Planes By The Hundreds Shuttle Across Channel

RAIDS CONTINUE AFTER 24 HOURS

Sharp German Raids Against Southampton And Other Points Are Reported By Berlin Sources

London, July 8.—(AP)—British warplanes shuttled by the hundreds over the English channel today in an offensive against German objectives in northern France which has continued without let-up for the past 24 hours.

Heavy bombers, escorted by fighters, droned steadily to the attack. It was a powerful continuation of widespread thrusts overnight against targets in western Germany, Holland, Belgium and France.

Observers at a southeast coast town reported that the sound of the explosions in the operations against France, begun at the channel coast, were growing fainter and apparently the Royal Air Force bombers were moving farther inland to unload.

Germany made a sharp raid against Southampton during the night, causing some casualties and considerable damage to the business district. Other points in the south and southeast were bombed and the British said five raiders were destroyed.

Berlin sources said British bombers caused property damage and civilian casualties in raids in west and northwest Germany. Informed quarters said six bombers were shot down and four British fighters and one bomber were bagged outside Calais this morning.

A synthetic oil plant between Lens and Bethune in occupied France, was attacked today and seven German planes were shot down to six for the British, it was reported authoritatively.

ECTC To Be Scene Of PTA Meeting

A Parent-Teacher Institute for the eastern district of North Carolina, sponsored by the State Congress of Parents and Teachers and East Carolina Teachers College will be held at East Carolina Teachers College on Monday, July 14.

All officials and members of the Parent-Teacher Associations in the eastern district, are invited to attend as this is a general meeting.

Mrs. E. N. Howell, field representative of the State Congress of Parents and Teachers, will speak at the morning session on the aims and purposes of the Parent-Teacher work. This will be followed by group discussions. Mrs. Howell is scheduled for individual conferences from 11 to 12 o'clock.

The morning session will be held at 10 o'clock in room 300 of the Education building and Mrs. Howell's conferences will be held in room 100 of the same building.

The afternoon session will be held at 2 o'clock in the first floor auditorium of the Classroom building and will be devoted to a discussion of a general nature touching on various phases of Parent-Teacher problems.

Cut The Weeds

Chief of Police George Clark today called on the citizens to have the weeds on their lot, vacant lots and along the sidewalk cut at once.

He called attention to a city ordinance requiring citizens to cut the weeds and asked their cooperation so that officials will not have to resort to legal action.

He called attention to recent rains and said that cutting the weeds would help to prevent a sharp increase in the prevalence of the pest.

Britons Cheer Action; Axis Warns Of Danger

Up To President

In a radio broadcast from Washington, Bishop Joseph F. Hurley (above) of the Catholic Diocese of St. Augustine, Fla., said President Roosevelt, as commander-in-chief of the army, rather than Congress, should decide whether and when the United States should enter the war against Germany.

GOOD OUTLOOK FOR LEAF CROP

Some Growers Predict Their Best Crop In Years

Eastern Carolina tobacco farmers have experienced another two weeks of good seasonable weather, with some growers predicting their best crops in several years.

The rainfall has been sufficient in every section and so far no complaints of too much rain have been made, according to R. C. Rankin, sales supervisor of the Greenville tobacco market in his regular report on the outlook of the crop. Growers report their tobacco is maturing satisfactorily and are almost unanimous in predicting a crop of good quality, on the thin side, but the type of leaf preferred for cigarettes.

The Eastern belt has been fortunate so far in regard to windstorms, hail and worm damage, with complaints of trouble from these causes far below normal.

Curing started in a small way last week in Wayne, Greene, Pitt, Beaufort and all counties south and will become more general throughout the belt this week.

The report contained excerpts from the bulletin issued on the comparable date last year showing that in 1940 "generally speaking, Eastern Carolina is beginning to suffer because of insufficient rainfall." It added that the situation was not alarming, however.

The comparison indicates a 1941 crop more uniform in quality and better in general than the one grown in 1940, and at least a week earlier.

Notes Decreased Acres In Cotton

Washington, July 8.—(AP)—Cotton in cultivation in the United States on July 1 was estimated to be 23,519,000 acres. That is 5.4 per cent less than in cultivation a year ago and 38.6 per cent less than the 10-year 1930-39 average area in cultivation on July 1.

Should abandonment from natural causes this year equal the 10-year average abandonment, which was 1.9 per cent, an acreage of 23,102,000 would be indicated for harvest, the department said. Cotton in cultivation a year ago

Rome Circles Describe U. S. Occupation Of Iceland As Move Constituting Intervention In European Matters

(By The Associated Press) While Britons cheered the landing of United States naval forces in Iceland as making the Atlantic "an Anglo-American lake," Axis commentators warned today of danger ahead.

Rome political circles said the American move in Iceland "constitutes real and true intervention in European matters."

One highly placed Fascist commented that "doing this, President Roosevelt has assumed the grave responsibility of sending his ships into a blockade zone." He declared the action was a violation of the President's promises "not to send American forces or troops outside the continent."

German officialdom declined to comment on the arrival of American armed forces in Iceland, but said a statement might be issued within the next 24 hours.

In Tokyo, a Japanese newspaper said the move was "de facto participation in the war." Dornel, the authoritative Japanese news agency said it meant that the United States has now entered the zone of hostilities as defined by Germany and that it held "increased possibilities of further aggravation in relations between the United States and Germany."

U. S. Making Plans Send Soviets Aid

Washington, July 8.—(AP)—Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles said today that plans for American aid to Soviet Russia were proceeding rapidly and effectively.

Welles said that Constantine Oumansky, the Soviet ambassador, had conferred with him and with Assistant Secretary Dean Acheson on plans to place Soviet orders in this country and that they were now down to the point of discussing details.

In reply to reporters' questions Welles said the United States had received no official information substantiating reports that Japan might establish a "safety zone" around Japanese islands which would cut off Vladivostok, the only Far East port through which Russia could import American supplies.

Cathedral Quartette To Appear At ECTC

The Russian Cathedral Quartet will give a colorful program of Russian church and folk music at the college on next Monday evening, July 14.

This group has sung here before and was greatly enjoyed by both the college people and townspeople who heard them. The public is invited to hear them again this year.

The place and hour are Austin Auditorium at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Rose Is Defense Chairman

Raleigh, July 8.—(AP)—T. S. Johnson, director of Civilian Defense in North Carolina, announced today that 16 persons had accepted appointments as county civilian defense chairmen, including June Rose of Greenville, Pitt county.

was 24,871,000 acres, of which 23,861,000 acres were picked, yielding 232.5 pounds of cotton to the acre and a total production of 12,566,000 bales. A forecast by the Agriculture Department of cotton production for this year is prohibited by law until after the August canvass. The acreage in cultivation July 1, its percentage of the 1940 July 1 acreage and the 10-year 1931-40 average percentage of abandonment from natural causes by states included: North Carolina, 807,000; 96; and 0.9.

