NEW YORK FIRE

Large Section Of Water-Front Raked By Conflagration

CUBAN VESSEL
LOST IN BLAZE

One Thousand-Foot Cuban Mail Line Pier Destroyed, Another Pier And Several Craft Damaged

New York, Aug. 18. — (AP)—Two men were killed, considerable property damage was caused and a number of seamen were feared drowned or burned to death today in a fire which swept a section of the Brooklyn waterfront.

The blaze, touched off by a series of lightning-like explosions, destroyed the Cuba mail line freighter Panuco, a 1,000-foot Cuba mail line pier and damaged an adjoining pier and several craft assisting in the unloading of a highly inflammable cargo from the Panuco.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine said he feared "many more men or bodies" were aboard the flaming Panuco which was towed into the East river after she caught afire.

He said 25 men were fished out of the river, two of them dead—both longshoremen and 22 were taken to hospitals.

The Panuco, loaded with quicksilver, minerals and hemp, broke immediately into flames, was cut loose and drifted down the bay, a blazing mass from stem to stern.

Firemen rushed all equipment to the five-alarm fire to keep the blaze from spreading to the nearby port line pier, where British ships almost daily load supplies destined for England and the Suez.

The scene of the fire was opposite Governor's island, site of Fort Jay, on the edge of Buttermilk channel, which links the East river with New York harbor.

Churchill Returns Home
From Atlantic Meeting

Revealed That Premier Visted Iceland Troops

London, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill returned to Britain safely today from a historic meeting at sea with President Roosevelt and a visit to Iceland, and was met by Minister of Information Brendan Bracken to complete arrangements for a probable broadcast by the Prime Minister.

The date for the broadcast has not been announced.

British and United States troops assigned to Iceland were inspected by Churchill on his way back from the Atlantic rendezvous.

As Churchill and his party drove to a special train in three motor cars, persons in the streets cheered and shouted "best of luck."

The Prime Minister returned in the battleship Prince of Wales, which carried him to the historic meeting with the President of the United States. The port of arrival was not made public.

The Prime Minister was expected to return to London later today.

Funeral Tomorrow
For Mrs. J. F. May

Mrs. Alice Baker May, wife of J. F. May, 74, died at her home in the Bell Arthur community yesterday at noon following a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock Daylight Saving Time, at the S. G. Wilkerson and Son Funeral Home 625 Dickinson avenue, by Rev. W. D. Nobles, Free Will Baptist minister of Winterville, assisted by Rev. L. E. Ballard, Free Will Baptist minister of Greenville. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Active pallbearers will be F. B. Manning, Tom Manning, Mark Smith, Allen Flake, Paul Rasberry and Griffin Rouse.

Mrs. May was born in Greene county, the daughter of Elijah and Marie Hobbs Baker. She was the last surviving member of 21 children.

Mrs. May had lived in Greenville for 45 years, moving to the Arthur community about 18 months ago.

Surviving are her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Nicy May White of the home; two sons, Nathaniel May of the home and Lome May of Greenville, and four grandchildren. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

With 3,000 German Tourists And Technicians Estimated to Be In Country Bordering Both Russia And India, Russia And Britain Seek To Prevent World War Occurrence

London, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Indications grew today that Britain and Soviet Russia were planning a decisive step shortly in Iran (Persia) where reports of German infiltration have brought a second protest from London and Moscow.

The Daily Mail said "we can not afford to go slow here," and called the country "on Germany's road to India." It asserted Britain had been caught napping when a revolt in Iraq threatened the entire Middle East position. Protracted fighting, which the British charged was instigated by the Germans in Iraq finally ended with the withdrawal of German elements and reinstallation of British control.

Informal sources estimated about 3,000 German tourists and technicians, many of them at key communication points, were now in Iran, which has borders on Russia and India.

The Times warned Iran to heed the British and Russian notes against alleged Nazi intrigue which might compromise the country as Germany did in the World War. (A broadcast by Tass, Russian news agency, quoted Ankara, Turkey, reports as saying that Germany was demanding air bases and aviation fuel in Iran and planning overthrow of the government. It said German agents had filtered into the Iranian army and more were coming via Istanbul to headquarters at Tabriz.)

Officials would not discuss the possibility of a military move in Iran, but it was recalled that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons August 7 that Middle East forces were being strengthened "for their next forward blow."

Grew went to the foreign office at 4 p. m. and had not returned to the embassy two hours later.

Before he saw Toyoda, Eugene H. Dorman, counselor of the United States embassy, was closeted with Japanese Vice Foreign Minister Eiji Amau.

The United States State Department announcement on the steamer President Coolidge was reported reliably being studied closely and seriously by the foreign office.

Washington said Saturday that Japan had refused clearance papers to the ship if it sought to move the more than 100 private American citizens now in Japan.

Mac Andrews, white man of near Bethel, declared to have been driving the truck, was ordered held on a manslaughter charge under $1,000 bond, which was provided, following a coroner's inquest conducted by S. G. Wilkerson, acting coroner, in Bethel. It was held that Andrews failed to keep the proper lookout on the highway. The truck was said to be owned by H. L. Polk of Bethel, who was getting poles for piling.

According to Mr. Wilkerson, the Negro was riding a bicycle on the left side of the road traveling toward Bethel. The truck, carrying six Negroes, was traveling toward Bethel. One Negro was standing on the running board holding the 14-foot pole, which was lying across the truck, the front sticking out two feet in front of the right side of the cab and the end lying against the left side of the truck body.

The front end of the pole struck the Negro.

