Library News

Books On Russia. Since the German onslaught on Russia many readers' interest in Russia has been revived and they are seeking information on her present conditions. The Shepard Memorial Library has on its shelves books that will answer almost any question that can be asked about Russia. The books range all the way from those dealing with the five-year plan to those giving close observations of today's events. Some are written in the optimistic vein while others are very pessimistic in tone. All though seek to inform readers of the real Russia. Brief resumes of some of the books are:

"New Russian Primer," by M. Ilin—The story of the five-year plan, giving its origin, its aims and accomplishments at the end of the first year.

"Russia Before Dawn," by F. A. Mackenzie—A study in government, politics and economic planning, of

WILDCAT UNIT TO HOLD MEET

Estimated 5,000 Veterans Expected To Attend

Reflector Bureau

By HENRY AVERILL

Releigh, Sept. 1.—Raleigh will entertain between five and six thousand Wildcat veterans early in October.

There will be no danger of too much scratching and clawing, however, as the guests will be of the two and not the four-legged variety. In short, the Wildcat Veterans Association is going to hold its annual reunion here on October 4, 5, 6.

James E. Cahill, national adjutant, is already here and expects to stay here almost continuously from now to the reunion's end. He predicts a tremendous gathering of members of the famous 81st Division and promises this capital city one of its finest military displays.

The reunion is taking something of the aspect of a memorial to General Caffee, its divisional adjutant during the World War days of 1917-18, who died recently while serving as chief of the armored divisions of the United States. The general had indicated that he would be in this section on maneuvers early in October and had promised that he would see to it that the veterans' parade would include a formidable contingent of motorized regulars who will likewise be in this section. After the general's death, Mr. Cahill took the matter up direct with the War Department and he is confident that the plans laid by Caffee will be carried out on an even more elaborate scale than at first contemplated.

Two of North Carolina's Superior court judges will be among the principal speakers at the reunion. Both were members of the 81st, both have served as Department Commander of the American Legion. One is a former national commander. The judges, as almost all the readers have already guessed, are Hubert Olive of Lexington, and Henry A. Stevens of Warsaw.

MADE UP TO KILL

Chapter 31
More About The Shot

The cars sped by below the window, even spaced and quiet, like models in an advertising display. Across the street, the doorman at the Esplanade came out onto the sidewalk and blew his whistle. A gaudy taxi rolled to a stop before him, picked up its passenger and rolled away. There was no sound in my apartment, and the night seemed to press down on the city outside and smother its noises to a low rumble.

It might have been an hour or just a few minutes ago that Steve had left the room. I wasn't aware of time or of people or of anything but the numb feeling that seeped through my body and the sharp ache in my head.

There was a little icy ridge around the frame of the window and I scratched it with my nail and it shredded and fell off. Behind me, pacing the floor, Jeff spoke musically.

"You've learned that trick from Carol. That trick of draping yourself in the window. That's how she was sitting this afternoon before."

"Jeff, let's not talk. Not yet."

We lapsed into silence again and I closed my eyes. I tried to think things out, to think what I should say to Carol. How I would answer what she said to me. My mind closed on me and it was useless.

"Halla!"

Jeff's voice wasn't musing now. It was urgent and excited. I swung around to face him, almost frightened.

"Halla, listen. This afternoon—this afternoon at the party when this shot came through the window!"

"Yes?"

"Tell me everything that happened after we got here."

"But why?"

"Please!" His hands were working nervously together. "We got here a little after one. Think, Halla, try to remember. What did we do? What did we do exactly?"

"We talked to Carol for a few minutes," I said. My mind went struggling back mechanically over the afternoon. "And then Clint Bowers came with his flowers and Carol went into the kitchen. Is that what you mean?"

"Yes. Yes, go on."

"Then, in a moment, she came back with the bottle and some glasses. You opened the champagne and we drank."

"Where were we then, can you remember, Halla? Where were we sitting, you and I? And what was Carol doing and where was Clint Bowers?"

