VIEWS VARY ON MORGENTHAU'S TAX PROPOSAL

Connally Favors Amending Excess Profits Taxes

TAFT DENOUNCES MOVE AS UNWISE

Texas Democrat Asserts Present Levy Should Be Strengthened; Taft Says Plan Demagogic

Washington, Sept. 26. — (AP) — Secretary Morgenthau's proposal that corporation profits be limited to six per cent drew mixed reaction in the Senate Finance Committee today and Senator Connally (D-Tex.), a member, said present excess profits taxes "should be amended and strengthened."

On the other hand, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), another Finance committee member, called Morgenthau's suggestion "a most unwise and demagogic proposal, even for a war-time program."

Connally told reporters he was "not satisfied with provisions of the recently approved revenue law as regards excess profits."

The law increased the excess profits tax ten per cent in each bracket, lifting the bottom bracket levy from 25 to 35 per cent on excess profits up to $20,000. The top bracket tax on such profits—those over $500,000—now is 80 per cent.

The new law permits corporations to figure excess profits either on the basis of invested capital or on the basis of average earnings for the years 1936-1939, inclusive.

Requirements this time call for one year in college if the applicant is in college now or two years for an applicant not now enrolled in college.

Applicants are now taking physical examinations, and those successful in entering the course will begin flight training at the local airport next week, under the instructors who were there during the summer term—Arnold Graham of Danville, Va., and Paul Thiessen of Nebraska.

The following boys completed the summer term course: Birtrum Bateman, Ayres; David Breese, Raleigh; Clifton Evans, Greenville; F. W. Frazelle, Richlands; Charles F. Greenell, Greenville; Warren Parrish, Greenville; John Thigpen, Williamston; B. B. Turnage, Farmville; and Alvin Wooten, Macesfield.

Two defendants were convicted in this morning's session of Municipal recorder's court of failing to pay privilege taxes, but in each case prayer for judgment was continued until October.

The two defendants were M. L. Bartlett, colored, and R. L. Jordan, manager of the Friendly Grocery Company.

Only one defendant was convicted of drunkenness, this being Dave Creech, who was given a 30-day sentence, suspended upon payment of costs.

Henry and Bessie Barnes, colored, were convicted of disorderly conduct and assault with a deadly weapon, Henry being given a 90-day sentence, suspended upon payment of $25 in costs and fine and an additional $25 for a doctor's bill, and Bessie being given a 60-day sentence, suspended upon good behavior for two years.

It's "Politics," That's What

At least so says M. J. Barbara Ernst about her neighbor who complained about her marimba playing. Yes sir, neighbor Horace Collier brought an injunction suit saying she played for hours at a time which disturbed his peace. But, retorted Mrs. Ernst, objections to her playing are just politics; she and her marimba are democrats and Horace and other neighbors are Republicans. Here she wields her hammer for the benefit of the cameraman in her Media, Pa., home.

Tokyo Sees Axis Pact As World Peace Move

Japan Celebrates 1st Anniversary Of Alliance

Tokyo, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A Japanese spokesman opened the empire's observance of the first anniversary of Japanese signing of the Axis pact by declaring today the alliance's primary objective was world peace and that Japan would retain her ties to this end.

Nobunomi Ito, who was named director of the Cabinet Information Board by Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye a month before the signing last September, made the statement in a broadcast.

He declared that, whatever the changes in the future and whatever the difficulties, the spirit of the three-power pact constitutes the keystone of our diplomacy and that will not be affected in the least by activities of third powers to alienate the three countries from each other.

The anniversary observance was subtitled, with only official functions, scheduled and some pro-Fascist leaders silenced by government order.

In the year since the Axis alignment was announced, Japan has gone through another draining 12 months of war with China and has seen her world trade, with 6,000,000 tons of shipping on the seas, virtually vanish through freezing of credits and the spread of the war.

McFarland said he was "assured" by British embassy officials that there was no truth in the statement.

Wendell L. Wilkie, counsel for the producers, issued a statement charging that the committee investigation was "one of the first attempts in America to suggest to the American people what they should read or see."

Mrs. Olivia Dunn, widow of the late James Dunn, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Byrum, 13 Jarvis street, at 3:30 o'clock this morning, following a month's illness.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock (DST) by Rev. Wilbur Bennett, Christian minister of Farmville, and burial will follow in the Mount Pleasant church cemetery.

PROTEST MADE AT JAP ACTION IN INDO-CHINA

Colonial Authorities Charge Sovereignty Violated

HANOI REPORTS MASS ARRESTS

Full French Sovereignty Had Been Insisted Upon In Protocol Signed Two Months Ago

Vichy, Sept. 26.—(AP)—French Indo-China authorities have protested vigorously to Japan charging violation of French sovereignty as a result of sudden, widespread arrests by Japanese troops in the French colony, it was announced officially today.

The strongly worded protest declared the action of the Japanese command was an "indisputable violation of French sovereignty despite the solemn guarantees by the Japanese government."

Full French sovereignty in the Asiatic colony was insisted on in a protocol signed between France and Japan only two months ago giving Japanese troops the right to occupy bases in southern French Indo-China.

A communique issued by French authorities in Hanoi, capital of the colony, said "on the night of September 25-26 Japanese military forces at Hanoi and Haiphong carried out, without warning, police operations, including police lines across streets, searches and arrests."

"Some 100 persons, Chinese and others, thus were taken into custody. "The French authorities raised a vigorous protest against these operations, which constitute on the part of the Japanese command in Indo-China and indisputable violation of French sovereignty in spite of the solemn guarantees by the Japanese government in all accords signed up to now between it and the French government."

The board also took notice of the mail service in and out of Greenville and inaugurated steps to see if anything can be done to improve the service.

The report of the secretary W. T. Kyzer, was read to the board, outlining activities for the past month. The report stated that briefs had been prepared on the airport with the idea of securing additional services at the local field. It also stated that the secretary had attended various meetings called for the betterment of the community in general. It reported on work being done in connection with the North Carolina Seed Exposition to be held here the last of January.

Completed projects on the chamber's program were shown to include construction of a bus station and contract for grading and structures on the Pactolus road. The two projects had been on the chamber's list of objectives since 1938.

Paris, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The first three men sentenced to death by the powerful Tribunal of State were executed today on the guillotine in the courtyard of Sante prison.