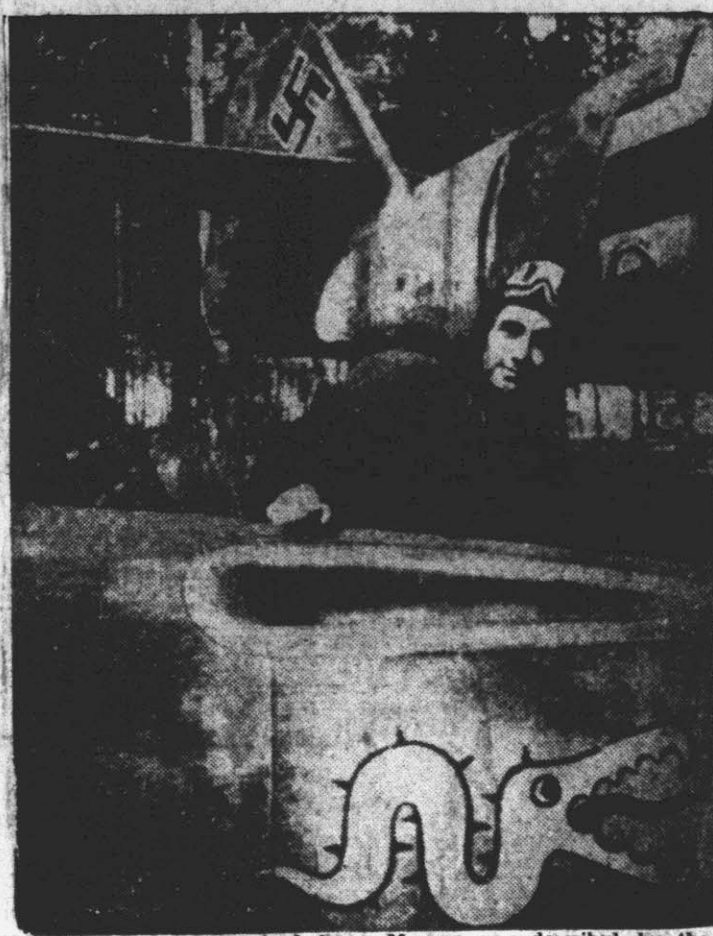

Andrews was bound over to the criminal term of Superior court scheduled for next week.

IN DRAFT LAW

Roosevelt Signs Bill Exempting 28-Year-Olds

Washington, Aug. 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed into law today legislation to exempt men 28 years and older from active military duty under the Selective Service act.

The new law provides mandatory deferment for men not yet inducted and directs that those of the specified age who requested shall be released from service "as soon as practical and when not in conflict with the interests of national defense."

The chief executive was expected to sign later in the day a bill extending the service of the rank and file of the army by 18 months.

The mandatory deferment applies to men who on July 1, 1941, or on July 1 of any subsequent year have reached their 28th birthday without being inducted into service.

The provision for release from service applies to men who were 28 or older when inducted, provided they had reached that age by July 1, 1941.

The law also amends the Selective Service act to require posting at the offices of local draft boards the names and classifications of men classified by each board.

Another new provision would exempt from service liability men honorably discharged from the army or coast guard for the convenience of the government within six months of the expiration of their three-year term enlistment.

President Studies
Navy's Suggestion

(By The Associated Press)
President Roosevelt had under consideration today a Navy recommendation that he sign an order for the government to take over the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company yards at Kearny, N. J., since August 7.

A strike there by the CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers has halted production on $493,000,000 of naval and merchant ship construction.

There was no immediate indication when or whether he would sign the document.

The union, claiming its members numbered 16,000 of the company's 18,000 workers, called the walkout after the management declined to grant a contract clause for maintenance of union membership, recommended by the Mediation Board.

Also Discusses Further
Lend-Lease Appropriation

Washington, Aug. 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt gave congressional lieutenants a picture today of his dramatic conferences with Winston Churchill and discussed with them a further lease-lend appropriation.

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said the group had had a "very interesting" conference, but that he could not say much about it because it was confidential.

But he said the Senate and House leaders had received as full an account of the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting as it was possible to condense three days of conferences into a discussion lasting an hour and a half.

"The question of a further lend-lease appropriation was discussed," he asserted. "The Budget is studying it. There has been no decision on the amount. When the Budget is through with it, there will be a further communication to Congress on the subject."

This, he indicated, may not come for several weeks, and at least not before Congress resumes a full schedule.

Asked whether the Japanese situation was discussed at today's conference, Barkley said it had been mentioned only casually and that there was "nothing very definite on it."

Those who assembled in the chief executive's study were Vice-President Wallace, Senate Majority Leader Barkley, Acting Speaker Woodrum (D-Va.), Chairman Connally (D-Tex.), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y.) of the House Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. George (D-Ga.) until recently the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

The annual national reunion of the Wildcat Division, of which a number of World War soldiers from this section were members, will be held at Raleigh Saturday, Sunday and Monday, October 4-6.

Registration will get under way Saturday, October 4, and continue all day, with the opening session scheduled for 3 o'clock. A torchlight parade and induction of "Sons and Daughters of the Wildcats" at 6 o'clock will precede the patriotic mass meeting at the auditorium at 8 p. m.

Sessions will continue throughout Sunday and Monday, concluding with a ball Monday night.

Headquarters will be at the Carolina hotel.

In Far East

Tokyo, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Releasable indications that a Russian Far Eastern army of great strength has been fully mobilized and stationed on the Siberian border and an hours-long conference between United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and Japanese Foreign Minister Toyoda stressed the critical situation in the Pacific tonight.

Significantly, Domei started off its European and American broadcast with a discussion of rumored plans of Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to visit Moscow, interpreting such plans as evidence of China's weakness and the effectiveness of Japan's blockade.

The whole Japanese press splashed reports under London headlines that Chiang would visit Moscow.

The Grew-Toyoda meeting was reported of the utmost importance, although there was no inkling of what they discussed.

Red army troops still were advancing, Soviet dispatches said, hitting savagely at the northern flank of the long German wedge into the Ukraine.

On the central front, Marshal Timoshenko's defenders of the road to Moscow were reported to have repulsed other Nazi columns in large-scale counter attacks. Near a city identified only as "M," the German losses were put at 5,000 men.

The Russians acknowledged that Nazi troops knifing across the heart of the southern Ukraine had captured the big port of Nikolaev, 50 miles northeast of Odessa, but declared that the city's shipyards had been blown up in the withdrawal.

Soviet officials also admitted the fall of Krivoy Rog, rich iron ore center, 100 miles northeast of Nikolaev, which the Germans claimed last week.

With the 200-mile battle front from the Baltic to the Black sea aflame in bitter night-long fighting, authoritative quarters in London said Adolf Hitler's invasion armies apparently had launched a major new offensive in the north driving from Estonia toward Leningrad.

London advices said the Leningrad thrust was timed with the withdrawal of Marshal Semyon Budenny's Red armies in the south, where they were taking up a new defense line along the mile-wide Dnieper river. These quarters estimated the German attacking force in the Ukraine at more than 1,500,000 troops, including 40 to 50 infantry divisions, four to six armored divisions, and 50 to 60 divisions of Tatars, Hungarians, Rumanians and Slovaks.

Elsewhere along the front three German divisions—the 22nd, 44th and 99th infantry—suffered losses ranging from 50 to 30 per cent of their normal strength, which would total approximately 43,500 men, a Moscow communique declared.

