NAZIS FORCED TO RETREAT TOWARD SMOLENSK

CAIRO BOMBED FOR FIRST TIME BY AXIS CRAFT

Egyptian Capital Looks To Britain For Retaliation

BOMBING DEFIES BRITISH THREAT

Retaliation Against Rome Had Been Promised In The Event Either Cairo Or Athens Attacked

Cairo, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The Egyptian government has protested to Berlin and Rome, sources here said today, over the Axis bombing of the Cairo area.

Cairo, headquarters of the British Middle East command as well as the capital of Egypt, which is a non-belligerent ally of Britain, was bombed for the first time early Tuesday by Axis warplanes and 39 persons were said to have been killed and 93 wounded.

The raiders defied a British threat April 18 of retaliation against Rome in the event that either Cairo or Athens were bombed.

In all the fighting incident to the Axis conquest of Greece, Athens itself was not attacked by air raiders.

The German high command announced today that German combat planes had raided the airport of Helopolis near Cairo Monday night causing big fires and explosions in hangars and munitions dumps.

Today many inhabitants of this largest Moslem city in the world were asking when Britain would retaliate, as threatened, by bombing Rome. The raid was Cairo's first, the Axis previously having abided by an asserted German intention not to bomb the city. The attack came early in the morning, a bright moon outlining the city for the raiding planes.

Joseph Daniels Addresses Legion

Milwaukee, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Continental solidarity to uphold democracy and resist totalitarianism is the desire of all American republics, Joseph Daniels, United States ambassador to Mexico, told the national convention of the American Legion today.

Daniels, who was Secretary of the Navy during the first World War, declared that full cooperation of all the peoples of the new world in mutual defense was a type of armament that strengthened them beyond any material weapon.

Daniels traced the trend toward hemispheric solidarity from the time of Bolivar, "the liberator," quoting from his speeches and statements of President Roosevelt and leaders of Latin-American nations to show that the Americas "are banded together in one mighty purpose."

Court Holds Raleigh May Extend Limits

Raleigh, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The State supreme court paved the way today for the extension of Raleigh's limits to take in swanky residential districts just north of the city line.

The court upheld, with one change, a law passed by the last legislature authorizing a vote on the extension.

Other opinions filed today included: Commissioners vs. Rowland reversed, and Jones vs. Elks, affirmed, both of Beaufort county; Wiggins et al. vs. Lucas, et al, no error, Edgecombe county.

$35,695.10 Sale

The largest check ever made out to a bright leaf tobacco grower in payment of leaf sold on a single sale was given to C. L. Hardy of Maury, Greene county, this morning for offering of 104,163 pounds. The sale was made on the Smith and Sugg warehouse.

Mr. Hardy, who is reported to have some 600,000 pounds of tobacco this year, got an average of 34.26 cents per pound and while the tobacco was of good quality, its value was enhanced by the way it was handled before being sent to the market, the leaf having been cleanly graded and prepared in an unusually well manner.

Mr. Hardy declared that it was the highest sale he had made since 1915, adding that while some of his tobacco sold higher in 1934, his crop that year was of better quality than the current crop.

MARKET NOTES ANOTHER RISE

Average For Yesterday Officially Reported At 30.31

With tobacco reported to be selling even higher yesterday than on Monday, an official average of 30.31 cents a pound was paid on the Greenville market Tuesday and many observers on the market said that today's sales were stronger than for either Monday or Tuesday.

Yesterday's offerings totaled only 69,728 pounds, for which farmers were paid $209,982.82 to establish the better than 30 cents average. The average paid Monday was 30.24. All figures are those of the Agricultural Marketing Section of the AAA.

Offerings yesterday were declared to have reflected the fact that farmers are busy picking cotton and doing other farm work and haven't the time to grade tobacco for the market. A general shortage in farm labor because of the defense program also is reported to be having its effects.

All warehouses were cleared this afternoon in preparation for receiving tobacco for tomorrow's sales. Yesterday's offerings brought to 19,848,944 pounds, an increase of 2,502,242 over the 17,346,702 pounds sold up to the comparable date a year ago. Money paid out this year to date totals $5,190,075.17, or $2,535,144.36 more than the $2,654,930.81 paid during the corresponding period of 1940.

This week's high averages have brought the general season's average up to 36.15 cents per pound, an increase of 10.85 over the 15.30 paid through the same date a year ago. Farmers are being advised by market officials that now is the time to sell their tobacco.

Negro Vocational Group Organized

Negro Vocational Agriculture teachers of the six counties surrounding Pitt county met at Fayette to perfect an organization and set up objectives for the year. This group is composed of nine teachers representing six counties: A. Wynne and J. Broadnax, Martin county; L. H. Smith, Greene county; W. Payton, Jones county; J. Malett, Craven county; K. M. Keyes and J. D. Lennon, Pitt county; B. Bond Hyde county.

J. D. Lennon was elected chairman of the group and K. M. Keyes secretary and publicity manager. Plans were laid for closer cooperation with the efforts of National Defense through revised teaching procedure. More emphasis is to be placed on vocational training and vocational guidance, better health through home improvements and better diet, community patriotism and leadership training.

Watches once were carried in pockets and read by feeling the figures on the dial.

Britain's Army Of the Nile, Augmented by American-Made Planes And Tanks, May Be Laying The Groundwork For Offensive To Force Axis Out Of Libya; Weather Conditions Declared To Be Ideal

London, Sept. 17.—(AP) Signs of increasing activity on the North African war-front stirred belief here today that Britain's Army of the Nile, reinforced by American-made planes and tanks, may be laying the groundwork for a new offensive aimed at driving Axis forces out of Libya.

Dispatches from Cairo during the past few days have told of repeated skirmishes along the Egyptian-Libyan frontier which indicated to observers that the British and Axis forces were cautiously feeling each other out as a preliminary to possible action on a larger scale.

Official circles declined to speculate on possible developments, but one source declared there seemed every reason to believe the situation in the North African desert would be "boiling" by early October.

Weather conditions in the desert will be ideal by then for military operations.

How many men the British have available for a push into Libya is a military secret, but it is believed here that General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, new commander in the Middle East, has 750,000 at his disposal.

The Middle East air command is reported now to boast almost as many planes as there were in Britain at the outbreak of the war.

Speculation that the Army of the Nile might already be on the move was stirred late last night when the regular communique from Cairo-headquarters was delayed unaccountably. When finally received, however, it merely reported that two German columns which had penetrated 35 miles into Egypt during the week-end had retired to the point from which they started.

