GERMANS SWEEP INTO RUSSIAN UKRAINE

Moscow Says Nazi Forces Thrust Back On Two Fronts

TURN NEXT TO FASCIST FOES

Red Army Claims Capture Of 5,000 Prisoners, Destruction Of 300 Tanks And Shooting Down Of 127 Nazi Planes; Organ Says "The Thing Now Is To Smash The Vile Fascist Beast"

Moscow, June 24.—(AP) Russia's huge Red army, battling furiously against German mechanized columns on the far-flung Baltic to Black sea front, claimed today to have thrust two invading German forces back across the Soviet frontier.

"The thing now," said Pravda, the Communist party organ, "is to smash the vile fascist beast which dared to lift its blood-stained paw against our free life."

In the first two days of fighting against its first really powerful opponents, the Red army claimed capture of 5,000 German prisoners, destruction of 300 German tanks and the shooting down of 127 Nazi warplanes.

The Soviet high command at the same time acknowledged the loss of three frontier towns, Brest-Litovsk, Kolno and Lomza—as well as other penetrations into Sovietized Lithuania and eastern Poland.

Inside Russia, measures were taken to frustrate fifth columnists and "panic-mongers." Pravda printed a severe warning serving notice that "each and everyone attempting in these tense and hard times to violate discipline and spread panic will be regarded as an enemy of the Soviet state and treated mercilessly to the full extent of wartime war."

Budapest, June 24.—(AP)—The Hungarian government broke off diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia today.

A blackout meanwhile was ordered throughout the country, but otherwise there were no immediate extraordinary measures.

Greenville Movie Is In The Making

A full-length feature picture of Greenville is in the making. E. V. Atkinson, director and cinematographer for Reelfilm Motion Pictures of Indianapolis, Ind., arrived in the city yesterday and began production today by "shooting" the mayor in front of the city hall.

The picture, to be made in full natural color, is to be a general cross-section of Greenville and will include every phase of life and activity here. A few of the things to be in it are the city officials, fire department, police department, cutest babies, industries, street scenes, churches and church crowds, civic clubs, beauty spots and many others.

One of the most interesting sections of the picture will be the babies. All mothers with babies up to six years of age are invited to take their babies to the Sheppard Memorial library lawn Saturday morning at 10 o'clock so that they can be in the movies. There will be no charge for these pictures and everyone is invited.

Automobiles Collide On New Bern Hwy.

Heavy property damage was sustained, but no serious personal injuries were suffered in a head-on collision between two automobiles at a point about two and a half miles south of Greenville on the New Bern highway last night about 8:15 o'clock, it was reported today by Patrolman C. L. Teague.

The officer reported that it was raining at the time of the accident and that the two cars sideswiped on a curve.

Drivers of the two cars, neither of whom was arrested, were Elton Dawson Reel of Grimesland, Route One, and W. O. Crisp of Greenville Route Three. Reel was headed toward Greenville and Crisp was headed south.

During the depression years of 1931-33 ten out of every 100 automobiles in the United States were forced off the highways because their owners could not afford to run them.

OPEN HOUSE AT NYA PROJECTS

Local Units To Take Part In Sixth Anniversary

42-OPEN op. The sixth anniversary of the establishment of the National Youth Administration will be marked by the holding of open house on all NYA projects in Pitt county as a part of a state and national observance, on Thursday, June 26, State NYA Administrator John A. Lang announced in Raleigh today.

The National Youth Administration is now operating seven projects in Pitt county, including a wood-working shop in Greenville which is making furniture for army camps, construction of an NYA resident center in Greenville, construction of a curb market in Greenville, and a home-making project for girls in Greenville which teaches sewing, cooking and home management.

All projects now in operation will be open for the inspection of visitors throughout the day June 26 and everyone is invited to visit local NYA projects and view the work being accomplished in Pitt county. The state celebration of the anniversary will be marked by the dedication of the Raleigh resident center, at which time Gov. Broughton will bring greetings and June Rose, chairman of the state advisory committee of the NYA, and State NYA Administrator John A. Lang will speak.

The National Youth Administration provides a two-fold opportunity for needy young men. First is the opportunity for young people who are out of school and in need of jobs to work for wages on useful public projects and to acquire the background of experience needed for private employment. Second is the opportunity for young people who are students to work in schools and colleges and earn some of the money they need to enable them to continue their education.

During the year ending June 30, the National Youth Administration has provided part-time jobs for approximately 25,000 out-of-school youths. Another 13,000 youths have been provided with jobs which enabled them to continue their education in the state's schools and colleges.

Through work experience on NYA projects and through related training in classrooms while employed by NYA, the National Youth Administration enables young people to coordinate work theories and practice and acquire a well-rounded background.

Planes And Warships Wage Series Of Assaults On Lebanese Capital; Important Gains Reported By Columns Driving Along Mediterranean Coast of Syria; Middle East Command Given Orders

Beirut, Lebanon, June 24. (AP)—The port of Beirut has been seriously damaged by a series of violent raids by British planes and warships.

The port was bombed by squadrons of British raiders early this morning, while at dawn the British fleet started bombing the coast. No lives were lost in any of these raids, French officials asserted. The Beirut damage was confined in commercial sections of the port.

Cairo, June 24.—(AP)—The British today reported "an important advance" for their columns driving toward Beirut along the Mediterranean coast of Syria and added that "our artillery already is in action against the Vichy position at Damour," south of Beirut.

The communique of the Middle East command also announced that the British had captured Gatana, 15 miles southwest of Damascus, and were advancing toward the Damascus-Beirut road.

Beirut therefore was menaced by advances both from the south and southeast. London, June 24.—(AP)—To speed the occupation of Syria, Britain's Middle East command has been told to "be guided by military considerations alone," it was reported authoritatively today.