Moscow had its 20th air raid alarm of the war last night, but reported none of the raiders got through to the city.

He declined, however, to disclose any details.

Presents Letters
In Tobacco Trial

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Correspondence by officials of the defendant Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company telling of the cancellation of advertising allowances to H. A. Woods drug stores of Evansville, Ind., was introduced in the tobacco anti-trust trial today.

The letters, introduced by the government, which contends that the defendants used these allowances to control the retail prices of tobacco products, said the stores wanted to be free to meet certain competition.

The cancellation took effect on October 26, 1937, and the letters referred to plans to resume the allowances the following January.

The session marked the start of the 12th week of the government's prosecution of the Liggett and Myers, R. J. Reynolds and American Tobacco Companies. The government is expected to finish its evidence by the middle of the week.

Wilmington Brawl

Wilmington, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Authorities at Camp Davis, anti-aircraft base at Holly Ridge, investigated today a free-for-all fight between Negro soldiers and Negro civilians, resulting in hospitalization of six civilians and five soldiers.

They also sought to determine whether there was any connection between the fight and the death of Negro who, found afterwards, was taken to a hospital and thence to jail, where he died.

Shooting, knifing and clubbing broke out soon after a bartender in a Negro beer parlor refused to serve a soldier. The parlor was wrecked.

Point In Question Not Identified, But May Have Been Kiev; Soviet Forces Reported Still Advancing; Moscow Acknowledges Loss Of Nikolaev, But Declares Shipyards Destroyed

By The Associated Press
Fierce Russian counterattacks were reported today to have saved a Ukraine city identified as "K"—possibly Kiev, the capital, with 20,000 Germans killed and wounded after they had advanced within five miles of the town, then were thrown back six to eight miles.

Red army troops still were advancing, Soviet dispatches said, hitting savagely at the northern flank of the long German wedge into the Ukraine.

On the central front, Marshal Timoshenko's defenders of the road to Moscow were reported to have repulsed other Nazi columns in large-scale counter attacks. Near a city identified only as "M," the German losses were put at 5,000 men.

William the Wizard is coming this week.

Falls-Carter.
Spartanburg, S. C., Aug. 18.—A wedding characterized by simplicity and beauty was that of Miss Caroline Louise Carter and the Rev. William Joseph Falls, which was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Southside Baptist Church. The Rev. William Owen Carver, professor of missions and comparative religion in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., performed the ceremony. Dr. Carver is a former professor of both the bride and groom. The church was decorated with a profusion of flowers for the ceremony.

The vows were spoken before a background of palms. Baskets of white gladioli and cathedral tapers completed the decorations.

Miss Frederico Morris of Greenville, organist, played Schubert's "Serenade." Miss Louise Hammett of Inman, violinist, accompanied by Miss Morris, played "Londonderry Air." Miss Beverly Falls of Roanoke, Va., sister of the groom, sang D'Hardelot's "Because." Miss Morris also played Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The usher-groomsman were: the Rev. M. O. Owens, Jr., of Myrtle Beach; the Rev. Fred Lawhon of Portsmouth, Va.

Wagner's "Bridal Chorus" was used for the processional.

The groomsman were the first to enter and take their places at the altar.

Miss Mary Hudgins of Spartanburg, was the first bridesmaid to enter. She was followed by Miss Mary Lee Ernest of Greenville, Ala. The bridesmaids wore identical dresses. They were of blue chiffon modeled with a tailored waist ending in a very full skirt. The long, bishop's sleeves added to the beauty of the attire. The bridesmaids carried cathedral tapers of blue.

Miss Lois Carter, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. She wore a gown made like those of the bridesmaids of pink and carried a pink taper.

The bride entered with her father, Charles Benjamin Carter. She was lovely in her wedding gown of duchesse satin. The gown was a Victorian model, with a blouse gathered to a square yoke of Chantilly lace. The leg of mutton sleeves ended in points over the hand. The back of the dress was buttoned with satin-covered buttons. The billowing skirt ended in a long train. Her veil was of illusion bound in Chantilly lace, with lace inserts and was fastened to the head with a garland of miniature lilies. Her only ornament was a strand of antique pearls. She carried a white satin Bible showered with gardenias.

The bride was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, H. Clay Ferguson, of Roanoke, Va.

Following the ceremony, Beverly Falls sang as the benediction, "O Perfect Love." The Wedding March from "Midsummer Night's Dream" was used for the recessional.

For traveling the bride wore a blue ensemble with full-length coat, blue felt hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

Miss Falls is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Carter of 326 Wheeler street. She was educated in the city schools and was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Converse College and the degree of Master of Religious Education from the Woman's Missionary Union Training School, Louisville, Ky. Since her graduation she has been educational director at the Memorial Baptist Church in Greenville, N. C.

MODES of the MOMENT.

—by Adelaide Kerr—

Red wool looks young—and so do the wide sailor collar and huge bag of American opossum. Opossum is a hog-wearing fur in a comparatively low price range. Here again, you'll note that skirt fullness is held to the front.

Light and bright colors are edging out black for fall. Chesterfields. This model, in a soft brown fabric designed by Curt Forstmann, will be a college and career girl favorite. The little velvet collar is for flattery. Also in a new soft blue, wine, and caramel.

August 17.
The golden text was from Psalms 103:1. "Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon were the following from the Bible: "My soul shall make her boast in the Lord; the humble shall hear thereof, and be glad. O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together." (Ps. 34:2, 3).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Human thought has adulterated the meaning of the word soul through the hypothesis that soul is both an evil and a good intelligence, resident in matter. The proper use of the word soul can always be gained by substituting the word God, where the deific meaning is required. In other cases, use the word sense, and you will have the scientific significance. As used in Christian Science, Soul is properly the synonym of Spirit, or God; but out of Science, soul is identical with sense, with material sensation."

They will be at home at 317 North Boulevard, Richmond, Va., after September 5.

"Soul" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday.

Our Raleigh Letter
The new school textbook "Incident" has been closed at last and on Saturday the Superintendent of Instruction sent out the formal letter to the county boards of education giving instruction as to their use exclusively in the free public schools for the next five years.

Senator Pritchard and Congressman Pou of the Raleigh (Fourth) District, have secured establishment of nineteen free rural mail delivery routes in this district, the Senator to have the naming of ten and the Congressman nine of the carriers.

