NAZI PLANE BLAMED FOR SINKING U. S. SHIP

Churchill Hopes For Greater Help From U. S. Patrol

Axis Crisis Intensified By Incident

Washington General-ly Expects President To Use His Thursday Night Address To Make Forceful Declaration On Policy Of Freedom Of The Seas; May Declare Policy Of Meet Force With Force

Washington, Sept. 9. — (AP)—The sinking of an unarmed American merchantman in the Red sea—lease-lend route to the Middle East—intensified the crisis in relations between the United States and the Axis powers today on the issue of freedom of the seas.

The victim of the latest attack—the second incident in less than a week—was the 5,719-ton freighter Steel Seafarer which was sent to the bottom by the bombs of an air raider whose nationality was said to be unknown.

The crews of the ship—some 20 odd men—escaped with their lives when she went down on September 7, the State Department disclosed but this fact hardly diminished the gravity with which the news of the sinking was received here last night.

The bombing of the Steel Seafarer, coming only 72 hours after the September 4 sea clash between the U. S. S. Greer and a German submarine in the North Atlantic seemingly made a showdown inevitable, with the Axis on the American interpretation of freedom of the seas.

The general expectation here was that President Roosevelt would use his address to the nation Thursday night for a forceful declaration of policy on the subject.

In some quarters the conviction was already growing that the chief executive would announce that henceforth the United States would meet force with force every time it is encountered on the oceans.

There was lively conjecture, too, as to whether the administration would act to arm merchant shipping on dangerous routes so that they could defend themselves. The navy has kept plans for such an emergency up to date since 1918, Mr. Roosevelt disclosed not long ago.

Record Sales

The Greenville tobacco market yesterday experienced its biggest sales day of the 1941 season when 1,721,260 pounds of the weed were sold for $453,187.18, or an official average of 26.36 cents per pound.

Both the amount of offerings and the total money paid out were higher for this season—exceeding the opening day break.

Although the high prices established yesterday were being maintained today, a decided drop was noted in the quantity and also the quality of offerings. Turned tags were practically something unseen on the market.

Yesterday's sales brought to 12,263,400 pounds sold this season, for $3,360,890.35, an average of 25.34, showing an increase over the corresponding date last year of 2,897,230 in offerings, $1,613,916.06 in money paid out and 9.47 in the comparative average.

Willkie Declares Nye Is Promoting Disunity

OIL SHORTAGE WILL CONTINUE

Davies Says Curtailment Must Continue This Winter

Washington, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Acting Petroleum Coordinator Ralph K. Davies testified today that some curtailment of gasoline purchasing on the eastern seaboard must continue through the winter.

At the same time Davies told a special Senate committee investigating petroleum shortages that construction of a vast pipeline from southwestern oil fields to the northeast was "just as vital as warships and planes."

Asserting that serious "mistakes" had been made in estimating supplies of aluminum and steel needed for defense, Davies declared that as serious as these were, "they do not approach the havoc and catastrophe which will overwhelm us immediately if we go wrong on oil."

The witness conceded that some favorable factors had appeared in the gasoline transportation situation, but insisted these had been forecast when he estimated there would be a deficiency in East coast states of 174,000 barrels daily.

Unless present restrictions of gasoline sales were maintained, Davies said there "was prospects of disastrous shortages of fuel for industry and homes this winter."

Shortly before his appearance before the committee, Davies issued a statement saying gasoline rationing in the East had reduced consumption.

With the statement, figures were released showing that motor fuel consumption in 17 eastern states and the district of Columbia was reduced by 10.1 per cent during the week ended August 19, as compared with the previous week, the largest drop recorded since the government resorted to a filling station curfew and rationing of supplies to retail dealers.

Statement Issued At Opening Of Propaganda Probe

Washington, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie charged today at the opening of a Senate committee inquiry into war propaganda that Senator Nye (R.-N.D.) was seeking to "divide the American people into discordant, racial and religious groups in order to disunite them over the United States foreign policy."

Willkie, representing the motion picture industry at the hearing, made these charges in a formal statement handed to the press shortly after Nye began testifying on a resolution by Nye and Senator Clark (D.-Mo.) proposing an investigation into propaganda.

Nye, appearing under oath after Chairman Clark (D.-Idaho) had ruled that Willkie could not cross-examine witnesses, asserted that four or five movie magazines held the power to feed propaganda to the American people.

Nye contended that several films already have been released which "have served to drive some Americans under their very beds for fear of Hitler and his minions."

Denied the right to interrupt, Willkie passed reporters a mimeographed statement.

Willkie, the 1940 Republican presidential nominee, said in the statement that Nye's purposes in asking for the propaganda inquiry appeared from his testimony to be three-fold:

First, Willkie charged, Nye desired "to foster and create public prejudices against the motion picture industry and thus attempt to high-pressure it to stop producing accurate and factual pictures on Nazism."

"Second, similarly," the statement continued, Senator Nye is trying to influence the motion picture industry to alter another of its policies, the portrayal to the American public of accurate and factual pictures on our national defense program.

"Third, Senator Nye obviously is seeking to divide the American people into discordant, racial and religious groups in order to disunite them over the United States foreign policy which has been overwhelmingly approved by the Congress and the people."