General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson was said to have been given "full authority to take whatever measures appeared necessary, however drastic."

Vichy, France, June 24.—(AP)—Turkey was reported tonight to be massing troops along the Syrian frontier where operations between British and French forces are growing in importance daily.

MOVE TO SEND AID TO RUSSIA IS SUPPORTED

Proposal Gaining Substantial Backing In Senate

CLARK, HOWEVER OPPOSES ACTION

United States Declared To Be In Position To Take Immediate Action If Request Is Made

Washington, June 24.—(AP)—The idea of aiding Russia in her fight against Germany gained substantial backing in the Senate today, but not without a sharp counter blast of opposition from Senator Clark (D.-Mo.) who declared "Stalin had just as bloody a record as Hitler, the Communist system is just as bad as Nazism."

The general trend of initial opinion in the Senate appeared to endorse the official State Department declaration that "any defense against Hitlerism" rebounds to the benefit of the defense and security of the United States.

The United States, it was said, is in a position to grant the Soviet a certain measure of economic cooperation almost at once, if requested. The government could, for example, release "frozen" Russian assets, and at the same time relax the restrictions which have largely prevented the Russian purchase and export of vital strategic materials.

In the latter connection, it was pointed out that the Russo-German conflict has ended the danger of such supplies reaching the Reich via the Trans-Siberian railroad. The suspicion that some American goods were being trans-shipped to Germany by that route was one reason for the restrictions in effect before the war spread to the East.

Winterville Gets USO Quota of $100

Ray Oglesby, chairman of the United Service Organization campaign for Winterville, today reported to County Campaign Director W. T. Kizer that his community had "gone over the top" by raising the quota of $100.

In announcing the goal had been reached, Chairman Oglesby highly commended his committee members, both white and colored, and also expressed his appreciation to the citizens of Winterville who contributed to the success of the campaign.

Bethel is the only other town in the county which has reported reaching its goal.

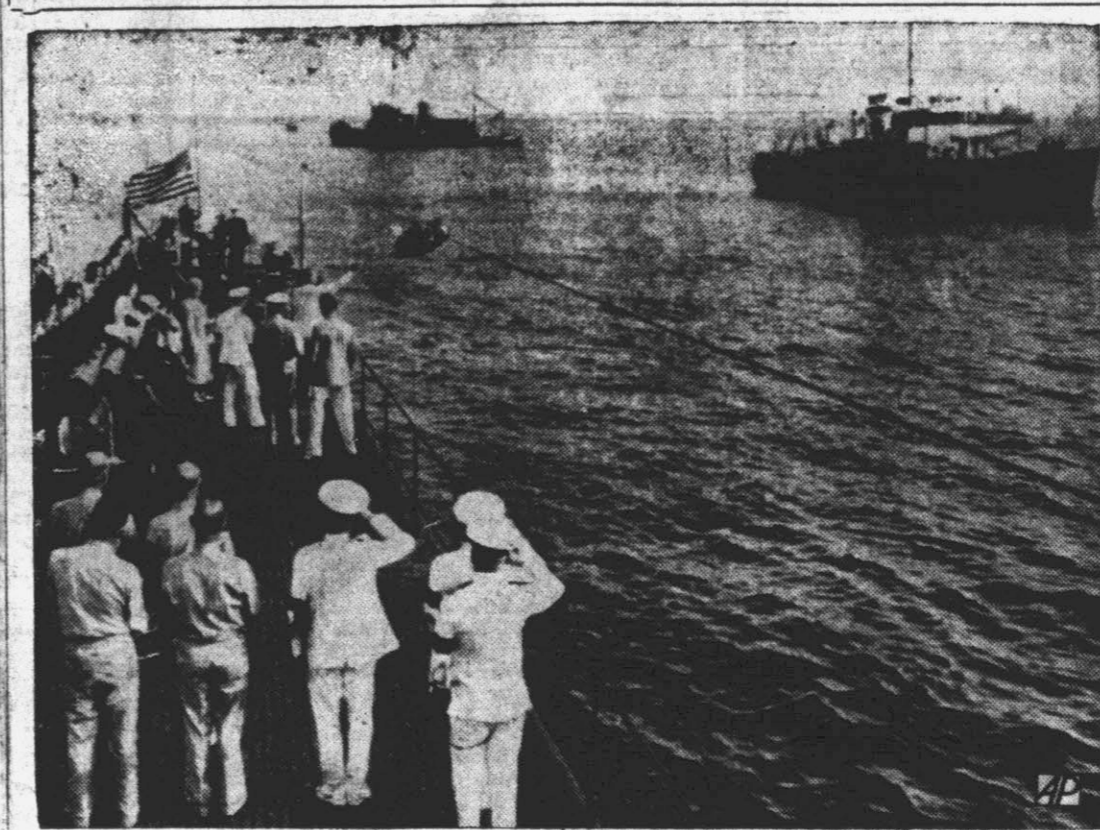

Chairman Kizer reported that the campaign in Greenville and elsewhere in the county was progressing, but that much work remained before the drive could be wound up successfully.

Greenville Is Investing In Recreation Facilities

Greenville is making another investment in its future citizens. Many individuals, business firms and clubs have helped the city and WPA to make possible a safer play space for children of Greenville. These areas can be of course be used by adults but they more especially touch the lives of children since the latter have more leisure time for play and recreation.

The city and WPA recreational program has as an ultimate aim a better use of leisure time for all children as well as all adults of Greenville. In a recent youth survey three-fourths of the children of Greenville said, "We have no interesting way to spend our leisure time." Our laws prohibit the young child from working and many homes do not have sufficient work to interest their children. Again we as a family are faced with the problem of furnishing lots large enough for our children to participate in games involving great muscular activity.

