NAZIS CLAIM REDS LOSING BATTLE OF LENINGRAD

RUSSIA CLAIM GERMANS HELD TO STANDSTILL

Report Adds Germans Are Wearing Themselves Out

CLAIM FAILURE OF MAIN DRIVES

Although Admitting Heavy Fighting On All Fronts, Moscow Reports No Major Change In Situation

Moscow, July 31.—(AP)—Russian forces declared today that "the Germans had been held to a standstill and are wearing themselves out in futile assaults on the Soviet's unyielding defenses."

As these informants pictured the trend, the warfare has developed into a battle of attrition with Red army masses using their weight to sap the Reichswehr's strength.

German air assaults on Russia's two biggest cities also were called failures. Three Luftwaffe attempts to bomb Leningrad were said to have been beaten off by Russian anti-aircraft guns and fighter planes and an air attack on Moscow was said to have been repulsed.

With the Germans claiming trides forward on the whole front, particularly toward Leningrad, Russian reports today included the Gulf of Finland port among Russian cities "leading a safe and normal life."

London, July 31.—(AP)—A counter offensive by more than 3,000,000 Red army soldiers on a front stretching from Leningrad to Kiev was predicted in Soviet Russian military circles here.

It was asserted that the attack might begin within two weeks, when the Russian high command was satisfied that the German armies had extended their reserves of strength in all directions to smash the Red army around Smolensk, barring the way to Moscow.

The Soviet informant said that the predicted offensive would be one of the largest in history, with the Red army ranks strengthened by hundreds of thousands of reservists now being assembled and completely equipped for the big push.

They told of a successful theatrical first night and said theatres and movie houses were open as usual.

Although heavy fighting admittedly raged through the night on the lines of the German drives toward Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev, the daily communique indicated there had been no significant change in the situation, naming such familiar places as Pskov, Novorzhnev, Smolensk and Zhitomir which have appeared in the war bulletins for days.

Further conferences between Premier Joseph Stalin and Harry L. Hopkins, President Roosevelt's personal representative, were expected meanwhile.

Willkie Declines To Debate Thomas

Rushville, Ind., July 31.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican nominee for President who refused an invitation to debate the government's foreign policy with Norman Thomas, perennial Socialist aspirant for the White House, said today he would like to enjoy his Indiana vacation "without interference by engineered publicity stunts."

Mayor George M. Bonham of Willkie's home town, Elwood, yesterday telegraphed invitations to the leaders of the two minority parties to discuss United States foreign policy at an "anti-war" rally Sunday in Callaway park, scene of Willkie's formal notification of his inauguration last August.

Japs Enter Saigon

Saigon, French Indo-China, July 31.—(AP)—Japanese troops formally entered Saigon today and persons familiar with Japanese military outfits were quick to comment that Tokyo has sent a first class army.

In equipment, discipline and efficiency, these persons said, the newly-arrived Japanese forces rank among Japan's best.

They described them as ready for action, if necessary, and not for exhibition only.

With a program worked out in fine detail, the Japanese moved precisely into their recently-acquired naval and air bases, the army, navy and air force collaborating in methodical manner.

Nazi Subversive Plot Smashed In Argentina

Action Is Latest In Series Of Anti-Nazi Moves

Buenos Aires, July 31.—(AP)—The smashing of a "subversive plot intended to overthrow present authorities" of Argentina was announced by police at Parana today after a series of raids in that provincial capital, a reputed hotbed of Nazi activity.

A large quantity of propaganda documents was reported seized in houses whose doors and walls the raiders said were decorated with the swastika.

Nine persons were arrested in the alleged plot which police said was centered in the finger of northern Argentina, jutting northward along Uruguay's inland frontier and controlling waterways leading to Paraguay, Bolivia and Brazil.

The raid was the latest in a series of anti-Nazi moves in South America.

Believed Hopkins To Visit Far East

London, July 31.—(AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, President Roosevelt's military aid coordinator, now in Moscow discussing United States help for Russia, will return to the United States by some other route other than London, it was reliably reported today, indicating that he might travel through the Far East.

There has been some speculation that Hopkins might visit China. He has pledged both the Chungking and Moscow governments all possible immediate aid.

Flavoring, Not Tobacco Puts Taste In Cigarettes

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, July 31.—A trained and presumably expert psychologist testified recently at a big anti-trust trial of the big tobacco companies—the burden of his testimony being that there isn't any difference in taste between the well known brands of cigarettes. At least no difference which could be detected by smokers upon whom he made tests.

This seemed a bit thick to your correspondent, who thereupon asked one of the state's best known tobacco specialists about the matter—and got an answer only on condition that he be not quoted by name. Obviously he could ill afford to jump right into the middle of a controversy in which he has no personal or official part.

He said there is a difference, but—"If you prefer one brand of cigarettes to another, generally it is not the tobacco used so much as it is the flavor employed in the blending process," he said.

Then he went into detail: "If you will notice on any package of cigarettes, you will see the word 'Blended,' which means that

MAN IS KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Ray T. Allen, Bruce, Victim Of Yesterday's Storm

Ray Tom Allen was instantly killed at his home near Bruce Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock having been struck by lightning. He was pumping water on the back porch when the tragedy occurred.

Funeral services were conducted from the home this afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. H. M. Wilson, Free Will Baptist minister of Farmville and burial followed in the Allen family cemetery at Tom Allen's farm.

Mr. Allen was born, reared, and spent his entire life in Pitt county. He had been living near Bruce for two years and had formerly lived in the Fountain community. He was 34 years of age.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Lovie Dunn Allen, two daughters, Virginia Dare and Edna Grace Allen, both of the home, three brothers, Cecil and Zeno B. Allen of this city and Hubert Allen of Rocky Mount and one sister, Mrs. Sid Morgan of Grimesland.

