All Passengers And Crewmen of Robin Moor Rescued

35 SAVED BY BRITISH SHIP

Completes Rescue Of 46 Persons Aboard American Vessel Which Was Sunk By German Submarine May 21; 35 To Land Today Include Officers And Crewmen Who Visited Sub

Capetown, Union of South Africa, June 16.—(AP)—Thirty-five survivors of the American freighter Robin Moor—all those hitherto unaccounted for—landed late today at Capetown from a British ship which rescued them.

The American legation announced the arrival of the survivors, including seven passengers—four of them Americans—and 28 crewmen.

This group, along with 11 others who had reached Recife, Brazil, had abandoned their ship for lifeboats May 21 in mid-Atlantic just before the Robin Moor was torpedoed.

(Eleven survivors who had reached Recife, Brazil, aboard a Brazilian steamer, already had identified the submarine which sank the ship as German. The Brazilian group was leaving for the United States today.)

In New York, Arthur Lewis, Jr., vice president of the Robin line, said that he had received a cable from the firm's Capetown agents, saying that the survivors had "just arrived" and that further details would be sent later.

The rescue of the remaining passengers and crewmen should provide additional identification of the U-boat for the group of 35 includes the chief officer of the Robin Moor and the crewmen he took with him by boat to the submarine in response to its summons before the torpedoing.

The survivors at Recife, taken there by the Brazilian steamship Ozorio after 13 days of lifeboat drifting, included none of those seamen.

Four lifeboats in all were lowered by the Robin Moor on short notice before the freighter was sunk. One contained 11 seamen, another 12 seamen, another 10 seamen and a passenger and the fourth three married couples, a child and five seamen.

They were brought here from France, where they were landed by a German ship which picked them up after the Zamzam was sunk in the south Atlantic April 17.

Allies Claim Progress Against French In Drive On Two Levant Capitals

British And French Reported To Have Advanced To Within Five Miles Of Damascus And 12 Miles Of Beirut; Advances Declared To Have Been Made Despite Reported Axis Aid To French

London, June 16.—(AP)—British and Free French forces have advanced to within five miles of Damascus and 12 miles of Beirut after capturing the key defenses of both Levant capitals, British reports from the Middle East said today.

Allied columns were said to be closing in on Damascus from two sides after driving the defenders out of Kisseou, 10 miles to the south, landing point to repeated assertions here that the fall of the Syrian capital could "be expected shortly."

Further west, a column driving up the Lebanese coast forced French troops in ancient Sidon, northernmost city visited by Jesus, to fall back to within 12 miles of Beirut while another column, driving inland from the coast, occupied Djzezine 12 miles east of Sidon, the British said.

The French claimed there had been no change in the situation at Kisseou. "South of Damascus," French communiques declared, "British and De Gaulle's columns have not succeeded in advancing."

Vichy acknowledged the loss of Sidon and said troops withdrawn from that city had taken up new positions, but, while conceding that the situation around Djzezine was straightened, their lines to give them a uniform penetration of 50 miles into Syria and Lebanon since they invaded the French mandate eight days ago.

Vichy reports said the heavy shelling from nine British warships off the Lebanon coast had been a "big factor in the loss of Sidon. It was at sea, apparently, where the Axis chose to help the French."

BRITONS WARY OVER TALK OF RED-NAZI SPLIT

Fear Germany May Be Feinting for Attack On Isles

NAZI-RED CLASH SEEN IN ANKARA. Some Sources See German Troop Movement As Bluff To Gain Russian Economic Concessions

London, June 16.—(AP)—Wary Britons weighed increasing reports of an imminent break between Soviet Russia and Nazi Germany against their own mounting conviction today that the talk and the troop movements were a feint to hide the real blow—at Britain.

However, the press and public gave careful attention to each new sign apparently indicating that the Nazi military strength actually might be diverted to the East by trouble or the threat of trouble with the Red army.

It was acknowledged generally that full implications of the reports of troop concentrations on both sides of the German-Soviet frontier could not yet be determined.

The London News Chronicle's Ankara correspondent reported travelers arriving from Hungary and Rumania as saying the odds are "five to one Germany will invade Russia within a fortnight."

Some sources suggested that the troop movements were part of an international bluff through which Adolf Hitler hoped to obtain economic concessions in Russia's Ukraine. Many of these observers expressed belief Joseph Stalin would give in rather than fight.