Authoritative sources said the court, a French tribunal created to show the Germans the French themselves could handle the opposition problem and to forestall the spread of German reprisal, was expected to hand down a new list of condemnations soon.

All three put to death today were Communists: Adolphe Guyot, Communist leader of the Seine department; Jacques Woog and former Deputy Jean Cathelais.

Last night at the West Greenville school stage a group of new entertainers was presented in a singing contest. Those who entertained the Junior members were Polly Day, Jeanette Hinson, Joyce Day, Eleanor Sue Harrington, Dorothy Harrington, Tillie and Billie Hinson, and Joe Griffin.

Twenty new members signed up for the club yesterday afternoon. The Juniors will meet Monday night at 8 o'clock with the adults for rehearsals for future personal appearances in the city and county

Youngsters Picket For An Education

Reversing what most youngsters are supposed to think of school these children, residents of a trailer camp near Muskegon Heights, Mich., are picketing for an education. They want to attend a new Mona Beach school outside Muskegon Heights but a new tuition law, not yet in effect, will prevent it. Here some of the 26 children are shown with picket signs on the steps of the new school.

C. OF C. BEHIND $250,000 ISSUE

Endorses Proposed School Improvement Program

After hearing Col. E. G. Flanagan of the Greenville School Board and Superintendent J. H. Rose outline the proposed expansion building program, the Board of Directors of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce in regular session last night unanimously endorsed the project and also pledged its support in the bond election to be held October 28.

As outlined by the two school men, it is proposed to sell $250,000 bonds to make additions and improvements to the existing school plants—both white and colored—instead of erecting any new building.

Several other important matters were taken up by the board. The lack of public restroom facilities was brought to the attention of the members and the president was authorized to appoint a committee to make a study of the situation with a view to presenting findings to the city officials for possible action.

The board also took notice of the mail service in and out of Greenville and inaugurated steps to see if anything can be done to improve the service.

Ex-King Welcomed By Excited Clerks

Washington, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Cheering crowds of clerks and stenographers greeted the Duke of Windsor today as he paid an official call on the Secretary of War, Henry Stimson, and Undersecretary of the Navy, James V. Forrestal. His American-born duchess did not accompany him.

The former King Edward, VIII, was hailed excitedly by hundreds of War and Navy department employees who jammed the entrances to the building and blocked corridors in their anxiety to see the man who abdicated his throne for love and now is governor of the Bahamas.

Shanghai, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Delayed Japanese dispatches said today that the main bodies of two Chinese divisions had been annihilated in hills south of the Milo river by Japanese engaged in a drive against the defenders of Changsha.

A Japanese force was declared to be within 18 miles of Changsha, Hunan province capital of 600,000 population, and 300,000 Chinese troops were pictured as in retreat on a 180-mile front.

Chinese sources admitted that Changsha was gravely endangered. Lieut. Colonel Junio Akimura, Japanese army spokesman, implying that capture of Changsha is a matter of "face" for the Japanese, declared the city would be taken "this time."

When the Japanese made a similar attempt in September and October, 1939, the Chinese dealt the Japanese their most disastrous defeat of the war and drove the attackers back 100 miles north to Yochow.

Raleigh, Sept. 26.—Major highway as in the Army Maneuver area, which includes the eight North Carolina counties of Union, Anson, Richmond, Scotland, Hoke, Moore, Montgomery and Stanly, in addition to eight South Carolina counties, will not be closed during the maneuvers which are scheduled to begin next week and continue through October and November, according to W. Vance Baise, chief highway engineer, who conferred with Lt. Col. Herbert H. Harris and other Army officials at Hoffman this week.

Civilian traffic, however, is advised to avoid the maneuver territory as much as possible. Baise said, because of "numerous inconveniences" both to civilians and the Army.

AVERAGE SAME AS YESTERDAY

No Fluctuation Shown In Prices On Local Market

That the Greenville tobacco market continues firm with little fluctuation is reflected in average prices for Wednesday and Thursday—35.10 cents a pound average having been paid on both days.

On Monday the average was 35.48 and on Tuesday it was 35.49. Offerings yesterday totaled 747,328 pounds, for which a total of $262,319.15 was paid.

Today's sales were estimated at 1,500,000 pounds or more, with a noticeable drop in the general quality, more common leaf appearing on the market. This was taken to indicate the crop is nearing the short end. Prices today, however, were unofficially reported to be stronger with common leaf taking the lead in the price advance.

All warehouses were expected to be cleared today.

Yesterday's offerings brought to 26,706,304 pounds the total for the season, for which $7,510,478.68 was paid—an average of 28.12 cents per pound for all offerings here to date.

Offerings so far this year exceed the 23,500,700 pounds sold during the corresponding period in 1941 by 3,205,604, while the money paid out to date this season is $3,735,187.86 more than the $3,775,290.82 paid during the same number of sales days in 1941. The 1941 average of 28.12 is 12.02 cents per pound higher than the 16.06 for the comparable date in 1940.

The British radio, quoting a Moscow spokesman, said the Germans launched their initial attack on the Crimean Wednesday night, hurling tanks, mechanized infantry and a number of parachute troops into the assault after a heavy artillery bombardment.

The Russians waited behind vast mine fields, the account continued. "Whole battalions of Germans are said to have been blown to pieces."

"The enemy withdrew to reform, eight hours later. But they were caught in the fire of Russian long-range artillery from the isthmus and from the bay to the west of the isthmus."

Just before noon yesterday, the German attack was renewed. One German infiltration was made in the Russian line, but it was soon surrounded and annihilated.

Victims Of Mine Fields On Crimea

Soviets Declared To Have Situation Well In Hand At Strategic Site Of Russia's Black Sea Naval Base On Peninsula; Reds Admit Increased German Pressure On Leningrad Front

By The Associated Press

Whole battalions of German shock troops have been blown to pieces by mine fields in a strong attack on the Crimea, advices reaching London said today, and the Russians were reported to have the situation well in hand after stemming two Nazi assaults.

German parachute troops used in the attack likewise were declared to have been annihilated.

In the siege of Leningrad, the Russians admitted that German siege armies were steadily increasing their pressure despite colossal losses, declared that a series of battles had hurled the Germans back from several advance lines.

Soviet front line dispatches late today said fighting near the ancient walled city of Novgorod, 100 miles south of Leningrad, was still raging with Russian troops repelling all German attempts to cross the Volkhov river.