The new world center for "marbles" is West Virginia, where they are made of glass. Real marbles are not to be had on the general market now, since they were hand-cut and polished in Germany and Czechoslovakia, from chalcodony.

certain amounts of several types of tobacco are mixed together to make the filler for the cigarette. "Flue-cured tobacco is the body or meat of the blend; burley is added for mildness; Maryland air-cured for burning qualities, and Turkish for spice.

"Most cigarettes contain these tobaccos in different proportions, the real secret of one blend differing from another lies in the flavoring or casing that is put on the tobacco in the blending process.

"The principal flavorings used in the blending process are rum, glycerine, saccharine, maple sugar, brown sugar, chocolate, vanilla, white honey and alcohol.

"As for the tobaccos the usual proportions for a blended cigarette are (1) flue-cured 50 per cent; (2) burley 30 to 38 per cent; Maryland air-cured 6 per cent; and Turkish 6 to 10 per cent."

The expert commented that this style of blending is used in foreign countries as well as in the United States. He added that England, which prior to the present war, was the best customer for flue-cured tobacco, has turned to the United States for its supply.

No Indication that Incident Involving Damaging Of U.S. Gunboat Anchored In Yangtze River During Japanese Raid On Chinese Capital City Closed With Prompt Apology By Tokyo Government

Washington, July 31.—(AP)—Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, said today Japanese apologies for the bombing of the United States gunboat Tutuila in China were insufficient to close the incident.

This government, he said, awaits a more complete reply from Japan to the American representations made here and in Tokyo.

Welles said that immediately upon being informed of the incident at Chungking yesterday morning, a representative of the Japanese government called at the embassy in Tokyo and expressed deep regrets.

This was done, he said, before Ambassador Joseph C. Grew was able to carry out instructions to make representations. Welles disclosed that he had made identical representations here in a conference yesterday with the Japanese ambassador Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura.

Detailing to his press conference further Japanese moves in connection with the incident, Welles said the Japanese government made a further preliminary reply after Grew had carried out his instructions.

Until a more complete reply is received, Welles said, he would make no further comment.

In reply to a question as to whether the preliminary reply was considered insufficient, Welles said that was a justifiable deduction. Still awaiting clarification was the question of whether Japan had given adequate guarantees that steps were being taken to prevent a recurrence of such incidents.

In announcing that immediate representations were made to Japan Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, indicated the government would not accept Japanese explanations that the bombing was an accident and mistake. He pointed out that the Tutuila, and the American embassy at Chungking, which was bombed, were across the Yangtze River from the capital city proper.

The prompt action of the Japanese government in apologizing and expressing regrets was regarded as an indication, however, that it was anxious to avoid any further tension in the already badly strained relations with this country.

Meanwhile, the Japanese, while manifesting some apprehension, apparently were ready to risk their merchantmen in American ports for the present.

Although the State Department still refused specific assurances on the ships, developments indicated that Japan had decided to permit at least some of her United States-bound vessels to make port.

More than 40 of them have been lying off the coasts for days, because of owners' fears that they might be immobilized in American waters under last week's order freezing all Japanese assets.

Reports Progress On Pitt Campaign

Preliminary reports from canvassers for the Old North State Fund indicated that each of the county chairmen was doing well in his own community. W. S. Bost and W. G. Glass who are soliciting Greenville tobaccoists have already exceeded their quota of one hundred dollars and hope to bring the total amount of their contributions up to $125 or one tenth of the quota for the entire county. Dr. T. G. Basnight, reported Stokes had passed its quota last night and was still going strong.

Campaign Director R. C. Rankin says that there is every indication that Pitt county will raise its quota of $1,250, thus doing its part to give medical aid to suffering World War soldiers and civilians.

The Old North State fund has been organized for the purpose of buying and equipping an ambulance airplane and delivering it to the English people as a gift of the state to the people of North Carolina. Business and professional men throughout the state are donating their time and service to this cause so that every cent donated may go toward the actual purchase of the plane.

GAS STATIONS TO BE CLOSED AFTER 7 P. M.

Sec. Ickes' Call For Action To Restrict Use Of Fuel

POSSIBILITY OF FURTHER ACTION

Secretary Of Interior Ickes Declares That Ration Cards May Be Issued If Voluntary Moves Fail

Washington, July 31.—(AP)—In a move toward compulsory restriction on the use of gasoline, Secretary of the Interior Ickes today called upon the oil industry to close 100,000 service stations in the eastern states from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m., seven days a week, effective August 3.

The closings would affect all gasoline retail stations on the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to Florida.

Declaring that "voluntary rationing to date had not achieved the reduction which must be accomplished if we are to avoid a more serious situation later," Ickes spoke of the possibility of more serious rationing, including issuance of ration cards.

The recommendation of closing of service stations during night hours would be applicable throughout the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, the peninsula of Florida, the District of Columbia and all marketing areas in or east of the Appalachian mountains in the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia, and such additional marketing areas in said states where any substantial part of the motor fuel supply is either produced in any of said states, or shipped into such areas from any point east of such areas.

To assure effectiveness of the closing, Ickes said he was requesting suppliers of gasoline to take such action, including the refusal to make further deliveries of motor fuel, as may be appropriate in cases of continued and deliberate failure on the part of any retailer to observe the recommendation.

Special consideration was given by Ickes to commercial and emergency use of motor vehicles at night.

Cards Being Issued To Welcome Visitors

The Merchants Association and the Greenville Police Department are cooperating in an effort to welcome visitors, the campaign being carried out in connection with the drive against violation of local parking laws.

Instead of tagging out-of-town cars with the pink slips telling the motorists to go to police headquarters and fork over a dollar or face trial in court, officers are putting welcome tags provided by the Merchants Association on out-of-town cars.

The card, headed "Our Greenville, Yours If You Come," tells visitors they are welcome to disregard the time limit on parking. It points out, however, that they are not exempt from the law prohibiting parking near fire hydrants or where no parking signs are displayed. It also advises motorists that no parking is permitted on paved streets from 1 a. m. to 5 a. m.