Great Britain Launches North African Offensive

ADVANCE UNIT EXECUTES RAID

Italian Motorized Column Declared To Have Been Routed 40 Miles West Of Salum; "Wasting" Campaign Believed To Have Been Adopted

London, June 16.—(AP)—British troops pacing a newly launched offensive in North Africa were reported today to have routed an Italian motorized column in Gamut, in Libya, 40 miles west of Salum, outpost on the Libyan-Egyptian border.

This operation was reported to be in the nature of a raid, and apparently was carried out by troops operating ahead of the main offensive force, since the Middle East command at Cairo reported fighting in progress east and southeast of Salum.

The advance of the Imperial forces across the blistering desert into Libya was believed in some quarters to be the start of a "wasting" campaign in which General Sir Archibald W. Wellbells hopes to harry and raid the Axis forces without risking a pitched battle.

Cairo, June 15 (AP)—The British have launched a slashing offensive against the Germans and Italians along the Egyptian-Libyan frontier and the mop-up of East Africa has advanced a major step with the surrender of an Italian general and 2,000 troops in Southern Ethiopia, the Middle East command announced today.

Lunging across the Libyan border where the Suez-bound Axis drive stalled two months ago, Imperial forces were declared to have destroyed 12 Axis vehicles, just across the frontier west of Bardia.

Defense Certificates Offered At All Institutions

W. H. Woolard, Chairman of the Greenville committee, reports that the local banks, Guaranty Bank & Trust Company, State Bank & Trust Company and Dickinson Avenue Branch of the Guaranty Bank & Trust Company, now have on hand Defense Bonds for sale to individuals.

Mr. Woolard declared: "All are urged to lend their country some of their income for National Safety. You are not asked to give but to make a sound investment in your government. For each seventy-five cents you get back one dollar in ten years. This is 2 9-10 per cent interest, which is more than the income on Government securities on the open market. These bonds cannot be sold to banks or other corporations usually buying in large amounts. For economical reasons the more of these bonds purchased by the public buying power the better our living conditions will continue to be."

The local committee is set up under State Chairman Charles H. Robertson of Greensboro. His deputy and discussed the program with the members of the local committee present. B. B. Nazis Given Until July 10 Take Action

Undersecretary Of State Welles, In Announcing Order, Declares Consulates Been Engaged In Activities Wholly Outside Scope Of Legitimate Duty and Inimical To United States Welfare

Washington, June 16.—(AP)—The United States today ordered all German consulates closed by July 10 because of activities "inimical to the welfare of this country."

Announcing the action, Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State, said it did not imply a break in diplomatic relations with Germany and did not affect the diplomatic staff in Washington.

He made the announcement after handing a note to Dr. Wilhelm Tannenberg, first secretary of the German embassy, in the absence of Hans Thomsen, charge d'affaires, who was in New York.

"The order requires the closing of the German Library of Information and Railway Transit Bureau and the German Trans-Ocean news agency. It calls for removal of all nationals connected with the consulates, and these agencies. (Trans-Ocean is not connected with any American news agency.)

"It has come to the knowledge of this government," the Welles note said, "that agencies of the German Reich in this country, including German consular establishments, have been engaged in activities wholly outside the scope of their legitimate duties. These activities have been of an improper and unwarranted character."

"They render the continued presence in the United States of those agencies and consular establishments inimical to the welfare of this country."

This was the first action against German consular establishments in this country since Italian consulates at Detroit and Newark, N. J., were ordered closed some time ago. The action against the Italian consulates was considered a reprisal for an Italian order requiring the closing of two American consulates in Italy in mid-February.

Today's notice to the German government affects scores of consular officials throughout the United States, including Captain Fritz Wiedemann, the German consul general at San Francisco, who is a personal friend of Adolf Hitler. In making the action known Welles told his press conference that the government had nothing in mind at this time regarding similar action against other countries, in closing Italy.

He asserted also that the step had no relation to the sinking of the American merchantship Robin Moor, which survivors said was torpedoed by a German submarine.

THE SACRED DAGGER

by Rita M. ...

YESTERDAY: No sooner has Blaze Sherwood gotten himself assigned as observer to the archaeological camp of Anne Willard's parents, and a very much unwanted observer, than he disappears to try to rescue some Russians who are blundering into the territory of the dangerous Nagara tribe of Central Asia.