The Russians abandoned Novgorod a month ago, and the Germans have given the impression that Nazi columns from that direction were pressing close in upon Leningrad.

Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, reported that Russian troops at one point on Leningrad's approach had gained five miles and recaptured four villages.

Nazi parachute troops and infantry were reported continuing the assault on the Crimean peninsula, battering fiercely at Soviet lines stretched across the bottleneck Perekop isthmus, only five to eight miles wide.

The terrain was described as advantageous for the Russians, with numerous small lakes and marshy lands forming natural defense barriers.

To the north, Adolf Hitler's high command reported that the destruction of four Red armies trapped east of Kiev was "progressing relentlessly," with the number of Soviet prisoners now standing at 492,000.

This claim followed an official Soviet denial of an earlier Berlin announcement that 300,000 Russian troops had been captured in the Kiev battle.

Calling the Nazi assertion "a fresh Hitlerite fake," a Red army communique reported: "The fierce struggle is continuing on the Kiev front."

The British radio, quoting a Moscow spokesman, said the Germans launched their initial attack on the Crimean Wednesday night, hurling tanks, mechanized infantry and a number of parachute troops into the assault after a heavy artillery bombardment.

The Russians waited behind vast mine fields, the account continued. "Whole battalions of Germans are said to have been blown to pieces."

Legion Auxiliary Meeting

The first regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Bundy Monday afternoon.

Mrs. George Spearman, president, presided. The preamble was repeated in unison, followed by the Lord's Prayer, led by Mrs. A. B. Corey. Mrs. Spearman presented a complete outline of the program for the year. After business was disposed of, Mrs. Paul Scott presented Miss Sallie Mae Davis, speaker for the afternoon.

Miss Davis' topic for the afternoon was "Getting a Perspective on Child Welfare Services in Pitt County and Greenville."

The present child welfare worker has been affiliated with the local department of welfare since July, 1937, who was selected because of growing public interest in problems of un-adjusted children and increasing demands on the department.

Miss Davis pointed out the function of the child welfare services in the county. Emphasizing the fact that services are not only available to the child who is already delinquent, dependent or neglected, they are available for the children who are in danger of becoming so.

Emphasis has been placed on a program of prevention against harmful and demoralizing influences.

She mentioned work in cooperation with the juvenile court under the direction of Mr. J. Frank Harrington. The worker assists in making studies and in planning constructively the children in families before they are broken; and caring for them in their own community without commitment to correctional schools, except in most difficult cases. Eventually the boy or girl must return to his own community from institutions. Youth cannot strand threats. It needs sympathies, understanding and skillful guidance.

Where controlled environment seems to be the best solution, she described various types of placements, including adoptive homes, boarding homes and free homes. Moving a child from his own home is considered a major operation, however, sometimes it becomes necessary. Foster homes are selected with a view of special needs of the child and the ability of the foster parents to give him unselfish attention, training and discipline that he needs for proper adjustment and development.

She explained services rendered to unmarried mothers, which requires considerable time and study. It is felt that the child welfare service is not a cure-all, however, there have been indications of a constructive sound program.

The process of re-shaping children's behavior pattern and understanding the problem in which they become involved is a slow one, but a cooperative venture is an anticipated.

Following this, refreshments were served to the guests, after which the meeting adjourned.

He will direct the chorus and we hope the parents will cooperate by advancing the fee which will make it possible for their children to take advantage of this opportunity. During the business session the organization decided to purchase new song books, chemistry equipment and playground equipment. Mrs. T. P. Fleming gave an outline of the programs for the coming months. The programs are built on the topic "Health Needs of Children in Pitt County."

Mr. Sanders, the agriculture teacher, explained the defense project which is being sponsored by his department. Training in mechanics will be given to boys in the community between the ages of 17 and 24. This should be a valuable course and we hope that many will take advantage of this opportunity. After the meeting adjourned Miss Turner, assisted by some of her home economics pupils, served delicious punch and cookies. The next meeting will be held Tuesday after the third Sunday in October. Be sure to come.

The menace of a water shortage has been quite inconvenient during the extremely hot weather since school started, but the problem has been solved in a big way.

Recently the students were thrilled at recess time to find that there were two new wells with six new fountains, to furnish every drop of water their thirst calls for, even on the hottest day.

The winners of the attendance banner for last week were the fourth grade of the elementary division and the eleventh grade in the high school, the home room teachers being Miss Marjorie Groce and Miss Mabry Hodges, respectively. The award of distinction is given each week to the two classrooms which maintain the most perfect attendance record for the week and they are in possession of the new attendance pennant for the following week.

to be manned to full strength, or to be built up from scratch. Most of them could be selected by the centie-moente-myne-moe process without having a great deal of effect upon the course of events or the sum total of human happiness but at least one — the small loan commission — is or at least ought to be, causing the governor to crease his brow.

This commission is to study the whole small loan business and problem with a view to making fit recommendations to the 1943 General Assembly. If it performs its functions well the result will be considerable and will vitally affect a large number of Tar Heels, principally small wage earners who for one reason or another have to call on somebody for loans to tide them over periods of ill luck or adversity.

In general there are three groups struggling for dominance in the field of small loan legislation — (1) Those who want to see the so-called uniform act sponsored by the Russell Sage Foundation (if memory serves) adopted in North Carolina. This act permits a charge of something like 3-1-2 per cent a month, your reporter is advised. (2) Those who would like to see the small loan business practically wiped out by legislation filling the six per cent interest statutes with so many teeth that they'll bite on no provocation and (3) Those who prefer the status quo.

Each legislature for a number of years has had the small loan problem thrust upon it early, but so far no General Assembly has found any group powerful enough to get its views enacted into a new statute. The result has been no action at all — a result quite satisfactory to those in group three as just outlined.

This group, incidentally, gets its backbone from the industrial banking setup. The industrial banks are making small loans in large numbers and are charging, within the confines of existing laws, something like 16 or 17 per cent to borrowers, when "investigation" fees, advance deduction of interest and installment repayments are all figured in. The group favoring the "Uniform" loan act is centered around a number of professors and intellectuals who can spin fine theories to show that it will completely knock out the existing loan shark agencies and make it possible for persons of small means to borrow small sums and repay the loans on terms known in advance and not so exorbitant as to be shocking to the public conscience.