The population and other information is printed on the back of the welcome cards.

QUOTA IS SET FOR '42 WHEAT

Largest Carryover In History Seen For This Year

Raleigh, July 31.—Expecting the largest wheat carryover in the history of the country at the end of this marketing year, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has proclaimed a wheat marketing quota for the 1942 crop, it was announced today by E. Y. Floyd, state AAA executive assistant.

"Since it appeared the nation's wheat supply this year will exceed normal domestic consumption and exports by considerably more than 35 per cent," Floyd declared, "the secretary has proclaimed quotas now in order that growers may have plenty of time to make plans for the 1942 crop."

The 1942 national acreage allotment has already been set at 55,000,000 acres and many farmers in this state have received individual allotments.

Allotments will not be mailed to growers who have not been assigned ten acres or less, Floyd said, reminding that under the 1942 AAA wheat provisions a producer may plant 15 acres without becoming subject to marketing quotas—unless his total yield is 200 bushels or more. Growers who are assigned ten acres or less may request allotments, however, if they desire to plant within their allotments and earn parity and conservation payments on the specified acreage.

Ninth Infantry Division To Celebrate Birthday

Fort Bragg, July 31.—Tomorrow Carolina's own Ninth Infantry Division will celebrate its first birthday. Considered by many military experts to be one of the finest in the army, the 9th has taken huge distance-eating strides in seven league boots over the past 12 months to reach the peak of its power since demobilization of the original division in February 1919.

A birthday, justly little infant of 93 men who comprised the first cadre of regulars "drafted" from the Second Infantry, Camp Custer, Mich., has become a man-sized, two fluted, hard hitting outfit of over 14,000 trained soldiers welded into a crack fighting unit—ready to drill, march or fight anywhere, any place, any time.

Following the arrival of the first cadre from Camp Custer other cadres began to trickle into the pine covered wilderness of Fort Bragg in an ever increasing number from army posts all over the country. In these cadres were 1,881 men from 24 states. A majority of the cadres' strength was composed of non-commissioned officers who were experts in various specialized lines.

Germany Placing Emphasis On Northern Flank Of Nazi-Soviet Battle Front With Forces Striking Toward Leningrad; Announcement By Hitler's Headquarters More In Detail Than in Recent Days

Berlin, July 31.—(AP)—The Russians are losing in their frantic efforts to save Leningrad, even with such desperate measures as walls of flaming forests set against the advancing Germans, and a British-Russian air assault on Germany's Arctic backdoor has proved a costly failure, German reports declared today.

The communique from Adolf Hitler's headquarters, mentioning the Leningrad front for the first time in several days, said "units fighting in Estonia threw the opponent back to the north."

Other German reports, which a military spokesman said referred undoubtedly to the assault on Leningrad, reported seven Red army divisions destroyed on the north-east front.

The Germans are pressing in from the south on the Soviet Union's great Gulf of Finland port and industrial center, while their Finnish allies are pushing down from the north in a great squeeze which, Germans say, already has put the city in peril.

With detail uncommon to high command communique in recent days, the German headquarters pictured the whole Russian defense from Estonia to the Ukraine being shoved back and broken.

It referred to Soviet forces in the south as "defeated Russian armies" and said German forces had plunged into their retreating units in the Ukraine in a "deep thrust."

On the fiercely-contested Smolensk front in the center, where the Russians are endeavoring to pinch off a German salient struck through the Stalin line toward Moscow, the war bulletin reported "encirclement of the enemy east of Smolensk was further tightened."

German reports described the attack as a British-Russian collaboration—the first such joint military action since the U. S. S. R. became involved—and said 28 British planes launched from an aircraft carrier had been destroyed at a cost of only two Nazi planes. Russian losses were not mentioned.

Additional Ships Claimed By Nazis

Berlin, July 31.—(AP)—Authorized sources announced today that German submarines sank five additional vessels in the British convoy which was reported attacked Tuesday, bringing the total loss to 24 merchantships with a total tonnage of 140,500 tons.

Germans reported Tuesday that 19 merchantships, a destroyer and a corvette were sunk after a running attack lasting for two days and two nights by submarines and their "safety craft" protection.

DNB, official German news agency, reported that another 5,000-ton merchantman was sunk by the German air force while a number of airports in southeast England were attacked with "good success."

Hollywood

Hollywood — "Tom, Dick and Harry." Screenplay by Paul Jarrico, directed by Garson Kanin. Principals: Ginger Rogers, George Murphy, Alan Marshall, Burgess Meredith, Joe Cunningham, Jane Seymour, Lenore Lonergan, Vicki Lester, Phil Silvers, Betty Brickner.

This is the movie Garson Kanin was making when Selective Service called him from his chores. Audiences everywhere — and Uncle Sam himself, who wants to keep his nephews and nieces happy — should be grateful for the brief deferment granted the director to finish his picture. For my part, I think Uncle Sam ought to take another look at young Mr. Kanin's slight frame — not ideal for rifle-toting — and send him packing back to Hollywood to add to the galaxy of those nations still showing our movies. By now Kanin may be a whiz at the manual of arms, but he's a whizzer at making those rare movies which cause us all to sit up and take notice.

"Tom, Dick and Harry" is an ingenious little tale. In this movie era when most of our heroines sit pensively over their knitting (or crop) and live over their pasts in retrospect, Miss Rogers is a novelty: she looks into the future, dreams what life will be like with each of her three suitors.

The picture is about nothing more vital than a romantic working-girl's dizzy uncertainty about which of three desirable fellows she'll take to the altar. When you think about it, though, that's pretty vital, considering the number of romantic working-girls there are in the world and the number of just girls — and fellows — for that matter.

All Wrapped Up In Bundles for Britain

By ADELAIDE KEHR
(AP Feature Service Writer)
Eighteen months ago Natalie Latham founded Bundles for Britain in a vacant New York shop. She started with $20 worth of yarn and a great fund of energy. Today she is boss of the New York headquarters and 1,142 branches scattered among the state in the union and Hawaii, Alaska, Australia and the Virgin Islands.

