NAZIS REPORTED TO HAVE BROKEN STALIN LINE

United States Naval Forces Landed In Iceland Today

MOVE IS TAKEN BY AGREEMENT

Chief Executive Declares U.S. Can Not Permit Occupation By Germany of Strategic Outposts In Atlantic; No Indication Given As To What Forces Landed On Danish Island

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—Forces of the United States arrived in Iceland today.

In accordance with an understanding between President Roosevelt and the Prime Minister of Iceland, naval forces moved in to supplement and eventually replace British forces which have been stationed there to insure the adequate defense of that country.

Mr. Roosevelt informed Congress in a special message of this far-reaching step in America's foreign policy.

Mr. Roosevelt said the United States could not permit the occupation by Germany of strategic outposts in the Atlantic to be used as air or naval bases for eventual attack against the Western Hemisphere.

At the same time, he said, this country had no desire to see any change in the present sovereignty of those regions.

Iceland was a Danish colony which eventually became virtually independent except for retaining allegiance to the King of Denmark. After Germany overran Denmark, Iceland separated the last tie.

The United States already has taken similar steps to insure that Germany will not occupy Greenland.

Mr. Roosevelt told Congress that occupation of Iceland by Germany would constitute a serious threat in three dimensions:

"The threat against the steady flow of munitions to Britain—which is a matter of broad policy clearly approved by Congress.

"The threat against Greenland and the northern portion of the North American continent, including the islands which lie off it.

"The threat against all shipping in the North Atlantic."

There was no indication of just what naval forces had moved in to the North Atlantic island or whether they would be supplemented by troops.

Mr. Roosevelt did not indicate, either, whether similar action might be taken against other possible stepping off points for a possible German attack on the Western Hemisphere.

Along with his message to Congress, Mr. Roosevelt sent to Capitol Hill the text of the letters exchanged between himself and the Prime Minister of Iceland.

Sino-Jap War Now In Its Fifth Year

Chungking, July 7.—(AP)—The undeclared Chinese-Japanese war went into its fifth year today with a virtual stalemate along the 2,800-mile front, where the armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek were reported steadily preparing for an attempt to seize the offensive with the hope of achieving victory in 1941.

The Chinese say they have 5,000,000 soldiers in the field and 10,000,000 more in reserve, or training, while Japan's position, as seen through Chinese eyes—a million Japanese troops bogged down in the Chinese quagmire.

Leaving Moscow

Moscow, July 7.—(AP)—A voluntary removal of children from Moscow is underway, although it was said officially tonight there is no compulsion for them to leave.

"Many parents want to take them away because of the psychological effects of possible bombings and the government affords them full aid," it was said.

Some of the children are being taken by bus to country towns.

A fire-fighting system connected with the air raid defense service also is being organized to supplement regular forces.

Reports End To Flare Up Between Ecuador And Peru

Souvenirs Of Historic Battle

Dr. Carroll H. Francis, Camden, N. J., historian and retired naval officer, holds up two anchors brought to the surface by dredging operations in the Delaware river. The anchors are thought to be from the sunken hulk of the British frigate Merlin, sunk in the Revolutionary War battle of Red Bank. Dredgers are seeking a hoard of gold—estimated to be between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000—believed to have been aboard the craft when it was sunk by coastal gun fire.

Peru Charged With Political Aggression; Border Fighting and Bombing Raids Carried Out Over Week-End; Ecuadorian Army Ordered By Government to Hold Southern Frontier

Quito, Ecuador, July 7.—(AP)—A two-day flare-up of border fighting and bombing raids between Peru and Ecuador was reported in frontier dispatches to have died down today.

Ecuador charged Peru with political and military aggression in the century-old frontier dispute.

Advices reaching Guayaquil said there had been no fighting since last night, and military officials said Ecuador would send no reinforcements because frontier detachments and local reserves could handle the situation. A medical detachment will be sent to care for the wounded.

(The Peruvian press denounced Ecuador for the "aggression" and said Ecuador was trying to start an international scandal in border fighting to present the boundary question as "a problem interesting all the Americas.")

Gathering crowds paraded the capital streets, waved Ecuadorian flags and chanted their national anthem in front of a statue of Simon Bolivar, the liberator, as their government ordered the army to hold the southern frontier.

Steadily mounting reports from the south told of two days of sporadic garrison battles, artillery shelling of frontier towns by Peruvian troops, and Peruvian bomb raids on Ecuador's military outposts.

After a hurried session of President Arroy Del Rio's cabinet last night, the Ministry of Defense issued a communique blaming the outbreak on a penetration of Ecuadorian territory by Peruvian soldiers and civilians.

(The Peruvian cabinet also met in extraordinary session for several hours during the night. Dispatches from Lima said it had not been disclosed what bearing one meeting had on the border outbreak.)

One Peruvian source was quoted as saying Ecuador was trying anew to win a favorable solution to her territorial claims by dragging Peru into mediation which previously had stalled.)

Moscow Claims Nazis Have Lost Million Men

Heavy Toll Claimed In First Sixteen Days

By The Associated Press

A Russian spokesman said today that Adolf Hitler's invasion armies had lost nearly 1,000,000 men in dead and wounded in 16 days of blitzkrieg attack, and a Moscow communique declared Soviet Red troops had stemmed the Nazi onslaught along the entire front.

The Soviet spokesman, Vice Commissar of Foreign Affairs S. A. Lozovsky, estimated German casualties in the first 12 days at 700,000 and said the Germans' daily average loss was 60,000.

Lozovsky said the fighting was growing in fierceness but that Russia felt no lack of manpower.

Previously, the Russians had estimated about 2,500,000 troops were thrown into the original attack on the USSR frontier.

Meanwhile, Hitler's high command was silent on reports that Nazi columns had "broken" the Stalin line—presumably in the Ukraine sector.

The official German news agency said Nazi troops in two weeks of fighting had captured all the territory Russia had acquired since September 1, 1939—including the western Ukraine, western White Russia, Bessarabia, northern Bucovina, Lithuania and Latvia.

A Moscow bulletin said Russian defenders had driven the Germans back in five key sectors of the 2,000-mile battlefield.

Dr. and Mrs. Humber In City With Party

Dr. and Mrs. John D. Humber, Mrs. O. C. Tretten, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Conrad of San Francisco are visiting Mr. R. L. Humber and family after having attended the convention at Chicago of the Order of the Amaranth, an international organization of men and women affiliated with Masonic orders.

The party is on its way home after having toured northeastern states and Canada.

Many Local Citizens Pay Taxes In Advance

City Clerk J. O. Duval today reported that tax collections were "unusually good" and declared that pre-payment of 1941 taxes on a tentative rate during the last days of June amounted to $17,961.

The clerk said that the total amount represented a large number of individuals. The money was received on the tentative rate of $1 which was adopted on Thursday night.

DEATH CLAIMS TOTAL OF 628 OVER HOLIDAY

Highway Fatalities of 384 Below Predictions

NATION IS LED BY CALIFORNIA

Sixteen Traffic Fatalities In North Carolina; Total From All Causes In State Set At 22

By The Associated Press Violent deaths overtook 628 persons throughout the nation during the long Independence Day week-end.