Principal objection to this act is that it legalizes what is now usury and, as an additional and perhaps the most important reason, that such an act would have as logical corollaries a garnishee statute and an assignment of yet-earned wages law.

Members of the third group contend that there's nothing in the present law that authorizes such loan sharks as are operating. Their contention is that the debtor can now tell them to go to the Devil in any case where he is being robbed. But the point is that the Governor must give due consideration to all these angles and, if he is to appoint a commission which will accomplish anything worthwhile he must see to it that all schools of thought are represented. In that case, there might emerge a truly valuable compromise proposition.

It was not until the discovery of North America that the world fur trade got into its stride.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIEN GREY

Chapter 17
Unexpected Guest

"Pam! Ten years have been frightened off the far end of my life!" Jerry's arms closed around her and drew her tight, the water from their dripping garments making a little circle around them.

"Silly!" Pam exclaimed. "Have you forgotten that I was born in Key West?"

"And consequently swim like a fish. Yes, I had forgotten. I'd forgotten everything in the world, Pam, except that if you went out of my life all of its reason for being would be gone. That if I lost you I'd have lost everything."

Pam clung to Jerry in momentary panic. His words had brought home to her doubly what it would mean to her to lose him. She paused on the thought of what she would have done if he had not plunged in after her.

It would, she knew, have built a barrier that they could never have surmounted. It would have separated them forever, because it would in a sense have been making a choice between his own crowd and her. If he had chosen the others in that crisis, she could never have forgiven him.

"Oh, Jerry!" Her emotion finally found words. "I feel that way, too. If I lost you, I'd lose everything. Everything!"

"I know, darling. I know." He kissed her damp face. "Pam, you're the dearest, sweetest girl in the world!"

"If I could be, for you! I want to be everything in the world that you want."

It was Jerry who was first concerned about their wet clothes.

"You'll take cold," he said.

"These wet things. Come, I must get you home where you can get dry ones."

"You keep forgetting that we Conch aren't afraid of salt water," Pam laughed. "Salt water never gives you a cold. It's being out in the rain that does that."

"Says you! Come, I'm taking no chances with you, sweet."

"But really I mean it, Jerry. We are never afraid of being wet with salt water. It never gives you a cold. That's a belief handed down through generations of seafaring men and their women. We're never afraid of the ocean, but we don't want its conch shells in our houses. We feel they're bad luck when you bring them under a roof."

"Nevertheless I'm taking no chances with you." He lifted her in his arms and carried her to his car. "You can change, darling, and then we'll go to the hotel and I'll change. We'll go back to the party and laugh at them for having given us the sweetest hour of my life."

"No, Jerry. I can't go back. Don't ask me to do that. I couldn't."

"But you don't expect me to take you home and then go back to the party alone, Pam? I couldn't do that, either. Not now, Darling. I've got to have you a little while longer. The night's too young and beautiful to give you up, even for a few hours, just yet."

"I'll tell you what"—Pam's voice was as eager as his own—"let's change and then drive to South Beach and let me show you the Southern Cross. They say this is the only place in the States where you can see it."

"In the mood I'm in, sweetheart, an ordinary garden-variety star would be a seven-days' wonder."

It was then that they were aware of Blaze standing beside the car patiently awaiting her turn at attention. Jerry turned to her.

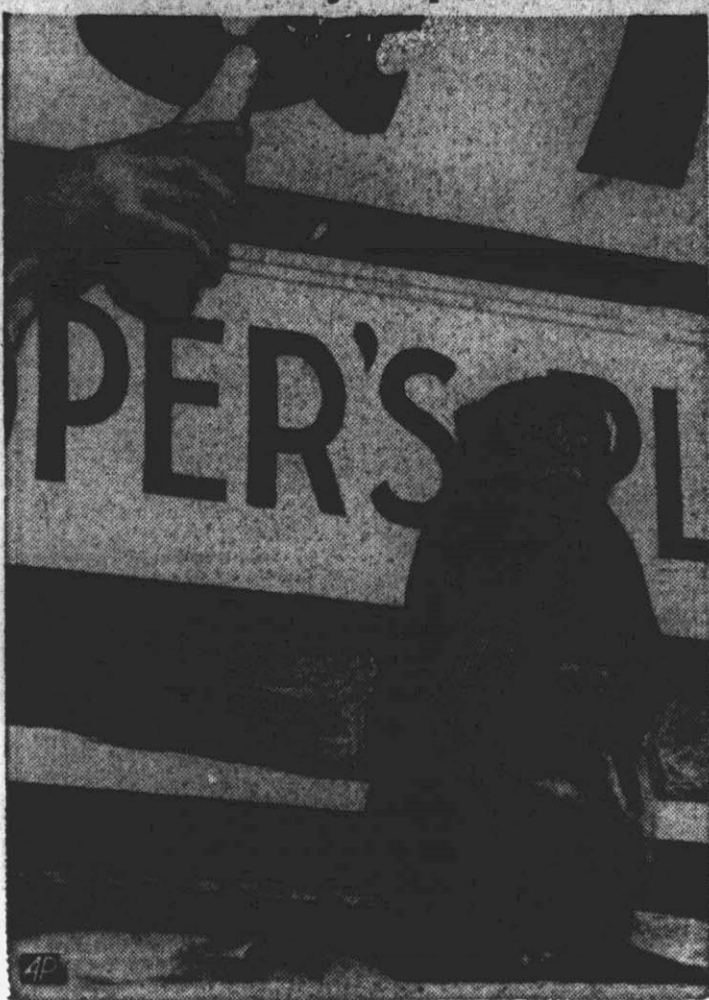

"You fourlegged idiot," he said tenderly. "But you deserve a jeweled collar for your loyalty tonight. Come on," he invited and, with her dripping coat, she got into the car and rode along.

A Heroine Now

Melita met them at the door and hurried to get a towel with which Jerry could dry Blaze. She hovered over Pam and clucked in anxiety like an old mother-hen over her chicks.

And Jerry, sitting on the bottom kept briskly rubbing Blaze, who was thoroughly enjoying the attention.

A Macon Monkey Adopts Kitten

"Fannie Simpson," a female monkey which never had any offspring of her own, has adopted a kitten at Macon, Ga., and defies efforts of would-be rescuers to take it from her. Perched on a roof with the kitten held in her arms, "Fannie Simpson" ignores overtures from a man who tries to entice her to come down with a soft drink.

called up to Pam.