And she views the whole set-up with the sparkling enthusiasm of a radiant little girl, who after making a shining frosted cake, eats it and relishes every bite.

"I'm doing what I'd rather do than anything else in the world," she said as the telephone calls buzzed over her desk one hot afternoon. "I couldn't imagine doing anything else. The greatest thing is to have an idea and see it blossom under you."

Shortly after the war broke out, Natalie Latham—born of a prominent Boston family, twice divorced and mother of two small girls—began to worry about "doing something to help the British soldiers and sailors." (She is of British extraction and has happy memories of her English visits.)

She called on the British consul, learned that assistance would be welcome and went to work. She raced over to a wool manufacturer in Brooklyn, persuaded him to let her have $20 worth of yarn, to be paid for after would-be knitters had bought it, and lugged it back to New York in a suitcase. Then, after she had talked the Park Avenue owner into giving her the use of an empty shop, she sat down with her knitting and "opened the door to see what would happen."

Things happened so fast that Mrs. Latham is breathless yet. "I pinch myself sometimes," she told me. "I can't believe it."

Bundles for Britain rapidly expanded its activities and its network of branches grew with amazing speed. Today its officials estimate that it has sent Great Britain $2,000,000 worth of socks, helmets, surgical kits, ambulances, oxygen tents, hospital beds, clothing and shoes.

In the middle of the New York headquarters, with a finger in every pie, sits Mrs. Latham. But she doesn't sit long. She cuts short her high-voiced telephone directions to fly down the hall to another office. Dashes about with a long yellow pad on which she is constantly writing notes. Rushes off here and there to make speeches. Takes off for Washington or Philadelphia on ten minutes' notice with a night-dress packed in a knitting bag.

She drives herself like a dynamo all day and then goes home to her simple East Side apartment to have dinner in bed, while the children hang on the bedposts and tell her the day's news. Long after they are asleep she is poring over those everlasting notes, scribbling things to be done tomorrow, thinking up new ideas. And she draws no pay.

It's a far cry from the day when she made her debut at Sherry's, danced with a lot of admiring beaux and flirted with Prince Nicholas, son of Queen Marie of Rumania.

The pace quickens even her great fund of energy sometimes. Twice her office staff has had to send her to a hospital to rest. But she is back in a few days.

Soon she will add a new activity—Bundles for Blue Jackets—in aid of sailors on American and British warships. She already has looked forward to the day when war ends. Then she hopes to see Bundles for Britain working for the reconstruction of places ravaged by war.

Mrs. Latham is a pretty, vivid woman of 30, with deep brown eyes and a gorgeous smile. She wears her long hair in a soft roll at the back of her neck and loves pretty, colorful clothes.

All this work leaves her little or

WILSON'S Weekly RECIPES

The best thought I can bring you for August is to make you acquainted with a smoked ham that has more fine flavor, more mildness, more tenderness, than this searcher after fine foods has been able to discover in any other smoked ham, anywhere. It is Wilson's Certified Smoked Ham, the original Tender Extra Mild—a long monicker but baked, broiled or fried, none can compare!

George Rection
Food Consultant
Wilson & Co.

A NEW "JUNIOR" SIZE HAM FOR SMALL FAMILIES

The biggest news in the meat world today is Wilson's Certified Boneless Rolled Smoked Ham—the very same ham I praised to the skies just now; same rich, mild flavor, same tenderness. Only this ham is boned and rolled, then smartly wrapped in a transparent covering in which you can bake or boil it. My favorite recipe is printed right on the wrapper. This same boneless ham is also just the thing for slicing and broiling. No waste, no-bone—all meat, and wonderful meat at that. These ham rolls weigh only 3 to 4 pounds each.

NEAT IDEA FOR PANCAKES

Fry thin slices of your baked ham in Clear Brook Butter and serve between hot griddle cakes. Mmmmm!

Bacon Built for Campfires

Just made for campers and vacationers is Wilson's Certified Sliced Bacon, because the rich flavor is smoked right in.

I strongly recommend you try the new two-pound thrifty Family Style. In this package Wilson's Certified Family Style Bacon is sliced slightly thicker and packed back so tightly on the rind that it doesn't have a chance to lose its marvelous flavor.

SAVE ON SHORTENING

Suppose you could buy an all-purpose vegetable shortening snow-white, super-creamed; just like expensive shortenings except for the price? Well, you can. It's Wilson's BAKE-RITE, available in vacuum-sealed 1# and the more economical 3# tins. A booklet of my tested recipes comes with every tin. Try my Chocolate Cake* for Sunday's dinner. G. R.

understudy was ready to go on. Then the voice came back, and the understudy left in a huff. Then the curtain went down to great applause, and Halla entered the dressing room she shared with Carol—and found her looking haggard, beaten, ill.

Chapter Four Tangled Threads

With a forced brightness Carol said: "I'm all right, Halla. Just done in. I'm going straight up to the apartment and crawl in bed."

"No, better go with you."

"No, really, Halla. All I need is some sleep and I'll be fine in the morning."

She seemed to mean it and I was anxious to go with Jeff, so I let her win without further argument. We both set to work on our faces in earnest. Through the wall that separated our room from Eve's came the hum of many voices. Outside I heard Jeff telling someone sadly: "I'm sorry, but Miss Rogers can't see anyone. She was attacked about the eyes by a swarm of bees."

Above the hubbub in her room, Eve's voice rose. It was sharp and soft at the same time, the tone one uses to reprimand a child.

"Philip, darling, haven't you heard enough acting for one evening? I'm sure all these people have had their money's worth."

"You have the whole play to yourself," Ashley's voice was livid and I was glad I couldn't see his face. "It is absolutely necessary for you to steal my only scene!"