This German reconnaissance move was viewed here as an attempt by the Nazis to sound out British intentions. German radio broadcasts heard in London have suggested that a British push was quite possible.

Seven More Cases During Afternoon

Seven more cases were disposed of in County court yesterday afternoon following a busy morning session in which 13 cases were removed from the docket. Of the seven called in the afternoon, three were not prossecuted, two defendants were acquitted, one entered a plea of guilty and one was convicted.

Cases not prossecuted were: Robert Langley, driving carelessly and recklessly and without a license; James O. Weldon, nuisance and disorderly conduct; J. A. Pollard, assault.

The two defendants acquitted were Alpheus M. Faulkner, charged with driving drunk and with improper brakes, and J. A. Pollard, assault on a female.

Dorsey Sparkman, colored, entered a plea of guilty to driving carelessly and recklessly and judgment was suspended upon payment of court costs. The defendant's driving license was ordered suspended for 30 days.

James Evans, colored, convicted of driving with improper license was given a 10-day sentence, suspended upon payment of costs and upon condition that he not drive a taxi until he procures the proper license.

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Final Senate approval sent to President Roosevelt today the $3,533,400,000 tax bill—biggest revenue measure in history and one designed to help defray the mounting costs of national defense.

IRAN CAPITAL IS OCCUPIED BY ALLIED FORCES

Staff Officers Enter Surrounded City Of Teheran

MOVE ON CITY ON BOTH SIDES

Iran Regime, Meanwhile, Sends Note To Japanese Legation Demanding Surrender Of Arab Leader

Teheran, Iran, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Russian and British staff officers entered Teheran today as their mechanized forces surrounded the capital.

The Russian forces had come down from the northwest, the British up from the southwest, leaving their previous zones of occupation to take over the capital in the wake of yesterday's abdication of the ruler, Reza Shah Pahlavi, and his succession by his 21-year-old son.

The Soviet mechanized troops had pitched camp on the northwestern desert at the edge of Teheran after the British military attaché, Colonel W. A. K. Fraser, yesterday had urged suggested a halt until a brigade of motorized British life-guards could arrive from Sultana-bad.

The Iran government, meanwhile, at the insistence of the British, sent a note to the Japanese legation demanding the surrender of the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, dissident Arab leader in the Palestine revolt of year-back.

The Grand Mufti fled to Teheran when Iraq, Iran's western neighbor, was occupied by the British a few months ago. He was reported to have taken refuge with the Japanese when the Allied invasion began late in August.

Teheran, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Iranian troops stood guard in the streets of Teheran as a precaution against disorder as British and Russian forces approached the capital from opposite directions with the intention of occupying it some time today.

It was expected that the Russians who motorized advance guards were less than 30 miles north of the city yesterday, would be the first to enter.

An authoritative British source in London said that occupation of Teheran would depend on the situation there and declared the converging British and Russian forces might remain outside the Iranian capital if an orderly regime seemed likely.

No program other than one which would give assurance of less autocracy and wider benefits to the Iranian people would satisfy the allies, however, this source asserted.

Though officials expected no trouble, there were signs of anxiety among the native population and many persons fled to the country in automobiles and carriages loaded with baggage.

All Iranian army planes disappeared last night from airports outside the city.

Charges Aimed At Helsinki Newspapers

Helsinki, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The conservative newspaper Uusi Suomi declared today that certain newspapers in Sweden through blind antagonism toward Nazi Germany had lost sight of their own interests and were playing into the hands of Soviet Russia.

The Swedish papers, it was said, have published rumors injurious to the Finnish cause and have otherwise supported a propaganda campaign the ultimate purpose of which is to help Russia.

Three Swedish Destroyers Mysteriously Sunk In Port

ALL ESCAPEES BACK AT CAMP

Last Of Three To Get Away Yesterday Caught Today

Three convicts stationed at the Pitt county prison camp made a break into a corn field while working "under the gun" on a road project near the Pitt-Craven county line yesterday afternoon, but two were captured a few hours later and the third was taken today.

The first escapees caught were Earl Stinson, 29, serving a two to three year sentence imposed in Forsyth county December 7, 1940, for store-breaking, larceny and receiving; and Joseph Hiram, 19, serving an eight to 10 year sentence imposed in Cumberland county January 16, 1940, for highway robbery.

The two were apprehended near a filling station close to Cecil, not far from the scene of escape. Bloodhounds from Greenville, Wilson and Washington were employed in the manhunt, led by Captain Paul Crawford, superintendent of the Pitt prison camp.

The one convict captured today is John B. Dix, 28, serving a two to four year sentence imposed in Rockingham county November 1, 1940, for larceny and receiving.

After the two convicts were captured about 6 o'clock last night, the men and dogs continued the search for Dix until about 3 o'clock this morning and started out again a short while later. They found him near Calico this afternoon.

When the three darted into the corn field the guard opened fire on them and one of them said the shots came uncomfortably close to them.

Although several prisoners stationed at the Pitt county camp in the past year or so have escaped, all have been recaptured.

Authorities Unable To Account For Explosions

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Three Swedish destroyers blew up mysteriously and sank today while at anchor in an east coast Swedish port and first reports said at least 31 men were killed.

Casualties were feared to be high, but the full extent of the disaster was not known because of flaming oil hampering desperate rescue efforts.

It was established, however, that one officer, six non-commissioned officers and 24 marines were killed, besides 11 others injured in the explosion.

Swedish authorities said they could not account for the blasts which, apparently, started on one ship and sank all three, one after the other.

The explosions occurred in Haarfjorden harbor, a fjord on the Baltic sea coast south of Stockholm used by Sweden's rapidly expanding navy as a proving ground.

All three destroyers were relatively new and Swedish built. The 1,040-ton Göteborg, completed in 1935, was said to have blown up and sunk first. Explosions followed on the sister vessels Klas Horn and Klas Uggla, each of 1,020 tons.

The Klas Horn sank quickly and the crippled Klas Uggla went down later.

Details of the series of blasts still were obscure, however, as every available coastal boat put out to rescue survivors and recover the bodies of the dead from the burning waters.

A dispatch from Stockholm to the Swedish-American News Exchange said a boiler explosion aboard the Goleborg was the cause of the disaster. This would indicate that ammunition may have been set off and hit the other ships).