Chapter 25

The Plane Burns

Diana's lips tightened and then she spoke. "It's my opinion that Dr. and Mrs. Willard are to blame for everything. Had they let Beth alone, we—"

"Diana!" cried Beth. "Anne rose and left the table. She joined Pete and the lama sitting in front of her tent and staring off gloomily in the direction of the Bekkan Bula peaks. Later Larry and Beth came out and tried to cheer them up.

"It was Doddap with his keen desert eyes who first saw the returning plane. Everyone except Oliver was on the field when it landed. Anne had let Beth hold her in the crowd. "He may have news of your parents."

Sherwood remained in the plane several moments sending off a final radio message to Shaal Lun, and looked so forbidding when he did scramble out that everyone hesitated to question him. Anne was the first to venture.

"Did you find out anything about father and mother?" He turned and gazed at her.

"Not a thing, Anne. I'm sorry. The whole trip was useless." He began shrugging off the parachute harness talking technicalities about the ship with Mackey as he did so.

Then he spoke to the group. "Come to my tent after I've had a shower and I'll tell you what happened." Anne did not go but she learned afterwards that Phillip was present and showed friendliness to Sherwood by asking him and Mackey to join the camp mess with the sensible statement that white men isolated in a spot like this could not afford to quarrel.

"He probably feels that having gained the enemy of the Nagaras Blaze has become less of a menace to the expedition," Anne suggested. "and is adding his supplies and cook to ours. You should have heard his story. He found the Nagara village to which the Russians had penetrated. There had been fighting and a massacre but no sign of the white men. The natives shot at Blaze. He got away though there are several bullet holes in his wings."

"Heavens!" gasped Anne. "But he swears the Nagaras are not as vindictive as people think. The Russians were not archaeologists—merely a crew of adventurers the Emir's agents had picked up and interested in the proposition. Their government repudiates them though Blaze would have liked to turn them back and save their lives. He thinks they have no chance either to get out alive or to find the treasure city."

"Did he get a view of Shy-a-Nago?" "I guess so. He doesn't seem to want to talk about it. Pete predicted he'd die for that and Blaze answered if he did it was worth it. He wouldn't say any more, but you should have seen his eyes as he remembered. Then he began joking about something else."

"Does he really believe the Nagaras will try to— to kill him?" "We couldn't get him to say. He'd only joke about it. But what do you care?" Beth chuckled mischievously. "He's not your husband, you're only married to him, if you know what I mean."

Anne colored in spite of herself. Beth saw it and giggled again.

Fire Dinner that night was a rather hilarious affair, Blaze having contributed sharks' fins, mushrooms fruit and Turkestan wine from the supplies the givernor had heaped upon him.

Even Anne's frost melted a trifle. Blaze was playing a bold game. Perhaps she could match him at it. At least she and her parents were still in good standing with the Nagaras from what the priest had said the other night. Later she stood at his side while they all essayed a little close harmony over Mackey's mouth organ. He managed to get in a personal question under cover of the general noise.

"Which is your tent?" She turned away, hardly able to believe her ears at first or suppress the rage that welled up in her.

Later, having a chance to be near her as she changed a phonograph needle he tried again. "If you'd like to have a talk, Anne—"

"There have already been too many words," she answered, quoting from his letter, and let her eyes brush across his impersonally. He regarded her intently for a moment, and then made no further attempt to speak to her intimately though they played bridge as partners and against each other, talked about the weather and about the skull Phillip displayed on his desk.

While being forced to learn bridge Mackey tried continually to swing the play to poker. Anne smiled discreetly at the way he rolled his eyes at Beth, and later Diana, drew Sherwood out on the veranda while they were dummies.

"What's the idea?" he managed to ask her privately. "They can't vamp Blaze."

"You never can tell," she murmured in return. "Besides, they're eaten up with curiosity."

"Hum!" he grinned and gave her a sidelong glance.

The next evening was much the same except for less food and more talk. Anne and Sherwood even walked across the courtyard together, politely observing the map of the sky that had once occupied such an important part in their lives. He put a guiding hand to her elbow at the door of Larry's tent and she hoped a sudden trembling deep within did not betray her. Larry had wanted them to see a death mask he was reconstructing from the jumbled fragments he had found the week before.