Eve laughed. "Dear Philip, I have no idea what you're talking about. Really, I haven't."

Jeff slipped into our room, a grin stretching across his face. He jerked his thumb toward the wall and sat close to it where he wouldn't miss a thing.

Ashley was saying: "You know perfectly well, you stood at that table and rattled silver, you rattled glassware all during my long scene. Why didn't you overturn the table, Eve? It would have been much more effective."

"Oh, that!" Eve's words had a dismissing shrug in them. "That was Tom Nelson's fault, or the little Thompson girls. I'm supposed to arrange flowers during your speech, and where were they? Was I to stand there like a mummy while you dined through your lines?"

"It's customary to be quiet while another actor is speaking," Ashley said acidly. "They teach that at dramatic school."

"Philip, dear Philip, you must read the script one day. I'm not supposed to be interested, even listening while you make that endless speech of yours. Philip never reads a script, you know, just his part."

There was a roar from Eve's audience while Ashley said something that ended in hell and was punctuated by a slamming door.

"It's over," Jeff said sadly. "Eve by a technical knockout."

I bunched my purse and gloves together and took Jeff by the arm. "C'mon, Jeff. I've had enough of actors for one day. The moment I said I could have bitten out my tongue for I had forgotten that Carol was still there. But she had not heard me."

"Halla," she said as we reached the door. "May I take your key? I guess I must have left mine in my blue purse." "Of course," I fished through my pocketbook for it and tossed it to her. "Put it on the ridge over the door. Jeff and I may be late. You're sure you'll be all right?"

"Sure, I will. Go on, you two, have fun."

After the sticky warmth of backstage the night outside seemed bitter cold. A few snowflakes fluttered down and lost themselves on the pavement and the Forty-fourth Street wind whipped up stray programs and whirled them toward Broadway.

Waiting For Fate

He laughed at me. There was really no question of what we would do; we had an old opening night custom. We would tramp all over town biting fingernails and chafing at bits until the reviews appeared at daybreak.

Then, if the notices were bad, Jeff's shoulder would be handy to weep on and together we could curse the critics for their illiteracy and lack of taste. If they were good there would be one more drink to toast them as gentlemen and scholars. It was fine for me; I could sleep all the next day; it was Jeff who took the beating. I asked my usual next question.

"What about work tomorrow, Jeff?"

"I'm on my vacation."

"Vacation!" That wasn't part of the routine. "When did this happen?"

"Today at noon. Want to take a two weeks' vacation. Try?"

"Jeff, I said, trying my darnedest to mean it, 'you really should get away. Why don't you go to Florida for two weeks?'"

"I've never been to Florida."

"Well?"

"I don't want to break my record."

It was early and the smoke at Ralph's was still thin enough for us to find a table. Teddy Hart, whom Jeff considered America's greatest actor since W. C. Fields gave us his career to go into the movies, was at the bar, and Jeff beamed at the sight of him. Jeff ordered Scotch and soda and I went overboard with a Cuba Libre minus the rum.

"Or I might get married," Jeff said, picking up the conversation we had dropped on Eighth Avenue. "To me?"

"It's time we broke up our friendship."

"Let's."

"I've never been married. Do you know anybody in New York who's married? We could find out about it."

"My father and mother were married."

"And look what happened to them. You." He took somebody else's stray arm off the back of his chair and moved closer to me.

"Look, Halla. I love you."

"I love you too, Jeff."

"If only I could save some money!"

"Jeff, if the critics come through I'll be making money for a while. 'Green Apples' might run a year."

"No. We've been through that. I'll have to pick up some more money somehow."

"I'd marry you," I suggested modestly. "If you were only making five dollars and fifty cents a week."

It looked for a second as though I was going to get kissed, but Tommy Neilson broke things up by popping down at our table and losing no time getting tight. He ordered straight rye with a beer chaser and downed both in morose silence. After grunting hello he refused to open his mouth except to fill it.

"Tommy's quite a conversationalist," I explained to Jeff.

"What is there to talk about?" Tommy challenged me.

"Conditions," Jeff said.

"People talk too damn much."

Success?

Tommy beckoned the waiter and duplicated his order. Jeff and I tried to ignore him but the blanket was too wet. We were about to make our escape when Phoebe Thompson joined our merry group. She took one look at Tommy and wagged her head. "I see we're off to a big evening."

"Oh, I don't blame him," I sympathized. "It's been a tough show. Tommy's worn out."

"It's been a lousy show. The whole damn thing stinks."

Phoebe smiled tolerantly at him. "Nasty, nasty old play! Going to be a hit."

"It stinks. I wish I'd had sense enough to stay out of it. I've been in the theater long enough to know better than to get tangled up in a Clint Bowers production. All of 'em stink."

Phoebe's bright face shadowed.

"There's nothing wrong with Clint Bowers' productions. You're drunk."

"I'm not down on Clint. I'm tired. I don't like 'Green Apples.' Never have. It was a lousy script when I first read it and it still is. Production hasn't helped it any. An ingenue who loses her voice on opening night. An understudy who walks out. The Eve North-Philip Ashley feud. It's a mess, the whole thing's a mess. Even the scenery's painted badly."

Jeff blinked. "I find myself becoming fascinated. Who lost whose voice? Who walked out? Who is feuding with who?"

I told him then, starting with the case of the missing understudy. Tommy went painstakingly on with his drinking career while I talked. Once he came out of it to mutter: "Yeah, tell him about Carol, the little." I missed the noun but I didn't ask for it again.

Jeff took a long drag on his cigarette and stood up. "I'm beginning to get out of here. Let's get out of here."

It was only 12:30. We had long hours to kill before the first morning editions appeared on the street. Jeff suggested the inevitable, a movie. On Forty-second Street we managed to find a double feature that only one of us had seen half of.

Jeff awakened me by removing his shoulder from under my head. "Is this where we came in?" I asked.

"I can't remember back that far. Let's get out of here and see what day it is."

