German Troops Reported Within 32 Miles of Leningrad

Volunteers Are Aiding Soviet Army

Third Line Of Defenders Man Barriers Inside Great Industrial City; Soviet Backs Also Sustained On Southern Front; Moscow Reports Successful Counter Attack On Central Front

(By The Associated Press) German troops storming toward Leningrad were reported within 32 miles of the old Czarist capital late today.

Already proclaimed "in terrible danger," Leningrad was being defended by hastily mobilized volunteers in a Peoples Army fighting alongside Red army troops, and inside the great industrial city a third line of defenders manned street barricades.

On the southern front, the Germans said masses of Russian infantry attempted to cross back to the west bank of the Dnieper and had been chopped down by German artillery.

Only on the central front, guarding Moscow, did the Russians present an optimistic picture. Soviet dispatches said counter-attacking Red army troops had smashed two successive German defense lines in the Gomel area, about midway between Smolensk and Kiev.

Simultaneously, Soviet Marshal Semenov Budyenny issued a dramatic appeal to besieged Russian forces at Odessa to defend that Black sea port "to the last drop of blood."

Adolf Hitler's armies today were reported to have cut off rail supplies to the north and the great Black sea naval base of Sebastopol in the south, and the Russians acknowledged threats at both ends and the center of the vast front.

A bulletin from the Fuehrer's headquarters said two Red army mechanized divisions had been crushed and all but destroyed east of Salla, in the far north of Finnish Karelia.

A Soviet communique said the Red armies, fighting with their backs to the wall in defense of Leningrad and siege-bound Odessa, were battling fiercely against concerted Nazi assaults.

Throughout the night, the Russians said, heavy fighting raged in the Kingssepp sector, 75 miles southwest of Leningrad; in the Smolensk and Gomel areas on the central front; and in the Odessa region, in the Ukraine.

Soviet reports from Hango, the hold-out fortress of the southwest Finnish coast, said Finnish-German attacks by land, sea and air had been beaten off.

German military dispatches said Nazi troops had seized the Moscow-Leningrad railway somewhere east of Novgorod, choking off the flow of raw materials essential to Leningrad's armament, shipbuilding and other industries.

DNB, the official German news agency, also reported that German, Rumanian and Hungarian troops had smashed across the Dnieper river to capture Zaporozhe, astride the only direct rail line connecting Sebastopol with northern supply centers.

It was the first time the Germans have claimed a crossing of the lower reaches of the broad river, on the east bank of which Soviet Marshal Budyenny's forces retreating from the Ukraine have been reported establishing a new defense line.

Dispatches from Moscow telling of heavy fighting along the whole front, made no mention of the successes claimed by the Germans in the Leningrad and Ukraine sectors.

Principals' Meet Set For Tonight

Principals of the Pitt county schools will hold their first meeting of the new year at Respos' place tonight, at which time a new president will be named and objectives for the coming year will be discussed.

J. W. Webster, who was principal at Arthur last year, was named president of the Principals' Club prior to the closing of the last school year, but he has left the Pitt system to go to Walstonburg.

WARNS TURKEY THAT DEMANDS MAY BE MADE

Nazis May Need Black Sea Territorial Waters

NAZIS PROMISE NO NEW DEMANDS

Adolf Hitler Reported To Have Given Assurance That No Other Requests To Be Forthcoming

Istanbul, Turkey, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Well informed Axis quarters today said Adolf Hitler has warned Turkey that he may soon need to use Turkish territorial waters on the Black sea, but has assured the Turks that he has no other demands.

This source said the Turkish ambassador to Germany, Husrev Genc, was asked to transmit this information to his government during an interview with Hitler and German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop, at the Fuehrer's eastern front headquarters.

This report says Germany has no intention of asking Turkey for concessions concerning the Dardanelles or other Turkish territory, nor will she ask for permission for German troops and war supplies to cross the country.

The use of Black sea ports may be demanded, however, if and when German forces reach the eastern extremity of the Black sea in their Russian drive. The extent that the Germans might then seek to use Turkish waters was not stated.

Movements of German and Italian troops and aircraft crews into Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Greece, where they appeared to be menacing Turkish frontiers, were characterized in conversations with the Turkish envoy as "purely a diversion" to worry the British, this Axis report said.

British quarters reported anew today that these movements were continuing.

Asks Applicants For Postmaster At Ayden

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations to fill the position of postmaster at Ayden, which position carries a salary of $2,200.

Applications must be properly executed and on file at Washington, D. C., prior to the hour of closing of business on September 12.

Examinations for the position will be held at Greenville, in the form of assembling of competitors will be stated on the admission cards sent applicants after the date for the close of receipt of applications and will be about 15 days after that date.

Applicants must be 21 years of age, a citizen of the United States and an actual resident within the delivery of the post office or within the town for at least one year preceding the date for the close of receipt of applications.

Examinations Called By U. S. Civil Service

New examinations important to the defense program have just been announced by the Civil Service Commission through the local post office with positions in many fields to be filled.

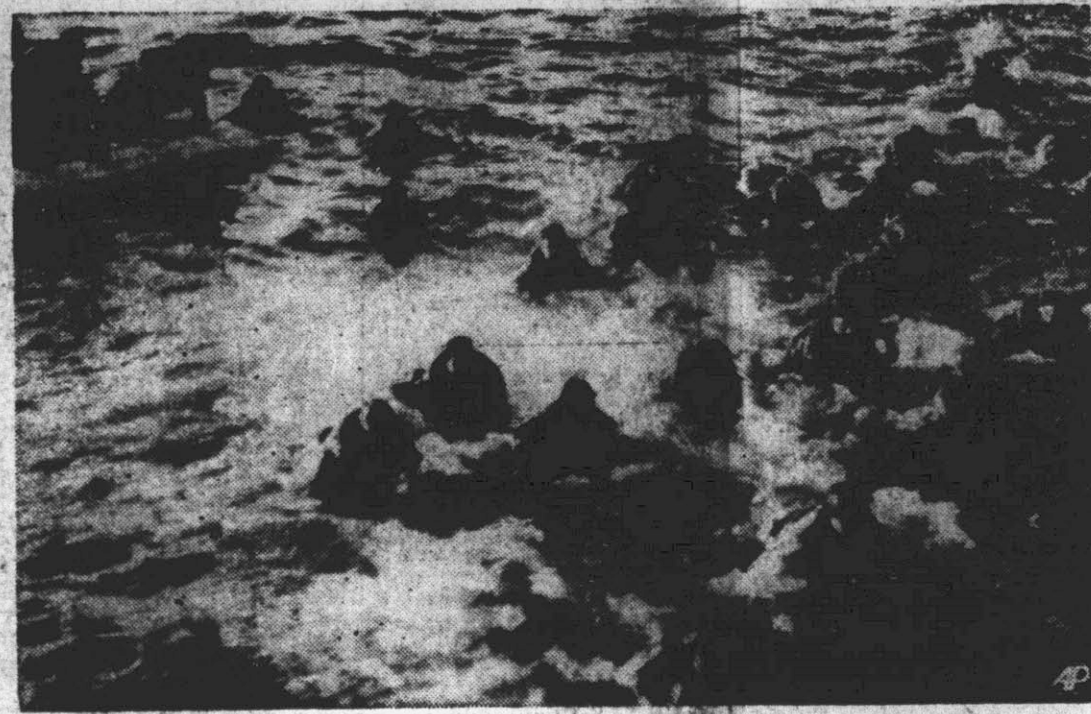

In connection with the pilot training program of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, link trainer operators and instructors are needed. The Commission also has announced a new examination for junior meteorologists.

Other examinations will include under graphotype operator, horizontal sorting machine operator, the two being among the list of office machine positions, script engravers, deck and engineer cadets in the Merchant Marine.

All applications must be sent to the Washington office of the Civil Service Commission. Persons desiring further information should inquire at the post office.

A carnival which toured England in the middle of the 18th century exhibited a man eight feet tall who could snap six-inch posts across one knee.

