Matsuoka Expresses Emotion Over The Speech Mussolini Made Before Chamber Earlier In Month

Rome, June 14.—(AP)—Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka has telegraphed Premier Mussolini endorsing his declaration that Japan "would not remain indifferent in the face of an American aggression against the Axis," it was announced today.

Matsuoka's message, delivered to the Italian ambassador at Tokyo, referred to Mussolini's speech June 10 before the Chamber of Fasces and Militia on the first anniversary of Italy's entry into the war. Mussolini's words, referring directly to the Japanese foreign minister, were "the attitude of Japan, through what Foreign Minister Matsuoka said at Rome and more recently at Tokyo—is in perfect line with the tri-partite pact."

Shreve-Woolard.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Madeline Woolard and Lieutenant William Carroll Shreve was solemnized at ten o'clock this morning at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. The vows were spoken before the Reverend Thomas McCall Grant, pastor of the church.

The church, with its background of white gladioli and Easter lilies with palms and tamarax, formed a lovely setting for the impressive ceremony. Cathedral candles burned on each side of the altar.

As the guests assembled, Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley, at the console of the organ, presented a program of nuptial music including "Ave Maria" by Schubert; Schubert's "Serenade" and "Liebestraum," by Liszt. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. J. H. Waldrop sang "Because," by Guy D'Hardelot, and "On Wings of Song," by Mendelssohn. After a prayer, during which the couple were kneeling, "O Perfect Love" was softly sung.

The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, by Wagner, was used as the processional, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," was used as the recessional. During the ceremony, "I Love You Truly" was played.

Mrs. Hadley wore a white dress and hat with a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Waldrop's dress was of pink, with which she wore a white hat. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses.

The bride entered with her father, Mr. John Hyman Woolard, and was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Richard Copeland of Arlington, Va. She wore a chic navy blue dress, cut on Princess line, with a square neck outlined with white waffle pique. Over the dress was an elbow-length cape, also trimmed with white. With this she wore a blue straw sailor hat. Her corsage was of Cattleya Mosana orchids.

Mrs. Joseph P. Gaston was her sister's dame of honor. Her dress was white embroidery and her hat was blue. Mrs. Gaston carried an arm bouquet of Briarcliff roses and Bristol fairy.

Acting as ushers were: Mr. Clay Stroud, Jr., of Ayden; Mr. Joseph P. Gaston of Greenville, and Messrs. G. G. Woolard and W. J. Woolard of Williamson.

Mrs. P. F. Batchelor, oldest sister of the bride, wore navy blue lace with white accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of Tallyman roses.

Mrs. Shreve, mother of the groom, was attired in lovely flowered chiffon with matching accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. John Hyman Woolard and the late Mrs. Louisa Chaucy Woolard. She is a recent graduate of East Carolina Teachers College, where she received her A. B. degree.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll V. Shreve of Falls Church, Va. He was graduated from the Virginia Military Institute in 1938. At present he is stationed at Cavalry Replacement Training Center, Fort Riley, Kansas.

After luncheon, which followed the wedding, the couple left for Falls Church, Va., where Lieutenant Shreve's parents will honor them with a reception on Monday. From there they will go to Junction City, Kansas, to make their home.

On Friday night, following rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Stroud, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Stroud, Jr., entertained the bridal party and out-of-town guests at a cake-cutting at the home of Mrs. H. H. Settle. A profusion of summer flowers decorated the house throughout.

The guests were greeted at the door by the hosts and hostesses and invited into the dining room by Mrs. Settle. In the dining room the central table was covered with an exquisite cloth of lace and centered

Now that the farmers have about caught up with their crops, many of them might realize a nice little sum from huckleberries at the canning factory.

The canning factory solicits vegetables and fruits for which they are ready to pay the best cash market price.

With a beautiful wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Lighted tapers burned on either side of the central arrangement and on the buffet and serving tables. With the wedding cake, ice cream, mints and nuts were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Spruill Spain served punch in the spacious hall.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Shreve of Falls Church, Va.; Miss Minnie D. Ellison, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Salebury and son, Fairfax, Va.; Mrs. Marie Spring, Arlington, Va.; Mr. Richard Copeland, Arlington, Va.; Mr. William Woolard, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Woolard, Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Chaucy, Griffin; Mr. and Mrs. W. North Collee, Belhaven; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Stroud, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Stroud, Jr.; Ayden; Mrs. Pierce Sumrell, Ayden; and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Baker, Aurora.

Friends of Mrs. Elizabeth Smith will regret to know that she is sick at her home on Second street.

To Speak Here Tomorrow. Dr. J. L. Kesler, eminent educator and public speaker, will speak at the morning worship service at the Immanuel Baptist Church, tomorrow.

Dr. Kesler is well known to many people in Greenville and in North Carolina. For a number of years he was dean of the faculty of Meredith College, Baylor University. For one year, in 1918, he was in the war service, training Y. M. C. A. workers. In 1919 he went to Vanderbilt University as a professor in the department of psychology and religion.

Dr. Kesler has given lectures over the South. For many years he has spoken at the Blue Ridge conferences. Several years ago he spent a week at East Carolina Teachers College, giving the Y. W. C. A. lectures.

Dr. Kesler, a brother of the late M. L. Kesler for many years superintendent of the North Carolina Baptist Orphanage, returned to North Carolina to attend the 50th anniversary of his class at Wake Forest College. For several days he visited Dr. B. W. Spilman at the Kennedy Home. While in Greenville, he is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Meadows.