As the country went back to work today, it counted among the dead 384 victims of traffic accidents, 14 more than the average for an ordinary Friday, Saturday and Sunday in July.

While automobile fatalities only slightly topped the National Safety Council's estimate for a normal week-end, they were far below the Council's prediction that 475 persons would die in traffic accidents the past three days. Rain in some parts of the country during the holiday period was believed to be the chief reason the total was not higher.

Other violent deaths—drownings, plane crashes, shootings and the like—totalled 244 throughout the country to swell the number killed by all causes to 628.

California's 67 reported deaths, 48 of them in vehicular mishaps, was 20 ahead of Illinois' total of 29 traffic and 18 other fatalities.

Three states—Rhode Island, Nevada and South Dakota—had no violent deaths.

Eleven-year-old Alf Smith Newman died today in a Kingston hospital of injuries he suffered in a bicycle-automobile collision Sunday.

Investigating officers said the accident was unavoidable. This made a total of 16 traffic fatalities and a total from all causes of 22.

J. D. Simpson Gets Order Of Transfer

J. D. Simpson, railway express agent here and member of the Greenville Board of Aldermen, has been transferred by the express agency to Athens, Ga., effective Thursday of this week.

Mr. Simpson makes it plain that the transfer was not at his request. He declared that he had been ordered to make the transfer and added that he was leaving, but made it clear that he hoped "at some future date—and this will be very soon—to return here where I love as the people and wish to live."

Mr. Simpson has made his home here since February 1, 1927, with the exception of six weeks which he spent in Anderson, S. C., in 1936.

He was transferred to the South Carolina city, but through the efforts of many Greenville patrons of the express company and with his sanction he was returned to Greenville.

The agent left no doubt that he hopes he is returned here. He is not taking his family and said he intended to maintain a home here even if the transfer is more than temporary. "I'd rather have one meal a day in Greenville than three a day in Georgia," he declared.

W. F. Owens Chosen Federation Official

W. F. Owens of this city was named a vice president of the North Carolina Federation of Post Office Clerks at the annual convention of that body which was held in Charlotte last week.

C. A. Oglesby of Forest City was named president of the federation.

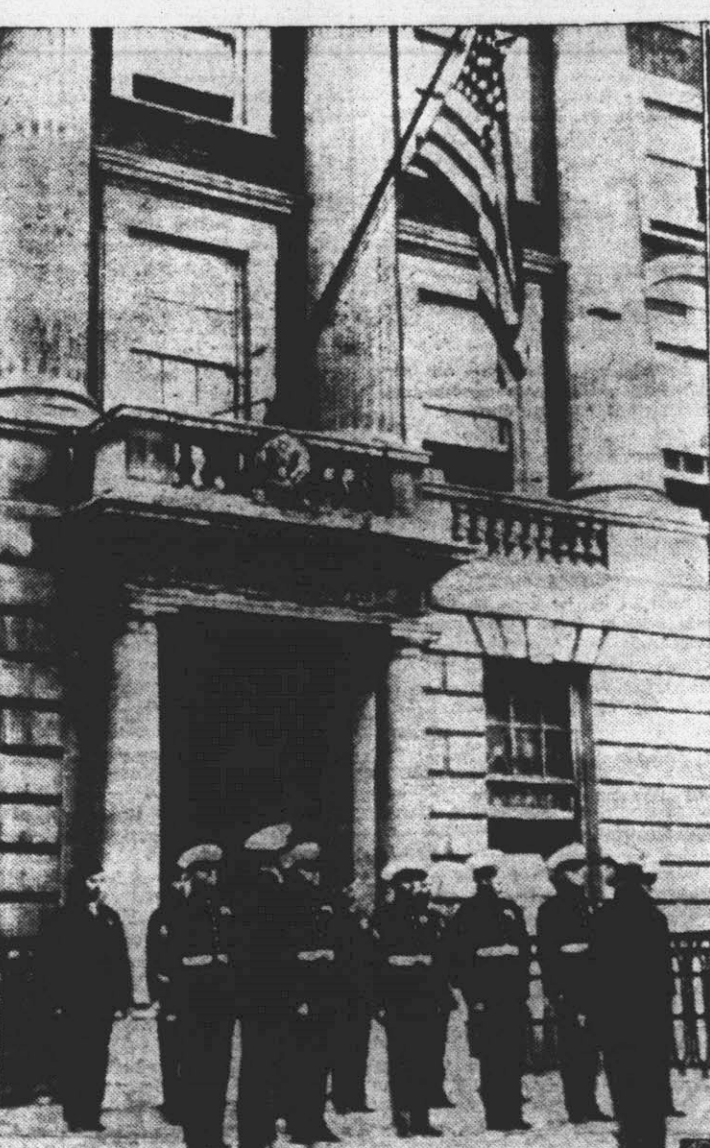

The North Carolina and South Carolina federations held meetings in Charlotte simultaneously and the South Carolina group decided to meet in Greenville, S. C., next year and invited the North Carolina body to meet there also.

Is Called To Sanford By Death Of Brother

Mrs. William McDonald has returned from Sanford and Goldsboro where she was called on account of the death of her brother, Rev. G. T. Adams of Sanford.

Rev. Mr. Adams was the father of Mrs. J. W. Winslow, who will be remembered by her Greenville friends as Miss Martha Adams.

Marines Guard U.S. Embassy

Assault Against Beirut Is Launched By Britain

French Advance Posts Believed Forced Back

Vichy, July 7.—(AP)—British troops appeared today to have launched their long-expected assault upon Beirut at dawn as reinforced Australian infantry pressed the French defenders on heights over the Damour river, about nine miles south of the Lebanese port.

French advance posts in the coastal area about 25 miles below Beirut were believed forced back.

The Damour area was pounded heavily by British artillery throughout the early hours and the big naval guns of British warships off shore later joined in the barrage.

British planes, evidently concentrating upon the fighting front, slackened their bombings of Beirut, but three night raids were said to have been made upon the city, nevertheless.

Heavy French air attacks and stubborn ground resistance were said to be blocking two British-Indian detachments at Dier-Ez-Zor, where the British are trying to cut in from Iraq along the Euphrates river.

Ankara, Turkey, July 7.—(AP)—General Henri Dentz, French high commissioner in Syria and Lebanon, is reported to have rejected new terms of surrender offered him by the British.

The terms, it was said, provided that French defense forces would be given a choice of returning to France or joining General Charles De Gaulle's Free French troops, and all French war materials found in Syria would be taken over by the British.

Negro Being Held On Murder Charge

Oscar Joyner, Jr., 16-year-old Farmville Negro is being held in Pitt county jail on a charge of murder after allegedly stabbing another Farmville Negro through the heart with an ice pick following an argument over a nickel about 8 p. m. Friday, July 4.

According to County Jailor W. G. Leggett, Joyner fatally stabbed Arthur Newkirk following the argument which is believed to have started over a game of pool and involving only five cents. He left the icepick in his victim's chest and it was removed by Newkirk himself before he collapsed.

Chief Clark Gets State Appointment

Chief of Police George Clark of this city has been named a member of the Board of Commissioners of the Law Enforcement Officers' Benefit and Retirement fund.

The local man will represent police chiefs of the entire state, while Forsyth county sheriff will represent officers of his division. Oscar Pitts will represent the Highway Patrol.