Administration Sources Describe Occupation As Attempt To Check Pincers Movement On Britain's Supply Line; Threat Also Seen To This Hemisphere If British Isles Are Invaded

Washington, July 8.—(AP)—The occupation of Iceland by United States armed forces was described in administration circles today as a step intended to thwart a vast German pincers movement on Great Britain's indispensable supply lines.

This pincers movement extending from the equator to the Arctic would have as its immediate objective the cutting off of Britain from all overseas supplies, including lease-lend shipments, but an informed military authority pointed out that an operation of such magnitude constituted a logical prelude to an attempt to invade England.

Should an invasion be successful he said, the Reich would be in position for a pincers campaign against the Western hemisphere—the threat President Roosevelt mentioned yesterday when he notified Congress that United States naval forces had landed in Iceland as the occupation vanguard.

Administration supporters generally seemed to take this long-range view for they spoke of the occupation as a defense precaution and endorsed it as such. Opposition legislators, however, were apprehensive and voiced fear that the action might lead to war. The move—and its full significance—was the big topic of discussion in Congress and promised to remain so for some time. Specifically much interest attached to President Roosevelt's order to the navy to keep the sea lanes between Iceland and the United States "free of all hostile activity or threat thereof."

In as much as part of this vast area has been a hunting ground for Nazi surface and subsurface raiders, the question arose whether the order meant "you may fire when ready, Gridley," where hostile sea action was encountered.

Concern Felt For Red Cross Nurses

London, July 8.—(AP)—A reliable source said today that United States representatives in London are anxious concerning a detachment of American Red Cross nurses which is overdue in Britain.

These nurses form part of an original group of 65 who sailed from the United States for the Red Cross Harward hospital in England. The source said that the nurses over whose fate anxiety was expressed were in addition to two nurses who were announced as "unaccounted for" after torpedoing of The Netherlands steamer Maasdam. Thirty-three of the 35 on the Maasdam either have landed in England or have otherwise been reported as safe.

It was stressed that American Red Cross representatives believe there is a good chance that all the missing nurses may turn up on other ships. He said, however, that their boat was overdue by "several days."

Those to be sent from Board No. Two are: Newton Harvey Deal, 504 East Eighth St., Greenville; John Rush Butler, Route 3, Greenville; Bernard Brooks Roper, Bath; Joseph Cleveland Williams, 608 Colaniche St., Greenville; Robert Bruce Worthington, Route 3, Ayden; Johnnie Elks, Route 2, Greenville; Bythal Hill Bostie, 114 W. 8th St., Greenville; Mark Phillips, Jr., Grifton; Jasper Roy Manning, Box 78, Greenville; Dixie Harris, Lee St., Ayden; Charles O'Bryant Williams, Route 1, Grimesland; Francis Wyat Moore, 623 Pitt St., Greenville; Heber Charles Cannon, Winterville.

United States Navy Forces Go To Iceland

This map shows the location of Iceland where a United States navy force arrived July 7 to supplement and eventually replace British forces which have been stationed there to prevent Germany from occupying the country. The United States force moved into Iceland in accordance with an understanding between President Roosevelt and Iceland's prime minister.

BYRNES TAKES SEAT ON BENCH

Sworn Into Office By Chief Justice Richard Whaley

Washington, July 8.—(AP)—James F. Byrnes was sworn in at the White House today as an associate justice of the Supreme court. Before an assembly of officials, friends and members of his family the former senator from South Carolina took the oath of office in President Roosevelt's office. The oath was administered by an old friend, Chief Justice Richard Whaley of the United States Court of Claims.

Byrnes rested his hand on a Bible opened to the 82nd Psalm, where it read: "Defend the poor and the fatherless, do justice to the afflicted and needy. Deliver the poor and needy, rid them out of the hand of the wicked." Among those watching was Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, whose appointment to the Supreme court was confirmed by the Senate yesterday. When Jackson is sworn in the court will be up to its full membership of nine.

President Ormond Conducts Program

Lyman Ormond, newly elected president of the Greenville Rotary Club, presided over last night's meeting, which was well attended. John C. Proctor, secretary-treasurer of the club, presented a report giving income and expenses for the past year for the information of the members. His report revealed that the club is in good financial condition.

President Ormond, who had charge of the program at the meeting, appointed various committees to serve for the new Rotary year. The chairman of the several committees made short talks on the aims, objectives and activities of the Rotary year for the information of the new committees.

Visiting Rotarians at the meeting were Ted Haigler, Sanford, M. M. Johnson, Bethel, George Davis and J. H. Moore, Farmville; Bruce Brown and Louis ReBarker also were guests at last night's meeting.

Aluminum Matinee Declared Success

The "Aluminum Matinee" at the Pitt Theatre here this morning was declared a "huge success" by the management of the Pitt theatre, sponsors of the movement.

Between 275 and 300 youngsters who attended saw a good picture and at the same time made a substantial contribution to the government.

Children were admitted upon presenting a piece of aluminumware, a product vital to the manufacture of airplanes and one in which a serious shortage is threatened. The aluminumware was turned over to the local branch of the Bundles for Britain, which in turn will turn it over to the government.

Forty and Eight Meet. The local volutee of the Forty and Eight will meet at Respass place tomorrow night at 8 o'clock and all members are urged to be present.

All Quiet Reported On Ecuador-Peru Frontier

Peru, However, Declared To Be Moving Up Troops

Quito, Ecuador, July 8.—(AP)—Ecuador's disputed southern frontier with Peru, scene of three days of sporadic patrol fighting, was reported quiet early today, but Ecuador's Ministry of Defense declared the Peruvians were digging trenches and moving up troops. Ecuador was reported officially last night to have sent Peru a protest charging "unjustified and prepared aggression" along the upper Amazon jungleland which both nations claim.

(Peru also was said to have drawn up a protest placing the blame on Ecuador for the outbreaks. Peruvian sources said Ecuador was attempting to make Peru seem "an anti-democratic trouble-maker" and was circulating false stories that Peru was preparing to attack Ecuador with Axis help. (Other South American nations—apparently were ready to step in in a new attempt to mediate the frontier dispute.)

Whitney Receives Parole August 11

Ossining, N. Y., July 8.—(AP)—Richard Whitney, one-time head of the New York Stock Exchange, today was paroled effective August 11, from Sing Sing prison, where he had been serving a five to 10-year sentence for larceny.

On August 11 he will have served three years and four months, the legal minimum, less time off for good behavior. The New York State Division of Parole announced that Whitney, his wife and an unmarried daughter would go to Massachusetts—the exact location was not disclosed—where he will manage an estate from which milk is the chief revenue.

