LONDON SAYS NAZIS STALLED ON ENTIRE FRONT

Japs Take Another Big Stride In March To The South

BASES IN SIAM To Proceed With Effective Sunday Night Service Station Curfew

Japanese Also Declared to Have Called For Control Over Siam's Rubber, Rice and Tin Production; Britain, Deeply Concerned Over New Move Strongly Reinforcing Royal Air Force In Burma

By The Associated Press Japan's high-pressure march to the South took another big stride today with reported demands on Thailand (Siam) for military bases and control of that country's rubber, rice and tin production.

Authoritative quarters in London the source of this report, said Japan in exchange had offered to restore the province of Laos and the ancient city of Angkor, both in Japanese-dominated French Indo-China.

British concern was pointed by the fact that Japanese occupation of bases in Thailand would put them within 400 miles striking distance of Britain's great fortress at Singapore and also pose a direct threat to British-ruled Burma and even India, which lies across the Bay of Bengal.

Coinciding with this report, the London Air Ministry announced that the Royal Air Force in Burma has been strengthened by the construction of airdromes for "both offensive and defensive action."

Strong reinforcements were said to be arriving in Burma, including numbers of American-made bombers.

Meanwhile, dispatches from Shanghai said Chinese Communists and Russian officers had already held staff conferences to discuss joint military action in the event Japan strikes at Siberia.

Shanghai reports said Japan was still pouring war supplies into Manchukuo, which borders Siberia, and that 14,000 troops were moved recently, including a medical regiment.

In Tokyo, Japanese Finance Minister Masaoka insisted that Japan has no intention of picking a quarrel with the United States and Britain, but in the same comment he declared that Japan must push ahead with its program in China and East Asia.

Ogura disclosed that the "China affair"—the four-year-old war—has already cost Japan 25,000,000,000 yen, or about $6,000,000,000.

While Japan continued to pour troops into southern Indo-China, her finance ministry announced an agreement with Thailand whereby Japan gained a credit of 100,000,000 bahts (the baht is about 36 cents) for purchases in Thailand. Observers said this indicated Japan had been embarrassed financially by British-American freeing of her funds.

The Japanese bombing of the U. S. gunboat Tutuila was marked a closed incident in Washington, which accepted Japanese expressions of regret and apology.

Wouldn't That Jar You? Lynchburg, Va.—(AP)—A hen on the farm of Mrs. W. H. Horton of Trent's Ferry road has the whole community guessing. She laid an egg in a cold cream jar, which had been used as a nest egg, so tightly that it can't be taken out without breaking.

Airport Projects

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A list of construction or improvement projects on 258 airports, officially designated as necessary to the national defense, was announced today. A total expenditure of $60,810,110 is involved. Of this amount, $53,409,000 will be spent on 26 projects included in last year's program, but not yet placed under construction, and 149 new locations. The remaining $18,968,871 will be used for continuing work on 113 projects started in the initial program authorized last October.

Among locations of airports were New Bern, N. C., class three, $157,000; Goldsboro, no class designation, $65,000; Rocky Mount, class three, $185,000, and Raleigh-Durham, class three, $300,000.

West Point Docks

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The United States Navy transport West Point docked with 355 passengers, mostly civilian service employees, shortly before noon today amid scenes reminiscent of the first return of World War soldiers.

Approximately 2,600 relatives and friends lined the pier as the huge camouflaged ship was tied up and a tumultuous cheer arose as soon as those on board were allowed on the pier.

Among the consular officials returning from Europe was Frederick A. Sterling, minister to Sweden, whose ill health caused him to seek a three-months' leave of absence. Sterling said he would report to Washington before getting a recuperative leave.

The trip, passengers said, was without incident and made in calm weather and seas.

IN AGREEMENT ON 30 MONTHS

Sponsors Accept Two And Half Years Of Service

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Senator Hill (D-Ala.) said today that sponsors had agreed to compromise army service extension legislation to provide a maximum of two and a half years of service for citizen-soldiers.

Hill told reporters that proponents were attempting to work out an amendment which would limit to 18 months the additional service that any selectee, national guard, man, reserve or regular enlisted man might be called on to undergo.

This 18-months extension, he said, would be in addition to the 12 months selectees, guardsmen and reservists now are required to serve.

Some regular army enlisted men are serving one-year tenures and others three-year periods. The same 18-months extension would apply to them, Hill said.

The Alabama emphasized that the additional 18 months was the maximum of active duty to which any individual would be subjected, pointing out that many might be released long before that period was up, as new personnel came on the ranks to replace them.

New Parking Law Is Now In Effect

Among the new city ordinances which went into effect today was one extending the one-hour parking zone on West Fifth street from Five Points to Washington street and on Dickinson avenue from Five Points to Seventh street.

The one-hour limit previously applied to Evans from Third to Five Points and East Fifth from Five Points to Pleasant's college drug store.

Another ordinance set up truck zones on Dickinson avenue and still another makes it illegal for shoe-shine stands to operate on the streets on Sunday. The ordinance provides that barbershops and other places with shine stands may remain open until 1 p. m.

Aid To Blind Checks Received In County

K. T. Futrell, Pitt county welfare officer, revealed today that checks for the blind in the county had arrived after being about 10 days late, during which time the recipients anxiously visited the office in search of the delayed funds.