The secretary of state, treasurer and auditor are members ex-officio under the program set up by the last General Assembly.

About half a million dollars already is in the fund, according to Chief Clark.

Reds Claim Foe Blocked Along Front

Berlin Assertion Main Line Of Red Army Broken Fails To Give Any Details; Soviet High Command Contends Russians Have Seized Offensive In Fighting From Baltic To The Black Sea

By The Associated Press Adolf Hitler's armies were reported to have "broken" the Stalin line today, but the Russians declared the Red troops had blocked the Nazi offensive along the whole front and driven the Germans back in five sectors.

The Soviet high command said Russian troops had seized the offensive in heavy fighting from the Baltic to the Black sea, smashing the Germans along the Berenzina river and hurling back a Nazi drive aimed at the north flank of the Stalin line.

D.N.B. official German news agency, asserted German troops had "broken" the line, which runs 75 miles deep in some places. No details were given.

Equally vague, the Berlin radio said German columns had pierced the line at several points.

Russians reported officially that the Germans were using wood-and-canvas tanks to pad out their panzer columns, described as self-propelling and carrying machineguns.

The German high command said Axis troops had captured Cernault, capital of Sovietized Bucovina, in a drive toward the Russian Ukraine.

A Red army bulletin said that in the Bessarabian sector, "the enemy, suffering very heavy losses, was thrown back to his previous position."

A Moscow communique declared heavy losses had blunted the German drive to the east, and that German attempts to cross the Dnieper river near Bobruisk, on the central front, had been repelled violently.

While conflicting versions of the 16-day-old struggle came from Moscow and Berlin, one thing seemed clear:

German armies, according to reports edited by Adolf Hitler himself, still were fighting mostly on the fringe of the vast Soviet hinterlands after battling through Sovietized "buffer" states.

Reporting the German invaders routed in five sectors, the Soviet high command declared Red army soldiers broke up a tank-led attempt by motorized troops to knife through the Ostrov region at the northern anchor of the Stalin line.

Activities In Greenville Girl Scout

All Girl Scouts are invited to go swimming in a group Tuesday evening. Girls are to meet at the Scout office in the Municipal building at 5:30 p. m.

They are to bring with them a nosebag lunch and money for entrance to the pool. The girls plan to go together from the Scout office to the playground in back of the pool. Here they will eat their lunch and play games and folk dances until 7 p. m., when they will all have a swim together in the city pool.

A Brownie Revel was held at the Girl Scout office for all Brownies this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Brownies had planned to go swimming, but the bad weather changed their plans. They spent most of the afternoon making a scrapbook to be sent to a home for refugee children. They also sang songs, played Brownie games and ate lunch together.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Cecil Exum. The bridegroom, a successful business man of Bethel, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Caddy James.

After July 13, they will be at home in Bethel.

Library News

These days many a devoted book reader is spending more time with magazines. They are closer to the moment, richer in the immediate reflection of rapidly changing life, and able to capture a fleeting interest before it expires.

Among the current articles on the magazine table at Sheppard Memorial Library the following will be found of special interest:

A speech of special interest is "When Shall America Fight?" by James B. Conant found in Vital Speeches. By the way, there are several other full-length speeches in this issue that informed people cannot well miss reading.

"Future of the War" in Newsmap gives vividly the most disturbing factors for Britain and the source of her greatest fears.

Did you know that England maintains an American Hospital? Read the article "Britain's American Hospital" by Nancy Walburn in Hygela. You will be proud of the work being done by an all-American staff of surgeons, physicians and nurses.

In Current History and Forum, John Gunther gives great insight into the nature of Vargas, Brazil's president. Gunther says Vargas is Brazil. Unique among dictators, he has never attempted to build a political party of his own. There are no badges, shirts, insignia or salutes.

What is your idea of the Russo-German situation? There is a lucid account of the present situation in June 30th issue of Time, entitled "How Long For Russia?" Another interesting feature in the same issue is Time's Current Affairs Test. Take this test and see how well-informed you are on vital questions of the day.

Life is a fascinating magazine has "You a Cannibal Personality?" by Joseph Gollomb. This article will be extremely self-revealing to most readers.

In Theatre Arts, Edith J. R. Isaacs has pictured Paul Green as a genius, with the secret of his power lying within himself. An interesting account is given of his work in building up recreation programs for the soldier camps and his new office of president of the National Theatre Conference.

Barbara Rex reveals in her "A New Hope for the Deaf" in the Atlantic that great advancement has been made in the prevention and cure of deafness. The Otological Research Laboratory of the Johns Hopkins Hospital is doing outstanding work in this field.

In Harper's, Bernard De Voto's "Trotting New England, Advice to the Peripatetic Vacationist," makes the reader feel that he must be off to New England.

"Ice Cold Tricks" by Bernice Peck in Mademoiselle has many useful hints for helping us be as comfortable as possible these hot days.

Seeing Through My Windshield

(By Verona Lee Joyner, H. D. A.)
Pitt County Home Demonstration Club members are right in the middle of the busiest season of the year—the summer canning season.

Throughout the county I found a real interest among all the families to learn more about canning fruits and vegetables and making pickles, jellies and preserves. Fifteen of the H. D. Club members have already realized that non-acid vegetables can safely be saved by processing in a pressure cooker and have purchased one for their families. More are waiting the arrival of pressure cookers. Below you will find the schedule for canning demonstrations to be held in various sections of the county. We would like to have every homemaker that desires to learn more about home canning to attend one.

4-H Activities

Mrs. M. E. Hart, volunteer 4-H club leader of Littlefield, invited 12 of the young boys and girls to her home to organize a 4-H club in that community. The meeting was opened with group singing led by Mrs. Levi Worthington. I discussed the aims of 4-H club work and projects that could be taken by the 4-H club boys and girls. Each member learned the 4-H pledge. The following officers were elected: President, Virginia Jackson; vice-president, Virginia Dare Worthington; secretary, Doris Jean Hart.

The members decided to meet the fourth Friday of each month at 3 o'clock.

Home Demonstration Meetings

Fifteen members of Red Banks club met with Mrs. R. L. Little. The club was called to order by the president, Mrs. Oscar Hardee, and the meeting was opened with all singing "The Song of the Open Country." Reports were then given by the leaders. Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker, Food Conservation leader, showed some inexpensive canning equipment and invited all to attend a canning demonstration at her home July 8 at 3 p. m. Mrs. S. B. Tucker, 4-H leader, reported that a 4-H club had been organized on June 23. Mrs. Oscar Hardee, Poultry leader, and Mrs. Alton Bibbs, Parent Education leader, gave reports. The members decided to have the August picnic on the lawn of Mrs. S. B. Tucker's home on August 14 at 7 p. m. After the demonstration, "Color, Walls and Windows," we adjourned for a social hour.

Red Oak Club met at the club house with 15 members present. Mrs. B. L. Tyson, 4-H leader, gave a report of the 4-H leaders' school in Washington and also announced the 4-H picnic of the Red Oak and Ballard's clubs to be held at Farmville swimming pool Thursday afternoon. Mrs. L. W. Edwards, Parent Education leader, gave most helpful suggestions on rearing children today. Mrs. James Allen explained "How To Use Cotton Stamps" and urged all present to help others in using their stamps wisely.