Presbyterian Announcements. On Sunday the old pews of the church will be used for the last time. New pews are at the freight depot and will be installed the week of June 15, ready for use the following Sunday. A new carpet and a memorial communion table and a baptismal font will also be installed at the same time.

The men's Bible class is still going strong. The Sunday school meets at 9:45 and an invitation is extended to all persons not now enrolled in a school, to be present. At the 11 o'clock preaching service, Rev. Boyd, the pastor, will speak on the subject, "Faith At Its Best."

This will be a study of Elijah's experience on Mount Carmel and his prayer for rain. The special music for this service will be a solo by Mrs. John Robert Boyd of Atlanta, Ga., who will be in the city for the weekend. Mrs. Boyd is the daughter-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Boyd, and has sung very acceptably for the church on former occasions.

In the absence of Mr. Sidney Crane, who is attending the State Y. P. Conference at Davidson, Dr. Boyd will preach at Meadowbrook Chapel at 8 p. m. following Y. P. vesper service at 7:15 p. m. Prayer service will be conducted at the chapel on Tuesday at 8 p. m., and at the First Church Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Sunday school, as usual, at Hollywood school at 2:30 p. m., Sunday.

Union services for the city churches participating will be held again at the Immanuel Baptist Church at 8 p. m., and Rev. W. A. Ryan will speak. The members of the Presbyterian Church are urged to attend.

Whitley-Roebuck. In a beautiful ceremony on Saturday, June 7, at 5:30 o'clock in the First Christian Church in Robersonville, Miss Magnolia Roebuck, daughter of Mrs. James Albert Roebuck, became the bride of Alton Funston Whitley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Whitley of Bethel, with the Reverend J. M. Perry, pastor of the bride, officiating.

A program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. A. Q. Roebuck of Farmville. Included in the selections were: "Serenade," by Schubert, "Liebestraum," by Liszt, "Ave Maria" by Schubert, "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice," by Saint-Saens. Immediately preceding the ceremony, Mrs. James Gerland Bullock of Raleigh, sister of the bride, sang "Because," by Guy D'Hardelot, and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" by Stults.

For the processional Mrs. Roebuck played Wagner's Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" and the recessional Mendelssohn's Wedding March. During the ceremony

Mrs. Roebuck softly played "To A Wild Rose," by MacDowell.

Mrs. Roebuck wore a frock of heaven blue fashioned with a short skirt with bodice and chiton puffed sleeves of lace. Mrs. Bullock was becomingly attired in a dress of bluish pink fashioned with a flowing chiffon skirt shirred onto a fitted bodice of marquisette with sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves. She wore a matching halo of illusion with a dainty band of garden flowers. They wore shoulder corsages of pink roses tied with contrasting satin ribbons.

The vows were spoken against a background of palms and fern, interspersed with tall pedestal baskets of Madonna lilies and feverfew. Over all of which a glow of candlelight fell from branched candelabra bearing cathedral candles. A white satin pillow was used for the couple to kneel upon. On the pews, at intervals, were clusters of Madonna lilies, white delphinium and feverfew tied with tulle bows.

The bride entered with her brother, James Albert Roebuck, Jr., by whom she was given in marriage. Her gown was of Kolmor white marquisette trimmed in bands of chintilly lace. The fitted bodice with long bishop sleeves and high neckline was fashioned with a bouffant full flowing skirt. The white illusion veil, finger-tip length, was trimmed with Chantilly lace, matching the gown, and fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet of white bride's roses and lilies of the valley was tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Edith Roebuck was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a gown of melody pink lace and net over taffeta. Fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, the bodice featured a fitted midriff of lace and short puffed sleeves. The ruffled bouffant skirt featured a full gathered net peplum. She carried an arm bouquet of delphinium, roses, and carnations tied with orchid satin. Her halo of illusion was trimmed with matching flowers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Cleo James and Miss Doris Everett of Robersonville. They wore identical dresses of aqua net and lace over taffeta. Fashioned with sweetheart neckline, the bodice featured a fitted midriff of lace and short puffed sleeves. The ruffled bouffant skirt featured a full gathered net peplum. THE SACRIFICE

YESTERDAY: Anne Willard, worried half out of her head by the plight of her parents, who are held by the Nagaras to fulfill an ancient prophecy, now has a further fear. Word has come that the government was sending an observer to the camp, and now the observer turns out to be Blaze Sherwood, who is not only antagonistic to Anne's parents, but the man she is trying to keep from loving. Life in Asia is endlessly complicated, she has found.

Chapter 24. "So that's it," muttered Larry inside the hut. "We just took it for granted the fellow would be a native from Chuka—but Sherwood has his nerve." No one else spoke. Anne found she could better control her trembling knees if she sat down.

Sherwood handed Oliver two bright red papers. "Letters of introduction in case you require them," he said dryly. "And this is a parchment, but Sherwood has his nerve." No one else spoke. Anne found she could better control her trembling knees if she sat down.

WHAT WENT DOWN MUST COME UP—Watery froth bubbles around three figures in New York's East river while two men on the tug's rail prepare to dunk themselves, wearing a new one-piece rubber life-saving suit in use by the Norwegian navy on the north Atlantic. Inside there's a vest of East Indian cotton, and according to the Norwegian Shipping and Trade Mission the materials have been tested against mustard gas. The demonstrators floated comfortably, then climbed aboard the tug, neither wet nor cold.

SUITS THEM FINE—Into their life-saving suits climb Ruth (left) and Helen Ingraham to demonstrate in New York's East river how the one-piece rubber garment with an East Indian cotton vest beneath saves the lives of Norwegian seamen.