Suddenly the picture flashed before me, clearly, like a sharp bright etching. "You and I sat there on the couch, your feet were on the coffee table and I was busy knocking them off. Clint was in the big armchair in the far corner and the champagne was on the table right beside him. Carol was here belly!"

"Oh, I'm so sorry!"

"Yeah," Jeff was up. He practiced breathing again.

"Shall I get you a cup of tea?"

"No, thanks. And let that be a lesson to you, Halla. Don't get hysterical around me. Now, where were we?"

"You were on the floor."

"C'mon, Eve and Philip. His big speech. Where is it in the play?"

"Almost at the end of the third act. Eve was supposed to be arranging flowers on the dining table while he talked. She said that there weren't any flowers on the table, that either Tommy or Phoebe Thompson was to blame for forgetting them. She said she had to do something while he droned along and Ashley said she needn't have rattled the complete set of silver, the glasses and the plates. Just upsetting the table would have been more effective. Ashley's heavy sarcasm. There, that's it about, and what difference does it make?"

"Were the flowers there?"

"No, I don't think so. I guess Eve was right."

In The Bag

Jeff stopped his pacing and with his back toward me looked silently at Carol's door. Over his shoulder I could see him waving out a match and splitting it with his thumb nail. When he turned he was puffing furiously at a half lit cigarette.

"That's just how it happened. Isn't it, Halla? You're sure of that?"

"Of course."

He thumped his hand on my back. "Sweetheart, let's get married. I have just put the Colony Murder Case in the bag!"

I stared at him to see if this was a joke and I knew it wasn't. The eagerness in his voice and eyes was genuine. Before I could catch enough breath to speak he was sliding into his overcoat, moving toward the door. I rushed after him.

"Jeff, you know! You've found out who's been trying to kill Carol!"

He grinned at me. "Yes, I know."

"Was it Ashley? Is Philip Ashley the murderer after all?"

"I can't tell you yet."

"Tommy? Tommy—Oh, Jeff, not Steve!"

"Don't try to guess, Halla."

"Jeff, you've got to tell me!"

His face went grave and both hands clamped my shoulders. "Don't ask me, Halla, I don't want you to know. It's dangerous. Believe me, Halla."

"But you—then it's dangerous for you, Jeff, you've got to tell the police."

"Not yet."

I said furiously: "Oh, you don't know. You've no more idea than I have. How could you? Nothing's happened to show you."

"You just told me who the murderer is."

"I? I told you!"

He snatched his hat and gave me a preoccupied kiss on the cheek. I caught him as he reached the door.

"Jeff, where are you going?"

"Out and about, dear, out and about."

"What are you going to do?"

"I can't tell you that. But I'll tell you what I'm not going to do. Sleep. Not a wink. I'll call you in the morning. I'll keep in constant touch with you. Good night."

I stood before him in the doorway, blocking his exit. Suddenly I couldn't bear his leaving, couldn't face the thought of a night in that place with no one but Carol. I felt my face go white, heard myself gulp as I spoke. "Jeff, don't leave me. Please, don't go."

He held my hand tight. "What is it, Halla?"

"Jeff, I'm frightened, really frightened. I'm afraid for you. I'm afraid for myself to stay here alone with—Carol. When I thought she was—before I knew about her I didn't mind. It seemed worth while then and I could be brave. But now, now I'm scared. I don't want to stay here with her. If someone tried now—to hurt her."

"Nobody's going to hurt Carol. Nobody's even going to try."

"But—"

"Halla, I'll tell you this. Keep it under your hat. We've been on the greatest wild goose chase that ever was perpetrated. Nobody ever tried to kill Carol. Her life's never been in danger for one minute."

Reports Further On Canadian Crop

The tobacco harvest season is now in full swing, according to another letter received by the Reflector from George Kittrell, Pitt county man who is in Delhi, Ontario, Canada, helping with the curing of the crop there.

He stated that the crop should be safely in the barn within the next 20 days, provided no frost is experienced, and added that the entire crop should be the best in years. He recalled that disaster befell the tobacco crop in the Delhi section one year ago when a heavy frost destroyed about 50 per cent of the crop.