Approximately 30 checks were received, totaling some $400. Declaring that many persons come to the office for their checks and always bring several others with them, Mr. Futrell said it was preferred that recipients remain at home and receive the checks through the mail.

Defense Petroleum Coordinator Determined Despite Predictions Move Will Create Unemployment; Declares Oil Industry Suggested Action And Indicates Companies Will Enforce Compliance

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—In the face of predictions that the nightly closing of service stations in Atlantic seaboard states would cause unemployment, Secretary of Interior Ickes and the oil industry perfected plans today to apply the curfew next Sunday, with more drastic action to conserve motor fuel supplies indicated, should this blackout fail.

Oil men accepted the proclamation closing down an estimated 100,000 gasoline stations from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. seven days a week, as showing Ickes' determination to meet the predicted eastern fuel shortage even to the extent of adopting rationing, if need developed.

Ickes, who is defense petroleum coordinator, said in announcing the curfew yesterday, that if the new step failed to cut consumption precipitately, "it then must be followed by other steps to accomplish our ends."

In New York, Louis Kimmel manager of the Gasoline Merchants of Brooklyn and Queens, estimated that the night shut-downs would cost 100,000 men their jobs—10,000 in metropolitan New York alone. Further, he said, he believed the curfew could not be made fully effective without a government order.

Ickes said yesterday, however, that the oil companies themselves had recommended the night closing program, and indicated that he expected those companies would see that any recalcitrant dealers fell into line. While he expressed doubt that the government had authority to prosecute station which fail to close, Ickes added that cooperation of the industry should obviate any need for attempted court action.

Possible further restrictions, all believed to be under consideration for application if necessary, include: holding individual service stations to a bulk quota of gasoline monthly, institution of gasless Sundays and, as a last resort, ration cards.

Six Cases Called In Friday's City Court

Six cases were called for trial in Municipal recorder's court this morning, one of the defendants being colored, being charged with carrying a pistol on his bicycle. A nol pros was taken in the case, the first since the drive to enforce bicycle traffic was undertaken by the local police department.

Other cases tried were: Mrs. H. A. Rollins, drunk and disorderly, 30 days or costs; William Arthur Harris, colored, drunk and down, 30 days or costs; Winfred Randolph, colored, larceny of barbecue from Smitty's place, 60 days, suspended upon good behavior for one year; Ed Lee Williams, colored, abandonment and non-support, acquitted; Lloyd Marshall Jard and George Chamis, careless and reckless driving, wreck case—both defendants acquitted.

Local Chiropractor Returns from Meeting

Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Kuezenkamp returned home yesterday from Baltimore, Md., where he attended the 46th anniversary convention of the National Chiropractic Association. Affiliated councils meeting at the same time were the National Council of State Directors, National Council of Chiropractic Roentgenologists, National Council of Women Chiropractors, National Council of Hospitals and Sanitaria, National Council on Physiotherapy, National Council of Educational Institutions, and National Women's Chiropractic Auxiliary.

More than 1,500 delegates from all over America attended the sessions, which continued for a week, and embraced many scientific and educational lectures.

Finds Babies Not Expensive

Mrs. Garnett A. Ridenhour (above) of Kansas City, Mo., kept books on her babies to prove that children are within the financial reach of almost every married couple's pocketbook. Nancy Gayle Ridenhour (left), 18 months old, has cost $234.66—about $11.33 a pound. Two-month-old Jan William Ridenhour's cost for the first year was estimated, on the basis of expenses thus far, at $170.15.

BIG OIL CASE REACHES JURY

Six Thousand Defendants Named In Strickland Case

Conroe, Texas, August 1.—(AP)—The Strickland land case went to the jury today. And what a case. There are 6,000 defendants. Ownership of oil tracts valued at around $10,000,000 is involved. The trial started August 18, 1940. Two thousand separate issues must be decided. Two and one half days were required merely to read the charge to the jury.

The 150 attorneys were allotted four weeks for closing arguments. And the most conservative forecasters predicted it would take the jury a week, probably longer, to reach a verdict. At stake is title to land in the heart of the rich Conroe oil field. Among the defendants are 30 oil companies and 6,000 purported descendants of one Wilson Strickland.

The original Wilson Strickland came to Texas about 1838 or 1840 and settled on the land in question. Later he disappeared—a fact which has loomed large in the trial. At least 36 Wilson Stricklands have been identified during the trial as being the man who settled in what now is the Conroe field. Testimony variously has had him immigrating to Texas from California Georgia and numerous other states.

Fines In City Court Total $205 In Month

A total of 55 defendants—not counting those who paid one dollar for violation of parking laws—were tried in Municipal recorder's court during the month of July, it was reported today by the clerk H. H. Duncan.

Fines during the month totaled $205, the money to be turned over to the county treasurer for deposit to the school fund. Court costs amounted to $35.95, including $146 collected through the parking law enforcement campaign, and the money is to be turned over to City Clerk J. O. Duval for deposit to the general fund.

The Police Pension Fund and the Department of Justice each received $25 from the court during the month, a one dollar fee for each being assessed against each defendant ordered to pay court costs.