This is a great convenience to the country people, and every county in the state should urge its representative in Congress to secure the establishment of as many of these routes as possible. And it may be added that the more miles of "good roads" the counties have worked the more rural deliveries they will secure.

In Rocky Mount Hospital.
Miss Athleen Speight is getting along nicely, following an appendix operation in Park View Hospital in Rocky Mount.

Her sister, Mrs. Lloyd Vincent, has been at her bedside.

Return From Trip.
Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hill and their brother, J. D. Riggs, who is a fireman, first class, U. S. Navy, returned Saturday from a trip over the Skyline Drive through the Shenandoah national park. They entered the drive at Front Royal, Va., and left it at Waynesboro, Va. They drove a total of 950 miles, taking in Portsmouth, Suffolk, Norfolk, and Richmond, Washington, D. C., Charlottesville, Va., and Edenton and Washington, N. C.

Library News

Many New Books On Shelves.
Last week many new books of unusual interest were placed upon the Sheppard Memorial Library shelves. The books on America, on democracy and on current world affairs will meet a growing demand, while the five books of fiction, a western and a detective novel will be of especial interest to readers who want something light for the summer. A book of short stories completes the list.

The new titles are as follows: "Riddle of the Reich," by Wythe Williams. (New York, Prentice Hall).—A news commentator discusses two questions that have been uppermost in the minds of all thinking people—what will tomorrow be in Germany?—in the world?

"Toughen Up, America!" by Victor G. Heiser. (New York, Whittlesey House).—Dr. Heiser tells what we can do—as individuals, not as members of forced-exercise groups—to insure our maximum efficiency during the dangerous years ahead.

Exclusive Tongue
Basel, Switzerland. (AP)—There is no single "Swiss" language, but there is one tongue, Romansch which is spoken only in Switzerland. Switzerland has four languages: German, French, Italian and Romansch. The latter is spoken by only 40,000 of its more than 4,000,000 people.

Because Romansch, which is descended from and closely related to medieval Latin, is the only "Swiss" language, dictionaries, grammars, textbooks and translations of classics are being published to keep it alive.

Murphy, N. C., is nearer to six other state capitals than it is to its own capital, Raleigh.

President Roosevelt Grooms Crowd At Wharf

President Franklin D. Roosevelt waves happily as he greets the crowd at a wharf at Rockland, Maine, after coming ashore from the historic meeting with Prime Minister Winston Churchill at sea. Harry Hopkins, lease-end administrator, (right) and Capt. John R. Beardall, naval aide, beside the President, accompany him.

and also our maximum pleasure when the emergency is past. He advises on diet, exercise, sleep and relaxation, posture and "diseases we give ourselves" (such as chronic headache, constipation and high blood pressure).

"This is the Victory," by Leslie Weatherhead (Abingdon-Cokesbury Press)—A burning, enheartening, challenging affirmation of the faith "that overcometh the world," written amid the crash of bombs in London.

"Two I Love," by Ruth Corby. (Arcadia House)—Jerry and Jean Barbour, twins, discovered that when they tried to save their small inheritance by opening up a boarding house—and then fell in love with the first paying guest—that embarrassing complications followed before all ended well.

"You Go Your Way," by Katherine Brush (New York, Farrar & Rinehart).—This is a novel in the mood of "Young Man of Manhattan." It is gay, light-hearted and fun. It is Katherine Brush with a delightful story of New York.

"Wind on the Pampas," by Betty de Sherbinin. (New York, Morrow & Company).—In this absorbing story there is a magnificent panorama of life in the pampas—the cattle, the crops, the plague of grasshoppers, the ostrich hunt, the workers as well as the aristocracy of the Argentine.

"The Gods and One," by Albert Hannum (New York, Duell, Sloan & Pearce).—A captivating and living novel of the mountain people, a story of lasting appeal in which an innocent character plays the leading role.

"Lorrie," by Jane Abbott. (Lippincott).—The valiant story of a girl with winged feet who refused to be imprisoned in unhappiness. Lorrie was a trouper's daughter and dancing was as natural to her as breathing, but sickness abruptly marked a break in her career. It is the story of temptation, struggle, reward.

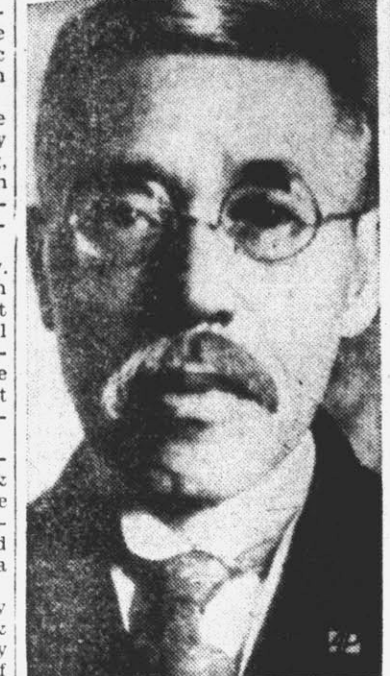

"Guardians of the Trail," by Jackson Gregory. (New York, Dood Mead Co.).—A galloping yarn of love and treachery in the sagebrush territory.

"The Deadly Truth," by Helen McCloy. (New York, Morrow & Co.).—Claudia Bethune fed her guests "truth serum" and the murder that followed fell into the expert hands of Basil Willing to unravel.

"The Best Short Stories 1941," edited by Edward J. O'Brien. (Boston, Houghton Mifflin Co.).—A final selection from America's great judge of the short story, with a memorial introduction by Martha Foley.

Assassin's Target

Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma (above), Japan's 75-year-old vice premier, and minister without portfolio, was shot in the chest and jaw and seriously wounded August 14 by an assassin who gained access to the baron's residence by a ruse. Hiranuma was regarded as having a moderating influence on the Japanese government.

Time And Tide Worth Waiting For
Manhattan Beach, Calif. (AP)—Last May Mrs. Robin Coons of Glendale took her young son Bill surf-bathing at the foot of Sixth street.

She came away minus her engagement ring, lost in the sand. A sympathetic young woman bather and later a professional sandfinder aided in a futile search.

"Chances of recovery," said the professional, "are so slight you really shouldn't hope—especially with the tide coming in."

Ten weeks later, L. J. Ewing of Manhattan Beach took his young son Jimmy III, surf-bathing at the foot of Sixth street.

A big wave washed up the ring at Jimmy's feet.