Beth and Larry would have liked to tease them a bit concerning their legal status but didn't quite dare. Oliver had become more attentive to Anne. Diana had dug up new dresses and the other girls didn't dream she possessed.

In the midst of the general conversation she kept calling to Blaze. "Do you remember the time we— and he'd smile and answer in that bantering way of his that twisted Anne's heart with jealousy.

"What kind of dog in the manger am I?" she asked herself angrily. But she knew. He had already told her. "While your mind is cold, I know your heart is warm." And once he had said, "If a man remains true to his objective, life works things out for him. Shy-a-Nago belonged to her parents. It had belonged to them before she knew Blaze. This was not a conflict between her love for them and her love for him. It was a conflict between her principles and her emotions.

That night the airplane went up in flames.

Worry For Blaze

Though Mackey had put a secret guard at Sherwood's tent it had never occurred to him anyone would try to destroy the plane. It was a mass of flames when first discovered, and a bucket brigade of Turki laborers, Chinese soldiers, American archaeologists and their women and servants, accomplished nothing except to dip the spring pool dry.

Later as they all stood staring at the dying blaze Mackey looked as dejected as if the world had come to an end. Sherwood concealed his emotions better.

"You're next," Pete predicted. "I'm not so inflammable," Sherwood retorted with a faint smile. "Oh, I don't know—if the right kind of oil's poured over you."

Anne surmised a double meaning in the words. Mackey had taken a violent dislike to Diana who clung to Sherwood's arm on one side and to her husband's on the other while she hinted that all their misfortunes were the fault of the Willards. The men hushed her up as quickly as they could. Martaine with sharp words, Sherwood with bantering ones. "Undoubtedly the work of Nagaras," declared Oliver. "We see their fires in the hills every night though they never come down to camp and make themselves known to us."

"Maybe they've taken vengeance on the plane and will leave Blaze alone now," suggested Beth hopefully.

Mackey knew better. "They've just burned the plane so he can't escape."

"There's the trick, if he wishes to leave," Anne reminded him. "Sherwood turned and gazed at her with those strong, fearless eyes of his. "I do not want to leave." Then he spoke to the whole group. "I regret the loss of the radio more than anything else."

"We've a radio we were not allowed to set up," Larry reminded him.

"I'll see what I can do with it tomorrow." They all talked a while longer and finally straggled back to their beds. Doddap was already seated in front of her tent chanting a prayer in his soft, birdlike voice when Anne returned. She stood listening until he came to the end.

"What are you praying about now?" she asked, dropping into a canvas chair. "I pray for Sherwood. Why does he not sleep in our tent?"

She gave him a flashing glance and closed her lips firmly. He went on. "If Sherwood lived in our tent the Nagaras would not kill him."

"Kill him!" Her hand went to her throat. "Doddap, would they really try to kill him?" "I see a knife thrown at him. Always, I see a knife thrown at him." After a moment's hesitation she walked across the corner of the courtyard to Sherwood's tent. A Chinese soldier stood at the door. She could hear Sherwood and Mackey talking inside. The guard opened the flap and sang something in his native tongue then pushed her in in his stupid way. She blinked for a moment in the brilliant light of the gasoline lantern. Both men had been bending over a map in the middle of the table. They looked up in surprise.

Man About Manhattan

By George ...

New York—You like women? Come on, let's meet some women. We got lots of women here.

There's Desha. That's all the name she has. She's the feminine Salvador Dali of Manhattan.

Likes to sketch pictures while standing on her head in shop windows. That gathers a crowd in a hurry and the police sometimes have trouble breaking up the crowds. She's also a dancer—a dancing, prancing hoyden from Zagreb, Yugoslavia who wears slacks to parties and carries a kitten to Broadway opening nights. Desha paints murals, she paints Christmas cards. . . . She designs fashions and turns out portraits with a surrealistic motif. . . . Her favorite subjects are dewy-eyed lambs and languorous females. . . . Her life story will shortly appear in the New Yorker and also in a couple of picture magazines.

Then there's Dorothy Jaffe, who runs a matrimonial bureau in New York. . . . Dorothy says she has played cupid to 10,000 young couples in New York. . . . Her most exciting moment came when a young lawyer applied to her for advice regarding a wife. . . . So she looked him over, approved his looks, and married him famous swimmer, Annette Kellerman. . . . But the nearest she ever got to the swimming pool was posing for pictures in a bathing suit. Mimi's talents lie in other directions. . . . She's a dancer. . . . a ballerina with the New York Grand Opera Company. . . . Miss Kellerman is tall and really posed. I have read at least one account which referred to her as "a striking beauty."