DECLARES AID MAJOR FACTOR

Declaring Germans Greatly Hampered By Present Patrol Activities, Prime Minister Expresses Wish For Greater Assistance; Asserts Hitler May, Of Necessity, Turn To Direct Conflict With United States

London, Sept. 9.—(AP) Prime Minister Winston Churchill expressed the wish today that American warships now on Western Atlantic patrol "might be a greater help" to Britain and predicted in a sweeping war review that Hitler may turn by necessity to direct conflict with these United States naval forces.

Churchill told a cheering House of Commons:

"The Germans are much hampered by fear of trouble with the powerful American naval forces which tirelessly patrol the approaches to the Western hemisphere. This has been a help to us, but I wish it might be a greater help."

"The enemy's tactics may change. No doubt Hitler would rather finish off Russia and Britain before coming to close quarters with the United States."

"Hitler has, however, also the greatest possible need to prevent precious munitions supplies now streaming across the Atlantic in pursuance of the policy of the United States government from reaching our shores."

"Should he do so, the area of danger zones will again become ocean-wide. Meanwhile, let us have no vain talk of the battle of the Atlantic having been won."

Churchill asserted that he and President Roosevelt reached "highly important decisions" in their historic Atlantic conference regarding help for Russia and "the policy to be pursued" to check Japan and prevent spread of war to the Pacific.

He said that Britain must be prepared for "definite reductions" in military supplies from the United States so that they can go to Russia; he praised Russian resistance "magnificent" and said that Germany now is "certain of having to maintain armies through the Russian winter from the Arctic to the Black sea."

Inquest Is Scheduled For Fatal Collision

An inquest into the death of Mrs. Virginia Dare Christopher, 21, who was killed in a highway collision just north of the Tar river bridge last Sunday night, will be held at the court house tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The inquest previously had been set for the city hall, but was transferred to the court house when it developed that a meeting of the Board of Aldermen was set for the city hall.

Mrs. Christopher was riding in a passenger car being driven by Tommie Jones which was in a collision with a truck being operated by Fountain O'Neal and owned by the Greenville Stockyards, Inc.

RAF Active

London, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Nearly 100 planes took part in a Royal Air force raid during the night on Kassel, site of the extensive Henschel locomotive workshops, authoritative British sources reported today.

The majority of the attackers were reported to be bombers, and a single aircraft was missing, it was stated.

The British said they considered the raid on the locomotive shops particularly important in view of the Russian campaign, which makes great use of railway transportation for troops and supplies.

"The weather was favorable," the Air Ministry said, "and many bombs were seen to burst on the targets."

"Objectives at Munster and other places in western Germany as well as the docks at Cherbourg (in German-occupied France) also were bombed."

British Seize Nazi U-Boat

A Carley float (right) with British naval officers aboard approaches the side of what the English described as a German U-boat captured in the stormy Atlantic. The British said the submarine was damaged by a Hudson bomber and forced to the surface in a heavy sea. The picture, which was radioed from London, was made from a Catalina flying boat which guarded the submarine until British surface ships arrived and towed it to an English port. Speculation arose as to whether it was the U-boat which fired torpedoes at the U. S. destroyer Greer September 4.

Prices Also Open Good On Border Belt Markets

Heavy Volume Of Good Leaf Reported First Day

Raleigh, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Satisfaction was in the saddle today as opening prices on the nine markets of the North Carolina Middle tobacco belt averaged about 28 cents a pound for the first few hours' sales.

A heavy volume of good grade leaf at the warehouses for opening day brought prices for the first two hours' sales to beyond the 30-cent level in several places and some of the better offerings were selling as high as 40 cents.

At Sanford, where prices ranged from 12 1/2 to 38 cents in early sales, the average was estimated unofficially at around 31 cents. Between 250,000 and 300,000 pounds were offered.

Prices were strong at Aberdeen, where 150,000 pounds were on the floors. Prices ranged up to 39 cents and the unofficial average was around 30 cents.

Gov. Broughton, playing the part of an auctioneer, sold the first pile of tobacco on the Puquay-Varna market for 45 cents a pound. L. A. Mudge, sales supervisor, said the average appeared to be 30 to 31 cents.

George Ford, Louisburg tobacco man, said the price average three appeared to be slightly above 30 cents, with about 400,000 pounds on the floors.

Sales Supervisor C. W. Allen of Oxford predicted that the first day's prices would average in excess of 30 cents. A million pounds were on the warehouse floors and opening day sales were expected to exceed 600,000 pounds.

Henderson reported 800,000 pounds on the floors with early sales about 30 cents a pound.

There were one million pounds of tobacco on the Durham warehouse floors. Supervisor of Sales L. G. Cheek said opening prices averaged about 28 cents a pound.

Unarmed Merchantship Sunk In Red Sea Attack

DANISH VESSEL IS DESTROYED

Twenty-Four Members of Crew, Including One American, Believed To Have Perished When Ship, Taken Over In U.S. Waters And Flying Panamanian Flag, War Torpedoed

Washington, Sept. 9. — (AP)—The State Department reported today that 24 crew members, including one American, were "presumed lost" in the torpedoing of a former Danish ship flying the Panamanian flag August 17 about 300 miles southwest of Iceland.