THE REPLIES ROLLED IN—Rep. Lewis D. Thill, Wisconsin Republican, was all but swamped by the more than 5,000 replies he got in his poll—ballots being sent to every tenth voter in the Fifth Wisconsin district—on whether America should enter the war. His figures on returns already tabulated are: 4,694 voting "no"; 411 voting "yes."

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

BEHIND IRON DOORS

John Bunyan, who wrote Pilgrim's Progress, was thrust into prison by loyalist persecutors. He afterwards wrote: "As I was going forth of the doors, I had much ado to forebear saying to them that I carried the peace of God along with me; but I held my peace, and blessed by the Lord, went away to prison with God's comfort in my poor soul."

Those jail doors behind which Bunyan was locked for twelve years have been preserved, and people in recent years have had the inspiring experience of looking on this ancient relic and pondering the fact that iron-studded doors cannot imprison a free soul. While he was behind these same doors, Bunyan wrote several books which have become models of English style, in addition to their being the spiritual inspiration of millions of people. It is only a faithful and resolute soul who, as he passes through iron-studded doors, can declare to himself and to them that he carries the peace of God along with him. There are people who have lain for years on invalids' beds yet who have revealed by word and act that they had carried the peace of God behind the prison doors of pain. People have made mistakes in life and have had to pass through dark doors because of them. Some have been brave enough to carry the peace of God with them. Iron doors cannot imprison men and women whose souls are really free.

VICHY FACED WITH GIVING AWAY VITAL PORTS

Scottish Rite News)

A Nazi overhauling of the Vichy government has arrived on schedule, and a "technical reorganization" within the Petain government has already brought about Vichy's greater collaboration with Germany. A few United States officials may be fooled by Vichy's moves, but it is certain the U. S. people will not be taken in by Vichy's ever closer cooperation with the Nazis.

Adolf Hitler's demands, observers believe, include German control of Dakar, Casablanca, and other French African ports, the use of the French fleet in the Battle of the Atlantic and French troops for use against the Russians, not to speak of further subjugation of what is sometimes called Unoccupied France. Would the United States now believe that further representations and warnings to the Vichy government would be effective?

That Hitler is beckoning all French outposts to enter the Nazi system of things is well known. From the U. S. point of view, Dakar is most dangerous as a springboard to South America. The Nazis in possession of Algiers, a Mediterranean port in Morocco, and Casablanca, an Atlantic port on the north coast of Africa, and possibly the Azores and Cape Verde Islands, would be equally as dangerous to the United

He Can't Do This To Me

States. Marshal Petain is not France. Admiral Darlan is not France, but the Admiral is probably in the best position at Vichy to force a complete acceptance of Hitler's demands. His sympathy for the Nazis has long been established.

The United States cannot trifle with a threat so great as Vichy's further "collaboration." It is time for the U. S. Navy and Marine Corps to stand ready for action, in anticipation of Vichy's next kowtow to Hitler.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—The House of Representatives is in the doldrums. It has been short of its laughter, applause and cheers—at least so far as the Congressional Record is concerned. And there are some who even would welcome return of the "Bronx cheer" if they could only get the notations back into the Record that their stirring speeches didn't find the customers sitting on their hands and that their wisecracks weren't just jocular drudgery.

It started back in June when Rep. Clare Hoffman of Michigan asked permission to correct the Congressional Record. On a certain page he said, following a speech that he had made, the Record noted that there was "Applause."

"There was no applause," said Congressman Hoffman, "and I ask that the word be stricken out." This somewhat flabbergasting request made such an impression that Speaker Rayburn made a rule. He pointed out that it was the Chair's opinion that "applause," "laughter," etc., were not a part of the House proceedings and should not be incorporated into the Record and thereafter would not be.

At the moment, no one took the matter very seriously. But reading the Record from day to day, brought a different reaction. A member got off a smart one. The House and the galleries laughed. The next day, reading the Record, he checked up to see just how funny he was and at the end of his hilarious gag was just a cold little period and after that a quick resumption of business.

Senators Get Full Credit

It was the same when the members delivered themselves of those titillating orations that called for hand-claps and hand-claps. So far as the Record showed, the members might have been reading from the 3,008th page of the cumulative statistics on the life cycle of a house fly.

Into this deplorable state of affairs the other day all the more deplorable since the Senate report in the Record, with such phrases as "boisterous laughter" and "loud applause," still shows to what extent the Senators are laying them in the aisles) stepped Rep. Louis Ludlow of Indiana, who as newspaperman and congressman has been watching the Washington scene for 40 years.

In all his career there has been only one such other demonstration of honesty as Mr. Hoffman's, said Mr. Ludlow. That was 35 years ago when John Shafroth, a representative from Colorado, stood on the floor and presented his resignation, saying that he had been studying the evidence surrounding his election, and that he had come to the conclusion that the other fellow had been elected. Nevertheless, said Mr. Ludlow, he ruling attendant upon this latter demonstration of honesty had caused a lot of members of Congress, including himself, "bitter anguish."

'Discourage Genius'

"One of the severest indictments that can be brought against the new rule," Mr. Ludlow declared, "is that it discourages genius and initiative among the members in thinking up bright things to say."

What would happen, he inquired, if Rep. Robert Rich (Pennsylvania) continued to find no hint of "razzberries" at the end of one of his dissertations on "where are we going to get the money?" or when it appeared in the Record that all of Mr. Luther Patrick's (Alabama) "inimitable jokes were duds;" or that Mr. Dewey Short's (Missouri) "superb punning efforts" failed to come off?

Reading the Record, said Mr. Ludlow, the voters must get the idea that the Senate end of the Capitol is rocking with applause and laughter while the show on the House side is dead as a one-night Broadway turkey.

The Congressman from Indiana doesn't stand alone in this, either. It's a major issue—like taxes and national defense and fixing prices.

Short Shots

Raleigh, Aug. 18.—The Young Democrats' youngest candidate is now in the doubtful class because of the Hatch act.

The question at issue is whether the anti-politics ban applies to a federal employee acting as a sort of pinch hitter and not seized and possessed of a fee simple title to a permanent post.

Miss Henrietta Price of Asheville has been looked on as a sure contender for vice-presidency of the Tar Heel Y. D's. In fact it was beginning to appear that she would be the only nominee for that place when the juvenile branch of the untrammeled Democracy goes into convention at Winston-Salem September 18, 19, 20.

But now the pretty brunette, who is only 20, doesn't talk about that. She is pinch-hitting for an employee in the Federal Department of Justice in Asheville and she evidently fears that the Hatch act will get her if she polities any.