Bill Dealing With Strikes Given House Right-of-Way

Germany Attacked By Night; French Coast By Day

London, June 24.—(AP)—Heavy explosions, rolling across the misty channel, suggested that the Royal Air Force was blasting at the Nazi-occupied French coast again today after attacking industrial targets in western Germany for the 13th consecutive night.

The sounds first were heard shortly after 7 a. m., hours earlier than the British generally launched their daylight sallies across the channel.

The RAF attacks on western Germany last night were not so heavy as some others recently, authoritative sources said, but there was nothing to indicate whether this was due to unexpectedly strong German opposition or adverse weather.

The British claimed that during the last three days they had downed 77 German planes in daylight raids over the French coast, while losing only nine fighters themselves.

Measure Would Give Broad Powers To President

By The Associated Press Speaker Rayburn told reporters today that a bill to give the President broad powers under the draft law to deal with strikes in defense industries would be given right-of-way in the House.

The measure would replace the Vinson bill providing for a 30-day cooling off period before a strike could be called in a defense industry. At almost the same time that Rayburn revealed the plans, the original Vinson bill was re-drafted to empower the President to order maintenance of the status quo of labor relations in defense plants in which disputes arise, and approved by the Naval Committee.

Under the legislation which Rayburn said would have the go-ahead, the draft law would be amended to defer men who reach 28 years of age before July 1, and the President could use armed forces to protect workers voluntarily complying with a request of his that they resume work. The government could take over plants of employers who refuse to utilize federal mediation or conciliation to settle strikes.

The congressional developments came as striking CIO and AFL marchers in 11 San Francisco bay shipyards failed to register with the navy for work under civil service status.

The navy opened registration rooms, but an hour later there was no indication any of the marchers had signed. Other craftsmen, who have been back at work for several weeks, returned to their jobs on about $500,000,000 of shipbuilding as usual.

United Mine Workers union representatives and southern soft coal operators held another two-hour conference in Washington over details of a wage contract, but reported no agreement had been reached.

Southern mine operators said they would have their answer ready today to the CIO-United Mine Workers demand for a new wage agreement covering the southern Appalachian fields. One big stumbling block was removed when the southern owners agreed to elimination of the 40 cents wage differential which previously had existed between southern and northern mines. The basic daily wage would be $7 in both sections.

State and federal mediators collaborated today in an effort to settle a strike of AFL machinists at the Piper Aircraft Corporation, Lock Haven, Pa. The firm makes trainer planes for the Civilian Pilot Training program. The strikers ask a wage increase from 30 to 34 cents an hour for unskilled workers and from 50 to 75 cents in the minimum for skilled employees.

Nazi Panzer Units Drive Into Soviet

Fresh Manifestations Of Axis Sympathy Meanwhile Come From Japan And Spain; Falangists Parade Before Nazi Embassy In Madrid; Tokyo Press Declares Future Nippon Policy Is Much Clearer

By The Associated Press Sweeping drives of German armored columns into the Russian Ukraine and through Red army defenses to the north were indicated today by diverse reports which accompanied fresh manifestations of Axis sympathy in Japan and Spain.

Foreign military attaches in Ankara, Turkey, said they were advised that Nazi panzer units had driven far into the rich breadbasket of southwestern Russia in the first two days of invasion.

From Berlin came word that German assault troops had driven through a strong line of Soviet tankers in the thrusts which the Red army acknowledged had taken three frontier towns.

Uniformed Falangists paraded in Madrid before the Nazi embassy, shouting "on to Moscow"—"Gibraltar for Spain."

Attention was focussed on Japanese interests in the war by a Reuters dispatch from Tokyo saying that Japanese women and children living in Moscow had been ordered home.

Likewise, Domeo (Japanese news agency) broadcast that today's comments in the Japanese press "are much clearer in their manifestations of sympathy for Germany and in indicating the future course of Japan's policy."

Although Russian advances indicated German penetration of 10 to 15 miles in places in Adolf Hitler's new drive to the East, the Soviet high command declared two Nazi columns had been repulsed with heavy losses.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden formally welcomed Russia as an ally "in our common task, the defeat of Germany," in a House of Commons speech.

In London earlier it was announced that Moscow had formally accepted an offer of coordinating British military and economic missions.

Hinting at a huge loss of life, Moscow news reports said the frontier guards opposed the Germans hand to hand "and the enemy was unable to advance an inch except over their dead bodies."

From Berlin, DNB said weak forces of Russian fliers had been driven off and forced to jettison their bombs in open fields when they sought to raid objectives in East Prussia.

A Nazi U-boat was said to have sunk a Russian submarine in the Baltic sea off the Latvian coast. A Berlin dispatch from Bratislava said little Slovakia had entered the war with Germany against Russia.

Italy called up fresh troops, ordering all students fit for military service to report for duty August 1.

Archaeological explorations of the various ruins in Crete indicate that its civilization in 3400 BC was equal to that of the Egyptians.

Christian Science Service.
"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, June 22.

The golden text was from Psalms 95:3, 4. "The Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods. In his hand are the deep places of the earth; the strength of the hills is his also."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "And Jehoshaphat stood in the congregation of Judah and Jerusalem, in the house of the Lord, before the new court. And said, O Lord God of our fathers, art not thou God in heaven? and rulest not thou over all the kingdoms of the heathen? (and in thine hand is there not power and might, so that none is able to withstand thee.)" (I Chron. 20:5, 6).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "For right reasoning there should be but one fact before the thought, namely, spiritual existence. In reality there is no other existence, since Life cannot be united to its unlikeness, mortality. Being is holiness, harmony, immortality. It is already proved that a knowledge of this, even in small degree, will uplift the physical and moral standard of mortals; will increase longevity, will purify and elevate character. Thus progress will finally destroy all error, and bring immortality to light."