TEMPLAR PLEA—Hope that he can bring about a joint religious service with Knights of St. John, Catholic lay group, was voiced by J. Craig Roberts (right) of Buffalo, new grand commander of Knights Templar of New York state. With him at New York City ceremony is Dr. Charles Grosch, previous commander.

ON SPOT—Into a frying pan steps Luke Sewell (above), former Indian coach, who has signed a two-year contract to manage the floundering St. Louis Browns, replacing Fred Hancy.

RIISING REISER—Sparking the Dodgers' pennant chase, Eric Reiser (above) is the wonder boy of Ebbets field and one of the National League's leading hitters. A hard swinger, he's got a powerful throwing arm and fields adequately.

BUDGE, AT YOUR SERVICE—Don Budge, former national singles champ, gives out with a serve at Forest Hills pro round-robin tourney where he lost to Fred Perry, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

THROUGH THE NIGHT—Nightfall in the swamps near Miami, Fla., brings out Willie Osceola, a Seminole who's skilled at catching frogs to supply the demand for frog-legs. Searchlight attracts frogs; crab-like pincers hold them fast.

BOOED—Not even his position as U.A.W.'s national director of aviation saved Richard T. Frankenstein (above) from boos and catcalls when he pleaded for peace among striking workers at the North American aviation plant at Inglewood, Cal.

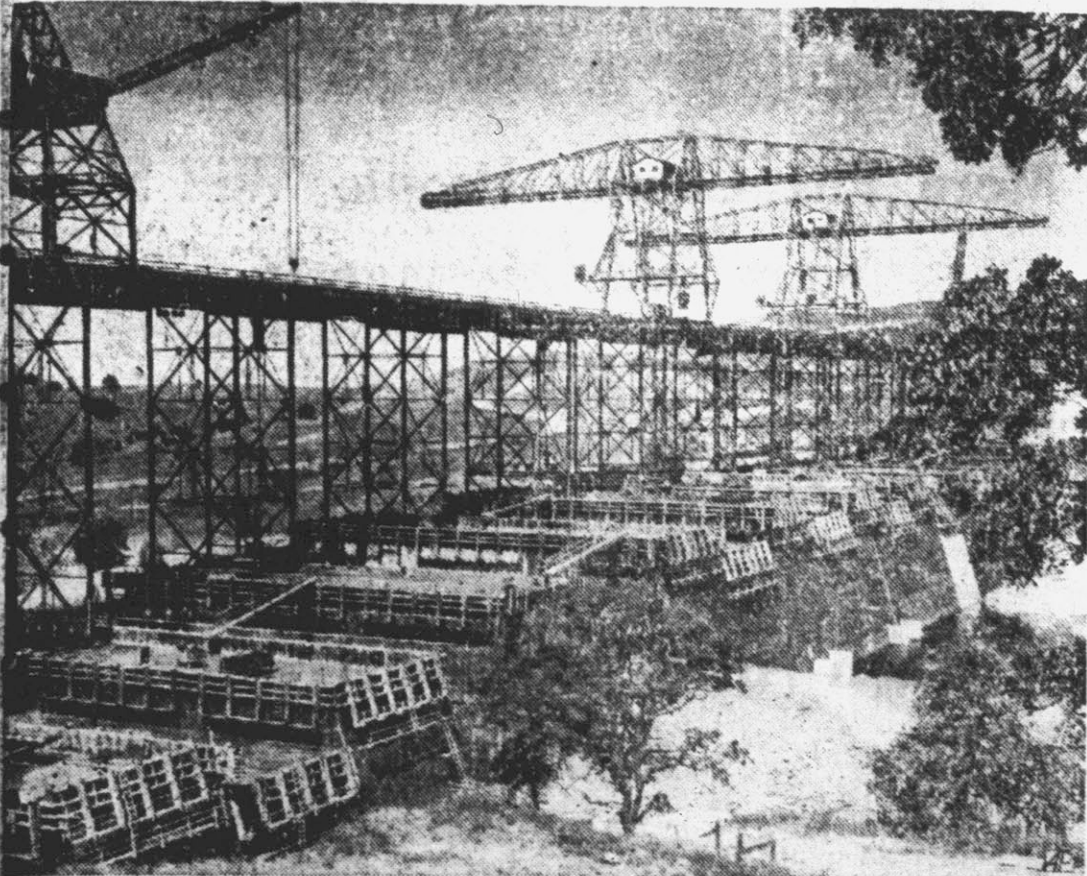

MOVE AGAINST MOVEMENT—Together Breckinridge Long (left) of the state department and Rep. Sol Bloom, N. Y. Democrat, study Bloom's bill tightening restrictions on the departure from, and entry into, U.S., of citizens of nations at war.

CALL IT BY NAME—Britain calls this big gun—a late addition to the stock of British armaments and said to be the world's largest calibre—"Boche Buster" with a certain idea in mind. This is one of first action photos.

CAPACITY—Inside this mustard gold collarless jacket suit with its "awkward sleeves" and peplum skirt is Alexis Smith, film actress—and a full-size morsel she is, too.

WELL UP IN THE MILLIONS—Against the surrounding hills and sky appears Friant dam in California, viewed from a point just upstream in the reservoir area. The big cranes on the long steel truss have placed one million cubic yards of concrete, weighing twice that many tons, in the dam which is being built as part of the Central Valley project.