"Make yourself beautiful, darling," he said. "On second thought, this skipping the rest of the party is no go. We've got to go back. There is a lot of fun still to be had; the night's young. Besides, Pam, you're a heroine now, and won't that bite into Lenore's pride and vanity! That's going to be a walk-right where it will hurt her most, Pam—in her pride."

Pam didn't reply immediately.

"We can't let that girl annihilate us," Jerry went on. "Besides Mother and Dad would worry. They'd think we'd developed quick pneumonia, or something. So the Southern Cross can wait."

"All right," Pam's reply came thoughtfully, "anything you say."

Pam was thinking. Their mutual danger had tricked her into a revelation she had not wanted to make. A sudden upthrust of emotion had led her to say things she would probably regret, things she was not even sure she meant.

There was Leo Steady, dependable, worthwhile Leo. And the memory of Jerry's bet about her with his friends still lay between them, an invisible barrier. That had not been explained away. Perhaps never could be.

She would go back to the yacht with him. That was all right. That would tantalize Lenore still further, and she had asked for all that could

Jerry peered through the shadows and recognized the youth as the one who had seemed to be trailing Freda.

"Do you know him?" Jerry asked in a low voice.

"I've known Vin all my life." Jerry turned to the young man then.

"Come along in and join the party," he said. "My dad owns the boat, so it's all right!"

Vin hesitated only a moment. "I'm not dressed—" he started to say, and Pam smiled gently, for she knew the fresh white suit Vin wore was probably his best.

"Oh, you're all right!" Jerry cut in. "No rules and regulations here. Or if there are, I'm the bird who makes them. So come in and grab yourself an evening."

"I'd like to!"

"Vin was beside them, walking in with them."

"Go pick yourself a partner, and have yourself a time!" Jerry advised him with a friendly warmth. "No introductions here, the ship's flag does for that!"

So Vin slipped away to find himself a girl and Jerry and Pam were the bright stars of the moment.

Everyone had their congratulations to offer. As soon as he could, Jerry took Pam away to a little spot atop the cabin, from which he wanted to show her the stars. Up there he said:

"It wasn't stars I wanted to show you, Pam. Look! And he held in his hand the sea bean and the violet she had given him. "I've kept them with me continually."

"Jerry!" That swift uplift of her heart again. "But how foolish of you!"

"Foolish? Not at all, darling. These represent one of the smartest things I've ever done. And, you know," he was grinning whimsically—"I seem to remember your saying you'd never ask me into your house again and my saying you couldn't keep that threat. Well, tonight you asked me in. I seem to be getting somewhere. Progressing, as it were."

"Foolish! Could I be discourteous to a man who had risked his life for me when he thought I needed saving?"

"Foolish? Well, as I seem to remember saying before, darling, it's nice foolishness."

It was then that Blaze, who had been crowded away from them in their triumphant return to the yacht, sniffed inquisitively from the stairs. Her nose was quickly followed by her whole eager body, her tail wagging madly at discovery of her loved ones.

"You old snooper!" Jerry scratched her ear fondly.

"Shall we go down and dance now?" Antoine was idling near the rail as Jerry and Pam passed.

"Come on, Antoine," Jerry said. "We could do with a brace of cadenzas!" Antoine grinned.

"The stars of the evening have but to command," was his easy reply as he moved toward his piano. A chord brought all the boys to attention. And Edmund's opening notes brought dancers to the floor. Pam, looking over Jerry's shoulder, der, saw Vin trying to engage Lenore in conversation while de Bellefort stood close. Lenore seemed to writhe with embarrassment. Pam signaled to Vin. He cut in. As Antoine finished, he caught Vin's eyes in friendly greeting and held out his baton. Vin moved swiftly toward him, urged on by a friendly pat from Pam.

"Show them how it's done, Vin," she said.

New Guest

As Jerry and Pam walked from their car to the boat, they noticed the solitary figure of a man standing staring at the boat with his blaze of light and sounds of gayety. They were passing quite near to him when something about the figure caught Pam's attention. She looked a trace more closely and then spoke.

"Hello, Vin," she said.

"Oh! Hello, Pam." The young man seemed to start as he spoke.

1. Test a small patch in plain water for color-fastness. If color runs, it's not washable.
2. Wash rayons separately by hand. Use lukewarm suds, made as follows: Dissolve Super Suds completely in warm water, then add cold water to get lukewarm suds.
3. Do not soak rayons. Wash quickly and gently. Do not rub, wring or twist.
4. Rinse thoroughly, gently, in clean, lukewarm water. Roll in towel, but don't leave there.
5. Use moderate heat.

Strength For The Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

RESENTING AN INSULT
A man once called another man
a liar, and a friend of the insulted man jumped to his feet and made for the chap who was handing out uncomplimentary remarks. The alleged liar grabbed his friend and said, "What do you mean? He has only expressed his opinion; and if you knew him as well as I do, you would realize his opinion isn't worth much."

How thrilling it is to be complimented by someone whose judgment
we respect and whose good will we covet. One person who doesn't know very much about the value of our work may speak highly about it, but even a little word from someone who knows more about it than we do will make us walk on air for the rest of the day. Why, then, is it so hard for us to turn
this truth about and let uncomplimentary remarks go in one ear and out both? The person who highly respect and whose good will you desire will probably not knock you if he does, then you have been wrong in wishing to have his friendship.

The people who knock, nag, and insult are not worth paying any attention to. If they dislike you and make no bones about it, just remind yourself of the source of this judgment and go on your way whistling. If they want to get tough, let them try it on the cop
at the next corner.

THEY ARE NEEDED

The matter looking to the establishment of public rest rooms in this city, discussed
by the Chamber of Commerce directors last night, is one that should have the attention of our city and county administrative boards. There has long been a need for such places in Greenville for the use of visitors to our city and despite the fact that the matter has been discus-sioned from time to time by various organizations nothing has even been done about it.
Now that the Chamber of Commerce has revived the matter, we hope some definite action will be taken.