Times Square had settled down for its short nap before the sun rose. We walked down Seventh Avenue to the Metropolitan and read all the three sheets. We managed to put all of 15 minutes more behind us by wandering down to Pennsylvania Station. Finally, Jeff decided we should take a ride and he pushed me into a taxi.

When the meter hit the two dollar mark we got out. We were on Broadway and a hundred and something so we took a subway back to Times Square. The papers were out when we climbed the stairs into the Times Building. We bought them all and lugged them to a restaurant.

On the whole they were enthusiastic. There were nice things about Greely Morris' dialogue and about Clint Bowers' direction. Steve and Ashley and old Ben Kerry were favorably mentioned. I had a few sweet remarks passed about me here and there. But the orchids went to Carol. She was hailed as a discovery, her notices alone would insure the play a run. "Green Apples" was a hit and we had all scored personal successes. All, that is, except Eve North.

Poor Eve. "Despite a faltering performance by Miss North," was the way the Times ran, and one of the tabloids reported: "The old gray mare ain't what she used to be which is young, but she won't admit it." The Herald Tribune was cruel in its kindness. Its only mention of Eve was a flattering description of her second act gown.

Suiting Your Figure

Ginny Simms, movie star, picked this pinafore-pattern for summer sunning. Better on the beach than in the pool.

By BETTY CLARKE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Bathing suit problems are the same in August as they are in May or June. You may be buying at the bargain counters at this stage of the season, but wherever you buy, and whenever you have the same requirements.

You want a suit to fit your figure or you must trim your figure to fit the suit you want.

These three things will help you wear the suit you desire: (1) stretching for a slimmer waistline; (2) bumping for better neckline, and perhaps (3) some massage for thinning your thighs.

And the best exercises may be pushing yourself away from your table sooner. You can get your vitamins without an over-abundance of victuals, you know.

Nor is it impossible to fit your suit to your figure. Midriff modes must expose slim stomachs only if they adorn a bathing beauty. Long straight suits simply make a slender girl look slender. It's a one-piece suit for most matrons.

Extremely low-back suits reveal beautiful backs beautifully, but mar the appearance of the girl with roly-poly, just-below-the-shoulder bumps or a larger-than-she-wishes waistline.

If you don't want to go near the water, you can choose a chic costume for a beach outfit. Better still, you can prefer a playsuit (maybe with a skirt over the shorts if your thighs are thicker than they should be).

If you really swim, you probably have a habit of picking suits that are light in weight, big enough, but made to stay on.

ON THE TRANSMISSION OF POWER

A professor, teaching a class in physics, once made the following statement:

"Electric current, as you know, can be transmitted hundreds of miles provided the dynamo produces a strong enough current and the cable is able to carry it. One thing necessary is the matter of insulation, the greater will be the energy transmitted."

"Spiritual power comes from God, and is transmitted through us as cables. In this case we can assume the generator is all right. Plenty of power is generated at the source. But so many of us, because of our bad habits, or lack of faith, or discouragement, or lack of self-control, are mighty poor transmission cables. We do not insulate ourselves against the weakness and vice of the world, and because of this we lose spiritual power. We associate with worldly people, we cherish carnal ambitions, we pursue unrighteous ends. We do not have the power which men had in the early Christian church because our insulation against the world and its ways has worn thin."

God will take care of the power. What we need to do is to see that the transmission wires are in good condition, and above all that the insulation is satisfactory.

SELL HERE AND SAVE THE DIFFERENCE

With just a little more than three weeks before the opening of the tobacco market here, many growers are now in the process of making their final curings and will soon be getting some of their leaf ready for market. In recent years there has been a large quantity of tobacco from this immediate section going to southern markets between the earlier opening dates of those markets and our own. We believe it would be wise for our growers to refrain from going to the border markets and wait for the opening of our own markets to begin to sell their crop. The difference in the cost of transporting the tobacco a shorter distance to the local markets will mean money in the pockets of the growers.

Washington Daybook
By Jack Stinnett

Washington — With the United States growing under its largest surplus of wheat in history, those wheat farmers who refused to cooperate with the government in its marketing quota program are giving Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard and his boys a headache.

According to department estimates, farmers who planted more acreage than their allotments number only about 15 per cent.

Under the revised Agriculture Adjustment Act, the marketing quotas were invoked this year for the first time. The farmers favored them at an election May 31. Eighty per cent voted for them. And on the other side of the fence, the government agreed to maintain a loan price of 98 cents a bushel and to pay the 18 cents-a-bushel benefit (that's 18 cents times a farmer's normal bushel yield) to all farmers who had stuck to their respective acreages.

Under the same act the non-cooperating farmer can't sell or use his wheat at all until he has satisfied the government as to his surplus. That consists in paying a 49 cents-a-bushel penalty on the surplus and losing his 18 cents-a-bushel benefits on the entire crop.

A Sample Case. A co-operating farmer was told last summer that his wheat allotment was 100 acres. He planted that. To keep the figures round, let's say his normal yield and actual yield were the same, 10 bushels to the acre. Now what can he do? He can take a government loan on the 1,000 bushels at 98 cents (which virtually amounts to selling it to the government at that price). That brings him $980. The benefit payments at 18 cents, bring in $180 more — or a net of $1,160.

Now suppose the same farmer had planted 120 acres of wheat in defiance of the government program. What happens to his 1,200 bushels? On 200 bushels, he has to pay 49 cents a bushel penalty, or $98, and he doesn't get the $180 benefits. Having satisfied those stipulations in the law, he can go ahead and sell his wheat (or get a loan on it) at 98 cents. That's $1,176 less his $98 penalty, or $1,078.

In other words, his 120 acres netted him less than 100 acres would under cooperation with the program.

Apparently non-cooperating farmers hadn't realized this until they started marketing their wheat.

