U.S. Atlantic Fleet Takes Over Protection Of Cargoes

To Protect Lend-Lease Shipments

Authoritative Quarters In Washington Understand Action To Mean Actual Convoy Duty From North American Continent To Iceland; Royal Navy to Concentrate On Rest Of Atlantic Route

Washington, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Stripped for action, the United States Atlantic fleet took under the protection of its guns today all lease-lease cargoes in transit on the Atlantic between the North American continent and Iceland.

The zero hour for this new phase of operations was 12:01 a. m. and the widely accepted view in authoritative quarters here was that it meant the start of actual convoy duty by United States naval vessels along a 2,000-mile stretch of the North Atlantic.

Literally the new naval policy, as enunciated by Secretary Knox, was to provide protection "as adequate as we can make it" in the designated area with all fleet units under specific orders "to capture or destroy by every means at their disposal" every Axis raider encountered.

With the Atlantic fleet charged with the responsibility of safeguarding British and all other cargo vessels in the expansive west of Iceland, the Royal Navy could concentrate its efforts on guaranteeing safe passage through the perilous 900-mile stretch between Iceland and the British Isles.

In a companion move to ease Britain's shipping burdens, American merchantmen were given explicit permission to carry arms and munitions to numerous British colonies and possessions, some of them of strategic proximity to theaters of active operations and others of potential future importance.

Meanwhile, administration leaders in the Senate were mulling over the whole broad question of the existing neutrality law and the report was they were undecided on how far they should go in seeking its overhaul.

Offer Reduction In Circus Tickets

Special arrangements have been made between the Daily Reflector and Cole Brothers circus, showing here Thursday of this week.

Through which students of all Greenville and Pitt county schools may secure tickets at reduced rates.

The tickets, good for the afternoon performance only, will be on sale at the Reflector office, 300 Evans street, on Thursday, circus day between 9:30 a. m., and 1:30 p. m. The afternoon performance starts at 2 p. m. The tickets will be on sale at 30 cents each, whereas they will cost 50 cents at the circus grounds.

Coupons are being distributed throughout the schools and also are being printed at the Reflector. Additional coupons will be available at the Reflector office.

Upon presenting this coupon a student may secure the 50 cents ticket for 30 cents.

The Greenville schools will close for the day at the regular lunch period in order that as many as can may attend the circus.

Seal Sale Provides Tuberculosis Clinic

The Pitt county Health Department, in conjunction with the State Sanatorium, is holding in Greenville the regular annual Tuberculosis Clinic for children.

This clinic is held under the auspices of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association and the Pitt County Health Department and is made possible through the Tuberculosis Seal Sale Fund.

The Health Department nurses have tuberculin-tested a large number of children in the county living in homes where there is an active case of tuberculosis. All positive reactors to the test are today being x-rayed. X-ray plates will be sent to the State Sanatorium for interpretation and a report of the x-ray findings will be made directly to the family physician and a similar report to the Health Department.

German State of Siege Reported Lifted In Oslo Because Of Increasing Resentment Of Norwegians

Paris, Occupied France, Sept. 16.—(AP)—General Heinrich von Stuepnagel, commander of the German occupying forces, announced today that 10 more hostages had been shot in Paris in reprisal for attacks on German army men.

The executions were in retaliation for attacks on men of the army of occupation on September 6, 10 and 11, a notice informed the public.

The executions brought to 13 the number officially announced. Three hostages were shot September 6 for an attack on a sergeant.

The evening after these executions a German officer was shot, another shot at but missed, a German military garage was fired and a German military official assaulted. Subsequently, a German officer was clubbed and another manhandled in Paris streets.

As far as is known, the actual attackers have not been apprehended.

The German radio appeared to be three hostages executed for every German army man attacked.

(In Berlin the news agency DNB said that the state of civil siege of Oslo and suburbs of the Norwegian capital was lifted at 5 a. m. today (Continued On Page Six)

HOUSE ADOPTS BILL CHANGES

Promptly Accepts Compromise Defense Tax Bill

Washington, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The House gave prompt approval today to the $3,533,400,000 compromise version of the new defense tax bill, clearing the way for final action tomorrow by the Senate.

Without a roll call vote, the House adopted recommendations of a joint Senate-House conference committee which worked out the compromises on changes made in the record-breaking measure by the Senate.

Furries of criticism developed against some of the changes, particularly the reduction of the individual exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $800 to $750 for single persons and the elimination of the requirement that all married persons file joint income tax returns.

Rep. Crowther (R.-N.Y.) protested that certain provisions of the bill, such as those lowering the exemptions and imposing a $5 annual use tax on passenger automobiles, would make the measure an "employment agency."