Young Negro Drowns When Boat Capsizes

A drowning was included in the July Fourth week-end fatalities when Leonard Latham, 17-year-old Greenville Negro, lost his life in Hardee's creek at the port terminal.

Latham was rowing with two other Negroes when the boat capsized. The young colored man was declared to have been a poor swimmer and his companions were unable to save him. The body was later recovered with the use of grappling hooks.

Powder Workers Agree Negotiate

By The Associated Press Dissatisfied smokeless powder workers and their employers agreed to resume contract negotiations today at the Alton, Ill. plant of the Western Cartridge Company, which holds $8,468,000 in government munitions orders.

While the National Defense Mediation Board won the approval of company and union officials for resumption of the bargaining at the strike-threatened factory, there were other important developments in the field of defense labor: 1. The War Department estimated

Report Foe Checked On River Front

Moscow Says Invaders Are Being Engaged In Heavy Fighting In Front Of Stalin Line; Only Terse Comment From Nazi Quarters; Each Side Claims Foe Suffering Heavy Casualties

By The Associated Press Soviet Red armies were reported holding the Germans at bay along a 600-mile front of river defenses today out in front of the main Stalin line and crushing repeated Nazi attempts to break through en route to Moscow.

A Russian war bulletin placed the scene of the heaviest fighting on a line running almost due north and south between the Latvian frontier and the Bessarabian border.

The communique said Soviet troops clashed with German tanks, and motorized forces in the Ukraine sector of Novograd Volynski and further south struck in a decisive counter attack on the flank and rear of the enemy, annihilating two Nazi infantry regiments.

The Soviet high command said the Germans had been routed in a series of attempts to storm the Dnieper river in a drive toward Moscow, but conceded that on the northern front the Nazis had approached within 75 miles of Leningrad.

Tersely Adolf Hitler's field headquarters made this lone comment on the 17-day-old invasion: "Operations on the eastern front are proceeding on schedule." In past campaigns German communique have been similarly brief when huge-scale operations were in a developing state.

The Russians declared the Germans were suffering enormous casualties and that gains along the 2,000-mile front were slight. By contrast, the Berlin radio reported the capture of an additional 142,216 Russian prisoners between July 2 and July 5 along with 694 Soviet tanks and armored cars.

Chancellor Hitler's field headquarters still made no claim to a break into the Stalin line, but DINE, German news agency, said Nazi troops stormed and captured a series of strongly fortified bunkers at an undesignated point on the main Soviet defense system.

Berlin, July 8.—(AP)—German infantry was believed in Berlin tonight to be engaged in the bitterest fighting yet encountered in the assault upon Russia's Stalin line defenses and there were reported that fresh troops were preparing a new surprise for the Soviet defenders.

Vichy, Unoccupied France, July 8. (AP)—Military circles in Vichy reported today that the German drive against the Stalin line had been virtually stopped for four full days. These circles indicated that German losses were enormous.

They listed as one of the reasons for stopping the offensive was necessity for re-grouping of German units. Other reasons for the halt, they said, was the need to reorganize supply lines and the guerrilla resistance in the rear of German columns.

Even women and children were joining in these guerrilla attacks, they said. It was reported in Vichy that the Germans were considerably behind schedule in their operations against Russia, which, the military sources said, were supposed to last 50 days, ending August 18.

Holbrook-Jones. Miss Jeanne Poet Jones and Mr. John Francis Holbrook of Chicago, Illinois, were married this afternoon at four o'clock in a beautiful outdoor ceremony on the lawn of the bride's parents on West Third street.

The marriage vows were spoken before a background of pine and tall baskets of white gladioli. The Reverend John Armfield, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a navy tucked chiffon dress, with a white picture hat with navy ribbons, and carried white orchids. She was given in marriage by her brother, Keene Jones, of Raleigh, N. C.

Immediately following the ceremony, punch and cookies were served to a few close friends and the family.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones of this city. She was graduated from the Greenville high school and attended the Hardberger Secretarial School in Raleigh. For the past three seasons she has been employed by the Export Leaf Tobacco Company. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Holbrook was employed in the office of the Secretary of State, Thad Eure, in Raleigh.

Mr. Holbrook is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Holbrook of Minneapolis, Minnesota. He graduated from the Minneapolis high school and attended the University of Minnesota. After attending radio school in Chicago, he was connected with several radio stations in the Middle West, and with W. G. T. C. in Greenville. He is now employed at W. G. N. in Chicago.

The couple left later in the afternoon for Chicago. They will be at home, 347 Oak Circle, Wilmette, Illinois.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were Misses Christine Robinson and Marie Brown of Raleigh.

Hollywood

Sights and Sounds

By Robb Coates

Hollywood—Writers who sat up all night after the Rudolph Hess story broke had scenarios on studio desks the next morning, but no Hess movie is on tap yet.

The incident is being incorporated in new sequences of "Underground," story of anti-Nazi plotting inside Germany, which offered a logical opening. "Man Hunt," also with a Nazi theme, will include Hess in a montage of news events covering a time lapse in the story, which is set mainly in the post-Munich, pre-war period. This montage, bringing the story up to date before "Man Hunt" is released—so that not only Hess but subsequent events can be included.

One possible result of the Hess explosion on the front pages may be new flights of imagination on the part of writers. Producers who keep telling them their plots aren't logical and couldn't happen are setting a stock: "The Hess thing couldn't happen either." Truth has been established once more as stranger than fiction.

Proposed New Auto Levy Would Cost Pretty Penny

Raleigh, July 8.—Should the Congress go through with the proposal to place a $5 sticker tax on every privately owned automobile it would cost the already much-taxed motorists of North Carolina a minimum of $3,500,000 annually.

This figure represents returns on a registration of 700,000 private autos for the year, although there is considerable evidence that the actual figures will go even higher than that.

Such an increase would mean an increase of something under eight per cent of the taxes these motorists are now paying to the state of North Carolina, disregarding the ad valorem taxes paid to counties and cities and the federal tax on gasoline, new cars and accessories.

Tar Heel motorists, however, are—or at least ought to be—accustomed to paying more each year, as their contributions to the state's tax receipts have increased approximately 30 per cent in the last three fiscal years. The state's levies consist of license tax, title fees, bus and franchise levies, gasoline tax and inspection fees. The grand total taxes from these categories (collectively known as the "Motor Vehicle Division") for the last four fiscal years were: 1937-38—$31,948,299.04; 1938-39 — $33,610,698.10; 1939-40 — $35,837,790.67; and 1940-41—$40,778,604.09.

The six cents a gallon gasoline tax has comprised the major part of this yield each year, being in round figures, $23,300,000; $24,400,000; $25,900,000; and $29,400,000 for the four years in chronological order.