Relief Bill Pending. As for doing anything about it, department officials say, there is nothing to do, unless it would be to repeal the act and along with it the loan price and benefits which are giving the American farmer a return for wheat far above the world price. The House of Representatives has passed a bill to give relief to the non-cooperating farmer with a partial crop failure, by allowing him to sell up to normal yield on his allotted acreage. That would affect only a few. And besides, it is not yet a law.

As to what caused 15 per cent of the farmers to refuse cooperation, there are just guesses. Officials say some farmers, remembering the $2 and $2.50 wheat of the World War days, undoubtedly figured it would soon be there again. In other cases, it may have been lack of understanding of the law or just plain rebellion.

The one complaint most often heard from the minority is that the quotas were not announced before the crops were in last fall. That is true, says the department, but since the acreage allotments were announced and since the quotas are based entirely on those allotments, it doesn't matter.

Loan Rate Increased, Too.

Another complaint is that the penalty has been increased from 15 cents to 49 cents (one-half the loan price), since crops were planted. That's true, too, but here again the AAA officials point out that the loan rate was upped from 64 to 98 cents a bushel. That means, they say, that the guaranteed price for wheat was shoved up 34 cents in a year when we were raising a bumper crop and building up an available supply of approximately 1,325,000,000 bushels of wheat — almost enough to take care of our average annual consumption of 700,000,000 bushels for two full years.

That the Department of Agriculture considers the marketing quota system generally a huge success is seen in the fact that they already have announced it will be carried through next year, but that in view of the huge surplus, there will be a 12 per cent general reduction in acreage.

Raleigh, July 31.—A six line story (date line included) of almost no importance whatsoever, gives, if studied with care, a complete picture of the present status of North Carolina's governmental functions.

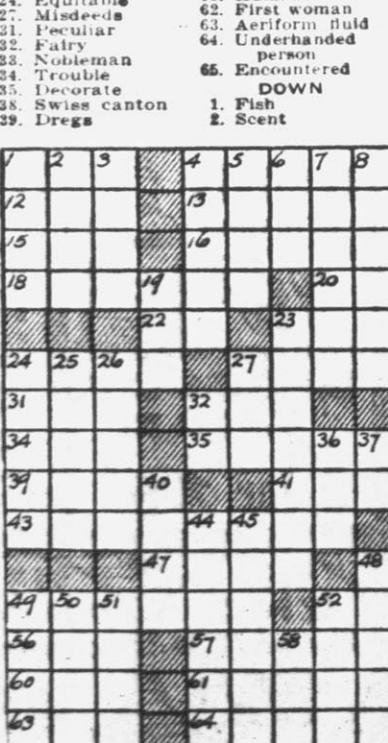

Here's the story: "Governor Broughton said today that the American steamship and tourist agents association would hold its 1941 convention in Asheville at a date to be set later."

The implications are clear—not even the American steamship and tourist agents association can contemplate a meeting in a city several hundred miles removed from this state capital without the governor hording in to announce it to a populace who no doubt hangs upon every syllable of the important pronouncement, because it comes from that high and mighty source.

It's wholly typical of what's been going on here since the date upon which J. Melville Broughton took the oath of office. He has got himself squarely in the middle of every picture of every governmental unit — no matter what it happened to be doing. He has been the announcing agent for news which in any and every preceding administration would have come in routine fashion from various department heads. There are several state officials (obviously not to be identified here) who are deeply resentful of being shoved completely out of the limelight. The gubernatorial penchant for publicity-grabbing is the subject of many a reportorial quip and jest.

There's no "Three I" league of officials, though there used to be a baseball loop of that name. Governor Broughton would have been its logical president.

This And That

Another incident has come to the attention of this corner confirming its recent story that relations between the Department of Agriculture and State College are better than ever in memory. The department now has two field inspectors, for nothing. Here's how: A couple of State College experts engaged in research work in various parts of the state are combining the functions of inspectors for the department with their normal tasks. Inspectors of the Department of Labor, division of standards and inspection, looked over 403 establishments in June. There were employed in these establishments 12,357 persons. The inspectors reported a total of 994 violations of rules and regulations, follows: hour law 58, time records 35, child labor 39,

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. What is the procedure of redeeming a Defense Savings Bond, if I need the money before the Bond matures?
A. You may secure payment by signing the request for payment in the presence of an authorized officer, who must add his certification; you then forward the Bond in accordance with the instructions printed on it. On all U.S. Savings Bonds appears a table of redemption values, showing the amount you are entitled to receive on demand at any time.

Q. Will I be able to get my money quickly?
A. Normally, a Treasurer's check is mailed to registered owner shortly after receipt of Bond with "Request for Payment" properly executed by the Treasury or a Federal Reserve Bank. Bonds cannot be cashed at post offices.

Note — To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

Latest squashing attempted from the governor's office is of the report that Willie Lee Lumpkin, Illinois' Valentine, et als, are at odds with J. M. B. This corner will bet that W. Lee isn't hot to play Damon to the governor's Pythias, even if he does confer with him once in so often.—If they let Charles Parmele run the state ABC board, it won't fail to make money, if the Wilmington man's private career is any criterion.

Locals Again Take Double-Header From Kinston Club

EAGLES STILL ARE CRIPPLED

Adams Hurls P. M. Win; Skipper Wins Night Contest

Although officials of the Kinston club had promised here Sunday that the Eagles would present an improved team for the two bill here yesterday and despite the fact the Kinston boys defeated Williamston Tuesday night, the Greenies yesterday took both ends of a double-header from Kinston.

The Eagles offered practically the same lineup as that presented on Sunday and the club is still tagging under the blow dealt when the manager and several of its ace players left the team last week.

Lefty Adams had no trouble at all in the afternoon game yesterday pining through with a 14-2 victory as he allowed only six hits while the Greenies again were boosting their batting averages with 17 hits, including two-baggers by Adams and Caraway. Jenkins got four for five and Finfrock three for five to lead at bat.