DOWN THUMB—His thumb is down for good, says Bob Friars, 26, U. of Michigan graduate who hitch-hiked 130,000 miles through 24 countries in the last 13 years. He has sailed on the Santa Rosa for an AUTO trip through South America.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

SPIRITUAL VIGILANCE REQUIRED

Sometimes we ask the question "Why does God not bless me more?" Perhaps the answer is that God's blessing has often been extended, and because we were spiritually blind or our attention was taken up with something else, or we were indulging in some sin, we did not observe the heavenly messenger when He came. We often miss God's blessings because we are not ready to receive them. God's message often fails to reach our ears because they are so full of the clamor of the world. Frequently we miss the joys of the spirit because we are so fascinated by the pleasures of the world.

To keep healthy spiritually means that we have to keep the eyes of the spirit keen and our ears alert to the advance of heavenly things. Some people keep their religion looked up in the Bible. They never catch the point made continuously by the sacred writers, that the relationships God established between Himself and man in ancient times are still established and operative. The supernatural is just as real a factor in life today as it was in antiquity. These higher powers can be employed to our advantage precisely as they were to the advantage of men thousands of years ago. What was ever true in the life of the spirit, is true today.

BUY DEFENSE BONDS

In offering defense bonds to the general public our government hopes to accomplish a two-fold purpose. The sale of these bonds will help greatly in bearing the cost of our present defense program, thereby making it unnecessary to raise the whole cost through taxation at this time. The bonds are offered also to encourage thrift on the part of every citizen at a time when, because of the defense program throughout the country employment is at a maximum and wages higher. The persons who place a part of their present earnings in defense bonds will be creating the safest possible "nest egg" for the time of depression which is sure to follow settlement of the present world crisis. By buying defense bonds you are not only being patriotic but you are providing for your own personal future.

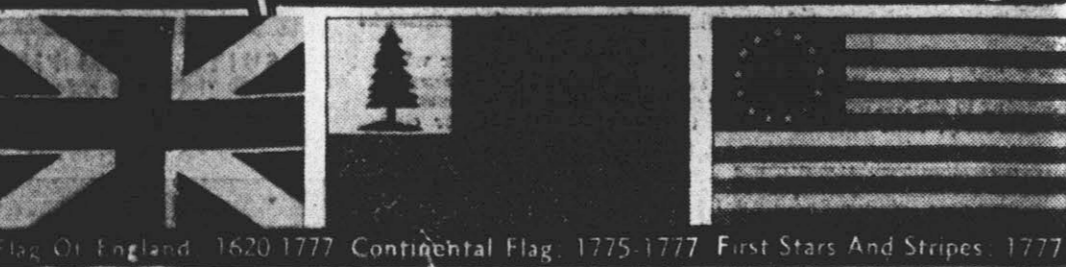

FLAG DAY

Today, June 14, is Flag Day and a time when each of us can afford to give a little thought and study to those things for which our flag stands. "Old Glory" represents all that freedom implies and will continue to wave on forever in the breeze if our people love that freedom to the extent to be willing to fight for it. In the present world crisis is a good time for each of us as individuals to pledge anew our allegiance to the flag and stand together as a solid unit to defend freedom and democracy.

These Used To Be Our Flag

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stimpert

Washington.—Answering the mail orders:

Mrs. O. L. M., Watertown, Conn.—There isn't any ruling of selective service officials or the army to defer men over 30 from training. There is a Senate bill, which has been favorably reported by the military affairs committee, to defer men 27 or over. Administration leaders in Congress want to change this bill to allow the President, by executive order, to establish the draft ages, and the talk is that the army wants to draw all its trainees from the 21-24 age group. The measure will be acted on soon, but until that time selective service boards will continue to act under the original law.

R. K., Bonham, Tex.—Andrew Jackson Houston, 87 on June 21, appointed senator from your state to serve until another is elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sen. Morris Sheppard, is not only the oldest member of the upper house but oldest person ever to be inducted into the Senate. "Grand Old Man" of the House is Rep. Edward T. Taylor, of Glenwood Springs, Colo., who is 83. With completion of his present term, Congressman Taylor will have served in the House for 34 consecutive years. The oldest elected member of the Senate is Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who will be 84 next January. Both Taylor and Glass have seniors in the respective bodies. Rep. Adolph J. Sabath of Illinois has served two years longer than Taylor. Sen. Ellison D. "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina, who has served 32 years, and six other senators have longer service records than Senator Glass.

A. F. S., Fairfield, Ill.—The total number of Civil War veterans alive today is not available here. The veterans administration says a recent check showed 1,673 Union veterans on the pension rolls and showed that 708 had died in the last year. N. C., Norfolk, Va.—Best guess here is that there will have to be a long drawn-out court battle, ending in the Supreme Court, before it is determined whether Washington's new National airport, at Gravelly Point, is in Virginia or the District of Columbia—and consequently who will get the prize package of gasoline and liquor taxes collected there. In spite of the fact that it is on the Virginia side of the Potomac, there is a lot to be said for Washington's claims. Richmond B. Keech summed up many of them recently in his opinion that Gravelly Point is in the District. However, Mr. Keech's opinion may not be the court's and interested parties think Virginia and Arlington county will want a court decision before they relinquish their hold on what may turn out to be the sweetest airport tax plum in the country. The fight over the Potomac river boundary between the District and Virginia is almost as old as the District and far too complicated to go into here. It has its roots in ambiguous wordage and a shifting river.

P. L. M., Santa Fe, N. M.—Educational requirements for the air corps already have been relaxed. If you have completed college credits in all of the required subjects (English composition and grammar, arithmetic, algebra, including quadratics, plane geometry, and trigonometry) and two of the optional subjects (History, physics, chemistry any foreign language), you will not have to take examinations. If you have completed credits in any of these, they may be applied and you will have only to take examinations to fill out your five required and two optional subjects.