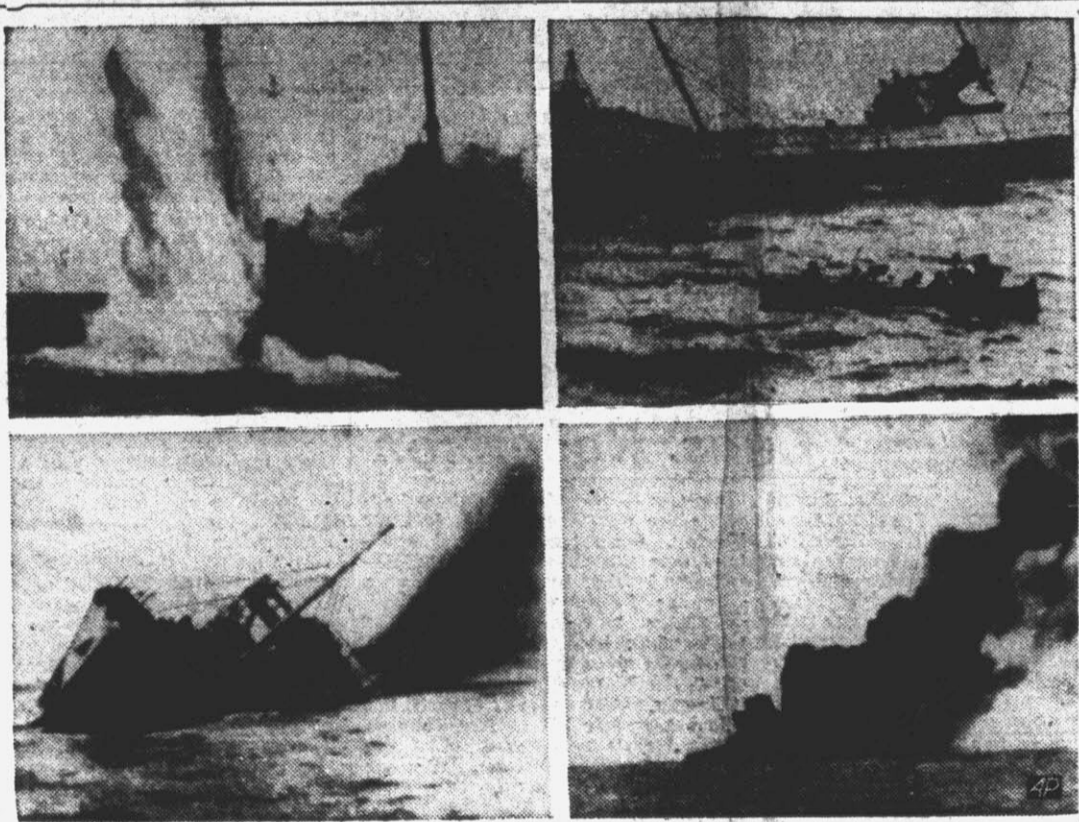

He said that lowering of the exemptions last year had forced the Internal Revenue Bureau to hire 3,800 additional clerks to handle the increased number of returns and he added that the bureau had reported the proposed automobile tax would necessitate 3,800 more employees.

Methodist Study Set For New Bern

New Bern, Sept. 16.—The annual Study Leaders' Day of the New Bern Methodist district will be held Thursday, beginning at 10 o'clock. Daylight Saving Time, at Centenary Methodist church in New Bern.

Mrs. Gertrude Matthews, district secretary, says that each society president, each secretary of missionary education, Christian social relations, children's work, young women's and girls' work, and each leader of spiritual life groups are expected to attend, as the work of all these departments will be discussed in separate groups by the respective conference secretaries.

CHAS. WHEDBEE PITT YDC HEAD

Named President In Three-Way Contest Last Night

Charles Whedbee, Greenville attorney and solicitor of Pitt county court, last night was named president of the Pitt County Young Democrats club in a three-way race, edging out J. W. H. Roberts and David Mosier for the post.

Mr. Whedbee succeeds S. B. Underwood, Miss Pauline Moore of the Gardner's crossroads section was named vice-president, succeeding Miss Patsy Davenport of this city, and Mr. Mosier was elected secretary-treasurer, succeeding Eli Joyner of Farmville.

The meeting, held at the Municipal building courtroom, got off with a bang when a large electric light bulb exploded just before the session was called to order.

Prior to the election of officers, Miss Davenport discussed the state YDC convention and urged that the local club send a large delegation to the Winston-Salem meeting on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

No local delegation was named, all members who possibly can be urged to be present. A committee composed of M. K. Blount, Mr. Roberts and Mr. Mosier was named to provide transportation for all Pitt Democrats who plan to attend.

The local club endorsed Hoover Taft, unofficial candidate for the office of state president, and also endorsed Miss Davenport for the office of national committeewoman.

Mr. Taft, it is understood, will have completed his service in the army by the time of the meeting. Although his name has been prominently and frequently mentioned as a candidate for president, he has made no formal declaration.

Miss Davenport is considered the most probable candidate for the office she seeks.

The Pitt club raised the $10 fee to become affiliated with the state organization.

War On Law Violations. New Bern, Sept. 16.—Sheriff R. B. Lane has declared war on law violations at dance halls and night clubs in Craven county. Neighbors have reported boisterous behavior at some of the all-night filling stations, and the sheriff has served official notice that every recourse offered by law will be exhausted to close them unless immediate improvement is forthcoming.

Weather Outlook. For the period from 7:30 p. m., September 16, to 7:30 p. m., September 20.—Temperatures mostly above normal, only a few light showers.

Legion May Abandon Ban On Foreign Participation

Milwaukee, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The American soldiers who shouldered rifles in France in 1918 substituted canes today as they swung jauntily down Milwaukee streets in the American Legion's brilliant convention parade.

Milwaukee got up early and massed ten deep along the three-mile parade route.

The march started promptly at 9 a. m. (CST) to continue without interruption for at least 12 hours. The first section passed before the reviewing stand shortly before 10 o'clock. Convention officials said about 50,000 participated.

Business sessions which got off to a rousing start yesterday with the applauding of every inference of intervention in the foreign conflict, were suspended for the parade.

The convention cheered to the rafters spokesmen for the national administration, Secretary of the Navy Knox, Civilian Defense Director LaGuardia, as well as a message from President Roosevelt himself in a challenge against Nazi Germany.

The convention appeared sympathetic toward a move that would reverse the Legion's traditional stand against American participation in foreign wars and many leading members were seeking support for a resolution which would lift the ban.

Farmers Donating Tobacco To Cause

Local women interested in the Bundles for Britain movement who are lending their support through active participation traveled through a part of the county during the past week inviting the help of farmers. The response was declared to have been "most generous and gratifying."

An official statement that it is indeed a deep expression on the part of the farmers of Pitt county to express much willingness.