Mr. Kittrell wrote that a survey showed that the average farm had five kilns (barns 24 by 24 holding about 1,350 slabs, or sticks as they are known here). He stated that some farms had 14 or 16 kilns, already cured.

Reporting a shortage in labor, he stated that school girls and boys were earning as high as $3.50 a day and experienced workers getting $4.50 and $5 a day, plus board and bunk. He reported one crew was taking off tobacco on three farms.

Although Monday's signs were declared to have set the farmers back a day, Mr. Kittrell said they proved a blessing as it was the first rain some sections had had in several weeks.

Many tobacco farmers are working seven days a week, he said, adding that an average of 28 or 30 cents would be necessary to take care of the increased cost of labor if the farmer is to show a profit.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT MAKES SOME PEOPLE RUN

"Go easy over the bumps, son," protested an irritated parent as he clutched the strap which the manufacturer had mercifully installed for parents who have the temerity to drive with their children. "Don't you see this is a washboard road? You'll shake the car to pieces."

"You don't get the idea, Dad," replied the youngster. "The faster we go over these ruts the less we feel them and the easier the car rides. Go over them slowly and they'll jar your hair out."

Then painfully the parent began, as he had so often before, to explain that what he was thinking of was not comfort but cost. One might save on bumps a trifle if he went over the rough places at a good clip, but he certainly could not save on service charges. The boy was thinking how he could get over the rough places with the least convenience, and his formula was, "Go fast enough and you won't notice them." His father was thinking what the car would be like at the end of the summer. His formula was, "Take it easy, son; take it easy."

Night clubs and road houses are supported by people who believe that if they can go fast enough through life they'll not notice how rough the road is. People who cling to this philosophy of life love to linger over the cup which both cheers and inebriates. Some people are on the dead run all the time trying to get out of their own way. If they ever met themselves face to face, they'd faint, and if they had to confront a basic problem of life and solve it, they'd have a coronary occlusion.

The new sales system on the Greenville tobacco market has come in for praise from many sources, the latest being members of the local police department. The police declare that under the new system the traffic in the tobacco section is more or less divided around the ten warehouses instead of being concentrated around five houses, as in seasons heretofore. The new distribution has done much to relieve traffic congestion in the tobacco section and has made the job of policing the area an easier one for the officers.

President Roosevelt in his address to labor today declared that our war efforts must take precedence over every individual aim and desire if we are to be successful in preserving freedom for America and the other democracies. Not until the people of this country come to the full realization that we must help stop Hitler for our own protection, can we hope to present a united effort toward our defense and aid to the democracies program. Once America is really sold on the job ahead of us there is nothing that surpasses what we can accomplish, but time is precious and the sooner the nation realizes that our future freedom is at stake the sooner we will get down to the business of preparing to safeguard it.

Why Can't We Use That Idle Pump?

The opening of our city schools tomorrow means an increase of the number of children on our streets going to and from school. Let every motorist remember that in many instances these children walk or ride bicycles in our city traffic with their minds on things other than their own safety. It is up to the motorists to exercise extreme care especially within the school zones if serious accidents to some of these children are to be avoided. Let's begin tomorrow and make an honest effort to go through the entire new school term without a single traffic injury to a school child in the entire city.

Pinch-Hitting For Jack Stinnett
Washington—This village's new airport is the best show in town, Congress notwithstanding. It is said to be the most modern airport in the world, and it should be. Some half dozen government departments collaborated to build it. They have concocted a majestic scene, but it really the gadgets which get the crowds.

For one thing, weighing in the baggage has been simplified. It is done at the long row of desks where the air passenger buys his ticket.

The traveler steps up with his bags. He buys his ticket, and gives the information needed for the record of his trip—weight, phone number, destination, and number of bags.

Then the bags are lifted onto a platform which flanks the desk. The platform is a scale, so immediately a little dial on the ticket desk swings around and registers the weight.