News of the sinking, in which only three men survived, came close on the heels of the sinking of the American freighter Steel Seafarer in Red sea waters by a serial bomb.

The State Department announcement on the torpedoed ex-Danish ship said:

"The State Department has been informed by the Navy Department that on Saturday morning, September 6, the Navy picked up three surviving members of the crew of the S. S. Sessa about 300 miles southwest of Iceland."

The State Department is informed that the survivors stated that the ship had been sunk by a torpedo on August 17. Twenty-four members of the crew are unreported and presumed lost.

"There was an American citizen member of the crew. His name is lacking and he is not one of the survivors."

"The names of the three survivors have not been furnished."

"The Sessa was a former Danish vessel which was acquired from the Danish government under the authority of the recent law permitting the taking over of idle foreign flagships in American waters."

The vessel was under Panamanian registry and was transporting supplies for the government of Iceland and owned by that government.

"The cargo consisted of foodstuffs, cereals, lumber and other general cargo and did not include arms, ammunition or implements of war."

Secretary of State Hull in reply to questions—said at his press conference that there was no question as to the author of the attack on the Sessa, but refrained from designating any nation.

It was recalled immediately, however, that the clash between a German submarine and the American destroyer Greer occurred in that same general area last Thursday.

Local Pre-School Program Arranged

A pre-school program will be made possible in Greenville this fall and winter through the joint operation of the Greenville city schools, interested citizens and the WPA recreation project, of which Mrs. David Proctor is county supervisor.

Mrs. Proctor is arranging a training schedule by which the leaders who will have charge of the small children will receive several weeks of intensive training before the pre-school centers will open. Two of the leaders who will work in the pre-school centers are now receiving training at Crabtree Creek Demonstration Area near Raleigh, under the guidance and leadership of experienced teachers in this field. This training will be supplemented by extra hours of training after they return to Greenville.

At the present time there will be two pre-school centers in operation. One for white children from ages of 3 to 6 will be at the West Greenville school. This center will be in operation from 9 to 12 a. m. every morning except Sunday and all children between the ages specified are invited to become a part of the program. There will also be a colored pre-school which will be located near the Fifth Street school.

A building is being constructed for this purpose and will be large enough to accommodate the large number of children who have already been enrolled.

British Sources Place Blame On Long-Range Nazi Bomber; Indicating Vessel In War Zone, Says No Surprise Need Be Occasioned; Russia, Meanwhile, Claims Greatest Victory To Date

(By The Associated Press)

A long-range German bomber was blamed by British sources today for the sinking of the unarmed American ship Steel Seafarer in the Red sea, supply route to the Middle East, while in Washington the conviction grew that the episode would result in a powerful declaration of the United States freedom of the seas doctrine.

In Berlin, a German spokesman commented that President Roosevelt had "acted somewhat hastily" in declaring that the Red sea was no longer a war zone.

Other swift-breaking developments clouded the international picture.

1. Russia claimed her greatest victory in the 30-day-old struggle against Hitler's invasion armies, reporting that eight Nazi divisions about 120,000 men—were cut to pieces in a bloody, 28-day-old battle 200 miles southwest of Moscow and that the shattered remnants were fleeing in disorder toward Smolensk.

2. A British expeditionary force, supported by Free Norwegian troops, seized the Arctic Archipelago of Spitzbergen, owned by Nazi-occupied Norway, frustrating an alleged German plan to gain the island's rich coal mines.

In the two-day-old siege of Leningrad, dating from the German announcement yesterday that the city had now been completely encircled, Hitler's high command reported that dive-bombers were hammering the old Russian capital day and night.

American interests focused sharply on the sinking of the S. S. Steel Seafarer.

Reliable sources in Cairo, headquarters of the British Middle East command, said the vessel was bombed and sent to the bottom by a Nazi bomber operating from Greece.

In Berlin, authorized sources commented that the incident need surprise no one.

"The area has been declared a war zone by the Italians long ago," the Germans said.

Washington informants predicted that President Roosevelt, in his address to the nation Thursday night, would announce a policy of meeting force with force on the high seas and might act to arm United States merchantships plying dangerous routes.

Congressman Bonner Returns To Capital

Congressman Bonner had dinner here with his secretary, Jack Spain, after which the two motored to Rocky Mount, where the representative took a train for Washington.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
Tuesday, September 9, 1901

The nights are cool but the days, especially around noon, are warm again.

The Daughters of the Confederacy are preparing for a novel entertainment at an early date.

There were plenty of tears shed at the depot this morning, so many boys and girls going off to school.

One of Greenville's young business men will take unto himself a better half real soon. Who can guess who it is?

This week is no exception in large tobacco sales. The prices continue good and farmers are hurrying it to market. The crop is smaller this year than last and the big breaks will soon exhaust it.