If you notice a shadow of petulance about Mimi Tuya, it is because she's disappointed. . . . Miss Tuya, who wouldn't be anything else than an Oriental dancer with that name, enjoys attending auction sales. . . . Recently she bid her heart out at the sale of the Almee Crocker collection of Oriental oddities at the Coleman galleries. . . . Mimi Tuya wanted a bid said to have been used by Miss Crocker when she went to live in a Turkish harem. . . . It was valued at $10,000. . . . She didn't get it.

Mignon Smith is a redhead from South Philadelphia. . . . She gets paid for listening to music. . . . She just locks herself up in a little booth and listens to phonograph records. . . . She listens all day. . . . It may be Toscanini one moment, and the Sky Blue Mountaineer Boys the next. . . . It makes no difference to Mignon. . . . Her task is to find flaws in Victor and Bluebird records. . . . She plays one out of every twenty-five records produced. . . . When you listen to music all day, every day, week after week like this, you form likes and dislikes. . . . "I hate shrieking women," says Mignon, "especially sopranoes. . . . I love Gigh. . . . He's better than Caruso. . . . I've often missed my Canary after Gigh. . . . I like the Artie Shaw."

On Fifth Avenue at one of the world's great book stores is a tall young woman who will be glad to show you anything in the line of books you may wish. . . . She knows a lot about children's books, too. . . . It's a specialty, said her brother, "brother" (brother, a lot of attention lately when he went into the army. . . . Who is she? She's Miss Stewart, sister of Jimmy Stewart, the actor.

AMERICANA CLASS REUNION

By RAY PEACOCK AP Feature Service Writer

WELL, if it ain't Roscoe! Why, you old son of a sea cook, you! Where you been keeping yourself? Great little turnout, isn't it? Yes, sir! Haven't seen so many of the boys since Hoover was in. Guess everybody's got a little more folding money these days, eh? Heh, heh! You said it, brother!

Let's see. Guess I haven't seen you for fifteen-eighteen years now. What you in? I'm in farm machinery myself. Great field. Got a little deal on right now that would make your eyes pop out if you knew all the details. Got a line on the sweetest little mechanical corn picker that ever hit the market. Yes, sir!

Seen Jonesy? Say, there's a case for you! He was our pretty boy, remember? The Personality Kid. Neat dresser, girls all mushy about him—all that stuff. Well, get a load of him in the looking-glass serje, showing pictures of his wife and kids. Seven of 'em, by gosh! And his wife looks like something left over from Sadie Hawkins day. Ain't it rich?

Funny how they all turn out, ain't it? Now, you take Steve over there. Talking to him just a minute ago, about the h.c.l. and things in general. Nobody ever thought Steve would amount to a damn. Every time he tried something he always got beat out. Second in the hundred, second stringer in football, second in the shop class, second fiddle in the orchestra. Regular joke, it was. And now, by gosh, he's vice-president in charge of production for one of the biggest power outfits west of the Mississippi. They say he's one of the best all-around men you ever saw. Kinda hard to dope out, ain't it?

And say, Roscoe, who was the guy we voted most likely to succeed? Somebody named Tom Smith, wasn't it? Haw, haw! Nobody in our class ever amounted to much that I ever heard about, outside one or two of us, of course. . . . Oh, you've got a date? Sorry, old man. Look me up later. I'll be around with the boys. . . .

Hey Jonesy! Twenty-three! Who was that bird I was talking to? Roscoe somebody. No? Tom Smith, eh? Not the Tom Smith that was called in by F.R. for a defense job? . . . Huh? Well, it's against doctor's orders, old man, but if you insist I'd be glad to join you. Heh, heh! By the way, what are the boys cooking up for tonight?

REMEMBER THE END

"Watch the last step!" We saw these words some time ago painted on a wall at the end of a steep flight of stairs. Experience has no doubt taught the owners of the building that most accidents occur not when people are half-way down the stairs, but when they think they are at the bottom and as a matter of fact have one more step to go.

People are talking today as if Hitler were going to live forever. It is well to remember that Napoleon dominated Europe in 1810 and was a prisoner on the island of St. Helena in 1815.