It is proposed to call on each farmer in the county and request a small contribution of tobacco, but should any farmers not be visited he can make a contribution by leaving it at the fire station on West Fifth street. The firemen in charge will accept the tobacco and turn it over to Bundles for Britain officials here.

After relating the success with which the campaign is meeting, a spokesman added that "we are confident that we can expect a contribution of generosity."

Weather Outlook. For the period from 7:30 p. m., September 16, to 7:30 p. m., September 20.—Temperatures mostly above normal, only a few light showers.

VOTE ON BONDS IS SCHEDULED

School District To Vote On $250,000 Program Oct. 28

A special bond election and new registration for the Greenville school district has been called for Tuesday, October 28, to determine the question of issuing $250,000 in bonds to make additions and improvements to the present school plants in the district.

All present plants, both white and colored, will be affected by the program, which includes additions and improvements. Expansion of the present buildings, in preference to a new building, was decided upon after a careful study of the needs was made by local officials and an architect.

Mrs. W. W. Phelps has been named registrar and registration books for the special election will be open from October 4 to October 18, inclusive, from 9 a. m. until sunset each day, except Sundays and holidays. On each Saturday during the registration period the books will be open at the polling place, the Municipal building.

N. C. Brooks and Mrs. J. C. Tyson have been named judges for the election.

The election was called at a special meeting of the Board of County Commissioners last night under the Cleveland act, which provides that in order to hold such an election the County Commissioners must call for it after the County Board of Education, the Mayor and Board of Aldermen, the Board of Trustees of the Greenville schools and a petition signed by a required percentage of the qualified voters.

The boundaries of the Greenville School District set up for the calling of the election are outlined in the official and formal call elsewhere in this issue.

Negro Man Believed Slugged And Robbed

Matthew Davis, Negro insurance collector, was found near the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad tracks between the Texas Oil Company and Fifth street at an early hour this morning in a semi-conscious condition believed to have been caused by a blow on the back of the head.

Although officers are still conducting an investigation, robbery was believed to have been the motive. The man's left back pocket was turned out and his insurance book and hat were found some distance from where he was lying.

The victim was taken to the hospital by R. T. Rogerson, who was called to investigate.

NAZIS REPORT No Iranian Opposition Expected To Be Offered

Claim Nine Divisions Completely Annihilated

BLOODY BATTLE FOR LENINGRAD

Soviets, However, Declare That German Thrust On One Important Leningrad Front Routed

By The Associated Press. Adolf Hitler's high command reported today the annihilation of nine Soviet divisions and the crushing of nine other divisions "with the bloodiest losses" — a grand total of about 270,000 men—in fighting south of Lake Ilmen on the Leningrad front.

In a special bulletin, the Fuehrer's field headquarters declared that strong forces of the 11th, 27th and 34th Russian armies had been "decisively defeated" with the capture of 53,000 Red army prisoners, 320 tanks and 625 pieces of artillery.

German losses, as usual, were not disclosed.

The Nazi bulletin said the past slaughter occurred "during the past weeks" and indicated a smashing blow to Leningrad's defense army of 1,000,000 men.

Simultaneously, the Soviet army newspaper, Red Star, reported that a gigantic night battle of heavy tanks for "an important point on the approaches to Leningrad" ended in a complete rout of the Germans who left hundreds dead on the field.

Nazi military dispatches picturing Leningrad as doomed, said the great network of steel and concrete fortifications ringing the city was crumbling under blows of the most destructive weapons in the German arsenal.

More than 200 Soviet bunkers and pillboxes in the Leningrad defense zone were reported smashed or captured and German troops at some points were reported only 15 miles from the heart of the city.

On the southern front, the Nazi high command asserted that German troops, after several days' fighting, had captured a series of "highly important bridgeheads" across the lower Dnieper river in the Ukraine, clearing the way for a drive into the rich industrial valley of the Don.

At sea, the Russians reported the sinking of 10 Nazi ships — seven troop transports and three escorting warships—in northern waters off Norway and Finland and declared that the Germans had been smashed in an attempt to land troops on the fortified island base of Oesel, off Estonia.

Old Bright Marts Also Open Strong

Winston-Salem, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Prices averaged around 30 cents a pound for tobacco at the opening of Old Bright belt markets today.

In Winston-Salem, where 1,500,000 pounds of medium quality primings were offered, the first 50 piles sold averaged 32 cents and other markets reported prices in keeping with the averages being paid on Eastern Carolina market.

In Reidsville, where the average last year was 17.82 cents a pound and in 1939 was 14.22 cents, the average on early sales today was around the 30-cent mark.

Sales Supervisor Joe H. Warren at Mebane reported approximately 225,000 pounds offered and that the first rows sold for an average of about 35 cents.

From Roxboro came reports that the price average on early sales ranged from 31 to 32 cents.

Nation's Ruler Abdicates Under Threat Of Such Action; Russians and British Accuse Shah Regime Of Diliatory Tactics In Carrying Out Agreement To Expel Or Deliver Axis Nationals

London, Sept. 16.—(AP) British and Russian troops, tonight were reported to be marching on the Iranian capital of Teheran as the nation's ruler Reza Shah Pahlavi abdicated under the threat of such action.

The British and Russians accused the Shah and his government of dilly-dally tactics in carrying out an agreement to expel or deliver to the Allies all German, Hungarian, Italian and Rumanian nationals.

This afternoon it was learned authoritatively that British and Russian troops were marching on Teheran with plans for immediate occupation of the city.

The Shah's abdication was announced before an extraordinary session of the Iranian Parliament, the Teheran radio stated, the official reason being ill health.

The Shah, who ascended the throne in 1925, was reported to have fled the capital, but his whereabouts were not disclosed immediately.

It was announced he would be succeeded by his 21-year-old son, the European-educated Crown Prince Shapur Mohammed Reza.