IT'S TERRIBLE

Another matter discussed
by the Chamber of Commerce directors last night
was that of the poor mail service to and from Greenville. The body decided to ask Congressman Bonner to have the matter looked into
with a view of finding out just what the trouble is so that it might be remedied.
Such an investigation does not come any too soon, for almost every day we hear complaints about the present
slow mail service. The service has grown steadily worse
over a period of several years, during which time
first one train and then another has been removed. We hope this matter will be given thorough study and that something to better the service will be done.

TIME TO GET TOGETHER

The introduction of a res-

Carrying The Ship

olution by Senator McKellar
for the repeal of the neutrality law will naturally bring a howl from the isolationists that such action would put us into the war. As a matter of fact, we have never been neutral since the day the conflict started and there is no use to fool ourselves by keeping a law on the books that only hinders
us in protecting ourselves
under the terms of international law. Recent events have shown clearly that the Nazis will sink our merchant ships just as quickly
if they are not armed as if they were armed, and by arming them we at least give the ships the opportunity to defend themselves. It's about time we recognized the facts as they are and quit trying to hide behind technicalities that will mean more trouble for us in the end. We would deny no American his right to think
as he pleases but that right,
in our opinion, should not go to such lengths as to be permitted to endanger the future safety of all Americans.
What we need most at this time is to bury politics and some of our personal differences and let the world know that we are presenting a solid front against all aggressors.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinson

(Second of two articles on the "petroleum products shortage.")
Washington — Wading through the confusing maze of statements that have come out of the so-called oil shortage in the east, one is bound to stumble over some significant conclusions:
(1) This is a continuation, if not a culmination, of the ancient fight between the oil companies and the railroads.
Railroad rates on petroleum products were four to six times tanker and pipeline rates. Any company that had its own pipelines or tank-ers was just that much ahead in its delivered price—BUT, any company that had a pipeline or a fleet of tankers was knocking the railroads
out of just that much business.
In Georgia, the railroads blocked two interstate pipelines (one of them for 18 months) by refusing to grant right-of-way across THEIR rights-of-way until President Roosevelt, invoking the Cole act,
granted the pipeline companies eminent domain on the theory that it was in the best interests of national defense to allow the pipeline companies to condemn property for right-of-way.
The railroads claimed they had 18,000 to 20,000 idle tank cars available. (This really was an "equivalent figure." Nobody has been willing to guess even the actual number of idle tank cars, but the railroads claimed that if all available cars were put to best use, it would be equivalent to putting that number of cars on the rails.)

Reserve Supplies Protected.
Not until September did the railroads and oil companies get together to solve the shortage problem. When finally they did, the rail firms agreed to cut rates on crude and gasoline about 35 per cent.
(2) There never really was any actual shortage of petroleum products — but there did develop an alarming decline (and it could have grown greater if something hadn't been done to stop it) in reserve stocks. If this decline had been allowed to go on indefinitely, all the dire results that the most pessimistic predicted could have come about.
However, activities of the petroleum coordinator's office by September had cut this withdrawal of reserve stocks from 353,200 barrels a day to 174,500 barrels a day, with the virtual assurance that barring something unforeseen it would be eliminated entirely by spring.
(3) That if the 17 eastern seaboard states and the District of Columbia are any criterion, the country
can't be stampeded into any hysteria by statements of politicians and business leaders. So apathetic was the public to the gasoline conservation program that consumption maintained its seasonal level or increased throughout the campaign.

A Major Problem.
(4) That we haven't heard the last of this battle. Sen. Francis Ma-loney's investigation committee has promised to reopen hearings any minute — even to digging into "ulterior motives," if any, behind this overblown bubble. And that particular attention will be paid to the request of Russel E. Singer, general manager of the American Automobile association, that investigation be made of motor fuel price increases.
(5) That even with all our fine

highways, superb railroads and free waterways, distribution (or transportation) still is one of our prime problems and must be given equal consideration with production and manufacture in the nationala defense set-up.
(6) That there's nothing like an investigation to start the ball rolling. Almost everything that has been done to alleviate the oil situation has been done since the investigation started. This has been a skirmish between production and distribution. Mr. Ickes and his boys just happened to get caught in the middle.

without grumblers; there have been few soldiers who did not consider their prime privilege to grouch and gripe to their hearts content. The present army has them.
But it seldom takes more than a five minute talk with any man in uniform to find out that he's basically ready to go all out into whatever adventure the country's government orders him. Talk that there will be wholesale desertions when draftees finish their year is nonsense. Even the soldier who starts out by bristling belligerently "I don't think this is our war" as a very fine young New Yorker did the other day, will wind up, if the conversation is pursued by bragging
how good he is with the bayonet
and how determined his 9th Division is to beat all maneuver enemies. He and his mates will show the same spirit against Hitler, too, and they'll make good their words with deeds.

Short Shots

Raleigh, Sept. 26.—So much has been written by big-name columnists on the morale of Uncle Sam's army that there isn't more or less said which isn't more or less repetition; but of late your reporter has made it a point to talk with all the khaki-clad boys with whom he could strike up an acquaintance, with a view to getting a little firsthand and individualized information.
Naturally most of the soldiers interviewed are stationed at Fort Bragg, but some are from Fort Jackson, a few from Camp Davis
and a scattering from other posts
and camps scattered here and there.
Summing up the situation, if indeed it is possible to put down anything as the final and correct answer, this corner is clearly convinced that there isn't a thing unusual about the army of today, except that it appears to be a little more intelligent and a bit more earnest than the military establishment of 1917-18 (in which, incidentally, the reported was a very small component part for more than three years).

Reward For A Blind Heroine

"Lady," a blind and battered little brown dog, was awarded a gold cup and two cases of dog food for saving the life of her mistress, Mrs. Meta Dion (above), after bandits beat and gagged Mrs. Dion and robbed her of $46 in Detroit. The thugs wounded "Lady," too, but the dog wearily plodded back and fourth between her helpless mistress and a neighbor's home until Mrs. Rachel de Rosia noticed her distress and went to Mrs. Dion's rescue. The cup and food were given by the American Sportsmen and Hunting Dog Owners' Association.

renton, is making hay in his race
for Speakership of the 1943 House.
General opinion of observers is that he'll win in a walk unless Durham's Vic Bryant should decide to make another try for the post. In that case anything can happen, but there's been a certain repeat performance of the 1939 Speakership campaign, which was perhaps the most vigorously fought on record.
It wound up with Libby Ward nosing out Bryant by a slim, but sufficient, two-vote margin.

