class of East Carolina Teachers College, has been sent by the college as a student representative to the Institute of Professional Relations which is being held at Reedy College for Teachers, in Nashville, Tennessee. She is to present a paper giving a beginner's point of view of the education of the members of the profession of teaching. A digest of this will be published later.

City Cracks Down On Fish Truck Law

City police officials reported today that members of the force had been advised to be on the lookout for persons violating a local ordinance regarding seafood trucks coming into the city. It is unlawful for a truck laden with fish, oysters or any other seafood to stop on the public streets of the city without being equipped with a container to catch the drainage. Complaints that the law was being violated have been made with police officials and Chief Clark yesterday ordered the law enforced. One man, A. L. Williams, was arrested on the charge yesterday and was cited to appear in court here Friday morning. A new spray used on orchards has reduced the falling of apples from 60 to 90 per cent in untreated trees.

Tear Gas Fired At Aircraft Strikers

Tear gas bombs were hurled at striking North American Aviation corporation workers at Los Angeles during an effort by police to open picket lines and permit non-striking employees to return to their jobs. The pickets retreated but soon returned and re-formed their lines. Disorder ceased when army troops arrived and took over the plant.

Session Of Court Completed In A.M.

Six cases were disposed of in this week's session of County court, completed during the morning, and two others were continued indefinitely. Two of the six tried were convicted on charges of driving drunk, each being fined $50 and taxed with costs of court, in addition to losing their licenses for 12 months. They were Reid Whitford White and J. Calrey Paige, both white.

Perry Short, Negro, entered a plea of guilty to driving without a license and judgment was suspended upon payment of costs.

Josh Beaman, Negro, charged with possessing illegal liquor, asked for a jury trial and the case was transferred to Superior court, the defendant being placed under $200 bond. Jesse Battle, Negro, was convicted of possessing and transporting illegal liquor and was given a 90-day sentence, suspended upon payment of $35, costs to be deducted and the balance to go as a fine and also upon condition that he show good behavior for two years. The judgment also provided for the confiscation of the automobile and for the revocation of the defendant's driving license for 12 months.

Elijah Lee and Lena Lee tendered guilty pleas to charges of assault, but judgment was continued indefinitely. A cross action case against Guy Cayton was continued indefinitely. Also continued indefinitely was a charge of driving carelessly and recklessly against David Pender.

Sees Possible Good In Gasless Sundays

Raleigh, June 10.—"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," Ronald Houtt, director of the Highway Safety Division, said in commenting on the prospect of "gasless" Sundays, which he said would probably cut North Carolina's traffic fatality toll by as much as 20 per cent.

"While I am not prepared, on the basis of information I now have, either to advocate or condemn 'gasless Sundays,' it is interesting to speculate as to the probable effect such a restriction might have on our traffic accident toll," Houtt said.

"Our records show that 109 of the 449 persons killed in traffic accidents in North Carolina the first five months of this year were killed in Sunday accidents. In other words, one out of every four traffic fatalities in this state occurs on the Sabbath. Thus, if our motorists were compelled to keep their cars at home on 'gasless Sundays,' we might reasonably expect a substantial reduction in traffic deaths as a result."

Immediate Vacancies In Regular U.S. Army

Raleigh, June 10 — Sergeant Jewell M. Pate, Non-Commissioned Officer in charge of the Army Recruiting Station located in Raleigh, announced today that immediate vacancies were available for both white and colored applicants for service in the Regular Army. As announced by Sgt. Pate, these vacancies are to be filled with the least practicable delay, and not later than June 30th. Most of these vacancies are to be filled by men having specialist knowledge or possess necessary education to be trained for a specialist by the Army. White applicants must possess at least an eighth grade education while for the colored a sixth grade education is required. While applicants desiring to travel a lot while in the service, will have a chance in doing this if he is assigned to one of the Air Corps vacancies now open for Alabama, Arizona, Alaska, California, and Mississippi. The colored applicants are to be assigned to Camps and Posts in the fourth corps area.

Lanier Speaks At Officers' Meeting

The local Peace Officers Association last night held one of its regular supper meetings in the Municipal building, at which J. Con Lanier was the principal speaker. Mr. Lanier, an announced candidate for Congress, reviewed the history of various law enforcement agencies and stressed the advantages to be derived from close cooperation among the departments. The organization is composed of city, county and state officers located here. Sheriff J. Knott Proctor is president. A chicken and ham dinner was served to the members and guests, including city and county officials.

Missing Army Plane Sighted In Wyoming

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 10.—(AP)—Wreckage of the army's missing twin-motored bomber which vanished Sunday with six men aboard was reported sighted west of Lyman, Wyoming, this morning. Army authorities sent a plane into the area.

The army's ground crew is some distance from the reported scene of the crash, but carries radio communication. The army expects that its plane, when it sights the ground crew, can guide the ground party to the scene quickly.

At Cheyenne, Wyo., a United Air Lines pilot said he sighted the plane from an altitude of 11,000 feet and that it was on the top of a knoll about 10 miles northeast of Lyman. He said the ship seemed intact and that it appeared possible for the six occupants to be alive.

N.C. Farmers Turning To Ground Limestone

Raleigh, June 10.—Farmers of North Carolina appear to be headed for another record-breaking year in the use of ground limestone as a soil tonic, reports E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive officer of N. C. State College. They have already obtained 201,387 tons of agricultural limestone through the Triple-A grant-of-aid plan. Last year farmers received 230,000 tons of lime as a grant-of-aid and used an additional 45,000 tons bought directly. The enormous increase in the use of limestone, Floyd said, is shown by the fact that only 150,000 tons of lime was used in the state in 1939. Farmers may continue to order ground agricultural limestone through the AAA grant-of-aid system until September 15 for credit in the 1941 Agricultural Conservation program. The cost of the material is deducted from payments earned for applying the lime and for carrying out other soil-building practices.

isn't naive enough to believe that it is possible to win any major office in North Carolina without organized political support, and it can be written down as a certainty that he will not be a candidate for anything in 1944, or in any other year, unless he is assured of this potent backing from one source or another. What group would get behind him is rather a poser. He has never been completely identified with any clique or faction — though primarily one of the western "regulars" in every race.