German Seamen Swim To British Ship

Survivors of a sunken German U-boat leap from a rescue raft (left), according to British sources, and swim to a waiting British warship. The British said the U-boat was sunk during an attack on a British convoy.

REPORTS FROM OTHER MARTS

Tobacco Prices Continue Firm Throughout The Belt

Raleigh, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Tobacco prices continued firm today on the markets of the North Carolina Bright belt.

Frank M. Park, Jr., sales supervisor at Goldsboro, said 255,140 pounds were sold yesterday for $70.167.4, an average of 27.47 cents a pound, and that for the first two days 480,488 pounds were sold for $134,843.55, an average of 28.10, better than 10 cents higher than the 17.91 cent average for the first two days of trading last year. The money paid the farmers was 50 per cent more than the amount paid in the same period in 1940.

At Wilson, Sales Supervisor N. G. Blackman, Jr., said the price average yesterday was 26.34 cents a pound, a slight drop from that of the opening day. It was attributed to inferior quality of offerings, which included a preponderance of black and common types. Prices and bidding were said to be still strong on the better grades. The quality of offerings also was said to be off again today.

Sales at Kinston yesterday totaled 1,229,158 pounds at an average of 29.92 cents. Offerings consisted largely of medium and low grades. The same sort of break was in prospect today.

Ashok reported the market today stronger than yesterday when 142,464 pounds sold for $40,391.40, and average of 28.35 cents a pound. About 150,000 pounds were auctioned today.

Approximately 1,000,000 pounds were offered at Rocky Mount, where yesterday's sales were officially reported at 1,044,634 pounds for $319,191.69, an average of 28.90. Today's offerings included some inferior grades, but the market tone was strong.

The entire force of the Pitt County Health Department will attend a southeastern public health association meeting to be held at Morehead Villa tonight under the auspices of the local department.

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, county health officer, is chairman of the program committee. Dr. B. M. Drake of Kenansville is president of the district association and Miss Emily Matthews of this city is vice president.

The meeting will be preceded by a visit to the U. S. Marine laboratory at Beaufort at 5 p. m., with those attending to have the time between six and seven-thirty to spend as they please.

The dinner meeting will get under way at 3:30, with Dr. G. M. Cooper and Dr. R. E. Fox of the State Board of Health scheduled to appear on the program.

Begin Round-Up Of Anti-Communist Legion Members

Versailles, German-occupied France, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Police of the German occupied zone today began a round-up of the members of the anti-Communist legion which has been recruited for service in Russia, in an effort to determine whether Paul Collette, who yesterday shot Pierre Laval, had accomplices within the legion's ranks.

It was at a mobilization of this very legion yesterday that Collette, posing as a recruit, shot the pro-Nazi Laval, Marcel Deat, old-time appeaser, and two others.

The red-headed Collette, meanwhile, frankly told an investigating magistrate this morning that he was a follower of General Charles De Gaulle and that he was very glad he had hit the collaborationist politicians.

Doctors were very hopeful they could save the lives of both Laval and Deat, who were gravely wounded.

New Greenville Firm Manufacturing Feeds

The Greenville Feed Mills, makers of poultry, hog and cattle feeds, has been established in Greenville, at the intersection of the Farmville and Ayden highways, and is expected to prove a big asset to the city and surrounding territory.

W. H. Bradsher, general manager, declared that "this is a local firm and we are endeavoring to use all the local grain and feed we can in making our feed."

He invited the general public to visit the mills, where will be found the latest and most modern equipment for making feed.

Mr. Bradsher declared that the mills' formulas were based on recommendations of both the United States and North Carolina Departments of Agriculture and that the finished products insure a properly balanced and thoroughly mixed feed. He also stated that only cured and seasoned materials are used.

Roanoke Island Has Adequate Gas Supply

Manteo, Aug. 28.—Approximately a quarter million gallons of gasoline are in several tanks on Roanoke Island here, assuring all visitors to "The Lost Colony" an ample supply of gasoline during the Labor Day week-end.

The announcement was made by Dare County officials, who made an inventory of gasoline storage tanks on Roanoke Island. In addition to enough fuel to prevent motorists from being stranded here, the Chamber of Commerce declares that there are ample accommodations here for the holiday visitors expected this week-end.

"The Lost Colony" will close its fifth season, the best in its history with a special performance on Labor Day, September 1. More than 425,000 persons will have attended the historical drama from every state in the union and several foreign countries before the season closes.

The total number of planes in both the U. S. army and navy is said to be between 8,500 and 10,500.

NO SHORTAGES IN MACHINERY

Tar Heel Farmers To Be Able To Get Implements

Raleigh, Aug. 28.—(AP)—North Carolina farmers have no reason to fear war shortages of farm machinery or machinery parts in carrying on their vital food-for-defense program, it was announced today by Dean I. O. Schaub, director of the State College Extension Service.

The U. S. Office of Production Management has issued priority ratings to manufacturers of farm machinery and parts as "positive assurance that the farm defense program will not be interrupted by shortages," Dean Schaub explained.

"This action of the OPM," the Extension director added, "gives recognition to the unspectacular but basic contributions farmers are making to the whole defense plan. It is the best assurance that they will be able to carry on."

The priority ratings for farm machinery manufacturers in securing needed materials "are of vital importance to agriculture."

"They are designed to maintain the existing farm plant at a high level of efficiency by making available needed repair and maintenance parts on a defense rating basis and to assure the manufacture of new equipment which is classed as absolutely necessary," the dean said.

A farm machinery manufacturer who is finding it difficult or impossible to get necessary materials for new machines or spare parts, should make application to the director of priorities, Office of Production Management, Washington, D. C., the OPA announcement said.

"While the OPM, of course, will expect manufacturers who are getting along all right without the help of priority ratings to continue to operate without help, it believes that proper use of the plan will assure to farmers a continuous flow of farm machinery and equipment," Dean Schaub concluded.

Several More Cases Taken From Docket

Cases disposed of at the criminal session of Pitt Superior court this morning and yesterday afternoon follow:

James Reid, assault with a deadly weapon, three to five years; George West Tyson and Pat Tyson, larceny, 60 days or pay costs, not violate any laws and be placed on probation; Calvin Haddock, driving drunk, 60 days or pay $50 fine and costs, license revoked 12 months; Edwin Little, seduction, nol pros with leave taken upon finding that prosecuting witness, said defendant married; Allen Moore, driving drunk, four months, or pay $50 fine and costs, $35.60 to prosecuting witness, license revoked 12 months.

The total number of planes in both the U. S. army and navy is said to be between 8,500 and 10,500.

Evangelist Is Known For Wide Activities

Dr. George Heaton, who will conduct a series of evangelistic services at Memorial Baptist church beginning October 13, is widely known outside his immediate section of Lynchburg, Va., where he is pastor of the First Baptist church.

For two years he has worked with the University Christian Mission during which time he visited about 13 different universities in the nation and spent a week on each campus. For the past two years he has been a member of the National Preaching Mission, doing special work among college and high school students in the major cities of the country. Besides, he has been associated with Dr. Stanley Jones, having led seminars on youth work. This ministry has greatly endeared him to a host of people who live beyond the bounds of his pastorate.

LOCAL PRICES HOLDING FIRM FOR THIRD DAY

Larger Percentage Of Sorry Tobacco On Floors

ALL WAREHOUSES CLEARED TODAY

Official Average Of 25.94 Paid Yesterday In Line With Record Prices On Opening Break Tuesday

Prices on the Greenville tobacco market continued to hold firm today and some observers expressed the belief it was selling stronger on some grades, although the percentage of sorry tobacco on the floors was greater today than on either of the first two days of sales.

After setting a record high average of 26.61 on the opening break Tuesday, tobacco continued to sell good yesterday and an average of 25.94 was established despite the fact that there was a greater amount of tips offered.

Offerings yesterday totaled 1,301,250 pounds and brought a total of $60,850.30 in establishing the 25.94 average.

All warehouse floors were being cleared today in preparation for another big sale tomorrow.

Farmers continue to appear satisfied and turned tags were a scarcity on the market.

The new sales system continues to gain favor as sales are conducted strictly according to schedule. Farmers are finding that they can tell almost the exact time their tobacco will be sold when they place it on the floors.