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. When will the "drive" to sell Defense Bonds begin?
A. There will be no "drive." Many people think of the Defense Savings program as like the Liberty Loan campaigns of the first World War,
which were conducted for stated periods to raise specific quotas. The Defense Savings Program is a long-range, continuing effort to stimulate the public to buy more and

URGE CHECKUP ON MACHINERY

Farmers Reminded to Take Inventory of Implements

Raleigh, Sept. 22 — The present demand for good feeder cattle in North Carolina will send many Tar Heel producers to the annual Alabama Black Belt sale this week.
The Black Belt is a black soil limestone area extending across central Alabama. It has many excellent large pastures and sells thousands of good quality beef cattle each season. For the past several years, North Carolina farmers have made substantial purchases of these animals.
The committee in charge of the sales has announced that several thousand selected cattle will be offered. All weigh 300 pounds or more, all are at least three-quarters purebred, all have been sired by registered bulls, and all will be graded by experts according to quality and size. Some females will be offered.
The first sale will be held in Selma Tuesday, September 23, the next at Demopolis September 24, and the third at Epes September 25.
North Carolina farmers have a large amount of feed on hand this year. Then, too, meat prices appear to be on the upgrade. For these two reasons, it is anticipated that present beef cattle growers will want to enlarge their present herds and that there may be growers who would want to enter the beef business.

The Alabama sale offers an opportunity to buy good calves or steers in a nearby area where thousands of animals are sold each year.
One load brought into North Carolina from the sale last year in September weighed an average of 23 pounds each. They are now on grass and average 800 pounds each.

SCHOOLS CLOSE EARLY TO SAVE ON GASOLINE

Bronxville, N. Y.—(AP)—Classroom schedules have been changed in the Bronxville public schools as a result of Secretary Ickes' gasoline economy program.
It all started because 50 of the 1,400 pupils were unable to catch a train that left at 3:34 p. m., four minutes after the previous dismissal time. As a result many parents drove several miles in their automobiles to pick up the youngsters.
The school officials decided to Cr classes out 14 minutes earlier. And because there couldn't be any discrimination, the other 1,350 students just have that much more time for play.

Phantoms Prepared For Tough Tilt with Windsor Team

PLAY TONIGHT AT SMITH PARK

Coach Farley Placing Much Dependence On Line

The Phantoms have shaped themselves up for a tough, tangling battle tonight at Guy Smith stadium where they throw their victory efforts toward the Windsor Rebels. After the 8 o'clock whistle has been blown, local fans will probably see one of the toughest non-conference games every played on the Farley-men's soil.

Coach Farley is depending largely upon his line to clear the way for the second win of the season. Having only three experienced men the forward wall may prove a little weak tonight, but a host of rookies with fighting blood will show their worth.

This year's team boasts one of the smartest, fastest backfields in the history of the high school. If the line clicks, it is expected that the backfield will bring home the bacon.

Farley pins his hopes on Cecil Crawford and Henry Andrews to take care of the flanks. Fans will see Spencer Carroll and Bill Lee holding down the tackle positions, with Noah Lee Edwards and Morris Abeyonnis or Claude Christopher at guards. H. R. Goodall, who was injured the first of the week was reported "okey" will center the ball.

As kicking may be an important factor in the score, Billy Sugg is counted on to show the arts of his true toe for extra points.

Flashing as backfield starters will be Hubert Musselwhite, fullback; John Spearman, wingback; Leonard Briley, tailback; and Bill Turner or Billy Sugg at the blocking back position.

More Wear Out Of License Tags

Frankfort, Ky.—(AP)—Kentucky has gone one better than the federal government's proposal that automobile owners not be given new license plates unless they turn in old tags for defense metal. Ward J. Oates, assistant state revenue commissioner, said the legislature would be asked in January to approve plates lasting five years, with a windshield stamp in a different color each year.

Bentz (above), 46, of Columbus, O., was one of three persons killed in a head-on automobile collision near Elizabethtown, Ky., while military officer, urged one car in which State Patrolman G. C. REA PROJECTS AWAIT ACTION

Thirty-One Projects Involve Total Of $5,400,000

Reflector Bureau By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, Sept. 25.—There are now in the hands of the federal Rural Electrification Administration applications for 31 North Carolina rural power line projects involving total loans of $5,417,000, according to state REA Director Gwynn Price.

These projects are all in proper form and complete so far as the state REA group is concerned, but they wait in Washington for two reasons: (1) Allotment of funds by the federal REA and (2) Allocation by the priorities board of OPM of material for line construction.

It is probable that the order in which the two reasons are listed should be reversed, because it seems were Jimmy Lee, Billy Ward, with three touchdowns to his credit Stocks and Graham Leggett, star pass thrower. Stars for the losers were David Clark, Jimmy Gibson, Howard Proctor, Bobby Fleming, Guy Evans and Joe Alligood. Referee, Dewey Page; linesmen Diener and Wingate; timekeeper, Wingate. In the Junior league, the Third Street Deacons met West Greenville Terrors at West Greenville.

PRIZE CATTLE COME TO FORE

Fully Recognized By Premium Lists Of Local Fairs

Raleigh, Sept. 24.—The growing importance of beef cattle in North Carolina is fully recognized in the premium list of various fairs this fall. L. I. Case, extension animal husbandman of N. C. State College, said today.

Three important fairs to be held next month and one now going on have sizeable cash premiums for the exhibitors of baby beefs, the State College man said. The Western North Carolina Agricultural and Industrial Fair, which closes at Hendersonville Saturday, is offering $350 on individual calves. There are also five premiums of $30, $25, $20, $15 and $10 on county groups of five head.

The Catawba Fair, scheduled for October 6-11, is offering $200 in premiums by grade on individual steers, $10 on the grand champion steer, and four premiums on county groups of three steers as follows: first, $15; second, $10; third, $7.50; and fourth $5.

The 4-H baby beef classification at the annual State Fair in Raleigh, October 14-18, will be much the same as in 1940. The first 10 premiums in the lightweight class follow: $12, $12, $12, $10, $10, $10, $8, $8, $6, $6. Eleventh to 20th place

TOWN KEEPS EVEN KEEL BY REMEMBERING PAST

New Brighton, Minn.—(AP)—

New Brighton is one defense boom town that is trying to keep an even keel under the impact of a $30,000,000 small arms plant by remembering three past booms.