Quiz Featured At Rotary Club Meet

Members of the Greenville Rotary club experienced an enjoyable hour at last night's meeting. Rotarian W. H. Dall, Jr., presented Jack Aley and Harold Dall, popular announcers of Radio Station WGTC, who sponsored a quiz program. The following Rotarians participated in the program: Herbert Waldrop, Ty Wagner, Kinchen Cobb, Phil Goodson, Sam White, L. A. Stroud, R. R. Bennett and Charles Bissette.

Jack Aley presented questions to the Rotarians who gave spontaneous answers, all of which were recorded by Harold Dall. The transcription was then presented for the entertainment of the audience. Visiting Rotarians at last night's meeting were Joe Eagles, Tarboro; Ted Haiger, Sanford; Mack Waters, Washington; Maynard Fletcher, Washington; J. P. Harris, Bethel; Jim Gaskins, Wilson.

Guests at last night's meeting were Herbert Stuckey, Atlanta, Ga.; John G. Clark, Jr., Greenville; J. T. Richardson, Raleigh; J. C. Lanier, Greenville.

All A&P Employees Go On 5-Day Week

Charlotte, Sept. 9.—Retail employees of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company in North Carolina and South Carolina today went on a five-day, 48-hour week. M. A. Hogwood, southern division vice president of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company and head of the Charlotte unit announced. The shorter work week—inaugurated for the first time in the history of the grocery business this spring in eastern outlets of the A. and P.—today becomes effective in the company's entire southern division from Florida to North Carolina and from eastern seaboard to the Mississippi river and Texas.

"Stores will continue to serve customers six days a week as usual, though approximately 6,000 employees of the southern division will work but five days a week and receive the same pay for 48 hours as they received under the old schedule," Mr. Hogwood said.

Last Rites Held For Mother Of President

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The somber, comforting words of the Episcopal burial service sounded a solemn requiem today for Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of the President.

On a final familiar journey, the chief executive accompanied her down the maple-shaded driveway of the estate to which she came as a bride 61 years ago, and along the usually bustling Albany post road to weathered St. James church, where they had worshipped together so many times.

In the churchyard behind the gray stone building, a final resting place awaited her among other Roosevelts who had preceded her in death.

With her distinguished son beside her bed, Mrs. Roosevelt died Sunday at the family home after a circulatory collapse brought on by her advanced age. She was nearly 87.

GAIN IS NOTED IN FATALITIES

18 August Highway Deaths In This Section

The highway death toll in the same 30 northeastern North Carolina counties comprising Troop A of the State Highway Patrol showed a marked increase for August over the previous month, according to the monthly report just issued by Lieut. Lester Jones, commanding officer.

The 18 fatalities in August compared with only six in the previous month. Only 15 persons received non-fatal injuries in August, however, compared with 76 in the previous month. The 90 accidents investigated last month was one less than the total for July.

Total arrests also showed a big increase, jumping from 457 to 525. Sixty persons were arrested on driving drunk charges in August, compared with 67 in July.

Of the total number arrested, 330 were convicted and eight acquitted. Sentences meted out amounted to 10 years and nine months and fines totaled $3,697.85 and costs $2,965.47. The patrolmen recovered stolen property valued at $4,475 and collected $11,138.32 in highway revenue, such as from overloaded trucks, improper licenses, etc.

In covering 173,129 miles of highway, the combined Troop A force reported the other following activities:

Vehicles inspected 9,378; equipment tickets issued 188; light tickets issued 38; lights corrected 4,198; warning tickets issued 38; courtesies extended 1,252; cars recovered 10; vehicles stored 19; vehicles weighed 34, with 31 found to be overloaded; complaints investigated 622; fires extinguished two; first aid rendered one; citations 1,021; driving licenses inspected on the highway 12,298; driving license applications approved 160.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIEN GREY

YESTERDAY: It was the cold nose of a wandering Kerry Blazie that warned Pam Quelleron of the approach of Jerry Winthrop, but it was the instinctive develop of her years of life in Key West that warned Pam against Jerry. For there was no Quelleron money left, only a lovely old house, and Jerry was a "winter man," gay, rich, with nothing to do. And not for Pam, she thought.

Chapter Two

Jerry Winthrop, on South Beach, had watched Pam go away from him with a distinct sense of dismay. He was not accustomed to being deserted by girls. He turned to length to grin ruefully at a group of tanned young men who had been sunning on a small bandstand, watching him. As they saw Pam go away they scoffed lightly.

"That's one girl you can't mow down with your fatal charm!" The speaker was a young blonde giant who was tutoring a boy in the neighborhood.

"Oh, yeah?" from Jerry.

"Yeah!" laughed a gilded youth, leaning the winter away at Casa Marina. "She doesn't give us a tumble. It's a shame, because her blonde beauty is just the foil my dark good looks need!"

"Treats us northerners as if we were germs or something!" exclaimed Edmund Antoine, who was of-chestra leader at the hotel and the current rave of all the winter girls. "Well, maybe you are!" Jerry hoisted himself gracefully to the platform. "You can't blame a girl for using a little discrimination."

"I supposed you think you're the fair-haired boy?" another scoffed. "That girl wouldn't make a date with a winter man if her life depended on it! She thinks we're dangerous, or something."

"You boys just haven't the approach," Jerry answered lightly.

