Moscow Again Bombed As Nazis Claim Gains On Land

CITY ATTACKED FOR 2ND NIGHT

Russia Declares Raid A Failure But Acknowledges Casualties, Fires And Wrecked Homes; Berlin Reports Heavy Red Losses In Land Fighting; Moscow Says No Change In Battle Areas

(By The Associated Press) German bombers left scores killed and wounded in Moscow today and reported that "vast flaming seas" engulfed the Soviet capital, while on the fighting front Adolf Hitler's high command declared Russian troops were suffering "extraordinary sanguinary losses everywhere."

It was Moscow's second successive night raid.

The Russians, while admitting casualties, fires and bomb-wrecked homes, declared the Moscow assault was a failure. They also insisted that Soviet troops were still fighting in the same zones as yesterday.

(By The Associated Press) Dispatches from London late today said the impression was gaining ground there that Germany's 10-day-old second big offensive against Russia was exhausting itself in the face of formidable Soviet resistance and the difficulties of maintaining supplies.

A British news agency report said German vanguards which reached the outskirts of Smolensk, key city 230 miles from Moscow on the central front, had been driven off.

The agency said Smolensk was still in Russian hands, despite official German claims of its capture last week.

Hitler's headquarters pictured the Red armies as falling back along the entire front in the 32-day-old struggle, suffering terrific losses in attempts to relieve encircled units.

The German communiqué said that bombs of the heaviest calibre and showers of incendiaries inflicted "serious destruction" in last night's dusk-to-dawn attack on Moscow and that fires set the night before were still raging out of control.

By contrast, the Russians officially declared that the raid was a fizzle, with most of the Luftwaffe beaten off and 10 per cent of them shot down.

Amid conflicting reports from Moscow and Berlin on the land fighting, the Germans declared that Nazi legions had scored important gains on the central front, storming key defenses of Polotsk in a violent two-day offensive with grenades and flame throwers. Red army troops were reported wiped out by the tens of thousands as they fought to the death from shell-smashed bunkers.

The Russians acknowledged German-Finnish penetrations on the northern front and a deepening Nazi thrust into the Ukraine, but declared fighting continued yesterday on the same shell-torn central front with the Nazi onslaught still checked.

Pile Is Growing

The pile of aluminum at the depot on the court house walkway continues to increase in size, but J. B. Kittrell, county aluminum roundup campaign chairman, today urged further support on the part of the general public.

All housewives are urged to search their kitchens and pantries for an extra piece of aluminumware and bring it to the depot and dump it in the wire enclosure. Persons with aluminum they are willing to contribute to national defense purposes but are unable to get it to the depot are urged to call either Chairman Kittrell or John G. Clark.

Sec. Knox Foresees New Far East Developments

HUTSON TO BE AT FARM MEET Declares He Looks For Military Movements Soon

Washington, July 23.—(AP)—Secretary of Navy Frank Knox said today there was "no question" but that recent developments in the Far East, including the Japanese government's establishment of radio and cable censorship on information from that country meant new military movements in the Far East.

Knox told his press conference: "I look for movement out there—and very soon."

He declined, however, to discuss the possible direction of such a move saying that "no one can tell at this point whether it will go north or south."

The Navy Department yesterday informed President Roosevelt that the Japanese had established censorship and at this press conference President Roosevelt said he considered it significant, but referred questions to the State Department when asked if he expected it to be the prelude to an aggressive action in the Orient.

Summer Welles, acting Secretary of State, arranged to receive the Japanese ambassador at 3 p. m. EST today, amid increasing signs that the United States was preparing new notice to Japan on the threat of military moves in the Far East.

The Navy Secretary was asked whether the United States fleet was in position to do "whatever is necessary to carry out our policy in the Far East."

Smiling, Knox said, "yes," and declined to elaborate.

It was not disclosed whether Welles or the ambassador requested a meeting, but all indications were that the envoy would be told plainly that American-Japanese relations would suffer a further strain from any military move into French Indo-China or elsewhere.

MOVE BRANDED AS SABOTAGE

Marshall Declares Efforts Under Way By Outside Forces To Have Men Petition Congress Against Extending Service

Washington, July 23.—(AP)—General George C. Marshall denounced today as sabotage of a dangerous character what he said were organized efforts to have draftees petition Congress against extending the service of selectees and National Guardsmen.

The chief of staff, testifying before the House Military Committee in behalf of an extension, asserted there had been an organized effort by "countless outside forces" to have members of the First army sign petition against the proposal.