HEARTBREAK HONEYMOON

By WAKING T. WRIGHT

YESTERDAY: Henry Pell is going places in two directions. He has a big job in real estate, and he is hoping to crash radio with some songs he is writing. The difficulty, to his young wife, is that Henry has no time for her, and besides, he has to spend a lot of his time with Marie Mason, who is glamor personified in radio. Now Luella is having dinner with Tommy McIntyre, who is in love with Marie, and getting along rather badly with it.

Chapter Ten

Facts About Marie
"Cocktail?" Tommy said, offering her a glass.
"Thanks." Luella turned and smiled at Tommy. She tasted the drink. "I like it. What is it called?"
"A sidecar," Tommy replied.
Luella laughed. "Sounds like a motorcycle, or something," she said.
"But not possessed of quite as much of a kick," said Tommy. And then: "How're things with that husband of yours?" he asked. "Going places rapidly, I suppose."
"Yes," said Luella, "going places. That is if working at it means anything."
"Well, it usually does, so they say."

"Between working at the office and working on those negro verses," said Luella. "I get very little of Henry's time." She laughed. "Not that I'm complaining. I took the bitter with the better!"
Tommy chuckled. "Another office widow, I take it," he said.
"Probably, or just what is an office widow, Tommy?"

"There are lots of them—women whose husbands are more married to work than to things. There are office widows—golf widows—poker widows."
"I see," said Luella thoughtfully. "But how are things going with you, Tommy?"
"Moving."

"I'll bet you're going places all over!"
"I think I am, Luella," said Tommy. "Anyway, I'm booked for a promotion shortly. If it goes through I may go down to Florida for a while. I've got a small cottage down there—one an uncle left me. I've been hoping to make some use of it." He drained his glass, and a serious expression came into his eyes. "I'd hoped to take Marie along with me you know, honeymooning along the Florida coast."
"That would be lovely!" said Luella. "Can Marie get away?"
"Evidently not."
"Oh, I'm sorry."

"My trouble," said Tommy, "seems to be chiefly with my personal life. In a business way, I move—in a sentimental way I stand still."
"You mean—with Marie?"
"Exactly."
"I think it's a darn shame!" Luella said with feeling. "Marie ought to love marrying you, and having a honeymoon down in your little cottage."
"Marie, alas, feels otherwise," said Tommy. "Being in love with a career woman isn't easy, Luella."
Luella was silent for a moment. "Do you know what I think?" she asked suddenly.

Tommy shook his head. "I've long since given up trying to read folks' minds," he said.
"Well, what I think is this," Luella explained. "I think that all women have a streak of romance and sentiment in them, and that under certain circumstances that streak will predominate."
"I hope you're right," said Tommy. "But, go on—tell me more."
"And I also think that Marie's no exception," said Luella. "She's a small-town girl, just as I am, and most small-town girls always carry with them a lot of sentimental and romantic leanings. Don't think I'm trying to be a Lucy Lonely-hearts or a Beatrice Fairfax, but I am going to give you some advice, Tommy."

"That's darned swell of you, Luella," said Tommy. "Go on from there. I'm all ears."
"It's about Marie."
"Yes? So I gathered."
"Advice To Tommy"
"When we are taking that cruise with Mr. Rector," said Luella, "you must manage to get Marie alone on the moonlight deck. Find the most romantic spot possible, and propose to her in the good old-fashioned way."
"You mean down on my knees—impromptu?"
"That's it, Tommy."
"But suppose there's no moon?"
"We'll not go on the cruise unless there is one."
Tommy laughed. "Maybe it'll work at that!" he said. "Who knows?"
"It's worth trying, isn't it?"
"You bet it is. After I get down on my knees and propose, Luella—what next?"
"Good heavens, Tommy, use your imagination!"
Tommy did not argue the point. And at a little before eleven o'clock he was bringing his roadster to a standstill in front of the house in which the Pells lived.

"It's been a marvelous afternoon and evening," Tommy, Luella said, holding out her hand. "I'm ever so grateful to you."
"I'm the one to be grateful," said Tommy. "Not going to let me come in?"
"No, Tommy," Luella replied. "It's late, and Henry's probably working his head off. I'll have to shake him, and get him to bed."
"Lucky devil. Having a girl like you to look after him."
"Good night, Tommy, and thanks a lot."
Tommy looked at Luella somewhat searchingly.

"Maybe it's just as well for you not to turn modern and let them come up at all hours," he said.
"I should never turn that modern," Luella said quietly.
"Whether you realize it or not, Luella," Tommy went on, "you're a damned pretty and appealing woman. Some men are apt to lose their heads, and go—well—romantic."
"The ideal!" Luella laughed. "Go on home, Tommy, and get some sleep."
"I'm going home, but I'm not sure about the sleep," said Tommy.

He hesitated a second. "Goodnight, Luella. You're a swell person."
"Goodnight, Tommy. So are you." Luella let herself into the apartment very quietly. Maybe Henry had already retired. If so, she didn't want to awaken him. He did work hard, poor boy. She tip-toed across the living-room, and switched on a light. One thing was certain, she discovered with relief, Henry hadn't been sitting up working on the verses. His desk was just as she had left it that morning after dusting and cleaning. She moved to the bedroom door, opened it softly, and peered in.

The bedroom was also empty. Puzzled, Luella crossed the threshold, and switched on another light. The bed was also just as she had left it that morning after dusting and cleaning. And then she saw the piece of paper. It was spread out upon her pillow—and upon it were some hurriedly-written words in Henry's unforgettable handwriting.

Luella caught up the paper, and moved closer to the light.
"In case you get home before I do, honey, this is to say that I'm working over at Marie's place. She wanted me to try over some of the musical settings her composer friend has completed. We'll probably work together for an hour or so. Hope you had a swell time with Tommy."
So that was it, Luella thought angrily. So that was why Henry had been so willing for her to go out with Tommy McIntyre. It gave him an opportunity to spend the evening with Marie Mason.

She crumpled the piece of paper in her fist, and dropped down upon the side of the bed. She was sitting there when she heard Henry's key in the lock. She leaped up, threw off her hat and coat, and was unzipping her sport frock when Henry came in.

"Hello," she said brightly.
"Hello, darling!" said Henry. He came over, leaned down and kissed her cheek. "I thought you'd be asleep."
"Asleep, and my husband out with a glamour girl!" said Luella, trying to sound very modern and gay and hipant. "Goodness, man, could I sleep under such circumstances?"

Henry looked at her. He wondered if he would ever get to understand women in the least. He couldn't tell to save him whether Luella was serious or kidding.
"I had to go some place," he said, "or go crazy sitting here waiting for you to come home."
"Really?" said Luella, widening her eyes. "You mean you didn't plan to go over—all alone?"
"Gosh, no, honey! Such a thought never occurred to me. I was sitting here working my head off—that is, thinking my head off, since I hadn't so much as put a pen to paper—and hoping that you and Tommy were having a good time, when Marie telephoned and said—"

"Henry Pell, said Luella, tremendously relieved, "come here this minute and kiss your wife—properly."
Henry Pell, a little puzzled, did so.