Informed quarters here said they thought Teheran would be occupied without Iranian opposition. The capital was not included in the zones which previously had been agreed upon for occupation by British and Russian troops.

Authoritative quarters for days have stressed the "impatience" of both Britain and Russia at what they called the Shah's "pro-Axis" leanings and efforts to delay as long as possible the fulfillment of the Allied demands.

13 Cases Aired In Morning Session

Thirteen cases were disposed of in County court before the tribunal recessed for lunch today as the wheels of justice moved at a steady pace.

Nashville Hardee, Jr., convicted of assault with a deadly weapon, driving drunk, interfering with an officer on duty and assault was given a six-months sentence, suspended upon payment of a $50 fine and court costs. In addition the defendant's driving license was revoked for 12 months and he was put on probation for two years.

A companion defendant, Clarence (Dixie) Hardee was convicted of carrying a concealed weapon, and driving drunk and carelessly and recklessly and was fined $100, taxed with costs, had his license suspended for 18 months and was placed on probation for two years.

The result of a campaign being waged by the State Highway Patrol against persons driving without licenses or while the permits are revoked was reflected in the fact that seven such charges were disposed of during the morning.

The defendants and judgment in the seven cases were: Paul Whitehurst, 10 mos.; Clinton Ayres, 30 days or pay $25; Frank Stancill, colored, six months or pay $50 and not drive a motor vehicle for two years; George Mitchell, colored, pay costs; Harry Hudson, four months (Continued on page six)

Service Is Topic Of Club Meeting

Community service was the topic of discussion at last night's meeting of the Rotary Club. K. W. Cobb, chairman of the club's Community Service Committee, had charge of the program which consisted of short talks.

Sheriff Knott Proctor explained that the principal function of his office is community service. He mentioned improvements which have been made to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of his department, pointing out that a large number of papers and affairs are handled by the sheriff's office every week and especially on days court is in session. Mr. Proctor said "Seventy-three per cent of the arrests made are made after ten o'clock at night."

John Fleming, manager of Swift and Company's local plant, made an interesting talk on his experience in the meat business. He pointed out that he and his company are interested in community service and that they are very much

Gully To File Charges Against Chas. Robertson

Reflector Bureau
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Sept. 16 — The effort of Herbert Gully, late of the state's U. S. internal revenue division, to bring about the ouster of his one-time boss, Collector Charles Robertson of Greensboro, will crystallize this week with filing of the formal charges by which Gully hopes to effect his aim.

The papers, voluminous and numerous as to specification, will probably be put in the hands of Guy T. Helvering, chief of the Washington internal revenue department, tomorrow — though there always exists the possibility of unlooked for delay. Several weeks ago it seemed sure the charges would be formally lodged, but there was a change of mind at the last moment.

Gully is going to throw about the whole book at the collector, with the charges running the whole gamut. Many of them are aimed directly at the collector himself, but just as many hit at him through Mrs. Henrietta Mann, head of the Social Security division, who is brought into the picture time after time.

Altogether there will be some dozen or more specific charges, which are expected to be supported by from one to a score of witnesses. One of the charges is that the collector's office force is sharply divided into pro and anti-Robertson groups, and it is from this latter that the bulk of Gully's evidence is expected.

Getting around to the details, here are some of the principal charges, which will be included in the indictment to be given Mr. Helvering:

(1) That various shortages in the collector's office have been covered by cashing on employees for subscriptions to make good the deficiency.

(2) That Mrs. Mann, with the knowledge and acquiescence of the collector, has conducted lotteries in the office.

(3) That Mrs. Mann has for several years solicited from other employees contributions for birthday presents for the collector. There is, incidentally, a very strict departmental rule against a superior receiving any form of present from his force, penalty for which is mandatory dismissal.

(4) That the collector has repeatedly failed to tell the truth in dealing with Gully and with other employees. It is averred that on one occasion Robertson told an applicant for a position that Senator Josiah W. Bailey was holding up action on the application, while in fact Bailey had never heard from Robertson about the matter.

(5) That Robertson endeavored to coerce one McBrayer into changing ing a statement he had made regarding another employee.

(6) That the collector has discriminated in the salaries paid the members of the force holding places of equal importance, in particular paying Mrs. Mann $2,600 annually while at the same time allotting $2,000 only to a post of the same rank. There is a regulation requiring equal pay for equal grades.

(7) That Mrs. Mann has taken over the power of saying who should be promoted or appointed in the office, even telling Robertson himself on one occasion "That promotion cannot be made."

Australia's population in September, 1940, was 7,050,081.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIEN GREY

Chapter Eight
 Quarrel
 Pam turned and ran out of the place.
 If she could have heard the words Jerry was speaking at the instant she turned from sight of him, the course of her action might have changed.
 "Freda," Jerry was saying, "I'm sorry, but it's the only thing I can do. Keep the ring, if you wish, but release me from its promise." Jerry's voice was slightly impatient. They had been arguing for some time.
 Freda's eyes were dark with anger. "You've picked a nice time to ask that. You deserve a medal for your tact!"
 "I'm sorry. But this just doesn't seem to be a thing for tact. The important thing is to get to an honest basis. I feel like a man on quicksand right now. I'm in love with one girl and I've told her, and you are still wearing my ring."
 "Well," stormily from Freda, "I wouldn't know what to do with a ring if I had one, so you're not going to give it to me!"
 "Freda, I should think your pride—" "Pride?" She turned on him in a

—an intense seeking that held Jerry an instant. Then he said: "If you want proof that you don't love me, Freda, there you have it." He pointed to the window where the dark, intense face was still discernible in the shadows. "The lad you were flirting with. A woman in love doesn't flirt with other men." Freda smiled, coolly. "And this, my darling, is the time to tell you something. Don't look now, but that boy isn't trying to flirt with me. I thought so yesterday, too. But I flattered myself. It seems he only wanted to give me a note to be eventually put into your sister's hands."