A canning demonstration was held at Red Oak club house on Thursday morning.

Club Schedule This Week

PLAN IS AIDED BY MERCHANTS

Retail Merchants Participate in Cotton Program

"Retail merchants dealing in cotton goods will be one of the most important groups in the Supplementary Cotton Program. They comprise tens of thousands of salesmen for America's most important cash crop — cotton. With foreign markets for American cotton sharply curtailed by war — America's merchants have a greater responsibility than ever before to help increase our domestic consumption of 100 per cent American grown, processed, and manufactured cotton products."

This statement was made today by Mr. G. P. Matthews, chairman of the Cotton Industry Committee for Pitt county.

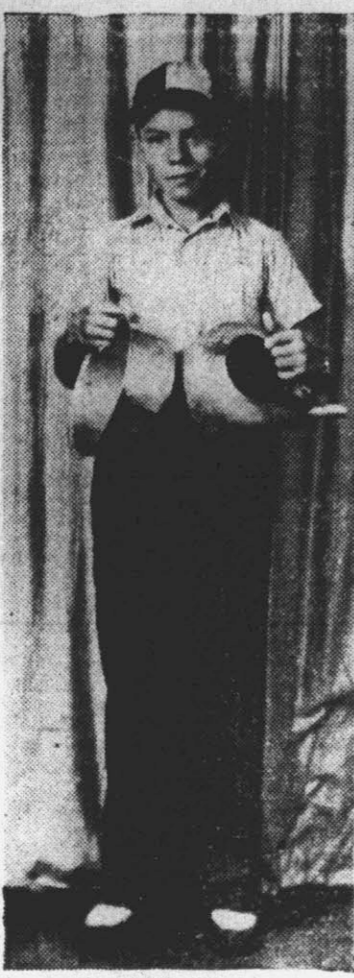

In explaining how our local merchants could assist Cotton Stamp customers and the general public to identify 100 per cent American cotton products in the stores, he said, "some retailers rubber stamp the price tag or label with a picture of a cotton boll or the words 'All American Cotton!' Any method may be used which will definitely show that the merchandise is made in the United States entirely from 100 per cent American cotton."

"After participating farmers receive their cotton-order stamps, it is up to the merchants to see that firm customers and others can readily find the American cotton products they are looking for. Adequate stocks and attractive window and counter displays will be to the mutual advantage of merchants, farmers, and the general public."

"Merchants who segregate their stocks of All-American cotton piece goods, women's dresses and house-coats, men's overalls and shirts, sheets, men's pants, children's clothing, men's underwear, blankets, work gloves, plowlines, stockings, and numerous other cotton products in attractive displays and advertising will contribute materially to the effectiveness of the program, and at the same time develop profitable new business," he said.

"Producers should not come to the County Office for Cotton Stamps until they are notified."

Ready For Show

Linwood Stocks already has his "admission" to the Alumnium Matinee to be presented at the Pitt theater tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, at which all children will be admitted upon presenting a piece of aluminumware. The matinee is being put on by the management of the theater to collect aluminum for the government. A serious shortage in the product, vital to the manufacture of airplanes, is faced in this country.

Report Issued On C. of C. Activities

The regular monthly report on activities of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce has just been issued by Executive Secretary Willard T. Kyzer, showing that the organization cooperated on numerous projects during June.

It called attention to the fact that four new members had been enrolled.

The bulletin urged members to support the tobacco market, adding "there is always something good to be said about the Greenville market and your chamber urges each member to keep this fact in mind and at every opportunity bring it to the attention of the grower."

The chamber, with the idea of advertising the local airport, has prepared a number of briefs which have been forwarded to operators as well as various governmental agencies. Additional publicity is being prepared for distribution at airports throughout the country.

The organization cooperated on a number of other public programs during the month.

has electricity, a proportion far greater than could be boasted of even five years ago. Growth of rural electrification since 1935 has been little short of phenomenal in North Carolina.

But, while one out of four farm homes has electricity only four in every hundred have telephones — and the general type of rural telephone line in North Carolina makes it highly debatable whether these four are much to be envied. The figures are likely to cause D. S. Coltrane, assistant to Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott to do a bit of bragging, too, because they show that the total fertilizer bill of Tar Heel farmers dropped from $34,686,330 in 1930, when 1,107,763 tons of commercial fertilizer were used, to $26,529,959 in 1940, when 947,923 tons were spread on Tar Heel farms.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO OPERATE MOTOR VEHICLE CARRIER AND DATE OF HEARING THEREON

As required by Section 3, Chapter 136, Public Laws of 1927, notice is hereby given that application has been made by Paul T. Ricks, Greenville, N. C., for a franchise Certificate, authorizing the operation of motor vehicles for transporting passengers over the following routes:

1. From New Bern, via U. S. Highway 17 to Vanceboro; thence to Greenville, Pinetops, Rocky Mount, Aventon, Liberia and Warrenton, to Norlina, via NC 43 and US 158.
2. From Greenville to Oak City via Bethel over Hy. 11; thence to Scotland Neck via Hy 125; thence over US 258 to intersection of NC 561; thence over NC 561 via Spring Hill and Tillery to Hy. US 301; thence over 301 via Halifax to Weldon; thence over US 133 and NC 47 to Roanoke Rapids.
3. From Washington, N. C., over Hy. 17 to intersection of No. 102 near Wilmer with closed doors except for passengers going west of Wilmer; thence over Hy. 102 via Calico to Ayden; thence to Maury and Snow Hill to intersection of 58 and 102; thence over 58 via Stanlonsburg to Wilson; thence over 58 to Nashville and Castalia to the intersection of No. 58 and 56; thence over No. 56 to Henderson via Epsom.

And that the Utilities Commission will hold a hearing of the said application in Supreme Court Bldg., at Raleigh, on Wednesday, 16th July, 1941, at 10:00 o'clock A. M.

FIGURES SHOW AVERAGE FARM

Average Tar Heel Farmer Is Declared Well Off

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, July 7.—The U. S. Census Bureau has just issued preliminary figures on "Agriculture, Farm Finances and Facilities, Fruits and Vegetables" for North Carolina and from these figures it is possible to draw a pretty good picture of the Tar Heels who till the soil of this still predominantly agricultural state.

The average Mr. Farmer, the census found, is 46.1 years old, and if he owns his own farm has actually been operating it since 1923, and thus is no newcomer to the land. Only about one out of every five full farm owners has been that for less than five years, while on the other hand two-thirds of all tenant farmers have been working the same soil for less than half a decade.

Almost three-fourths of the full owners have no mortgages to bother them, but 41,585, or 27 per cent of the 154,235 full owners in the state, must crease their brows worrying about how to meet interest and principal payments aggregating $42,574,970. The mortgage holders, however, would appear to have little to worry about as the value of the farms (land and buildings) mortgaged to secure payment aggregates $118,747,197. In other words, the security's worth almost three times the total debt.

It seems, too, that "Old MacDonald" who has a farm in North Carolina only has a "rattle, rattle here and a rattle, rattle there" in less than half the instances, because the figures show only 118,074 farms with automobiles out of a grand total of 278,276. In the matter of tractors and motor trucks the percentages drop way down, with only 11,983 farms reporting tractors and 49,279 having trucks.