Resistance To Axis Described as Magnificent

DECLARES NAZIS WERE SURPRISED

Chief Executive Only Laughs When Asked Whether Germany Has Been Doing Some Tall Lying

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asserted today that Russia's resistance to the Axis war machine was "magnificent" and "frankly better than any military expert in Germany thought it would be."

That was his reply at a press conference—he authorized direct quotes—to an inquiry on what he thought of Russia's resistance to date. He said:

"It is magnificent, and frankly, better than any military expert in Germany thought it would be."

When a reporter, referring to Adolf Hitler, asked whether Mr. Roosevelt included Germany's outstanding military expert among those surprised at Russian resistance, the President suggested that newsmen not spoil the story.

A laugh was his only response to another question—whether Germany had been doing some tall lying.

The chief executive said that Russia did not come under the terms of the lease-lend bill and he saw no prospect that she would. The reason, he said, is that Russia is able to pay for the purchase in this country of war equipment.

No decision may be expected on an additional lease-lend appropriation, the chief executive asserted, until Harry L. Hopkins returns to this country. Hopkins, lease-lend supervisor, now is in Moscow after having visited London.

Mr. Roosevelt would not say whether Hopkins might return by way of China.

Fund Is Supported By Boys And Girls

George Ross Pou, state auditor and treasurer of the Old North State Fund wants to be quoted as saying that the boys and girls of North Carolina are showing a patriotic and unselfish spirit in their donations.

In a letter to Dr. John L. Winstead, Pitt county chairman for the fund, Mr. Pou stated, "Since the Old North State Fund began its campaign to raise $75,000 to purchase a fully equipped airplane ambulance as a gift to the people of England from citizens of North Carolina, hundreds of letters have been received daily from those interested in the movement. A large number have been from boys and girls over the state and many have contained contributions to the fund. These letters, pencilled on every conceivable kind of paper, have shown me that our boys and girls have a splendid spirit of sympathy and a genuine willingness to make personal sacrifices for the benefit of others."

Mr. Pou continued by giving some examples of letters from children in various parts of the state: "For instance, here is an extract from a letter from Jimmy Overby, now visiting in Morehead City, which says 'I am giving my cents and dollar to buy a mercy plane. I hope it does a whole lot of good. This money was given me to go to picture show and to bowl but I had rather give it to the British for a mercy plane.' His brother Dan Overby, III, wrote 'I want to give part of my money to buy a mercy plane for the British. This is my pleasure money but I am sending it to you to help.' And here is an extract (Continued On Page Six)

ACCUSES NAZIS OF IMPUDENCE

Berlin Assailed For Urging Mexico To File Protest

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, accused Germany today of bare-faced impudence in urging Mexico to protest to the United States over the black-listing of Latin-American firms catalogued as pro-Axis.

Welles asserted that the German government had violated and destroyed the sovereignty of many countries.

Therefore, he said, it was nothing more or less than bare-faced impudence for Germany to try to tell Mexico or any other country what it should do to protect its sovereign rights.

Moreover, he declared that Mexico did not require any advice from Germany.

Welles made this press conference comment on the action of Mexico in strongly rejecting a German request that it protest the United States' action of black-listing hundreds of firms in Latin-America deemed to be operating for the benefit of the Axis.

"33" Test Passed By Cadet Bridgers

Cadet John David Bridgers, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Bridgers of this city, has just advanced another step in the course of securing his "wings" in the U. S. Naval Air Reserve Corps.

Cadet Bridgers at present is stationed at the Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., having been transferred to this advance training base from Jacksonville some time ago. He has just passed his 33-hour check. In advising his parents of having successfully completed the latest test, he wrote: "Now don't get the idea that I think I'm an ace or anything of the kind, but the '20' and '33' checks are the hardest you take during the whole course of training and so I feel sort of as if I have gotten over the hump."

He wrote that he would probably start in with primary formation flying this week. He added that after a week of such training he would take his final check in Squadron One. He said that Squadron Two was where "we really get the formation." Heavier ships are used in this phase of the training and the student flies from the front cockpit. He added that the planes used in this work were the outmoded ones that were used in the fleet several years ago, "but they look like something compared to the light trainers that we fly over in Squadron One."

Cadet Bridgers probably will complete his course in about three months. He left here in February to start the training period.

British Circles Say There Is No Indication Fall Of Leninograd Or Soviet Defeat In Smolensk Area Imminent; Brief Nazi Communique Devoid of Any Details; Claims Are Made by DNB, However

(By The Associated Press) Adolf Hitler's invasion armies were pictured in London reports today as stalled along the whole 2,000-mile Soviet war front during the past 24 hours and near the point of exhaustion, and in Moscow, Harry L. Hopkins expressed "even more confidence that Hitler is going to lose."

The Germans asserted that Nazi columns lunging toward Moscow had wiped out Red army troops trapped to the south of Smolensk, capturing 35,000 prisoners and 345 cannon.

Nazi dispatches claimed tens of thousands of Russians were killed in the action, which occurred yesterday.

From the German Fuehrer's headquarters came another communique of extreme brevity—devoid of any details: "Battles on the East front continue to develop in our favor. "Warplanes last night bombarded military objectives in Moscow."

DNB, the official German news agency, declared Nazi troops on the far southern front had forced a passage across the Dniester river, near the Bessarabian town of Seta-tea-Alba, threatening Russia's great Black sea port of Odessa, 30 miles away.