 "Lenore? That little snob? You're crazy!" "Darling, do be careful!" she teased. "Yell a little louder."
 "Yes," he said earnestly, "perfect. Freda, if the love is really there. But with you and me, it isn't. We like each other. But that isn't enough."
 Around them couples were dancing, girls with bright eyes, boys with happy faces. Jerry looked toward the orchestra as it swelled to a thrilling crescendo. Antoine was not leading it. He was nowhere to be seen. Freddie Romero had the baton. As his eye swept on to the window Jerry saw the local boy who had been flirting with Freda on the beach, still looking in the window. There was something about his face play. And de Bellefort isn't here." "Lenore isn't like that." "Well, I wouldn't know about that. But I do know it's the bright flame of Lenore's loveliness—not mine — your youth is fluttering around."

 Jerry looked at the window. The youth was no longer there. Neither was Lenore visible anywhere on the dance floor. But that meant nothing.
 "I don't believe you," he said finally.
 Freda smiled. "All right. Now darling, let's make up. I don't really mind your being gay with the girls down here. I know it's only window dressing. See, I've got a pretty kiss for you! Come and get it!"
 Jerry laughed gently. "Minx!" he said good-humoredly. "If I hadn't fallen so in love with Pam, I'd succumb to you. Be as sweet as you look, Freda, and give me back my ring, or at least the promise it stands for. I don't really want the diamond, Freda. Accept that with my best wishes."
 "It isn't best wishes I want from you, Jerry."
 He looked at the girl earnestly. His arm was around her as they began a slow stepping to the music.
 "I can't give you what you should have from the man you marry, Freda. The least and the most any girl can get out of marriage is love. I mean real love, Freda. I'd never thought much of that sort of thing until Pam began to do things to my ideas and ideals."

 "It's the place, darling. It's made you romantic."
 They had danced through the door and out onto the piazza that looked down over the garden, lovely under its soft lights. A far-off boat whistle sounded faintly through the night. A white Persian cat moved through the shadows, like something floating, disembodied. Scent of flowers came in waves on the breeze. The sky was gemmed with an infinity of stars. Jerry's voice came through the quiet beauty:
 "Freda, make an honest man of me. Release me."
 She turned to him impatiently. "What a one-track mind you have! Darling, can't you put some other record on that precious mouth-organe of youth?"
 "All right. So you won't. Is that it? Well, I'm releasing myself then. minute. I'm serving notice. Freda, you and I are no longer engaged."
 "That's only one man's opinion, darling. It takes two to make a bargain, and two to break it. Anyhow, I'm going to save you from yourself. From your foolishness."
 Words, words, words, thought Jerry. Would he never be able to untangle his life? Would Freda never come to her senses and see that he was asking something that was best for both of them?

The tears that she had been holding back refused to be held longer. "I'm sorry," was his quick and understanding reply. "I beg your pardon for a stupid mistake. Now will you let me take you back to the party? You see, it's my party and I really want you there very much."
 "No, I'd rather go home right now."
 "Don't you like my party? Wasn't it a nice one?"
 "It was," she acknowledged hesitantly. Then she decided to be frank with him. "But you see I just don't belong there." She was sorry the minute she'd said it, and rushed on trying to cover it. "You see, I'm a working girl. I have things to do, so I've got to get home and get some rest. But it was a lovely party."
 Antoine looked down through the dim light at her and seemed to read something in her voice and eyes that had not been in her words. "Then you will let me take you home?" he asked. And when she hesitated: "Please, I'm not comfortable about your being on the street alone."
 There was something so sincere and so nice about his voice Pam knew he meant only what he had said. She allowed him to help her into the car.
 "I don't know what I'll tell Jerry about this," he said as he opened the door for her in her own drive. "I mean, taking you home instead of back to the party."
 "Don't tell him anything, please." Pam begged.
 Antoine looked down at her. "Am I allowed to say I wish Jerry had not seen you first?" he asked gently.

 "This is it," said Van. "There's going to be a brawl here, and chairs are going to fly. The kid's in the middle of it, and we've got to see that he doesn't get hurt."
 They planned to protect the "kid" behind furniture, averting other danger by using a dummy for long shots and by adroit cutting of the film.

 Phillip (as Marlene christened him) is reputed to have five more "muscles" than Charlie McCarthy, giving him that much more freedom of action. When Marlene first rehearsed with Phillip, Lisen pointed out that Phil wasn't dressed like Baby X and so couldn't be properly lighted. That meant a new wardrobe. Ted Tetzlaff, the cameraman, required that Phil's dark hair be lightened to match Baby X's blue eyes and fair hair.

Meanwhile, Pam moved on alone through the beauty of the night. Out of the building and off of the premises, she didn't hurry. There was a friendliness about the early morning quiet of Key West that Pam liked. She knew every nook and corner of the town so well she had no fear.
 Pam didn't turn at the sound of a car behind her. But she started when a voice spoke her name.
 "Pam! Wait a minute!"
 The car had stopped beside her. Someone was getting out and coming around toward her. Pam knew a momentary impulse to run, but forced herself to stand and wait.
 That not giving way to her fears or impulses was something she had inherited from her mother who had, in turn, inherited it from her own New England grandmother.
 "Pam, I saw you go." It was Edmund Antoine's voice. "You frightened me. Alone on the street at this hour."
 Pam smiled through the faint light. There was no use of being angry at Antoine. He'd been a party to that bet, but he hadn't done what Jerry had—made love to her, tried to make her think he was sincere while the others of his set looked on and laughed.
 "But there's nothing to be afraid of," she said easily.
 "That's what you think." He caught her hands. "If you knew how I feel this minute you'd be frightened to death. I'd like to steal you."
 Pam forced laughter to her lips, above tears she'd been struggling against.
 "You're lovely, Pam. As lovely as a Chopin waltz." Then, bending closer: "Pam, I believe you're crying. What happened?"
 "I'm not crying! Don't be silly!"