Short Shots

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL Raleigh, June 14.—To this desk comes State Water Fishing Bulletin No. 1, prepared by the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development in collaboration with National Sportsman and Hunting and Fishing magazines.

After reading it your reporter has a very decided inclination to cover up the typewriter, oil up his thumb and beg a ride to one of the many ideal angling heavens described therein. Right off the bat the bulletin says "Note: Over 300 miles of shoreline; 1,500 miles of inland waterways and approximately 1,800 miles of coastal sound assures every fisherman of sufficient elbow room when he comes to North Carolina. No licenses are required for fishing in North Carolina's coastal salt waters and there is a variety of fishing seldom found along the southeastern coast."

And On The Other Hand Next on the desk after the lure of salt water fishing along the Tar Heel coast was a pamphlet of the United States Department of the Interior titled "Blue Ridge Parkway 1941," and bearing on the cover a picture "View From Cumberland Knob Park, North Carolina." Then: "The Blue Ridge Parkway affords an unusual opportunity to view the natural beauty of a country heretofore virtually inaccessible—a country of bold panoramas, white forests, and exceptionally beautiful flora."

So the reporter was torn with a burning desire to go both east and west at the same time. But that's North Carolina, for you—something good in every direction.

The Chance Of A Lifetime Lieutenant Commander McFarland Wood the officer in charge of navy recruit in the Carolinas says that "There has now arrived the chance of a life time and the opportunity everyone has been waiting for to serve his country in a specialized field during the emergency."

He points out that the opportunities for promotion in the rapidly expanding navy have never been better than now. Almost 60 per cent of the men in the naval service are specialists and hold petty officer ratings with pay ranging from $60 to $157 a month. Those joining the naval reserve now will be in a favorable position to benefit themselves by not only serving during the present emergency, but should they desire to make the navy a career.

Right now, the Lieutenant Commander says the Navy Department desires to obtain a large number of young men between 17 and 28, unmarried and who have mechanical aptitude for Class V-2 U. S. Naval Reserve. These men, upon completion of recruit training, if qualified will be sent to an aviation school for training leading to aviation machinist, aviation metallsmith, photograph and aviation pilot.

Men are paid, furnished free food lodging, clothes and medical care while learning, and have an assured future in a growing industry which no doubt will be larger than the present automobile field after the present emergency ends.

Schools are maintained for this specialized training in Florida at Pensacola and Jacksonville and in Illinois at Great Lakes.

There are recruiting offices in North Carolina at Raleigh, Greensboro, Wilmington, New Bern, Charlotte, Salisbury and Asheville.

World's Biggest Port 'Mum's The Word In

(Second of three articles) By MORGAN M. BEATTY AP Feature Service Writer

Halifax, N. C. — British Empire warships are as common as fog in Halifax.

Almost any day in any weather, people on harbor ferries can look up and see the great hulks and the deadly guns. But they don't talk about them.

Stop a few moments out by the freight yards next to the great anchorage zone. Thousands of cars are loaded with lumber, military trucks, myriad war supplies. Peer across the yards into the basin, and see the big bombers from the U.S.A. on the decks of freighters.

Not Much Sabotage. In no time at all a couple of Mounties are at your side, asking your credentials and your business. If you can't explain yourself, you're sunk. These boys don't fool.

But sabotage is infrequent. The worst yet are the tales they say enemy agents tell in the state, about how Canada will confiscate tourist automobiles, charge 90 cents a gallon for gas. That is bunk.

Marching — To Where?

Any reports about troop movements are forbidden. You may be walking down Barrington (Main) street, hear the skin of pipes, the rhythm of marching feet. You look around, spot the soldiers. They may be Canadian Highlanders clad in khaki blouses, New Zealanders, Australians, or regular Canadian infantrymen wearing tin hats.

But whatever they are, Haligonians pay no great attention to them, ask no questions. The soldiers could be bound for barracks nearby, or they might be boarding troop ships for Europe or Africa. Nobody seems to know. And you can't find out.

Halifax is odd that way. You're likely to be deceived by their non-chalance. But discuss the war in general terms with a Haligonian, and you discover he's dead serious and determined.

The town is deceptive in appearances in more ways than one. Nearly all the physical comforts of life, from automobile refrigerators to tooth paste, come from the United States. You write on an American typewriter. You see American movies. Street advertisements, trolleys, newspapers, all have the stamp of the United States. You get American radio programs.

Bound To Britain.

But don't be fooled. Haligonians are not more American than British. Tradition, blood, war and custom bind Haligonians closer to the mother country than perhaps any other Canadians.

Their afternoon tea, their pink cheeks, clear eyes, stem from England and Empire. The fork is held in the left hand as it is in Europe. The face of King George is on all their money. And everywhere, they still show proudly the photographs of George and Elizabeth on their 1939 visit to Halifax.

Alice, Where Art Thou?

New York.—(AP)—Alice Frost, star of the Big Sister radio serial, is a quick thinker. The script called for her to pace back and forth. Planks were laid on the floor and a microphone set beside them. Alice slipped and fell. Her face stopped right in front of the floor microphone. She continued her speech.

Greenville Defeated By Goldsboro By Score Of 4-2

HOMER PROVES WINNING RUNS

Colored Night To Be Observed Here Tonight

A two-run homer off Lefty Adams in the eighth inning last night gave McElhaneey the margin of victory as Goldsboro took a 4-2 win over Greenville for the Bug's first victory over the Greens this season.