"Well, we haven't a Kerry Blazie, if that's what you mean. But even that—Antoine was earnest—"won't get you anywhere with that girl. She's a winter-man proof! I'll bet you."

"As I said," Jerry retorted with maddening smoothness, "you boys just haven't the approach."

"And I suppose you think you have!"

"I have. I'll take you up on that bet, Antoine. A supper party at Casa Marina tomorrow afternoon."

"If you win, I give it. If I win, you give it."

"Accepted," Antoine turned to the others laughing. "Get set for a champagne supper at Jerry's expense, boys."

"Don't be too sure."

Jerry's statement was met with good-natured jeers.

"I'll have her at the tea dance at Casa Marina tomorrow afternoon."

Jerry promised, and once more was answered with friendly jeering.

Invitation

Pam always cut her roses in the morning while they were still silvered with dew. Her scissors had just cut the first bud when she heard steps behind her and was aware of Blazie beside her.

"Blazie has been waiting for you."

It was Jerry's voice. Jerry whom Pam had hoped to avoid. She stroked the dog's soft coat, but was too startled to make any reply.

"And, incidentally, I have too," Jerry continued. "Don't tell me that doesn't mean anything to you. He looked at her approvingly. She was enchanting in her dark blue cotton play-suit which she had made herself."

"I'm terribly flattered that Blazie remembered me," she smiled finally. "I like dogs, and Blazie is such an aristocrat. But how do you happen to be in my garden so early in the morning?"

"I've remembered you, too. I'm in your garden waiting for you, lovely lady, because after a whole night I still remember you."

"And I'm supposed to be flattered at that?"

"You should be. It's a tribute. A tribute to your very superior charm and beauty, and all that sort of thing." He spoke lightly, but the words were faintly etched with earnestness.

"All right," she laughed. "Just to please you, I'll say thank you. And now if you don't mind, I'll cut my roses. I've got things that need doing."

She would have turned away from him, but Jerry caught her hand. He was suddenly very serious.

"But I do mind, Pam," he said. "Don't send me away. I've just found you."

Pam looked out over the familiar scene. Poinsettias flaming scarlet against white walls. Mareschal-Neil roses rioting along a fence. Palms rustling in salt sea breeze. Spanish lime trees, dark waxy-green in the brilliant sun.

It was all just as it always had been, even to the pungent acid smell of Cuban breakfast coffee in the air. Everything exactly as she had always known it. Yet Pam had a feeling it should be different.

Jerry Winthrop had spoken to her with tenderness in his voice. Jerry Winthrop had come to her garden to find her. And her heart was a-thrill. But she tried with her words to deny it.

"You'll find dozens of other girls before the winter is over!" she said.

"No, I won't. That's just it. I knew yesterday when Blazie found me. Blazie knew, too. You're not just another girl to me. You're the right word—something else. Something I'd rather tell you than there's a moon. But right now I like to tell you that I want to acquire you to the tea dance at Casa Marina this afternoon."

"Don't be silly! You don't even know me." But under the gaiety of her words her heart was pounding wildly.

"I do know you. You're Pam. And your voice is a celestial lullaby. And your moods are as soft and gentle as a summer breeze. Besides, it's such nice silliness, Pam-lovely. Now will you go?"

Pam looked at him without answering. A Persian cat moved silently along the path to a castor bean plant grown to the top of the proper proportion to the winter island, and sharpened its claws satisfactorily.

Jerry's hand at Blazie's collar stayed her instinct to give chase. Pam was finding it hard to say the thing she believed she should.

"Pam!" That tender note was in his voice again. Blazie's nose, cool and damp, touched her hand persuasively. "Will you say something after me?" She met his eyes, a question in her own. "Will you say 'Yes, Jerry'?"

There was a moment's silence. Then:

"Yes, Jerry," she repeated.

They laughed like happy children and Blazie, catching their mood, capered about, alarming the cat, which climbed up the castor bean tree and jumped to the top rail of the white picket fence to sit there in composed and dignified safety surveying the trio.

"Now let me cut my roses before the dew is all gone," Pam said.

quiet of her big house, was thinking of Leo here and, for the first time, missing him. Leo was surgeon at the naval station. His family, like Pam's, had settled in Key West generations before, and he and Pam had been friends ever since she could remember.

If only Leo were here. Pam thought now. He had been called to Washington the week before, with several other officers from the base, relative to future developments at the Key West station. Leo, who was ten years older than Pam, had once told her he loved her. But that was not why Pam missed him. Not why she wished she could talk to him. It was because she had met Jerry, and there was something disturbing about it all. And Leo knew Jerry and Lenore and many of their kind while she, Pamela, had made a point of not knowing winter men, the idle, play-intent sons of the rich.

With Leo near, Pam knew she would feel a little better about her date for tea dancing with Jerry.

Leo, out of his sincere friendship for her, would be able to guide her right. He was that kind. Pam was thoughtful as she dressed. Jerry, like Pam's, had settled in Key West generations before, and he and Pam had been friends ever since she could remember.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

ONE HOBBY AND ONE FRIEND
When in the 17th century a rapid succession of monarchs in England brought a rapid change in the established faith a famous Vicar of Bray gained notoriety by changing his religion twice and twice changing it back again.