Word of the activity, Marshall said, came from Lieut. General Hugh Drum, commander of the First army.

"We can not have a political club and call it an army," Marshall said forcefully, adding that the situation could not be ignored and that the men involved would have to be treated "as soldiers."

He did not amplify the statement. At the outset of his remarks, Marshall told the committee he was now "stymied" on the question of reinforcing the army's small garrison at Trinidad by the one-year limitation on the service of draftees and guardsmen.

Although he said he had been pressed for approval of plans to send additional troops to Trinidad, one of the southernmost of the new bases obtained from Britain, he had refused because of the legislative restrictions on the service of selectees and guardsmen.

Meanwhile, a provision to excuse certain classes of National Guardsmen and reserves from further army service was proposed today by Senator Connally (D-Tex.) as a compromise to meet some of the criticism of legislation to retain citizen-soldiers in uniform beyond the present limit of one year.

He hoped to make it possible, the Texas senator told reporters, for National Guardsmen and reserves with departments or business obligations to leave the service, if they felt it was necessary to do so.

Meanwhile, it appeared likely that the Senate Military Committee might approve for Senate consideration a resolution by Senator Thomas (D-Utah) calling for a congressional declaration of an emergency under which citizen-soldiers could be retained in the army's ranks indefinitely.

Approval Granted To Neuse Project

Washington, July 23.—(AP)—A Senate Commerce sub-committee approved today a $40,000 flood control authorization for the Neuse river in the Goldsboro, N. C., area.

The item previously had been recommended to Congress by the Board of Army Engineers for inclusion in the rivers and harbors authorization bill already approved by the House and pending in the Senate.

The authorization would permit the construction of a flood control cut-off in the Neuse river about two miles below Goldsboro, contingent upon appropriation of funds.

The army engineers, in their report said, "any flood control plan calling for construction of reservoirs or levees would be excessive and that the cut-off should provide ample protection."

The report added there was no present demand for further improvement of navigation.

The cut-off was recommended on condition that local agencies provide the necessary land and pay for building a new highway bridge over the development.

CONGRESS ACTS ON MAJOR BILLS

Naval Shipbuilding Measure Sent To White House; Action Taken On Bill To Set Up Civilian Defense

Washington, July 23.—(AP)—The House Naval Affairs Committee today considered an investigation of the progress of naval shipbuilding, after hearing that deliveries of navy airplanes had fallen 20 per cent short of estimates in the last six months.

Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, disclosed to the committee yesterday that although original estimates called for delivery of 1,995 planes to the navy during the past six months, only 1,547 actually were delivered. And he added that he no longer had any hope that deliveries in the next six months would bring the year's production up to previous expectations.

Meanwhile, important defense legislation moved briskly through Congress.

The Senate passed and sent to the White House a bill authorizing an $585,000,000 expansion of naval shipbuilding, ship repairing and ordnance manufacturing facilities.

The Senate approved, and sent back to the House, an amended measure authorizing establishment of a special civilian guard force to combat existing or threatened espionage or sabotage in the Navy's shore facilities.

Congress, which has appropriated unprecedented peace-time sums for defense, prepared to take a look at the other side of the financial ledger next week. The House Ways and Means Committee announced the $3,504,000,000 tax bill would be called up for consideration Monday if possible under a special rule which would prohibit all but committee-approved amendments.

Needs Filled For Parachute Troops

Washington, July 23.—(AP)—More than twice the needed number of men and six times the number of officers required to fill the army's four authorized parachute battalions have volunteered for parachute troop duty, the War Department announced today.

The battalions in service and in process of formation at Fort Benning, Ga., will require 1,500 jumpers including both officers and men, the army said, but 3,673 men have volunteered for duty. Also, a steady stream of inquiries from soldiers and civilians in all walks of life are being received at the provisional parachute group headquarters at Fort Benning.

Group officers estimated that there would be no shortage of officers or men even if the unit were expanded to 30 or 40 battalions.

Ecuador And Peru Continue At Odds

Quasquil, Ecuador, July 23.—(AP)—Official Ecuadorian reports said Peruvian troops started a general attack on a 12-mile front on the southern frontier of Ecuador today, but were repulsed and driven out of several of their own outposts.

The Ecuadorian reports said Ecuadorian troops, although greatly outnumbered, pursued the attackers to the other side of the Zarumilla river, and captured Peruvian posts at Aguas Verdes and Brancamoro.