The general opinion that tobacco is selling mighty good continues to be evidenced wherever small groups can be found and the golden weed is usually the topic of conversation.

Meeting Is Held By Defense Board

The Pitt County Agricultural Defense Board composed of J. V. Taylor, chairman, representing the AAA; V. E. White, vice-chairman, representing the Farm Security Administration; R. R. Bennett, secretary, representing the Agricultural Extension Service; Robert Darr, representing the Production Credit Association; and J. Lee Tugwell, representing the REA, met in the county agent's office Monday afternoon to consider plans for strengthening agriculturally defense.

Two items of business were considered, namely, first, the efficient use of the limited supply of legume seed available in 1941 for soil conservation and growing our own nitrogen supply; second, the possible supply or shortage of farm machinery and equipment available for agriculture operations now and in the future.

After taking into consideration the fact that there is a possibility of a definite shortage of nitrogen fertilizer elements as well as other types of fertilizer materials, the board proposed that a letter be written to all farm operators in the county advising the careful and proper use of legumes in growing our own nitrogen supply in our soils rather than face a shortage of this vital plant food due to the war and lack of transportation facilities.

It was also disclosed at the board's office that due to the shortage in gasoline, it was declared officially.

Laval Wounded

Pierre Laval (above), former vice premier of France under Marshal Petain, was shot as he attended an anti-Communist demonstration at German-occupied Versailles, and was reported to have been seriously wounded. Also shot, but less seriously hurt, was Marcel Deat, former air minister. The assailant, not immediately identified, was overpowered and arrested.

TEACHER LIST IS DISCLOSED

County System Ready For Opening Next Wednesday

The list of teachers for the various units in the Pitt county school system was issued at the office of the Board of Education today, revealing many changes in the teacher personnel, as well as several changes in the principals.

The schools will open on Wednesday, September 3, with each unit holding its own local teachers' meeting at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, September 2. The first county-wide teachers meeting is scheduled to be held at Winterville, Wednesday night, September 10, at 8 o'clock.

It was disclosed at the Board of Education's office that 30 students will be transferred from the Belvoir-Falkland High School to the Fountain school this year. The children to be affected reside in the northern area of the Falkland district, adjacent to the Fountain district. The transfer was ordered by the State School Commission.

It also was disclosed at the board's office that due to the shortage in gasoline, it was declared officially.

It was also necessary to curtail some of the outside activities requiring travel, it was declared officially.

The teacher list follows: Belvoir High School: J. T. Lewis, principal, R-4; Greenville: Robert E. Simmons, Agriculture, Falkland; Ursula Carr, English-History, Farmville; Pauline E. #### News Of Abandonment Of Opposition To British And Russian Forces On Third Day Of Intervention Also Contained In DNB Dispatches; Invasion Said To Have Turned Into Peaceful Occupation

London, Aug. 28.—(AP) A reorganized Iran government headed by Premier Ali Furanghi, announced to Parliament today, the Teheran radio said, that orders had been issued to Iran troops to cease resistance to British and Russian forces which are rapidly advancing toward vital centers of the country.

News of the quick abandonment of armed opposition on the third day of the British-Russian intervention in the Middle East kingdom was contained also in dispatches of DNB, official German news agency, heard on the radio. The German dispatches said Ali Furanghi was seeking an armistice.

(A British broadcast, heard by NBC, said "all fighting in Iran has ceased," that the British-Russian invasion had turned into a peaceful occupation.)

"We shall do our utmost to maintain good relations with the foreign powers, and especially our neighbors, and to continue improvements which are the aims of His Majesty and the whole nation," Reuters quoted the Premier as saying.

Associated Press dispatches of Wednesday from Teheran, delayed in transmission, affirmed that the old Iran government had resigned because it could not make an agreement with British and Russia. The old regime had tried to stop the war by promising to expel all Germans quickly.

There was a conflicting dispatch from the Indian command headquarters at Simla which said that full mobilization was in progress in Iran.

There was no official explanation of this report, which was headed by headquarters of General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander-in-chief of British operations in Iran, although some observers said it might be intended as a "face-saving gesture." Neutral military experts said most of Iran's troops were mobilized already.

Informed sources in London believed the situation was leading toward a peaceful settlement, especially since the British minister in Teheran was still in contact with the government.

There was a possibility, however, that the British and Russian advance would continue until the allies are satisfied with their military positions there. The British want to secure an all-weather supply lane to Russia through Iran.

Dispatches from Cairo said latest reports indicated military operations in the Iran area were going ahead at great speed and not likely to last long.

The British capped a 100-mile drive of their northern column from Iraq by thrusting through Paktak pass, one of the "strongest natural positions of the Iranians in that sector, and reaching Shahabad, a commune said. The Iranians were said to have been fortifying the pass for the past month.

Russian Cossacks striking down into Iran from the north were reported to have reached Turkmanchah on the road to the capital city of Teheran, after a 70-mile advance in 24 hours from Cabris, the kingdom's second biggest city.

Legion Auxiliary Meets. The American Legion Auxiliary held an interesting meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. M. Clark, with Mrs. Alwyn Warden assisting hostess. Mrs. J. E. Rose, retiring president, presided over the meeting, which was opened with the Lord's Prayer and followed by the salute to the flag and the preamble to the constitution.

Miss Elizabeth Bridges, delegate from the Auxiliary to Girls' State, gave an interesting account of the week's meeting held in June at the North Carolina Woman's College in Greensboro, and the day the delegation spent in the state capital. Mrs. J. H. Rose gave an enjoyable report from the state convention in Durham in June, at which time Mrs. Arthur Corey was elected district committeewoman. She emphasized the fact that the national president, Mrs. Lynn Perry, made a plea for harder work than ever this year. A short business session was held and a gratifying report was given by the treasurer. Mrs. Rose then turned the meeting over to Mrs. L. H. Bowling, who had charge of the installation of the new officers. The following officers were installed: Mrs. George Spearman, president; Mrs. J. H. Rose, vice-president; Mrs. Arthur Corey, secretary; Mrs. W. J. Bundy, treasurer; Mrs. J. Hicks Corey, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Wiley Brown, chaplain. All were present except the secretary and sergeant-at-arms, who were both out of the city. Mrs. Spearman appointed the following committees for the coming year: Mrs. L. H. Bowling, Rehabilitation; Mrs. Paul Scott, Child Welfare; Mrs. W. J. Bundy, Membership; Mrs. Alwyn Warden, National Defense; Mrs. Hudson, Rufficiency; Mrs. A. E. Hobbard, Mrs. S. L. Bridges and Mrs. J. L. Evans, Visiting and New Membership. The meeting then adjourned to hold the next meeting with Mrs. W. J. Bundy on the fourth Monday in September.

At the close of the meeting a delightful informal social hour was enjoyed and the hostesses served refreshing cold drinks, sandwiches and cookies.

Past Matrons' and Patrons' Club. A most enjoyable meeting of the Past Matrons' and Patrons' Club was held with Mrs. Wiley Brown on Dickinson avenue, Tuesday evening. This club is composed of members of Greenville chapter No. 48 Order of the Eastern Star, who have served as the chapter's highest officers since its organization here more than 16 years ago. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. F. L. Whitehurst, president. Minutes were read and roll called by Mrs. C. T. Munford, secretary. Several important items of business were attended to and plans were made to help the chapter in a number of ways this fall. Following the business session, an interesting contest was held, in which Mrs. N. C. Brooks came out ahead, but all present received attractive gifts for working so hard. Mrs. Brown served a delicious ice course. Mrs. N. C. Brooks asked the club to meet with her in September.

THE SILENT VOICE

As "friends" passed by in silence And gazed with tear filled eyes, Upon the face they'd see no more, And said their last goodbyes, The room was banked with flowers (So beautiful to view) Some were sent by those he seldom Saw in life—but knew. A silent voice, which softly spoke, To some was clearly heard— Its sincerity rang out true—

YOU BROKE MY HEART The moon shone on your wavy hair I held my breath and you said "I really care." To Greenville Post Office Patrons On and after September 3 the general delivery of Greenville post office will not be opened for sale of postage stamps, etc., before 8 a. m., as the force of the office will be employed in making up and dispatching the mail for the four free rural delivery routes, the three star routes and the mail for train No. 58, all of which leave the office at 8 a. m.