Young Herbert Lee On Lions Program

Meeting on Monday night in the Episcopal Parish House, members of the Lions Club heard Herbert Lee, who graduated last June from the local high school, tell about his experiences on a recent trip to Mexico.

Young Lee made the trip during the summer vacation in company with Lion V. M. Mulholland, principal of the local high school, and several young people of this city. The party visited many points of interest, including Monterey and Mexico City. While in the latter city they had, through the courtesy of Ambassador Josephus Daniels, the privilege of occupying the Ambassador's box at one of the symphony concerts.

The speaker, who last year distinguished himself in the field of high school dramatics, kept his audience laughing throughout with his pungent and witty comments upon Mexican food, manners, and customs.

Prior to the program, Lion V. M. Mulholland introduced the Junior Lion of the month, Billy Horn. This month's Junior Lion has been a member of his high school band for three years and this year is serving as vice president of the student body. He will be the guest of the club through October.

BEGIN WORK ON ARMISTICE DAY

Legion To Attempt To Bring Sec. Knox Here Nov. 11th

The Pitt county post of the American Legion, at its regular meeting last night, started making plans for the annual November 11th Armistice Day celebration, voted to change the place of meeting, started a movement to establish a service club and heard a report from Commander D. J. Whichard, Jr., on a conference held in Raleigh last Saturday relative to a campaign to encourage the enlistment of young men in the navy.

It was decided to have Congressman Bonner attempt to secure Secretary of Navy Knox for the Armistice Day address.

Committees for the celebration with the chairman being named first in each case: Parade, Arthur E. Corey, Lieut. Lester J. J. and W. T. Kyzer; program and arrangements, J. H. Rose, S. L. Bridges and Alfred Shultz; committee on the feed, Coon, Williams, L. J. Smith, Frank Deiner and N. S. Tyson.

The membership committee reported that new members secured to date total 62.

Commander Whichard reported that the U. S. Navy was planning to wage an intensive campaign through newspapers to encourage young men to enlist in order to bring the personnel up to the increased number needed to man the increasing number of vessels being added to the fleet. The campaign will get under way next week.

The post decided to change its meeting place from the Third Street Cafeteria to the High School cafeteria because of better facilities provided by the cafeteria. The regular October meeting will be held at the new place.

The Legion took the initiative in establishing a service club here for men now in service. Similar undertakings, whereby men in service may secure lodging quarters at a minimum cost when visiting the city, have been carried through in other places and are reported to be used extensively by visiting men in uniform.

Two new-comers to the city, both legionnaires who will transfer their membership to the local post, were introduced to the members. They were Charles W. Davis, with the Highway and Public Works Commission office here, and J. W. Glover, manager of Rose's Greenville store.

Nazi Forces Retreating Before Reds

More Than 10,000 Germans Reported To Have Been Killed Or Wounded In 8-Day Battle Only 30 Miles From Smolensk; Success Is Only One of the Several Claimed By Soviet Headquarters

Moscow, Sept. 17.—(AP) The Red army, in a smashing counter-attack only 30 miles northeast of Smolensk, has thrown German forces back westward in an eight-day battle in which more than 10,000 Germans were killed and wounded, Russian dispatches from the front said today.

The battle occurred in the direction of Yartsevo, which is on the main highway between Smolensk and Moscow. Vast quantities of arms and ammunition were seized, according to the army newspaper, Red Star.

Another dispatch reported the recapture by Leningrad's army defenders of a strategically important crossroads village lying on one of the approaches to the city—a maneuver declared by the Russians to have wrecked German plans for a new thrust against Leningrad itself.

Another Russian success claimed was the recapture of the Lake Ladoga island of Tselinoye from the Finns. The Soviet War Bureau said about 800 Finnish soldiers and officers were killed and four launches and two motorboats sunk in the battle for the island.

The Yartsevo battle was an extension of the Russian counter-attack of last week in which the town of Yelnya, 60 miles east of Smolensk, was recaptured. This, in turn, was part of a two-week battle in the vicinity of Branensk, 150 miles southeast of Smolensk, in which large German forces were declared to have been beaten and driven back westward with the Russians in pursuit, retaking 20 villages.

The Yartsevo battle drew away large numbers of German reserves which had been expected to strike toward Yelnya. It also helped to break through toward Moscow, Russian accounts said. The general Red army counter-offensive on the central front, launched at the start of the month, was unexpected by the Germans, Russian army leaders said. Indications were that the Yartsevo battle was concluded last week.

German Officials Extend Reprisals

Paris, German Occupied France, Sept. 17.—(AP)—German authorities announced today that shooting of hostages in reprisal for attacks on Germans would be extended to include not only Communists, but "all classes of the Paris population."

The announcement came as a German non-commissioned officer died of bullet wounds inflicted Monday by an unidentified assailant in defiance of the executions for previous attacks on members of the army of occupation.

The new policy, announced in all Paris and posted on walls throughout the city, read: "If attacks continue, the occupation authorities will shoot increasing numbers of hostages, and these hostages no longer will be taken exclusively from among communists, but from all classes of the Paris population."

The soldier was the second reported slain in Paris within a few weeks.

Library News

One hundred and twenty-one children received flag seals for the summer reading charts showing that they had read ten books suitable for their reading ability.

This is the largest number shown during the six years that club reading has been directed by the library staff. This report is due in part to the care and attention of Mrs. Kasey, who directed club work during the summer. Then, too, the children were given many more new books than usual. Books showing Latin American life were offered to them and were read eagerly.

November 2-8 is the date of the 1941 Book Week celebration. On Tuesday, November 4, at a special Reading Club meeting, each of these 121 children will be given a Reading Certificate. Further announcements about this Book Week Club meeting will be made later. A list of the children's names will appear in The Reflector.

N.C. TO CLOSE BRANCH OFFICE

No Money To Be Saved By Closing Ballyhoo Unit

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Sept. 17.—Closing of North Carolina's industrial ballyhoo office in Washington will save the state no money—contrary to what seems to be a somewhat prevalent opinion.

What will happen is that the $100,000 monthly allocated for maintenance of the Washington office will be spent by the State Advertising Division on some other activity, nobody yet knows what.

In fairness to the officials concerned it ought to be said that none of them has claimed that any money would be saved. That implication was, however, drawn by some editorial writers and has been expressed verbally by some people with whom your reporter has discussed the matter.

Here's what happened, with particular emphasis on the financial (and financing) angles:

The Washington office was first opened upon the recommendation and during the administration of Governor Clyde R. Hoey. Its expenses were paid out of the emergency and contingent funds. That, of course, was an expense directly added to the state's total of expenditures.