It is imperative that we live our lives well every day, but the question of supreme importance is whether we will be triumphant on the last day. The last battle wins the war or loses it.

There may be some who are optimistic enough to hope for a break between Moscow and Berlin over recent demands by Hitler for more supplies from Russia.

We agree with that line of thought which believes that the time has arrived when our government should demand of Japan a complete and satisfactory explanation of intentions.

No better example of the state of mind recent gigantic appropriations have gotten some congressmen into may be found than the case of Sen. Hiram Johnson of California. Discussing a proposed bill which would appropriate $1,500,000 for Secretary of the Navy Knox to use in hiring about 300 investigators of sabotage in naval shore establishments, the Senator said: "It gives to him the right to pay them out of a fund to this question the better off we will be.

In the past few days there have been many questions asked as to just what is the recently organized United Service Organization. The organization is one of great importance at this time and deserves the support of all our citizens.

Washington Daybook

Washington—Here and there in Capital Town: FM (frequency modulation, sometimes called "staticless" radio) may get its biggest boost from non-commercial educational broadcasting and if it does, Edwin H. Armstrong, the man who invented it, may become the nation's champion dollar-a-year man.

According to the Federal Communications Commission, Armstrong has offered to accept $1-a-year royalty from all non-commercial education agencies who wish to use his patents. Latest applicants to jump at the chance, says FCC, are the San Diego, (Calif.) Unified School District, the City of Chicago board of education and the University of Illinois.

The FCC has another feather in its hat. At Haydenville, Mass., the FCC's ether spies, searching for an alleged illegal short-wave radio broadcaster, who announced himself as "Fritz" and taunted the government with urgings to "come and get me," was tracked down by airplane. The plane, equipped with special direction-finding equipment and working in conjunction with similarly equipped automobiles, made the trace-down in the vicinity got the thrill of being in on the sleuthing. They kept "Fritz" on the air in two-way conversations for long periods while the FCC agents made their calculations and printed on the ether waves. It is the second time in recent months—but the first by airplane—that FCC officials have picked up alleged illegal short-wave broadcasters who signed on and off as "Fritz." The other was in Illinois.

No better example of the state of mind recent gigantic appropriations have gotten some congressmen into may be found than the case of Sen. Hiram Johnson of California. Discussing a proposed bill which would appropriate $1,500,000 for Secretary of the Navy Knox to use in hiring about 300 investigators of sabotage in naval shore establishments, the Senator said: "It gives to him the right to pay them out of a fund of one and half billion dollars—excuse me for saying 'billion'. I'm so used to it now that I constantly make that mistake." The other senators guffawed.

Rep. Stephen Bolles, onetime editor of the Janesville (Wis.) Daily Gazette, has an explanation for successful dairy farming that probably has some of the Department of Agriculture scientific experts reeling. Addressing his colleagues the other day, Mr. Bolles said: "I have asked for this one-half minute to announce to the House of Representatives that out of the 2,400,000 cows in the state of Wisconsin there was pulled 13 billion pounds of milk in 1940, the largest production of milk in any state in the history of the world; and the amount of poundage for each dairy farm was $23, an increase of 65 pounds to the farm in one year. This is attributed to the fact that Wisconsin, outstanding among all the states, has green grass, plenty of rain, running streams—and many cows."

Short Shots

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, June 16.—Nobody is talking for publication and few are having much to say even "off the record" and unofficially; but there are very good indications that all is far from sweetness and light in the advertising division of the Department of Conservation and Development. Your reporter hasn't even seen him and may, therefore, be slightly wide of the mark, but there are unusually reliable reports that Josh Horne, member of the board of Conservation and Development and chairman of its advertising committee is far from pleased with the recent slash in the funds to be expended by the division.

Capital speculators are beginning to turn their attention toward the Revenue department quite seriously, however, as it is the consensus that there actually will be changes made—and that before many more moons have passed.

HOLDS LOCALS TO THREE HITS

Caraway And McGarity Only Locals To Get Hits

George Zittler, direct from St. Johns College, made his debut in the Coastal Plain League with Tarboro yesterday and completely handiuffed the Greenies, allowing no runs and only three hits, two by Caraway and one by McGarity. Tarboro won 8-0.