To Halifax is accredited the distinction of being the first town in Eastern North Carolina to solve the water problem. It boasts of an artesian well on the court house square furnishing an abundant supply of pure cold water.

true, Darling, in my heart I still love you. You've left me with a million broken dreams, Our love was never meant to be, it seems. Time hastens on and now we must part. Remember darling, it was you that broke my heart.

Many Garments Sent To Aid War Refugees

One war relief activity which has been little publicized is The Christian Science War Relief Committee, with main offices at 237 Huntington Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts. Two thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine cases—half a million garments—valued at $489,368.23 in the nine months of the Committee's existence, is their record to date.

The work is an activity of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, and branch Christian Science churches throughout America. Only new garments or those comparable to new are accepted by the Committee. These are furnished almost entirely by members of the Christian Science organization. They are shipped to a central Christian Science committee, in London, where they are allocated to different almshouses in England and Scotland. The work is in the hands of members of the Christian Science denomination until the garments are distributed. They are gladly given to any person in need, regardless of denomination.

It is the purpose of the committee in the United States to keep its depots in England supplied with an adequate amount of clothing and blankets for emergencies; so, the London Committee is becoming known as a storehouse from which emergencies can be met. This was evidenced by the fact that it was crates of clothing from this Committee which first reached Coventry; and when the great fire occurred in London, The Christian Science War Relief Committee was able to meet an appeal for blankets. Fortunately, many hundreds of blankets had been shipped and had just arrived.

Not only are garments made by sewing units in about thirteen hundred places throughout the United States, but thousands of new garments are purchased and sent from a War Relief Fund generously contributed by Christian Scientists. Three motor kitchens have been sent and a motor truck or van is maintained in England for quick deliveries.

The Committee in Boston is grateful for the record of goods sent as well as for the fact that because services are so largely voluntary, its overhead expense is only 4.1 per cent. It also rejoices that less than one per cent of the goods shipped is all that has been lost by sinkings. The main depot for shipping to England is located in Boston, but shipments are also made from Portland, Oregon; New York City, and Los Angeles. The local Christian Science organization is actively co-operating in carrying forward this important work.

WILSON'S Weekly RECIPES

This month, as Wilson & Co. celebrates its 25th Anniversary, I want to thank you for your friendly use of my columns. Fortunate I am, after my long association with fine foods in Rector's Restaurant, to be connected with a company whose one aim has been to bring to homemakers meats infinitely more tender and tasty. For example, once smoked hams were all about alike. Then Wilson applied its famous "Secret Process" to its smoked ham, and today you have Certified Smoked Ham, the original tender, extra mild ham, known to "those in the know" as FIRST in Smoked Ham.

CELEBRATE YOUR HOLIDAY AND OUR BIRTHDAY

Do you want your husband and guests to say, "What a wonderful cook that woman is!"? Then, for your Labor Day holiday, order a Wilson's Certified Smoked Ham. Allow it to reach room temperature (68° F. to 70° F.). Bake it in an open roaster in a 325° F. to 350° F. oven for 16 minutes to the pound. Take off the skin, score the fat, cover with a half cup of melted currant jelly, and return to a 400° F. oven for 20 minutes to brown.

Labor-less MENU for Labor Day (If easier, use canned materials) Fruit Cocktail with Mint Leaves Baked Wilson's Certified Smoked Ham Glazed Sweet Potatoes Buttered Sweet Corn Gingerbread-Apricot Shortcake

Think as you eat your Wilson & Co. holiday ham of the men who work that you may have joy in eating... the farmer, the railroad, the cattle buyer, the laboratory scientists, the various testers and tasters with their skilled discrimination in flavor, and finally your neighborhood dealer... all contributing to the high goal of democracy: "the best for everyone."

THE BREAKFAST AMERICA GOES TO WORK ON

Bacon experts have long known that bacon is at its best when fresh from "the smoke." So Wilson & Co. give Certified Family Style Bacon a richer smoke, slice it in thicker he-man slices, then pack the slices back on the rack, as though the bacon had never been sliced. Result—a fresher, more fragrant flavor that cheers thousands of breakfast tables. Ask for Wilson's Certified Family Style Bacon.

Chapter 28
Strange Fact

"You understood, Steve," Jeff went on, "that Morris had never heard the name before. Yes, that's his story and he has stuck to it through everything."

"Why, Jeff?"

"That's one of the things I want Morris to tell us." Then Jeff went on musically. "You know the funny thing about all this Lee Gray business is that the police were on the right track from the very beginning only they didn't stay on it long enough. Their theory was that Lee Gray was someone in the Green Apples company, someone who had signed an assumed name to that note, thinking that Carol would understand it. It would have been difficult for an outsider to have got into the theater, up to Carol's dressing room and out again without being seen by anyone. But a very simple thing for a person in the company. They followed their theory for a little while. They checked that note with the handwriting of everybody in the cast, even the men's, although the writing was obviously feminine. But they missed checking one person."

"Who?" Carol breathed.

He looked at her quietly. "You." Her hand went clutching to her throat. "I? But, Jeff, it was—the note was—"

Steve wheeled on Jeff, his face dark and stormy. "What are you talking about, Jeff? That note was sent to Carol. Why should they check her handwriting?"

"That's what we all thought. That's where we made our first mistake. Just because the note was found in her purse we assumed that she had been the recipient. We weren't bright enough to realize the truth. The truth was that Carol wrote the note herself and it was found before she had a chance to send it."

I laughed and the sound fell like a dull clatter in the tense silence of the room. "But, Jeff, it's silly."

"Look at Carol."

Her eyes were fastened on Jeff's face, held there as if hypnotized. Her lips parted and trembled, but there was no denial on them.

Jeff continued. "You wrote that note, didn't you, Carol?"

"Yes," it was hardly more than a whisper.

"And you left it in your purse where the police found it. I'm not positive to whom it was written but I had three guesses, all of them would be Greeley Morris, right?"

She nodded dully. "Yes. It was to Greeley Morris."

Steve said, "Carol!" and put his hand softly on her arm. She brushed it off with a gentle movement.

Her eyes still clung to Jeff, and she didn't seem to know that it was Steve who spoke or Steve who touched her.

"And the thing you had to see him about, that thing which was so important, was to ask him not to tell anyone that you were Lee Gray."

She said, her voice a monotone. "Yes. How did you know, Jeff?"

The Right One

"I guess I'm getting to be a detective. Haila told me that the reason you had such a tough time getting a start on the stage was because you were such a bad first reader, that you had to work into a part before you could do anything with it. Then yesterday Clint Bowers remarked about your wonderful first reading for him, that after he heard you Alice McDonald didn't have a chance for the part of Dina. I should have got it then."

"But I had to be re-cued and to Nelson did it for me. He was in the audience, he said, the first time you were in, and that you didn't give a reading, you gave a performance. And it dawned on me at last that for being a bad first reader you were sure knocking them over right and left."

"I watched out and took a guess. Maybe you gave such a spectacular first reading because it wasn't a first reading at all. Maybe you knew that part. But how could you? The play was done in England. When Haila and I were visiting Morris at the Gotham I noticed that he had a half-dozen scrapbooks overflowing with clippings. I got in his room while he was out and—"

"How in the world did you get in his room, Jeff?" I asked.

"It was tough. Even after I convinced a chambermaid that I was a detective I had to give her ten dollars and my fraternity pin with promises. We're engaged, but I think I can break it. She doesn't know my name. Besides I wouldn't marry a girl that didn't trust me. She watched me while I read Morris' scrapbook so I wouldn't swipe anything. Well, I found the London notices of Green Apples, no Carol Blanton. But the play was tried out in Manchester, and playing Dina was a girl named Lella Gray. I knew from the way Lella Gray was. The critic described you pretty minutely, Carol. He raved about you."