DNB asserted that German artillery fire halted troop trains attempting to withdraw Soviet forces from the southern front.

Moscow dispatches said Soviet troops were taking the initiative at some points in the vast battle line, and a Red army bulletin reported fierce overnight fighting in the Smolensk sector, 230 miles west of Moscow; in the Zhitomir sector, west of Kiev, the Ukraine; and in the Novorohyev sector, 200 miles south of Leningrad.

In Berlin, Nazi editors countered assertions that the German offensive had bogged down with a "wait and see" attitude. Again, they stressed that it was more important to destroy Russia's armies than to win ground.

Authoritative quarters in London declared there was "absolutely no indication" that the fall of Leningrad or a Soviet defeat on the vital central front at Smolensk were imminent.

Parking Violations Have Netted $159.00

The campaign being waged by the local police department against improper and over-time parking has netted a total of $159. It was reported this morning by Desk Sergeant H. H. Duncan.

Officers may be seen on the main streets any time during the day tagging automobiles not parked inside the lines and cars which stay parked more than one hour in the restricted areas.

The campaign has brought about a condition whereby a person can find a parking space in the main business section at almost any time of the day.

NYA Youth Busy While Off Work.
What do the NYA girls do while they are not at the center? This question is a frequent one, because the girls work every other two weeks in two shifts.

There's plenty of work to be done at home and many of the girls assume the entire responsibility of the house when "off work." Others work in tobacco or help in various ways on the farm. Some do all the cooking for the family while the others work—so you see they are not idle.

Do they put in practice at home what they learn at the center? Yes, and especially do they make their own clothes and those of other members of the family. In visiting their homes, I have seen evidence of girls practicing rules of cleanliness which they learned at the center. After studying nutrition, they are eager to eat the proper foods. Each youth working on the NYA is examined by a physician. Some of the girls have taken advantage of the findings and are endeavoring to improve their health.

One policy of our National Defense Program encourages the canning and storage of food for future use. The girls who have gardens are busy canning while at home. They are eager to learn new recipes and methods of canning.

"Will you help me arrange my living room?" This question was asked me while visiting in a rural home of one of the girls. After learning the few simple rules which apply to the proper arrangement of furniture, the girl immediately rearranged her bedroom to obtain a more pleasing effect. Some of the girls are married and have children. They welcome any helpful information about the proper care and guidance of their children.

The homes of America are our first line of defense, as our President has stated, and these NYA youths are helping to make it strong.—Elizabeth Everett.

MADE UP TO KILL

by Kelley Ross

YESTERDAY: After a lot of excitement, Green Apples has opened. Malla and Jeff have been walking the streets until the morning papers came out, and now they have discovered that the play is a hit. Little Carol, whose voice disappeared and came back just in time for her to play, is also a hit. And Eve North, the star, is mercifully roasted.

Chapter Five Poison

Somehow it shocked me. I knew of course, that Eve wasn't the actress that she had once been, that when her sparkling beauty had begun to fade her talent had oozed away with it, but I had never dreamed she would be received like this.

With every play in the last five years she had lost a little ground but in Green Apples rock bottom had come up to hit her. Playing with her it was hard to tell if she were good or bad. She was as much the great lady, above all reproach or criticism, that you forgot to think about her acting. She herself took her talent so much for granted that you began to do the same.

I was sorry for Eve North. In spite of a star complex I had found her fine to work with, and once she had been a really great actress.

"Listen to this," Jeff was saying. "Miss Halla Rogers gives a performance that is both delicate and charming."

"I am delicate! So delicate that I'm going right home to bed."

After gathering the papers together to show Carol, we paid our check and went out into the street. There were faint pink streaks in the dark sky and street lights and signboards were popping off. A few people hurried along dodging the spray of the sanitation truck that passed. We walked slowly and the pink light in the sky spread and grew and it was daylight when we reached my apartment. The elevator bell rang hollowly through the silent building when I pressed it, but no Jinx appeared the sergeant's feet.

"Let him sleep," Jeff said. "Softie!"

We trudged up the six flights dragging our heels and resting at each landing. I felt above the ledge of the door for the key that Carol was to have left there. The ledge was smooth under my exploring fingers. Sleepily, I rattled the knob and the door swung open. Then I stepped back and reached for Jeff. There was a long thin man asleep on my studio couch.

"It's an overworked burglar," I whispered. "Should I scream or can you take care of him yourself?"

"Scream," Jeff said. "The man stood up. I guess he hadn't been asleep. He looked at me and I saw he had nice gray eyes and a sour looking mouth."

"Miss Halla Rogers?" he asked. "Oh, yes. May I come in?"

"Come in," he said, not very graciously, "and sit down. I'm Peterson Of the Homicide Bureau."

Questions?

"How do you do?" I said charmingly and sat down. Then I stood up again, gazing at him. "Of the what did you say?"

"Peterson," he repeated, "of the Homicide Bureau." He was looking at Jeff. "Who's this?"

"His name is Jeff Troy and he's a very dear friend of mine. And is it rude of me to want to know just how you got in here and what you're doing here and where is my roommate?"

"Sit down." To my surprise I sat down unprotesting. Jeff slouched on the arm of a chair and we waited. Peterson eyed us quietly. "You live here with Carol Blanton?"