Hollywood.—Just as a sample of the uncertainty of a child actor's life, there's a new baby at the Thin Man's house.
 Nick and Nora are still the proud parents of one, but the one is now Dickie Hall, 5, instead of William Anthony Poulsen, the original. There has been a lapse of time in the continued story since young Poulsen made his movie bow in "Another Thin Man," and time lapsed faster than William grew. The child is a big boy now, wrapped up incidentally in Nick and Nora Charles' new adventure with murders in "The Shadow of the Thin Man."
 You'll agree that's uncertainty—when a youngster in pictures can have his own parents snatched from under him.
 W. S. Van Dyke, Thin Man pilot, had other worries this day than infantile uncertainties. He had a huge set, representing a San Francisco restaurant with a marine atmosphere—oyster bar, sawdust floor life-belts and other maritime adornments. The set was crowded with extras—William Nick Charles Powell, in that suave and casual

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

CONSCIENCE SPEAKS IF WE LET IT

A man now almost 88 years of age told me recently of an amazing experience he had when he was a boy of 7 years old.

He and his family lived in a poor section of the city. An older boy, who bore the name Bimbaun, organized some of the younger boys into a band of pickpockets. One night he instructed them to go out in pairs and "work" certain public buildings. This little lad of seven was sent to a large meeting in the town hall, and edging up to a man he looked down into his pocket and spied a handkerchief. Below it he thought there might be a pocketbook, so he began very carefully to withdraw the handkerchief. Suddenly he stopped. Something on the inside seemed to lay a hand upon him and bid him desist. He turned quickly, slunk out of the crowd, ran all the way to his home, weeping bitterly, and hurried off to bed. In later years he had a fine career as a business man, while Bimbaun and all the rest of the gang went through lives of petty, and some through lives of major crime.

What stopped the youngster as he was about to steal for the first time? The blood of generations who had lived honestly, the thought of his mother; most of all an indefinable conviction that to take this step would involve him in ruin. God speaks to all hearts, but only a few listen. Bimbaun and his satellites are too busy carving out a career for themselves.