Peruvian planes bombed Puerto Bolivar three times this morning, the Ecuadorians said.

Japanese-French Talks Acknowledged By Vichy

Jap Protection For French Indo-China Is Considered

Vichy, July 23.—(AP)—It was officially disclosed tonight that negotiations for technical Japanese protection of French Indo-China are underway both at Vichy and at Hanoi after what French authorities said were British troop concentrations along the Malaya and Burma borders of Indo-China.

French spokesmen asserted that nothing more than "temporary military measures" were under discussion, but these were understood to include the granting to Japan of additional air and other bases, particularly in the south. (Japan already has army and air bases in the north).

Frenchmen insisted that there was no Japanese ultimatum and that the term "Japanese occupation" would be incorrect.

Newspapers in German-occupied Paris charged that General Georges Catroux, an active Free French leader, was cruising off the Indo-China coast, directing an increasing flow of De Gaulist propaganda, and that the British, Free French and Chinese were conferring, presumably with a view to a division of Indo-China.

Catroux a few days ago took part in the negotiations in Syria which ended the war there. There has been no other hint that he was in the Far East).

It was stated officially here that nothing could be said about the conversations between Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darlan and Japanese Ambassador Kato except that they were the result of a threat by British and Chinese troops to Indo-China.

Parallel negotiations are in progress at Hanoi between Governor General Admiral Jean DeCoux and the Japanese military mission.

The official position was that since Japan is "the principal country interested in the peaceful order in the Orient," the French are conferring with her over the threat to the country to which the Japanese have given guarantees.

Sager reached the scene with the rest of the crew and discovered the vehicle was one he owned jointly with his brother. It was badly damaged.

Concessions Sought In Indo-China

Simultaneously Announced By British News Agency That Use Of Facilities In Southern Indo-China, Possible Springboard For Attack On British Base of Singapore, Demanded by Japanese

(By The Associated Press) Far East dispatches said today Japan has made sweeping demands for concessions in southern French Indo-China, possible springboard for an attack on Britain's great naval base at Singapore, and that the French had yielded.

Simultaneously, a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Hanoi, the capital of France's Oriental colony, said it had been confirmed officially that the Japanese had demanded the use of facilities in southern Indo-China.

By "facilities" it was assumed that the Japanese meant airfields and naval bases.

Conferences between French Admiral Jean DeCoux, governor general of Indo-China, and Major General Rashiro Sumita, chief of the Japanese military mission, were said to be continuing at Hanoi with the end not yet in sight.

Washington and London watched the critical situation with mounting anxiety.

Berlin, too, kept an eye on developments, which might affect United States aid to Britain and China, and the German radio declared:

"According to news available here, the Japanese government has learned that British aims are directed at French Indo-China.

"The Japanese government is determined to defend its interests with all the means at its disposal against such intentions. The French government is likewise believed to share in this view."

Rep. May Asserts Situation Is Serious

Washington, July 23.—(AP)—Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the House Military Committee said today he believed the international situation "is even more serious than the general public understands and is rapidly becoming more serious."

The chairman had just left an executive session of his committee, at which General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, was questioned about the need for retention of selectees, guardsmen and reservists in training beyond a year.

Rep. Shafer (R-Mich.), who has opposed the foreign program of the administration, said after the private session, "General Marshall's testimony convinces me that very serious consideration must be given his request and it may be necessary to accede to it."

May expressed the opinion that the majority of the House committee was "ready to report a resolution" to prevent disintegration of the army.

RECENT RAINS HURT TOBACCO

Damage To Crop Not Considered Alarming, However

Eastern Carolina has just experienced a prolonged rainy spell and while the excessive rainfall has caused an undetermined amount of damage, the present situation is not alarming, it was pointed out in the regular crop outlook bulletin issued today by R. C. Rankin, Greenville market sales supervisor.

The report added that cloudy weather following the rains proved very beneficial and prevented greater damage.

The report continued: "Reports from growers in all parts of the belt still indicate a crop of bright, good quality smoking leaf. About two-thirds of the growers predict a better crop than last year others a crop about the same in quality. Curing is progressing at a satisfactory rate, the portion of the crop in the barns ranging from 10 per cent to 15 per cent in the upper counties to 40 per cent in the more advanced areas. Taking the belt as a whole nearly one-third of the crop should be in the barns as this report is mailed. Tobacco is ripening fast and growers will be very busy 'cropping' until the end of the harvesting season.