No More Bag Worry
Maybe the loud-speaker already is announcing the departure of the plane. The passenger pockets his ticket and forgets about his bag as he saunters downstairs to the runway.

Two things are happening. His bag has been shoved backward from the scale onto two aluminum doors flush with the floor. The doors swing open, the bag whooshes down a chute to the ground level onto a small field truck, and the truck rushes the bag to the plane.

The man's flight record is taking a similar lightning course. It shoots to a passenger control room, through a concealed tube where men rapidly sort the planes and passengers, making out a "manifest" for each plane. A "manifest" simply is a list of the people going on each plane, and the information about them.

From the control room the manifest takes another chute ride to the ground level where the pilot and stewardess are waiting for a copy.

Gadgets To Spare
Some thirty feet out stands the plane, tuning up to carry people to New York, Miami, Los Angeles and everywhere else. It stands over another co-ordinated set of gadgets which have been designed to service planes and yet leave the field clear of obstructions.

An iron lid opens, and out comes a big rubber hose that is inserted into the plane. In summer, the hose sprays cold air into the cabin. In winter it sprays warm air.

Oil hoses, electric lines to the batteries, and even a telephone line come out from under other lids.

Room Service, Almost
The plane gets an "assist" in landing and taking off from a circular turn-table which is set in the concrete. The right wheel comes to rest on the table, which swings around easily and turns the plane. Object is to save wear and tear on tires.

Up in the passenger reservation room there is a clock that saves on brain wear and tear. It is fitted with silver keys that can be pulled out all around the face. Suppose you arrive 40 minutes early for your plane, and you want to eat, but also you want to be called five minutes before plane time. The clock is set. It turns on a red light, just when you want to be called. Your name goes on the loud-speaker, and you walk leisurely to the plane.

Reflector Bureau

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Sept. 1—Figures from the North Carolina State Employment Service are pretty conclusive evidence that this state is not a proper object of the charge over which so much ado was raised recently, namely, that Negro workers are being discriminated against by governmental employing units.

So much importance was attached to this subject by organizations for the advancement of the Negroes, that President Roosevelt was ultimately driven to make a public statement urging all agencies to give Negroes a square deal in employment during the national defense boom.

The NCSES figures show that here in North Carolina no less than 47,933 placements were made for Negro workers between January and June 1.

This ranked the state second in the country, Texas alone showing a higher mark, with 48,085.

Not only did the state take high place in absolute numbers, but the Employment Service figures show that placement of Negroes in North Carolina for the period mentioned increased by 165.3 per cent over the corresponding months of 1940, against national increase of 46.6 per cent.

Current reports from the branch offices of the service show that the trend of Negro placements is still upward. In fact, the statistics reveal that placements of Negroes are increasing faster than those of other workers. For instance, from April to May placements of Negroes increased by 15 per cent, whereas placements of other persons increased 12 per cent.

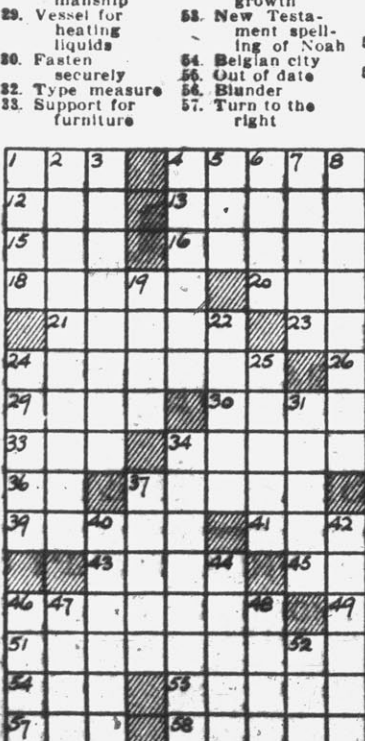

This and That . . .
Former State Senator J. Benton Stacy, recently replaced as director of the division of Purchase and Contract, was taken to Rex hospital Friday morning after suffering what is said to have been a heart attack. Seriousness of his condition could not be learned at the time this item was typed (Friday afternoon), but hospital attaches said he could see no visitors.