This is the verse that has been written about him:
"And this is the law I will maintain—

Until my dying day, Sir;
That whatsoever king may reign,
I'll still be Vicar of Bray, Sir."

His spirit still lives on in the modern world. Today it is not so much a matter of men changing their religious faith as it is changing their opinions, their moral standards, their political affiliations in the interest of self-aggrandizement. There are millions of people who, when confronted by any situation, invariably ask but one question, "What do I get out of this?" They care nothing about friends save that they may use them. Their one idea of a life work is a job which will bring them lots of money. They go to school, marry, choose their friends, join church, pick their political party with only one end in view. Like the Vicar of Bray, their one desire is to keep on the comfort side, no matter "whatsoever king may reign."

They have only one hobby — personal advancement; only one friend
— themselves.

WE HOPE SO

Governor Broughton has indicated that the report of the findings of the SBI in the recent attempted lynching
at Roxboro will "implicate a number of persons." It is to be hoped when the information is turned over to the proper authorities, definite action will be taken to deal with the mob members.
There is no place for mob violence in North Carolina and the offenders in the Roxboro case should be used as an example for the rest of the state.

A GOOD MOVE

The thorough study of North Carolina's tax structure promised by Governor Broughton at yesterday's tax meeting in Raleigh is a step in the right direction and should result in a piece of constructive effort for this state. The Chamber of Commerce Secretaries of this state had no desire to hurt the state in having Dr. Ben F. Lemert, of Duke University, compile North Carolina corporate tax figures for comparison with other states but were truly trying to ascertain whether or not North Carolina taxes are keeping new industries from locating in this state. It was true that the figures compiled by Dr.
Lemert were not complete,
but the possession of these figures by the Secretaries Association has brought about the promise of a full and complete study which will present North Carolina in a true light concerning its taxes and the benefits the

Time To Learn His Lesson?

residents of the state are receiving from these taxes. If the promised study is carried to a successful conclusion
the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce Secretaries should prove of worthwhile benefit to the state as a whole.

Washington — Answering the mail orders:

G. A. E. Lockport, N. Y. — Referring to the phrase "undue hardship" as a cause for letting men out of the army is about as indefinite as anything can be. It was not specifically defined in the law extending the selective service training period.

The war department's policy is very broad in this matter. Decision in all cases of alleged "undue hardship" is left up to the commanding officers. I can give you an illustration. If since a man's induction, his father has died (leaving his mother without support); or his wife has died or divorced him, leaving a child to be cared for — these would be pretty clear-cut cases of "undue hardship."

There could conceivably be hundreds of similar cases. That, according to the war department, is why there has been no effort to define them. If a man thinks that he falls into this category he should make application (in writing) to his commanding officer — setting forth reasons he thinks his case is one of "undue hardship." This application will go to field headquarters, or corps area headquarters, depending on the status of his unit and there be acted upon.

P. R. Williams, Ariz. — There has been nothing from official sources to indicate that our ships and airplanes in the Atlantic are armed for a shooting war. But it would be pretty blind to figure that they are not prepared for any such contingency. When the Panay was bombed in China it returned fire.
Testimony before Congress has indicated that our ships and planes, under the present emergency, are no less prepared.

K. L. T. Golden, Colo. — The Near East situation is far too complicated to try to explain in a paragraph, but war observers here say for certain that it probably will be the theatre of war this winter. (Remember though that they have been wrong before. The collapse of Russia, according to their "authentic" estimates, already two or three weeks overdue.)

T. M. Leonia, N. J. — The reorganization of the defense set-up (although it probably will not still the critical tongues of opponents) will have a much more far-reaching effect than appears on the surface.
John D. Biggers (OPM production official) and Edward R. Stettinius Jr. (priorities chief) had been targeted for opposition among political groups. Their transfer to jobs which demand less over-all executive control will mean that many men they gathered around them soon will be returning to private enterprises. In other words, there will be a change in the priorities and production set-ups reaching well down the line. Whether it will be for better, worse or nothing at all remains to be seen.

K. R. Portsmouth, N. H. — Coast Guard work still is being carried on by the Coast Guard. Under its transfer to the Navy, the Navy assumes the obligation of seeing that the tasks assigned to the Coast Guard are performed. In other words, the Coast Guard — like the U. S. Marines, for instance — is now a part of the Navy, but with special duties.

O. M. T. Miami Beach, Fla. —
The parachute troops (in training) are the fastest growing branch of the United States army. Two years ago, there were about 60. Now there are more than 5,000 men trained or training. Trainees now may volunteer for this branch of the service, but one positive requirement is topnotch physical form.

sent into the maneuvers area to have long working hours, little chance for recreation or rest, and a task which is going to test their tact and ability to the very utmost.
It is for that reason that he is going to assign the cream of his force to the job.

Lieutenant D. T. Lambert, of the Greensboro office, will be in command of the maneuver area patrol;
which will be set up for the duration as a separate division of the force.

Note on the functioning of democratic government in the state capital: "I exercised my right to tell Bob Powell (commissioner of public safety) just how I thought he ought to run the new parking meters," said Jerome Rosenthal, prominent oil man, "and he exercised his right to pay no attention at all to what I told him."