LET'S GO TO WORK

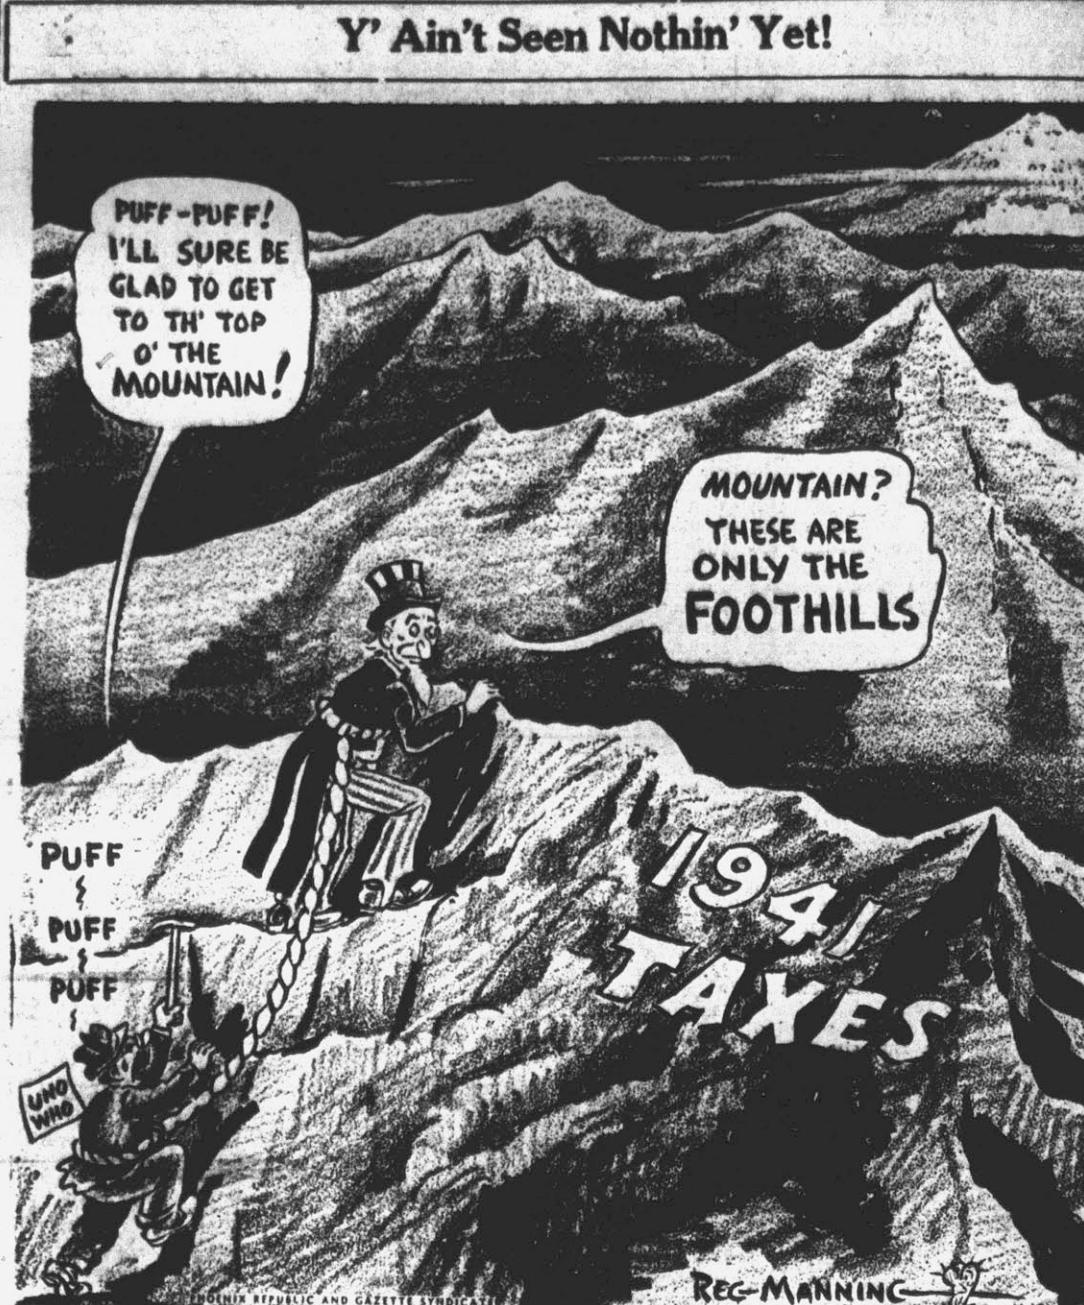

Anthony Eden recently said that help from America is not yet reaching Britain in sufficient quantity — that shipments of war supplies must be speeded up if Hitler is to be decisively beaten in the shortest possible time.

In his Labor Day talk to the nation, President Roosevelt said that our military production is still below the necessary level. He called upon all America to labor unstintingly for the defense and perpetuation of democracy.

Basil Manly of the Federal Power Commission, recently said: "We are now entering a period in which no individual or corporation can reasonably or properly expect to maintain unabated the economic status to which it has become accustomed. Everybody will sooner or later have to make sacrifices for the common good."

These statements are typical of what men in high positions believe today. That belief adds up to this: The United States is not doing enough. It must do more — infinitely more — if the liberties gained over the centuries are to be preserved.

There is one extremely important reason why our arms program is lagging. That reason is the unwillingness of certain labor leaders to permit a working day and a working week which is sufficient to perform the gigantic tasks we have undertaken. Coal is a case in point.

Today coal miners work the 7-hour day and the 35-hour week established during the depression. And that is imperiling an adequate supply of coal for the industries which make our weapons and our tools of peace, alike. A coal shortage would bring the arms program virtually to a standstill. A 40-hour week would probably eliminate all dangers of such shortages—yet the 35-hour week is maintained.

What is true of coal, is true in many other fields. The majority of America's workers are willing to do more. But shortsighted labor leaders won't let them.

Washington Daybook

Washington, Sept. 16 — The fate not only of stores in four counties directly involved but of the entire ABC system of county liquor sales is probably to be determined within the next two months.

The voters will pass directly on them in Warren, Vance, Franklin and Bertie and there is a strong probability that all four counties will be swept into the legally dry column. All are preponderantly rural; there has been more or less dissatisfaction with the workings of the ABC system within them; and the voting, if not the drinking tide appears to be running toward the dry side at this particular juncture.

That would still leave 22 counties in the control system, and many of those 22 are units which have consistently and steadfastly voted against prohibition every time the chance was offered. But there are distinct rumblings of discontent even in the most violently anti-prohibition counties. A danger signal quite easy to see went up in Wilson county (one of the most overwhelmingly anti-prohibition of them all) when Will A. Lucas, chairman of the state board of elections, wrote a letter to the local editor warning that there are some things the electorate will not stand. He did not particularize, but your reporter has no information as to what he had in mind; but when a conservative and influential citizen as the Honorable Will begins to bestir himself, it's time to take stock.

Then there is also a very distinct impression that the state ABC board is headed by a chairman whose only claim to distinction is a journeyman politician. That will not help the stores, either. They are in the word odor since their establishment.

SECRET MEETS FROWNED UPON

Attorney General's Views Noted In Public Affairs

By HENRY AVERALL
Raleigh, Sept. 15 — The Attorney General's office does not seem to have been asked directly to rule on the matter of excluding press and public from sessions of such bodies as the State Highway and Public Works Commission; but a recent opinion of the office makes it appear likely that the state's highest advisory legal office would rule against any star chamber proceedings of studied secrecy.

The Attorney General, replying to a request from A. C. McIntosh of Chapel Hill, recently ruled that meetings of county boards of commissioners are by statute "open to any person" and cited another statutory section making all legislative sessions of city governing boards open to all.

Your reporter queried an assistant attorney general in an effort to learn how far the principle of open meetings extends but, of course, could get no official reply. To make any such official ruling would not be within the province of the Attorney General's duties.

Talking unofficially, however, the assistant expressed the personal view of his meetings of all public boards engaged about the public's business are, by law, open to the public. He pointed out that the courts have repeatedly held that with few exceptions, records of all pub-

However, Mr. V. Salt Lake and Portland and all the rest of the country have their work cut out from now on. The navy soon will launch its recruiting campaign to get personnel for 400 ships that are taking shape on the ways. The quota is 13,000 men a month to January 1 and 15,000 a month next year.

This and That . . . Attendance at the Saturday meeting of publishers of Tar Heel papers reached a new peak as the national advertising editor, Barton Durstine and Osborn prepared to hand out insertion orders in the naval recruiting campaign. High principled idealists will sigh over the statement made to the publisher's meeting by BBDO's representative who displayed two insurance advertisements, one appealing to the reader's self-interest, the other to his sense of duty. "The self-interest ad accounted for 92 per cent of all replies, the call to duty brought only eight per cent." Mount Airy News headlines: "Sheep Sell Liquor," but it wasn't an ad.

Greenies Get On Joe Talley To Score 10 to 2 Victory

KEE MASTERS WILSON TOBS

Locals Pull Back Into Running; Wilson Leads 3-2

Last Night's Results

Greenville 10, Wilson 2.

Tonight's Game

Greenville at Wilson.