"Yes. Or rather, she lives here with me. It's my apartment."

"You're both employed by Clinton Bowers in a play called Green Apples that opened last night at the Colony Theater?"

"Yes."

"How long have you known Miss Blanton?"

"Four, no, five weeks. Since the day we started to rehearse Green Apples."

"And how long has she been living here with you?"

"Five weeks."

"Since the first day you met her?" he grunted, giving me a quick look. "How come?"

"Because she hadn't any other place to live and because she was broke. I invited her to stay with me and she did."

"What do you know about her?"

"Nothing very much. She's a nice girl who wants to be an actress. Why? What's the matter with her?"

He went right on. "What about her private life? Where's her home and her family? Who are her friends?"

"She's from Salt Lake City and she hasn't any family, but she's never told me anything more than just that. And as far as I know she hasn't any friends in New York. Just some friends of mine whom she's met up here in the apartment and of course everyone in Green Apples."

"How long has she been in New York?"

"I don't know exactly. I think about six months."

"Six months? And she hasn't met any people?"

"That isn't hard to do," I told him. "Not when you live in a furnished com and eat in durgstores and spend your days going around to casting offices."

"What about Lee Gray?"

"I frowned. "All right. What about him?"

"He's a friend of hers, isn't he?"

"I don't know. If he is I've never heard her speak of him. I've never met him."

"Peterson rambled over to the window and stood jingling the coins in his pocket and looking out at the morning. He turned suddenly.

"And you don't know anyone who might want to kill her?"

I jumped up and then thought better of it and sank limply back into my chair. "To kill her!" I said. My voice was such a tiny thing that it surprised me. "Has somebody tried to kill her?"

He nodded grimly. "And damn near made a good job of it, too. She collapsed in the elevator last night and the doctor who was called discovered she had a skintful of poison. He notified us and we managed to get her to Bellevue in time. She's going to pull through."

Jeff spoke for the first time. "What was the poison?"

"Morphine."

"Where did she get it?"

"At the theater. During the last act. It seems you got a scene in your play where everybody drinks a toast. Well, that scene was when it happened. Headquarters says there was morphine in the glass she drank out of. All the other glasses were O. K."

"Jeff let out an explosive breath. "Poisoned on stage! God! Poisoned in front of a thousand people and every one of them watching it. Have you been able to trace the poison?"

Peterson scowled. "Trace morphine? Not a chance. Every doctor in the country keeps a supply of it in his office, carries another supply in his bag. Every drugstore has it. You can get it in a hundred different ways." He turned to me.

"You wouldn't know anything about how this morphine got in Miss Blanton's glass, I don't suppose."

Jeff said, before I could open my mouth. "What do you know about how it got there?"

Perhaps A Clue

Peterson reached for a battered hat that lay on the coffee table and stuck it on the back of his head. "What would I know? I wasn't there. Somebody who was there will have to tell me," he said pleasantly and went out. The door clicked shut behind him and I heard his footsteps fading down the stairs. Jeff gave a long low whistle and I made as energetic a dive as I could muster for the telephone. I called Bellevue. Miss Carol Blanton's condition, they told me, was favorable.

"When can I see her? When will she be able to leave?"

Her condition was very favorable indeed, they said.

"But I want to know."

"Her condition," began the white hospital voice. I hung up in disgust and sid the phone across the desk. Suddenly I remembered how Carol had clapped down the receiver when she heard us the night before, remembered her face as she stood watching Tommy and me in the doorway. It had been white and drawn, not with illness nor with the surprise of our being there, but white with anxiety and something very close to fear. And then, I knew. I grabbed Jeff by the shoulders.

"Jeff, listen to me! I know why Carol lost her voice, why she would give up her first opening night! It was because she was afraid that something was going to happen to her at the theater and she wanted to stay away!"

"Then why did she finally go?"

"I suppose because we caught her phoning and knew she was all right. And if she had simply refused to play she would have lost her job. Oh, the poor little fool! If she had only told us!"

Jeff frowned and shook his head. "No, I don't think so, Halla. If Carol really thought that something was going to happen to her, that her life was in danger at the theater, I can't see her up and walking straight into it, job or no job."

"But this isn't just a job, Jeff. It's the start of a career, it's a whole new life beginning for her. A life in the theater."

"Not if it's going to end the first night."

I walked aimlessly around the room. "I wish I knew what it was all about. One thing I do know. Voices don't just snap off and on like electric lights. You don't croak like a frog one minute and talk in your ordinary voice the next. I don't think there was ever anything wrong with Carol's voice. I think she lost her voice so she wouldn't have to go to the theater last night but could still play her part later on. She did it awfully well, but she could. She's one swell little actress."

"I think I'd like to talk to Clint Bowers about it. What time does he get to his office?"

"About eleven usually," I said. "And just what do you think you are doing?"

He had yanked off his tie and was unfastening his shoes.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

LET THE TIDE DO IT
Many years ago when the Hell Gate bridge was being built over the East River in New York, engineers discovered the hulk of a derelict ship sunk deep in the mud just where one of the piers of the bridge was to be located. Try as they would they could not dislodge the hulk, and apparently all the tugging in the world was never going to raise it from the bottom.