It was the Greenies first loss by a shutout and it also was the Greenies first Sunday loss. Tarboro is one up on Greenville in games between the two teams this season.

Saturday night's game scheduled for the local park was rained out. The Greenies play in Williamston tonight and return tomorrow night to engage the Martins on a colored night program when all colored fans will be admitted for 10 cents.

Bill Teller started on the mound for the Greenies, but after yielding three runs in the first inning, he was removed when he got in more trouble in the second. Burrell took over the hurling duties but was unable to check the Orioles as they made a total of eight runs.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 16.—(AP)—Price trends were hazy in today's stock market and, with few exceptions, leaders generally shifted listlessly over an extremely narrow range. Speculation was the rule from the opening on and, at the close, fractional gains and losses were widely distributed. Transfers approximated 300,000 shares.

Blondie's Baby Finally Named

New York, June 16.—It took thousands of persons to do it, but Blondie's baby daughter finally was named today.

Blondie is, of course, Mrs. Dagwood Bumstead of newspaper comic strip, radio and motion picture fame. After her request for help, "Give my baby a name!" went out to the literally millions of followers of the Bumstead matrimonial adventures, a number of weeks ago, more than 400,000 suggestions poured in. So many it required a month to read them and for the judges—Chic Young, creator of the strip; Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo of Quintuplet fame; Beatrice Fairfax and Inez Hobb, to make a decision.

Well, to make a long story short: Blondie's baby's name is Cookie.

A number of persons suggested this name, but Mrs. Herman Barken, 10621 Hampton avenue, Cleveland, Ohio, is the winner of the grand prize because of neatness and the cogency of her nomination as well as the appropriateness of her suggestion.

Mrs. Barken selected the name Cookie "because her daddy is always thinking of something to eat and she is sweet as a cookie."

The letter in which she submitted the name was beautifully decorated with a photograph of a baby holding up its bowl and spoon appealingly for "more."

When a photographer and reporter arrived at her home on Cleveland's East Side to tell her she was the prizewinner, Mrs. Barken refused to believe it. "You're kidding," she exclaimed. "It's a practical joke."

Finally convinced the callers were no jokesters, she said, "Am I surprised? Do you want to feel my pulse?"

Mrs. Barken, brunette and aged 28, whose own first name is Beatrice, has no children. She is employed as a bookkeeper by Community Circuit Theatres, a movie chain here. Her husband is in the construction business. They have been married three and a half years and live in the upper half of a two-family house with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lessam, and her three brothers, Ben, Norman and Samuel.

Library News

Time Out To Live

Last week the Round Table presented their club books of the past year to the Sheppard Memorial Library. Among them are several splendid books, one particularly "Time Out to Live," by William West Tomlinson.

Although directed to young men and young women, "Time Out to Live" is a searching appraisal of life's purposes which readers of all ages will find stimulating and thought-provoking. Himself the victim of the materialistic urges of our modern age, the author in his "Time out" came to see that life should be made something more than a frenzied struggle for money and position. He points out that a goal in life which, when realized, brings far deeper personal satisfaction and of infinitely greater value to the human community than could possibly result from aspirations of a purely covetous sort.

"Time Out to Live" supplies an answer and a guide to life which in these days of muddled thinking and perplexing objectives should be shouted from the house tops. It provides that which is so urgently sought by young people everywhere—a dependable sense of direction.

It is an encouraging, forward looking book that inspires in the individual faith in himself, and through him faith in the future of our nation.

A list of the titles of the other books is as follows:

"Diplomatically Speaking" by Lloyd C. Grissom—The zestful autobiography of the man who was a full ambassador at 33. Graceful and witty.

"The Vanishing Virginian" by Rebecca Yancy Williams—A rich, human, unsophisticated American story of the small-town life of a highly individualistic and entertaining family.

"Polish Profile" by Princess Paul Sopicha—An American woman's six years in Poland.

"The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter" by Carson McCullers—A deeply touching story about a deaf mute.

"Raleigh's Eden" by Inglis Fletcher—An historical novel about the Albemarle section of North Carolina.

"It Occurred To Me" by Muriel Lester—An autobiography by the founder of Kingsley Hall, friend and neighbor of London's East Side, leader in social causes, ambassador of good will.

"Love In The Sun" by Leo Walmsley—The story of a man and a woman who loved each other deeply, serenely and creatively.