Steve's fingers beat a nervous rhythm on my mantelpiece. He was watching Carol quietly, his face a stony question. She said, not looking in his direction: "I'll tell you about it if you want me to. There isn't any use hiding it now."

"No," Jeff said. "Maybe if you tell us everything we can help you."

"Carol Blanton's my real name. My mother's name was Lella Gray and I liked it. I took it when I went to London."

"Mother died when I was a baby. My father when I was sixteen. I was all alone. I found a job in a department store. I hated Salt Lake City. I hated the store and I hated everything about my life. I wanted to be an actress. And I saved my money, the little I earned."

"I finally saved four hundred dollars and then I won a dramatic prize that a woman's club gave. That was enough to go to London and enroll in the Royal Academy there. I'd dreamed about that for years. For the first time in my life I had what I wanted."

"There was nothing to remind me of that store. I had a little room, all mine, and new clothes and new work. A brand-new life in a brand-new country. Everything was wonderful, the way I'd planned it to be. It was while I was at the

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE INNER DETECTIVE

"Be sure your sin will find you out."

This does not mean, "Be sure your sin will be detected." Instead it means, "Be sure your sin will detect you." Sin is never done with us just because we are done with it. No matter how frantically we try to escape it, we can be sure that the evil we have done will dog us through every turn of life until it pulls us down and makes us see that every evil act brings evil upon him who does it.

One could hardly call this a comforting reality, but a reality it certainly is. It may be hard to face, but facing this truth has deterred some from certain evil courses they were contemplating. If we will look full in the face the consequences of an evil act before we perpetrate it, we seldom have the audacity to go on with it. Men can do all because they see only the temporary satisfaction of such a course of action. They would turn quickly enough were they but to remind themselves that whether they be detected or not the sin itself will turn upon them to torture them with remorse, to spoil their self-esteem, to eat like a ravenous worm at their peace of mind.

The worst punishment our evil involves us in is not exposure to others, but to ourselves. It is not the fear that someone may discover how we have acted, but the devastating realization day in and day out that we have done an evil thing.

With good tobacco prices and resulting prosperity there is a tendency on the part of all of us to want to do a lot of spending, but some of the profits from the present tobacco crop invested in defense bonds will not only be a big help to the government at this time, but will come in handy later for the investors when the slump which must eventually come, arrives.

Secretary Hull indicates that this government will pay no attention to Japan's protest against our shipments of war supplies to Russia by way of the Pacific. The secretary is exactly right in declaring that our policy is still that of freedom of the seas and any effort on the part of Japan to attempt to stop our use of them will meet with serious consequences. The time has come for America to let Japan know that any further encroachments on her part must be backed up by her willingness to fight.

Judge Nimocks acted wisely in court here yesterday when he gave a 17-year-old youth a suspended sentence on a larceny charge and ordered that the boy attend school regularly for the next two years. Such a plan gives the boy an opportunity for some very necessary learning to become a much better citizen than would six months on the roads. The judge no doubt realized that the sure way to make a hardened criminal of the youth was to place him in a road camp along with much older offenders. The final outcome of this experiment will no doubt prove a guide for future actions of the court.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

(Sitting in for vacationing Jack Stinnett, Miss Arne has written a series on Washington's women reporters. This is the first of three articles.)

By SIGRID ARNE
Washington "Members and Press Only" is a forbidding sign which appears in two places in the capitol. One is beside a private elevator to the Senate floor and gallery. The other flanks an elevator to the House floor and gallery. Newspaper men take that privilege absent-mindedly. But it's usually with a gulp that a woman reporter takes her first ride.

It was 'way back in 1850 that the first woman writer sat in the Senate gallery. Now, 91 years later, women are still much in the minority. Of 542 persons admitted to the press galleries only 38 are women.

The women have every privilege the men enjoy, except the old "back room" gathering at the day's end when men cronies of press and Congress collect for a few "quick ones" and the low down.

That could mean the women miss the stories but they get around it by more persistent use of the phone and feet. I've never heard a trained woman reporter complain that any government official "held out" just because she was a woman.

But women must disprove personally the adage, "Tell a woman, tell the world." Once they do, they get a special loyalty from their news contacts.

There are many ways of doing it, but here's an example from Ned Brunson Harris, one of the few women to have headed a metropolitan paper's Washington bureau.

Ned had been tipped to a news bomb by a grouch senator who swore her to secrecy. Then a representative called to tell her the same story. She played dead pan to the second call.

Then the representative told the senator he'd talked with Ned. The senator hit the ceiling with "So! She talked!"

"Talked? Did she know about it before I talked to her? She didn't say so."

The senator chuckled, phoned Ned "You're one woman who can keep a secret." And he followed through with many valuable tips.

There are about 150 women reporters in this town — from young college graduates to frail Maude McDougal of the Philadelphia Record, who looks the grandmother but won't tell her age. Some barely exist on gossip letters to home town papers. But some get around in chauffeur driven cars.

Many are "sex's", having shifted to publicity jobs, and most of those are with the government. After they shift because of the one real handicap which Washington women reporters meet, in common with sisters in other cities. Editors still assign the real news stories to men, and request the women to come back with some bright stuff about what Mrs. Roosevelt wore.

Some few have taken that hurdle and none more spectacularly than explosive little Doris Flesoon of the New York Daily News, who made it 100 percent newspaper by marrying reporter John O'Donnell, also of the News.

Doris is the only woman who is assigned to presidential train trips as a straight news reporter. She has gone so many times that even Mrs. O'Donnell's daughter, tiny Doris, 5 years old, has protested.

Short Shots

Raleigh, Aug. 28 — It seems to be unanimously agreed that there has been a big pickup in employment in North Carolina. Times are so good, in fact, that the Governor recently issued something of a "dare" by guaranteeing to find a job for any Tar Heel qualified at any occupation requiring skill or special knowledge and who was unemployed. He had few takers and, in every case, he was able to show that it was the fault of the individuals and not of the times that these few were out of jobs.

Despite all this, the monthly survey of the North Carolina Department of Labor shows only a nine-tenths of one percent increase in manufacturing firms employees from June to July and an actual decrease of three-tenths of one percent in employment by concerns other than those engaged in manufacturing.

Total pay rolls rose somewhat more encouragingly, with a 2.5 percent increase in those for the manufacturing industries to offset an eight-tenths of one percent drop in the rolls of all other plants, giving a net increase of 2.3 percent. The 187,265 workers covered by the report drew, for July, a total pay of $13,343,156 — which figures an average of $17.85 per week per employee.

On the hour front average hours per week dropped by 1.8 percent, while average hourly earnings were rising 3.2 percent. The average Tar Heel work week was figured at 37.9, an average hourly wage of 47¢.

These data were compiled too early to show what effect the silk shortage is to have on the hosiery industry. The department's figures showed the rayon plants up one percent, against an increase of 2.3 percent in the seamless hosiery plants.

This and That . . .
Have you $47.24 in a North Carolina commercial bank on demand deposit and $21.51 on time deposit? No. Well, then, you haven't the average, because those are the averages for all North Carolinians. The June 30th call report of the banking commission showed demand deposits of $169,643,280.37 and time deposits of $76,809,774.92 in the commercial banks. Dividing by 3,571,623 (the official 1940 census figures on the state's population) and you get the results indicated . . . There is going to be a party — or something. Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott called to your reporter Wednesday. "Hey, want to see why I'm leaving town." Inspection of the automobile the commissioner was about to enter revealed a big jug of fresh apple cider. "See, I've got my jug and everything," cracked the commissioner. . . Among cases due to be argued before the North Carolina Supreme court next week are the appeal of the State from lower court decision invalidating Wilson county's special grand jury drawing statute and an action in which the Nash county board of health and the commissioners are rowing over the appointment of a health officer. . . The Sixth Naval District (this one) needs 127 radio-men for active duty to fill communication billets for naval activities

Enemy Over The Everglades? Midgets Stand Their Guard

Russian-born midgets, who reside in a tiny settlement on the fringe of the Everglades, search for imaginary planes with Commander W. Edward Winegar of the Coral Gables American Legion post.