Library News

The Children's Shelf
Summer time is fast becoming reading time for many children in Greenville. When it is too hot to play, what is more fun to sit in the shade and enjoy a good book, or when the little body is all tired out to find an interesting book near at hand to read?

A prominent teacher once said "that the child who leads is the child who reads." Many parents believe this and try to keep good books before their children at all times. This can be done with little or no expense by patronizing the Sheppard Memorial Library where reading clubs are organized every summer and where hundreds of dollars are spent each year for children's books. Every child should own a few treasured books, but what child can own all the books he wants to read? Libraries exist as much (and maybe more) for the children as for grown-ups, so it behooves parents to keep their children constantly in touch with a good library.

Here are some of the newer children's books in the library. The first list consists of picture books, stories for the very youngest readers, or books in which the illustrations are of more importance than

SACRED DAGGER

Chapter 32
Death

They were all brought out of their sleep the next morning by one of Philip Oliver's rages. He had risen and "knocked down a Nagara" servant who stumbled over him on his way to fetch the fire.

The boy lay whimpering, the others had set up dazedly with the exception of Sherwood, who rose to his feet as alert as a cat. Oliver chose to take the move as an intended attack and backed away snarling.

"You're the cause of all our trouble," he shouted, and added epithets to Sherwood's name. "You came between Anne and me. You're trying to make a fool of Diana. You interfered with the Chinese governor. You set the Nagaras against us. You're trying to wreck our expedition. You—" and his tirade branched off into profanity.

Sherwood stepped forward angrily. "You can't talk to me like that, Oliver."

Philip retreated another step still snarling—and his shoulder struck Anne's Nagara's belt.

"I'll talk to you as I—" suddenly he whirled and seized the dagger drew it from the sheath, and turned on Sherwood in maniacal rage.

The others were on their feet now. And then everything happened so quickly that no two could agree on what they had seen. Except they were sure that Philip Oliver had tripped on the belt and fallen with all the force of his lunge, half-risen and pulled the dripping knife from his side, before he sank again.

The doctor sprang forward. "Don't touch that knife," Anne cried in terror.

"I don't intend to," he answered grimly. Presently he stood up. "Philip Oliver is dead. Miss Willard, remove the knife from his hand."

"I can't," moaned Anne, appalled.

"Do you wish me to," asked Sherwood in a low voice. "No, no," said Anne.

The doctor interfered. "Just a moment. Did it look to you folks as if Philip deliberately turned the knife blade in on himself as he went down?"

"Maybe when he tripped," suggested Sherwood. "It dropped in such a way that the blade came up—permost and he fell on it."

Larry shook his head. "Oliver suddenly cracked up and did it deliberately. We've seen it coming."

"Call it insanity if you wish," agreed the doctor. "Philip was in a high-strung psychic state. He intended to kill Sherwood. We saw that at least."

Several Nagaras had come in and remained near the door.

"Be careful!" warned Sherwood urgently. "We're being watched."

The doctor went on in his dry voice. "If you, Sherwood, wish to remove the knife—"

"Not!" cried Anne again.

She bent down, steeling herself to the ordeal, opened the lax fingers and took the knife by the handle, the only part free from blood.

She rose and fumbled for the belt in which to sheath the weapon.

They continued the journey that day, the Nagaras inexorable. The only concession they made was that Philip Oliver's body should be left lying in the tent for future burial plans, a guard keeping watch against wolves.

"In case the rest of us come out of this alive," said Dr. Martine.

"It was a hard, cold ride across the steps. In mid-afternoon they stopped near a water hole for rest and lunch. Diana continually bewailing the day that had brought her father in contact with Dr. Willard and the promotion of this expedition.

Anne felt a strange apathy about it all. She watched Diana rise and join the natives around their fire and smiled wearily when Beth murmured:

"She doesn't seem to like our company."

Since Oliver's death they had all noticed a subtle difference in the Nagara's attitude to Anne. She had lost something while Sherwood, in circumventing the white outlaws had gained. Mackey looked across the fire at him admiringly.

"You're the darndest guy. Something always turns up to get you in good."

They rode until dark brought them to another camp, this time the entrance to the underground river cavern. Fortunate too, for snow had begun to fall again. But the tent set up for the white people in the big cave was clean and roomy, furs and fells were plentiful, the native food hot and nourishing. Larry found a bubbling warm spring pool on the sandy floor of the cave not far behind their tent. Warm baths for everybody.

It was heavenly, thought Anne sinking into the refreshing depths when her turn came. Then by the light of the brushwood torch set in a niche in the wall she saw the folded pale blue paper. It was lying beside the ledge on which she had placed her clothes. One of the other girls who had bathed before her must have dropped it, she decided. She forgot the paper while bathing and dressing and remembered just as she pulled back the blanket curtain to leave the enclosure.

It was a note to Blaze signed by Diana and Anne made no effort to reread it unread.

"Are you avoiding me because Anne watches us?" she began. "Don't you know that she hates you and seems to think Philip was a little tin god on wheels?"

It happens Philip was breaking his neck to get Dr. Willard's job away from him. Am I speaking evil of the dead? Sorry. How would you like to be made head of the expedition? Diana.

Anne sat down quickly on the ledge. She had once scoffed at Beth's statement that Diana came to Asia because Blaze was here. Now she wondered. How well the two could work together to despoil the Willards. Sherwood had vowed he would stop at nothing. Now he had put himself into a position to use Diana.

Beth and Larry came looking for her. "Have you fainted?" called Beth from beyond the blanket screen.

"I'm coming," answered Anne hastily folding the note and thrusting it in her pocket.

"My bath next, you know," Larry called.

"Help yourself," she said and passed them before Beth could turn and walk back with her.