The town fathers hope it will remain just a typical American hamlet, as it did when a packing factory, a big pickle plant and a cast iron rolling mill each in its day brought prosperity and then passed.

DEACONS TAKE 30-0 VICTORY

Hand Training School Its Third Straight Loss

By CHARLES BROWN. Yesterday afternoon the Third Street Deacons defeated the Training School Wolfpack for the third straight game. The score was 30 to 0. The Deacons scored in the first quarter on a pass from Leggett to Stocks. They also scored on another pass, Leggett to Billy Ward.

In the second quarter Billy Ward made a touchdown, receiving a pass from Leggett. In the third quarter a pass, Leggett to Ward, netted a third touchdown.

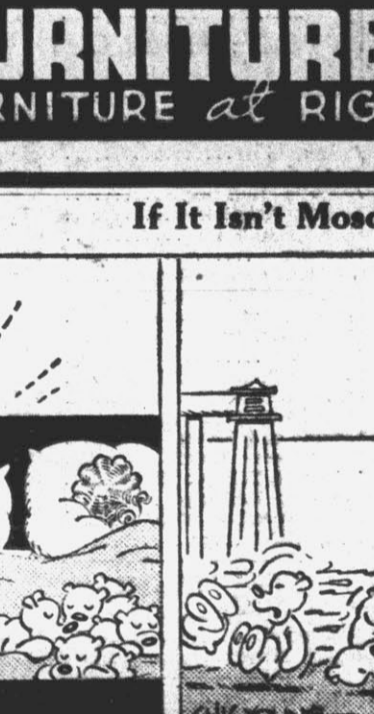

In the fourth quarter Jimmy Lee made a 40-yard run for the final touchdown. Stars for the winning Deacons

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The sharp selling of yesterday evaporated to a considerable extent in today's stock market, but comeback tendencies were feeble at the best. Trends soon turned spotty and, with dealings slow, the trail was a bit irregular near the fourth hour.

PUT EMPHASIS ON NUTRITION

Question To Be Emphasized By Women At Fair

Raleigh, Sept. 26.—National defense being the principal theme of almost everything these days, and nutrition being emphasized as a highly important part of the defense program, it is not surprising that the women's department of the State Fair has decided on "Food in Relation to National Defense" as its motif for the week of October 14 to 18.

Miss Ruth Current, State Home Demonstration Agent is director of the women's department.

Half a dozen booths will be set up to carry out the theme, Miss Current has announced.

(1) "Nutrition" and "protective food" displays will be presented by home demonstration club women of Northampton county.

(2) "Home produced Foods for Health and Strength" exhibits by Burke county home demonstration club women.

(3) "The Good Dollar Well Spent" display by Duplin county.

(4) "Conserved Food—A defense weapon," by Durham county club.

(5) An exhibit of a pantry with all types of stored food, including canned, dried, brined and cured products by Lee county women.

(6) A display demonstrating "Well prepared and Attractively Served Meals Make Stronger, Straighter Bodies," by Chatham women.

She Still Loves 'Em

Screen Actress Bette Davis (above) wore a bandage on her nose when she arrived in Chicago enroute to her New Hampshire farm, but the pet she carried in her arms indicated she hadn't lost affection for dogs. Bette was bitten on the nose by a friend's dog about a week ago and had to stop work on a Hollywood picture because of the injury. But it wasn't the dog she holds that bit her.

RURAL PHONES BIG HEADACHE

Statewide Survey Of Needs Seen As Only Remedy

R.A.F. Cadets Americanized. Arcadia, Fla.—(AP)—Chefs at the Carlstrom Field here were concerned over British appetites when Royal Air Force cadets arrived for training and were prepared to serve roast beef, kidney pudding and tea.

Instead, they found the youthful Britons preferred about the same foods as husky young Americans and in about the same plentiful quantities—with broiled, inch-thick steak, southern fried chicken and coffee topping the list.

No longer limited by the food rationing that prevails in their homeland, the boys really go for a plate of golden brown chicken, scalloped potatoes, fresh green peas and green vegetable salad—or fish, string beans, French fried potatoes and salad.

Science Department Offers Night Classes

The Science Department of East Carolina Teachers College is offering two courses in science as night classes this fall. The classes will meet on one night per week on the campus and will carry full residence credit of three hours per course.

An organization meeting will be held in the Science Department at the College at 8 p. m. on Tuesday, September 30. At this time courses to be offered and night of class meetings will be decided.

Credit in these courses may be used toward graduation or for the renewal or raising of certificates. Persons interested who are unable to attend the meeting may write Dr. R. J. Slav or Dr. B. B. Brandt at the college.

Churches Sponsor Boy Scout Troops

In a recent survey of sponsoring institutions in the East Carolina Council, it was discovered that the churches sponsored more Packs, Troops and Senior Groups than any one other institution. Of the 130 units of the East Carolina Council 52 are sponsored by churches, or 40 per cent. The following churches are sponsoring units: Presbyterian, Methodist, Christian, Church of Christ, Episcopal, Catholic, Baptist, and Universalist.

Civic Clubs were next in point of service to boyhood through this great movement, with the Rotary Club leading the way. Civic Clubs sponsor a total of 31 units. These clubs include: Rotary, Kiwanis, American Legion, Civitan, Legion Parent-Teacher associations sponsor Troops; thirteen schools, both elementary and high schools, sponsor Troops. Other institutions doing their bit for youth at present are: Salvation Army, Masonic Lodges, Fire Departments, Manufacturing Mills, Orphanages, Training Schools groups of citizens, and one town.

Even with the above fine record of obtaining institutional support, the Council realizes that there are hundreds of churches and civic clubs, and others, who could sponsor Troops or Packs if given an opportunity. The Council is placing two additional men on the Executive staff this Fall so that every council and institution in the area comprising the East Carolina Council will have an opportunity in the development of youth through the recognized youth program of the United States. Only the Boy Scout Movement is chartered by Congress to carry on the training for citizenship and development of character through a well-rounded program of activities.

Camera-Shy Yellowstone National Park.—(AP)—The biting bear situation has been about twice as serious in Yellowstone National Park this season as in 1940. On August 1, 50 tourists had been bitten. That was more than were injured during the entire 1940 season. Park rangers say that attempting to take a close-up photograph of a bear is about the best way to be bitten.