Salt Water
Several weeks of unsettled weather, and a slight fire on board Malcolm Rector's yacht made it necessary for him to delay the cruise he had planned. It was well into June before the weather cleared and the boat was finally docked at the foot of Seventy-ninth Street. Then as soon as he was certain everything was ship-shape, Mr. Rector telephoned the Pells, Marie, and Tommy McIntyre.

"At last we can have that week-end trip," he told them. "Next Saturday, I'll be looking for you at the yacht basin."
And now Henry and Luella Pell were making their preparations. No one was more delighted over the coming cruise than was Henry. He was rather like a boy scout about to start forth on a trek, Luella thought. And she wished with all her heart that she could feel as excited as her husband. But she couldn't.

"What bothers me," she said, "is what to take for such a trip. You know it is my first yachting experience, and I never felt so ignorant about anything before."
"Take along what I'm taking," said Henry. "Sport things."
"I'll take along that linen dress you always liked so much," she said.
"Ye gods, Luella, that's over a year old!" Henry exclaimed.

"That doesn't make any difference," said Luella. "Linen wears like iron. Besides, I shortened the skirt a little, and cut off the long sleeves. I look nice in it, even if I do say so as shouldn't."
He grinned. "You can keep your eyes open and see what folks who know are wearing. Now summer's here, we'll probably be asked to a number of places for week-ends. Several men at the office have mentioned having us out to their places later."

"You mean the husbands of those wives who were going to welcome me into their midst?" said Luella with a touch of sarcasm.

FOUR YEARS OF WAR IN CHINA

This map is a year-by-year record of the Sino-Japanese war that started four years ago July 7 when Japanese and Chinese troops clashed at the Marco Polo bridge near Peking. Japanese penetration has been largely along railroads and rivers, thus the narrow strips denoting Japanese-held territory. Between the strips are areas where Chinese guerrillas, and sometimes regular army units, are able to penetrate.

Nazis Say These Are Red Victims

GETTING ABOVE MORAL PRINCIPLES

More failures in character take place after forty than before. There are more divorces among middle-aged people than among young people.

The reason for this seems to be twofold. First, people generally make great moral mistakes when they find themselves called upon to bear what seem to them intolerable burdens.

(All Rights Reserved—Babson Newspaper Syndicate) THE RIGHT TO WORK

(Industrial News Review)

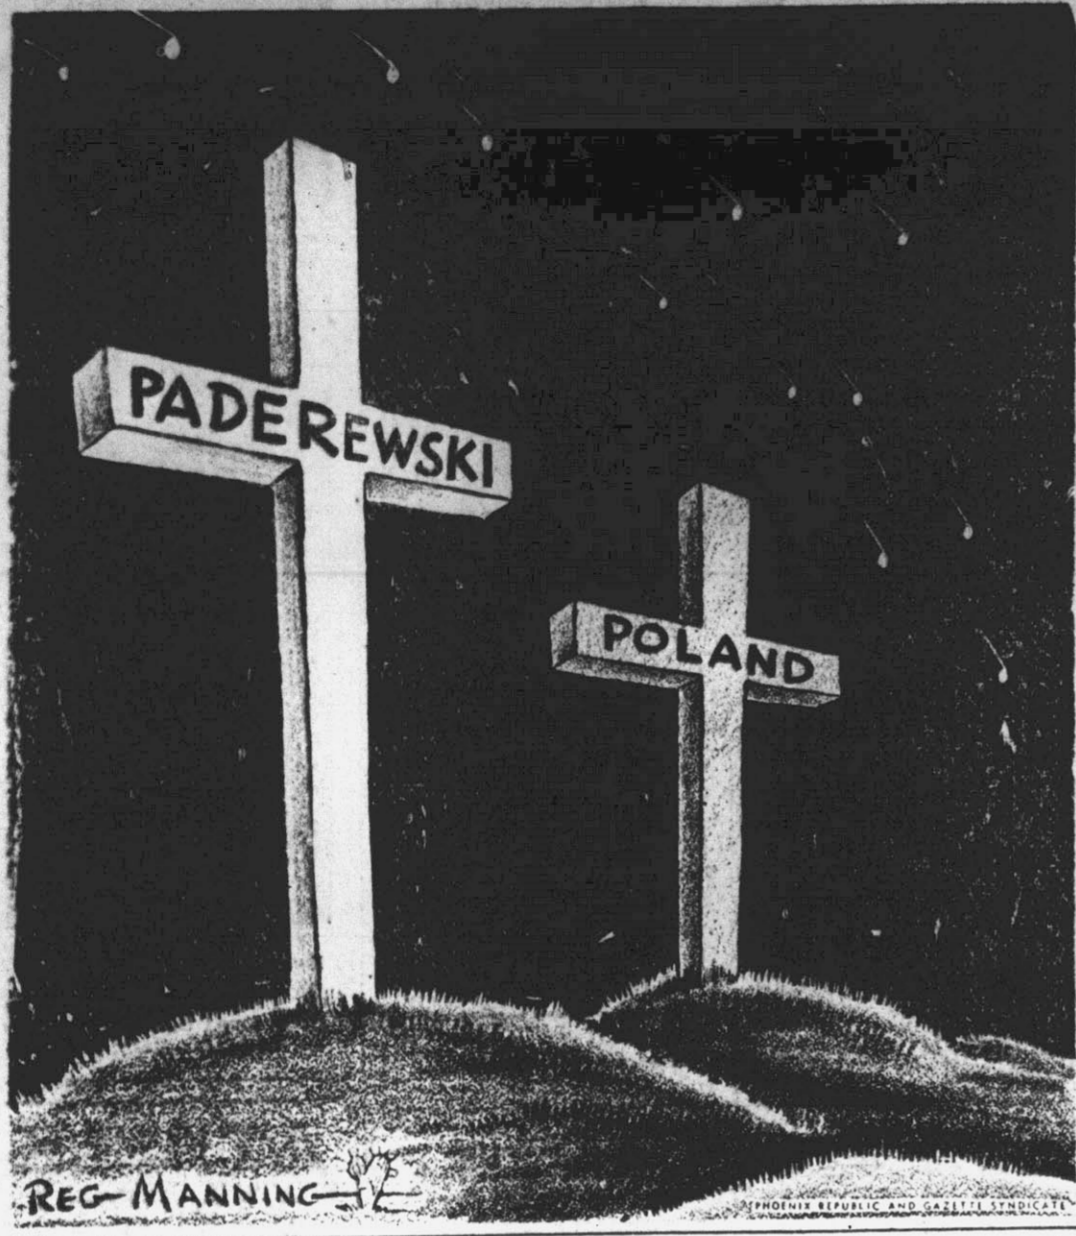

A correspondent recently wrote the Portland Oregonian a letter in which he said, "Would you please give us a scorching editorial on what you would think or say about Hitler if you received word that he had commanded the German army to go out with bayonets and guns and force working men, against their legal organized superiors, to make airplanes and guns for a foreign nation?"