The farm motor vehicles are not of the latest models, either, the average auto being of 1933 vintage, the average truck 1935 and the average tractor 1931.

Gwyn Price and his Rural Electrification Authority aides will probably point with considerable pride to the statement that one out of every four farms in the state

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

IN PRAISE OF DREAMERS People often speak in depreciation of dreamers. To say that a man is a dreamer generally means that he is impractical, lazy, and perhaps shiftless.

But it is well to remember that somebody has to dream before anybody can act. The dreamers have always been the forerunners of the doers. Joseph was a dreamer. Isaiah, the apostle Paul, Columbus dreamed of a new world. Galileo dreamed of a large universe. Shakespeare dreamed as no man has ever dreamed.

A dreamer, however, must meet two requirements in order to be a valuable member of society. First, he must dream about the right things; and second, he must point his dreams in the direction of achievement. The impractical folk who day dream about things wholly within the realm of fancy often lead sensible people to scoff at all dreamers.

LABOR'S CHANCE

According to Attorney General Jackson, certain labor leaders responsible for recent strikes in defense industries have definitely communist sympathies. They are following long-established Soviet "wrecking" tactics.

It now remains to be seen whether the rank and file of labor will continue to accept this kind of alien-inspired leadership. If it does, the government will have no choice but to use the sternest measures—and the public will back the government up.

TWO WAYS OF LIFE This second World War is a war between two philosophies, two ways of life, two diametrically opposed systems of government.

In every land which the Axis has conquered, all liberty has been ruthlessly abolished. The free enterprise system, where it existed, has been consigned to the rubbish heap. Dissenters have faced the firing squad or have been sentenced to living death in a concentration camp.

Why Let Him Have So Much Rope?

state is all. Our part in this war, then, whether or not we eventually become active belligerents, is to prove to all the world that free enterprise is superior to slave enterprise—that democracy is superior to totalitarianism. And we can prove that in only one way. That is by encouraging the private enterprise system, under fair and suitable government regulation, to produce as it never produced before. That means that we must encourage privately-owned industry to do the greatest job in history. It means that all evidences of totalitarianism in this country must be suppressed. It means that we must consistently oppose state socialism wherever it appears, whatever its manifestation. We are fighting for the right of free men to engage freely in legitimate business under a free system. If that right is lost, we will suffer an irrevocable defeat, no matter how great our military prowess.

Private enterprise is ready to meet the test. The record of the past is the promise of the future. It is up to all men to prove now that the American way is the winning way—and the way to eventual peace and security for all the people.

Washington Daybook

Washington — Answering the mail: D. L. New London, Conn. — According to the latest available information, the net loss in combat ships to the U.S. Navy through transfers to Britain and other developments has been 27. Fifty-three destroyers have disappeared from the navy lists in the last year and a half, but the navy has gained one aircraft carrier, three cruisers and 22 submarines. The navy now has a total of 332 combat ships, with 360 on order. In information as to how many submarines are new and how many recommissioned is not available. Also, the 53 figure doesn't represent total transfers to Great Britain. Thirty destroyers left the rolls when they were reclassified (for non-combatant use).

T. C. J. Manchester, Tenn. — Trainees may join the parachute troops only after they have completed the training period at infant replacement centers. I doubt if at this time there are any trainees in the "chute battalions. All of the men are drawn from the regular army. The second "chute battalion (at Fort Benning like the first) now is being organized and two more are authorized. It certainly is no disgrace to "flunk out" of "chute troop training. This is a highly specialized job and you could have nerve, brains, brawn and almost everything else, but if it developed that you had a "glass" ankle or knee, you would be out immediately. The only "chutist" I have talked with told me that it was not considered a disgrace to lose your nerve on your first hop.

F. G. Newton, Kas.—Sens. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma and James J. Davis of Pennsylvania are two of the congressional leaders urging that we send food relief to the European democracies.

H. S. R. Las Vegas, N. M. — You may hear reports soon that something is being done about the dollar-a-year men who "guessed wrong" in estimating the United States war needs in raw materials. The President recently appointed a new part-time liaison man between the White House and the Office of Production Management. He is Wayne Johnson, a New York lawyer, who also is an official in the National Democratic set-up. The rumor is that Johnson will have broad powers in personnel recommendations. Johnson has had a lot of government experience (he was once solicitor of internal revenue) and, as a big corporation lawyer, a lot of experience with the kind of executives who are here as dollar-a-year men.

Mrs. R. P. Flint, Mich. — Not even in the army or air corps here will anyone guess who introduced the phrase "Keep 'Em Flying." I side know that several divisions of the army are doing their best to popularize it. A number of senators and representatives have received letters in recent weeks from high army officers asking help. The officers request that the phrase be substituted in everyday slang for such phrases as "Keep up the good work," "So long," "I'll be seeing you," "Down the hatch," etc. I got three answers on the origin: (1)

That it started at Randolph Field, San Antonio; (2) in England; (3) that it has been used for years in commercial aviation.

M. S. Colorado Springs, Col. — Luke Field at Phoenix, Ariz., was named for Frank T. Luke, Jr., one of the phenomenal aces of the world war. Knocking down observation balloons was considered one of the most dangerous jobs any airman could undertake, but Luke was known as "the balloon buster" and brought down 14 balloons and four enemy planes in 17 days before he landed behind the enemy lines to get a drink of water and was killed. He was awarded three medals, one posthumously. His home was Phoenix.

The brand new official, Boddie Ward of Wilson, doesn't pretend to know all the answers; admits freely that even after he has had time to study the situation he still will not be able to claim all-embracing knowledge. Apparently, however, the state's citizenry can rest assured that Mr. Ward is going to put plenty of energy and effort into his program.

He goes no further now than generalization as to the cause of the increasingly bloody record being compiled by North Carolinians on the highways. Pointing out that the situation isn't peculiar to this state, but is general throughout the country, the commissioner is inclined to attribute a great part of the trouble to the state of mind created by the current worldwide emergency. "There's no getting away from the fact that there is a general feeling of tension," he said. "People everywhere are more or less on edge. The tension and nervous strain have speeded up reactions. Everybody is moving faster and with more nervous energy. The result, for motorists, is disastrous in many cases."

HEARTBREAK HOVEYMOON

YESTERDAY: Luella Fell is not sure whether she is glad or sorry that at last her only life in New York is broken by having guests for dinner. Her husband is Henry, and Henry seems little too much interested in Marie Mason, the radio star. Luella thinks Marie is neglecting Tommy McIntyre, her fourth guest, and is sure she is not neglecting Henry.

Chapter Eight Marie Stumbles

They lingered for a time over their coffee, laughing, chatting, relaxed and content. Then they moved into the other end of the room. Patsy placed a four panel screen around the dining room end, and went about clearing the things away. "Shall we have some bridge?" Luella said. "I'm much too full of your grand dinner to concentrate on cards," said Tommy.

"And there's so much to talk about," Marie added. "Besides, I'm a terrible bridge player. I simply can't remember some of the simplest conventions."

"About this Malcolm Rector," said Henry. "Has he anything up his sleeve, Marie—I mean of interest to you?" "I should say so," Marie replied. "His interest is to you, too, Henry. His company planning a program that's to be entirely non-commercial. I mean there'll be no interruptions while someone spouts about the virtues of a headache medicine or a reakfast food or a dog biscuit. And he's considering using me on the program."