Her friends insist that her temporary job does not prevent her from running and they even go so far as to say they'll draft her, even though she's below draft age for the army, if necessary.

She is probably the youngest aspirant ever to announce for a political office in North Carolina.

Despite her youth she has a long and energetic record in the Y. D's. Right now she is vice-chairman of the committee on new membership, and for two years she has been chairman of the finance committee for the annual 11th District Rally. Last year at the Y. D. convention in Raleigh she made the official response to the address of welcome.

To those who don't know him, Mr. Nisbet is hereby introduced as the Man With A Key

"What did I do, pal?" Jeff asked. "You was up here Sunday night gettin' into the apartment," said Jinx.

"He was not," I said crossly. "We told you last night you were wrong about that."

"I ain't him bein' here that makes him a suspicious character; denyin' it is what does it."

"But I wasn't here Sunday night, Jinx."

"Nobody was here," I said. "Are you serious? If you are serious, you are wrong. Someone came in here Sunday night, I seen him. I thought it was Mr. Troy. That's why I been withholdin' evidence from the police. I don't wanna double-cross Mr. Troy."

"He's talking nonsense," I said to Jeff. "There wasn't anyone here. Why, that was the night we were going to the Strivers' park, remember? And you called me at the theater and said you couldn't make it. I came home with Carol right after the play. And we both went straight to bed, didn't we, Carol?"

She nodded, her eyes on Jinx. "He said, 'Well, there was a man here. I know a man when I see one. I wasn't born yesterday. It was just before you two got home, a little after 12. I guess I stopped at this floor to put a new bulb in one of the hall lights and this here man was at your door. He had a key, too. I thought sure it was Mr. Troy. And I couldn't figure out why he walked up instead of ridin' with me."

"It was probably someone at the wrong door."

"No, ma'am. It wasn't the wrong door. Because he unlocked it and went in. And closed the door behind him."

Carol said impatiently. "You must be wrong, Jinx. There was no one here when we came in."

Then he musta gone out again," Jinx was stubborn.

"Are you sure, Jinx?"

"Sure I'm sure."

"Then why didn't you do something about him?" I demanded.

"What do you mean by lettin' strange men run in and out of my apartment?"

"I told you I thought it was Mr. Troy."

I looked at Jeff. "Do you think we had a burglar? He couldn't have been a very good one. Nothing's missing that I know of."

Jinx said, "You sure was lucky!"

"After this, Jinx," I warned him. "You beat any man who tries to get in here to a pulp."

"Okay, Miss Rogers. G'night." He started for the door. Jeff stopped him.

"Wait a minute, Jinx. What did this guy at the door look like?"

"Like you. Sorta tall. Sorta thin. You know."

"What was he wearing?"

"Regular clothes, hat and coat."

"What color hat and coat?"

"Well, sorta darkish. I couldn't see good. On account of one of the hall lights bein' out. And I only seen him a second. But I think it was darkish, sorta, anyway."

"Listen, Jinx, would you know this fellow if you saw him again?" Jinx considered. "If it wasn't you, naw. I don't think so. The 'guy was—"

Lost Key
"Okay, Jinx, thanks." Jeff turned to us as Jinx closed the door behind him. "Halla, I want you to think back. Did anyone at the theater know that you were going to the Strivers' party?"

"Why—why, anyone could have known, I guess. I talked a lot about it."

"Did anyone know that Carol wasn't going, that she was coming back here after the performance?"

"Yes, I suppose so. I kept coaxing her to go all evening. I made something of a fuss about it and Carol kept refusing."

And then, try to remember this Halla, did you tell anyone that you—yourself—weren't going after all?"

"I—no, No, I'm sure I didn't. You called just as I was leaving the theater. I decided that I didn't want to go without you and I rushed down the street to catch up with Carol. We walked home together."

I saw then what Jeff was getting at. Carol knew, too, for she was staring at him, her lips parted slightly and her hands clenched around the brandy glass.

"How many keys are there to this apartment?" Jeff asked.

"Two. I have one and Carol has the other."

"Where are they?"

"Mine's in my purse. I used it to-night when I came in." I looked in my purse just to make sure, and I held the key up in front of Jeff.

"Where's yours, Carol?"

She looked at him startled, as if she hadn't been listening and was trying frantically to piece together the bits of conversation that she had overheard.

"Carol," I said, "your key! Where is it?"

"It's—it's in my blue purse. I think. Yes, yes, that's where it is."

"Go look," Jeff said.

Her purse was on the table in the vestibule and I brought it in and handed it to her. She began emptying it; slowly at first—a handkerchief, compact, a little change purse. Then the things came flying—lipstick, a mirror, cards, cigarettes. But no key. And she raised her eyes, unbelievably, from the stuff spread out before her. She said, "It—it isn't here."

"When did you have it last?"

"I—I don't remember."

"You had it Sunday night," I said. "Just as we were leaving for the theater I gave it to you. I picked it up off the mantel and you slipped it in your purse—that purse."

Carol nodded. "Yes, that's right."

"And after Sunday night?" Jeff asked.

She closed her eyes in an effort to concentrate. "I can't think, Jeff. I'm so tired, I—"

I said slowly, "I used my key Sunday night when we came home. And Monday—Monday night at the theater you borrowed mine, Carol?"

Jeff said, "You haven't seen your key since Sunday night then, Carol?"

"I—no, I guess I haven't."

"But Sunday night you took it to the theater in that purse?"

"Where was your purse?"

"In our dressing room. On my make-up table."

"All evening?"

Worse Tangle
Jeff sat down and whistled softly. "Everyone at the theater knew or could have known, that Halla was going to a party and that Carol was coming home—alone. Any one could have sneaked into your dressing room while you were on stage and taken the key. Then he could have got up here before Carol, let himself in and waited for her."

My spine turned to ice. "Then Monday wasn't the first time that Carol was in danger? The man who stole her key and came here—came here to—"

"I'm afraid so," Jeff said.

Carol's voice was loud and harsh protesting. "No, Jeff! No! There was no one here when Halla and I got home, I tell you!"

"From that window," Jeff pointed. "He could see you coming down the street. He could see that Halla was with you. And that was plenty of time for him to leave. By the stairs—or even by the fire escape."

"No, that isn't it. I don't believe it! Won't you please stop talking about me getting killed? You sit around and figure out ways! It makes me—I can't—"

She rushed into the bedroom. I started to follow, then stopped, knowing how futile my comfort would seem to her. Jeff was beating a nervous tattoo on the window pane. When he spoke the excitement in his voice startled me.