At last one of the engineers had a bright idea. He took an old flat boat and, when the tide was low, fastened it to the sunken ship. Then he waited for the tide to rise. What big boats could not do, the great energy of the sea did with ease.
When the tide swept in, the derelict was loosened from the bottom of the river, freed from the mud in which it had for generations been imbedded.

There is a spiritual truth here which must be apparent to us all.
We have sins and weaknesses in our lives at which we have been tugging for years in an attempt to get rid of them. The message not only of the incident related above but of the whole revealed Word of God is that if we will let the tidal energy of the divine sweep into our lives it will raise out of our souls the derelicts that have become imbedded there.

We fight a losing fight against sin when we try with our own efforts to dislodge it. It is only when we give our lives into the hands of God that He does for us what we cannot do for ourselves.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinson
Washington — Before this dries, you are going to be hearing a lot about the CADS. I mean the Civil Air Defense Services.

A national committee headed by Capt. Gill Robb Wilson, who is also president of the National Aeronautic Association, has had plans for the CADS in the works for quite a while. For some reason the national defense people haven't turned on the green light for the CADS, but it's coming.

I saw a preview of the plans the other day. The underlying idea is to organize civilian aviation for an emergency.

Captain Wilson, writing in National Aeronautics magazine, gave a better description of civilian aviation in the United States than I can. "What is it? It is 82,000 certified pilots. It is 50,000 student pilots. It is 25,000 mechanics and airport personnel. It is 3,000,000 model builders. It is light plane model industry. It is 2,000 certificated civil aircraft. It is 2,000 airports and landing fields outside those serving military and scheduled flying." The list goes on, including all the magazines, journals, and national and local flying organizations.

This is the backlog out of which civilian defense proposes to carve the CADS, with a "wing" in every state, composed of flights, squadrons and groups in the smaller centers.

New Certificates.
The first step would be to have the Civilian Aeronautics Administration reclassify all airman's certificates. The new certificates would require proof of citizenship, oath of allegiance to the United States, and such positive identification as fingerprints and photographs. And the first job of the CADS would be to see that no one looked off or tightened a nut on an air jalopy without one of the cer-

One of Us Is Gonna Have To Get Out And Walk

tificates.
From thereon, the CADS would take over the job of guarding radio range stations and the 2,000 airports which, not being military or scheduled airline airports, would not ordinarily be subject to military guard. The CADS also would learn how to make these airports unsuitable for enemy use in case of invasion.

A courier service, with men capable of flying everything from bombers and transports to messages in a capsule, would be organized.

A highway traffic patrol would be established in every area where congestion might occur, the CADS patrolling such areas and notifying police and military authorities immediately by radio as to where jams were piling up.

Restricted industrial and defense areas would be patrolled constantly.

With the army and navy personnel tied up completely in defense training and maneuvers, all disaster relief work where airplanes are necessary would be taken over by the civilian flyers.

They would also assist in search for missing military aircraft and give aid to pilots and crews forced down in remote areas.

Would Have To Keep Up.
In order to accomplish all this,
the CADS would have to keep their flight training and mechanical skill right up to snuff. The flyers would have to know every inch of terrain in their defense areas as well as that in any nearby areas into which they might be called. They would have to know something about military air maneuvers, types of planes, and a dozen other things with which the ordinary civilian pilot has only a slight speaking acquaintance at present.

A few areas, impatient at governmental delays, already have organized wings along this line, notably New Jersey, Alabama and Long Island, New York, and Long Island sportsman pilot, is taking a lead in forming the group.

With the advice and under authority of state and local defense military authorities, these groups are ready to take the air. According to Captain Wilson, hundreds more will follow the minute they get the green light.

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. Has the sale of Defense Bonds and Stamps been a success?
A. A tremendous success. Even in the first month, May 1941, the sales went far ahead of most predictions by experts.

Q. How many Defense Bonds were bought last May?
A. More than four hundred and thirty-eight million dollars worth were bought by American men and women during the month of May.
This amount greatly exceeded the estimates made in advance by the Treasury officials.