Governor J. M. Broughton did not think the office should be run out of the contingent fund and secured from the legislature authority to divert from the state's $100,000 advertising fund such money as he might find needed to maintain the Washington setup. He was also given wide discretion in deciding when to close it up, if he should find it did not function as hoped.

Gov. Broughton allotted $15,000, and provided a "cushion" of $15,000 more if it should be needed, from the advertising fund for the Washington office's expenses.

On this allocation the office has been working.

When it became obvious to the governor that the Washington lobbying branch was not accomplishing anything, he said so quite frankly and ordered its activities to cease as of September 15.

But that doesn't mean that the $150,000 a month will be saved. It will not, and the advertising division is right now thinking up ways and means to spend it to the best advantage. What form the spending will take isn't year clear; but it's better than dollars to doughnuts that the $100,000 advertising appropriation will be spent in its entirety, and the only difference will be that it will be spent in a different way.

Reasons for the Washington office's complete failure to function as hoped for are easy to find. In the first place, shortage of equipment and priority allocations of materials to defense spending made it an obvious impossibility to attract new industries. Nobody can come in and set up a plant if he can't get steel and nails and all the other things needed to build a plant. In the next place, it couldn't possibly aid industries already established in North Carolina, because those producing defense material already have all the orders they can possibly handle and will get more without benefit of state official pressure. And finally, the office was decidedly unpopular with the North Carolina Congressional delegation. Suppose it had landed an industry, or a batch of orders. It would have forthwith bragged about it and folks back home would begin to say of their congressman: "Why he's so durned dumb he couldn't get anything for us and they had to set up a state office to help out."

The young ladies of Winterville high school held a meeting in the chapel last Friday evening and organized a Young Ladies Literary Society. These societies are always beneficial intellectually, at the same time affording a source of amusement that is highly interesting to those who participate in them.

The mayor has been requested by the Board of Aldermen to make all needed preparations for a proper observance of the memorial exercises to be held in the court house on Thursday in respect to our dead President.

The exercises will take place at the hour that the funeral obsèques over the body of President McKinley take place in Canton, Ohio, and the people of Greenville are requested to close all places of business during these services.

GOT A DATE? Don't neglect your Breath

If you've got a date with the girl friend, or a business appointment, play smart and take the proper precaution to see that your breath doesn't offend unnecessarily. After all, nothing is so inexcusable and so offensive as a neglected case of halitosis (bad breath). Before your next date or business appointment, rinse the mouth with Listerine Antiseptic. Almost immediately your breath becomes sweeter, purer, less likely to offend. Most cases of halitosis, say some authorities, are due to the fermentation of tiny food particles in the mouth, although some cases may be due to systemic disorders. Against the former condition, Listerine Antiseptic works wonders because it first kills the fermentation and then overcomes the odors it causes. Don't forget to use it. It's the first aid of thousands of popular and successful people.

Council Meeting

The council decided last night that the time for home room discussions would be left entirely to the students.

Because the WPA took over the GHS student store for a cafeteria, it has become necessary to look for a new place to have the store. So far, no satisfactory place has been found.

A member of the student council made a motion to thank Miss Evelyn Bunchanan for her splendid help to the council last year. This motion was unanimously carried.

No Student Tickets

Due to the fact that only 67 students signed the petition for season tickets to all the home games, they will not be issued this year.

FARMS IN NEED OF MACHINERY

Farm Power Advocated To Replace Labor Shortage

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Sept. 17.—Increased use of farm machinery and farm power is being urged upon all Tar Heel farmers by Dr. David B. Weaver, agricultural engineer for the State College Extension service and secretary of the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority.

Dr. Weaver pointed to the ever-increasing demand for farm products and the stringent shortage of farm labor, and said: "Only a few industries are called upon to produce more and more with less and less labor—but farming is one of them. There isn't but one answer, an increased use of farm machinery and farm power. Horses and mules grow constantly less numerous and it is plain to see that farmers will have to depend on increasing ratio, upon mechanical power, the farm tractor and the electric motor, together with the gas engine."

In order to impress this need for farm machinery and the great value of it in the farming industry, Dr. Weaver, who is director of machinery exhibits is trying to make these exhibits at the State Fair here next month the best ever. He believes that an impressive and instructive demonstration of machinery uses and values will be a real contribution to the national defense program in that it will afford farmers an opportunity to see all types of modern equipment in operation.

Ward Seeks Overhauling Of Motor Vehicle Setup

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Sept. 16.—The Motor Vehicle Department was set up by the 1941 legislature as one of the principal reorganizations asked for by Governor Broughton, but the changes were confined almost entirely to the framework of administration. The 1943 legislature will be asked by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

Boddie Ward to do a complete overhaul job on the laws the new department is charged with administering. The 1941 changes put a new department head in charge of the same division which had been functioning for several years. There were virtually no changes in the laws regarding highway safety, motor vehicle registration or the highway patrol.

Mr. Ward may or may not retain his present division head—he has given no indication of any fixed notions along those lines; but he now plans to present to the next General Assembly a plan for drastic and far-reaching changes in the laws under which Tar Heel motorists now live and have their being, if they're lucky enough to be spared in the slaughter on the state's highways.

As an instance, the commissioner makes no bones about calling the present North Carolina examinations for driver's licenses "meaningless." He is convinced there should be a thorough and painstaking examination of the qualifications of each applicant for a license. He feels that there should be frequent re-examinations, because the man physically fit to drive this year may be completely disqualified next.

And again, Mr. Ward believes that there are now being dumped in this state cars which cannot pass safety inspections in many others. Tar Heels now have money, particularly the happy tobacco farmers of the east. They're going to buy cars that are positive menaces on the roads. To correct this there should be a compulsory inspection law, the commissioner believes.

Those are just two of the many things Mr. Ward believes ought to be looked into by the next legislature. There are dozens, even scores, more he has found during his brief tenure of office. He makes no pretense that he is now ready to present a comprehensive plan to the legislature; but he declares he is driving steadily to the end that he will have a full and detailed report and recommendations ready for action when the General Assembly next convenes.

He thinks the speed limit is too high. He has found that three out of each applicant for bus and franchise accounts are not physically able to audit more than half the books they ought. He has noted that five license inspectors, whose duty it is to see that purchasers have bought the proper tags for their cars, collected for the state no less than $313,000 last year, and he commented "It's just like working a hundred-plow farm with five plows—it just isn't good business. It takes a hundred plows to get the limit out of a hundred-plow farm."