"Halla, when we were up at Vincent Parker's today, he said something about seeing Clint Bowers Sunday night, didn't he?"

"Of course you do! He said they walked up Lexington Avenue together, they—"

"Oh, yes! Parker had an idea for the third act. It was after the invitation performance."

"Right! And they separated outside of Zoller's. Just down here around the corner. There isn't another Zoller's, is there?"

"Not that I know of. Jeff, you don't mean—that Clint was the man Jinx saw at our door? He couldn't have mistaken Clint Bowers for you, he's so much heavier and—"

"What! Who did Parker say was with Clint?"

"Tommy-Tommy Neilson! No Jeff! It couldn't have been! Tommy wouldn't sneak in like that and—oh, Jeff, not Not Tommy!"

"Grab your coat, Halla!"

"Why? Where are we going?"

"To see Clint Bowers. To find out where he left Tommy. Tommy fits Jinx's description as much as I do. It could've been Tommy!"

But we shouldn't leave Carol alone just now."

"She won't be alone."

He opened the door and Crowley's tall shadow fell across the rectangle of light that spilled out of the living room. I snatched up my coat and followed Jeff past Crowley to the elevator.

It was only a few minutes until Osga, a Japanese boy I had seen occasionally at the theater, ushered us into the library of Clinton Bowers' penthouse apartment and in his soft lifting voice explained that Mr. Bowers was busy with a young man and would we wait, please.

The whole living room had been designed for comfort. My survey was interrupted by a whistle from Jeff, who had discovered a shelf holding only beautifully bound copies of the plays Bowers had done—and that the list stopped short when Bowers' association with Eve North began.

Greenies Victorious In Two Of Three Week-End Games

DEFEAT LEAFS HERE SUNDAY

Split Doubleheader With New Bern on Saturday

SPORTS—48—GREENIES M. M.
The Greenies came through okeh in their week-end games, defeating Rocky Mount 3-2 here yesterday afternoon after having divided a double-header with the third-place New Bern Bears on Saturday. The Greenies also won the Friday night game against the Bears to give them two of the three-game series.

New Bern defeated the Greenies Saturday afternoon as Walker held the locals to four hits and got that many hits, including two homers, himself. In the night game the Greenies came through with a 4-2 try to even the series.

The first of a two-game series the Leafs here yesterday the nites came out with a 3-2 victory after a ninth inning rally by visitors was cut short by Overton's throw to third base to Thompson. The Rocky Mount protested the decision, but usual it netted exactly nothing.

Gloria Callen (left) of York, N. Y., and Patty Aspinall of Indianapolis congratulated each other at High Point, N. C., after setting two new marks in the Women's national A. A. U. swimming championships. Gloria wiped out the last of Eleanor Holm Rose's records from the books when she swam the 100-meter backstroke in one minute 17.5 seconds, and Patty put her Indianapolis Riviera club team out in front with a 3-minute 14.9 second mark in the 200-meter breast stroke.

It Seems Everybody Has To Meet Someone Somewhere

Whenever Hitler and Mussolini have something to talk about, they get together. That's been going on a long time and started a style. When Roosevelt and Churchill met, it completed a cycle; all major nations have sent their heads of state or other bigwigs into conference. The war year 1941 is also a big year for talking it over. Proof:

1. HITLER AND MUSSOLINI met at Brenner Pass, a favorite rendezvous, in June. Chief topic, according to Fascist sources, was possible American intervention in the war. Said La Stampa of Turin: "Everything is calculated up to the last consequence."

2. STALIN AND MATSUOKA met at Moscow.

3. MUSSOLINI and MATSUOKA got together at Rome. Japan's foreign minister, signed treaty with Russia, attempted to strengthen Axis ties on same trip. Then Axis went to war with Russia.

4. FRANCO AND PETAIN discussed the Mediterranean at Montpellier, France, in February. Petain once was a teacher of Franco, when latter attended military school in France.

5. ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL conferred aboard naval vessel in the Atlantic. They discussed "the whole problem of the supply of munitions" and came up with an 8-point program of war aims for the world's two great democracies.

Your News Test The Gasoline Crisis

1. What is the relationship between the dotted line on the map and the impending petroleum shortage on America's eastern seaboard?
2. When did the term "gasless Sunday" originate and what does it mean?
3. Of the great oil-producing states—Louisiana, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, California and Texas—which produces the most?
4. Just what is the reason for the threatened shortage of gasoline along the East coast?
5. Who holds the title "Petroleum Coordinator For National Defense?"

Each question counts 20. A score of 80 is good

News Test Answers

1. The dotted line shows the route to be followed by the world's longest single pipeline system, to be built by 11 American oil companies for carrying oil eastward.
2. The term "gasless Sunday" refers to a program begun in 1918, two months before the first World War ended, under which Americans voluntarily stopped using gasoline on Sunday.
3. Texas.
4. The diversion of oil tankers from the U. S. Atlantic coast to Britain.
5. Harold L. Ickes.

Immanuel Baptist To Get New Pastor

Buie's Creek, Aug. 18.—Hartwell Campbell on September 1 will begin his first regular pastorate at Immanuel church in Greenville succeeding Clarence H. Patrick. Mr. Campbell was last June graduated from the School of Divinity at Yale where he had spent three years. He is also a graduate of Campbell College, Wake Forest College, and did graduate study at the University of North Carolina in the department of Sociology, and at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky.

Following his graduation at Wake Forest, he was pastor's assistant and later director at Occult Avenue Baptist church in Newport News, Va., associated with Dr. Herman T. Stevens, pastor. During his stay at New Haven, Conn., he was educational director of a church in a nearby town.

Young Campbell this month performed his first baptismal service at 109-year-old Spring Branch church near Dunn where his beloved grandfather, the late J. A. Campbell, served as pastor for nearly 45 years. He had previously this summer preached at Spring Branch one Sunday and returned to be on the annual Homecoming day program July 25. He is the son of President and Mrs. Leslie Campbell of Campbell College.

A Campbell history teacher, J. E. Ayscue, founded the Immanuel church at Greenville and served as its pastor some years before coming to join Campbell's faculty where he later taught Hartwell Campbell. "It is wonderful to see how God calls and sends out his children," volunteered Mrs. Ayscue. "We came to Buie's Creek to a Christian college founded by Hartwell's grandfather and now he goes to Greenville to a church Mr. Ayscue organized and served as pastor."