"Throughout the belt losses from hail, wind storms, worms, and other troubles of this nature have been below normal, but the heavy rains of the past two weeks have drowned some tobacco, some has become diseased, and some has 'flopped.' The crop has lost weight because of the wet weather and while some localities will have as heavy a crop as was grown in 1940, generally speaking, the crop in the East Belt will probably be lighter than it was last year.

"Onslow, Jones and Wilson have lost more heavily than other counties because of flooded tobacco and other results of the heavy rains and reports from these counties indicate a crop below last year's in quality. On the other hand, an area in Carolina Township in Pitt county and adjoining Bear Grass township in Martin county where it has been unusually dry, has benefited greatly from the recent rains."

James-House.
On Wednesday afternoon, July 16, at three o'clock, Miss Doris Louise House of Bethel and Mount Holly, N. J., and Herbert W. Jones were married in the Bethel Methodist Church, with the Rev. J. G. Phillips reading the vows.

The church was decorated in green and white. Pines formed a background for cathedral tapers. Floor baskets were filled with white gladioli and fern.

Mrs. Paul Cullifer played a program of organ music, including "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms," and "Salute—D'Armour." "Drink To Me Only with Thine Eyes" was played softly during the ceremony. Traditional wedding marches were used.

Mr. Jones had as his best man his brother, Wilmer E. Jones of Medford, N. J. Ushers were Laddie G. Manning and Royal Carson, Jr., of Bethel, Edward House of Norfolk, Va., and William H. Moon of Atkinson, N. C.

The bride entered the church with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. Her gown was of white marquisette with high neck, bishop sleeves, the wide floor length skirt fell from a grille of imported lace. Her veil hung from a crown of pearls. She carried a white satin muff showered with bride's roses and stephanotis.

The bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Manning of Snow Hill, and Miss Betty Louise Broadbent of Mount Holly, N. J. Their dresses were of heaven pink marquisette patterned on the line of the bride's. Their flowers were arm bouquets of pink gladioli and fern.

The bride had as her matrons of honor, her sister, Mrs. Bernard Jenkins and the groom's sister, Mrs. William H. Moon. They wore afternoon gowns of blue marquisette and carried fan arrangements of pink roses and fern. Little Miss Mary Ann Manning was flower girl. She wore a gown of yellow marquisette fashioned in bouffant style and carried a basket of pink and white roses.

The mother of the bride wore blue chiffon and her corsage was white roses. The groom's mother was gowned in blue lace with a corsage of white roses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oswood W. House of Bethel. She graduated from the school of nursing of the Medical College of Virginia, Richmond, Va., and for the last two years has held a position with the Burlington County Hospital, Mt. Holly, N. J. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert E. Jones, Medford, N. J.

Older Youth Club Enjoys Outing.

Seven members of the Older Youth Club enjoyed a delightful outing at Atlantic Beach Sunday. A delectable picnic lunch was enjoyed before going over to the beach. There was much merriment caused over eating the cake and pickles. Lester Earle Turnage and John Watson almost made themselves sick. After lunch we went on over to the beach and in about an hour we were in our suits enjoying the water—swimming, bowling and lounging on the beach was engaged in all afternoon.

We left the beach about dusk and about three miles out of Morehead we stopped and had supper—sandwiches, Pepsi-Cola and watermelon was the menu—a grand one, too. We returned here about 10 o'clock, declaring that we had spent an enjoyable day.

Those attending were Mr. C. D. Griggs, the local 4-H leader; Sue Watson of Bethel; Inez Allen of Greenville, and Sarah Ann Moss, a

HEARTBREAK HONEYMOON

By WATKINS S. WRIGHT

YESTERDAY: Now Henry Pell is up against hard fact. He has seen too much of Marie Mason, and his wife, Luella, has left him to establish residence for a Florida divorce. Tommy McIntyre has told Henry that he will marry Luella later, if she will have him. And Marie, whose determination that Henry should get into radio caused it all, is proving very cool indeed to Henry—now that Henry missed the job she had planned for him.