The two pitchers locked up in a real battle and neither side scored until the fourth when Greenville got one on a double by Pierce and a single by Wilson. Neither team was able to score again until the seventh, when Goldsboro got two when Patton and Clifton, who had singled, came home after Crowe fell when fielding McElhaneey's single. With a 2-0 lead Goldsboro made two more in the eighth on Peele's home run with one man on. Greenville got one in the last half of the eighth when Wilson, who got on by an error, scored on Jenkins' double.

Trailing by two runs, the Greens gave local supporters some hope in the ninth inning by filling the bases with a hit, error and a walk. Julio Acosta, however, was called in as relief hurler and let the Greens down without a score.

Pfirkock and Pierce each got two for the lead in the Greens, who garnered a total of seven hits to Goldsboro's nine.

oil burner; but the heating industry still remains fundamental. Those who stick to their industry but are willing to change their methods are in the long run, successful.

Finding New Uses

Our great grandparents did their reading by candlelight; our grand parents lit with a kerosene lamp; our parents lit the house with gas; while we use the incandescent lamp. The mode of lighting changed, but those who stuck to the lighting industry and were willing to change the method of lighting came through with flying colors. The easily-frightened and the "die-hards" were wiped out. Certainly, there is a lesson in this for all of us today. Do not give up the business or line of work for which you are trained because Harold Ickes says "Boo" to you and tries to scare you.

There is something more in this connection, however, which we should now remember. It is this: Notwithstanding the changes from candles to kerosene and to gas and electricity, this astounding fact is true: More candles are sold today and more kerosene is sold today and more gas is sold today than ever before in history. This means that even some of those who remained in these "vanishing" businesses are making millions today. They are making these millions because they developed new uses for their products. They taught people to use candles for decorative purposes, to use kerosene to operate the kitchen

Louis Will Lose, Jim Braddock Says

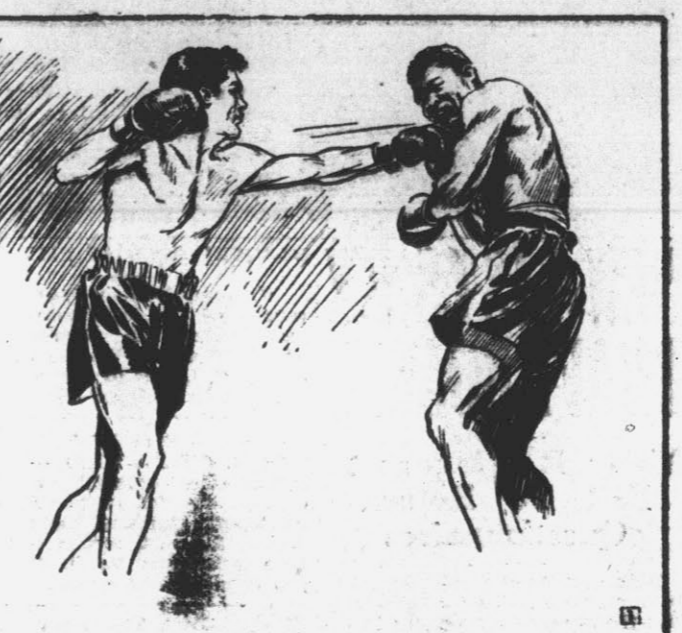

By JAMES J. BRADDOCK—Former World's Heavyweight Boxing Champion

Joe Louis is in for trouble when he risks his heavyweight championship against Billy Conn at New York's Polo Grounds June 18. I think Louis at his peak was the greatest fighter I've ever seen, a good boxer and a murderous puncher. But he is past his peak. He has never met a boxer as good as Conn. And he has never faced a challenger who moves about or throws punches as fast as Conn.

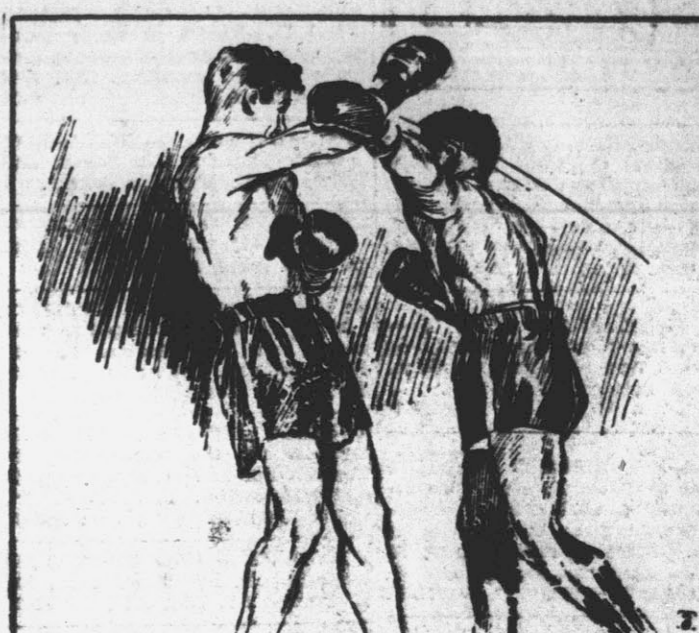

It has been nearly four years since Louis won the championship from me, June 22, 1937. He has turned back the challenges of many contenders, some of them good men. But time has changed him. He isn't the hungry, ambitious fighter he was. He isn't as fast. And his punches don't carry the zip they did a year or two ago. Mediocre fighters have taken his Sunday punches without going down. He has softened up. He gets cut occasionally now. He gets hit with punches he would have dodged before.