"The Family" by Nina Fedorova—The Atlantic $10,000 prize novel. A moving drama of family life as lived by one family in Russia, Japan and America.

"The operation is continuing," today's communique said. Axis positions south and southeast of the border outpost of Salum, are bearing the brunt of the offensive.

The push into the Gambut area, which some observers took to mean a new British campaign to re-secure Libya from the Axis, started last night, 24 hours after advance patrols attacked an Italian column west of the Libyan border.

On the East African front, the Middle East command said Italian General Pralomo with 2,000 troops had surrendered in the Soddu area, some 100 miles south of Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital. This force constituted one of the major islands of resistance in Ethiopia.

Berlin, June 16.—(AP)—Sixty British tanks were destroyed and a British attack on the Salum front in North Africa "collapsed" under the combined resistance of Axis troops and warplanes, the German high command reported today.

The British also lost 11 planes—two bombers and nine fighters—over the battlefield on the Libya-Egypt frontier, the war bulletin said.

The British offensive, launched yesterday, was said still to be continuing, however.

Chile's death rate is 25 per 1,000 more than twice as great as the United States.

Children Are Among Zamzam Survivors

Children in arms were among the American survivors of the Zamzam, Egyptian ship sunk in the south Atlantic by a German raider, as the group reached San Sebastian, Spain, on the way home. This picture shows survivors leaving a Red Cross truck at a San Sebastian hotel.

REGISTRATION DAY JULY 1ST

All Men Who Have Just Become 21 Must Register

Raleigh, June 16.—Every man in the State of North Carolina who has attained the 21st anniversary of the day of his birth since October 16, 1940 (with a few exceptions noted below), must register with his local Selective Service board on July 1, State Director J. Van B. Metts stated today.

Men required to register in this second registration are those who were born on or between October 17, 1919, and July 1, 1920.

Allens, as well as American citizens, who became 21 years of age before midnight July 1, 1941, must register. Director Metts emphasized.

Men subject to registration who are between the ages of 21 and 36 years who have come to the United States since the first registration on October 16, 1940 and have not yet registered, must register on July 1.

Special arrangement will be made by local boards to register men who cannot appear before the local board because of illness or incapacity. Men subject to registration who are inmates of asylums, jails, penitentiaries, or other similar institutions on July 1 will be registered by the warden on the day they leave the institution.

Men subject to registration on July 1 who are away from home and cannot, except at great expense and inconvenience, return to their own local boards to register, may appear before the nearest local board and will be registered there. Such men should be cautioned, however, to give their permanent addresses when registering, General Metts said.

Men who are required to register on July 1 and fail to do so will subject themselves to severe penalties, including imprisonment for not more than five years or a fine of not more than $10,000 or both fine and imprisonment, General Metts emphasized.

The only men within the age limits who are not required to register are the following:

Commissioned officers, warrant officers, pay clerks, and enlisted men of the regular army, the navy, the marine corps, the coast guard, the public health service, the federally recognized active national guard, the officers' reserve corps, the regular army reserve, the enlisted reserve corps, the naval reserve, and the marine corps reserve; cadets, United States Military Academy midshipman, United States Naval Academy; cadets, United States Coast Guard Academy; men who have been accepted for admission (commencing with the academic year next year succeeding such acceptance) to the United States Military Academy as cadets to the United States Naval Academy as midshipmen, or to the United States Coast Guard Academy as cadets, but only during the continuance of such acceptance; cadets of the advanced course, senior division Reserve Officers' Training Corps or Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps; members of the Coast Guard Reserve, other than temporary members; and diplomatic representatives, technical attaches of foreign embassies and legations, consuls general, consuls, vice consuls and consular agents of foreign countries, residing in the United States.

But we hope to meet you, dear father, Over on that golden shore. Your sweet voice was stilled, Gone was your beautiful smile, Oh, how one, we will miss you so Since you were called to go. Often our eyes overflow with tears Although we know you have forever passed away. Sleep in, dear father and take your rest. We loved you so, but God loved you best. We grieved for you in sadness Your eyes can see us weep, But many are the tears we shed While others are asleep. Our hope and dreams may die But I know we can meet you, dear father. In the sweet by and by. Some sweet day we will meet you On that golden shore Where there will be no weeping And partings are no more. (By his son, Marshall Clark, and niece, Cora Clark.)