Chapter 24

Infernal Triangle
 "No thanks," said Henry, "no thank, I've got too much thinking to do."
 "Very well suit yourself." Marie went into the bedroom and closed the door none too gently.
 Henry, left alone, sat down at the piano. He ran his fingers up and down the keyboard a couple of times, and then he began to play over the setting of one of his songs.
 He played softly, slowly—his thoughts going southward, crossing the Mason and Dixon Line, coming to rest beside a slowly flowing river. Willow ranches caressing the surface of the water. Sunlight flickering through the leaves. A wood-thrush calling from somewhere in the thick woods. A Negro woman calling to a runaway pickaninny.
 Home—tranquility—
 "All right," said Marie back of him, "let's have a showdown."
 Henry turned quickly. "I don't like that word," he said. "I don't think we've got to have any such thing."
 "Call it what you like," said Marie. She dropped into a low chair. "All I know is that I've never been so mad and upset in all my life."
 Henry sat down facing her. Anger became her, he thought. So did the deep red material of which her lounging pajamas were made. The color made her eyes seem even darker, brought out the rich, auburn tints of her thick hair, auburn tints that weren't always visible.
 "I'm pretty well upset myself," he said presently.
 "The idea, giving that job to a female," Marie flared. "I could wring her neck with perfect delight."
 "There, there, honey," Henry soothed. "Get hold of yourself, feeling like that doesn't do Alma Latham any harm, and you any good."
 "What's more, Henry," Marie went on, "I could wring your neck also."
 "Really? Well, if you must know the truth, Marie, I could wring it myself," Henry gazed across the room. "Everything happens at once if it's bad."
 "What do you mean?"
 "I didn't get the radio job, and Luella's gone."
 "Gone? Where?"
 "Well, for heaven's sake!"
 "I'm a grass-widower," Henry said. He was glad that he could sound sort of flippant. "She's left me flat—in a flat." He grinned. "Not bad, eh?"

"Henry, will you stop trying to be funny," said Marie, "and tell me just what happened?"
 "All I know is that she walked out on me," said Henry. "I found a note when I got back from Chicago this morning." He shook his head slowly. "Little Luella couldn't take the bitter with the better, after all. Or maybe she thought there was too much of the bitter."
 "You mean she—she—found out that I was in Chicago also?"
 "Yep."
 "Who told her?"
 "Tommy McIntyre," said Henry. Then, as he saw Marie growing angry, he said: "Wait a minute, Marie. He didn't tell her intentionally." Henry explained how it happened, and added: "So, there you are! There's our little infernal triangle in a nut-shell." He grinned again. "Mixing my metaphors perhaps, but let it pass."
No Solution
 "She had no right to jump at conclusions," said Marie. "She's got nothing on either of us. You know that as well as I do."
 "Of course," Henry agreed. "But, I suppose you'll have to marry me now, Marie, and do right by little Henry."
 "Don't talk like an idiot! Everything's gone wrong, and it's all your fault!"
 "My fault?"
 "Yes—not being here to get the radio job, and letting—"
 "Listen, Marie, my job in Chicago meant livelihood." Henry cut in. "I couldn't leave things there unfinished and rush back here to see about an uncertainty."
 "It wouldn't have been an uncertainty, if you'd shown more spunk!"
 "Meaning, I suppose, that I'm just a spineless, spunkless hunk of humanity. Is that it?"
 "Oh, Henry," Marie wailed. "I'm sorry. I didn't mean to sound so much like a fish-wife or something."
 "Okay," said Henry. "We're both on edge. Believe it or not, Marie, it's something of a shock to come home and discover that your wife's departed."
 "Yes, I understand, Henry, dear," Marie said, now calmer. "You poor dear boy!"
 "Add to that the necessity of facing a situation that's darn serious," Henry said. "Getting the business with Luella all straightened out."
 "You mean you're going to beg her to come back to you?"
 "No, I don't mean that at all."
 "Then what do you mean?" Marie demanded. "After all, you do owe me some consideration. Even if I am the 'other woman,' I tried to help you—encourage you—"
 "Yes, I know, Marie," Henry said softly. "You've been swell." He leaned forward, touched Marie's hand. "Does my losing the radio job change things between us?"
 "In a way, yes," said Marie. "You know as well as I do, Henry, how many things we planned to do and now—"
 "What's to prevent our going on with those plans?" Henry interrupted. "If you were my wife and I went on with the realty company, we could do the other things also."