Conn will not be hit anywhere near as often as those bigger, slower fighters Joe has beaten. Some say Conn, when he is hit, will lose his temper and try to slug with Joe. I don't think so. I think he will be too smart. A wily, it will be a great fight and here's how I think it will go:

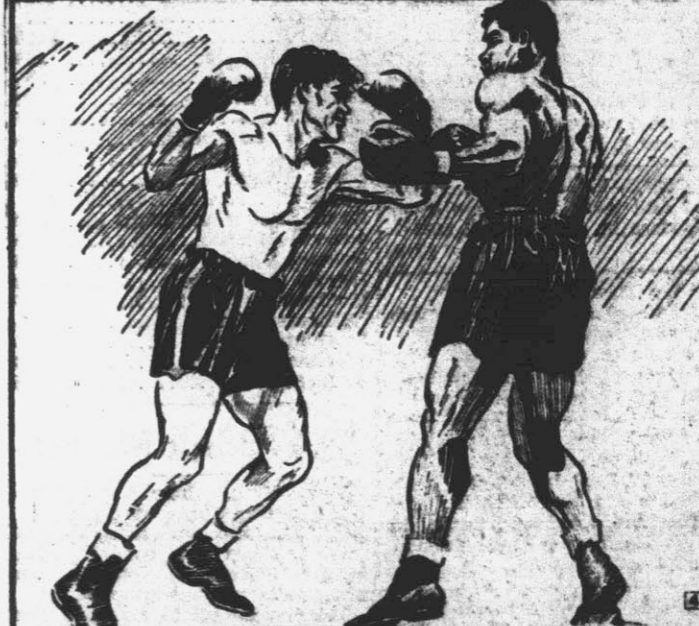

In the opening rounds Conn dances around in and out, always on the move and hitting Louis with lots of left jabs. Louis stalks him; trying to block Conn's punches, not killing blows, but tantalizing.

Conn feints Louis and Joe throws counter punches at a fancy dancing Conn who has moved away. Then, as Louis leaves himself open, the challenger belts him with right uppercuts and left jabs.

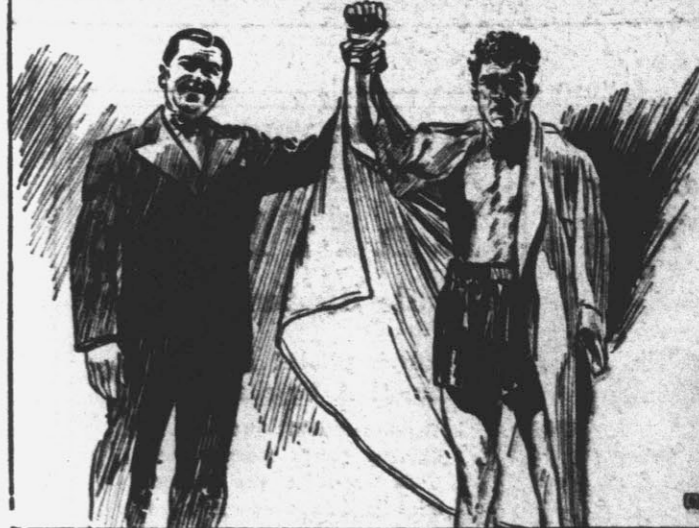

Along about the 6th round Louis is missing punches badly. His left eye plainly shows wear and tear from Conn's uppercuts. Joe begins to worry now and Billy is steadily gaining confidence.

Conn is fresher than Louis as they slow up in the middle rounds. Billy has re-acted well from the few punches Joe has hit him. Conn has peppered Louis with light blows and the champ is puzzled.

As they move into the closing rounds Conn is far ahead on points. He oozes confidence and is more daring, hitting Joe with harder blows. Louis is desperate, taking chances and punching wildly, with Conn taking the advantage to ram home more blows.

In the final rounds Louis realizes only a knockout can save his crown. He takes the offensive, rushing Conn and punching with both hands; but Conn eludes him, keeps pumping those jabs and uppercuts. Conn wins the 15-round decision and championship.

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of our loving mother, Mrs. Millas Tetterton, who departed this life June 14, 1940.

And He, at last,
After the weary strife—
After the restless fever we call life—
After the dreamless, the aching pain,
The wayward struggles which have proved in vain,
After our toils are past,
Will give us rest,
(Daughter) Martha Tetterton.

Remember Plastics
The priority regulations chiefly affect metals. These regulations would have been a severe handicap to manufacturers of refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, radios, etc., during World War I. If these things had been in general use 25 years ago. Since then, however, the use of plastics has been discovered. In most things now sold for household use plastics can today take the place of metals. Think this over before getting frightened! Also remember that plastics are only one of a score of other important substitutes which have been developed since World War I. Make priorities and other war restrictions stepping stones to better business, more profits, and real prosperity, instead of getting frightened and running for cover.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 14.—(AP)—While a few strong specialties encouraged bulls in today's stock market, there was enough selling among leaders to prevent any worthwhile rally developing. The list got off to a ragged start and deviations of fractions to a point or so either way ruled at the close in relatively slow dealings. Transfers for the two hours amounted to approximately 200,000 shares.

NEW LISTS BY DRAFT BOARDS

Many Registrants Fail To Return Questionnaires

With new forms of questionnaires having been adopted for registrants and the deadline for persons to return them to the local boards from five to 10 days, the two Pitt county boards are working at full speed. New lists of delinquents, persons who have failed to return their questionnaires, were released today by each of the local boards. Officials explained that with the deadline for returning the questionnaires having been extended to 10 days there was little excuse for a registrant failing to comply with the law. They also explained that failure to comply with the law subjects a person to prosecution under the federal law, conviction of which brings a possible fine or imprisonment or both.