"That's great!" Henry said. "But when do I come in, I mean, you said it was of interest to me also."

"Your songs, if I get on the program, Henry. I'll want some new material. And I liked the idea you mentioned the other day at lunch."

"Luella, who had been placing ashtrays within easy reach of everyone stopped and looked up. "I hope," said Marie, giving Luella a wide-eyed look, "that you didn't object to my stealing Henry for lunch."

"I didn't know anything about it," said Luella. "You and Henry have a lot in common," she went on, "so why shouldn't you get together now and then and talk things over?"

"That's what I think," said Marie. "And I'd say, Luella, that you were being a swell, broad-minded wife," Tommy remarked. "I hope Marie will be as broad-minded when and if she marries me, and I meet a glamorous movie star or actress or radio personality for lunch or cocktails."

Marie, smiling lovely, got up and began to mope about the room. "I adore all these old-fashioned things you brought up from down home," she said. "I wish I hadn't sold all mine in order to get money enough to start singing lessons." She pulled back the brocade hangings. "Such a quiet street—for New York." "The rear window open on an even quieter scene," said Henry. "Come on, I'll show you. There's an extension roof, and when warm weather comes, I plan to have an awning and porch furniture. Luella and I may even have our breakfasts out there. And dinners too, when we can manage it."

"Oh, that'll be fun!" said Marie. "I love eating out in the open. It'll be almost like having a terrace."

She followed Henry down the long room to the rear. "Invitation In Her Eyes" There Henry opened the full-length window, and they stepped out upon the extension. It looked out over a quiet back yard in which grew a single tree that was now putting forth tender green leaves. One of the larger branches hung down over the extension and gave the place something of a rural atmosphere.

"It's lovely!" said Marie. "I'm sorry now I didn't take a place like this, instead of an apartment in one of the newer houses." She walked toward the end of the roof and looked down into the yard. "It makes me think a little of some of the back yards down home."

"Careful," Henry cautioned. "I don't think that roof's any too firm. I've got to have it reinforced."

Marie stepped backward toward him, and caught her foot on the edge of the roof. She would have fallen if Henry hadn't caught her quickly.

"Darnitall!" she said. "I tore my gown."

"Luella can fix it for you," said Henry. "She's always got a mending basket handy." But he didn't release the girl his arm encircled.

Marie leaned against him. Her heart was pounding. She looked up and Henry saw unmistakable invitation in her brown eyes. And almost before he realized what he was doing he was holding Marie tight to him, kissing her. She responded, giving him kiss for kiss. It was as though she was being satisfied after a long and lonely hunger.

"Henry—darling—sweet," she whispered. "Dear—little—Marie," said Henry. He kissed her again. And then: "But we mustn't!" He released Marie abruptly. "It's all wrong. All wrong."

"But, Henry? If we're drawn to each other, we have a perfect right—"

"Have you forgotten Luella?" Henry cut in. "Oh!" said Marie. She had forgotten, utterly, completely. While Henry was holding her in his arms she had forgotten everything but that she was where she had been wanting to be for days and days. "I'm sorry, Henry."

"So am I," Henry said. "But it was my fault. I—I—should have had more self-control. But you were appealing, Marie. You are appealing. You—you—do things to a man's emotions."

He pointed out the small size of the highway patrol force, even with the addition of 25 patrolmen to be made as soon as recruits have been properly trained. He added that it is now necessary to concentrate the force largely in the vicinity of army camps.

"And when half a million men get to maneuvering all over North Carolina and we have to put the whole patrol in the maneuver areas. It's going to take a very long spy glass to see them all," he added.

This and That... American Legion state headquarters, which always follow the department commander, will move from Belmont to Raleigh early this week; meaning that Department Adjutant Jim Caldwell and his secretary, will make their annual change of residence. . . . When the legislature at its special session in 1939 authorized a big building program in connection with PWA and WPA grants and loans, it was thought that the problem of housing state agencies was solved for many years; but when the Mutual Burial Association commissioner and one or two other new officials started looking for space last month, it was hard to find. . . . Canada at War," a summary of Canada's part in the war, contradicts flatly an impression in many quarters that the Canucks aren't so keen about aiding Great Britain against Hitler. Figures in this summary show that there are 80,000 Canadians serving abroad with the British, which seems a small number, but when taken on a comparative basis is the equivalent of an 80,000 expeditionary force from the United States. . . . Hope you all had a safe Fourth in radio, I know, but for a purely entertaining program as I have in mind, I prefer sentiment, not too mushy, mind you—romance, tenderness—all of it with an authentic American flavor." "I sounds like a nice idea to me," said Luella. "I do get sick of swing, torch singers, not very funny sketches, and comedians who aren't comic."

"And there are a million others like you, Mrs. Fell," said Rector. "Henry's got the right things in the way of songs, and Marie and I've already spoken to a composer friend of mine who's just dying to set some new things to music."

Rector took a long drink, and sat down his glass. "Of course it's all more or less vague at the moment," he said. "I mean, the program my associates and myself are planning. But we'll get together, the three of us, and have really serious talk one of these days." He smiled at Luella and Henry. "Why not join me on my boat one week-end when the weather gets warmer? I'm having the boat put in shape, and will have her docked at the Seventy-ninth Street yacht basin."

"We'll like that," said Henry. "Wouldn't you, Luella?" "Of course," said Luella. "We can cruise along the Sound," Rector continued, "and put our heads together. I'll have some other folks along, and we can combine business with pleasure. You come along too, Tommy. Another radio executive might come in handy."

"Thanks," said Tommy. "I'd like to." "I think it's a marvelous plan," said Marie. "You too, Luella?" "All the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't keep us away," Henry laughed.

Chapter Nine Perfect Housewife Type The door closed. The three guests were gone. Henry and Luella were alone. "A perfect evening!" said Henry. "You were swell, honey. And what a grand dinner."

"I'm glad you liked it," said Luella, but stiffly. "Henry looked at her. "Anything wrong, Luella?" he asked. Luella shook her head, and glanced about the room. "I hope," said Henry. "You don't mind my not mentioning the lunch with Marie?"

"No, Henry," Luella hesitated a moment. "Only—well, it's just that I don't want you to feel that you have to meet Marie or the sky."

"Ye gods and little fishes!" Henry cried. "I never thought of such a thing. It's just that it slipped my mind—lunching with Marie. I mean, I ran into her on the street, and that's the way it came about."

"Yes, Henry, I understand," said Luella. "But she didn't understand—not at all."

Had she run into Marie on the street and lunched with her, it would have been the most natural thing in the world to tell Henry about it. It should have been the most natural thing in the world for Henry to tell her about lunching with Marie. But he hadn't told her—and that was that.

She began emptying ash-trays. "I think I'll turn in," Henry said. "I've got a big day before me tomorrow. Night, Luella, honey."

"Good night, Henry," Luella said. "I'll be joining you as soon as I straighten up a little. It's such a depressing sight to get up in the morning and find a lot of cigarette stubs and smelly glasses."