 "We couldn't. You'd always be letting the other job interfere." Marie got up. She moved about the room. "Your interests would be divided. We would never be able to work harmoniously together—you in the real estate business, and me on the air."
 Henry watched the girl for a moment. "In other words," he said, "you don't love me enough to become my wife, and let me be myself?"
 "What do you mean, 'be yourself'?"
 "I mean, couldn't you love me, marry me—and let me go on with the work I seem to be cut out for?" Henry asked. You have been trying to make a radio writer out of a real estate man, you know. Maybe it just wasn't intended to be that way."
 "You aren't blaming me for it, are you?" Marie wanted to know, stopping to look down into Henry's face. "I thought you'd be grateful."
 "I am," Henry said. "In a way, and yet—" He hesitated a moment straightened out his thoughts, and went on. "Suppose I decided to ditch New York, and ask for my old job down home, would you be willing to go back there with me?"
 "Good heavens, what a question!" Marie cried. She caught herself, laid her hand on Henry's head, ruffled his hair. "You're sweet, Henry, terribly sweet. I adore you, really I do, but—I'm still tied up with radio. I couldn't possibly throw all that into discard."
 "No? And yet you were perfectly willing for me to throw my job into discard?"
 "That's different."
 "In what way?"
 "I'm getting established," said Marie. "You are just sort of—of—"
 "Drifting?"
 "Oh, no, Henry, not that!" Marie stepped back, made a gesture with her two hands. "Let's not discuss it any more tonight. We'll work it out somehow, darling." She searched Henry's face for a sign of encouragement. "Won't we?"
The Kiss
 "I hope so," said Henry. He got up, walked over to where he had placed his coat and hat. "Things usually adjust themselves—finally. No matter how involved they seem to be." He held out his hand. "Goodnight, Marie. I'm sorry for all the disappointment I've caused you."
 "Henry—dear!" Marie took the outstretched hand. She pulled Henry toward her, lifted her face. "You may kiss me, Henry—just to show that we are still friends."
 Henry looked at the upturned face, the inviting lips. Then he caught Marie to him almost savagely.
 "You're a menace!" he said, trying to sound very, very worldly. "But a beautiful one."
 He kissed Marie's lovely mouth. Then he pushed her away from him, grabbed up his coat and hat and hurried from the room. He was shaken by a deluge of emotions. Marie, Luella, the lost job, work to be done, no wife, an apartment that was like a tomb. He walked out of the hotel, and stood uncertain upon the sidewalk.
 "Taxi, sir?" the doorman asked.
 "No, thanks," Henry replied. "Nice night. Think I'll walk."

Girl Parachutist Rescued From Tree Top

Roberta Roberts, girl member of the National Parachute Jumpers association, landed in the top of a tall tree (left) after a jump over the Westchester airport at Armonk, N. Y. Rescuers had to wade through a marsh to get a rope to her. Mean while she dangled for two hours in the tree. Firemen finally threw a rope over a top limb and Roberta slid down right into a safety net.

"Yes, sir," Henry strode off uptown. He walked faster and faster as though by so doing he could escape his thoughts.
 But Henry had nothing on Tommy McIntyre. For up in his room

Tommy was also trying to get away from the thinking that had made chaos of his brain. He too was thinking about Marie, about Luella about jobs, work. He was also thinking about how utterly sick of New York he was. He was sick of

Of course! Why not? Florida was just the place to go. He was due a vacation. He had been postponing it, but why do so any longer? Why not ask to have the vacation granted at once? Why not pack his things, and file himself southward? Florida, sunshine that would be more than welcome, now that the feel of winter was in the air. Sandy beaches, swimming in blue-green water, waving palms, cloudless blue skies. And—he caught his breath at this thought—and seeing Luella. Yes, seeing Luella. That was something.

 West Point, Va.—(AP)—A beauty culture program is under way for oysters on the bed of the York river.

The Chesapeake Corporation, a big producer, has brought in millions of pounds of ribbed mussel shells, which have little commercial value, to aid in streamlining the rough, misshapen oyster shell. The thin, fragile mussel shells, it is anticipated, will serve as a clutch for the oyster larvae, enabling it to take shape with less resistance and become a more attractive half-shell delicacy.

WE'RE IN on the Ford defense job ...and proud of it!

In a few short months, out on River Rouge, the world's largest industrial plant has been enlarged and transformed to take its place as one of the most important "arsenals for Defense" in the country today.
 As Ford dealers and good Americans we're four-square back of this National Defense Program—and proud of the important part Ford Motor Company is playing in it. Proud of the $35,000,000 airplane engine plant at the Rouge—proud of the new $47,000,000 bomber plant now building on a 975 acre tract at Willow Run near Ypsilanti, Michigan—proud of the staff cars, reconnaissance cars, army trucks, and bomb service trucks already delivered to the army and air corps.