The latest delinquent list issued by Board No. One and the latest reported addresses of the registrants follow:

DAN DUNN - SECRET OPERATIVE 48

Nazi Substitute Wood For Cotton

Berlin.—(AP)—Wood fiber may displace "King Cotton" in Nazi Germany.

Big-scale preparations, based on work by the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Research, are being made to insure a continuous supply of wood. About 46,000 acres have been devoted exclusively to growing of "giant" poplar trees, considered best for wood fiber.

The trees, cultivated from poplar trees from Siberia, North America and the Rhine, grow 20 to 40 per cent faster than ordinary poplars, according to Dr. von Wettstein of the institute. Two years after the young trees have been planted their springs can be harvested.

SEEING THROUGH MY WINDSHIELD

By Verona Lee Joyner, H. D. A.

Spend your cotton stamps wisely. The best way to get your money's worth in cotton goods is to know quality. Good quality is a better buy than cheap quality, because it lasts longer and stands up better. Price is not an index of quality.

Cotton yardage goods have not advanced in price in proportion to manufactured garments and the stamps will go much further in clothing the family if the goods are purchased and garments made by the homemaker.

This week my shopping hints to the homemaker will be "Sign Post's Which Will Assist in Buying Good Quality Cotton Yardage Goods."

1. Read all labels and ends of bolt boards carefully. If they fail to give the desired information about the fabric quality, ask the clerk.
2. Buy by brand name. Buy cotton yardage goods that have a brand name. A brand name identifies it with some manufacturer. Do not buy an "orphan." Often inferior quality, even with a good thread count, is sold on the market without a brand name.
3. Be inquisitive. Do not be satisfied to guess at quality of fabric or type of fiber.
4. Examine the yarn to see if it is a well-twisted, smooth, strong and even yarn. Untwist the yarn, if yardage goods, separate the yarn strands and break them. Notice if the fibers are of regular length and if the yarn threads are even and well-twisted. Very short fibers tend to make weak yarns, a fuzzy fabric surface, and poor quality cloth. Medium and long staple cotton made into well-twisted yarns make better quality fabrics.

Hold any fabric against a strong light and notice the evenness of the yarn and of the weave. This will indicate the yarn and fabric quality to the consumer.

5. Know what are the appropriate fabrics for various uses. This necessitates knowing something about the construction of different fabrics.
6. Some common weaknesses in construction of cotton fabrics which may be observed by the consumer are:
 - (a) Very fine yarns woven over very heavy ones—these fine threads soon wear through and the fabric will split along the heavy yarn.
 - (b) Long yarns, or floats, passed over too many yarns—they are easily caught and torn.
 - (c) Print patterns are made by bleaching out portions of a dark background. This method of making a printed fabric sometimes results in weakened places which quickly wear through.
 - (d) Designs produced by weaving in short lengths of yarn free at both ends—this may soon make the material look shabby.

7. Ask about thread count—the number of threads per inch in the warp (lengthwise) and in the filling or wale (crosswise). Low or very uneven thread count is often the cause of poor wearing quality.

Good quality percale has a thread count of 90 warp threads and 80 filling threads. Percale with this thread count is generally spoken of as 80 square. Other standard thread counts of percale found on the market are 68 warp and 72 filling; 64 warp and 60 filling; 60 warp and 64 filling. The 60x48 generally sells for 10 cents a yard and is very poor quality. Besides these standard grades there are many variations in thread count.

8. Inquire about tensile strength. Tensile strength is another very important guide wearing quality. The average consumer cannot measure this. It requires special instruments which record the number of pounds pull required to break the fabric threads. Probably the merchant doesn't know the tensile strength either. However, this is information which can be made available and will be made available if consumers persistently ask for it. It is as good or better an index of quality as is that of thread count.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of any of the delinquents is advised to advise the registrant to report to his respective board immediately.

9. Ask about color fastness. Many cotton fabrics carry labels guaranteeing color fastness. The term "color fast" is not sufficient. Ask if the fabric is fast to washing, sun and perspiration.

Vat dyes are the best dyes for cotton fabrics and indicate complete color fastness. The NAFal label issued by the National Association of Finishers of Textile Fabrics specifies that the fabric has been tested and found to conform to standards of fastness to light and washing established by the association.

Make some tests at home for color or fastness. Procure some samples and try out the following:

- (a) Expose a piece directly to the sunlight with part of it covered with cardboard and see if the uncovered portion fades in the sunlight.
- (b) Wash a piece with soap or hot water in a soap solution if the cloth is "boll fast." Test out the material under the conditions it is to be used.
- (c) Observe if there is sizing present. Sizing is starch or other material used to give the fabric a smooth finish and firm appearance and feel. A very small amount of dressing used on fabrics add to their appearance. Large amounts may conceal a poorly woven fabric making it appear firm and closely woven.

Rub the fabric between the hands and see if the sizing comes out. Also, when a fabric is being torn, notice if a cloud of dust can be seen and if the dusty substance is left on the counter.

10. Procure information about shrinkage. Fabrics and garments which are fully shrunk can be obtained on the market. They are labeled to what effect if they are fully shrunk. Do not let the terms "pre-shrunk," "super-shrunk," "mill-shrunk," or "natural-shrunk" deceive you. Look for definite statements such as "fully-shrunk," "completely shrunk" or "will not shrink more than such and such per cent."