AP Feature Service
Coral Gables, Fla.—Six Russian-born midgets, retired trouper who reside in a settlement of doll-like houses on the fringe of the Everglades, have been assigned roles in the defense of the United States. Their tiny settlement has been designated as an observation post in the nation-wide air raid warning system.

Proud of the duty assigned them the midgets eagerly demonstrated how they could perform.

John Velikanoff, 48-year-old jack-of-all-trades, grabbed a miniature set of binoculars.

"Two turkey buzzards flying south," he shouted.

Michael Sokolsky, 56, picked up a telephone and said briskly: "Calling headquarters. All quiet here. Is supper ready?"

Peculiar Names Turn Up In Issuance Of Licenses

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Aug. 25 — Already noted for some of the unusual and peculiar names of some of its towns and localities, North Carolina also has some people living in the state with unusual names, the files containing the names of 860,800 persons holding automobile drivers licenses show.

Worth Money for instance has a driver's license, as does Royal Money, Precious Worthy, Carrie Stone and Good Simons. Then there is Zero Tooten, Fake Kidd, Corn Flack and Constant Fearing, perhaps because of the state highway patrol, which has authority to suspend driver's licenses.

Those interested in colorful names will appreciate Rich Blue, Pine Valentine Corn, Grey Green, Pink Bridges, Lemon Ham and Pink Eagles, each of whom has a license to drive an automobile in North Carolina. Chief Red Wolf might also lend additional color to this list, also Golden Tart.

Loving Justice Good should never have any trouble with the highway patrol by having his license revoked, although Will Drawhorn might get into trouble if he tried to draw a gun instead of a horn. Another "duckie" name found in the files of licenses is that of Duck Answer.

Real Jolly should turn out to be a pleasant fellow, with his opposite Sulkie Police, not a pleasant and a possible problem for the highway patrolmen. In fact, the record card on Sulkie Police shows he has been arrested at least once for drunken driving.

Then there is Polly Shook Leatherwood, perhaps for that Romance Thrower, Bold Robin Hood — Pardon us, if we get slightly romantic. Another interesting pair is Adore Coffee and Kel Paine — perhaps Adore thought coffee would kill pain and that he was Perdue Wise, the North Carolina mountain vernacular for "pretty wise."

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

(By Substituted Trustee)
Pursuant to the power and authority contained in a certain deed of trust dated the 25th day of November, 1935, executed by Mary Curry (Widow) to T. C. Abernethy, Trustee, which deed of trust is duly registered in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, North Carolina, in Book Q-30, page 367, securing a certain note payable to HOME OWNERS' LOAN CORPORATION, default having been made for a period of more than ninety (90) days in the payment of said note as provided therein and in the performance of certain covenants

PROTECTION

For over two years this Committee has waged its "Clean Up or Close Up" campaign to protect the legitimate beer retailing business by eliminating those few undesirables who use their beer licenses as a cloak for unlawful activities.

Law enforcement agencies and the brewing industry both recognize that no program can be entirely successful without the approval and active support of law-abiding citizens.

We ask your cooperation in this work. Please do not patronize beer outlets that tolerate anti-social practices—that compromise ethical conduct.

BREWERS AND NORTH CAROLINA BEER DISTRIBUTORS COMMITTEE

The "V" Is Victorious In Fashion

Sure, you get the meaning of this British hat.

It's a double V for Franca White, radio singer, who drapes her triangular glenite scarf to match the initial on the frill bag.

By HELEN FORREST HALL
(AP Fashion Writer)

The V is victorious in fashion, anyway. Aside from stunts, such as hair-dos and painted motifs on arms and legs, the V theme is playing a functional part in fashion design.

Stripes and plaids, well liked this season, spell a bold V in bias-cut dresses and coats. Many new hats, both American and British, blatantly depict the theme as a morale booster, while others take advantage of the pleasing motif for subtle, wearable line or trim. Gloves, purses and even shoes follow suit.

In the novelty lines, countless gadgets such as vanities, eye glasses, scarfs, and clips, pins and jewels, bear testimony to the popular acceptance of the V theme. Innumerable buttons parading the symbol in outline or super-imposed upon a disc are reported selling well. People seem, unconsciously or not, to be making V formations—such as Gertrude Lawrence's arrangement of jeweled pins on the bosom of her dress.

Stylists report the V theme has been accepted to a point where, in their belief, it will continue in little unexpected ways for a reasonably long time.

Sacrifices Must Come—Voluntarily Or By Force

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Aug. 26.—If the people are not willing to make certain sacrifices—such as conserving gasoline and the like—Hitler will eventually force them to, in the opinion of T. Boddie Ward, commissioner of motor vehicles and North Carolina's gasoline coordinator.

Mr. Ward recently laid down a three-point program of gasoline savings which he said is almost unique in that following it "would let us eat our cake and have it, too," and is now hopeful that the dire necessity for making such sacrifices will be brought home to all the people of North Carolina.

If this necessity is not born in upon all, he said, "Hitler is likely to solve the gasoline problem for us. There won't be any trouble finding parking spaces, because those of us who have bicycles to ride will be lucky."

He is no alarmist, fearful that German tanks are about to be landed on the Tar Heel coast, but he does believe that a victorious Hitler would put such economic pressure upon the United States that America's standard of living would fall to a point unbelievably below those of today.

Nor does he believe that conservation of gasoline in itself alone will avert disaster. He does feel, however, that these days of motorized warfare have made gasoline and petroleum products highly important in the world's economy.

Therefore he believes that all North Carolinians should cooperate to the limit in the program of gasoline saving, not alone as a material but a psychological, contribution to national defense.

He does not believe that closing gasoline stations from seven to seven if gasless Sundays be added, he inclined to view these closing periods as valuable in conserving electric power and he thinks that they will be filling station men solve some of their employment problems. Also, he is confident, the psychology of the closings is good.

As for his three point program he is certain it will work wonders if it can be brought to the public's attention forcibly enough to bring about even moderate observance of its principles.

His plan calls for (1) Maintaining all mechanical parts of automobiles in first class condition; (2) Reduce speed at all times and (3) Systematic planning of motor trips particularly deliveries by commercial firms.

"A car with a properly-adjusted carburetor will use much less gas," he declared, "proper break adjustments will prevent constant drag on the car. A clean car, with its running gear free from mud is much more economical to operate."

As for speed, he dares anyone to make a comparison such as he made himself this last week-end.

"I've been in the habit of driving out to a farm I own about 30 miles from Wilson and doing a good deal more driving around every Sunday I have occasion to be known to push the legal speed limit right closely," he said. "This last Sunday I made the same trip, being sure never to go over 40 miles an hour. In previous weeks I'd been using about half a tank of gas. This time I used less than a fourth."

He pointed out that businesses which deliver often send their trucks into the same section many times a day. "Just a little systematic routing would save much gas," he said.

The international agreement regulating the treatment of war prisoners was signed by 47 nations, including Britain, Germany and the United States.

jump in one year.
Principal items in the increased resources were the somewhat ominous one of "cash and due from banks" which rose by $45,880,001.12, indicating that idle money is still being piled into the vaults of Tar Heel banks; but at the same time there was an increase in loans and discounts, which rose from $124,488,255.01 on June 30, 1940, to $145,344,926.79.

This nice increase of $20,838,671.78 led Commissioner of Banks Gurney P. Hood, by whom the statistics on the June 30th call were issued, to remark that "this indicates business is still increasing in North Carolina. The banks of North Carolina are also doing their part to help finance the defense program."

There was also an increase in the resources under the item "United States obligations" of $18,420,520.03, indicating that defense bonds are being bought by as well as through banks.

The steady climb in North Carolina's bank resources since the days when it was necessary to shut them all up to keep them from going completely to the bow-wows is indicated by the resources shown at each mid-year call from 1932 to date:

1932—$199,927,812.26.
1933—$175,655,727.35.
1934—$210,972,995.65.

1936—$303,201,179.40.
1937—$305,489,649.00.