You, as a car buyer, and we, as Ford dealers, have each in our ways helped create the huge Ford production facilities in Detroit. Your continued preference for Ford cars has made it possible for us right here to provide the facilities for serving your transportation needs.

Right now, along with its big National Defense job, the big Ford plant is working at full tilt to supply the demand for the 1941 Ford—the finest in Ford history. You'll find us ready to help you—to get new cars for those of you who want them as fast as we can—to give you a REAL DEAL on your trade-in right now. There never was a better Ford and... Wilson Beats Greenville 4 To 3; To Play Here Tonight

TELLER TO GET MOUND DUTIES

Large Crowd Expected To Witness Tonight's Affair

Although the Greenies out-hit the Wilson Tobs there yesterday afternoon by one bingle, Lefty Monk Webb got the nod over Pickering and the pace-setters took a 4-3 victory over the Greenies in the first of a two-game series.

The two teams will square off at Guy Smith park tonight at 8 o'clock and Manager Rube Wilson announced this morning that Bill Teller would get the call to mound duty in an effort to check the Tobs.

Greenville got nine hits, more than the Tobs last night, but the locals' hits were scattered. Charlie Scagg came through with a homer, triple and a single, while manager Wilson got three singles to lead the Greenies at bat. Greenville played errorless ball in the game, which lasted only one hour and 36 minutes, the shortest played in the Wilson park this season.

The Greenies had to fight an uphill battle all the way, but they came close to edging ahead in the last frames. After Wilson had scored one in the first and added two more in the fifth, the Greenies pushed two across in the seventh but Wilson came back with one in their half of the frame, this proving to be the winning run as Greenville got one across in the eighth.

Lead Boosted By Training School

Training School added to its lead in the A league this morning by rallying strong in the last two innings to defeat the High School. Andrews had a little better of the pitching than did James but errors by his team mates at crucial moments ruined Andrews efforts.

Ben Harrison kept up his sensational hitting of late week by hitting two doubles and a single. Gene Johnson was close behind with two triples. Musselwhite, Andrews and Langston led for the High School. Jim Turner turned in the fielding gem of the day when he snagged Johnson's liner that seemed headed for at least a triple.

Box score:
High School 303 000 0-6 11 5
T School 121 034 x-11 8 1

TEAMS IN TIE PACE-SETTERS FOR LOOP LEAD GET 24-23 WIN

Blount-Harvey Gets 14-9 Victory To Knot Standings

Blount-Harvey took a 14-9 decision over Pepsi Cola last night in the only softball game played and the department store boys thereby pulled into a tie in the league standings with the fast-stepping bottling drink team.

Blount-Harvey came out on the long end of the score despite two circuit breaks by Max Minges and one by Hobgood. Hobgood also got a single to share hitting honors with Minges.

David Brees's four-run homer was the big gun in Blount-Harvey's scoring.

Carolina Sales forfeited to Double Cola to give the cellerate team two victories for the season, against 20 defeats, and dropped Carolina Sales down to a 450 mark with 12 wins against 10 defeats.

GOT A DATE? Don't neglect your Breath

If you've got a date with the girl friend, or a business appointment, play smart and take the proper precaution to see that your breath doesn't offend unnecessarily. After all, nothing is so inexcusable and so offensive as a neglected case of halitosis (bad breath). Before your next date or business appointment, rinse the mouth with Listerine Antiseptic. Almost immediately your breath becomes sweeter, purer, less likely to offend. Most cases of halitosis, say some authorities, are due to the fermentation of tiny food particles in the mouth, although some cases may be due to systemic disorders. Against the former condition, Listerine Antiseptic works wonders because it first halts the fermentation and then overcomes the odors it causes. Don't forget to use it. It's the first aid of thousands of popular and successful people.

When the league-leading S. A. team clashes with the Greenville F. F. team, it seems Greenville F. F. always gets the bad break although they get hit their opponents.

As usual they were shaded out by a score of 24-23. A large crowd of spectators witnessed this game. Outstanding batting honors went to T. Hammond, Gladys Blizard and Ruth Menlo. For the losers honors were taken by A. Satterfield, R. Dale and E. Burns, the latter banging out a beautiful hom-

the ball out into a mesquite flat." Atteberry said.
"It rolled down a prairie dog hole. "The umpire yelled 'play ball' but we couldn't play. It was the only baseball in 40 miles."
"Giles won by a home run."