Here is what the Oregonian said in reply: "Comment of that nature would be very belated. On May 2, 1933, all offices of all unions in Germany were seized by storm troopers, their leaders and officers were arrested, maltreated or sent to concentration camps; their property was confiscated. The autonomous organizations of German labor were destroyed in one day.

"In 1935 a German act established a work card system which requires every German laborer to carry with him a complete record of his previous employment, enables the government to shift workers in accordance with government plans. A black mark in the work book amounts to a death sentence."

No man was "forced" to work when the government used troops to open the airplane factory in California. What the troops did do was to protect American citizens (union or non-union) in their right to work if they wished. An overwhelming majority of the workers voluntarily returned to their jobs at once.

No thinking American likes to see troops used in labor disputes. But there is no alternative so long as a handful of left-wing labor leaders succeed in tying up factories which are vital to American defense and security, and in intimidating men who want to work. It is up to the rank and file of labor now. It can keep on working, and accept arbitration of its grievances by a government mediation board—or it can follow the radicals within its ranks to certain ruin.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinson

Washington—The biggest ballyhoo campaign the government has conducted in at least 20 years, perhaps ever, is under way.

It's the campaign to peddle to the public billions of dollars of defense savings bonds and stamps.

From kindergartens in the little red school houses to the marble halls of high finance on Wall Street, from the cash-and-carry counters of the chain groceries to the old gray United States treasury building, the bonds and stamps either now are on sale or soon will be.

It is estimated that more than $10,000,000 of free radio advertising already has been contributed. This ranges from the 10-second announcements that intersperse the soap operas to a full one-hour show which will run into September that contains more dollars-and-cents talent than the richest commercial sponsor in the country would be likely to buy.

The amount of newspaper advertising, from one-line slogans ad full pages, could not even be roughly estimated.

A direct mail advertising campaign, now in the experimental stage, to determine, by sampling groups of 100,000 or so prospective buyers, what letters and pamphlets get best results, will be launched before the year is out.

Thousands Of Sales Talks

A speaking program that will take the sales talk into every civic, patriotic and fraternal club from New York city to the hamlets is already steaming. The movies are grinding out shorts. Posters spatter the scene wherever you look and pamphlets and booklets now or soon may be had for the taking from hundreds of counters in every community.

Behind this great sales spurge is Eugene W. Sloan, a two-fisted World War field artillery captain, who started his career as a shoe salesman in St. Louis and rose to a vice-presidency, an investment expert, in one of the big New York banks. For five years, he has been the treasury's chief of the division of savings bonds and in that time he drummed up 2,500,000 customers for Uncle Sam's baby bonds.

Sloan is frankly pleased with the campaign so far and not at all displeased with the approximately $700,000,000 in bonds and stamps more than two months.

"This isn't," he says, "the kind of high pressure salesmanship that was resorted to in the days of the Liberty Loans. Each of the Liberty Loan drives had a goal that had to be subscribed quickly. Some pretty heavy bludgeoning was required.

Pay Deductions Studied

Sloan's experts are working on one method of sales now that I have not mentioned. It is the voluntary payroll deduction. It has complications, especially in smaller firms where it would be necessary to add to bookkeeping staffs to take care of it. The Treasury is not yet ready to make any announcement on that.

Nor will treasury men comment yet on the "forced savings" system now being tried out in England, where salaried workers have to accept as part of their pay a treasury receipt to be redeemed in cash sometime after the emergency is over.

Short Shots

Raleigh, July 8.—The consensus of North Carolina editors on placing responsibility for the tremendous increase in fatalities on North Carolina roads to agree pretty well with the majority opinion entertained among state officials not directly concerned—which is that no one agency is altogether to blame, but at the same time a bit better enforcement on the part of the highway patrol would improve the situation.

Granting that the patrol is inadequate in numbers, there are still too many unattended instances in which law violations have occurred in plain sight of patrolmen with no resulting arrest or even no warning of the erring motorist.

Not only that, but it is undeniably true that too many patrolmen are still to be found with feet propped on sheriff's office desks instead of out patrolling the roads.

Then, too, it is a very noticeable fact that highway patrolmen spend too much of their time and energy on duties not strictly in line of their primary duty. There have been repeated instances in which the patrol has been used for raiding liquor joints. Each month there are more arrests made by the patrolmen for public drunkenness than for any other offense, and while it probably is quite all right for them to pick up those drunks found in or on the highways, it is safe to say that a large percentage of the drunkenness arrests were made inside incorporated towns where the local police ought to be functioning.

All of which is just more of the trouble that Boddie Ward, new commissioner of motor vehicles, is going to have.

This and That

Orchids to the Goldsboro News-Argus headline writer who collected the conflicting lies from Moscow and Berlin and tagged them thus in a two column front page head: "Write Your Own Head Over This War Stuff." Reminds your reporter of the old favorite about the chap who got stuck and wound up with this one: "If you're interested in the Woman's Club, read this...." Speaking of heads, here's one that gave this column a brief shock: "Broughton Freed of Murder Charge"—until it dawned that it wasn't the governor, but a British nobleman in Nairobi, Africa.... And another which seems completely to catalogue Herb Hoover as the world champion stand pat: "Herbert Hoover Opposes Movement...." State Senator Wade Batheny of Forest City is the proud papa of a lusty daughter. Herford county boy was convicted of riding a bicycle whole drunk.... In the 1939 legislature crippled Dallas Mallison manipulated the omnibus board of education bill until he got a Pamlico county board which would elect him superintendent, but a brief iteming that he has been succeeded by one Hood indicates he couldn't repeat.... Your reporter asked a minor state official what he thought of W. H. Rogers, the new deputy commissioner of motor vehicles. The official who worked under Bill some years ago, but who has not been in the same department for a long time, replied without hesitation: "A square shooter who hits hard, does no phengaling and will call a spade a spade...." Imagination, the old saying goes that is the truest flattery, and so your reporter is rather proud to note that a North Carolina state extension expert re-wrote this bureau's recent story on the farm census, and sent it out to the papers all over.... Both rain and traffic were the heaviest of any recent Fourth of July.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York.—I may go out to Deep Hollow ranch over the week-end. It's out on Long Island, about 125 miles from here. It's close to Montauk Point.