Henry paused in the doorway, watching her. She was the perfect housewife type, he thought. And he honestly believed that emptying ashtrays was of more importance to Luella than the fact that some day her husband might own one of the land over Henry went into the kitchen to prepare the mint juleps. As he worked he thought about Mr. Rector. He was a man in the early fifties, and Henry thought, exactly what he had always imagined a very successful man would be like. Meanwhile Malcolm Rector was talking to Luella.

"I understand you saved me a helping Brown Betty," he said. "Yes, I did," said Luella. "Shall I get it for you now?" "Better wait until after your mint julep," Marie suggested. "I've an idea as a mint julep maker Henry is tops."

"He is," said Luella. "Mr. Rector laughed. "I seem to be on the spot," he said. "Mrs. Pell's Brown Betty or Mr. Pell's mint julep. Perhaps I should toss a coin."

Henry came in then with a tray upon which were five tall, frosted glasses. "Need you worry about a decision now?" said Marie. "Go ahead, Mr. Rector, and take the julep," said Luella. "The Brown Betty will keep on the julep won't."

Invitation When each one in the room was supplied with a glass, Tommy looked over the edge of his. He smiled at Henry. "I've heard about mint juleps, seen them served on the stage, and in the movies," he said. "I've had them in New York bars and New York apartments, but I reckon you'll all have shore nuff got the hang of 'em, Marsell Pell."

"They're perfect," said Rector. "For years I've been trying to get my various butlers to mix a julep like this—and gotten exactly nowhere."

Henry was pleased. He seemed to expand a little. "Marie tells me," he was saying a little later, "that you've got some plans—a program or something of the sort."

"I have," Rector admitted. "I think it's high time a program was broadcast that gives the listening public pure Americana. That's why I'm interested in those Negro verses you've written."

"I told him about them, Henry," said Marie. "While we were having cocktails this afternoon. He's crazy to see them."

"I'm afraid they're rather amateurish," Henry said. "The poetic efforts of a high school boy."

"That doesn't matter," Rector said. "The looking for simple things that will go straight to the heart of the public. Rudition has its place in radio, I know, but for a purely entertaining program as I have in mind, I prefer sentiment, not too mushy, mind you—romance, tenderness—all of it with an authentic American flavor."

Sight Unseen New York (AP) — Policewoman Josephine Freer and Mary Graham observed an aged but still dexterous pickpocket lift a woman's purse in a department store. What tripped him was that he had to stoop to put on his glasses to inspect contents. Even so, he gave further proof of his agility by dashing down an "up" escalator and was caught only after a scuffle in which policewoman Freer's freshly-manicured fingernails were torn to shreds.

Greenies Break Even In July Fourth Week-End Series

TO PLAY BEARS HERE TONIGHT

Greenville And Wilson Divide July 4th Series

The Greenies won yesterday's game with the Kinston Eagles 8-1. It rained out Saturday, divided July Fourth series with the Wil-Tobs and lost to Goldsboro 10-8 Thursday night.

The locals meet New Bern here tonight. The Tobs won over the Greenies the afternoon game in Wilson day afternoon in a pitchers duel between two portlanders, Webb Adams, but it was a different story here that night, with Long King Bissette by a score of 6-1. The two games scheduled for the Smith park Saturday between the Greenies and Kinston was rained out.

The Greenies got back in harness yesterday afternoon, however, and Ed Teller turned in an 8-1 victory over Kinston. The local hurler held the Eagles to four safe hits while the Greenies had two good frames, getting four in each of the first and fourth.

ASSUMES LEAD WITH 7TH WIN

Training School Setting Pace In City Baseball Loop

Training School took undisputed lead in the "A" league this morning by winning their seventh game in a row. In a game that had to be called at the end of the sixth because of rain, they defeated High School by the score of 6-1. Not only did Training School go into the lead in games won and lost, they also maintained their team hitting in which they lead the league. At present they have seven players hitting over .300.

They won this morning in pretty much the same way as usual, getting good pitching from Clark and heavy and opportune hitting. Gene Johnson led with three for four, closely followed by Clark, Taylor and Saied.

Musselwhite, Brown and Dunn led the play for the losers. High School 010 100-2 6 0 Training School 011 40x-6 12 2 Batteries: Butts and Moye; Clark and Saied.

Training School climbed back into a tie with Third Street for the lead in the boys "A" league by winning their last five games in a row. West Greenville slumped and managed to win only one game to remain in third place. High School still is on the bottom, although they played consistent ball all during the week.

Third Street took over the lead in the "B" league Training School due to several players leaving for camp, had a bad week but is expected to make a battle from now on with some added strength.

West Greenville leads in the "C" league, although they have played fewer games than the other teams.

Dear Deer!

Austin, Tex. (AP)—Poaching by automobile in Texas probably is too expensive to become very popular. A fellow who tried it recently, driving his car thirty feet off the highway to strike a deer, paid a $21 fine and his auto repairs cost $19.50. A state game warden, with clues that consisted of remnants of the deer, glass and a part of a damaged radiator, traced the killer to a town 70 miles away.

POU POSITIVE ON AMBULANCE

British To Get Flying Unit Despite Nazi Subs

Reflector Bureau. BY HENRY AVERILL.

Raleigh, July.—When Tar Heels have subscribed $75,000 for purchase of a flying ambulance for Great Britain, the British will get the winged mercy ship, Hitler's subs to the contrary, State Auditor George Ross Pou, treasurer of the Old North State Fund, asserts.

It should be noted that he says "when" the money is subscribed not "if," because he is absolutely confident that the campaign is now well organized and will be pressed to a successful conclusion. He points out that some $50,000 employees and officials of one railroad alone, the Baltimore and Ohio, contributed enough to buy the ambulance plane which made a flying tour of North Carolina the last week in June. He declares himself confident that three and a half million North Carolinians will do no less.

But back to the subs. Mr. Pou said that the $75,000 to be raised covers not only the actual cost of the ship but is sufficient to purchase from Lloyds' or some other agency, insurance that it will be safely delivered on the other side.

Thus should it turn out that the "Old North State" (that's how the plane is to be christened) should be sent to the bottom by one of the German subs, surface raiders or bombing planes, the loss will be made good and another sent in its place. In short the insurance insures delivery, eventually.

Incidentally, the plane which toured North Carolina is now probably somewhere on the Atlantic in transit to Britain. Mr. Pou, who made the state tour and then flew to the Newark airport on the ambulance plane, said that immediately upon arrival in the New Jersey city, the flying hospital was knocked down and crated for shipment aboard a steamer to Britain.

In order that all contributors to the Old North State fund shall have a chance to see what they chipped in to get, the plane, when purchased, will make a leisurely flying circuit of North Carolina, before being shipped abroad, Mr. Pou said.

He announced no figures on funds already in hand, but he seemed highly pleased with the drive's progress to date.

The work of organization should be complete within the next week or ten days, he said.

Currently the main effort of the general committee, headed actively by Fred Bowman of Chapel Hill, with Governor J. Melville Broughton as honorary chairman, is to set up a solidly based unit in every county.

A couple of weeks ago the governor announced personnel of an advisory committee with members drawn from all sections; and the principal present problem is to get an energetic, go-getting chairman to serve as active executive head of the drive in each county.