Behind the steady, five-hit pitching of Kelly Kee, the block-like work of the Greenville infield and the heavy hitting of the entire local team of offerings off the league-leading hurler, Joe Talley, the Greenies last night got back in the running in the Coastal Plain finals by taking a 10-2 victory over the Tobs.

Wilson leads in games won with a count of three to two and the teams will meet in the sixth game of the series at 8:15 o'clock tonight in Wilson. If the Tobs win it will all be over, but another Greenville win will send the two teams back here for the seventh and deciding game tomorrow night.

Talley, who had a 21-3 record for the regular season and who had the Greenies "eating out of his hands" throughout the regular play, did not mean a thing to the Greenies last night as they piled up a total of 12 hits and eight runs before he was relieved in the sixth after three runs had been scored with none out. Utility Man Dick Hoyle took over the mound duties, but the Greenies were not through and reached him for six safeties and two runs in the three innings he pitched.

Although the Greenies were playing winning ball—both on the offensive and the defensive, Wilson players were not up to their regular brand of ball.

Kelly Kee as the real star of the game. In addition to hurling five-hit ball against the powerful Tob team, he got two doubles and two singles in five trips to lead his team at bat.

It was this same Kelly Kee who was the victim of the 1-0 loss here last Thursday night when Carnahan hit a homer in the ninth inning. Kee allowed only six hits in that game, in which his opponent was Talley.

Greenville got men on bases in each of the eight innings they went to bat and had a total of 12 men stranded, exactly twice as many as Wilson had left on base. The first and second innings were the only ones in which the Greenies did not have men on base when the third out was made. In the first Pinfrock got a hit and was thrown out attempting to steal second. In the second the locals scored three runs on walks to Scagg and Jenkins, a double by Bennie Crowe and an infield error.

After going three up and three down in the first two innings, the Tobs scored a single run in their half of the third when Murphy singled and scored on Talley's double. That was all, however, as Stuart had fled out prior to Talley's blow, and Dickens went out at first and Bauer struck out. The Greenies added two more in their half of the third. With one out, Pierce tripled, came home on Wilson's single, the skipper holding up at third, but scoring on Jenkins' fly to center field.

It was three up and three down for Wilson in the fourth and fifth and the Tobs got only one man on base in the sixth.

The Greenies got three hits in the fourth, Pinfrock, Pierce and Kee, but were unable to score and three men were left on the bags. The Greenies went hitless in the fifth, one man being walked.

In the sixth, however, Kee started things off with a double, Pinfrock singled and Pierce followed suit to score Kee. Wilson singled to score Pinfrock and advance Pierce to third. Pierce and Wilson were advanced on Scagg's perfect bunt. Pierce later scoring on Crowe's outfield fly. Wilson was thrown out trying to reach home on Caraway's single.

The Tobs got one run in the seventh on a hit by Hoyle, a passed ball, a walk and an outfield fly.

This ended things for Wilson, but not for the Greenies. After the Greenies got two men on base in the seventh via a walk to Overton and Kee's fourth hit of the game Hoyle struck out one and got the next two men out on infield bouncers.

In the eighth, Harry Jenkins came to bat with one out and lifted one over right field fence next to the scoreboard. Crowe and Caraway singled, the former coming home on Overton's fly.

The Greenville infield looked better last night than at any time during the series. Only one miscue was credited against the locals, this being on a hard ball to Pierce, who had to cut it loose in rapid-fire. Wilson was unable to reach it and hold his foot on the bag and the ball bounded out of his glove. Harry Jenkins was holding down the hot corner in big league style and handled four tries perfectly, at least two of them being almost of the hit calibre. His arm, always good, was working perfectly as he rifled the balls to first to throw out the runners.

N.Y. Stock Market
New York, Sept. 16.-(AP)—A play by play picture of today's stock market generally revealed that scattered hits were offset by a wide assortment of errors. Minor declines were in evidence at the start and definite trends were lacking near the fourth hour. Dealings were sluggish, except for a few sizable blocks of low-priced issues.

RUNNING OUT THEORY DENIED

Expert Says Cotton Growers Have False Illusions

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—North Carolina cotton growers should have no further illusions about cotton varieties "running out" after they have been planted for several seasons, Jerry H. Moore, Extension cotton technologist, and J. A. Shanklin, extension agronomist of State College, said today.

Cotton seed, taken originally from registered seed and planted in areas protected against cross-pollination with other cotton fields, will continue for several years to produce a good, even cotton fiber, the Extension specialists said.

The Moore-Shanklin report indicated that recent experiments had shown that if cotton varieties "ran down" or "ran out" after several years use, the seed usually were of mixed stocks in the beginning. Cotton from mixed seed stocks produces a lint of poor spinning quality, while lint from pure, registered seed, grown by careful farmers for three or four years is of even fiber length and gives favorable spinning results.

"Cotton growers sometimes complain of their cotton varieties 'running out' after they are planted for several seasons," Mr. Moore observed, "but it has been proved that the seed stocks used in these 'run-out' varieties were mixed with stocks of other varieties."

"Black" or "naked" (fuzzless) seed are usually conspicuous in "run-out" varieties, the specialists declared, and growers soon notice such seed since the naked condition, in addition to being easily recognized, is almost always linked with low lint yields.

Growers who start with seed of an improved or standard cotton variety can keep it pure for four seasons or longer if proper precautions are taken to prevent cross-pollination for foreign seed stocks in the field or in the mechanical mixing of planting seed at the gin.

Most garden flowers prefer a sandy loam soil that is slightly acid.

Proposed Bridges. New Bern, Sept. 16.—Construction of two bridges in this vicinity was discussed here at a meeting of the Colonial Road Association at the court house: across Pamlico river at Bath, and across Neuse river near Cherry Point. It was pointed out that such bridges would aid the traffic congestion through the area as well as being of vital military importance along the coast.