Q. What about Defense Stamps?
A. Stamp total in May 1941 was $3,552,000.

Bonds and Stamps, go to the

Ford Sees Prosperous Future

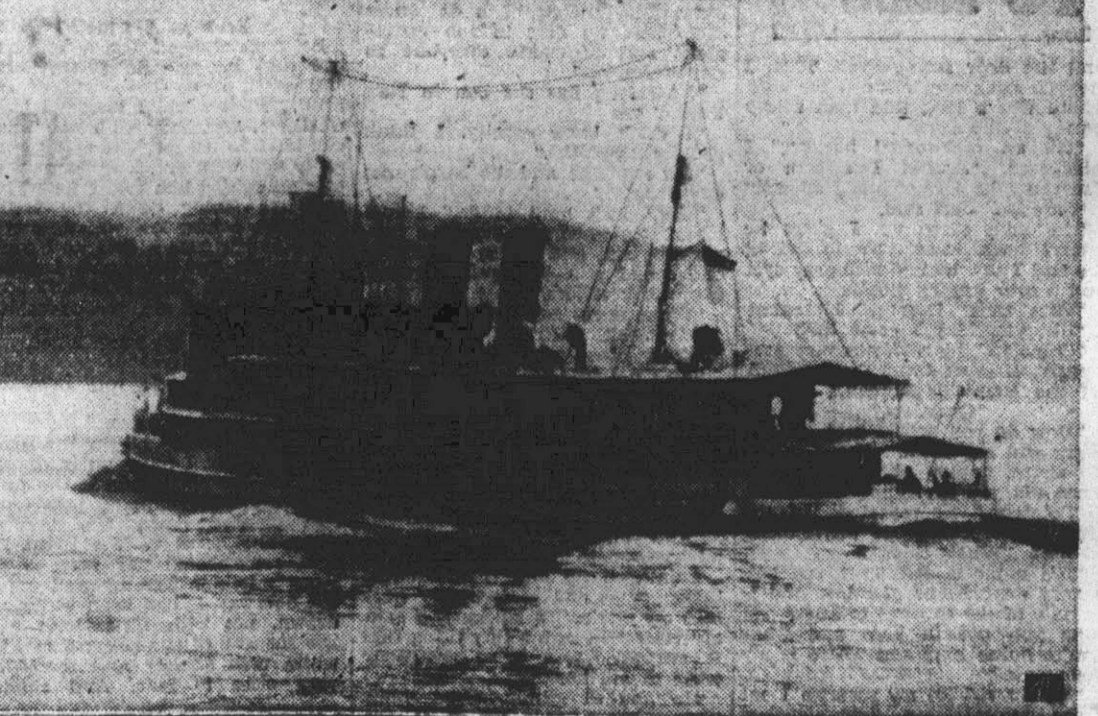

Henry Ford, who observes his 78th birthday anniversary July 30, says a plastics industry based on wheat will furnish employment for millions of workers in factories and on farms of the future. "We have found more than 20 elements in wheat," he explains. Ford is sitting on a shock of wheat on one of his farms near Detroit. This picture was made a few days before his birthday anniversary.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker
New York—These are the things I love... The song by the same name... A gun that was picked up on the field after the second battle of Manhattan... The blurred, unreal image of Manhattan through the river haze from the top of a Hudson river ferry at night... Newsreel theaters... The "feel" of a room that is lined with good books... The nutty fragrance of fresh roasted coffee... Lynn Fontanne reading "The White Cliffs"... Lynn Fontanne doing anything... Lynn Fontanne...
These are the things I don't love... The Hut-Sut song... Radio announcers who speak of "see-yutes" of clothes when they mean suits... Parades... Drug store coffee... Novelists with a candid camera complex who think you won't get it unless they "tell all"... People who stand too close to you when they talk to you... Professional southerners... Child actors... Cigars... Hearty back-slappers... Broadway styles, where men wear their pants too short, and too narrow about the cuff... Broadway, where men wear their pants too high... The waists of their pants come up to their armpits... These are just some of the things I don't love.
Miss J. B. of Jefferson City, Mo., sends in a note... "You like the American State Guide series, do you?... Wait till you see 'Missouri'!"

...It's truly a honey... I will go further than that and say it is one of the two or three best in the entire series... The Guide to the "Show Me" state is a luscious bag of fascinating facts and pictures... But then, what else could you expect from a state that was born on the Mississippi, grew up playing with sternwheaters, and produced Jesse James, Mark Twain, and the St. Louis Cardinals?... If I ever want to write anything about Missouri I won't have to go there for color... I'll just pick up this guide... It's all there, between the covers of as important a book as has come out this year. Congratulations.

EIGHT WAYS TO SAVE GAS

(And Still Another Way Is To Ride A Bicycle)

1. DRIVE at moderate speeds. Above 25 miles an hour a car makes fewer miles to the gallon.
2. ACCELERATE gently. Tramping on pedal sends more gas into the radiator than the motor can utilize.
3. DON'T ATTEMPT high speeds in second gear. Shift into high at 25 miles an hour—or sooner.
4. COAST to a gradual stop. Sudden stops are wasteful of gasoline, and usually unnecessary.
5. KEEP TIRES properly inflated. Under-inflation means more friction, more work for the motor.
6. TURN OFF the switch when you stop. An idling motor may be almost inaudible, but it uses gasoline.
7. KEEP SPARK PLUGS clean. Dirty plugs may mean a wast of 10 per cent of your gasoline.
8. DON'T OVERLOOK the importance of regular lubrication. A little oil and grease save a lot of gas.

Greenies Take Sixth Game From Kinston In One Week

KRACKE HURLS 8 TO 3 VICTORY

Locals To Engage the Goldsboro Team Here Tonight

The Greenies last night took their sixth straight victory from Kinston in a single week, winning behind the six-hit pitching of Utility Man Sonny Kracke by a score of 8-3.

The Greenies took advantage of the opportunity to add to its win column by scoring successive victories over the weakened Kinston team and took two double headers here — one on Sunday and one on Wednesday, and scoring single victories there Saturday night and last night.

Since the Greenies dropped a double-header to New Bern Thursday night of last week, they have won eight of the nine games played, defeating New Bern here Tuesday night and splitting a double-header with Rocky Mount on Friday night.

Also taking advantage of the weakened Kinston team, Manager Rube Wilson has given a rest to his regular pitchers — all except Teller who has been playing in the field while Charlie Scagg is out with a sore leg. Wilson himself and Scagg have seen mound duty during the past week.