In an alcove with a natural chimney not far from the yurt a big brush fire had been built up and drew one with its light and warmth MORE MORE MORE MORE.

Anne slipped into the tent, first thinking she would be alone. But Sherwood bent over his duffel bag drawing out a book. With a sudden resolve she stepped over and handed him the note.

"I found this by the pool," she said. "It seems to belong to you." He held the paper close to the glowing coals and perused it. Then he straightened and asked impassively:

How To Weather The Fourth

"Have you read it?"

"Yes," she admitted.

He folded the paper slowly as if taking time to formulate a statement. But before he could speak Diana darted into the tent and saw the missive in his hand.

"Oh, you found it," she said with a little sigh of relief.

"Yours?" he asked, reaching it out to her.

She drew back. "Haven't you read it?"

"No," he lied, and threw the paper on the live coals.

"Oh, why did you do that?" she cried.

"I thought you meant me to. What was in it?"

She gave Anne a sidelong glance. "Nothing," she said.

"Who does Blaze think he's putting on this scene for, Anne wondered disdainfully, and turned to leave the tent to them, but Sherwood slipped out ahead of her.

Next day they were conducted by Nagara torchmen through the seemingly interminable labyrinth, continually descending as they followed the river, going from cavern to cavern, some chambers so tall that they reached into the void, others so low that they had to be crawled through.

Finally they left the water's edge and entered a branching tunnel which took them through a small mouth into a vast stone temple that halted their spellbound.

The place showed evidence that time and earthquakes had left their marks. The room itself was set with columns and the bases of broken columns were thick as ancient trees in a virgin forest.

As Anne's eyes began to take in detail she saw that in the distant end of the nave sat a concourse of native people among the fallen pillars. A dragon of white smoke rose from a mammoth incense urn before them. And behind the urn on a platform sat yet other people or either side of a mighty door.

The two leaves of the door were sealed together by a molded image in low relief, the figure of a giant man, a single luminous eye in his forehead—the image the sacred dagger bore.

"Sweet serpents," muttered Mackey. Anne looked back and saw that Sherwood's hands had been bound again and a special guard stood beside him. She met his eyes, her own unreadable. For the first time in his presence she felt really master of herself.

Suddenly drums struck up somewhere outside the temple — that same nerve-pounding rhythm that had presaged the coming of the Nagaras.

Anne was motioned to a seat on a fallen pillar and her two guides stood behind her. The others who had come with her were placed in the center of the room in front of the audience.

Anne turned to the two who stood behind her. "Where are my father and mother?" Her voice sounded as clear and distinct as if they were in a ten-foot room.

"Wonderful acoustics," murmured Sherwood from across the platform and even his whisper could be heard.

"Your parents come now," said the woman pointing to the space behind Sherwood.

Anne's heart sank with dismay and terror at first sight of them, for they too were bound and brought in as prisoners and seated beside Sherwood on a fallen pillar, armed guards behind them.

"If you could see my daily mail from women all over the country who have boys in this army you would realize how vastly important it is that we do something and do it quickly. We can manage this thing on the military reservations but we very urgently need your assistance . . . to help matters off the reservations."—General George C. Marshall.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

Hollywood—The Hollywood wedding is not what it used to be. Deanna Durbin and Vaughn Paul now honeymooning, went through a "big" church wedding, right here in town, and it was—as the ladies all said—a "lovely wedding" and a "sweet wedding," but it was practically a non-professional production.

Except for the newsreels and the still cameras afterward, it went off about the way church weddings of the well-to-do go off anywhere. There weren't any innovations. There wasn't anything to make Mrs. Post turn pale. It was formal without being stilted.

In the old days Hollywood put on weddings that were weddings. Enshrined in legend is the Goldwyn production that united Vilma Banky and Rod LaRocque—a marital team, by the way, that still defies another Hollywood tradition by staying happily married.

Everybody here remembers that wedding as the one to top. Everybody remembers the reception, with particular reference to the orchids and the "prop" turkeys. Recalled is the agitation that greeted the late Iliyan Tashman's mischievous insistence on a freshly carved slice of breast—though accounts differ as to whether the prop-birds were papier mache or the real thing, strategically back-grounding the sandwich trays. Moot point, too, is whether it was Sam himself, or an attendant, who hastily gathered up the orchids as feminine guests began helping themselves.