Not many have given any thought to the matter, but Long Island was the first real cattle country America ever had. There were ranches there, or what passed for ranches, three hundred years ago. Today Deep Hollow is in the nature of a spa. You can call it a dude ranch, if you like, though "dude" is a word I dislike.

You won't find any sharp-nosed coyotes baying at the moon, or stumble upon any white, bleached bones by dried-up streams.... But you can see Brahma steers and Mexican cattle grazing the range. You can take pack trails, you can ride or fiddle away your time swimming or on the shooting ranges. It's all there, the chuckwagons and corrals. These corrals might be interesting, if you stay on the safe side of the fence. Deep Hollow is a good idea in weather such as this. From where I'm sitting, it seems better than ever.

I'm sitting by a window that looks out over pale and shimmering Broadway. It's the heat that makes the lights shimmer, even from this height. The thermometer says 91. What people you see are walking leisurely. They're taking their time. The only indications of men are in the animated signs that frisk and jump through the Times Square night. Walt Disney translates the title of "J. E. Worthington and Brother," has this day been dissolved by mutual consent, and the business heretofore conducted by said partnership and known as "J. E. You open "Alaska" and you come upon old Russian stockades and totem poles and prospectors panning gold. You see astonishing spring flowers and agricultural magnificence and thriving cities. Then you reach for "Puerto Rico" and you see breadfruit trees, mangoes, sugar cane and rum. You see ancient crumbling walls where Columbus stood, black robed priests strolling through alcoves, and giant towers of Mona Island. It's the Arctic and the tropics—and it's all American every acre of it, every igloo and trade wind, every ice capped peak and swaying palm tree.

Distance, they say, lends enchantment. From here, high above Broadway on a night when the thermometer says 91, it seems wonderful.

Eastern War Front Spreads

The war in the east has spread to Finland (1) where the Russians claimed to have repulsed attacks. The Soviets conceded the Germans have driven through Lithuania (2) a third of the way toward Leningrad. Germans claim their forces have captured Minsk (3) and Lwow (4) and were half way to Moscow. The Nazi drive also appeared to be aimed at Kiev. Russians said they were still holding along the Prut river (5). The black arrows indicate the German drives; the broken arrows denote Nazi objectives, and the white arrows indicate Russian resistance.

Smoke and flames burst from a burning Russian oil depot after a German bomber attack somewhere on the Russo-German war front. In the foreground is a German army motor column moving along the road. This picture was radiocast from Berlin.

Kee Hurls Four-Hit Ball As Greenies Take New Bern

PIERCE LEADS AT THE PLATE

Local Boy Gets Three Hits In 2-0 Victory

Kelly Kee was right last night and held New Bern to four scattered hits while Carl Pierce paced the Greenies at bat with three for four and the locals turned in a 2-0 victory over the Bears.

Clover, New Bern pitcher, also was effective and despite the fact he yielded 10 hits the Greenies were able to score only two runs as 10 men were left on base.

Greenville made one in the first inning when Caraway singled, went to second on an infield out and came home on Crowe's single. The only other run of the game was made in the fourth on singles by Pierce and Overton and an infield out.

With the exception of one bobble by Finrock, both teams played errorless ball in a fast, interesting game.

Caraway was the only Greenville player besides Pierce to hit safely more than one time. He got two for four.

Only one New Bern player reached third and only two got as far as second as the Greenville players were rallying behind the stellar hurling of Kee.

MAY & MASSEY ENTER FINALS

Lanier Reaches Finals In President's Cup Play

Bob Bailey, pro at the Greenville Country Club, vouches for the fact that no finer brand of golf can be seen at Pinehurst or any other place than that being played at the local club these days of championship and President's Cup play.

In the men's semi-finals of the championship tournament, Reynolds May defeated W. L. "Little Poison" Allen in a hard-fought battle in which every one of the 18 holes was played in a deluge of rain. Allen, three down at the turn, fought back to a three-up lead to square the match on the 17th. May won the 18th to prove his right, as the defending champion, to gain the finals. He will engage Dr. M. B. Massey, past champion, who eked out a close decision over Simon Moye, Jr. in one of the most interesting matches of the tournament.

May and Massey will play the 36-hole finals match for the club championship during the next two days.

In the President's Cup semi-finals Golfing Senator J. Con Lanier staged a blitzkrieg. Playing superb golf, the Senator defeated Louis Ficklen, Cosby, Bill Taft and Conley to gain the finals and a chance to meet either I. J. Edwards or Reynolds May, who have yet to play off their semi-finals match.

In the finals in the ladies' championship tourney, Mrs. J. Knott Proctor defeated Miss Anna Belle Boyd to become the 1941 champion of the Greenville club.

In the finals of the ladies' President's Cup tournament, Miss Anna Belle Boyd defeated Miss Bessie Brown to gain and retain the ownership of the beautiful cup presented by the club each year.

Interesting matches will be played every day during this week.

Dean Bids Goodbye To Baseball

Dizzy Dean (right) bid goodbye to Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs in the dressing room at Pittsburgh after a doubleheader with the Pirates and took his leave of baseball to become a radio broadcaster in St. Louis. Diz, who rocketed to fame while pitching for the St. Louis Cardinals, recently was removed from the Cubs' player list and became a coach.

BOYS' LEAGUE REAL HITTERS

Snag Clark Still Leads In "A" Division

No one can say that the boys summer leagues are not hitters' leagues after looking over the averages.

Snag Clark still leads in the "A" league with .641. The Training School has seven players hitting above the 300 mark.

K. Stocks leads all hitters in the "B" league with .643, but has not been at bat enough to be really classed as the leader. S. White, of Third Street, must be considered first with .487.

PLANS FOR BIG 1941 YD MEET

Young Democratic Convention To Open September 16

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, July 8.—The Young Democratic convention at Winston-Salem, starting September 16, is going to be, in Hollywood language, colossal, stupendous and terrific—in fact it's going to be good.

Your reporter has it on the authority of W. S. (Bill) Davis, from the Twin City, that this is so. He predicts a gathering of between 1,200 and 1,500 folks who can qualify under the "Democrat" if not under the "Young" portion of the club's title. If this prediction is realized, the convention will, indeed, be the biggest on record.

Young Mr. Davis elucidates his thesis with a number of items of considerable probatory value. For an item, he points out that the convention will get national recognition through the influence of Mayor R. J. Reynolds, Jr., who doubles in brass by being treasurer of the Democratic National Committee. Dick will, it is expected, see to it that speakers of national reputation accept invitations to address the convention.

For another item it is called to mind that the convention will be well financed. Nothing direct was mentioned about Mr. Reynolds in this regard, but it seems a likely conclusion that Dick is looked on to come through with the necessary cash.