Progress in this is being made rapidly, Mr. Pou said, and it will not be long before there is a going unit in each of the hundred counties.

Practically every organization which has considered the campaign at all has acted favorably. Among the big groups which plan to take active part is the American Legion. The present plan is for legionnaires all over the state to make their contributions through a legion committee, in order that the results of the gigantic group effort may be apparent.

Metohdist Pastor Makes Brief Talk

By WYATT BROWN
"Suffering is not essential to great living but it is incidental," said Reverend Thomas M. Grant, pastor, yesterday morning in his brief revery preceding service of the Lord's Supper. Mr. Grant recreated the gathering of the little group before the Last Supper. They knew something great was impending. They expected Jesus to give them advice. Instead he told them in his simple, potent language:
"I am asking you to remember I went all the way to the cross and that you will understand that that is the great meaning of my life. I will give myself that God's love may be known to all men, that is the supreme hour of my life."

Nazis-Russians Locked In Battle

German columns, taking Napoleon's route, forced a bulge in the northern Russian defenses in the Polish-Baltic section which had pushed the Reds back almost to the old Russian frontier. In the Luck sector 4,000 tanks were said to be locked in mortal combat, while on the southern Prut river front Moscow said its lines were holding and Red forces were reported counter-attacking.

Takes Precaution For Panama Canal

Cristobal, Canal Zone, July 7.—(AP)—The commandant of Cristobal port put into effect today new regulations under which ships will not be permitted to clear or enter Cristobal and Balboa harbors between the hours of sunset and sunrise.
Captain C. E. Coney, U. S. Navy, in command here, announced that the regulations, effective immediately, would continue in effect throughout the present emergency.
Cristobal and Balboa are at the Caribbean sea and Pacific ocean entrances, respectively, of the Panama canal.

Scouts Take Part In Aluminum Drive

The Honorable F. H. La Guardia, U. S. Director of Civilian Defense, has requested Boy Scouts of America to participate in a nation-wide collection of scrap aluminum July 24-25.

The Office of Production Management, Mr. William S. Knudsen, Director General, has asked the Committee on Civilian Defense to help remedy a temporary shortage of aluminum in national defense production by conducting a nationwide campaign for donations of used aluminum ware. The campaign will be conducted through the joint direction of the Office of Production Management and the Office of Civilian Defense. Aluminum so salvaged, after proper treatment, can be used almost entirely for defense purposes, and will also be used to free new aluminum for airplanes, etc.

The house to house canvass and collection will take place July 24-25, inclusive, and will be deposited in central bins, such as in fire stations, city hall, court house steps, and post offices, then taken to yards of waste dealers for sorting, classifying and baling. The entire net proceeds will be available to the Office of Civilian Defense for any expenditures required for the proper defense of the civilian population.

Tydings Resumes Blast On Jackson

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—Assailing the nomination of Robert H. Jackson to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court, Senator Tydings (D-Md.) charged today the attorney general was "reached" before he declined to prosecute a criminal libel action at Tydings' request in 1939.

He claimed the attorney general had "set aside the libel law by administrative fiat" in refusing to press an action against Drew Pearson and Robert Allen, political columnists.

Glass Is Selected Succeed Harrison

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—Carter Glass, elderly statesman of Capitol Hill and staunch supporter of President Roosevelt's recent foreign policy after years of bitter opposition to the New Deal, was expected to become the president pro tempore of the United States Senate as soon as this week.

Man About Manhattan

New York—As has been stated previously here and elsewhere, the Brooklyn Dodgers breed a strange sort of loyalty among their followers, and their followers are legion. As a matter of fact, almost anybody in Brooklyn will kick out your teeth if you so much as intimate that their darlings are not going to win the pennant this year.
What I am trying to say is that the good people of Brooklyn are never lukewarm in their enthusiasm for the team. When the Dodgers win, they are in heaven. But when they lose, the police have to patrol the bridges to keep the heart-broken citizens from leaping to their own destruction. You think this is exaggerated a little, don't you?
Well, you do not know Brooklyn. Last summer a little incident took place in a Brooklyn pub that will illustrate the point, and very nicely, for you. An alien came in. Probably he was from Manhattan, or Hoboken. By "alien" is meant just anybody who isn't from Brooklyn.

To Do His Bit

Milton (Pete) Foley will be ready for the Aluminum Matinee when the doors of the Pitt Theater open for the benefit movie tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. T. Y. Walker, manager of the theater, is promoting the matinee to collect aluminum and any boy or girl will be admitted upon presenting one or more pieces of aluminum. The aluminum will be turned over to the government through the local unit of Bundles for Britain. The product for which a shortage is threatened, is necessary in the manufacture of airplanes.

Well, this alien was standing in the pub, having a beer, and the rest of the crowd was singing the glories of the Dodgers. The alien looked around. "I think the Dodgers are lousy," he said in a loud voice.

There was a sudden and ominous silence. If anybody had taken the bother to drop a pin, you could have heard it. Suddenly, one of the Dodger fans let out a harsh cry and ran out of the saloon. He ran out somewhere, and got a gun, and came back and shot the blasphemer dead. That isn't an exaggeration. He shot the guy. And the guy dropped dead. Right there. It simply doesn't pay to make unguarded statements in the presence of Dodger rooters. Of course, the man who did the shooting is in the penitentiary. But that doesn't help the man who thought the Dodgers were lousy. He is inconveniently dead, and never again can he cheer a Dodger defeat or stand in public places and make unwise observations.

As you may recall, one of the celebrated sports news pictures of last season showed a fist-fight between a National league umpire and a fan. That fan was a Dodger fan, a Brooklyn fan. He didn't like a decision the umpire had made on the field. So he patted out of the grandstand, or maybe it was the bleachers, and lit into the umpire with his fists. It made a good picture. It was in most of the newspapers everywhere. It was just another little link in the chain of evidence that when the good people of Brooklyn go in for a team, they go all out. Flatbush simply doesn't believe in half-measures, and never has.

'SPUD' EXPERT COMES TO N. C.

Dr. Nielson Comes To N.C. From Potato State

Raleigh, July 3.—Dr. L. W. Nielson, a native of Idaho where Irish potatoes hold the same rank as tobacco in North Carolina, has joined the staff of the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station and has begun a vigorous disease re-program with "spuds."

Roert M. Salter, director of the Experiment Station, said here today that Dr. Nielson has been engaged for the past six weeks in making a survey of the Irish potato disease situation in Eastern North Carolina. A research program looking toward the solution of major potato disease problems will be based on the results of his survey and on other information available at State College.

Dr. Nielson spent two weeks recently in the Beaufort County area and a week in the Elizabeth City section, studying pathological conditions in potato fields and shipping centers. He set up a temporary laboratory at Washington, N. C. to make quick tests of certain diseases he encountered.
The new research plant pathologist will devote his entire time to potato research. Director Salter said, and he will work closely with the State College Horticultural Department in the improvement of Irish potatoes through the breeding of disease-resistant varieties.
Dr. Nielson did undergraduate work at Utah State College, and received his B. S., M. S., and Ph. D. degrees in Plant Pathology at Cornell University. He is married and has two children.
"For the present," Salter said, "Dr. Nielson will make his headquarters at State College where laboratory facilities are available. The future course of the project will depend upon the results of this year's investigations."