1938—$306,920,107.22.
1939—$360,400,964.63.
1940—$398,314,586.75.
1941—$483,627,571.82.
A similar tabulation of resources of industrial banks:
1932—$15,828,587.32.
1933—$10,505,770.50.
1934—$10,542,754.25.
1935—$12,044,598.33.
1936—$14,095,872.38.
1937—$16,110,554.96.
1938—$17,575,434.27.
1939—$18,457,887.20.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By Bobbie Coates

Hollywood—Just about now, for the sheer novelty of it, some alert producer ought to be whipping up one of those old-fashioned tear-jerkers full of sweet sorrow, pathos, and hearts-and-flowers.

Come the autumn, such a picture would be a novelty, and relief to audiences from what—or so the movie-makers hope—will be aching sides and laugh-wrinkles.

The sound stages now are neck-deep in comedians. If any of the funny boys and girls aren't working, they'll never again be confronted with such a tidal wave of opportunities. Hollywood's idea of what you want—and it's a pretty good idea at that—is laughter.

Abbott and Costello, still riding their phenomenal crest (and nobody more surprised than Universal), are "way out West for 'Red' Em. Cowboy." Olsen and Johnson, once tepidly welcomed on the lots, are popping their all into "Hellzapoppin."

"Panama Hattie," with Ann Southern and Red Skelton among others, is Metro's currently loudest contender, Skelton having won his A-letter through monkeyshines in "Whistling in the Dark." "Babes on Broadway" would be the Number One entry here, for its comedy and music, except that the Mickey Rooney-Judy Garland bid includes a dab or two of pathos—the kids give up their big chance, etc., for the sake of the orphan kiddies.

RKO's mixing in with "An Obliging Young Lady," starring Joan Carroll—not exactly slapstick or zany, but loaded to the last reel with funny characters, including a covey of bird-callers. "Tom, Dick and Harry" (already on view) and the completed "Look Who's Laughing," with Fibber McGee and Molly and Bergen and McCarthy, are other giggle entries.

At Paramount it's "Louisiana Purchase" (Bob Hope, Victor Moore, Vera Zorina, Irene Bordoni et al.) and at 20th Century-Fox it's Laurel and Hardy in "Great Guns," more fun in the draft, Warner's has "comedy on the polite side in 'The Male Animal' and 'The Man Who Came to Dinner,' following the raucous 'Navy Blues.' Columbia is throwing in 'Three Girls About Town' (Joan Blondell, Bonnie Barnes and newcomer Janet Blair with John Howard). More politeness, but funny, is evident 'When Ladies Meet'—Greer Garson, Joan Crawford, 'The Doctor's Husband' (Henry Fonda-Barbara Stanwyck) is comedy-romance at Columbia, like 'Appointment For Love' (Universal) which has the same story premise—man jealous of his medic-wife's patients. In 'Appointment' there are Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullivan, last seen together in "Back Street," which indicates the purr things have taken.

There's a lot of adventure stuff, and some mystery, and some lusty-gusty romance (like 'Gable's 'Lucky' Tank') but the town's fall fashion accent is on mirth.

Approximately 2,000 officers are required to handle organizational bookkeeping of the U. S. army in Washington.

Pickering Hurls 6-3 Victory Against Bears' Hamilton

LOCALS START EARLY IN TILT

Finfrock Looks Good As Sub In Center Field Post

Pickering last night hurled the Greensies to a 6-3 victory over the New Bears. Hamilton, the local's hold on second place with a six-game lead.

The loop continues to present a close race for third and fourth place and a chance to enter the play-off series. New Bern is two games ahead of Goldsboro and three and a half ahead of Williamston and Rocky Mount.

Although Pickering allowed eight hits to Greenville's nine, he was effective in the pinches and received bang-up support in the errorless game. Don Finfrock, who took a turn at first base Tuesday night and made a fine showing at that position while Skipper Wilson was on the mound, was shifted to centerfield last night to replace the injured Bennie Crowe. The regular second baseman handled four chances perfectly, at least two of them being hard tries, and he displayed an arm that kept men on base rather than trying to advance by tagging up.

Kracker, Pierce and Wilson were the big guns on the offense.

After the Bears had pushed one across in the first when Averette's double drove in a tally, the Greensies got lucky in their half and scored three. The lead was never relinquished as the Greensies added one each in the second, fifth and seventh. New Bern got one each in the eighth and ninth, but never really threatened to overtake the Greensies.

The Greensies will not be at home until Saturday night.

JENKINS, LONG TO BE HONORED

Fans To Honor Two Players Sold To Atlanta Club

With the Greensies holding a six game lead over the New Bern Bears after defeating Doc Smith's boys here last night, Manager Rube Wilson and his players left for Tarboro late this afternoon where they play a double-header with the Orioles tonight. With the first game starting at seven o'clock, Friday the Greensies journey over to Williams to play their last game with Frank Rodgers' Martins.

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected at the home game Saturday night at 6:30 when Cowboy McHenry's Goldsboro "Bugs" make their last regular appearance here. Greenville club officials are sponsoring "Jenkins and Long Night" at this game, and the fans are urged to come out and help pay honor to Harry Jenkins, third baseman, and "Joe Long," pitcher the two players that Greenville has just sold to the Atlanta "Crackers" of the Class A-1 Southern Association. Harry Jenkins broke in with the Greensies at the close of the 1938 season when Manager Wilson's boys made that long winning streak that brought them from the cellar to within a fraction of fourth place and a position on the play-off. He continued his fine play on the pennant winning 1939 team of the Greensies. Last year, after getting beated at the plate several times early in the season, his stick work dropped off a little. However, his work around the "hot corner" and his great throwing arm has been the talk of the Coastal Plain league fans for several years. This year he has had a great year both at the bat and on the defense.

Howard Ellis ("Joe") Long, south-paw twirler, first saw service with Greenville during the last 20 days of the 1939 season when he won

TITLE WON BY 4-1 DECISION

High School Victorious In Boys' Class A Loop

By CHARLES BROWN
Yesterday at Third Street School the High School team defeated W. Greenville by the score of 4 to 1 for the city A class championship in baseball.

The batting stars for High School were Brown, Johnson and Crawford, getting a home run and two singles for 3 for 3. For W. Greenville M. White, Howard Williams and John Williams, the latter getting 3 for 3, were stars. Howard Williams for West Greenville was the fielding star.

several games and the fans were calling him another "Don" King. Last season he remained out of professional baseball, but Manager Wilson persuaded him to return to Greenville this year and he has been the ace of the pitching staff winning fifteen and losing only three so far this season.

Jenkins and Long both come from Gastonia, N. C., one of the hottest baseball cities to be found anywhere. They are two of the most popular boys on the Greenville team, and the fans of Greenville and this section are urged to come out to the Greenville-Goldsboro game here Saturday night and help in paying honor to these two boys.

On Sunday afternoon at three o'clock the Greensies will play Wilson at Guy Smith stadium. Following the games Saturday night and Sunday afternoon there are only two more home games, both of these are with Gus Brittain's Rocky Mount Leafs, the first on next Tuesday, the second and last game of the season on Thursday of next week.

Tobacco Farmers Pleased While Observers Puzzled

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Aug. 28.—High opening prices on the bright belt and sustained, even increasing, prices on the border belt are tickling growers, but puzzling observers.

The farmers who grow North Carolina's chief cash crop are described as "jubilant" and naturally they are not concerning themselves with the why of the prices which are reported to have averaged above $28 on Tuesday's opening.

Sideline observers, however, are definitely hard put to find any real reason why prices should be so high, and not even the expertest of tobacco experts will unhesitatingly assign to any one factor the decisive effect.

They do advance a number of what they call "contributory" items as for example:

1. This year's crop is lighter in weight and color than for several seasons and is peculiarly fitted for the manufacture of cigarettes.

2. This year's crop is shorter than last—by 22 per cent on the border belt and by 11 per cent in the state as a whole.

3. There is an increasing demand among women smokers for a milder type of cigarette—and this year's lighter leaf (which experts say can "golden leaf") is almost ideal for that type.