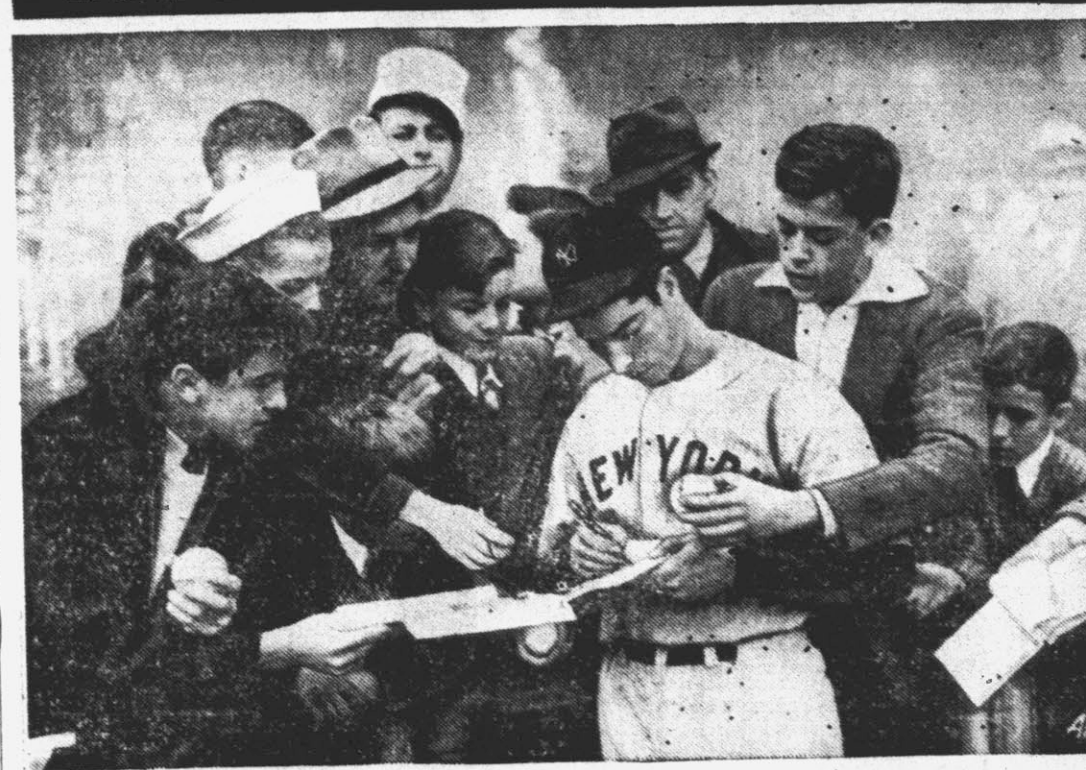

First movie couple to match this splendor in a wedding were Ben

Doubling The Bid

Here's a way to double your husband's bid for dress-up honors. These matching bridge outfits were designed by Stylist Rene Hubert for Gloria Swanson and Adolphe Menjou to wear in their new movie "Father Takes A Wife." Hubert calls the twin bridge suits the "Messieurs et Mesdames." They include identical black silk smoking jackets, white silk shirts and patent leather sandals. Only difference is that Miss Swanson wears a tight-fitting skirt rather than the black evening trousers which complete Menjou's costume. Skirt and trousers are of the same material, however.

AND so I walked right up to him and I says, "Hello, Joe, how about signing my scorecard?" Just like that. And I handed him a fountain pen and Joe, he says, "Well, it's got ink in it." Nice fella, Joe. We had quite a little chat before the game.

Big shots? Say, I know 'em all. Remember Wrong-Way Corrigan? Saw him in Milwaukee. Loaned him a handkerchief, too. There's a card, that boy. Flew from Chicago to Milwaukee and came in from the north! Sure kidded Doug about that.

And Willie? Say, Wendell and I are just like this. Ran across him in Colorado that time. I loaned him a cigaret and we got to talking politics. You know, what was the Man In The Street thinking, and so on. Mentioned some of the things I said in one of his speeches. Smart fella, Wendell.

Did you mention Al Smith? I've known Al for years. Just happened to be outside St. Patrick's church on Fifth Avenue last Easter when services were letting out and Al looked over my way and waved. Great man, Al.

Why, say, there isn't anybody too big for me to talk to. Fellas like Bob Hutchins. You know, the president of Chicago U.? Bump into Bob on the "El" right along. William Allen White? Say, I've sat in on many a committee meeting with Bill. And Barrymore? Friend, John—and I practically pal around together!

Not just the men, either. Take Hildegard. She picked me out of the crowd one time and asked me what I'd like to have her play. And Helen Hayes, Lily Pons, Joan Crawford—I've got all their autographs.

Yessir, the bigger they are, the easier they are to get to, I always say. That's why you'll always find me available.

GOT A DATE?

Don't neglect your Breath
If you've got a date with the girl friend, or a business appointment, play smart and take the proper precaution to see that your breath doesn't offend unnecessarily. After all, nothing is so inexcusable and so offensive as a neglected case of halitosis (bad breath). Before your next date or business appointment, rinse the mouth with Listerine Antiseptic. Almost immediately your breath becomes sweeter, purer, less likely to offend. Most cases of halitosis, say some authorities, are due to the fermentation of tiny food particles in the mouth, although some cases may be due to systemic disorders. Against the former condition, Listerine Antiseptic works wonders because it first halts the fermentation and then overcomes the odors it causes. Don't forget to use it. It's the first aid of thousands of popular and successful people.

Greenies Defeat Martins; Meet Wilson Here Tonight

CROWE SMACKS FOUR-RUN HIT

Kee Bests Rymer In Game Played During Rain

After losing two straight during the week-end, the Greenies got back in form last night to defeat Williamston 10-3 and local supporters are hoping the Greenies will be in fine trim for tonight's classic with the pace-setting Wilson Tobs.

Greenville scored three in the first inning last night and were never headed, although the Martins pulled into a 3-all tie on Chester Sparr's homer in the fourth after a single and an error in the third gave them two. The first three Greenville runs came on Harry Jenkins' two-run single and Manager Wilson's double.

The knotted count was short-lived, however, as Greenville came back in their half of the fourth and made two on a single and an error.

The game was sewed up by the locals in the ninth, when one man was walked home and with the bases still loaded Benny Crowe smacked out a 340-foot homer over the left field wall.

The game was played during a slow drizzle which at times threatened to force the ump's to call the game. The battle was held up for more than an hour as the rain failed to let up enough for the game to start.

THIRD STREET WINS BY 9 TO 5

Training School Loses Second Consecutive Contest

Training School, who led the 'A' league for the first week, lost its second game in the first morning when Third Street defeated them by the score of 9-5.

The boys from the east side scored two runs in the second and three in the fourth and apparently had the game under control, but their defense cracked in the winners half of the fourth and before the inning was over Third Street was ahead 6-5. Third Street made their margin more secure by scoring three more in the sixth.

George Garrett was the only player on the victors side to get more than one hit, he batted four times and hit safely three times. Joe Register, Ben Harrison and Snag Clark led for Training School. One of Clark's hits was a homer.