He has numerous other ideas about revamping the department; but urged your reporter not to try to put too many of them in one story. "It's like giving in one dose medicine which ought to be taken over a month's time," he said, indicating that he already has his own ideas on other changes in the laws under which the department functions.

Mr. Ward's plans for a thorough survey and recommendations to the legislature were brought out when the reporter asked about the matter of appointing an attorney for the Motor Vehicle Department. The commissioner said nothing definite has been done about that, but he

Wilson Romps On Lefty Long 9-0 To Win League Title

SCORE 7 RUNS IN FIRST FRAME

Pierce Leads Greenies At Bat With Two for Three

Reversing proceedings of the preceding night, Wilson jumped on Greenville's ace hurler, Lefty Joe Long, for seven runs in the first frame last night and finally won the sixth game of the finals series 9-0 to cap the league championship.

The night before Greenville had blasted Lefty Joe Teller, leasuer leading hurler, for a 10-2 victory and last night in Wilson the Tobs evened the score — and the series.

Even before many of the large crowd of Greenville fans arrived, the Tobs had sewed up the game on three errors and four hits.

After the Greenies had been held scoreless for the first frame, the locals put the first Wilson man up on first base with an error. Stuart singled and Bauer homered to score three runs. A walk, infield single, two errors and Bissette's base-clearing double provided four more runs. Bill Teller then relieved the Greenville ace hurler who has been sold to the class A Atlanta club and held the Tobs to two runs for the seven and two-thirds innings he pitched. Bissette tripled and scored on Bauer's double in the fifth for Wilson's eighth run and in the sixth Carnahan's double, Murphy's single and an error let in the ninth and final run of the game.

The Greenies never seriously threatened to overcome the big lead piled up in the first, although 10 local men were left stranded on the bases. Carl Pierce, a Greenville boy, got two for three and Don Finrock, another rookie, got two for five to lead the Greenies at bat. The only other Greenville player to hit safely off Fern Bissette were Crowe and Caraway, as such hitters as Wilson, Scagg and Jenkins went hitless.

A large number of Greenville fans were in the stands to cheer the Greenies, local followers feeling that Long could pitch the locals to victory and even the series. In addition to the 14 hits garnered by the Tobs, the Greenies made five errors — by as many players.

The Greenies entered the finals by taking four games out of six from the New Bern Bears. Kelly Kee, who pitched Monday night's 10-3 victory over Wilson's Joe Teller, lost the opening game when Carnahan hit a homer in the ninth inning for the only run of the tilt.

In the second game on Friday night Wilson piled up seven runs in the first inning to give Fern Bissette his first victory of the series, by a score of 13-0. Long, however, pitched the Greenies to a win on Saturday night to give hopes to the locals. Sunday Bill Teller pitched a fine brand of ball, but errors paved the way for Monk Webb's 5-2 victory. Monday night Kelly Kee won his game as the Greenies blasted Joe Teller all over the field and finally out of the box to bringing Greenville within striking distance. Greenville players entered last night's game pepped up and fans were optimistic, but to no avail. Over-anxiousness probably was one of the reasons for the Greenies' downfall.

Staunch Wilson fans were just as fearful as Greenville was hopeful. Followers of the club already had started reporting that the Tobs were "shot" and that Greenville probably would take the series after pulling up to a 2-3 count in the series.

Heroes Of Dodgers' 17-Inning Win Over Reds

Here are the boys who fired the big guns in the Brooklyn Dodgers' sensational 17-inning victory over the Cincinnati Reds at Cincinnati. Tired but happy, they're making merry in the dressing room after the Cleveland Indians recently game. Johnny Allen (left), the former Thomasville, N. C. boy whom the Dodgers and held the Reds scoreless for 16 innings. Hugh Castoff as "washed up," pitched the 17th and final inning for the Dodgers and got credit for the victory. Pete Reiser (right), Dodgers slugger, slammed out a homerun that broke the spell Red Pitcher Paul Derringer had held over the Dodgers for 16 innings and the boys from Brooklyn went on in the final frame to win 5 to 1.

Trend Of Prices So Far Following World War I

Farmville, Sept. 17.—The trend of prices so far in World War II has closely followed the pattern of World War I. John T. Thorne of Farmville, president of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative Association, said here today on his returned from the September board meeting at which arrangements were completed for placing the facilities of the cooperative at the disposal of farmers who want to hold their cotton for higher prices.

"The big jump in prices in the last war," Mr. Thorne said, "did not come until after the war was well underway. Hostilities broke out on July 28, 1914, but we find that even in late 1915 the price of cotton was only 11 cents. From 1915 until the Armistice in 1918, however, prices increased by 250 per cent to reach 29 cents a pound. It kept right on going up to a high of 40 cents by 1920."

Cotton and other farm products, however, were not the only things to advance in price, Mr. Thorne pointed out. "A pair of shoes," he said, "that cost $2.10 in 1915 cost $4.00 by 1918. Overall that cost 75 cents in 1915 were $1.57 in 1918. A cultivator which cost $5.00 in 1915 cost $10.00 in 1918. Nitrate of soda that cost 148 in 1915 cost $94 in 1918."

Mr. Thorne called upon farmers to consider the position they will find themselves in if they sell their cotton on today's market and then have to buy seed, fertilizer and other farm supplies that go into the production of a new crop at the higher prices that he said are almost sure to come by next spring. "Hold your cotton through the cotton association," he said, "and the expected increase in cotton prices will help to offset the increased prices for things you have to buy."

The Cotton Association, he said, "has arranged for official warehouses and receiving agents to receive cotton in all the cotton-growing counties of the state. These ware-

Seeks Recover $2,700 As Result of Wreck

A civil action has been filed in Pitt Superior court in behalf of Middle Moore against R. M. and B. D. Baker, operators of Baker's Bakery, Farmville, asking a total of $2,700 as a result of injuries and property damage suffered in a high-way collision on the Farmville-Snow Hill road last November 16. The action was filed by John Hill Paylor, Farmville attorney.

The complaint alleges that Oscar Baker, driving a Baker's Bakery truck, ran into the defendant's car, being driven by her son, when he attempted to pass the Moore automobile.

Alleging that she suffered serious injuries, the defendant asks $2,500 and in addition is seeking to recover $200 damages to her automobile and $57 for doctor's bills and to replace her eye glasses broken in the collision.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIEN GREY

Chapter Nine
 Jerry had missed Pam and was circling the room alone looking for her when Antoine came in.