4. There is a generally prevalent opinion that some governmental action will be taken to "freeze" the record stocks on hand and thereby keep this huge carryover from coming into active competition with the crop currently being sold.

All these factors, separately and in combination, are advanced by practically all the experts who should know what they are talking about.

The state's official tobacco expert, W. P. Hedrick, specialist for the Department of Agriculture, hasn't yet returned from the bright belt floors, and so his opinion could not be obtained; but it is unlikely that it would vary in more than inconsequential details for those advanced by other experts.

Many of these experts frankly admit that all their reasons do not appear to add up to the actual prices being paid in the two belts where markets are open; but not one of them will even give an "off the record" or unofficial opinion on a question which is so natural and obvious, to-wit: Is the monopoly trial of the "Big Three" of the to-

Field Events Staged At Third Street Area

Bar-chinning and the 700-yard dash were features of field day events yesterday afternoon at Third Street playground.

S. White took first place in the 100-yard dash. Billy Ward was close up with second place. Bobby Saleed and Billy Ward tied in the bar-chinning with seven times each.

Winners were awarded prizes and will be given an opportunity to participate in the finals to be staged at Guy Smith stadium.

bbaco world having any reflected effect on the markets? In short, are the big companies, if they do act in cahoots, deliberately bidding high for tobacco in order to create a favorable public opinion? Or are they actually now in real and spirited competition, the natural result of which would be higher prices?

Certainly something unusual has happened somewhere. A $28 average is almost a miracle in the face of a record stock on hand, no visible export markets, and a government parity price of only a little more than $19.

It is usually the case that opening averages—in fact price averages for the first month of sales are higher than the final season's average; but this year's first prices are so far above last year's that it seems certain that final averages will be relatively as much higher; which will put the year's average price far above the something like $16 per hundred paid last year.

 The two young men who robbed him made off with his car and $15 of his money, saying they didn't want the rest; they just wanted enough to get where they were going. However, Mr. O'Berry reported, they robbed a store in Danville and when police got too hot on their trail they abandoned the car, a red coupe.

DEFENSE BOOM TO BRING CODE

Safety Code In Building Industry Seen As Likely

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Aug. 27 - One of the most likely results of the present building boom in North Carolina, flowing from the national defense program, is a statewide safety code for the construction industry.

At present there is no such code but Commissioner of Labor Forrest H. Shuford is planning to start the work of drafting one just as soon as possible. Standing in the way is the perennial personnel shortage from which the department of labor suffers.

Labor in the building trades is keenly interested in a construction code; contractors and construction firms of all kinds will doubtless be willing to cooperate to the extent of helping with data and suggestions as to the proper regulations the code should contain.

Need for a code is emphasized by figures on fatalities and accidents in construction work during the last two fiscal years. For the twelve months ended July 1, 1940 there were reported to the North Carolina Industrial Commission 19 fatalities in construction accidents. No complete compilation has been made for the past year, but a partial examination of the commission's records show there were at least 33 fatalities, with a better than even chance that complete data will show that deaths doubled during the year.

Figures on accidents for the month of July confirm the implications of the annual fatality figures. For the entire construction industry there were reported to the commission last month 1,124 accidents compared with 616 for July, 1940. Grading the excavating accounted for 171 against 116 last year, while finishing and equipping accidents numbered 170 against 121.

The erection branch of the industry showed the most marked increase of all with 783 this July as compared with 379 last. This result was to be expected because it is in the erection branch that there has been the greatest activity in connection with the defense program.

These soaring accident figures have convinced Mr. Shuford that it is highly desirable that the state have a safety code for the construction industry. His department has the necessary authority to promulgate the proper regulations under its broad authority to enact rules and regulations for the promotion of safety.

Practically all the manufacturing industries are already subject to provisions of a state safety code. There are codes for installation, operation and inspection of elevators and for the cleaning and dyeing industry.

A code for mines and quarries is also in process of preparation, but has not yet been carefully edited and made ready for official promulgation.

When this code is out of the way the labor department will certainly occupy itself with preparation of a safety code for the construction industry.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York - Strange what a little patience can accomplish. With flea, for instance. Ever been to a flea circus, and watched them waltz together, and run races, and haul chariots?

Well, take it from Donald Meek, the actor, it's more gravity than patience, or skill. . . . When a flea is hauling a chariot, the table is tilted a little. . . . He isn't pulling the chariot, the chariot is pushing him downhill. . . . Same way when they sprint. They're running downhill. The incline is slight, but it's there. . . . It's gravity.

Meek, who has first hand knowledge of such matters, was once top man in a pyramid. . . . He worked with tumblers, with acrobats. . . . In Canada, in a fall one day, he broke his collarbone. . . . They opened his eyes. . . . Suppose he had broken his back? . . . You can't take bows with a broken back, now can you? . . . So Meek became an actor. . . . His co-workers say he is one of the few really good ad-lib actors on the screen. . . . Rarely pays attention to a script. . . . The sense of the lines just comes to him, and he uses his own words.

Since we're talking about actors today, let's talk about Lugosi, the speak man. He's the man who, with Karloff, scares the daylight out of you in pictures. . . . You say to Lugosi, "Hey, as a kid, were you ever frightened?" . . . "Not I," says Lugosi. "There were too many of us. . . . I had seven or eight brothers and sisters. . . . I slept in a room with half a dozen kids. . . . How could I be scared?"

"But, I'll tell you one thing. . . . When I became an actor, and went to Hollywood, I got myself a big house. . . . Maybe it was too big. . . . I used to shut myself up in one wing of that house at night, and read sometimes till nearly morning. . . . It was too lonesome to sleep. . . . Maybe I wasn't lonesome, maybe I was a little scared and didn't realize it. . . . Well, I fixed that, all right. . . . How? . . . Easy as pie. . . . I got married."

There's a new girl in town, a singer, and pretty as a picture. . . . Just 21. . . . She's at the Rainbow Room, and they've given her an eight weeks contract. . . . Name's Laurie Deane Dutton, and her dad's a colonel in the U. S. army. . . .

Remember Prince Serge Obelensky of the St. Regis? . . . As tall as Anthony Eden, and as meticulous. . . . This as a record. . . . An aristocrat. . . . In Russia, if the Czar had survived, he would be up there pretty high in military rank - at least a general. . . . Just had word from him today. . . . He's a sergeant in the U. S. army. . . . In the 17th regiment. . . . Stationed at an armory at 34th St. and Park avenue.

Funny how famous restaurateurs like their sons to follow in their footsteps. . . . There's Vincent Sardi, boss of world famous Sardi's. . . . His son, Junior, practically runs the place. He's there more than the old man is. . . . Then there's Billy LaHiff, Jr., following after the old man, the late Billy LaHiff, whose tavern was famous. . . . Dave, of Dave's Room, and Willie, son of famed Dinty Moore, are restaurant men. . . . New York changes, but somehow the old names linger in the neon.

FIGHTING IN IRAN BROUGHT TO END

Invasion by German troops massed along the Greek-Turkish frontier was reflected in reports that the government had closed Thrace to all foreigners.

The Hungarian news agency said the Turks also had prohibited automobile and rail traffic between Turkey and Europe. Latest advices from Ankara have pictured the Turks as deeply alarmed lest Hitler strike through Turkey in a move to counter the British-Russian thrust into Iran.

N.Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 28 - (AP) - The stock market played around with the idea of another modest rally today, but most leaders seemed to lack rising stamina. The direction was slightly upward at the start and dealings a shade more active than yesterday. While fractional gains had a trifle the best of it near the four hour, there was an assortment of minor gains and numerous issues were unchanged.

What do women DESPISE most in a man?

Here's the answer that countless women give: Halitosis (Bad Breath)! Women simply won't tolerate it in a man. So if you want to make a hit with your girl friend, look after your breath before your next date with her. Be sure to rinse your mouth with Listerine Antiseptic. It's wonderful for combating bad breath due to food fermentation in the mouth. That, say some authorities, is the major cause of this condition, although bad breath is sometimes due to systemic disorders. Listerine Antiseptic halts the fermentation and overcomes its odor. The breath quickly becomes sweeter, purer, less likely to offend.