Iteming for the third time, Mr. Davis remarked that there will be more than one candidate for president of the Y.D.S. Though this is somewhat contrary to the previous outlook, there is no reason to doubt that the Winston-Salem man (who is general chairman of the convention) is better informed than your reporter. Hence, it looks like Ralph Menger, Jr. (only undeclared candidate caught wagging an active campaign) will be opposed by one or more from among Hoover Taft, Clarence Hood and others.

LIES IN HER GREAT CITIES MUCH OF RUSSIA'S WEALTH

LENINGRAD formerly was Petrograd and before that St. Petersburg, capital of the Russian Empire. One-third its former size, it still is the country's second city and an important trade center.

KIEV, size of Buffalo, N. Y., is Russia's third city, once ranked with London and Paris commercially. Its location on the Dnepr river, together with rail connections, makes it a great industrial center.

VILNA, its great cathedral shown in foregrounds, was acquired by Russia in the 1939 partition of Poland. Situated on the Lithuanian border, it is a rail center, conducts a wide timber and grain trade.

BAKU, in the Caucasus, is smack at the hub of one of Russia's greatest industries—oil. Centuries old, the city has been modernized with the money drawn by petroleum and a rich Caspian trade.

ODESSA is a Black Sea port situated 20 miles east of the border of Bessarabia, former Romanian province. Seventh largest city in Russia, it has shipbuilding yards and airplane and munitions factories.

Mrs. Caroline Payne (left), 43, business manager of an Indiana newspaper, the Bloomington Daily Telephone, was taken into custody and held for grand jury action after Charles F. Mattingly (right), 41, attorney-examiner for the Indiana Public Service Commission, was shot to death while he and his wife were visiting in the home of a friend at Bloomington. Prosecutor Floyd E. Cook of Monroe county advanced the theory the slaying was motivated by jealousy of Mrs. Payne whom he described as once a "very good friend" of Mattingly.

Silver Badge of Courage

Shown above is the official insignia recently authorized by the War Department for wear by the adventurous young paratroopers of the U. S. Army. It will be worn by qualified paratroopers on the left breast—just as Air Corps pilots wear their "wings." The "Silver Badge of Courage" was designed by one of the Army's pioneer paratroopers, Captain William P. Yarborough, of the 501st Parachute Battalion. Paratroopers are carefully selected for this service and receive extra pay for their daring skill. (RPH MA-22)

A silver emblem depicting a winged parachute, opened for descent, which will be worn over the left breast just as Air Corps pilots wear their "Wings," has been approved by the War Department for wear by qualified members of the U. S. Parachute Troops, Sergeant C. C. Floyd, Post Office building, Wilson, said today.

German and Russian forces remain engaged in terrific fighting all along the long war front extending from the Baltic to the Black Sea. Berlin claimed the Nazis have broken the Stalin line (dotted line) but did not specify where. Moscow declared the Russians have seized the offensive with fierce counter fighting and a Soviet government spokesman asserted Germany lost nearly a million men in dead and wounded in 16 days. The principal battles between Germans (black arrows) and Russians (white arrows) were in the Ostrov-Pskov area, the Polotsk-Lepel district, the area around Borruisk, in the vicinity of Novograd-Volynski. Berlin claimed the capture of Cernauti in Bessarabia and said Axis columns have pushed deeper into that former Rumanian province.

BAIN TACKLES ANOTHER TASK

Successful in Halting Profiteering On Beer

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, July 8.—Colonel Edgar H. Bain and other officers of the Brewers and North Carolina Beer Distributors Committee knew they had a tough job when they launched their "Clean Up Or Close Up" campaign, but they were beginning to settle back and take it a bit easier after two successful years of operations.

But just when that pleasant situation developed, there was dropped into the committee's lap, almost without warning, a tougher and more ticklish task than any mere policing of outlets to see that beer licenses are not abused by joints operating full-fledged speakeasies under cover of an innocent beer license.

This problem is profiteering of certain retailers in national defense camp zones at the expense of their soldier customers. It was reported from the Fayetteville vicinity that numerous beer dealers had upped their price per bottle to 20 cents against the 15 previously charged.

Strictly speaking, this isn't within the purview of Colonel Bain's outfit, nor is he talking about it publicly like he does about the law enforcement part of his job. In fact he isn't saying anything at all, though it has been learned that he went quietly down to Fayetteville and had a real heart to heart talk with the retailers engaging in the profiteering game. His weapon? Just a hint that if the practice were not discontinued, it would be hard for the chap to get beer from the brewers. Reports are that it worked too, and that the overcharging has stopped. Like almost everything else, beer is hard to get delivered these days and the dealers believed Colonel Bain could cut them off, just like he hinted.

AAA Adds To List Of Defense Vegetables

Raleigh, July 8.—The AAA now has included lima beans with tomatoes, peas and snap beans as vegetables-for-defense and farmers may plant them without incurring deductions for having exceeded allotments. It was announced today by David T. House, member of the state AAA committee from Pitt county.

No expansion of lima bean production is sought by the Department of Agriculture, Committeeman House said, but, limas have been removed from the commercial vegetable classification because they are usually planted after peas which already were in the unlimited category.

"Farmers in drought areas will be able to plant limas to replace the peas affected by drought," the Pitt county farmer said. The food values of lima beans and peas are similar.

Present Soft Drinks To Guard Members

Members of the local guard company were treated with cold drinks on two recent drill nights and all expressed their appreciation both in words and action.

On June 19 the members were treated by the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company and the Coca-Cola Bottling Company presented the company with several cases of drinks on the night of June 26. The men declared the drinks came in very handy during the drills on such hot nights and expressed their thanks to the two local bottling plants.

CONDUCTING LIVESTOCK SALES IN KINSTON

The Kinston Marketing Company is expecting a liberal offering of feeder and butcher cows as well as hogs during the month of July. Both cattle and hogs are now the highest of the season, there being a strong demand for both.

Livestock sales are being conducted regularly at the marketing company's stock yards at 1 p. m., every Monday, under the supervision of W. Guy Hargett.

The company's stock yards are being operated in compliance with the recent Sanitary Livestock Act passed by the 1941 Legislature which became effective July 1.

The company is paying as high as 29 cents per dozen for eggs, according to the grade, at its Federal Egg-Grading station which is located in the basement of the Eagle warehouse in Kinston, and is receiving eggs from about 12 different counties.

NOTICE!

For the convenience of those who have not had their dogs vaccinated against rabies, I will be at the designated places from 2 p. m., until 6 p. m.

Wednesday, July 9, Shell Service Station, Fifth street, in front of college.

Thursday, July 10, Sutton's Service Station No. One, corner of Tenth and Evans streets.

Friday, July 11, Sutton's Service Center No. Two, Dickinson Avenue.

I will be at the court house only one more Saturday, July 12. Price 75 cents. After July 12, price will be $1.00 each. Will call at your home any time, Dial 3043.