College Dramatics Plans Disclosed

Clifton Britton, supervisor of dramatics at East Carolina Teachers College, has announced a varied and interesting program of plays for the coming year. The Chi Pi Players, dramatic club at the college, will produce the plays in collaboration with the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A., and the senior class. The Chi Pi Players will present three full-length plays during the year. The first of these will be "On The Bridge At Midnight," an old-fashioned melodrama of the early 1900's, by Bruce Brandon, which will be given on October 29 and 30. In cooperation with the A. A. U. W., the Chi Pi Players will produce in January a play especially for children, "Little Black Sambo and the Tigers." In February, Hendrick Ison's "A Doll House" will be presented with a cast made up of students and faculty.

The climax of the year's drama work will be a modern comedy, "The First Lady," by Katherine Dayton and George S. Kaufman, to be presented by the senior class late in the year.

"Victory Over Death," the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. pageant-drama produced for the first time last year, will again be given in a greatly revised and elaborated form with new scenery and lighting effects. The presentation of this play will hereafter be an annual event.

Fatalities In Industry Parallen Highway Deaths

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Aug. 18.—Fatalities in industrial accidents in North Carolina increased through the first six months of this year on a curve practically paralleling the gruesome graph of highway deaths.

There is, of course, no real comparison in mere enumeration of the dead as motor vehicle accidents claimed about seven times as many victims in each half-year.

There is, however, a marked similarity between the percentage of increase. Thus there were 545 highway fatalities in the first half of 1941 compared with 363 in the corresponding period last year, a jump of 50 per cent. In the industrial accident field the corresponding figures are 80 for this year against 51 last, the increase being 57 per cent. The parallel increase gives added point to the contention that the terrifying ascension in accident deaths is due to the vastly expanded industrial and economic activities of a nation in the throes of a world-wide emergency.

Be that as it may, the statistical story, as gathered by both the Highway Safety Division and the State Industrial Commission is a bloody one; and the first month of the second half of this year gives little or no promise of a letup. July traffic death figures are not yet available, but in the industrial field there were reported 12 deaths and a total of 6,073 accidents, against 7 deaths and 3,966 accidents in July, 1940.

In reporting the increase for last month, the commission's Safety Bulletin remarked in very matter-of-fact fashion: "In considering the figures showing increases in injuries and deaths reported, it should be kept in mind that the employment and man-hours exposure were considerably greater in 1941 than in 1940."

Nevertheless there are indications in the reports made on the first 24 weeks of the sixth annual textile safety contest that the entire increase cannot be attributed solely to increased employment and hours worked.

During this period approximately 100,000 employees in 245 textile plants have worked more than 93 million man-hours with an average of only 12.09 last-time accidents per million man-hours.

For the same period of time during the fifth contest approximately the same number of employees in 262 plants worked a total of 91 million man-hours with an average of 11.28 last-time accidents per million man-hours.

"While there is an average increase of nearly one accident for each million man hours worked, it is evident that the 245 plants reporting to date have worked two million man-hours more and are employing approximately the same number of employees as the 262 in the last contest, indicating a large number of untrained employees which would naturally increase the frequency average."

In short, lack of training is held responsible for a large part of industrial accidents. Highway safety division heads make the same point regarding road accidents—it's the untrained driver who is responsible for most of the crashes.

To Offer Stamps In Million Stores

Washington, Aug. 18.—A million retail stores from coast to coast will be ready to sell Defense Savings Stamps to their customers within a few weeks, it was reported by Secretary Morgenthau today.

This was announced coincidentally with the appointment of a Treasury's Retailers Advisory Committee which will cooperate with the Treasury Department in securing the support of merchants in every city and hamlet to aid in the Defense Savings program.

In a letter to Major Benjamin H. Namm, who was named chairman of the Treasury's Retailers Advisory Committee, Secretary Morgenthau wrote:

"I am delighted to learn of the meeting... at which support of 14 national retail trade associations was pledged to promote the sale of

RAILWAY LINE TO COOPERATE

Atlantic Coast Line To Aid Agricultural Program

Raleigh, Aug. 18.—A pledge of renewed cooperation in agricultural improvement has been made by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad to Dean I. O. Schaub, director of State College Extension Service, in a letter from Guy A. Cardwell, general agricultural agent of the railroad for North and South Carolina and Virginia. A six-point program was outlined by Cardwell.

Dean Schaub said the Coast Line has for years cooperated with the Extension Service in carrying to farmers, bankers and others interested in agriculture, information intended to lift the economic level of all the people. He said that the railroad has pledged a continuation of this policy, and will, in addition, expand efforts to:

1. Promote soil conservation and reforestation, and encourage the growing of cover crops, legumes and small grains.
2. Encourage diversification with particular emphasis on production of food and feed crops.
3. Bring about an increase in hay and forage crops, featuring planting and improvement of pastures to support livestock and poultry.
4. Encourage further production of livestock and poultry.
5. Promote location of meat packing plants with Federal inspection as conditions warrant.
6. Encourage and foster growing of fruits and vegetables within bounds and according to market opportunities.

Dean Schaub expressed appreciation for the cooperation of the Coast Line and other transportation agencies which have helped in educational work with rural people.

A coal field at Keokee, Va., abandoned for 19 years, has been reopened.

U. S. Defense Stamps... I understand that these trade associations speak for over a million retailers, located in every city and hamlet in the land, and employing over half of the four and a half million retail employees."

It Seems There Was A Stork
Hickory, N. C.—(AP)—Four boys were born in quick succession at a hospital here, and four girls followed soon thereafter. The following day seven more babies were born—a virtual baby blitz that taxed the hospital facilities.
But Harry Steelman explained it all. He saw a stork—so he said—standing on 15th street.
The bird seemed to be preening himself. "And he looked just like he was going for another load," Steelman added. Next day the hospital reported five new babies.

WHAT IS THERE ABOUT SPRING-AIR

NOT THIS—The cloth-pocketed mattress spring has its good points—but when the rubbing of spring against spring wears out the cloth, letting the springs get loose—there's trouble ahead.

NOR THIS—The knotted coils, hooked one spring to another, have no cloth pockets to wear out—but they have the hard knotted rings to creak and obstruct the flexibility.

BUT THIS—Spring-Air takes the best features of both old-type constructions and combines them into one. Scientific design has created a new type of mattress comfort, and introduced a new concept of mattress longevity.