"What are you on the prowl for?" Antoine asked.

"Looking for Pam," Jerry replied.

Antoine stopped beside Jerry. He was glad he had not been asked if he had seen Pam. As it was, he could keep Pam's confidence by merely saying nothing. Though something about that made him uncomfortable. It seemed not quite right.

"I don't know what your idea is about that girl, Jerry," he began thoughtfully, oppressed by the feeling he should do something.

And Jerry, tried to the limit of his endurance by Freda's willfulness, turned on him quickly.

"Must I tell you I love her?" he demanded sharply.

Antoine glanced at him, trying to understand. "Well, you don't have to love a highball to enjoy it, you know," he began hesitantly.

"It isn't that sort of thing," Antoine wondered if that was the time to tell Jerry Pam had gone home crying. Or was it kinder to keep Pam's confidence? He was so in the dark. Besides, he was vaguely aware of something within himself that had been hurt. Pam was lovely. She was like a song. A love song. With her nearby he might compose some of the things he'd wanted to. The sweet, beautiful tranquillity of her—but Romero was looking at him. He'd better go up and take the baton. He was glad Jerry meant right, anyhow.

Without speaking again, Antoine moved away. Jerry had forgotten him and was searching the place. Freda caught sight of him.

"You look wild-eyed," she said, and stopped him as he would have passed her. "Dance with me, darling. I'm bored limp. Besides, I've quite forgotten and forgiven your foolishness of a moment ago. I'm a smart girl, Jerry. I know there's no facility like being bitter. And so, with me, water under the bridge is just—well, water under the bridge!"

Jerry's answer was to ask if Freda had seen Pam.

"No, darling, I haven't seen your island flower! Maybe she's out bug-gy-dashing with some local swain!"

"Don't be like that!" Jerry exclaimed sharply. "This isn't the moment for wise-cracks. Besides, that mood isn't becoming to you."

"Is my darling worried about the little Conch?"

"If I didn't know it was Cuba-libre talking, I'd slap you for that, Freda!" Jerry's voice was shaking with anger. "And don't say Conch in that tone of voice. Some of the nicest people on this island, aristocrats in more ways than one, are Conch." Jerry paused a moment to look intently at Freda. "If you were smart, you'd take a leaf from their book, girl. With their natural charm and decency and your beauty, you might go places."

"You can't talk to me like that, Jerry, and get away with it," Freda's voice too was sharp.

"You asked for it. Jerry started to move on but Freda caught the lapels of his jacket.

"You're not leaving me like this," she said.

"Let go! You're making a scene."

"Not nearly as much scene as you're making with that little Conch. You've carried your joke far enough now. I won't have you make me a laughing stock."

"I'm not. You're doing it yourself. You've been drinking too much."

"When is too much?"

"You should know." He started on, but Freda, clung to his arm. At his car she slipped in as he opened the door, before he could step her.

Desperate Girl

"Get out of that car!" Jerry commanded. Freda's only reply was an innocent giggle. Jerry reached in and took hold of her, but Freda turned limp. Up to her old tricks thought Jerry. He knew if he dragged her out of the car, she would merely fall in a heap at his feet, her evening gown billowing about her like a little mound of fluff.

Jerry had seen her do that when she was a child and her nurse tried to get her to do something or started to correct her. That had been a weapon she had used effectively all life. It had always alarmed her gay, pretty mother to the point of giving in to anything.

"All right," his teeth gritted on the words. "You got in, now you stay in. If you dare get out when I get where I'm going, I'll knock you cold!"

Freda giggled again and leaned comfortably against him.

"Have on, darling," she said easily. "I love it! Anything to hear your nice baritone. It's you who should sing, not Lenore. What say we make up a song and dance team you and I, and start out under our own power?"

Jerry did not bother to reply. The car seemed to jump away under his hands. He drove with a sort of mad speed across town, swung in to the driveway of the charming old house on Division Street. Before he could get out of the car and away Freda was out, clutching his arm and hanging on.

"Whither thou goest, old dear My name's not Ruth, but I'm saying that and meaning it."

"Let go!" he said in a low but fierce tone.

But Freda, tall as Jerry himself and strong as swimming, dancing, skating and cycling had made her hung on.

"I'll sock you!" he cried fiercely against her light filagree of laughter.

"Sock, darling!" she dared him "I'll bluff you one that will be the surprise party of your sweet young life."

Jerry knew that well she might

Freda was smart and slim and attractive, but no delicate flower, no clinging vine that needed a strong oak to twine around.

"Let go! Let go, I say!" he raged struggling to free his arm. But Freda clung.

Jerry paused an instant in his struggling and looked at her intently. He had just lifted his hand to push her from him when Freda ducked into it, getting a slight blow on the cheek. Jerry stared in startled amazement. He had never even accidentally been in the position of striking a woman. He flushed with indignation. Freda had no business putting him in such a position. He was aware then of Freda's high scream piercing the air.

"You struck me!" There was fury in her voice.

"You asked for it," Jerry said. "I didn't intend to hit you, but it wouldn't be honest for me to say that I'm sorry."

"Beast!"

There were sounds as if a wildcat had been turned loose in the Quelleron gardens.

Strange Meeting

Pam had not been sleeping. She had been lying staring into the darkness, wondering how a man who looked and seemed as nice as Jerry Winthrop could be so crudely dishonest. She blamed herself for breaking her rule about the sons of rich winter people. She should have had nothing to do with Jerry.

She wondered vaguely how she was to face the future. Jerry had grown so into her life in the short time she had known him. There would be such an aching vacuum where he had been. Pam knew with certainty she loved Jerry.

The object of a bet, she thought on a wave of feeling that was almost bitter. That was what she had meant to Jerry. He had Freda, who meant something fine and serious to him; Freda who wore his ring and was probably laughing at her. They had probably all been laughing at her as she sat there at Antoine's right all through the supper thinking she was being honored when really they were making her ridiculous.

She had meant nothing more than a bit of passing amusement to Jerry. And to her he had suddenly meant the difference between living and just existing. Now he must mean nothing. Pam was trying to look down the years and fathom their loveliness when she heard the car.

She listened, wondering if some new arrival in Key West, taking her large, white house for a hotel, as so often happened, was about to ring and ask for rooms. Then she heard unmistakable sounds of scuffling.

Something was happening out there in her shadowy garden. She listened intently.