Box score:
 Training School 020 300 0-5 9 7
 Third Street 001 503 x-9 9 1
 Batteries: Lupton and Clark; Jorda and Garrett.

West Greenville continued its surge toward the top of the Boys 'A' league by trimming the High School for its Third straight victory this morning by the score of 4-3. The game turned into a pitcher's battle after the first inning. W. Greenville won the ball game by crossing the plate four times the first and hanging on grimly until the end. Both pitchers, Hunter of High School and Wright of W. Greenville, worked beautifully, the former allowing five hits, the latter four.

Dunn, Ramsay, Wingate and the Wright brothers got W. Greenville's five hits; Musselwhite, Brown, Jenkins and Hunter got High School's four.

Box score:
 W. Greenville 400 000 0-4 5 2
 High School 100 001 1-3 4 1
 Batteries: Wright and Hardy Dunn; Hunter and Andrews.

The Declaration Of Independence

1. Thomas Jefferson, who wrote the Declaration of Independence, headed a committee of five appointed to draw up the document. Do you remember two other members?
 2. True or false: John Hancock, President of the Second Continental Congress, was the first to sign the Declaration of Independence.
 3. To whom are attributed these quotations: (a) "There, John Bull may read my name without spectacles"; (b) "Now we must all hang together or we shall surely hang separately"?
 4. The building in which the Declaration of Independence was enacted still stands. What is its name and in what city is it?
 5. The majority of signers of the Declaration of Independence were either planters or lawyers. Which?
- Each part of the third question counts ten, the other questions 20 each. A score of 80 is good.

Eleven Counties Account For Third Of Fatalities

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, June 24.—The other 89 are far from blameless, but eleven Tar Heel counties have had almost one-third the highway fatalities of 1941, and the rate of increases in these eleven has been almost three times as great in the other 89; according to figures just released by the highway safety division. Thus the eleven bloodiest ballistics had had 145 persons killed on their roads between January 1 and May 31, against only 75 in the corresponding five months of 1940, an astounding increase of 70 deaths, or slightly more than 93 per cent.

In the other 89 counties there were, through May of this year, 303 deaths against 226 through May, 1940, an increase of 77, or 34 per cent.

Wake, last year boastful of one of the best records among the larger counties, leads all in this year's slaughter, with 24 deaths. Through May, 1940, the corresponding figure was 5. Guilford's 20 takes second place this year, compared with 15 last.

Tied for third with 18 each are Columbus, Cumberland and Mecklenburg—the last two named being old standbys in the matter of killings on the highway. Columbus' jump to 18 is perhaps the most startling thing in the statistics, as in the first five months of 1940 there was only a single road fatality in the county. Cumberland's corresponding 1940 figure was 12, and Mecklenburg's was 16.

Durham and Buncombe are locked at 14 deaths. Last year Durham had only 4, Buncombe 11.

Rockingham, which had only two deaths last year, shows 12 this year to take eighth place. Alamance follows with 11, against 6; and Halifax (only two in 1940) and Henderson (a single death last year) complete the eleven bloodiest counties with ten deaths each.

At the other end of the line this year's bad safety record is reflected. There are 14 counties with no 1941 deaths, while last year 22 got through the first five months without a fatality. The counties still with spotless records this year are Alexander, Alleghany, Ashe, Avery, Camden, Cherokee, Clay, Dare, Haywood, Hyde, Jones, Polk, Scotland and Yancey.

Of the larger tier of counties, Forsyth has perhaps the best 1941 record with only six killed, as compared with ten through May, 1940. The cities of North Carolina, incidentally—at least those of 10,000 and more of population—have turned in a much better record than have the counties. Through May there had been 58 deaths in 53 fatal accidents, against 53 in 47 death crashes last year. The increase for cities, therefore, is less than ten per cent, compared with a grand total increase of 48 per cent for the whole state.

In the 50,000 and more group there have been 31 fatalities, against 28 last year. Figures for 1941 and 1940 for these cities are: Asheville 5 and 4; Charlotte 10 and 9; Durham 9 and 1; Greensboro 6 and 7; Winston-Salem 1 and 7 (the biggest improvement of all. Incidentally there was some question about chargeability of this one death which occurred when a motor vehicle occupant fell off and was killed.)

In the 25,000 to 50,000 group (totals now stand at 12 against 9 in 1940, divided as follows: Fayetteville 3 and 4; High Point none either year; Raleigh 5 and 1; Rocky none and 3; Wilmington 4 and 1.

In the 10,000 to 25,000 group there has been an improvement, 15 to 16 and no city has more than two for this year. With 2 each are Gastonia, Hickory and Reidsville. With one each are Burlington, Goldsboro, Greenville, Kannapolis, Kinston, Lexington, Roanoke Rapids, Shelby and Wilson. Without fatalities are Concord, Elizabeth City, New Bern, Statesville and Thomasville.

Meat Cakes With Pineapple.
 For a super-flavor blend, broil meat cakes on pineapple slices. Make up meat cakes the usual way and flatten until a half-inch thick. Place atop pineapple slices. Brush with melted butter and broil 10 minutes. Baste twice with pineapple juice. Transfer to heated platter and dress up with cress or parsley garnish.

Horses Bring Supplies To Nazis On Russian Front

This horse-drawn supply train moves along a road somewhere on the eastern frontier to aid the mechanized German army striking at Russia. The Nazi high command said the Germans have driven ahead "on schedule and successfully" in their first lunges against the Soviets along a 2,000-mile-long battle line. 'Harrison's Body Lies In State

The body of the late Senator Pat Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, lies in state in a flag-covered casket surrounded by flowers on the floor of the Senate chamber in Washington. Two Capitol policemen stand at attention. Meanwhile, plans were made for removal of the body to Gulfport, Miss., the senator's home, for funeral services and burial.