Those who have covered legislatures for several terms have learned that most of the members get a great big kick out of the sessions; but this was never more clearly illustrated than in the case of a veteran of

Your reporter Friday ran into Claude Abernathy, former Nash representative, whom he had not seen since before taking a vacation. "I haven't seen you for so long I have been looking over my books to see if I'd buried you," chuckled Claude, who is now Mutual Burial Association commissioner . . . This bureau has said it time and again before this, but evidence continues to accumulate that Gastonia's Iron Major—State Senator Greg Cherry—isn't merely going to be a candidate for governor in 1944; he is one right now. Greg attended both sheriffs' and county commissioners' conventions recently and will make the barber's gathering in the near future, he told a friend who asked him about his gubernatorial aspirations.

The North Carolina State Employment Service contributes this note on effects of military service: "It was noted of former clients home on leave that there had been some changes made particularly in the emphasis on the word 'Sir' in their conversations."

Greenies Lose To Wilson 7-6; Bugs Blanked Saturday

RALLY IN NINTH TO SCORE ONE

Runner Called Out At Home With Tying Marker

After Joe Long and Harry Jenkins helped the fans observe a special program in their favor Saturday night by playing big parts in the locals' 2-0 victory over Goldsboro, the Greenies came mighty close to defeating the Wilson Tobs yesterday afternoon, finally losing out 7-6.

Trailing 7-5 at the start of the half of the ninth, the Greenies tied one across and came very close to getting the tying run. Scagg, however, was called out by the plate and the ball game was over.

Kelly Kee and Bissette pitched on most even terms and the game was a nip and tuck affair throughout. Wilson scored two in the first, the Greenies getting four in the second. The Tobs got one each in the third and fourth to knot the count, but the Greenies again went out in front with one in the fifth. In the sixth, however, Wilson got three men home to take a 7-5 lead. Neither team was able to score until the last of the ninth when the locals put on a serious threat.

Don Finckle came through with four safeties in four trips to lead both teams at bat.

Joe Long, who with Harry Jenkins, has been sold to the Atlanta Club, won his 16th game in 20 starts Saturday night. Harry Jenkins, in addition to leading the Greenies at bat, made several beautiful plays to turn would-be Goldsboro hits into outs.

SCAGG HOLDING TO 4TH PLACE

Only Three Greenville Players Batting .300 Mark

The battle for the Coastal Plain league batting championship has narrowed down to a three man race with only a few days of play remaining. The latest release of averages from the Howe News Bureau of Atlanta, Georgia, show Jack Clifton, Goldsboro outfielder, still on top with a mark of .371, Earl Carnahan of Wilson in second position with .364, and Dick Hoyle of Wilson in third place with .356.

Charlie Scagg of Greenville is fourth with .332 and Red Treadway of Wilson ranks fifth with .331 but they have little chance of catching the leaders.

In addition to Scagg, Greenville has only two .300 hitters, Harry Jenkins, in 11th place with .317, and Manager Rube Wilson, in 15th place with .309. Caraway has a mark of .287, Crowe .266, Kracker .265 and Pierce .264 to top the .250 mark.

Carnahan leads in three departments—in hits with 158, in total bases with 241, and in doubles with 36. Treadway tops the three base hit column with 14.

It's a red hot race in runs, batted in with Lyle Thompson of New Bern leading with 96 and Red Averette of New Bern and Tommy Kurst of Rocky Mount tied with 93. Kurst is the head man in homers with 24.

Irvyng Dickens of Wilson has scored most runs, 102, and John Fessler of Goldsboro leads in stolen bases with 36.