Why Albenarle annually turns out a team that wins, or threatens to win, the American Legion junior championship is told in a short headline in the Stanly News and gin Next Saturday." The Raleigh News and Observer which was highly critical of the errors in June Warren's history text recently carried on its editorial page this extract from a synopsis of how North Carolina grew: "July 1, 1909, state

(maybe not in those exact words, but to that effect. The Turlington act, it may be noted, was adopted sometime in the "twenties." And

Short Shots

Reflector Bureau

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Sept. 9. — North Carolina highway patrol personnel has just been increased by addition of 30 new officers, but for the next two or three months more than 90 per cent of the state is going to have to get along with fewer patrolmen than in a long time.

Reason for this paradox is that about 100 of Major Armstrong's men are to be assigned to the eight counties in which the army plans its big fall maneuvers — which means that the other 92 counties will have to get along with about 110 officers
— the full strength of the patrol now standing at 213.

Not only will there be a fifty per cent reduction in number of officers left in the other 92 counties, but the very best and most experienced of the patrol will be assigned to the military area.

This is entirely right and proper and is just one of those things the defense program makes it necessary to put up with.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner
Boddie Ward expects the patrolmen

here is that former City Judge Willey Barnes is much more likely than Solicitor Bill Bickett to run against the dean of North Carolina's superior court judges, W. C. Harris, in next year's primary. Judge Barnes and Buck Jones are generally regarded as Raleigh's political bosses.
They helped Harris get in, but the judge is said to have been against Bob Powell, their choice for city commissioner in this year's race.

Cole Bros. Circus Coming Here Soon

The big show is coming!
The Cole Brothers Combined Circus, with Jack Dempsey in person at every performance, idol of millions, Dorothy Herbert, the world's most daring rider, and Senor Juan Lobo, Mexico's greatest cowboy champion, will exhibit in Greenville Thursday, September 18. The big-top with its canvas of blue and gold will be pitched at the old Fair Grounds.

A mile long train of double-length steel cars are used to transport the huge organization from city to city. Traveling with the big show are nearly 1,000 people in addition to the more than 100 men ahead, thirty of whom are today aboard their streamlined advance car under the command of Vern Williams, one of spangeland's veteran advertising managers.

More than 300 men and women aren't stars from all parts of the world are listed under the big show's panniers this year. A stupendous array of circus stars and features
new to American audiences.

As a prelude to the performances,
there is the stupendous super-spectacle, "Pan-Americana" in which hundreds of people and animals participate, excelling in magnificence, brilliancy, gorgeousness and beauty, the glories of any production yet staged by The Cole Brothers.
Miss Florence Tennyson, noted opera star, heads the scores of vocalists, and there are 60 beautiful dancing girls. Included featured dancers from the Argentine. It is by far, the most pretentious opening pageant ever presented by the big show.

Famous spangled names dot the lengthy program from beginning to end. Dorothy Herbert, the most recklessly daring rider in the world, heads the equestrian displays. In breath-taking fashion, she presents her feats atop her thoroughbred charges. She is the most fearless rider on earth.

Senor Juan Lobo, the famous champion cowboy from Mexico, and his vast assemblage of cowboys, cowgirls, Cossacks, and Rough Riders of the World, will be seen in what is said to be the most thrilling and entertaining exhibition of cowboy pastimes ever presented by the Cole Brothers. Champions from the pampas of South America vie for honors with the hardriding champions of America's great west and Mexico. Senor Lobo is an outstanding feature this year.

The Six Flying Tarheels, flying-return stars, who perform high up in the dome of the all-new, and re-styled big-top; the Heiffernach Troupe of bareback-riding marvels with Clarence Bruce, greatest of riding comics; the world renowned Nelson Troupe of risley stars—the fifth generation of the original Nelsons, most noted acrobats in all circus history; Miss Lucy, solo equestrienne, the spectacular solo acrobatic star from Australia, and dozens of others, who will be seen here for the first time.

Then, there are the clowns—fifty of them, this year, led by America's greatest, and that means the world's greatest, including Emmett Kelly, Otto Graubling, Horace Laird, Toby
Tyler, Arthur Horale, Freddie Freeman, and Bo-Bo Barnett, —definitely, the greatest in all the world.

The clean business methods and the magnitude of this great traveling enterprise have always made the Cole Brothers Combined Circus, a welcome visitor to this community.
It is all-new this year, replete with scores of innovations including a Grand Horse Show, in a separate tent and with no additional charge in which nearly 100 thoroughbred registered horses are on display in beautifully appointed stalls.

The performances will be given at 2 and 8 p. m. with the gates opening one hour earlier to permit inspection of the huge six-pole menagerie, the largest traveling zoo in the world, with its big collection of wild and ferocious animals from the four corners of the earth.

New Bern Scores Thumping 12-1 Victory Over Locals

SERIES EVENED AT TWO EACH

Fifth Game To Be Played At Smith Park Tonight

Manager Rube Wilson said this afternoon he planned to start Lefty Joe Long on the mound tonight, with the hope that his sore arm will be in shape to pitch his second win of the series.