Recently a group of interested people got together and decided to aid the recreational program for their race by adding an extra helper.

The Third Street play center will formally open Friday afternoon June 27 at 4 p. m. The Parent-Teacher Association of that section will be hostess and serve cold lemonade free. The Girl Scouts will make it possible for everyone to enjoy roasting a weiner for only a nickel.

All children and all adults in the city are invited to be present and see or participate in the play tournament.

Lithuania (2) declared her independence from Russia. Kiev (3) and Sevastopol (5), Russian cities, meanwhile were bombed by the Germans. French sources saw Kharkov (4) as a German objective.

IRISH POTATO CROP IS POOR

Raleigh, June 24.—Faced with the prospect of losing thousands of bushels of 1941 Irish potatoes because much of this year's crop turned out to be culls and No. 2's, North Carolina farmers were advised today to feed undersized potatoes to farm animals so as to avoid complete loss of inferior grades that cannot be marketed.

E. V. Vestal, Extension swine specialist at N. C. State College, advised farmers that potatoes might be fed profitably to hogs. "Potatoes are good for fattening hogs," the specialist said, and the use of culls for hog feed would cut down the expense of pork production. "The use of potatoes that otherwise might be thrown away certainly is cheaper than the use of corn or grains that now are in demand as feed. Potatoes should be cooked and fed along with corn in this ratio: Three and a half pounds of potatoes and one pound of corn."

C. F. Parrish, Extension poultryman at State College, also cited potatoes as a valuable addition to the diet of chickens on the farm. "Farmers who feed undersized potatoes to chickens," Parrish cautioned, "should be very careful, however, to cook the potatoes some before feeding. Raw potatoes are injurious to the chicken's health, while, oddly enough, the cooked potato is healthful and fattening."

The advice that potatoes be fed to farm animals came following a visit by Extension specialists through the commercial potato producing sections of the state. It was reported that many potatoes were being rejected by buyers as undersized.

Reasons for the poor growth of the 1941 crop was cited by Extension specialists as resulting from the weeks of drought during the growing season. Potatoes matured in most cases, it was reported, but failed to reach salable size because of the dry weather.

College Scene Of Principals' Meet

Elementary school principals from the northeastern district of the N. C. E. A., are holding a three-day meeting at East Carolina Teachers College.

All the meetings are to be held at the Training school except the luncheon meeting on Thursday. This afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock was devoted to registration. The evening meeting will be at 7:30.

All principals from any section are invited to attend the meetings and participate in the discussions. "What are the good practices in evidence in a good elementary school?" is the general topic of the meetings.

The mornings will be spent in classroom procedure followed by conferences with the teachers observed. What has been observed will be the basis of the afternoon discussion.

A round table discussion of problems in elementary school practice will be held at the luncheon meeting on Thursday.

Greenville firemen received one call about 10 o'clock last night and another about 9 o'clock this morning, both calls having resulted from short circuits.

Last night's fire was at L. W. Redd's store on Ninth street, where a short developed in the motor of an electric refrigerator. No damage was reported other than to the refrigerator, according to firemen.

This morning's call was to the Averdale section where a short developed in an automobile. Damage was slight.

WORRIED OVER HOLDING JOBS

Revenue Folks Said To Have The Heebie-yeabies

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 24.—The recent rampage which landed Dick McLaughlin, head of the motor vehicle bureau, in the public prints (he's charged with assaulting his wife and there are reports of his having been involved in a more or less serious automobile wreck) is viewed here as truly symptomatic of the general attack of heebie jeebies and jitters which is afflicting the Revenue Department as time draws near for whatever shaking up and reorganizing is going to be done there.

There isn't much that can be put down in black and white in the nature of predicting who is going and who is coming, or who will succeed whom in what jobs; but it is very apparent, as the first of July draws nigh, that practically all hands in the department are uneasy to the point of having the jerks.

Months ago it was reported that State Senator Willie Lee Lumpkin would succeed Commissioner Allen J. Maxwell. Later, and for the only time so far as your reporter is aware, Governor J. Melville Broughton called news men and told them to "lay off" the Lumpkin dope. Still later Paroles Commissioner Edwin Gill became heir-apparent to Maxwell's job, but of late even that hasn't seemed any too safe a forecast.

Through it all, there has been in the background the certainty that Mr. Maxwell did not come out against a second primary last year without having some assurance that he, or his friends at any rate, would be immune from the political day of reckoning which follows every change of administration.

But nobody pretends to know what Governor Broughton plans to do—and that's why the revenue folks can't sleep soundly these June nights—it isn't the heat, it's the uncertainty.

YELTON FACES FIRST BIG JOB

New NCEA Secretary Must Make Teacher Allotments

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, June 24.—Despite the fact that there is laid down a mathematical formula by which allotment of public school teachers is to be accomplished, the new executive secretary of the state School Commission, Nathan Yelton, is going to have his very first big job assigning teachers so as to satisfy, as nearly as may be, every school unit

That's because the formula isn't as unchanging as the laws of the Medes but, on the contrary, is elastic enough to give leeway for considerable squabbling here and there. Principal point of difficulty is going to be to decide which schools had their 1940-41 attendance record seriously affected by epidemics which were more than ordinarily common during the past session.

That is because the commission is allowed to take into consideration the reduction in average daily attendance of any school caused by absences due to sickness. Complete records of the previous school year's attendance are usually in the hands of the school commission before this date, but some half a dozen units have still to make reports this year; and it will not be until the first of next week, at the earliest, that allotment of teachers can be undertaken.

Then, as said, will come Mr. Yelton's first tough job—one which will go far toward indicating how he's going to get along in his new post. Those who are familiar with his work as director of the public assistance division and who know him well personally are confident that he'll make the grade with plenty to spare.