Wilson tops the circuit in hitting with .299 and is tied with Goldsboro in fielding with .900 with Goldsboro on top in 'doubles plays

GOT A DATE?
Don't neglect your breath

If you've got a date with the girl friend, or a business appointment, play smart and take the proper precaution to see that your breath doesn't offend unnecessarily. After all, nothing is so inexcusable and so offensive as a neglected case of halitosis (bad breath). Before your next date or business appointment, rise the mouth with Listerine Antiseptic. Almost immediately your breath becomes sweeter, purer, less likely to offend. Most cases of halitosis, say some authorities, are due to the fermentation of tiny food particles in the mouth, although some cases may be due to systemic disorders. Against the former condition, Listerine Antiseptic works wonders because it first halts the fermentation and then overcomes the odors it causes. Don't forget to use it. It's the first aid of thousands of popular and successful people.

Monk Webb, Wilson southpaw, added two wins to lead the league in most games won with 21 and he is the only pitcher in the league to have won 20 or more games. He has lost four.

Labor Day Program.
A Labor Day program will be sponsored by the colored American Legion Post No. 222 at the Fleming street high school tonight, Sept. 1, at 8:30 o'clock. Daylight Saving Time.

The subject will be "Pitt County Citizens and Their Relation to National Defense." Speakers will be Mayor B. B. Sugg, presented by Prof. C. M. Epps; Supt. D. H. Correy, of the Pitt county schools; Supt. J. H. Rose of the city schools.

Prof. O. A. Dupree, principal of the Grimesland Training school, will be master of ceremonies. Dinner will be served.

This week is the beginning of another school term, which will play a great part in the shaping of millions of lives. These lives represent the men and women of tomorrow and I am wondering what the members of my race are going to do about it. The progress of any individual, concern, or municipality largely depends upon four basic requirements, namely health, integrity, brain and money. Since the world is undergoing one of the most uncertain periods of our lives I think we should begin now to give a serious thought to our children and the communities in which we live.

I am supposed to appear on a program tonight in behalf of national defense but my work will require me to be out of the city. Therefore I am taking this opportunity to express my views as I would if I were to be here. The Colored Civil League of this county has pledged its full support to all institutions and projects that tend to good citizenship and progress. We are especially interested in our church and schools. Within the next few days a move will be made to enlist the support of every organization, as well as individual in a bigger and better school drive. We have a very conscientious and determined set of school officials, both in the city and county and they need our moral support. Let's cooperate with every teacher and representative in this great drive to get our children in school. If the school program fails it will be our fault. We parents owe everything that we have to our children and we fail to organize and cooperate with the schools and faculties, their programs will suffer in proportion to our failure. If we get the children in the various schools and work harmoniously with the teachers this will be our greatest year. If we fail, then our children and communities will suffer for the lack of good health, integrity, brain-power and thrift. Any race that falls where these requirements are concerned must suffer from the day of omission and should not place the blame upon anyone except themselves. The opportunities are greater now than ever before and we must join hands with the leaders of our city, county, state and national government in this great drive for Christianity, intellect, integrity and financial power and God will see that we come out more than conquerors. My hat is off to the teachers and I wish them much success during this year and a hearty welcome to our city and county.—J. B. Taft.

ROOSEVELT PLEDGES OUR FULL PART TO CRUSH HITLER

While the presidential remarks on foreign affairs overshadowed all else, the address did acknowledge the significance of the holiday on which are celebrated the rights of free laboring men and women.

"The preservation of these rights is now vitally important," Mr. Roosevelt said "not only to us who enjoy them, but to the whole future of Christian civilization."

He placed upon labor a "tremendous responsibility in the winning of this most brutal, most terrible of all wars."

The chief executive asked why America was forging weapons to send over the seas and through the air, why she was devoting her mighty industrial effort to war production, when she was not interested in aggression, in looting or in an inch of foreign territory.

Answering his own rhetorical question, he asserted:

"Our vast effort, and the unity of purpose which inspires that effort, are due solely to our recognition of the fact that our fundamental rights, including the rights of labor—are threatened by Hitler's violent attempts to rule the world."

Liquor Still Found In Simpson Section

Pitt county ABO officers Saturday located and destroyed a 50-gallon capacity copper liquor still about a half mile from Simpson. The plant was not in operation when officers reached the scene, but it was hot and the officers said it had just completed a "run."