Manager Rube Wilson took over the mound duties in the after-dinner fair and held the Eagles to six hits and three runs. Bennie Crowe's 10-foot, three-run homer was the gun in the night game. Bennie was the only Greenville player to safely twice in the second game. DePriest held the Greenies to only five hits, but Crowe's timely blow and three Kinston errors helped the Eagles to victory. Kinston had many chances to score, but Rube was able to tighten in the pinches and 10 Eagles were left stranded on bases.

Man About Manhattan

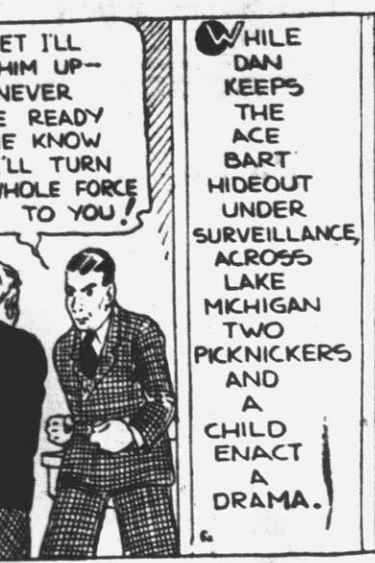

By George Tupper

New York—Some Toms, Dicks and Harrys of Manhattan that O. Henry would have loved: Harry McArdle — one of those vanishing Americans, the old Irishman with his threadbare but dignified blue suit and battered derby. He is a neighborhood patriarch around McSorley's ancient ale house, where Abraham Lincoln is supposed to have gone after his Cooper Union speech.

Harry is loved and respected by everyone. He is one of those rare natural-born comedians who can't open his mouth without saying something droll, but it wouldn't be fair to attempt a pale ink-and-paper sample of his wit; he has to say it. And when, after about his fourth round of ale, he struts "It's the hat me dear old father wore," you've seen an epochal event.

Now Showing: Horns On A Toot!

Pop—that's all the name I have ever heard him called. He is the doorman at a restaurant known hereabouts as Sam's Place. Pop is white haired, in his seventies, but spry. He has that fine gift of remembering names, and when people tip him he puts his tips in a separate savings. He never spends a tip.

Reared in an atmosphere of saloons, then speakeasies, now restaurants, where hard and soft liquors have always been easy to obtain, he has never touched anything stronger than beer. He has never smoked. He has never had a bad cold, nor been ill for more than a day in his life. He has been outside of New York only twice in his life—both times to Washington. He was in Washington the day the United States declared war on Spain, and again on the day the United States declared war on Germany.

"When are you going to Washington again, Pop?" I asked, thinking of the war headlines. "Never—I hope," he said. "But, you never know."

GOT A DATE?

Don't neglect your Breath

If you've got a date with the girl friend, or a business appointment, play smart and take the proper precaution to see that your breath doesn't offend unnecessarily. After all, nothing is so inexcusable and so offensive as a neglected case of halitosis (bad breath). Before your next date or business appointment, rinse the mouth with Listerine Antiseptic. Almost immediately your breath becomes sweeter, purer, less likely to offend. Most cases of halitosis, say some authorities, are due to the fermentation of tiny food particles in the mouth, although some cases may be due to systemic disorders. Against the former condition, Listerine Antiseptic works wonders because it first kills the fermentation and then overcomes the odors it causes. Don't forget to use it. It's the first aid of thousands of popular and successful people.

Will "Shooting War" Spread Over
Weirdest Corner Of The Earth?

(AP Feature Service)

Here is a region of superlatives. It has the deepest ocean (off the Philippines), the most colorful ruins (Angkor-Vat, Indo-China), some of the greatest wealth of Burmese, Siamese princes), some of the greatest natural resources (Dutch and British East Indies, Australia), some of the most picturesque scenery (Japan), the strangest animals (the pandas in China, 10-foot lizards in the East Indies), the most populated nation (China) on earth. The very vastness of the Far East sets it apart.

War—in the sense of actual fighting—has not yet spread to much of this area. Actual battles have taken place only in the Sino-Japanese war (this one started in 1937) and in border skirmishes between Russia and Japan, and between Indo-China and Thailand. But Japan's occupation of Indo-China and her calling up a million fresh soldiers was taken as such a threat by Australia, the United States, and the Dutch East Indies that they immediately retaliated by freezing Japanese credits. Every nation in, or with interests in, the Orient, has long been strengthening its defenses.

Will expanding Japan—aligned by treaty with Germany and Italy (and ironically with Russia)—be satisfied with her present position and sit tight? Will she attack Singapore? Will she attack the Dutch East Indies? Or will she march on Russia? And how will other nations answer Japan's next move?

Show Defense Ups
AccidentsReflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, July 31.—Figures from the North Carolina Industrial Commission show that with the industrial boom from the national defense program there has been a marked increase in accidents coming within its jurisdiction.

Last week's accidents reported to the commission numbered 1,496 the highest on record, and so high as to lead T. A. Wilson, chairman, to predict that there will be at least 60,000 during the fiscal year 1941-42. Total for the last year (1940-41) was 54,000 in round figures.

As a matter of comparison there were reported in 1932-33, the very bottom of the depression, only 23,625 accidents; while in the first year of the commission's existence (1929-30) there were 33,709.

No exact figures are yet available for compensation awarded during 1940-41, but estimates put it at more than $1,250,000. The preceding year compensation in the amount of $1,124,355 was awarded.

So far this calendar year the commission has heard 543 cases with 95 still pending. Of these about one hundred grew out of construction work at Fort Bragg, Camp Davis and the two big defense power dam projects in the western section of the state.

Chairman Wilson is obviously rejoicing over the fact that E. W. Price will return to the commission as executive secretary, effective August 1.

"When Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus asked the loan of Mr. Price in 1936 for the Unemployment Commission, I never anticipated he would be gone so long," said Mr. Wilson.

Happy Relief From Painful Backache

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