Steps came softly along the hall Juan, walking quietly trying not to waken Melita.

"What is it, Juan?" Pam asked softly through her partially opened door.

"I came to see if you were frightened, bambi," he said in his low, gentle voice. The fond, diminutive Juan and Melita had always used was soothing to the girl.

"It is the young man from the North," Juan continued. "I think you have no need to fear. Should I ask him to go, please?"

"No, Juan, go back to rest. You have served well. I am grateful. Unconsciously, when she spoke to him, Pam resorted to Juan's own quantity formal speech. So much of her time had been spent with him and the gentle, bright-eyed Melita.

Pam pulled a housecoat over her pajamas and peered down from the window of her room to the silver enchantment of what a moment before had been her peacefully sleeping flower beds and lawn. Two figures struggled wildly there. Pam recognized their voices. She hurried down the winding stairway and out to where the two still struggled oblivious of her.

"Jerry!" she called softly, but there was authority in her voice "Jerry, please! My roses! Oh, my flowers! My flowers!" It was a wail as she saw Freda and Jerry dance wildly in her annual bed.

"Pam! I'm sorry!" Jerry was suddenly aware of her. He grabbed Freda and dragged her out of the garden to the wide walk.

"Why, Jerry!" Pam said in amazement. She peered through the dim light. "And Freda!"

Carver Library News

The Reading club met on the lawn Friday afternoon. There were 37 children present. After the regular story hour was held by Miss Pattie Tyson, NYA worker, the librarian Mrs. Belle Mae Atkinson, served punch, cookies and hollipops to all the children. Before dismissing the librarian urged the Reading club to use their leisure time in the library. She encouraged them to read for enjoyment and not for a certificate. During Book Week certificates will be given to children who read 25 or more books and a special prize will be given to the child who reads the highest number of books.

We wish to gratefully acknowledge the following donations to the library: The Reverend Clarence H. Patrick, books; Miss Dora Gorham, books; Mrs. A. B. Cunningham, magazines; Mrs. Ficklen, magazines; Mrs. R. L. Hillrup, magazines; Mrs. H. W. Mims, magazines; Miss Kate Lewis, books.

We were very pleased to have the following visitors recently: Mrs. Mattie Moyer Gaylord, NYA supervisor; Misses Mabel Ames, Virginia Gaylord, Nancy Hannah, Harriet Gaylord and Dora Gorham of Greenville; Miss Ella Mae Gaylord, district library supervisor of Williamston; Miss Kate Lewis, East Carolina Teachers College; the Rev. C. H. Patrick, Mrs. R. L. Hillrup, Mrs. H. W. Mims, and Miss Elizabeth Flynn, area supervisor of Williamston.

A very hearty welcome is extended to the teachers and students to make use of your Carver library during the coming term. There is always available at the library discarded magazines and papers which might be used for scrapbooks and poster material.

The library is open daily except Sundays, from 1 to 5 p. m., and from 7 to 8 p. m.

Yoo-hoo Shinn-a-a-y! The big old Fair Grounds next Thursday. Here are some typical circus scenes. Thrills, chills, and laughs tumble over each other under the "Big Top" of the great Cole Brothers Combined Circus, whose mile-long train of double-length railroad cars will bring its myriad of breath-taking wonders to Greenville for afternoon and night performances at the Nubian lions in the priceless Cole Brothers menagerie. At the lower right, Ann Sutton puts "Abdel-Huan" over an eight-foot hurdle on the hippodrome track. Reserved seat tickets will be on sale all circus day downtown at Bell's Pharmacy, 302 Evans Street, at the same price as at the circus grounds.

320-pound chimpanzee of amazing intelligence and brute cunning; three herds of huge performing elephants; corals and picket lines of camels, zebras, sacred ponies from Asiatic mountain fastnesses, dromedaries, yaks, and others hay-eating brutes.

In the scores of cages are man-eating lions, tigers, and leopards, elk, ferocious gnus or horned horses, companies of performing seals, deer, and entire "monkey island" inhabited by dozens of capering simians, and a host of other wonders from the jungles, deserts, and mountains of the world. The animals are nearly priceless now because of the interruption by the war on the wild animal trade.

The ponies are tiny donkey-like beasts of burden able to carry on their backs half again as much as their own weight. In Asia they are sacred and their exportation is forbidden. Only six of the midget creatures are in this country and three are exhibited by the Cole Brothers Combined Circus.

The Horse Show, an added attraction this year, exhibits nearly 100 of the world's outstanding thoroughbred horses, including such famous five-gaited saddle horses as "Amberking," "Silver Stamp," "Rollin Rose," "Silver King," and "Lee Ross McAdams"—prize winning stallions, all. Each horse will be in its own individual arched stall bearing its name and that of its noted sire.

The Horse Show and menagerie may be visited without extra charge by those entering the main door to the circus, which will be opened one hour before each performance of the big show.

The afternoon performance this year is identical with the evening exhibition, thanks to the brand new dark blue and gold "Big Top" one of the largest tents in the world. Colorfully decorated with red, white and blue and spangled with stars on the inside, the tent shuts out the daylight and allows full afternoon play to the spectacular lighting effects for the three gorgeous spectacles and the amazing galaxy of displays of the sawdust ring.

High in the air will be seen the "Six Flying Thrillers," aerialists without fear of death, including the beautiful Eileen Harold, the only woman ever to accomplish a two-and-one-half somersault to a catch by the feet in mid-air, and

CHURCH MONTH BAILEY FACED BY DARK HORSE

Month of October Set Aside For Special Emphasis

At a recent meeting of the Greenville Ministerial Alliance the month of October was set as "Church Emphasis Month." The observance will be initiated by participation in the "World-wide celebration of the Lord's Supper" October 5th, which is the first Sunday in the month.

Millions of Christians of all branches and denominations of the Christian Faith are requested to meet in their respective places of worship and on that day, at the hour most convenient for them, and in humility and with repentance re-consecrate themselves to the Christian life and a more worthy following of Jesus Christ, the great Head of the church. "Surely there was never a time when world conditions justified such a unity of the Christian denominations as today," declared one local minister.

The ministers of Greenville are urged by the Alliance to let this service begin a month of aggressive effort to bring back to the churches the multitudes who have become careless or indifferent in their worship and service in the churches. The layman on the street and in the business places are urged to make religion a common topic of conversation during this month specially and witness for Jesus Christ before their business friends and associates. "Gossip the Gospel" is the injunction of our Lord. "Make engagements with your non-church friends and bring them to your church some Sunday, or every Sunday during this month and make them welcome in your place of worship," the minister urged.