Glad Tidings.
Boston (AP) — Here's an item that made Tom Yawkey, owner of the Boston Red Sox, happy: Lefty Lefebvre, one of the Yawkey farm hands, turned in a 1-0 eleven-inning triumph for Louisville over Indianapolis the other day. The hurler is a former Holy Cross star. One of the things Yawkey needs most for his Red Sox is pitching — and Lefebvre appears about ripe for the majors.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 23. - (AP) - Despite another good performance by the bulls, the stock market today confined itself to a sidewise crawl that produced something like an even split of minor gains and losses for the leaders. Closing prices of most carriers and a few other resistant issues were near the day's best. Transfers amounted to approximately 600,000 shares.

New York Cotton

New York, July 23. - (AP) - Cotton futures opened five lower to four higher. Futures closed 41 to 43 lower, middling spot 17.01, off 40.

Dr. McGinnis Back From Conferences Complete Session Of County Court

Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, registrar of E. C. T. C., has returned from Sewanee, Tennessee, where he attended a work conference sponsored by The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. There were approximately 75 educators at the two weeks meeting, which began July 7.

The conference, which was held at the University of the South, was primarily a planning conference. Representatives from every Southern State attended daily meetings for the sole purpose of laying plans for studying problems confronting high schools and colleges all over the South. Providing for a better education, and an education that will keep up with material changes each year was prominent in the eyes of this group of southern educators.

Dr. McGinnis, who was a member of the committee studying the problem of the evaluation of a student during his matriculation, and finally at graduation, stated that the entire two weeks was "just like school work." Meetings began promptly at 9 o'clock each morning, and most of each day was devoted to various types of informal discussions.

President Harris of Tulane presided at all important meetings. A report of the conference work will be sent to each college and high school in the south. This report will be intended for soliciting the interests of the different schools in cooperating with the conference in solving the many complex problems of education in a democracy. Dr. McGinnis expressed his belief that the conference accomplished much toward their great task, and he pointed out that a similar conference will be held next summer, probably at Sewanee again, to follow up the work of this summer's work.

Mrs. McGinnis accompanied the E. C. T. C. registrar on the trip.

Plan Switch Time July 27 Or August 3

Raleigh, July 23. - (AP) - Several heads of large industries have suggested that daylight saving time be inaugurated at midnight on July 27 or August 3, and this course may be followed.

The industrialists were represented today as favoring the making of the change at Sunday midnight because of their work schedules. Daylight saving time, to be adopted as a defense conservation measure, will be effective in August and September.

Governor Broughton had been considering making the switch at midnight Thursday, July 31.

officer on duty a $5 note. The officer returned him a handful of change. Suddenly it became clear that we had much too much change. Five dollars too much. There were four ones neatly folded and around them was wrapped a five. With this was the 50 cents in change.

This left us in a rather odd spot; any shortages in the till have to be made up by the cops on duty. We were rolling in a tide of traffic that could not be controlled. We continued through the tunnel and as we shot out in the bright daylight my friend swung over toward the center, where the cop was dividing traffic.

"What do you want?" he wanted to know.

My friend said, "Your pal back there in the booth gave me too much money, and I couldn't stop to tell him about it. Will you take it and see that he gets it?"

"Sure," said Officer No. 309. We gave him the $5 and drove on. That was early morning, say about 8. At 5 that afternoon we drove back through the tunnel, and on impulse paused at the booth.

"You been here all day?" my friend asked.

"Nope," said the new man, "we came on about an hour ago. We just changed shifts."

"Well, listen, this morning I got $5 too much change and I sent it back by one of your traffic policemen. Do you know whether he got it? Is there any way you could check on that?"

The cop in the booth shrugged. The stalled motorists behind us were beginning to blast their horns. Suddenly the honest Irish face of a cop we hadn't seen, from the other side of the tunnel, shoved its way into the car.

"What's the matter, bud, you worried about that $5? Well, I'm the guy you gave it to. Sure, he got it."

Dear Mother:

We have just arrived and attended market and have found that prices on furniture have advanced considerably. I would suggest that you contact as many of our customers and friends as possible and urge them to buy now while they can get the benefit of the lower priced merchandise.

Yours very truly,
Z. P. VanDyke.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS:

Upon receipt of this letter, we decided the best way to let the public know that furniture prices are advancing was to publish this letter.

We advise everyone planning on buying furniture to do so at once! The next shipment we get in we are certain will be right much higher!