One hundred and fifty gallons of new mash was found at the site. Also found and destroyed were a 50-gallon wooden cooker, a 50-gallon doubler and 50-gallon cooling barrel.

Negro Farm Meet Thursday, Friday

Fayetteville, Sept. 1—Two thousand Negro farm people are expected to attend the 23rd State Negro Farmers and Homemakers Conference to be held at the State Teachers College here Thursday and Friday, September 4 and 5. John W. Mitchell, State Agent in charge of Negro work for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, will direct the conference.

The delegates to the meeting will come largely from the 35 counties in which the Extension Service has either Negro farm or home agents, or both. The conference will be dedicated to the "Million Dollar Educational Program Among Rural North Carolina Negroes," a campaign recently announced by State Agent Mitchell and Dazelle Foster Lowe, Negro district home agent.

The farm group is meeting here upon the invitation of Dr. J. W. Seabrook, president of the Fayetteville Negro college.

Greenville Modelers Take Part In Events

Five members of the Hub City Modelers, a local model airplane club, yesterday attended a contest in Greensboro. Those boys who went to the model contest were Richard Duncan, president of the Hub City Modelers, Ralph Fleming, Dennis Fleming, Phil Goodson, Jr., and Joe Register.

Although the boys entered the gas and rubber model events they had more luck in the scale model event with Richard Duncan taking first place with a consolidated P-11 built up scale model which won him a cup and merchandise. Ralph Fleming took third place in the scale model event with a solid model.

Hollywood

By Ruth Goss

Hollywood—The movie land visit of Private Kenneth Wilkinson—the "champion movie-goer of the U. S. Army"—was a happy even for all concerned, but not without its slightly calamitous side.

Private Wilkinson, an upstanding young soldier from Fort Lewis, Wash., began going to movies as a steady thing last October 4, shortly after enlisting in the army. By the time he came to Hollywood he had run up the astounding record of 311 movies seen, digested, and remembered, a record that continued to grow during his stay.

So constant a buyer of tickets, so insatiable a fan, and such a demon for punishment (as some might say) could not escape unnoticed nor be allowed to go unrewarded by Hollywood, a town which wishes there were more Private Wilkinsons everywhere. A delighted Hays office sought and won permission from army authorities to fetter this shining example of devotion to celluloid—and Mr. Wilkinson came to town.

"Movies make me forget all my cares and troubles," Private Wilkinson had said, causing Hollywood to shiver with delight because that's what Hollywood always says, too.

But Hollywood made one mistake. People were always asking him what he thought of double-features. He always made the same reply—beautifully sincere, enthusiastic: "I like double-features!"

heart-rending in Hollywood, which is trying hard to beat the double-feature, than an openly expressed fondness for double-features. It's something like standing up in church and extolling Satan's finer side or rooting for the Yankees in Brooklyn.

Private Wilkinson, originally from Okmulgee County, Oklahoma, had a pretty tough life, he said, in his pre-army, pre-movie fan years. As pictures help him forget care, so double-features help him more by giving longer respite per sitting.

As a private first class, he draws $36 a month. Previous irregularity in income had hampered movie-going, but with steady money he began using every leave to ride the bus into Tacoma (round trip 35 cents) and see pictures.

He has taken kidding from the fellows for it, but has never minded. He had a notion the boys back in camp would like hearing how he had lunch with Deanna Durbin.

Carole Landis, Betty Grable, Joan Blondell, in his opinion, are tops with the army boys in his section.

Of his 300-plus movies the best in his verdict, were "Kitty Foyle" and "Foreign Correspondent," though he liked many more.

The most he has seen in one day were eight, the most in two days 13. Incidental refreshments are soda pop and popcorn. On these and on movies, he has spent between $85 and $100 since his fan career began.

His worst disappointment was "The Long Voyage Home," an academy award nominee and pet of the critics.

"There just wasn't anything in it," he believes.

Newsprint production in Canada for the first four months of 1941 was 1,062,970 tons, compared to 1,003,081 tons for the same period in 1940.