The Greenies looked like any other play-off contender in the fourth game of the semi-finals in New Bern last night as they scored a thumping 12-1 victory over the locals to even the series at two games each.

The two teams play the fifth game of the series at Guy Smith Park here tonight, with the contest slated to start at 8:15.

Both teams scored one in the first and New Bern went ahead with two more in the third and added a single in the fifth. While the Greenies had not been up to their regular brand of ball in the early frames, they completely cracked in the seventh inning. The New Bern players were hitting the ball all over the field, fielders were misjudging the ball, and wild throws were the order of the day. Although only three errors were chalked up against the Greenies, they were not handling the ball in their usual manner.

Don Finck, who has successfully played several positions this season, misjudged at least one ball in right field, Bennie Crowe who usually pegs a ball on a direct line to any place he wishes, threw wild at home, to name just two of the unusual features of the game.

While Lefty Adams received poor support, he was nicked for 18 hits—enough to win most any ball game. With Long reported to be suffering with a sore arm, Manager Rube Wilson apparently elected to keep Adams in the box in order to save his other pitchers for the remainder of the series.

The Greenies got eight hits, but could not make them count for runs. The local skipper himself led the locals at bat, getting two for three, while Kracke and Finck each got two for four. Pierce and Scagg each got one to account for the remaining Greenville safe hits.

Three U. S. Fliers Victims Of Nazis

London, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Three fliers of the American eagle squadron are missing from operations Sunday over German-occupied France, an American source said today.

An Eagle squadron source commented: "Yesterday, of course, was the first time we lost three pilots in one day."

"Our boys just ran into tough opposition. They were hopped on by a hell of a lot of enemy planes. Pilots on the sweeps reported Messerschmitts literally were swarming over France. One said he sighted at

SMALL BURLEY CROP IN VIEW

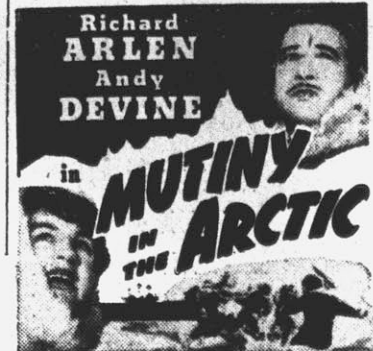

Said To Have Been Cut 25 Per Cent by Bad Weather

Marshall, Sept. 9.—Weather conditions have reduced the Burley tobacco crop in Madison county approximately 25 per cent this year. P. R. Elam, far manager of the State College Extension Service, reported today. Madison is the leading county in the state in Burley production. "This year," Elam said, "the tobacco crop was set out under very dry conditions. Dry weather prevailed for several weeks after the tobacco was set out, and during this time the plants made very little growth. They developed weak root systems, therefore the plants were not fed properly. After rains started there was an abundant amount of moisture. During rainy weather the tobacco plant does not develop a good root system because of an excessive amount of water in the soil. Dry weather again set in, and because of a weak root system, the tobacco again suffered severely." Elam said that farmers who used Kentucky Nos. 5 and 18 varieties of Burley tobacco found that these varieties are more resistant to root rot, which breaks out severely during wet weather. "Also," he declared, "the use of potash has been more beneficial to Burley tobacco this year than ever before. Farmers who have applied 100 pounds of sulphate of potash to their tobacco at the second working have leaf of good quality which did not burn at the ground." N. E. Jarvis of Ivy is a farmer cited by Elam as having an outstanding Burley crop because of the use of potash. He applied 800 pounds of 5-8-5 fertilizer at planting time, and side-dressed with 100 pounds per acre of sulphate of potash 15 days later. The resulting crop is extra good in quality and yield.

MR. TOBACCO FARMER

I Want You To Know That I Have Been Framed By The Other Warehousemen Of Greenville

Last year with 10 warehouses, I sold, with the smallest warehouse, 5,022,732 lbs. Greenville sold 49,662,592 lbs. (official figures). This shows I sold over one-tenth of the tobacco sold here.

Without my consent or any say-so whatsoever the Tobacco Board of Trade has given me hours to sell according to the size of my house, instead of on the basis of the pounds I have been selling. The statement of the Supervisor shows the market averaged $25.60, McGowan's average is $29.05, which shows to my friends that I have given each and every one of you $3.45 per hundred pounds more for your tobacco than the market. This is $34,500.00 per 1,000,000 lbs. more at McGowan's than the market average.

MR. FARMER! IT TAKES A YEAR TO RAISE YOUR CROP, WHY SHOULD YOU GIVE IT AWAY TO THE OTHER WAREHOUSEMEN? I am a tobacco farmer reared on the farm, and have the thought of every farmer in mind every minute that I am on sale with your tobacco. When lots of my competitors are at the beach having a grand time, I am in my tobacco field or at home where you can find me for any accommodation if you need one. Now, if you will look at the market average and my average you will see it will pay you to sell with Hugh McGowan, who does not have to give a mortgage like some of the other warehousemen to pay off their sales.

If you are not selling with me, come watch my sales and I will convince you that I sell it higher.