The Greenies will have no easy sailing, however, now for a while. Tonight they meet the strong Goldsboro team in Guy Smith park. After returning the game tomorrow night, they engage New Bern here Sunday afternoon. Returning that game Monday, the locals open a two-game series with Williamston here Tuesday, engage Rocky Mount in a series Thursday and then come a series with the pace-setting Wilson Tobs, playing here Saturday, August 9 and there on Sunday.

Kracke held the Eagles scoreless for six innings last night, but the Kinston nine scored three in the seventh on a mixture of two errors, two singles and a walk. The Greenies had made two in the second, four in the seventh and two in the eighth. In addition to his hustling duties, Kracke got two for three official trips to the plate to lead his team at bat. Wilson got three for five, Caraway and Crowe two for four, Pierce two for five, Jenkins one for four and Pin-froek and Teller each one for five to account for the 14 Greenie safeties. Bucky Overton was the only local player unable to reach the offerings of Nicolli. Teller, Jenkins and Wilson got two-base blows.

F. F. Girls Wallop Third Street Girls

By CHARLES BROWN
Greenville F. F. girls walloped Third Street to the tune of 30 to 4. They will engage Third Street under the lights at Third Street park tonight at 8:30.

Setting the pace for the F. F. girls were L. Sprayberry, Elizabeth Burns and A. Satterfield. Burns and Satterfield got two homers each. For Third Street Dell Fyfe, Ruth Windham and M. Johnson were the batting stars.

R. Dail of Greenville F. F. produced the fielding sensation. No more official games will be played until after the all-star encounter on August 6 at Third Street.

N.Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 1—(AP)—A few mills put up a show of resistance in today's stock market, but industrials generally lacked rising stamina. A negative feature was that offerings were extremely light from the start. While there were scattered weak spots near the fourth hour, the majority of declines were negligible. First And Exclusive Picture Of Belgrade In Ruins

Belgrade, capital of Yugoslavia, presented this scene of devastation after German warplanes unloaded their bombs at dawn on Palm Sunday, April 6, as the city's 300,000 inhabitants were sleeping. This street was one of the numerous thoroughfares piled with debris in the wake of the attack which heralded the Germans' march into Yugoslavia. This first and exclusive picture of the ruins was received by the Associated Press July 31. It was routed out of Yugoslavia by courier to Cairo, Egypt, thence duplicated east and west and finally reached New York via trans-Pacific clipper connections.

Trucks On The Move Amid War's Desolation

This column of trucks was described by German sources as Nazi vehicles moving along the Minsk-Moscow highway past the ruins of a Russian town somewhere on the eastern war front. The picture was radioed from Berlin.

Between them is United States ambassador Laurence Steinhardt and at the extreme right is Sir Stafford Cripps, British ambassador to Russia. Later Hopkins saw Premier Joseph Stalin and promised American help immediately for the Russian's defending their country against German invasion. The picture was radioed from Moscow.

SAYS FARMERS PLEASED WITH NEW SALES SYSTEM
Consequently it goes on sale looking better and as everyone knows "tobacco sells best when it looks best."
"Many times when a tobacco grower prepares tobacco for the market he gets it ready expecting to sell with some particular warehouse, however, under the old block system sales would be delayed at that warehouse for several days and the grower, unable to hold his tobacco that long, would be forced to sell elsewhere. Under the half day system every warehouse on the market has a guaranteed sale every day and no matter which warehouse a grower prefers, he can always sell with the house of his choice.
"There are many other advantages to the half day selling system. These advantages are too numerous to mention, but it will be only a matter of time after the market opens before every patron of the Greenville market will be enthusiastic booster of this new system."

Fred Fuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fuller of Durham, wrote, "We are giving up our pleasure for the week to help get a flying hospital for the British. This is not much but I hope it will do some good. I wish I could give more money and hope that you will raise enough to buy a flying hospital soon."

Fort Barrancas, Fla.—(AP)—The Barrancas Breeze, Army post newspaper, hints that mosquitoes hereabouts are anything but microscopic in a tale about a couple of whoppers that had downed a guard.
"Shall we eat him here or drag him back in the woods?" the Breeze quoted the first mosquito.
"No," objected the second. "If we drag him back in the woods the big ones will take him away from us!"

Children Will Star In Greenville Movie

Melton Barker of Hollywood will arrive in Greenville soon to produce a two-reel comedy, according to an announcement by T. Y. Walker of the Pitt Theatre. The local play will be a kidnapped story and will be shown at the Pitt Theatre when completed.

Barker has the distinction of having discovered Spanky McFarland, who is now starring in "Our Gang" comedies. Barker and his cameramen are shown above.

The entire picture will be made in Greenville and around 75 local children will be used in the cast. Some singing and dancing will be used in the picture, but it will not be necessary for the child to be able to sing and dance to get a good part, as all types are needed to fill out the cast.

After the cast has been selected there will be three or four days of rehearsals, teaching them to act before the sound camera and talk over the microphone. There will be a small charge for this training; however, there will be no charge for registering and try-outs.

Children between the ages of 3 to 14 years wishing to try out for parts must register at the Pitt at once. When the casting director arrives in town he will get in touch with those who have registered and arrange for try-outs.

Professional Hollywood equipment will be used in making this picture.