"This will be the time to build up the church school and that Bible class depleted by the "summer slump" and to gather in the children who roam the streets at the hour of worship so often. Let's make Greenville church conscious during the month of October, and render thanksgiving and praise to God for our great country and our bountiful harvests this year."

Mayme Ward, circusdom's original woman "catcher"; the beach-taking Rich Sisters Betty and Marilyn; "The Great Webber" and his stupefying "Slide for Life"; and companies of other dare-devils on tight perches and trapezes.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, will be seen on the ground along with Miss Herbert in her spine-chilling exhibition of fearless riding; Senor Lobo and his huge company of rough riders, three herds of performing elephants under the direction of Alonzo Dever, who is carried around the hippodrome track with his head in the mouth of one of his behemoths, his body suspended in mid-air; Miss Lucy, Australia's peerless acrobatic equestrienne; an army of fifty of the world's most famous downs in a contest of rough riders; and vast companies of other stars of the sawdust ring.

Tickets will be on sale all day tomorrow downtown at Bell's Pharmacy, 302 Evans Street, at the same price as at the circus grounds.

NOTICE OF SALE OF LAND BY COMMISSIONER
By virtue of and the authority of a judgment of the Superior Court of Pitt County in a certain action therein pending entitled "W. C. Harris, Administrator of the Estate of Wiley Clark vs. Arthur Clark, David Lee Clark et al.," the undersigned Administrator and Commissioner, therein authorized, will on Monday, the 13th day of October, 1941 at 12 o'clock, noon before the Court House door in Greenville, N. C., expose to public sale the following described tract or lot of land:

Lying and being in the City of Greenville, N. C. and being and lying on the East side of and on the North end of Cotanche Street, and bounded on the North by Tar River; on the East by Jim Perkins' land; on the South by the Ruth Clark lot; and on the West by Cotanche Street, and being Lot No. 5 in the division of the Peyton land as recorded in Land Division Book 2, page 142 in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, under that certain Special Proceeding, entitled "Reuben Clark and wife, Emma Clark, Lula Hart and Victoria Peyton vs. Charles Peyton and Ida Peyton," dated June 19th, 1893, and more particularly described, as follows: Lot No. 5 beginning at a stake in the Northwest corner of Lot No. 4 allotted to Charles Peyton; and running North with Cotanche Street 40 feet to the corner; thence East 140 feet; thence South 40 feet; thence West 140 feet to the beginning. This being the lot upon which Reuben Clark was living at the time of his death, and which was allotted to Emma Clark, the first wife of Reuben Clark, in said division.

Terms of sale cash. A cash deposit of 10 per cent will be required of the purchaser at the sale to guaranty his good faith. This the 11th day of Sept., 1941. W. C. HARRIS, Administrator of the Estate of Wiley Clark and Commissioner. Julius Brown, Atty. Sept. 17-24-Oct. 1-8.

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERELL.
Raleigh, Sept. 17.—Senator Josiah W. Bailey is not likely to turn pale with fear if and when it occurs, but there is a "dark horse" senatorial candidacy announcement brewing right here in Raleigh, within less than two blocks of the Sir Walter, where so many political eggs have been hatched or scrambled.

Prospective stable-hued equine in seed man C. P. Dickson, who has never been a candidate for any political office, but who admits—perhaps "proclaims" is a better word—that he has been tremendously effective in the campaigns of numerous successful candidates for statewide offices.

The senior senator may not grow any gray hairs if Dickson comes out; the new man may dismiss the Dickson candidacy with a paragraph and a smile; the public at large may be completely unacquainted with the Dicksonian virtues and abilities and wholly unimpressed with his chances; but Mr. Dickson himself is afflicted with no doubts and restrained by no shrinking violet modesty.

"If I run, I'll win and I'm practically sure I will," quoth he, crowding the first-person, singular pronoun four times into one short sentence.

New oil lasted 5,683 miles longer than the runner-up in Death Valley Death-Test ...CERTIFIED

Your own engine gauge-stick can tell you best about Conoco Nth motor oil. Next best is to buttonhole the most frugal car owners you know around town. Some have never yet added a quart since changing to Conoco Nth. And you can see why right here—by the mileage figures from the Certified Death-Test of Conoco Nth oil vs. five other big brands.

The whole big success of Conoco Nth started down in Death Valley—so hot you can't sweat. Here 6 new stock cars, strictly alike, each got one 5-quart fill of some one oil being tested. Then the Official Referee clamped on the locks; never a drop of oil could be added.

Eyed by impartial officials every instant, the cars all reeled off their 57 miles hourly. Here and there on the desert a carcass lay bleaching—and desert death awaited these car engines, too. For none could finish till its oil hit bottom—finishing the engine beyond repair.

CONOCO Nth gave nearly Twice the miles averaged by the others tested!

The 5-quart fill of Conoco Nth lasted 13,398 miles... Certified. Conoco Nth outlasted one big brand by 8,268 miles. Even the best of the five was outlasted 5,683 miles by Conoco Nth oil. Such a real difference must have a real source. And two real life-givers created by man... two modern synthetics... are in Conoco Nth motor oil.

You know of modern vitamin synthetics, making up for Nature's life-givers lost in some modern food processing. Similarly,

One of these—man-made under the famed Germ Processed oil patent—will keep your engine OIL-PLATED with lubricant that can't all quickly drain off of inner surfaces. So OIL-PLATING is on guard against wear in advance!

And the latest Conoco synthetic—man-made under U.S. Pat. 2,218,132—will check "festering" of oil that's encouraged by foul leftovers from every engine's normal firing. This common oil trouble is now checked or inhibited by the new man-made Conoco life-giver—Thialthene inhibitor.

You'll never Death-Test your Conoco Nth oil in sinister Death Valley, any more than you repeat other proving-ground tortures. You'll still drain and refill at recommended intervals. But how you'll expect to stretch the distance before adding a quart, judging by this big fact: 5 heavily advertised oils in the Certified Death Valley Test were outlasted 74% to 161% by Conoco Nth oil. Economy like that counts up into dollars! Change to Nth oil today at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company—Pioneers in Bettering America's oil with Synthetics

CERTIFIED I hereby certify that the Death Valley Test and related work were thoroughly and fairly conducted. Engine Destruction occurred in each case at the mileage stated.
